Man Chases Would-Be Purse Thief

A Pampa purse thief, caught in the act yesterday, took flight and managed to elude would-be captors although he dropped his loot in the process.

Police said that when L. C. Stevens, 536 Lefors, returned to his parked automobile last night about 9:30, he saw a man taking a purse from his car.

Stevens immediately gave chase, starting at the Sears-Robuck store at 104 S. Cuyler where the car parked, and finally coming to a full stop on the railroad tracks near the North Texas Buda Service Company, 124 S. Frost.

The man, described by Stevens as being about six feet tall, blonde and weighing around 200 pounds, dropped the purse during the pursuit, spilling its contents on the street.

The purse belonged to Stevens' wife. This morning, police had not picked up any suspects.

Union, Auto Firms Price War Flares

By DALE ARNOLD

United Press Staff Correspondent
DETROIT (UP)—The price-cut battle between the United Auto Workers and the "big three" of the auto industry flared anew today, fanned by a UAW plea for help from President Eisenhower.

UAW President Walter Reuther wrote the President asking for a meeting "in the very near future" in view of rejection by the three auto firms of Reuther's suggestion that car prices for 1958 be cut $100.

The UAW president's statement Thursday brought almost immediate response from presidents of Ford, General Motors and Chrysler who said Reuther was only presenting his subject in a different way.

Curcio Comments
GM President Harlow Curcio said Reuther's "14-page publicity release" re-argues his letter to General Motors to which we replied in detail.

Henry Ford II accused Reuther of converting "a grave national problem (inflation) into a propaganda platform designed to divert public criticism from himself."

Chrysler President L. L. Colbert said Reuther was not presenting any proposal to change the nature of his original proposal.

Reuther, at a press conference Thursday, said the three failed to say they could not cut prices and still make profits and did not see price reductions "would result in greater sales."

Urges Meeting
He said price setting was admittedly the "prerogative" of management but added, "so is it our prerogative as a union to determine what demands should be made for increased wages."

Reuther urged Eisenhower to call a meeting of his economic advisers and heads of the auto firms and representatives of the UAW to discuss the price-cut proposal.

'Baby' Blast Is Fired By AEC Today

ATOP ANGELES' PEAK Nev. (UP)—Atomic Energy Commission scientists early today unleashed a "baby" nuclear blast believed to be part of a safety test of materials to protect human eyes from flash blindness.

The small nuclear device was detonated at 5:40 a.m. p.d. It was the 14th atomic explosion of the 20-shot summer "plumbbob" series at the Nevada proving grounds.

The device, called "Franklin Prime," was triggered from a plastic balloon 750 feet over the test site. The balloon was anchored to the desert floor.

There were 19 experiments on the sequence timer. Six Army, two Navy and sixteen Air Force planes swooped into the test area after the shot in a support training maneuver. The planes also contained delicate instruments to register radioactive material.

Despite its small size, clear skies resulted in the blast being seen in Las Vegas, Nev., and Los Angeles. Buildings in Hollywood also were lit by the blast.

It was estimated that the shot uncorked a power equal to about 8,000 tons of TNT. The fireball appeared in the sky for about 30 seconds. It displayed a vivid red color and then faded to orange.

City Has Four Water Projects Underway

By BILL NEAL

Pampa News Staff Writer
Keeping sufficient water facilities for a rapidly growing West Texas city is no easy task.

This can be verified by checking the current water and sewage projects at the City Engineer's office.

At the present, the city is working on four such projects and is slated to begin another in the near future.

Probably the biggest of these is the "water line circle" around Pampa which is just in the last stages of construction. Beginning at the city's pump station number two on south Hobart street, the new water line circles the town providing the newer developments with water, and ending at pump station number three on the Lefors highway.

All that remains to be done here is to test the south end of the line.

AND IN THE NORTH CREST Addition, construction has just begun on a new one million gallon overhead water reservoir which when completed will tower 140 feet above the plains. According to Jiggs Cook, public works director, work should be completed here within 60 to 75 days.

Another booster station is being built on the Lefors highway near the one million gallon ground storage tank there. This is booster station number three.

Work on one sewer line has just been completed and another line has been begun. A line in the north end of town from the North Crest Addition extending eastward over to the Stephen F. Austin School area has just been finished. Work on a second line from Central Park westward to the Pampa Community Hotel property just west of Hobart street and south of Kentucky has been started. These projects were begun about three weeks ago.

LAST TUESDAY, in the regular city commission meeting, bids for two more water wells were opened and the bid of H. H. (Shorty) Heiskell was approved. The bid totaled more than $28,000 for the new water circle which be drilled near the new booster station number three on the Lefors highway. One well will be drilled at the station and the other is to be within a mile of there. Work here is scheduled to get underway within 10 days.

From there it follows an eastward path until it hits the Perryton highway and continues along north 22nd street to Duncan. At that point it follows Linda Dr. over to the alley east of Dogwood Lane and then turns south down to Harvester street and on to the alley west of Lefors street.

FROM LEFORS STREET the line runs south to Tyng then to Barnes and on east from there on to Campbell and to Reed street where it turns south to the railroad right-of-way just south of the underpass on Barnes street. From that point it extends to pump station number three on the Lefors highway where it ends.

At this time there are no definite plans for any other expansion of the water or sewage program, although as Cook stated, "There's a need for many improvements yet."

RED JETS ARE COMING

The U. S. Government has approved a Soviet request to land two Russian TU-104 twin-jet airliners in the New York area in September. The first one, carrying members of the Soviet delegation to the United Nations, is expected the week of Sept. 3. The TU-104, one of which is pictured above at Le Bourget Field, Paris, France, in May, 1957, travels at about 500 m.p.h. at altitudes up to 35,000 feet. The sleek, 70 passenger airliners will be the first Russian civilian planes ever to land in the United States. (NEA Telephoto)

US Reported Leading Reds In Development Of Missiles

By CHARLES CORDDRY

United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—Authoritative sources said today the United States is holding its lead over Russia in development of long-range missiles.

They said there is no cut in the overall sustained effort to perfect the missiles, capable of knocking out a city when armed with a hydrogen bomb warhead.

Defense officials made the statements as two Democratic senators charged the administration is cutting back on its missiles program.

Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) a member of the committee, declared that "we are rapidly becoming second best under the narrow policies of the Treasury Department, which has dominated the government and which seems to be more concerned about profits for bankers than about the adequacy of our defense."

Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.), chairman of an atomic energy subcommittee checking on missile progress, said "there has been a cutback in the numbers planned for future production per month" for the Intercontinental Ballistic Missile (ICBM) and the Intermediate Range Ballistic Missile (IRBM).

Graham Says 'Forget About Confidential'

NEW YORK (UP)—Russia's claim it has successfully tested an intercontinental missile should have sent Americans to their knees "in sackcloth and ashes," Billy Graham said Thursday night.

But, the evangelist said, "our papers are taken up with news about Mäureen O'Hara, not the awesome fact the Russians have an intercontinental missile."

He begged Americans to forget about the Confidential magazine trial "and other amusements."

"It's time for us to wake up," Graham said. "The country is standing on the brink of Hell, fighting for its barest existence. God help us."

He said the apostle Paul arrived in Athens to find it a city given over to the pursuit of pleasure, escapism and idolatry and that as far as he could see, Paul would find American cities in much the same light.

"We as Christians are guilty of neglect, conformity, the desire to fit in with the materialistic dictates of our neighbors. The True Christian must have the courage to be different, to be peculiar and ready to work for what is right, no matter the cost to his own popularity."

