Gov. Daniel In Plea For Program

By O. B. LLOYD Jr., United Press Staff Correspondent
AUSTIN (UP)—Gov. Daniel was scheduled to go before a Senate committee today with a second personal plea for priority action on his one million dollar water planning program.

Sen. George Parkhouse of Dallas, chairman of the Senate Water and Conservation Committee, said he expected the governor "about 10 o'clock." However, Parkhouse said the time was not definite.

The governor appeared last week as a witness at the committee's first hearing to press his bid for early action on the water stoned his emergency call of the present 30-day special session.

A resolution denouncing use of federal troops to enforce integration was approved in the House Wednesday after sparking more than two hours of debate.

After heated exchanges in which President Eisenhower was called a "stooge of the NAACP," the House passed the resolution by Rep. Joe Chapman of Sulphur Springs 112-24. Chapman charged sending troops to Little Rock was "no less despicable than that committed by the Communists in Hungary."

"We haven't done one thing on the governor's program," Rep. John Crosthwait of Dallas observed. "I don't think we ought to (take up time on all this debate when this House has made up its mind.)"

Soviet Held Maneuvers Near Turkey

By WALTER LOGAN, United Press Staff Correspondent
The Soviet newspaper Zarya Vostok said today the Soviet Army recently held maneuvers with nuclear weapons near the Soviet-Turkish border.

The disclosure came one day after Russia reported that Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky, one of its top military leaders, had been named commander of Soviet forces opposite Turkey and Iran.

President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan were reported giving close attention to the Rokossovsky appointment which brought concern in a number of western capitals.

At the same time it was announced in Cairo that Maj. Gen. Abdel Hakim Amer, Egypt's war minister and joint commander-in-chief of the Egyptian-Syrian-Jordanian defense will visit the Soviet Union next week. The invitation came several months ago.

The semi-official Middle East News Agency reported from Damascus today that air raid tests were being carried out at Homs, Syria's chief of staff charged Wednesday that U. S. Air Force planes were invading Syrian air space and flying over Homs.

The appointment of Rokossovsky announced over Russia's obscure Tiflis Radio, could bear out recent Turkish contentions that Russia had massed large troop concentrations along the borders to match its warlike statements.

Concern over Rokossovsky's appointment, coincided with these major developments in the Middle East.

United Nations diplomats reports that plans to send Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold to the Middle East to investigate the crisis between Turkey and Syria gained rapid support in view of Syria's unwillingness to let King Saud of Saudi Arabia mediate the dispute.

Election Riots Reported
Delayed dispatches from Damascus said Syrian Premier Sabri El Assali expressed confidence the U. N. would pass a resolution condemning would be aggressors and "bearing the way to those who contemplate aggression against us."

Dispatches from the Turco-Syrian border reported all quiet with no major signs of a military build-up near the border. However, a Damascus dispatch said Syrian border guards clashed with Turkish tobacco smugglers on the border Wednesday and that a Syrian farmer struck a Turkish mine with his plow.

Illinois state Welfare Director Otto Bettag ordered a ban on visitors at all 25 state schools and state hospitals in an unprecedented action designed to curb the spread of Asian flu and other respiratory diseases.

Bettag said the ruling will remain in effect until all 80,000 inmates at the institutions have been inoculated against the flu. It was the first time in state history that visitors have been barred from all institutions.

Two Colorado state hospitals were placed in isolation after 40 patients were stricken with flu.

11 Per Cent Out At Lefors

LEFORS — Superintendent of Schools Jerry Jacobs reported this morning that only about 11 per cent of the students in Lefors schools were absent and he did not anticipate having to close.

Some 37 or 38 students missed school yesterday, down some from previous days. The flu or other illness incidence in Lefors Schools, he said, has seemingly hit two or three classes hardest at about the same time. Unless unforeseen developments arise, the Lefors vs. Clarendon football game will be played tomorrow night at Clarendon.

