Commission Sets Drilling Bid Date

By FRED M. PARKER
Pampa News Staff Writer
The City Commission set August 27 at 10 a.m. as the date for the opening of bids on the drilling of two new water wells.

The wells will be drilled with a one mile radius of the new pump station, located south of town on the Lefors highway. The wells will be used to supply water to the pump station and must be in operation by the time the booster facilities are completed.

After the station is completed the city plans to drill additional wells to supply water to the new facilities. The booster station is to be connected to the new water main being constructed on the east side of town.

Bids On Pipe

Bids for the purchase of pipe for water and sewer lines by the city were still in the process of being opened by the City Commission at press time today.

Mamie Coming Through Fine, Ike Reveals

By MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press White House Writer
WASHINGTON (UP)—The Eisenhower grin told the world the results of the First Lady's operation: She came through fine.

Mrs. Eisenhower underwent a two-hour internal operation by a gynecologist Tuesday to relieve a condition similar to a type that afflicts many women after they pass middle age.

The President paid her a late afternoon visit at Walter Reed Army Medical Center where she underwent a major abdominal operation last year.

He left the hospital grinning after spending 35 minutes with her. He was in an amiable mood.

When a reporter asked how the First Lady was, the President said: "I think she is sleeping."

Corrects Benign Condition
The 60-year-old First Lady was operated on by Col. Humbert L. Riva, a gynecologist in the Army Medical Corps. In surgery was performed between 8 and 10 a.m., e.d.t.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said the surgery had been planned for some time. He said it was intended to correct a "benign, mild" condition, and involved "nothing malignant" or cancerous.

As though to underline the statement, the President kept his regular appointments during the day and went out on the south lawn of the White House to hit a number of practice golf drives shortly before going to the hospital.

Hospital Stay Unknown
Previously he had kept in close touch by telephone with the hospital while conferring with Republican congressional leaders and others.

Hagerty said he did not know how long the First Lady would be in the hospital. But he said he had talked to her physicians and he did not believe the operation would delay the start of the President's scheduled vacation at Newport, R.I.

Hagerty said earlier that he expected Eisenhower to remain in Washington until the adjournment of Congress—now expected by GOP legislative leaders about Aug. 24.

Parade Heralds Rodeo Opening

1st Performance Set; Pony Show Completed

By BILL NEAL
Pampa News Staff Writer
After a slow start Monday, the 13th annual Top O' Texas Rodeo and Kid Pony Show finally got off the ground yesterday afternoon when more than 180 kids slugged it out for prizes in two performances of the miniature rodeo.

Bright sunshine this morning gave promise that rodeo week would hit full swing with the street parade which was to have been held at 3 this afternoon.

The first "grown-up" rodeo is set for 8 tonight at the rodeo grounds in Recreation Park with Ruby Nance and his world famous rodeo band, Leon McAuliffe and the Cimarron Boys, tight wire artist Hubert Castle, and a host of other attractions giving spice to the regular rodeo events.

Five Groups
Five groups of kids from 5 to 15 battled yesterday afternoon in a 20-event, ranging from potato races to bull riding. Winners are listed below.

The first performance yesterday, starting at 2 p.m. was rescheduled after being rained out Monday night. The second show came off as planned at 8 p.m.

Cowboys and cowgirls crowded the rodeo office in the lobby of the Pampa Hotel this morning registering for eight events. Registration was to close at 11 a.m.

Parade
The rodeo parade, to have been held at 3 this afternoon, has been billed as the biggest and best ever. Besides many colorful cowgirl and cowboy entrants riding in the parade, numerous club "floats" and riding clubs will participate.

As a special feature, a number of old-time vehicles from Ft. Jordan, N.M., including old buckboards, wagons, surreys, hearses and others were to rattle down the street.

Parade entrants were to have been judged in four categories—most typical ranch entry, best civic club or organization entry, most attractive commercial entry, and best riding club entry.

The parade was scheduled to form at 2:15 on West Foster and roll at 3 according to Holly Gray, parade chairman.

Parade Order
Parade line-up was to have been Texas Highway Patrol Car, color guard, rodeo officials, Ruby Nance band, city and county officials, Top o' Texas Girls Riding Club, Roping Club, cowgirl sponsors, Gulf sound truck, civic club and organization entries, riding clubs, Santa Fe train, commercial entries, ranch entries, cowboys and cowgirls, and comical and western novelties.

It was to come down W. Foster, Frost, W. Browning and Cuyler streets.

Clayton Mathis, Guy Andis and Joe Looper were to assist in directing the parade.

Goat Mayo
Goat Mayo, producer of this rodeo and the 12 previous Pampa shows, arrived Monday and began to get details of the show ironed out.

Mayo, who hails from Petrolia, is a veteran rodeo producer.

There will be two "go-rounds" in the rodeo with "day money" for each round, and then the average winners will split entrance fees, the winner taking 50 percent. Prize money will total over $5,000.

Events will include calf roping, bareback bronc riding, saddle bronc riding, bulldogging, bull riding, double mugging, cutting horse contest and cowgirls contest.

A cutting horse preliminary contest was held this morning at 8:30 to trim the field to 12 top entries for the rodeo.

Prizes
A 4X Beaver Stetson hat will be awarded by the Pampa Daily News to the best all-around cowboy. A silver buckle will also be given to the best all-around cowboy entered in three major rodeo events, compliments of the Rodeo Association, Bob Andis, president, has reported.

In the cowgirls' contest, the Pursey Motor Company will give the winner a hand stamped saddle, second place winner a silver buckle and the third place winner a shop-made pair of boots.

Leon McAuliffe and his Cimarron Boys from Tulsa will perform nightly from 9 to 12 for dancing in the National Guard Armory, just south of the rodeo arena.

Friday's performance will be "Air Force Night," with General Lee, commander of Amarillo Air Force Base, as special guest. A dinner will be given for him at 8:30 p.m. Friday.

