HOLIDAY FOR MOTHER

GIVE MOTHER A HOLIDAY ON HER SPECIAL DAY . . . a holiday from preparing meals. She does this job three times a day, seven days a week, all year long. So on Mother's Day she deserves a change. Start the day by pampering her with breakfast in bed. Make it a family project, perhaps, with everyone from Pop on down getting in the act. The older members can brew the coffee, make a delicate jelly omelet. But the small fry, too, can lend a hand-with little brother manning the toaster and Sister Sue taking over the orange juice department.

A handy can of quick-frozen concentrate makes this a simple job even for tiny hands. Though she may need help in opening the can, she can certainly handle the job of adding water (three cansful) and have the fun of wielding the shaker to blend the juice and water thoroughly. The shaking actually does another important job-it restores the air that was removed when the juice was concentrated. Putting the air back by a vigorous shaking brings out all the sun-ripe goodness of the

Then when all is ready, set the tray prettily and let Dad present it to Mother-with love from all the family. (ANS)

ANTIGONISH. ANYBODY?-What's believed to be the largest rubber stamp collection in the world stretches in front of baggage clerk Michael Burke in the baggage room at New York's Grand Central Station. Some 2,000 of the stamps are used to mark baggage checks with destinations and routings. Bearing thousands of place names, the stamps give clerks an opportunity to become geography experts and maybe someday TV quiz contestants.

May Have To Go To Court

HOUSTON (UP) - A parakeet Nicky by name, may have to go to court to tell his family troubles to the judge. That is, after Nicky has his head examined.

The strange case of Nicky start ed last month and was climaxed Tuesday when the parakeet was seized by a gun-totin' deputy sheriff with a court order.

Mrs. Mariam Seiler claims that Nicky is hers. So does a neighbor, Mrs. J. B. McKennon. Mrs. Seiler won, or so she said, Nicky for a nickel at a county fair in Iowa a couple of years ago. Nicky flew the coop, so to speak, last April 17. In doing so, he left behind his mate, Bimbo. Mrs. Seiler, in an effort to prove Nicky is hers, went to court and disclosed that Nicky fell on his head some time ago. The injury, she said, could be detected by X-ray.

So Nicky is going to have his head X-rayed. No hearing date was set for the court appearance. The court ordered Nicky held in custody until the results of the X-ray examination is known. Bimbo had no comment. She was sulking.

A Matter Of Blood

There are always those fearful souls who are certain that if people are not compelled to do what others think they should, that every noble effort of the human race would die a-borning.

Among these are the most staunch of the protectionists, who live in daily apprehension that some miscreant will pounce on them or on their property.

These are the folks who clamor loudly for new laws, more police powers in the hands of the authorities, more taxes and more regulation generally. These are the ones who are so strongly favorable to government schools that they use the violence of police and taxes to compel everyone to pay. Without compulsion, they insist, all good efforts would come to naught.

Now we are in the midst of a great conflict being waged between the people themselves and their government. The government is collecting astronomical sums from the people for every great and noble purpose that the politicians can contrive. But the people, in even larger numbers, are crying out that all this compulsion is unnecessary. The people insist that they, too, have noble purposes. Further, that since the money the government wants is originally earned by the people, those who earn it have a prior right and must have the final say as to its

It has been pointed out, with some frequency, that so far as religion is concerned, compulsion is never necessary. All churches, regardless of denomination, employ voluntary methods both to attract their followings and to raise their funds. Nor is there any indication that churches are languishing because of their reliance upon the general goodness of individuals. On the contrary, church and church followings are growing mightily. And they have the merit of expanding because of the desires of individuals rather than because of the compulsion of some governmental agency.

Another illustration might serve to highlight this finding even more. Did you ever stop to wonder about the program of collecting whole blood and blood plasma for the benefit of those who are injured or seriously in need of this assistance?

What if we relied upon the force of government to get that blood? How would you like it if you could be compelled at regular intervals to go to some government hospital and have a prescribed amount of your own life fluid drained from your veins? Can you imagine the situation? With the power to bleed us placed in the hands of politicians, which of us could be safe?

Fortunately, the Red Cross and other agencies which handle blood donations have never gone to the government to acquire the use of aggressive force in this connection. Instead, they have relied on volunteers. And, as usual, the volunteers have come through and keep on coming through. Let it be known that a particular type of blood is needed, and prospective donors line up for the privilege of helping. Few, if, any, cases have gone begging, simply because the use of force was not employed.

Apparently we Americans are convinced that when our blood is concerned, or when our religious beliefs are concerned, the voluntary way is the best. But for some illogical and ill-defined reason, a great number of persons still seem to feel that when money is concerned, except with churches, a club must be employed to extract a dollar. This is simply not true.

