SIGN OF THE TIMES — Jesse Parks, 809 E. Malone, maintenance technician III for the Texas Highway Department, replaces an old 70 miles per hour speed limit sign with the newer 55 mph sign in lieu of the Texas Highway Commission approving the reduction in speed as requested by President Nixon. The new speed limit goes into effect one minute after midnight Saturday, with Texas Highway Patrol and other law enforcement officers authorized to begin issuing tickets for those exceeding the 55 mph limit.

SPEAKS TO K&F CLUB

Artist Advises Optimism As Life's Daily Outlook

By CLAY LIVELY
Members of the Pampa Knife and Fork Club gathered last night and nearly filled the Starlight Room of the Coronado Inn to hear Neil Wyrick, artist, illustrator, cartoonist, author and columnist, extol the virtues of optimism over pessimism as a way of living life.

Wyrick's topic was "Put A Twinkle in Your Life" and with the help of cartoons projected onto the wall of the Starlight Room, he explained his views on facing problems in life and urged others to take the optimistic outlook.

Wyrick illustrated his point by naming people who set goals in life and achieved them, both in youth and in old age. Examples he gave of people who did their best work in later years were the German philosopher Immanuel Kant, whose classic works were written when he was in his 70's; Johann Wolfgang von Goethe, Michelangelo, Titian, Alfred, Lord Tennyson, and the American jurist Oliver Wendell Holmes, who was writing

Italian Authorities Arrest Getty Kidnaping Suspects

ROME (UPI) — Italian police announced today they had arrested three southern Italians in the kidnaping of J. Paul Getty III and had recovered an undisclosed amount of money believed to be part of the $2.9 million ransom paid for his release.

from Calabria, the region that forms the toe of the Italian boot. Barbino, an orderly in a Rome polyclinic, was arrested at his Rome apartment, police said. The other two were captured in small towns in Calabria—Mammoliti in Gioia Tauro and Mancuso in Cicala.

Police during the night also arrested two other Calabrians on suspicion of illegal possession of narcotics: they were identified as Giuseppe Lamanza, 25, arrested in Rome, and Antonio Pemia, 39, arrested in Alessandria, northern Italy.

Prospects Are Better On Gasoline Rationing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If American drivers continue to save gasoline and if domestic refining holds up, the nation can get through its energy pinch without rationing gasoline. Federal officials said today.

Not only this, they said, but there will be enough heating oil to go around this winter unless the weather turns unusually severe, and provided that most Americans keep thermostats 6 degrees lower than last winter.

The officials said it is likely the final decision on gasoline rationing will not have to be made until summer brings peak demand.

John C. Sawhill, deputy director of the Federal Energy Office, outlined more details today of a standby rationing system, to be put into effect only if and when needed.

Sawhill said an improvement in the energy situation was necessary to avoid rationing, "and we're getting an improvement."

With drivers' cooperation and other conservation measures, plus continuing generally mild weather and a leak in Arab oil countries' embargo of shipments to the United States, said Sawhill, "we feel that we are going to avoid rationing."

As for heating oil, Sawhill said Tuesday: "If we get a colder than normal winter, we could run short." But he added that if the weather is normal, the threat of a general shortage would disappear.

Sawhill said that if oil continues to "leak" to U.S. refineries through the Arab embargo, the energy crisis will grow progressively less severe. But the government still says homeowners should turn their thermostats down 6 degrees and businesses 10 degrees.

Heating oil stocks have reached sufficiently high levels so that the government decided not to carry out an earlier decision to force refineries to cut gasoline production five percent in order to make more heating oil.

"We don't feel the need to mandate the shift at this time," Sawhill said. The FEO estimated Tuesday that gasoline allotments to individuals under rationing would average between 33 and 40 gallons a month, depending on levels of production and imports. But it doesn't expect to put gasoline rationing into effect except as a last resort. A standby plan is to be ready March 1.

'FIVE OR NINE TIMES'

Tapes Panel Can't Say Who Caused Erasures

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A technical panel says it doesn't know who caused an 18-minute buzz on one of President Nixon's key Watergate tapes, but it does know the tape was erased by starting and stopping a tape recorder at least five and perhaps nine times.

The report immediately brought one prediction of possible extra Senate Watergate hearings and another of increased impeachment pressure.

In a federal court hearing Tuesday, the experts were blocked by White House lawyers from answering Chief Judge John J. Sirica's question: "Was the 18-minute buzz caused by accident, or was it deliberately done?"

"We have no view as to who did what for what reason," Dr. Sirica withdrew the question, and the prosecutors decided to continue the hearings this week, starting with testimony today from two Secret Service agents, Lou Sims and Alfred Wong Assistant Prosecutor Jill W. Volner said the two, who set up the White House taping system and had custody of the tapes, would be quizzed about who had access to the Watergate-related recordings.

The experts concluded that the tapes had been erased, and that at one time a conversation between Nixon and his chief aide H. R. Haldeman probably existed on the tape. They said the 18 minutes was not erased all at once, but in at least five stages and possibly as many as nine, by someone who first pushed the "record" button, which would erase the previous conversation, and then, the stop button, which would stop the tape.

ToT Directors Fill Two Posts

Directors of the Top O' Texas Rodeo Association met last night in the Chamber of Commerce office and elected Doyle Smith and Jerry Fulton to the board to fill vacancies caused by the death of Bill McIntire and resignation of Don Kite, who will be moving to Odessa.

AND WINS AGAIN

'Duke' Battles Hostile Students

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI) — "Is that a wig you're wearing?" shouted a student from the back of the theater.

John Wayne, the aging hero of scores of Westerns and war movies, grimed and pulled ever so gently at his light brown hairpiece. "This is real hair," he shouted back. "It's not mine. But it's real hair."

The audience cheered and roared with laughter. Wayne, 66, was pelted with snowballs and picketed by unfriendly Indians as he braved enemy territory at Harvard University Tuesday for a good-natured roasting. He even managed some quips of his own about President Nixon and the White House tapes.

Wayne was challenged to a verbal shoot-out with students by the Harvard Lampoon because of his conservative views and tough-guy image. The college humor magazine's editors dared him to "appear in the most radical, most intellectual, in short, most hostile territory on earth."

Earl Wilson

When Tuesday Weld travels incognito, does she register under an assumed day? ... After seeing some gals, you realize that some stretch pants have no other choice ... The average husband brings his wife flowers when he wants her to remember an event — or forget one ... Someone described a boring B'way premiere: "I've seen more excitement at the opening of an umbrella." (For more laughs see Earl Wilson on Page 10.)

He Dodges Snowballs

Wayne, bare-headed, smiling and smoking a cigar, dodged snowballs as he rode 10 blocks atop an Army armored personnel carrier through the streets of Cambridge to the Harvard Square Theater. A few of the snowballs hit their target but Wayne batted some away.

AIM Pickets Theater

About 20 members of the American Indian Movement picketed outside the theater with signs reading "Remember Wounded Knee" and "Why Support Indian Killer John Wayne?"

Revision Delegates To Seek Opinions

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Constitutional Convention delegates who disagreed with revision experts over how much authority the governor should be given and how gasoline taxes should be spent sought the opinion today of Texas citizens.

Most of the eight major convention committees opened their hearings for testimony from private citizens today, and the delegates didn't really know what to expect.

A list distributed by the convention staff late Tuesday showed Gov. Dolph Briscoe and Lt. Gov. William P. Hobby as "prospective witnesses" for the education committee and several top state appellate court judges for the judiciary committee.

"We'll meet, but we really don't know who is coming to testify," said Rep. Robert Maloney, R-Dallas, chairman of the Committee on the Legislature. Citizen testimony is scheduled to continue through the week, including in special Friday night and Saturday committee sessions.

In hearings Tuesday, two members of the executive committee indicated proposals by the Constitutional Revision Commission (CRC) may have gone too far in expanding the governor's power.

Rep. Tom Schieffer, D-Fort Worth, objected particularly to a proposal giving the governor power to reduce the size of individual legislative appropriations.

"It's traditional to give the power of the purse to the legislature and the power of the sword to the executive," Schieffer said. "It looks to me like you're giving him the power of the purse, the sword and the whole shooting match."

Industrial Turmoil Still Rages In Britain, Strikes Continuing

LONDON (UPI) — Railroad engineers ended a 24-hour walkout today, but industrial turmoil raged in Britain, with subway workers taking a strike vote and coal miners maintaining a crippling slowdown.

The nation's 29,000 trainmen returned to work today, ending their second one-day walkout in five days. The engineers, however, kept up a month-old slowdown aimed at winning pay demands.

London's 10,000 subway employees voted to strike Feb. 4 and shut down the city's mass transit system unless authorities grant a $14.9 million pay boost.

The nation's 269,000 coal miners continued a two-month slowdown cutting into Britain's dwindling fuel supplies and intensifying the impact of the worldwide energy crisis.

Prime Minister Edward Heath said Tuesday he would make a final attempt to find a way out of the crisis by holding a new round of talks with leaders of the 10-million-member Trades Union Congress (TUC), Britain's AFL-CIO.

The government, which imposed a fuel-saving, three-day work week because of the economic crisis, said it might have to take even harder action.

prohibiting Britons from lighting more than one room in an apartment at the same time.

"You don't need to do your teeth with the light on," Energy Minister Patrick Jenkin said Tuesday. "Do them in the dark."

The ailing pound plummeted Tuesday to an all-time low of $2.1867 compared with $2.50 a year ago—a drop of 14 per cent. Dealers predicted it would slump again today.

The TUC called a conference today of 200 top union officials to discuss a compromise accord to end the coal slowdown.

Rep. Cates Named To New Committee

State Rep. Phil Cates, now serving as a delegate to the state Constitutional Convention, has been named to the committee of the executive branch by Speaker Price Daniel, Jr.

Rep. Cates has served as vice chairman of the Human Resources Committee during the past legislative session as well as vice chairman of the Subcommittee on Water within the Natural Resources Committee.

He also has a seat on the Agriculture Committee in the House of Representatives and was appointed to the Special Interim Committee on State Economy by Speaker of the House.

The work-load for the Committee on the Executive will be heavy and will concern the Constitutional re-writing and discussion of the duties of the officers which constitute the executive branch. These officers are the governor, lieutenant governor, attorney general, the comptroller of public accounts, secretary of state, commissioner of the general land office, and such other officers as may be provided by law.

The committee will also center discussion on the selection of terms and residence of officers of the executive department; election returns, tie votes, contest; the governor's eligibility and installation; gubernatorial succession; disability of elective officers of the executive department; dual office holding; calling forth the militia; execution of laws; conduct of business with other states, the United States and foreign nations.

Also, the convening of the Legislature in special session; the governor's message; action on bills and resolutions; chief planning officer; budget preparation; administrative reorganization; reprieves, commutations, and pardons; remission of fines and forfeitures; vacancies in statewide offices; the state agencies, and the Seal of State and commissions.

Cates said he was very pleased with his recent committee appointment. He is a graduate of West Texas State University, where he served as assistant dean of student life prior to his election to the House of Representatives.

Included in the legislation Rep. Cates has sponsored has been the revision of the trailer brake law. He has sponsored legislation against persons involved in child abuse, the bill to allow spraying instead of dipping for scabies protection, and supports the right to work in the state Constitution.

A native of Lefors, Cates is married to the former Nancy Kay Holt of Pampa. He represents ten Texas counties that comprise District 66.

Rep. Cates announced at a recent appreciation reception that he would be seeking a third term in the Texas House of Representatives.

The toll free number for information on the proposed Constitution for Texas is 1-800-292-9600, Rep. Cates said. Persons who would like to contact Rep. Cates at the Capitol may phone 1-512-475-3883 or write P.O. Box 13286 at Capitol Station in Austin.

Woman Takes Pills Overdose

A city woman was taken to Highland General Hospital shortly after noon yesterday by an ambulance where she underwent treatment for an overdose of depressant pills.

Her husband later told police the woman had attempted suicide about two years ago and since that time has threatened to kill herself when despondent.

The woman was discovered unconscious in her home about noon yesterday by her mother, who summoned an ambulance.

Astros Given Permission To Delay Medical Tests

HOUSTON (UPI) — Ground officials told the Skylab 3 astronauts they could postpone today's medical tests if it gets too hot inside their orbiting spacecraft.

Because of the angle of the Earth in relation to the Sun, the Skylab space ship spent 74 consecutive hours in sunlight. During Tuesday's 62nd day of the mission, crewmen Gerald P.

Carr, Edward G. Gibson and William R. Pogue worked in temperatures that crept into the 90s.

Flight planners decided against a series of rolling maneuvers today because they said it would only expose the ship to even more sunlight. Instead a series of medical tests were scheduled but flight director Charles Lewis said even those could be postponed if the temperature climbs too high.

"We're going to let them (the astronauts) call the shots," Lewis said.

The tests include an exercise in which the astronauts must peddle a stationary bicycle that is rigged to record heartbeat and similar data. This is a strenuous exercise in normal temperatures.