BEARDED CHAMPIONS—Johnny Lee Smith, "Miss Pampa," strokes the city's "most outstanding beard," belonging to Mage Keyser, after champions in several categories were named in the Jaycee-sponsored beard-growing contest last night. The entries were judged during a street dance sponsored by the club. Other champions are, left to right, "Dusty" Miller of Lefors, whitest beard; Max Hukill, heaviest beard; Miss Smith; R. F. McDonald, blackest beard; Floyd Hatcher, reddest beard; Keyser; Merideth Meeker, 17, youngest beard grower; Luther Beeson, "over 65," oldest beard grower, "Butch" Reynolds, thinnest beard; and Carl Cantrell, shaggiest beard. # Mage Keyser Wins Best Beard Prize

By GWEN T. STARK
Pampa News Staff Writer
Mage Keyser was voted the sporter of the most outstanding beard during last night's gigantic old-time street dance sponsored by the Pampa Jaycees. The club hailed it as the first annual such event.

The crowd responded with claps and noises of approval as each of the 57 beard-growing entries mounted the stage to show off their crop. No one would make an estimate of the crowd present, but the street was full from curb to curb and spilling over on to the Court House and City Hall lawns. It was evident that the event was highly successful.

Following the eliminations, Keyser and the division champions were called back to the stage for television and newspaper pictures. Hal Mayfield, assistant to Cotton John on KGNC-TV, was a television representative, and also a judge.

Ike Blasts Jury Trial Amendment

By DAYTON MOORE
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower said today the jury trial amendment to the civil rights bill started when a reporter said his Aug. 2 attack on the Senate's jury trial amendment had been widely interpreted as an indication of a veto should the bill reach him in its current form.

The reporter asked whether Eisenhower might accept a compromise limiting the right of trial by jury in federal contempt proceedings to voting rights cases.

The President said his statement of Aug. 2 reflected his position very accurately, and that he could form.

He repeated his statement of Aug. 2 that the measure as amended by the Senate would seriously hamper operations of the federal courts system.

Johnson Predicts Passage
Meanwhile, Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson said he will seek agreement later today for a Senate vote on passage of the civil rights measure—tonight if possible. He predicted passage by a two-thirds margin.

Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland, looking ahead to a conference with the House on the measure, said administration lawyers are drawing up a new compromise which they hope will be acceptable to the President and the two houses.

Administration sources had listed harmful effects they say the jury trial amendment would have on the functioning not only of courts but of quasi-judicial regulatory bodies such as the federal trade commission.

Veto Indicated
The Justice Department also said the amendment, if it became law, would require the Supreme Court to use juries to try violators of certain kinds of order.

British Advance On Rebels

By JOE MORRIS
United Press Staff Correspondent
BAHREIN, Persian Gulf (UP)—British and Muscat troops advanced today to the village of Izz, 14 miles from the rebel stronghold of Niwa. No contact with rebel forces was reported.

The British troops and the forces of the Sultan of Muscat and Oman were scheduled to stand at Izz and then advance on the Niwa fortress Thursday.

Capture of Niwa would end phase one of the operations against tribesmen of the rebellious Imam of Oman, the spiritual leader who is trying to take over the desert country from the pro-British sultan.

British Royal Air Force jet planes dropped leaflets on Izz five or ten minutes before the troops moved in, calling on the inhabitants to give every assistance to the "army of the sultan."

Ike Names New Defense Secretary

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower announced today he plans to nominate soap manufacturer Neil H. McElroy to succeed Charles E. Wilson as secretary of defense.

He said the actual nomination will not be made, however, until the Cincinnati businessman passes an extensive but routine government investigation of his fitness for the key Cabinet post.

The President said Wilson notified him some time ago that he wanted to leave the Cabinet before the Defense Department starts this fall to prepare next year's budget.

Eisenhower called McElroy one of the most capable men in America. He is president of Procter and Gamble, a big soap manufacturing concern.

For the past two days he has been conferring with Wilson and other administration officials about the job. He had a brief conference with Eisenhower at the White House Tuesday.

So judge me with mercy; I've learned O so well. That speeding in Michigan Is harder than Hell. Answered the judge: These college speed demons Are bad for our state. With regrets we inform you Tan bucks is your fate.

Senate Calls Witnesses In Investigation

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Senate Rackets Committee called for expert testimony today on the charge that James R. Hoffa, Teamster Union vice president, used Johnny Dio's underworld henchmen to rig a union election.

Counsel Robert F. Kennedy said the committee planned to call 10 witnesses, most of them union officials connected with Dio. That would clear the way for Dio's scheduled appearance Thursday, he said.

The witnesses, Kennedy said, would be individuals who played a role in the battle for control of New York's Joint Council of Teamsters late in 1955.

The committee previously charged Hoffa obtained Teamster charters for a group of "paper" locals in New York merely to use their votes in that Teamster election. According to committee data, four of the largely memberless locals were staffed with officers from Dio-controlled locals of the AFL-United Auto Workers Union.

Gives Vivid Picture
Paul Claude, a Brooklyn, N.Y. machine shop owner who said he feared for his children's lives even as he testified, gave the committee a vivid picture Tuesday of how one Dio henchman allegedly operated.

Claude, a nervous man with a furrowed, balding brow, testified that into his shop — Paragon Brass Products, Inc. — one day in 1954 walked Max Chester, a smallish, soft-spoken man with long, dark eyelashes.

Kennedy said Chester also has a long, dark record of nine arrests and six convictions including a recent labor bribery case involving his friend Dio, whose real name is John Dioguardi.

Chester announced he was organizing the shop's 15 employees, Claude testified, and for $2,000 would grant a contract the machine shop owner could "live with." Otherwise, the witness related, the contract would increase his costs $12,000 in three years and run him out of business.

Kind of Psychology
He said Chester told him his $2,000 offer amounted to a gift of $10,000 and Claude should be grateful.

The nervous witness said the Dio henchman always inquired solicitously about his family's health and wasn't it a shame how easily his children could be run over by a car?

"He said how he loved his own children and how dangerous it is for children to play in the streets," Claude testified. "I was scared to death. It was a kind of psychology, and it worked on me. He never threatened."

Chester, called to the witness stand, invoked the Fifth Amendment, refusing to tell anything but his name. He refused even to admit his present abode is a New York jail cell where he awaits sentence along with Dio and Samuel Goldstein, an official of a New York Teamsters local. All three were convicted July 25 of exacting money from employers for labor peace.

