US Starts Atomic Tests

Blast Comes Amidst Arms, Radiation Talk

By ROBERT BENNYHOFF
United Press Staff Correspondent

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. (UP)—The United States today fired the first of a long series of atomic test blasts amidst a world atmosphere of disarmament talks and controversy over radiation effects on humans.

The "battle-sized" nuclear device was touched off in the pre-dawn darkness of the Nevada proving grounds this morning—the 65th detonation in the United States' program of nuclear and thermo-nuclear "peace-lies-in-strength" weapons testing.

Foreign newsmen for the first time had a "ringside seat" at an American atomic experimental blast as the Atomic Energy Commission scientists finally found in the 13th day of waiting the combination of wind and weather conditions that fit their pattern of radiation safety factors.

Exploded on Tower

The top-secret device was set off atop a 500-foot steel tower on Yucca Flat at 4:55 a.m. p.d.t., 13 days behind schedule because the AEC, hyper-sensitive to continued criticism of radiation fallout, had to wait out the weather.

Although scientists and the military remained silent as usual as to the exact nature of the device, it was believed by veteran test observers to be another in the family of atomic warheads the United States has been developing for small rockets or missiles.

With a calculated yield of 10 kilotons, roughly equal in force to 10,000 tons of TNT, the device flashed 100 times brighter than the sun. It was equivalent to about half the explosive violence of either of the bombs dropped on Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

AEC Test Manager James E. Reeves told newsmen:

"We feel certain we have obtained the scientific data which justified conducting the test. Short time wind conditions were essentially as forecast and we feel confident therefore that heavier fallout will be on the controlled areas of the Nevada test site and the bombing range and that only light, long delayed fallout may result at any occupied place."

Japanese Disappointed

One of the foreign newsmen, Chugo Kaito, of the Japanese Kyodo News Service, was "somewhat disappointed" at what he saw.

"It is not as terrible as I had expected," Kaito told United Press. "But it is terrible enough. I thought the blast and the flash would be more fearsome than they were."

He added, however, "Like all the Japanese people, I would like to see all A-bomb and H-bomb tests halted immediately because of the fallout danger."

For a few fascinating seconds the darkness became day, as if some giant floodlight had been flicked quickly on and then off in the sky overhead.

Moscow Sees 'Glimmering' Arms Solution

LONDON (UP)—Moscow saw the "glimmering of a constructive solution" to world disarmament problems today in the U.S. promise to meet Russia half-way in working out their differences.

A broadcast by Moscow Radio said the Soviets will give "the most careful consideration" to practical proposals for a first step in reducing the world's arms and armies.

The broadcast gave the first direct Soviet reaction to the new American stand which U.S. delegate Harold Stassen presented on Monday to the London disarmament conference. Stassen, returning from 10 days of conferences in Washington, pledged that the United States is ready to meet Russia half-way on reasonable and safeguarded "first step" proposals.

Conference officials said Stassen did not intend to start presenting concrete Western proposals at today's session of the talks. He planned to deliver a background speech on his consultations in Washington.

Clean-Up Week To Conclude

"Clean-up, Paint-up, Fix-up Week" which was postponed three times before finally getting off the ground is scheduled to be brought to a successful conclusion within the next two days, officials of the city engineer's office reported this morning.

A total of 19 loads were reported as having been picked up by city trucks in Ward 1 with trucks being split-up to cover parts of Ward 4 which were not completely cleaned up due to weather conditions which forced the delay of the campaign for several weeks.

The total loads of trash picked up so far, including yesterday's loads, are 201.

529 Step Forward

From every corner of the huge sports arena in the heart of Manhattan they came forward—from the loges, the balconies and the floor. The weeping, the joyful, the very young and the very old made their way down escalators and crowded aisles to the front of the auditorium.

Graham stood grimly in the pulpit, arms folded, hand on chin, waiting passively as the "inquirers" filed down the long aisles to take their places in the open space in front of the speakers' platform.

Occasionally, as he has done for the past 13 nights, Graham urged in soft tones that the timid, the nearly-decided "cast off hesitation" and come forward to make "the fateful decision."

His urging did not go unheeded. 529 of the "inquirers" came forward—little ladies in black, a youth in a wheelchair pushed by his mother, duck-tailed kids in leather jackets and high school girls in frilly summer cottons, all anxious to "accept Jesus Christ."

Monday night's 529 conversions brought Graham's New York Crusade to 100 conversions.

Graham Starts Series On 10 Commandments

NEW YORK (UP)—Evangelist Billy Graham preached the first of a series of sermons on "The Ten Commandments" in Madison Square Garden Monday night and 529 persons responded to his magnetic and impassioned plea to "come forward and make a decision for Christ."

Evangelist May Come To Texas

NEW YORK (UP)—Evangelist Billy Graham today promised two San Antonio, Tex., Baptists ministers visiting his New York crusade that he would conduct a revival in their city "in the not too distant future" provided adequate space could be found.

Graham told the ministers—Dr. Clyde Childers of the Riverside Baptist church, and Dr. W.S. McBirnie, of the Trinity Baptist church—that San Antonio would be next on the famed evangelist's itinerary, so far as Texas is concerned.

Paving Bid Date Reset

With no bids being received this morning on the current paving project, the City Commission set June 18 as the date to accept new bids on the paving project.

It was learned this morning that none of the contractors doing paving work in this area desired to bid on the paving because of having to take the notes of the individual property owners.

Upon learning this latest development, the commissioners decided to see if the city could finance the notes of the property owners and by doing so the city would pay the contractor when the paving job is completed.

With this development the commission agreed to advertise for new bids on June 18 on the paving project on a cash basis.

CLOSING ALLEY

The first reading of Ordinance 474 was approved this morning. This ordinance provides for the closing of the Charles-Russell alley between 23rd and 24th and for the closing of 24th between Charles and the alley. This closing of the alley and the street became necessary when the school system purchased the half-block between the alley and Charles and is to incorporate this property into the area occupied by the new junior high school.

Under the plan proposed by the committee, with the agreement of the majority of the insurance agents in Pampa eligible to participate, the commissions on the policies of the city will be divided among the various agencies. The plan provides for distribution on the basis of 25 per cent of commissions to be divided equally, 45 per cent on the basis of the number of owners and employees of each agency and the remaining 30 per cent on the basis of the property owned and taxes paid to the city by each agency. No agency is to receive more than 18 per cent of the total commissions.

The agencies will appoint a secretary to represent all firms, and all business with the city will be handled by this secretary.

Other action

No action was taken this morning on a request ozone led, block 4 of the Sone-McCoy addition as commercial. The commissioners felt that additional study of the request should be made.

Ambassador Would Rebuild US Embassy

WASHINGTON (UP)—Nationalist Chinese Ambassador Hsiang-shan K. Tong said today he would lead his countrymen in a subscription drive to repair the riot-damaged U.S. Embassy at Taipei.

Tong pledged to donate $1,000 out of his own pocket.

The ambassador said Monday night on ABC's TV "Press Conference" that the mobs participating in anti-American rioting on Formosa last week were not organized or Communist-inspired.

He said the riots were an "isolated thing" that got out of hand. Asked specifically how the rioters knew how to get to the embassy code room, Tong said:

"The code room, you see, when the mobs became mobs, they did a lot of things which they regretted afterwards."

U.S. officials at Taipei said Monday that "definitely organized" rioters armed with axes concentrated on smashing their way into the secret embassy code room. They said the attack compromised some of the U.S. codes.

Tong said the Nationalist Chinese "are going to dig out of our own pockets and pay for damage" to the embassy. If necessary, he said, "I believe we will" build a new embassy at no cost to the American taxpayers.

'Refugees Are Reds'—Clergymen

DENVER (UP)—A group of touring refugee clergymen said today that up to 70 per cent of escapees from Iron Curtain countries who came to the United States were Communists.

The group is touring the United States under the auspices of the American Council of Christian Churches.

Harland J. O'Dell, president of the council who is accompanying the refugee clergymen, said his organization is attempting to document the charge.

O'Dell said an attempt was made on the life of one of the group, Bela Kovacs, a Hungarian refugee theological student. He said Kovacs recognized "several Communists" at a refugee convention at Akron, Ohio.

According to O'Dell, Kovacs reported the names of the Communists to the FBI. In retaliation, O'Dell said, Kovacs was stabbed and left for dead.

The touring group includes the Rev. R. Slokenbergs of Latvia, the Rev. Roman K. Mazierski of Poland, the Rev. O. Konrad Veem of Estonia, the Rev. John Bojchuk of the Ukraine and Kovacs.

Storm Warning Siren Hasn't Arrived Yet

The new storm warning siren for Pampa has not arrived, Sheriff Rufe Jordan, Gray County Civil Defense coordinator, reported this morning.

Jordan stated that he did not know the reason for the delay and that he had been informed that the siren was shipped from California the first of last week.

He went on to state that he expected to meet with city officials later today to work out plans for the site of the installation of the siren and upon the method of installing the siren and controls.

No definite decision has been reached as to whether the controls will be located in the fire station or the police station.

Jordan concluded that as soon as the siren is installed a test will be made and all residents will be informed of the time of the test. This test will be made to determine the effective range of sound from the new siren.

Three Cases Tried In Court Here

Three cases were tried in County Court yesterday afternoon resulting in two pleas of not guilty and a fine and jail sentence for one man.

Bill Kinsey, of Pampa, was fined $1 plus costs and given 30 days in jail after pleading guilty in County Court yesterday afternoon to a charge of swindling with a worthless check.

The charge was filed by the Highway Package Store on a check for $20.40 dated March 14, 1957.

