Economy Moves By Ike Hit

Democrats Protest President's Directive

By RUTHERFORD POATS
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, July 13 (UP)—Congressional Democrats protested today against President Eisenhower's latest economy moves.

In the House, Democrats angrily retaliated against the President's secret "cut spending" directive by threatening rougher treatment of his foreign aid and other budget requests.

They also talked of out-doing the administration by setting a spending ceiling lower than the President's, thus clearing the way for a politically popular tax cut.

In the Senate, former Air Force Secretary Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) said Eisenhower's "incredible policies" scrap multi-million dollar weapons programs but "refuse even to consider" money-saving suggestions for greater efficiency in the armed services.

Millions Down the Drain
He pointed out that the administration recently scrapped the entire program to develop a new military cargo plane, the C-132, after spending 93 million dollars on it. Thursday, the government announced it was abandoning development of the Navaho intercontinental guided missile after investment of 500 million dollars.

The administration explains these unique efforts toward unilateral disarmament in the face of growing Communist military strength on the grounds he cannot afford to discontinue our efforts to remain strong.

The Missouri Democrat told the Senate. "At the same time, President Eisenhower continues to refuse to even consider moving down the three broad avenues where great savings could be made in the military through greater efficiency," he said.

Budget Ceiling Talked
These "avenues" are the Corndiner report for a career incentive plan for the armed forces. The Hoover Commission recommendation for further teamwork by the services, and a "true weapons system evaluation program, which we haven't had since World War II," Symington said.

In the House, Democrats talked of placing a ceiling of 68 to 69 billion dollars on the money the government can spend in the fiscal year which began July 1.

Senator Slaps Airlines For Drink Policies

WASHINGTON, July 13 (UP)—Sen. Strom Thurmond asserted today the scheduled airlines' voluntary program for limiting drinking on commercial airlines "appears to have broken down."

The South Carolina Democrat said he would press for early hearings on his bill to ban the serving of liquor on transport planes.

The voluntary program, which limits each passenger to not more than two drinks, went into effect a year ago. Thurmond said he has been getting "numerous reports the program is not working out."

Two Drink Plan Outwitted
"I have heard of many cases of unpleasant and potentially dangerous intoxication on airlines," he told the United Press. "The voluntary program appears to have broken down. I have asked the chairman of the Senate Commerce Subcommittee on Aviation to hold early hearings on my bill."

10 Cases Cleared Up

Youths Arrested For Burglaries

A total of nine burglaries and one attempted burglary in Pampa since June 26 were cleared up yesterday afternoon when two boys, who are brothers, one 11 and the other 12, admitted to local officers that they were responsible for the 10 incidents.

Chief of Police Jim Conner stated that the two boys admitted to all of the burglaries after being questioned about the recent rash of burglaries in Pampa.

The two boys were taken to the station when officers learned that the boys were in the neighborhood of one of the local businesses that had been entered and that they answered the description of boys seen near the building about the time of the burglary.

At first the youths denied the burglaries but the officers felt that they had the right boys when tennis shoes they were wearing matched perfectly, with footprints left at the scenes of many recent burglaries.

The boys admitted to four burglaries at the Hi Way Barber Shop, 1011 Alcock. Three of the burglaries had been reported to the police department but the boys stated they had not taken anything at that time.

During the other three burglaries, two at night, and one during a lunch hour, the boys stated that they had taken a total of $39 from the barber shop.

The 11-year-old boy admitted that he had entered the barber shop on all four occasions but the 12-year-old boy stated he had only entered the barber shop on one occasion, Conner reported.

The boys also admitted entering two other barber shops. These were the Jess Turner Barber Shop, 312 N. Cuyler, where the boys stated they had taken $3.10, and the Floyd Hunter Barber Shop, 103 N. Hobart, where nothing was missing but the boys overlooked $17 that was in a sack in a drawer. At both of these businesses the smaller youth went into the building while the older one kept watch on the outside, Conner reported.

The youths continued their statement by admitting that they entered the Goodyear Shoe Shop, 115 W. Foster, on the night of July 9, Conner stated. Both of the boys admitted entering this business and prowling around. Again they did not take anything.

The burglary of two private residences was also admitted by the youths. The younger boy admitted taking $6.10 from a piggy bank at the residence of Mrs. J. M. Lancaster, 528 Doyle, on the night of July 8. He also admitted that he had entered the residence of Mrs. Minnie Kuykendall, 616 N. Russell, July 4. The boy admitted prowling the house and opening a package that had been prepared for mailing but stated he did not take the watch that was reported missing.

The younger boy also admitted that he had thrown a rock and broke the window in the back door of the Hobby Shop, 111 W. Francis, on the morning of July 7. The boys were not successful in entering the business due to the wire mesh inside the window glass.

The final tally of the money which the boys admitted they had taken in the series of burglaries amounted to $48.20. The boys told the officers that they had spent the money as fast as they had taken it.

The boys were released and were told to report to juvenile authorities at 9:30 tomorrow morning for a hearing on the series of burglaries.

Operator For Hotel OK'd

The American Hotels Company of New York was tentatively approved Friday afternoon by unanimous vote of the board of directors of the Pampa Community Hotel, as the operating company for Pampa's Community Hotel when it is completed.

The action was subject to the approval of the hotel company's attorney, William J. Smith, and then the final approval of the directors after a written contract has been drawn up.

The approval Friday came on the recommendation of the operations committee headed by George Scott.

The board also authorized the sale of an option to buy to Lynn Boyd of almost 12 acres for the construction of single dwelling units. The property is located in the southwest corner of the company's quarter section and the price per acre is $1,200. Boyd will assume the full responsibility for development on the area which will contain approximately 48 lots.

Robert V. Walker, operating vice-president for the American Hotels Company, met yesterday with the building and architect committee headed by C. P. Buckler, George Scott and B. R. Cantrell, hotel architect to discuss ideas for construction of the hotel.

Cantrell is to start immediately on new plans in line with the suggestions made yesterday. When the new plans are completed and meet the approval of the building and architect committee, then they will be submitted to the board of directors for final approval.

Walker announced that his company is now ready to give assistance.

Apparent Theft Try Is Thwarted

An attempted burglary of a fruit and vegetable stand on S. Stark weather was thwarted at 2:24 a.m. yesterday when local officers apprehended two teen-age boys.

According to a report from Jim Conner, chief of police, the burglary try was stopped when a patrol car approached the stand and saw a car leave the scene. They gave chase and apprehended a 15-year-old boy. After taking this boy to the station, Conner reported, the officers returned to the stand and found a 16-year-old boy hiding behind some crates near the stand.

The officers located a pair of wire cutters, Conner stated, and also discovered a hole had been cut in the wire mesh covering the front of the stand.

Conner reported that apparently the boys had been attempting to take a watermelon from the stand. The case was turned over to H. A. Doggett, juvenile officer, yesterday and he released the two boys after giving them a warning not to get into any more trouble.

Solon Would Kill 'Rights' Provision

By RAYMOND LAHR
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, July 13 (UP)—Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.) called on the Senate today to kill a civil rights bill provision which southern Democrats fear could lead to use of bayonets to break down racial segregation in the South.

Russell, who is masterminding strategy for southern opponents of the bill, said he would press for an amendment to knock out this most sweeping and disputed provision in the House-approved administration bill.

He also announced he would offer two other amendments, both of which would strip the bill of "biased or slanted."

Unusual Saturday Session
Russell explained his amendments as the Senate met for a long Saturday session to let more southerners tell why they object to the Senate even considering the bill.

The Senate will vote about 4 p.m. c.s.t. Tuesday on pending motion to take up the bill. Approval of that motion by a sizeable majority is assured but a long and bitter struggle over the bill itself still lies ahead.

The provision which Russell asked to be killed would permit the Justice Department to seek injunctions against conspiracies to deprive persons of civil rights. It would be subject to contempt of court penalties without jury trials.

Cunningham Proposal
In his speech today, Russell said the amendment needed no explanation at this time. But he told the Senate last week that the provision was a cunning proposal to authorize use of troops against southern whites to do away with racial segregation at bayonet point if necessary.

A sizeable number of senators believe that elimination of the provision is a necessary part of any broad compromise which they think must be reached before the bill can be passed.

Other provisions in the bill would set up the investigating assistant attorney general to handle civil rights cases, and provide injunctive authority to halt violations or threatened violations of Negro voting rights.

Charges Filed In Galveston
GALVESTON, Tex., July 13 (UP)—Charges of operating open saloons were filed today against four persons after Texas Rangers raided two night clubs early today.

The Rangers confiscated several bottles of whiskey in the raids at the 418 Club, already under an injunction, and the Olympic Club. The charges were filed against Joe Maracini, Essie May Sullivan, Beatrice Owen and Edith Alvee. They were released under $250 bond each.

Now For The Building—Johnny Campbell, right, and Newt Secrest, both of the Pampa Optimist club, tear up a note on 10 acres of land purchased for the site of a boys club building. The Optimists made their final payment on the $8,000 plot Friday and are starting a drive Monday for a $50,000 building. Citizens will be asked to donate $1 per month for an indefinite period to help finance it. Campbell is president of the Optimists and Secrest is the board of directors member in charge of the project. (News Photo)

Optimists To Kick Off Boys Club Building Fund Drive
Pampa's Optimist club will kick off a drive to raise funds for a $50,000 boys club building at their meeting tomorrow night. Johnny Campbell, president, announced today.

They hope to start construction during the first part of August.

The club made final payment on a 10-acre tract of land Friday in the southeastern part of Pampa which will serve as the location for a building.

New Secrest, member of the board of directors who is heading the overall project, announced that an "800 club" would be pushed.

The club will try to get 800 citizens to pledge $1 per month for an indefinite period—hence the "800 club."

Secrest explained this money would serve immediately to secure loans on the building, and eventually when the loan is paid, it will be used for operations expenses.

Building chairman, in charge of the actual construction, is H. R. Jejer, a local contractor.

The club will be designed for athletic programs for boys through the high school age. Campbell stressed there would be no conflict between the boys club and the Community Youth Center which is planned here.

The 10 acres purchased by the Optimist club cost a total of $8,000 all of which has been paid within the last three years. Members donated $1,500 during the past few weeks in order to clear the debt although the note would not have come due until December.

Funds have been raised in the past through sales of Christmas boxing, gymnastics, showers, ping pong, television, reading and other recreational activities.

Campbell said that eventually they hoped a full-time club director could be hired. It is to be open each night for those who wish to come, he said.

The Optimists, in the past, have had a boys club in a rented building, but lost their lease.

About 200 people are expected to be contacted during the next 10 days Campbell announced.

Architect plans for the building have already been drawn up. The club is to contain facilities for John Schofield, publicity director for the project and Optimist president when the project was originated, said that a number of firms have already offered materials and services.

Austin Owen Is Retired

Austin Owen, manager of the plumbing department at Montgomery Ward here, retired this week after 14 years of service in that store.

"We sure are going to miss him," Bill McComas, store manager said. Owen, who lives with his wife at 325 Perry, plans to move to a cabin in Missouri and devote his time chiefly to fishing.

He is the first man to retire from Montgomery Ward under the present retirement system, McComas said.

Owen's retirement officially begins Aug. 1, but the remainder of this time will be paid vacation.

The store gave Owen a present yesterday for his long service. "Sure will be glad to get to Missouri where the fishin's good," he said.

New Highs For Stocks Last Week

By ELMER C. WALZER
United Press Financial Editor

NE WYOHK (UP)—Stocks reached new highs since last Aug. 10 during the past week. Trading picked up to the most active pace since the week ended April 26. Daily average volume of 2,649,136 shares compared with a daily average of 2,314,355 last week.

Traders talked inflation but guided their market operations on more tangible things such as better business ahead, a revision upward for auto output this year, talk of a record year for steel, high energy fuels—a new industry rising to a billion dollars in a decade—prospect of a natural gas bill this year, and statements by Secretary George M. Humphrey that the economy is free of the excesses that wrecked us in 1929. Railroads outperformed the other major groups. With their income fixed by rules of the Interstate Commerce Commission, the rails are considered anything but an inflation hedge. Neither are the utilities, and they enjoyed good markets from time to time and gained slightly on the week. New Borax Fuel Oil Mathieson provided the romance in the high energy fuel which it is producing for the Air Force. It is constructing a 36 million dollar plant to turn out the fuel, a product of borax found in vast quantities in California and Nevada. Olin ran up to a new high and then met profit-taking. The big American Potash and Stauffer Chemical had some wide moves on the exotic fuel prospects. The performer of the week was Superior Oil of California which sold at a new record high on Friday at $1,850 a share. That was a gain of $155 on the week. That stock sold as low as $1,210 earlier this year. General Motors got into action Friday when it led the market in activity and set a new high. It gained 2% on the week and Ford, seldom changed more than a fraction, rose more than a point. Chrysler, strong at times, lost a fraction.

'Red China Milking Us Dry' - Khrushchev

By K. C. THALER
United Press Staff Correspondent
LONDON, July 13 (UP)—Soviet Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev has complained that Red China "is milking us dry", diplomatic sources said today.

Khrushchev made the remark to East European leaders during recent negotiations for increased Soviet aid to the satellites, the sources said.

The Peiping regime is understood to be insisting that Russia fulfill her commitments to supply industrial goods and raw materials on which China's economic planning depends to an important degree.

Russia, although under pressure for more assistance from her satellites in Europe, cannot afford to rebuke Red China, on whose political good will she is at present more dependent than ever.

Khrushchev said in Czechoslovakia yesterday that Russia's strength lies in the aid which she dispenses "with great joy" to other Communist states.

But there have been signs for some time that the growing call on Soviet assistance is severely testing Russia's strained economy.

These demands compete with Russia's offers of economic assistance to underdeveloped countries, made in the last 12 months in a political contest with the West over the neutralist nations.

The latest shakeup in Moscow may lead to more satellite claims on Russian assistance. Khrushchev has indicated during the Czechoslovakian tour that Russia will help the satellites in raising their standards of living.

"We're sure looking forward to settling here, it's about as fine a town as I've seen," Mrs. McCarthy said. Her husband added that the people were the friendliest here he's seen anywhere.

County Aids Family Of Hitch-Hikers

Gray County stepped in yesterday and extended help to a family of five who had trouble while hitch-hiking through Pampa en route to Omaha, Neb.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewain Benson and their three small children had hitch-hiked here from Albuquerque, N.M., Friday when J. K. Benson, who is expecting a fourth child soon, collapsed on the east side of the city.

She was taken to Highland General Hospital where she was treated, given medicine and released. Doctors said she needed a major operation very soon, it was reported.

Money from the Welfare Fund were used to buy bus tickets for the family to Omaha, where Mrs. Benson was to enter the University Hospital for treatment.

Doctors gave her medicine to last until the operation could be performed.

The family left at 8:15 Friday night on the bus.

