'Rackets' Witness Bagged By Senate

By HERBERT FOSTER
And JOHN A. GOLDSMITH
United Press Staff Correspondents
WASHINGTON (UP)—The Senate Rackets Committee today bagged one of four missing witnesses in its sensational investigation of Teamster President Dave Beck.

$90 Theft Reported

The police department is attempting to locate the person who took $90 from the room of Donald Edgington, 220 N. Houston, last night while he was sleeping. Edgington reported to the police department this morning that he had placed the money, which was in his billfold, in a drawer and that when he woke up this morning the money was missing. He had cashed a check yesterday and placed the money in the drawer prior to going to bed, he reported.

Meeting Of School Board Held

The Pampa School Board met yesterday at 12:30 p.m. in the offices of the Pampa Hotel and authorized the advertising of school depository bids. Other items on the board's agenda were: the approval of the school calendar for the coming term of 1957-58; the authorization of the purchasing of supplementary school furniture for the Stephen F. Austin School; the advertising of bids for blinds for the windows of the Stephen F. Austin School and the paving of a drive in entrance at that school. The board also voted on the execution of necessary easements for the lowering of water and sewer lines for the Robert E. Lee Junior High School, and the building of curbs around the senior high school track. In the final meeting before adjourning for the summer, the board members approved the bills and invoices totaling $8,287.96. The meeting was presided over by Frank Smith, president of the board.

ing for weeks for Gessert and the three other witnesses. All were last reported to have slipped over the Canadian border to Vancouver. The other three are Dave Beck Sr., Beck's son; Fred Verschuere Sr., a teamster auditor, and Joseph McEvoy, husband of Beck's niece. Committee Chairman John L. McClellan has described Verschuere as a key figure in Beck's tangled finances. The other three have been described as playing important roles in several companies that have had business dealings with the union.

Lawyer Takes Witness Stand
The break in the search for the witnesses came as the committee called a Washington lawyer to ask him whether the Teamsters eased up on truckers who lent money to Beck.

The lawyer—Alfonso Landa—was called to shed more light on Beck's complex financial operations. Landa figured in the committee's testimony Monday. The committee also summoned A. M. Burke, head of the mortgage loan department for Occidental Insurance Co. in Los Angeles, and George Newell, insurance broker for the Western Conference of Teamsters.

Committee counsel Robert F. Kennedy said Newell's testimony would deal more with Western Teamster chief Frank Brewster than with Beck. Brewster was a principal target of the committee's March hearings.

Beck Due Later
Beck himself will be recalled Wednesday or Thursday when the committee hopes to conclude the current series of hearings, Kennedy said. So far, Beck has pleaded the Fifth Amendment 150 times to avoid answering committee questions.

The committee scheduled Landa as a witness after taking testimony Monday on a $200,000 loan made by trucking interests to Beck. Trailer manufacturer Roy Fruehauf and trucking executive B. M. Seymour said they knew of no subsequent deal which removed Teamster pickets from certain of Seymour's trucks and those of certain other truckers. Questions tossed at Fruehauf and Seymour were based on a series of memos which purport to have been signed by Arthur D. Condon who, like Landa, is associated with the law firm headed by former Sen. Millard E. Tydings (D-Md.). The firm until recently represented Beck and Condon assisted him in his testimony before the committee in March.

Condon, at the time of the memos, was a member of an independent advisory committee advising the trucking industry. Fruehauf and Seymour also were members. Strike Deal Charged Landa was marked in for copies of the memos. One of them dated Aug. 11, 1955 said New England truckers were circulating a letter criticizing Beck, Fruehauf and Seymour on the ground that a truckers strike was settled as a result of a "deal" which they engineered.

Britain, Egypt Relations Are Improving

By WALTER LOGAN
United Press Staff Correspondent
Britain and Egypt moved today along the slow and twisting path toward full restoration of their pre-Suez relations, but the move brought open rebellion in the British Conservative Party and a new Labor attempt to bring down the government of Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

The Laborites asked for a vote of confidence Thursday on Britain's newest "capitulation" to Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser and hoped the Conservative revolt would help them force new parliamentary elections. One junior Conservative minister, one member of the House of Lords and eight members of Commons quit Conservative ranks in protest against Macmillan's decision to let British shipping use the Suez canal on Egypt's terms.

Macmillan Confident
Macmillan still had a majority of 45 in Commons, but a block of abstentions by the Suez rebels could bring down his government and force new general elections. The Laborites were convinced they could win.

Diplomatic sources in Cairo said current economic negotiations between Egypt and Britain would open the way later for restoring full diplomatic relations but they said the process would be a lengthy one. The two nations begin economic talks in Rome during the next two weeks.

Egyptian sources hoped the first step would be the thawing out of 280 million dollars in pounds sterling frozen by Britain at the start of the Suez crisis. Egypt will now get some of those funds in British canal tolls. Israel Plans Test
The British decision to use the canal on Egypt's terms brought reports from Jerusalem that Israel would try to send a cargo through the canal in a chartered ship to test Egypt's blockade.

Israeli sources said the nation would hold up its plans until U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold tries to soften the Egyptian attitude. Israel has warned Egyptian attempts to halt the ship would be taken as an "act of war." Israel did not make it clear what it would do if the Egyptians stopped its cargo. Current plans call for the cargo to be shipped to Haifa from East Africa aboard the Danish vessel Jens Toft, which would be chartered to Israel. The test ship will try it later.

One Fire Call Reported Here

A car being driven with the emergency brake on resulted in an alarm for the fire department at 2 p.m. yesterday. The alarm was to 630 N. Stark-weather where the emergency brake had caught fire. Damages to the car were limited to the brake, firemen reported.

White House Haunted?

WASHINGTON (UP)—Is the White House haunted? Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty Monday night hinted—or did he?—that possibly a ghost or two flourishes in the old mansion despite its recent renovation. A reporter asked Hagerty on ABC's TV "Press Conference" whether—as an Irishman, of course—he had ever heard or seen anything of ghosts in the White House. "No, I haven't," Hagerty said. "But seriously the President has (See WHITE HOUSE, Page 3)

Home Builders Accept Challenge To Supply Rental Housing For Planned Cabot Expansion

Response to a Pampa need was both spontaneous and adequate in a meeting of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce board of directors yesterday at noon in the P. A. M. Room of City Hall. Pampa home builders, who had been especially invited to attend the meeting, met a challenge to provide additional housing here in order to expedite a planned expansion by Cabot Shops.

Reno Stinson, director of industrial relations for Cabot's Southwestern Division, told those present of the company's need for the housing if they were to follow through with plans to bring a substantial number of employees to Pampa in connection with the proposed expansion. Stinson said Cabot needed 50 houses, would like to have 75 and could use 100.

Stinson told the directors that the company had been planning to expand its operations in Pampa but added that if adequate housing was not available prior to Aug. 1, the expansion would have to be put off until next year, if it was undertaken at all.

R. A. Baker, general manager of Cabot Shops, told the group that he would be bringing here a number of highly skilled and supervisory personnel not available on the Pampa labor market. He pointed out that the progress of the project depends to a large degree on the availability of rental housing.