Albert H. Barrick, who was arrested by city police early yesterday afternoon on a charge of driving while intoxicated, was released on $1000 bond after pleading not guilty.

Also released after pleading not guilty and posting $1000 bond was Roy Carbon Fulcher of Borger. Fulcher was charged with aggravated assault on charges filed by Mary Giboney who said that he had entered the trailer in which she was visiting with a girl friend and pulled a gun on them. Fulcher was arrested early Sunday morning.

No date has been set for a hearing.

Students At St. Matthew's Take Trip

The Santa Fe Railway Company depot this morning was much like a chick hatchery with over 20 first graders of St. Matthew's School swarming about and frantic parents trying to keep them in place until the train arrived at 9 a.m. to take them to Amarillo for their annual "class trip."

Accompanying the youngsters were Mrs. John Hesse, first grade teacher at St. Matthew's School, and five class members' mothers, Mrs. Ira Gilleland, Mrs. Charles Albert, Mrs. E. R. Smith, Mrs. Tom Phillips and Mrs. Henry Truben. Several other mothers of class members made the trip to Amarillo by car where, with the Rev. William E. West, pastor of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, they were to meet their children as they bounced off the train for a tour which was to take them through the studios of KGNC-TV, lunch at Batson's Dining Room and through the Amarillo Air Force Base, before being brought home by their parents.

The trip is an annual one sponsored by the parents of the first graders of St. Matthew's School.

Recreation Director

Clifton McNeely, high school coach, was hired by the commission this morning to direct the summer recreational program of the city. The program begins on June 17 and McNeely will announce the activity program as soon as the plans have been completed.

Insurance

The final report of the insurance committee on insurance for city owned buildings and equipment was presented to the commission this morning by Ray Ducan, representing the committee, and the report was approved by the commissioners.

Under the plan proposed by the committee, with the agreement of the majority of the insurance agents in Pampa eligible to participate, the commissions on the policies of the city will be divided among the various agencies. School Business Manager Retires

Knox Kinard, superintendent of schools of the Pampa School System, announced the retirement of Roy McMullen as business manager of the Pampa School System this morning. McMullen is to be succeeded by Homer Craig, principal of the Sam Houston school.

McMullen, who started out in the school system as a member of the school board in 1932, has held the position of business manager of the school system for 23 years. He was the second business manager of the school system and, he took over the post after the resignation of Joe Smith, who was the first.

Other changes announced by Kinard this morning was the assignment of L. C. Davis, presently teaching at the Brown Street School, to be the principal of the Sam Houston School, in place of Craig. D. V. Biggers will be the principal of the new Stephen F. Austin School which will start classes in September.

The final announcement made by Kinard was that Roy McMullen is retiring.

Violence At The Picket Barricade

GUNTERSVILLE, Ala. (UP)—A sheriff predicted he will make several more arrests and file murder charges today against a group of workers tried to remove a barricade of cross-ties at the entrance of the site.

Those killed were identified as Johnny Leroy Ward, of Parsons, Kan., and William Harrison, of Albertville, Ala.

Mrs. J. T. Cunningham, living some 100 yards from the scene, said her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Rebecca Cunningham, was hospitalized for shock caused by "bullets screaming all over the place." None hit the dwelling, however.

Gunfight Described

"We were all running from room to room and out on the porch," Mrs. Cunningham said. "We could hear the bullets coming and Kathy (her 6-year-old granddaughter) was screaming."

"None of the men said anything. They just kept shooting. I saw one of them fall. He just lay there and the others kept shooting."

City and county officers rushed to the scene at this northeast Alabama city of 8,000 population. Dickson said officers found 30 weapons—shotguns, rifles, and pistols—hid in weeds in the area. The officers also confiscated a number of clubs and lead pipes, Dickson said.

Summerfield Back Before Congress

By BETTY FRYOR

WASHINGTON (UP)—Congressmen said today they would listen anew to Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield's pleas for more money but indicated they may not give him enough to avoid cuts in postal service.

President Eisenhower prepared to send Congress a supplemental request for postal funds with a warning that service will have to be "drastically curtailed" unless Congress approves it. Summerfield said it would total about 140 million dollars.

Chairman A. Willis Robertson (D-Va.) of the Senate Postal Appropriations Subcommittee said the bill would be sent to the House today. He said Eisenhower probably would ask for between 140 and 150 million dollars.

"I don't think Congress will give him all he asks, but Congress has to hear his story," he said.

Chairman J. Vaughn Gary (D-Va.) of the House Postal Appropriations Subcommittee said Summerfield "will have to justify every dollar" in his new request. Gary said he would schedule "very full and complete hearings" promptly after the request is received.

He said if Summerfield can prove the need for it "I am certain the subcommittee will give him the money necessary to (See SUMMERFIELD, Page 2)

Flood Misery Spreads; More Rain Expected

DALLAS (UP)—Streams swollen by more than 10 inches of rain spread flood misery over sections of south central Texas today, chasing hundreds of persons from their homes in San Antonio.

A seven-year-old boy was drowned 50 miles south of San Antonio in the area where a cloud-burst of 10.5 inches of rain was reported. Five creeks pelled by more than four inches of rain forced some 200 persons out of their homes in San Antonio.

Thunderstorms were expected to continue today in scattered fashion throughout the state. Light rains falling in southeast and south central Texas early today were expected to move northward and become locally heavier.

Levee Breaks

Floods which drove more than 6,000 persons from their homes in Dallas and Fort Worth eased some today, but most of the victims still were unable to return. A levee broke 12 miles south of Dallas on the Trinity Monday, and today tons of water washed through a 100-foot wide wash and flooded between 3,000 and 4,000 acres of farm lands. About 100 persons left their homes in that area.

The Dallas sheriff's office said damage was not expected to be heavy in the area flooded by the levee break. The muddy water spread across farm lands where it has been too wet to plant crops. Water spilled over the spillway of giant Lake Texoma on the Red River at 4:15 a.m. today for the first time in history.

San Antonio's five creeks hurried from their banks Monday with 4.31 inches of rain. The water, which police estimated forced more than 200 persons to leave their homes, was receding rapidly late Monday night. It reached as high as five feet in some homes and threw traffic into a virtual standstill in many parts of the military city of more than 400,000 persons.

Police had to rescue 12 families. (See FLOOD, Page 2)

Remember When?

WEYMOUTH, England (UP)—A freak sandstorm lashed this South Coast seaside resort Monday night, with drifts up to 14 feet piling up in the downtown streets.

A 60-mile-an-hour wind whipped up sand from the beaches and through the town. Firemen wearing goggles and masks poured millions of gallons of water onto the beach to prevent it from blowing away.

A number of cars and trucks were buried under the sand drifts but there were no reports of injuries.

Gov. Daniel To Call Legislative Session

AUSTIN (UP) — A special session of the Legislature will be called "later this year" by Gov. Price Daniel for action on lobbyist control and other measures which were bypassed in the rush to adjourn last week.

Daniel said Monday the state "will have a strict lobbyist registration act before the next regular session of the Legislature." He said it was his "intention" to call a special session but that he couldn't set a date yet.

He said the legislature "enacted some of the most constructive legislation in the history of Texas, passing 47 of the 51 recommendations of this administration."

Time Ran Out

"However, time ran out before it could complete action on a lobbyist registration act and part of the water program. Also, several other reform measures such as the law enforcement commission and registration of those who practice before state agencies were not acted upon."

"Much of this was due to the fact that there was more work to be done than any legislature could complete in the allotted time," Daniel said.

"Therefore, it is my intention to call a special session later this year so the Legislature will have an opportunity to finish up these and other matters which may accumulate."

The last special session was held in 1954, for teacher pay and taxes, called by then Gov. Allan Shivers.

Daniel said the date for the special meeting will depend "upon other matters which may arise, including action and reports of the Travis and Dallas county grand juries."

Grand Juries

The Travis county grand jury is conducting hearings into alleged payoffs from naturopathic physicians to legislators and into scandals arising from the collapse of the ICT Insurance Co. of Dallas. The Dallas county grand jury is also probing ICT.

Daniel predicted Texas "will have a strict lobbyist registration act before the next regular session of the legislature."

"I have hopes also of a statutory plan by which the second phase of our water program, conservation storage in federal projects, can be accomplished without a constitutional amendment."

A proposed constitutional amendment setting up a 100 million dollar program from purchase of conservation storage space in federal reservoirs failed on the last day of the 55th Legislature last Thursday.

Adenauer Ready To Make Swap

WASHINGTON (UP) — West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer appeared ready today to trade German approval of U.S. "first step" disarmament proposals for strong American affirmation that German unification and general disarmament are linked.

Adenauer and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles planned a previously unscheduled meeting this morning apparently to work out details. The chancellor planned to meet with President Eisenhower an hour later.

The White House was expected to release a communique later in the day on the last two days of U.S.-German talks. Then Adenauer was scheduled to address first the House and then the Senate.

Presidential disarmament adviser Harold E. Stassen will present new U.S. proposals for a "first step" disarmament program to the Russians this week in London.

Administration officials have said adherence of as many nations as possible including West Germany to a "first step" slice disarmament plan is essential if it is to work.

However, West Germany has insisted repeatedly that there should be no general disarmament agreement with Russia unless it is tied to a political agreement over unification of East and West Germany. The United States has agreed.

Adenauer and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles planned a previously unscheduled meeting this morning apparently to work out details. The chancellor planned to meet with President Eisenhower an hour later.

The White House was expected to release a communique later in the day on the last two days of U.S.-German talks. Then Adenauer was scheduled to address first the House and then the Senate.

