'Rights' Bill Passage Seen

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24 (UP)—Southern senators abandoned filibuster threats today, clearing the way for enactment next week of the first civil rights bill in 82 years.

The decision virtually assured early adjournment of Congress, probably some time next week.

Only a House-Senate compromise on the size of the foreign aid appropriation and a possible 11th hour drive for a bill protecting the secrecy of FBI files stand between Congress and a holiday.

President Eisenhower's talk of calling a special session this fall to increase the foreign aid appropriation was being taken with little seriousness on Capitol Hill.

Man Dies In Two-Truck Collision

(Special to The News) CANADIAN — A Tulsa, Okla., truck driver died at 3:30 p.m. yesterday as a result of injuries he received shortly before noon when his vehicle collided with another truck approximately 6.4 miles south of Canadian.

William Harold Brown, 37, apparently received the injuries when he jumped from the cab of his truck at the time of the collision.

Brown, officers said, was traveling north and came upon a slower truck traveling the same direction. He swerved to the left apparently in an attempt to pass, but the right side of Brown's cab struck some drill stem pipe protruding from the second truck.

At that point, Brown jumped from the cab. The truck went through a fence and traveled about one fourth of a mile down a "draw" before coming to a halt, still upright, in a small lake on the Gillman Flowers ranch.

Both trucks were traveling north on highway 60 and 83 at the time of the accident. Neither of two unidentified men in the second truck were injured and little damage was done.

The tractor part of Brown's Diamond T was demolished, but the trailer, which belonged to Hugh Breeding of Tulsa, was not damaged.

The other truck was owned by the T. E. Mercier Company of Fort Worth.

One Fire Call Here Friday

One small fire was reported by the fire department Friday afternoon. A barbecue pit set fire to some nearby solvent at 1610 N. Russell. No damage was reported and the fire was out quickly.

Pampan's Mother Dies In Lubbock

The mother of J. E. Murfee Jr., 1301 Christine, died at her Lubbock home yesterday.

Mrs. J. E. Murfee Sr. was born on March 6, 1864 and has lived in Lubbock since 1904.

Other survivors include Latimer Murfee, Houston; J. L. Murfee of Lubbock; Miss Mae Murfee, Lubbock; Mrs. D. H. Spencer, Abilene; nine grandchildren, including Mrs. Charles B. Cook of 1811 Charles here; and 18 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be conducted at the First Methodist Church in Lubbock at 4 p.m. Monday.

PARAKEETS

Mrs. Ross also reported that "the bird" unplugged her electric clock at 10 minutes until 4 Sunday morning. A kitchen window in the Ross home was raised about eight inches and the screen unattached.

And so, dear Mr. Watson, it isn't quite so elementary.

A Strickley ambulance rushed Brown to the Hemphill County Hospital in Canadian where he died.

Comments On Labor Situation

Pampa's EX-GOP Congressman Says Push-Button Wars Near

By BILL NEAL, Pampa News Staff Writer "We're knocking at the gates of push-button warfare," Ben Guill, vice chairman of the Federal Maritime Board and former Republican Congressman from this district, said yesterday.

Guill, who incidentally was the first and only Republican ever to win a seat in Congress from the 18th Congressional District, made the statement here while enjoying a 10-day vacation from his Washington post.

Guill seemed not too concerned about the recent East-West jockeying over a ban on atomic and hydrogen tests. "Right now," he commented, "it's the guided missile program that's growing by leaps and bounds. We've almost perfected and stocked up on atomic bombs."

A missile launched for 1,500 miles recently pin-pointed its target within 400 yards, Guill said. On the question of the recent labor probes, the former Pampa school teacher had some interesting observations.

"If you think the Teamsters' mess is bad, just wait until they (the Senate Rackets Committee) hit the West Coast and start uncovering the longshoremen's unions."

"It's a dangerous thing," he continued, "when a Communist-infested union is in a position to tie up all the United States' shipping."

Harry Bridges, infamous Red-baited labor leader, who heads the ILWU was specifically mentioned by Guill.

"I haven't been too popular with them (Bridges and associates) since I raked them over the coals last year in a West Coast speech," Guill smiled.

A test case to determine if the government has any control over the stevedore companies must be launched first in order to clean up this situation, Guill advocated. He further explained that if it is found the government did have this power, then a fair wage can be set and gradually the control can be wrested from the hands of Bridges and his gang.

"It will be a drawn-out fight though."

At present, the ex-Congressman is resting up with his wife, Marjorie, and two sons, Hugh, 9, and Allen, 6, at the home of Mrs. Guill's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Buckler of 410 Buckler Street.

After finishing his stint in the 81st Congress, Guill was appointed to the Maritime Board by President Eisenhower. He served for two years and then last June Ike appointed him to serve for a full four-year term on the board.

When Guill first came to the board, which regulates all U.S. shipping, subsidizes merchant marines and sets intercoastal freight rates, the group's reputation was not good. And for a long time they had been looked upon with disfavor from "The Hill."

However, since then, the Maritime Board got a full appropriation from Congress for the first time.

Guill reported that private enterprise is gradually being encouraged into the shipping business. After the war, the merchant lines bought surplus ships from the government for 35 cents on the dollar. Now they are replacing these old ships with later models and the government is subsidizing them in the amount of the difference between foreign and domestic costs. (Foreign costs to build a ship are considerably cheaper than U.S. costs.)

Of some importance to citizens in this area, Guill thought, was the appropriation made by this Congress for the Small Business Administration.

On the question of the much-dragged out civil rights bill boosted by Eisenhower and many liberal elements, Guill said he would prefer no bill at all to either the House or Senate version. He commended Ike for being sincere and for his purpose, but said that the bill contained many legal flaws which were not caught because the nation's leading lawyers were in a bar convention in London at the time it was drawn up.

Walter Reuther and other labor leaders strongly supported the jury trial amendment because it would weaken the Taft-Hartley labor law, was the opinion of Guill.

He pointed out that if this jury trial amendment was passed, then the courts would be forced to conduct trials rather than the violator being punished by a judge.

Is Guill planning to run for Congress again? "No, I appreciated all the support in the last election (he was beaten by Congressman Walter Rogers), but I am not planning on it."

"I really like Washington. It's a pretty big experience for a country boy," Guill laughed.

Many citizens during the past week have inquired at The News about the suicide by hanging which occurred recently. As far as we can tell, rumors of all kinds have come up concerning this, most wondering if it was really suicide or the chance of any outside foul play involved. Especially were they curious because the man's hands were reported "tied" behind him, and that he wasn't found for 24 hours.

Deputy Sheriff Shirley Nickols, who investigated the case assured us that it was a clear-cut suicide. Shirley said there was no knot in the rope which bound his hands. He had looped the cord around one hand and then reached behind with his other hand a d wound it tightly around his wrist.

STAFF NOTES

JOEL R. COMBS, managing editor

This has been a week for rather amusing news stories.

First there was the story of the parakeet killer (we dubbed him the "Hammer Demon") which our police good-naturedly went along with as we ribbed them pretty hard and consistently; and then, on today's editorial page, comes a plea from L. P. Fort for help in finding the owner of a particular oil well which squeaks and keeps him awake. Since it's under "Clearing House" (Letters to the Editor) it couldn't very well be called a news story, though.

But, back to the parakeets, one woman asked one of our reporters "What asked will the Pampa News print next?" when asked about the residence of one of the parakeet-owners. Several persons, obviously fond of birds, didn't necessarily think the story was so funny. A lot of people did, though. We had inquiries from the United Press and jillions of people who said they were watching the story with interest.

Thanks to whoever called us the other morning when a train demolished a tractor on a crossing just west of town.

He called and got away before we thought to ask his name. We appreciate such calls very much and think it is one reason why we get some stories before other news media.

Are you interested in people? I sure am. I like to know what people I meet do, what they like and don't like, and if perhaps we could get to know each other better.

And if I can ever find out anything about a person in addition to his name, it's usually an excuse for starting a conversation and sometimes a friendship of sorts grows. So, in line with this, I have been making mental notes of people I meet and am going to pass them on to you so maybe you'll get to meet them by casually telling them something you know about them. Try it. It works, sometimes. I think I'll call this little corner of "Staff Notes" information "People You Probably Would Like To Know." Here goes.

CLINTON EVANS — Clinton sells Buicks, so don't ask him

BILL NEAL, staff writer

If I stay in the newspaper business until I'm 102 years old (and I'm going to make a diligent effort to) I never expect to run on a story as "whacky" as this parakeet killing.

Why anyone would go to such great and painful lengths to kill parakeets is beyond comprehension. And if he (she or it) were so set on eliminating the chirpers (I don't particularly care for them myself, but have never gone to quite such violent lengths to express it), then why leave one alive in each house. In both houses attacked one bird was left untouched.

Since the whole thing was so unusual to say the least, after the second attack, I phoned the United Press wire service and gave them the story. In about 30 minutes the Dallas office called back and wanted to know if we were "on the level."

After assuring them that we were, "honest Injun," they asked for all the gory details: "Was there much blood?" "What were the birds' names?" "What kind of a hammer was used?" "What color were they?" and a dozen other minute details.

Which all goes to prove, it's not the big things, but the unusual things that make the news.

Many citizens during the past week have inquired at The News about the suicide by hanging which occurred recently. As far as we can tell, rumors of all kinds have come up concerning this, most wondering if it was really suicide or the chance of any outside foul play involved. precedent records, and all of these things take place without an unusual amount of interest. And then upon the scene comes a person who floats about homes bashing and smashing little birds to gory, bloody deaths with claw hammers. Are people interested? The wire service calls back for more details and area television gives it five minutes while the disarmament plan waits.

Undoubtedly, the "Hammer Demon" will have a field day until someone finds something more helpless than a bird, and a grislier way to kill it.

And should the "demon" be apprehended before he decides to retire, many citizens would feel that his lot should be no better than that of the bird victims. And a goodly portion of these citizens will be the first to pay a $5.50 ringside price to watch much the same thing.

Somewhere in the nature of people lies the element that will cause them to turn unerringly to the sensational. History is being made and the printed word daily brings to the world the happenings that guide and determine the future. All this takes place while people anxiously await news of the parakeet mangler.

"This over, the vacation for this year. Two short and sweet, but not without tragic mishap. The train ride aboard the Santa Fe Chief from Oklahoma City to Fort Worth, where I visited with my mother and sister, had been very pleasant. There had been time for a nap; time to read several chapters in a current novel and to visit with other passengers. Then just fifteen minutes out of Fort Worth and with no more of a jar to the passengers aboard than riding over a brick, the train hit an oil-based tar truck, which exploded instantly and killed three persons; the fireman, who jumped from the engine-cab, his clothes in flames; the engineer, who was burned to the controls, thus, forcing the 21-coach train to a "dead man's stop"; and the driver of the truck, who was killed instantly.

From the train window, I saw what seemed to be a tumble-weed blowing rolling along the side of the train and finally down into a deep ditch. A cloud of smoke covered my vision before it could be

GWEN STARK, staff writer

An Open Letter: This past week was my last week to work for the Pampa News this summer, and perhaps the 'very last'. My husband and I are going back to college at Oklahoma State University to spend our last year, and from there to settle down. There is a sadness about my leaving this summer that I've never felt before.

It has been a wonderful experience living in Pampa and working for the Pampa News. My association with you here in Pampa has been one that I'll remember always. You have been most kind and co-operative, and I appreciate it very much. Pampa will always have a warm spot in my heart.

Since I was a sophomore in LeFors High School I have worked off and on with the News. Working with everyone in the operation of the Pampa News has been a pleasure and a privilege. Thanks to all of you on the staff for helping me in my inexperience, and to you, the public, for your patience. It's been a wonderful and unforgettable experience.

the policeman. He arrived and firmly planting both hands on the window of the driver's side, said, slowly but authoritatively, "Who threw that piece of Kleenex out the window back down the highway?" Surprised and taken aback, Tommy could only stammer, "What Kleenex?" Then one of her friends explained that she had slipped half a piece of Kleenex into the top half of the window to soften a slight noise there.

"I guess you know the penalty for littering up California highways?" asked the patrolman. "No, what is it?" "$300 and 30 days in jail," was his reply.

Thought this story might be of interest to the Pampa Garden who are conducting their own litter-bug campaign locally. Club and to Kit Kat Klub pledges,

The film introduces pretty Miss Hart, co-stars Elizabeth Scott, Wendell Corey, and is Elvis' first big-scale modern musical. Hal Kanter directed.