Benson explained that they had not been residents of Albuquerque long enough to be taken by a hospital there and that he did not have enough money for the operation.

The alarm on the other car fire was received at 6:15 p.m. when the carburetor of a 1955 Chevrolet caught fire in the 400 block of W. Kingsmill. Heavy damage to the motor resulted from the fire, firemen answering the call reported.

County Asks Aid In Meet Here Friday

A request for federal aid and working with the budget were the main items on the agenda of the county commissioners' court in their monthly meeting Friday.

A letter was sent to Governor Daniel requesting he try to obtain federal assistance to help Gray County pay for repairs to bridges and approaches which were washed out by rains this spring.

The request was made under U.S. Public Law Number 875.

Later in the day, work was done toward shaping a new budget for Gray County.

The valuation of the county may rise $1.5 million due to recent growth, commissioners said.

Bills were paid and other routine matters were discussed.

A passenger in a 1950 DeSoto, driven by Mary Crocker Crowe of Lefors, and Mrs. Pearl Mae Ledford, a passenger in a 1956 International pickup, driven by Oscar J. Ledford, 926 Nelson, were injured when the two vehicles were in collision at 2:20 p.m. yesterday at the intersection of Talley and Scott.

They both received minor injuries and after treatment at a local hospital were released.

Damages to the pickup were estimated at $150 and the DeSoto met with damages estimated at $250.

The other collision reported yesterday occurred at 10:20 a.m. on Kingsmill, 39 feet east of Cuyler. A 1956 Mercury station wagon, driven by Melver F. Helmeck, 800 E. Craven, and a 1957 Mercury, driven by Dorothy Stewart Jenkins, 206 N. Ward, were in collision. The station wagon encountered damages estimated at $100 and the 1957 Mercury met with damages estimated at $50.

Warning Of Cancer Cure Is Issued

A warning against the Hoxsey Cancer Treatment was contained in a letter to Gray County Judge Bruce Parker yesterday from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

It was originated by the Food and Drug Administration in Washington.

The warning was posted in the first floor of the county court house.

The letter said, "We believe that this poster is of vital interest to persons having cancer, who are giving consideration to the Hoxsey Cancer Treatment and we would like to get it into the hands of as many people as possible."

It stated that the Hoxsey cure was composed essentially of simple drugs which are worthless in the treatment of cancer.

Water Skiing Growing Summer Sport In The Top O' Texas

By FRED M. PARKER
Pampa News Staff Writer

A growing summer-time sport in the Top o' Texas is that of water skiing.

Information received from some of the supporters of this rapidly-growing sport shows that it is a cheap sport — that is if you have a friend who has a boat and an outboard motor.

Of course if you don't have a friend so equipped it will be costly. Research revealed that a boat, motor and a trailer, to haul the rig around on, will cost anywhere from $1,500 on up. This could be expensive for some people.

The first local enthusiast contacted about the sport of water skiing was Ray Duncan, 2100 Charles. Information obtained from Duncan indicated that a motor of at least 25 horsepower is needed to pull a water skier. If more than one skier is to be towed by the boat, a larger motor will be needed, he reported.

"Learning to water ski isn't too difficult," Duncan stated. He reported that he only had one lesson, at Lake Altus in Oklahoma, and that the hardest part was learning to come up out of the water.

Duncan said that the proper position needed to be obtained in the water if one was to start successfully. He reported that the knees should be pulled up against the chest and that the arms should be held straight out.

Several Pampans have recently learned how to water ski and one of those who started recently is Glen Howell, 1002 S. Hobart. He was at Lake McClellan Thursday afternoon and was doing a good job of staying on the two strips of wood.

He reported that the operator of the boat should start slowly until the skier is up out of the water and then open the motor up.

The fact that it is easy was demonstrated by Mrs. Harold Anderson, 2100 Hamilton. She was on water skis for the second time last Thursday and skied around the lake for several minutes without taking a spill.

Harold Anderson was also on the skis and even though he had only recently learned to ski, was doing a good job.

Duncan said that the only places close enough to go skiing, that were suitable for the sport, were

Lake McClellan, Buffalo Lake near Canyon and Lake Altus in Oklahoma. He reported that Lake Altus was the best of the three and is only 130 miles from Pampa.

The reason other lakes are not suitable, Duncan stated, is that most of them are surface lakes and there is too much debris that is a hazard to the skier. He stated that a person should never ski where there is any debris.

Water skiing is a safe sport, Duncan reported. He stated that he had never heard of anyone being seriously injured while water skiing. Of course if a person is spilled there may be minor bruises but that is the worst he knew that has happened to a skier.

All in all, Duncan reported, a person can learn to water ski in a few tries and can have a lot of fun.

There are several other residents of Pampa enjoying this sport. Some of these are: Charles Hickman, Carl Hills, Terry Cullley, Perry Franklin, W. N. Larkin, Dr. Bob Siefert, Bill Waggoner, Horton Russell, Jon Jones, "Butch" Bradley and a lot of others.

Duncan reported that the only time Lake McClellan is crowded

Agriculture Has Good Export-Import Balance

By GAYLORD F. GODWIN
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, July 13 (UP)—

There is little talk these days among U.S. cattlemen about competitive foreign imports—live cattle from Mexico and Canada, and canned beef from South America.

The reason is simple. In 1953, for the first time, the United States exported more cattle and beef products than it imported. This export balance now has zoomed to a comfortable 162 million dollars.

This shift in trade balance seems to have been good for every one in the United States—farmers, meat packers, housewives, and manufacturers. Most of the exports have been byproducts for which there is little demand in this country. This has helped the farmer broaden his market and increase his income.

Record Supplies
Packers have obtained the more desirable carcass meats for sale in the domestic market. The consumer has enjoyed record supplies of beef at reasonable prices. And, while large supplies of hides and tallow now are going abroad, U.S. manufacturers still pay about the same prices for these items.

The foreign agricultural service considers this a dramatic reversal. In 1952, U.S. imports of live cattle, beef, tallow, greases, hides, skins, and sausage casings totaled 103 million dollars. Exports were with water skiers is on Sunday. On week days there is plenty of room on the lake to learn how to ski.

One suggestion that Duncan offered is that all the owners of outboard motor boats in the area should get together and form an association. The purpose of such a group, he stated, would be to regulate the activities of the boat users so that the boats would not run over each other's low ropes and create other hazards.

It seems that all it takes to water ski is about $25 for a pair of skis and having a friend with a boat. This shouldn't be too hard to accomplish around here where there are plenty of boats.

As one of the skiers at Lake McClellan said, "Come on in, the waters fine for skiing."

Has everybody seen the American Legion junior baseball team, the Rebels, play this summer? That team, made up mostly of Pampa High School athletes, has carved quite a notch for itself in its first season. This is the first year such a team has been sponsored here and the Rebels won the district title Tuesday night when they defeated Amarillo's Chiefs, last year's state champions, 14-5. There are some pretty smooth ball players on the team and most of them will be playing high school baseball next season. Gary Helskell pitched extremely well, striking out 14 and giving up only three walks. Mike Conway, who played catcher Tuesday night, is the most versatile player on the team. He can play behind the plate, pitch, or play just about any other spot on the diamond and do a good job. Bill Brown, who is also a basketball star, plays shortstop like a charm. Bill is the type player you like to watch perform. He's smooth, consistently dependable at the place, and a great competitor. Nothing makes him madder than to

FRED M. PARKER, staff writer

All of the rains that came to this area during the early part of the year have only helped to produce a large weed crop. As far as the farmers are concerned, the rains didn't come at the right time. What seemed to be a large wheat crop fizzled out with the hot dry weather before cutting time. With the rust and the withering of the grain due to the hot spell, some of it wasn't worth cutting. One farmer told this writer that the muddy fields delayed his planting a grain crop and that he finally got into the field to do the planting a few weeks ago. Now that the seed is in the ground the top few inches of soil is hard and dry and the seeds aren't sprouting. The situation isn't much better in town. Now that we have the weeds half-way controlled, the ground is drying out and the lawns are turning brown. This means that the old sprinkler must be put to use practically every day if the grass and flowers are to be kept

Mots and jots of dis and dots... Been having trouble lately keeping heavy earrings on your small earlobes? Well, Sue Foster showed her mother and her mother showed me that if you just turn your earrings so that the clip part fits over the strongest part of your upper lobe, they will stay on. Takes these daughters to show their mothers a thing or two, doesn't it? For instance, those "cruelly jokes" that are making the rounds these days, I first heard of them on Tennessee Ernie Ford's Show the other night. And was quite amused. But our youngest said, "We've been doing that for ages" and with that she arched her hand over her face, as an illustration and said, "Mother, what does a tarantula look like?"

BILL NEAL, staff writer

The "800 Club." You'll likely hear that name frequently around Pampa during the next few weeks. The Optimist club here, headed by Johnny Campbell, is set to start a drive tomorrow among citizens to raise money for a boys club. They hope to start construction on the club building around the first of August. Ten acres of land have already been purchased. Citizens will be asked to pledge $1 per month for an indefinite period to start the program rolling. They hope to get 800 pledges lined up — hence the "800 club." In our opinion it is worth the money. The boys club will be completely separate from and not conflicting with the planned Community Youth Center. The boys club will be strictly an athletic organization for boys through high school ages. Events during the past few weeks have pointed out that Pampa certainly needs organizations like these two. As Campbell put it, "Youngsters don't have as many responsibilities to keep them occupied nowadays, and with all our modern conveniences, they have a lot of spare time. With all the energy of a growing boy, he's going to be doing something. We want to provide constructive things for them." We are happy to note the addition in some radio stations recently of a "comedy hour" (sometimes called news casts or DJ shows). In some vicinities it occurs usually after each record, evidently working on the theory that the more you say something, the more important it grows. But anyway, merely by flipping the dial, we've picked up many new words for our old-fashioned vocabulary.

In this modern time, old standard English words must undergo a streamlining. Some real gems of pronunciation can be gleaned by simply listening to these original fellows. For instance we have now modernized such terms as "partly" to "partly" cloudy, etc. (much easier to say), or Cairo, Egypt (now pronounced Care-i-o). This is not to be confused with a burg which was

With the Santa Fe Railroad's verbal disapproval of the American Legion's sub-lease to Oiler Park, Pampa's last sign of professional baseball is in the process of destruction. Added to the certainty of this is the Legion's rejection to the Railroad's offer to sell the park. According to the railroad, the grounds must be cleared before January 3, 1958, to be used for an industrial site. The Legion program this season will continue, however, according to verbal agreement of R. D. Mills, the present holder of the lease. The American Legion team has already won its district this year, in its first year of organization, and it is likely that they will go further this season in higher Legion play-offs. However, if Legion, as well as other boys programs, are to continue next year, it is evident that a lighted park will be needed. Perhaps the time has come when a community stadium should be

France Is Only Country In World To Be In Continuous War Since '39

By ARTHUR HIGBEE

United Press Staff Correspondent MARNIA, Algeria (UP)—The Big Dipper and the Milky Way wink in the moonless black sky. The beaten pathway crunches underfoot. It is like a starlighted walk on a rocky black pasture in Michigan or Oklahoma. But the longitude is 4,000 miles to the east. This is a night patrol with the French Army in Algeria. Any clump of bushes could be the nesting place for a rebel ambush. The French soldiers are the 22nd Regiment of Colonial Infantry, drawn from France's overseas possessions. They are headquartered at Marnia, seven miles inside the Moroccan border. The commanding officer of the second battalion is Major Henri Robert, son and grandson of a soldier, graduate of St. Cry (the French West Point) in 1938. Like most French career officers, he has been fighting ever since. Continuously At War France is the only country in the world to have been at war continuously since 1939—the second world war, then Indo-China, still North Africa. His battalion covers 70 square miles along the frontier. Its 900 Negroes from French West Africa, 300 French draftees and 200 Vietnamese commandos are spread thinner than the book recommends. But the Algerian campaign does not fit the book to begin with. Algeria is about the size of France. But there is no front line. Battles occur anywhere. Troops must be spread across the map. The rebels, with no artillery or planes, fight by the dozens or hundreds, never by the thousands. Pampans Feel Girard Treated Unfairly County Cotton Shows Damage From 2,4-D

By BILL NEAL
Pampa News Staff Writer

Care to start a rousing argument?

Then walk any downtown street in Pampa, stop the first man-on-the-street and casually say, "I'm sure glad the Supreme Court turned out that Girard over to the Japanese, aren't you?"

Chances are ten to one this will do the trick. And at the very least you will have an irate citizen showering a torrent of abuse on everyone responsible for the current situation.

"I think it's unconstitutional as hell," B. E. Terrell, owner of a real estate and insurance agency here said.

"I think that if our President had as much guts as a shepherd puppy he wouldn't try to appease the whole world with American boys' lives. I think he should be impeached for that one thing if nothing else," he continued.

In general, Pampans expressed opposition in varying degrees to the stand taken by the administration and Supreme Court in giving jurisdiction in the case of Special Agent William S. Girard to the Japanese government. Girard faces charges of manslaughter in the fatal shooting of a Japanese woman at Camp Whittington in Japan.

The American soldier has admitted shooting Mrs. Naka Sakai in the back with a cartridge hurled by a grenade launcher while she was scavenging empty shells on a firing range where Girard was on guard duty.

The Supreme Court Thursday unanimously upheld Eisenhower's decision to surrender jurisdiction under the nation's status-of-forces treaty.

Don Cain, Gray County Attorney, expressed concern over the case stressing the fact that many legal aspects were to be taken into consideration.

"However," he said, "from the facts I have, I feel that Girard was on official army duty, and if so I think he should have been tried by Army court martial."

In his history-making decision last Thursday the Supreme Court reversed the stand of a district court which had said that Girard was "on duty" and therefore the jurisdiction rested with Army courts.

The Supreme Court said that a foreign government could try cases in which the alleged crime occurred while the soldier was "on duty."

Mrs. Frank Foster, 1233 N. Russell, who has had one son in the Army, and another son-in-law in the Army, commented, "... after the government made that treaty,

BOB HAMILTON

DON CAIN
many legal aspects

I don't guess there's much else to do — but I don't think they had any business making it in the first place."

"He (Girard) was on duty at the time; he was drafted into service for us; and I think we should protect him. If it had been a civilian it would have been different," she said. Mrs. Foster's son owns Foster's Distinctive Furniture Store, 317 W. Kingsmill.

Newt Seacrest, local insurance man, concurred in the view. He said, "I think that Girard should be tried by a military court — not by the Japanese."

An ex-serviceman, Bob Hamilton, who is working at the C&M Television store this summer, said, "If he was on duty, then he should have been tried by a military court, but if he was off duty then the Japanese courts should try him. I know I'd sure hate to be tried by a foreign court. I can't see why he wouldn't be considered on duty though."

