Senator Joseph R. McCarthy Dies Unexpectedly

By HERBERT FOSTER
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy died unexpectedly Thursday night at the age of 47 but the cause of his fatal liver ailment remained a mystery today.

The Bethesda Naval Hospital, where he died, officially described the illness only as "acute hepatitis" and the immediate cause of death as "acute hepatic failure"—meaning failure of the liver to function.

Some medical authorities here said all hepatitis (inflammation of the liver) in their experience was virus-caused. Others said the term "acute hepatitis" could also cover acute illness resulting from various forms of liver damage.

The hospital would not or could not elaborate. How he got the virus, if he did, or whether other factors caused the damage was not stated.

Silent About Health
McCarthy kept a veil over exact details of his increasingly frequent trips to the hospital, for a variety of stated ills, in recent years.

He had repeated operations on a knee punctured by a piece of steel while he was a Marine.

He recently suffered a cold or virus. He returned from Wisconsin during the Easter holiday with a high fever and entered the Bethesda Hospital last Sunday.

He died there at 6:02 p.m. e.d.t. Thursday after a severe five-day illness.

His death could not affect control of the Senate, which now lies with the Democrats by one vote. Gov. Vernon Thomson of Wisconsin was thought likely to call a special election to fill the vacancy.

His body was taken during the night to the funeral parlors of Joseph Gawler's Sons Inc.—hard by the White House where he seldom was welcome. Funeral services will be held Monday—probably in the Senate chamber.

He left a grieving, beautiful young wife of 31 years and an adopted daughter of five months. He left enemies who at this time chose to follow the example of one of his hardest-hit targets, former Secretary of State Dean Acheson. Acheson said in Latin: "De mortuis nil nisi bonum"—"Of the dead (say) nothing but good."

President Eisenhower, who had trouble with McCarthy almost from the beginning of the GOP president's first term, joined Mrs. Eisenhower Thursday night in sending "profound sympathies to Mrs. McCarthy on the grievous personal loss she has sustained."

Of McCarthy's death, Eisenhower said only that he had "just been informed of (his) sudden passing."

Former President Truman, whose administration was bitterly attacked by McCarthy, said he was "very sorry" to hear of his death and would send condolences to the family.

"I'm at odds with a lot of people but that doesn't mean I hate them," Truman told reporters. "Let's not dig up a lot of old dead horses."

Adlai Declines Comment
Adlai E. Stevenson, two-time Democratic presidential candidate who also was bitterly attacked by McCarthy, said "I think I'd better not comment."

Vice President Richard M. Nixon, a controversial figure who must be evaluated by history but added, "his friends and many critics will not question his devotion to what he considered to be the best interests of his country."

A close associate, Sen. William E. Jenner (R-Ind.), said America has lost a "giant patriot, a courageous man who has been willing to pay the price for his convictions and for his country."

Major Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker, once told by McCarthy that he was "not fit to wear that uniform," said through an aide in Japan where he is now stationed: "No comment." McCarthy's final Senate fight was a futile effort to block the promotion of Zwicker, a key figure in the Senator's 1954 battle with the Army.

Tax Evasion Charges Hit Teamsters' Beck

More Floods Threaten

DALLAS (UP)—A new cloud burst on the headwaters of the Brazos River flooded the town of Dennis today for the second time since Sunday, caused local flooding in the resort city of Mineral Wells and cut the highway to the town of Graford.

Wichita Falls, northwest of Omer Wells, near the Oklahoma line, suffered floods Thursday night from a downpour. As much as 5.5 inches of rain was reported southwest of Mineral Wells which is west of Fort Worth.

A new round of thunderstorms predicted for today, raised the threat of more flash floods in Texas towns and cities.

B. P. Hughes, meteorologist in charge of the Shreveport, La., weather bureau, said he thought the flooded Sabine, along the Texas-Louisiana border, could stand one day of renewed thunderstorms, but probably not two.

Dennis, which has 15 houses and two stores in it was flooded out Sunday when the flood gates at Possum-Kingdom Dam on the Brazos were opened. Ten families fled to the schoolhouse and a church on higher ground.

Doyce Nash, at the single emergency telephone in Dennis, at the school, said most of the flooded out families started cleaning out their homes Thursday, but the flood came back today and they had to leave again.

He said reports from 10 miles up the Brazos showed the river was within 16 inches of the height it reached during the earlier flood and was rising fast. He expected this flood to be worse than the previous ones.

The Sabine, which has flooded the homes of 900 persons and 1,000 oil wells in Gregg county, Tex., was swollen by the highest crest in 12 years.

The crest was south of Gladewater, in Gregg county, and was approaching Tatum, Tex., halfway between Gladevater and Logansport, La., the first seriously threatened town on the Louisiana side.

Wichita River Rising
More than 20 inches of rain hit Wichita Falls Thursday night, shutting off streets and driving one family from its home. The flood receded in Wichita Falls today and the flooded-out family returned to its home.

The Wichita River was rising an inch every 10 minutes and was approaching flood stage of 19 feet. But city officials said they didn't expect it to flood out anybody.

The southeastern part of Mineral Wells was flooded, but not enough to force any families out of their homes. Mineral Wells had 2.19 inches of rain, most of it in six hours.

Teamster President Faces 1950 Federal Tax Evasion

WASHINGTON (UP)—Teamster President Dave Beck surrendered voluntarily to the U. S. marshal today and posted $5,000 bond on federal income tax evasion charges.

Beck was indicted Thursday in Tacoma, Wash., on charges of evading payment of $56,420 due in federal taxes for 1950.

Beck and his attorney, Gerard Treanor of Washington, appeared briefly before Federal District Judge Edward M. Curran here this morning. Then they went to the clerk's office, where Treanor posted a cashier's check from the American Security and Trust Co.

The bond is for Beck's appearance either here or in Tacoma.

In answer to reporters' questions as to what was going on, Beck said:

"I wouldn't say one word about it because I don't know no more about it than you do now."

Beck was fingerprinted and otherwise processed in the U. S. marshal's office before his court appearance.

Still In Jury Box
In the courtroom Beck and his attorney sat in the empty jury box for some time while Curran took care of numerous routine criminal cases of persons who were to be sentenced.

The portly Teamsters chief wore dark glasses but appeared in fairly good spirits. He laughed occasionally in conversation with Treanor while the two were in the bond.

Beck already is in trouble with the Senate Rackets Committee and AFL-CIO officials on charges that he converted Teamster Union funds to his own use.

Beck had planned to go to Atlantic City N. J., today for a Teamster Union meeting.

He is scheduled to answer charges Monday before the AFL-CIO Executive Committee that his giant union is dominated by corrupt influences.

Also Faces Theft Charges
On Wednesday, the Senate Rackets Committee will resume its investigation into charges that Beck used $20,000 in union funds for his own benefit. Committee Counsel Robert Kennedy said recently he felt the committee could prove Beck "stole" the funds.