"I don't know if (the temperatures) would bias any of the medical runs or not," Lewis said.

Skylab orbits the Earth once every 99 minutes. Part of this time is usually spent in the shadow of the Earth keeping the station's temperatures down.

'Gasless Sundays' Changing U.S. Habits

By FLORENCE MOUCKLEY
Staff Writer
Christian Science Monitor

"Gasless Sundays" are changing the habits of America's "free-wheeling" motorists. Overall, however, the Sunday restriction is having only a minor impact on their lives.

A Monitor survey finds many drivers are:

- Thinking twice before driving long distances on weekends.
- Limiting round-trip weekend jaunts to the distance they can travel on a tankful of gas.
- "Gassing up" on Fridays and Saturdays.
- Doubling up in one car in two-car families.
- Finding more Sunday entertainment at home or closer to home.

Voluntary closing of most gas stations on Sundays in the U.S. has had an effect. The Federal Highway Administration says driving was down by 13.7 percent across the country on Dec. 2 and Dec. 9.

The Federal Energy Office says it is not possible to determine yet how much gas is being saved as a result of gasless Sundays.

"But," says a spokesman, "we know that has had some effect in reducing total consumption." The agency also said that it did not know how many gas stations were complying with the gasless Sunday restriction.

"We'll Go Out to Eat"

The major result of gas-station closings: Much long-distance weekend travel has been curtailed.

—One Maryland man this week said to his wife, "Let's get away for a weekend this month — we both need some relaxation. His wife countered with: "Where can you go on a tankful of gas?"

They decided they would stay at home.

"We'll go out to eat on Friday instead," offered her husband.

—A civilian scientist working for the Navy near Los Angeles: "I tank up on Saturday but I'm finding they're charging over 50 cents a gallon for premium gas... We try not to go very far (on

Christian Science Monitor
'Gasless Sundays'... Families rediscovering the joy of being together

Sundays) but if we do, we have to plan ahead.

—A Boston professional woman: "Friends and I used to ski on Sundays. Now we'll either go up to the slopes on Saturdays or ski the nearest places on Sundays so we can get up and back on a tankful of gas."

Monitor correspondent David Holmstrom reports that gas-station shutdowns in the San Francisco area "simply mean that many people gas up on Fridays and Saturdays... However, because gasless Sundays are relatively new — and only 75 per cent of the gas stations in California close on Sundays anyway — most of the people I talked with have made no conscious change in their Sunday activities."

Installs Gas Tank

One family in San Francisco's East Bay section decided to circumvent gasless Sundays.

Family members had been preparing for about a year to ski many of the weekends this winter. They decided not to let the gas reduction interfere with their plans. To ensure a trip from home to ski country and back again they had a neighbor design and install a larger gas tank in the family car.

In Boston the preoccupation among younger people who drive is how to get to "the best" ski slopes in northern New Hampshire and Vermont, which usually takes more than one tankful of gas for a round trip.

"If we go for a weekend," reports one, "we'll just have to tank up on Saturday night when we get there so we can get back on Sunday night."

In New York City, where gas is especially hard to get even during the week, gasless Sundays are believed to be adding to the popularity of the city's program to cut rate, transportation and entertainment.

Half prices on buses and subways on Sundays is being hailed as a big success. A number of sight-seeing attractions, such as the Empire State Building, Rockefeller Center, and Lincoln Center, offer discounts to people showing their half-price bus or subway receipts, and Jack Macbean, a spokesman for the New York Convention and Visitors Bureau, says business is booming.

Unexpected Boom

Some New York City restaurants are giving discounts to subway and bus riders.

And nearby ski resorts in New York State are experiencing an unexpected boom in business.

A spokesman for the Vernon Valley ski resort says: "We're doing more business. Last Saturday was our biggest day ever. And Sunday was almost as big." Skiers who used to frequent Vermont slopes are now using Vernon Valley, which is 39 miles — or less than a tank of gas — from Manhattan.

Everywhere across the country people are looking for Sunday entertainment closer to home.

Sam Long, Standard Oil dealer in Chicago, says his customers talk a lot about gasless Sundays. They say they are enjoying looking for things to do at home — lots of them spending more money for recreation equipment and games for the home — pool tables, table tennis sets, exercycles, etc.

Others say they are just spending more time reading the Sunday paper and watching TV. Now that the football season is over some say they will be more restless.

Other customers say they find the family is doing things together more. Instead of a son going skating, one daughter shopping, and another to a movie, they might all get in one car and drive a few blocks to go skating together or go to a movie together. They say it's good for the family.

Around the Fireplace

A housewife in the Los Angeles area who is also a part-time college instructor says, "We just go away Saturdays. It's usually pretty quiet around here on Sundays now. We put a fire in the fireplace. We sit around and read. Actually, we're talking to each other and getting to know each other better."

Most people interviewed said that gasless Sundays might really change their way of living in the spring and summer months.

A University of California, Los Angeles, information officer says: "I drive a small foreign sports car. So I only fill my tank once every 10 days. It's not affecting us much now. But I'm a backpacker, and if this keeps up this summer, it will affect me."

Science Today

By RICHARD P. JONES
MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI) — If people are really concerned about conserving energy, a professor of electrical engineering says, they should examine more closely the potential uses of microwaves.

Dr. Thomas K. Ishii, of Marquette University, said the extremely short radio waves can be used to dry clothes just as they are used to cook food. They can also be used to transmit raw power without wire as well as a person's voice.

Ishii said in an interview that man could also use microwaves to melt snow on his sidewalks or heat water in his home.

Microwaves, with wavelengths between infrared radiation and television radio waves, were first noticed in the 1920s, when radio operators began searching for more frequencies, Ishii said. He said the age of microwaves opened in 1927 with the development of a good magnetron, a vacuum tube which generates microwaves.

Today, Ishii and others are working on a system which would transmit power from one point to another without wire. He proposed orbiting solar power stations in 1967, the year he pioneered in the development of a microwave driven motor.

Ishii said power generating satellites could be launched today but their electricity would cost three to 10 times as much as current from power plants on earth. The biggest problem is converting microwaves into electricity and Ishii is trying to build a microwave motor big enough to drive a generator.

"This is just one possibility," he said. Microwaves could be used to heat water to drive a steam turbine but panels of solar cells would have to cover six square miles to produce enough energy to generate one million watts.

"We just actually scratched the surface," Ishii said. "There are lots of innovations and improvements that have to be done."

His microwave motor looks like a simple coil of wire. It is driven by the interaction between microwave current and a microwave magnetic field. The concept is so simple, Ishii said, he wonders why it was not thought of earlier.

RECORDS

By WILLIAM D. LAFFLER

NEW YORK (UPI) — The last known composition of Scott Joplin was a number which he called "Reflection Rag" but it was something of a departure from his usual musical style.

It was not published until after his death in 1917 and there were some who wondered at that time whether Joplin was seeking a new dimension.

"Reflection Rag" is essentially a ragtime tune, with five themes, yet its scope is broader than Joplin's most popular composition, "Maple Leaf Rag."

Both rags are included in "The World of Scott Joplin" by Max Morath (Vanguard-Everyman, SRV 310 SD). "Reflection Rag" is the opener of this merry Morath concert and, fittingly, "Maple Leaf Rag" is the closing number.

Themes Within Themes

Morath, a man with a keen sense of musical humor who has delighted audiences at the Boston Pops Orchestra concerts, obviously was a long-time admirer of Joplin and he contributes insights to the man's career in the record jacket notes.

To someone listening to Joplin's rags for the first time it may appear that the melodies come from a single mold. This is not true, however, because Joplin was a fine musician and composer who subtly inserted themes within themes. All of his compositions had one characteristic in common—a rolling sound that suggests forward movement.

This is especially true in "Maple Leaf Rag" and "Reflection Rag," where musical motion is constant.

Morath, who plays ragtime as though he invented it for piano, includes three other Joplin gems in this selection—"Palm Leaf Rag," "A Breeze from Alabama" and "Searchlight Rag."

While Joplin was the undisputed king of ragtime in his time and remains the symbol of this musical form more than 50 years after his death, there were other distinguished composers, among them James Scott, Arthur Marshall and Joseph Lamb.

Astaire Songs Replayed

Each of them is represented in Morath's session—"Scott with 'Frog Legs Rag,' 'The Ragtime Oriole' and 'Broadway Rag,' Marshall with 'Kinklets" and "The Pippin Rag" and Lamb with "Top Liner Rag." Morath adds two of his own ragtime compositions—"Golden Hours" and "One for Amelia."

Joplin's music naturally exudes nostalgia and sets the scene for two notable albums of the not-so-long-ago.

"Starring Fred Astaire" (Columbia SG 32472) brings together in their logical sequence all of the tunes the fabulous dancer-singer recorded on the Brunswick label during his Hollywood heyday in the 1930's.

While Astaire gained fame as a dancer, his role as leading man in movie musicals demanded songs as well. Astaire was never a pretentious singer but his light touch gave his songs a certain flair, particularly on such tunes as "Let's Face the Music and Dance" and "I'm Putting All My Eggs in One Basket."

"Boogie Woogie Bugle Girls" by the Andrews Sisters (Paramount PAS-6075) reprises most of the songs which made these three girls the most popular trio of the 1940's.

The top song, of course, is "Boogie Woogie Bugle Boy," which launched the Andrews Sisters, but there are many other fine tunes, such as "Don't Sit Under the Apple Tree," "Bei Mir Bist Du Schoen," "Pennsylvania Polka" and "Beat Me Daddy Eight to the Bar."

Dear Abby

A two-way street for doctors, patients

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: When I was in Northern Ireland I had occasion to visit a gynecologist for a pelvic examination. I observed that the doctor did not have a nurse at his elbow as American doctors do.

I asked the foreign doctor if that was not required by law, and he said, "No, what would be the purpose of such a law?"

I explained that some American women are fearful that a male doctor will take advantage of them, so the law requires that a nurse be present during the examinations.

The foreign doctor replied: "There must be a lot of very conceited women in that country!" C. H.

DEAR C. H.: The law requiring the presence of a nurse during such examinations is for the protection of the doctors as well as the patients. Some patients make passes at their doctors, or claim that their doctors have made passes at them.

DEAR ABBY: I don't agree with that man who wrote in to say that having a snake for a pet wasn't all that easy. I have a pet snake named Oscar. He is a common king snake and is hardly any trouble at all.

He eats one mouse a week which costs only 25 cents, and we never have to walk him. He doesn't keep anybody awake with his barking all night, and if we have unwelcome visitors we just let Oscar out, and they don't stay long.

Oscar is very loving. He wraps himself around my mom's ankle while she's cooking. Besides, all my friends envy me having Oscar for a pet. MARK GIRARDI, LARGO, FLA.

DEAR MARK: Hooray for you! Give my regards to Oscar.

DEAR ABBY: You recently printed a letter from a wife whose husband was a "cold fish." He'd touch her only when they were making love—and at no other time.

Well, Abby, her husband may be a cold fish, but my man is a polar bear! With him, it's always: "Not in front of the kids." "Not in front of the neighbors." "Not in front of the mirror."

The other wife said she thinks her husband doesn't like to be touched because he was never handled with affection when he was a child. I told my polar bear that theory and he agreed. He said that in New England, where he was raised, people were a little more "reserved." And he added that if I wanted someone to hold my hand all day I should have married a glove!

Please print this letter as a warning to all those reserved mothers who have a hands-off policy toward their children. Pick them up for heaven's sakes, and cuddle them, or they'll wind up like my polar bear! POLAR BEAR'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Good advice. In order to know how to give affection, one must receive it.

DEAR ABBY: Please tell your readers that any Family Planning or Planned Parenthood Clinic will provide, completely confidential, birth control services to any woman of any age for nothing or only a small fee. RUTH W. K., SEATTLE

KARPIN ON BRIDGE

By FRED KARPIN

If one were asked a prime rule in the play of the cards, the winningest answer he could give would be: never jeopardize a contract in order to try for an overtrick. Extending this thought, once should never be averse to sacrificing a probable overtrick if such sacrifice increases one's chances of making any given contract.

In today's deal, had our South declarer given thought to the above, he would not have lost an easily makable contract.

Actually, if South had elected to stretch his values a slight bit, he might have opened with two notrump on his 21 high-card points. In bidding one club, there was the danger that North would pass on a five-point hand, thereby leaving South to play one club with 26 points. But, on the other hand, if South had opened with two notrump, showing 22-24 high-card points, there was the danger that North might have a real good hand, and would drive on to an unmakeable slam.

After declarer had captured West's opening heart lead with the ace, he laid down the spade king and followed up by leading the deuce of spades. West made a fine play when he followed with the spade jack (intending to create the impression that he had been dealt the doubleton J-x). Dummy won the trick with the ace — as East discarded a club. All declarer could now make in spades were the three tricks with which he had started. When play had ended, he had gone down a trick.

All declarer had to do to fulfill his contract was to have allowed West's jack of spades to capture the second spade lead. No matter what West then returned, declarer would win. And a lead of his remaining spade would enable declarer to bring home four spade tricks, and a total of nine.