Oklahoma Anthrax Epidemic Spreads

VINITA, Okla. (UP) — Oklahoma's anthrax epidemic, worst outbreak of the deadly cattle disease in a quarter century, was being fought in a third county in the northeastern corner of the state today.

Harold Hutton, president of the State Board of Agriculture, has ordered the quarantine extended to include seven square miles of Mayes county, which borders Craig county on the south. At the same time, another 19 square miles of adjoining Ottawa county were added to the danger area. Including all of Craig county, the quarantine covers 85 square miles.

Eighteen additional veterinarians from out of state and a specialist from Oklahoma State University arrived Sunday to assist in the mass vaccination program. Since the quarantine was ordered 10 days ago, more than 55,000 cattle have been vaccinated.

During the last week, vaccination teams worked around the clock as the disease spread to 84 farms and ranches. Officials discovered 15 new cases Sunday.

Only one human, Haskell Shorter, a cattleman from Welch, was known to have contracted the disease. He was released after treatment in a hospital at Miami, Okla. Rep. Ed Edmondson (D-Okla.)

notified officials here that the Oklahoma congressional delegation was scheduled to confer with agriculture department officials in Washington today about the situation.

Dr. Glen Van Ness, anthrax research specialist from Washington who arrived Saturday, said the type of anthrax here is a "more severe type" than that which broke out in Mississippi in 1954. Van Ness said it was his opinion the disease would spread northward.

Kansas authorities have been on the alert for the past week against movement of cattle, milk or eggs out of the diseased area. A force of state officers is performing the same function in Oklahoma.

Nashville Braces For Integration

By HAROLD JONES
United Press Staff Correspondent
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UP) — One superintendent of schools in Nashville, called the phone company and ordered an unlisted number.

Oil Firms To Merge

FORT WORTH (UP) — A department of the Halliburton Oil Well Cementing Co. of Duncan, Okla., and the Welx Jet Services, Inc., plan to merge, a joint statement by the companies report.

The merger will give Fort Worth a new $15 million corporation.

A joint statement issued today by L. B. Meaders, president of the Duncan firm, and Ray O. Shaffer, president of Welx, said the new firm will be known as Welx, Inc.

The merger, yet to be acted on by stockholders of Welx, will bring together all assets, facilities and personnel of Halliburton's electrical well services department.

Directors of both firms have approved the plan, and the board of Welx will recommend it to stockholders at a meeting to be announced later.

The new corporation will be composed of between 950 and 1,000 employees.

The stock exchange has been set at 240 shares of Welx Jet Services, Inc., for one share of Halliburton, of which Halliburton stock ultimately will be distributed to stockholders of Welx Jet Services, Inc.

Shaffer will be president of the new company. Firm officials said all details of the merger will not be completed for another 60 to 90 days.

Bas figures he will be a troubled man come next month. Nashville's schools are going to be integrated. It is one of the main places to watch this autumn in the South's desegregation controversy.

This Tennessee capital city will start with integration in the first grade, the idea being the transition will least affect six year olds who have not yet built up racial prejudice.

Had the courts waited six months longer to order racial barriers dropped in Nashville, it would have been a problem for someone else than Bass. No 269, he retires in January. He is a former state commissioner of education who has been superintendent here for 20 years.

Bass doesn't know what the public reaction will be to integration in the largest southern city yet to try it in grade schools. Nor does he know exactly how many Negroes will show up for integrated classes.

There are approximately 1,250 Negro children to enter the first grade here in September. Estimates by school authorities are that approximately 5 per cent—between 60 and 70 children—will seek admission to schools now exclusively white.

This has been a summer of thoughtful preparation. The federal courts sometime ago approved a "good faith" plan based on first grade integration submitted by the local school people. Since then teachers, PTA groups and church organizations have discussed how to forestall troubles other areas have experienced.

There seems to be a sincere effort here to avoid another clash such as the one at Clinton, Tenn., but it is by no means certain there will not be.

Housing Boom Is Forecast

WASHINGTON (UP) — Housing industry officials have forecast a possible low-cost housing boom if lenders accept the new low federal floor on down payments.

At the same time, the Federal Housing Administration faced a full congressional investigation because of the boost in mortgage interest rates that accompanied the down payment cuts.

The Eisenhower administration Monday authorized a 25 to 37 per cent in minimum required down payments and a one-fourth per cent boost in interest rates on government-insured FHA loans. The move aimed at putting new life in the lagging housing industry.

The new regulations mean that for the first time in history a man can buy a $14,000 home with a down payment as small as $900 under the FHA program. Monday he would have had to put down at least $1,700.

But there are two possible hitchhikes:

The man has to find a lender willing to pass out mortgage money on the new low down payment terms.

Industry officials said the new regulations probably will not mean any building upsurge this year because of the time lag in setting up housing projects.

However, they said if the regulations bring out more mortgage money into the market a low-cost housing boom is possible.

George S. Goodyear, National Association of Home Builders president, said the reduced down payments "could be the most significant step forward the FHA has made since its establishment in 1934."

Teenage Wars Cause City To Add Cops

NEW YORK (UP)—Six-hundred rookie policemen have joined the police force to help fight the reign of terror that has resulted in 22 deaths this year.

Young probationary patrolmen, who are still attending the police academy, were spread out over tenement areas armed with nightsticks and instructed to use them if necessary.

Mayor Robert F. Wagner appealed to parents to keep their youngsters off the streets at night or keep a close check on their whereabouts at all times. A new crackdown on sale of liquor to minors was ordered.

Teen-age wars resulted in four deaths last week alone. Juvenile packs were also responsible for seriously injuring four persons.

Police, city, and state officials and the head of the Youth Board met in emergency Monday to cope with the problem of stopping teen-gang "rumbles."

Magistrate Hyman Korn called for an 11 p.m. or midnight curfew for youths under 18, after confronting 12 members of a juvenile gang arrested as they set out to battle another gang.

Plainclothes detectives seized from the youths such intended weapons as beer can openers, baseball bats, steel bars and heavy canvas garrison belts.

A departmental alert to all 23,000 members of the police force was issued by acting Police Commissioner James R. Kennedy.

He ordered the 600 rookies to patrol areas troubled by gang warfare from 6 p.m. to midnight until the crisis is past.

Police crime figures show that 22 persons have died in teen violence so far this year, compared to 29 deaths during all of last year.

