2 Clarendon Men Drown

Two Clarendon men drowned in Lake McClellan when their boat turned over about 8 last night as a severe thunderstorm hit the lake.
The victims were identified as Delma "Toad" Graham, 20, and Jimmy Lamberth, 21.
The two, along with Fred Clifford and Don Landers, were in a boat on the lake when the storm struck. When the boat overturned, the four men were thrown into the water and their cries for help were heard by Jack Seawright and Homer Seawright, both of 1030 E. Browning. Fire Chief Ernest Winborne, who directed the recovery operations today, reported.
The Seawrights were on the bank near where the boat turned over and they started their boat and managed to pull Clifford and Landers from the water. Winborne reported that they told him they were unable to find the other two men.
Due to the heavy rain and rough water, no attempt at finding the two victims was made last night. Winborne, Fire Captain Bill Powers, Firemen E. L. Fuller and Clyde Apple, and Buck Haggard, deputy sheriff, returned to the lake early this morning and dragging operations started at about 4 a.m.
Graham's body was recovered at 8 a.m. by Apple and Eugene Kosy of Borger, who operated the lake. Shortly after 8 the body of Lamberth was recovered by Lewis Christian and another man from Pampa, name unavailable, according to Winborne.
Winborne stated that the bodies were recovered approximately 200 yards from the place the boat overturned.
Several volunteers from Pampa, Borger and Clarendon assisted with the dragging operations and more boats and volunteers were enroute from Pampa when the bodies were recovered.
The road from Highway 70 was impassable and the volunteers and others had to use the road from Highway 66 to arrive at the lake.
A call had been placed to the Amarillo Fire Department for additional dragging equipment and the Amarillo truck was enroute to the lake when the two men were found. A radio call was made to the truck and it went back to Amarillo.

Experts Predict:
British, Red China Trade To Double
By WILLIAM SEXTON
United Press Staff Correspondent
LONDON (UP)—Britain's relaxing of trade restrictions with Red China—over American protests—will double British trade with Peking within a year, economic experts predicted today.
But whether the shipping of such goods as heavy machinery and automobiles to the Communists will weaken Peking's ties with the Soviet Union was matter of dispute. The American view was that nothing good will come of it.
Although relaxing the embargo touched off a sharp Anglo-American dispute there was no crisis in relations such as was caused by Britain and France's invasion of the Suez Canal Zone.
U.S. Standing Firm
The United States charged the move violated the world's "security interests" and said it would not relax its own embargo, imposed shortly after start of the Korean War. However Norway, Denmark and France were expected to follow Britain's lead.
Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd told the House of Commons Thursday that Britain is lopping 400 articles off the list of goods which exporters may not sell to Red China. This brings the list in line with articles sold Russia and its satellites but still bans the sale of strategic goods.
The British decision came about after a week's abortive negotiations in Paris by "Chincom," the committee for China trade, involving Britain, the United States, Japan and most of the NATO countries.
No Export Boom
British experts predicted trade with Red China would double but said this would be only a drop in the British financial bucket. Trade in non-strategic goods last year was only 10 million dollars, and

Holiday Accident Toll Low

93 Traffic Deaths Counted Over U. S.

By UNITED PRESS
The nation's Memorial Day traffic toll dropped sharply below predictions.
A United Press survey showed 93 traffic deaths during the period when the National Safety Council expected 120. The toll ran slightly higher than the non-holiday average of 75 for a similar period.
Safety Council President Ned H. Dearborn said drivers deserve a "pat on the back" for their Memorial Day care and courtesy.
"Let's keep it up over the weekend," he pleaded.
The United Press count of fatalities between 6 p.m. Wednesday and midnight Thursday showed 93 persons killed in traffic, 6 dead in plane wrecks, 32 drownings and 15 deaths in miscellaneous mishaps for a total of 146.

Plane Crash Survivor In 'Good Condition' Lived Beside Dead Husband For 20 Days On Three Candy Bars
RAWLINS, Wyo. (UP)—The 45-year-old survivor of a light plane crash, who lived beside her dead husband on a lonely mountain top for 20 days on only three candy bars and melted snow, was reported in good condition today in a Rawlins hospital.
Although search planes flew within sight of the wreckage several times and a group of sheep herders once camped only two or three miles away, Mrs. Le Masurier was not spotted until Thursday. She was sighted by Jack Putnam, foreman of the Buzzard Ranch, who was looking for stray cows with a pair of binoculars.
Searchers Set Out Body
A rescue party set out at dawn today to remove Le Masurier's body from the crash scene.
Doctors reported the woman was suffering from exposure but said her condition, "amazingly good," was not considered critical.
The couple had been missing since May 11 when they took off from Salt Lake City for Rapid City, S.D.
When rescuers reached Mrs. Le Masurier she struggled to remain with her husband's body, they said. She told them she tried frantically to attract the attention of rescue planes but could not.