Admittedly the five outstanding spades figures to be divided 3-2; and, as declarer played the hand, he would have made five spade tricks if they had been so divided. But, as was stated, a good player does not play for an overtrick if in so doing he jeopardizes his contract.

Neither side vulnerable. South deals.

Candlelight Ceremony Unites Janet Taylor-Ben E. O'Neill

In a candlelight ceremony performed Saturday, Dec. 22, at 7 p. m., in Highland Baptist Church, Janet Lynn Taylor became the bride of Ben Earl O'Neill, of Amarillo.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Taylor, Pampa, and Mr. and Mrs. Pat O'Neill, Amarillo, are the bridegroom's parents.

The church was decorated with a 15-branched candelabrum and baskets of white mums. The mothers and grandmothers pews were marked with white satin bows.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, with the "her mother and I" avowal was attired in a formal gown of white bridal satin styled with an empire bodice, high neckline and long lace sleeves decorated with tiny seed pearls and colored sequins.

Two rows of tiny colored sequins adorned the dress from the shoulder to the hemline and around the train.

Her shoulder-length veil fell from a bandeau decorated with seed pearls and sequins and was edged in chantilly lace. Her bridal cascade was of blue and white carnations in pom-poms.

Mrs. Doris Goad, organist, accompanied Mrs. Karen Shepherd as she sang, "All I Know," and "The Twelfth of Never."

Miss Linda Mortimer served as maid of honor. Bridesmaid was Mrs. Joanie Olivarez and Miss Brenda Been was bridesmaid. They wore formal gowns of royal blue crushed velvet styled identical to the bride's attire. The attendants carried bouquets of blue and white carnations.

Miss Jean O'Neill, sister of the bridegroom, served as flowergirl wearing a long gown of royal blue crushed velvet.

Henry Olivarez, Amarillo, served as best man. Groomsman were James Pick and Jeffrey True, both of Amarillo. Ushers were Randy Taylor, Richard O'Neill and

MRS. BEN EARL O'NEILL
...nee Janet Lynn Taylor

Alan Been, Steven Taylor, brother of the bride, served as ringbearer.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in Fellowship Hall of the church. The bride's table was decorated with a centerpiece of white carnations and the three-tiered wedding cake was decorated with white roses and topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom. Mrs. Troy Ledbetter, Mrs. Bill Kidwell, and Mrs. Ottice Kidwell, Jr., aunts of the bride, assisted with the serving. Mrs. Jackie Taylor and Deborah Kyle registered guests.

The bride was honored recently with a miscellaneous show in Pampa and a lingerie shower in Amarillo.

Mrs. O'Neill is a 1972 graduate of Pampa High School, a 1973 graduate of Draughton's Business School and is presently employed as a keypunch operator for Randall County.

O'Neill graduated in 1972 from Alamo High School, attended Amarillo College and is employed by Ray Kelly Public Land Surveyor.

After a short trip, the young couple will reside in Amarillo.

El Progresso Speakers Talk On Making Life Happier Now

The El Progresso Club met recently in the home of Mrs. J.G. Morrison, 2101 Christine. Mrs. O.K. Gaylor, president, called the meeting to order with the women's collect. Mrs. Ralph Palmer called the roll and read the minutes of the last meeting. She also read letter from Mrs. M.G. Herring, a former member.

Mrs. Roy McMillan, program chairman, presented Mrs. J.F. Curtis, and Mrs. J.F. Malone, who had the program, "Making Life Happier Now, and As The Years Go By."

The secret of happiness is not doing what one likes, but in liking what one has to do. What happiness is, can be many different things to different people, and to keep trying to do interesting things, take up hobbies, and keeping minds always open to new ideas, they explained.

For the "young" view point on what happiness is, Miss Terri Malone told of her experiences.

at the summer work shop she attended last summer at Texas University.

The next meeting will be held Jan. 22, with Mrs. R.A. Keagy, hostess, and Mrs. Ralph Palmer, co-hostess.

Those present were, Mmes. D.V. Burton, J.F. Curtis, Glen Dawkins, O.K. Gaylor, R.A. Keagy, Kermit Lawson, J.F. Malone, Roy McMillan, J.G. Morrison, Ralph Palmer, Tom Perkins, Chas. Lanehart, Glen Radcliff, Quentin Williams, and Max Presnell.

A Christmas meeting was held in Mrs. Quentin Williams home, 2011 Christine, with Mrs. Max Presnell, co-hostess, and 13 members present.

Mrs. Roy McMillan presented the speaker, Mrs. Bruce Riehart, who talked, and showed paintings depicting nativity through the art galleries, and different artists conception of the nativity.

Your Horoscope

By Joane Dixon

THURSDAY, JANUARY 17

Your Birthday today: Finds you anticipating dramatic incidents, some of them planned, some of them beyond control and thus not amenable to planning. The ideal is to direct your energy toward constructive solutions, wasting no time pursuing unrealistic projects. Relationships face turbulent going, with many ups and downs. Late in the year all features of daily living reach a peaceful balance in which you benefit from early struggles. Today's natives are patient, determined, better off self-employed in most cases.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Money comes and goes today, quickly but not easily. Rivalry is subtle, serving no particular purpose and producing unexpected results.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Romance not favored for the moment. Business or vocational activity encounters complexity beyond the usual, for no apparent reason.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Discretion turns out to be the better part of common sense today. Assume nothing about any surprising disclosure: There's apt to be more to come.

Cancer [June 21-July 21]: No matter where you were going, take note of today's incidents, think about revising plans, seeking a new direction. Action is better deferred.

Leo [July 22-Aug. 21]: Bring your notebook, keep track of the busy morning with its complicated encounters between the incompatibles. Inspiration as to what to do comes very late, for tomorrow's use.

Virgo [Aug. 22-Sept. 21]: Consequences of recent activity arrive prematurely. Encourage the positive in yourself and others. Drop an unproductive line of endeavor now, for keeps.

Libra [Sept. 22-Oct. 21]: The turn of circumstance seems harsh, leaving no time for consideration or room for doubt. You face the issue or you duck it, once.

Scorpio [Oct. 22-Nov. 21]: Hold where you were, pursuing nothing further. It's a long enough day without any frills. No schedule is apt to remain as planned.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Being cautious is not enough. You are likely to spend the late hours today and tomorrow trying to bring local conditions back to normal levels.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: From within yourself and your earned resources comes all that you need to cope with the day and evening of broken routines, upset schedules.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Your friends are interesting because of their departure from usual rounds of routine actions. Don't get too far away from your own.

Pisces [Feb. 19 - March 20]: As you learn now, you have little direct control over others' actions beyond appeals to their feelings, their sense of order.

Too Many Grads
JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (UPI) — The Missouri Commission on Higher Education said in its 1972 year-end report that graduate schools were producing too many people for the job market, resulting in decreasing employment mobility and a slackening of demand for the graduates.

Jeanne Dixon Predicts Crisis, Uncertainty In 1974

By JEANNE DIXON

As we begin another year of crisis and uncertainty, I do not see President Richard M. Nixon resigning or leaving the White House through impeachment. He will ride out the Watergate storm in order to consolidate the gains the country has made internationally. One result will be a temporary illness for President Nixon in 1975.

These are psychic predictions and not revelations; they can change.

The thoughts I pick up of the President's attitude and from the impeachment movement are these: (1) The President has no intention of resigning; (2) I do not feel sufficiently powerful vibrations in the opposition to impeach and convict him; (3) The President will not release all the tapes in the immediate future, nor will Judge Sirica, for security reasons.

The tapes will all be fully divulged in time, and I still believe their revelations will clearly vindicate President Nixon of any impeachable wrong - doing too late, however, to still the storm now brewing in Congress.

By next April the wave of the Watergate will crest in the full fury of virulent congressional proceedings, after which it will subside. This phase of Watergate will be closed.

The silver lining will be in the reforms I predicted in 1968 - on campaign financing, political contributions, influence peddling, illegal transfer of corporate funds and the exposure of political "dirty tricks."

I continue to be convinced that President Nixon will go down in history as a great president because of his breakthroughs for world peace with the Soviet Union and in the Orient. To skeptics I have just three little words: Wait and see!

Watergate has a deep tie-in with American foreign policy going back two or three administrations. This will come to light when historians begin to dig into the mountain of material to discover the hidden roots. The energy crisis is another case of the negative effects that a foreign policy of mere expediency can have.

By the end of this century Watergate will seem like a Sunday afternoon picnic, and a harsher repeat of Watergate will be experienced at that time. We will then enter a transition period, occasioned by the entry into earth's atmosphere of a new comet.

COMET OF THE CATAclysm

Science is studying the activity of the Comet Kohoutek and will learn something of comet transit. Unfortunately, cutbacks in the American space program, due to energy shortages, will seriously hamper our study of outer space and bring scientific progress to a standstill late in 1975. It will be dormant for some time, threatening a dark age in space research.

The research will start up again in the late seventies and there will be revolutionary discoveries in outer space; oceanic and subterranean exploration, too, will teach us much about the creation and structure of the earth. All the elements in Kohoutek will be found in earth's spectrum.

There will be two more comets in this century, the first making its appearance about the middle of the 1990's.

During the 1990's - perhaps as late as 1990 - the third comet will make its appearance. It will be like something out of Genesis, an event comparable to the story of the Flood. I see this as the beginning of a time of troubles, when a certain period of geologic history will repeat itself. In 7,000 B.C. the earth passed through the tail of a comet, causing great cataclysms and fantastic electrical phenomena.

How does the passage of a large comet (not a small one like Kohoutek) affect the earth's magnetic field? Could it trigger a reversal of the poles? Yes.

But man will survive this "Comet of the Cataclysm" in the 1990's. And man will be called upon at that time to use to the fullest the knowledge developed through years of human effort. Major breakthroughs in the various fields of medical research will then be put to the ultimate test.

Devastation caused by the Comet of the Cataclysm will require the most advanced medical knowledge to preserve the life of man and other creatures here on earth! Many of the diseases and injuries will be of a peculiar nature as a result of the fires and earthquakes brought about by unique electrical impulses, and the frightening disorientation from our surroundings caused by a tumbling planet earth.

With only 25 years remaining, men of science will begin their greatest strides forward during 1974 without realizing that their discoveries are destined to prevent the end of many lives here on earth.

There will be war in the Orient and in the Middle East, and the outcome will be decisively affected by this cosmic accident.

Will it be an accident? Philosophers and theologians will have to answer that for themselves, as will the rest of us. These events will change the history of humanity and be true acts of God, Kohoutek and Haley's Comet shed light on them, and bid us pause and reflect, like the shepherd of the priest calling the people to prayer.

VICE PRESIDENT FORD

Gerald Ford is, of course, a presidential possibility for 1976. Meanwhile, in 1974 he will go on a mission to Moscow. Though it will not achieve its objectives all the way, it will be a personal triumph for him. He will travel much and make influential friends. February and November of this year will be especially favorable times for him.

All through this period he will be building a reputation that will pave the way for entry into the Republican race for the presidential nomination. However, there will be problems of litigation, and opponents will try hard to discredit Gerald Ford as a candidate.

He must be especially careful of language problems during his February meetings abroad, when there will be confusion, compounded by a bad cold, and attempts to distort things he says in translation. Mr. Ford needs an interpreter he can trust!

He will prove a great Ambassador of Good Will all through 1974, doing things no other vice president has ever done before. His genius for diplomacy will be acclaimed during July, but at this time, too, he must be on guard against misinterpretation of his words in the press, stemming from language differences and problems in semantics; I get some office problems coming up.

Mr. Ford will suffer some financial losses this time, too, but after 1977 he will regain all he has lost during his years in the vice presidency. He will leave that office with distinction, thereby assuring him an enduring place in America's political Hall of Fame.

HENRY KISSINGER

One of the truly great men of our time has been a long time in arriving. Henry Kissinger's destiny has always been to rise high in government office.

From his career as a peacemaker in China, the Soviet Union and Southeast Asia, Mr. Kissinger will go on to further achievements for world peace in the Middle East. He will continue to be prominent and successful in world politics for some time to come.

There will be more plans for terrorist assassinations during the years ahead, and Mr. Kissinger will be one of the targets. He must be very careful during all his foreign travels, but especially during February when the danger will be greatest. He hardly needs to be warned!

In his investments - I see him becoming a millionaire in time, but he must be very careful in the stock market during the middle of 1977.

He will go on to marry again, but he must not rush into marriage. A long, thoughtful engagement period will lead to the happy union he has always desired. He will write a magnificent book about his life and times, and will go down in history as one of this century's great men, along with Adenauer, Eisenhower, Roosevelt, MacArthur and Winston Churchill.

LEON JAWORSKI

Mr. Jaworski is now performing like a star, but I do not believe that he will continue to have this great success very long. He will be under tremendous pressures to move against the President as he is forced into the great wave coming to climax in April.