Miss Nancy Tate To Represent District After Winning First In Dress Contest

Miss Nancy Tate of McLean was winner of the Gray County senior 4-H girls dress revue held Monday morning in the Lovett Memorial Library. It has been announced by Miss Helen Dunlap, county home demonstration agent. Her dress was of toast-colored cotton lace with which she wore dark brown accessories.

Rebekahs To Have Game Night At Hall

Nobis grand, Mrs. Bernice Ladd, and vice grand, Mrs. Ola Isbell, conducted the Pampa Rebekah Lodge No. 355 meeting held Thursday evening in the IOOF Hall.

During the business meeting, a donation was made to the Pilgrimage Fund.

The charter was draped in memory of Mrs. Ann Savage, past president of the Rebekah Assembly of Texas, who passed away recently in Dallas.

Mrs. Cora Lee Baer, past noble grand, presented Mrs. Daphne Baer with a 25-year pin.

It was announced that game night will be held August 17 at 8 p.m. in the Hall. Card games, dominoes, and checkers will be played and will be open to the public. Mmes. Bonny Wharton and Isbell are in charge of the project. Proceeds will go to the Noble Grand's project.

Members reported ill were Mrs. Ethel Bryan's father, Mary Ann Bailey's husband and sister-in-law and June Rawl's husband.

Refreshments of frosted Cokes were served by the Brother Rebekahs.

Twenty-six members were present.

Other senior group winners were: Misses Carolyn Anderwald, White Deer; Sandra Baker, McLean; and Irene Baggerman, Grandview; all winning blue ribbons.

The group under fourteen years of age won according to the various garments they made. Miss Elaine Baker, McLean, won a blue ribbon with her skirt; Miss Mary Ann Skaggs, Miss Grazia Lewis, blue ribbons; and Miss Mary Alice Coombes, red ribbon with skirts and blouses. Those making blouses and skirts are all members of the Cleverette 4-H club.

Those modeling dresses were: Misses Roselle Baggerman and Arlene Willis, of Grandview; blue ribbons; and Miss Martha Pattillo, member of the Cleverette Club, red ribbon.

All garments, made and modeled by both the younger and the older girls, were made of cotton materials. Some were fall colors, while the lighter ones were summer shades and tints.

Judges in the county contest were: Miss Lou Ella Patterson, county home demonstration agent, Perryton; Mrs. Elaine Holman, home economist for the Empire Gas Company; Mrs. J. B. Mass, and Mrs. A. M. Nash, home makers.

Fashions For That First School Day

By GAILE DUGAS
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK (NEA) — Going back to school is more fun when a girl's dressed for the part.

This fall, she'll have lots of fashion choice. There are new versions of the suspender and jumper dresses, with their own carefully tailored white pique or linen, clousures. Dark apple red is a color becoming both to small blondes and brunettes so this is a happy choice for the first day of school.

Some of the one-piece dresses simulate boleros for a high-waisted look. And when a girl hasn't yet got much of a waistline of her own, this is important.

Mother will approve dresses in fine imported washable woollens. Many of these are done in plaids with skirts cut on the bias, box-pleated or gathered full.

There are many browns this fall, in shades from caramel-beige to fudge-brown. But there are blues, reds, grays and greens, too.

RUTH MILLET

Every middle-aged woman ought to study older women so she can begin the self-discipline necessary to make her the kind of woman who meets old age with courage and good cheer.

If she looks and listens and tries to figure out why this older woman is happy and why that one is cheerless, she will learn more than she could in any other way about the art of living.

A few facts are sure to become clear to her as she studies older women.

One is that the happy older woman "do" for themselves as long as they are able. They have an independence of spirit that keeps them from leaning on others.

Another fact she will discover is that the happy older woman doesn't stubbornly resist change and talk about the good old days but accepts the world as it is and young people as they are.

She will also notice that the happy older woman overlooks disappointment instead of looking for it. She doesn't dwell on unpleasantness or expect too much of friends or those who are near and dear to her. And always the really happy older woman has a deep religious faith.

From the unhappy older woman she can learn a lot, too. She can learn what she must not do if she wants younger people to enjoy her company, if she wants to keep her friends and if she wants her life to be as rewarding as it was in her younger years.

Any middle-aged woman who will take the trouble to study both the happy and the unhappy older women she knows will be doing a great deal toward becoming a happy person in her own old age.

The triumphs and defeats are there to study, if she is wise enough to realize that the time to learn how to be a happy older person is long before old age comes.

Refreshing, zesty and unusual cold soups — yes, that's what more and more readers ask for. So we went to the Newark, M. J., Airport's Newarker Restaurant, noted for distinctive cold soups.

Our amiable friend, Fred Rufe, the manager, gave us these delicious recipes:

Vegetable Soup Frost (Serves 10)
One medium head lettuce, 1 pound frozen spinach, 1/2 medium onion, 1 cucumber, 1 cup cooked green peas, 5 cups chicken stock, 1/2 cup heavy cream, juice of 2 lemons, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 pound sugar, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon cayenne, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg.

Put lettuce, spinach, onion, cucumber and peas in blender or chop fine. When finely chopped, remove and add cold chicken stock and heavy cream. Flavor with lemon juice, salt, cayenne, pepper and nutmeg.

SWISS CHERRY SOUP ALPINE (Serves 6)
One quart black cherries, pitted, 1/2 cup cherry wine, 2 cups dry white wine (Rhine), juice of 2 lemons, 2 cups chicken stock, 1/2 pound sugar, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon cayenne, 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 1/2 tablespoons cornstarch, 5 slices white bread, butter.

Simmer cherries, wine, lemon juice, chicken stock, sugar, salt and cinnamon for 20 minutes. To bind soup lightly, add cornstarch while cooking. Cool. Cut bread in cubes and saute in butter.

Serve chilled soup in individual bowls with croutons on top and a sprinkling of kirsch, if desired.

A WEEK-DAY DINNER: Vegetable soup frost, casserole of turkey and pimento stuffed olives, fluffy rice, green beans, enriched bread, butter or margarine, half cantaloupe filled with blueberries garnished with fresh mint leaves, coffee, tea, milk.

so many people. Just forget yourself and start to talk. Then there won't be any need for such apologizing.

