Blind Woman, Others Die In Dallas Fire

DALLAS (UP)—A fire investigator believes was set by a man who liked to see mattresses burn swept through a two-story boarding house early today and killed three persons, including a blind woman. Thirteen persons lived in the boarding house, which used to be a mansion in the old days when the most fashionable part of Dallas was its south side. Eight were in their beds when the fire was discovered. All managed to escape except C. D. King, 83, and his 80-year-old wife, who lived in an upstairs apartment, and another aged man known only as "Mr. Miller." King and Miller were killed outright. Mrs. King, who was blind, died two hours later in a hospital. Firemen Called Back Police arrested a 34-year-old roofer, who set fire to two mattresses before today's fire. Fire Marshal Guy Harbert said the roofer fired up a mattress last week. At the time he was thought to be drunk. But firemen were called back; he had set another mattress on fire. After the second fire, he was moved to Apartment 4 in the building, which was in the downstairs section. His apartment was in the part of the boarding house where today's fire started. While firemen sprayed them with hoses, fire Capt. A. T. Dorrough and Lt. G. B. McMinn brought Mrs. Miller down the stairs on a stretcher, at the risk of their lives. were Still Alive McMinn said they didn't think anyone was left in the house until he put a ladder against a window, climbed up and looked through. "Then I saw this man and woman lying on the floor side by side," he said. "She was still alive." Mr. and Mrs. King evidently tried to escape through a hallway door. Trapped there, they returned to their room, where hot gases felled them. "I saw a flash and smoke started coming through the walls and I couldn't breathe," Lawrence Jenkins, a 77-year-old boarder, said. Fire Spread Quickly "I called for Mrs. King, but heard no answer," Jenkins said. Wesley C. Cummins, 32, who lived in a room next to the King's, said he was drinking coffee with another boarder, Mrs. Bertha Boatwright, when "all of a sudden I just started suffocating." Cummins said the fire broke out and spread so quickly that he had no chance to get anything out of the house. Fire Chief C. N. Penn said the boardinghouse was managed by J. P. Scott, who had gone to the place about midnight after one of the tenants—a man—was reported drunk and roving the halls. Scott saw no indication of the fire at that time.

Disturbance In Gulf Is Being Eyed By Navy

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UP)—A Navy hurricane hunter plane headed today for the Gulf of Campeche, where a tropical disturbance is churning. The Miami weather bureau said the storm is in a "favorable location" for development into the first hurricane of the 1957 season, which officially opened 16 days ago. The plane, piloted by Cmdr. John A. Cork of Tampa, left Jacksonville Naval Air Station shortly after dawn and expected to reach the storm area at around 11 a.m. Lt. (JG) E. J. Guazzo said the squadron was alerted after the Navy's fleet weather central in Miami received first word of the disturbance from a shrimp boat crew. He said the shrimp reported winds up to 40 miles an hour and placed the storm about 170 east-southeast of Tampico. It was traveling northwestward at around 12 miles per hour. The boat also reported heavy seas, Guazzo said, and "the pilot of a commercial airliner reported dark clouds with high vertical development in the area." Should a hurricane develop it will be named Audrey, the first name on a list released 10 days ago by the weather bureau. Storm Intensifies The New Orleans weather bureau issued a weather bulletin for the Gulf of Mexico at 4 a.m. It read: "A tropical depression in the southwest Gulf of Mexico has remained nearly stationary during the night. It was about 350 miles southeast of Brownsville, Texas, at 4 a.m. c.s.t." "There was some indication that it is beginning to intensify and a slow northern movement is expected later today. "Highest winds are estimated around 40 miles per hour in squalls near the center. Small craft along the lower Texas coast should not venture into the open Gulf."

State Asks Additional Funds For Storm Sewer

An additional cost of $20,000 on the storm sewer for the Hobart street underpass was requested this morning by the Texas Highway Department. The request was presented to the City Commission, in which it was reported that contracts let in Austin on June 18 resulted in an additional cost of the $20,000 in the construction of the storm sewer. The city had already paid a total of $288,100 to the state for the city's cost of the entire project on the storm sewer and underpass but the contract bid resulted in the city's portion of the cost being raised the additional $20,000. The money was available in the bond fund voted for the purpose of building the underpass and related projects and the commission approved the payment of the $20,000 to the state. The city secretary was authorized to sell enough treasury bills from the bond fund to make the payment to the state. Seal Coating Contract The contract for the seal coat-

First Load Of Wheat Delivered

H. C. Graham, Pampa farmer, brought in the first load of wheat in Gray County last Friday. Graham, whose farm is about two miles east of Pampa, weighed his load at the Bennett & Wilkinson Grain Company here. Later Friday a load was brought to the same elevator by Wood Osburn, a Hoover farmer. Both men have irrigated crops. Graham estimated his crop would produce about 25 bushels per acre, and Osburn's was guessed at 40. The "dry land" wheat is not expected to come close to this yield however. However, the yield is predicted much higher than last year's drought-plagued crop.

Man Wounded By Constable

Floyd Kerchman of Oregon was shot last night by Constable Charles Clendennen of Lefors as he attempted to escape after being placed under arrest by the constable. Clendennen reported that Kerchman was arrested after he had taken a 1951 Chevrolet pickup from in front of the pool hall in Lefors and had headed for Pampa. Clendennen started to place Kerchman in his car to bring him to Pampa, after placing handcuffs on him, he broke loose and ran down a street. Clendennen reported that he took three shots at the man with a .25 caliber automatic and that Kerchman was apprehended the second time after attempting to start a car about 1/4 block from the place he escaped. The constable reported that Kerchman had taken the pickup from in front of the pool hall, apparently by mistake, believing that it was his since Kerchman owned one similar to the pickup taken by him. Clendennen reported that prior to Kerchman taking the pickup, he had had a discussion with the man in the pool hall in regards to two cigars that Kerchman had purchased, chewed up, and refused to pay for. Kerchman had told Clendennen, "Don't you ever cross my path," the constable reported. After Kerchman was brought to Pampa by the constable, he was taken to Highland General Hospital, where a bullet was removed from his heel. His condition was reported satisfactory this morning by hospital attendants. Clendennen reported that the man was bleeding when taken to the hospital but he did not know that a bullet was in the man's heel. No charges were filed in the incident and County Court officials reported that they are waiting for Clendennen to make out a complaint.

'Miss Pampa' Will Be Chosen Here

This year for the first time, Pampa will be represented in the Miss Texas contest, a preliminary of the Miss America and Miss Universe contests. The Junior Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the "Miss Pampa Pageant" according to the president, Johnny Campbell. Eldon Blumer is contest chairman. All merchants and organizations are eligible to enter some young miss in the contest. Letters have been mailed to merchants and other groups, explaining the rules. Entries will be judged on the basis of beauty and talent. The winner will go to the Miss Texas contest at Tyler in August. Preliminaries will be held here July 11 and contestants whittled to about 10 or 15. Then the finals will be held a week later, July 18. Campbell urged all clubs, organizations and businesses to find a good representative for Miss Pampa.

Hotel Committees Studying Revised Architectural Plans

Three committees of the Pampa Community Hotel Company met yesterday to discuss a revised architect plan for the building. The executive board, the building committee and an executive sub-committee held a joint meeting at 4 p.m. in Hugh Burdett's office in the Hughes Building. B. R. Cantrell submitted a revised set of plans and specifications to the group. No definite action was taken on the plans, however, since members felt they needed more time to consider it. The problem has been to draw up plans which will be within the budget. George Scott, chairman of the operations committee, reported that his group will interview interested operating companies during the month of July. Scott said that he hoped they will be in a position to recommend an operator to the executive board by August 1. After that time, the new operator will be available to work with the architect on the final plans. Another report was furnished by the land planning firm from Denver, Colo., on suggested plans for selling the company's properties surrounding the building site. George Cree Jr., president of the company, estimated that it would be about November before a building contract could be let. Barring complications, completion should take from one year to 18 months. The board also approved plans for cutting weeds and laying a curb and gutter on the new street bordering the west side of the property. This is planned providing the residents on the west side of the street agree to cooperate. Cree said that collections are coming along well, and that about three-fourths of the total is already in. "Stock issues," he said "are being given just as fast as people complete payments and debenture bonds are now on the press. They are to be issued as soon as possible to all who have completed payments."

TOKYO (UP)—The North Korean and Chinese Communists observed the seventh anniversary of the outbreak of the Korean War today by summoning the U.N. Command to Panmunjom Wednesday and by rattling the sabre from Pyongyang to Quemoy.

Anniversary Of Invasion Finds Sabre Rattling

By DICK HORNING

Both Pyongyang and Peiping radio attacked the United States with angry blasts. They accused it of trying to increase war tensions in the Far East, bragged of the Reds new armed strength and said in any future war the United States would be defeated.

The United States should "remember the lessons of its defeat" in the Korean War, Peiping said. At the same time Red China attacked the Nationalist Chinese island of Quemoy with the heaviest artillery barrage in years but there was no official comment in Taipei whether the Red attack was a prelude to invasion.

The Communists called a meeting of the Korean military armistice commission at Panmunjom, Korea, Wednesday afternoon to protest the U.N. Command decision last Friday to abrogate the portion of the armistice agreement freeing the arms buildup. The propaganda broadcasts by Red China and North Korea left no doubt as to the Reds intentions. They planned to reject the American-led decision to build up a massive defense force in the Republic of Korea, and they planned to accuse the United States of violating the armistice agreement.

Opinion Of Legislature At Lowest

NEW YORK (UP)—Scandals have pushed public opinion of the Texas Legislature to the lowest point in the state's 112-year history, according to Look magazine.

The link between Texas lawmakers and big business is "an outright scandal," a story by Dan C. Fowler in the magazine said. Fowler wrote: "If questionable fee-taking and influence are not on the increase, certainly more legislators are being caught at it."

He estimated that half of the 31 present and immediately past senators and a third of the 180 representatives are on retainers from private interests.

Fowler notes that this is not illegal, but adds that abuse of the practice has resulted in questionable fee-taking cases ranging from "potential conflict of interest all the way to evidence of bribery."

Cost Of Living Climbs To All-Time High

WASHINGTON (UP)—The government today reported the cost of living climbed to an all-time high in May for the ninth straight month.

The Labor Department said the May consumer price index was 119.6 per cent of the 1947-49 average. The index was three-tenths of one per cent above April and 3.6 per cent higher than May 1956. The rise in living costs means wage boosts for nearly one million workers with "escalator" wage contracts tied to the cost of living.