Hamilton also teaches speech and salesmanship in Pampa High School.

C. L. Castell, an employee of the Builders Plumbing Company, was a little more emphatic in his opinion.

"In the first place I don't think he (Girard) did it intentionally, and if he did I still don't think he should be tried by Japan. After all we won the war."

Johnny Campbell of the Panhandle Insurance Agency, and also president of the Optimist Club and the Junior Chamber of Commerce here, felt that government officials "acted about the only way they could."

Mindful of the status-of-forces agreement, Campbell felt that the people as a whole don't know enough about the situation to tell just what is right.

"Since we don't know all the facts, we tend to judge largely on sentiment. Therefore I feel we should give the Supreme Court the benefit of the doubt and abide by the ruling."

Campbell pointed out that everyone was in agreement with the situation now except the American people.

"It does raise the question in my mind however, just where the authority should lie," he said.

"It has focused attention on the question as to how far our government should go in making treaties of this kind with foreign governments," he concluded.

Specifically, the Supreme Court held that the status-of-forces treaty did not infringe upon Girard's constitutional rights and therefore jurisdiction in the case could be surrendered to the Japanese by the executive branch.

Some administration officials had warned that sustaining the district court's decision would have forced the United States to withdraw its troops and planes from many vital foreign bases, jeopardizing the free world's security.

Several Congressmen have moved toward setting up committees to investigate the status-of-forces treaty with the possibility in view of passing legislation to curb such treaties.

Meanwhile, Pampans on the whole seem to be dissatisfied with the administration and Supreme Court for their position on the case, and very concerned that American soldiers abroad receive justice in American courts.

County Cotton Shows Damage From 2,4-D

Most of the cotton fields inspected in the Pampa area during the past week showed effects of 2,4-D, according to County Agent Ralph Thomas. He says, "While most of the fields show only light damage, there is a heavy damage on some."

"The long, narrow and misshapened leaves caused by 2,4-D are easily recognized," Thomas says. "If heavily damaged the cotton just stops growing." It was pointed out that our cotton is already late, due to the fact that the soil was so wet and cold at planting time, and it will have to make maximum growth to mature before frost.

Thomas said that esters of 2,4-D may damage cotton as far as five miles from where it is applied, and that it is not safe to use even when the wind is blowing away from the cotton. Fumes from this type of ester may blow over on the cotton for several days.

Amines and non-volatile esters of 2,4-D are safe to use according to Thomas, but these should not be used closer than a half mile from cotton regardless of wind direction. Where the wind is blowing toward the cotton it is not safe to use within a mile with ground equipment or four miles with plane.

Thomas said that 2,4-D has served a useful purpose in controlling weeds in Gray County the past 12 years. It will continue to serve a useful purpose on land not too close to cotton if farmers will use precaution.

WASHINGTON — Edward Bennett Williams, attorney for Teamsters Vice President James Hoffa, on the declaration of a mistrial for Hoffa's bribery-conspiracy co-defendant Hyman I. Fischbach: "We have not and will not have the defense evidence we so largely are relying on."

AMA Report Didn't Shake Ivy's Faith

Fourth of a series.

By DELOS SMITH
United Press Science Editor

(Copyright 1957 by United Press)

NEW YORK (UPI) — The AMA's anti-Krebiozen report would have shaken a man of less faith than Andrew Conway Ivy — in God, in himself, in the results of his own scientific investigations. He regards himself as "a dedicated personality." He told this reporter: "I live for one reason — to help people."

That has nothing to do with whether he is right or wrong about Krebiozen, but it is a measure of the man. There he was, a top man of medicine and science, with his world threatening to collapse. His friends told him to accept the report and recant. Otherwise he would be destroyed. He pulled back not one iota.

And this despite the fact that Dr. Durovic had dissolved the only existing supply of the white powder in mineral oil and had divided the oil into 200,000 ampules. That meant it would be extremely difficult if not impossible to obtain the kind of minute chemical analysis which would reveal what Krebiozen was, chemically, and which exact science requires — as a matter of course.

Ivy said this was the only time he was tempted, to "pull out." Durovic said he had done it "thoughtlessly," with the idea of preserving the powder's potency.

Storm At University

The Chicago Medical Society, a constituent part of the AMA, was moving to punish him for alleged violation of a cardinal medical ethic — promoting a "secret remedy." A storm was rising at the University of Illinois whose president, Dr. George D. Stoddard, was displaying a lively interest in Ivy's activities.

Stoddard appointed a committee of medical professors versed in cancer, to evaluate all Krebiozen-treated cancer cases which now numbered several hundred. It reported Krebiozen had "no curative value," which Ivy had never claimed, but "we cannot state that it is entirely devoid of biological activity." It said the prime question was "the nature of the material" and until that question was answered, no further attention should be given to it.

Stoddard appointed another committee to undertake as thorough a chemical analysis as was possible of a substance dissolved in one of its own solvents, which meant it was utterly dissolved. As they have consistently, the Durovics insisted upon iron-bound protection of their commercial rights (which this reporter does not imply is wrong — there is pirating in the highly competitive pharmaceutical industry). The Durovics judged the protection offered as insufficient and they did not supply ampules for analysis.

Ivy Makes Appeal

Stoddard's reaction was to restrict further Krebiozen research on university premises. Ivy appealed to the Illinois Legislature, on the grounds that Stoddard struck at academic freedom. A legislative commission began an investigation of what by now was "the Krebiozen affair" in March, 1953.

The Ivy-Durovic side put into the commission record this charge: Dr. J. J. Moore, treasurer

Trinity U. To Host Ministers

Trinity University will play host July 8-11 to the annual meeting of the Synod of Texas, Presbyterian Church, U.S.A., according to J. Elms Norton of the university staff, who is chairman of the committee on arrangements.

The Synod, whose 244 ministers represent more than 45,000 Presbyterians throughout Texas and Louisiana, is the sponsoring organization for Trinity.

Synod members will gather in Trinity's Ruth Taylor Music Center for the three-day session. Highlights of the meeting will include election of a Synod moderator to succeed the Reverend Alfred M. Dowsett of Houston and the presentation of reports from the various Synod committees.

Among the distinguished out-of-state visitors who will address the group are the Reverend John Knox Abernethy of the Presbytery of Indianapolis, who is secretary of the Division of Evangelism for the Central Area; the Reverend Aulden D. Coble, Presbytery of Rock River, secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions for the West Central Area; the Reverend Hugh Ivan Evans, Presbytery of Dayton, director of the Foundation of the Presbyterian Church; the Reverend Ray J. Harmelink, Presbytery of Pittsburg, acting general secretary of the Board of Christian Education; Dr. Donald Hibbard, executive vice president of the Board of Pensions; Rev. Glen W. Moore, Presbytery of Los Angeles, secretary of the General Council of the General Assembly; and the Reverend Hermann N. Morse, Presbytery of Brooklyn-Nassau, general secretary of the Board of National Missions.

At the same time the men of the Synod are meeting at Trinity, members of the Women's Synodical Society will hold their annual meeting at San Antonio's University Presbyterian Church near the campus.

New 'Clean Elections' Bill Is Trapped Behind 'Rights' Row

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Senate's new clean elections bill to keep politicians honest is trapped behind the civil rights dispute. The bill probably is dead for this session.

Its death would not be an occasion for national mourning. Congress has been legislating to keep politicians honest for a great many years without much success in preventing a great many politicians from being about as crooked as need be to win.

Not all politicians, of course, or even half of them. But plenty. The Honest Ballot Act, calculated a couple of years ago that 50 individuals at that time were holding relatively high elective office under circumstances regarded as, at least, suspect.

The entrapped clean elections bill probably would not change that situation much nor impose honesty on the dishonest. There is for that a solid reason. A United States election is confusingly all-inclusive with thousands upon thousands of local and national candidates. It has proved so far to be impossible to control spending under such circumstances.

Car Use Restricted

The rules are enforced. Use of automobiles to haul voters to the polls is limited to one car for every 2,500 registered city voters and one car for every 1,500 in the country. If a car breaks down on election day, it may not be replaced.

Meeting On Egg Law Scheduled

There will be a meeting in Amarillo, Wednesday, July 24 for the purpose of discussing the egg law recently passed by the Texas Legislature, according to County Agent Ralph Thomas. This meeting, beginning at 1:30 p.m., will be held in the Flame Room, Pioneer Natural Gas Building, corner of 3rd and Taylor Streets.

Thomas said that the meeting was being called by the Extension Service in cooperation with the State Department of Agriculture. A representative of the Commissioner of Agriculture will answer questions in regard to interpretation of the bill. F. Z. Beardslee, poultry marketing specialist of the Texas Extension Service, will discuss the reasons for the law and the benefits derived from it.

All persons interested in the production and marketing of eggs are invited to attend the meeting, Thomas stated. "The law goes into effect September 1, and egg dealers, retailers, processors, and producers will need to be familiar with it."

Over one hundred questions and their answers pertaining to the egg law will be available to those who attend the meeting, Thomas pointed out.

AMA Report Didn't Shake Ivy's Faith

By GWEN T. STARK
Pampa News Staff Writer

A young girl going to college for the first time is taking a big step indeed. Possibly that first year will make a difference as to what she'll choose as a vocation, into what activities she'll direct her energies as an adult, what circle of friends she'll be in in later years, who she'll marry, and in many other ways how she'll spend her life.

It leaves a girl just a little uncertain when she takes this "big step" on her own away from home, so here are a few hints to help you get prepared from six pretty Pampa coeds: Misses Jane Gray, Carol Foster, Carol Hughes, Wanda Murry, Macie Batson and Carol Paxson.

There's always the wardrobe to think of, which will probably take you from now until you reach those "halls of ivy" to buy, sew buttons on, and in general, get ready to go.

Miss Carol Paxson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Paxson, 815 N. West, who is a student at Texas Christian University and a Kappa Kappa Gamma, recommends taking "lots of dark cottons" at first.

"They're nice to wear most anywhere," Carol said, "and are becoming more and more popular." Carol added that she took too many summer clothes on her first trip to school.

Miss Wanda Murry who is majoring in clothing and textiles and dress design at Texas Technological College at Lubbock, agreed by saying that the traditional black loafers and white socks are a must, and the usual skirts and sweaters for later in the fall.

Miss Carol Hughes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Hughes, 400 W. Harvester, said a casual dress or so is important to a girl's wardrobe. Miss Hughes, a Kappa Alpha Theta, who is majoring in English at Southern Methodist University in Dallas, said black, low-necked dresses are popular at her school for dances.

A poll from the other girls showed that sheath dresses were also popular at all the schools for evenings out.

Speaking of formal clothes, the girls agreed that short formal wear was the most plentiful type of formal wear around campus.

Misses Wanda Murry and Carol Paxson said that the long formal wear was definitely on the way out at the Texas Tech and TCU. However, Miss Hughes said that at SMU during the Christmas and Spring Formals sponsored by the fraternities and sororities that long formal wear was worn a lot with long gloves.

Miss Gray, a sophomore Pi Omega in chemistry at West Texas State College, said that since most of their dances were school sponsored on the week ends and that the biggest percentage were in formal, skirts with loafers and

Pampa Coeds Suggest What To Wear And Do At College

STUDYING FASHIONS — Looking over the newest fashions for college girls are Pampa coeds Carol Paxson, left, and Wanda Murry, right. socks were being worn.

"However, at our sorority dance the military balls, and the Presentation, all types of formal dress are seen," she said.

Concerning what to wear to Rush teas, the girls agreed that suits and heels were the most appropriate wear. However, the optional hat and gloves differed with the schools. As for football game wear, suits was the approval again."

Miss Carol Foster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Foster, 711 N. Somerville, who is majoring in art and education, and is a Tri Delta, said that Bermuda shorts was the favorite sports wear around the Texas Tech campus with the other girls saying the same about their campuses too. Capri and turtleneck pants also won a vote of approval. However, Miss Paxson and Miss Hughes said that not much sports wear was seen on their campuses since they attended church schools, and strict rules governed their wear.

"We can wear them on picnics which are school scheduled events only if we take them with us and change somewhere else," Miss Paxson said.

As for jewelry, as campus wear, this again differed with the schools. At TCU, no earrings are worn with loafers or flats and at Texas Tech, they are.

When asked what advise they would give to a girl going off to college for the first time on how to get acquainted and be included in the clubs and activities they wanted to, the girls answered first and foremost, "be friendly and speak to everyone."

Miss Macie Batson who is a sophomore in business administration at Texas Tech said, "Don't wait for someone else, make the first step yourself."

Most of the girls agreed that joining a sorority makes the adjustment easier. However, at SMU and West Texas State, the girls said that "big sisters" were also assigned in the dorms.

"Through the Methodist Student Movement or the 'Y' is how you get acquainted best at SMU," Miss Paxson said.

Miss Paxson who is very active in the TCU Student Government, acting as secretary, and in several other organizations, said that an Activities Carnival is held each year especially to get new students entered into campus activities.

Miss Murry, who is wing advisor in her dormitory and social chairman, also said that entering in your dorm activities is a good way to get in the swing of things. She is pledging Kappa Alpha Theta.

Every one of the girls stated that the thing they liked most about college was the "fellowship of the wonderful friends you make," and stated that any girl who missed the thrill of going to college is missing a very wonderful, exciting and vital part of their education and life.

KC's First Victory Over Yankees In Fourteen Tries

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 13 (UP)—Hector Lopez, hitting in his 19th consecutive game, drove in a seventh-inning tie-breaking run with a sacrifice fly today as the Kansas City Athletics downed the New York Yankees for the first time this season, 6-4.

The victory, the A's first in 14 tries against the Yankees, went to reliever Glenn Cox who took over for starter Arnold Portocarrero in the sixth after the Yankees tied the score 4-4 on a double, a single and a two-run homer by Yogi Berra.

Second baseman Billy Hunter hit a solo homer in the fifth and outfielder Lou Skizas scored two more runs with a round-tripper in the sixth.

Following Lopez' run-producing fly, pinch hitter Irv Noren knocked in the Kansas City insurance run with a single to left.

Yankee starter Tom Sturdivant was lifted in the seventh after walking two straight batters. Al Ciolek promptly loaded the bases with another walk and Lopez' fly chased home walking Hunter.

BROOKLYN (UP)—Third baseman Randy Jackson, sidelined since early in the season with an injured knee, has been restored to the Brooklyn Dodgers' active player list.

Phillies Bowl Cubs, 5-2

PHILADELPHIA, July 12 (UP)—Rookie outfielder Harry Anderson had an inside the park home run and batted in three runs today and right-hander Dick Farrell, turned in a glittering ninth inning relief job as the Philadelphia Phillies defeated the Chicago Cubs, 5-2.

Farrell came on after starter Warren Hacker, who had held his former teammates to five hits in eight innings, gave up a single to Walt Moryn and a double to Dale Long to open the ninth. The rookie faced Jerry Kindall who had homered earlier and forced him to bounce to short.