The best time to find out how you'll look in a new hairstyle is while your hair is lathered with shampoo. No matter how you arrange it then, it will stay in place long enough for you to get an idea of whether or not you like the style.

Ruling Class Zeal

We have on several occasions mentioned the problem which arises from excessive governmental dependency. When persons begin to believe that there are many things they cannot do which the government can do, an era is ushered in which is bound to have demoralizing effects upon the citizens as a whole.

There is a necessary corollary.

It is that while citizens are in the process of forgetting how to walk upright and handle their own affairs, various politicians, who find themselves cast in the role of errand boys for the demanding multitudes, inevitably begin to assume that they are in fact responsible for the well-being of the people.

If possible, this second result of excessive dependency is even more harmful than the dependency itself. When a political hireling becomes convinced that were it not for his endless duties, performed with diligence, the civilizing itself would fall apart, you have a rise in a ruling class which fancies itself superior in every way to the voters who placed the politician in his lofty position.

There is nothing worse for the independence and progress of a people than to have it infested with self-admitted superiors who hold themselves just a little above everyone else and soon adopt a somewhat patronizing air as they bustle about trying to prove how valuable and vital their various chores have become.

There is no other way of explaining the zeal and the arrogance of such politicians as those who labor in certain capacities within the government for whose services no recompense is given. Some persons on some school boards, provide a precise example. So, too, do some city councilmen, certain board directors, and others, who receive little or no pay for their efforts, yet who put in long and tedious hours for the alleged benefit of others. They certainly would not strive so mightily for success in elections and for self-sacrifice in the performance of their tasks, if they did not feel they were making a most profound contribution to society itself. It is not too strong to state that these persons quickly convince themselves that they are superior to all ordinary persons, and that were it not for their tireless devotion, chaos would result.

The matter is curious and reveals a peculiar phase of the human character.

Have you ever noticed that just before and during an election campaign, those who yearn for public office, whether that office is rewarded with money or not, take great pains to convince everyone how much they believe in the wisdom of the voter? How much they rely on that wisdom, they publicly proclaim. The majority can do no wrong, they state in various ways. They are content to leave the matter of selection to such unfailing wisdom.

But when the election is ended, the successful politician immediately begins his tour with the reversal of his pre-election oratory. Now, selected by such undeviating wisdom, he suddenly discovers that his constituents are stupid fellows, incapable of coming in out of the rain without his guidance and direction.

If, as it then appears, mankind is imbecilic, it remains a point of contention as to how it is possible for such incompetents to select the persons who are to be responsible for them. Since when did any incompetent have so much prescience that he is entirely capable of choosing his own guardian?

This business of looking to the law to solve problems which in no way should relate to the law is doing two very destructive things to our country. It is weakening the independence and moral fibre of the people generally. It is strengthening the power and the sense of importance in the minds of a special group of persons who in no way are superior to others, saving in their ability to amass support at the polls.

If this process is carried to its ultimate conclusion, logic tells us that in time, the people will become little more than slaves, politicians little less than slave masters.

Sovereign States

James Jackson Kilpatrick closes his book, 'The Sovereign States,' with a summary showing how the Supreme Court has encroached on states' rights. Here is the way he puts it:

"These cases (and countless others could be cited) define a trend: The deification of the Federal government, and the steady nullification of the States. They point to a problem, a great and difficult constitutional problem. It certainly is not a new one. It existed in Jefferson's day, and in Calhoun's, and for that matter, in Teddy Roosevelt's also. It is to preserve unto the States, for good or ill, that which is rightfully the States', and to guard with equal jealousy that which is the proper function of the Federal government. Yet to an ominous degree, the problem now is far more acute than it has ever been before. . . . Those who had conceived the Constitution itself to be the supreme law of the land are now told, imperiously, that today's opinions of the Court, however palpably in violation of the Constitution these mandates may be, are supreme above all things. We are told to bow and fawn before a judicial oligarchy which has asserted unto itself powers as arrogant as those of any tyrant: 'This is compassionate,' says the Court, 'therefore it is constitutional.' This, in the Court's view, is socially desirable; therefore the Court will make it the law. . . ."

"The end of this process is the corruption of a constitutional Union, by judicial fiat, into a consolidated government in which the States are mere political dependencies. The end is a centralization of all meaningful powers in the hands of Federal authority. . . ."

"The remedy lies—it must lie—in drastic resistance by the States, as States, to Federal encroachment. If those who voluntarily created the system cannot be trusted to preserve it," asked Calhoun, "who can?" The checking and controlling influence of the people, exerted as of old, through the States, can indeed preserve the constitutional structure. The right to interpose the will of the sovereign people, in order that the evils of encroachment may be arrested, once more can be exerted toward the preservation of a Union and the dignity of States.

"A long time ago, a great Virginian" (Abel Parker Uphur) "had this to say: 'So far as our (Federal) government is concerned, I venture to predict that it will become absolute and irresponsible, precisely in proportion as the rights of the States shall cease to be respected and their authority to interpose for the correction of Federal abuses shall be denied and overthrown.'"

"Abel Parker Uphur's prediction of 1840 has been grimly fulfilled. The American people have lost sight of the old concept that the States, as such, form the balance wheel—in Uphur's terms, the only effective check upon Federal encroachments." We have lived to see the truth of his prophecy, that the danger to constitutional separation of powers is 'not that the States will interpose too often, but that they will rather submit to Federal usurpations, than incur the risk of embarrassing the government, by any attempts to check and control it.'"

"The States have submitted to long Federal usurpations. At their grave peril, they can submit no longer. Through every device of interposition they can bring to bear—political, legislative, judicial—once more they must invoke their sovereign powers to insist that Federal encroachments be resisted. . . ."

"The people's highest interest," said Uphur, "is at home; their palladium is their own State governments. They ought to know that they can look nowhere else with perfect assurance of safety and protection. Let them then maintain those governments, not only in their rights, but in their dignity and influence. Make it the interest of their people to serve them: an interest strong enough to resist all the temptations of Federal office and patronage. Then alone will the voice of the States be heard with respect at Washington; then alone will their interposition avail to protect their own people against the usurpations of the great central power. It is vain to hope that the federative principle of our government can prevent it from running into the absolutism of consolidation, if we suffer the rights of the States to be filched away, and their dignity and influence to be lost, through our carelessness or neglect."