Food prices spearheaded the rise in living costs with a seven-tenths of one per cent increase between April and May. Prices of fresh produce and meat went up seasonally. The price of services was up four-tenths of one per cent but the cost of commodities went down by the same amount, the two changes thus cancelling each other in the index.

Durable goods prices were down six-tenths of one per cent and soft goods down two-tenths of one per cent.

Ewan Clague, commissioner of the department bureau of Labor Statistics, predicted that food prices will rise for the next two months, then drop in August. He said durable and soft goods prices should go down while services continue to rise for the remainder of the year.

Clague said the cost of fresh fruits and vegetables is in step with last year's increases but there are "some signs" that they will hit a peak below last year's.

Clague also reported that the pay after taxes and the buying power of factory workers continued a decline that began last January. He attributed this to a shortening of the work week and the rise in the cost of living between April and May of this year.

US Ready to Offer Cut in Military Manpower at Disarm Conference

By WILLIAM SETON

United Press Staff Correspondent

LONDON (UP)—The United States is ready to offer a cut of more than one-third in military manpower at the London disarmament conference, informed sources reported today.

U.S. delegate Harold E. Stassen is to disclose additional details of the new American plan for disarmament when the conference resumes this morning after a four-day recess.

One hour before the conference reconvenes, three opposition Laborite lawmakers planned to call on Prime Minister Harold Macmillan in Commons to accept the Soviet call for an immediate end to nuclear weapons tests.

Soviets Deride Plan Stassen began a "step-by-step" presentation of the new American disarmament proposal before the five-power U.N. disarmament sub-commission Thursday. The commission includes representatives from the United States, Great Britain, France, Canada and Soviet Russia.

Soviet newspapers over the weekend derided as "nothing new" the proposal made by Stassen for an initial reduction in Soviet and United States armed forces to 2,500,000 men each. The U.S. now has 2,800,000 men under arms. Soviet military strength is estimated at about 3,500,000.

According to informed sources, the new American plan provides for manpower cutbacks in three stages. It calls for the United States and Russia to set a ceiling of 2,500,000 men on their active duty forces as soon as a first step disarmament agreement is reached.

If progress is made on major East-West differences, the military manpower of the two great powers would be reduced to about 2,100,000 men in stage two, and to 1,700,000 men in stage three.

Britain, France Included Britain and France would reduce their manpower to successive levels of 700,000, 710,000 and 650,000 men.

The first-stage maximum for other nations, not including Communist China, would be 500,000 men, with proportionate reductions later. West Germany would be the nation most directly involved in this category.

Stassen's offer was described as a "more than half way" compromise with the Soviet demands for an eventual 1,000,000 ceiling on the armed forces of the United States and Russia.

MAKES IT EASIER

"Shorty" Miller and family have had tough luck lately. They lost two homes within eight days. The first was burned down by lightning, the second as a result of faulty wiring. But their friends and neighbors are trying to make it easier for them. Last night, many of them turned out to give the Millers a shower in the "Red School House" or the Wayside Community Building. Others sent gifts. Hostesses reported this morning that the shower provided an "almost complete house full of goods." Mr. and Mrs. Miller and their son, Danny Ray, 11, are shown above. The Millers aren't "out of the woods" yet, though. Their youngest son, Randy, 6, came down with the measles shortly after the second fire. (News Photo)

Colonel Cleared Of Security Charges

By WILLIAM TUCKER
United Press Staff Correspondent
HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (UP)—The Army today dropped charges that Col. John C. Nickerson betrayed his country by spilling missile secrets and the defendant promptly pleaded guilty to 15 lesser counts of failing to safeguard classified matter.

The two swift developments came in the first 90 minutes of Nickerson's heralded court-martial.

The defense accomplished its main goal—to have the 41-year-old career rocketeer cleared of espionage and perjury charges—when the Army withdrew its Charge Two, containing three counts.

Then it came time for Nickerson to plead to the one remaining charge. One of his civilian lawyers, Robert K. Bell of Huntsville, announced crisply in the tiny courtroom:

"In view of the fact that the prosecution has withdrawn Charge Two, the defendant wishes to plead guilty to Charge One, on Specifications One through 15."

Court was recessed at that point. The second charge could have carried up to 16 years in prison, and $10,000 fine or both. The first charge involved up to 30 years and heavy fines on all counts but Nickerson's guilty plea was expected to be a factor in the sentence.

The trial was less than an hour old when the Army abruptly withdrew Charge Two.

Capt. Charles H. Taylor, assistant trial counsel, announced the withdrawal of the second and more serious charge containing one count of espionage and two of perjury.

Colorful Ray H. Jenkins, Nickerson's civilian counsel, had questioned the 10-member court martial briefly about its "general attitude" before Taylor stood up to make his motion.

Jenkins attempted to get the members to say whether they would be influenced by evidence of Nickerson's motives in the event he was convicted. The court responded in the affirmative after the law officer, in effect the judge, ruled that the question applied only to consideration of a penalty on a guilty finding.

Only a few spectators, among them attractive Mrs. Nickerson and her two teen-aged children, filed into the one-story legal building at Redstone Arsenal, rocket base here where Nickerson is assigned.

A court of 10 high Army officers, which could be whittled down by challenges, was convened to try Nickerson. He is charged with endangering national security in memos insisting the Army was best qualified to develop missiles of the intermediate 1,500-mile range.

The memos reached such "unauthorized" persons as columnist Drew Pearson and Erik Bergau, editor of Rockets and Missiles Magazine.

The defense tactics were based on an attempt to show that Nickerson spilled no real secrets and that the missile program, on the other hand, would suffer unless the Army plays a big part in it.

"Does this mean that you won't be baby-sitting with me anymore?"

"Obscene" Promoters May Go

WASHINGTON (UP)—A high postal official predicted today the government will put additional promoters of dirty pictures and "party movies" out of business as a result of the Supreme Court's ruling on obscenity.

But Abe Goff, Post Office Department general counsel, promised the department will not become a "puritanical censor" or do "anything unreasonable."

The Supreme Court ruled for the first time Monday that the Constitution's free speech guarantee does not mean the right to mail or distribute obscenities. It upheld the constitutionality of the federal obscenity-in-the-mail statute and state laws of California and New York barring various forms of obscene matter.

Goff, terming the mail law ruling "gratifying," told the United Press it will make it easier to prosecute persons sending salacious matter through the mail. He said the law, dating back to 1872, has been attacked repeatedly through the years on constitutional grounds.

The court upheld the constitutionality of these laws:

—The federal obscenity statute which fixes a $5,000 fine, a 5-year jail term or both for mailing "obscene, lewd, lascivious or filthy publications."

—A California criminal law which bars the writing, publishing or selling of indecent papers or books.

—A New York law which allows a court to prevent distribution of obscene printed matter.

Man Survives Suicide Plunge

NEW YORK (UP)—A 51-year-old accountant plunged 15 stories from a financial district building Monday night and survived.

Joseph Klein was reported in critical condition today with internal injuries and a fractured right arm. A hospital spokesman said his chances for recovery were good.

His wife said Klein had been having "business troubles."

In making the statement, Mayor Lynn Boyd reported that it is a violation of the city ordinances to allow weeds to grow on property within the city limits and that those persons allowing weeds to grow are not cut action will be taken by the city.

Other Action

The official appointment of Monroe Moore as city engineer was made this morning. The appointment was effective as of June 15, when the new engineer went to work.

The question of preventative maintenance on city vehicles was made by Commissioner Ed Myatt.

He reported that after checking on the condition of city owned vehicles, especially patrol cars of the police department, it was apparent that maintenance was on a "hit-or-miss" basis. After his report, the commission approved the making of a survey on the maintenance of the vehicles and the setting up of an adequate system of making maintenance checks on the vehicles is to be installed by the city.

The relationship of city employees with citizens, both of Pampa and other communities, also came up for discussion. Myatt pointed out that on several occasions recently the personal actions of city employees has resulted in ill feelings toward Pampa by residents of other cities. It was decided that instructions would be given to all city employees on their relationship with the public.

Graham Sure Crusade Will Fill Big Stadium

NEW YORK (UP)—Billy Graham said Monday night he was confident his New York Crusade would pack Yankee Stadium July 20 despite the fact "some of the smart boys are giving 10-1 odds against it."

The 38-year-old evangelist told a Madison Square Garden audience of 18,300 that he would definitely end his crusade July 20 with a mammoth meeting in Yankee Stadium, which seats 67,000 persons.

"I have confidence that the Christian people of New York will come there and bring their unchurched friends," Graham said. He said he had heard that "the smart boys around town" were betting against him, but it didn't worry him.

Cowboy star Roy Rogers and his wife, Dale Evans, will appear at some of Graham's meetings over the long July 4th week end, the evangelist announced.

Roger Hill, chairman of the New York Crusade executive committee, said Graham will appear on two additional nationwide telecasts that will originate from Madison Square Garden July 6 and 12. The Yankee Stadium meeting will not be televised.

'Ravings Of Aggressor,' Gromyko Says

By HENRY SHAPIRO
United Press Staff Correspondent
MOSCOW (UP)—Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko today denounced a recent statement by Gen. Lauris Norstad as the ravings of an aggressor and "inconsistent with the disarmament negotiations."

Gromyko, at an unprecedented early morning news conference, read a prepared statement denouncing the statement Norstad made before the Foreign Affairs Committee of the U.S. Senate.

Gromyko said Norstad's statement made it obvious the United States was using the London disarmament talks as a smoke screen to cover up a desire to continue the arms race.

He also criticized Norstad's comments before the North Atlantic Alliance in Paris where the American general is the Allied supreme commander in Europe.

Gromyko quoted Norstad's warnings that the United States could attack the Soviet Union from anywhere in the world and "destroy all targets of military value in Russia and then said:

"The American general clearly forgets that planes can fly in either direction, not only from the aggressor's side but also in the direction of the aggressors. It would appear that even the biggest hotheads among the NATO militarists should be clear on this point."

Bridge Damaged By Train Wreck

None of the five crewmen of a Santa Fe freight train were injured when 23 cars of the 126-car train piled into Red Deer creek at 5:55 a.m. yesterday between Pampa and Miami.

The accident occurred when the train derailed and resulted in one span of the Santa Fe's main line was knocked out and a concrete pier, was damaged.

No trains were able to go through Pampa yesterday after the bridge was knocked out. Railroad officials reported that the derailment was apparently caused when a journal dropped from the axle of one of the cars in the train.

Emergency repairs to the bridge were made last night and trains were operating on schedule this morning.