Road Open On FM291, Engineers Say

Farm-to-Market road 291 between Lefors and Alanreed was open to traffic at 7:30 last night, according to an announcement from the Highway Engineers Office.
A bridge 4 miles north of Alanreed was washed out in the May 15 cloudburst putting several miles of road out of use.
The road had been opened to a limited number of light vehicles on a one-way basis some days ago.
The Engineers Office also announced completion of construction on Highway 66. Construction which included an 11-mile stretch between Jericho and Groom was finished late yesterday.
A bridge 4 miles north of McLean on Highway 273 between that city and Lefors is still out. The engineers have been filling in around the bridge, but it is expected to be several weeks before work is completed. This bridge was also lost in the May 15 downpour and has put some 20 miles of highway out of use.
Construction is being done by the Gilvin Terrel Construction Co. of Amarillo.
Other road projects made necessary by rain damage will be started at a later date.

275 Slain In Algeria

ALGIERS, Algeria (UP)—A band of Algerian extremists killed all 275 male inhabitants of the tiny village of Neluz, 115 miles southeast of Algiers, while the families of the victims watched in terror Thursday, it was reported today.
News of the massacre were brought by terrified women and children to a nearby French garrison.
According to the reports, the raiders stormed into the village and embarked on an orgy of blood-letting. The reports said none of the 275 males in the village escaped the slaughter.
The raiders slit the throats of their victims before the eyes of wives and children.
The women and children fled 27 miles to Bordj Bou Arreridj where a French garrison is stationed. French troops rushed to Neluz but the raiders had disappeared.
It was believed the mass killing stemmed from rivalry between the extremist national liberation front movement and the Algerian nationalist movement, and older and less extreme organization. The raiders were believed to be members of the national liberation front.

"Businessmen who twist the intent of the income tax laws, who sell goods under false pretenses sin against the Eighth Commandment just as surely does the worker who doesn't put in the full eight hours he's contracted to work," Graham said.

Street Damage Is Being Repaired Here

No major damage, but considerable minor erosion by recent rains was caused to streets over town, reported R. B. Cooke, director of public works, today.

Small portions of many streets here have been eroded by the recent downpours, and city engineers have been busy repairing them.

Cooke also announced that any property owners wishing to have streets in front of their homes gravelled should contact him at once. Cost is 22½ cents per square foot in the streets and 15 cents for the alleys.

He estimated that between 40 and 50 blocks have been completed during the past year under this project.

"The more people that come in with their cash, the better chance they will have of getting the work done this year," Cooke said.

Traffic Safety Stressed By Local Police

The Pampa police department is cooperating in the "Slow Down and Live Campaign," Jim Conner, chief of police, reported today.

Slow Down and Live is an official Nationwide Highway Safety Campaign, conducted Memorial Day through Labor Day. The aim of the program is to concentrate on traffic associated with speed and in a hurry driving. More than 90 per cent of the traffic deaths on the open highway involve one or more of five offenses that can be traced to the driver's "hurry complex."

The "hurry complex" is the fatal five: excessive speed, speed too fast for conditions, improper passing, driving too closely and failure to yield right of way, he stated.

The Slow Down and Live campaign proves a tested, effective attack on highway deaths and injuries through a coordinated program of law enforcement and public cooperation.

That stepped up law enforcement, with emphasis on speed offenses, is basic to a successful Slow Down and Live Campaign has been evident since the program was launched as a pilot program by the Safety Coordinators of the Northeastern States in 1953. Last summer, for example, maximum police manpower thrown into action across the Nation leveled the peaks normally expected in traffic deaths on Memorial Day, fatalities down 21 per cent from 1955; Fourth of July, down 9 per cent, and Labor Day, down 10.5 per cent, Conner reported.

More such vigorous law enforcement, with emphasis on speed offenses, by police, prosecutors and courts in 1957 can further curb the incorrigibly reckless driver, make the highways safer for all.

But it is equally true that Slow Down and Live can't exert its full life-saving potential without voluntary cooperation and support from the general public. The general public must be sold on the necessity for vigorous police action to curb the incorrigibly reckless driver for the safety of all who use the highways. And there just isn't enough police power to patrol every mile of highway every hour of day and night. So drivers everywhere must be sold on the common sense and self preservation embodied in Slow Down and Live. Once sold, the majority of drivers, whose speed offenses stem from thoughtlessness rather than incorrigibility, will cooperate by curbing the hurry hazards in their driving.

"Don't kill yourself having a good time — slow down and live!" This admonition was made today by Dr. George Snell who is safety committee chairman of the Pampa Kiwanis Club.

"Last year about three out of ten drivers involved in fatal accidents were violating a speed law," Snell said.

The "Slow Down and Live" campaign is a part of the Safety Crusade initiated early this year by Paul J. Flies, Kiwanis Governor of the Texas - Oklahoma District, and is being carried out by all the District's clubs for 1957.

To coordinate the two-state campaign, Governor Flies chose Kiwanis J. O. Musick, general manager of the Texas Safety Association, to outline a year-long program.

Locally, Kiwanis President Warren Hasse appointed Snell to develop the Kiwanis plan in the Gray County area.

"As we all know," Chairman Snell continued, "there is no single cause or solution in the traffic accident picture. It is as complex as the people involved."

"In the fact of such complexity we can only take it upon ourselves, as individuals, to be traffic-safe," he said.

To carry out his theme, Snell offered the following ways in which a driver can determine if he is driving at a safe speed:

- (1) Drive at a speed that will enable you to stop in time to avoid an accident.
- (2) Adjust your speed to the

Actress Admits Killing Off The Art Of Talk

By WILLIAM EWALD
NEW YORK (UP)—Betsy Palmer, an actress who loves to gab, admits she's one of the villains who's killing off the art of talk.