"Thus Abel Parker Uphur ended his essay in 1840. And this, well over a century later, this one ends also."

Courts, Lawyers Are Oppressors Of Liberty

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Judges are the only persons in our oppressive bureaucracy who insist that we address them in the third person as though they were royalty. They have absolutely no legal right to this fawning and degrading obsequiousness. But they get away with it because they are, as a group, tyrants who fall ten people who come before them. Not only defendants, plaintiffs and witnesses, but even spectators tip-toe and whisper in their presence. Lawyers make no bones about their own dishonesty and civic and moral servility in prostrating themselves before pompous fakers, knowing some of them to be disgusting crooks.

This is hocus-pokum inherited from the English courts whose reputation for moral grandeur and conscience is legitimate and fraudulent in equal portions. They were fine, but they were rotten, too. Authorities disagree whether the British judges have a legal right to the gala which they demand and receive from all persons in their presence and from most of the public beyond their presence including the press. But all American lawyers privately admit that the only reason why they observe this contemptible custom is that they have to assume that the judge may take revenge on their clients.

In many cases, the lawyers are of course the lawyers have primarily in mind their own bread-and-butter and goosie and general well-being. Knowing what paltry medicine men most judges are, they flatter them with the most nauseating slobber simply because they would destroy their careers by standing up to them with courage and honor.

A lawyer does not have to call a judge "Your Honor." Neither do we. He does not have to precede all his remarks with "May it please the court" and "If you please honor please." A lawyer and his clients actually have not the slightest legal reason to give a damn whether his argument or statement please either the court or the judge himself. They are there to get justice, not to flatter the judge. The judge is a public official established to transact certain business. The judge is elected or appointed on his own representation that he wants the job at the stated salary and is qualified by education to do the work.

English Newsmen Tells Countrymen Of US Plight

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Denys Smith, the knowledgeable Washington correspondent for the London Telegraph, recently depicted the significance of our vast Foreign Aid Program, military and economic, in a murky light which few Americans seem to appreciate. It is doubtful if the Administration or Congress grasp the implications seen by this British writer and veteran observer of the American scene.

Smith's dispatch appeared in a 16-page supplement on the United States, which was designed to make the British people understand our postwar plight and problems. It was an entirely friendly gesture by this conservative newspaper of 1,000,000 circulation, which ranks next to 'The London Times' as the bible of British political, military and diplomatic circles.

The inspiration for the American supplement was the series of political disagreements which have marred Anglo-American relations in recent months, especially since the abortive invasion of Egypt by Britain, France and Israel. It was an attempt to explain to and possibly reconcile the British people to the status of the U.S. as a dominant world power, and to the decline of the British Empire.

"U.S. ASSUMES 'WHITE MAN'S BURDEN'" — In assuming leadership of the anti-Communist Alliance, with protective military guarantees to more than 50 nations, Smith points out that we have assumed the "white man's burden," which England bore so proudly until the load became unbearable. Our various aid programs, he says, no matter what innocuous or technical name an Administration gives them, commit Uncle Sam to policing the non-Communist universe.

But conditions have changed completely since England carried the load. There was then no hostile and aggressive power strong enough to challenge Britain's supremacy, as Moscow now confronts and intrigues against us around the rim of the world. England was undisputed overlord, and was even welcomed by backward races for the civilizing and modernizing influences she contributed.

Nor had a fierce and uncompromising spirit of nationalism arisen to resent and to reject Britain's commercial and imperialistic aims. It was not until after World Wars I and II, and largely inspired by Woodrow Wilson and Franklin D. Roosevelt, that the Gandhis, the Nehrus, and the Nasers and other native revolutionists demanded their people's desire and voiced for freedom.

Britain then carried a burden which her colonials were unable to handle themselves, and which they were only too happy for her to assume. The United States, on the other hand, is warned to go home by the beneficiaries of her military protection and economic assistance.

There is another important difference between the two Western nations' roles in the 19th and 20th centuries. For British merchants, manufacturers and shippers, her worldwide possessions, from Calcutta to Hong Kong, were a source of trade and wealth. London imported their raw materials, which England did not possess, and sold the finished products to the colonial markets. London also enjoyed a large revenue as the Empire's banker.

The United States enjoys no such two-way trade and profits. In fact, our postwar gifts and loans of more than $50 billion have helped to deprive us of foreign customers.

This vast sum has enabled them to build their own industries and transportation systems, and to sustain domestic purchasing power. Agricultural experts and technicians crisscross Europe, Asia and North Africa to teach the natives how to raise crops that will compete with Secretary Benson's $8 billion of unsaleable surpluses. As Truman said when he promulgated the Point - Four Program, we seek to transform deserts into rose gardens. He forgot to add that roses bear thorns.

Ironically, and thanks to Uncle Sam, two of the most threatening competitors in everything from toys and textiles to rolling mills, bridges and automobiles, are the countries we spent billions to crush — Japan and Germany.

"Denys' Smith's dispatch may help the British people to understand us. It may also incline them to feel sorry for us!"

No Quaint Cottage For Hank—He Wants Palace

By HENRY McLEMORE

CHIEMSEE, Bavaria — Cape Cod cottages are all right, and so are ranch-style houses, but for good living give me a palace.

I never have seen a palace I didn't like, from Buckingham to Versailles. All this talk about palaces being too big for comfort is nonsense, and I'll bet that half the people who say that live in houses where, if the pot one more coat in the clothes closet, they wouldn't be able to shut the door.

As a man who likes to sleep on the sofa when relatives come to visit, I like the idea of having sixty or seventy spare bedrooms. And what would be wrong with having twenty or thirty more rooms in which you could throw the junk which a family accumulates and forget about?

There's nothing wrong with the way palaces are decorated, either. There is usually so much gold-leaf about that a man never would go broke as long as he had a pocket knife.