It is during this month that I feel the vibrations of Mr. Nixon most strongly; he will survive both the impeachment ordeal and the pressures to resign.

Reaction to the impeachment wave will see the whole movement foundering. There will be a whole team of Moody morning quarterbacks telling him how to play the impeachment game. He will show that he is his own man and determined to handle it all in his own way.

He must be careful of his personal safety, too, as there will be plots to get him out of the way by fair means or foul; even his life will not be out of danger at times. As he disappoints his critics, they will turn against him until he is almost powerless to act.

Later in the year he will get so fed up with Watergate that he will want to wash his hands of the whole mess. However, he will go on until he is completely blocked by his critics; only then will he go on to other things.

I feel his tenure of office will be short; he will not remain to finish the job. But before he bows out he will rise to a position of eminence and his name will live in history.

A thousand questions will remain after the Watergate investigators have closed their files. As I reported previously, there are double agents behind the worst aspects of the misbegotten business. Two of them are still close to the White House and capable of further destructive manipulation of information and evidence.

Nine years ago, when I made my initial prediction of the wire-tapping scandal which grew into Watergate, I picked up vibrations of the sensitive matters then being planned by the double agents and the governments involved. I still pick them up: I see a spy ring operating in Washington, D.C. and, though its operations will be driven deeper underground in 1974, it will still be very active.

ENERGY CRISIS

By June 1974 the energy crisis will become so severe that we will feel desperate about the need for quick solutions. Travel and transportation will decline to their lowest ebb about April; the trend for more compact and efficient automobiles will become a torrent - especially for small, foreign cars.

There will be no quick solutions, although there will be temporary relief from time to time. It will be a long time before we make the changes in thought and planning that will make America energy sufficient again.

As we move on to the development of other sources of energy, the decline of the big oil companies will begin. They will pass on in time, like the ferries and the railroads, to a more modest and necessary place in American industry. America will spend $20 billion or more over the next five years to develop her own sources of energy.

Since 1965 I have been predicting an energy shortage. Earlier this year I warned that we were wrong in deferring the Alaska Pipe Line construction, since the engineering techniques to insure environmental safety are already available. I have warned that economic chaos will result if we do not adjust our energy needs to our resources. The crisis will have permanent effects upon our way of life.

I see new habits of living, working and recreation evolving; even our eating habits will begin to change. Beef and meats in general will play a lesser role and chemically grown foods will predominate on our menus. Farmers, incidentally, will have a great year in 1974. The "green revolution," despite its problems, will become fantastic.

I see satellite cities growing up with their own industrial complexes. Small investors will turn more and more to savings institutions leaving Wall Street stocks and bonds to the large investors. And - as I foresee things now - there will be more, and more government regulations in business and in every other phase of life.

Brain research will reveal something of the hidden mysteries of the human mind, the miracles embodied in its operation and something of its incredible potential. There will be phenomenal discoveries in psychic research and ESP.

Long distance transport will be mostly by air, and new forms of public conveyances, such as fast monorails, small, safe aerial cars and high speed trains will be developed. America will begin to appreciate more the excellence of Japanese and European mass transport systems. The automobile will remain our most common transportation vehicle, but the size and design of future cars will be radically altered.

Oil will no longer drive the vehicles of the future; it will be used for lubrication and the development of plastics, polyesters and such. The U.S. will become self-sufficient in its oil supply. I see what I can describe only as "little black boxes," which I call "the energy of the gods." They harness a new discovery that will harness enough energy to drive all the vehicles of the future.

The dollar will be enormously strengthened in international trade as our balance of payments reflects the self-sufficiency in oil production. The strengthening of the dollar will be a check on inflation.

CANCER

In the year 1978 the world will learn of a major breakthrough in cancer research that has been known but unacceptable in medical circles since its discovery in 1960. The cure for cancer will be acknowledged by the medical world after nearly ten long years of testing and deliberation. Collaboration between the U.S.S.R. and medical scientists from America will provide the answers which will end the long search.

NEWSPAPERS AND TELEVISION

During the next few decades I see serious problems for newspapers and television, both financial and otherwise. Advertising revenues will fall off, intensifying the problems in publishing and reporting that have already begun. I keep seeing the letters A.O.A. in my meditations. They stand I think, for airlines, oil and automobiles, or the whole automotive complex in our economy. Advertising revenues from these sources will decline.

Newspapers, magazines and television systems should immediately look for additional revenue so that they will not be weakened when lean years come. Those who develop new sources of revenue will survive and prosper; large corporations which lack such foresight will decline and pass from the scene.

TRAVEL

1974 will not be the best year for airplane travel. February and April are going to see accidents occasioned by weather conditions, defective vision and over-reliance on radar, electronic and mechanical equipment.

PEARL HARBOR

I predicted that President Nixon would be in a position to right many wrongs during his term in office. One of the great wrongs he will right is the fixing of responsibility for Pearl Harbor, hitherto unrevealed. The tarnished images of Admiral Husband Kimmel and General Walter Short and others in the tragedy will be restored to the heroic proportions they deserve.

LEONID BREZHNEV

Mr. Brezhnev will have his own little Watergate in Moscow. He is a moderate in world affairs - just as unpalatable to the extremists in Russia as Mr. Nixon is to the radicals in America. Mr. Brezhnev is being constantly spied on with every sort of electronic device by his enemies in the Politburo and is in great danger of assassination. He will not succumb to the assassins' plots if he is very, very careful.

He will meet with underhanded treachery from some subordinates in 1974; about April, due to the death of a prominent member of the Politburo or Central Committee, there will be a change in his official capacity.

Though I see some significant changes in his career during 1974, I see him also surviving and growing in stature. He will make a sudden and dramatic shake-up in his inner circle of advisers. After a decade of fruitful service to his country, Mr. Brezhnev will be succeeded by less moderate elements who will take a harsher line.

In October or November of 1974, Mr. Brezhnev will be effective in changing some long-range party plans. His own long-range plans will be phenomenally successful in the intermediate future. In 1975 Mr. Brezhnev will be catapulted into serious difficulties by the death of a high official which will bring many new men into power. Again, Leonid Brezhnev will survive and flourish.

He will be so successful that he will be accorded a memorial in Moscow (a building), but alas it may not be a lasting one. It will be the most popular attraction in Moscow for a time, as Mr. Brezhnev is a warm and deeply human man, with an irresistible appeal to the Russian heart.

He is of special interest to me because he seems much interested in psychic phenomena and has had many interesting psychic experiences in his own life.

I see his influence in Russia and world affairs enduring until 1978 or 1980, when the Soviet Union will have further boundary disputes with China, and one of Mr. Brezhnev's chief proteges will turn against him. This will bring about important changes in his life. I see his name enduring as an immortal one.

During 1974 Leonid Brezhnev will have some serious dealings with Vice President Ford. I see Gerald Ford going to Russia on a state visit late in 1974 in an effort to break the energy crisis, which will be much more serious by that time than it is now.

Oil deals with the Arabs will be discussed, as will boundary problems, coastlines and water rights - probably around the Mediterranean, Gulf of Aqaba and the Suez-Red Sea system.

PRIME MINISTER HEATH

The energy crisis will be felt more seriously in England during 1974. Prime Minister Heath will remain in power, but it will be a rough year. Labor troubles and unemployment will be followed by unprecedented charges of corruption in his party and in the English government.

Scandals will surface that will threaten to bring the Prime Minister down in a vote of no confidence. This will interfere with his negotiation of energy deals with the U.S., complicated by the foreign espionage activities of two people.

The trouble in Ireland will continue to be a tragic situation until 1978. During 1976 Prime Minister Heath must take special precautions against assassination, as a feverish fanaticism will be working against settlement of the religious problems. Further, there will be disputes about boundaries, fishing rights, and England will lose some of her territory, along with certain art treasures.

1975 will be an especially troublesome year for English money, following the scandals in government, and will see some changes in currency. I see Prime Minister Heath triumphing over all these adversities and going on to negotiate successfully with the U.S. and the U.S.S.R. for food and energy.

The Heath government will endure until 1976 and Prime Minister Heath will receive royal honors and achieve lasting benefits for England and the Common Market countries.

WILLY BRANDT

Under Willy Brandt I see Germany making its final break with the past, turning finally and irrevocably from its notions of empire and power politics to an all-out bid for leadership in the Common Market, which I see as the new Europe.

Gone are the old days of Balkan-style quarreling and cynical alliances; the Common Market is here to stay. There will be a long, slow climb to the new Europe of increasing cooperation and stability. Mr. Brandt will provide both the philosophy and the leadership.

Mr. Brandt will have very good relations with the United States during 1974 and there will be some realignments in European politics during 1975 and 1976. Mr. Brandt will suffer a decline in popularity during 1975 and have many difficulties at home. He will survive them in the following election, however, and be in office for quite some time to come. He will go on to fantastic recognition about the middle of 1978.

SENATOR PERCY

Because of the barbarous atmosphere in Washington, when the next election approaches, I believe Sen. Charles Percy will choose not to run. During May and June of '74 he will be in the limelight, taking many speaking engagements on college campuses and becoming a favorite of youth; but I believe that he will feel it is not worth the price to be candidate.

Sen. Percy will do very well financially until 1977 - after which I would urge him to hold tightly onto his investments, with no unnecessary changes. The year 1977 will mark a turn in his life; he will be highly successful and the originator of a law bearing his name. Sen. Percy will distinguish himself by being one senator who doesn't write a book!

SENATOR BAKER

Not so for another senator: Howard Baker will write more than one book with the aid of influential friends. There will be much foreign travel for him this year, especially during late July, for which he will receive favorable publicity.

He will become so well known that his name will become a household word. I see him being offered a high position in government during 1974, but he will respectfully decline.

He will become a presidential hopeful, but I do not see him becoming his party's nominee. As he rises in the barbarous Washington atmosphere, Sen. Baker will generate his own mind - Watergate, which will cause him some trouble.

He must be very careful of a woman who is an employee and seems to know everything that is going on - and a whole lot more. The senator must also prepare for an ordeal that is becoming common in the capital: his financial status will be subject to close scrutiny, with the usual innuendoes.

Sen. Baker is a hard-working man and must watch his blood pressure. Even though he will not be the presidential nominee in 1976, he has a brilliant future and will attain to high government office in 1977.

DAVID EISENHOWER

Headed for high office, too, and eventually a place of cabinet rank, is young David Eisenhower. He is a sensitive young man and will try to avoid the limelight for the time being; recognition will therefore be long in coming.

During 1974 he will be inclined to be a loner, seeking to prove himself over and over, to conquer a feeling of insecurity that comes naturally to him as the grandson of the great Dwight David Eisenhower, one of the dominant landmarks of our century.

This, however, will pass, and David will be very successful in his studies of law and international problems, which will prepare him for his real calling in government. He has the added advantage of a very retentive memory and will further groom himself unconsciously for the future by traveling abroad.

The coming year will be a trying one for both David and Julie, as they will be betrayed by a trusted employee who will write a book about their private affairs. These personal things will be the subject of much public scrutiny and embarrassment, but the young Eisenhowers will come through with flying colors.

During 1974 David will be misunderstood and misquoted, and during August he will be burdened with unforeseen expenses. He has deep intuition and psychic powers, and he will develop strong religious convictions as he grows into a happy family life.

ELIZABETH TAYLOR

I pick up vibrations of accidents around Elizabeth Taylor for the coming year, particularly during picture-making, and I urge her to be careful. She will need to get away from some people who are close to her, to retire into seclusion.

I pick up vibrations around her of planned robbery and extortion plots, along with the possibility of betrayal by friends divulging her personal affairs. She must also be careful of her health (pneumonia), of her loved ones (vacations are essential to happiness!) and telescopic lenses, which will be peering at her from a distance to take pictures that will come out as blackmail.

On the other hand, Elizabeth will experience a new lease on life about June of 74, rise to new social horizons in November of

Jewish ADL Counter Arab Propaganda

HOUSTON — Calling the problem of American energy needs "solvable" without Arab oil, the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith today made public a comprehensive analysis of the "energy crisis" and announced "a nationwide campaign to counter Arab propaganda."

The analysis, printed as a pamphlet, "Oil and U.S. Mideast Policy," points out that current Arab oil importation is approximately 11 percent of America's total oil needs and declares that "the U.S. should not, need not and must not submit to Arab oil blackmail aimed at forcing a reversal of American support for Israel." "Neither Israel nor U.S. policy toward the Middle Eastern nations has any relevance to the energy crisis," according to Ted H. Dinerstein, Houston chairman of the League. Making a distinction between "long foreseeable" American energy needs and Arab oil supplies, he said Arab linkage of the two is "a phony issue."

The introduction to the pamphlet, calls for reducing the growing energy demands of American industry and consumers to "what is available and practicable." Declaring that Americans "shall have to demonstrate ability to make small sacrifices of convenience for the greater national interest," he suggests "a combination of methods" for accomplishing U.S. self-sufficiency in energy:

—Increased use of automobiles which get at least 20 miles to the gallon instead of six or eight.
—Compelling public utilities and other big industrial consumers of energy to turn increasingly to the use of low sulphur coal instead of oil.
—Where only high sulphur coal is available, installing sulphur extraction processes now available to limit air pollution.
—Rescheduling airlines to eliminate duplication of flights.