The memorandum read by Stinson to the group was as follows: "By Aug. 1, Cabot will need at least 50 rental houses for specialized people who will be moving to Pampa. Most of these houses, will need to have three bedrooms. Here is the proposition we will make to those who will cooperate with us and make houses available for us to assign to the employee we choose: "In the first place, we will guarantee that the rent will be paid, and second, we will stand good for any damage beyond normal wear and tear. We realize that under any program like this there will be a lapse in time between the time the house is ready and the time for the employee to occupy it. We will pay the rent during this

Army Cranes Clear Homes From Streets

Chamber of Commerce officials pointed out at the meeting that they felt "Cabot will have no trouble finding enough rental houses." Prizes for winners in the recent Chamber of Commerce membership campaign were awarded at the end of the meeting. A committee was chosen by the chamber this morning to study the housing problem in the area and to find ways and means of providing the necessary housing. Members are: Jake Osborne (chairman), Aubrey Steele, (secretary), Floyd Imel, C. P. Buckler, B. D. Robison, Tom Farwell, Jay Thompson, Frank Culbertson, Kirk Duncan, Bill Fraser, Roy Bourland, Paul Crouch and Quentin Williams. Advisors to the committee are: Reno Stinson, Horace Prince and R. A. Baker. The committee and advisors met this morning in the conference room of the chamber and have already started gathering the necessary information so that work may be started on the houses which were promised.

ment that Cabot was offering Pampa a fine opportunity without requesting or demanding subsidies as many industries do when moving into or expanding operations in certain cities. Those who volunteered to provide rental housing units for the incoming employees are the following: The Hughes Development Company, 10 units; Highland Homes, 3 units; Jake Osborne, 5 units; Frank Culbertson, 1 unit; Kirk and Ray Duncan, 1 unit; Floyd E. Imel, 1 unit; Jarvis Sone, 6 units; Lynn Boyd, 5 units; Ervin Pursley, 1 unit; Tom Fatheree, 1 unit; C. H. Munday, 1 unit; Roy Bourland, 1 unit; and Ward's Cabinet Shop, 1 unit. Some of the units will be built especially for use as rental housing in accordance with the specifications set by the Cabot Company, and others will be used as factory rental units. Several other companies pointed out they will probably furnish some rental units but would have to check to see how many.

Army engineers with giant cranes slowly cleared homes today from the streets of Lampasas, where 448 buildings were destroyed or damaged Sunday night in a three to five million dollar flash flood. City manager Dan Nixon, who made up the official figures on the damage, said there was looting, despite the efforts of soldiers, National Guardsmen and state police. "We still have some of that going on; not much," he said. "It's not a major problem." One woman complained that she returned to her home, which was swept across the street, to find a stranger coming through the front door with an armload of kitchen utensils. Four bodies recovered. The bodies of four persons who drowned were recovered. L.K. Gunderland, 70, was missing and believed dead. A flood 10 feet deep from Sulphur and Burleson creeks rolled through Lampasas, a town of 5,500 residents Sunday night during a cloudburst. The sun came out over Texas today, reducing threats of new floods on the Trinity River at Dallas and on the Brazos at Waco. Hundreds who had been moved out of homes in Dallas moved back in. Both the Trinity and Brazos were falling. Nixon said the buildings destroyed or damaged in Lampasas included a church, a school and a hotel. The Small Business Administration added Tom Green and Lampasas counties in Texas today to other Texas flood disaster areas eligible for government relief. Clearing Streets
A company of Army Engineers from Fort Hood, Tex., concentrated on clearing the streets of houses and debris so that residents and emergency workers could move about freely. Many of the homes were set down by the flood in good condition. These engineers took care to move aside without damaging them further. They can be hauled back to where they originally were and set up on new foundations. All over town, drying lawns were covered with water-soaked furniture and bedding, drying out in the sun. A detachment of medics from Fort Hood gave typhoid vaccinations to the city's residents. Makings of Epidemic
Authorities insisted that residents be vaccinated against typhoid, because they were afraid the flood left the makings of an epidemic behind. Flood sufferers eating at a Red Cross shelter in the First Baptist Church were urged to let themselves be vaccinated. Newsman Jules Loh of Waco went to the shelter to interview flood sufferers and the medics were so insistent that he rolled up his sleeve and got vaccinated. Lampasas' best known citizen, author and former city editor Stanley Walker of the New York Herald Tribune, said he talked to the widow of Warren Doolittle, 70, a Negro who used to work for him. Walker said Mrs. Doolittle told him that she tried to pile mattresses up in her home high enough to save her husband, who was paralyzed. But she ran out of mattresses and he was swept away and drowned. A blazing sun during the latter part of Monday dried out parts of the town. The creek quickly went back in its banks after disgorging the deadly floodwaters. Dallas Danger Lessons
In Dallas it appeared the Trinity River would fall short of a flooding crest and the danger lessened in lowlands of the city. If it comes from a hardware store, we have B. Lewis Howe, (Adv.)

Meeting On Lake Set For May 23

The public improvements committee of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce and the executive committee of the chamber will meet with the city and county commissioners and representatives of the Forestry Service of the United States Department of Agriculture on Thursday, May 23, in the coffee room of the Gray County Court House to learn what may be done in connection with the situation at McClellan Lake. The report of this meeting was made at the board of directors meeting yesterday by E. O. Wedgeworth, manager of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce, who said that the meeting was being called so that all official bodies concerned might have the latest report on the possible disposition of Lake McClellan. The situation at McClellan has been under investigation by the public improvements committee of the chamber of commerce, under the chairmanship of Floyd Watson, for the past month, during which time the chief inquiry has been as to just what the status of the lake is, and whether or not it may be taken over by county or city agencies, or turned over to private individuals. The actual legal technicalities involved in the matter are still not quite clear, and it is expected that the representatives of the Forestry Service office in Albuquerque, N.M., will meet with the city and county officials, will supply many answers to questions which may be posed. Congressman Walter Rogers of Pampa has been working on getting some answers in Washington, D.C.

Progress On Airline Service Is Reported

In a report to the board of directors of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce at yesterday's luncheon-meeting of the group, Ed Myatt, in the absence of C. R. Hoover, chairman of the aviation committee of the chamber, reported that Civil Aeronautics Authority representatives would be in this city within the near future to help determine what additional facilities are needed for the Perry LeFors Field in order to accommodate the requested scheduled airline passenger service from here to Fort Worth and Dallas. Myatt said that the committee has been in constant contact with Keith Kable, president of Central Airlines, who has assured the group of his company's desire to help in any way possible to restore service to the city in as short a time as possible. Myatt also displayed a list of 45 companies and their pilots who are currently using the field for business reasons.

City OK's Payment Of Underpass Cost

The City Commission this morning approved the payment of $288,109 to the State Highway Department for the city's cost of the Hobart Street underpass project. The approval of the payment of the funds resulted from the receipt yesterday morning by the city of the final agreement papers between the City of Pampa and the State of Texas on the city part of the project. The papers specified the city's part of supplying the necessary cost of the drainage system and for curb and gutters along the streets to be widened, Hobart and Alcock, and of the providing of the right-of-way. The plans of the highway department call for the letting of contract on the project shortly after the first of next month and construction work is scheduled to begin within a short time. The commissioners approved the plans and specifications for the two new fire substations and set the opening of bids on the construction of the two stations for 10 a.m. June 4. The site for the station to be located in the south part of Pampa was also purchased at a cost of $3,000 from Frank M. Carter. The site is located about 300 feet south of Field on the west side of S. Barnes. The date for the opening of bids for the new swimming pool to be located south of Carver School was also set for 10 a.m. June 4 after the approval of plans and specifications for the pool by the commission. The first and final engineer's estimate for the cost of construction of the new dog pound was approved by the commissioners. The dog pound, constructed by J. L. Colville, cost the city a total of $1,745. Other business approved by the commission this morning was the monthly bills of Lovett Memorial Library in the amount of $346.72 and the settling of the date for the canvassing of the votes in today's runoff election to determine the commissioner of Ward 4. The votes will be canvassed at the start of next Tuesday's meeting of the commission. No action was taken on a request made by Jess Hatcher for a concession to operate a train ride in the Hobart Street park. A discussion of cleaning up the city, proposed by Commissioner Ed Myatt, was held and plans called for a program to call attention to the fact that it is a violation of the law to throw refuse upon city streets. No definite plans were made this morning. The commission was still in session late this morning discussing the bids of nine local firms for the supplying of fuel and lubricants to the city. No action had been taken and the commissioners were still discussing the tabulations of the bids.