Moryn was sent home, but stopped dead five feet in front of the plate and was tagged out despite the fact that catcher Joe Lonnett had to leap for Chico Fernandez' high throw.

Farrell fanned pinch batter Bob Speake and Jim Bolger, battling for Bobby Morgan, bounced out, ending the game.

Top Golfers Ready For PGA Tourney

By BOB GRIMM
 United Press Sports Writer
 DAYTON, Ohio, July 13 (UP)—Golfing's upper crust, 128 of America's leading professionals, arrived here this weekend for some practice licks in getting ready for the national PGA championship here starting Wednesday.

The five-day national PGA grind will be played over the rolling Miami Valley Golf Club course here, which could be a haven for the long-distance clouters. The entire tournament is match play.

The Miami Valley's 6,773-yard, par 71 course boasts three holes of more than 500 yards, including the 998-yard par three hole.

The entrants, headed by some of the brightest stars in the business, will be shooting for a share of the $41,000 purse and a chance at the title held by curly-haired Jackie Burke of Kiamasha Lake, N. Y., the defending champion.

Burke 1956 Winner

Burke won the top prize last year at Blue Hills Country Club in Boston. First prize money this year will be $8,000, while the runner-up receives $5,000 and the third place finisher gets $3,500.

First-round play will get under way Wednesday with 18 holes of match play. The entire field will get in double rounds Thursday and Friday with the 36-hole semifinals slated for Saturday.

The finals, also 36 holes, will be played Sunday.

This year's event will be the first PGA tourney here since 1954, when Byron Nelson beat Sam Byrd, 4 and 3, at the Morraine Country Club. There were 55,000 paid admissions for the event, a record which still stands for the tournament.

First round action will feature former champions Walt Burkemo and Chick Harbert. Burkemo will face young Jerry Barber, and Harbert is paired against former U. S. amateur champion Skee Riegel.

Other former PGA champions entered include Vic Ghezzi, Doug Ford, Chandler Harper, Denny Shute, Jim Turnesa, and Sammy Snead. Snead is a three-time winner of the tourney.

Mayor On Hand

Also on hand will be this year's National Open champion Dick Mayer along with past U.S. Open titlists Jack Fleck, and Ed Furgol. Gene Sarazen, former PGA and Open king, has withdrawn.

Two of the country's top young professionals will play in the event for the first time. They were Dow Finsterwald and Mike Souchak.

To be eligible, an entrant in the PGA has to be a pro for at least five years or be among the first 25 of the nation's top money winners.

The field also will include the low national qualifier, George Fazio of Conshohocken, Pa., who fired a qualifying score of 134.

As for the course itself, host professional Marchi said it would "be a stern test of golf."

He said the course had not been "fricked" to any degree, "mainly because we did not have to."

Marchi predicted it will take straight driving, good approaches and steady putting to win the crown.

Match Pairings Announced For Senior Golf Tournament

The tourney, composed of men 40 years old and over will be made up of five flights. All first round matches should be played by July 20, Warren added.

Flights are made up to allow late entries, so any contestants who have not registered are urged to do so today.

First round pairings are as follows:

Championship Flight
 Harry Wilbur vs George Casey
 C. F. McGinnis vs R. M. Samples
 G. C. Austin Jr. vs Mark Heath
 O. M. Prigmore vs John Forman

First Flight

Legion Rejects Santa Fe's Offer To Sell Oiler Park

In a special American Legion meeting Friday night the club voted to reject the Santa Fe's offer to sell Oiler Park.

The Legion had been informed previously that their sub-lease had been disapproved and the grounds upon which the park stands must be cleared before Jan. 3, 1958.

The railroad had offered the park for $2,000, providing it would be moved before the deadline date. The Legion baseball program now in progress, however, will be allowed to finish the present season in the park by agreement of R. D. Mills, present holder of the lease. Anticipated ending for the season is August 1.

Other than the decision to reject the offer, no other plans were made for accommodating next season's baseball program.

Hoffman Downs Jeffries, 10-8

In Little League farm team action yesterday afternoon Hoffman defeated Jeffries, 10-8, in a game played at Optimist Park.

Winning pitcher for Hoffman was Stone, who was relieved in the third by Jones. Jones was relieved in the fifth by catcher Robbins, and Wells finished behind the plate.

Robbins blasted a home run for Cabot with Roberts next heavy hitter with a triple. Martin and Hill played outstanding defensive ball for the winners.

For Jeffries Holt is credited with the loss with Eastman catching. Power hitters for Jeffries were Rexroat and Eastman who both tagged doubles.

Next game for Hoffman will be Cabot at the High School field Tuesday, July 16.

Bill Martin coaches the Hoffman team with Max Calloway assisting. Cox coaches the Jeffries team.

Tom Rose Blasts Mobilgas, 17-10

Tom Rose downed Mobilgas yesterday afternoon at Eastern Little League Park, 17-10, in Little League farm team play.

Graves was winning pitcher with Payne catching. Steve Archiball was credited with the loss, with his brother David catching. Leonard Mills sparked the winners hitting with a 6 for 5 after-noon, one hit going for a triple.

Both teams displayed outstanding ability in the contest.

Crandall Tags 103rd HR To Boost Braves To Win

PITTSBURGH, July 13 (UP)—Milwaukee right-hander Lew Burdette shot off a seventh-inning "bull" today and with the help of home runs by Wes Covington and Del Crandall registered his seventh victory with a 4-3 edge over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Burdette smashed a triple off loser Ron Kline, but the hit was nullified after it was ruled he failed to touch first base. His extra base blow came after Crandall shot his ninth homer of the year over the left field scoreboard with Andy Pafko on base; Crandall's homer was the 103rd for the Braves' catcher.

Burdette then stood off a rally in the ninth when the Pirates threatened with two runs. Dee Fondy led off the inning with a single and Dick Groat's second double of the game skinned down the right field line. Fondy scored when Bob Skinner grounded out and Groat came across on a sacrifice fly by Gene Baker.

But the Pirates' comeback hopes faded when pinch-hitter Jim Pendleton grounded out.

Covington drilled a 440-foot inside-the-park homer in the second inning to get the Braves off to a 1-0 start. It was his fifth homer of the season.

Two of the country's top young professionals will play in the event for the first time. They were Dow Finsterwald and Mike Souchak.

Red Sox Down Tigers, 6-2

DETROIT, July 13 (UP)—Ted Williams and Billy Klaus supplied the long ball today to lead the Boston Red Sox to a 6-2 triumph over the Detroit Tigers and give Tom Brewer his 10th win against eight setbacks.

Klaus poked out a triple and a double, each driving in a run, while Williams cracked his third homer in two days. The bases-empty blow was Williams' 23rd of the season.

The Red Sox put together two-run innings in the third and fifth off Tiger starter Paul Foytack and added single runs in the seventh and ninth.

Sammy White walked in the third and was singled to second by Brewer. They advanced on a wild pickoff attempt and White came in on a sacrifice. Klaus then tripled Brewer across to give Boston a 2-1 lead.

Klaus doubled in Piersall who had singled to open the fifth and the Boston shortstop later scored on another sacrifice fly for a 4-2 lead. Williams hit his homer in the seventh and Piersall doubled in the ninth, was sacrificed to third and scored on an infield out.

Cardinal, Giant Game Called

NEW YORK, July 13 (UP)—The game between the St. Louis Cardinals and New York Giants was postponed because of rain today with the Cards leading 4-0 in the top of the second inning.

The game will be re-scheduled as part of a doubleheader, Aug. 20.

The rain nullified Alvin Dark's homer off Curt Barclay in the top of the second. After waiting an hour and 13 minutes, the umpires called the game.

Cardinals, Giant Game Called

NEW YORK, July 13 (UP)—Fred James, 210-pound Bowling Air Base fullback, has signed with the Chicago Cardinals. It was announced today. James starred in football, basketball and track first at North Carolina College and then at Bowling Air Base.

Chisox Club Senators, 7-4

CHICAGO, July 13 (UP)—The Chicago White Sox tagged hard-luck-ridden Chuck Stobbs for six runs today and whipped the Washington Senators, 7-4.

The win went to Sox reliever Bob Keegan, who took over from starter Jack Harshman in the third inning and permitted but two hits, a double and a home run.

It was the second place Sox' sixth victory in their last seven games and marked their 11th triumph in 14 games this season with the Senators.

Stobbs, who has now lost 13 and won only two, allowed the Sox a pair of runs in the first, fifth and sixth innings. He finally was relieved by Truman Cleveger in the sixth after Les Moss and Sammy Esposito had opened the inning with singles.

Chicago's two-run first came on a walk, two singles and Herb Plews' throwing error.

The Senators tied it up in the third on two singles, a walk and Ed Fitz Gerald's bases - full single, all off Harshman. The Sox used two singles a walk and a double to score their two runs in the fifth, and three singles and a sacrifice to put across their third pair in the sixth.

Indians Clip Orioles

BROOKLYN, N.Y., July 13 (UP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers-Cincinnati Redlegs game was postponed because of rain today with the Dodgers leading 2-0 in the last half of the second inning.

Plate umpire Vic Delmore called the game after a 40-minute wait. No date was set for re-scheduling the postponement.

The Dodgers had scored twice in the first inning against Hal Jeffcoat. Charley Neal and Jim Gilliam singled and Duke Snider walked to load the bases. One run scored on second baseman Johnny Temple's error and another was forced in on Gino Cimoli's walk.

Dodgers Lead When Game Is Called

CLEVELAND, July 13 (UP)—The Cleveland Indians repelled an eighth-inning threat by the Baltimore Orioles today to register a 5-2 victory with the help of home runs by Rocky Colavito and Roger Maris.

Colavito put the Indians in front with his 17th homer off starter Bill O'Dell in the second inning and after the Orioles had narrowed Cleveland's lead to 3-2 in the top of the eighth, Maris clouted his 10th homer with one on off relief ace George Zverink in the bottom of the inning.

Don Mossi started for the Indians and allowed only two hits and no runs until the eighth, when the Orioles threatened the Tribe's 3-0 lead. Joe Durham walked, and this was followed by singles by Jim Bredeweser, Bob Boyd and Bill Gardner for one run and the end of Mossi.

Cal McLish relieved and Jim Busby's single scored another run, leaving the bases full with nobody out. McLish struck out Bob Nieman, and then Ray Nariecki came in to strike out Gus Triandos and get Billy Goodman on fly.

Score May Be Playing Again Next Week

CLEVELAND (UP)—Dr. Charles Thomas, Cleveland eye specialist, indicated today that pitcher Herb Score may be back in an Indians' uniform next week as good as new.

Score was struck in the eye May 7 by a line drive off the bat of Yankee third baseman Gil McDougald. It was feared for a time he might lose sight in the injured eye.

However, today Dr. Thomas said, except for being out of shape, the ace southpaw will be as good as new.

"My reports on Score are very good," Thomas said. "I don't believe he will have any trouble with depth perception."

Score, married last week, is on a honeymoon at Miami Beach but has an appointment with the doctor next Tuesday.

And Thomas said "I expect him to be in uniform working out next week."

Pirates Recall Player

PITTSBURGH, July 13 (UP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates today recalled catcher Harding Peterson from the Columbus Jets with the understanding he will return to the International League club when Hank Foiles recovers from an injury.

The Biggest Thrills Of All-Time Iceberg

TODAY'S SPORT PARADE
(Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.)
By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP) — The next time you have a blowout, keep in mind the case of Capt. George E. T. Eyston—who has to be the all-time iceberg of auto racing.

This goes back to 1938 on the Bonneville salt flats in Utah when Eyston drove the "thunderbolt" all-out down the black-painted stripe stretching interminably before him. The needle was pressing 350 miles per hour, the motor whined like a banshee and hot air hammered against the glass bubble over his head with frenzied fists.

Then the seven-ton iron monster trembled violently as all four tires blew.

"It was," says Eyston with storied British calm, "a bit of a nuisance."

Roads To Record
Eyston fought it safely down and the next day the tall, white-haired Englishman eased himself back into that coffin-like cockpit

Gelanes, Frontier Win Softball Tilts

In Industrial League softball play Friday night Gelanes downed Motor Inn, 15-6, and Frontier blasted Pan American, 19-2.

Ford and Howell pitched for Celanes with Kemp catching.

In Frontier's tilt, Stephens pitched for the winners with Russell Herring credited with Pan American's loss.

No other Industrial League games were reported.

and roared to a world speed record of 357.5 miles per hour. Eyston went back to Bonneville in 1954 for a 24-hour endurance run and had another close one.

This time he was doing a mere 175 m.p.h. on a circular track when he burst a rear tire. Eyston slid a half mile sideways and came to a standstill just two feet from a salt bank which, had he struck it, would have flipped him end over end. His recollection is equally stiff-upper-lip, old boy.

"It seemed like quite a long slide."

Three years later, the late John R. Cobb invaded Bonneville with his Ralston Special and broke Eyston's world record with a run of 403.135 m.p.h. Cobb later was killed in a speedboat crash on Scotland's Loch Ness.

Racing Days Limited
Eyston's racing days are "almost" behind him now for the wealthy Briton is 60 years old. But he intimates that he's hoping to get behind the wheel once again next month at Bonneville.

This time he's going there as manager of a British team which will try to break the Class F record of 294.2 m.p.h. set by Lt. Col. Goldie Gardner in Germany in 1939. Stirling Moss, the famed British driver of this era, will handle the wheel.

Eyston's baby this time is a 1,500 cc. MG called "The Roaring Raindrop." It is only 15 feet long and three-feet high to the top of the plastic dome, with tires which are only two feet overall on a 15-inch wheel.

Was that his most embarrassing experience? Not at all. He went back to England with his brand-new 357.5 m.p.h. record in 1938—and was arrested for driving 38 miles per hour in a 30-mile zone.

"It was," he says, "a bit of a nuisance."

Panhandle Outdoor Life

By S. V. WHITEHORN
I once heard an old time mule skinner say, "I saw Jew Roper hitch six horses to a loaded boiler wagon, walk off about a hundred yards, and yell, come here Dude and the six horses in perfect timing tightened the tugs and the wagon began to roll." The load was extremely heavy and the animals had to work in perfect harmony to get the load moving. Dude was one of the lead horses and when he started to tighten the tugs the others commenced pulling.

Another story the veteran related was also tied in with the Ranger oil boom which was about 1918-1919. There was a drilling contractor inquired of a teamster to bring his teams over and move a boiler, which was loaded on a wagon stuck in sand, to another location and the teamster related, "I could pull the devil out of hades if I could get ahold of him."

Mgrs. Made Liable For Player Brawls

BROOKLYN, N.Y. (UP) — Puzzled by National League President Warren Giles' edict making them responsible for any future fights involving their players, managers Birdie Tebbets of Cincinnati and Walt Alston of Brooklyn declared today they may be helpless to comply with his order.