"I'm the original verbal woman," said Betsy today. "I never keep my mouth shut. It's one of the reasons I love being an actress. I'm going to play a model on 'Kraft Theatre' tonight, but can you imagine being a model? —They never get to talk."

"The trouble is, I think the art of conversation is slowly disappearing. And TV is to blame. At our home, we love to talk. We don't even allow the TV set in our living room. We keep it in a kind of balcony room where you have to climb upstairs to look at it."

"I rarely look at TV anyway. Maybe, a drama when someone I know is in it. Or, sometimes a spectacular — but you know those spectaculars. They keep telling you how tremendous they're going to be, but they're usually so disappointing."

Therefore, South laid down the king of hearts, continued with the jack and when West played low he let it ride for a successful finesse. Good play by South but a nice assist by East.

I want to thank the many, many readers who have called attention to my error of Jan. 18. Dummy held the singleton queen of diamonds and declared ace-king-small. He could make his slam by cashing the queen and then discarding two clubs on the ace and king. Dummy should have held a low diamond and East the queen so that only one discard could be taken. Then Larceny Lou's defense would have beaten the hand.

The error is really the fault of the gremlins who exist only to plague bridge writers. One must have put that queen in dummy while I slept.

Betsy, a blonde with elegant architecture, currently shuttles between drama assignments and the panel of NBC-TV's "Masquerade Party."

"Panel shows used to petrify me," she said. "You can't hide yourself in a character as you do in a dramatic show. And of course, there's a kind of trap-working on a panel show — sometimes you try too hard to be bubbly and be the old personality girl and that's no good."

"But sometimes, you feel dull as dishwasher and that's no good, either. The thing on a panel show is, you have to seem as if you're having fun. That's what it's all about, you know. Fun. The guessing doesn't matter at all."

"Masquerade Party" has been a real life-saver for her, said Betsy.

"When you're on a panel show, the public gets to know your name. And you get constant exposure before the public. But with drama, the public knows the faces, but not the names."

"One of the troubles with drama, of course, is that the jobs are so few and far between on TV. The people who produce TV feel it's not wise to use the same personalities over and over. They think the public gets tired of looking at the same faces."

Latest Tea Party

Our hats are off to businessmen and alarmed citizens of the Boston area in Massachusetts. Last Monday a re-enactment of an historic event took place in staid old Boston Harbor.

Businessmen, dressed in full Indian regalia including war-paint and feathers, boarded an old two-master schooner, sailed up to a point close to the original site of the famous tea party, and dumped a multitude of new tea packages into the water.

The tea, packed in crates of approximately the same size and weight of the famous revolutionary cargo, was donated for the purpose by one of the local suppliers. But each crate this time bore an impressive label, "Bureaucracy," "Inefficiency," "Excess Taxes," "Duplication in Service," "Waste in Government" and so on, were what these modern packages declared in large bold letters.

Prominent businessmen, members of the Hoover Commission, members of the Chamber of Commerce, and others, took part in the ceremony. And following the tea party, Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, an enemy of excessive taxation, and Senator Walter H. Judd, no friend of excessive foreign aid, gave speeches at a luncheon where the evils of the present budget were aired.

The entire episode was staged to focus attention on the evils of excessive government. And it must be that the ancient tea rebellion, thus refreshingly portrayed, jogged lagging memories in the Congress and perhaps even in the executive offices of the president.

Perhaps some of these tax-eaters have thus been given pause. Perhaps some of them have been jolted just a trifle to thus be reminded that at one time the people of this nation arose and took up arms against excessive taxation.

It is even possible that some of our representatives may come to realize that the war of the rebellion against England was fanned into a flame because of simple exactions like a tax on tea; and this despite the fact that the colonists, for the most part, were loyal subjects to the king and looked upon a rebellion against the king as being almost a rebellion against his God.

The king was presumed, in those early days, to hold his throne by divine right. To disobey an edict of the king was not only illegal, it was deemed an act of blasphemy and could be punished in the most severe manner. Yet our ancestors dared defy this entrenched power in the holy name of freedom.

The solons ought not to forget that the same blood which ran in the veins of the original rebels, courses through the veins of their descendants. The day must surely come when human endurance and human patience is pushed too far. Perhaps this tea party will mark a turning point in bureaucratic thinking. Still, we must not hope for too much. We must recall that the original tea party took place in December of 1773. It was two full years before the Boston massacre, and the fight at Lexington and Concord. And when the original coaks of tea were dumped overboard, the famous Declaration of Independence was a full three and a half years off in the future.

Thus, the re-enactment of the drama last Monday may simply mean that though sorely tried, the patience of the American public will still endure for a little while. But such a drama would not have been thought of, if that some patience had not been wearing thin. And thus we can hope that our powerful mentors of big government may take a lesson from this recent event while there is still time.

An indication of the seriousness of the present tax situation is found in a statement made by Senator Byrd. He declared that this was the first time in 24 years of service as a Senator, that he had been invited to speak about the evil of excessive taxes by a group outside of Washington, or his home state. Usually, the Senator said, when people asked him to talk, they wanted him to spend more money. Now, the reverse is true.