The indictment was handed down after "intensive investigations" of Beck's 1950 income tax returns, the Justice Department said in Washington.

The Justice Department said the return showed a net income of $48,398 and tax due of $15,940 for 1950. But the department said Beck's net income for that year actually was $135,226 on which the correct tax would have been $71,960—$56,420 more than was paid.

The second count of the indictment charges Beck with aiding in the preparation of a fraudulent information return from the Joint Council Building Assn., a Teamsters Union real estate company.

What Kind Of Man Was He?

By LOUIS CASSELL
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—One day in 1950, Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy stepped into an elevator at the capitol and found himself face-to-face with Secretary of State Dean Acheson.

For weeks McCarthy had been charging on the Senate floor that Acheson had allowed Communists to overrun the State Department. He had come very close to accusing Acheson of treason. This was the first time the two men had ever met.

Before Acheson had a chance to turn away, McCarthy smiled broadly and held out his hand. "How do you do," he said, without a trace of hostility or embarrassment. "I'm Joe McCarthy."

In this story, if anywhere, may be found the answer to a question which Americans have been holly debating for the past seven years... and which historians are likely to go on debating for centuries. What kind of a man was Joe McCarthy?

Divided America
He was a man who convinced millions of Americans that he was passionately sincere in his fight against Communist "infiltration"... and other millions that he was a liar and a demagogue who cynically manipulated the public's fear of communism to gain power for himself.

He was a man who by the sheer raw power of his personality and the fierce drive of his ambition divided America as it has rarely been divided in its history... and left as a legacy his name embodied in an Ism.

Death, even at the early age of 47, was an anti-climax to Joe McCarthy's tumultuous career.

His place in history, as the most controversial public figure of his day, will be based almost entirely on a four-year span of his life which began in 1950 with his sensational attack on the State Department, and ended in 1954, when the Senate voted 67 to 22 to condemn his actions.

Routine Speech Was Start
It was a routine Lincoln Day political speech in Wheeling, W. Va., that transformed McCarthy from an unknown Republican senator from Wisconsin into a national figure. He charged that 205 "card-carrying Communists" (the figure was later reduced to 57) were at work in the State Department, pilfering the nation's secrets and twisting its foreign policies to serve the ends of Soviet Russia.

The State Department helped to call attention to the attack, and insured it a place on the front (See MCCARTHY, Page 3)

Beady-Eyed Buzzard Lookin' For A Home

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UP)—Who wants a beady-eyed baby buzzard? Mrs. David Lowrance of Charlotte certainly doesn't want any more. As she put it, "It's horrible!"

She found a baby buzzard staring at her when she stepped out of the house for the morning paper. It happened to her three mornings this week.

When Mrs. Lowrance walked out the door Monday morning, she found a large paper bag on the porch. She looked inside the bag and there was buzzard No. 1.

"Frankly it's never ever seen a baby buzzard you never want to see one again... especially that early in the morning."

"It was a dirty white and the beak was flat against what you would call a head. Their eyes are beady and real close together. When they stand up they look just like vultures," she said.

Mrs. Lowrance first thought her 14-year-old son was playing a prank but he denied it. Finally the family laughed it off and left the bird on the porch. The next morning he had company.

Young Lowrance took the two buzzards to a local biologist and Tuesday night the family locked the screen door on the porch. Wednesday morning the third smelly bundle was on the front steps.

Hesitantly Mrs. Lowrance went to the police.

"I wish you could have seen the man's face at the Police Department when I told him about it," she said. "I could tell he thought I was crazy."

Police finally agreed to visit the Lowrance home and, although they could offer no explanation for the birds, they did get rid of the third buzzard.

The Lowrances took turns sitting up all Wednesday night and there were no buzzards on hand Thursday morning.

"My nerves are real shattered," said Mrs. Lowrance.

Filibuster Ends; Bill Passed

By O. B. LLOYD JR.
United Press Staff Correspondent
AUSTIN (UP)—The Senate today ended the longest continuous session in its history by giving final approval to a key school segregation bill that sparked a 36-hour marathon filibuster by two South Texas lawmakers.

After that, at 2:25 a.m., the Senators adjourned until Monday—36 hours and 25 minutes after they returned from lunch at 2 p.m. last Wednesday.

The session became the longest in the history of the Texas Senate when it eclipsed the old record of 31 hours and 25 minutes tallied in 1949 during a filibuster against a basic science bill regulating the practice of the healing arts.

Negotiations which ended with Sen. Henry Gonzalez of San Antonio yielding the floor started shortly after midnight and climaxed when Sen. Abraham Kazen Jr., of Laredo, Gonzalez' partner in the marathon, gained assurance the majority would not attempt action on any other segregation measures at that time.

The segregation bill, keystone measure in a package of House-

Pampa Now Past 1-Foot Rain Mark

Rain continues to fall upon the Top of Texas and in Pampa a total of .59 of an inch was recorded by The News rain gauge during the 24-hours ending at 11 this morning.

With this added amount a total of 1.41 inches has fallen in Pampa during the first 2½ days of May and the total amount of moisture received since the first of the year now stands at 12.11 inches.

The weather forecast for the Top of Texas calls for partly cloudy skies with scattered showers and thundershowers through tomorrow. The low in Pampa tonight is expected to be 56 with the high tomorrow expected to reach 68.

School buses are omitting some parts of their routes in picking up students. Knox Kinard, superintendent of Pampa Schools, told The News this morning that the elimination of portions of the routes became necessary when the roads became too muddy for the buses to travel them. Students in those areas are being brought to the hard surfaced roads, Knox stated, by their parents.

He also reported that very few school buses had been unable to get to school due to the road conditions.

Nat Lunsford, county commissioner, reported today that the county roads in Precinct 2 are in

Grand Jury In Session On 6 Cases

A total of six cases were to be presented to the Gray County Grand Jury of the 31st District Court today by Bill Waters, district attorney.

The Grand Jury convened at 10 o'clock this morning and immediately went into session with 11 members of the jury present.

Waters reported that he was presenting evidence on one case of driving while intoxicated, three cases of theft, one case of forgery and one case of swindling.

Late this morning the jury was still in session and no report was available as to what action had been taken on any of the cases.

High School Students Present Show Tonight

Weeks of rehearsal and polishing up of routines will be climaxed this evening when students of Pampa High School present the production entitled "Youth for the Youth Center" in Harvest Fieldhouse. The show will start at 8 p.m.

The production, which is produced by Judy Neslage and will be emceed by Bill Atkinson, is being undertaken by the young people of Pampa High School both as an outlet and constructive undertaking in support of the future Pampa Youth Center.

All proceeds from this show will be given at the end of the evening's performance to Fred Neslage, representing the Youth Center.