Giles sent special bulletins to Tebbets, Alston and the six other National League managers warning them they would be held responsible for any repetition of Thursday night's brawl between Brooklyn and Cincinnati players.

"It's no good to make us responsible," Tebbets said, "unless they put in a rule that any player not involved in the fight, who comes out on the field, be thrown out of the game."

Alston said he didn't see how any manager could control his players once a free-for-all breaks out.

"What am I supposed to do if someone pokes one of my players?" he asked. "Am I supposed to tell my player not to retaliate because I'm to be held responsible?"

All was peace and harmony between the Dodgers and Redlegs Friday night in their game at Jersey City, N.J.

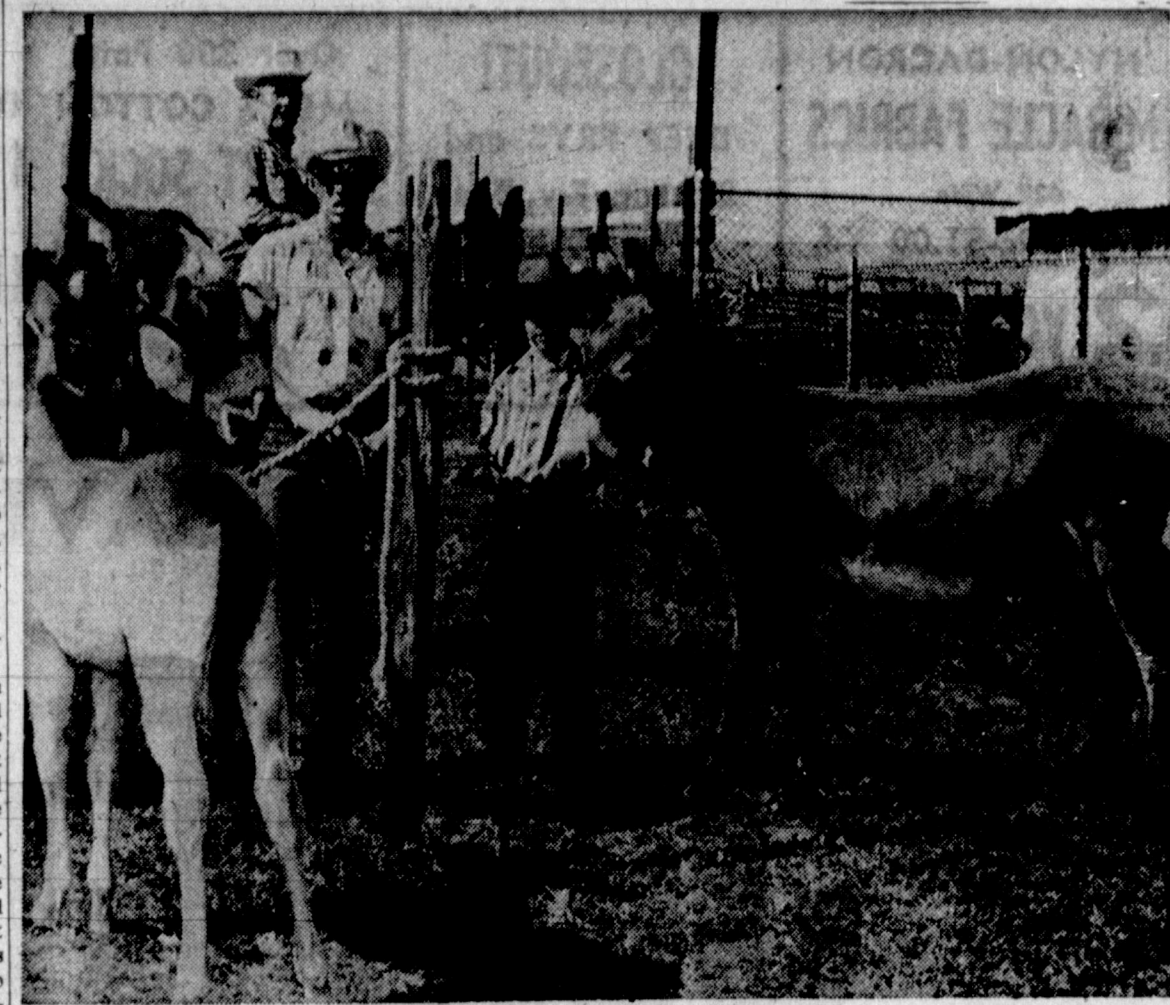

The only casualty from Thursday's fight was Redleg third baseman Don Hoak, who was missing from the lineup because of two swollen fingers on his right hand.

Read The News Classified Ads

The teamster left and soon returned with the six mules and hitched them to the load. The mules began to "shoot craps" (first one then the other pulling) and finally the skinner stated that the load was too much for six animals. A bystander stated "Doc standing here can take his one team of horses and start the load with the two animals." The first teamster unhitched his mules and the second one hitched his to the load. Clifton Gilbert, present-day Post Master of Carbon, Texas was the one that volunteered the services of his brother Howard's horses. Clifton stated "I didn't know whether or not Howard's team could move the load but when he spoke to the team I placed my hand on the hips of one of the horses and they flattened out for what seemed like five minutes, and finally the load began to roll."

A team of trained draft horses that were well fed moved a load that six average mules could not. In this atomic age there are not many oldtimers around that had to do all of their transporting via the horse and mule method and especially not many of the expert team skimmers left. These experts, in that day and time, could take a team and make them do all that they were capable of doing. These men prided themselves in the fact that they were tops in the profession. More than once the expression has been stated "I can hitch my team to a tree and they will pull until they choke themselves down." Horses that were "honest" and that would pull until their last ounce of strength was a goal of the old-time teamsters and when they reached their goal there was pride expressed in the admiration of the horseflesh.

The smell of sweating workstock is gone in most of the areas of the Panhandle but there are still some ranchers that keep a team or two around in case of a blizzard or conditions where a pickup truck can't make the feed route for cattle in the winter.

The Hayhook ranch, the Johnson, Turkey Track, Archer, and many others still have work animals.

Mules are a cross from a male donkey and a female of the horse specie or mare. However a cross from a male horse and a female donkey is the same in a way but strangely enough the offspring is not a mule but a hennie. Both hennies and mules are the same in some respects in that they are both 50-50, half and half but which specie is the sire and dam makes a whale of a difference. Both animals are hybrids and are not supposed to reproduce or have offspring. That is, maybe not more than one in a hundred thousand times.

Aurbra Bowers, Hemphill county rancher and quarterhorse raiser, has at the ranch a hennie called old Beauty which has produced two colts. The first colt appeared as though it was sired by a donkey while the other was sired by a registered quarter horse called Cueball. The last colt born June 19, 1957, is a honey colored animal with a blaze face that looks more like a horse than it does a donkey while the older colt, about two years old, resembles a donkey.

The correct name for animals of this breeding is anybody's

Roger Wells of Bayside won the opening club lead with his singleton ace and surveyed the dummy with a tinge of disappointment. His partner certainly had a good enough hand but the singleton club opposite his singleton was annoying and he could see plenty of trouble ahead.

His first play was to lead the deuce of diamonds. West played the ten and dummy's queen held the trick. The ace of hearts was played next and East showed out. Things really looked bad now but the game was match point duplicate and Roger knew that all other declarers would get the same break. He also saw there was still some chance for his contract. He played the six of diamonds from dummy and ducked in his own hand. West had to play his ace and was stuck in the lead.

West made his best play, the king of spades. Roger let it hold the trick but when a spade was continued he pounced on it and played king and another heart.

This put West back in the lead again and this time he had nothing in his hand but clubs. He led a club and Roger trumped in dummy and discarded the losing spade from his own hand.

A diamond lead to the king and a ruff of his last low diamond left him with nothing but trumps and all the match points for making his four heart contract.

The Japanese were driven out by U.S. air raids. After the war, 135 descendants of pre-Japanese settlers—many of them Americans—were repatriated. They've petitioned for but never been granted U.S. citizenship. Japan took the islands in the 1860's after the U.S. and Britain gave up their claims.

Peg O' Pampa

WHERE THESE WILD IDEAS come from, Peg will never know, but during the heat of a July afternoon recently, she got to wondering about name synonyms and wondering if certain people with name synonyms in common were acquainted with one another . . . for instance, does Mae Carr know the L. B. Studebakers or the F. J. Nashes . . . if not, surely she does know the H. M. Medleys or Effie Musick . . . do the C. W. Coffins know the Jack Dyes? . . . the Ben C. Days know the John C. Nites? . . . or the F. M. Drakes the Elvis H. Ducks? . . . Do the L. H. Fountains know the S. E. Waters . . . and it seems to Peg that the Bill Ripptoes, the Delmer Barefoots, and the J. B. Shewmakers would surely make good friends . . . not to mention the Cloyd Leggs and W. J. Nees . . . the Artie Sailors and H. L. Shippis . . . the Garland Pools and A. B. Wades . . . Henry English and R. E. French . . . W. E. Ginn and John N. Plasters . . . James H. Head and L. W. Foote . . . the W. W. Beards and the Donald Barbers . . . the John B. Roes and the A. D. Fish family . . . the Bill Combs and H. J. Pates . . . the John B. Lovinggoods and G. A. Darlings . . . the subject isn't exhausted, but Peg is . . . as a parting shot, the Edwin V. Easts, the L. S. Norths, the Paul W. Wests, and the O. B. Southers would have a lot of directions in common.

Be careful of the words you speak, to keep them soft and sweet—you may not know, from day to day, which ones you'll have to eat. —Anonymous

FRIENDS OF LONG-STANDING were so happy to see Josephine Hunkapillar (Mrs. C. T.) who was a house-guest of Mrs. George Walstad this week . . . and Gertrude Fisher (Mrs. R. B.), who is a house-guest of Mrs. Roger McConnell . . . and Mrs. Allen Hodges, who is a house-guest of Icie Harrah . . . party invitations have been extended fast and furiously . . . Peg has heard of so many wonderful and worthwhile activities that these former Pampans have done to help the community grow into the nice place it is now . . . Mrs. Hunkapillar, who is now claimed by Forest Grove, Oregon, is teaching social studies in the high school there . . . and Mrs. Fisher is registrar in the junior high school in Corpus Christi . . . How Peg would have loved to sit in on some of those "reminiscing sessions", which she imagines lasted until the wee sma' hours of each night . . . she has heard that Mrs. Hunkapillar organized the first PTA in Pampa . . . organized and served as the first president of El Progreso . . . and started the first bridge club . . . and both guests were quite active in the Methodist Church . . . to requote a requote, Mrs. Fisher said "it is the people that make the Plains country . . . and it is so nice to come back and see how Pampa has progressed and grown" . . . Peg's Mata Haris tell her that Emily Hicks and her son, Kenneth, are leaving around the first of August for an European Tour . . . now why can't something exciting like that happen to Peg, who, so far, this summer has gone no farther than Palo Duro Canyon.

THINGS SEEN AROUND TOWN . . . doesn't the bright yellow storm siren atop the Hughes building look reassuring? . . . guess there is secret wish in everyone's mind that it will never have to be used . . . but it is comforting to see it available if it is needed . . . workmen busy working on the Cook Street bridge near Sam Houston school . . . Peg can't tell, at this stage, whether it is being broadened or just repaired . . . many streets around Pampa are being black-topped and gravelled . . . and back in good condition, after the winter's blast dented some of them . . . saw young-at-heart Uncle Billy Frost out mowing his lawn the other hot Monday mid-afternoon . . . saw Jerry Wilson and Charles Leflet working at their own sought-out teen-age jobs this summer, washing and waxing cars . . . N. A. Cobb was out late in the evening on Wednesday and up early in the morning on Thursday . . . watering his lawn . . . which shows green and lush evidence of his care . . . saw some colorful and unusual beach hats around the Country Club pool the other afternoon . . . little Pat Kelly with her beautifully rounded face, huge blue eyes, and naturally curly hair was enjoying the pool late in the afternoon . . . she, with her family, left Saturday for a visit in Galveston . . . pleasant and oh-so-capable Floy Heath, hurrying to an appointment the other morning . . . she is the efficient treasurer for the Girl Scout Council and also for the Alt-rusa Club . . . Mary Boynton entering the educational building of the First Methodist Church the other Sabbath to teach her Crusader's Class . . . she is one of the most charming and, Peg hesitates to use the word "Sweet", but that adjective so aptly describes her, that Peg knows . . . she can make a book review and her class lessons come to life for her listeners . . . Kay Stevens left last Saturday by plane for New York City to meet her parents, Colonel and Mrs. George Stevens . . . and her brother, Stevie, who docked Saturday . . . they have been living in Ismir, Turkey, for the past two years. Kay plans to take in some Broadway shows while there . . . Saw Mrs. Joe Lewis down-town shopping for some birthday cards for her grand-children the other afternoon.

Tho we travel the world over to find the beautiful, we must have it in us or find it not. —Emerson

MORE YOUNG LOVELIES are entering the Beauty Contest . . . among them are Jennie Collins . . . and Johnny Lee Smith . . . the judging is to be held July 18, Peg believes . . . how she does hope that there will be at least one or two feminine judges on the board . . . for men are so . . . so . . . well, glib and irrational where female beauty is concerned.

The best part of beauty is that which no picture can express. —Bacon

WHAT ARE THE FASHION DESIGNERS TRYING TO DO TO us this fall? . . . have you seen, in the newspapers and slick mags, some of the fashions they have in mind for us . . . almond and cocoon-shapes, indeed! . . . the loose jackets and the relaxed casual suits sound fine to Plain Peg . . . none of those balloon drapes for her . . . but as Thoreau put it . . . "Every generation laughs at the old fashions, but follows religiously the new."

Skeptically yours,
Peg.

Miss Margie Mc Kee Is Bride Of Allen Alford On Saturday

RUTH MILLET

My hat goes off to the many charming women who are beyond their threescore years and 10, and still going strong. I met one at a party, closer to 80 than 70, who proved to be the most interesting and charming woman in a group of women. All the rest were only half her age or even younger.

Her eyes were as clear and as bright as a girl's. Her skin was soft. There wasn't a grim or unhappy line in her face, just crinkly lines about the eyes and mouth that deepened when she smiled or laughed, which was often. Not once did she mention the good old days, or talk about the past, or wonder what the world and the young people in it are coming to.

Not once did she mention her children, grandchildren or great-grandchildren, until someone asked her how many she had. Then she simply told the number of each and let it go at that. She talked about things of interest. She told an amusing incident that happened to her on a recent trip.

She mentioned a new invention she had read about and allowed as how she would certainly like to have it. She thought it was going to be mighty interesting. She is young despite her age because she is living in the present and the future instead of the past. She has a life of her own instead of living through her children. She is young because she is hopeful of the future, instead of thinking the world is going to the dogs.