The feeling in Boston and in other urban centers is running high against the continuing doctrine of tax, spend and elect. Let us watch closely to observe whether or no the politicians in the great bureaucracy get the point.

The Doctor Says

By EDGAR P. JORDAN, M. D.

The world we live in is getting noisier and noisier. There are reasons for believing that excessive noise may damage the hearing apparatus and certainly does the general nervous system no good.

In this machine age, the number of industries in which workers are exposed to excessive noise is greater than ever before. Fortunately the noise and the danger to hearing can be reduced in most cases by such methods as lubricating machines, soundproofing rooms, use of insulation and special devices to protect hearing.

THOSE WHO do not work in industries of this kind, but are subjected to a great deal of noise (usually worse in summer when windows are open) do not suffer much danger to hearing, but nerves are kept on the ragged edge.

This is shown principally by interference with sleep, excessive fatigue and, sometimes, emotional disturbances.

The person who sits in his car honking the horn without reason lacks consideration for others and ought to be subject to arrest. This is only one of many causes of noise in our cities which numbs the senses and grates on the nerves.

MUCH OF IT could be easily avoided. Laws against useless automobile horn tooting would help somewhat. Other sources of noise may be more difficult to eliminate.

Some cities already have adopted laws allowing arrest for producing useless noise. It is well known that noise, can actually produce deafness, though this is usually of a temporary nature. People who work in noisy occupations suffer from this difficulty.

THE CONTINUED use of noisy street cars is an affront to human beings which should not be tolerated. Cities which have switched to the quieter "PCC car" or to buses have enormously decreased the noise in their streets. Many cities have already carried out noise control programs.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES Reader Speaks Out For Union Labor—My Answer III.

In the last issue I was quoting a letter from Mrs. C. F. Dillon from Monahans, Tex., defending labor unions. I was pointing out that her definition of labor unions did not include the objectionable part of unions. I was also pointing out that unions have nothing at all to do with raising wage levels or total wages. She seemed to think a man could not get a raise if it were not for the labor unions. I want to continue to point out her errors.

Employer an Agent Mrs. Dillon doesn't seem to understand the position the employer is in. The employer would like to see all his workers get higher wages, provided it did not increase his cost and thus reduce the real wages of his customers or his profits. The employer does not really pay the wages of his employees. He is only an agent for his customers, trying to supply their wants at the lowest possible cost so his business can grow by getting more customers.

The employer, who knows enough about the business to realize what causes wage levels to rise, believes he has no moral right to pay any of his employees over a period of time more than his customers are willing and able to do the same job for and then add this extra cost to his customers or reduce his profits that he wants to use to increase real wages not only for employees but for his customers.

The thing he has to be interested in is his unit cost, so that he can give big value to his customers. If he enters into any combination that runs his cost up and keeps individual workers from using their creative energy to add to the wealth of the world, he is performing a disservice to all mankind. Since I know of no labor union that does not do this, and thus keeps real wages down over a period of time, I am convinced that labor unions are one of the primary causes of total wages not rising much faster than they have.

Unemployment Most anyone knows that wages can be so high that the product cannot be sold at a profit to the customer. Then there is unemployment in this line of work and this spreads and causes more unemployment. Then the government cannot tax enough to take care of destitute people who are out of jobs, so the government goes off and borrows money, as it has, so it can continue to fool the public and continue to print bonds or money to give assistance to the unemployed and the destitute, largely because of labor unions.

No one has ever told how labor unions ever created any wealth. It is evident to most any person who has given it any thought that unions have prevented billions of dollars worth of wealth from being created, and it is self-evident that what is not created cannot be paid out in wages. Of course, each worker produces his own wages with his production, which becomes the wages of those producers from whom he buys. If he doesn't work, of course, he doesn't produce the wages for himself or for those from whom he bought their production.

Another error that believers in labor unions fail to see is that what is produced has to be distributed in order to benefit its owner. It cannot be hoarded without deteriorating and being a burden to the owner rather than a blessing.

Not a Real Bargain When labor union members sit around a table and either tell the employer if he does not grant their request they will do this and simultaneously quit producing and do everything in their power to keep him from getting other help or distributing his goods or getting his raw material, then, of course, that is not a real or genuine bargain but a method of extortion or plunder. In fact, the labor union "bargain" never guarantees anything because they insist that the individuals are not responsible. They also insist that they have a right to work when they want to and have a right to prevent other people from working that are satisfactory to the employer and who want to work. This, of course, greatly reduces production and keeps real wages down for all other people as well as for the strikers. This kind of collective bargaining is not a voluntary bargain. It is a "bargain" made by extortion and/or blackmail.

The fact that believers in unions contend they cannot get an increase without using extortion and/or blackmail by threatening simultaneously to quit and thus injure the customers of the employer, some of his workers and the stockholders and in the long run every man in the world, is a strange way of making a "bargain." In fact, it is not a bargain at all—it is a holdup.

Mrs. Dillon's definition of collective bargaining is a myth that doesn't tell the story. I have never found any believer in collective bargaining who insists on bargaining for unwilling workers that is able to answer questions that he would before a court. They cannot do this because their acts are based on no principles and they do not dare admit they are a law unto themselves and are governed by no moral law.