'The Freedom Shrine' To Be Dedicated Here Tomorrow

"The Freedom Shrine," a permanent exhibit of 28 authentic reproductions of such American historical documents as the Declaration of Independence, Bill of Rights, Log of Constitution, Star Spangled Banner, Monroe Doctrine, Emancipation Proclamation, and the United Nations Charter will be formally dedicated Wednesday at 9:45 a.m. during a special assembly period at Pampa High School, where the display will be housed. This was announced today by V. E. Wagner, president of the Exchange Club of Pampa, which is presenting the exhibit to the community. Presentation will be made by Wagner on behalf of the Exchange Club. The gift will be acknowledged by Jack Edmondson, principal of Pampa High School. All of the reproductions in the way of life.

collection were made by photographic experts of the National Archives, Washington, D.C., working directly from the original documents. The reproductions have been permanently mounted and protected against deterioration through the use of newly-developed processes in laminations and plastics. Freedom Shrines are being established in communities throughout the nation by local Exchange Clubs participating in the project inaugurated and developed by The National Exchange Club. "Through this patriotic project," Wagner said, "the Exchange Club is endeavoring to present graphically the positive answer to Communism and any other un-American ideology which may threaten our freedom."

Walt O'Keefe Is Back In Harness Again

By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP) — Walter O'Keefe, who was starring in radio when you and I were young, Maggie, likes to tell this story on himself:

"I was sending a night letter by phone about a year ago and after I'd finished, the operator asked for my telephone number and a home address. Then she asked my name.
"Walter O'Keefe!" she said. "My gosh, whatever happened to him?"
Back Again
Well, Walter, for the benefit of those who haven't heard, is back in harness again. After a two-year vacation from broadcast gulch, he is herding a radio show called "Nightline," an effort uncorked by NBC two weeks ago. It drops in on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights for 85 minutes.
"It's a nice relaxing show," said Walter as he wrestled leisurely with a horse's neck, "no effort, no strain. It's just what I want at this point."
"There's a lot of music on the show, but we also pick up events around the nation—the lock-up at San Quentin, a raid on a Tennessee still, the talk among chorus girls backstage at a musical. Man in Europe

"Right now, we've got a man over in Europe cutting on-the-spot tapes for the show. Me, I'm just the link, the guy who kind of pastes it together."
O'Keefe, still full of juice at 56, made his first network appearance in 1928 and later cavorted on such Cro-magnon art works as "Lucky Strike Magic Carpet," "The Rudy Vallee Show" and "Kraft Music Hall." He was quizmaster on "Double or Nothing" for six years on radio, dropping the chore in 1953.
He had a brief fling on TV, emceeing "Two for the Money" during the summers of 1953 and 1954 and filling in briefly for Garry Moore in 1955.
Since his bow-out, O'Keefe has been living in Pasadena, Calif. "One thing I have decided," he said, "and that is that I'll never work hard again. I just don't ever want to sweat again, to take my problems to the pillow at night."

the same suit. The ace and another club were played and West was in with two good hearts.
He cashed quickly and poor East had to make two discards. He couldn't unguard his jack of spades very well and grudgingly gave up his queen and nine of diamonds.
New West was down to diamonds and led the king. This play completed the suicide squeeze. East had to let something go. He chose to discard a spade whereupon declarer won the last three tricks with spades.
East should have restrained his

New Bobby-Soxer Idol Latches On To New Fad

By ALINE MOSBY
United Press Hollywood Writer
HOLLYWOOD (UP) — New bobby-soxer's idol Anthony Perkins' main job these days is making love to that senior-size glamour queen, Italy's Sophia Loren, in "Desire Under the Elms." But between scenes on the Paramount set Tony is busy composing titles for his forthcoming

Perkins has latched onto Holly record album.
"How about 'Songs to Pull Taffy By'?" he reflected as he relaxed under the set's elm tree today.
Such a scene is usual around movietown. Since Tab Hunter found startling success by recording "Young Love," actors who never had warmed up their pipes before are angling for record contracts.
Despite a voice described by one critic as sounding like a sick fog-horn, Robert Mitchum is a new recording star. Natalie Wood has signed to sing on records; Jerry Lewis' Al Jolson-type recordings are best sellers. Jeff Chandler and Elizabeth Scott are other "Sunday Singers."

Perkins first recorded a song from a TV show that pushed him to movie stardom, "Joey." As he recalls, "I was very nervous and it came out badly and it sold badly, too."
"However," he continued, "I recorded another song, 'Friendly Persuasion' (from the movie that won him an Oscar nomination). I was a little nervous and not with it and it went very badly and sold badly."
"The record company suggested rock n' roll so I did that but I was very nervous, etc.," sighed Tony who, his friends say, is often a nervous young man.

"But a couple of weeks ago I sang on the Ed Sullivan Show and it went better so now I'm doing an album of six numbers. At the first recording there was such a horrible mixture of obstacles that I did the song very well and wasn't nervous at all and I hope the next five songs go as well."

Appropriation Bill Is Up For Debate

AUSTIN (UP)—The two billion dollar appropriation bill may come up for debate in either the House or Senate today.

Passage of the measure would open a door toward final adjournment for the payless legislators. A lobbyist registration bill by Rep. J. C. (Zeke) Zbranek of Hull-Daisetta was passed by the Senate Monday with a complete substitute amendment by Sen. Charles Herring of Austin.

The measure, requiring sworn reports of all expenditures above $25 spent in influence legislation, now goes to the House for concurrence or rejection of the amendment. Zbranek said he would ask the House to reject it and call for a joint conference committee to work out differences.

Second Congressman
The upper chamber gave tentative approval to a congressional redistricting bill junking the congressman-at-large post and giving Harris county (Houston) a second congressman.

A key water conservation bill providing a 100 million dollar bond issue for purchase of conservation storage in federally - built reservoirs was approved by the Senate. The lobbyist bill requires all lobbyists to register with the speaker of the house and the lieutenant governor and make monthly statements of all expenditures above $25 in connection with legislation.

Killed Exemptions
Zbranek objected to the amendment because it struck out all exemptions contained in the House-approved version.

An amendment moving Sabine county from the second to third congressional district and leaving Mitchell county in the 19th district were tacked to the redistricting bill.

The House approved a general claims measure providing refunds.

WHITE HOUSE
told me more than once that the presence that he feels more than anyone else is Abraham Lincoln when he is in the White House."

Hagerty said, however, President Eisenhower has not heard Lincoln.

The reporter who asked Hagerty the question noted he has read that Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands met Lincoln face to face in the White House.

He said he also has read that Mrs. Roosevelt saw ghosts.

Moreover, Mrs. Lincoln herself was reported to have insisted that often at night she heard the ghosts of Andrew Jackson swearing and Thomas Jefferson playing his violin.

And that's not all. She also said (sotto voice) she heard old John Tyler wooing his 20-year old second wife.

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass
Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plates dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Sprinkle a little FASTEREETH, alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Your false teeth more firmly, or they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEREETH at any drug counter.

THERE IS A VIRUS BARRICADE WITHIN YOUR BODY

A virus is a poison chemical created in the tissues of our bodies when something goes wrong with its cellular chemistry during an illness. Let's think of spoiled fish for a moment. It is poisonous. It contains a virus. It is spoiled because the cellular chemistry changes have created a virus that is deadly.