Those students who will perform in tonight's performance include a group of dancers consisting of Carmelita Hogan, Glenda Finkenstein, Sara Gordon, D'Anne Prince, Phyllis Parker and Maynette Loftus.

A rhythm band consisting of Judy Neslage, piano, Virgil Flowers on drums, Creed Smith playing the guitar and Kirk Smith on bass, will accompany all vocal and dance acts in the show. They will not, however, play any solo numbers.

Orchestral groups in the show will be "The Stardusters" with Kirk Smith at the trumpet, Billy Hassell at the piano, Virgil Flowers on the drums, John Carson on the trumpet and Creed Smith playing the guitar; also, "The Rebels," consisting of Tommy Alliston at the electric guitar, Bob Holmes playing rhythm guitar, Larry Hendricks playing the banjo, Robert Collett on the saxophone and Jimmy Goff playing the drums.

Group singers will be "The Four

City To Pay Added Right-Of-Way Costs

The city will pay for the increased cost of right-of-way for the widening of Hobart and Alcock as part of the project providing an underpass at the Hobart Street crossing.

Mayor Lynn Boyd reported this morning that as a result of the action taken by the county Tuesday on requests by the city for more funds to help in purchasing the remaining right-of-way it will be necessary for the city to pay the added cost.

The county declined to appropriate additional funds above the $135,000 which the commissioners had already allocated for the project.

The funds allocated by the county were based on estimated costs for all of the needed right-of-way and when the costs of some sections of the right-of-way went above these estimated figures the city asked for additional funds, which were rejected by the county.

The City Commission had already authorized the payment of the additional funds for the right-of-way and Mayor Boyd stated that the commission will have to decide Tuesday where the money will come from to pay the added cost.

He also reported that no word had been received from the State Highway Department as to the date the city would have to provide the state with funds for the city's portion of the cost of the underpass project.

Nicaragua And Honduras Near War Status

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UP)—Nicaragua and Honduras shifted to wartime footings today and rushed troops to key points on their common border.

There was no formal declaration of war by either country. But the situation was becoming more critical by the moment despite pleas by the Organization of American States and the U.S. government for a ceasefire pending a peaceful settlement of the centuries-old border dispute.

The OAS was forming a five-nation committee to rush to Central America on a fact-finding mission.

Reports from Tegucigalpa, Honduras, said the fighting had spread from Mocoron in the disputed territory near the Caribbean coast to Las Manos, a western border post about 80 miles from the Pacific Ocean.

Informed sources here said some 20,000 Nicaraguan troops were converging on the border, supported by naval and air forces.

Nicaraguan armed forces chief Gen. Anastasio Somoza announced Thursday night that his troops recaptured Mocoron Thursday, less than 18 hours after Honduran forces took it from a Nicaraguan patrol.

Informed sources said three Honduran P38s were shot down in the battle, but no casualty list was announced.

Highway 60 Group Asks Cooperation

Pampa and Hereford delegates to yesterday's meeting of the Texas branch of U. S. Highway 60 Association held in Dowell's Cafe in Amarillo, strongly stressed the need for fuller cooperation from the Amarillo representatives of the association.

In figures made public at yesterday's meeting it was pointed out that aid in the association's financial program from Hereford was a $250 and Pampa's contribution had been $325 while Amarillo had contributed nothing.

In the light of these figures, Amarillo delegates to the annual meeting of the association assured those present that they would pay their share of the costs in maintaining a workable program in the promotion of the use of Highway 60 by motorists.

Pampa representatives told the gathering of delegates that the bulk of the responsibilities for the operations within the last year had been born by Pampa, Hereford and White Deer and pointed out that "unless Amarillo rallies to the cause and accepts its responsibilities" they could not expect other towns and cities to carry the load.

The money contributed by cities and towns bordering Highway 60 is used in the maintaining of sign boards and other promotional development designed to increase the use of these highways and thus bring more business into the communities bordering them.

The overall cost of the sign board program alone is $2,400. Of this total, the Oklahoma Branch of U. S. Highway 60 Association contributes $1600 while the Texas Branch contributes $800.

The Amarillo delegation, in announcing that it would pay its part in the maintenance of successful operations, also indicated that it would pay for the past year. The group announced that the association could expect a minimum of $500 to be given by them.

The meeting also marked the

McCarthy Rites Pending For Infant Son Of Pampa Couple

Democratic senators leaped into the fray, demanding that McCarthy "put up or shut up." A special Senate committee, headed by Sen. Millard E. Tydings (D-Md.), was appointed to investigate. After several weeks of hearings, at which McCarthy offered "the names of 81 alleged 'security risks' but no list of 'card-carrying Communists,'" the committee dismissed the charges as "a fraud and a hoax."

McCarthy, however, had gained too strong a hold on public opinion to be downed by such a finding. He struck back at his investigators with the cry of "whitewash"—and then gave politicians a chilling demonstration of his power by bringing about Tydings' defeat in the rough and muddy Maryland senatorial campaign of 1950.

The 1952 elections that swept Dwight D. Eisenhower into the White House and the Republicans into control of Congress also returned McCarthy to the Senate, by a margin of 130,000 votes, and installed him in the chairmanship of the Senate's Government Operations Committee and its permanent investigating subcommittee.

McCarthy opened hearings on what he called "extremely dangerous current espionage" at the Army Signal Corps Center at Fort Monmouth, N. J.

Produced Open Break It was this investigation that produced an open break between McCarthy and the Eisenhower administration, and led to the famous "Army-McCarthy" hearings in mid-1954.

FLOODS

(Continued From Page One) ford and U. S. 281 was under five feet of water, cutting off Grafrod. The Sabine, swelling out miles over the flatlands near the Gulf of Mexico, threatened Deweyville, 40 miles from the Gulf. Deweyville already was getting a flood in its lowest section.

At Logansport, where the Sabine's crest was expected about next Wednesday, workmen with bulldozers threw up a five-foot levee around a hatchery, with $250,000 worth of equipment, unhatched eggs and chicks in it. They expected to make the levee 10 feet high.

Hughes said Red River, which flows from southwest through central Louisiana—"and has two or three times more water than the Sabine in it"—was in flood stage from Index, Ark., to Alexandria, La., 300 miles away.

"There are several touchy spots," he said. We have outlying places around Shreveport where it is touch and go and isolated places along the Red where houses have been shut off and abandoned.

New Mexico Delegation Visits Pampa

Yesterday's program of the Pampa Lions Club was presented by members of the visiting delegation from Raton, N.M.

The group, which came to Pampa as part of a tour of the Panhandle area in the promotion of the racing season opening in Raton on May 25, showed the members of the club movies of New Mexico and a 15-piece band played during the luncheon.

George McBride, manager of the Raton Chamber of Commerce, extended an invitation to all Pampans to visit Raton sometime during the coming racing season and assured them a warm greeting when and if they should come.