And she is young because she is still looking for things to like and admire and enjoy, instead of things to criticize, frown upon, or deplore. I am willing to bet that every one of the younger women who spent an afternoon with her had the fleeting thought, "I hope I'm like that when I'm her age."

The chances are good they will be. For the number of "young" older women seems to be increasing every year. What a joy and inspiration they are.

At six o'clock on Saturday evening, July 13, Miss Margie Lee McKee and Allen Alford were united in marriage in the First Methodist Church, Groom, by the Reverend Conrad Ryan.

Miss McKee is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert McKee of Alameda. Mr. Alford is the son of Mrs. Jessie Alford of Romero. The double-ring vows were exchanged before a setting of palm baskets of white gladioli, which were flanked by white tapers in candelabras.

Mrs. Roy Johnson of Pampa, organist, played the traditional wedding marches and was accompanied for Mr. Johnson as he sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "Because," and for Miss Rochelle Smith of Pampa, soloist, who presented "Through The Years."

Entering the bridal aisle on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage, Miss McKee was gown in floor-length white lace tunic over satin. The V-shape of the neckline was scalloped in the design of the lace, and the long sleeves of the fitted bodice came to bridal points over the hands and were buttoned at the wrists with tiny satin-covered buttons.

Her shoulder-length Veil of Illusion was edged with lace and attached to a small, satin pill-box hat encrusted with seed pearls. She carried a cascade arrangement of white carnations and forget-me-nots, centered with white orchids. Carrying out the bridal traditions, she wore, for something old, a gold bracelet that belonged to her great-grandmother.

ATTENDANTS
Miss June Gull, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor wearing an aqua-blue dress of crystaline over taffeta. Miss Betty Jim Alford, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid in a light aqua-blue dress of crystaline over taffeta. Their bouquets were cascade arrangements of white and yellow daisies.

Claude Clark of Dalhart served the bridegroom as best man. Junior groomsmen were Mike Palmer, cousin of the bride, Ushers were Billy McKee, brother of the bride, Jimmy Mathis of Burger, and Bruce Lee Palmer, cousin of the bride. David Bruce of Amarillo served as ring-bearer and Francis May Palmer as flowergirl. Kenny Ray Miller, Billy Jack Babcock were candlelighters.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. McKee wore a beige lace over pink taffeta dress with beige and pink accessories. Mrs. Alford, mother of the bridegroom, chose a black lace over taffeta dress with white accessories. Both wore pink carnation corsages.

Following the exchange of vows, a reception was held in the church parlor. The serving table was covered with a white organdy cloth over aqua-blue and centered with an arrangement of aqua-tinted and yellow carnations flanked by aqua tapers.

Music, during the reception, was presented by Coy Palmer, uncle of the bride. Mrs. Jack Babcock of Groom, cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Jack McMeen of Dalhart, aunt of the bridegroom, assisted with the serving of the reception. They wore aqua-tinted carnation corsages.

Immediately following the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Alford left for a wedding trip to points of interest in New Mexico and Colorado. For traveling, the bride chose a light blue shantung suit with white accessories. She wore the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

Mrs. Alford was graduated from Pampa High School in 1953 and from West Texas State College in June of this year with a Bachelor of Science degree in home economics. She will teach in Spearman, beginning with the fall term. Mr. Alford was graduated from Nara Visa High School in New Mexico; served four years with the USN and is now a senior at West Texas State College, where the couple will reside.

Home Wedding Is Scene For Vows Said By Miss Babcock, Dan Brister

In the home of her parents on June 18, Miss Joey Darlene Babcock became the bride of Danny Ray Brister. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Babcock of Groom. Mr. Brister is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Brister, 1137 Neel Road.

The double-ring service was read at 10:30 in the morning by Dan Green of Groom, grandfather of the bridegroom, before a background of baskets of white gladioli and palm leaves. Miss Tommie Babcock, sister of the bride, played the Wedding March as the bride entered on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage.

She was dressed in a street-length gown of white lace with a fitted bodice and full sweeping lace skirt over bouffant skirts of pale-green net. The waist was encircled with a wide band of shirred, pale-green chiffon, which fell into floating panels in the back to the hemline. Her waist-length double-tiered Veil of Illusion fell from a tiara encrusted with tiny seed pearls. She carried a cascade arrangement of white roses atop a white Bible.

Miss Sandra Palmittier was maid of honor. Fred Brister, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Mrs. Babcock, mother of the bride, chose a pastel pink dress with brown accessories. The bride wore a beige lace dress with beige accessories. Both their corsages were of white carnations.

A reception for the wedding guests was held in the home of the bride's parents; immediately following the ceremony, the bride's table was covered with a white lace cloth over pale green, carrying out the bride's chosen colors, and was centered with a floral arrangement of white carnations and green palm leaves. The three-tiered wedding cake was served by Miss Brenda Brister, cousin of the bridegroom. Miss Tommie Babcock presided at the punch service. Mrs. Brister is a student in Pampa High School. The bridegroom was graduated from Pampa High School and attended West Texas State College this past year. He is now employed by F. W. A. Drilling Co. Mr. and Mrs. Brister are at home to their friends at 207 N. Ward.

GRACE FRIEND

Dear Grace Friend,
I read your column every day and enjoy it very much and the advice you give people. Perhaps you can help me.

I am a widow 59 and the only work I can do at present is baby sitting. But I just don't know how much to ask, as for instance when they bring the child to the home and he stays all night and the next day. Do I charge for as many hours as he stays at my house?

I usually charge 50 cents an hour. Do you think that is fair enough or should I ask more? Mrs. B.

Dear Mrs. B.
I should think that the hourly charge would be less for keeping a child in your own home as you would be able to continue part of your regular activities which would be impossible if you were in another home.

The charge varies in different towns. Why don't you call others who baby sit and learn what they charge. Look in the yellow pages of the telephone book for baby sitting agencies and ask them what the correct charge would be.

NEEDS HELPER
Mrs. Grace Friend given to me by a woman you helped. She says that you are very helpful in getting help for older people.

I am writing for an elderly lady and she would like very much to get a Christian lady, preferably a pensioner, to share her home with her. She has arthritis and needs a little help to get her errands done for her and to do light housekeeping for the two of them.

She has a very good washer and a big refrigerator with freezing shelf, twin beds. It would make someone who needs a place to live, a very inexpensive home.

She has had her sister living with her until this past week but her children came for her as she was no help at all and really made work instead of helping with it.

The arthritis is located in her spine and affects her all over. She is only one block from the main district and bus line. I am here visiting from another state and must leave soon for my home. She is really desperate to get someone before I leave.

Thank you
Mrs. S.

Miss Virgie Smith, H. V. Ballard Are Married In Candlelight Ceremony

(Special to The News)
McLEAN — Nuptial vows were solemnized on July 6 for Miss Virgie Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Smith of McLean and H. V. Ballard, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Ballard of Poolville. Raymond L. Smith, pastor of Dry Lake Baptist Church, Spur, and brother of the bride, read the ceremony in the Pentecostal Holiness Church of McLean.

MRS. H. V. BALLARD

The double-ring wedding vows were exchanged before candelabra holding tall white tapers which were lighted by Ronnie Smith, brother of the bride and Charles Bird. Red roses entwined the center candelabra and palms flanked each side of the altar.

Miss Mollie Erwin of McLean played the traditional wedding marches and accompanied Mmes. Frank Simpson and Morris Brown as they sang "Always."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a blue cotton and silk street-length dress with a molded bodice overlaid with softly pleated panels accenting the full gathered skirt. Her accessories were white and she carried a white Bible topped with a white carnation corsage showered with blue satin streamers.

Attending the bride as matron of honor was Mrs. Bobby Horton of Pampa, sister of the bride. She wore a pink frock with white accessories and a white carnation corsage.

J. N. Smith Jr. of Dumas, brother of the bride, served as best man with Ronnie Smith and Charles Bird acting as ushers. Miss Glenda Switzer of McLean presided at the guest register.

The bride's mother chose a powder blue suit with black shoes and bag complemented with white hat and gloves. Her corsage was of white carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Ballard left immediately following the ceremony on their honeymoon. Their wedding trip will include stops in Ft. Worth, Waco and Austin.

Mrs. Ballard graduated from McLean High School in 1948.

Mr. Ballard graduated from Poolville High School and attended Weatherford Junior College. He is presently employed by the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. in McLean where the couple will make their home.

Want to give your children the kind of lazy, happy summer you remember from your own childhood?

Well, here are a few suggestions for how it can be done. First of all, make it a TV-less summer. Just getting rid of the continual noise of gunshots and canned laughter will make your home seem like a suddenly restful, peaceful place.

And instead of the kids sitting sprawled in front of the TV set all day long, they'll have to start thinking of ways of entertaining themselves.

Building a playhouse in the backyard, cultivating a small garden plot, playing baseball or selling lemonade to the neighborhood kids will keep them happier than anything TV can offer.

Cut down on your own chauffeuring so that you can have a little more time to help the children bake cookies, make a freezer of homemade ice cream or find some old dresses of your own and some old high-heeled shoes for the little girls to play in.

If you aren't driving one child to a playground, another to a swimming pool, and another across town to play with a friend, you'll have some time to keep them busy and happy at home.

Start at least one family project in house or yard so that there is a little work and accomplishment mixed in with the hours of loafing.

Plan some picnics away from home. Eating on your own patio or in your own back yard isn't the same thing for children as packing a picnic meal in a basket and exploring country roads until you find a picnic spot.

No wonder the summer months seem to drive so many modern mothers close to distraction, with the TV blaring, the kids demanding to be chauffeured here and there and never any end to the noise and confusion.

But old-fashioned summers can be duplicated by any mother who is so fed up she is willing to make a change.

(Photo, Coll's Studio)

(Special To The News)
LEFORS — Wedding rites were solemnized on July 4 at seven o'clock in the evening for Miss Patricia Ann Gibson and Roy Wooten Jr., both of Lefors, in the Assembly of God Church.

Miss Gibson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Gibson, who reside at the Colteco Carbon camp. Mr. Wooten is the son of Mrs. Roy Wooten Sr. and the late Mr. Wooten.

The double-ring service was performed by Rev. Dell Priest before a dark-blue velvet curtain forming a background for the tall white baskets of white gladioli arranged with plum leaves.

Wedding guests were registered at the church entrance by Mrs. Garland Eggleston.

Nuptial airs were played by Mrs. Billie Jean James, who, also accompanied herself at the piano as she sang, "I Love You Truly."

The bride, escorted down the aisle and given in marriage by her father, wore a street-length dress of white nylon lace over light-blue taffeta fashioned with a low scalloped neckline and small cap-sleeves extending over her arms. Numerous bands of blue satin encircled the bodice and a round the upper part of the flared skirt, ending in small bows in the front. Tiny blue satin-covered buttons closed the bodice in the back.

Her headpiece was small white daisies and roses studded with rhinestones gathered on a band with a small net veil over her forehead.

She carried a bridal bouquet of white carnations arranged with white net and long blue satin streamers atop a white Bible.

ATTENDANTS
Miss Juanita Wooten, sister of the bridegroom, who attended the bride as maid of honor, was attired in a blue taffeta dress trimmed in white with white accessories and corsage of white carnations.

Glenn Crawford of Dumas served the bridegroom as best man.

Mrs. Gibson, mother of the bride, wore a dress of turquoise with a black and white figure, white accessories, and a corsage of white carnations.

Mrs. Wooten, mother of the bridegroom, wore a pink sheer dress with white accessories and a white carnation corsage.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the Lefors civic center.

The serving table was laid in a white crocheted cloth with a blue center. The centerpiece, an arrangement of blue and white blossoms, was placed on a reflector with the three tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom on one side and the large crystal punch bowl on the opposite side.

The bride and bridegroom cut the

Mrs. Carl Smith Gives Topic For Bell Home Club

The Bell Home Demonstration Club met recently in the home of Mrs. Roland Dauer, southwest of city.

Mrs. Carl Smith gave the program on making kitchen curtains. She stated that there are two general types of color combinations, which give pleasing results: 1) related harmonies, which are made of colors adjacent to each other; 2) complimentary harmonies are made of colors, which are opposite one another.

Mrs. Smith said that the texture of material for curtains may be soft, lustrous or dull, but that the texture determines how well a fabric drapes. "The spirit and character of the room is determined to a large extent by the texture used in the curtains."

She went on to say that cafe curtains are good for kitchen use because they are easy to make, hang, wash and iron. They allow plenty of light, air and give privacy. "It only takes a sauce, scissors, and material to make cafe curtains."

The hostess served iced tea and cookies during the social hour.

Guests were Meses. Guy H. Carriker and three children; Joe Whesley and three children, Walter Noel; Troy Manness, D. W. Swain, Earnest McKnight, Tommie Anderwald, Carl Smith, H. H. Keahy, Olivia Ann Swain, Johnny Mae Dauer, and Roland Dauer.

Swimming And Slumber Party Given By Sub Deb Club For Rushee-Guests

The Sigma Delta Sub Deb Club entertained rushees and guests recently with a combination swimming and slumber party as their fourth rush activity of the season.

Guests assembled at the Pampa Country Club pool where pastel beach balls and buoys floated in the pool, banked on one side by beach towels and wicker chairs. Baskets of daisies were placed about the terrace, where supper was served. The serving table was attractively centered with a black wrought-iron bird-cage filled with garden flowers.

Following the swimming party and supper, the guests went to the home of the Erwin Puraleys, where a slumber party was held. The remainder of the evening was spent in playing cards, listening to records and visiting.

Breakfast was served the next morning before the guests' departure.

Out-of-town guests attending were Miss Joy Howe, Linda Johnson, and Betty Tatum. Sponsors for the swimming party were Dr. and Mrs. Calvin Jones. Club sponsors present were Mrs. H. M. Luna and Miss Barbara Smith.

A business meeting was held on July 2 in the home of Miss Shirley Epps. Plans for the swimming slumber party were completed and members were assigned to deliver invitations, which were in the form of terrycloth house-shoes.

Plans were begun for a trip to be made in August by the entire club to a mounta n resort. Reports were made on several accommodations with definite plans to be completed soon.

Sub Debs began making arrangements with Robert Brown for a series of pictures in which various members are to appear for a Celestine Company brochure to be printed in the near future.

Following the business meeting, Cokes and assorted cookies were served by the hostess, Miss Epp, to members and sponsors, Mr. H. M. Luna and Miss Barbara Smith.

Meeting was closed with the club song.

MR. AND MRS. JOHNNY BERT KERR

Mrs. Williams Has Worthwhile HDC Nuptial Vows Are Repeated Recently

Mrs. Chester Williams, 1120 S. Christy, was hostess recently to the Worthwhile Home Demonstration Club. Mrs. Roy Tinsley, president, led the group in prayer. Roll call was answered by each member giving a tip on correct lighting in the home.