Post Office Is Voted More Money

WASHINGTON (UP)—The House has voted an extra 133 million dollars to keep the nation's mail service running along without cutbacks next year.

The total was $16,500,000 less than the $149,500,000 Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield asked for but apparently was enough to satisfy the mail boss, Rep. Gordon Canfield (R-N.J.) said Summerfield assured him the Post Office Department would be able to get along.

The new funds, if approved by the Senate, will boost to a record $2,325,000,000 the total available for mail operations in the fiscal year beginning Monday. Summerfield had wanted a series of postal cutbacks, including Saturday post office closings and suspension of Saturday deliveries, if the additional money is not forthcoming.

The cost of some special mail services will go up Monday to produce an estimated 28 million dollars a year in postal revenues. The price of a special delivery stamp goes up from 20 to 30 cents and charges for registered and insured letters and money orders also go up.

What Do You Want In New Cars? Detroit Still Isn't Really Sure

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

DETROIT (NEA) — The mental strip-tease which the American public has been performing unconsciously for the auto industry has revealed a lot of skin.

But the show is a long way from complete exposure. Consumer research studies by the auto industries have probed deep into the basic buying attitudes of U.S. car buyers. And the results of these studies are more and more influencing engineering, designing and advertising.

But every time the industry thinks it has its customers' desires figured out, bang, it finds new attitudes intruding to mess up the big mental picture.

Recent studies show a growing interest in smaller and cheaper cars, for example, which could mean a reversal of the trend of interest in bigger, more expensive cars which has existed since the latest studies by General Motors also show a lessening of public interest in more powerful engines.

"But does this mean they don't want more horsepower in the '56 or that they assume a horsepower increase as a matter of normal development?" a worried GM expert asks.

Resolving that question is a multi-million dollar decision. If the public is fed up, or maybe scared by the horsepower race, the industry is wasting big money on its engine development programs. But if the public believes that growing horsepower is a logical expectation, failure to deliver it in a new model could mean a red-ink year.

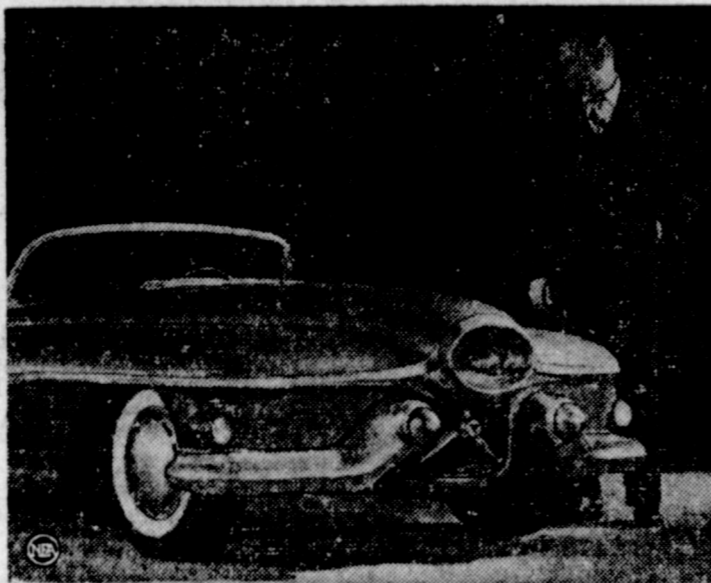

It means going back and trying to coax another wisp of cloth off the car buyer's thinking. And that brings up the classic story on the early days of auto consumer research.

One company asked a lot of people what they wanted in a car and got a lot of replies about the desire for safety and dependability. It put out a safe, dependable car and had a terrible year.

A second, smarter firm asked a lot of people what features they thought their neighbors wanted in a car and got such answers as flashy styling and more speed. It built a flashy, speedy car and had a record year.

Every since then the consumer experts have been trying to properly evaluate the "virtuous answer" fallacy.

Chrysler hires an independent opinion-sampling firm for most of its customer research. Ford uses outside help and does direct-mailing sampling. GM relies mostly on the direct-mail method. Millions of dollars are spent on these programs.

All the firms rely heavily on the "dream car" technique. Each year they'll make several ultra-modern cars and exhibit them with the specific purpose of sampling reaction to three or four new ideas. Interviewers record answers to carefully-phrased questions on the cars.

The wrap-around windshield is one result of this technique. This new windshield concept was first shown on the GM LeSebre dream car in 1951. Public reaction was so favorable it was put on 1954 models, which is about as fast a change like this can be made. The whole industry followed.

Most consumer experts agree that the average car buyer assumes that any new car is well-built, fairly dependable and roomy. So they seek the special buying motivations, currently being found in styling, price and performance.

Ford's big safety campaign in early 1956 made buyers mildly safety conscious, consumer studies of its competitors discovered. But a few months after Ford dropped safety as a major advertising pitch the public promptly stopped worrying about safety in a car.

Today, studies show, the average buyer assumes that all makes are equally safe.

Prestige and community conformity are two other important factors to a buyer. The urge to

This helps explain why buyers often do not "buy" the car which studies show that they "like" best.

The most vital consumer reaction the researchers keep seeking is called "owner loyalty." The foundation of a firm's business is the "repeat" buyer.

At the slightest indication of a big switch from one make to another the researchers rush into action with questionnaires and adding machines to try to pinpoint the reasons for the loss of "owner loyalty."

Anti-Inflation Organization Has Meet In Washington

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP) — Young Robert M. White II took bows today around the square in Mexico, Mo. So did L. M. (Mitch) White. Young Bob and old Mitch are co-editors and co-publishers of the better small town dailies in the United States, circulation 7,000 in the lush and bountiful central part of the state.

wholly accepted. Some congressional Democrats contend that the steady rise in prices is caused by the administration's high interest-hard money policies.
However that may be, prices are going up. Ewan Clague told the United Press that the May figure for the cost of living probably will show another rise for the ninth month in a row. Clague is commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics which monthly computes the consumer price index. The May figure will be out Tuesday.
Moreover, government economists concede that prices will continue to rise moderately through the rest of 1957. The monthly rises have been small, but they add up. They could—and may—add up in time to the place where a 10 cent cigar would cost $100, assuming that the cigar dealer would sell one at all for mere money, even U.S. money.

Mitch and Bob are father and son. They had a look last January at President Eisenhower's big spending budget and they have been noting the creeping inflation currently overrunning the United States.
Meeting in Washington today was the National Citizens Committee to Cut Inflation which was born of Mitch and Bob's contemplation of what was happening to the U.S. economy.
The committee will meet here for two days to hear a discussion of inflation and what to do about it. The speakers are big name economists, bankers and members of Congress. Assembled for the meeting here are individuals pretty well representing all parts of the United States.
Fact of Importance
The fact that the committee exists at all and is meeting here with an impressive program of speakers is a political fact of considerable importance. The meeting is further evidence that the people of the United States are beginning to get the word on inflation and what it will mean to them if it continues uncontrolled.
Fire and flood together cannot match uncontrolled inflation's ability to kill and to destroy. Out of the Whites' conviction that the inflationary trend had become dangerous came a letter signed by a score or more citizens of Mexico, Mo., addressed to the two U.S. senators from Missouri and to one or more members of the Missouri delegation in the House.
It may be significant that this substantial letter of protest, out of which grew a national organization aimed at curbing inflation and reducing government spending, came from the heart of an area known as Little Dixie. Aud-

Fantastic Cost Of Modern Weapons Race Is Behind Russian Plea For Disarmament Pact

RUSSIA AIRS MILITARY MIGHT as a "Bison" jet bomber and MIG-17 "Fresco" fighters fly over Red Square on May Day. Price tag for such might seems to have shaken Red leaders.

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA) — The fantastic cost of keeping ahead of weapon obsolescence is one of the chief reasons for Russia's big interest in a disarmament agreement with the U.S.

Russia's leaders are now apparently convinced that the enormous drain on their resources in trying to maintain a posture of mass, modernized military preparedness is too great.

The effort to "modernize" its air and ground forces since World War II has been such a staggering economic burden on the Soviet system it caused riots and revolution among the satellites and discontent inside Russia.

Now, with the advent of missile-nuclear warfare demanding another complete modernization of weapons at an even greater cost, it's believed that communism can't afford it and survive.

This is the opinion of top Pentagon sources and other intelligence experts as to why Russia is now making such strong disarmament overtures to the U.S.

The U.S. policy of all-out weapon research, but with limited purchases of the newly developed weapons, helped maneuver Russia into this position, it is claimed.

"This was a calculated risk," a Pentagon spokesman says, "but it looks like it might pay off."

Pentagon intelligence sources reveal that Russia's basic ready, "modernized" military strength consists of a two and one-half million man ground force, an Air Force with more than 8,000 MIG-15 and MIG-17 fighters and a fleet of close to 400 subs.

It has just begun to build a strategic bomber force. And it is expanding its surface fleet.

Russia is well along in ballistic missile development. But it has not begun to incorporate tactical missiles into its forces, as the U.S. has been doing for the past three years.

Impressive as this Red armed might sounds — it does not include satellite or Chinese Communist forces — the basic Russian weapons are now obsolete, and growing more so every month.

Practically all of Russia's MIG fighters are subsonic, in the 600 mph range. Practically all U.S.

operational fighter planes are supersonic, in the 800 mph range. And the USAF will soon get delivery on a new fleet of 1,300 mph fighters.

Altogether Russia built 20,000 jet MIGs which are now obsolete. To replace them with supersonic fighters would be a heavy blow to Russian economy. The discovery of what it costs to build a huge bomber fleet has shaken Russian leaders, it is reported.

Russia built 28,000 medium T-54 tanks for its ground forces. They would have been a sensation in World War II. But they are obsolete in terms of the communications equipment and mobility they need for widely dispersed, fast-moving tactical atomic warfare.

Russian troops have been given an estimated 15,000 rubber-tired armored personnel carriers. These too, would have been fine for World War II. But they're rated obsolete for nuclear warfare.

Russia's fleet of snorkel subs cost the Red economy an enormous sum in manpower and materials. But the growing fleet of U.S. atomic subs, the devastatingly effective atomic depth charge and the efficiency of the combined anti-sub warfare devices leave the Red sub fleet still dangerous, but completely obsolete.

There are scores of similar examples of the growing obsolescence of Red arms.

Today if there was a war with Russia the sheer mass of the Red's aging arms would still lead the outcome in doubt, not figuring the effect of swapping H-bombs. Each month and year will find the advantage of mass alone growing smaller, U.S. military experts point out.