12 Died On Area Roads In September

A total of 12 persons were killed and 119 others were injured in the 65 accidents investigated in the district during September amounting to $158,728.

Heading the list of violations resulting in accidents, according to Blackwell, were: speeding, driving while drinking; driving on wrong side of road, not in passing; failure to grant right of way and other miscellaneous hazardous violations.

The total number of deaths from traffic accidents in the district during the first nine months of 1957 stood at 89 with 852 persons injured during the same period. Property damage amounted to $903,375, Blackwell said.

Blackwell concluded by reporting that a total of 1,167 traffic arrests were made by highway patrolmen in the district during September and 3,496 warnings for hazardous violations were issued.

The move by the military came after riotous crowds threatened to turn the streets of Guatemala into a battleground.

The mob action prevented congress from acting on the provisional government's resolution.

Highest Known Step In Race To Moon

By TOM NEISON, United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—The United States has taken man's highest known step yet in the race to the moon—stabbing a rocket an estimated 1,000-4,000 miles or more into space.

Precisely how high the slender multi-stage missile probed into the unknown won't be determined until calculations are completed, possibly Friday. But Air Force scientists believe it soared 1,000 to 4,000 miles or more, easily out-distancing Russia's earth satellite or any other known projectile ever sent aloft by man.

The rocket, it was disclosed Wednesday night, was triggered Monday by the Air Force operation "Farside" from a balloon-supported platform 20 miles high over Entiwotok Atoll in the Pacific to help it escape the earth's atmosphere.

While a considerable feat, experts said today Farside ranks distinctly below Russia's achievement in hurling a satellite into orbit around the globe. Neither does it mean necessarily the United States has leaped in front in the race to develop long-range missiles carrying H-bomb warheads.

Aid To Free World
Perhaps Farside's biggest initial significance is in giving the free world a strong psychological boost toward overcoming Russia's scientific gains apparent in its Sputnik.

U. S. efforts to launch the long-planned Farside rocket apparently were drastically stepped up following the Sputnik launching Oct. 4. It was reported Monday's successful launching was considered so important the Pentagon hoped to have exact data available for Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy to announce personally.

This and other newly-announced U. S. weapons developments were sure to be greeted by President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan as good omens in their talks aimed at blueprinting ways to win the East-West race for scientific-military supremacy.

The Defense Department confirmed Wednesday night, after the Los Angeles Examiner "broke" the story, the launching had taken place Monday.

Data Received Monday
It was expected the rocket would disintegrate along with all its instruments upon reentering the earth's atmosphere. Its fate was not known however. Meanwhile data from its instruments was radioed to earth in coded "telemeter" messages Monday.

This is what scientists are now evaluating on the West Coast. Announcement of results of the evaluation is expected to be made here.

Meal At 5:30 Will Start Family Night

The family night and open house at Stephen F. Austin Elementary School will be held from 5:30 to 8:30 tonight with a meal being served in the school's cafeteria.

Tickets for the meal will be available at the door, according to Mrs. Dwight Bobbit, hospitality chairman.

The family night and open house is the first fund raising project of the new school, which opened this fall.

ered likely to come up in the discussions. British diplomats were reported gravely concerned about appointment of Red Army Marshal Konstantin Rokossovsky to what previously was deemed a minor border post.

The dramatic firing of the Air Force rocket to 1,000-4,000 miles over the Pacific was almost certain to create a new surge of optimism in the ability of the United States and the West to match outstrip Russia in the race for space supremacy.

Added to this was other announcements of new U. S. strikes in the modern weapons field. These included the successful testing of a 1,500-mile Jupiter missile disclosure of an atomic depth charge for combatting Soviet submarines and the test firing of a Vanguard missile which eventually will carry a U. S. satellite into space.

Weighting Methods
Britain and the United States are weighing methods of stepping up their exchange of scientific-military information and resources to combat Soviet advances.