—Increased public transportation.
—Crash programs for recovery of oil from the Continental Shelf, for the gasification of coal, for the extraction of oil from shale, for nuclear energy and for other potential sources of energy now only in experimental stage.
The ADL analysis charts U.S. oil imports and consumption since 1970, projects needed amounts through 1985, and spells out available and potential energy sources. It warns against giving up "the long term interests of American security" because of "fear in the face of an oil squeeze and Arab blackmail."

Quoting "leading experts" in government, science and industry, the League describes the American problem as one of "shortage in the midst of plenty." The agency's analysis says that although existing energy supplies "have been squandered at a far faster rate than necessary by national wastefulness and failure to conserve," American fuels are "far from exhausted."

It gives the following examples:
—U.S. geological Survey estimates placing the nation's total coal resources at 3.2 trillion tons, enough for many hundreds of years — of this resource base, 150 billion tons are presently recoverable.

WORRY CLINIC

Aaron wants the basic laws of advertising psychology. Note especially Items No. 3 and No. 7 below. Time yourself in reciting the alphabet in A-B-C order. Then try it in reverse, as Z-Y-X, etc. Advertisers often violate this, placing the solution BEFORE the need!

CASE Z-527: Aaron J., aged 20, is interested in advertising. "Dr. Crane," he asked, "since you taught courses at the university on 'Advertising Psychology,' what are some of the basic rules to keep in mind?" "For I help write advertising copy at an agency here in Chicago.

But to persuade, we must communicate in terms the potential customers can easily understand. So follow these salient laws of modern advertising psychology:

ADVERTISING PSYCHOLOGY

"Advertising" and "Selling" are the psychological Siamese Twins that undergird our superb "Free Enterprise" system.

They move the products of cloistered scientists from their laboratories and put them into average homes.

But churches and colleges, doctors and politicians also must rely on advertising, often cloaked under the genteel title of "Public Relations."

God thus deliberately employed an advertising gimmick to catch the attention of Biblical Moses.

That gimmick involved both "motion" and "color," for it consisted of a burning bush that never was consumed by the flames.

And the Serpent made the first "Sale" in human history when he sold Eve on the forbidden fruit tree in the Garden of Eden.

Elijah also used a superb type of advertising strategy when he challenged the 450 priests of Baal to a life-or-death test on the public square.

Elijah won, so he had the 450 pagan priests killed!

But Elisha failed to use the medical "Public Relations Strategy" that Generalissimo Naaman, head of the Syrian Army, had expected.

For Naaman, a leper, thought Elisha would employ dramatic medical hocus-pocus in curing his leprosy so he grew very angry at Elisha's curt "Brush-off!"

But Naaman's servant then persuaded Naaman to follow Elisha's simple prescription. And that is the crux of all good advertising and selling, namely, logical persuasion!

(1) Use short, simple words, usually of not over two syllables.
(2) Limit each statement to about 12 words, which is the length of the usual sentence in ordinary conversation.
(3) Striking openings of your printed copy will catch the eye, so invert sentence structure so you can begin with emotion-arousing participles, as: "Screaming in terror, she raced from the scene."
Contrast that sentence with the usual prosaic format, as: "She raced from the scene, screaming in terror."
(4) Color and movement enhance the eye appeal of TV ads, as well as TV commercials. Quote marks and Arabic numbers do likewise for printed copy!
(5) But avoid straining so hard for bizarre pictorial or TV effects that you subordinate the name of the product!
(6) Simple, logical explanation of your product's uses, is more valuable than undue stress on clever cartoons or bathing beauties.
Include cute kiddies and animals in your appeals to housewives.
(7) Since people habitually think forward instead of backwards, depict the prospect's problem first, then its solution via your product!
For proof, see if you don't recite the A-B-C's faster in that order than Z-Y-X, etc.
And for further advice, go to your library and read Chapters 7, 8 and 12 in my college textbook, "Psychology Applied."
Or send for my booklet "The New Psychology of Advertising and Selling," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus $5 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of The Worry Clinic, Hopkins Bldg., Mellett, Indiana 47882. Enclose a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of my booklets.)

Predictions

74, and a contract for a new movie — her greatest yet.

She will go on to make a fortune in royalties and commissions about 1978. During that year she will feel that her popularity is on the wane — only to begin a new film that will surpass all that she has ever done before. She will become interested in astrology and the occult, and become very knowledgeable.

SYDNEY POITIER

Like Elizabeth Taylor, Sidney Poitier has the greatest years of his life before him. Greater honors, recognition and fulfillment are just around the corner. Early in 1974 he will win a new contract, despite disputes over it. He must be especially careful in a love affair, which could end disastrously and cost him a fortune.

During 1975 he will work on the other side of the camera as a director or coach, but he will not like it and will return to the dramatic side of the lens.

Sidney will do a great deal of charity work as he reaches his zenith, raising funds for worthy causes, and the result will be euphoria for a time. He will develop a greater love of religion.

I would urge him to be careful of his investments. He may lose a large sum of money in motels and hotels during 1977 and 1978. About the same year, he will spend a good deal of time outside the U.S., and here I caution him on any ill-considered liaison. 1977 and 1978 will see drastic changes in Poitier's life, after which he will come back stronger than ever.

THE MILITARY

Although the U.S.S.R. has surpassed the U.S. in some military weapons, I feel a change in this trend in 1976, when America will begin to develop and produce the weapons of the future, based on laser beams and ray guns.

The Air Force and Navy will evolve into small, fast fighting craft in support of ground troops. New air and water craft will begin to come off the assembly lines in the next decade, using new methods of propulsion and aerodynamics.

During 1974 I see our opposing forces aiming a three-pronged attack. The Middle East, Southeast Asia, and South America. I see slim results for them in South America, moderate advances in the Middle East, and excellent successes for their plans in Southeast Asia. We will do little to halt them in any locale. The people of these areas will have to work on their own to halt the advances.

I see an easing of the Mideast war until sometime in 1975. Then I feel a terrible holy war which will rage intermittently for a decade.

A NEW FUTURE

Japan and Europe will have their economic difficulties in 1974, but I see the foundations for a great new future being laid.

The energy crisis will force us to curb some of our wasteful habits, conserve our precious resources, save lives on the highway and become re-acquainted with our communities. It will bring a new lease on life to our older inner cities.

I see a return to religion and renewed family life with the wane of the affluent touch with one another as their grandparents did. I see continuing inflation with a mildly slowed down economy until we make the adjustments to new energy concepts.

I see no great recession or depression in the immediate future.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — FBI Director Clarence Kelley told newsmen recently he wants to ban "no comment" as a response to press inquiries.

Kelley's blockbuster spread shock waves of consternation throughout federal information offices and prompted an emergency meeting of top government spokesmen.

"He's trying to take the words right out of our mouths," a Pentagon spokesman cried in alarm.

"This puts all of our jobs in jeopardy," lamented a Treasury spokesman.

"Kelley sure had me fooled," a State Department spokesman remarked bitterly. "I would never have suspected him of being a troublemaker."

Spokesman Soothers Group
A Justice Department spokesman sought to calm the group by pointing out that Kelley's new policy only applied to the FBI.

"If we sit tight and play it cool, maybe we can keep it from catching on in other departments and agencies," he said.

But an Atomic Energy Commission spokesman said the State Department spokesman was whistling in the dark.

"Once the press corps sees what it's like to elicit comment every time they ask a question they'll be demanding substantive responses from all of us," the AEC spokesman warned. A Central Intelligence Agency spokesman pointed out that in dropping "no comment" from the FBI lexicon Kelley did not promise that comment always would be forthcoming.

Kelley only said that when the bureau was not in a position to make statements or supply information, newsmen would be told why, the CIA spokesman noted.

"This was the straw the other spokesmen had been eager to grasp.

"All We Need..."
"All we need do is find another laconic utterance to replace 'no comment,' and we'll be home free," a Federal Reserve Board spokesman said with a sigh of relief.

The balance of the meeting was given over to consideration of "no comment" substitutes.

"I'm only thinking off the top of my head," said an Internal Revenue Service spokesman, "but how about responding to press queries with 'duhno'?"

"It makes you appear uninformed," objected a spokesman for the American Battle Monuments Commission.

"I have nothing to tell you at this time" was rejected as likely to encourage a follow-up query later. "I would not dignify that question with a reply" was deemed over-sensitive. And "wild horses couldn't drag that out of me" was vetoed as lacking the spirit of cooperation.

The Distribution Of Wealth

We were irritated at a television news report the other day in which Britain's current economic problems were discussed.

At one point in his report the "newman" commented that 10 per cent of the people in Britain own 50 per cent of the wealth, and said further that was a rather terrible situation.

We are not certain about his statistics, but we thought that such remarks are just the type that lead people to think there is something wrong with individuals being rich and therefore socialism is the way to go.

But hold on. How much more socialism can you have than what Britain "enjoys"?

If people are concerned about what they consider an imbalance in the distribution of wealth, it would seem to be a good idea to study the situation to determine, first, if it really is so terrible, and second, how best to change that distribution if it is so bad.

A major point in such an examination is to determine what we mean by wealth. Tangible property, of course, is a measure of wealth. But to have an meaningful value, tangible property must serve a useful purpose.

Those who own such things as factories, insurance companies, banks and the like, certainly would measure their wealth in larger amounts than would those who are employed by the owners. And a key factor in their wealth is that they have the means with which to provide a measure of wealth not only to their workers but to their fellow countrymen.

If the idea is to distribute the wealth, what better means could be employed than the free enterprise approach which permits companies to grow and prosper through the combined efforts of expertise in management and employment of efficient labor?

Now there is nothing really complicated in all that, but the big hangup seems to occur because of the objection to some human beings becoming more wealthy than others. This idea brought about the socialism programs which supposedly make a more acceptable distribution.

What supporters of socialism fail to grasp is that some people are just not equal to others in their ability to manage their finances and more important, in their desire to become affluent. Some are incapable of thinking along the lines that would develop a good product or service that would have a market value, and some who might be would simply rather not bother with it.

We are in agreement that political law should hold all men equal, but nature's law obviously holds that all men are unequal.

The greatest imbalance in the distribution of wealth occurred when the force of political government was used to create unequal status. Exclusive license and franchise prohibited those not so favored from entering into the same field. Those with the least share of the wealth had limited opportunity to improve their economic status.

But free enterprise gave the opportunity to all to achieve the level of economic affluence and happiness he was able to achieve or desired to achieve. This doesn't mean that all that free enterprise will make millionaires of us all. Some will succeed and others will fail depending upon the vast number of variables which govern economics.

One thing is certain: it is the system which most peacefully distributes the greatest amount of wealth to the greatest number of human beings. The degree to which free enterprise is permitted to operate determines the amount of wealth to be mostly widely distributed.

Did not the free enterprise idea of early American permit some men to amass huge fortunes? Indeed it did.

Did not the free enterprise system permit many people to remain poor and destitute? Indeed it did.

But when asked those two questions about the socialistic system, is the answer not the same? Indeed it is.

Thus, if we are to have the very wealthy and the very poor under both systems, is it not better to have a system that provides more to the most people? Indeed it is.

ALL THAT GLITTERS

Senator Fulbright Changes His Tune On One-Man Power

By VIGGOLD

WASHINGTON — J. William Fulbright of Arkansas announced his candidacy for reelection to the United States Senate last week, but what I want to know is, has he ever apologized to John Bricker?

Knowing J. William, I wouldn't think so — though he owes old John, his former Senate colleague from Ohio, an apology of sorts. Indeed, it would be appropriate come Feb. 2 if Sen. Fulbright, as chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, took the floor to lead his like-minded colleagues in an hour of tribute to a man they once ridiculed as an isolationist buffoon who simply didn't understand the "complexities" of 20th century globalism.

Why Feb. 2? Because that would be the 20th anniversary of the day J. William rose in the Senate to condemn the Bricker Amendment as "an attempt to escape the world."

Now, for members of the Pepsi generation who think Sen. Fulbright always talked the way he now talks; it's necessary to explain that the Bricker Amendment in its day was considered by all enlightened liberal international thinkers as the most dangerous threat to the Constitution ever conceived.

What would the amendment have done? In brief, it would have placed a constitutional limitation on the President's treaty-making power by increasing Congress's authority in that area. It was Sen. Bricker's contention, you see, that the growth of presidential power in the field of foreign policy was itself a threat to our system.

This was scoffed at by sophisticated internationalists like J. William because — well, let's hear what the Senator from Arkansas had to say on the subject that day two decades ago:

"It is an attempt to escape the world... Political scientists call this tendency to withdraw from the struggle and pretend it does not concern us 'isolationism.' The psychologists tell us that it is a very natural yearning of a deeply troubled adult to return to the peace and quiet of prenatal security."