To maintain the advantage massed arms has given it in world politics since World War II, Russia must begin its second major arms modernization program right now, it is claimed. And this will require far more than a facilitating of its present weapons, the experts say.

To modernize in terms of guided missile warfare would mean such things as creating a new electronics industry in Russia. This had to be done in the U.S. But Russia's present electronics industry doesn't even supply the average Russian with a pop-up toaster.

Thus, attempting to move into the missile age and keeping its theory of making great numbers of weapons would rule out pop-up toasters and a lot of other consumer goods for the next generation in Russia.

All of the experts discussing this factor of the cost of weapon obsolescence to Russia, however, are quick to point out that it's no

Janis Paige Will Try New Series On TV Next Winter

By ALINE MOSBY
United Press Hollywood Writer
HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Comedy series nearly are banished from TV for next season because, Janis Paige wails, "The networks and sponsors are afraid of them."

Janis was one of the victims of the sudden mass exodus of domestic and situation comedy series. The networks apparently figured the day was over for lightweight stories of young girls having adventures, or husbands and wives nagging each other.

Next season the trend is for Westerns and mystery series. But although last season's Paige series, "It's Always Jan," was one of Lawrence Welk's victims in the rating race, Janis hopes to be back next winter with another try at the home screens.

Talking To Producer
"I'm talking to producer Jess Oppenheimer about one," she said.

"I thought there was too much singing in the last series, so the next one, I hope will be all acting. We're talking over what kind of a girl I'd play."

"I'd like doing series. I had good ratings in the last one, but Welk was too much for us. We're not sure what went wrong with my show, but in TV nobody can sail through unscathed."

Miss Paige's plans for another series are part of the new chapter in her life. She's just divorced from the producer of her ill-fated series, Artie Stander, making the venture a sad story all the way around.

But, as she hopes for another series, she also hopes for a reconciliation with Stander, "but meantime he's going his way and I'm going mine."

Quite A Switch
Her new way includes her first TV try at dramatic acting. Thursday she'll debut on NBC's "Lux Video Theater," playing a school teacher who turns out to be a vicious murderer—quite a switch for the bouncy singer who captured Broadway in "Pajama Game" and the movies in "Silk Stockings."

"I don't know if I'll be a dramatic actress or not," said Janis, who stops traffic around here these days in her suntan, gold-rimmed sunglasses and new short blonde hair.

"The roles I've had all my life have been limited. Now I can get my foot in the door. It's difficult to take a completely opposite step but now I'm faced with it."

which now is being tried out by a growing number of scientists. They got the idea from an English colleague, T. G. Crookes, who both originated it and worked out the science of it.

The phenomenon is not new, of course. If you look at a lighted picture in a dark room or at a movie in a dark theater and jerk your eyes away, your retina will retain, for a flash of time, blurred streaks of light.

Not As Wholes
It is blurred light because the lighted picture comes upon the retina all at one time, and so do the individual "frames" in the film of the movie. But the "frames" of TV reproduction don't come onto the screen as wholes.

The "frames" form top to bottom with a speed which the eyes are incapable of detecting, of course. The speed of the twitching eye when co-ordinated with the speed of the forming "frame" brushes the intact "frame" off the screen and hangs it in the air.

Crookes found that the best distance from the TV for the experiment was six feet. At a closer distance, the string of suspended images, overlap. At six feet, they are separated with spaces between.

A New Defense Against Television Commercials

By DELOS SMITH
United Press Science Editor
NEW YORK (UP) — A new, workable defense for TV viewers against boring TV commercials and tedious TV performers is to conduct a scientific experiment while waiting for the horrors to exhaust themselves.

You don't have to be a scientist to conduct this experiment. You just sit there in the dark room, directing a steady stare—not at the brightly lighted screen, but a foot to the left of the screen.

They jerk your eyeballs rapidly to the right, in a sort of twitching movement. This twitches your vision rapidly across the screen, and the twitch should be halted abruptly a foot to the screen's right.

Bush Off Image
Execute this maneuver correctly and you'll discover you've brushed an image off the screen and suspended it in thin air to the right of the set. It stays there only a few thousandths of a second, but it is there.

That's the beginner's experiment. As you get good at it, you can start your twitching arc farther to the left of the screen and end it farther from the right. Then you can suspend as many as four images in a row.

This is a TV viewer's defense

THUMBNAIL PORTRAIT—Smaller than a man's thumbnail is this midget frog—some say it's a young toad—one of thousands that recently invaded a residential district of Shreveport, La. This one measures three-eighths of an inch long, a quarter of an inch wide. For days the army of tiny, brown creatures hopped down the street, along sidewalks and through front yards. Where they came from and where they were going, nobody knew.

High Altitude Baking Of Sponge Cake Demonstrated By Miss Helen Dunlap

(Special to The News)
LEFORS — The high altitude process for making sponge cake, which is an ideal summer dessert and low in calories, was demonstrated to the Lefors Home Demonstration Club on June 14, by Miss Helen Dunlap, Gray County HDA, stating that the cell walls of the egg yolks are strengthened by beating them until thick and lemon-colored, then adding water and beating until thick again.
It is surprising how eggs enlarge by beating air into them; the volume decreasing with the addition of sugar. For sponge cakes, the flour mixture must be folded in very gently, so as not to break down cell-walls formed during beating process.
The egg whites (added separately) must not be beaten until stiff only until moist peaks are formed, so as to retain more moisture which is needed in high altitude baking.
The following is the recipe used by Miss Dunlap which is popular and appropriate for this area:
1 1/2 C. Cake flour
1/2 C. Sugar
6 egg yolks
6 egg whites
1/4 t. salt
3/4 C. Cold water
3/4 t. Vanilla
3/4 t. Lemon extract
3/4 t. Cream tartar
Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon-colored. Add water and continue beating until very thick. Gradually beat in sugar, then extracts. Fold in flour sifted with salt, a little at a time. Beat egg whites until foamy; add cream of tartar and beat until they form moist glossy peaks. Fold in egg yolk mixture. Bake in 10 inch ungreased angel pan in slow oven (325 F) 1 hour. Invert pan to cool.
Miss Dunlap demonstrated removing a cooled sponge cake from pan, using up and down strokes with knife first, then a slicing motion around edge of pan, which removes cake compactly.
The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. J. D.

Smithee, who led the group in repeating the club prayer.
Roll call was answered by secret hobbies.
Recipes and copies of the NHDG song, "Ever Onward," were distributed by Mrs. John Hatfield, council representative. A discussion followed regarding the educational exhibit to be held in the early fall.
Mrs. Charles Roberts was elected as assistant secretary to relieve Mrs. Lonnie Ables during the summer months.
The next meeting is to be new ideas on food for parties and showers to be contributed by each club member.
The sponge cake was served as refreshment.
Those present were Mmes. Lary Rider, John Hatfield, Leonard Cain, Lonnie Ables, L. D. Rider, J. B. Deihl, J. D. Smithee, B. J. Leninger, and Charles Roberts.

Stengel Lauds Richards For Win With "Hand-Me-Offs"

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press Sports Writer

Casey Stengel describes Baltimore Manager Paul Richards as a "juggling genius," and praise from Caesar is praise indeed.

"That man Richards has taken a bunch of hand-me-offs and made them into a downright respectable ball club," Stengel says.

Richards has the once-down-trodden Orioles looking so respectable that they have taken five of their last 25 games and today are only 3 1/2 games away from the first division.

Like Stengel says, most of the Orioles are discards from other major league clubs, and Monday night two of them, pitcher Skinny Brown and third baseman Billy Goodman, combined talents in a 6-0 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Brown, plucked from the minors by Richards after undistinguished showings with the White Sox and Red Sox, set the Tigers down on five hits and made liberal use of his knuckle ball in striking out six batters.

Philis, Redlegs Advance

Goodman, hitting a cool 343 since being obtained from Boston 10 days ago, contributed a two-run homer and a single in Baltimore's 12-1 hit attack that sent Duke Maas down to his fifth defeat.

The victory was the Orioles' fifth in their last seven games. St. Louis crushed St. Louis, 10-3, and Philadelphia mauling Milwaukee, 10-4, in the only other major league games scheduled Monday night.

The defeat handed them by the in the National League to half a game over the idle Redlegs, who moved into second place as the Braves dropped to third.

St. Louis led 2-1 until Brooklyn chased Sam Jones with a six-run inning in the seventh inning. Wee Reese and Carl Furillo each contributed two-run doubles in the big inning. Duke Snider slammed a pair of homers for the Dodgers, his 13th and 14th, while Furillo connected for one. Joe Cunningham of the Cards also homered.

The victory went to Carl Erskine, who pitched the first six innings and then was relieved by Ed Roebuck. It was Erskine's first victory of the season and his first since last Sept. 17.

Phils Narrow Gap

Home runs by Stan Lopata, Ed Bouchee and Rip Repulski enabled the Phils to move within a game and a half of first place.

Lopata hit his with one on in the first inning off loser Warren Spahn and Bouchee also hit his homer off Spahn with two on in a four-run sixth. Juan Pizarro yielded Repulski's homer with one on in the ninth.

Southpaw Harvey Haddix gained his sixth triumph although giving up all 12 of Milwaukee's hits in the 7-13 innings he pitched.

Ballinger Stretches SW Lead

By UNITED PRESS

Ballinger stretched his Southwestern League lead to two games over Carlsbad Monday night.

The Westerners decided Ed Paso, 5-2, while Carlsbad was falling to Hobbs 10-7. San Angelo stopped Midland 5-2.

Ken Jones poled a solo homer for Ballinger in the two-run seventh, when the Westerners added insurance to protect the three run lead they picked up the fourth.

Dick Hogan helped Hobbs off to a four-run burst in the first inning with a two-run homer, and the Sports came up with four more in the second to stagger Carlsbad.

Roy Patterson belted a two-run homer that sparked a three-run Carlsbad rally in the ninth that fell far short of turning back the Sports.

Red McNew broke a 2-2 tie in the seventh for San Angelo with his two-run homer and the Colts added another on an error to sink Midland.

Roadrunners Play Pioneers Tonight

The Roadrunners, Pampa's semi-pro baseball team, will play their third game of the season tonight in Oiler Park against the Pioneers.

Mound duties will be shared by Frog Ramsey and Cecil Reynolds. Reynolds pitched the victory over the Pioneers in the previous game.

Old Satch Is Still Winning

By UNITED PRESS

Satchel Pige, Miami's legendary old man, is starting to kick up his heel again in the International League.