"You New Yorkers acknowledge one God," he said, "but you don't know him and you don't serve him."

"I'm telling you that you can know God as well as you know your wife, your mother, or your husband. God wants to be, can be your friend."

But the council said if motorists maintain their records of the past two holidays, the toll could be held to 375 or fewer, the average for a non-holiday period at this time of year.

The United Press counted 437 highway fatalities during the Labor Day holiday last year.

Among the states planning special safety measures was Pennsylvania where Gov. George M. Leader ordered state plainclothes officers in unmarked cars to supplement normal patrols. Leader said the order was designed to give Pennsylvania its safest Labor Day holiday in its history.

Extra police help was assigned in Texas and Ohio, and some states were expected to use National Guardsmen and aircraft to aid police in handling traffic.

Patrol Reports Mishaps

Two minor wrecks, one near Mobeite and another one mile south of Pampa, were reported by the Highway Patrol yesterday.

At 11 a.m. Wednesday on state highway 102 near Mobeite, an automobile driven by Leroy Reaves of Mobeite collided with a car driven by Charles Glen Murphy of Canyon.

Officers said that Reaves was trying to cross the highway when the car driven by Murphy, which was traveling west on the highway, collided with the rear of Reaves' vehicle.

About $115 in damage was done to Reaves' automobile while the one driven by Murphy suffered $275 in damage.

Yesterday, one mile south of Pampa on state highway 273, a 1952 Chevrolet driven by Ralph Eaves of Pampa struck the rear of David Sutton's 1949. Sutton is also of Pampa.

Both cars were traveling south on the road. The Chevrolet suffered $150 in damage and the Ford had $100 worth of damage.

No injuries were sustained in either accident.

Millions Of Americans Head For Summer's Last Big Fling

By UNITED PRESS

Americans by the millions headed into summer's last big fling today, the Labor Day week-end holiday, and most states planned to leave it up to the motorists themselves to get back home safely.

Encouraged by the relatively good traffic records posted during the Memorial Day and Fourth of July holidays, a few states planned extra police measures during the long week end.

However, police forces in all states were prepared to go into action at full strength if the highway toll mounted sharply.

The National Safety Council predicted 420 traffic fatalities during the three-day week end, which begins at 6 p.m. today and runs through midnight Monday.

Final Burst Passes Major Legislation

By JAMES BAAR

United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—Weary congressmen scrambled today toward adjournment by nightfall of their 1957 session.

The House called a mid-morning meeting to vote on the Senate-passed compromise foreign aid and FBI files bills. Speedy action was expected.

The Senate marked time. It jammed through the compromise civil rights bill and all other pending major legislation in a burst of roll calls and voice votes that ended a 38-hour and 58-minute session early this morning.

The drawn-out session—longest since 1954—began at 10 a.m. e.d.t. Wednesday. A record one-man filibuster by Sen. Strom Thurmond (D-S.C.) against the civil rights bill kept the Senate in session but stalled throughout the night and most of Thursday.

Blue Army Directors Are Named

WASHINGTON, NEW JERSEY—A special report to all Bishops of the United States has already prompted the appointment of Diocesan Directors by four Bishops. It was reported today at Blue Army of Our Lady of Fatima Headquarters, here.

The report, completed last week to the 28 archdioceses and 107 dioceses of the country by the Blue Army Founder, Rev. Msgr. Harold V. Colgan, is similar to a report which brought "much consolation and satisfaction" to His Holiness, Pope Pius XII, according to Msgr. Angelo Dell'Acqua, Vatican Substitute Secretary of State.

The Pope's reaction was reported by Msgr. Dell'Acqua in a letter to Msgr. Colgan, saying, "He directs me to assure you of his appreciation and gratitude for your thoughtfulness."

Msgr. Colgan's report describes the aims, methods and progress of the Blue Army, which Msgr. Colgan himself began as a simple Parish devotion at St. Mary's Church, Plainfield, New Jersey, but which has mushroomed to include more than 15,000,000 members in 57 nations, 5,300,000 of them in the United States.

Also included is a description of the tests and surveys conducted by the Blue Army regarding the spread of the Message of Our Lady of Fatima through television. These tests resulted in the current nationwide television series, "ZE-RO-1940!" conducted by the Blue Army.

The Blue Army Statutes, the adoption of which is reported to the Bishops in Msgr. Colgan's special communication, gives formal organization to the Blue Army, which until now, has been a purely spiritual crusade. The appointments made by the three American bishops last week are a part of the worldwide application of the Statutes which provide for Priest Directors in each diocese where the Blue Army is organized.

The burglary was discovered about 9:20 this morning by J. C. Randall, Carver principal, who reported it to the police.

Randall said the break-in occurred between 1 p.m. yesterday and 9:20 this morning.

Hereford Breeders Enjoy Feast

The Top of Texas Hereford Breeders Association and guests, totaling more than 300, enjoyed a Frank Carter barbecue and a program of entertainment at the Rube Thompson park four miles east of Miami last night.

Durwood Lewter, former county agent and now operator of a commercial feed lot in Lubbock, gave an address on the type of feeder steer that appeals most to the commercial buyer.

Lewter feeds out approximately 40,000 steers annually.

Special entertainment was provided by the "Squeaky Door Four" quartet and the Maxine Milliron trio. Paul Studer, of Canadian, served as judge in the cake and pie baking contest which saw Mrs. J. P. Callihan of Conway declared the winner in the cake division while Mrs. George Coffee of White Deer was the winner in the pie baking.

Both ladies were given corsages by Clyde Carruth, president.

Carruth in his concluding remarks, urged all breeders to be looking forward to next year's show and sale which will be held the first Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday in March.

'Confidential' Hints More Witnesses

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Confidential Magazine's defense counsel hinted today it would call several more "surprise" witnesses in a final effort to disprove a movie producer's claim that he was told either "to pay off" or be the subject of a spy yarn in the so-called scandal magazine.

Defense Attorney Arthur Crowley was expected to attack testimony given earlier in the criminal libel trial by producer Paul Gregory, a prosecution witness. Gregory testified that Mrs. Marjorie Meade asked him for between $750 and $1,000 to keep a lurid story about him from the pages of Confidential.

Mrs. Meade with her husband, Fred, operated the magazine's Hollywood listening post. The Meades are co-defendants in the trial, which resumed today following a day's recess.

Crowley launched his blast at Gregory's testimony Wednesday by calling four "surprise" witnesses. One of the witnesses testified she was with Mrs. Meade the day of the alleged "blackmail" attempt, Sept. 16, 1955.

The defense attorney said he would present "further proof" that Gregory lied.

"I'm prepared to prove without a shadow of a doubt that Mr. Gregory told a falsehood," Crowley said. "I plan to obtain a perjury indictment against him."

Crowley said Mrs. Meade took a lie detector test out-of-court and passed it with "flying colors." He added, "we asked Gregory to take the same test but he refused. His refusal makes it pretty evident that Mrs. Meade is the one who is telling the truth."

HIGH-FLYING CAREER — Marcelle Eason, of San Francisco, who enjoyed a glamorous career as a child movie star has now embarked on another career with a glamorous flavor. At the age of 4 she played the daughter of Scarlett O'Hara and Rhett Butler in "Gone With the Wind." She is now 22 and a stewardess with United Air Lines. Under the name "Cammie King" she appeared in a number of films, including a dozen "Our Gang" comedies, in addition to her role as "Bonnie Blue" with Clark Gable and Vivien Leigh in 1939. Miss Eason had a thorough background in airline operations before she began stewardess training, having worked over two years in United's reservations department in San Francisco.