Presidential disarmament adviser Harold E. Stassen will present new U.S. proposals for a "first step" disarmament program to the Russians this week in London.

Administration officials have said adherence of as many nations as possible including West Germany to a "first step" slice disarmament plan is essential if it is to work.

However, West Germany has insisted repeatedly that there should be no general disarmament agreement with Russia unless it is tied to a political agreement over unification of East and West Germany. The United States has agreed.

THE BALD BOY

Chapter Six

Some Hair-Raising Medical Facts For Elmer

By ELMER WHEELER

The doc had just handed me a bottle of glue and I was bewildered. "Yes, son," he said. "A bottle of ordinary glue, the only sure way to keep hair from falling." He spoke almost kindly. "You've been through all sorts of treatments to keep your hair, from tonic to salve, from barber to hair men. But you've never been to me for shock treatment."

My eyes brightened. What was he leading up to? Did he still have a cure up his sleeve?

He assured me he didn't have any sure cure at all. No one had. But that he knew what caused many forms of baldness and some were curable.

"You mean not wearing hats," I said, informing him I had gone through that stage until some guy (who worked for a hat firm) told me it was dirt, sun and grime that caused falling hair. Then I started to wear hats again.

He assured me that perhaps lack of circulation in the scalp caused some forms of hair troubles; but seldom was wearing—or not wearing—a hat the true cause of baldness.

Then it must be diet, I shot in. "Could be, could be," he said, and told me lots about how poor diet and malnutrition can weaken the system to a point where things happen to a body, like rashes on the skin and falling hair.

He told me how the body was made up of iron, calcium, phosphorus, minerals of all sorts, and if these are lacking in the system, even the eyes grow weaker.

not to mention hair falling out from lack of "food."

"When the system is run down from lack of proper foods," he told me, "then the weakest part of the body begins to feel the effects in a hurry, and the scalp, lightly drawn over the head, is one of the weakest parts of a human's body."

He told me that eating was a habit like breathing, only that many people eat the wrong foods. That leaving the table feeling full didn't mean we got the right foods in us containing needed minerals and vitamins to keep us from falling apart.

As he described a man's body, it sounded like a chemical reprint from the steel works. The body contains such things as copper, iron, manganese, cobalt and silicon, to mention a few metals.

He said that a Dr. T. E. Lawson had estimated that if we decomposed a man, we would be able to extract:

Enough water to fill a 10-gallon barrel.

Enough fat to make seven bars of soap.

Enough carbon for 9,000 lead pencils.

Enough phosphorus to make 220 match heads.

Enough magnesium for one dose of salts.

Enough iron to make one medium size nail.

Enough lime to whitewash a chicken coop.

Enough sulphur to rid a dog of fleas.

"Why not take this chemical stuff then," I asked him, "put it into a salve and rub it into the scalp?"

He laughed. He assured me that the chemicals had to come from inside, from the foods we eat.

He told me of skin diseases such as beriberi, that come from lack of such vitamins as B-1. He told me how old age comes from lack of certain hormones, and that old age can come to hair, too, from lack of foods needed to nourish the scalp and keep it alive, active and youthful.

He told me how Casimir Funk, back in 1912, coined the word vitamin. It comes from "Vita," the Latin word for life, and is added to "amine," which is the name of a group of chemicals.

But he informed me you can't rub them on the noggin and nourish the hair. Moreover, he said vitamin D requires sunshine on the body to make it work. He used a fancy word, "synthesis."

Any good diet book, he told me, will give me all this information without my paying him by the hour to learn about diet, or I should talk to John Shulak, who had done a great research job on hair.

Chiang May Be In For Rough Road

News Outlook

By CHARLES M. McCANN

United Press Staff Correspondent

United Press correspondents around the world look ahead at the news that will make the headlines.

Portent

Those riots in Formosa may foretell bad news for Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek. Friday's outbreak in Taipei, the capital, was anti-American. But to many Formosans, the hundreds of thousands of Chinese Nationalists who took refuge in their island when the Communists overran the mainland are as unwelcome as the Americans. The next riots, if any, could be anti-Nationalist.

First Step

The next few days may tell whether hope for a first step toward disarmament is well-founded. Like America's Harold Stassen, Soviet chief delegate Valerian A. Zorin went home for new instructions during an 11-day recess in the London disarmament conference. The talks reopen today. London advices predict that Zorin's attitude, on the basis of his instructions, will show fairly soon whether Russia is really ready to talk business at last.

Income Tax

Don't count on Congress reducing your income taxes next year, retroactive to next Jan. 1. The official Democratic line voiced by House Speaker Sam Rayburn is that the cut will be voted. But some Democratic tax writers say privately they don't expect any cut.

Airing

New Delhi says that the reported romance between Roberto Rossellini, husband of Ingrid Bergman, and his pretty script-writer Sonali das Gupta may be aired in the Indian Parliament. Indian officials are upset about the whole situation. Unless Sonali's family—which is very prominent in Indian politics—says no, it may be brought up for a debate.

Rackets

The Senate Rackets Committee will take stock this week and decide which case to investigate next, and when. Best guess is that hearings will start about June 4. The committee has several cases nearly ready. Its No. 1 choice is an investigation of Teamster "paper local" unions in New York.

First Aid

If Egypt and Syria don't come through with their promised payments to Jordan, the United States and Saudi Arabia can expect an urgent appeal for immediate help from Jordan's young King Hussein. Egypt, Syria and Saudi Arabia promised Hussein 34 million dollars a year to replace the British subsidy which Jordan sacrificed when it threw out the British commander of its Arab Legion. Saudi Arabia has paid its share. Egypt and Syria have failed to come through, and Hussein's treasury is about empty.

Despite talk about increased unification of the armed forces, as an economy measure, Washington reports that early action is most unlikely. Congress dislikes the idea of a single military force under an all-powerful chief of staff.

Sports Outlook

Don't bet any money on the American entrants in the British Amateur golf tournament which started today. This season's American contingent of 24 is the weakest in years. It isn't expected to go far.

OLD GLORY IN COLOR—The American Flag waves proudly on a new commemorative four-cent stamp to be issued in Washington, D.C., on July 4. It will be printed in full color, the red, white and blue combination being printed quickly and economically on a new-type printing press developed in Switzerland.

"Come on try it... there's nothing like a J₂ Rocket!"

Olds Owners: Let me show you. This J-2 Rocket* is like two engines under the hood.

Friends: Neat trick—how does it work?

Olds Owner: It's a new progressive carburetor system. Gives you more economy . . . or extra power for safety. Take your choice.

Friends: Economy sounds swell . . . but with a 'big car like this . . . ?

Olds Owner: You bet! They engineered the J-2 Rocket Engine for our kind of driving . . . top efficiency at normal driving speeds because it's fueled by one carburetor.

Friends: I get it. Economy when you want it—power when you need it.

Olds Owner: Correct. But talking about that you've got to drive. Climb in—let's go.

Students' Art Work In Annual Exhibit By Pampa Art Club

The work of the seventh grade art students was presented by the Pampa Art Club during an Open House held recently in the Lovett Memorial Library. The students did their entries under the direction of Mrs. Eugene Olds.

Over 250 guests called during the afternoon to see the varied exhibit.

Among the many entries were oil and water paintings, charcoal and pencil drawings; sculpture in clay, soap, salt, and papier-mache. Ceremonial masks of wood made of wood and were hung about the walls. The copper, enamel abstracts and jewelry were quite professional. Toothpick sculpture, which was executed with hundreds of toothpicks, demonstrated the students' sense of balance and form.

Small dream homes, which were inspired by Frank Lloyd Wright designs, were of special interest, as were the glass temples, which enclosed Aztec Indian ceremonial rites.

One ceremonial rite depicted was that of "The Day of Death," showing the death ceremony of the High Priest of the Aztecs; the other was "The Day of Sacrifice." This scene showed Monte Zuma at the altar in sacrificial rites during which the youngest, strongest, and bravest chieftain was sacrificed. Many hours of research were needed to make these illustrations. The large mural of an Indian village at the base of a mountain attracted much attention, as did the display of pre-historic animals, which were made according to the conception of the students. Scribble drawings, splatter paintings, as well as fire prevention posters, were well executed.

This exhibit was the fourth annual exhibit of Junior High School art students, sponsored by the Pampa Art Club.

Make Friends Manners

If you take a young child with you when you have an appointment at a beauty shop make sure the child sits near you instead of getting in the way of operators and other customers. A child shouldn't be turned loose to make a nuisance of himself in a place of business. A beauty salon is a place of business, not a nursery.

WEDDING RECEPTION buffet made of two card tables covered with lace paper mats is attractive but inexpensive.

Inexpensive Articles Can Make Wedding Reception Glamorous

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

A toast to the new bride and groom!

Certainly, the wedding punch must be served beautifully. It is an ancient ceremony, this toasting the just-married couple, and calls for thought, taste and appropriateness.

At most weddings there is champagne in some form. But sauterne can be used and, of course, there are excellent punches made without either.

Some people like to decorate the punch with flowers, either by floating orange blossoms on top or by freezing orange blossoms and other flowers in an ice ring.

It is more convenient and certainly safer to place the punch bowl and punch glasses on a separate table. This makes it much easier to serve and leaves the buffet free for the food, wedding cake and coffee.

BRIDE'S BOWL (40-50 servings)
Two (12-ounce) packages frozen sliced strawberries, 2 (4-5 quart) bottles California sauterne or other white table wine, chilled, 4 cups canned pineapple juice, chilled, 1 cup lemon juice, 2 cups sugar, 2 bottles domestic champagne, chilled.

Thaw strawberries, then force through a sieve lined with wet cheesecloth.