Lords And Ladies Who Have Supplemented Their Income

By HENRY McLEMORE

LONDON — Titled Englishmen with large houses and small incomes have hit upon a new way of adding an honest shilling to the family privy purse.

For a reasonable fee, paid in advance, quite a few of the lords and their ladies are entertaining conducted groups of American tourists at tea.

The tourists, usually numbering around fifty, are taken by bus from London, dropped at the front door of a stately country home, and for the next hour or so treated like old friends by their hosts.

They are shown about the house from storeroom to cellar, conducted through the stables, given a peek into the greenhouse and potting sheds, briefed on the family history in the portrait gallery, and then, as a climax, settled comfortably in the drawing-room and served tea.

If the lord of the house is in an especially generous frame of mind, he breaks out with some of his old port and sherry, and enlivens the conversation with tales of his adventures in the Boer War, or his narrow escapes in the Punjab.

There has been some criticism of this new dollar-raising scheme on the part of the peers, naturally, but the plan seems to be working out quite well for all concerned. The Americans get a glimpse into how the other half lives and are enabled to return to the United States to enlighten their conversations with casual references to their dear friends "Lord and Lady So-and-So," and such passing remarks as "When I was in Dundreary House for tea, Lady Ethel said to me . . ."

I have talked to several of my countrymen who attended one of these cash-in-advance levees, and they were all enthusiastic. Not only was the tea very good, but they found their hosts to be charming folk, and as plain as old riding boots.

One of the men I talked to — an Oklahoman, loaded with money — found the house he visited so much to his liking, that he offered to buy the place after his second slug of port.

"My wife kicked me under the tea table something awful when I told the Duke I'd like to make him an offer for the lay-out," the Oklahoman told me, "because she thought I was being gauche, or whatever she calls it. But the Duke didn't mind. In fact, he is coming to London next week to talk things over with me. He's got a great place. As good a pasture land as I ever saw, and all the house needs is a few hundred thousand in repairs to be as good as new."

To my way of thinking, it would be a good thing for Anglo-American good-will if Americans started opening their homes, with or without fee, to visiting Englishmen of title. Someone has to start it, so when I get home I may very well open my place for coffee and doughnuts to any dukes, earls, lords, or even knights, who would be interested in seeing how the other half lives in America.

I wouldn't be able to handle fifty at a time because our living room isn't that big, unless we placed some of them in the breakfast alcove. Still, I doubt if there would ever be fifty dukes and earls around at the same time. We could handle thirty all right. If others followed my lead, it wouldn't be long before every titled person in England was known personally here in America. That certainly would help relations. It would enable us to follow the action of the House of Lords with interest. We'd gain a thorough knowledge of grouse shooting, foxhunting, deerstalking, and the care and repair of Rolls-Royces.

It would be an adult sort of Fulbright Scholarship exchange. The lords would learn Rock 'n' Roll and we'd learn the Lancers. They'd learn the joys of chewing gum and we'd learn the delights of a pinch of snuff.

Before you know it, England and America would walk arm and arm again, just as they did in — well, just as they did in whatever year they did.

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles on the need for progress in the London disarmament negotiations: "I don't think you can go on talking and talking and talking for year after year and not get anywhere. I think there has got to be some progress made in order to keep these talks alive."

President Eisenhower keeps putting it about that he will soon go to the people with a fight for his over-stuffed $71.8 billion budget. How he'll conduct this fight, he hasn't decided yet.

We'd suggest that Gen. Ike and the great brains around him think up, if they can, some stunt or stunts more effective than the mock Boston Tea Party staged recently.

Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.) presided, while college students headed into Boston Harbor a lot of empty cartons bearing such labels as "high taxation," "inflation," "inefficiency," "federal debt," "tax duplication," etc.

The Eisenhower budget has come to a point where comedians kid it, cartoonists lampoon it, and private citizens put on such emotion-lending spectacles as this latter-day Boston Tea Party. If Ike does not come up with something equally forceful and dramatic (consistent with the dignity of the presidency, of course), he can expect only thin and lukewarm audiences for his defend - the - budget performances.

SENATOR JOSEPH R. MCCARTHY (N. Y. Daily News) He was a complete patriot. He alerted the American people to the criminal Communist conspiracy to overthrow the government of the United States. Though he made occasional mistakes, we think he was a great man, and that the nation's loss is correspondingly great.

A man is often measured by the enemies he makes. Judging from the choice assortment of characters, both here and abroad, who hated and feared Sen. McCarthy, he was absolutely top drawer.

Diplomats Have Undertaken To Heal Middle East Split

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — American diplomats under Eisenhower - Dulles direction have now undertaken the difficult task of achieving at least a partial and constructive settlement of Middle East problems involving the Suez Canal and the Arab-Israeli differences. The negotiations are now approaching the second and possibly final phase of the crisis.

As Washington views the scene, now more hopeful than in many months, there are two questions awaiting development and disposal. First, what will be the reaction and the next move of Colonel Gamal Abdel Nasser? Threatened with the desertion of his Arabian Allies save for Syria, will he move closer to Russia and refuse to deal with the West in a sensible and friendly way?