The 1st Commercial Jet Airliner Launched

Third of Four Dispatches
By GLENN STACKHOUSE

United Press Staff Correspondent SAN FRANCISCO (UP)— On May 16, 1952, a graceful airplane with tapered wings and the streamlining of a flying fish whistled into the air from an English field and announced to the world with a blower voice that the era of jet travel had begun.

It was the Comet II, pride of De Havilland Aircraft Co., the world's first commercial jet airliner.

It thrust the jubilant British into the forefront of civil aviation for the first time in history and offered Europe an opening wedge to crack the solid front of American monopoly in the commercial aircraft industry.

The Comet promptly broke all the world's airline speed records with ease, much to the dismay of such American titans as Boeing, Douglas, Convair and Lockheed.

Got Ahead of Selves
But, in the ensuing two years, the British found they had won a battle, but lost a war. They had rushed the Comet into the air too soon, without the painstaking research, proving and double-checking of their American competitors.

Their mistakes became tragically evident when four of the Comets crashed in quick succession, strewn the bodies of 110 victims from Naples to Karachi.

In April, 1954, the government grounded the rest of the Comets and De Havilland designers went back to the drawing board.

Today De Havilland is in a nip-and-tuck race with Boeing to get into the air. De Havilland's new and proven Comet IV and Boeings 707 both are scheduled to be delivered to customers next year.

French Also Bidding
Across the channel in France, Sub Aviation Co. has jumped into the battle with a fat-bodied, short-ranged jet transport called the Caravelle, a twin-engine plane designed for the short haul.

The Caravelle's wings are naked of engines.

Two Rolls Royce power plants are tucked away against the fuselage so far aft they are almost under the tail.

French engineers, strongly aware of the Comet's disasters, settled on this design on the theory that a malfunctioning engine that tears off a wing is worse than no engine at all. Furthermore, they found the engine-in-rear gave them the quietest jet from the passenger's standpoint in the world.

Built to carry 64 to 80 passengers, the Caravelle has a top speed of 500 m.p.h. on flights ranging from a few hundred to 2,000 miles.

Russian Plane in Service
There still is a third builder of jet airliners. Soviet Russia, which has a penchant for claiming most firsts, today can rightly boast the distinction of having the only pure jet passenger plane in service in the world.

Swooshing across the sprawling USSR and its satellites, and seldom viewed by Westerners, is the Tupolev-104, a twin-jet airliner rated at 500 m.p.h. and capable of carrying 90 passengers. Foreign observers estimate the fleet operated by Aeroflot is between 20 and 50.

Henry Shapiro, U.P. Moscow correspondent, who flew in a TU104 from Moscow to Prague, estimates that at least 20 of the planes fly daily service between the Russian and Czech capitals and three times a week to central Asia and Peiping.

Russian progress presents no immediate threat of competition for the Soviets have shown no inclination to sell on the world market.

CONTINUE STAND
SAN FRANCISCO (UP) — The left-wing Electrical Workers Union will continue its refusal to cooperate with the Senate Rackets Committee, President Albert J. Fitzgerald said Monday.

"It's discouraging to see (AFL-CIO officials) knocking each other down to pledge cooperation to a Senate committee headed by a man who is notorious for his anti-labor record," Fitzgerald said at the opening session of the union's 22nd annual convention, Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) is chairman of the committee.

TO IRRIGATE DESERT
London (UP) — Soviet scientists are planning a multi-million dollar scheme to divert the Ob and Yenisei Rivers and irrigate huge new oases in the desert wastes of Siberia and Kazakhstan, radio Moscow reported.

The broadcast heard here said the Ob will be dammed to form a vast inland sea. A canal 400 miles long will run through the Turagai Desert to carry water to dry regions of southern Siberia.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Hard Luck Joe won the opening spade lead, entered dummy with the king of diamonds, led a heart and finessed the queen.

West played the king and Joe commented, "I don't know why I bother to finesse. They never work for me."

Joe trumped a second spade lead and laid down his ace of trumps. West failed to follow and school was out. Joe had to lose two more trump tricks and a club and was down one.

Joe gave out the usual moans about his luck but as always it was bad play and not bad luck.

that was responsible for his downfall.

Joe had nothing to gain by his first round heart finesse. If it worked he would still have to lose at least one trump trick and if it lost to the guarded king he would lose two or three trump tricks depending on how the suit broke.

The one combination that he could guard against was singleton king in the West hand and the other four in the East hand. Joe had two ways to guard against this. One way would be to lead a low heart from his own hand and reserve the finesse until the second round. The other way would be to lead a heart toward his queen later.

Both these plays would produce exactly as many tricks as the first round finesse in all instances except the actual one. With the actual situation each one would have gained a trick and saved the contract.

Mae West Says 'Confidential' 'Give Children Brake' Says Safety Head

By VERNON SCOTT
United Press Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Mae West, the sexiest siren of her generation, says Confidential magazine "done her wrong" in printing a story linking her with the late prize fighter Chalky Wright.

Mae, still buxom and platinum-curlled, tabbed the magazine's yarn "Mae West's open door policy," an outright lie.

"There wouldn't be any question about it if Chalky Wright were still alive," she said in a soft voice. "Before he died Chalky told me he didn't say any of the things they printed."

Wright drowned in his bathtub two weeks ago.

The siren of the 30s went on to say that she hired the former featherweight champion as a chauffeur because she needed protection from extortionists.

It's Ridiculous

"And the story that one of my chauffeurs once knocked me out and threw me into a car was ridiculous," she laughed. "Anyone who did that would never have lived to talk about it."

Busy writing her autobiography, Mae is planning to return to the footlights this winter — either on Broadway or in a new TV show. Meanwhile she lives in quiet luxury at her beach home in Santa Monica.

"I haven't been subpoenaed by either side in this case," she said. "So I won't have to take the stand. This is the first time anything like this has ever happened to me."

Mae could have jolted her memory back 15 years to the time when she was in the midst of a sensational court trial. In the summer of 1942 the rattle-dazzle "Come Up and See Me Sometime" gal admitted she had been married — after keeping the fact a secret for 31 years.

She Was Something

During her heyday — when Mae was a Jayne Mansfield, Marilyn Monroe and Mammie Van Doren rolled in one — she regularly denied she'd ever been married.

After a long legal battle she finally admitted she'd said "I do" with song and dance man Frank Wallace in 1911. It created a minor sensation.

The actress who made the quip "peel me a grape" a national joke isn't overly upset by Confidential's story about her. She shrugs it off as easily as she once shrugged it over her famous white turcap.

"Most people who read the magazine don't believe what's printed," she said. "And it's always nice to think about how many people never read Confidential at all."

Inflation To Be Main Issue In 1958 Congressional Campaign

By RAYMOND LAHR
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — Democratic Party managers interpreted their reports from Wisconsin today to mean that inflation is their

No. 1 issue for the 1958 congressional campaign.

They also listed dissatisfaction with Eisenhower administration's farm, foreign and budget policies as factors in the upset victory of the Democratic nominee in Wisconsin's special Senate election Tuesday.

Republicans were inclined to blame their own family strife in Wisconsin as the chief reason for their defeat but many of them admitted that other issues influenced the outcome against their candidate.

Tight Money Policy
In the Wisconsin vote, Democrat William Proxmire defeated former Gov. Walter J. Kohler, an Eisenhower Republican. Compared with the 1956 results in Wisconsin, a normally Republican state, Proxmire registered gains in the Democratic vote across the board in both industrial and farm areas.