The stop at Pampa was one of many made by the group in a tour that was to last three days, originating in and winding up, at Raton.

The group had stopped at Amarillo Wednesday, leaving yesterday morning and making stops in Panhandle and White Deer along the way.

Upon arriving in Pampa, the band played for several minutes to accompanying rain in front of the LaNora Theatre.

Following this, they proceeded to the basement of the First Methodist Church where they were the guests at the luncheon-meeting of the noon Lions Club.

Following their Pampa visit, the delegation had stops designated at Borger and Dumas before returning to Raton.

In Pampa cars and trucks were becoming stuck this morning on several of the dirt streets. At many places water was standing on the muddy streets and was adding to the hazards of trying to drive through the mud.

Very few accidents have been reported in Pampa and Gray County during the past week and officers report that motorists as a whole are being careful and allowing for the weather.

Housewives report that those that do not have clothes driers are encountering difficulty because clothes cannot be placed outside and must be dried inside.

Farmers that placed wheat land in the Soil Bank on a five year contract are expressing regret for their action since the heavy rains have been received.

At 7 this morning it was also raining in Shamrock and a total of 12.01 inches of moisture has been received there since the first of the year.

Older Persons May Be Better Surgical Risks

NEW YORK (UP) — "Ancient persons" 100 years old and older may be better surgical risks than younger persons and are "excellent patients," according to a surgeon who has treated three of them, and successfully, for broken hip bones.

Dr. Harold M. Childress of Jamestown, N.Y., contributed this information because there will be more and more such persons. He got his three in a period of 15 years in the general hospital of a city of less than 50,000 population. But it is well known that one person is living longer.

One of the three lacked only five months of being 106. The youngest was one month beyond the century mark. Childress was struck by the vivid demonstration which all three gave that age in years was a poor index to their bodies and bodily functions.

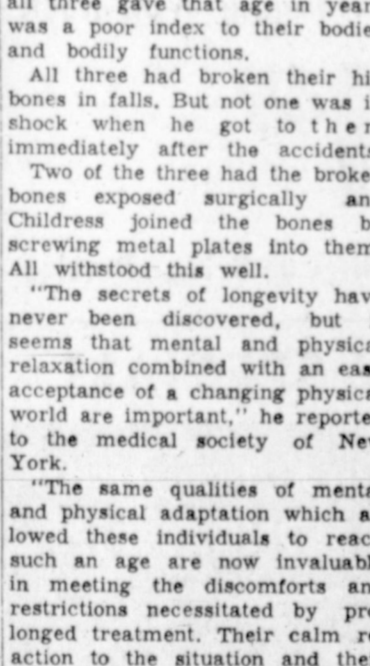

All three had broken their hip bones in falls. But not one was in shock when he got to them immediately after the accidents.

Two of the three had the broken bones exposed surgically and Childress joined the bones by screwing metal plates into them. All without this long.

"The secrets of longevity have never been discovered, but it seems that mental and physical relaxation combined with an easy acceptance of a changing physical world are important," he reported to the medical society of New York.

"The same qualities of mental and physical adaptation which allowed these individuals to reach such an age are now invaluable in meeting the discomforts and restrictions necessitated by prolonged treatment. Their calm reaction to the situation and their willingness to co-operate make them excellent patients."

'Western Roundup' Scheduled By Lefors Methodist Church

LEFORS — A "Western Roundup" barbecue will be held for members and guests of the First Methodist Church here next Wednesday.

The affair will get underway at 7:30 o'clock and will be staged on the lot just west of the church.

Food will be prepared and served by Underwood's of Amarillo.

There will be no charge for the food or attendance, according to Rev. Wesley Daniel, pastor.

Entertainment will be provided by a string band to be organized by Roy Smith.

Rev. Hugh Daniel, brother of the pastor, will be the guest speaker. Rev. Hugh Daniel is holding a 6:30 p.m. service at Newhome.

A boys' toesack race, a three-legged race, a women's rolling pin contest and other games will be engaged in before the meal will be served.

Loyalty Day, to be observed at the church the following Sunday, will be stressed at the affair which is being tied in with the church's Stewardship movement and every-member canvass.

Rev. Daniel reminded all members and prospective guests that they are asked to wear western clothes, but not required.

Local Church To Exchange Pulpits

The local and Oklahoma City Church of the Brethren will exchange pulpits on Sunday with the Rev. David Metzler of that church preaching the 11 a.m. service here and the Rev. James Minnich of this church doing the same in Oklahoma City.

This is a district-wide pulpit exchange with churches in the Oklahoma and New Mexico districts participating. The Waka Church of the Brethren, west of Perryton, will have the Rev. Clyde Fry exchanging pulpits with the Rev. L. M. Baldwin of Clovis, N.M.

There will be a fellowship supper following the 11 o'clock service in the Pampa Church of the Brethren in honor of the Rev. Metzler and the laymen who will accompany him.

The Sunday evening service in the local church will consist of a Bible study and discussion to be led by Amos Harris.

A week from Monday, the Rev. Russell G. West Sr. will conduct an evangelistic preaching mission which will continue through May 19.

Boys Ranch To Hold Open House

On Sunday afternoon, May 5th, from 2 to 4 p.m., America's First Boys Ranch will hold a special Open House and the boys have extended an invitation to everyone to attend. This is the first time Boys Ranch has had an official Open House and it's being held so that everyone can see the full Ranch program in action.

The 231 boys are preparing now to be ready to show their guests "Boys Ranch in action", just as it would be during an average week day. It will give everyone a chance to see the regular program that Sunday visitors miss.

The boys mainly want to show off their Vocational Trades Program and let the visitors see the heavy equipment working on the beginning of the new dining hall, the work on the new housing unit the boys are building themselves and their fine new school building.

Everyone is invited to see the rest of the Ranch, too.

Visitors coming from the North or South can use the all-paved highway 51. Those coming from Amarillo and the East may use the Gem Lake Road (Old Tascosa Road) which is all paved except the last six miles, and that is in excellent condition.

One of Texas' Five Most Consistent Newspapers

We believe that one truth is always consistent with another truth. We endeavor to be consistent with truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule, the Ten Commandments and the Declaration of Independence.

Should we at any time, be inconsistent with these truths, we would appreciate to anyone pointing out to us how we are inconsistent with these moral guides.

Foundations Of Life

We have endeavored to show, during a number of years, that man must live by principle if he would attain either material success or spiritual fulfillment. As a guide to individual attainment we have put forward reliance upon the Golden Rule, the Decalogue and the Declaration of Independence.

But the question is often raised: how can a person know for certain just what a principle is? Is it a matter of faith, or is it a matter of fact? Is it possible that a principle might apply to one person and not to another? How does one go about discovering a principle? Does a person have a right to challenge what is presumed to be an established principle? Might it be possible for a person to discard something that most people felt was a principle?