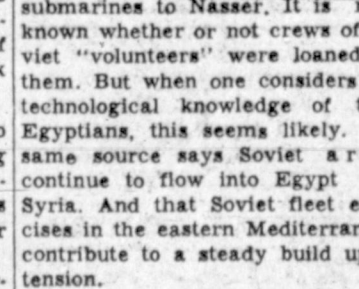

And did you ever see such beds as palaces have? Most of them are as big as a city lot and look as soft as a custard pie. Sleeping in one of them wouldn't be like sleeping in a twin bed in a Cape Cod Cottage, where a fellow has to sleep at attention to keep his arms under the covers.

We went through a palace to-day that I'd like to settle down in. It belonged to Ludwig the Second of Bavaria, and is on an island in a lake. Herrenchiemsee is its name, and it is just one of many that Ludwig built for himself.

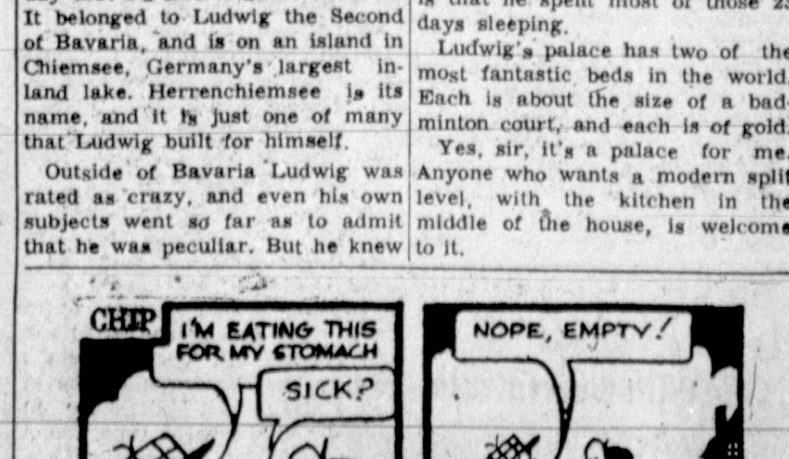

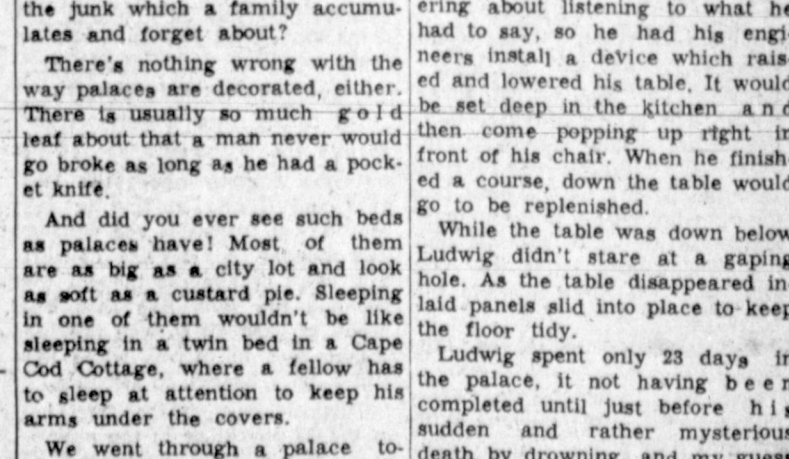

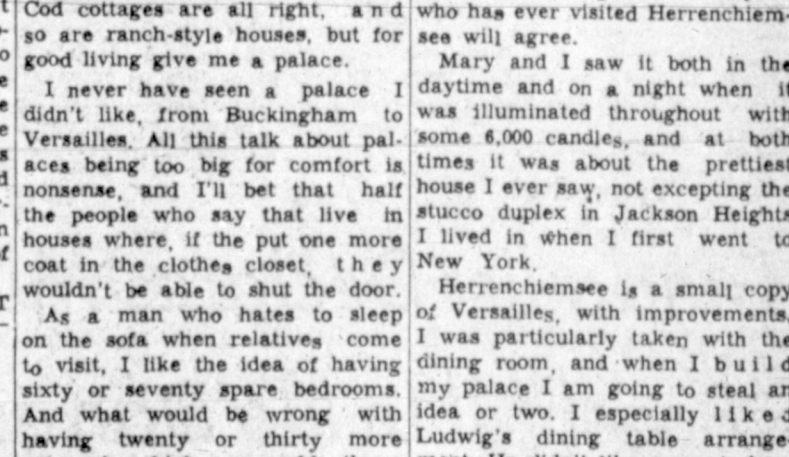

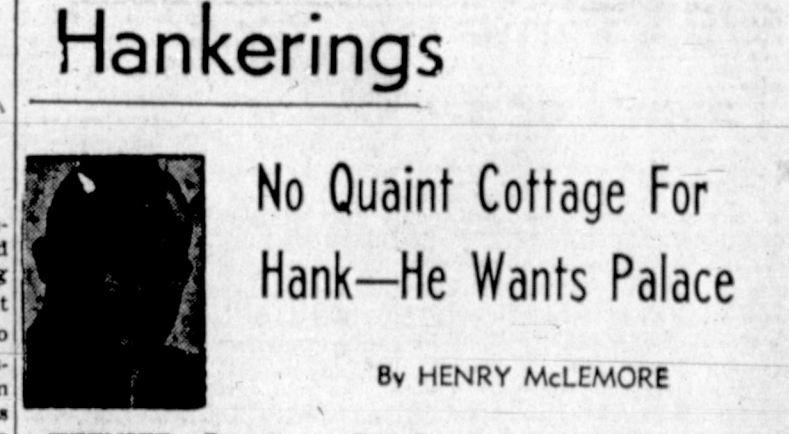

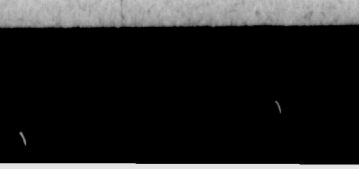

Outside of Bavaria Ludwig was as crazy, and even his own subjects went so far as to admit that he was peculiar. But he knew

At the moment, our State Department seems to have achieved a certain success in persuading some of the Arab states to resist Soviet domination. But it's too early to start cheering. The Jerusalem correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph says Russia has given three of its most modern submarines to Nasser. It is not known whether or not crews of Soviet "volunteers" were loaned to them. But when one considers the technological knowledge of the Egyptians, this seems likely. The same source says Soviet arms continue to flow into Egypt and Syria. And that Soviet fleet exercises in the eastern Mediterranean contribute to a steady build up of tension.