Democrats in Congress have been hammering all year on the issue of inflation and the rising cost of living. They have linked this to the administration's tight money policy, which the administration considers a weapon against inflation while some Democrats argue that it in fact contributes to inflation.

Another Trouble Spot
The farm issue has spelled trouble for Republicans since early in the Eisenhower administration. Proxmire's sweep of most of the rural counties in Wisconsin indicates that it is still a GOP headache.

Sen. Alexander Wiley (R-Wis.) said one of the conclusions to be drawn from the Wisconsin result was that farmers in the state were "definitely dissatisfied with the overall federal agricultural program, particularly as the dairy parity program has worked out."

Number 2 of a series:
HAS IT HAPPENED TO YOU?

You're the wife and mother in a middle-income family. You've got some grocery shopping to do, but you find you're low on money. You pile the kids into the car because you'll be gone only a moment. You open the bank's massive front door and begin to walk to the teller's window to make a withdrawal.

Suddenly your step falters as you notice on one side of the lobby, the inevitable chairs occupied by persons waiting to transact business with bank officials. Every eye seems lifted at your approach. You feel a rush of blood to your face. Your high heels sound like hammers pounding at the tile floor. A tenseness tightens all your muscles and seems to constrict your movement. You feel beads of perspiration on your forehead. It seems that everyone in the bank has stopped what they're doing and are staring at you. You keep walking toward the teller, but every step is torture. "Why are they staring at me?" you wonder. "Is my slip showing?" "Are my seams crooked?" "Why are they looking at me?"

Chances are that the persons whom you thought were staring, were casually seeing you and acknowledging your presence. Many people who have had similar feelings have benefited in increased poise, self-confidence and courage through Dale Carnegie training. Why don't you investigate the Dale Carnegie Course, presented in Pampa by Western Sales Institute of Amarillo, Texas? A demonstration meeting will be held on Tuesday, September 10, 7:30 p.m., at the Palm Room, City Hall in Pampa. You are invited to attend without obligation and observe the merits of Dale Carnegie training.

The Hobart Street Baptist Church Women's Missionary Society met in the Fellowship Hall this week for a general meeting of all circles. The meeting was opened with group singing of "From Greenland's Icy Mountains." Special prayer was led by Mrs. Ed Foran. The WMS watchword for the year was repeated in unison. It was announced that new WMS officers would be installed at a meeting this week by Mrs. Jeff Moore of Borger.

Mrs. Doris Smith, missionary from Costa Rica, was the afternoon's speaker. She told of how at one time the church in which she was serving was stoned during a service. She also spoke of their different climates; educational program; and their living conditions. A question period followed her talk.

In closing, the group formed a large circle around Mrs. Smith, who represented missionaries at home and abroad, while Mrs. A. B. Clark read the prayer calendar and led in the closing prayer. The Doris Smith Circle, which had been named for Mrs. Smith, served refreshments to the 27 members present and to Mrs. Smith and her mother, Mrs. H. H. Stull.

Writing a bread-and-butter note to tell your hosts how much you enjoyed your visit is an absolute must when you have been an overnight or weekend guest. This is important even if your hostess is a relative.

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
(Mrs. Muriel Lawrence is on vacation. In her absence, noted psychiatrist Eric Fromm discusses six frequently asked questions on child-parent relationship. His answers are condensed from his book, "Man For Himself," published by Rinehart and Co.)
Q. How does a child learn the difference between "good" and "bad"?

A. The foundations of our ability to differentiate between good and evil are laid in childhood; first with regard to physiological functions and then with regard to more complex matters of behavior.

The child acquires a sense of distinguishing between good and bad before he learns the difference by reasoning. His value judgments are formed as a result of the friendly or unfriendly reactions of the significant people in his life.

In view of his complete dependence on the care and love of the adult, it is not surprising that an approving or disapproving expression on the mother's face is sufficient to "teach" the child the difference between good and bad.

In school and in society similar factors operate. "Good" is that for which one is praised; "bad," that for which one is frowned upon or punished by social authorities or by the majority of one's fellow men. This intense emotional pressure prevents the child, and later the adult, from asking critically whether "good" in a judgment means good for him or for the authority.

The alternatives in this respect become obvious if we consider value judgements with reference to things. If I say that one car is "better" than another, it is self-evident that one car is called "better" because it serves me better than another car.

A thing is called good if it is good for the person who uses it.

With reference to man, the same criterion of value can be used. The employer considers an employee to be good if he is of advantage to him. The teacher may call a pupil good if he is obedient, does not cause trouble, and is a credit to him.

In much the same way a child may be called good if he is docile and obedient. The "good" child may be frightened, and insecure, wanting only to please his parents by submitting to their will, while the "bad" child may have a will of his own and genuine interests but ones which do not please his parents.

There are very few women who could not improve their figures through self-discipline: diet and exercise. But if they refuse to do this, they should remember that they must pay the penalty. In summer, they cannot wear low-cut dresses, sheer or clinging fabrics, sleeveless sheaths or open sandals. Their added poundage makes such fashions out of the question for them.

It's good for a marriage — For a husband and wife to keep making new friends. When they limit their social life to a tight little group they soon become bored with and supercritical of their new friends.

For both the husband and wife to take a separate vacation occasionally. After even the briefest separation, each sees the other with new awareness.

For small hurts and resentments to be dealt with as they come along, instead of smoothed over and stored up.

For a husband and wife to count their blessings. There's too much talk in most homes about what the couple is still striving to get and ready have.

For a couple deliberately to seek new experiences. It's the finest way in the world to keep life from becoming too routine.

For a husband and wife to shop together for the furniture and equipment that goes into their home. A man's home is sure to mean more to him if he helps choose the things that go into it.

For a wife to know as much as possible about her husband's business. A wife who feels like a partner is more understanding of the demands of her husband's job.

For a couple to plan together for the future, instead of just drifting along trying to meet today's bills and obligations.

Fine Decorative Accessories Require Background To Show Best Advantage

By KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer

Do you know how to make the most of your fine decorative accessories? A fine piece of crystal or silver, delicate porcelain figurines or heirloom china can contribute great elegance and individuality to an otherwise simple room — if you know showroom tricks for displaying it and maintaining its sparkle.

One of the experts in this field is Sven Ilooe, display director for one of America's best-known specialists in fine silver, crystal and china (Georg Jensen, Inc.). Whether your fine accessories are few in number or whether you have an impressive collection, I think you'll find his advice interesting and helpful.

He lists four requisites for showing off the beauty of such accessories: regular use of special cleansing methods; display against the right background colors; correct lighting; correct placement in the room.

Careful cleaning of crystal, silver, china or porcelain is essentially the same for all. Don't dunk them in the sink. Use one basin for washing in lukewarm soapy water, another for rinsing.

Wash each piece individually. Crystal scratches crystal.

Never dip fine crystal in very hot water, as this sudden change of temperature could crack it.

For cleaning intricate designs, cut crystal patterns or delicate figurines, use cotton swabs to slide gently into tiny corners. For crystal bowls or vases that are particularly dusty or grimy, glass wax will speed the cleaning job.

Ilooe advises against steady use of ammonia in the cleaning water to brighten crystal. In the long run, this may dull the sparkle, he says.

Dry each piece thoroughly with a soft cloth. Never let crystal drain dry.

For color background for crystal, Ilooe suggests oyster white, café au lait or a chocolate color. "Never use gray with crystal," he adds. Natural, untinted lighting is the most effective in bringing out highlights.