CONGRESS' EXPENSES UP
WASHINGTON (UP) — The House voted itself some extra expense money Thursday. The chamber approved extra postage and rental allowances and more flexible use of telephone and telegraph expenses. The House agreed to allow each of the 435 members an extra $100 a year for special delivery stamps, making a total of $300 a year, because of the recent special delivery rate increase. It also voted to allow every member $100 to maintain an office in his home district.

BULL STARTS GOLD RUSH
TEPIC, Mexico (UP) — A rush of gold prospectors to the placio El Tigre area was attributed today to a dead bull. A housewife cutting up a beef kidney for stew found a small gold nugget in the organ. She showed it to neighbors and the story spread like wildfire. The bull was traced to El Tigre and the rush started.

Pampan Will Become A Missionary To Alaska

By GWEN T. STARK
Pampa News Staff Writer

A young Pampa boy will venture out to Alaska to become a missionary early in September. He is Richard Lunsford, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Lunsford, 1029 Duncan.

Richard, a ministerial student at Oklahoma Baptist University in Shawnee, Okla., was called by the Alaskan Baptist Conference to work with the Eskimo people in missions in Selawik and Kotzebue, Alaska, located in the Northwest part of the country just above the Seward Peninsula. He has answered that call by prolonging his seminary education for one year. He must attend a Baptist seminary for three years before becoming a minister.

The Pampa youth will be sponsored by the Baptist Home Mission Board which is located in Atlanta, Ga., and supported by the Southern Baptist Convention.

Very enthusiastic about being a missionary, Richard said that he planned to make it his life time work unless he is lead elsewhere.

"I'll be filling in for regular missionaries who are on leave at the missions," Richard said. "I'll live in the missions and my job will be a little bit of everything. I'll help work on the property, preach, visit with the Eskimo people, help with socials, and anywhere I'm needed."

Richard said that most of the Eskimos speak English with the exception of the older people.

"A person could never learn all the dialects of the Eskimo language," he stated. "Maybe they will speak one dialect where you are, and a hundred miles away, an entirely different one."

Richard is not a stranger to Alaska. He has spent the two previous summers as a representative of the State of Oklahoma's Baptist Student Union working in the Native Baptist Mission in Anchorage.

When asked if the board had told him how to prepare for his work in the way of clothing, Richard said, no, and that he really hadn't thought much about it. "I won't be taking any light shirts or summer clothes, I can tell you that," he laughed.

He confessed that he really didn't know what to expect in the had only been there in the summer.

"During the summer, the temperature is a 'warm' 56 or 60 degrees," he said. "It will probably get pretty cold and go down about 40 degrees below zero during the winter."

Richard stated that he had entered college with the expectation of becoming a minister, but that he didn't really feel that that was his calling until last summer. He now plans to enter the Golden Baptist Seminary in Berkeley, Calif., when he returns from Alaska.

Stocks In Break During Last Week

By ELMER C. WALZER

United Press Financial Editor
NEW YORK (UP)—Stocks suffered their most severe break since Jan. 18 during the past week on a daily average volume of less than 2 million shares.

Selling jolted the market on Monday on the Russian-inspired Syrian coup. There were recoveries on Tuesday and Wednesday but on such small volume as to make them of little consequence to the trading element.

A dull decline on Thursday was followed by another jolt on Friday. The net result was a drop of 12.46 points to 475.74 in the industrial average of the week. This is a low since April 1.

Railroad shares were harder hit and their average sank to a new low since Jan. 17, 1955 at 138.21, off 4.53 points on the week. The utility average was off 0.96 point at 67.51, a new low since Dec. 20.

Six-Week Decline
The market has been in an almost steady decline since the year's highs were touched on July 12. In that period industrials have fallen 45.03 points in their average; rails 14.30 points and utilities 4.19 points.

During the past week the market lost $5,800,000,000 in valuation of listed issues. It was down $20,108,000,000 from the year's high based on the 500-stock index compiled by Standard & Poor's. On that basis, the average loss of each share worked out at $1.32 for the week and $4.57 since July 12.

The trading volume since July 12 has amounted to less than 57 million shares which is only 1.2 per cent of those listed. This means that 98.8 per cent of the listed stock is tightly held by investors.

The market's dullness was seen as the only favorable factor in the week's operations. It meant to the experts that stock was not being pressed for sale. The decline, therefore, represented a lack of demand rather than real selling pressure.

Activity High
Business held high during the past week, however, with steel rising, auto output at the best level in seven weeks, electricity output higher, and car loadings up.

Retail trade also was high and predictions were that it will set a new record high for 1957.

Chrysler, the soft spot in the motors, lost 5 1/2 points. Gulf fell 7 1/2 in the international oils and Amerada 6 1/2 in the domestic group. Steels had declines ranging to 8 1/2 in Lukens and 5 1/2 points in Eastern Stainless. Magna lost 5 1/2 in the coppers and McIntyre Porcupine fell five in the golds.

Railroad losses extended to 5 1/2 in Western Maryland and to eight points in Texas & Pacific. General Tire was down 7 1/2. National Lead lost 7 1/2. International Paper 5 1/2. Black & Decker 4 1/2. Minnesota Mining 5 1/2. Schering 6 1/2. Pittston 6 1/2 and A. O. Smith 5 1/2.

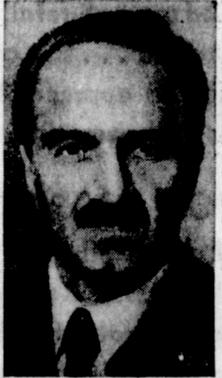

"I started leaning toward the mission field when Hugh Peeples, whom I work for, took me to hear a missionary from Brazil speak at the Central Baptist Church," Richard explained.

Richard gave credit to the influence of his Sunday School teachers at the Central Baptist Church, especially Brother L. O. Roenfeldt, all the people in the church, and to the witness of Jimmy Bond, Pampa basketball star who is studying to become a Nazarene minister, in helping him prepare to accept his calling.

Christ is the only answer to the needs of the human heart, Richard said sincerely. He explained, in regard to his accepting the challenge of the foreign mission field, that some of the greatest mission work is going on right here in Pampa. However, when you take the gospel to people in the foreign mission field who have never had the opportunity to hear it before, there seems to be a deeper hunger, he said.

"I believe that the greatest job and blessing in life is to know you have given your whole life to Christ and that you are following His will," Richard stated.

"My main purpose in going to Alaska to work in the missions," he said, "is not because of any of my own talents, but because of the burden I feel for those people."

MOVING UP? — Dispatches from Moscow indicate that Russia's famed touring team of "B and K" may be revised to "K and M," with Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan, above, replacing Premier Nikolai Bulganin as Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev's traveling companion. Mikoyan accompanied Khrushchev to Romania for talks with Marshal Tito and will go with the party chief to East Germany.

AN IMPORTANT MESSAGE

TO: ALL PAMPA AUTOMOBILE OWNERS FROM: YOUR SERVICE STATION OPERATOR

is engaged in one of today's most competitive businesses. In order that he continue to be favored by your patronage he must convince you that he can best service your car with superior products and superior service, which can only be provided by the superior skill of trustworthy, well-trained personnel.

OVER THE YEARS COMMODITY PRICES . . .

and wage increases have descended upon all retail businesses and most of them have, in turn, been promptly passed on to you . . . the consumer . . . Most retail businesses have, from their beginning, established an appreciable percentage of profit which has been maintained . . . regardless of cost of operation.

YOUR SERVICE STATION OPERATOR . . .

has through the years, realized a critically low margin of profit . . . in ratio to his investment and his volume of gross business. Regardless of general increases in price, you will find that your Service Station Operator has been the last to pass these on to you . . . the consumer. And yet . . . through all these increases there has been no curtailment in the many "extras" (no charge) such as: cleaning your windshield, checking your tires and oil, sweeping out your car, clean rest rooms at your disposal and many others, which have become a part of the retail gasoline business.

YOU ARE INVITED TO COMPARE . . .

the cost of the services of the gasoline retailer with those of others upon whose skill you depend . . . the plumber, the TV repair man, the electrician, etc. Your Service Station Operator feels that such a comparison will surprise you.

YOUR CAR MAY BE . . .

an "old timer" . . . perhaps it is one of those examples of American engineering skill which was manufactured in 1957. In either case, your Service Station Operator has at your disposal the very latest equipment (you would be surprised at its cost) with which to provide the most demanding service.

No one experiences a pleasant reaction to an increase in the price of any product or service but such increases are inevitable as the cost of producing the product and the cost of furnishing the service increases. Your Service Station Operator or garage must receive a reasonable compensation for his services in order to maintain a normal profit and pay a liveable wage for skilled personnel who are necessary for the proper servicing of your car. Therefore, effective Monday, August 26, the following prices will go into effect at the Service Stations and Automobile Dealers listed below.

Sports Roundup

By CHARLES CULLIN
Pampa News Sports Editor

Football Begins

Area grid squads in class AA, A, B and six-man schools begin practice tomorrow, and the Top O' Texas area may boast some winners in all four.

The Perryton Rangers look good for the next season, although a total of 20 boys were lost from last year's squad. Twelve lettermen return, however, and with the crop of newcomers, the Rangers may hang on to their district crown.

Although Stinnett is favored for another district win in 1-A, Panhandle may be the upsetting squad. Under new head coach, Clint Williams the Panthers have 11 of last year's lettermen returning, and should come through with a good season.

Representing the strength in 1-B for the new season will be the Groom Panthers. Coach Bates takes a dim view of the future but considering the loss of the rest of the team, he should come out with a good season, if not a district win.

In The Ring

Summer boxing calls upon boys to participate on pretty short notice unless they are round-the-year trainers, but the matches Friday night were exceptional in that many looked trim and were still going strong at the end of the battles. The Panhandle scored an impressive eight victories out of ten matches over the Fort Worth tourney winners to prove which area of the state still produces the roughest and toughest.

PAMPA BOYS ACCOUNTED FOR their share of the wins in taking three matches from Fort Worth boys. Gary Wilhelm walked to an easy win in his match and his brother Bobby scored a decisive, but closer victory over Burton Gilliam.

Jesse Ring accounted for the third Pampa win in a bout with Roger McCurdy. Jesse became tired in the third round and required a certain amount of resting, but after two rounds, McCurdy was not anxious to push the battle, so the decision went easily to Ring.

AS AN EX-OLYMPIC fighter, Pete Rademacher can rest on the words of Baron de Coubertin concerning Olympics: "The important thing is not winning, but in

Venturi Holds Lead In Miller Open Tourney

Young Ken Venturi, who claimed he plans to win and "not for money," held on to his lead today at the three-quarter mark of the $25,000 Miller Open tournament with a five-under-par 65 for a 54-hole total of 199.

The 26-year-old Venturi socked in six birdies, two of them on the last three holes, to wind up with the best round of the day. Al Balding, the cigar-smoking pro from Big Winn Inn, Ont., shot a 69 to put him five strokes behind Venturi with a 204 total. Mike Souchak, Grossinger, N.Y., who got a 67 today, was one stroke back of Balding with a 205.

Head Continues Winning Streak

HOSSEGOR, France, Aug. 24 (UP)—Australia's Lew Hoad continued his winning streak against America's Jack Kramer and Pancho Segura defeated Aussie Ken Rosewall today in professional tennis matches. Hoad came from behind to beat Kramer, 4-6, 7-5, 6-3, while Segura took Rosewall in straight sets, 6-2, 6-4.

Some 3,000 enthusiastic tennis fans and tourists packed the stands at the Sporting Casino in this resort town near the French Pyrenees to watch Kramer's world touring professionals.

Wharton Leads PGA Tourney

LUBBOCK, Tex., Aug. 24 (UP)—University of Houston star Frank Wharton fired a five under 87 to carry a 54-hole total of 208 and take the lead in the 37th annual Texas PGA tournament at Hillcrest Country Club here today. It was the second day in succession that an amateur had shown his heels to the pros. John Paul Cain of Texas Tech, the second day leader, fired even par to drop into a three-way tie for third.

Earl Stewart Jr. of Dallas, his freckles and red hair shining in the sun, recorded his third sub-par round to pace the pros with a 209 total. Stewart was two under at 70 today. The best round marked up so far in the tournament was shot by Jerry Pittman of Dallas. The SMU golfer had a brilliant 66, totting eight birdies and one bogey. He made the turn one under, but after taking a bogey on No. 12, parred no. 13 and shot birdies on the final five holes. Stewart, even par on the front nine, took a long step toward the $10,000 prize money with a two under on the back nine. He started with a bogey, but dropped in birds on three of the final four holes.