In a punch bowl combine the strawberry puree, wine, pineapple juice, lemon juice and sugar; stir until sugar is dissolved. Add a block of ice or a tray of ice cubes, then pour in the champagne. Serve at once.

Here's another popular and very easy to prepare punch: for 30 servings, combine 1 quart of fruit ice or sherbet and 2 bottles of sauterne.

CALIFORNIA WEDDING DAY PUNCH (90-100 servings)
Two (6-ounce) cans frozen lemonade concentrate, 12 cups (2 large cans) unsweetened pineapple juice, well chilled, 1 gallon sauterne, well chilled, 2 bottles domestic champagne, well chilled.

Combine frozen lemonade concentrate and pineapple juice in a punch bowl. Add wine. Add a block of ice or a tray of ice cubes. Just before serving pour in champagne. Garnish with thin slices of orange or lemon, or chunks of fresh pineapple, if desired.

FROZEN FRUIT RINGS
Arrange strawberries, pineapple cubes, orange sections, and mint leaves in small ring molds. Carefully add water and chill until solidly frozen. Unmold and float in punch.

WEDDING BUFFET
Radish roses, hearts of celery, olives, salted nuts, lobster salad, hot stuffed small baked potatoes, thin slices of ham rolled about strips of Swiss cheese, hot rolls, bride's cake, bride's punch bowl, coffee.

CANNED MEAT ON PARADE

Spread applesauce between layers of sliced canned luncheon meat. Stud the top piece of luncheon meat with whole cloves. Place canned meat — applesauce sandwiches on cookie sheet and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 15 minutes or until heated through.

Next March On Washington To Be By Grass Roots Republicans

By LYLE G. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—The next march on Washington will be by grass roots Republicans who are somewhat unhappy with the Eisenhower administration.

Advance notices suggest they may be unhappy enough to tell President Eisenhower all about it. Whether the assembly gives the administration a piece of its mind or the incident ends happily in the warmth of the Eisenhower smile remaining to be seen.

However that may be, the grass rooters are due here next week, some hundreds of them representing the 48 states. The White House sponsors the meeting, in a way. It grew out of a conference between Eisenhower and chairman Meade Alcorn of the Republican National Committee.

Handpicked For Job
Alcorn was handpicked for that job by Eisenhower and was elected Jan. 22 as a modern Republican committee administrator. There followed meetings between Alcorn and congressional Republicans in which the new chairman was told that the Eisenhower administration was in serious trouble with the voters.

The chairman hustled to the White House to talk it over. He subsequently received from Eisenhower a letter which, the United Press was informed, stated bluntly that the people should have the greatest and most effective voice in determining party policy.

There followed regional meetings in five cities: Omaha, Neb.; Salt Lake City, Utah; Louisville, Ky.; Cincinnati, Ohio; and Trenton, N.J.

It is the grass roots participants in those meetings who are to come here next week. A digest of their gripes and cheers and opinions is being prepared, the United Press was informed, for presentation to Eisenhower. The presentation will be made by Alcorn, escorted by Sen. Andrew F. Schoepel (R-Kan.) and Rep. Richard M. Simpson (R-Pa.).

Before TV Speeches
The regional meetings were held, for the most part, before Eisenhower's two recent TV speeches defending his big spending budget. One thing the big White House powwow may show is whether those speeches have had any effect on the place it really counts—the grass roots, and particularly the Republican grass roots.

The five regional meetings were closed to the press. Participants talked frankly, sometimes angrily, of Eisenhower administration politics and policies. The Alcorn-

TV Prompter Replaces Miltown In Television

By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP)—You may find it hard to believe, but there is something that TV stars use more than Miltown.

Teleprompter.

A kind of electronic tranquillizer, teleprompter is the genie that unreels scripts, commercials and ad libs during shows for those TV performers who are reasonably literate. It's only six years old, but it's big for its age.

All three networks lean on it, even for programs as informal as Arthur Godfrey's and Garry Moore's. In fact, just about the only big time star who isn't teleprompted is Perry Como—he uses cue cards, the cardboard sheets with words printed on them that were popular during the frontier days of the medium.

Other Countries
According to Herbert Hobler, vice-president in charge of sales at teleprompter, some 120 stations around the nation also lease equipment from his outfit. It's used, too, by TV outlets in Great Britain, Canada, Cuba, Puerto Rico and Colombia.

"The political conventions in 1956 are a good example of the acceptance of teleprompter," said Hobler today. "There were 148 speeches delivered at both conventions with its aid. Even

Frank Clements, who had quite a reputation as a speaker, used it for his Democratic keynote address.

Helped Truman
"In fact, there was one top GOP leader at San Francisco who had just about everything on his teleprompter speech—when to raise his hand, when to stop for laughter, all sorts of cues. It was quite a successful speech."

Teleprompter generally is credited with turning former President Truman from a so-so platform speaker into a fairly polished one. For President Eisenhower, the teleprompter people once developed an extra-large type so he could deliver his TV speeches without glasses. The "Eisenhower Type" is five-eighths of an inch high instead of the usual one-half inch.

Quit Tittering And Giggling, Start Laughing In Earnest

By DOC QUIGG
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP)—To George Q. Lewis, the tendency of many Americans to look down their noses at the titter, the chuckle, the giggle, the hyena, the bamboo, the yuk, the boffo, and the yok—in the order of increasing intensity named—is no laughing matter.

He believes we should laugh aloud at home watching TV," he says. "They may smile, or snicker, but that doesn't do you any good. You got to laugh—the way they told Ike to do when he flubs on the golf course. I feel that laughter is a therapy and also a culture."

"And people are self-conscious about laughing aloud in a crowd. Why should laughter be almost illegal? This is not the America I once knew. People are not expressing themselves."

Laughing School
To the end of the shoring up this sag in our culture, Lewis has started a laughing academy. Each Wednesday night, 10 to 15 persons go to school, just for laughs. Tuition is $1 a night.

The school has two instructors. One, Lou Dukay, is a comedian who has been laughing, more or less regularly, for 30 years. The other is Madelain Klein, a Hunter College student who is writing a laughter thesis.

"We do this laughing about an hour," Lewis explained. "First Lou and Madelain lecture. Then we ask the people to get up and laugh in different tones. Give out. Express themselves. We run the scale, up high to down low: Heehahahahohohohohawhaw. "Then we get the group to laughing in chorus to music. We do 'Tee for Two'—HA HA-HA, HA HO HO-HO—only sometimes it sounds like April in Paris. It gets to be a free-for-all after a while. People go off on their own."

I'll Keep Going
School will keep on going until the students get sick of laughing, far as I'm concerned. To me it's a serious business. These people are enjoying a new culture."

know how to classify some 117 different types of laughter. Lewis is philosophical about the academic life. "People don't have to come to my school. They can stay home and laugh, and send me a dollar, if they want."

Piper Laurie Switches Over To Heavy Dramatic Roles

By ALINE MOSBY
United Press Hollywood Reporter
HOLLYWOOD (UP)—These days the trend is for the young, curly beauties of the screen to give up lipstick and cleavage for heavy drama.

The world first witnessed the metamorphosis of Marilyn Monroe from nude calendars to the actors' studio, Arthur Miller and Sir Laurence Olivier. This prompted Shelley Winters, Terry Moore and other movie queens to head for New York acting coaches.

The surprise switch of this season is Piper Laurie, formerly a cute redhead who ate flowers and played winsome maidens in bulging bodices in those swashbuckling Tony Curtis movies.

When Piper showed up on television in dramatic roles this past season, Hollywoodites gasped her name as they used to gasp, "Sonny Tufts."

Now Success
Now four TV shows and an MGM movie later, Miss Laurie has become a top young actress. She just finished playing a neurotic, love-hungry wench in an MGM drama, "Until They Sail." And the girl who used to gobble gardenias is off to New York to mold over Broadway offers.

"The girl who was created because of that flower-eating stunt was somebody I never knew," Piper said in attempting to explain the change.

When Better Slang Is Built, The British Will Build It

By DOC QUIGG
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP)—When better slang is built, the British, of course, will build it, and if you don't use your loaf in reading this item I'll bet half an oxford it won't make 18 pence.

One of the glories of England for 10, these many years has been Cockney rhyming slang, a speech form that seems to have escaped Americans entirely. But now the British Travel Assn. has busted forth with full-page magazine advertisements on the subject, which should put it in the American public domain.

So I hurried over to Stanley Holloway, the dialect expert who can belt out a British music hall ballad so superbly that he stops the show at least twice a night at "My Fair Lady," and asked him to rattle off a bit of explanation.

But the Cockneys often drop off all but the first word, so that the thing doesn't make rhyme — or reason, either, unless you know the slang.
Hence, in the first sentence of this column, loaf means head, oxford means dollar (oxford-scholar is the whole rhyme), and 18 pence is the rhyme for sense.
Inspired anatomically by "loaf," Holloway rattled off the following Cockney translations: Eyes — mince pies; nose — I suppose; mouth — north and south; neck — bushel and peck; arms — chalk farms (a London suburb); belly — Darby Kelly; legs — clothes pegs; feet — plates of meat.

It's Poetry, Too
Asked to talk a bit of this, he went me one better and launched into verse, an old stage rhyme to which I have added parenthetical translations:
"I was sitting in front of the Anna Maria (fire)
"A-warming me plates o' meat (feet)
"When I hears a knock at the Rory O' Moore (door)
"Which makes me raspberry beat, (heart—from raspberry tart)
"So I set down me glass of finger- and - fumb (rum)
"Which I held in me German trouble-and-strife.