Plan By Graham To Stop Teen Violence

By ALBIN KREBS
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP)—Billy Graham outlined plans Tuesday night to help combat the recent outbreak of teen-age killings and violence in New York.

"Christ is the only answer to this great problem facing police and social workers," the 38-year-old evangelist said.

Graham said he would devote all six of his Madison Square Garden sermons next week to "New York's number one problem," combating violence by teen gangs.

"We're contacting gang leaders and their members and many of them are coming here next week," Graham said.

"We'll have outstanding teenagers from the city here to testify how Christ has revolutionized their lives. One of them will be a former gang leader whose best friend was killed by a rival teen gang."

March For Christ
"If in Moscow the Communists can get thousands of young people to march under the hammer and sickle, surely we can get thousands here in New York to march for Christ."

Graham said that the Protestant Council of New York, one of the organizations sponsoring his New York crusade, is working through social agencies to contact leaders of some of the 60 known teen gangs.

The leaders of these gangs, which have an estimated total membership of about 8,000 youths, will be invited to attend meetings next week "just to see what it's like," Graham said.

Graham said he would direct his sermons "not only to the young people, but also to their parents, for if God does not inhabit the home, the young people don't have much chance."

Alarmed Over Gangs
The revivalist said he was "greatly alarmed" over the teen gang problem in New York. Twenty-two persons have lost their lives in teen violence this year, four of them in the last 12 days.

Graham outlined his "battle for youth" plans before an audience of 18,000. He devoted most of his sermons to "judgment" and reminded his listeners that "the whole world is one vast cemetery."

"As surely as you're going to die, you're also going to face judgment of one kind or another,"

Knights Columbus Officers Elected
The Frank Keim Council No. 2767, Knights of Columbus, of Pampa, installed officers for the forthcoming two years recently in the Council Chamber at 612 W. Buckler.

The ceremony was conducted by Russel Boyd, district deputy and Nick Ballis, district warden, of the Knights of Columbus, Amarillo.

W. J. McNeill of Pampa was installed as grand knight, with Jasper McBride as deputy grand knight. Other officers were Tom K. Chisholm, chancellor; A. J. Martin, recorder; S. E. Burnham, financial secretary; Johnny Lee, White Deer, treasurer; Thomas L. Wade, advocate; Jack D. Edwards, warden; L. W. Neumeyer, lecturer; J. E. Torvie, inside guard; and George Dillman and Emil Urban-czyk, outside guards.

SANTO DOMINGO PUEBLO, N.M. (UP)—Local Indians putting on a ceremonial dance weren't joking. Seven-thousand spectators had to scurry for shelter twice during the Santo Domingo Indians' annual rain dance Sunday.

Services To Halt Hiring Of Civilians

WASHINGTON (UP)—An order to the military services to slash civilian employment was the latest piece of "bad news" handed out by Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson in his final days as a cabinet officer.

Wilson, whose successor was expected to be announced today, ordered the services Tuesday to halt civilian hiring immediately and work out plans for reduced civilian employment.

The military services presently hire 1,180,914 civilians around the world. They were given until the end of this month to come up with a reduced figure.

One Collision Reported Here
The only collision reported within the city limits yesterday occurred on Tule, 10 feet east of Ballard, at 8:35 p.m.

Investigating officers reported that a 1955 Buick, driven by Ozle Byrd, 407 Elm, and a 1954 Pontiac, driven by George Henry Oliver, 1034 S. Gray, were in collision.

Damages to the Pontiac were estimated at $100 and it was reported that the Buick was not damaged.

BEARD PRIZE
The recent Miss Pampa contest, where Carl Cantrell, winner in the shaggy beard competition for $25; Meredith Meeker, 17, the youngest beard-grower who won $10; Luther Beeson, "over 65," the oldest beard grower, $10; Max Hukill, winner for having the heaviest beard, $5; Butch Reynolds, the thinnest beard, $5; Murray Moxley, the nearest moustache, $5; Floyd Hatcher, the reddest beard, $2.50; R. F. McDonald, the blackest beard, $2.50; and "Dusty" Miller of Lefors, the whitest beard, $2.50. Keyser won $25.

Winner of the most outstanding young farmer and rancher of the area was Bill Stockstill, who lives east of Pampa, with his wife, Ruth, and three children, Nancy, 6, Mary Ann, 8, and David, 9. Stockstill not only works in the field of ranching, agriculture and conservation, but is active in church and community affairs. He received a gold trophy from Johnny Campbell, Jaycee president. The award was given as part of a nation-wide Jaycee project.

Hillbilly Music
Humpy Matheny of Pampa provided the music for the gala affair with the crowd dancing both square dances and modern steps to such tunes as "This Old Hillbilly Western atmosphere. Men sported bright western shirts, slacks, boots and hats, and women were dressed in their traditional printed square dance dresses. It was a colorful sight for young and old to enjoy.

"Only one thing," said one of the beard growers as the evening drew to a close, "some of us are going to have to spend the next six months' courtin' and winnin' our wives back."

Negro Attacks Johnson
Val J. Washington, Negro director of the GOP National Committee's minorities division, denounced Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson for attacking Vice President Richard M. Nixon during the civil rights fight.

Washington accused Johnson of helping to "emasculate" the bill by supporting the jury trial amendment. Then, referring to Johnson's speech Monday charging Nixon with playing politics in his criticism of the amendment, he said:

"To accuse Vice President Nixon of playing politics certainly is not in good taste coming from you. Your record is one of continuous voting against all civil rights during your terms in both the House and Senate."

'Exhausted Rooster' Day For Jaycees
An "exhausted rooster day" was held yesterday during the Pampa Jaycees regular luncheon in the Palm Room of City Hall for all the ex-Jaycees who have passed over the club's 36-year-old age limit.

Clarence Kennedy, who was Jaycee president in 1934, was the earliest president present. The first permanent president was Bob Frashers who served in that capacity in 1931.

Jaycees reported one of the "liveliest" programs ever. A Phillips hypnotist put several to "sleep" and suggested stunts for them.

Discussed was the street dance held last night which included the beard growing contest and the outstanding young farmer of the area award.

Robert McCain and Morris Spencer were welcomed as new members.