This virus is popularly looked upon as causing rather than resulting from an abnormal bodily condition.

Anyone who has fooled with a chemistry set knows that the slightest deviation from required measurements and processes will bring a beautiful unpredictable end result, sometimes bordering on the disastrous.

Consider the chemistry of the body. The factories or laboratories within us are the glands which produce the various chemicals. The master, controlling chemist is the nervous system which controls, correlates and integrates all bodily processes.

Suppose this master chemist is unable to send proper messages to a factory or laboratory, causing that factory or laboratory to create an inferior product or the wrong quantity. Then a hot nerve could set up a hot end plate that destroys cells. This disintegration of cells creates a virus like the spoiled fish. Different type cells create different virus. All because of an interference or disturbance in the nervous system. The proof lies in many clinical cases wherein virus ailments disappear readily after the nervous system is restored to normal. Consider this actual case from our files:

A little girl six years of age was brought to the Miller Chiropractic Clinic by her parents who said she had a virus and was very nervous, slept badly, awakening frequently and had upset stomach and frequent vomiting. This condition had persisted despite repeated efforts of her regular doctor over a considerable time to locate the virus supposedly causing her trouble.

Our examination and spinal analysis disclosed nerve interferences. Adjustments brought about orderly alignment and restored normal nerve transmission all of which brought "bodily process" back to normal integration and function. The symptoms just vanished into thin air. No cause was left so there were no effects. A virus barricade is a normal nervous system. No. 2656

Congress Is Insisting On Cut In Postal Budget

WASHINGTON (UP)—Congress today insisted on a 58 million dollar cut in the postal budget despite threats of new service reductions.

The Senate Monday night passed the House-cut Post Office Department budget and returned it to the House for approval of a minor amendment.

The money bill—first passed by the Senate this year—calls for $3,884,927,000 to operate the Post Office, Treasury departments and the U.S. Tax Court during the next fiscal year.

Summerfield had warned that if the bill were passed without restoration of the cuts he would have to reduce postal service in July. Moreover, he said he might need an extra 90 million dollars.

Some help may be coming from the House.

The House Post Office Committee drove toward final action on the administration's postal rate increase bill. It would boost postal rates 462 million dollars the first year.

Other congressional news:
Agriculture—The House headed into a debate on the $3,700,000,000 Agriculture Department budget. The House Appropriations Committee cut the budget $272,556,000. Some congressmen sought still deeper cuts.

Guards—A House armed services subcommittee voted to back an Army plea for more money to maintain the National Guard's drill strength at 400,000. The Army had warned it might have to shut off enlistments next month because of a shortage of training funds. Witnesses told the subcommittee the shortage was caused by the unexpected success of the new Guard recruiting program.

The most successful wives are women who make a man feel like a man.
A woman doesn't accomplish this by trying to "mother" him, chiding over his health, constantly reminding him to do this or that, always wanting him to be safe and never to take a chance.
A woman doesn't make him feel like a man if she meets his masculine attitudes with resentment and begins to wear a "mea are all alike" chip on her shoulder.
No does a woman help a man to feel more of a man if she tries to boss him.
Or if she is determined to try and mold him into her idea of a perfect husband.
A wife makes him feel like a man first of all by obviously liking him as he is. It helps if she is free with her admiration and if she bites her tongue when she is tempted to criticize or find fault or nag.
It is important for her to make him feel her dependence on him — faith in his ability to look after her. One of the reasons why it is often a mistake for a wife to go to work — unless she has to — is because it so often seems that she has lost confidence in his ability to make a living for his family.
If she wants to contribute toward his feeling of masculine pride and strength, a woman doesn't tie an apron around a man's waist in

Pretty Women Are Modern Priscillas Pretty At Any Age Plan Sew Classes

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

Have you longed for your lost youth ever since your 40th birthday? You've been downright foolish if you have.

Certainly, 40 is a signpost on the road to middle age. But if we're honest, how many of us on the other side of it can see or feel anything very different about ourselves?

With all the knowledge at our fingertips today concerning cleanliness, diet and proper exercise, we're enjoying far better health than the mature woman of many years ago. That knowledge, together with the great advancement in cosmetics, helps to keep us looking a lot younger than our years.

If you're smart, you can make the years work for you. After all, you gain dignity and poise with time and become wiser in the ways of good grooming. That in itself is beauty.

When you go shopping, don't fall for "It makes madame look so young!" More likely, it makes madame look silly. Decide in a steady whether the dress fits your personality, or if the hat is right for your figure.

And since good grooming is a mature woman's best investment, be sure that what you buy can be kept meticulously clean and fresh with a minimum of effort.

Washable knits and drip-dry dresses are the best choices. They make it simple for you to always look as though you'd just stepped out of a handbox.

When gray hair starts to make its appearance, don't let it throw you. Tint your hair, by all means, if you feel you'll look more attractive. But remember that the shade of your hair is a lot less important than its cleanliness and sheen.

Give your complexion greater care than ever before. Wash your face daily at least twice with rich, warm suds. Diligent complexion care will enable you to wear the lighter make-up tones so perfect for the mature woman, without fear of having to hide facial blemishes.

Little touches of white are always flattering, but only when they are fresh and sparkling. When you launder white neckwear, you'll get better results if you massage the band with a good, soapy lather before rinsing the entire collar.

The little appointments of a woman's costume make so much difference in this business of being beautifully groomed. Make sure your accessories always look as though they belonged to someone who cares about her appearance.

Stop worrying about the approach of maturity. Remember that it brings with it sophistication in its true sense — meaning that you've learned a lot. And if you've learned the art of good grooming, you have a charm many a younger woman will envy.

If your china has a decorated pattern, try a plain crystal to offset it. And similarly, for a plain white china, use a decorated crystal.

The successful hostess is one who sees to it that her guests are comfortable all evening long. So it's a wise idea to take a chair count before you make out a guest list. Be sure you have enough chairs to go around.

an attempt to turn him into her household helper.

When you get right down to it, it's fairly simple. If a woman enjoys being a woman then she will enjoy making her husband feel every inch a man.

She used a chain ceremony with Jerry Hester representing the student, Mrs. Bill Earls representing the home, and Dale Parvin representing the school. The officers installed for the new year were: Mmes. Sinclair Armstrong, parliamentarian; John D. Richards, reporter; Bill Reeves, treasurer; Hickman Brown, secretary; Dale Parvin, vice president; Hershel McCarty, president.

Folsom Is All Wet

We have no idea that most people will swallow the argument of Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Folsom who said that federal control would not follow federal aid to education.

Most of us are too much like the burned child who shuns the fire to accept at face value the pronouncement of a federal bureaucrat who is seeking more centralization of government.

Secretary Folsom said that the fear that federal aid means federal control is "simply a phony."

A counter viewpoint, and not a new one by any manner of means, is expressed in the old rhyme which goes:

So runs the law and so the law will run
Till the race of men be still,
That he who eats another's bread
Must do the other's will.

Secretary Folsom knows, as does any other governmental administrator working anywhere near his level, that there are all sorts of statistics to prove almost anything. HE says that state school authorities say, that there is a shortage of 159,000 classrooms. He knows as well as the next man that to arrive at this figure there are a number of variables that have to be taken into consideration.

A "forinstance"? For instance, if the "state school authorities" determine that 25 students in a classroom is the maximum that ought to be in one class at one time — and the class grows to 35 then two fifths of all the students in schools today are requiring additional classrooms. Such a figure would then give an astronomical number of classrooms that are "needed" for the schools and on this basis there would be a terrible shortage.

The fallacy of such an argument obviously is in the predetermination of how many students ought to be in a classroom. Using the same figures and deciding that the maximum number of students ought to be 36 instead of 25 we would then find that instead of a shortage of classrooms there would actually be, on paper, a shortage of students.