Final 18 holes will be shot Sunday, with the top 15 pros finishing in the money the field was cut to pros and the low 10 amateurs and ties.

Mantle Gains On Williams

CLEVELAND, Aug. 24 (UP)—Mickey Mantle moved to within seven points of Ted Williams today in their fight for the American League batting title. Mantle hiked his average to .374 by collecting one hit—a double—in two at-bats against the Cleveland Indians. He was removed from the lineup in the sixth inning after the Yankees ran up a 9-0 lead. Williams collected only one hit in four trips against the Chicago White Sox and dropped a point to .381. The Red Sox slugger now has garnered only three hits in his last 16 at-bats.

Larry Hironn Takes 2nd In Swim Meet

Larry Hironn of Pampa placed second in the open division of the 100 meter backstroke in the recent West Texas AAU Open swimming meet, held in Amarillo. A trophy was presented Hironn by the Amarillo Park and Recreation Committee as an award for the second place win. Hironn, who was an outstanding athlete in Panhandle last year, will attend North Texas State College in September on a football and track scholarship. Participating with Panhandle, he went to the state finals in track last year. He also received a most valuable player of the week award during the 1956 football season.

US Hope Fades For Davis Cup

CHESTNUT HILL, Mass., Aug. 24 (UP)—Australians Ashley Cooper and Neale Fraser dealt America hopes of recapturing the Davis Cup a severe setback today as they led the leading U.S. team of Vic Seixas and Ham Richardson, 5-3, 7-9, 10-8, 7-5, in a thrilling semi-final match of the National Doubles Championships. The second-seeded Aussies thereby qualified for the perennial American-Australian final Sunday against top-seeded Gardner Mulloy and Budge Patty. They won their semi-final test today against fourth-seeded Australians Roy Emerson and Bob Mark, 6-2, 6-4, 6-2, before 4,500 fans at the Longwood Cricket Club.

Wimbledon champion Althea Gibson and Darlene Hard also gained the finals of the week-long tournament by whipping unseeded Jeanie Arth of Newark, N.J., and Pat Nease of San Mateo, Calif., 6-3, 6-4. It was the only women's match played today. Cooper and Fraser played the steady, unspectacular brand of tennis peculiar to the predominant Australians in defeating the Americans. The most damaging blow to the U.S. cause was the erratic service of Seixas. The 33-year-old Philadelphian was broken in the first and third sets and again in the 11th game of the deciding set.

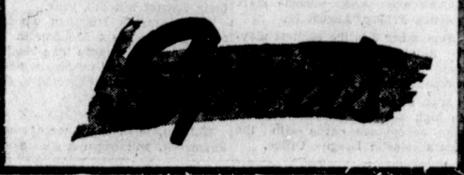

The latter break came just after the Americans had lost an apparently good chance to break Cooper for the third time in the contest. The swarthy Australian was born 15-40 on his service in the 10th game but Seixas either netted or knocked out the three exchanges to muffle the chance.

Texas' Heavyweight May Be Next To Battle Patterson

DALLAS, Aug. 24 (UP)—A world heavyweight championship fight in Dallas between champion Floyd Patterson and Roy Harris of Cut 'N Shoot, Tex., was proposed today by radio executive Gordon McLendon with all profits going to the March of Dimes. McLendon, widely known as "The Old Scotchman," is Texas state chairman of the 1958 March of Dimes. He said he has talked long distance to Seattle with Gus D'Amato, manager of Patterson, who had expressed interest in further discussion of such a proposal. McLendon said he suggested Harris, the backwoods school teacher who recently defeated Willie Pastrano, as an opponent who told D'Amato if Harris was not satisfactory as an opponent that he could choose anybody he felt worthy. McLendon said that he proposed to stage the fight in the Cotton Bowl and that he had already approached State Fair officials. He said the Cotton Bowl would be available. No date was discussed but McLendon said he suggested sometime in November. McLendon said he thought of the fight as a fund raising promotion because contributions to the March of Dimes have been lagging "since many people seem to feel mistakenly that the polio program has been solved with the discovery of the Salk vaccine." McLendon owns radio stations KILP in Dallas, KTSA in San Antonio and KILT in Houston and has extensive theater, real estate and oil interests.

Tulsa Opens With H-SU

TULSA, Aug. 24 (UP)—With the opening of fall football practice at the University of Tulsa beginning Sept. 2, coaches expect some knockdown encounters for assignments on the two hurricane alternate team lines. A squad of 55 is expected when the drills open at Harwell Field, less than three weeks in which Coach Bobby Dobbs will have less than three weeks in which to prepare his athletes for the Cowboys of Hardin-Simmons in the opener here Sept. 21. Seventeen of 25 lettermen return. Loss of two key men from the first unit and three from the second dictates full-time play from some sophomores, Dobbs said. "Whether or not they'll be ready, we can't tell yet," Dobbs said. "But, it's definite we'll have to use sophomores on the alternate unit, and the lack of experience can be costly. "We should have more competition for individual positions than we did last year," he continued. "At least we hope the sophomores are capable of pushing the juniors and seniors."

Wichita Falls, Tex. (UP)—

Oklahoma snapped a 12-year drought Friday night as the Oklahoma Sooners rolled over the Texas Tech Red Raiders 27-7 in the 20th annual Oil Bowl game. Lonnie Hartline, fullback from Lawton, and Northwest Classen's Walter Metcalfe sparked the Oklahoma attack against the over-rated Texas team. Bob Cornell, of Oklahoma City's Capitol Hill, scored early in the first quarter for the first score. Hartline added the conversion point. Texas' lone score came early in the fourth quarter. Cardinals Drop Phillies, 5-2

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 24 (UP)—Former Phillie Del Ennis battled in the winning run today as the St. Louis Cardinals came from behind with two in the sixth and then went on to defeat Philadelphia, 5-2, behind Herman Wehner. The Cardinals leading 3-2, led the game in the ninth on a Phillie error, a triple by Ken Boyer and a double by Walker Cooper which added two runs and chased loser Curt Simmons.

Pirates Defeat Redlegs, 4-1

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 24 (UP)—Righthander Ronnie Kline, allowing six hits, led the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 4-1 victory over the reeling Cincinnati Redlegs today. The Redlegs have lost 29 games and won only 18 since July 3 when they were leading the National League. Kline, picking up his fifth victory, lost his shutout in the eighth inning when pinchhitter Ted Kluszewski began the scoring pattern. Batting for loser Brooks Lawrence, Kluszewski smashed a double off the left center wall and was replaced by Hal Jeffcoat who scored on Gus Bell's two-bagger to right center. Bell was tagged out trying for third and was forced to leave the game when he suffered a jammed right foot.

Cubs Edge Giants, 4-2

NEW YORK, Aug. 24 (UP)—Bob Speake's ninth-inning homer with Bobby Morgan on base gave young Dave Hillman and the Chicago Cubs a 4-2 victory over the New York Giants today. Speake's home run, his 14th, was hit off lefty Johnny Antonelli and followed Morgan's one-out single through third baseman Ray Jablonski. Hillman yielded only seven hits in gaining his fifth triumph of the year. The victory also was the eighth in the last 11 games for the Cubs.

White Sox Clip Boston, 7-1

CHICAGO, Aug. 24 (UP)—Dick Donovan scored his seventh consecutive victory and 15th of the season today as he pitched the Chicago White Sox to a 7-1 decision over the Boston Red Sox. Donovan gave up nine hits, walked one man and struck out one as he enabled the White Sox to keep pace in the pennant race 5 1/2 games behind the New York Yankees. One of the Boston hits was a double by Ted Williams, scoring Billy Klaus, who also had doubled in the fourth inning. It was Williams' only hit in four times at bat, as his league leading average dropped one point to .381.

Tigers Drop To Senators, 6-3

DETROIT, Aug. 24 (UP)—Tex Clevering today snapped the Washington Senators three-game losing streak by pitching the Nats to a 6-3 victory over the Detroit Tigers. Clevering, a last minute choice, beat Tiger ace Jim Bunning, who was trying for his 16th triumph but was handed his sixth setback instead.

Yanks Wallop Indians, 10-4

CLEVELAND, Aug. 24 (UP)—The New York Yankees, who had lost three of their last five games, erupted for seven runs in the fifth inning today and went on to wallop the Cleveland Indians, 10-4. The Yankees' fifth-inning burst provided Tom Sturdivant with a 9-0 lead but he wasn't around at the finish. Art Ditmar entered the game in the ninth after the Indians nailed Sturdivant for four hits and two runs to preserve the husky right-hander's 12th victory of the season.

Pampa Boxers Take 3 Bouts In Meet With Ft. Worth Team

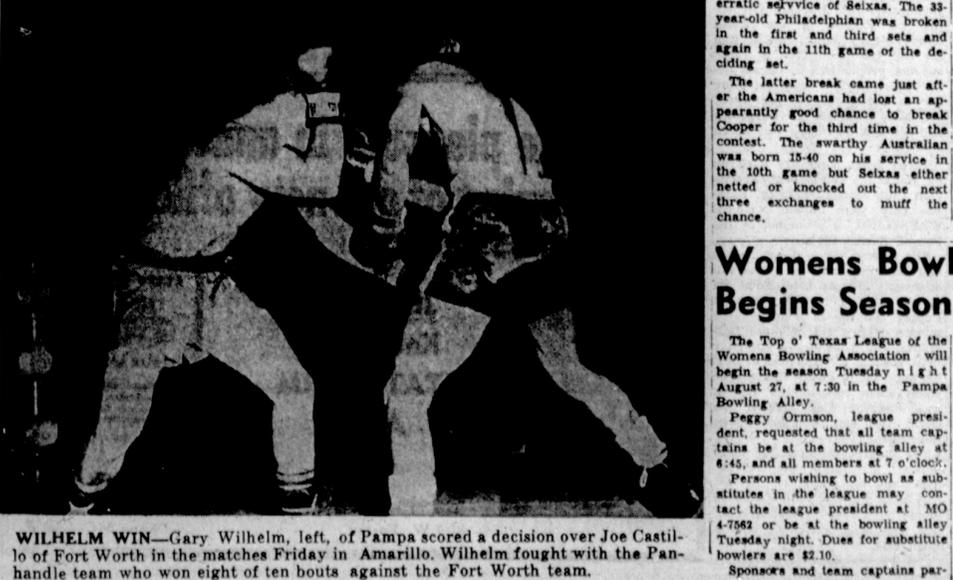

Pampa boxers accounted for three of the eight victories out of ten matches that Panhandle fighters scored over the Fort Worth regional tourney winners Friday night at Sports Arena in Amarillo. Gary Wilhelm, who last year reached the finals in the state Golden Gloves, scored a decision over Fort Worth's Joe Castillo in the 135 pound division.

Bobby Wilhelm, Gary's brother, finished strong in the third round to win a decision over Burton Gilliam in a battle that had the audience cheering through the final 30 seconds of the bout. Gilliam fought hard through the early part of the near-even match, but was faltering in the final round. Jesse Ring was the third Pampa boy to score a win for the Panhandle in a decision over Roger McCurdy, which turned evening. McCurdy, in a slightly unorthodox style carried the battle continuously to Ring, who blasted constantly with a strong right to outscore the Fort Worth fighter.

In a 147 pound battle, Billy Lafavers of Amarillo took a close decision over Charles Snyder of Pampa in one of the favorites of the evening. The two fighters slugged constantly through the three rounds of the close battle. Another close one slipped from Gary Wills, who lost a decision bout to Tony Alvarado of Fort Worth. The visiting team's other victory came when Charles Car-am scored a decision over Joe Lira of Amarillo in the 112 pound bracket. The final match of the evening accounted for the third Pampa loss when Johnny Chavez of Amarillo outpointed Dicky James in another 112 battle.

Area Grid Teams Begin Fall Practice Tomorrow

Texas' 1957 high school football campaign will open tomorrow when 734 gridiron squads move on to the practice fields. Tomorrow's starters will be only Class AA, A, B and six-man schools. Another 175 teams, representing AAAA and AAA schools start practice Friday, August 30. September 6 is the earliest playing date for AA, A, B and six-man, while AAAA and AAA open competition on Friday, Sept. 13. Sept. 10 is the deadline for Texas high schools to file football plan acceptance cards with the Interscholastic League Office.