In displaying figurines, show only four or five at any one time. If you have more, rotate your display for added interest.

Colorwise, the best background for multicolored figurines or rare china is the deep charcoal-blue color obtained by mixing lamp black in white paint.

The best part of the room for displaying figurines, says Ilooe, is an uncluttered corner in the dining or living room. An area about four feet wide should serve amply for the shelving. To create a more dramatic setting, use a slender portrait light (the type often hung above pictures) to focus light on the area.

For silver, this expert says plain soap and water plus a mild silver polish provides the best cleaning care. He warns against placing silver in cleaning solutions which will remove the oxidation from the intricate designs and thus damage its beauty.

Silver, pewter, bronze and copper show up to good advantage against warm hues of tawny yellow or avocado green which enhance their patina. Wood panels are also favored as background for silver.

Yankees Are 8-5 Favorite To Beat Braves In Series

By JOHN GRIFFIN
United Press Sports Writer
The go-go White Sox are almost gone and the all-conquering New York Yankees now are 8-5 favorites to beat Milwaukee in the World Series.
With the Yankees a whopping 6 1/2 games ahead and only 27 left to play after their stunning three-game sweep of the Sox, oddsmakers "officially" announced today they no longer are accepting any bets on the Yankees in the American League pennant chase.
As far as they're concerned, the flag chase all but ended when "old pro" Country Slaughterer got his 41 years and slammed an 11th-ninning home run Thursday to give the Yankees a dramatic 2-1 victory at Chicago.
The oddsmakers say today they will now accept only bets against the Yankees, not on them. They'll give you 8-1 odds if you still like the White Sox. The same goes for the Braves vs everyone else in the National League.
Money Players Did It
The hard-bitten "money" players took the big game for the Yankees, just as they have so many times in the past. The first Yankee run was a left-field home run in the third inning by ex-Marine hero Hank Bauer. Earl Torgerson's sacrifice fly in the same frame drove in a Sox run that tied the score but, at last, Slaughterer's drive into the right field seats in the 11th was the winner.
Tom Stuviviant pitched the first six innings for the Yankees, but Whitley Ford got the win with five brilliant relief innings in which he allowed just one hit. Dick Donovan pitched all the way for the Sox to lose a tough one, giving up eight hits.

The Sox muffed their big chance to win in the last half of the 10th inning. With one out, Ford walked Sherin Lollar and Walt Dropo was safe when Tony Kubek bobbled his grounder. But Ford retired both Bubba Phillips and Donovan on grounders to end the threat.
From here out, the schedule favors the Yankees, too. They play White Sox play only eight at home, only nine on the road. The White Sox play only eight at home—and 20 on the road.
Indians' Luck Expires
In the only other major league game Thursday, the Cleveland Indians slammed four home runs to trounce the Baltimore Orioles, 13-4, and Tom Brewer of the Boston Red Sox gained his 15th victory of the year, 6-1, over the Detroit Tigers.
Jim Hegan, Rocky Colavito, Al Smith, and Vic Wertz hit homers for the Indians, who started with six runs in the first inning and three in the second to gain revenge for their thumping by the Orioles a day earlier. Mike Garcia scattered nine hits in breeziness in the third inning by ex-Marine hero Hank Bauer. Earl Torgerson's sacrifice fly in the same frame drove in a Sox run that tied the score but, at last, Slaughterer's drive into the right field seats in the 11th was the winner.
Tom Stuviviant pitched the first six innings for the Yankees, but Whitley Ford got the win with five brilliant relief innings in which he

Prigmore, Houck Are Low Scorers In Top O' Texas Pro-Am Tourney

Don Prigmore of Pampa led the field of amateurs and Joe Houck, Huber Country Club pro, led the professionals in yesterday's pro-am tourney, which hosted the largest field in the history of the Top O' Texas Invitational Tournament.
Prigmore fired a 3-under-par 68 to lead the amateurs as Houck took the pro field with 70. Close on the heels of Houck was Ray Hardy from Tulsa and Jack Martin, Liberal, Kans., pro, who both scored 71.
Houck earned double honors for the day by also leading the championship team, composed of Waldo Beckley from Borger, Jim Deaton from Pampa and Bo Oliver from Russ Rogers course in Amarillo.
The runner-up team was led by Jack Martin, playing with Lloyd Henderson, of Liberal, Kans. Mrs. Nea Carson and Jim Triplehorn of Parvna.
A team captained by Dale Andrews of Amarillo finished third. Members were Jean Duendel, Scott Hall and Tom Kitchens.
A total of 14 pros and 126 amateurs competed in the 35 team field.
Qualifying rounds will be played today, with first round play scheduled for 7:30 tomorrow morning.

Harvesters Begin '57 Grid Workout Today

A field of 50 boys turned out at 6:30 this morning for the first meeting and workout of the 1957 Harvesters football team.
After the 6:30 meeting, the squad held their first practice at 8. In the afternoon, the team meets again at 2:30, followed with a workout at 4.
Head coach Jack Lockett announced that the schedule for tomorrow would be the same, with the exception of the first meeting in the morning, which will be held at 7. The time was moved back this morning due to a teachers meeting.

Monday's schedule will follow the same order, with meetings at 7 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. and workouts at 8:30 and 4.
The 50 men comprise the "A" and "B" squads of Pampa High School.
Lockett stated that the team had a lot of work to do in a short time, but with the right spirit from the boys, along with good morale, the team should progress in good shape.

Canadian Ranks High Among Contenders For 2-A Crown

By CHARLES CULLIN
Pampa News Sports Editor
Coach Grady Burnett's Canadian Wildcats enter the 1957 season as one of the top contenders for the District 2-A crown. Finishing second behind the Clarendon Branches last year, Canadian has eight of their lettermen returning, of which six are former starters.
The Wildcats open their season at Wheeler on Sept. 6, followed by their first district game against McLean Sept. 13 on home ground.
Graduation took the toll of 11 lettermen from the 1956 squad, but with a full "B" team schedule, experienced men will be available to fill up the holes.
Two men on the squad, Larry Schaeff and John Grist, have previously lettered three years, and are expected to bolster the Wildcats through the season. Schaeff is guard and Grist will be running halfback, although he made all-district last year in the fullback slot.
Other starters returning will be Harold Yarnold at tackle. Roy Sessions at end, Tony Briggs at center, Jim Wilburn at fullback and Kenny Abraham at quarterback.
Coach Burnett stated that depth would be the weakest spot in the Wildcats district hopes. As an overall outlook, he said they would be depending more on speed than weight.
When asked about his opinion of the 1957 district race, Bates stated that theoretically Memphis should be stronger, but that it would be a close battle for the top spot.
As for the opener with Wheeler, he said it should be a "rough" one. Though Wheeler plays Class "B" ball, they are ranked high for a repeat win in their district. Wheeler defeated Happy 33-21 for the regional crown last year.

Bates and his assistant, Tom Christian, are former West Texas State football players.