TOKYO—Acting Japanese Prime Minister Mitsujiro Ishii, on Japanese intentions to try an American soldier for manslaughter regardless of American objections: "To say that the case is under U.S. jurisdiction merely because it occurred when the American soldier was on duty is too simple thinking."

CHICAGO—Gov. Frank Clement of Tennessee, urging that the United States provide Poland with economic aid in spite of objections by Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland:
"If the people behind the Iron Curtain, oppressed, helpless and starving, are now seeking to free themselves, we should give these people help instead of the back of our hand, as proposed by Knowland."

GETTYSBURG — President Eisenhower to fence-straddling photographers while touring his farm with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer:
"If Ivan Felster (the farm manager) catches some of you fellows on that fence, somebody's going to lose a head."

band (hand)
"And I went to the head of the apples-and-pears (stairs)
"With me dukes all ready to land."
Maybe you've got enough to try a few sentences of your own. But if you're a married man, I would particularly advise against taking it home and trying it on your trouble-and-strife.

'Big Switch' In Baseball Map Proposed

SPORTS

Bums To L.A.; Giants To 'Frisco; Reds To New York

By LEO H. PETERSEN
United Press Sports Editor
CHICAGO (UP) — National League club owners will be asked today to consider a proposal that with one stroke would revamp the baseball map and quiet congressional attacks on the game.

Under the plan, the Brooklyn Dodgers would switch to Los Angeles, the New York Giants to San Francisco and the Cincinnati Reds to New York. The "triple play" could go into effect for the 1968 season if it receives the unanimous consent of the club owners.

The plan will be proposed at a special meeting of the league's executives beginning at 3:30 p.m. The owners will be told that all necessary documents involving television and radio commitments for the future and guarantees of new parks in Los Angeles and San Francisco already have been drawn up.

The baseball official, who revealed the plan to the United Press, said the shifts would also be discussed at another meeting before the All-Star game in St. Louis, July 9, "because it is unlikely such a complicated move would be approved at a single meeting."

Operation Big Switch
The plan, dubbed "Operation Big Switch," is being presented as a possible "cure-all" for many problems confronting the owners as follows:

—It would solve the Dodgers' home park problem by transferring them to a great far western metropolis which has vast arenas that it will provide the team with a stadium seating about 50,000.

—It would transfer the spectacular Dodger-Giant rivalry across the continent to cities which are natural rivals.

—It would enable the league to keep a franchise in New York—the world's largest city—and give the Reds a park (Yankee Stadium, which they would share with the Yankees) with a capacity of 67,000 compared to their 29,584-seat capacity in Cincinnati.

National League officials commented cautiously when the United Press revealed the plan but it was immediately hailed by Rep. Emanuel Celler (D-N.Y.) and Rep. Patrick J. Hillings (R-Calif.)—the two congressional sponsors of a baseball anti-trust legislation.

Seen As Good Move
"The move is good for baseball and for baseball fans because it betokens a crack in this monopolistic baseball structure," said Celler. "The proposed shifts are a healthy sign. It is good to break down the monopolistic barriers that have existed for a half a century. Baseball owners are realizing that the whole nation is interested in big league baseball—not just the eastern half."

"It is an intelligent and hopeful move on the part of the National League," said Hillings. "It may spell the difference in baseball's case for favorable legislation by the Congress. It will go a long way toward helping unsmother the complicated legal situation now facing America's national pastime."

An anti-trust subcommittee headed by Celler will begin hearings on these and other sports bills starting June 10.

Redlegs 'Explode' On Milwaukee

Cincinnati Stretches Victory Skein On Road

By FRED DOWN
United Press Sports Writer
The Cincinnati Redlegs demonstrated first hand to the Milwaukee Braves today what it's like to have a powder keg go off under them.

Beaten six straight times by the Braves and held to a team batting mark of .258 by Milwaukee pitchers early in the season, the Redlegs turned on their tormenter Monday night with an 11-6, 10-inning victory that ran their string of consecutive victories on the road to 15. Birdie Tebbetts' team now is only two games shy of the major league mark of 7 straight wins on the road set by the 1916 New York Giants.

The Redlegs beat a tattoo of 13 singles off three Milwaukee pitchers to score only two fewer runs in one game than they tallied in the six previous contests this season. In the bargain, they knocked the Braves three and a half games out of first place and maintained their two-game lead over the Brooklyn Dodgers, who downed the Philadelphia Phillies, 5-1. The St. Louis Cardinals whipped the Chicago Cubs, 6-2, in the other N.L. game.

Yanks Move Up
The New York Yankees moved to within two games of the American League lead when they walked the Boston Red Sox, 17-8, and the Kansas City A's beat the first-place Chicago White Sox, 7-1. The Detroit Tigers defeated the Cleveland Indians, 11-5, and the Washington Senators scored 3-2 and 10-6 victories over the Baltimore Orioles in other A.L. activity.

The Redlegs piled up a 5-1 lead against "jinx pitcher" Lew Burdette but the Braves tied the score at 6-6 with the aid of two-run homers by Hank Aaron and Del Crandall in the eighth and ninth innings. But then the Redlegs batted around in a wild 10th inning marked by a fist-fight between Cincinnati's Hal Jeffcoat and Milwaukee's Johnny Logan to clinch the contest.

Hershel Freeman, third of four Cincinnati pitchers, was credited with his second win while Ernie Johnson suffered the loss.

Don Drysdale, 20-year-old right hander, fireballed a two-hitter and Duke Snider and Gino Cimoli homered off Robin Roberts as the Dodgers made it nine wins in their last 12 games. Drysdale fanned six and retired the last 16 batters to face him to win his fourth game.

Stan Musial smashed three hits, including the 361st homer of his career, and knocked in two runs to raise the lifetime total to 1,500, as he led the Cardinals' nine-hit attack. Musial tied Joe DiMaggio for seventh place in career home runs and is the 13th man to drive in 1,500 runs. Lindy McDaniel scattered 10 hits to win his third decision and Wally Moon hit safely in his 20th straight game to make it a gala night all-around for St. Louis.

The Yankees collected 13 hits good for 22 bases in an assault highlighted by an eight-run rally in the seventh.

Bill Skowron drove in four runs with a homer and two singles, Hank Bauer had three doubles and Tony Kubek had a double and a single for New York.

Betha Defeats Paul Andrews
NEW YORK (UP) — Heavyweight Wayne Betha, who outlasted Paul Andrews for a split 10-round decision at St. Nicholas Arena, asked today for a 12 or 15-round fight with one of the ranking contenders.

Stocky Betha, a rugged New York tomato packer, weighed 201½ pounds to 190½ for elongated Andrews, a West Side stevedore who formerly fought out of Buffalo, N.Y. Their bout was televised.

They went into the ring at "even money" in the betting because of late support for Andrews' knockout punch.

Little, Pony Leagues Set Openers Today

Opening game ceremonies will be held in both the Eastern and Western Little Leagues and also in the Pony League tonight.

Gerald Sims, director of the three leagues, said that the ceremonies would consist of introducing the teams and their managers. The ceremonies are scheduled to get underway at approximately 5:15 p.m. today in the three parks.

At the Western Little League park, near the Fisher-Panhandle Elevator, Utility Oil and Supply will meet the "One Bull Ranch" team; in the Eastern Little League, Cabot Carbon will play The Sportsman Store in the park off Barnes street; and in the Pony League, Kist Beverage will take on the Optimist Club.

Americans To Get Into The British Am

FORMBY England (UP)—Dale Morey and Dick Roos, two highly-touted Yanks who rested Monday while 15 of the 26 American entries bowed out of the British Amateur golf championship, begin play today in the second round.

Morey of Indianapolis, Ind., co-favored with Ireland's Joe Carr and Arthur Walker of South Africa at 5-1, plays Ernest Crimes of England, Roos, who upset fellow San Francisco star Ken Venturi in the 1966 U.S. Amateur championship, meets Scotland's Arthur (Sandy) Sinclair.

Morey and Roos, who drew first round byes, won't tee off until after lunch. Jimmy McHale, former Walker Cupper from Philadelphia, will be the first American to play today. McHale, a 3 and 1 victor over Murray Vernon Jr., of Greenwich, Conn., in the first round, will meet Lt. Col. William Armstrong of England.

More than half the players who make up the weakest U.S. threat in recent years were ousted in Monday's opening matches although sunny "American-style" weather favored the Yanks on the 6,803-yard Formby course.

Ballinger In 'Giant Step' Toward Lead

By UNITED PRESS
Eddie Reed powered Carlsbad past Clovis again Monday night and Ballinger, taking a doubleheader sweep from Plainview, took a big stride toward the Southwestern League lead.

Ballinger's sweep coupled with Clovis' loss pulled Ballinger to within a game and a half of Clovis. San Angelo stopped Midland, 5-1 and Hobbs beat El Paso 2-1.

Ballinger had trouble winning the first from Plainview, 4-3, but took the second game 3-1.

Eddie Reed blasted two home runs to drive in every run for Carlsbad as it took its second straight win over Clovis, 4-3.

The Potashers didn't get a hit off Pete Carrillo until the seventh, when Reed smashed his first home run with nobody on.

Trailing In Ninth
Carlsbad went into the ninth trailing 3-1. Carrillo hit Bob Boyd and Ray Patterson singled through short. Reed then poled his second home run to win the game.

Carlsbad got only three hits off Carrillo for the game.

John Coddington, meanwhile, gave up five hits, including a home run by Marty Rosell and triples by Dick Dickey and Lewis Zayas that accounted for Clovis' runs.

Both hurlers fanned 13 men.

Ballinger scored the run that won the first game from Plainview in the bottom of the ninth. Ken Jones singled and Ron Kiser drove him home with a double.