So much for John Bricker's motives. And what did J. William have to say about the thrust of the Bricker Amendment itself?

Why, said the Sage of Fayetteville, the Constitution charges the President with the duty of conducting foreign relations. It "makes him the leading actor, not a spectator and a mere witness... It was never intended by the founding fathers that the President of the United States should be a ventriloquist dummy sitting on the lap of Congress."

Ah, but that was back in the days when J. William still had aspirations to serve as Secretary of State under some Chief Executive — a hope since crushed several times over.

A great deal else has changed in the past 20 years, too. John Bricker is no longer representing the people of Ohio in Washington, having been voted out of office — one of those liberal sweeps which ultimately converted the Senate into a one-party rubber stamp for strong-minded Democratic Presidents.

But for that matter, neither is the internationalist J. William Fulbright who made that 1954 speech still a member of the Senate. There's a new J. William Fulbright representing the people of Arkansas these days — a man who no longer believes in an all-powerful President governing foreign affairs. Again, let's hear from the Senator himself, in that book he wrote not long ago, "The Crippled Giant":

"Only if one subscribes to the cult of the 'strong' Presidency which mesmerized American political science in the '50s and early '60s can one look with complacency on the growth of Presidential dictatorship in foreign affairs... Now, after bitter experience, we are having to learn all over again what those pre-Freudian students of human nature who framed the American Constitution understood well: that no single man or institution can ever be counted upon as a reliable or predictable repository of wisdom and benevolence."

President Nixon Is Breaking With Old White House Crowd

By VICTOR RIESEL

WASHINGTON — Time has come to watch a tall, husky, blue-eyed, slightly graying cigar-smoking chap, Bill Usery who, these latter days, has become Richard Nixon's fair-haired special adviser.

Genial, Georgia-born Usery, former union business agent, it seems to insiders, is the clue to the bottom line in the world's most sensational script — the President's saga with its inherent question of resignation.

Bill Usery, who now will handle all conceivable labor problems in every sector of the nation, obviously is betting on the President's remaining in office until 1977. Betting inside high AFL-CIO circles is odds-on for a Nixon resignation by summer.

Bill Usery has his choice. Labor Chief George Meany had offered him what should be described as the general managership of the giant labor federation which definitely would have meant organizing in the Congress and in every state and major city for the President's impeachment.

Or, Usery could work for the White House as the government's highest labor relations executive in a new post. Usery, after agreeing to join the AFL-CIO top-side echelon, changed his mind.

Usery, therefore, had the President's personal word, undoubtedly through their mutual confidant, Treasury Secretary George Shultz, first and then from Mr. Nixon, that there would be no resignation.

Bill Usery is comparatively unknown to the general public though he is director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service. But he's "unknown" not for long.

He swims in troubled waters like a dolphin — with extrasensory perception, one of his friends said recently. He "is uncanny and moves with what has proved to be unerring and errorless instinct."

Among insiders Usery has a fantastic reputation — having been one of Jack Kennedy's and Lyndon Johnson's missile site construction troubleshooters, and now Dick Nixon's. He's not political. And he thought with distaste of a labor campaign to drive Dick Nixon into resignation or impeachment.

But having just turned 50, Bill Usery was not about to commit professional suicide. There would have been no point in recently accepting one of the most unique "special assistant to the President" assignments if the President were to leave the White House in three months or a year. So, in addition to quitting his love for labor troubleshooting, Usery, it is reported, was informed flatly there would be no resignation — Nixon would "tough it out."

There is further significance in Usery's appointment. Since he will report directly to the President, he now outflanks and outranks Labor Secretary Pete Brennan officially, and Chuck Colson, former "grandma-slopping" White House enfant terrible, unofficially. Colson, who was, among other assignments, Dick Nixon's intimate account executive in charge of labor, was Brennan's "angel."

Dick Nixon's by-passing Brennan is being interpreted as the beginning of a break with Chuck Colson and most of what developed between them.

The choice of Usery at this pre-volcanic moment is no Nixon whim, no effort to outmaneuver cigar-chomping Meany with cigar-smoking Usery.

This nation is on the eve of an economic make-or-break year — and it will be made or broken on the labor front as Britain is now.

Note that over 10 million unionists' contracts are up for renewal or wage reopeners in 1974. Involved are the giants — Teamsters, airlines, railroads, dockers, steel and, especially, the coal diggers.

Included are the unions which produce, transport and "disperse" all energy fuels and power.

President Nixon and his "assistant president" George Shultz expect cliff-hanging strike negotiations over high wage demands. Now they expect Bill Usery to prevent labor chaos.

And in every cranny — be it the public sector, meaning federal, state and local governments, meaning everyone from Defense Dept. mechanics to municipal garbage collectors, or all of private industry. And all freight and civilian transportation on land, sea and air. This absorbs the work of the little-known National Mediation Board.

Never has any one man had such overall jurisdiction — the Board, the Federal Mediation Service, the whole labor dislocation caused by the energy crunch, special adviser to the President, etc.

One of his first conferences, for example, will be with energy czar Bill Simon, Cost of Living Council director John Dunlop, and United Mine Workers president Arnold Miller. The national coal contract is up this year. Wildcat strikes have been slowing critical coal digging. Bill Usery believes the meeting can bring peace to the coal fields desperately needed now. Then will come other conferences in other industries.

For Dick Nixon and this nation there's considerable significance riding on big Bill Usery's husky shoulders.

Crime Is On Increase Everywhere But Japan

By PAUL HARVEY

Crime is increasing worldwide. Not in Japan, however.

Tokyo has the least crime of any major city. Crimes of violence, which keep terrified Americans off the streets and hiding behind shuttered windows, are not "tolerated" in Japan.

During the past 10 years, the crime rate in New York City increased 300 per cent; in West Berlin 200 per cent; in London 160 per cent. During those same years, crime in Tokyo declined 10 per cent.

The Wall Street Journal saw those figures and designated Ed McDowell to go to Japan and seek their secret. It's no secret. Japan simply doesn't "tolerate" crime.

Despite overcrowding, inadequate housing and sanitation, dimly lighted streets and alleys — all the factors we blame for big-city crime — Tokyo is the safest big city in the world.

Last year there were some 2,900 murders in New York; there were 200 in Tokyo.

New York had almost 100,000 robberies; Tokyo 435.

New York suffered 3,000 rapes; Tokyo 465.

And Tokyo is bigger! Tokyo is a third larger than New York City!

Whereas many crimes go unreported in the United States and so don't count in the statistics, every crime is reported in Japan and most are punished.

Researching the reasons for Japan's conspicuously good behavior, reporter McDowell kept coming back to the tradition of "family closeness."

Japanese children are most always home for dinner, acutely anxious about how their behavior may reflect on their "family." Despite Western influences, there remains much filial piety in modern Japan.

Legal Aid For The Poor Bill Being Maneuvered

By ROBERTS ALLEN

WASHINGTON — Ominous tip-off on the likely militant New Left nature of the impending session of Congress is a backstage scheme to speedily ram through legislation setting up a far-reaching so-called "legal aid for the poor" program.

To be financed initially with $71.5 million in federal funds, this hefty ante would be raised to $100 million next year.

In addition, the hundreds of activist local legal services that would be created throughout the country would have virtually unlimited access to the facilities and equipment of the General Services Administration — such as automobiles, business machines, office supplies, etc. — at a cost of more millions to taxpayers.

Extraordinary feature of this affair is that legal services probably has the worst scandal-smear record in the federal government — second only to the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO), which administers the malodorous and bedraggled so-called "anti-poverty program" that has cost taxpayers around $20 billion in the nine years of its tawdry existence.

Yet despite legal services' nauseous record, liberal militants of both parties have strenuously maneuvered and pressured for several years to make it a permanent independent federal operation.

They set the stage for another blitz drive to do that in the hectic closing hours of last year's session.

With the powerful connivance of Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, Mont., they succeeded in making an extremist legal services bill the Senate's pending business on Jan. 28. By that time, they hope to have mustered sufficient bipartisan backing to impose cloture and thus force an early vote.

Sponsors of this far-out measure are two of the Senate's foremost activists — Republican Jacob Javits, N.Y., and Democrat Gaylord Nelson, Wis.

Both are up for election this year, and both are running "high, wide and handsome." They are either sponsoring or loudly supporting just about every reform or leftist cause on the horizon.

Anything Goes
The liberals' furious efforts to pile-drive a legal services measure through Congress strikingly resemble the malodorous record of the legal services program.

The self-righteous and lofty-burbling do-gooders have repeatedly flouted and disregarded proper and specified parliamentary procedure and practices, and baldly pursued a crass "anything goes" policy to get their way.

Example: A liberal-packed House Education and Labor subcommittee, wholly without holding public hearings, rushed through in three days a bill establishing a "National Legal Services Corporation" for the unctuously proclaimed purpose of providing "legal services to the poor" — with a price tag to taxpayers of $71.5, as a starter.

Then with the unabashed collusion of House Democratic leaders, this drastic measure was steamrollered through that chamber — despite vehement protests and opposition by both Democrats and Republicans.

Rep. Earl Landgrebe, R-Ind., Education and Labor committee man, bluntly characterized the bill as "leftist activism," and charged, "Its primary purpose is to promote leftist causes and movements, and not to serve the poor."

Landgrebe's scathing accusation went unchallenged and unanswered.

More Pious Two-Timing
This shocking parliamentary skulduggery continued in the Senate.

There, instead of the House-passed bill being referred to the Judiciary Committee which has jurisdiction over legal legislation, it was "ordered held at the desk of the Senate" — a shabby procedural maneuver to bypass the requirement that the measure be sent to the Judiciary Committee.

With the legislation thus in effect pigeonholed on the "desk of the Senate," the liberal militants then got busy in the Labor and Public Welfare Committee which they completely dominate.

Members of this rigged panel include — Nelson, Javits, Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., Walter Mondale, D-Minn., William Hathaway, D-Mo., Thomas Eagleton, D-Mo., Harold Hughes, D-Iowa, Alan Cranston, D-Calif., Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., Richard Schweiker, R-Pa., Robert Taft, R-O., J. Glenn Beall, R-Md. — whose brother, U.S. Attorney in Maryland, prosecuted former Vice President Agnew.

To no one's surprise, within a few days and without hearings or anything else, the activist cabal produced a new (so-called "clean") bill and had it made the order of business before the Senate.

The stage seemed all set for a repetition of what happened in the House — blitz enactment of the New Left measure.

That neat scheme was effectively scuttled by a small bipartisan group of determined opponents — headed by Sens. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., James Allen, D-Ala., Strom Thurmond, R-S.C.

They launched a series of vehement verbal attacks on the measure and scandal-blackened legal services record, and stopped the New Left drive dead in its tracks.

Buddy Williams Resigns Coaching Position

It Sims To Me...

By PAUL SIMS
Sports Editor

"Coach Williams asked for the announcement of his leaving not to be released until Wednesday because the school board in Nacogdoches did not meet in open session and did not officially hire him until Tuesday (night)," said Pampa athletic director Ed Lehnick.

*****

Buddy Williams, Pampa head football coach for two years and a part of the Harvester athletic program for six years, has resigned and has accepted a similar position at Nacogdoches High School.

The Nacogdoches school board accepted Williams' application in a short meeting Tuesday night while the Pampa board accepted his resignation in an open meeting Monday evening.

Williams replaces Gordon Brown as head football coach and athletic director. Brown, having coached since he was 21 (now he is 43), resigned his athletic posts to become personnel director, which is equivalent to assistant superintendent of schools.

"I enjoyed coaching and being athletic director. But I'm only a supporter now," said Brown, the man who officially recommended Williams to the school board. Brown, in his last two years as head coach, had teams finish 3-7 and 6-4.

Nacogdoches, in its third year as AAAA school, has had 19 winning seasons in 20 years.

Williams has been a subject of controversy in recent months, due to the Harvesters' 2-9 season in 1973.

"In the coaching business it makes no difference what your record is, you're going to get criticized. That's part of the business and most coaches disregard criticism because they could not stay in the business if it bothered them," said Williams, who replaced Robert "Suede" Lee as Pampa coach and finished 5-5 in his first season (1972).

"Pampa is characteristic of a football town that hasn't been overly successful over a period of 20 to 25 years. It's enjoyed only a brief period of success. Pampa needs to understand that there's always going to be thick and thin and in the thin years, it needs to show the greatest support," said Williams.

What about the people who were critical and spoke out? "I feel those people didn't know me and my coaching staff and they didn't have any idea about the problems we faced, some of which were insurmountable. And those people don't understand that a high school athletic program is run for the student athlete and not the fan. And any coach who is a 'man' is not going to crucify a youngster for the sake of the fan."

Any regrets about leaving? "No, sir. I wish circumstances had permitted me to stay here because Pampa is going to have an outstanding football family in 1974."

Williams indicated the main reasons he accepted the Nacogdoches job are an advancement in position and a considerable increase in salary.