These are good questions. All of them tend to a general question as to the nature, reliability and discoverability of principle. Let us examine them.

A principle, by definition, must be fixed. There should be no such thing as a principle today which is not a principle tomorrow. Nor would it be true that a principle could apply to one person and not to another. If it is fixed, it is constant. And if it applies in one place, it applies in all similar places. Further, there can be no exception "to prove the rule." If an exception can be found, then what was thought to be a principle is gone.

In this latter connection, however, it would pay us to move very slowly. It might well be that we have stumbled upon a principle which, through a lack of our own knowledge and experience, seems to have exceptions. Perhaps, if we can be patient and explore the matter fully, we will find the principle hidden behind what we thought to be exception.

An example of this might be given relating to the use of force. For centuries the argument has raged over the admissibility of force in the relationship between people. Can force ever be justified? Pacifists and devotees of certain religious creeds say no. Others say that under certain conditions force can be justified. It would seem that no principle could be established respecting the employment of force by some against others. Yet, let us look more closely.

The Ten Commandments admonish us: "Thou Shalt Not Murder." The confusion here may stem from divergent translations of this commandment. In some Bibles, commandment is made to read, "Thou Shalt Not Kill." Perhaps this is where the confusion originated.

Certainly we can insist that the use of force, aggressively employed against us, is wrong and evil, and that there can be no exception to this rule. But what about our right to resist the employment of force? Isn't this force, too? And if we cannot resist force, then would we not, of necessity, become the victim of the boldest and bloodiest villain the age could produce? And would this be principled? Is it a matter of principle to refuse to resist force?

Many weighty arguments have been submitted on both sides of this question. It seems to us that the conundrum can resist solution, until we recognize the nature of force and the direction of its flow. Unless we do this we are caught in an impasse. But if we can observe that the use of force, aggressively applied is wrong, whereas the use of force defensively applied is good and correct, then we can find our way out of the dilemma and approach a principle respecting force.

We could conclude, then, that AGGRESSIVE force is always wrong. We can find no exceptions to this maxim. If we merely say that the use of force is wrong, we have opened up a whole avenue of dispute; therefore we have not found a principle here. The principle is discovered when we understand the nature and the direction of force and invoke against it when it is improperly applied. In short, the commandment must be properly translated: "Thou Shalt Not Murder." The word "murder" implies aggressive force which is killing which is not murder. But murder contains intent, purpose, aggression, killing, on the contrary, could be without intent or purpose and could occur either defensively or accidentally. Killing could be evil and deplorable. But it MIGHT not be. Murder is necessarily evil and deplorable. There can be no exception to the heinous nature of murder.

Thus the commandment, properly translated, is seen as the wording of a principle. The confusion vanishes and we have a fixed guide to our conduct which guide cannot change regardless of circumstances, situations or personalities.

On Principles

What, then, is a principle? If it is not only fixed and universally applicable, it is a statement of absolute truth respecting the nature of things. Man does not invent principle. The principle preceded man upon this planet, and is co-existent with the planet and all creation. In other words it is divinely ordained and springs from the same source as any truth or fact respecting either physical, mental or spiritual things. Man can discover a principle, but he cannot invent one. Nor can a principle be compromised. If a compromise is possible, the principle is no longer possible.

Principle will be seen to be a matter of fact, more than a matter of faith. However, in the search for principle it is probably necessary to have at least some faith at the outset, else an individual will lack the drive and the persistence to explore the territory. Having faith that it must be there and must be discernible can lead one thru the maze into a heaven of certainty.

Should a person feel free to challenge presumed principle? Of course. Not only does he have the right to challenge, he has, for his own sake, a duty to issue such challenge. How will he know, within the purview of his own experience and his own conscience, that a principle is inviolable unless he submits it to a test within his own mind?

This does not mean that for a person to know that murder is unvaryingly evil, he must commit one. Rather, it means that by the use of his faculties of intelligence, reason, logic and deduction, he can intellectually explore the possibilities and reach a conclusion, having done no harm to anyone. And there are any number of total absurdities today in vogue, which masquerade as principles. How will this be ascertained unless a challenge is issued?

For example, there is a whole forest of presumed principles respecting government which are silly and contradictory. To discover the truth, to arrive finally at principle, a challenge must be issued and the question pursued to its logical conclusion. Further, there can be no inconsistency between principles.

We hear it said, and with great seriousness, that there are principles of taxation; principles of warfare; principles of rule of the many by the few; principles of rule of the few by the many, and so forth. This is a misapplication of the word principle. There may be certain rules of expedience respecting each of these things. One type of tax may be found "better" than another type of tax. But if any tax must be collected by aggressive force in a single instance, then a violation of a principle has ensued.

Intellectually, we can discover that ANY tax might be objectionable to SOMEONE. In which case, there can be no principle involved in tax collection, since it is entirely logical and conceivable that in some particular instance, the use of aggressive force must be applied to collect it. For a tax to be consistent with the principle previously enunciated which bans the use of aggressive force, the tax would have to be collected sans any possibility of the use of aggressive force. This is contradictory. For a tax to exist, aggressive force MUST be applied either actively or by implication. From the standpoint of those who collect taxes, ways and means may be found which are conducive of much plunder. But can we say that the use of the loot is indicative of a principle? Obviously not, since the results would be variable and the collection of any of it would have to rely upon an absence of principle.

In the end, we must see, that in addition to its other attributes, principle enunciates a universal good, or it invokes against a universal evil. So our answer to the question posed at the outset of the preceding editorial, could be summed up as follows: A principle is fixed and must be

Is It Possible For Unions To Clean House?

Walter Reuther, vice president of the AFL-CIO, is trying hard to capitalize on the Dave Beck exposure. He would leave the impression that unions are based on such great moral laws as the Coveting Commandment, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence; that they are in harmony with these great moral laws.

He is referring to Dave Beck's having borrowed $300,000 from the Teamster's fund for personal use. He says it makes him unfit to hold a position of leadership in the labor movement.

There is no question about it. The question is whether any man can be a man of principle and do as Reuther contends. "The AFL-CIO will not compromise with corruption." Of course he implies that stealing from the members is the only form of corruption; that labor unions are based on moral laws that do not exploit and plunder other workers. But, as the late Henry Ward Beecher said, "Organized labor is the worst form of despotism ever devised by the human mind." It is this because its means of getting dues and getting better material conditions for its workers are based not on increasing production, which is the only possible way that the total working force can have its lot improved, but it is based upon taking from certain individuals, their God-given natural right to be free to make an individual bargain that they believe will improve their well-being and be in harmony with the Coveting Commandment, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

If Mr. Reuther, or anybody else who believes in labor unions, that practice collective bargaining and strikes, does not think any act or any means that violates these then we wonder what standard he would use to determine whether a thing is good or bad or corrupt.