Mrs. P. G. Turner gave the Council report.

Plans were made for the exhibit, which will be held in the early fall in the Recreation Park.

Miss Helen Dunlap, home demonstration agent, gave a talk on "Lighting the Kitchen." She explained that the kitchen was the center of most homes and should have the best light. Having large windows to furnish natural light and prevent eye-strain is the best source. Miss Dunlap went on to say that 150-watt bulbs for ceiling lights and 100-watt bulbs for over the sink and cabinet are best for correct lighting. "Milk white" bulbs give the best artificial light.

The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Phill Farley in Groom on July 18. An all-day meeting has been planned and members are asked to bring a covered-dish.

Refreshments of cookies and a cold tea were served to Misses O. G. Smith, J. C. Payne, R. F. McCally, P. G. Turner, Roy Tinsley, J. R. Clark, O. A. Wagner, Marion Roberts, and three visitors, Mrs. Shirley Williams, Misses Helen Dunlap and Susan Murtha.

At three o'clock on the afternoon of July 5, Miss Nelda Kay Goad and Johnny Bert Kerr were united in marriage by Jon Jones, pastor of the Mary Ellen and Harvester Church of Christ. Miss Goad is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Evert Goad, 708 N. Magnolia. Mr. Kerr is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kerr, 500 N. Magnolia.

The double-ring vows were repeated before an arrangement of palms forming the background for the twin baskets of white and pink gladioli, which were centered between two candleabra.

For her wedding, Miss Goad wore a white cotton-silk dress fashioned with a boat neckline. The sleeveless, fitted bodice was lace-trimmed and extended to a full, pleated skirt. Her only jewelry was a strand of pearls. A white lace bandeau adorned her head. She wore a corsage of baby-pink carnations.

Miss Phyllis Ann Trullinger was bridesmaid. Jarvis Johnson served the bridegroom as best man.

Mrs. Goad, mother of the bride, wore a gray lace dress with black accessories. Mrs. Kerr, bridegroom's mother, chose a print glazed-cotton dress with white accessories.

Mrs. Kerr attended Pampa High School. Mr. Kerr graduated from Pampa High School in 1954 and attended Texas Tech. He is now serving in the Navy and has been stationed in Norman, Okla. Mr. and Mrs. Kerr plan to live in Memphis, Tenn., where he will be stationed with the Navy.

Gavel Club Plans Husbands' Party

Mrs. Hal J. Suttle, 520 N. Russell, was hostess to the dinner meeting of the Order of the Eastern Star Gavel Club on the patio of her home on Thursday evening.

Mrs. Ina Reading was welcomed as a new member.

Mrs. J. S. Fuqua, president, was in charge of the business session at which time plans were made to entertain husbands and guests at the next meeting.

Mrs. E. L. Head was a visitor. Members present were Misses J. L. Burba, Ina Reading, L. R. Bigham, Dennis Stillwell, Clem Davis, J. S. Fuqua, G. C. Crocker, W. M. Voyles, Otis Nace, Oscar Shearer, Earl Casey, O. A. Wagner, W. L. Parker, W. M. Murphy, Katie Vincent, Otto C. Rice, Leslie B. Hale, W. S. Kiser, Clara Mealer, W. B. Murphy, Roy Sewell, Perla Mitchell, Mary Hatcher, Ethel Alexander, and the hostess.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. J. S. Fuqua in the little Red School House, north of city at 7 p.m. on August 8.

"We had a private telephone installed in Betty's room," said 14-year-old Betty's mother, "so that she can stay on the telephone all day if she wants to without bothering us. It's the perfect solution if you have a teen-ager in the house."

It's just ducky for Betty's parents. But what of the parents of her friends?

With no one to tell her to cut calls short or know when she is ringing some number every 15 minutes, Betty and her private telephone are making life hectic for her friends' parents.

Also, with a telephone in her own room, Betty can make after-bedtime calls when she feels like it. And she feels like it often enough to be annoying.

If a teen-ager misuses a family telephone, why encourage her to use a telephone even more by giving her a private line?

Wouldn't you think it would dawn on parents that she might be annoying the parents of the friends she is forever calling and keeping on the line?

All parents whose teen-agers misuse the telephone have to do is to make a few rules—and make them stick. No 30 and 40-minute conversations. No calling their friends at mealtime or after eight or nine at night. No bothering any family with repeated calls. No telephoning on Sunday afternoon when the man of the family is probably trying to take a nap or have a little peace and quiet in his own home.

Any teen-ager who makes a nuisance of himself with his overuse of the family telephone ought to be taught some manners, not given a telephone of his own.

The W. W. Frosts Celebrate Golden Wedding Event

The Golden Wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Frost was celebrated on July 10 in the home of the honorees, 800 E. Murphy, with a buffet supper. An Elk roast, fried chicken with all the trimmings, cake and jello was served. Hostesses were Misses W. O. Wainscott, O. W. Frost, and G. N. (Jack) Frost.

Guests were Messrs. and Misses W. O. Wainscott, Larry Don, Gary Dale; O. W. Frost and Ota Wayne Skellytown; G. N. Frost, Gary Neal and LaWanda; Miss Earlene Frost; Rev. and Mrs. D. H. McMahon, Linda Lee and J. B. of Bakersfield, Calif.

Mr. and Mrs. Frost were united in marriage in Ryan, Okla., Indian Territory, in the year of 1907, as they sat in a buggy, while the minister performed the ceremony. The following day, his sister and her brother were also married in Ryan. The couples attended each other's weddings.

Mr. and Mrs. Frost made their home on a small farm near Waurika, Okla.; moved to Hastings, Okla. in 1938; and in 1945 moved to McLean, where they farmed until Mr. Frost retired from farm work and moved to Pampa in 1956, where one daughter and a son and family live. Their daughter lives with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Frost have five children of their own and reared one foster daughter. They have six grandchildren and three foster grandchildren. Two daughters in California and one in Oklahoma were unable to attend their anniversary.

Following the anniversary dinner, the honorees were presented with gifts. Both are in fairly good health.

If you want fish to come to the table with wonderful flavor, make sure it's fresh when you buy it. And don't rinse it under running water; wipe it with a damp cloth.

Profits Explained

The job every person in America who believes in freedom should undertake, is to sharpen his own perception and his own articulateness, so that he can effectively reveal the advantages of freedom over non-freedom.

This task of self-improvement is always difficult. It calls for rigorous self-discipline and constant practice. It demands unending search for better arguments by means of which freedom's advantages can be attractively presented.

It calls for an end to proselytizing. It is consistent with freedom that freedom itself can only be sustained in a manner which will brook no coercion. One simply cannot expand freedom by relying on force to compel others to a predetermined point of view.

In this connection we would like to hand a bouquet to the American Economic Foundation. This informational and educational organization is a specialist in reducing economics to fundamental simplicity. We know of no organization more capable in making the facts of economics crystal clear to average persons.

AEF makes no effort to compel a belief in the effectiveness of its terms or methods. It simply works to clarify by means of simplifications, those things which may appear at first hand to be complex or difficult in the economic realm.

For example, this foundation is responsible for developing a formula for showing the true nature of profit. Marxists the world over are opposed to profit. Those who believe in freedom and who want each person to be able to keep everything that he can earn, are often hard put to it to justify profit.

It appears to many otherwise clear-thinking persons that Marx was right when he said that "a dollar of profit is an unpaid wage."

What is profit? It must be, by definition, that residue of money remaining after all costs of production are paid. Well, let's look at it the way the foundation simplifies it.

All money that any firm takes in with which to pay all costs and to make all profits, comes from customers. There is no other source of income. Thus it can truly be said that a firm's gross income is simply 100 per cent of what the customers pay for that firm's goods or services. How is this money divided so that everyone can be paid?

The foundation says that there are only five areas into which this 100 per cent of all income can be separated. They are: Cost of human energy, mental or physical (wages); Cost of materials or services furnished by others (raw materials, power, rent, etc.); Cost of government (taxes); Cost of replacing tools (depreciation); and the payment to the owners of the tools for the use of the tools (profit). There are no other costs whatsoever.

Every expense of any business can be classified somewhere under these five major headings. There are few who would object to the payment of wages whether to day workers or to managers. The worker is worthy of his hire and must be paid. Some may argue that managers get higher salaries than other workers. But in all fairness it must be seen that no one will work for nothing, and that the more rare the skill, the greater the wage that can be commanded. Good managers are more rare than other good workers. Hence good managers are paid more.

Similarly, there are few who would hold that raw materials, rents and other costs of production should not be paid. In honesty everything that is provided and regardless of who provides it, must be paid for in full. This is certainly a legitimate expense for any business.

The third area of cost, government, is one that attracts a good deal of attention. But if we omit for the moment the morality and the justice of the nature and size of taxes, there is still no question but that taxes must be paid. And this cost, too, like anything else, must be covered by the total of gross income received from customers.

The cost of replacing tools is certainly legitimate. Even the government has recognized that tools wear out and that some provision must be made for their replacement, and even improvement, the wheels of industry would soon stop turning. Some portion of the total gross income must be set aside for this purpose.

Thus we come finally to the single cost of doing business which is called profit. But as we examine profit, it like every other cost, is not something over and above all other costs. It is an integral part of any business operation that the owners of the tools must be paid for permitting their tools to be used. The owners of these tools are either individuals, partnerships or stockholders who have provided the original money to pay for the original tools. It is inconceivable that they would have parted with their money unless they could anticipate some rent or other return for the use of their money. Payment to the owners of the tools is usually called dividends. Without dividends there would be no reason to buy tools for production in the first place.

By this means of simplifying the economic picture, we see that profit is not a reality some vast accumulation of money stacked up over and above the cost of doing business. Rather, it is an integral part of any kind of business and no business can function without paying it, any more that it can function without paying wages or other kinds of rent.

Here is the way we can quickly see that Marx was a tin-horn economist filled with his own evil and his own error. Any profit paid to the owners of tools, is simply a necessary fee paid for the use of those tools. Perhaps if we look at it this way we will see the obvious reason for profits.

BETTER JOBS

Steel Price Increase Cost Per Family Most of the steel companies increased the price of their steel $6 a ton as of July 1 to take care of the wage increase agreed to by the steel corporations under duress of strike.

The heads of the union are protesting that this price increase is not necessary. But they are men without experience in producing wealth so their opinions are of little value. They are men who cannot answer questions without contradicting themselves.

The American Institute of Economic Research reports that the steel-plant production for the week ended June 29 was 2,220,000 tons. Multiplying this tonnage by $6, we have a total of $13,320,000 increase per week. Multiplying this figure by 52 weeks, we have a total yearly cost of $892,640,000. There are estimated to be 42 million families in the United States. Dividing $892,640,000 by 42 million, we find the average yearly cost per family to pay these increased wages is $16.00 per year. As I remember it, however, the wages are to go up in subsequent periods so that the annual cost will be more than $16.00 per family later on.

Workers Produce Own Wages Under a free economy—that is, a free market—where the customer is the final boss, as he should be, as to how he wants to spend his money and where he wants to sell his services, the worker produces his own wages. He does this by what he adds to the value of the product he is working on. Thus the consumer of what he produces when his wages are based on competition is not penalized because of increase in wages of what he buys. If the customer believes the wages are higher than he is getting he switches to that job.

Then all wages are always fair. But when wages are established as they are by all labor unions by monopoly of labor, by duress, by collusion, by the threats of injuring the stockholders, the customers of the business and his suppliers, then an increase of wages reduces the real wages of the buyers of the product. Of course in this theory of the law of the jungle or that might-makes-right or that jobs are not interchangeable—that men cannot switch jobs without the consent of the union, in short, in the caste system—wages become a method of plundering fellow workers in other lines of production.

The union worker who is producing something that is a necessity, like water or electricity or food or coal or gas, has a great advantage over the union monopoly workers who are working in luxuries where the consumer can do without when the price gets too high. Steel, of course, is almost a necessity in modern living. If we did not use steel we would go back to the primitive life and most of us would perish.

Arbitrarily Wages These arbitrarily high wages injure every consumer, and the reason they have to be high is that unions use so many wasteful practices in order to get this fictitious wage—such wasteful methods as limiting apprentices, limiting the rapidity with which they can learn, jurisdictional disputes, keeping men standing idle who could be temporarily doing other creative work, keeping the wrong man in the job and by strikes and non-productive wolves that live on the sheep that create the comforts of life.

This penalty that people pay for believing that labor unions are a fight between the rich and the poor, the employer and the worker, will continue so long as people do not see that labor unions are a fight between different workers; that labor unions are based on no principle; that they are a denial of the Golden Rule and the Coveting Commandment and the "Love thy neighbor as thyself" Commandment.