But all of the argument pro and con on whether there is any shortage, a mild shortage or a critical shortage, is beside the point. The point is that there is no escaping some federal control simply by complying with the rules and regulations set down by the federal government for states which are to receive this "aid." And once the pattern is set—once there is compliance with a few relatively simple rules—there is no end to the addition to these rules.

Another "forinstance" is the situation that has developed in the states south of the Mason-Dixon line. For the most part, these are the "poor" states that need the help of the "rich" states. But there is already legislation proposed to require, as a condition of receiving any federal aid, that the integration ruling of the Supreme Court be complied with by the state getting the money.

For a great many residents of the South, this is federal control, while northern states would probably find nothing onerous in this particular rule or regulation but might be just as sharply opposed to some other particular rule or regulation set up in the compliance for the money. As is so often the case, in such a matter as whether federal aid is followed by federal control or not, the only guidepost people have is "the record." Well, what is the record? Have we had more centralization of taxation, more centralization of money gathering or not? And has this centralization been followed by controls or not? We think the record is amply clear to show that controls DO follow such centralization.

A specific example of how federal controls follow federal aid is given in a report a little over a year ago in connection with the federal cash subsidy for school lunches in Los Angeles.

When it was started, the federal subsidy was 9 cents for each "Type A" meal—and the federal government determined what a "Type A" meal was. Year by year the amount of subsidy was slowly reduced and in the eight years from 1947 to 1955 went from 9 cents to less than 4 cents. But the federal requirement for a "Type A" lunch remained the same. Last year the federal government announced that the protein content of lunches under the subsidy program would have to contain 3 and 1/5 ounces of protein instead of 2 ounces. At the same time it was announced that the subsidy would probably be less than 3 cents per meal instead of the 9 cents that had first been started.

We don't present these facts to get into a discussion of just how much protein ought to be in a child's lunch, but to show that federal aid is followed by federal control and here, specifically, in the school program.

For some reason or other, we are not willing to see that there is no way the federal government can aid the state a nickel unless that nickel is first taken away from the residents of the various states and then returned less the federal handling charge.

It is a little like a doctor draining four pints of blood from a man and the exclaiming, "Why, you look anemic. I'm sorry for you. You need aid. I am going to give you a pint of blood from my plasma bank."

If all of this is not enough to discourage us from going for the fallacy of federal aid to schools then maybe the fact that one of the principal planks of the Communist Manifesto calls for centralization of the nation's schools will do the trick. Federal aid to schools ought to be opposed, regardless of what reason you happen to prefer for the opposition.

More Causes For Increased Crime

In the last issue I quoted from the FBI report showing the crime increased in the United States in 1956 over 1955 13.3 per cent. I pointed out that among the causes of this increased crime was the practice of children being trained by teachers who did not believe they need teach well enough that people would voluntarily pay them; that the belief in labor unions that took away from an individual his right to make an individual bargain was a bad example for the youth of the land.

When the elders practice that might-makes-right, then in effect, they deny that there are any principles. It is only natural for the youth as he grows up to believe there are no principles; that he can get what he wants on an involuntary basis, just as labor union members and school teachers get what they want by the threats of force or by actual force.

Other Influences

The shorter work week gives people a lot of time, and if these people do not want to use this time to develop their mental and spiritual faculties, they are inclined to do things that get them in trouble. Idleness is the devil's workshop.

If they were permitted to work longer and not limited by the government and the labor unions so that they could learn to be useful, they would have a higher standard of living, better homes and better environment. This would tend to cause them to take pride in their own accomplishments and not be so inclined to try to obtain things by the use of aggressive force or fraud.

Compulsory School Attendance

Another cause of crime is requiring the youth of the land to attend school when he is not interested in book learning; when he wants to start to learn a trade and be useful to himself and mankind. And when the boy thinks somebody has a right to imprison him and take away from him his liberty, his right to choose, it is only natural for him to grow up to believe he has a right to interfere with other persons' liberty and right to choose.

Of course being obliged to join a labor union that is unprincipled in order to work at any building trade or many other lines of work is a bad influence and leads to crime.

The government passing lots of laws that would be wickered if done by an individual tends to establish the belief that men can do things collectively that would violate the Declaration of Independence and the Golden Rule if done as individuals.

But why do people believe in all these laws and practices that interfere with man's inalienable rights? It is the ideologies that are in men's minds or hearts that lead to crime, and by, as stated previously, many preachers who are contending that the Commandments have been superseded by what they call the new commandment. But this new commandment is vague and mystical and is not based on moral principles, while the old Commandments are based on principles and are much easier understood than the commandment accredited to Jesus, which says: "That ye love one another as I have loved you."

Those preachers who want to violate the old Commandments insist that this commandment, which they cannot explain—nor do they can—be used. This gives them the permission to steal and covet and do it legally. This confusion in the meaning of the Commandments is largely the cause of the increase in crime. And when the preachers espouse this false doctrine that the Decalogue has been superseded it is only natural that the members of their church come to believe that same fallacy—that there are no eternal moral laws that cannot be changed.

Men do not pick figs from thistles, and we are reaping thistles rather than figs.

"OPEN SKIES" NONSENSE

(Chicago Daily Tribune)

At the Geneva "summit" conference of July, 1955, Mr. Eisenhower made what he conceived to be a dramatic gesture for peace. He proposed that Russia and the United States permit mutual aerial inspection of their countries to abate fear "that one or the other was mobilizing for aggressive action. They were to be free to photograph each other's military installations.

This scheme has been kicked back and forth ever since. Now at the London "disarmament" conference the Russians have gone further than they ever were disposed to before to accommodate Mr. Eisenhower in his goofy design. Of course, there are, as usual, gimmicks in the soviet proposal. Roughly, what Moscow offers is that we be permitted to fly over the western fringe of European Russia and the territory under soviet satellite governments, and also over large and vacant expanses of eastern Siberia and the soviet far east. In return the Russians are to be privileged to engage in aerial snooping for a distance of 500 miles west of the iron curtain (which would put them over Germany, France, Italy, Belgium, Holland, and part of England), and also to fly all will over Alaska and all of the United States from Chicago and New Orleans west to the Pacific coast.

Obviously, this arrangement is loaded in favor of the soviet union. It would expose little Russian territory of any value to the scrutiny of the air cops. It would put soviet planes over many of the major targets in the territory of Russia's chief adversaries.

When Russia asks us to acknowledge her right to grant us permission to fly over the satellite countries, Russia is asking us to recognize that she owns and runs those countries. Acceptance of this proposition would deaden any hope among the captive peoples for eventual liberation.

But the chief drawback of the "open skies" scheme is a defect that was inherent in the plan when it was first advanced. That is that such inspection is meaningless. When Mr. Eisenhower originally offered the proposal, he could only have been thinking of a form of warfare that was already obsolete. His plan would work only if wars of the atomic age were still waged by concentrating armies on the frontiers. These movements of men and supplies might be visible from the sky.

The Doctor Says

By EDGAR P. JORDAN, M. D.

Mental illness of various sorts is surely one of the most important health problems facing us today. It is not a single problem, but a whole series, because mental disorders are of different origins, different behavior and often require different treatments.

The National Assn. for Mental Health has issued some interesting and up-to-date information on certain aspects of the problem. It is now thought, for example that unless the present trend is reversed every 10th child born in 1957 will some day land in a mental hospital. This is twice the number expected to require hospitalization for mental illness 20 years ago.

AT THIS time there are about 750,000 patients in mental institutions and 350,000 more will be admitted or readmitted during the year. In 1956, 2 1/2 million men, women and children were treated for some form of mental disorder. Children and teen-agers are more prone to mental illness than is commonly understood and about 5,000 are admitted to state mental hospitals each year.