District 3-AA
In district 3-AA, Perryton ranks at the top of the pre-season favorites, opening their season on Sept. 13 against Canadian. The Rangers finished last year with a 7-4 record (undefeated in district play) and are likely to repeat their district win this year. The Shamrock Irishmen open on Sept. 6 against McLean in a season that looks more than bleak. The Irish struggled through a 1-8-1 last season and are expected to do little better this year.

with little hope except to better last year's mark of one win against nine losses. Under a new head coach Jack Riley, the Tigers should improve, but pose no threat as a district contender. Lefors begins with an open date and meets Shamrock for their first game on Sept. 13. Experience is the main problem of the Tigers, with only six lettermen returning. Canadian could easily be the top team in this year's 2-A battle, with seven lettermen returning, all of whom were valuable players last season. The Wildcats finished second behind the district winning Bronchos from Clarendon last season. Groom opens their district defense against White Deer Sept. 6. The Tigers were hard hit by graduation and will be depending upon a young and inexperienced team. The Wheeler Mustangs will defend their district and regional championship under a new coach, Louis Baynton. The team boasts a throng of fourteen returning lettermen and look strong to repeat their 1956 record. Wheeler opens against Canadian Sept. 6.

TOPS IN CHAMPIONSHIP FLIGHT—Lila Austin, right, was winner in the Ladies City Golf Tournament, with Jean Duenkel runner-up. The tourney was medal play, with three rounds being played for the championship.

Jean Duenkel scored on 83 in the final round runner-up honors, 12 strokes behind the winners. Others competing in the championship flight were Shirley Austin, with 276, and Lil Hall, with 293. Lila set a course record in the second round of the tournament with a 3-under-par 69, which bettered the existing record three strokes. Other winners in the tournament were Peg Kastein, who defeated Eva Kitchens for the winner of the first flight and Liz Gardner, who defeated Fay Sidwell to win the second flight. Second flight consolation went to Jenean Wade over Grace Malone. The first flight consolation will be determined today between Sally McGinnis and Ava Swafford.

Pete Has $20,000 Offer For Bout

SEATTLE (UP)—Pete Rademacher, nursing his bruises, went fishing today. Heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson, carrying a slightly dented crown, was on a train en route to New York. And the offers of riches for both poured into local fight headquarters in the wake of their wild brawl here Thursday night, in which the champion got off the canvas in the second round to knock the challenger down seven times before winning in the sixth. But both the fighters and their advisers were mum about what the future held. "We have nothing on tap for the immediate future," said Cus D'Amato, manager of Patterson. "As usual we have many offers. One of these is to fight Roy Harris in Texas." "Another is to fight Zora Foley in Los Angeles; another to fight the European champion, Ingemar Johansson, in Chicago. But we will do a bit of resting, then investigating, before signing for another match." Patterson has indicated he doesn't care to fight again this year but in the same breath says he will do anything his manager says. He got $120,000 for defending his crown against Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson, and picked up another $250,000 for battling Rademacher here. "We make only about ten cents on the dollar on any money we collect now," D'Amato pointed out. The International Boxing Club wired Rademacher an offer of $20, Youth Unlimited hopes to break even on the promotion with their share of the film receipts.

Baseball Trickery Is Used To 'Make Most Of Opportunities'

EDITOR'S NOTE: Outfielder Bob Nieman of the Baltimore Orioles, who attended Kent State University to study journalism, still has ambitions of becoming a sports writer or broadcaster when his playing days are over. When invited to write a guest column for Oscar Fraley, he sat down at his typewriter and composed a few of his ideas about baseball.

Outfielder, Baltimore Orioles
Written For The United Press
KANSAS CITY (UP)—The fellow who said all's fair in love and war might just as well have included baseball, too. This is one game where everybody tries to get away with just as much as he can. Of course, the players and managers won't call it "cheating." In pulling some of these tricks, they say they're just taking advantage of their club's strong points and the opposition's weaknesses. And it's all part of the game. Here are a few examples. Not many people know that the third base foul line in Chicago's Comiskey Park is sloped upward to help keep Nellie Fox's push-bunts in fair territory. This little gimmick gives Nellie 20 extra hits a year.

Slope Aided Rose
A couple of years ago Cleveland was notorious for sloping its third base line outward so that the slow hit balls down the line would roll foul. The reason? Al Rosen, the third baseman, was none too fast and had trouble handling this play. On the same Cleveland field, the strip of infield between third and short was left unwatered to aid the hitters. When ground balls hit on his "concrete" strip they shot through the hole into left field like a bullet. Conversely, the same strip between first and second base was watered down and the grass was allowed to grow. This stopped the left-handed hitters of the opposition.

Oldest Method of 'Cheating'
The oldest method of "cheating" is the tailoring of home ballpark fences to help particular hitters. Yankee Stadium did wonders for Babe Ruth. More recently, Washington moved in its fences and this maneuver may make the Senators' Roy Sievers the new American League home run king.

KNOW THE ROPES

By Gordon H. Miller

The recent reappearance of the Fabulous Moolah has brought questions about the former girl champion, Mildred Burke, champion for some 15 years. One of her fans handed me an article last week so all fans may know where she is. Mildred, or Mrs. Bert Younker, lives in San Diego, Calif., where her husband is a member of the Coast Guard. She is a member of Convair Astronautics, Convair Aircraft Corp. Mildred started wrestling in 1936, retired in 1955; she fought some 5,000 matches, 200 against men, against whom they say she was never defeated. It took some doing to convince Billy Wolfe of her ability, Billy having already set his sights on organizing and improving Gal Grappling back in 1936. He laughed at her, then listened and was finally her manager. She first appeared in fairs and carnivals, against both men and women; and soon had a small band of women wrestlers lined up for booking in prelims. In spite of criticism from all corners, Mildred appeared in all states except New York, where they still ban woman wrestlers; she was one of a band of six that were first allowed to wrestle professionally in Japan. The group drew a crowd of 40,000 three nights in a row. And it was through Miss Burke's efforts that Japanese women were allowed to wrestle professionally. As for her not being defeated, an article in Boxing - Wrestling Magazine tells me that June Byers took the belt away from her in 1953; but Mildred must have regained the belt; at least she was allowed to keep it when she retired.

IRON MIKE DEBAISE

Iron Mike Debaise has been wrestling for several years. He started wrestling at the ripe old age of eight years, and I do mean eight. And was at one time the heavyweight champion of Mexico. He knows his tag teams too, having doubled up with his brother, Ramon, who has appeared here. We will have another handsome lad around too, one Danno O'Shocker, strictly Irish, 240 pounds; has been wrestling in Canada, where he was quite a favorite. 'Pepper' Romero I couldn't find out anything about Enrique "Pepper" Romero who appeared here last Monday. But I did find out that Major Ray First had to leave to report to the National Guard camp in Riverside, Calif., in order to retain his rank. Chicago's Wrestling Life Magazine insists that Edward Carpenter of France is the world Heavyweight champ; that he won the belt from Lou Thesz in June; but the people who know say it isn't true. Anyhow, why not bring him in and let us look him over; call him just plain Ed Carpenter and see how he makes out, Texas style!!! Three great bouts are lined up for you at the Top o' Texas Sportsman Club Monday evening. Pampa only year around sport, WRESTLING, is promoted by the Pampa Shrine Club. The opener will find Art Nelson and Lou Plummer in a one fall or twenty minute bout. Semi final will pit Tommy Phelps against Pepper Romero in a forty-five minute or two out of three falls affairs. For those of you who have been wishing for someone to beat h-h heck out of Phelps this will be your golden opportunity; for it was Romero who handled the Great Bolo very well last week; remember? The main event is a tag team contest; Art Nelson, the Great Bolo (and his gimmick) against Iron Mike and Lou Plummer. This should be a real thriller, with all four men being extremely on the rough side.

Roy Sievers Might Have Kept Browns In St. Louis

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor
NEW YORK (NEA) — Roy Sievers is the one bright spot in an otherwise thoroughly dismal Washington baseball picture. And the Senators wouldn't have their one lifesaver had not a St. Louis surgeon expressed the opinion that Sievers never again would throw well enough to play major league ball.

The medico put his diagnosis in writing and the new Baltimore owners made the discovery when they took over the files with the purchase of the Browns from Bill Veeck in October, 1953. Sievers was promptly traded to the Senators for Gil Coan. That's the biggest break Washington has had since they prohibited dames from standing at bars.

An unusual twist is that it was a break which gave the Senators the break.

The Yankees offered the Browns $250,000 for Sievers when he first popped into the American League at 22, manufacturing 16 home runs and driving in 91 runs as recruit-of-the-year. The big, angry youngster played center field and plucked a couple of balls into the left field seats at Yankee Stadium to open Casey Stengel's eyes.

Schooled observers labeled Sievers as the new stickout player of the American League. Such was his potential that the Browns might still be in St. Louis had he not been injured.

But even Mickey Mantle had to be sent back to the minors. Remember? Sievers had been rushed along too quickly. His batting fell off in 1950, and when young Roy developed a sore arm in '51, he was shipped to San Antonio for two purposes — the Texas heat for the arm and to get his eye on the ball.

And then on an August day in Dallas it happened. Diving for a ball, Sievers landed on the point of his right shoulder. A long scar running down his arm is the mark of the operation that corrected a chronic shoulder separation.

Sievers platooned at first base for the Browns in 1953. As the doctors said, the arm wasn't strong enough for outfielding.

When Sievers reported to the Senators in the spring of 1954, Bucky Harris asked him how many runners were thrown out at the plate in a season by a left fielder.

"Three or four," replied Sievers.

"That's not enough to make any difference," said Manager Harris. "You're my left fielder." The Senators had Mickey Vernon at first base.

Sievers stretched his arm and threw the ball a little farther each day.

Soon runners were not taking the extra base on him.

Sound again, Sievers set a new record for Washington in home runs and started batting in around 100 runs a year. This he is doing for the fourth consecutive season as an authentic big ball-player. Already this season he has topped his 1956 Washington home run mark of 29. He is in the fight for the American League lead in runs-batted-in.

More recently Sievers tied an American League record with six home runs in as many straight games, swatted seven in eight, 10 in 17. He has broken up seven games with home runs in the final stanza — three against the Yankees.

"He's got to be strong," points out Cookie Lavagetto. "He came up in the 17th inning in 98-degree heat in Washington the other afternoon and belted the ball into the left field bleachers."

"It's a tragedy," says Casey Stengel of the Yankees. "That there feller has a right-hand swing as beautiful and level as I've ever seen. No telling how far he'd have gone had he not been hurt."

Tag Teams Head Main Event In Tomorrow Night's Wrestling

The Great Bolo and Art Nelson will pair tomorrow night against Lou Plummer and Iron Mike DeBaise in a two-out-of-three fall tag team match for the main event at the Sportsman Club wrestling. The match is limited to one hour.

In the semi-final Enrique Romero will tangle with Tommy Phelps in another three fall match, limited to 45 minutes. For the curtain raiser, Art Nelson is pitted against Lou Plummer in a match scheduled to go one fall or 20 minutes.

In last week's matches Art Nelson opposed Iron Mike in the main event which was called with no winner. Mike and Nelson had one fall each when they carried the battle outside the ring, causing the double disqualification.

The semi-final of last week's matches went to Enrique Romero over Bolo when a disqualification by the referee ruled Bolo out of the match. Both men had one fall when the tussle was ended. The first event between Frankie Murdoch and Tommy Phelps went the 20 minute time limit to a tie.

The wrestling, held each Monday night at 8:30, is sponsored by the Pampa Shrine Club. The Sportsman Club is located across from the Pampa Drive-In on the Lefors highway.

Admission is $1.50 for ringside, $1.25 for reserved seats, 90 cents for general admission adult and 50 cents for general admission children.

Basilio Bout May Be Sugar Ray's Final

Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.
By SUGAR RAY ROBINSON
World Middleweight Champion

GREENWOOD LAKE, N.Y. (UP) — I don't know why it is but the question I am asked most and the one most difficult to answer is:

"Will this be my last fight?"

By this, of course, they mean my fight with Carmen Basilio in defense of my title at the Yankee Stadium on Monday, September 23. They asked me the same question after every fight since I began my comeback in January of 1955.

I suppose when you've been fighting as long as I have, the question is inevitable. How to answer it is something else again. I tell people I'll cross that bridge when I come to it and they think I'm evading the issue. That's not it at all. How can a man tell what's inside of him? Who knows how he'll feel a couple of weeks from now?