It is the need and nature of dictators to leap from one adventure to another foreign crusade in order to retain popular support, and there lies the danger. On the other hand, except for arms, he can expect no great material or economic aid from Moscow. He may be more willing to settle the remaining problems in a satisfactory manner. His people are suffering because of his extravagance and military expenditures.

He has been less belligerent in his press and on radio. He is obviously upset over the anti-Communist attitude of the "three kings" — Saud of Saudi Arabia, Hussein of Jordan and Faisal of Iraq. Even his closest ally, Syria, has indicated that she may resume diplomatic relations with Britain, which has shown a less intransigent spirit than France.

Nasser has discontinued his daily conferences with the Soviet Ambassador at Cairo. On the other hand, he has been having frequent talks with members of the American Embassy there. He has asked Washington to unblock Egyptian funds that were frozen after he seized Suez.

Despite recurrent Arabian denunciations of Israel, including denial of the right of passage through Suez and Aqaba waters, there is speculative hope that the embittered races can reach a modus vivendi, if not a formal agreement. Arab politicians are given to extreme and exaggerated statements on this issue to placate the populace. But there has been fewer border clashes in recent weeks.

In view of Anglo - American support and sympathy, even the most fanatic Arab must know that Israel is here to stay. They cannot have peace, progress or huge oil royalties until they take cognizance of that fact. Moreover, Israel's more recent calmness has contributed to some chance of a rapprochement, even though it may be only an armed state of coexistence.

It is not generally noted, but Israel has had good relations with Lebanon for several years on the northern border. King Abdullah, Hussein's grandfather, entered into negotiations with Tel Aviv, but they were terminated by his assassination. Even King Saud must appease the "street mobs," although he is geographically remote from the conflict.

Thus, American intervention of a diplomatic and financial nature may yet quiet or temper the turmoil. With dollars and royalties, the "three kings" must be assured of security against an Army revolution or "mob" outbreaks. Then, they can afford to defy Nasser, despite his popularity with Middle East masses, and to negotiate with Israel.

Israeli Embassy officials here inform the writer that they have a plan for disposing of perhaps the most irritating and tortuous task — resettlement of 900,000 Palestinian refugees and trouble - makers. Prime Minister Ben - Gurion, it is understood, is willing to accept a 20-year, $50,000,000 U.S. loan — not a grant — for such a project. It might be extremely difficult for the Arabs to refuse to co-operate in such a project.

Johnson Favored In TV Fight

NEW YORK (UP)—Heavyweight contender Harold Johnson is favored to beat light heavyweight aspirant Clarence Hinant tonight at St. Nicholas Arena for his third victory on the comeback trail.

Their TV-radio (NBC) 10-round fight is slated for St. Nick's because evangelist Billy Graham occupies Madison Square Garden.

It will be the third start for Johnson, 28, since he returned to action in December, after a 19-months layoff following his "poisoned orange" knockout by Julio Mederos. The Philadelphia was suspended for the first six months of the vacation. A new manager is directing his comeback.

ChiSox Buffalo Indians In Twin Bill

Dick Donovan, Billy Pierce Bat, Pitch Team To Wins

By FRED DOWN United Press Sports Writer The Chicago White Sox roared past the major league pennant races' first milestone with the biggest Memorial Day lead in their modern history today, while the Cincinnati Redlegs held first place on this date for the first time since their 1939-40 pennant years.

The go-go White Sox opened up a three-game lead in the American League Thursday when Dick Donovan and Billy Pierce pitched and batted them to a 6-4 and 2-1 victories over the Cleveland Indians.

The Redlegs retained their game and a half margin in the National League when all three top contenders split double-headers. The Redlegs beat the St. Louis Cardinals, 7-3, after a 7-2 defeat; the Brooklyn Dodgers scored a 4-3 victory and then lost to the Pittsburgh Pirates, 2-1, and the Milwaukee Braves lost to the Chicago Cubs, 4-2, after winning their opener, 5-2.

The New York Yankees routed the Washington Senators, 9-0, after a 5-1 defeat, the Boston Red Sox drubbed the Baltimore Orioles, 7-4 and 16-5, and the Detroit Tigers swept the Kansas City A's, 6-5 and 3-2, in the other A.L. games. The New York Giants rebounded from a 10-inning, 2-1 defeat to whip the Philadelphia Phillies, 8-1, in the other N.L. game.

Pierce Wins No. 8 Donovan scattered 11 hits and drove in three runs with three singles for the White Sox in the opener and then Pierce notched his eighth win of the season with a three-hitter. The little lefty, who has allowed only one earned run in his last 29 innings and leads the majors in victories, singled home the winning run in the fifth inning. Bud Daley and Mike Garcia were the losing pitchers for the Indians.

Bobby Shantz pitched a five-hitter for his fifth win for the

Sam Hanks Thanks God, Prayers for '500' Win

By LEO H. PETERSEN United Press Sports Editor INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UP)—Smiling Sam Hanks, who almost gave up last year when he finished second, "thanked God and his prayers" today for giving the Indianapolis Memorial Day 500-mile automobile race "a final try."

For on that final try, he won the race and announced definitely it would be his last. "I came awfully close to calling it quits last year when I finished second," Hanks, a 6-foot, 160-pounder, said. "I figured that if I couldn't do it in 11 tries, why try again. Then I decided to try it once more—and win or lose this was going to be it. And now that I've won, this is it. I've had it."