Robinson Beats Promoters For $255,000 Guarantee

GREENWOOD LAKE, N. Y. (UP)—Sugar Ray Robinson, who beat the promoters for a $255,000 guarantee, asked this big question today: "Now that the fight's on again, can I get sharp enough in three weeks to beat Carmen Basilio?"
The middleweight champion, who returned to camp here Thursday night, admitted he had taken a "double gamble" last week when he called off next month's million-dollar title defense against welterweight ruler Basilio and interrupted serious training.
"First, I risked losing a big purse and having my title vacated," he said, "and second, I risked being dull against Basilio and losing the title to him. Remember, I left camp on Aug. 18, two days before I called off the fight."
In the first gamble, he registered the greatest financial victory of his career Thursday before he agreed to go through with the Basilio fight at Yankee Stadium, Sept. 23.
After 10 days of bitter dispute with the International Boxing Club and its ally, Theatre Network Television Inc., Sugar Ray was granted a guarantee of $255,000 by TNT for permitting the fight to be piped into theatres. That sum could boost his total purse to about $700,000.
Basilio, who had remained in training at Alexandria Bay, N.Y., will share in Robinson's holdout victory; for Carmen was given a guarantee of $110,000 by TNT.

Baxter In Today's Walker Cup Matches Against British Team

MINNEAPOLIS (UP)—The British Walker Cup team nominated an All-Star lineup today for two-ball foursome matches against the American squad in an effort to win the international cup for the second time in 16 tries.
All but one of the eight players named for today's four contests by non-playing Capt. Gerald Micklem has held a major British title in the last four years, and two of them, Joseph E. Carr and Reid Jack, have won the British Amateur crown.
Carr, a 35-year-old veteran of five previous Walker Cup tournaments, who won the British title in 1953, was named with Frank W. G. Deighton, 30, in the No. 1 British foursome to play against an American combination of experience and youth, 35-year-old Bill Joe Patton and Rex Baxter Jr., 21.
Baxter holds the National Collegiate and Trans-Mississippi titles, while Patton's top title was the North and South Amateur in 1954.
The No. 2 battle will pit Phillips F. Scrutton, 34, and Alan Bussell, 20, of Britain against Bill Campbell, 34, and Frank M. Taylor Jr., 30, while the No. 3 match will be Douglas Sewell, 27, and Reid Jack for Britain against Arnold S. Blum, 34, and Charles R. Koosis, 44.
The fourth match will be Mason Rudolph, 23, and Hillman Robbins Jr., 25, for the United States vs Alex F. Shepperson, 21, and Guy Wolstenholme, 26.
Campbell has the outstanding American record. He has won the North-South Amateur title three times, the Mexican Amateur crown and has played on two on the North-South title while Kocsis, the oldest player on both squads, held the National Col-

Shirley Temple's Early Shows Will Shine When On Screen

By DOC QUIGG

ated Press Staff Correspondent NEW YORK (UP)—In a Manhattan office, the small movie producer fluttered, moaned, and firmed into gear, and on the opposite wall the most amazing caprice of a generation ago was rein the picture a little girl with wavy bobbed hair, round face, a saucy tilt to her head began singing. Then she danced. Then she acted cutely.

"I hate you. I hate you. I think I'm all very mean," she pouted, pouting and shaking a tiny finger.

Matter of FACT

© Britannica Junior Encyclopedia

Oliver Hazard Perry, whose resounding "We have met the enemy and they are ours" announced victory in the Battle of Lake Erie in the War of 1812, was only 27 when he was made commander of the "squadron of Lake Erie," which did not exist. His men built the ships in which they won the battle. Perry's brother, Matthew, led the mission 40 years later which opened up trade with Japan.

The year in which she did that particular bit of hamming was 1937, and she was nine years old, and she was the seventh-highest-salaried person in the United States. Her pay was $307,014 that year, and she was pretty close to the top of her childish fortune, which has been estimated at three to five million dollars.

Retired At 12 She was also a legend of sorts before she was 10. A European newspaper reported she wasn't a child at all, but really a midget with a shaved head and blond wig. An Egyptian newspaper suggested that probably she was just a ventriloquist's dummy. Her fan mail reached 2,000 letters a day, her studio got 3,000 requests a week for autographed pictures.

At the age of 12, she was just too old, and she retired. What we were looking at in the office was a film of some scenes clipped from a few of her box office-busting movies... here, singing the old familiar songs... here, acting in a costume bit... here, dancing superbly with the great Bill (Bojangles) Robinson, matching the master step for step.

And the thought suddenly occurred that there is a whole generation in our midst that was born after Shirley Temple stopped making her little-girl movies. Perhaps with this in mind, the NTA film network this fall will put on television four of the films from Shirley's heyday.

Shirley Shines Brightly They are "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," "Captain January," "Wee Willie Winkie" and "Heidi." From what I saw in the brief film clip, I can report that after 20 years the pintsize millionaire's ability still shines rather brightly from the screen.

But on the subject of child movies in general—what's hap-

Congressmen Pack Bags For Expense-Paid Foreign Trips

By NEIL MACNEIL

WASHINGTON (UP)—Congressmen had a far-away glint in their eyes today. Bags were being packed and tickets bought to Married, Paris and Rome for the junketing season just ahead. From advance indications it looks like a boom year for congressional study abroad — with Uncle Sam picking up the tab.

House Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin Jr., in debate Wednesday on giving travel permission to four committees, wondered:

"Do you think we could raise a quorum in Paris?"

(A House quorum is 218.)

A United Press survey showed at least a dozen committees are planning to send individual members — and in some cases entire subcommittees — overseas on congressional business. But committee staffers were generally vague when asked what would be studied and where the congressmen would go.

Plans are Vague Some typical replies: "Nothing is definitely set up yet."

"Plans haven't jelled finally."

"We're still working on it."

Under discussion, they said, are trips to the Far East, Europe, Middle East, Spain, South America, Africa and the Caribbean.

Though junketing is a touchy subject on Capitol Hill, particularly how much it costs, the travelers maintain that it is all neces-

Alan Ludington—The Busiest Cutup Working In Television

By WILLIAM EWALD

NEW YORK (UP)—The busiest cutup working within the stately confines of our TV networks is a fellow named Alan Ludington.

Ludington, who comes equipped with scissors, is producer of "Hot Lywood Film Theatre," a 90-minute ABC-TV opus devoted to feature movies. Neither CBS-TV nor NBC-TV has any such animal.

Ludington is the networks' master snipper. He estimates that during his six-year hitch at ABC-TV, he has carved up about 150 English pictures and 26 American flickers.

His principal problem is trying to squeeze or stretch every film to 83 minutes, the amount of time left after commercials and station breaks. That, and S-E-X.

Stretching a movie is an art peculiar to television. There have been times when Ludington has had to rubberize a 60-minute movie for an hour-and-a-half show.

How It's Done "One way to stretch is to use a longer 'teaser' — the scene you open the show with," explained Ludington. "You repeat that same scene later in the movie, so the teaser adds to your total."

"Another method is to run a longer 'trailer' — the coming attraction that shows what the next film is going to be. Usually, a trailer runs two minutes. But when you're padding, you let it go three or four. There have been times when I needed so much padding, I've run two or three trailers."

"If you're using a host, you can have him talk longer to give you some stretch. And, of course, it helps if all the commercial time is solid."

Shrinking a movie calls for clippers and a stopwatch. Ludington times each scene, decides which sequences do not move the plot and then starts snipping. He cuts out whole scenes first and if he still needs time, he starts trimming, a more difficult process.

Comedies, he pointed out, are the most difficult to chop because of their pacing. Dramas with huge chunks of time devoted to character development are the easiest.

Ludington's shears also go to work when too much sex seeps out of a film. Long, sensuous kisses,

The Truth About Unions

For a number of months, the American public has been regaled by stories delivered under oath respecting the union movement. Senator John McClellan's investigative committee plunged deep into the Teamsters Union in its opening probe and struck a gusher. Since then, the filth and slime of union racketeering has been oozing out of committee chambers with the persistence of a leaky faucet.