I realize this fight with Basilio is one of the biggest in my life from every angle, both prestige-wise and financially. All my physical and mental faculties are being concentrated on Basilio and Basilio only. I'm not thinking of anything past the night of September 23rd.

Not Taking It Lightly
Lest I delude anybody, I'm not taking this fight lightly. Whether the fight lasts one round or fifteen, I expect a rugged evening.

I have always been objective enough to take stock of myself and to consider how many rugged evenings a prize fighter of 36 has left in his system.

When I began fighting again after 31 months in retirement, I tried to tell people it was a comeback, not a second career. I know that at my age, I'm not coming any more. That's just common sense. I know, too, though that I'm not through. My problem is to get the most out of the skills I still have. Up to now, I haven't done too badly.

They ask me constantly about training and how tough it must be at my age, to go through the so-called rigors of the conditioning grind. It is a grind, I will admit, but when you've had as much experience doing it as I've had, it is not as tough as it sounds.

For this fight, I had an immediate problem. Having fought on May 1st, I found myself low in weight when I reported to camp on August 5th. The trick was to sharpen myself without losing too much weight. George Gainford and Harry Wiley share the problem. We decided that we would do less boxing and concentrate on exercises calculated to speed up the hands and legs.

How Training Went
Roadwork started with a walk, moved up to a jog, then a trot, with the distance increasing gradually. That builds stamina. I'm not worrying about my punching or my timing, which has always taken care of itself. I'm concerned chiefly with the speed of hand and foot and when those items are sharp, the timing comes automatically.

A mature body knows what it is capable of doing. I'm not going to build it any stronger than it is because there is no longer room for building. It has reached a capacity physically that the years attend to. What can be achieved in a training camp is strictly the sharpening of movements and reflexes. I'm not going to learn how to punch any harder than I do now nor can I change my style of fighting at this stage of my career.

There is, perhaps, the advantage I have over Basilio. He can't change his style, either, no matter how he tries. That's his big and as such seems suited to my type of fighting. This is not a prediction of victory. I have never made one and never will.

All I can safely say is that God willing, I hope to win. I feel, from what I know of Carmen, that he can be beaten. The rest is up to me and the good Lord. I have been extremely lucky so far.

Musial Doesn't Regret His End Of Consecutive Play

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — Stan Musial looked back without regret today at the snapping of his National League record for consecutive games but looked ahead to rejoining the St. Louis Cardinals for their chase of the league-leading Milwaukee Braves.

"Maybe I'll be back in four or five days," Musial said. "I hope so, but I guess I have to take it easy."

Musial, who chipped a bone and tore a muscle in his left shoulder Thursday night against Philadelphia, was out of uniform for the first time in six seasons Friday.

night as the Cards bowed to the Phils, 3-2.

The consecutive game streak of Musial is broken now, but the actual number played in succession won't be decided until next week.

The Man played 862 in a row before he sat out the second game of a double-header at Pittsburgh on July 21. The game was suspended by the Pennsylvania Sunday curfew law and if he makes only a token appearance next Tuesday when the game is resumed his record will jump to 885 games.

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Groucho Marx is laughing it up about three of the world's greatest men having their life stories turned down by Hollywood because they were never narcotic addicts or problem drinkers.

But 74-year-old Francis X. Bushman isn't laughing. "The Big Surprise," hasn't been able to interest Hollywood in his lantern-slides-to-TV saga which he's calling "Grandma's Pin-Up Boy."

THE DAPPER, silver-haired, well-preserved Bushman, married a year now to his fourth wife and the grandfather of 15 children, sighed about Hollywood's present lack of interest in his filmography which he describes as "an inspirational story guided by the fates."

"I guess," he told me, "I should have had a problem. But except for spending money, I never had one. I didn't struggle for success, either. It just happened." I'm surprised Hollywood hasn't seen the box office value of Bushman's money problems. Man, he had 'em. And they were just as insidious for Bushman as narcotics or liquor when he was the screen's first "Great Lover" who starred in 400 million pictures before he was 35.

EVEN TODAY'S free-spending Texas millionaires lift eyebrows over the way Bushman lived it up between the time he was elected "King of the Movies" in 1915 and when he played his greatest role in "Ben Hur" in 1926. He netted $5,000,000 in one five-year period of those low income tax days and spent every cent of it! He didn't even know, in fact, how much he had made, or spent, until his first wife went to court to obtain more financial aid for herself and five children.

Her attorney, armed with a special court order, went to Washington and came back with the news that Bushman had netted six million in five years.

"What happened to it?" an angry judge asked Bushman. "You know me," replied the smiling movie idol, "I spent it."

Where did the money go? Nearly $1,000,000 was lost in the 1929 stock market crash and the rest was spent on the highest living Hollywood has ever seen. Bushman rode around in a $22,000 custom built, purple, gold-monogrammed limousine with a big gold eagle on the front and tipped newsboys $10 for handing him the latest 5-cent edition. He collected big-as-golf-ball amethysts, toured the world three times, leaving a flood of money wherever he went, and maintained a 300-acre estate called "Bushmanor" just outside of Baltimore, where he was born.

HE RECALLS today? "I guess I spent $1,000,000 just stocking the place with prize dogs and horses. Everything was prize. Why, I even had prize mules." Not to mention, 20 prize servants he lured to Bushmanor with salaries comparable to today's movie stars.

But after the '29 stock market crash, which left him penniless, Bushman faced life with the same smile he used to tell a judge what happened to $8,000,000. Until his TV appearance last fall, Bushman's beautiful, resonant voice kept him busy as a radio actor and featured player in occasional movies like his forthcoming Moses in "The Story of Mankind."

"Sheer personality," Bushman says, won him early movie fame. Today, he says sadly, "Directors featured player in occasional movie making. There are a great many popular actors today but no great personalities. In my day as a movie star we had nothing but ourselves to sell."

"Today a star's personality comes second to the director's. Sheer personality is overshadowed by the director's style. Today great movies — not great personalities — bring people into theaters."

Ford Slogan Now Made Trademark

AUSTIN — After nine years of branding its automobiles with the familiar "Built in Texas by Texans" label, the Dallas Ford assembly plant has made it official by taking out a trade mark.

Executives at the plant were embarrassed recently to find that the blue and white larriat sticker was not protected by law. This was brought to Ford Motor Company's attention when an out of state leather good manufacturer inquired into the possibility of using a similar slogan on its products. Ford promptly applied for a trade mark which was granted by the Texas Secretary of State on August 9.

Each year the plant receives hundreds of requests for stickers to replace those which have been removed from the back windows of Fords. Others,

Peg O' Pampa

PEG IS STARRY-EYED with her head in the clouds these evenings . . . and for no particularly dreamy reason . . . other than she has been watching the comet that makes its nightly appearance in the northwestern skies these summer mid-evenings . . . you can find it hovering high in the sky between eight and nine-thirty . . . Peg and her brood have been out to watch it each evening . . . and in case you would like to find it too . . . if you haven't already . . . use the Big Dipper as your starting point . . . then trace with your eye an imaginary diagonal line west from the bottom-base star of the cup . . . and another imaginary line from the last star on the handle . . . where those two imaginary lines would meet there is the glorious comet . . . almost dominating that part of the sky . . . it is quite apparent to the naked eye . . . but binoculars help bring out its vivid beauty . . . Peg has heard that it will be many a year before it will be so clear again . . . so comet-gaze, while you can . . . and speaking of things high up . . . how about this Major David Simons, who ascended in a balloon 100,000 feet straight up . . . suppose his name will go down in our history books . . . like Columbus . . . De Soto . . . or Magellan?? . . . without fear of sounding horse-and-buggish . . . there are too many places Peg wants to go on the old terra firma . . . without having people go to so much trouble to find out about outer-space travel . . . places, like, for instance, where our own Betty Jeanne Reynolds is going . . . she sailed last week abroad the SS Ryndam from New York harbor . . . bound for Europe . . . where she will spend the next four months on a Holiday Tour of the continent . . . Betty is an engineer with an aircraft company in Dallas, you know . . . now there is some worthwhile travelling.

Sandra's sister, Candace, helped out, too, by registering guests and playing several piano selections during the evening . . . Peg is sure that friends of Kelvin Neil will be happy to hear of his engagement and approaching marriage to Edith Chamberlain Hunter . . . who is affectionately called "Deetie" by her friends . . . Elsie and Roy Floyd's home on North Russell was really bubbling with fun on Wednesday evening . . . when they had a group of their 20-30 Sunday School classmates in for a watermelon party . . . and as if Dot Overman didn't have enough excitement and happiness in her life . . . what with making plans for the big wedding of her son to Pat Rector on August 29 . . . and all the activities connected with that . . . she is also getting ready for a trip to Istanbul, Turkey, to attend an international medical convention with her husband, Dr. M. C. Overton . . . they plan to leave around the thirteenth of October . . . they also plan tours around the continent and will visit with his brother in England . . . which reminds Peg, don't you know that Teed Hicks with her friend from New York and her son Kent and his friend, Johnny Kinard of McAllen, are really having a ball on their tour of England . . . Teed's friend has been there before and is familiar with the out-of-the-way places . . . they planned to buy a small car . . . as soon as they arrived . . . and "discover" all those places that are not-on-the-average-tourists-tours . . . imagine Teed and Kent will have some lovely mementoes and memories of their summer in Europe . . . and now Peg has heard everything . . . cupid's cost-of-living must have gone up, too . . . for come September 1st, marriage license fees will advance in cost . . . alas and alack!

PEG HAS BEEN canning this week . . . nothing as elaborate as her mother used to do . . . sans pressure-cooker and air-conditioning . . . but nevertheless she is awfully proud of her half-filled shelves . . . bright yellow peaches tinged with red for the fresh peach cobbler next January . . . vivid red tomatoes for that noon-time flavoring in the children's luncheon soup . . . and chow-chow, which will be a welcomed addition to Mr. Peg at any time of the year . . . so, til next week.

GRACE FRIEND

Dear Grace:
Can you tell me just how much red tape and time are required to clear title to a car which is being sold for storage before it can be sold? Does it take several weeks or months — just what is the procedure? Must one wait indefinitely before it can be bought? Thanking you for this information, I am,
Yours sincerely,
J.L.S.

Dear J.L.S.:
To secure a judgment against the owner of the car you must be prepared to prove the indebtedness. I would suggest that you consult a lawyer since the matter is one that must be settled in court.
I do not know how much time would be taken to settle the claim.
OIL PAINTINGS
Dear Grace Friend
In addition to washing oil paintings as you advised, one should also apply a special oil to soften and preserve it: oil of the painting. Grumbacher oil is made especially for this purpose. A bottle of it may be purchased in most paint or artists' supply stores for 45 cents. I use the crystal clear.

DIVORCE ANONYMOUS
Dear Grace
My wife and I have been separated for several months and we are expecting a baby this fall. I love my wife very much but she feels that our marriage was a mistake and that we have nothing in common.
I have heard of an organization called Divorce Anonymous which is dedicated to preventing marriage breakups. I cannot find the address of the organization and thought that perhaps you can help me.
Dear J. D.
I have tried to find the address for you but have not been successful.
If any of my readers knows it I will be happy to forward you the information.

Miss Monta Sue Williams, Danny King Repeat Wedding Vows In Church Rites

At seven o'clock in the evening of August 17, marriage vows of August 17, marriage vows of Miss Monta Sue Williams and Danny King were solemnized in the First Christian Church with Rev. Dick Crews officiating in the double-ring ceremony before an altar banked with large bouquets of gladioli and greenery.
Miss Williams is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy W. Williams, Star Route 3, Pampa. Mr. King's parents are Mr. and Mrs. James L. King, 2001 Coffee.
As the wedding guests assembled, Mr. John Gice, organist, played "Oh, Promise Me," and "Claire DeLune" and was accompanied for Mrs. Don Patchin as she sang "Wedding Prayer," "Because," and "Always."
Given in marriage by her father, Miss Williams was lovely in a gown of nylon lace, which featured a fitted bodice with a scalloped V-shaped neckline and long sleeves which ended in petal points over the hands. The bouffant lace overskirt was calloped around the hemline and was worn over a bouffant street-length skirt. Autumn Fashions Has A Whole Batch Of New Terms For Chic Coed To Know

WOMAN'S BEAT
By GAY FAULEY
NEW YORK (UP)—Fashion this fall has its own version of the college entrance exam — a whole batch of new terms for the chic coed to know.
For instance, Quad coat, skirlotte and campus strutter.
B. Altman and Co., one New York store, as a public service to the puzzled coed, has compiled and published an "unabridged dictionary of 1957 college fashions." With the store's permission, here are excerpts, with a couple of my own rung in.

tern this fall . . .