That "it" came in his 12th try for this biggest prize in America's automobile racing history. When he lost out last year by 20.47 seconds to Pat Flaherty he thought that "as close as I'll ever come." But he gave it that one more try and this time he won out by 17.35 seconds.

Second Closest Finish It was the second closest finish in the history of the 41-year-old race. That 20.47 seconds he had finished behind Flaherty last year had been the second closest. The closest was the .0216 seconds by which Wilbur Shaw beat Ralph Hepburn back in 1937.

Not only did the crew cut 42-year-old Hanks set a new speed record—but he also was sure to surpass the record money winning total of $93,819 which Flaherty picked up last year. By winning the race, he picked up the first place jackpot of $20,000. And by leading in most of the 200 laps he picked up another $21,150—at $150 a lap. That made his total $41,150 and when endorsements and all the other financial rewards which go to the winner come in, he should be well over the $100,000 mark.

As for speed, Hanks raced the 2 1/2 mile brick oval track with a holiday crowd of about 125,000 looking on, in the record speed of 135.601 miles an hour. The old record was 130.840 set by the late Bill Vukovich in 1954. As a matter of fact, all of the first 10 finishers in Thursday's race passed that speed.

Jim Rathmann of Miami, Fla., was second; Jimmy Bryan of Phoenix, Ariz., third; Paul Russo of Gardena, Calif., fourth; Jimmy Reece of Indianapolis, fifth; Johnnie Boyd of Fresno, Calif., sixth; Marshall Teague of Daytona Beach, Fla., seventh; Pat O'Connor, eighth.

Accidents At Minimum Only 17 of the 33 sleek racing cars in the race finished, but there were only four accidents. That was a record for this grueling grind, too.

The two former champions in the field, Troy Ruttman of Lynnwood, Calif., and Johnnie Parsons of Van Nuys, Calif., never figured.

Ruttman, the 1952 winner, was forced to drop out early when his car broke a piston rod. Parsons, who got in on a pass when Dick Rathmann of Indianapolis was unable to drive because of an eye injury, finished far down in the field.

Hanks never was out of contention. O'Connor, in the No. 1 pole position, led for the first lap and then Ruttman took over. It was not until the 36th lap, at 2 1/2 miles to the lap, that Hanks took over. From that time on, he led most of the rest of the way.

Pacific Coast League Meets SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—The Pacific Coast League, doomed in the eyes of its own president if the Giants and Dodgers transfer to California, meets this Sunday to decide how much it should receive in damages as the result of such a shift.

PCL President Leslie O'Connor announced the season Thursday in a prepared statement in which he declared, "In my opinion, a taking of Los Angeles and San Francisco territory from the PCL inevitably will destroy the league."

KNOW THE ROPES By GORDEN H. MILLER Another fine evening of wrestling entertainment is in store at the Sportsman Club Monday, June 3rd. The referee will be colorful Jerry Woods. The first event will find the black haired boy from the Bronx, Rocky Colombo, squaring off with Tommy Phelps in a one fall or twenty minute bout. Rocky Colombo likes the scientific competition, however, Tommy Phelps doesn't know what the word means. In another town not long ago these two paired off and believe you me it was quite a battle with Colombo dropping Phelps out of the ring and then making a flying tackle clear over the top rop nailing Phelps to the floor. (Gosh, that must be an 8 or 9 foot drop at least, wouldn't you say? So maybe this one will revive an old feud, at any rate it should be a good opener. The 2 out of 3 or 45 minute time limit semi-final event Ivan Kola and Big Bob Geigel doing battle to settle some what of a difference of opinion. It seems that in a recent match Kola dropped a knee across Geigel's throat which created a hemorrhage and Mr. Geigel was finished for the evening. However Big Bob is pretty handy with his fist across the Adam's apple. So this should prove plenty rough and tough with lots and lots of straight fist, knee drops, body slams and who knows, maybe even such a mild thing as a body press. Better not miss it. At this time I do not know who will be in the main event. Your promoters, the Pampa Shrine Club, is trying to arrange a bout between Bulldog Plechas and Dory Funk. It has been said that Plechas is exceptionally tough, so a bout with Funk should prove or disprove this statement. Mr. Funk can stand up with the best any way they want it, scientific or otherwise. I'll let you know for sure in this column in Sunday's paper. Watch for it.

Fans, I have news for the Mills Brothers and Iron Mike, and Bulldog Plechas may sing the same song, all about where are there some men to wrestle. I have found a record of one that ought to make all of them hysterical with joy. Over in Memphis, Tenn., there is a lad who weighs 415 pounds, 8 feet, 2 inches tall, wears size 18 shoes, at a cost of $165.00 per pair; sleeps in a nine-foot bed; neck measures 21 inches. He too is a lumber jack, from Walla Walla, Washington and his name is Paul "Giant" Buvard! How about it, boys, would that one suit you for a man? If so maybe our promoters will try to make you happy. The only hold this lad needs is to fall on his opponent; think of the work all of you will save.

The Pampa Shrine Club promotes wrestling every Monday night throughout the year for the benefit of crippled children. We need your support to help make this crippled children's foundation possible. After all if it wasn't for the grace of God your child might be a cripple in some way.