***

Williams added, "Nacogdoches is a very prosperous town. I was told it's the fastest growing town in East Texas." There are 25-26,000 people in Nacogdoches and five banks, three of which are less than three years old.

Williams will run the Washburn offense, if his players are physically suited for it, and a 5-2 defense.

"They have five starters back defensively and one is a 6-3, 215-pound linebacker. Offensively, I'm not sure how many are back, but one is a 6-4, 210-pound tight end."

Were there any doubts about ability? "The school board questioned me about my 2-9 record of last year and I went into a two-hour dissertation about each ball game." Williams then became the top contender for the job (that happened a couple of weeks ago), exemplifying his ability despite the record.

"I have no criticism about the people (in Pampa) contrary to what many people might believe. I have suffered no adversity in Pampa. The only thing I don't like about Pampa is its location, the fact it's in a sparsely populated area."

"I am very thankful for the opportunity I have had here."

OVER TCU

'Horns Set Record In Conference Win

The Texas Longhorns came out of hibernation Tuesday night and the Southern Methodist Mustangs, possibly without the services of star Sammy Hervey for the rest of the season, may have begun a long winter's nap of their own.

Texas, which had won only one of its first 11 games, started its Southwest Conference campaign with a 104-53 victory over Texas Christian in Austin.

The Longhorns most one-sided league victory in history.

Texas A&M, meanwhile, brushed by Southern Methodist, 95-70. Hervey did not accompany his SMU teammates to College Station amid reports he was attempting to make up classwork so that he would be eligible for play during the second semester.

Hervey was eligible to play against the Aggies Tuesday night, but a source said the only chance Hervey had of completing the work that would keep him eligible was to stay in Dallas.

In the other conference outing, Steve Dallas hit two free throws with four seconds left to give Baylor a 93-91 decision over Rice in Waco.

Texas, Texas A&M and Baylor thus tied Texas Tech — which had defeated Arkansas on Saturday — at the top of the conference race after one game.

Next Saturday Texas A&M will be at TCU, Arkansas at Rice, Baylor at Texas Tech and Texas at SMU.

"Before the game I told our players what we had been talking about for a long time," said Texas coach Leon Black. "I told them that we were 0-0. We had played the kind of competition that should allow us to play with anybody in the league."

Obviously from TCU's standpoint, it is difficult to get people ready to play a team that has won just one game. Whatever we have been as a team. We have not lost because of one man, and we did not win because of one man."

Texas hit 56 per cent of its shots while TCU could manage only 27.6 per cent.

Pampa Decisions Plainsmen, 55-53

LUBBOCK — Howie Lewis took a full-court pass from Billy Wilbon and put in a layup at the buzzer in the third quarter to give Pampa the lead for the first time in the game and the Harvesters went on to tip the Lubbock Monterey Plainsmen, 55-53 Tuesday night here.

The Harvesters are now 16-5 for the season and open 3-AAAA play against Amarillo Caprock at 7:30 p.m. Friday in Harvester Fieldhouse. Monterey dropped to 13-8 and will host Hereford in both teams' 4-AAAA opener.

After Lewis' layup, Pampa due to its full-court press which it didn't use until the third quarter, pulled out to a 53-47 lead. The Plainsmen chipped away at that margin and pulled to within two (55-53) with only seconds left. Steve Thornell put up a shot with three seconds left from the right baseline but it was off and Pampa rebounded as time ran out.

Monterey trailed 16-13 at the end of the first quarter, and 26-25 at the half before leading 41-40 at the close of the third.

High for Pampa were Randy Warner, Ray Powell and Lewis, all with 12 J.C. Eakin scored 24 for Monterey, followed by Dick Clardy and Thornell with 10 each.

"We play well, it was a good ball game. Monterey had a nine-point lead in the first quarter and after that it was a close ball game, a spectator's ball game," said Pampa coach Robert McPherson.

Pampa's Shokers will take on the Caprock Shorthorns at 6 p.m. prior to the varsity game Friday. Monterey belted the B-team, 62-42 Tuesday night.

Tucson Gets Underway Thursday, Miller Picked

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — Johnny Miller, who has won both outings of the Professional Golf Association tour this year, will be trying to make it three in a row Thursday as the $150,000 Dean Martin Tucson Open gets under way.

The 26-year-old Miller is fresh from victories in the Phoenix and Bing Crosby opens "I've played in Tucson every year I've been a pro and never do any good there," he said. "But this year I'm going good."

Miller is considered the man to beat and last year's defending champion, Australian Bruce Crampton, will be one of the pros trying to do just that.

The tourney is being played on the 7,200-yard, par 72 Tucson National Golf Course — noted for "the monster" 18th hole which sports lakes on both sides and a prevailing wind.

National pro, Bob Klewin, said wind will be a major factor. "If there is any more than a slight breeze, it can change the course completely," he said.

Other top pros in the field vying for the $30,000 top prize money include sentimental favorite Lee Trevino, Lanny Wadkins, in second place in earnings this year, Billy Casper, Miller Barber, George Archer and young Ben Crenshaw. Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer are passing up the event.

Inclement weather, which plagued the Crosby Open, is not in the cards for the Tucson Open.

Lefors Girls Down Allison

ALLISON — Lefors girls' basketball team, behind Pam James with 23 points and Carol Vincent with 22, downed Allison, 63-48, in a 3-B contest Tuesday here.

Allison downed Lefors in boys' action, 62-56. Mike Crane scored 17, followed by Dwight Keith with 14 and Carl Cady with 12 for Lefors. Both Lefors teams are 3-1 in 3-B action and will host Briscoe Friday.

Sends Letter To Lehnick

Mr. Ed Lehnick
111 E. Harvester
Pampa, Texas 79065

Dear Ed:

This statement is to make official my resignation as the Head Football Coach of Pampa High School effective January 16, 1974.

May I extend to you a warm personal thanks for a very unique friendship spanning a period of some six years. Moreover, may I take a brief moment to reminisce and point out that you and I are the only people left from a coaching staff which I became a member of on August 7, 1968.

It was with great pride and determination that I assumed my duties on that cold rainy day and it is with great pride and determination that I relinquish my duties. Realizing that the acceptance of this statement will leave you as the last member of that original group. I challenge you to continue to uphold that unwritten bond of which only those original ones are aware. I have every confidence that you can and will meet that challenge.

The decision to leave Pampa was not an easy one because of my family, my coaching staff and players. However, the opportunity for me is too great to refuse. It is the obligation of you, the Administration, the Board of Education, and the City of Pampa to rally around the 1974 Football Family because this will be an outstanding group.

May I take this last opportunity to thank Pampa for a very rewarding six years.

Sincerely,
Buddy Williams

Walton Ready For Notre Dame As Powers To Grapple Saturday

By United Press International
Notre Dame stopped UCLA's streak at 41 four years ago and Saturday afternoon the second-ranked Irish will be out to halt the Bruins' record 88 game streak, assuming Iowa falls to John Wooden's warriors Thursday.

Bill Walton's bruised back is improved and he is ready for Notre Dame. Wearing a corset and performing at near maximum efficiency, he joined the Bruins for a 90-minute workout.

"He's much better than I hoped for," said Wooden, who leaves with his club today for a two-game invasion of the Midwest, including the national TV game at No. 2-rated Notre Dame.

An Irish tuneup against Georgetown Tuesday night was a rout from the beginning, as John Shumate and Adrian Dantley sparked a 17-4 burst at the start and led their undefeated team to its ninth victory of the year with a 104-77 triumph.

Shumate finished the game with 26 points, although he only played 26 minutes, and Dantley scored 22 points while playing 22 minutes. Georgetown, which was forced into 32 turnovers by the tight Notre Dame man-to-man defense, was led by 6-foot-9 Bill Lynn, with 20 points, and 6-foot-7 Larry Long, with 15 points. Georgetown dropped to 4-5 with the loss.

In other action Tuesday night, sixth-ranked Marquette whipped Butler, 73-54. Oregon handed Hawaii only its second loss in 14 starts, 86-62. Drake downed Arkansas State, 89-

69. Kansas beat Iowa State, 73-

69. Boston University edged Harvard, 92-90, and Boston College defeated Northeastern, 65-59, in the first round of the Beanpot Classic. Baylor clipped Rice, 93-91. Oral Roberts walloped Nebraska-Omaha, 111-79. Texas drubbed TCU, 104-53. Air Force beat Wyoming, 64-56, and Colorado State beat Denver, 71-65.

The Marquette Warriors ran off 12 consecutive points at the end of the first half and went on to an easy victory over Butler. The Warriors held a comfortable 27-18 lead with just over four minutes left in the first half but then exploded to score the next 12 points and took a commanding 39-18 lead into the locker room.

Maurice Lucas led Marquette with 18 points and Lloyd Walton added 11. Wayne Burris was high for Butler with 16 points.

Lanier Wins MVP As West Belts East

SEATTLE (UPI) — Big Bob Lanier of Detroit carried the Most Valuable Player award into the West dressing room following his team's 134-123 triumph over the East in the 24th NBA All-Star game Tuesday night.

"I want all you guys to take a good look at this, since you helped me earn it," grinned the 6-11 Lanier, who popped a game high of 24 points before a record crowd of 14,360 at the Seattle Coliseum.

Both coaches, the West's Larry Costello of Milwaukee, and the East's Tom Heinsohn of Boston agreed it was one of the best All-Star games seen in many years and both described it as "one hell of a game."

It didn't start out that way, however.

The starting West five, anchored by Milwaukee's 7-2 Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, ran up a quick 6-0 lead and stretched that to 39-29 at the end of the first quarter.

Portland's Sidney Wicks with 11 points and Lanier and Seattle's Spencer Haywood with 10 each helped build the West's lead to 66-47 at the end of the first half.

The East then mounted its first serious threat racking up the first 14 points of the second half with Boston's Jo Jo White and Dave Cowens leading the way.

The West weathered that threat and pulled out to a 101-85 lead at the end of three.

The East refused to fold, however. A jump shot by New York's Dave DeBusschere with 3:46 left narrowed the West margin to 120-115.

That tilted to 120-117 when Elvin Hayes of the Capital Bullets dropped in a pair of free throws.

Jabbar hit a right-handed hook and Gail Goodrich of the Los Angeles Lakers scored on a layup with 2:31 for a 124-117 West edge. Portland's Geoff Petrie added a pair of jumpers and Jabbar hit a 12-footer with just seconds left as the West closed it out.

Hometown hero Spencer Haywood added 23 for the West, Goodrich 18, Wicks 16 and Abdul-Jabbar 14. DeBusschere led the losers with 16 while Atlanta's Pete Maravich tossed in 15 and White 13.

It was the West's ninth win against 15 East triumphs.

Arnsparger To Become Giant Coach

NEW YORK (UPI) — The worst kept secret in football becomes reality today when Bill Arnsparger gives up his assistant with the world champion Miami Dolphins to accept officially the hazardous job as head coach of the New York Giants.

Although Arnsparger hedged all last week when asked in Houston prior to the Super Bowl if he would be the new Giant coach, he did let out that he would be in New York today, the same day the Giants said they would hold a news conference.

Then, after the Dolphins had crushed Minnesota in the Super Bowl Sunday, Head Coach Don Shula ended whatever doubt still existed when he said that his long-time assistant was going to New York.

Arnsparger, 47, will replace Alex Webster, who announced his resignation one week before the Giants completed a miserable 2-11-1 record. The season was particularly bitter for the Giants since they turned in a 6-0 record in exhibition play and everyone connected with the club thought they had a championship contender.

Arnsparger reportedly was paid better than $50,000 a year at Miami, which would make him the highest paid assistant coach in football. Just one year ago he turned down the head coaching job with the Baltimore Colts, and it is apparent that the Giants are giving him a good deal.

The news conference to announce his appointment is scheduled for 3:30 p.m. EDT.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH Plucking Eyelashes Not Good

By G.C. THOSTESON, M.D.
Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a terrible problem which I cannot break. I pluck my eyelashes. I am embarrassed to show my eyes. I don't enjoy doing it any more and when they start to grow out I get excited. But I just pull them out again.
People have asked my why I do. I don't have any reason. Is my habit dangerous? Is it normal? I don't have any left.
—M.W.

Pulling out your eyelashes is not "normal." Of course, but it is a habit that a certain number of people have. The one answer we have to the cause that that it is a nervous reaction of anxious individuals who have some sort of emotional problem.

You are lucky that your lashes have been regrowing. Sometimes they don't. And in the best of circumstances, they grow slowly.

The most immediate risk of pulling out eyelashes is infection in the lash follicles — and infection around the eyes is especially to be avoided.

A secondary aspect is that the eyelashes are there for a purpose, to protect the eyes, why destroy that protection?

Finally, repeated plucking may eliminate new growth, at which point you are stuck with that lashed look.

To stop the habit, try to analyze the nervous pressures that exist when you do it. You, your parents or your doctor should try to find a key to that.