Paige, who has as many pitches as he has birthdays, snapped out of his reclusiveness Monday night. He hurled the scoreless innings, insuring rebounding Miami's fifth successive triumph, a 4-3 decision over Toronto.

The ageless hurler's heroics gained him sweet revenge over Toronto, who had nipped him four games ago. He pitched a 9-2 in 10 innings on June 18. Paige's fourth victory also nudged the Marlins thin a percentage point of sixthplace Havana.

In the only other game played, Montreal's Red Valdes, his sights set on a reb to the parent Brooklyn Dodgs, pitched a sixth, 6-1 victory over Richmond.

Valdes' performance broke a four-game Montreal losing streak and extended Johnson's losing streak to three Jim Kite, who needed relief in Sonny Dixon and John Jamt was the losing pitcher.

Feller Plugs Free Lance Baseball

WASHINGTON (UP)—Bob Feller, who pitched for the Cleveland Indians for his entire 20-year baseball career, proposed today that a player become a free agent after he spends five years in the big leagues.

Feller, now president of the Major League Baseball Players Assn., was scheduled to outline his views to a House Judiciary subcommittee studying whether baseball should remain immune from anti-trust laws.

Feller and another of baseball's all-time greats, Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals, were slated to testify following Warren Giles and William Harridge, presidents of the National and American leagues, respectively.

Both Harridge and Giles were expected to oppose vigorously any time limit on the operation of the reserve clause, as did baseball Commissioner Ford Frick last week.

Frick pictured a "chaotic scramble for player talent" if the clause were wiped out.

One of baseball's officialdom Monday advocated a six-year limit on the reserve clause. This suggestion came to C. Leo De Orsey, a director of the Washington Senators.

De Orsey said the average life of a major leaguer is less than five years and "there is no need of keeping him chained for life." However, De Orsey said nothing should prevent a club from entering a long-term contract for a period beyond six years.

Minor Leagues Meet In Last Chance Try For Survival

A Chain Reaction

It's a chain reaction which will stretch on down throughout the minors. Starting with the Pacific Coast League, it is predicted by informed sources that the necessary realignment will affect the American Association, International League, Texas League and Southern Association.

The minor leagues are formulating plans of their own as the counter-move against the major league invasion of the West Coast. When the majors take Los Angeles and San Francisco, the PCL must find five teams—not merely two. Because of either close proximity to what will become a major league city or because of television, the PCL also figures to lose Hollywood, San Diego and Sacramento.

This leaves Seattle, Portland and Vancouver. So the PCL is casting covetous glances at Denver of the American Association, with the aid of possibility of picking up Spee, Salt Lake City, Phoenix and maybe a Canadian city such as Astoria.

Leaves Afloat

There's where chain reaction sets in. Should the PCL be given Denver, 1 top minor league draw, the American Association also facesignment. Minor league conversion poses the possibility of the taking either Oklahoma City or San Antonio from the Texas League, with possibility that Mexico City fill that gap or Galveston invited to return.

The International League, meanwhile is expected to live into the act by dropping Ina, which in addition to beta financial drain from a transition standpoint is not drawn into the road. Indications that the International League will like to obtain Atlanta, to waw of the Southern Association thinking in some quarters that Knoxville might return to SA.

Kell, Dark Take Lead In All Star Game Balloting

NEW YORK (UP)—George Kell of Baltimore and Alvin Dark of St. Louis, a pair of veteran infielders, jumped into the lead at their positions today in the All-Star Game balloting.

Kell took over the lead for third base on the American League team from Reno Bertoia of Detroit, 19,874 votes to 19,599, according to tabulators in Commissioner Ford Frick's office, while Dark went ahead of Cincinnati's Roy McMillan in the battle for the National League's starting shortstop berth, 20,738 votes to 20,591.

Voting for the All-Star teams closes midnight Thursday. Eight starting positions on each team are chosen by the fans' votes, with the pitchers and reserves selected by the rival managers, Casey Stengel of the Yankees and Walt Alton of the Dodgers.

Ted Williams of the Red Sox, who fell behind Mickey Mantle of the Yankees temporarily as the No. 1 vote-getter in both leagues, once again moved ahead of all candidates with 61,610 votes. Mantle had 60,497, and Stan Musial of the Cardinals was the National League leader with 55,380.

The AL leaders were Vic Wertz of the Indians at first base; Nellie Fox of the White Sox at second; Kell at third; Harvey Kuenn of Detroit at shortstop; Williams, left field; Willie Mays of the Giants, center field; Hank Aaron of the Braves, right field; and Ed Bailey, Redlegs, catcher.

Pampan Places 8th In National Golf Tourney

Melvin Chisum of Pampa placed 8th in National and 3rd in State in the National Left Handed Golf Tournament held at the Athletic Club in Dallas.

Melvin, 17 was the youngest entry among 128 players, 71 of whom were entries from Texas.

On the par 72 course, the National winner was Harry Shoemaker of Signal Mountain, Tenn., who fired a total 295 for the win. Chisum chalked 81, 76, 74, and 77 for a total 308.

Also entered in the City Golf tournament, he has reached the finals, and will play the championship round Sunday against Max Hickey.

A member of the Harvester Golf Team, Chisum has one year of high school remaining.

House Hearings Finally Get Frick Out Of Chair

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Gov. Albert Benjamin Chandler a few days back was talking about the way Ford C. Frick runs organized baseball.

"They tell me you can't get him to go any place," said Happy Chandler, whom the major league owners booted out as commissioner to make room for Frick. "He just sits there and waits for everything to be brought to him. Pretty soon, there won't be anything left to bring around."

Well, if nothing else, the House Judiciary subcommittee hearings got Commissioner Frick out of his hideout at 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York.

Professional baseball, as it used to be, was a game of base hits, curve balls, rube rubars, jawing with the umpires, sun in the bleachers, and hot dogs and beer, took the offensive, claimed Brewster had accepted favors and the like and had no right to conduct a hearing. This knocked Brewster and the committee plumb out of business. A quick check with Johnny Morrissey, the baseball Washington Senators' ticket man, showed it to be impossible, however, for Congressman Celler buys his tickets when he attends games.

A couple of years ago, Branch Rickey and Joe Garagiola left this place dizzy, the Mahatma with triple talk and the then catcher with wisecracks. Garagiola simply couldn't understand why so much fuss was being made about a catcher batting .215.

Now Eddie Yost, the Senators' veteran third baseman, gets his opportunity, one of the few he has had as a long-suffering member of the Washington club. Yost, the erudite American League player representative, has been trying to get out of the division for more than 11. If he upholds the contra reserve clause, there isn't room for the House anti-trust committee to argue to the cr.

Federal comm certainly have more things to do, should long be learned to steer clear of professional sports people and peculiar problems.

There was the Freddie Kirsch, the fighter, stomped into the office of Joe Martin and in his G. I. laden voice asked the of the House to help him fight for Hein Ten Hoff, heavyweight. Kirsch screamed a Managers' Guild was "sg me out of a living," an ought to be a law, etc.

President Walt Harding once invited Grace Rice to play a round of Granny wasn't much for traveling alone, showed up with an uninvited Ring Lardner. While Secret Service agents stirred, security measures, you know, President Harding shook hands with Rice, then was introduced to Lardner.

"And what brings you here?" President Harding asked Lardner. "I want to be Ambassador to Greece," replied Ring. "My wife doesn't like living in Great Neck."

At Hukill and Son experienced, competent, reliable mechanics make all repairs and adjustments by using the most modern equipment. Drive in today.

“Gee, but it's great to save money on tires and auto repairs!” You can say that after you have your car checked by Hukill and Son Automotive Electrical Service, 315 W. Foster, MO 4-6111.

Hukill has just installed new Bear equipment to assure you of the most complete and efficient car service. This equipment includes the front end machine, the Telaliner, the only one like it in this area.

Safety Inspection
Hukill and Son, your official Texas Safety Inspection Station, features auto tune ups, electrical work, starter and generator repairs, brake repairs and adjustments, transmission work, universal joint and differential repairs, carburetor repairs and adjustment, muffler and tail pipe replacements, front end adjustments.

Men who will help you in your tune up headquarters in Pampa include F. A. Hukill, Max Hukill, and competent mechanics: Reo Belcher, K. E. Steele, Bill Edwards; Front End Man C. L. “Coonie” Sanders; Mrs. F. A. Hukill, bookkeeper; and Jack Baker, utility man.

All of these are trained and experienced in the jobs. For instance, they are trained in schools like the Rochester Carburetor School.

New Bear Equipment
F. A. Hukill, in the automotive repair business since 1926, has established his service on his conscientious work. Max, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hukill, has been working with him since 1948.

To help you to safer and more economical driving they have installed the Bear Machines for wheel balancing, front end alignment — the Bear Telaliner, the headlight adjusting machine.

Wheel Alignment
Wheel alignment is a system of interrelated angles of the axles, wheels and other front-end parts. It's the precision adjustment of these angles that allows you to steer your car straight down the road and makes it possible to turn corners without either front wheel skidding sideways. When any one of these delicately balanced angles is disturbed, wheels may be thrown enough out of adjustment so that they no longer roll true, but rather drag, skid and scuff. Alignment is directly related to the ease with which your car steers; the safety with which you drive; the life of your tires; and the amount of wear on vital front-end parts.

Caster is the amount in degrees that the king-pin tilts forward or backward at the top. Proper caster angle on your car improves steering stability and return of wheels to position after turning.

Camber is the tilt of front wheels at top. Proper camber setting compensates for weight of car and passengers — keep full tire tread contact with road for longer tire wear, more traction positive control.

Toe-In is the drawing together of front wheels slightly at front. This holds wheels in straight ahead driving position and prevents slipping and scuffing be-between road and tire.

Steering axis inclination is the amount in inches or degrees that top of kingpin inclines inward, to counterbalance camber.

Turning angles are the relationship between front wheels on turns. They allow front wheels to turn about a common center, thus preventing inside tire from dragging.

Tracking refers to the fact that rear wheels should follow fronts in a parallel position, to provide a more effortless steering and prevent abnormal tire wear.

What Causes Misalignment?
One common cause of misalignment is the knocking back of the knees. This usually occurs in ordinary driving when your car hits a curb or chuck hole too hard. The entire knee action assembly that strikes the curb may be knocked back, perhaps only slightly — but just enough so the wheel no longer rolls true.

A bent frame may prevent back wheels from following the fronts in a parallel position. Again wheels are forced to skid, drag or slide as they roll.