The labor unions have so often repeated the statement that labor unions are good for the working man that a lot of emotional people without experience in helping raise real wages have come to believe this false statement. As this column has repeatedly said, labor unions, instead of benefiting the workers as a whole, keep their wage levels down. They do this by their means of strikes, featherbedding, seniority, limiting apprentices, getting wages so high that the employer cannot sell the product to other workers. Thus he has to discharge his workers and thus reduce the total production.

No labor union official, no Reuther, can tell how high wages can be in order not to cause unemployment. In fact, no one can tell unless all people are permitted to help establish values. If all people are permitted to help establish values and not hindered by labor unions or the government, wages will rapidly adjust themselves when they get so high as to cause unemployment. This unemployment, of course, also greatly retards production and makes it impossible for wages to rise as rapidly as they would under a free and unhampered market.

Reuther is making a grandstand play to try to hoodwink the public in continuing to believe that labor unions are operated in agreement with and sanctioned by the above great moral principles. And anything that violates these eternal laws hurts not only the working man but every human being. This is true because under free enterprise the gain of one is the gain of all and the loss of one is the loss of all.

Do not let Reuther sidestep the real issue. The real issue whether labor unions are based on liberty and justice and goodwill or on tyranny, which is of course one of the worst forms of corruption.

BID FOR A SMILE

A person who is kindly sympathetic and well-meaning but who has appearances against him, is probably said to have his heart in the right place. In Ecclesiastes 10:2 the Preacher says that "a wise man's heart is at his right hand; but a fool's heart is at his left." Many people have an incorrect notion as to the location of the heart. It is commonly said that the heart is located in the left side. This is not strictly true and is somewhat misleading. The heart of the adult is a four-chambered, flattened muscular bag in the cavity of the thorax between the lungs. It lies obliquely behind the lower two-thirds of the breastbone, with the base pointing upward, backward and toward the right with the apex pointing downward and toward the left. Actually the heart is about as near the center of the body in respect to right and left as its shape will permit. In adults the heart has an average length of about five inches, a breadth of about three and a half, and weighs about 10 ounces. It is roughly the size of one of the individual's closed fists, being somewhat smaller proportionately in women than in men.

applicable to a universal degree. A principle can be discovered but not created by man.

A principle is fact, relating to the true nature of things as they are.

Any principle must be consistent with all other principles. And a principle must contain within itself a clear and unvarying determination between right and wrong.

It is up to each person to discover principles for himself to his own satisfaction by the means of intellectual challenge.

And additionally we would say that a life moored to principle is a life of worth and purpose. Any other life is adrift upon the sea of chance and must, to some degree, be meaningless.

Hyde Park Reminds One 'The Show's The Thing'

By HENRY McEMORE

LONDON — Just once I wish I could come to England when Americans are popular with the English.

I seem doomed always to arrive on "this tight little isle" when the residents are vexed with us cousins.

For all I know, England may have a permanent mad on with the United States — a mad that started back in 1776 and hasn't let up since.

The first time I came here, back in the early forties, I recall that England was mad because she was about ready to repudiate her World War I debt to us, and didn't want any Americans around at the default.

I forget what was annoying England the next time I reached shores, but in the early forties she didn't think much of us for not jumping in against Germany. And when we did jump in, she was exasperated by the way the GIs took over London.

At the moment — well, there are more sore spots than I have time or paper to list. Suez is a real ugly word around these parts and I wouldn't say it even in a pub lest some dart player let me have it between the eyes with one of his feathered missiles.

Petrol is a touchy subject, too, so is Cyprus, and so is Dulles, and I'm quite sure it wouldn't be wise to open a conversation with a reference to NATO.

I am also keeping it secret that I have spent quite a while in Western Germany, because that country's amazing economic recovery is a painful knot in the lion's tail, and the Englishman knows that American money had as much to do with it as the energy of the German people.

Sir Anthony Eden probably isn't a safe topic, either. He went to the U.S. for surgery, and that surely must be held against him.

What is a safe subject for an American here? Well, I imagine the recent Oxford-Cambridge boat race is one, because the beaten crew — Oxford, I believe it was — used the American-type stroke for the first time. Also, it should be safe to talk about how cold it gets in some parts of Canada during the winter. Britons are leaving for Canada by the boatload, and the possibility that they will suffer a bit figures to go a bit of cheering up.

I think it would be pretty safe for an American to praise Prince Charlie's looks, even though he is missing a front tooth and wears his hair a bit long in front, just like his Shetland pony.

Marilyn Monroe is a good topic, too. The English really go for her. Then the English would be able to say, "I told you so" to one another, or, "What else did you expect?" This would add flavor to their Brussels sprouts and boiled joint.

But England surely is a pretty country, and London is still a magnificent city. I don't mind if the English are a bit contrary. I just snap my braces and go about my business.

Marilyn. Apparently she can do no wrong, and her every move when she is on this side of the Atlantic rates front page coverage. It's better not to talk about Diana Dora, though. She didn't take Hollywood by storm as the English predicted she would, and she is looked upon as one who let the Commonwealth down a bit.

Americans are urged to curb their high spirits, their flair for braggadocio, and to hide their money when they go abroad. But I believe the English would like it if we talked loudly, laughed loudly, roared and railed in the streets, and generally acted the way Americans are usually portrayed on the English stage.

Review Of Contradictory Reports To Be Conducted

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — A complete review of contradictory intelligence reports on Russia's military strength will be conducted by the Senate Appropriations Committee before it acts on the Administration's request for $4.4 billion, for national defense and foreign aid. Many specialists believe that it has been vastly overrated by Pentagon experts and Allen W. Dulles' overseas agents.

Pointing out that this field offers the most likely for budget and tax cuts, Senator Allen J. Ellender of Louisiana is responsible for the checkup, which will be the first of its kind since World War II. Based on information gathered on his trips throughout Russia in the last two years, Ellender told the committee at a recent secret session:

"I believe that we are getting bum intelligence information. I think that the whole question should be looked into before we proceed to expand as we are and to spend as we are!"

A great deal of the Louisiana Senator's testimony was so pertinent, and so different from official data, that it was eliminated from the published reports of the hearing as "classified." But Dr. James Doolittle, Chairman of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, appears to share Ellender's views. He says:

"We would like to have more accurate information. But I would not write off the information which we have as wholly inaccurate."

In addition to data which he picked up inside Russia and the satellite states, Ellender has talked with Communist defectors including former officers in the Soviet Army and Air Force. They will be questioned by the full committee, as will Charles E. Bohlen, who has just returned from Moscow after serving as U.S. Ambassador there for four years.

Many other Members of Congress are disturbed by contrasting evidence on the question of Russia's military might, especially as erroneous estimates have had a far-reaching and sometimes unfortunate effect on the Western Allies' foreign policies, especially the United States. Many believe that it has contributed to unjustified timidity in battling the Great Bear.

Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson himself has conceded his own errors in this respect. He has downgraded previous estimates of Russian strength insofar as production of big bombers, fast pursuit planes and atomic weapons are concerned. His recent order cutting output of B-52's from 20 to 15 a month resulted from discovery of his mistakes.

Moreover, there is a growing belief that Allen Dulles' Central Intelligence Agency has not lived up to the promises and hopes held out when this country's spying agencies were unified under his control. It is felt that they were outwitted in the attack on Indochina by Ho Chi Minh's Reds, in the invasion of Egypt and in the Hungarian uprising.

Senator Carl Hayden of Arizona, Senate Appropriations Committee Chairman, has personal reasons for backing Senator Ellender's demand. As one of two Members of Congress who served in the Spanish-American War, he recalls this country's hysterical fear of Spain's might at a time when the erstwhile ruler of the Spanish Main was only a hollow, rotting shell in every way.

Russia's behavior, as recently noted here, lends support to doubt of her power. Despite her brutal reprisals in Hungary and her series of threats to European and Middle East members of NATO, the Kremlin has whined and scolded instead of taking military action.

Moscow obviously dreads the thought of present or prospective atomic encirclement. And, despite official denials, that is the current and long-range strategy at Washington.

In New York, 166 doctors are pressing for euthanasia legislation which would permit the government to decide when it wanted to give (non criminal) citizens a "painless death. Before we rush into this it might be wise to consider what Dr. Leo Alexander said about the practice in Nazi Germany in his "Medicine Under A Dictatorship": "It started with the acceptance of the attitude, basic in the euthanasia movement, that there is such a thing as a life not worthy to be lived. This attitude in its early stages concerned itself merely with the severely and chronically sick. Gradually the sphere of those to be included in this category was enlarged to encompass the socially unproductive, the ideologically unwanted, the racially unwanted, and finally, all non Germans." It could happen here and it could happen to you if every citizen is not vigilant in watching all proposed health legislation. Don't be careless with your own life!

Kentucky Derby To Be Wide Open Race Saturday

By RAY AYRES
United Press Sports Writer
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UP)—Wearing a special shoe on his bruised left front foot, Calumet Farm's Gen. Duke faced an early morning workout at Churchill Downs today that will determine if he is fit to race in Saturday's 83rd edition of the Kentucky Derby.

Other three-year-olds, including Gen. Duke's stablemate, Iron Liege, were entered Thursday for America's premier horse race, but the real drama was unfolding in barn 15 at the famed Downs. Quarters there was "The Duke," who until last Tuesday was the heavy favorite for the Derby. However, he came back to the barn after finishing second in the Derby Trial with a sore foot, thereby turning Saturday's classic into a wide open race.

Ben Jones, the trainer emeritus of Calumet Farm who already has saddled six Derby winners, admitted he has been unable to locate the trouble spot. But he decided late Thursday to "take him on the racetrack and see if he can run."

However, even if Gen. Duke passes today's test Jones indicated he may not decide definitely on whether to start the colt in the Derby until the absolute deadline—45 minutes before Derby post-time.

Cautious optimism was the keynote at the barns of the other trainers in comparison to the mantle of gloom hanging over the Calumet Farm "infirmary."

Jim Fitzsimmons had high hopes of winning the Kentucky Derby for the fourth time with Bold Ruler, now the favorite for the mile and one-quarter classic.

A LOST WEEK END TURNED INTO A LOST WEEK for the Pampa Oilers today. The Oilers were scheduled to close out a seven-day home stand tonight against the El Paso Texans but one inning of play is all they have to show for the stand.

The Southwestern League opened April 23 and Pampa played three straight games away from Oiler Park, winning one of the three. They were scheduled to open at home last Saturday after being rained out at Ballinger on Friday night.

The postponements have been unfortunate for the Oilers for two reasons. (1) The team had only a few days of spring drills and the delay has prevented them from practicing or playing to get that needed experience to work as a team and (2) the club must depend upon the gate receipts to make ends meet.

Their home stand which started Saturday was one of the two longest stands for the Oilers on the 140-game schedule. Pampa will have only one more home stand of seven days, many of them are two and three days. If they had been playing in El Paso, Carlsbad or Hobbs the Oilers possibly could have played.

WOOD IRWIN and a group of Raton, N.M., business men made their annual goodwill tour through Pampa and other Panhandle cities yesterday and they left an interesting brochure, publicizing the La Mesa Park races and the city of Raton.

Raton, situated seven miles south of the Colorado state line and approximately 250 miles northwest of Pampa, is called the summer capital of the land of enchantment. Races start at La Mesa on May 35 and continue through Sept. 15.

For those of you who would like to spend a week end or several days in Raton, that city offers many other interesting recreation

Plainview Takes Lead In Southwestern League Race

By UNITED PRESS
Plainview led the Southwestern League lead on percentage points today but Clovis was the leader in the won-lost column.

Clovis moved to 5-2 with a 2-0 blanking of Ballinger as Jim Bailey forged a three-hitter. Plainview knocked Carlsbad from the lead with a 14-hit barrage that sank the Potashers 8-7.

Hobbs beat Midland, 4-5, as a father-son pitching act appeared. Jerry Eaves started for Hobbs, but left in favor of Joe Ernst in the sixth. In the eighth, Vallie Eaves, Jerry's father, came on in relief and took the win when Hobbs rallied for three runs in the ninth.

Hobbs went in trailing by two, but Rexie Burns and Dirk Raton drew walks and John Spicuzza powered an inside-the-park home run to win the game. In its home opener, Plainview capitalized on home runs by Felix Guzman and Bob Brown and three hurlers to get past Carlsbad.

Clovis scored in the second and ninth to whip Ballinger again. In the second, Marty Rosell walked, Jesse Gonder singled him to third and Richard Dickey, who got both

Harvester Golfers Start Bid Today For State Links Crown

AUSTIN — The Pampa Harvesters opened fire in quest of the state golf championship of Class AA here this morning at the Austin Municipal Golf Course.

The Pampa team will seek to better its third-place finish in the state tournament last year. Alamo Heights won the team title last year with 621 strokes. Brownwood finished second with a 635 total and the Harvesters took third with 640 strokes.

The San Antonio team will be back again this year trying for its second straight title. Both Alamo Heights and Pampa have three regulars from last season back. Brownwood lost most of its foursome.

Milwaukee Holding 2-Game Lead In NL

By UNITED PRESS
It's plain today those obituaries of Robin Roberts' demise as a star pitcher were somewhat premature.

Three straight losses this year on top of last season's so-so 19-18 record had the experts counting Robin "out" but the burly Philadelphia Phillie's right hander proved Thursday night he's still "got it" with a 4-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs in which he allowed only three hits and struck out 13. The strikeout total was the highest of Robin's personal career and established a major league high for the current campaign.