The majority of patients hospitalized for mental illness are in state institutions and these cost the taxpayers more than one billion dollars a year, or about three million dollars each day. Furthermore, the number of new admissions to mental hospitals will result in the loss of four billion dollars in potential earnings and over two million working years of life.

Mental illness costs industry an estimated 12 billion dollars each year in absenteeism and job accidents.

ONE MENTAL disorder known as schizophrenia is particularly a disease of young adults. This is a true mental disease usually characterized by what is called a split personality, sometimes called dementia praecox.

MENTAL ILLNESS is not confined to youth and old age. There is another condition called involutional psychosis, which is particularly common between the ages 45-58 and which has been increasing in frequency.

But we can expect that any war of our day will be opened either by the firing of intercontinental missiles or by the dispatch of long range bombers bearing nuclear bombs. Missile launching sites are easily concealed and may be well back of the attacking nation's frontiers. Who, from the sky, can tell by looking at planes drawn up on the air field of a potential aggressor whether these planes might be taking off a few hours later with a cargo of hydrogen bombs?

Military experts know that enemy submarines with atomic missiles can approach close to our shores with a good chance of escaping detection; that enemy merchantmen can anchor in our ports with atomic bombs in their holds capable of creating immense damage; that atomic material can be smuggled into a country and hidden until the signal for attack, and that similar lethal charges can be brought up the St. Lawrence waterway. These bombs could be detonated by radio signal from the air at a prearranged hour, and how could the impulse be transmitted more easily than from planes granted a right to be over our heads?

These are some of the obvious bugs in the "open skies" scheme. There are others, among them the fact that our existing laws forbid unauthorized air traffic over atomic and military installations. Mr. Eisenhower was storing up trouble for his country when he embarked upon this ill conceived idea, which was never half thought out. He had better lose no time extricating himself from the potential consequences by disowning his handiwork.

FOR REFLECTION

with JAMES C. MOBERTSEN, President, Socialist Mobilization.

Joseph Curran, president of the National Maritime Union, reportedly charged recently that industry groups were seeking national legislation that would ban the union shop "and all other forms of union security."

In letters to all Senators and Representatives, Mr. Curran is said to have declared that such legislation would "seriously restrict trade unions in their legitimate activities."

But he failed to state how he defines what "legitimate activities" include strikes, destruction of property, levying of tribute on unwilling people, physical violence or threats of violence against those who refuse to kneel under to them, and, in short, virtually the complete domination of this country's economic life, then, of course, such legislation would "seriously restrict trade unions in their legitimate activities."

But, if trade unionists are "to live" by the same laws and principles that apply to the rest of us and if the Constitutional guarantee of "equal protection of the laws" is to prevail, then Mr. Curran is 100 per cent wrong. The facts are, indeed, just the other way round. Labor unionists now enjoy a legally privileged status denied to the rest of us. And, until this travesty on justice is ended, freedom to pursue their genuinely legitimate activities will continue to be denied to many in this strange country of ours.

Congressional Investigation Of An Invisible Government

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — The Congressional decision to investigate the "invisible government" which has grown into such an uncontrolled power at Washington has been underscored by a sensational but generally unnoticed ruling of a Federal Trade Commission examiner that is of bread-and-butter, dollars-and-cents importance to every American.

In an unfair practice action brought against a supermarket chain that has 238 stores and gross sales $475,000,000 of business annually, the examiner found that the organization was immune from supervision by the Federal Trade Commission, which has jurisdiction over monopolies, prices and competitive methods. It is the authorized guardian against activities harmful to consumers and competitors.

The chain had been accused of discriminatory practices. But the "eager beaver" examiner found that the 238 stores came under control of the Department of Agriculture simply because it operated a small meat-packing plant representing an investment of only $2,700,000.

By establishing this relatively small and insignificant sideline, the great nationwide concern was able to escape the only agency sufficiently equipped and experienced to enforce antimonopolistic statutes.

Unfortunately, the Secretary of Agriculture's staff is wholly inadequate to give this protection to consumers. He has never tried to do this job at all, even though the 1921 law assigning him this authority was plain enough in its language.

However, due to lack of funds, Agriculture has not tried to enforce antitrust laws even against those companies which clearly fall under its jurisdiction—large firms slaughtering, processing and selling meat products.

It is true that the examiner's finding was legally and technically correct. But critics point out that he should have permitted plain common sense to influence his decision. However, this is a virtue which many of these agencies are charged with lacking.

Thus, if the FTC and the Federal Courts upheld the examiner's ruling, the consumer will have no protection with regard to the prices of such an important article of the budget as food.

But the worse evil, according to Representative Emanuel Celler of New York, Chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, is the threat which this viewpoint poses to all laws and enforcement provisions designed to safeguard millions of buyers. Citing the effect of the examiner's ruling, he says:

"This device could be used by tire producers, battery manufacturers, integrated oil companies, or any other industrial giant, to eliminate antitrust enforcement by the Federal Trade Commission over monopolistic practices that result in unfair and discriminatory methods of competition."

In other words, in order to get out from under the Federal agency authorized and able to check and control its possibly illegal activities, all a corporation has to do is to set up a meat-packing plant or some other appropriate sideline at minimum expense. And imagine Secretary Ezra Taft Benson's success in supervising the operations of General Motors or the Pennsylvania Railroad!

The FTC situation is, perhaps, the most spectacular example of the serious and dangerous effects of "invisible government," as practiced by scores of alphabetical agencies at Washington. But it explains why the indignant Speaker Sam Rayburn sponsored the first thorough investigation of their operations since they became virtually a fourth arm of the government under F.D.R.'s New Deal and War Administration.

Love Livin' In Cool Comfort With Clear-Vue From C & M

CLEAR-VUE AIR CONDITIONERS FOR PLEASANT LIVING—Evert Carmon, owner-operator, and Dick Steddum and Chuckie Leonard, salesmen, of C & M Television, 308 W. Foster, show the new, 1957 Clear-Vue Evaporative Air Conditioner that provides air conditioning at low costs. Clear-Vue is the air conditioner that will cool for years. C & M also features Black and White and Color Television Sets, General Electric Appliances. For cool living with leisure, visit C & M Television, 308 W. Foster.

Summer living will be fun in the cool comfort of a Clear-Vue Evaporative Air Conditioner. And the fun will be yours after your visit to C&M Television, 308 W. Foster, MO 4-3511, area retailer and distributor for Clear-Vue. This is the way evaporative air conditioning works:

Water, in evaporating, absorbs heat. The heat absorption takes place when the warmer outside air passes through the film of water in the cooler pads. The higher the outside temperature and the lower the humidity the greater the evaporation and the greater the cooling power. The reduction of the temperature is 15-23 degrees, the recommended maximum inside-outside temperature differential.

As the cooler air circulates through the room it absorbs heat from objects in the room which reduces the radiated heat felt by the body. Since the volume of air circulating is much greater than in refrigerated air conditioning, it is not necessary to reduce the temperature of objects in the room for effective air conditioning to be felt.

Cuts Costs
No long cooling off period is necessary. Within seconds after turning the air conditioner on you are effectively cooled. The large volume of air moving through the room also cools in another way. As the air passes over the body it evaporates the surface moisture reducing the temperature of the skin.

One of the major advantages of evaporative air conditioning is economy. The initial cost of evaporative air conditioning for a given area, large or small, is only 20 per cent to 30 per cent of a corresponding refrigerated installation. And the cost of operating an evaporative air conditioner is as little as 10 per cent of the cost of operating a refrigerated unit.