Remember, it doesn't taken an accident to throw your car out of alignment. Ordinary driving conditions will do it. Sudden stops or starts, hitting bumps at high speeds and other common occurrences place a strain on your car chassis. That's why wheel alignment service should be a regular part of car maintenance. Just like a grease job, an oil change or filter replacement.

Wheel Balancing
Rapid tire wear cannot be stopped unless the tire rolls smoothly. Getting a smooth roll is the job of wheel balancing, an integral part of a complete wheel alignment service. If a wheel is in balance, all portions will exert an equal pull from the center as the wheel is removed. If it is not in balance the heavier portion will exert a stronger pull from the axle or spindle. This force increases with the speed of rotation.

There are two out-of-balance conditions: static and dynamic. Static unbalance causes a car to vibrate vertically — to bounce along the road. Dynamic unbalance causes a car to vibrate horizontally, a shimmy condition.

In addition to causing cuppy or spotty wear in the tire tread, unbalance of any magnitude will cause breakage of the steering mechanism, change wheel alignment, injure shock absorbers and generally shake the car to pieces.

Semi-Annual Check
In no other phase of automotive service is the old adage, “a stitch in time saves nine,” so true. Wheel alignment and wheel balance are preventive services. By correcting poor alignment and unbalance before tires and chassis parts are worn out and conditions created which may lead to serious accidents, motorists may not only save valuable tire rubber and steel replacement parts, but also their lives.

Under ordinary conditions cars should be checked for alignment and wheel balance at least twice a year or every 4,000 miles, starting when the car is new.

Hukill's new Bear Telaliner makes possible faster, more accurate rate detection and correction of wheel alignment conditions. You see the results yourself on the easy-to-read Telaliner's screen. Come in soon for a demonstration. Come in to Hukill and Son Automotive Electrical Service, 315 W. Foster, MO 4-6111.

Russia, Red China Relations Due Chill

News Outlook
By CHARLES M. MCCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent
around the world look ahead at the news that will make the headlines.

Chill
Relations between Soviet Russia and Communist China are due to suffer a chill. Mao Tse-tung, the No. 1 Chinese Red leader, is expected to visit “independent” Communist leader Wladyslaw Gomułka of Poland next month. The Russians tried hard to get Mao to visit Moscow first. Latest word is that Mao refused, even though he has to pass through Moscow to get to Warsaw. He said the Poles invited him first.

Dashed Hopes
The impending Senate filibuster against the civil rights bill has all but dashed the hopes of congressional leaders for an Aug. 1 adjournment. Optimists on Capitol Hill now say they may get away by mid-August. The pessimists say Labor Day week end is more likely.

Small
Western air observers smell a rat in the Moscow announcement that the big annual air show set for June 30 has been cancelled because of “unfavorable weather forecasts.” The cancellation was announced last Friday—nine days ahead. The experts believe the Russian air force planned to stage some sort of dramatic exhibition of Soviet air might, but that something came unstuck.

Snafu
It looks as if a special national election will be the only way out of the Italian political crisis which has left the country without an effective government since May 6. Man after man has tried vainly to form a solid cabinet. Indications are President Giovanni Gronchi will have to put it up to the electorate by calling for an election.

Jacoby On Bridge
Written for NEA Service
By OSWALD JACOBY
I may get put out of the bridge writers' union today. After 20 years North is going to get a chance to play a hand. He had better do well with South and all the writers watching him with a critical eye.

North gets to play the hand because he and his partner were using the Jacoby Transfer Bid. His opening no-trump was a full 18 points plus the ten of spades. When South responded with two hearts North expected great things. He was playing the JTB and South had ordered him to bid spades. North bid two spades. He wanted to make a stronger bid but in the JTB North may bid three spades over his partner's two hearts only if he holds four spades and a maximum no-trump.

South passed North's two spades. South had only four points and knew that game was out of the question.

North's play was quick and easy.

WASHINGTON—Rep. Claire Engle (D-Calif.), on chances of House passage of a Senate-approved bill to build a half-billion-dollar federal dam in Hell's Canyon on the Oregon-Idaho border: “This monkey business of the Idaho Power company getting its hands caught in the till now doubtfully will influence a lot of undecided votes . . .”

HOLLYWOOD—Singer Lauritz Melchior, on being informed that most of his jewels and valuables stolen Tuesday had been recovered: “It's too good to be true.”

WASHINGTON—Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerity, on a published story that President Eisenhower is angry at Chief Justice Earl Warren because of recent Supreme Court decisions: “I wouldn't even dignify the story with a comment.”

East won with the ace and continued the suit. This gave North a chance to discard one of dummy's diamonds on his remaining high heart so that he lost one trump, one heart and two clubs and made three odd.

This hand illustrates two advantages of the JTB. The first one is that it gets the play in the strong hand. If South had been declarer he might well have been held to two.

The second is that South was able to get off the hook. Playing normal responses he would have bid two spades. Maybe North would have passed but I doubt it. Eighteen points look mighty good and most Norths would have bid again.

Insurance Vs. Roaches, Ants

Tried to rid the kitchen or house of roaches and ants . . . and failed? One of the common causes of failure is use of old-fashioned control that doesn't reach the pesky crawling insects in their own environment. . . the surfaces they walk on. Another is that old-type products can't control new resistant - variety roaches.

What you need is the new liquid brush-on discovery recently brought out by science, Johnston's NO-ROACH. Here at last is a safer, sure way to control roaches and ants!

No-Roach is a liquid which you apply with a brush. Within minutes it dries to form a colorless, odorless contact insecticide, that stays effective for months.

Ants
Apply No-Roach to cupboard walls, baseboards, near sink and cabinets, on pipes, and wherever you see cockroaches.

Brush No-Roach around table legs and counter tops, across window sills and door sills, and across ant trails. Ants will not cross the coating. Pour a few drops into ant hills.

No-Roach is also effective against resistant roaches, bedbugs, silverfish, water bugs, spiders, and other crawling insects.

Common Sense Way
Remember, when you use Johnston's No-Roach, you don't have to move dishes, pots and pans, or breathe harmful vapors, as you must with contaminating sprays. Apply No-Roach just where you want it, the invisible coating stays effective for months. No-Roach, the brush-on insecticide, is preferred by good housekeepers. Be safe . . . and be sure with NO-ROACH.

Oil Wells Rush In Where Country Club Golfers Tread In Hollywood

By ERSKINE JOHNSON NEA Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (NEA)—Movie cowboys who once rode the “range” on the 20th Century-Fox studio backlot while drawlin' that classic celluloid line, “There's gold in them thar hills,” are blushing today.

So are golfers who gave up their memberships in two adjoining country clubs after their amateur divot digging inspired the classic fairway sneer, “Careful, boy, you'll strike oil!”

Gold — black gold — was right under the boots and spikes of those movie cowboys and golfers and they didn't even know it.

Ten oil wells are now pumping 4,000 barrels of oil a day, along with 1,000,000 cubic feet of gas, on the 200-acre Fox backlot where Shirley Temple once played with her dolls and where “The Robe” was filmed. By 1965, it is said, 21 producing wells will be in operation, giving the film studio a predicted net profit of $8,000,000 a year. At the moment the studio's yearly profit is close to a reported $3,000,000.

The cry of “Oil!” instead of “Fore” at the two adjoining country clubs, Los Angeles and Hillcrest, has sent the cost of membership soaring. A couple of years ago a Los Angeles membership was worth about $7,500. The last reported sale was $10,000.

The oil fever at Hillcrest, where Jack Benny, George Burns, Jerry Lewis and other stars roam the greens, has resulted in a ban against members selling their memberships to anyone but the club. Candidates who filed for membership later than Jan. 1, 1952, aren't even being considered.

Who cares about movie grosses and gross scores? There's a “little Texas” smack dab in the middle of Beverly Hills. Not with those unsightly oil rigs, of course. The one drilling rig moving about the Fox lot is typically Hollywood — it's shrouded in baby blue nylon and has fiber glass soundproofing.

Once a well has been drilled, silent underground pumps take over. Adjoining private property owners have leased oil and gas rights for some of the slant drilling on the Fox lot. One time star Rochelle Hudson is one of those getting a monthly check from an oil well she can't even see four blocks from her home.

Yes, ma'am, oil riggers go through the gates at Fox along with stars and extras these days. A “gaiser” doesn't always mean a talkative agent and a “gr and” doesn't always mean a movie premiere. Drilling bits have become more important than bit roles and ground tests are going on not far from screen tests.

“There's gold in them thar hills” at Universal - International studio in San Fernando Valley, too. Literally. The studio is selling its backlot hills, some of them 500 feet high, to the state of California's freeway construction at the rate of 80 cents a yard.

The movie lot earth is being used for fills in Los Angeles freeway construction and the studio, it is said, will net about $1,000,000. It's the most profitable change of scenery in Hollywood history.

Russia Trying To Establish Self As Mediterranean Power

By CHARLES M. MCCANN United Press Staff Correspondent

Soviet Russia seems to be making a determined effort to establish itself as a Mediterranean power.

Several motives have been suggested for the current movement of Russian naval units into the Mediterranean from both the Baltic and Black Seas.

Officially, three submarines which went into the Mediterranean from the Baltic, after moving ostentatiously through the narrow English channel, have been handed over to Egypt.

Officially also, a cruiser, two escort ships and three motor torpedo boats which entered the Mediterranean from the Black Sea are preparing for maneuvers.

Two are Big

But two of the three submarines are big ones which Egypt could not possibly man even if they were suitable for its use, presumably in blockading the Gulf of Aqaba to Israeli shipping.

The two big ones may have been moved in to spy on the powerful United States Sixth Fleet, which is based in the Mediterranean waters.

As regards the “maneuvers” explanation for the presence of the surface craft, there is good reason to believe that Russia is making a show of strength for the benefit of the Arab countries, to demonstrate that the Sixth Fleet has no monopoly in Mediterranean waters.

The movement probably is intended also as an answer to the recent visit of British warships to Turkish ports in the Black Sea, which Russia likes to think of as a private lake.

Turkey is somewhat disturbed by the Russian activity.

Thrust From Unions

It is now clear that the American government is in league with labor unions.

Recently in the Wall Street Journal, writer Henry Gemmill gives an account of the money being spent by Washington in an effort to teach union leaders of Japan how things work in America, and also he gives an account of the money taken from the taxpayers which will be spent to teach American union leaders how things work in Japan.

Since union bosses are notoriously interested in pressure techniques, mass organizing methods, strike and picketing practices and so forth, it can reasonably be assumed that the federal government wants to be a participant in encouraging union leaders in both countries to understand these things in greater detail than they presently do.