Roberts, who had a 4.33 earned run average after losing his first three starts, retired the first 12 batters to face him and struck out six of them. Dale Long, acquired from the Pittsburgh Pirates Wednesday, broke the spell with a homer in the fifth and Lee Walls, obtained in the same trade, knocked in Chicago's other run with a triple in the seventh.

Oilers Rained Out, Head For Carlsbad

The Pampa Oilers, idled by rain during their seven-day home stand, were to leave here this afternoon for Carlsbad where they will try to play their first game in nine days Saturday.

The Oilers, who were scheduled to play El Paso here tonight, have not played since last Thursday night in Ballinger. Rain has postponed seven games here this week. It will be the second road trip for the Oilers, now in sixth place in the Southwestern League with a 1-2 record.

Manager Allan Cross plans to give his players a workout at Carlsbad Saturday morning. The game will probably be played Saturday night although the teams will probably be hampered by cold weather.

Machen vs. Maxim

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UP)—Young Eddie Machen confident that what he did once he can do again, takes on aging Joey Maxim tonight in an effort to establish his claim to a shot at the world heavyweight title.

the Amarillo Relays and the Region One tourney. Their only loss in tournament play has been in the Southwestern Recreation meet in Fort Worth.

Pampa placed second in a four-year meet to open the season and then came back to win over the same three teams later. The other dual match victory has been over the Shamrock Irish, also entered in the state meet but competing in the Class A division.

The Harvesters have a good chance of winning the team title this year. All four players have been playing well in the dust and wind that prevailed for several months before the monsoon season began.

Wall, Littler Pace Colonial Golf Meet

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UP)—Ace-happy Art Wall and former amateur champ Gene Littler were setting the pace by one stroke to day as the 425,000 Colonial National Invitation golf tournament entered the second round, but they took contrasting methods to get their two-under-par 68s.

Wall, a Pocono Manor, Pa., pro who is perhaps the nation's top hole-in-one artist with 34 to his credit was a picture of consistency as he clipped one stroke off each nine's par over the par 35-35-70 Colonial Country Club layout.

Littler, on the other hand, scrambled sometimes wildly as the Singing Hills, Calif., pro posted his 33-35-48 for Wall to shoot at among the late finishers.

Their closest challengers at 69 were Billy Maxwell, another former amateur title holder from Odessa, Tex., and Bob Rosburg, bespectacled San Francisco pro.

Six other players were only a stroke further back with par 70s: Harvie Ward, Ben Hogan defending champ Mike Souchak, Arnold Palmer, Freddie Haas, and Dick Metz.

Actually 32 of the 48-player field were within five strokes of the

Pampa-Amarillo Game Postponed

The scheduled District 3-AAAA baseball game between the Pampa Harvesters and the Amarillo Sandies was rained out here today and the contest slated at Oiler Park Saturday with Palo Duro will likely be postponed.

Coach Deck Waidt plans to meet the Sandies and Dons in a double-header tomorrow at Oiler Park if the sun shines enough to dry out the field. Pampa will meet the Dons in the first game at 1:30 p.m. to be followed by the Sandie game around 4 p.m.

David James and Mike Conway will probably start for the Harvesters in the two proposed contests. Amarillo leads the district race with a 5-1 record followed by Palo Duro with 4-2 and Pampa 4-3.

If the games are not played Saturday, the three teams will probably be forced to wait until the regular schedule is completed before making them up. The Harvesters were scheduled to close out their district slate next week at Lubbock and Plainview and then play Childress in a twin bill on Saturday, May 11.

North Crest Open House To Get Underway Sunday

A 3-Home Open House Show and a huge display of foreign sport cars, along with professional entertainment, will begin a full week program in North Crest, starting Sunday, according to R. G. "Dick" Hughes.

"These are the homes we have been promising to build in North Crest," Hughes said, "and these models have never been shown before in Pampa. We believe the public, in inspecting these homes, will have a new concept of better living. We hope everyone in Pampa and the surrounding area will browse through these homes Sunday. We know each visitor will gain a host of new home ideas."

The homes, located at 2314, 2317 and 2312 Rosewood Lane, are furnished by Fosters and Montgomery Ward. Each home offers a Preview of the latest styles and trends of home furnishings, drapes and the newest gas and electric appliances. The homes feature both all-gas and all-electric kitchens. Kitchen demonstrations will be under the supervision of specialists representing Empire Southern Gas Co., and Southwestern Public Service Co.

For the first time in Pampa visitors to the homes will also see a huge display of the latest model foreign sport cars, brought here by Crudgington Sport Car Center, Amarillo. There will be new Jaguars, MG's, Austin-Heeley's, Triumph TF-3 Morris and Gold on display at the homes. The car display will be shown only on Sunday, opening day, and on the closing day, Sunday May 12.

The Berg Sisters, Ruth, Norma, Doris and Pat "Texas' loveliest trio," will make two personal appearances in North Crest Sunday afternoon, singing the songs which have made them so popular and constantly in demand throughout the West. Students at Phillips College, Borger, the Amarillo girls are not only in demand at national conventions and Armed Forces shows, but have won several scholarships for their ability.

Open House visiting hours Sunday are from 2 until 8 p.m. Week-day hours are from Noon until 8 p.m.

Heart 'Banks' Are Expected By Biologist

WASHINGTON (UP)—A distinguished biologist believes the day is coming when a person with a bad heart can go to the "bank" and get a replacement.

He also foresees a time when "tailor made molecules" will be available for such purposes as controlling human conception, sex and growth.

The biologist, Dr. Ralph W. Gerard of the University of Michigan, addressed a scientific colloquium at the National Science Foundation here.

He said biology has come a long way since it was christened in 1802. It is now "at the explosion point" and is expanding rapidly into the realm of physical, psychological and social science.

Blood, bone, eye and cartilage banks already have proved practical, Gerard believes kidney, liver and heart banks will follow although some of the technical problems admittedly are great.

"I believe they will be solved," Gerard said.

He also sees a growing role for "tailor - made molecules"—synthetic organic drugs produced in the laboratory for a multitude of uses.

Gerard made no attempt to list all the possible uses of tailor-made molecules. But he said they might include everything from control of the nervous system to control of conception, sex of offspring and growth.

Engineers Invite Bids On Contract At Amarillo Base

Tulsa, District Army Engineers plan to invite bids on an air conditioning and heating contract at Amarillo Air Force Base, Amarillo, on May 13.

The contract covers revisions to be made to air handling units in the hospital addition. Specific work features include removal of existing filter boxes and installation of new filter boxes; installation of new filters; cleaning and relocation of preheat coils; and removal of existing blower section and installation of new blower section.

Estimated cost of these revisions is under $100,000 and approximately 90 calendar days will be required to complete the work.