Dory Funk Wins Over Ivan Kola

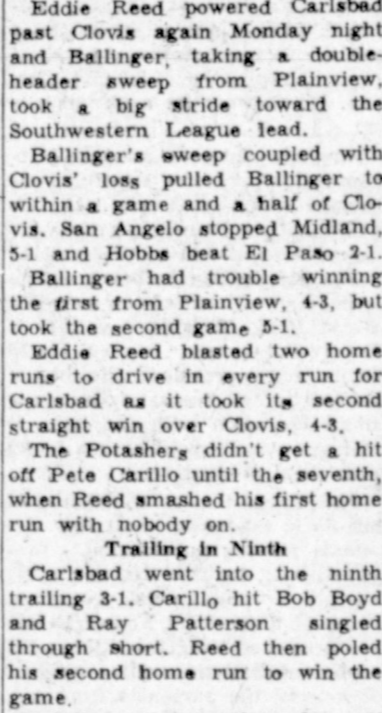

Dory Funk took the main event against Ivan Kola last night in the weekly Shrine-sponsored wrestling matches at The Sportsman Club.

Funk won the first fall by disqualification and then came back to win the match with a drop kick and spinning toe hold. The match was a two out of three fall, one hour time limit affair.

In the semi-final match, Slave Girl Moolah won over Bonita White Cloud. Slave Girl Moolah won the first fall with a series of body slams and a body press. Then Bonita White Cloud took the second fall with a body press and Slave Girl Moolah wrapped up the win with a drop kick and body press.

In the opener, Tommy Phelps won over "Farmer" Jones with a body press.

Now-see camera-eye proof Dodge trucks lead the low-priced 3!

Special cameras like this new high-speed Hulcher "70", designed to take rapid-sequence photos of guided-missile launches, were used to record tests. Electrically operated, the Hulcher "70" shoots 20 pictures a second.

Actual road tests . . . like the one photographed at the right . . . prove beyond question that Dodge Power Giants outclass all competition. This rugged hill climb is just one of a whole string of tests comparing all three low-priced trucks.

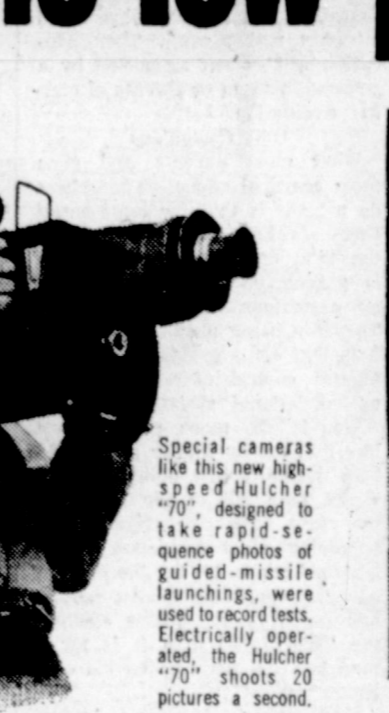

See certified test results of the entire series—actual unretouched photographs—at your own local Dodge dealer's. These tests, plus 15 minutes behind the wheel, will demonstrate to you that today's Dodge Power Giants lead the low-priced three in every measure by which you judge a truck.

You get the most V-8 power of the low-priced three . . . up to 232 horsepower. This gives you snappier performance to save valuable trip time . . . extra power to take steep climbs with less engine strain. And Dodge gives you extra payload capacity, too. For instance, the test pick-up shown hauls as much as 27% more than the other two low-priced makes.

Check today's low Dodge prices. You'll find eleven Power Giant models, in the low-tonnage field alone, that are actually the lowest priced of the low-priced three. Why not see for yourself? Your dealer will gladly bring a Dodge right to your door.

THEY'RE OFF! Here's the start of a grueling hill-climb test. All three low-priced trucks were lined up at the bottom of a test grade equal to the steepest hill in San Francisco. At flag drop, test drivers floor gas pedals . . . the Dodge Power Giant leaps out in front.

DODGE THE WINNER BY FIVE LENGTHS—and still gaining! The Dodge Power Giant outdistanced both truck "C" and truck "F" from the start. This is just one of a complete series of actual road tests that prove Dodge the outstanding leader of the low-priced three.

Always A Reason

Man is a rational being.

This means, simply, that whatever men do, they do for reason. Motives supply the driving force for everything accomplished. The motive may be good or it may be bad. But men do not make things happen without cause.

True, man's motive may find itself more firmly lodged in an emotional conviction than in a logical one. This may, in fact, account for many of the seemingly irrational acts to which all of us must from time to time plead guilty. But the fact remains that motives are operative. We move or we fail to move because of reasons.

Now it is notable that man loves happiness, opulence, leisure, and good fellowship. It is also notable that man hates unhappiness, poverty, labor and the disapproval of his fellows. Thus, it follows that man will endeavor always to find ways and means to gain the one and to avoid the other.

Next, it must be apparent that there is a wide divergency of means employed to accomplish the end results for which all of us have a common hope. Many there are who tend to concentrate the spending of their time and energies in a positive manner, others in a negative. Yet, if we will observe the ends we have in mind, namely, happiness and the avoidance of misery, opulence and the avoidance of poverty, and so forth, it will be noted that in one of these areas man acts as a consumer, in the other as a producer. And the role of consumer is far more pleasing to most persons than the contrary part.

It is nearly always a pleasant experience to spend time in frivolity, to spend money for things, to be able to relax and enjoy oneself and to be thought a fine fellow, generous and loving.

It is not always so pleasant to conserve one's resources, to plan and worry about the future, to labor long hours and at considerable sacrifice of things one would rather do, to eschew participation in joys and merriment, especially when those about you, feel you are a dull fellow and a poor companion.

But as we look at these attributes of the human equation we should discern something that may have escaped us heretofore. This is that whereas most persons readily accept the concept that a positive program is better than a negative one, in this regard many have been greatly confused as to what is positive and what negative. Some will tell you that happiness and its companions, joy and frivolity, are positive; that opulence is positive, that leisure is positive and that good fellowship is positive.

But these things viewed as ends and not as means, are negative. Happiness, to become positive, must be earned. Opulence is positive only when productive. Leisure is positive only when it follows labor. And good fellowship is positive when it is based on understanding and friendship, and not on the wasting of time and substance.

Here is, perhaps, the meat of our twentieth century malaise. So much of today's emphasis, in our schools, our government, and in labor unions, is placed on consuming, not on producing. The emphasis is negative and can only lead to sorrow and decay. Happiness, instead of springing from self-discipline, and a rigid morality, is interpreted as the gratification of appetite, the belly-laugh, mucky living and brittle surface pleasures.

As for opulence, who wants to work any more? Win a prize in a contest; get on a relief lineup; figure an angle; get a soft job; get as much as you can for as little as possible. . . . but these are not the way to opulence; they are the italicized places in our current philosophy.

And what of labor itself? For centuries we have been taught to believe that working hard was a form of punishment and anyone who did so gladly and voluntarily a fool. We have enthroned laziness and cunning as cardinal virtues and have relegated honest toil to the unpleasant though necessary aspects of life.

Finally, we come to the matter of good fellowship. If a companionate understanding ensues in trust, a sharing of hopes and dreams, a belief in the same principles, so that a binding together occurs voluntarily, then we have the birth of true friendship which can be one of the great things in life. Otherwise we confuse the wasting of our personalities on irresponsible and flippant persons, with friendship, and we find that we have lost respect, honor and integrity for an hour's foolishness.

We are surfeited with pleasures and enjoyments and we avoid the positive aspects of life at every turn.

Man, a rational being, ought to begin again being rational.

BIG BOOK BARGAIN

Herewith, news of what seems to us one of the smartest book-publishing stunts in years, as well as an outstanding piece of public service.

Alger Hiss, who did time for perjury in denying that as a State Department employe he passed secret government documents to Soviet agents, is to have a book published tomorrow. It is called "In the Court of Public Opinion" and is to retail for $5 a copy. It tells Hiss' side of the story of his alleged treason.

The firm known as The Book-mailer says it wants to make sure that Hiss "will have a proper court of public opinion." Hence, if you order the Hiss book from this concern, you will also receive, without extra charge and with postage paid to anywhere in the world, a copy of "Witness," by Whitaker Chambers, the ex-Red courier who put the finger on Hiss and was the chief witness at the two Hiss trials. Thus, you'll get a big book bargain, and, more important, you get a full, three-dimensional picture of the Hiss case.

HEADS I WIN, TAILS YOU LOSE

To illustrate the extremes to which advocates of socialized industry will go to destroy private enterprise, an act referred to the Committee on Public Utilities of the Washington State legislature is an eye-opener.

The bill did not get out of committee but the fact that such a measure was even presented to prohibit utilities from defending themselves, is warning that proponents of such measures could by the same token seek legislation to prohibit citizens from talking against the party in power. In Russia you don't talk against the party.

The following paragraph from the bill, which is just a sample of others, shows its attempt to limit freedom of speech and destroy

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES

A Wise Mother

I received the other day an interesting letter from Mrs. Don Meston of Anaheim, California. The letter reads:

"I see that you are one of the minority that thinks education should be a matter of choice.

"My husband and I think that way too. We thoroughly dislike the school system, both public and private, and wish to educate our children as we see fit. We are particular about our children's associates but if one goes to school he must associate with anyone and that is where a lot of delinquency starts. It is true that 'one bad apple can spoil the lot.'

"Do you know how we could go about this?"

Sincerely, Mrs. Don Meston

Then she adds a P. S., "Not for publication."