At the moment, Einar Edwards, the State Department's foreign aid advisor for labor, is in Japan. He is in charge of spending close to a quarter of a million dollars, $240,000 to be exact, so that union bosses of Japan can come to America to observe union techniques and strategy from the American point of view. $139,750 this year, and more next year, is to be spent in underwriting the costs of such Japanese union bosses as Kumazo Nakachi, vice president of the All-Seaman's Union, and Kozuo Maekawa, vice president of the Tokyo Electric Power Workers Union, as they visit here with Walter Reuther, Dave Dubinsky, and possibly Dave Beck, learning the extortion racket from these experts.

Another bit of cash, $25,250 this year and more next year, is to be spent so that American union bosses like Bill Goldberg of the Ladies Garment Workers Union, and Andrew Pettis, vice president of the Shipbuilding Workers, can visit Japan and teach the Nipponese the skull cracking and dues collecting devices employed by them at home. And of course, if there are any new devices employed in Japan, these labor czars will pick up the knowledge so that Japanese methods can also be employed here against the workers and management. All of which costs are to be underwritten by the American taxpayers and spent with Uncle Sam's approval.

This is one of the most dastardly schemes for spending the people's money that has yet been devised. Why labor bosses, of all people, should be subsidized in this fashion is beyond understanding. Labor bosses, as a group, are among the highest paid executives in the country. Further, most of them have unlimited expense accounts and can certainly manage to cover the costs of their own travel. And as for paying for the importation of Japanese experts in the field of coercion, this goes even further in the direction of aiding and abetting international unionism.

We are astounded and appalled. But we understand that this is only the beginning. Labor bosses from Germany are also to be subsidized in this fashion, and there is no assurance that the same practice will not be extended indefinitely until the labor overlords of all the various countries in the world are given a free ride to this country so that they can pick up the latest on the use of brass knucks and lead pipe.

Of course the federal government excuses and explains the practice by insisting that a furtherance of union activity between nations will increase our mutual understanding and prepare the way for greater industrial cooperation. Perhaps this plea would carry greater weight if the government would list the various American unions which have already earned a reputation for cooperation.

In our book, labor bossism is nothing in the world but a private racket carried out under government approval. Now, in addition to the approval, the racket is to be subsidized by the taxpayers to the extent of much foreign travel both to and from America.

Even for unions, this new procedure strikes a new low.

Is this the way you figured your money was going to be spent? If you have any objections to the idea, you had better let your Congressmen know. The program is already in operation.

The Doctor Says

By EDGAR F. JORDAN, M. D.

A few weeks ago I noticed a small headline in a newspaper which read: "537 Indians Die of Smallpox."

Under the headline was a single sentence from the Indian dispatch which said: "Smallpox kills 537 Indians in week ending March 22."

Smallpox for centuries was one of the great killers of mankind and, as in India and other places today, it hangs over our heads ready to kill or maim if vigilance is relaxed.

Many will remember, for example, how about 10 years ago a traveler from Mexico brought the disease to New York. Six million or more were vaccinated inside of a month and the potential epidemic was prevented.

The fact that smallpox is so well under control most of the time in western countries is the result of a discovery made less than 200 years ago.

Here is what happened: A country practitioner of medicine in England named Edward Jenner noticed that milkmaids in his community did not get smallpox, even when almost everyone else caught the disease. He found that most milkmaids had scars on their hands which had come from a disease present on the udders of cows, called cowpox. Naturally, Jenner wondered whether this had anything to do with their resistance to smallpox.

Then Jenner made a daring and risky experiment. He took pus from the hand of a cowpox-infected milkmaid and scratched it onto the skin of a boy, James Phipps. In a few days James developed a sort of infected blister which soon healed.

Six weeks later Jenner took what he would have seemed a horrible chance. He inoculated the boy with pus taken from a patient with smallpox. Nothing happened. The first vaccination had "taken" and James Phipps was immune to the dread smallpox.

In this way vaccination was discovered. It is impossible to guess how many of us are alive today—and with our skins clear of disfiguring scars—because of the courageous experiment in 1796. But today, if too many of us fail to be vaccinated, smallpox can again appear with all its terror, as it does in India and elsewhere from time to time.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES

What Beliefs Result In Inflation

In the last issue I was explaining the beliefs that result in unemployment and the attempt of the government to relieve distress as a result of unemployment by inflation.

As unemployment spreads, as it did in the '30's, there is so much demand for assistance from the government that the government cannot tax enough or borrow enough to satisfy the voters so as to keep the officeholders in office. The result is that the politicians go off of the gold standard and make it a crime to own gold. And when they are off of the gold standard, they can increase the quantity of credit by way of the banks indefinitely, and the more they increase the quantity of credit, the less the paper dollar will buy. It takes, he ever, quite a long while before the voters realize what is taking place. And, of course, this increase in the quantity of credit is a way of reducing the real wages secured by labor unions under duress.

And, of course, when one group like the labor unions has special laws to permit them to extort from the general public, then other groups begin to put pressure on the officeholders. The farmers do not want to sell on a competitive basis if all they buy is sold on a non-competitive basis. When the unions by limiting apprentices and membership in unions, will not let the farm boys come in and compete in producing things the farmers buy and thus compel more people to stay on the farm than should stay on the farm, they believe that they, too, are entitled to protection from competition as is organized labor. Thus the politicians are obliged to subsidize the farmers to the extent of some $3 or $4 billion a year. This further requires an increase in the amount of credit and adds to the inflation.

The belief in the Graduated Income Tax is also a belief that tends to retard production and make things scarce with large quantities of credit. This also causes unemployment and tends to lead to a belief in more and more government assistance and interference. The belief in tariffs, minimum wages, immigration quotas and that the government has a right to do things that would be wicked if done by an individual, are also beliefs that lead to conditions that result in inflation.

Great Harm In Inflation Inflation does untold harm to mankind. It does this because it legally robs those persons who have tried to take care of their own needs by putting their savings in life insurance, in bonds, preferred stocks and fixed contracts. Their purchasing power is greatly reduced by inflation. And inflation also stimulates people going head-over-heels into debt. If they can go into debt and pay off in 10 or 15 years a dollar with one-half the actual value, then they are materially benefitting themselves at the expense of others. And this kind of inflation discourages initiative and thrift and tends to pauperize and barbarize all the people.

Besides the material harm done by inflation, it degrades the character of the citizens.

Yes, if we would correct inflation or reduce its injury to mankind, we must first understand the beliefs of the voters that bring about conditions that lead the politicians in order to keep his office, to go off the gold standard and increase the quantity of credit and irredeemable paper money. What is needed most to do this is to realize that the state cannot educate any more than a man can learn himself by his own bootstraps.

When the state "opts" to educate, the one-talent man has as much to say about selecting teachers and textbooks and associates as the wisest, and they invariably outvote the ten-talent man many, many times.

Yes, what we need is education that helps people understand the eternal laws that govern human relations.

A Kansas churchman, according to the Associated Press, told the American Baptist Convention, held recently in Philadelphia, that human liberties are in "grave danger in America."

The Rev. Dr. William F. Keucher, an executive of the Kansas Baptist State Convention, reportedly said pressures toward conformity "show an ugly head in religious circles by a desire for creedal conformity and denominational uniformity."

These drives, he asserted, declared, pose dangers in the fields of religion, education, politics, and social relationships.

And, in my opinion, Dr. Keucher is 10 per cent right. Jesus had this very problem to deal with among his original disciples. One day John said to Him, "Master, we saw one casting out devils in thy name, and he followeth not us: and we forbid him, because he followeth not us."

But Jesus said, "Forbid him not — For he that is not against us is on our part."

Ecclesiastical power tends to ward tyranny as inevitably as does political power. Hence, both

The BIG SCHOOL PROBLEM (Industrial News Review)

Stewart Alsop, the liberal-minded writer on current affairs, recently made a little tour of some suburban schools. He was motivated in this by the proposal that the federal government provide funds for classroom construction.

At the beginning of his trip, Mr. Alsop was inclined to agree with the proposal. But at the end of it, he was no longer so sure.

One reason for that is that the school situation, while serious in many places, "is not quite so desperate a crisis as it has sometimes been painted."

Another is that "if the federal government does move in, the federal government will stay in, despite the President's fond hopes." Still another is that "surely there is something to be said for the notion" that the citizens of a state "should be financially responsible for the education of their children."

Finally, Mr. Alsop came away from his tour with this impression—"that the teachers and officials I met, all admirable people, were a little too much interested in the buildings the children were taught in, and not enough in what they were taught."

All of these moderately-phrased observations are important—and the last is the most important of all. We will put the cart before the horse with a vengeance if we lay heavy emphasis on the physical characteristics of our schools—and only secondary emphasis on what goes on in the classrooms.

HOUSING HERE AND THERE (N. Y. Daily News)

For night onto 40 years, the Communist tyrants of Russia have been claiming to be taking care of all the needs of their slaves.

Now, they are suggesting through their kept newspapers that Russian workers take to building their own houses — a do-it-yourself movement in a country supposedly run on the principle that the Government should do everything for the people.

At the same time in our own capitalist country, Chairman Melvin H. Baker of the National Gymnasium Co. predicts that construction of about 900,000 new houses and says the total should be more than 1,000,000 in 1958.

This, despite tight money, rising costs of building, etc.

There would seem to be considerable life left in capitalism, despite the Commies' predictions (which have been heard for more than 40 years) of the early turning up of its toes.

As De Toqueville said, "Christianity is the companion of liberty in all its conflicts, the cradle of its infancy, and the divine source of its claims." It is then certainly the bitterest of ironies when powerful groups endanger our freedom while claiming to act in the liberating name of Christianity itself.

Are you looking for a new line of work? You might pick up a little money by having twins in your spare time. The movies prefer to hire twins for all baby parts because it gives them twice the amount of shooting time, according to Catherine Deeney, who is resident school teacher on the Paramount lot. California law is strict about infant working hours. No baby can work for more than 20 minutes a day and no shot, in which it appears, can run longer than 30 seconds. The wee ones are brought to their jobs in a company limousine and the law says they must not get to their place of employment earlier than 9:30 in the morning or stay later than 4:30 in the afternoon. Children between the ages of 15 and 30 days get $75 a day for their twenty minutes work ($150 for twins). After 30 days, the fee drops to $50. Some youngsters continue working off and on, through their childhood to finance their later education. Very few develop an ambition to be stars.

tive enterprise. This would build up the capital resources of our country, increasing our productivity. When government takes our savings and attempts to provide security for us, the money is not invested in constructive enterprise but is spent as rapidly as received, with no build-up of capital equipment, and hence no increase in production.