Actually, the greatness which is America is founded on the voluntary way. This nation is great in productivity and enterprise. Both are voluntary. This nation is great In its religious freedom. It is great when it comes to the humanities, respecting either dollars or blood.

But this nation is not great when it employs compulsion. Whenever we resort to the aggressive violence of government to get something done, we become as paltry and as mean as the tyrants of old who would stop at nothing to get their own way.

We can see the possibilities of immense evil in the compulsory sharing of blood. Why can we not see the necessity of evil in the compulsory sharing of money, especially respecting education? When will we become consistent enough in our thinking to demand that the use of aggressive force be abadoned as a national policy respecting schools?

I want to reproduce a letter te sued by Ralph Courtney. He issues regular letters under the heading of "A Movement Opposing Social Centralization.' This is what he has to say about "Classless Society-Russian and American:

"The Russians have evolved s classless society called a 'People's Democracy.' Its classlessness has been achieved, as befits this doit-yourself age, by eliminating the former Russian ruling classes and gests that our own classless society, now in its 181st year, was 'people.' Yet to the ordinary observer this society seems far from classless. The Russian Government and its bureaucracy have merely become a new ruling class, operating the means of production, with the help of slave labor, and dictating the cultural objectives of the Russian people.

"It would be useless to explain to the Russians, who are professional socialists, that governments have certain inherent weaknesses. For instance, governments cannot manage business efficiently and when workers are directed by the State they work less economically than for private business. Nor are governments fitted to dictate in the field of culture. Education by the State degenerates into indoctrination and the element most essential to a satisfactory cultural life, namely the feeling of cultural liberty, is destroyed. Therefore the 'People's Democracy' will, sooner or later, encounter difficulties, due to the low standard of living of the people and their resentment against the lack of cultural freedom

"By way of contrast, the Amerian Republic started with the healthy assumption that cultural matters and business were outside the province of government. The government of limited powers which is set up, was to concern itself with the maintenance of common rights. And these rights, in turn were not to material objects that could be taken from others, but 'unalienable' spiritual possessions of which no citizen should be deprived. Each was to have the equal right with others to Life. Liberty and the Pursuit of Happi-

"Clearly to see the difference beween the Russian and the American systems brings out the fact that governments, by their very nature, are more inclined to follow the Russian than the American pattern. Anxious to remain in power, they prefer to operate in the interests of the special groups on which their power depends. They may not liquidate other citizens, but are neglectful to their rights. And nothing can be done about this situation short of a movement to decentralize the cultural life and business from political control. For the cultural side of society can never be satisfactory without the right to liberty of choice, and economic life will re main unsatisfactory as long as special groups can use politics create special privileges in the pursuit of economic happiness.

"By the same token, governments naturally imitate the Russian pattern beyond their own borders. Instead of allowing private enterprise to function as best it can, independently of politics, governments intervene in the affairs of other countries, sometimes liquidating the native population, in the interests of their own national

(The Farm Tribune)

A Fair Employment Practices act is unfortunately, receiving aggressive attention in Sacramento at the moment in the form of Assembly Bill No. 2000, on which the name of Assemblyman Myron Frew appears as an author.

We use the word "unfortunate" because this proposed California FEPC holds out only false hope for the so-called minority groups, and because, if passed, it would present another unnecessary obstacle in sensible operation by a business firm, or farmer, employing five or more persons. The bill professes to "safeguard the right and opportunity of all persons to seek, obtain and hold employment without discrimination or abridgement on account of race, religious creed, color, national origin or ancestry.

The Doctor Says By Edwin J. Jordan, M. D.

Fine sounding words indeed, but

Mrs. S. writes that six or seven years ago she had a blood disease called acute agranulocytosis and that at that time her white blood count was down to 300. Now she is having trouble with her mouth and gums, her blood count is 4,400 and she wonders if there is any connection. She asks also what the white count should

It is impossible to answer the question on whether the trouble Mrs. S. is having in her mouth and gums is connected with her All of us have white blood cells in our blood stream. These exert an important function, particularly in combating infection whenever it strikes the body. There are several kinds of white cells. The number can be counted and the various kinds classified. The latter is done by smearing a small amount of blood on a glass slide, staining the smear and looking at it under a microscope.

Normally there are about 7,500 white cells in a cubic millimeter of blood and there is a fairly constant relation between the different kinds of cells.

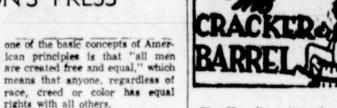

In the presence of infecting germs the number of white cells is usually increased. Counting them is often an aid in diagnosis, in appendicits, for example. This increase is called leucocytosis. Sometimes the number of white cells is decreased below normal and this is called granulocytopenia. The latter can be serious if infections arise simply because there are not enough cells to fight the germs.