I wrote her as follows:

"Dear Mrs. Meston: 'Sorry you do not give us permission to print your letter.

"It is difficult under the California state laws to educate your own children.

"Under the laws in Arizona, the state has to prove, as I understand it, that the children are not being educated. This they cannot do if they are being educated.

"Mary Turner moved with her seven children to Arizona. They cannot prove that she is not educating her children because they are being educated better than they can be educated, it seems to me, in state or parochial schools.

"What we need is more people to speak out loud like you write, to create public opinion that will permit parents to educate their own children.

"I will not permit us to print your letter, with a copy of our answer to your letter?"

Then I received a letter from her as follows:

"You have my permission to print the letter I wrote to you last week concerning teaching my own children.

"I would like to get in touch with Mary Turner who is teaching her own. Do you know how I can?"

The Meston family is certainly on the right track when it comes to realizing that parents are more interested in, and as a whole will do a better job of, educating the youth of the land than the children will get by turning them over to the government or organized groups attempting to indoctrinate the youth of the land in blind faith.

What we need more than anything else is competition in education. We want every parent to have the greatest possible choice as to the kind of books and teachers and associates his or her children can have. Then the education that will produce the best character and trustworthiness and integrity will prevail. Then education will be not supported by a policeman's gun or threats of eternal damnation.

Only Custodians

What most parents and even most board of education members do not see is that the local board members have little to do with the kind of education the youth is getting and are simply used as custodians for the buildings.

They are being used by the brass hats that have grabbed state and federal control of what we call an educational system.

Would that more people were like the Meston family and would help create public opinion that would take out of the hands of the state their sole right of determining what education is. It is no more possible for the state to educate where the duller parent has much to say about electing the "educators" than it is for a man to lift himself up by his own bootstraps.

Educators should educate by example rather than by a tax gun.

Making Virtue A Crime

People in California should bow their heads in shame for permitting laws to be passed in the state that make a crime out of the greatest virtue — the virtue of the parents assuming the responsibility of educating their own children where they can teach them the difference between right and wrong.

It is hard to conceive of anything more virtuous than the duty of parents to their children and children to their parents.

When the parents are not permitted to do this virtuous act, it is easy to see that the children then naturally have less honor for their parents.

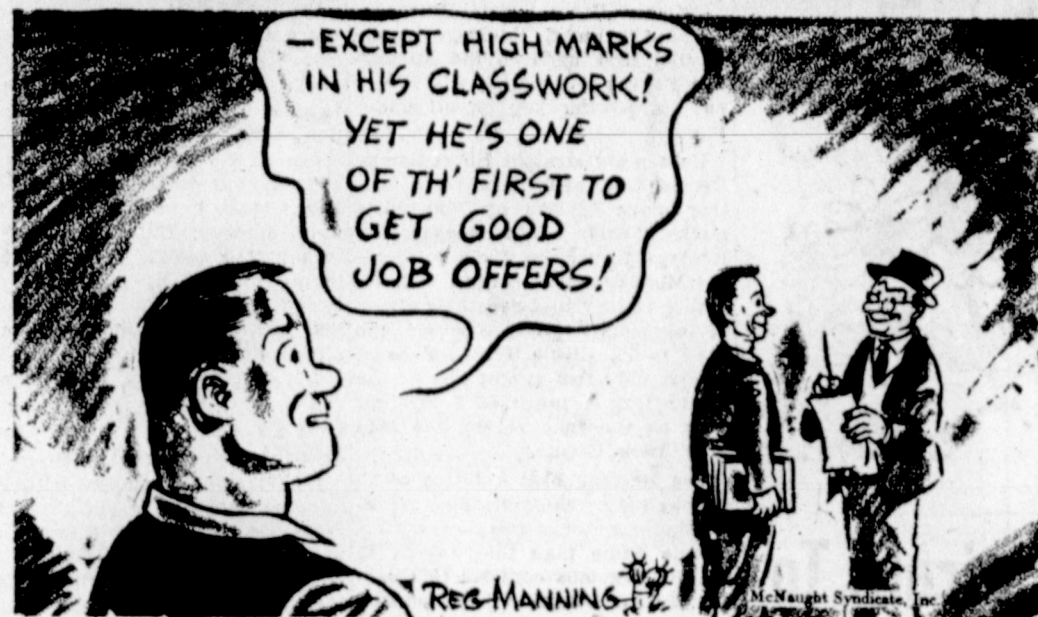

competition. It said:

"Sec. 3. Any privately owned electrical utility . . . which makes, issues, or causes any employee or employees of such utility to make or issue statements or advertising stating or implying that the services and rate structure of such utility are superior to that of a public utility district or electrical cooperative or that a public utility district or electrical cooperative does not pay taxes in a comparatively equivalent amount or degree to such utility or is otherwise an improper body to supply or distribute electrical power to the public, shall be deemed to be engaging in an unfair, illegal, or oppressive practice."

Would the managements of publicly-owned industries accept legislation limiting their right to criticize free enterprise in the power field?

We should be more wary than ever before of public officials who would restrict the rights of private citizens in favor of bureaucratic dictation.

Loan Unit For Latin America Will Aid Private Enterprise

By PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent WASHINGTON (NEA) — The new International Finance Corporation (IFC) has been over two years a-borning, but it is still some time away from delivery of its first investment loan.

IFC was first dreamed up at the Inter-American Economic Conference at Petropolis, Brazil, outside Rio, in December, 1954.

It was supposed to answer Latin American demands for a great big U.S. aid program for that part of the world. But it isn't working out that way at all.

One proposal from the Latin American cousins — who felt they had been neglected under the Mar-

The Doctor Says

By Edwin J. Jordan, M. D.

Mrs. E. P. and B. J. have recently asked for a discussion of the disorder known as trench mouth or Vincent's infection. Mrs. P. added that for the past four years it has been present in several members of her family.

This is not uncommon and in wartime, for example, when many soldiers were crowded together, perhaps in weakened general health, and exposed to severe weather, trench mouth often caused a great deal of difficulty.

This is a rather extraordinary condition since two microbes are almost always found: a cork-screw — like one known as Vincent's spirillum and a germ shaped something like a dumb-bell narrowed at both ends. Which of these, if either, causes trench mouth is still uncertain. It is certain, however, that the disease is contagious and can be spread from one person to another.

WHEN TRENCH mouth starts suddenly, pain is always present. The mouth and tongue burn and excessive salivation is the rule. Sometimes the saliva has a bloody appearance. The breath has a foul odor and there is a metallic taste in the mouth. In children, sore throat, fever, pains in the muscles and joints, difficulty in swallowing and the appearance of severe illness are frequent.

The lining of the mouth may ulcerate and sometimes a membrane forms which can be confused with diphtheria. The involved areas around the gums and throat are inflamed, tender and bleed easily if pressed or scraped.

Erupting teeth, or teeth in poor position, ill-fitting dentures, poor oral hygiene and interference with nutrition of the gums often bring on trench mouth.

Certain vitamin deficiencies, particularly of vitamin C and B, chronic malnutrition, some blood diseases and several disturbances of the digestive tract also enter into the picture. Treatment is complicated and generally takes quite a long time. Smoking and alcoholic beverages are strictly prohibited, highly spiced and seasoned foods must also be avoided.

In acute varieties, rest in bed is necessary. Soft foods are given and in some cases extra vitamins are prescribed. Cooperation between the dentist and physician usually brings the best and quickest results. Medication also is generally needed.

U. S. Could Probably Win Atomic War Against Russia

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — The United States could undoubtedly win an atomic war against Russia because of our superior industrial capacity and our geographical remoteness from the center of conflict, according to our top military experts' testimony before closed-door sessions of the House Appropriations Committee. But it would probably be a long drawn contest rather than a sudden death affair, as generally believed.

Unless one side or the other utterly destroyed the enemy in a surprise A-H attack, a collision would be only a preliminary skirmish. Because of our bases that rim the Communist empire, as well as our geographical position, the United States should be able to survive this early atomic duel.

In their strategic plans, however, the Pentagon staff must assume that Russia will also remain unconquered and able to resume the war after licking her wounds. The eventual victor then would be the nation which can recuperate and launch another major attack the more quickly and effectively.

In a sense, after the first head-on clash, there would be an interlude like that which followed after Hitler conquered almost all of Western Europe. He had to curtail aggressive operations because he was not prepared to follow up with an invasion of England.

Under Churchill's driving leadership and American aid, Britain had a chance to prepare for the second round of fighting. The same reasons and resources which led to eventual Allied victory in World War II, it is believed, will prevail in any future clash.

Russia will suffer from a great disadvantage, according to this viewpoint, because of our overseas installations. The Soviet can be attacked atomically from every point of the compass, from Northern Europe to South Korea, whereas she cannot win without knocking out the United States.

Moscow must disperse both her aerial and atomic might which, so Admiral Arthur W. Radford, Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, told the Committee, are now inferior to our own, both quantitatively and qualitatively. He admits, however, that the Communists are now narrowing the gap.

This analysis of how a third World War will be waged has necessitated a change in earlier military and popular thinking, with: (1) Overseas alliances and forward positions, especially in the Middle East close to Russian oil fields and refineries, have become more essential than ever before. So has peace in that area, and resistance to Communist infiltration.

(2) Push-button warfare does not obviate the need for a large and well-trained reserve, particularly of specialists. If the "regulars" should be badly depleted in the first round — soldiers, sailors and airmen — a second team would have to finish the fight.

(3) Insofar as possible, key military installations and defense industries in this country must be built in less exposed areas. In addition, since such a shift of established plants would be difficult, a foolproof radar warning system, although costly, must be expanded from its present Arctic zone.