He related how Josephine, wife of Napoleon, is largely responsible for the preservation of the older roses, as well as, hybridizing, which is the forerunner of the present-day highly specialized roses. Mrs. Arthur Aftergut closed the program with a demonstration on how to root rose cuttings. Hostesses were Mmes. Joe Shelton and Charles Burton. Twenty-six members and two guests, Mr. and Mrs. Lane, were present.

RUTH MILLETT
 The married Brown children are slowly and subtly pushing their parents into old age.

Though their parents are still alert and active, the children have stopped asking their advice and started giving it.

Their parents love the big, old house they have lived in for nearly 30 years. But the Brown children keep harping on the theme: "What you need is a small, modern house. It's silly for you to be rattling around in a big, old house."

The fact that the big, old house is home and the neighbors old friends doesn't keep the Brown children from trying to substitute their idea of a suitable place to live.

Sure, Mr. Brown comes home tired after a day's work. But his job is his life. And yet his children insist that he ought to retire and take it easy.

The Brown children are good about writing letters. And, of course, their letters mean a lot to their parents. But they would have a better effect if they were not over solicitous. It makes the Browns feel old to know their children worry about them all the time.

Nothing does more to keep an older couple young than the feeling that their children respect their judgment. They should get credit for being able to manage their own lives.

But the most loving children often overlook that fact. In the name of love, they actually push their parents into old age.

Sweater Fashions
For College Coed

By GAILE DUGAS
NEA Women's Editor
NEW YORK (NEA) — There's a sweater type for everybody in the female population, starting with wee tots and working right through the Thelma Ritter cardigan and the glamor girl stuff. There's the country look, the very fancy evening look, the campus look and the sophisticated city look. This fall, you can pretty well pick the length, type, color, weight and weave that you favor to say nothing of the stuff from which the sweater's knitted. The sweater turns into a costume top for autumn. It's worn as an overblouse. It's a neat little jacket. When it gets fancy, it's touched with velvet, embroidery, lace, satin or chiffon. We show here two sweaters utterly unlike each other, yet both sound fashion. For campus wear, there's the bulky cableknit wool cardigan in white, nipped at the waistline. It can be worn day or evening. Double-breasted jacket with brass buttons (right) is in a heavy ribbed - stitched wool. It has the longer length, longer sleeve and notched lapel collar. Both designs are by Rosanna.

MATURE PARENT

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Early one afternoon a friend of Maida's mother whom she hadn't seen for three years dropped in for a visit. It wasn't very successful. Maida's baby brother behaved beautifully. He permitted himself to be thoroughly admired; then fell asleep almost as soon as he was placed in his crib. But Maida refused to take her nap. Finally when she had to be allowed downstairs, she used every reason she could think of to divert her mother's attention from the guest. The loose wig of her doll needed securing. She had to go to the bathroom. Where was her book with the picture of the three baby kittens? At last, exasperated beyond endurance, Maida's mother slapped her — and took her back upstairs. There Maida succeeded in her purpose. She got rid of the guest. She screamed so long and insistently that the guest couldn't stand it and remembered she had some shopping to do. Thus, slapping our attention-demanding tyrant gets nowhere. The experienced parent has learned this — and deals with him by arranging attention to him BEFORE he starts in to demand it. You take an old pillow slip. In to it you put some of Maida's forgotten toys. On your first trip downtown, you visit the dime store where you pick up some new ones. These you mix in with the old ones and tie the bag shut. say, "This is your Surprise Bag. Then you call Maida to you and it only comes out of the closet when we go to see people or people come to see me. Before I start talking to them, I'll open the Surprise Bag. With your eyes closed, you can reach into it — and see what you find. After that you can reach into it one more time. Now before I put it away, close your eyes, reach into it — and see what treasure you find." When the Surprise Bag succeeds in reducing Maida's attention demands, don't run off with the idea that she's been soothed by the toy watch or playing cards she's pulled out of it. What has fed her hunger for our attention is the sight of the white bag beside our chair — its visible, comforting assurance that her happiness is on our mind even while we seem to be attending to our guest. Sitting at a desk can tie a person in knots. So why not make simple office tasks work for you in the way of exercise? For example, place a telephone a distance from you so you will have to stretch to reach it. This is good for the arms and upper part of your body.

"Did anyone ever tell you that you look like so-and-so (so-and-so being a glamorous movie star)?" "This is delicious; will you give me the recipe?" "You've lost weight, haven't you? I noticed it the minute I saw you." "My, what a pretty daughter. And she looks so much like you." "Now tell me all about your grandchildren. Do you happen to have any snapshots of them in your handbag?" "I love the way you've decorated this room." "What are you talking about dieting for — a little thing like you?" "You don't mean to tell me this is your daughter. You look more like sisters." "It can't be 10 years since we saw each other last. You haven't changed a bit." "An old beau of yours was asking all about you." "I don't see how you accomplish

Miss Littau Feted
At Bride's Shower

(Special to The News)
PERRYTON — Miss Delores Littau, bride-elect of Virgil Case, was honored with a miscellaneous shower recently in the home of Mrs. James Hardy, 718 South Main. Co - hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Hardy Hulsey, Earl Schwalk, Stella Williams, everything that you do." "I didn't know you had been in the hospital. Tell me about your operation." "That dress is exactly the color of your eyes." "You simply have to head that committee. There's no one else who could do it half so well." "Now I want to hear all the latest gossip. First, tell me..." "You don't look a day over..." The blank may be filled in with any age, just so that it is at least 10 years younger than the woman actually is.

Paul Hardy, Virgil Olmstead, Fred Tillman, Robert Barlow and Ben Graham. The serving table was covered with a white lace cloth over yellow centered with an arrangement of white gladioli and yellow carnations flanked with yellow candles. Mrs. L. H. Littau, mother of the honoree, presided at the punch service. Mrs. Ben Cook, aunt of the honoree, registered the guests. Corsages were presented to the honoree; her mother, Mrs. Littau, and Mrs. L. C. Case, mother of the prospective bridegroom. Approximately 35 guests called during the afternoon. Actresses know tricks of aging for a part. One is pursing the lips to get a thin-lipped look. This is fine for the stage. But as a woman gets older she would rather highlight her features. Making thin lips fuller with lipstick is a simple step.

Make Up Eyes While Wearing Glasses Lenses Will Show Work To Be Done

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

Most girls who wear glasses find it difficult to apply eye make-up effectively without pressing their noses to a seamy mirror in order to see what they're doing.

Unless eye make-up is applied correctly, eyeglasses can dull the eyes and cast eye-hiding shadows. One of New York's leading beauty salons recommends specific methods for dramatizing the eyes under glasses without making them look painted.

To bring out the sparkle they suggest that you learn to apply your eye make-up with glasses on. In doing so you won't neglect highlights that you might otherwise not see clearly.

Glasses often make the eyes look smaller, and dark circles under the eyes cast a shadow that heightens this unflattering effect. Try covering the dark circles with a light-toned powder base. After the base is applied, look closely into a mirror and blend it carefully with a cotton swab. Be sure it looks like your own skin and not too bright patch of special make-up.

To make the eyes look larger, these same make-up artists suggest using an eye liner on the upper lid. Start at the center of the eye and draw the line to the outer edge. Don't use the liner on the bottom lid, for it will create a shadow that will be reflected by your glasses. Eyeshadow should be worn, too. Place a dot of it at the center of the eyelid and blend up and out.

It's easy, too, to learn to apply mascara while wearing glasses. Just use the side of the brush instead of the tip. That way you can slide the brush in front of the eyelashes and see what you are doing. If your eyelashes have a tendency to be sparse, dip a cotton swab in powder and dust it over the lashes before applying mascara. It will give them a thick, full look.

Eyeglass frames should never hide the brows. Short, light strokes with an eyebrow pencil will give the additional emphasis needed.

Speaking of frames, remember that the right type can improve facial contours. Slanting frames can make a square face seem almost oval when the lower edges of the frame are rounded. Frames that are horizontal can lessen the apparent length of a long face. And if you have a heavy jawline or strong chin, upswept frames can give your face a pixy touch.

If you take time and patience with your eye make-up and find the type of frame that best fits you, there is no reason why glasses can't enhance your beauty.

Makes Friends Manners

If you go on a vacation and are gone several weeks it is thoughtful to send cards or notes to your close friends. That lets them know that even away from home you still think of them.

Such small gestures help to keep friendships warm and alive.

Sticking your neck out may be embarrassing if you haven't given it the proper care it deserves. It actually needs more attention than either the face or the more protected body. Exposed to outside dirt and weathering, the neck also is in continual contact with fur, collars and scarfs. Scrub your neck once or twice a day for cleanliness and use a body lotion to give it softness.

looks so fresh and neat."

You've heard it said and in admiring tones, too.

There's something in this quality of healthy, shining cleanliness that appeals to all of us. Hair shining like satin. Skin glowing. Shoes polished and gloves immaculate. Clothes really clean and accessories held to a minimum.

Looking like this, a girl needn't be a beauty to catch admiring glances. If she has, in addition, a smile that sparkles, a genuine interest in what other people have to say and a quick compassion, she's far better off than if she possessed great beauty.

It's within the reach of all of us to look this way. The catch is, taking the time and trouble.

The sheath is a lovely dress, very becoming to girls with flat stomachs.

If you're adding several sheaths to your wardrobe for fall, it's time to make sure that that stomach is really flat.

Here's an exercise that will aid turning the trick. Lie down on the floor flat on your back with arms at your side. Lift legs together in air, then bring them back to abdomen with knees bent. Straighten the legs out, keeping them straight up in the air. Lower them slowly to the floor. The effectiveness of this exercise depends on your doing it slowly rather than rapidly. Try to do it 25 times each day.

Shopping Male Gets Sartorial Nudge For Education In Field Of Fashion

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Correspondent
ALLENTOWN, Pa. (NEA) — MAN puts on his own trousers as soon as he's strong enough to throw his last diaper at M o m . That is, most men did until recently when a male fashion consultant stepped in to tell them, so to speak, how to wear the pants in the family.

This sartorial venture by a housewife here isn't as dictatorial as it sounds. And it is aimed at making a man tops with the women around him.

As Mrs. Edith Heckman says, "I'm not out to reform the man's world." What this mother of two daughters does do is nudge customers into choosing suits, coats and sports clothes to please themselves and their feminine admirers.

Mrs. Heckman stumbled into this undeveloped area while shopping with her husband at a department store in Allentown. She helped a perplexed friend buy a suit. That was all she needed to march to the president's office and ask for a job as the only woman in men's wear at Hess Brothers.

This male shopper obviously doesn't mind the advice of Mrs. Edith Heckman regarding the suit's fit and style. She is a men's fashion consultant.

"I simply felt that if a woman is around to lend a helping hand when a man is shopping for himself, he's bound to please himself and those that love him in what he's wearing," she says.

Mrs. Heckman is confident women now dominate men's styles as well as their own. One man admitted he had to dress to please his mother-in-law. Her whims and fancies changed with the seasons, he said. He plopped the shopping problem in Mrs. Heckman's lap.

"Also," she points out, "when women were sporting the Adrian-type suit with wide-padded shoulders and longer suit jackets a decade ago, so were men. Now that women have turned to soft rounded shoulders and a more natural look, the men also have followed suit."

In helping a male shopper select clothing Mrs. Heckman is a Sherlock Holmes without a calabash. She asks an unaccompanied male:

1. About the women in his life. If he's married, engaged, single . . . or even separated.
2. If his wife or fiancée shops with him. This tells her how interested the woman is in the man and how he looks.
3. The fashion tastes of the women in his life, especially his wife or fiancée . . . whether she dresses "town" or "country."

"My job," she stresses, "isn't just helping a man on color, style or design. Other real life considerations enter the picture. What type of job does he have? Does he go out much or what type of place es does he frequent socially? What are his hobbies, his likes and dislikes?"

The prize bull in the marriage market doesn't have a ring in his nose, though, according to Mrs. Heckman. Men are buying their clothes in lighter, brighter colors, despite the fact most women prefer their men in somber tones.