Many cases of granulocytopenia have resulted from drugs or medicines. It is only the occasional person who gets such a reaction. but it does seem to be a sort of individual poisoning. Recovery usually takes place.

Acute granulocytosis is also a condition in which the number of white cells is lessened. This is usually ushered in with a sore throat, It is a specific disease and requires immediate treatment.

So far as is known neither granulocytopenia or agranulocytosis is related to leukemia. In the latter, some of the white cells grow wild; they are generally increased in number - sometimes enormously - and they appear in the blood in immature and abnormal forms.

Although much is known concerning the behavior of the white cells of the body, there are many gaps in such knowledge. Probably time will reveal much that we do not know now concerning the cause of the changes which establish a state FEPC by a resounding 21/2 to 1 vote. Since that time continuing progress has been made on voluntary merit employment programs in major industries; members of "minority groups" who have ability, and who have something to offer, need not fear for their future in California. And remember that FEPC does not create a single job; it only provides a meidum to stir up unnecessary trouble over jobs that already exist. Farmers and business men right now have too many restrictions on their operations. We don't need another state bureau to further complicate matters; neither do those persons this FEPC business pro-

Well, Walter Reuther and his United Automobile Workers have, according to a news report, established a Public Review Board "to insure high ethical standards in the union." A number of clergymen and university officials have been made members of the board. But it appears that the "high ethical standards" are to be applied only to the internal affairs of the umon itself. Nothing is said about their application to the union's dealings with those outside

Presumably any company that does not knuckle under the whatever demands Reuther makes upon it will find itself struck. Presumably the three - year old Kohler strike, which has been marked with even more than usual violence, will go on-and on. And presumably anyone who wants to work in a plant dominated by the U.A.W. will have to pay tribute to this union in order to work

If these presumptions prove correct, as past events indicate in all likelihood they will, by what 'high ethical standards' can such acts be justified?

I remember that Jesus said something to the effect that both the inside and the outside of the cup ought to be clean. I wonder how the clergymen appointed to see that the U.A.W. is sterile on the inside are going to avoid a noticing the spots and stains on

LIKE FATHER, LIKE SON—Former Brooklyn Dodger pitching great, Whitlow Wyatt, right, now a pitching coach with the Philadelphia Phillies, is watching his 16-year-old son John. Young Wyatt attends a prep school in Rome, Ga., but he got this workout at the Phillies training camp in Clearwater, Fla. He pitches on his school team.

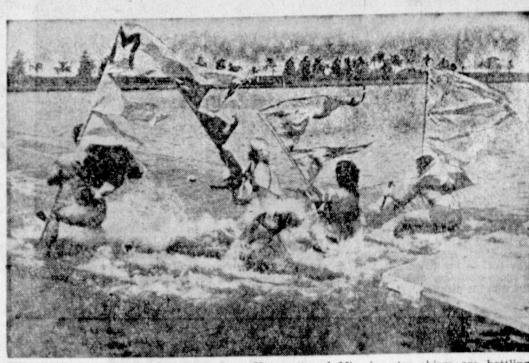

LATE STARTER—Battling for one of the halfback slots on the Missouri University varsity despite the fact that he's 35 years old, Charles Clutts, left, picks up a few pointers from Frank Broyles, head coach at the school in Columbia. A physical education major; Clutts is a sophomore from Kirkwood, and has a nine-year-old daughter.

FACING THE ISSUE—Determination is written on the face of 12-year-old Jack Holtby as he exerts himself to throw that shot just a little farther than last time. He made this supreme effort at an athletic field in London.

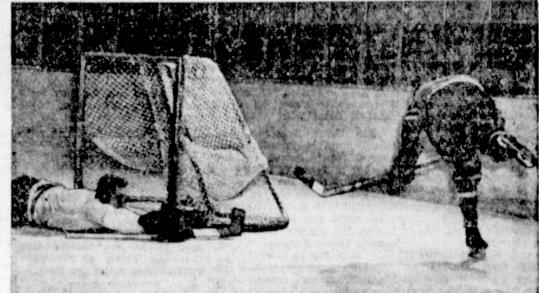

SPRING SHOOTER—In Berlin, as elsewhere, spring brings forth in kiddies a sense of adventure which can result in broken windowpanes—among other things. A lad with a sling shot was caught in the act by a cameraman.