Obviously the large volume of air passing through and out of the room will carry with it smoke and odors. The room will stay fresh and odor-free regardless of the number of people or the activity in it.

How To Sell A Million Platters

By DOC QUIGG
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (UP) — How do you get to be a big enough star to sell a million record albums? Easy, man. Dig this gasser with the white hair and the quick grin, daddy-o. He blows a mean piano. Maybe the greatest heard in the world today. He's sold more than a million 50-minute albums in seven years.

What's his secret? Well, all he did was start playing at age 3, give his first concert, for charity, at 5, and during the last half century travel into almost every country for 5,000 to 6,000 formal concerts. Now, at 68, he figures he knows his business.

One of the greatest The man's name is Artur Rubinstein. The remarkable thing about him, aside from the sustained brilliance that makes him one of the world's greatest musical performers, is his bubbling life and love of the humor of life. His blue eyes dance when he tells a story.

Like the one about his dear friend Lady Asquith, who came to a concert he gave in London, back in 1935.

"I felt at my best that night," he recalls. "I was doing fine—So well that as I played I was thinking over what encores I'd give 'em. It was a great night, and I figured I'd do four or five encores."

"At the end of my recital there was an enormous outburst of applause. People stood and shouted 'bravo!' I left the stage, returned, took a bow, left again—and then there was silence. The applause stopped. I went out, and the audience was leaving. I was flabbergasted."

"I asked the stage manager what was happening. They're going home," he replied. "Later I found out what had happened."

FLOOD BATTERED, BUT IT'S HOME

ABILENE, TEX. — Familiar surroundings outweighed all flood discomforts with Mrs. Gertrude Hurd, 75-year-old blind resident of the flood-struck North Park area here, who insisted on returning to her home as soon as waters went down sufficiently, despite urging from friends and Red Cross workers. Here she sits in her favorite chair from which she says she can find her way to anything in the house. Helping her is Estell Johnson, one of the 56 trained Red Cross national disaster workers who have been dispatched to the Southwest storm area to assist chapter volunteers in helping disaster stricken families restore homes, furnishings and other living necessities. Red Cross relief operations have been constant throughout the month of April in Texas, with workers now spread through eight tornado swept counties and 18 other counties affected by floods.

Majors Used Off Day For Trimming

By TIM MORIARTY
United Press Sports Writer

A host of players on 10 major league teams today probably felt like a traffic violator waiting for a patrolman to hand him a summons. Six clubs already have trimmed their rosters to the required 25-player limit, a United Press survey revealed, but 18 more heads will roll before the cutdown deadline at midnight Wednesday. In the National League, the Cubs, Pirates, Giants and Phillies completed transactions Monday that enabled them to square away their rosters 48 hours ahead of time. The Cardinals still must cut three players, the Braves are two over the limit, while the Dodgers and the Redlegs each have one pink slip to hand out. The Tigers and the Athletics are the only American League teams not faced with roster-trimming worries. The Senators and the Indians each must cut three players, the White Sox are two over, and the Yankees, Red Sox and Orioles one each. Only one game was played in the majors Monday—the Senators downing the Red Sox, 5-3, in a night game at Boston. This off day enabled some of the clubs to get a jump on the cutdown deadline. The Giants reached the 25-player limit by dumping four men and purchasing right-handed pitcher Stu Miller from Minneapolis in the American Association. Southpaw John (Windy) McCall was sold to San Francisco of the Pacific Coast League; pitcher Gordon Jones was optioned to Minneapolis, and outfielder Bill Taylor and catcher-infielder Bobby Hofman were released outright to the same club. The Cubs purchased two infielders—picking up Bobby Morgan from the Phillies and acquiring Jack Littrell from Portland of the PCL. At the same time, first baseman Ed Mickelson and infielder Ed Winceniak were sold to Portland. American League: Washington 021 001 100—5 8 0 Boston 100 000 020—3 4 3 National League: (No games scheduled.)

Harvesters To Host Sandies Today, Palo Duro Wednesday

The Amarillo Sandies were favored to get a step closer in quest of their second straight District 3-AAAA baseball title today when the perennial champions met the Pampa Harvesters at Oiler Park.

Meet The Oilers

The Oilers have two more games to play following the meeting with Pampa today. The Palo Duro Dons are the only team that is giving the Sandies a battle for the title during the latter part of the season. Palo Duro stands 7-3 for the season.

ROBERTO MARTINEZ

Roberto Martinez, a 6-1, 200-pounder and a limited service pitcher on the Oiler staff, began his baseball career as an outfielder. Roberto, who prefers the name over Bob, is a native of Loving, N.M. He was born there 22 years ago and graduated from Loving High School. He made the change over from outfielder to pitcher in high school and his final year he had a 14-6 record. This is Martinez' second year in organized ball. He broke in as a rookie with Monterey of the Mexican League, a Class-AA club. He stayed there two months and was optioned to Nogales of the Arizona-Mexico League. Roberto had a 2-0 record at Monterey and compiled a 9-3 mark at Nogales. Martinez got out of high school in 1952 and worked at another until last year. He went to a baseball school in Alpine and there Earl Halstead, chief scout of the Southwest for the Milwaukee Braves, saw and signed him. He's still property of the Braves. After graduation from high school, the tall, lanky and shy New Mexican played two years of semi-pro ball at Loving. He pitched a no-hitter in 1954 against Mar-

Martinez has a sizzling fast ball and has developed a good slider. He has a 1-1 record with the Oilers at present. His loss came Wednesday night against Ballinger when he was taken out with the Oilers trailing after he had pulled a muscle in his pitching arm.

The 38-year-old former member of the Montreal Canadiens replaced Howie Meeker, who moved up to the front office to take over as general manager, a post left vacant by the retirement two months ago of Hap Day.

US May Make More Use Of 'Titoism'

By CHARLES M. MCCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent
The United States seems to have decided to make more use of "Titoism" as a weapon in its cold war with Soviet Russia.
It is known that about 100 million dollars in economic aid is about to be granted to Poland.
Now it is reported that the government has decided to resume its military aid to Yugoslavia.
Both Communist-Ruled
Both countries are Communist-ruled. They are pretty likely to remain so for the foreseeable future. The question is whether the United States ought to help any country that has a Communist government.

Certainly it is against United States policy to aid communism. But it happens that in the instance of Poland and Yugoslavia, aid granted to them will not help Soviet Russia. It would be calculated to loosen further the grip of Moscow on all Red-ruled countries.

October Revolt
Poland won a great measure of independence from Russian domination as the result of its revolt of last October.

Yugoslavia broke entirely away from Russian domination in 1948. The two countries are now liabilities and not assets to Russia. They are proof that Russian rule of other Communist countries can be broken.

Wladyslaw Gomulka, who as Communist party leader is the real ruler of Poland, and President Tito of Yugoslavia would win no votes at all in a Moscow-conducted popularity contest.

WASHINGTON — Sherman Adams, President Eisenhower's chief White House aide, on proposed budget cuts:

"I think the magnitude of the cut in the vicinity of a billion and a half to two billion dollars will not interfere with the quality of the services, nor the ability of the administration to carry out those services."

It Pays To Read The Classified

SELLS TICKETS—Personalities like Jayne Mansfield use publicity—getting gimmicks as props to make their names good box-office bait. Hollywood columnist Erskine Johnson boosts this practice. He asks the so-called "actors—by profession," who shun the title "Movie Star," to consider the fact that showmanship sells more tickets than acting proficiency.

Arab Countries May Align With The West

By CHARLES M. MCCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent
United Press correspondents around the world look ahead at the news that will make the headlines.

Secret
Diplomatic insiders say the visit of King Saud of Saudi Arabia to King Feisal of Iraq marks the start of secret negotiations to line up all Arab countries except Egypt and Syria on the side of the West.