Mrs. Heckman says the man who shuns advice or approval from women will be sorry.

"When a man dresses up for the woman in his life, he wants her to feel that he's the best-dressed fellow in town — as well as the best looking. If he doesn't make the grade, he's bound to hear from his little lady about it."

Manners Makes Friends

If you are invited for a weekend in the country and don't know just what kind of clothes and sports equipment to take, ask your hostess. It is better to be sure than to make a wrong guess. For if you don't have what you need, your hostess will feel she must try to supply it.

Martha's Vineyard Inn Makes Sea Food A Delight

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor
Edgartown, Mass. — Martha's Vineyard, is beautiful with white houses of the old whaling captains.

At the gracious Harbor View Inn, overlooking the lighthouse, we enjoyed a Sunday night buffet. While sailboats and yachts moved past we worked our way through the menu; a seven-rib standing roast, a scalloped and crabmeat casserole, fresh peas, chicken, tuna, and cold boiled lobsters piled in great mounds. Also hors d'oeuvres of every description and garden relishes. Desserts — whipped cream rolls, mocha eclairs, Neapolitan slices, cheese cake and pecan pie.

We talked with Swiss-born, European-trained chef Walter Gasser, who gave us the secret of his scallop and crabmeat casserole. HARBOR VIEW SCALLOP AND CRABMEAT CASSEROLE (8-8 servings) Saute 4 cups small bay scallops and 2 cups king crabmeat in 3 tablespoons butter. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Pour over 3 tablespoons cognac or lemon extract. Ignite. When flame has burned out, turn sea food and juice into casserole. Scatter very thin strips of sweet green pepper over top.

For sauce: melt 4 tablespoons butter in saucepan; stir in 3 tablespoons flour. Gradually add 1 cup sherry or water, stirring constantly until sauce is reduced by one-half. Add 2 cups hot heavy cream, salt, peppe, cayenne and a very small pinch of nutmeg and a little dry mustard. Pour sauce over sea food in casserole. Place casserole in shallow pan of water and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for about 25 minutes.

TOMORROW'S DINNER: Garden relishes, Harbor View scallop and crabmeat casserole, fluffy rice, garden peas, crisp rolls, butter or margarine, sliced beefsteak tomatoes with chopped chives, French dressing, old-fashioned blueberry shortcake, Vermont cheese, coffee, tea, milk.

Dusting in nooks and crannies is a task only for double-jointed persons. However, there is a pileable duster with flexible wire frame. It goes around curves to dust in the crevices. The duster itself is of washable nylon yarn for easy cleaning.

Before wives in the habit of letting husbands get themselves off in the morning change their routines, they'd better check with their husbands.

Apparently there are some men who hanker for that hour alone they get every morning while their wives sleep.

Here's what one of my men readers has to say on the subject: "This letter is in regard to your recent column on the subject of the wife who doesn't get up to prepare her husband's breakfast and does not send him off to work with a kiss.

"Most of the husbands I know, myself included, prepare their own breakfasts or eat in town and go to work without the wife getting up. WE LIKE IT THAT WAY.

"This may hurt feminine feelings, but we husbands enjoy periods of silence. We aren't would-be hermits, but the waking hours of the day are the only hours in which a fellow doesn't have to do anything except take care of the routine of starting a new day and enjoy the silence.

"I have done some of my best thinking while preparing and eating breakfast in silence. I read the papers and a couple chapters of some book I'm going through.

"Maybe we silence-lovers are a tiny minority, and you don't care about a tiny minority. But please, lady, don't take our cherished early-morning peace and quiet away from us."

But I do care about a tiny minority that feels so strongly. That's why I'm amending that column encouraging wives to start their husbands off with a good breakfast, cheerful smile, and a goodby kiss to read:

"Unless you happen to be married to a man who treasures the quiet hours of the morning when he is the only creature stirring in the house."

Discipline Required To Insure Beauty

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

To insure a good night's rest, you need time to "unwind" before you go to bed.

You won't do it with a cup of coffee and a cigaret. A tepid bath is a help and so is a glass of warm milk.

Lots of people read themselves to sleep. But don't pick a problem book or a horror story for this purpose.

Make sure your blanket is neither too light nor too heavy and that the room is properly ventilated. If your street is noisy and you can't cut off the noise by closing some windows, use ear plugs, those little foam rubber and wax contraptions that cut off noise very effectively.

Last, but far from least, clear your mind of problems when you close your eyes. There's nothing you can do about them at this point, anyway, and after a good night's sleep, you can often solve them effectively.

Altrusa Club And Senior Citizens Plan Dinner Meet

Miss Jay Flanagan, Mmes. Bea York and Ruth Hutchens, Altrusa Club members, were hostesses for the Senior Citizens club meeting on Thursday in the Lovett Memorial Library. Twenty-nine members attended the summer afternoon meeting.

Visiting and games comprised the afternoon's entertainment. Refreshments of cookies, ice cream and coffee were served. Kit Kat Klub members, represented by Misses Sara Gordon, Virginia Hopkins, and Bobbie Lee Andis, provided transportation for the citizens to and from their meeting.

There will be no regular meeting of the Altrusa Club on Monday evening, as originally planned. Instead, it has been planned that the club will entertain Senior Citizens at a covered dish dinner on Thursday evening at 6 p.m. in the Lovett Memorial Library. This meeting will count on the regular attendance record for Altrusans.

Senior Citizens will meet at 4 p.m. for games and visiting preceding the supper. Transportation this week will be furnished by the Gray Ladies. Senior Citizens, who would like to attend, are asked to call the Red Cross office, 4-7121, and they will be picked up and returned to their homes.

Altrusa members are asked to bring a covered dish to the Lovett Memorial Library at 6 p.m.

The story of every charming, mature woman who has retained her good looks can be told in one word: discipline. It's self-discipline that makes it possible to refuse a rich dessert, to get to bed on time, to include a walk in fresh air in the daily program, to map out exercises that take care of those lumps and bumps that develop in the mid-thirties.

Discipline in diet and skin care, hair care and exercise has made it possible for the mature woman to keep her trim figure, shining hair and clear skin.

If these things are sufficiently important to you, you can have them, too. But to have them, and to keep them, you must be willing to put in boring hours of work. Exercise, hair drill and diet are not fun. But the results are.

Picking a perfume that's right for you is largely a matter of experimentation. Most department stores have perfume samples at hand for you to try. Once you've found a perfume you like, make sure that your skin reaction to it is good.

It's not necessary to settle down to one perfume for a lifetime. Most women have several different scents on hand and use them for various occasions.

Finally, make sure your perfumes are those that please you, as well as other people. That's half the fun of wearing perfume.

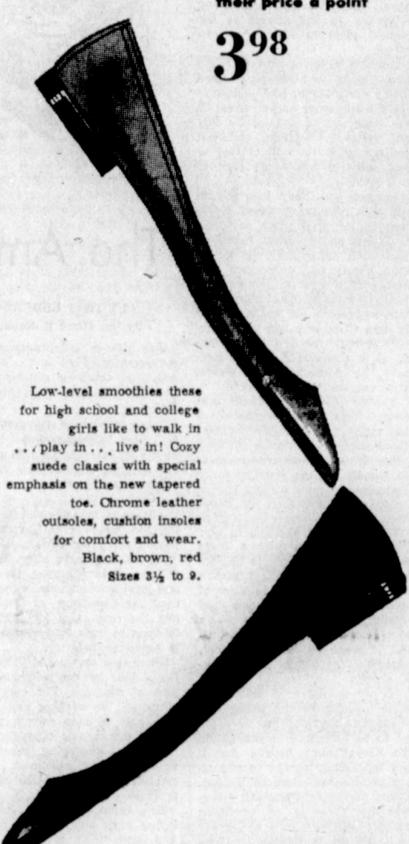

Every woman knows how to wash her face. Or does she? Vigor used while washing the face depends on a person's skin type. Oily skins, for example, take vigorous washing while dry skins need gentle action. In fact, a brush is recommended for oily skins, while hands or a soft washcloth are best for dry skins.

Protectionism

One of the most deplorable remnants of barbarism still evident in contemporary life, is the lure of protectionism, administered by an agency of brute force. Many a businessman, otherwise honest and industrious, is beset by fears that if he cannot secure police protection against his competitors then his business will suffer.

Filled with apprehension he hurries to the politicians he has helped elect and beseeches them to pass laws which will buttress his income with tariffs, embargoes or other restraints which will underwrite his efforts at the expense of the general public. Conscious of their political debt to the businessman... for without his political contribution they might not be in their positions of power... the various elected politicians hasten to perform like trained seals. They dream up ways and means of shoring up a lagging industry, subsidize it, and sign government contracts with it so that it can be perpetuated. This is pleasnig to the businessman and

Fortunately for our present comparatively high state of civilization, the lure of protectionism is not as wide-spread prior to the current half century. Had it been, we would today be taxed to protect the manufacture of horse-shoes, buggy whips, harness makers, canal boats, sails, button shoes, moustache cups, kerosene lamps, and hundreds of other items which have passed into the limbo of forgotten luxuries.

Instead, the persons who once made these things were permitted to shift their productive energies. Our continuing progress traceable to this fact. Quite naturally, businessmen like to feel that whatever they are doing is of permanent value. But the facts of life do not long permit of the luxury of this illusion. Today's necessities will, in time, drift into the past if the government does not prevent the drift. If we wish freedom and a continued advance toward a better and more abundant life, then it is important that flexibility be maintained in our economic life stream.

A case in point has been provided by the recent war fought over the Suez Canal. It seemed to Britain, France, Israel and Egypt that the Suez Canal was so vital, that an openly hostile series of acts could be justified in order to keep the canal profits intact. Regardless of the cost in lives or in treasure, a war was launched.

Quite rightly we deplored that war. And now the creative genius of human kind is shown to be entirely capable of reducing the usefulness and importance of the canal to the point that it becomes as unimportant as the crank on the old tin lizzie. If other ways, which are better and cheaper, can be found to bring oil and other cargo around the horn, or into general usage, then what value is the canal?

Faced with this problem, steel men went to work. In a Massachusetts shipyard the keel was laid on a 46,000 ton tanker, the largest ever to be built up to that moment. This tanker can load and travel around Africa quicker and at less cost than smaller tankers can make their way through the canal.

But this was only the beginning. Before the 46,000 ton vessel went down the ways, a 65,000 ton vessel was under construction and blueprints were made for a series of three 100,000 tonners. The latter, when completed, will represent the largest ships of any kind ever constructed by man. They have greater beam and capacity than even such giants as the Queen Mary and the Queen Elizabeth.

As of this moment of writing, 80 ships have been contracted for by various oil companies. Each of these ships is too large for the Suez. And each will carry more cargo, faster, farther and cheaper than anything in use prior to the Suez war.

Nassar, by virtue of the fertility of free enterprise, is about to discover that the little item he successfully stole from its owners, is of no more use as an income producer than a back-yard ditch.

This is an excellent example of the futility of trying to practice protectionism. Those things we attempt to defend at such dreadful cost, can often be replaced by better and cheaper items if only we trust free enterprise and stop depending on government to save us from some fancied harm.

EDITOR:

On behalf of the Top o' Texas Rodeo Association I want to thank you for your fine cooperation in publicizing this year's show which has been declared the most successful in the thirteen year history of the organization.

The success of this year's Rodeo is due to the cooperation on the part of a great number of individuals and organizations for which we are most grateful.

Bob Andis, President
TOP O' TEXAS
RODEO ASSOCIATION

Dear Editor,

On behalf of what I am sure is a population of a few hundred people living in the southwest of our city, I want to mention an oil pump that I know makes a few of us miserable.

We are in favor of oil pumps, bless their innards, they bring wealth to their owners and many products to all of us.

This particular oil pump squeaks. It is not so much the squeak that it makes as the fact that the owner sometimes, we assume, greases the pump so that it varies from a hoarse croak to a var-grinding squeak.

Just as we become accustomed to sleeping to the tune of a dull yet a very penetrating, throbbing growl, it will jump away up to high C. Worse still, it becomes completely silent for several seconds, which puts you on edge, betting how many counts it will be before it starts again.

If you can cause this condition to be noised around maybe we can get it before the owner and he can quit greasing it so that we can become immune to one constant noise and thus sleep sweetly.

The pump in discussion is located roughly on the right side of my bed as I try sleeping on my back, stern to south, head north, and I do know that each morning about 2 o'clock I shake a fist, distantly, out of a west screen door and slightly to the left.