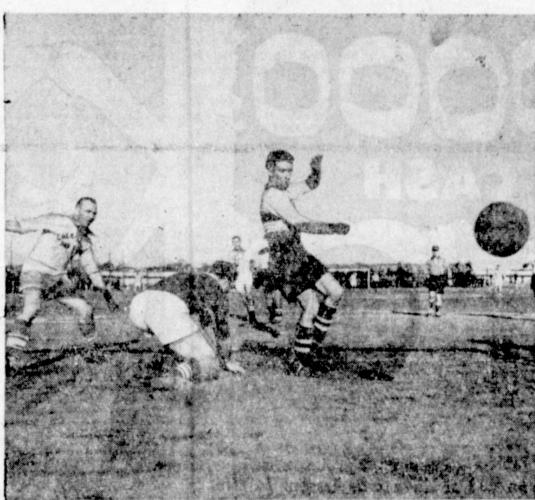

WEATHER CLEAR, TRACK WET—Some University of Miami water skiers are battling wind and spray on the water at Hallandale, Fla. They're off to a good start here as those banners flap wildly in the breeze that helps add up to a lot of fun.

BOOTING IT HOME—As goalie Don Malinowski slips in a vain effort to block the shot, Hakoah's Allen Sonnenblich, right, boots home the winning goal. It happened during a soccer match between Hakoah and the Harmarville team of Pennsylvania in New York.

Fla., stuck it out when a downpour threatened to postpone an exhibition game between the Yankees and the Cardinals. They stayed put despite the shower and got their reward some time later when the sun came out.

PUPPY LOAF—Fritz, a low-slung, nine-week-old puppy, seems to have found a comfortable resting place on a catcher's mitt at the New York Giants' training camp in Phoenix, Ariz. The spring training grind is actually plush living for the pooch—at least until some player comes in hunting for his-glove.

NICE WORK—Actress Leigh Snowden took time off from movie chores in Hollywood to live up to her new title. Magazine readers chose Leigh as The Companion They'd Most Like on Opening Day of Trout Season, so she went over to a nearby lake in order to practice up for the new title.

A young husband, twenty-six years old, suffered most of his years with havfever dizzy spells, headaches, and frequent care of doctors in one branch of the Healing Arts for twentysix years, and they finally told him he might find a better climate elsewhere. After talking it over with old friend he decided to make a change in doctors and investigate a different, though licensed and recognized, branch of the Healing Arts.

His friends brought him to the Miller Chiropractic Clinic for a spinal analysis and spinal X-Ray examination. We located nerve interferences and misalignments that he could have acquired when he was thrown from a horse years before. Adjustments to remove the larger purse and lack of competition from any other tournament for the first time lured most of the touring pros here for the start tournament today.

The Arlington lost many of the prominent "name" players to the rival Greenbriar Open in its first year of operation, but this time there is no conflict and the purse has been upped $5,000. As a result, only top money winner Doug Ford, young Dow Finsterwald and tempestuous Tommy Bolt were missing from the field of 94 pros which started the 72-hole grind today for the $2,800 first money to be handed out late Sunday.

Tournament sponsors also have toughened up the Arlington championship layout to such an extent that the winning scores are expected to be closer to par than the 270 and 272 with which Bo Wininger and Billy Maxwell won in 1955 and 1956, respectively. Both the former champions were in the field as were National come try Chevrolets new Triple-Turbine take-off!

Chevrolet's new Turboglide is the first and only triple-turbine automatic transmission in any car. You can feel the difference from your very first take-off!

Just slip Turboglide into "D" for "Drive" and pay it no mind. There is no "Low" or other positions to worry about because with Turboglide they just aren't needed.

For this is the automatic with triple turbines. One for quicksilver starts from a standstill. Another for cream-smooth cruising. And a third turbine that teams-up with the other two for passing response that's safer all the way.

In GR (Grade Retarder) position Turboglide helps slow you downsaves your brakes on long, steep

When you team Turboglide with Chevy's new Positraction rear axle, you've really got it made! This new engineering development delivers power to the wheel that grips, not the wheel that slips. You have surer, safer control on any road surface.

Budget May Backfire On

Legislators United Press Staff Correspondent year which begins July 1. By RAYMOND LAHR

WASHINGTON (UP) -Congress may soon find itself in the Alice-In - Wonderland predicament of needing to run faster to stay in one place.

There has been much bold talk of budget-cutting, to be followed up by a Democratic - sponsored

NATO Military Symposium Set

DALLAS (UP) - The military representatives committee of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization will hold a symposium at 2 p.m. Thursday at Southern Methodist University.

Sponsor of the event is the Dalas Council on World Affairs. The committee is composed of top-ranking military leaders from all the NATO countries.

A dinner is scheduled for the military representatives Thursday

Music will be furnished by the "strolling strings" of the U.S. Air Force symphony orchestra, a hand - picked group of 12 from the orchestra.

The conference is designed to help create a better public understanding of the purposes of the organization, its achievements and operations, said Gen. Robert J. Smith, chairman of the regional