There will be no public announcement of the move. But the word is that Lebanon and Jordan will be brought into the negotiations, then other Arab countries.

One reason for the new turn is the visit paid to Washington. Another: Pro-Russian, anti-Western elements outmaneuvered themselves when they tried to overthrow King Hussein of Jordan.

Pressure
Military manpower cuts may become a hot issue in Washington sooner than expected. The Pentagon, in its estimates for the fiscal year which starts July 1, planned last fall to cut the armed forces by 150,000 to 250,000 men. The cut was postponed because of the delicate international situation and fear of the effect it would have on other Allied countries.

But Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson is under increasing pressure to hold down spending, and the manpower reductions are due to come under renewed study soon.

Missile Move
Watch for Soviet Russia to protest to the United Nations Security Council against the stationing of an American guided missile unit in Formosa, stronghold of the Chinese Nationalist government. The Chinese Communist foreign office broadcast an angry protest against the action Saturday. But Red China is not a member of the U.N. Russia is expected to take the issue to the Security Council in its behalf.

Big Four Bid
Soviet diplomats in Bonn, capital of West Germany, are spreading the word that it would be nice if a Big Four "summit" conference could be held late this fall. The idea is that a brief meeting of President Eisenhower, British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, French Premier Guy Mollet, and Soviet Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin would be followed up by a long meeting of the foreign ministers of the Big Four.

Disarmament
A break in the years-long deadlock on disarmament might induce President Eisenhower to agree to a "summit" meeting. Washington reports that he now hopes a start can be made this year toward an agreement. London shares that view. In both capitals, the view is that despite their reluctance to accept an effective inspection system, the Russians really want a disarmament treaty at last.

Immigration
It appears certain that Congress will not act this year on Eisenhower's proposal to liberalize basic immigration laws. The Senate is waiting for the House of Representatives to go first. The House Immigration Subcommittee plans to take up refugee legislation first, but hasn't even scheduled hearings on it.

Red Aid

Willie Hartack has a chance to become the first jockey in history to win turf's Triple Crown—with three different horses. Hartack, who won the Derby with Iron Liege, probably will switch to Gen. Duke for the Preakness, to be run Saturday. Calumet Farms, the owners, did not run Gen. Duke in the Derby because of a foot injury, but rated him over Iron Liege. And Baribon, the 3-year-old which Calumet rates the best of the three, may recover from his ailments in time to run in the Belmont Stakes June 15. In that case Hartack, as the stable's No. 1 rider, probably will switch to him.

One telephone is just the beginning of up-to-date telephone service

More customers today are modernizing their homes with additional telephones . . . phones you can dial in the dark . . . extra listings in the directory . . . more private lines.

As told by R. A. Acker, general commercial manager, to telephone news reporter Don Davis

THE idea of a well-telephoned home—with telephones wherever they serve the family best—is here to stay," says R. A. Acker.

As general commercial manager for the telephone company in Texas, it's part of Acker's job to keep a close eye on what telephone users want, and how they like the many new telephone services now available.

High on the list of what families want today are additional telephones. "Many families feel that one phone in the home just isn't enough these days," Acker points out. "The trend is to have telephones in convenient locations throughout the home. The reason is pretty obvious. When the phone rings, people like to have a telephone handy. And they like the privacy that additional telephones give them, too."

People finding the convenience of additional telephones a new treat are also finding that telephones in color add a bright touch to their homes. Service representatives in telephone business offices now receive special training to help customers choose just the right color from eight colors now available.

Customers are asking for a complete line of telephone accessories, too. There's a telephone that speaks louder or softer, a "hands-free" phone that you can use without lifting the receiver, space-saving telephones for walls, and a "light-up" dial telephone for making late-at-night calls. Or you can get telephones with "spring" cords that stretch, telephones that ring with chimes, and outdoor bells you can hear when you're working in the yard.

IS YOUR NAME "IN THE BOOK"?

"Growing in popularity also is the 'extra listing' in the telephone directory," Acker says.

A TELEPHONE with illuminated dial is becoming more popular. It makes late-at-night calling convenient and easy.

R. A. ACKER, general commercial manager, displays an ivory telephone, one of eight colors available. More and more people are asking for additional phones in standard black or colors.

"It's ideal for businessmen who list their business telephone with their residence number, or for relatives living at your house who want their name in the directory so friends can locate them easily."

Teen-agers also like to have their "name in the book." It makes it easy for their friends to find them right away for those "important" calls.

MODERN HOMES HAVE MORE PHONES

In fact, Acker says, many fathers of teen-agers are ordering a second main line so the youngsters can chat as long as they like without tying up the family phone.

The new trend to a well-telephoned home is a natural," according to Acker.

"After all, we hear and read about two cars in every garage, an extra TV set for the children. Complete telephone service for the home is very much in step with everyone's desire for more convenience and easier living."

Many of the new services available today are the results of years of advance research and product-testing.

Keeping ahead of the times today means even better communications services for you tomorrow. In thinking of progress like this, it's important to remember that only a company that is financially healthy can continue to provide a service that is growing in value and constantly improving.

"I'M IN HERE, too!" Extra listings make teen-agers and other members of the family "easy to find" in the telephone book.

"HANDS-FREE" Speakerphone lets businessmen carry on conversation, take notes without picking up the phone.

Manufacturers 'Modern Republicans' To Back Eisenhower

By ALINE MOSBY
United Press Hollywood Reporter
HOLLYWOOD (UP) — On New York's Seventh Ave the busy manufacturers of clothing must stop in their noon sidewalk discussions to marvel over what has happened to a member of their profession.

A cloak-and-suit has been in Mexico—portraying a Spanish bullfighter in a movie.

Bob Evans, 27-year-old genius in the garment business, accidentally fell into the movies and is being billed as a top discovery of the year. Handsome, dark-haired, a partner in the Evan-Picone Co. which makes skirts and slacks, he is the only garment manufacturer who soon may be handing out autographs to film fans.

He's in two top pictures—as the late producer, Irving Thalberg, in "The Man With a Thousand Faces," and as a bullfighter in Ernest Hemingway's "The Sun Also Rises." In sideburns and a cravat he looks every inch a Spaniard.

Discovered At Pool
"I was first discovered by Norma Shearer when she saw me by the swimming pool at the Beverly Hills Hotel," Evans said.

"She wanted me to play the part of her former husband, Thalberg, in a Universal-International movie."

Evans was in Hollywood on business and was leaving for New York that night, but the former actress talked him into making a test. He missed his plane, but he won the part over stiff competition.

night the President is "going to straighten out... a lot of misinformation kicking around on the budget and mutual security." The speech will be Eisenhower's first nationwide appeal for support of one of his budgets.

Much of his own party already was against him in the budget debate. But Sen. Clifford P. Case (R-N.J.) was lining up administration backers in the Senate to assert support for the President to be indicated by Senate speeches Wednesday and perhaps later this week.

The battle of the budget also resulted in these other developments:
—The House prepared to begin debate this afternoon on its $3,692,889,757 agricultural appropriation bill, which emerged from committee $272,556,860 below the amount requested by the administration. It was doubted that any attempt would be made to erase the committee-approved reductions. In fact, some Congressmen sought deeper ones.

—The Senate Monday passed and returned to the House, for acceptance of a minor amendment, the first of the regular appropriation bills to go through that chamber this year. The bill carried $3,965,291,000 for the Treasury and Post Office Departments for the fiscal year beginning July 1. This figure, exactly the same as the House approved, was $80,384,000 below what the administration asked. The cut was expected to result in a reduction in postal service in fiscal 1958.

—More than 22 per cent of 1956 U. S. highway deaths occurred on Saturdays.