This places the offending pump somewhere in the vicinity of the Amarillo highway and Price road. Anything that you can do about this to locate and impress the owner of the machine will be appreciated.

Yours very truly,
L. P. Fort

A Treasury Of Catholic Thinking

I want to pass on some of the gems in the book, "A Treasury of Catholic Thinking." They are relatively short quotations from Catholics down through the ages up to 1952.

St. Thomas Aquinas is quoted as saying: "The final joy of man consists in the superlative activity of his supreme power, namely the activity of mind engaged with incomparable truth."

Blaise Pascal had this to say: "Man is but a reed, the most feeble thing in nature; but he is a thinking reed... All our dignity consists, then, in thought. By it we must elevate ourselves, and not by space and time which we cannot fill. Let us endeavor, then, to think well; this is the principle of morality."

Plus XI made this statement: "There are still too many Catholics hardly more than in name. There are too many who fulfill more or less faithfully the more essential obligations of the religion they boast of professing, but have no desire of knowing it better, of deepening their inward convictions."

Desire Joseph Cardinal Mercier contends: "The morality of duty implies freedom in the moral agent. Duty performed without any reference to self-interest is the highest ideal to which can be attained."

Rudolph Allers writes: "At bottom, there is only one ideal 'doing one's job in life' — involving self-surrender and service; in the same way there is really only one virtue — humble, volitional conformity to the will of God — and only one sin — defiance of God's will..."

Lecomte du Nouy has this to say: "... Human progress, therefore no longer depends solely on God, but on the effort made by each man individually. By giving man liberty and conscience God abdicated a part of his omnipotence in favor of his creature, and this represents the spark of God in man ('God is within you.') Liberty is real, for God Himself refused to trammel it. It is necessary, for without it man cannot progress, cannot evolve."

The Rev. Martin J. Healy contends: "The virtue of justice is the mortar that binds together the bricks of the house of mankind. It is justice which gives to human life the stability which men need to work without fear or anxiety in the search for happiness."

Etienne Gilson has this to say: "The only reason why a State may not want children to be educated in view of God is that it wants them educated in view of itself. Totalitarian education does nothing more than go the whole way along the same line. The result is what we know: political, economic, intellectual and spiritual slavery..."

"If we do not care to awaken some morning on the wrong side of the Iron Curtain, then we ought all to be interested in not letting the liberal State believe that it can indefinitely persist in educating children in view of nothing. Either the liberal State will recognize that there is no education without religion, or it will cease to be liberal by turning itself into a god, and civil service into a religious service. Our only choice is not between religion and no religion, but between true religion and false religion."

Conscience Must Stand Supreme
The collection includes a very interesting chapter on natural law and human liberty by Leo XIII and also supremacy of natural law by Pope Pius XII.

Those Protestants who are afraid of Catholics might be surprised at what the Rev. Columba Cary-Elwes, O.S.B., wrote on "Conscience Must Stand Supreme." Listen to this:

"No man may surrender his conscience except to truth, whether he be Catholic, Protestant, Hindu, or Moslem. That is the inexorable law of our nature, and he who does surrender his will to anything else is a slave who deserves our pity. For conscience is the power of the practical judgment to discern what it is right to do in given circumstances, and what it is right to do can only be discovered by our intellect; it is a form of truth. To surrender our judgement, or conscience, to force or to some imagined danger, to passion, is to surrender the soul, its reason and its will, to something unworthy of it..."

"No non-Catholic should submit to the authority of the Church until his conscience tells him it is reasonable to do so. Faith is not blind, and the Church maintains that the evidence for her claims is enough for certitude, given an unbiased mind. Even a Catholic should not remain a Catholic if his conscience tells him he should not..."

The American Way

CUT THAT BUDGET
By Dr. Alfred P. Haake

July 4th is Independence Day for America. That is the day on which we celebrate signing of the immortal Declaration of Independence.

There is another day that could be called "Freedom Day" for industry in America, for it is on that day that our corporations will begin working for their owners, the stockholders. Until July 6th, on the average, industry will be working for the Federal Government, paying taxes for 1957.

All that they earn after July 6th will be divided among the state and local governments, some of it used for expansion of facilities, and the remainder for some ten millions of individual stockholders in American industry.

There is a theoretical "Freedom Day," too, for the individual citizens of America. For every one of us will be working until some date just to earn enough money to pay our income taxes for 1957.

Industry, employing labor and utilizing natural resources, is the hen that lays the golden eggs of progress and well-being.

But, even hens don't continue laying eggs unless they are fed. And when their rations are cut the eggs are fewer and less valuable. That is why we should be concerned with the squeeze on profits, which grows tighter and tighter as time goes on.

The squeeze is made tighter by a vicious circle which also dilutes the buying power of dollars in which we measure profits, prices and wages. We call it inflation—still going on robbing us of savings.

It is evidenced in the fact that employee compensation, according to the President's Council of Economic Advisors, went up about $86 billion during the past six years, while profits went down by $600 million in the same period.

Taxes and cost of government have gone steadily upward and climax now in the highest budget ever offered by the President.

The people are revolting so earnestly that the Congress has actually served notice that the budget must and will be cut.

The President is fighting hard for the budget which even he admitted was too high, when he offered it. Unhappily, he leaves the impression that the only place where the budget can be cut is where it is most dangerous to cut it. But, he also, and inadvertently, points to the very spot where it should and can be cut. And that is not on national defense, although there may be question as to the importance of providing Egyptian camel drivers with shower baths, building private roads from public buildings to gambling dens, or providing communistic governments with money to keep themselves in power.

Let us not be beguiled by pleas for security which serve as red herrings to lead us away from the places and items where reduction of the budget not only is possible, but vitally necessary if we are to continue a free people through the future.

The real cuts need to be made in so-called "welfare measures," federal aid to states and municipalities, projects that keep the federal government in competition with private business. Well over 25 billions of dollars a year are spent that way.

Even more important than the saving of dollars, it is to stop the further growth of Federal Government in responsibility and power, with a lessening of both for the States and local governments, as well as the people themselves.

The Doctor Says

By Edwin J. Jordan, M. D.

As the average age of the population increases an added number of people suffer with hardening of the arteries.

Q — I am 68 years old and for the past year have noticed that whenever I walk about a block I develop pain in my legs. When I stop, this pain goes away in a few minutes. Is this anything serious? — R. R.

A — In all probability this is a symptom of hardening of the arteries in the leg which carries the name "intermittent claudication." The blood vessels are narrowed by this hardening. They carry enough blood to the legs while a person is resting, but with the increased demand of exercise the muscles protest by causing pain. In some cases medical treatment alone is indicated. In others one of a variety of operative procedures may be useful. In the latter category cutting the sympathetic nerves is sometimes helpful and direct surgery on the blood vessels may also be used.

Q — Does the presence of pus in the urine mean the beginning of Bright's disease? — Mrs. H. O.

A — As a rule, the presence of pus in the urine is merely a sign of infection somewhere in the urinary passageways between the kidneys and the outlet. Bright's disease is more likely to be shown by the presence of blood or a protein known as albumin. However, the presence of pus is also cause for investigation of the urinary system.

Q — Would you please say something about the skin disorder known as dermatitis herpetiformis? My husband is suffering from this. — Mrs. F.

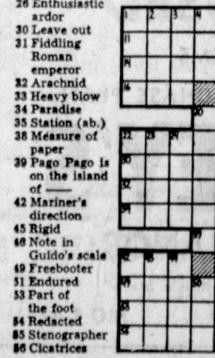

A — This is a skin disease of unknown cause and with none too satisfactory treatment available. It usually shows periods of improvement and worsening. Its treatment is largely by internal administration of one of the sulfa preparations and other drugs, since local external treatment is of only moderate value.

Q — For nearly a year I have had ringing in my ears. It comes principally when I am overtired or ill, but never stops. Last summer I had wax removed without much improvement. What can be the cause? — J. G.

A — The most likely cause is a disorder of the inner ear known as Meniere's disease. I should suggest that an ear specialist be consulted.

Bad Advice On 'Rights' Bill Hurts Eisenhower

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — The extravagantly erroneous advice given to President Eisenhower by his law experts during the historic civil rights struggle has hurt the prestige of the White House occupant in legal and judicial circles. It has embittered both conservative and liberal Democrats more than any other incident in several years.

In opposing the Senate measure providing jury trials for those accused of violating a person's voting rights, Eisenhower's Department of Justice aides used superlative and inaccurate language — and tactics. But the President, not being a lawyer, accepted their analysis in good faith.

As a result of this advice, which was a political rather than a legal brief, Eisenhower has permitted — or prodded — to say that the milder Senate version "weakens our whole judicial system."

Just what the President — or Attorney General Brownell — had in mind when they sponsored such an extreme statement, is a question. But here are Brownell's own departmental records on the insignificant importance of criminal contempt cases, tried with or without a jury, in Federal Courts:

In fiscal 1956, only 48 cases involving criminal contempt were considered throughout the whole Federal judicial system. Three were brought because of alleged contempt of Congress, and, of course, the defendants were entitled to jury trials.

But in that same year the number of criminal cases heard by a jury totaled 28,739. Lawyers cannot understand Brownell's contention that submitting only 48 criminal contempt cases to a jury would "weaken the whole judicial system" when so many thousands of far more important matters were settled in the same way, that is, by jury.

In fiscal 1957, 26 of the 69 criminal contempt cases in all Federal courts were for contempt of Congress, and they were tried by jury without any revolutionary or destructive effects. In the record year of 1951, when the House Un-American Activities Committee was doing a hand office business as an aftermath of the Hiss-Chambers disclosures of Communist espionage in the United States, there were 124 criminal contempt actions.

Since 64 of these involved refusal to answer questions before Congressional committees, they went to a jury for a decision. Thus, in these three years, 93 of 241 criminal contempt cases were submitted to juries under procedure fixed by law and supervised by Federal judges.

In short, the record reveals, first that there are an extremely small number of these controversial cases, compared to the total of criminal matters submitted to a jury. The number may increase in enforcement of a civil rights act, but there is no evidence that the government or the judicial system would be damaged seriously by giving a citizen his constitutional right to judgement by his "peers."

SPEAKER SAM'S COMMENT — Regardless of technicalities, however, the statistics demonstrate that the President, relying upon the D of J lawyers, had no conception of the operations of the judicial system, or the effect of the Senate Civil Rights Bill upon that branch of the government.

As Speaker Sam Rayburn growled when he read the memorandum on which the Eisenhower statement was based: "Whoever wrote that letter was not a lawyer."

What the Texan meant was that the critic was a politician.

PRESIDENT PLACED IN UNFAVORABLE LIGHT — The incident would "weaken the whole judicial system" when so many thousands of far more important matters were settled in the same way, that is, by jury.

He may wish to remain the sincere, nonpolitical figure he is held to be. But in one of the most important controversies in many years, he has been placed by his advisers in the position of a man playing partisan politics with a grave issue.

county court house to renew my registration. In the space allotted for "party affiliation" I wrote "none."

From youth I had thought of myself as a Democrat and I stupidly maintained that superstition throughout the traitorous reign of Woodrow Wilson and the first phase of the F. D. Roosevelt regime. Taken together, they bled the people almost to death — the people who have invented and written almost everything worthwhile in the history of man. Belatedly, I became a Republican in time to vote for Dewey against Truman. It took some time for Dewey to convince me that he was a capuled Roosevelt, tricky, impudent, cynical and selfish.

What party can I join now? Why should I join a "party" anyway? Parties are heedless aggregations of faceless amoeboids who do not know what their respective, so-called parties stand for.

Socialists and Communists know their Marx and kick dissenters out for split - hair deviations from their Kremlin. At the 1956 rallies, both our houses went into frenzies over "civil rights." In the elections we voted in absolute, stupid ignorance of the real commitments in both platforms which were almost identical in their ominous particulars. We did not know what we "endorsed" by our votes and a journalist of my acquaintance was rebuffed twice when he tried to stick a red flag on an atrocious betrayal of the trust and welfare of the American people which was adopted as a "solemn covenant" by both parties.

The southern Democrats of 25 years ago had the only real American party in our politics. They chose their members on certain conditions. They were citizens banded together by certain principles which they deemed essential. Dissenters had a right to form their own parties. The Republican and Democrat parties exist the right to vote as a holy attribute of man, born in any slob who can put a check - mark in a blank line on a printed registration form.