If it is boredom — keep busy. If it is a school or family situation, go at the problem head-on and find the solution. Because, obviously, pulling out your eyelashes is no solution to whatever the underlying tension may be.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: We've been married 25 years and my husband has always taken two or three highballs before dinner. The last five years or so he has been drinking his bourbon or scotch on the rocks. Never more than three drinks, but each drink a double shot.

He always prided himself on being able to hold his liquor, and this has been true until recently. The last six months or so after the first drink his speech begins to slur, he can hardly walk straight, and by the time he has had his third drink he becomes almost incoherent, very belligerent and absolutely abominable.

If I tell him to stop drinking or that he's drunk, he says he's not drinking any more than usual, and this is true. Does something happen to a man as he gets older that he can't hold his liquor as well as when he was younger? He is 49.

Yes, people can lose their tolerance for alcohol.

There may be brain damage, or he may just have lost the will to fight off the effects of the liquor, but either way he just can't tolerate the same amount any longer.

Six shots before dinner for 25 years is a tremendous amount of alcohol. In view of what is happening to him, I would say he had reached (and passed) the point at which he ought to quit entirely.

However, I have never had any success in persuading such people until they further damaged themselves to the point at which they no longer could contend that they aren't alcoholics.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: When a woman is approaching menopause, could her periods be different that they normally were? Mine remain regular but I have had two that dragged out for two weeks. The first was heavy, the other wasn't. I am 47.

—Mrs. R.B.

All sorts of irregularities are not only possible but likely as menopause approaches — missed periods, alternatively light and heavy ones, and so on.

For a comprehensive discussion of how to cope with the change of life, including scores of pertinent questions and their answers, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of Publishers Hall Syndicate, 401 N. Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill. 60611, for his booklet, "Make Menopause Easier," enclosing 35 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed (use zip code), envelope to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT Jack's A Legend—With IRS

By EARL WILSON
NEW YORK — "You're a legend in your own time," Jack Benny's manager, Irving Fine, remarked, and Jack replied, "I'm lucky if I'm a legend at this table." Somebody said, "You're a legend with the Internal Revenue Service."

Jack grinned. He's been getting needed about the IRS saying the papers he gave to UCLA entitled him to $28,000 deduction and not $154,000 as his lawyers claimed. Every time he opens his mouth to promote "Jack Benny's SECOND Farewell Special," on Jan. 24, somebody mentions "income tax."

"Listen," said Jack, lurching at the Sherry. "If people read this the right way, they see I paid a half million federal tax and $100,000 state tax over two years... over $600,000. That's not so bad, is it? In those papers we had stuff even before I went into radio. My whole theatrical life is at UCLA; I have to go there myself to find how old I am."

Jack, who'll be 80 Valentine's Day, feels bad that the IRS thinks his life story's only worth $28,000. "They also said they weren't sure the material was mine to give away. Anything in my office is my material, including my secretary."

He's now considering his "Second Comeback TV Special" after the next one with George Burns, Redd Foxx, Johnny Carson, Dinah Shore and the DeFranco Family.

DEAR ASTRID
By ASTRID CARSON

Dear Astrid:

Last summer my father died and I took it very hard. He and my mother were divorced and I have a stepfather. Ever since my father died, he and I get into arguments. We never used to and I liked him very much. He doesn't act any different to me now, but I don't feel the same way I felt about him before. My brother gets along with him very well, but he and I always seem to be fighting. Can you help?

Upset

Dear Upset:

From the way you describe the situation it would seem to date from the time your father died. It must have shocked you a great deal and as a result your relationship with your stepfather was changed. The change seems to be on your part, but he may lack the understanding to realize that you are having trouble.

It may be a good idea to sit down with him and talk it out fully so that you will be better able to understand yourself and he may better understand you. If you need the help of your mother in this, don't be afraid to ask for it. It's a family situation that can be handled and with both of you trying you may be able to repair the damage that has been done between you.

Moody

Dear Moody:

The important consideration is not what your girlfriend did before she met you. What is vital is what you feel about her and how she feels about you. I'm sure there are some things in your past that could very well upset her if that is typical of her reactions.

You have to decide for yourself whether you really love her as she is and whether your relationship is all both of you want it to be. If you decide that, you will have to deal with the past like an adult. If you decide you can't do that, you're not ready for her now.

come when your sister will realize she's missing a part of her life and you'll be get closer to each other again.

Dear Astrid:

I'm in love with a girl who used to go steady with another boy. From all I've heard I think they went all the way when they were going together. It bothers me to think about it and sometimes I feel I want to call the whole thing off. I've tried not to think about it, but it doesn't help and I get moody. Should I give her up or what should I do?

Policies Caused Fuel Shortages, Geologist Says

SAN ANTONIO (UPI)—Government policies stifling explorations for new oil fields brought on the fuel shortage, a petroleum geologist said, and reversal of the trend can solve the energy crisis in five years.

M. O. Turner of San Antonio, general chairman of the 17,000-member American Association of Petroleum Geologists and president of the Texas section of the American Institute of Professional Geologists, said profit is the name of the game.

"No one in this country — including oilmen — works for nothing," he told the San Antonio Military-Civilian Club.

Turner said the government ought to deregulate natural gas, restore the 27.5 per cent oil depletion allowance and implement no new tax laws discouraging the oil industry.

Most cases of mumps occur during the winter and spring and in children from 5 to 15.

Soviets Attacking Latest Work

By LEO GRULIOW
Staff Correspondent
Christian Science Monitor
MOSCOW — Yuri Zhukov, the Soviet Union's leading television commentator of foreign affairs, has launched a condemnation of foreign radio country's enemies. But even these Tass commentaries were not destined for the Soviet public. They were sent abroad. Their line came back to the Soviet Union in the form of similarly phrased articles from Soviet dissidents, such as Solzhenitsyn and physicist Andrei D. Sakharov, he said, were "traders in anti-Sovietism, which they supply to the organizers of psychological warfare against our people." Radio Peking, he added now reactionary forces. Political speculation makes Nobel winners out of unworthy reactionaries who actively fight against progress and humanity."

This explanation, along with warnings against foreign broadcasters, will doubtless be spread by the nearly one and one-half million agitators, who take their cue from this magazine.

But any Soviet citizen who wants to know what "slander" Solzhenitsyn's book contained will nevertheless have to learn it from foreign radio stations.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) has increased its rates of payment to state educational agencies to assist schools taking part in the National School Lunch and School Breakfast programs.

The increases, which are effective Jan. 1 through June 30, were announced by USDA's Food and Nutrition Service (FNS) in another step to implement the provisions of Public Law 93-150, the Child Nutrition legislation passed in November.

The new law provides that the payment rates for school lunches and breakfasts are to be adjusted twice each year, in line with the changes in the "food away from home" series of the Consumer Price Index.

This is the first of such adjustments and, as provided by law, it reflects the changes in the period September through November 1973. During that period, the series increased 3.126 percent, and the lunch and breakfast rates announced today approximate that amount of increase, rounded off to quarter-cent intervals as provided by law.

In the National School Lunch Program, the national average payment to help defray food costs of each lunch served to participating children will be increased a half cent from 10 to 10.50 cents. Within that average, states are authorized to vary the rate of reimbursement to individual schools up to a maximum 10.50 cents a lunch. Previously the ceiling was 10 cents.

The additional guaranteed payment to assist in the service of lunches to needy children will be boosted 2.25 cents - to 37.25 cents for each reduced-price lunch, and to 47.25 cents for each free lunch.

In cases of severe need, the reimbursement to individual schools is also increased 2.75 cents. It can range as high as 62.75 cents for each reduced-price lunch and as high as 72.75 cents for each lunch served free.

The national average payment for each breakfast served to eligible children will be increased one half cent - from 8 cents to 8.50 cents. The additional payment for each reduced-price breakfast, which has been 15 cents, will be increased to 15.75 cents.

For cases of severe need, maximum rates of reimbursement remain at 40 cents for reduced-price breakfasts and 45 cents for free breakfasts.

The complete schedule of rates of payment for both school lunch and school breakfast programs was published in the Federal Register on Thursday, Jan. 10.

stations broadcasting the news of Alexander Solzhenitsyn's book, "The Gulag Archipelago."

This is the latest move in response to the dissident author's charges that millions of Soviet citizens were cast into camps between 1918 and 1956. The Nobel Prize-winning writer, in his new history of the camps, called for public castigation of those responsible.

Mr. Zhukov's answer is that the book constitutes psychological warfare by Westerners who wish a return to the cold war.

The Soviet public learned of the book through broadcasts by Voice of America, BBC, West Germany's Deutsche Welle and other foreign stations, some of which were unjammed in September.

Silence Eased

The Soviet media maintained silence for a week after the book's appearance in the West. Then the Tass news service transmitted the first of two commentaries attacking the work as "a new year gift to our Communist papers published outside the Soviet Union. The Soviet media quoted these, rather than its own commentaries.

Finally, after a week of these echoes from abroad - none describing Solzhenitsyn's charges - a Soviet commentator voiced the same condemnations of Solzhenitsyn. The content of the book remained unexplained except it was "slander" concerning the camps.

Foreign Reports Continued But foreign radio continued to report news of the book. Radio Liberty, a Munich-based American station that broadcasts to the Soviet Union in spite of jamming, announced it would transmit the full text of the book.

At this point, the top Soviet commentator, Mr. Zhukov, entered the lists against foreign broadcasters. In a 35-minute commentary he described Western broadcasts to the Soviet Union as "stealing into the Soviet home to sow lies and slander."

was copying Western propaganda.

Labor Camps Mentioned As for talk of labor camps, he said (his only direct reference to the content of Solzhenitsyn's book) the question had been disposed of once and for all more than 20 years ago, when many of the camps were dissolved and inmates were rehabilitated.

The windup was his answer to a tenth-grade student who asked whether to listen to foreign broadcasts: "Anyone who touches this filth being poured through the ether sullies his dignity as a Soviet citizen," responded Mr. Zhukov.

Was the Soviet Union going to take further action against Solzhenitsyn? Was it going to resume large-scale jamming? Mr. Zhukov did not say.

Nobel Prize Explained Meantime, in case any Soviet citizen wondered, the magazine Agitator explained what the Nobel Prize meant: "Unfortunately, the Nobel literature and peace prizes have often been awarded on the basis of the political interests of

'Texas' Slates Area Auditions

CANYON — The musical drama "Texas" is built on talent, and the directors are seeking a cast for the 9th season 1974. Auditions will take place on the campus of West Texas State University on Saturday, Jan. 19, in the Fine Arts Building, and in the Women's Gym at Texas Tech University on Jan. 20.

Actors, singers, dancers, players on banjo, accordion, violin, double bass and guitar, and technicians, will have an opportunity to try - out to be a part of the company which produces this world renowned musical drama each summer.

Applicants are invited to appear in Canyon between 10 a.m. and 12 noon, 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. (Dancers only from 5), and in Lubbock from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. (Dancers only from 3).

There are a hundred salaried positions ranging from $300 to $1500 for a summer on the stage, and anyone who is interested is cordially urged to appear.

William A. Moore, the director of "Texas" since its beginning, will look for a voice that can be heard outdoors, for actors who understand character motivation who can convey a variety of emotion. He asks that the try-out selection be a memorized scene from a play, (3 minutes).

The musical director, Royal Brantley is looking for voices of quality and precision, and urges applicants to choose audition material which will show the range of their voices and their artistry. Some musical comedy songs, most arias and art songs will do this.

Neil Hess, the choreographer, requests dance applicants to appear in rehearsal dress, and be prepared to follow him in a set of dance routines.

The season will open with a first rehearsal on May 30. Performances will be nightly except Sunday from June 19 through Aug. 24.

For more information or for an audition brochure, write "Texas", Box 385, Canyon, Texas 79910 or call 695-2182.

on Friday," says Standard & Poor's Corp. The market has been characterized by a "washout" of glamor and high multiple growth stocks, often a sign of the final phase of a bear move, the firm continues. Although the market is highly volatile, "it has essentially been extending the base that began to form early in December," the firm adds.

The Dines Letters says although another strong market rally cannot be ruled out, it is looking "for an immediate market collapse." If the Dow Jones Industrial Average drops to 788 for a new low, the letter continues, "we would look for a devastating plunge towards the 600 area." Even if another rally takes place, "we have no choice but to ask you to avoid it as a probable bull trap," the letters adds.

Children entering Texas schools are required to be immunized against diphtheria, tetanus, polio, measles and rubella.

The Almanac

By United Press International Today is Wednesday, Jan. 16, the 16th day of 1974 with 349 to follow.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase.

Technically there is no morning star.

The evening stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Capricorn.

Famed American designer and woodcarver Samuel McIntire was born Jan. 16, 1757.

On this day in history: In 1833, the Pendleton Act went into effect, providing for creation of the U.S. Civil Service Commission.

In 1920, the 18th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution went into effect, prohibiting the manufacture, sale or transportation of intoxicating liquors. It was repealed in 1933.

A thought for the day: Irish poet Thomas Moore said, "My only books were woman's looks, and folly's all they've taught me."