Funk vs. Plechas In Shrine Matches A two-out-of-three fall, one-hour match between Dory Funk and Bulldog Plechas will be the main event at the Top of Texas Sportsman Club's wrestling program at 8:30 p.m. next Monday. Wrestling will be sponsored by the Pampa Shrine Club and proceeds will go to that organization's Crippled Children's Fund. The first event will feature Rocky Colombo vs. Tommy Phelps in a one-fall match with a 20-minute time limit. In the second event, Bob Geigel will take on Ivan Kola in a two-out-of-three falls brawl which will have a 45-minute limit. Tickets, on sale at the Modern Pharmacy, are $1.50 ringside, $1.25 reserved, 50 cents general admission and 50 cents children. The Sportsman Club is air conditioned.

THE BALD BOY

United Baldies Get Side-Step

By ELMER WHEELER

I was really washing my hair these days.

Somewhat or other I felt that maybe my doc had something in the fact that clogged pores can cause hair to fall out.

Anyway, I was hopeful.

That is, until one day I got a note from the United Bald Heads of America!

You think I'm kiddin'?

I'm not. There is such a society, and they even have sizzling sales slogans, to wit:

United Forever in Holy Bonds of Baldness.

No Dandruff for Me, Can you beat that?

I asked Peter J. Michael, the hair researcher, about this and he told me it was true.

He said members often act like they do at A.A. meetings. They get up and give testimonials to bolster each other's morale.

No wonder the Egyptians ruled out hair and shaved their heads. That was highly fashionable in those days and certainly ruled out phobias and shocks to men upon finding they were bald. You never knew who was bald and who wasn't.

Anyway, it was my turn to see the doc on another phase of possible curable baldness. The discussion today was on emotional causes of baldness.

It seems emotional upsets can cause holes in the hair, like mine; huge patches of hair will fall out almost overnight.

Your general physical condition is important. Good body, good glands mean good eyes, good liver, good hair.

"United Forever in the Holy Bonds of Baldness"

A rundown physical condition can cause the hair, as well as other parts of the body, to run down and destroy itself.

Mental health is equally important. After the stock market crash in 1929, men turned white-headed overnight, and many had nervous ailments that caused them to lose their hair as well as their savings.

Fortunately, as they overcame their worries, their hair returned. This is one of the curable types of hair losses, my doc said.

He had a suspicion that the moth spot in the back of my noggin was not just wear and tear or old age, but due to a nervous condition. He gave it a fancy name.

He told me that perhaps I had been worrying too much, under a nervous strain, pushing too hard, or that the shock of finding my hair line was receding so upset my mental balance that the hole appeared.

"You'd perhaps just have had a normal V if the patch hadn't showed up. Let's work on the patch."

He told me my mental attitude was important. "That part of the psychosomatic treatment you'll get later on if we find you are a permanent baldy."

It seems negative thoughts and emotions such as hate, anger, fear, worry, self-pity can cause frustration in the system and mind that so upset our glandular self, that anything can happen.

"Note if you will," he said, "the average business executive. He has fuzzi on his head as he gulps down

FRANKFURT, Germany (UP)—A 72-year-old woman complained to police Tuesday that a burglar had stolen her set of false teeth and left his own set in an unfair exchange. The woman's false teeth were studded with gold crowns and bridges; the burglar's were cheap.

MYRTLE BEACH, S.C. (UP)—This Atlantic Coast resort ended its nationwide search for a living namesake when it found Mrs. Myrtle Beach of Ft. Madison, Iowa, a 47-year-old housewife with three children named Sandy, Marthy and Rocky.

CHICAGO (UP)—Mrs. Charlotte Bonner, who celebrated her 107th birthday today, attributed her longevity to "faith in God and chocolate milk." Mrs. Bonner, who has outlived three husbands and five children, said she felt like a "spring chicken" and expected to better the longevity record of her grandfather who lived to 114.

North Crest To Show 'Bridal Home'

"The Bridal Home" will be opened to the public Sunday in North Crest. It has been announced by R. G. "Dick" Hughes, president of Hughes Development Co.

"This home and the program planned for its showing," Hughes said, "should prove to be the most interesting open house home show we have yet presented."

Pampa and Amarillo merchants are cooperating in making the home show unusual by displaying items inside the home never shown in an open house before and by giving valuable awards to visitors.

"The Bridal Home" will be open daily until 8 p.m., through the entire month of June, Hughes said. Drawings will be held each Sunday of the month with major awards given each week. Each week's awards will be made from the current week's registration at the home.

The home is one of the modest-price models being built in North Crest. It is located on the corner of Seneca Road and Rosewood Lane and offers a different floor plan and room arrangement to homes previously shown.

White Stores, Inc., is furnishing the "Bridal Home" with the latest style and trends in furnishings and appliances, according to Lucien Young, White Stores manager.

"We have shipped in the very latest furniture and appliances for this home show and we believe visitors will be amazed at the new 1958 models we are pre-viewing," Young said.

Zales Jewelers of Pampa is cooperating in the home displays and will show sets of silver, china and other items to grace the home. Al Metz, manager of Zales, is also assisting in the home decorations.