(4) Even though it requires revision of the basic Atomic Energy Act, these weapons must be supplied — now, not later — to trusted Allies, but kept under American control.

(5) Finally, any thought that the major belligerents will refrain from resorting to ultimate weapons, as even Hitler banned gas and "bacteriological" offensives in World War II, is not shared by American military men. They will probably be used even in local "brush fire" conflicts.

Turning The Tables On A Bunch Of Junior Con Men

By HENRY McLEMORE

LONDON — With my innocent, pumpkin appearance, it's a wonder sharpies haven't tried to play me for a sucker years and years ago. But it was not until yesterday, when I was boarding a racing special to Epsom Downs, that a bunch of junior confidence men tried to get their hooks into me. For a wonder, I spotted them, and took a little of their dough. It was such a satisfying experience that I hope you won't mind me telling you about it.

When I walked onto the platform at Waterloo Station where the special was standing, a nice looking, nicely dressed Englishman started walking along with me.

"If you're looking for the Epsom Train, this is it on the right," he said.

I thanked him, and was preparing to walk into an empty compartment when the Englishman said it would be better if I walked on toward the head of the train — that I would be closer to the buses for Epsom when I got off.

We walked on, and came alongside a compartment where four men were sitting, reading racing sheets.

"This is a good one," The Englishman said. "No one spoke to my new friend when we entered."

We were waiting for the train to pull out when the man across the aisle from me asked the man on my left, a dignified chap in a most conservative suit, if he'd like to play a few hands of cards for fun on the 45-minute ride to Epsom.

A mackintosh was spread across knees and a game of some sort of rummy was started. For some reason, my suspicions already were a trifle aroused, and when the man across the aisle started talking about the card game he had played with the Yanks in the war, I knew pretty well that I was wanted in the card game.

I decided to string along, just for the fun of it. The train started to move, and by the time we had reached Vauxhall, I had been explained the rules, and so had the other three men in the compartment including my acquaintance who had steered me into the compartment. By their department, all were total strangers.

The game started low, with everybody tossing in a sixpence. No one won the first round, or the second, or the third, and the kitty was added to after each round. After no one had won in six rounds — and the same man was dealing all the time — there was about five pounds in the pot. I was quite sure they were going to let me win the first pot. I would have bet on it, in fact, I did.

When it came my time to bid on the pot, I said, "I'll shoot for it." To win I had to have a card in my hidden hand higher than a ten. Normally, that's not a good risk, but I took it, and in my four down cards was a queen.

"Bully for you, Yank," the dealer said. "Glad to have a visitor win."

The man in the far corner suggested we play for higher stakes the next round as we didn't have much more time to play.

The dealer demurred slightly, as did the others, but finally it was agreed to raise the ante to five pounds.

What was happening was so obvious as night and day now. When I didn't toss in five pounds, they all said, "Get in, Yank. You're the lucky one."

"Count me out," I said. "I'm going to read my paper."

"You can't quit now," they all but screamed.

"Oh, yes, I can," I said. "But I'll tell you what I'll do. I've been playing your game, with your cards, and with your dealing. Now if you want to, we'll play my game with me dealing. Everybody put in twenty pounds, and I'll explain as we go along."

"You believe we're crooks?" one man yelled.

"Heaven knows," I said. "But you seem to think I am."

We rode the rest of the way with all five of them looking daggers at me. They had planned to clip the American for his roll, and he had clipped them for about fifteen dollars. Delightful!

Redheaded Texas Actress Doesn't Want Stardom

By ALINE MOSBY
United Press Hollywood Reporter

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—One of the bright new stars of 1957 is a startling Texas redhead who claims she doesn't give two pins for money or stardom and who is setting a new record as the most talkative actress in town. Suzy Parker is a top New York fashion model, one of those tall creatures with high cheekbones and a bored, elegant look.

As photographer Richard Avedon's favorite model, she was seen as a model in "Funny Face," a movie based on her life. Suzy was such a sensation she was given as her first speaking role the co-starring job with Cary Grant in "Kiss Them For Me" at 20th Century-Fox.

Suzy is such a noted model she took a big salary cut to be a movie star and you expect a haughty sophisticate. But in person she's a unique ex-tombay who is not an imitation of Marilyn or Grace or Audrey, but a new type all her own.

Loves to Talk

The promising star's most prominent characteristic is that she is talkative. Suzy talks so much she's suddenly very popular with the press which suffers daily from non-bright, near-silent actors. All you have to do is turn Suzy on, sit back and take notes.

"I really don't believe in publicity because I don't care for personal success," rattled off Suzy. "What other people think of me means absolutely nothing."

"I work only for the personal satisfaction. I'll always work because I have to be busy, because money is the only way a woman can buy her independence. At this time I'm a bachelor and I intend to stay this way for quite some time but when I do marry I'll never lean on a man. I must never feel like I'm trapped."

Doesn't Want Things

"I am not interested in buying swimming pools or clothes. I shop twice a year to add to my wardrobe. I do not want possessions. I spend my money on travel and art objects."

"I don't go to cocktail parties. I don't date. I don't drink or smoke or go to nightclubs. Strange men don't call me up. I intimidate them. There's something about me, people respect me. I don't believe in flirting. If I like people I tell them so. I can't cook. I'm lost in the kitchen."

"I talk so much I drive all the men crazy, anyway," concluded Suzy.

Willowy, freckled Suzy said—between speeches—that she was born in San Antonio and is the sister of another famed model, Dorian Leigh. Her parents shipped her off with her sister in New York "because I was a terrible tomboy and they thought Dorian could do something with me."

TRAVIS AFB, Calif. — Army M.Sgt. Robert G. Reynolds, on the Taipei riots touched off by his court martial acquittal in the slaying of a Chinese prowler near his home:

"I'm extremely sorry this thing happened, but I was just doing my duty to my family and protecting myself."

ATOMIC SAFETY—Protected by a lightweight suit which guards against radiation, a safety foreman shuts off a set of valves at the United Kingdom Atomic Energy installation in Dounreay, Scotland. The massive sphere, 135 feet in diameter, in background, is the housing for Britain's first big atomic breeder reactor. Designed as a source of cheap power, the reactor is expected to play a large part in ending Britain's fuel problems.

Tour For 'Hopeful American Spinsters' To Be Organized

By DOC QUIGG
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (UP)—One of the gayest and in the long view, the most thoughtful morsels of news to emerge from Europe this spring concerns plans for a new kind of tour. This one would be organized "for hopeful American spinsters."

According to the dispatch from London, a lady travel guide from New York named Betty Murray has been cruising Europe drawing up a list of eligible bachelors—including movie stars and a couple dozen Italian, Austrian, and Scandinavian noblemen—to whom a planeload of American ladies would be introduced on a tour next year.

The hopeful ladies presumably would be on their own after the introductions and, as Miss Murray says, "I think it will all work out all right—it ought to be a real ball." The trip also would include sightseeing.

Sample Suggestions

This is the kind of imagination we need in a day of jaded tourism. It also opens up a whole new world of possible sponsored trips, and herewith, for your choice, is a selected and screened list of possibilities:

Tour for Fleeing Bachelors — The plane would leave secretly and with no announced destination; if any women were encountered in any of the foreign ports of call, the plane would take off within one hour.

Tour for Meeting Interesting Wines on Their Home Grounds—This would be an increasingly meandering trip; it would start in southern Europe, head north, and maybe even wander around in circles. Then it would zigzag through the Middle East and Orient, not forgetting to be introduced to sake in Japan, and end in California.

Tour to Stop Smoking On—Signs inside the plane would say, "Danger, gasoline tanks in cabin—no smoking on peril of being blown to bits." No one would be allowed to leave the plane at any time. Dancing girls at airports could be viewed through cabin windows.

Tour to Lose Weight On—Would begin with everybody on bicycles, headed west; on reaching Rocky Mountain region, everybody would change to horseback; three stand-out meals a day would be hard-tack.

Tour for Some Peace and Quiet — Anyone for the space satellite? Get your tickets now!

Tour to Save Money On—This would envision sitting in your backyard for two weeks reading through a pile of travel folders and from time to time sipping from bottles of tap water taken from hotels in various foreign climes.

Love-America Tour, for people in Europe who hate America—They would be taken to the nearest mint here and allowed to carry the money.

Public, Private Debt Rises 28 Billion Dollars In 1956

WASHINGTON, May 28 (UP)—

The nation's net public and private debt rose 28 billion dollars last year and stood at a record 684 billion dollars at the end of 1956, the Commerce Department reported today.

Despite the new high, the department said, the 4.5 per cent increase last year was considerably below the record peacetime advance of 49 and one-half billion dollars in 1955. It also was somewhat lower than the average increases in 1950-53.

The department's Office of Business Economics said the outstanding change last year was a 6 billion dollar "reduction in federal indebtedness to the public—the first substantial reduction since 1948."

"This liquidation released funds which could be utilized to facilitate last year's large expansion in private investment," the bureau said in its monthly "survey of current business."

The report showed that the net increase in the debt of borrowers other than the federal government amounted to 34 billion dollars last year. This included debt increases of 17 and one-half billion dollars by individuals, more than 12 billion dollars by corporations, and four and one-half billion by state and local governments.

Net new borrowings by individuals last year were 7 billion dollars less than the record rise in 1955. The bureau attributed this chiefly to a reduction in automobile purchases.

NORFOLK, Va. (UP) — Walter Byars of Boston and Virgil Akins of St. Louis will meet in a 10-round welterweight fight at the Municipal Auditorium June 12. The bout will be televised by the American Broadcasting Co.