The scheme is popular and will no doubt prevail for many years because it does seem to give many people something for nothing and to relieve them of the responsibility of saving and investing their own funds. It is wrong in principle, however, and must be completely changed in form or it will eventually fail, with incalculable harm to our fiscal system and to the character of our people.

Public Power Scandals Discourage Further Work

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Public power enthusiasts' demand for government rather than private construction of Hell's Canyon Dam has suffered a serious blow from Congressional revelations of scandalous and inexcusable waste of taxpayers' money on a similar project.

It has been brought out before the House Appropriations Subcommittee on Public Works that almost $11,000,000 of work on the Oahe Dam Project in South Dakota has to be abandoned, a charge of faulty and footloose planning by the Bureau's engineering and legal staffs. They blundered with regard to the land and the law.

This same agency would build the Hell's Canyon system under a bill introduced by Senator Wayne L. Morse of Oregon. It would rescind the Federal Power Commission's award of this contract to the Idaho Power Company, and hand the job over to Reclamation. It has been reported favorably by a Senate Committee, and will reach the floor in a few days.

MILLIONS WRITTEN OFF AS WASTED — To make matters worse, although the $11,000,000 Oahe expenditure has been written off as wasted, it will remain as a permanent charge to consumers of power and users of irrigation from every Federal public work involved in the Missouri River Basin development. This unwarranted stock will contribute to an increase in their rates forever, and a burden on taxpayers everywhere.

It is not only the people of the Oahe area who will suffer from these bureaucratic blunders. The cost in extra power and irrigation rates will apply to everybody who draws a kilowatt of electricity or a pint of water from the numerous projects built along the river and its tributaries. This will include residents of Montana, Minnesota, the two Dakotas, Kansas and Nebraska.

STARTLING FACT BROUGHT OUT — Representative Ben Jensen of Iowa developed this startling fact in questioning W. A. Dexeheimer, Reclamation Commissioner. "So," said Jensen, "in the event that a project was abandoned say a project in the Missouri Valley, you would then throw the funds that you have spent into the over-all Missouri Valley account, and it would be a charge against the entire account, and would eventually be paid for. Is that right?" "That is right," replied Dexeheimer. And a report from Interior on this question clinches the point. It says: "The costs relating to the abandoned units are a part of the total cost of the Missouri River Basin Project."

Jensen also noted that the amount of useless construction totaled about 22 per cent of the entire cost of the Oahe Project, which is $46,810,000. Moreover, this wastefulness is a continuing operation. Whereas it amounted to only $5,274,165 a year ago, it crept upward by about $5,500,000 in the last 12 months.

OFFICIAL EXPLANATIONS — Committee members were shocked when Dexeheimer gave the reasons for this costly abandonment, since the Oahe dam, power and irrigation problem has been under preparation for 13 years, they could not understand why the difficulties had not been discovered and overcome long ago. Not a democratic member came to the Bureau's rescue.

Here are the various official explanations for "abandonment": (1) The units represented costs associated with areas that had to be dropped from the plan because they were "found to be economically infeasible," or the land was unsuitable to irrigation. They accounted for about $7,000,000.

(2) The water was not suitable for irrigation, or the irrigation systems had already been developed by local interests, such as states or Public Power Districts. Projects dropped for this reason totaled $2,000,000.

(3) Several proposed units were found to be under water, because the area had been inundated from dams at Garrison and Gavins Point, which were built by the Corps of Army Engineers. The two agencies have been squabbling for years for jurisdiction in construction of these projects.

(4) Perhaps the most inexcusable abandonment involved projects that could not be constructed because they violated the laws of Kansas and Nebraska, on diversion of water. Apparently, the Bureau's legalities did not bother to consult state authorities or statutes, taking what is granted that the Federal government was supreme. The amount of money involved here exceeded a million.

Impossible To Prove Baseball Is Business

By HENRY McLEMORE

NEW YORK — This business of trying to prove that baseball is a business and not a sport is not going to get anywhere.

Anyone with half an eye in his head knows that our national game can't be grouped with grocery stores, steel companies, automobile factories, and poultry farms.

The men who run businesses are out for money. Baseball owners couldn't care less for money. I remember Dan Topping of the Yankees telling me once that money made him positively ill, and Horace Stoneham of the Giants, who was standing nearby, said, "I feel the same way, Dan, and I'm sure Mr. Wrigley of the Cubs, Mr. Crosley of the Reds, Mr. O'Malley of the Dodgers, and Mr. Yawkey of the Red Sox, feel the same way we do."

If I had to agree, because I have known baseball owners for a long time, and the very mention of profit and loss, game receipts, and double entry bookkeeping would make them shudder. The late Clark Griffith of the Washington Senators didn't give a hoot about money. Like the late Connie Mack, he used to throw it around as though it was piano.

To make sure he didn't make money, and thus run the risk of being mistaken for a business, Mr. Mack used to sell his best players right and left. Rather than have a good team, and run the chance of drawing heavy patronage, he'd practically give away star players for a little as $100,000, $150,000, $75,000, and other peanut-like sums.

Mr. Griffith was the same. Rather than have the filthy stuff go into his pocket, he'd pay a pitcher like Walter Johnson as much as four and five thousand dollars a year, even if Walter wasn't sure of winning but 20 or 25 games a season.

And Mr. Navin of Detroit was that way, too. He didn't squawk at paying Ty Cobb even seven or eight thousand a year when Cobb couldn't be sure of stealing more than 75 bases a year, or hitting much over .375. Anything to keep that money from accumulating around office.

Take Ford Frick, the present High Commissioner of baseball. Frick knows he is in a sport and not a regular business — and he does all the work he does for the paltry salary of $65,000 a year.

Only a man dedicated to our national game would slave year in and year out for that. It's the same way with the baseball managers. How would you like to have to get by on a sum from $35,000 to $75,000 a year the way the managers have to? And they have to work all afternoon for seven or eight months a year for that. My hat is off to them. Public servants, that's what they are. I've often thought of starting a fund for Paul Richards, Casey Stengel, Birdie Tebbets, and all the rest. How they must have to scrimp and save to keep body and soul together!

Baseball couldn't be a business, because in a business the owner is always trying to make improvements in his plant so that he will entice more customers. There's nothing mercenary about baseball owners. They seat you in the same old stands, the same old seats where your grandfather sat, and they use the same parking facilities for automobiles that they did for horse and buggies.

All this fuss about owners making slaves of players, with the right to sell them like cattle, is nonsense. Any strings they have attached is for the player's good. Baseball players are boys at heart, playing a game for fun, and they need careful direction. The owners always think of what is best for these fun-loving fellows.

Baseball a business? Perish the thought!

'Bride And Groom' To March Down NBC-Television Aisle

By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP)—"Bride and Groom," a show which operates under the assumption that it's safe to play with matches, waltzes down your NBC-TV aisle next Monday.

A veteran of five campaigns on radio and four on TV, "Bride and Groom" will return July 1 on a Monday through Friday ticket to dispense free loot to willing new-lweds and a good cry to mama at home.

If its advance mail is any indication, the show's trend should be as high as guests at a wedding reception. Right now, letters are pouring into John Reddy, producer of the program, at the rate of a couple of thousand a week.

Free gifts galore to offer themselves as candidates for TV's aisle of bliss in exchange for honeymoon trips, refrigerators, silver, cameras, stoves and TV sets. In short, just about everything but a free Wasserman test.

"We're looking for interesting people with appealing stories," said Reddy today. "We want to have a happy show rather than a hard luck one."

"The whole object of the show is to give girls the kind of big wedding that only a Grace Kelly or a Queen Elizabeth gets in real life."

Chosen thus far to tie the knot on TV are a passenger from the Mayflower II and his girl who is flying here from England; a couple of Hungarian refugees who'll be wed July 4; and Senator (Edward) Ford and Louise Grace. You may remember Ford as panel member of radio's "Can You Top This?"

State Police Forces To Work For Safe Holiday

AUSTIN — Faced with the prediction that 10 persons will die in traffic accidents in Texas during the 24-hour period of July Fourth, Col. Homer Garrison, Jr., director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, has called state police forces together for a coordinated effort to prevent death and injury on our highways during the fourth of July holiday.

Col. Garrison has ordered all facilities of the Motor Vehicle Inspection Division and the License and Weight Division to bolster the force of the Texas Highway Patrol. Their mission will be that of patrolling our highways July 4 to remove dangerous drivers from the road before accidents occur.

"At least 120 more units from other divisions of the department will be in operation during the 24-hour holiday to add to the Patrol strength," he said. "Our divisions will patrol around the clock, and every effort will be made to reduce the death count from the 10 we anticipate."

The prediction of 10 traffic deaths came from N. K. Woerner, chief of the department's Statistical Division, who said 12 persons were killed in traffic accidents during the holiday last year.

Col. Garrison said law enforcement officers throughout the state once again will be working overtime to carry their part of the traffic law enforcement load.

In addition to the operation to prevent traffic deaths and injuries the Texas Department of Public Safety will be keeping its eye on all other forms of violence.

The department's OPERATION DEATHWATCH will be on effect for the 24-hour period starting at 12:01 a.m. July 4. In the operation all forms of death and violence will be reported to the department here.

The state police director urged all Texans who plan to celebrate the holiday to plan safety in their activities, especially while swimming. And he suggested that special care be taken with foods to prevent them from spoiling before eating time.

NUEVO LAREDO, Mexico (UP) — Msgr. Enrique Tomas Lozano, 63, pastor of Nuevo Laredo's main parish for the past 25 years, died Thursday of cerebral thrombosis. Lozano was an eloquent orator widely known on both sides of the border.

Framing this view of the impressive 211-foot Arrows to Atoms tower, the main symbol of progress on the Oklahoma Semi-Centennial Exposition grounds are two crude wooden derricks, which symbolize the early growth of the petroleum industry, Oklahoma's chief economic asset. The 66-foot high rig at left will be the principal display of the Anderson-Prichard Oil Co. Tidewater Oil is sponsoring the rig on the right. Both are on the outskirts of Boomtown, USA, one of the top crowd-stoppers planned for the exposition which opens in Oklahoma City June 14.

WASHINGTON — Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) on appointment of Democratic senators to an administration disarmament advisory committee:

"At any time the President deems it essential that they go to London to participate in the (disarmament) conference, we shall cooperate."