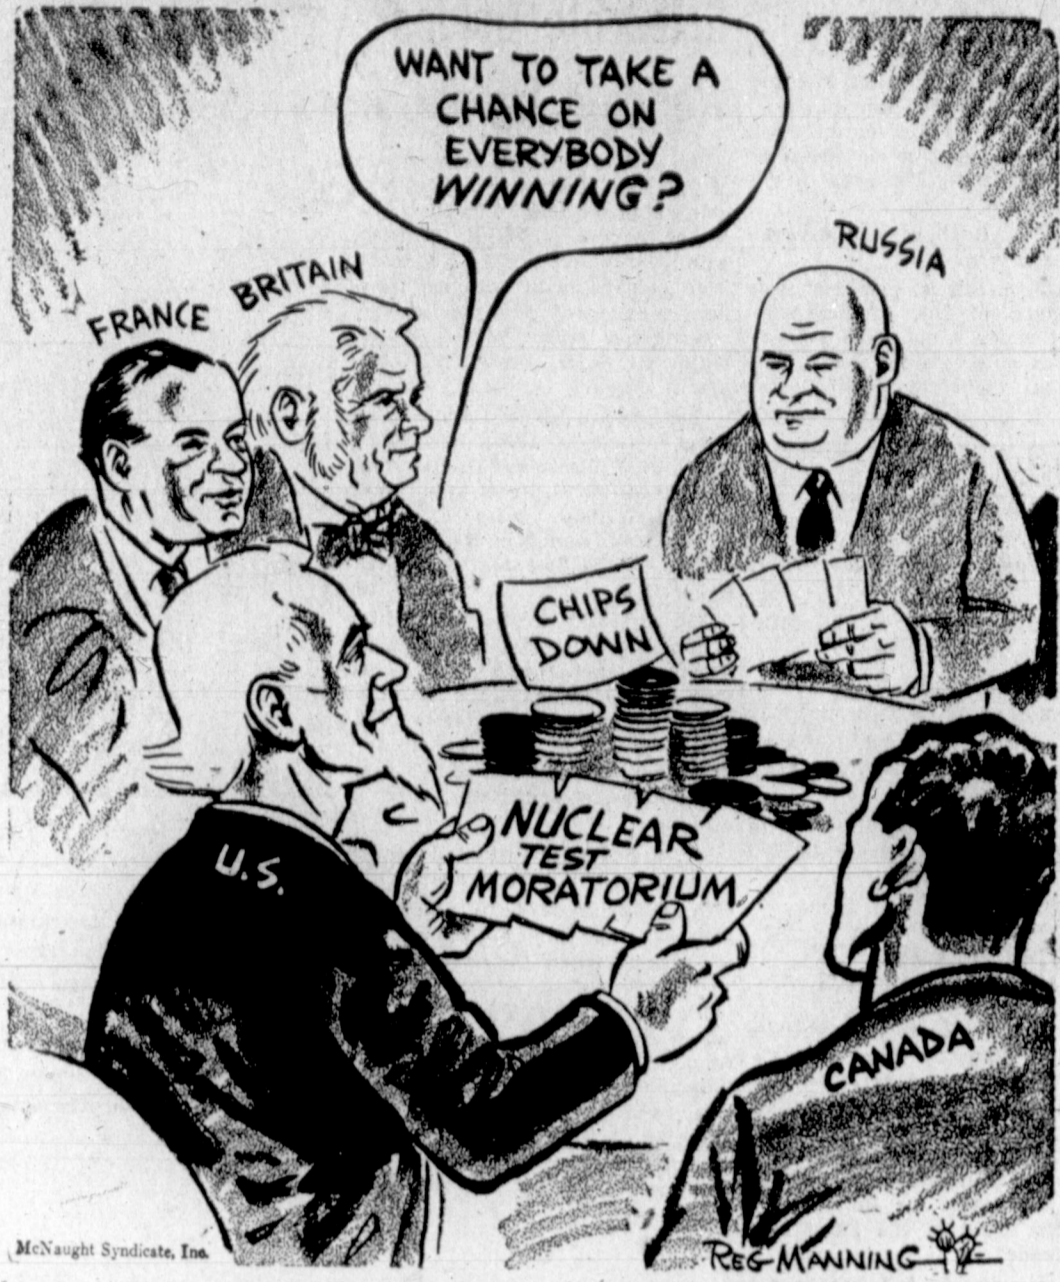

No labor union brass hats, nor in fact no believer in labor unions that practice collective bargaining that takes away from an individual his right to make an individual bargain, dare attempt to answer questions because he would have to contradict himself in a short time or admit that he was a labor union himself.

Problem of Education The problem is one of education. The problem is getting the workers to see that labor unions keep total wages down. It is a tremendous job because so many people have been taught—in their schools and in many churches and by politicians and newspapers and radio broadcasters—that labor unions are good for the working man. In fact, most people use the term "labor unions" loosely when they say that a man has a right to join or not to join a labor union. He has a right to join a labor union if a labor union does not attempt to bargain for those who want to make their own bargain or have a different agent. But I know of no such labor union.

One of the problems is to get people to know what a labor union really is, and labor union leaders dare not publicly answer questions because they dare not let the public know what labor unionism really means.

Supreme Court Colors Mondays With Decisions

By Thurman Sensing

"COLORED" MONDAYS The Supreme Court of the United States is at least doing this for us during the past two or three years—it is "coloring" our Mondays!

May 17, 1954 was "Black Monday." On that date the Supreme Court handed down its infamous segregation decision, thereby ignoring all tradition and custom of a great region of our land, thereby disregarding all judicial precedents and basing its decision on sociological and psychological textbooks written by socialists and left-wing sympathizers, and thereby reversing the "separate but equal" doctrine promulgated by its own predecessors more than 60 years before and under which everything was operating so well to the benefit of both races.

This decision was inexcusable. It brought strife where there was no strife. It has torn down in three years time all the progress made in race relations in this country throughout the 90 preceding years.

During the 90 years in the states where segregation is practiced, rapid strides had been made—in most places the goal had been reached—in providing equal facilities of all sorts. Negro teachers taught the children of their own race and were paid the same salary scale as white teachers. Negroes had their own homes and their own businesses and their own jobs. The rank and file of the Negroes knew these things and were satisfied. Strife between the races was practically a memory.

Now in three short years that peaceful situation is almost a memory. What will come next? Who can tell? Strife and dissension, that we know. At the Governors' Conference this week at Williamsburg, Virginia, Governor Timmermann of South Carolina said schools in his state would not be integrated in a thousand years; Governor Coleman of Mississippi said babies being born in his state would never see integration. These two states are not alone.

What an unhappy rent in the social fabric of the land—and all because of an uncalculated, radical, communist-pleasing decision of the Supreme Court! Now, three years and one month after "Black Monday," comes "Red Monday." On June 17, 1957 the Supreme Court of the United States handed down three decisions—all of a pattern with the one handed down on May 17, 1954 and at subsequent periods, since then—which the Daily Worker, the voice of communism in America, greeted ecstatically as "liberty rulings", under the headline "A Milestone for Democracy."

And why shouldn't the Daily Worker be happy? The court struck out at the Smith Act, freeing 5 of 14 convicted communists and ordering for the other 9 a new trial. It severely limited the investigating powers of Congressional committees and held that John T. Watkins, a union organizer, was within his constitutional rights when he refused to tell a subcommittee of the House Committee on Un-American Activities about past associates in connection with communist activities. It

M. R. Franks

PEACE - FREEDOM - JUSTICE - BROTHERHOOD

By Maurice R. Franks Embellished over the platform of the last United Auto Workers convention, held last month in Atlantic City were the words: "Peace, Freedom, Justice, Brotherhood—at Home and in the World." Be it said in all fairness, no four words could have been chosen that would better and more forcefully sum up what organized labor should stand for.

PEACE In the world, peace has come to mean little less than survival. It has become the prime necessity of nations, if any of us are to go on living, raising children and preparing a place for them. At home, too, peace is our only security against disaster. And that means labor peace—the calm creative approach to labor-management relations. For strikes and other forms of union militancy undermine our delicately balanced economy.

LABOR peace means production, employment, purchasing power and a decent standard of living. But peace begins with an attitude, on the part of both labor and management, and cannot be had when one side or the other enter negotiations with a skin full of rough demands, a basket of chips on the shoulder, a big stick under the table and a determination to push over or slug it out.

FREEDOM In the world, freedom means self-determination, the dignity of the individual and his right to choose his leaders. It means the end of mass coercion and room for voluntarism—the most dynamic principle in man. It means people responding with full initiative to life's manifold incentives, as opposed to people as a driven herd.

And at home, freedom means precisely the same thing—and most patently in union circles. It means no coercive bans to employment, no tolls for the right to earn a living, no deadly price to pay for union leadership.

Freedom expressed in unionism means members who shout from the housetops, "I belong to this union because I want to belong!"—not members who growl in their beer, "I carry a card only because it's my ticket to a job."

Freedom as applied to unions means the right of the individual to join or not, according to the dictates of his own conscience and the right of union men and their officials to sell the unilateralism of the virtues of their organizations. Freedom where unions are concerned sees in the so-called "freedom rider," not an outcast, not a victim, but a prospect, a challenge—a test of a union's competitive accomplishments and therefore a goal to creative effort.

JUSTICE In the world, justice means treating the other fellow as we would have him treat us. It does not mean expediency or power politics. It means honor and integrity among nations that are nations, as opposed to slave states run by gangsters.

And at home, justice means just that. It means recognition of mutual investment in an effective way of life—and refusal to exploit the other fellow even as we refuse to be exploited by him. In labor circles it means full recognition of the employer as an investor in our means of making a living. It means keeping faith with him quite as we expect him to keep faith with us. It means helping him keep his production costs down so that he may continue to maintain his competitive position—for our sake as well as his own.

Justice here means a union end put to featherbedding and gold-bricking. It means union insistence upon respect for the job itself as well as for the wages it pays. It means creative effort on the part of labor no less than management. It means lifting, not leaning, on the part of both partners in production.

BROTHERHOOD In the world, brotherhood means heart behind the helping hands of nations—good will among neighbors and solidarity based on creative acts of peoples and of governments in their various associations.

And at home, brotherhood means all this and more—for only at home, where language and customs impose no barriers of misunderstanding, can brotherhood strike firmest root. In labor circles, where bonds are already most clearly formed, it means the gateway to all mutual—the goal, the way and the light. It does not mean an exclusive fraternity; it means man's large humanity; to man. If these are not quite the definitions envisioned by the UAW's convention leaders, they at least come to my mind as I contemplate that inspiring slogan: PEACE, FREEDOM, JUSTICE, BROTHERHOOD.

Administration's Policy

May Alienate Middle East

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — A combination of Administration indifference and irresponsible oratory by prominent Americans threatens to transform the Franco-Algerian crisis into an explosive problem as the turbulent Middle East. This vast and valuable continent is in danger of turning to Moscow for lack of a firm policy or constructive action at Washington.

The fear of antagonizing or differing from our two great Allies—Britain and France—has led to dangerous and unsatisfactory results in India, Indo-China, Indonesia and the Middle East. Instead of using its influence in early negotiations between those countries and the colonial powers—England, France and Holland—the Roosevelt Truman, and Eisenhower regimes looked at the other way, or supported the mother countries.

WARNING TO SENATORS — India is now a divided nation, with Pakistan and New Delhi in a virtual state of war. Indo-China is half-free and half-Communist. Indonesia is beset with rebellion and guerrilla warfare fomented by the Russian and Chinese Reds. As Senator John F. Kennedy recently warned in a remarkable Senate speech, it appears that we are headed for the same sort of diplomatic blunder in Algeria.

As Chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Subcommittee on United Nations Affairs, the Massachusetts Senator and potential Presidential candidate has made a thorough study of the Algerian and African question. The Moslem Nationalists' demand for greater independence from Paris has the support of every other African nation and colony, despite its murderous and terrorist nature. French brutality in suppressing the rebellion has nullified protests against Russian massacres in Hungary, Nasser, and Russian agents, of course, are co-operating with and arming the native rebels.

The new French Ministry, like its predecessors, refuses to enter into negotiations looking toward the kind of freedom it has granted to neighboring Tunisia, and Morocco. It refuses to consider proposals for a Federation of French African States, as suggested by Kennedy. It has blocked any discussion of the problem by the United Nations.

NASSER'S MOVES — With Nasser as agent and propagandist and supplier to arms, to the Algerian nationalists, the Kremlin aims to establish a foothold in this heaving and restless continent, from Cairo to Capetown, and it looks upon Algeria as a likely beachhead. Moscow is using the two issues of "Western imperialism" and our alleged discrimination against peoples of color—black, red, yellow, brown, etc. The Cairo radio and Communist soap-bosers even cite our shabby treatment of Indian aborigines, deliberately confusing them with Nehru's countrymen.

The situation has become so threatening that the free nations of Africa will meet at Accra in the new state of Ghana next October in an effort to prevent a mass shift to African people's allegiance into the Soviet orbit. President Eisenhower may send a special emissary to this important assemblage. It is doubtful, however, if this gesture will appease the Algerians, or lead them to forget our indifference to their fight a r'd fate. As a matter of fact, the Administration has been openly hostile to Algerian aspirations.

OIL PAGE Can Oklahoma Legally Set Natural Gas Price?

By HARRY WILSON SHARPE United Press Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON, July 13 (UP)—Can Oklahoma legally set minimum prices for natural gas sold for resale in interstate commerce?

The U.S. Supreme Court, which answered the question once with a no, is wrestling with it again. It passed it over in its recent term while new briefs were being analyzed. Oklahoma producers, interstate pipelines, and consumers in the Midwest have a big financial stake in the outcome.

The Oklahoma Supreme Court and the state Corporation Commission both are accused in the pending case of misinterpreting the high court's original edict by upholding one of two sets of state price standards. The federal government has no active part in the case but Federal Power Commission jurisdiction has been challenged, so FPC legalities are deeply interested.

If Oklahoma's position is upheld some of the FPC's rate-making procedures would have to be changed. In addition the Supreme Court's famous Phillips case decision in 1954 would be open to some reinterpretation. In that decree the tribunal held that all natural gas sold for resale in interstate commerce is subject to federal price controls, regardless of state regulations.

Parties involved Parties directly or indirectly involved in the current case, in addition to the Oklahoma Corporation Commission, are the Phillips Petroleum Co., one of the nation's largest gas producers; Panhandle Eastern Pipeline Co., Natural Gas Pipeline Co., Michigan-Wisconsin Pipeline Co., and certain gas producers in Texas county, Okla.

In 1952 the Corporation Commission fixed a minimum price of 9.262 cents per thousand cubic feet on wellhead gas in Texas county and the same price on "residue" gas produced in Phillips processing plants. It held that the value of liquids extracted from the residue gas was the equivalent of the cost of gathering the wellhead gas, and thus the 9.262 price for both was equitable.

7 Wayland Students To Tour Canada

PLAINVIEW — To assist Southern Baptist churches in Canada, seven Wayland Baptist College students and Dr. B. P. Maddox, their sponsor leave Aug. 7 for a three weeks trip.

Going will be: Delbert Serratt, Sudan, president of the Volunteer Mission Band; Roma Brewer, Tahoka; Shelby Baucum, Idalou; Beulah Savage, Devine; Betty Martin, Ropseville; Betty Isham, Sunny; Leslie Thompson, Plainview.

All are members of the Wayland Volunteer Mission Band and experiences in witnessing, putting on religious dramas, helping with Vacation Bible Schools and musical programs. Baucum is musical-education director of First Baptist Church, Happy.

During the past season the Mission Band appeared before 30 churches in Colorado, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Texas. This extended mission trip to Canada is made possible by offerings given the Mission Band by churches in the following towns after presentation of programs during 1956-57: Alamo, N.M.; Campo, Colo.; Prairie View, Elk City, Okla.; Texoma, Okla.; Dodson, ATOM-AGE MASK — The Army's new, atom-age mask, pictured above, is designed to protect soldiers against inhaling radioactive fallout particles as well as war gases and germ warfare agents.

Arrangements for Canadian appearances are being made by Rev. Jeff McBeth, formerly of Plainview and a Wayland graduate, who is now pastor of Argyle Baptist Church in Edmonton, Alberta, Canada. They will also go to other places in Edmonton, from which Bill Goebel, an August graduate, and Charlie Jinks, a 1955 graduate, came to Wayland. On their way to Canada, they are also to give a program at Fort Collins, Colo., according to Serratt.

DOG POUND EXPRESS

DETROIT (UP) — Police say today they have not yet heard from the owner of an unwanted passenger who took a long ride on a suburban Detroit bus Wednesday. The passenger, a dog about two-years old, boarded the bus when it made a scheduled stop in the downtown area. It snoozed comfortably in the crowd-sited aisle until the driver summoned police who took the hitchhiker to the dog pound.