Currently, the big muck is a George Raft type of gangster named Johnny Dio. It was Dio who figured in the acid throwing at columnist Victor Riesel. And it was Dio who was disclosed as the misanthropic link between discredited Dave Beck, and popular heir apparent to the throne of Teamsterism, James Riddle Hoffa.

The recitations of fact have been more nauseating and disgusting than any moving picture ever filmed and pushed past the Hays office.

Here the American public has seen unionism as it is. And the boys who pay the dues no longer have any place to go to hide their faces and to exclaim: "Honest, our union ain't like that!"

By now, it is rather apparent to most thinking Americans, that when Al Capone ruled the Chicago mobs, he was a gentleman and a scholar, albeit a hardened murderer, by comparison with this year's crop of union hoods.

This union bunch really emits an aroma. And you would think that every enslaved scion of a local would be at considerable pains to get himself as far away from the stench as possible. If the local members of the various collectives had a conscience; if they had respect for their wives and children; if they had any American sentiment, they would be leaving the union movement in droves.

As a matter of fact, they will may be. The big moguls of union extortion are mum on that score. And they are at considerable pains to try to establish that the scum being raked over daily is as surprising and distressing to them as it is to decent people.

Let us have no misunderstanding on that score. The entire union movement is filled and runnig over with exactly the kind of hooliganism the Senate committee has dug up so far. It must be so. Every union is dedicated to the forceful expropriation of funds which its members have not earned.

It is engaged in a great use of coercion and violence against harmless workers, who have been referred to, even by its own exponents, as "weedheads" and "dumb cattle." It is engaged at the moment in a great political grab for power. Its noisiest and least repentant sachem (Reuther) is reported to be banging on the table with his fist and declaring that come 1960 he will be president.

The greatest tragedy connected with unionism is the known fact that there have been dragged into its dues-clutching maw, great numbers of innocent men and women, who in themselves are blameless of wrong doing ad wrong intent. Yet it is these innocent dupes who give the racket that is unionism, both its numerical strength and its false aura of respectability. What has come out of the committee hearings, and what has yet to come out, should certainly confirm again that age-old truism uttered by Lord Acton: "All power tends to corrupt; absolute power corrupts absolutely."

1957 will probably go down in American history as the year of the union expose. What will come from it, we do not know. But we do know what ought to come from it.

By virtue of the facts made known and published, honest men and women ought to have nothing further to do with unionism. While it may be true that they have a right to organize if they wish into any kind of a club or organization, they have no right to use such an organization for an immoral or illegal purpose.

Here are the crimes laid at the door of the organized terrorism called union.

1. Members obtained by force and violence and without free choice.

2. Dues collected by a check-off system.

3. Slander and libel used against businessmen.

4. Picketing in an effort to injure others.

5. Pressure exerted to raise prices, thereby injuring all consumers.

6. Extortion.

7. Vandalism.

8. Grand theft.

9. Blocking highways.

10. Promotion of communism and socialism.

11. Political manipulation and bribery.

12. Falsehood and fraud.

13. Boycotts conducted against disinterested and innocent persons.

14. Murder.

15. Setting up rackets which compete with legitimate businesses.

16. Fines levied for reasons pleasing to union czars.

17. Blacklisting.

18. Establishment of seniority by means of which diligence and talent are penalized and the indolent and shiftless rewarded.

19. Featherbedding: made work for which no work is needed.

20. Slowdowns in production.

21. Bankruptcy induced by violence.

22. Destruction of private property.

23. Promotion of laws which are harmful to all citizens yet favoring socialism.

24. Smearing innocent persons and destroying reputations.

Think of a crime. Somewhere it has been perpetrated by unions and their infamous masters. Decent people ought to look for the union label and refuse to purchase any item so branded.

By R. C. Hollis
 Source Of Rights
 III.

Here's the last installment of Frank Chodorov's explanation of the source of individual rights.

The last article quoting Chodorov explained that we must have private property and the right to use it as the individual sees fit in order to have life.

Under the heading of "Freedom of Disposition," he writes:

"Interference with this freedom of disposition is, in the final analysis, interference with your right to life. At least, that is your reaction to such interference, for you describe such interference with a word that expresses a deep emotion: 'You call it robbery.' What's more, if you find that this robbery persists, if you are regularly deprived of the fruits of your labor, you lose interest in laboring. The only reason you work is to satisfy your desires; and if experience shows that despite your efforts you become stung by laboring, you become a 'poor' producer.

"Suppose the freedom of disposition is taken away from you entirely. That is, you become a slave; you have no right of property. Whatever you produce is taken by somebody else; and through a good part of it is returned to you, in the way of sustenance, medical care, housing, you cannot under the law dispose of your output; if you try to, you become the legal 'robber.' Your concern in production wanes and you develop an attitude toward laboring that is called a 'slave' psychology. Your interest in yourself also drops because you sense that without the right of property you are not much different from the other living things in the barn. The clergyman may tell you you are a man, with a soul; but you sense that without the right of property you are somewhat less of a man than the one who can dispose of your production as he wills. If you are a human, how human are you?"

"It is silly, then to prate of human rights being superior to property rights, because the right of ownership is traceable to the right to life, which is certainly inherent in the human being. Property rights are in fact human rights.

"A society built around the denial of this fact, is, or must become, a slave society — although the socialists describe it differently. It is a society in which some produce and others dispose of their output. The laborer is not stimulated by the prospect of satisfying his desires but by fear of punishment. When his ownership is not interfered with, when he works for himself, he is inclined to develop his faculties of production because he has unlimited desires. He works for good, as a matter of necessity; but when he has a sufficiency of food, he begins to think of fancy dishes, a tablecloth, and music with his meals. There is no end of desires the human being can conjure up, and will work for, provided he feels reasonably sure that his labor will not be in vain. Contrariwise, when the law deprives him of the incentive of enjoyment, he will work only as necessity compels him. What use is there in putting out more effort?"

"Therefore, the general production of a socialistic society must decline to the point of mere subsistence.

"Decline of Society"

"The economic decline of a society without property rights is followed by the loss of other values. It is only when we have a sufficiency of necessities that we give thought to non-material things, to what is called culture. On the other hand, we find we can do without books, or even moving pictures, when existence is at stake. Even more than that, we who have no right to own certainly have no right to give, and charity becomes an empty work; in a socialistic order, no one need give thought to an unfortunate neighbor because it is the duty of the government, the only property owner, to take care of him; it might even become a crime to give a 'bum' a dime. When the denial of the right of the individual is negated through the denial of ownership, the sense of personal pride, which distinguishes man from beast, must decay from disuse....

"Whatever else socialism is, or is claimed to be, its first tenet is the denial of private property. All brands of socialism, and there are many, are agreed that property rights must be vested in the political establishment. None of the schemes identified with this ideology, such as the nationalization of industry, or socialized medicine, or the abolition of free choice, or the planned economy, can become operative if the individual's claim to his property is recognized by the government."

Mac Upset; His Readers Don't Believe Him!
 By HENRY McLEMORE

LUCERNE — Most newspaper columnists build up an immunity to attacks by readers over the years, and can read the most scathing letters without even so much as blinking an eye.

I am not one of these fortunate ones. My skin is as thin as a chameleon's, even after all these years, and derogatory criticism sends me right to my couch, pale and with a low pulse.

This is especially true of letters in which readers doubt my truthfulness, and question that I am doing the things I write that I am doing. Granted that I say I do some odd things, but I really do them. None of this sitting down at a typewriter and dreaming up adventures.

If I write, say, that I rode a Saint Bernard dog half-way up a Swiss Peak, and only turned back when the dog's feet got too sore, you may rest assured that such a trip was made.

This column was prompted by the arrival of a batch of letters from home today, several of which made no bones about telling me that many of my European adventures were pure concoctions and belonged to fiction, not to fact.

"How unkind! How very unkind!" I told Mary as she applied cold cloths to my forehead in an effort to pull me out of shock.

As I lay on the sofa, hurt and weak, I wished I had never written that I was taking lessons in yodeling here, for sure as fate someone far across the ocean will write that I am doing no such thing, and that I had never attempted to scale the Matterhorn in street clothes, and got stuck between some rocks.

Well, I am taking yodeling lessons, and when I get back home I plan to drop in on those readers who expressed doubt, and yodel for them. And I did try the Matterhorn, dressed in what few mountaineering togs I could find in my wardrobe. A mistake, yes, but an honest one. If I could only show some of the bruises I have, or if I had a picture of the empty bottles of liniment about my room.

Many of my actions abroad are the result of a spirit of helpfulness. Unlike the guide books, I want to show what not to do in Europe, not what to do. Almost any visitor should know enough to visit the Louvre, or buy tweeds in England, if he likes tweeds, and to be sure to take a look at the Leaning Tower of Pisa, if he passes through Pisa. That's fairly elementary.

But not everyone might be wise enough to forgo yodeling lessons, or riding a bicycle in Copenhagen things, and showing the dangers involved, I feel I am rendering a service. Then to be criticized! Well, it's a wonder I don't go to bed and stay there.

Yodeling lessons, by the way, are dangerous. There are notes a pupil is asked to reach that threaten his health. I hit one toward the close of my lesson yesterday that has left me with a feeling between my shoulder blades just as if someone had jabbed me with an ice pick. And there's no telling what ache I'll pick up at today's lesson.

Too, there is little or no chance of my ever getting back the money I am spending to learn how to yodel. There is practically little or no demand for yodellers at home. Not when I left, anyway.

I don't want to talk about ingratitude, but after reading some of my mail I am sorely tempted.

BID FOR A SMILE
 An untimely frost effectively completed the mischief done earlier by the insect enemies of Mr. Perkin's potatoes. The tops of the plants which had served as pasture for the pests, were entirely destroyed, and with them Mr. Perkin's hopes of a crop. He was not selfish, however, and could think of others in the hour of adversity. In the afternoon he was accosted at the post-office by a friend.

Williamson — Hello, Perkin! How's everything up to the corner?

Perkins — Trouble enough, Williamson, trouble enough! Ten million potato-bugs, and nothing for 'em to eat!

THE NATION'S PRESS

THE PEOPLE VS. THE COURTS
 (California Feature Service)

It is too far in distance and too near in time for us to know exactly what proportion of politicking to soul searching was involved in the Senate's adoption of the jury trial amendment to the civil rights bill. One thing is certain—and significant—however. The amendment met with the approval of a very wide range of the citizenry, including some of the most outspoken "liberal" politicians.

The reason for that, we think, is that a great many people are seriously concerned over what seems to be the emergence of an authoritarian judiciary, symbolized by the Supreme Court in its recent usurpations of legislative and administrative powers. The jury system may have its defects, and our peers are seldom perfect, but it is a treasured and jealously guarded right of an American citizen in trouble to place his fate in the hands of his fellow citizens.

There may be valid technical objections to subjecting to jury trial the courts' power of injunction. However, in a matter so important to all of us as civil rights, it may be just as well to make haste slowly. Democracy usually does move haltingly, and when government, in any of its branches, seems to be extending too swiftly and too far its powers over our lives, the people instinctively turn to themselves for protection.

Tommy had been going to Kindergarten for several months. He was walking down the street one day with his mother, when they passed another small boy. Tommy said:

Tommy — Hello, Johnny!

When they had gone, his mother asked Tommy what the other boy's last name was.

Tommy — It's Johnny Slidown. That's what the teacher calls him.

Inflation To Be Main Issue For 1958 Congressional Campaign

By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP) — Daytime TV, an area afflicted with tired blood, may get a transfusion next Monday when a new CBS-TV what-is-it, "The Verdict Is Your," makes its debut.

It'll be a courtroom drama, but with a difference: The lawyers on the show will be real lawyers. The judge will be a real judge. The courtroom stenographer will be a real stenographer. And the jury will be picked from the studio audience, a reasonable approximation of people.

"The only parts that'll be taken by actors will be those of the plaintiff, defendant and witnesses," explained Jim McKay, who'll lace each trial together. McKay, a member of the CBS news and sports staffs for seven years, will act as a king of reporter during each make-believe case.

No Scripts Planned
"What we're going to do is make up theoretical cases — the first one will be a child custody dispute," continued McKay. "The actors will be briefed on the basic situation and they'll have conferences with their lawyers before the show goes on."

"But there'll be no script. Everybody will be on his own once the show goes on the air. I'll ad-lib my part, too. We hope the show will combine the best qualities of drama and the Kefauver crime hearings."

The 30-minute Monday-through-Friday show won't fix any time limit on its cases, according to McKay. A case will be carried for a week, two weeks or even longer if the lawyers got involved in legal razzle-dazzle.

CBS Auditioning Lawyers
The lawyers and judge will be changed with each case. Thus far, CBS has auditioned about 150 lawyers in this area in an effort to turn up a batch with camera appeal.

"They're fixing up a little booth on stage for me they're going to call the press room," said the 38-year-old McKay. "I'll operate out of it or conduct interviews or even go in the judge's chamber — wherever anything seems to be cooking."

McKay believes "The Verdict Is Yours" will shoot some juice into afternoon programming, pretty

AF Plans To Close Seven Facilities

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Air Force plans to shut down seven facilities in six states between now and mid-1961.

Included in the facilities and scheduled closing dates are:
Chell Air Force depot, Maywood, Calif., fourth quarter of fiscal year 1960 which begins July 1, 1958.

Ardmore, Okla., Air Force Base, first quarter of the year starting next July 1.
Wendover, Utah, Air Force Base, between October and December 1957.

Foster, Tex., Air Force Base, third quarter of the year that started July 1.

The Chell air depot employs 2,150 civilian and 16 military personnel in its job of supply and storage of ground service equipment, electronic supplies, clothing, rubber castings and national much of a wasteland right now.

"And we think it's certainly going to be different in its approach than the regular run of daytime shows — once we get going, we may really create quite a stir."

Quotes In The News

By UNITED PRESS
TOKYO—Ituro Hayashi, defense attorney for GI William Girard, attacking lawyers Joseph S. Robinson and Earl J. Carroll for criticizing Japanese legal procedures when they were 7,000 miles from the courtroom:

"Robinson and Carroll don't know Japanese law and it takes too much time to explain to those stupid American lawyers."

NEW YORK — Evangelist Billy Graham, on his New York Crusade which ends Sunday:

"I've been revived myself spiritually by what has happened in New York."

stockpile program materials. The depot's job will be consolidated with facilities at Sacramento, San Bernardino and Mira Loma, Calif.

Ardmore air base employs 268 civilians and 2,573 military. The base supports troop carrier aircraft which provide airlift for the Army and supply support for the Tactical Air Command. Its job will be taken over by Sewart Air Force Base, Tenn., and Pope Air Force Base, N. C.

Wendover, which supports bombing and gunnery ranges, has 41 civilians, 246 military men.