Administration officials said Eisenhower is emphasizing points concerning cooperation.

Absences due to flu are beginning to lighten in Pampa schools, according to Knox Kinard, superintendent of schools.

Three teachers and 695 students are out of class today making a total of 12 per cent absent. Kinard stated that Austin Elementary had the smallest amount of absences so far. Junior High, closely followed by the High School, have been the hardest hit.

Labor 'Spy' Tells Of Activities

By HERBERT FOSTER
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—A self-confessed labor spy said today he quit union "disorganizing" work for Nathan W. Shefferman's labor relations firm because "they were just too vicious for me."

The witness was Charles Lijell of Marion, Ohio. He told the Senate Rackets Committee that on orders of a Shefferman employee he used to spy on fellow workers at the Marion plant of the Whirlpool Corp. and threaten their families if they did not cease union activity.

Litell, a slim, crew-cut man in his 30's, said, "I guess if I had to face it" he would call himself a labor spy, and a cheap one at that.

He said that for $20 a week he worked with Dr. Louis Checov, an "industrial psychologist" on Shefferman's staff, to keep any union out of the Marion plant. He said he formed a "spontaneous" committee of anti-union workers, reported to management on the union sentiments of fellow workers, and threatened them with loss of their jobs if they supported the union.

Who Makes Demo Policy Is Still A Big Question

By LYLE C. WILSON
WASHINGTON (UP) — That question about who makes official policy for the Democratic Party keeps bobbing up for answers as the politicians maneuver for the favor of Negro voters in the 1958 and 1960 elections.
Chairman Paul M. Butler of the Democratic National Committee keeps the question hot and sizzling. Butler's strategy appears to be to keep the civil rights issue boiling within the Democratic Party by public demands for more and better racial integration.
Butler's latest maneuver brought here the members of the Democratic Advisory Council, an organization he created last year after President Eisenhower's lopsided reelection. Senate and House Democratic leaders refused to join.
When a president of the other political faith occupies the White House, congressional leaders traditionally have held that they were the official policy-makers of their party. It has been traditional, too, that national committees tend to party housekeeping and fund-raising while policy was being made by elected officials.
Butler backs both traditions. Twice in a short span of weeks, he has arranged for the Demo-

Slayer Played With Toy Bear

HOUSTON (UP)—Police officers testified Tuesday Robert Freeman, 17, played with a musical teddy bear while waiting for them to arrive and arrest him for slaying 17-year-old Sandra Maywald, who once gave him a "feeling of manhood."
Police officers J. C. Vaughn and J. M. Thornton said Freeman was "not emotionally upset" when they answered his call. Freeman, the adopted son of the head of the University of Houston Department of Education, read a novel concerning werewolves during his trial Tuesday.
The officers said Freeman met them at the door of his girl friend's house and said "I'm afraid I've just killed a person."
The defense contends Freeman is not guilty by way of insanity, but a jury last week, after receiving testimony from examining psychiatrists, declared the youth legally sane.
Bob Maywald, 10, and Steven Maywald, 9, brothers of the dead girl, testified they went in the back door of their house last June 17 and saw Freeman standing outside their sister's bedroom, his T-shirt stained with blood. Bob said Freeman knocked him down and forced them from the house. Freeman said he killed Sandra because she jilted him and "made me lose the feeling of manhood she gave me."

cratic Advisory Council to pledge the Democratic Party to all-out support of the Supreme Court's orders on racial integration of the public schools. Southern politicians challenge, resent and defy the council's policy statements.
The statements remain on the record, however, for such effect as they may have on northern Negroes whom the Republicans desperately hope to entice away from the Democrats in the coming elections. The Republican bid for Negro votes, of course, consists first, of the Supreme Court order, itself, and then of the spectacular fact that the United States Army by order of the Republican President is enforcing racial integration in Central High School, Little Rock, Ark.
Both parties for years have been playing politics with the Negro vote. Franklin D. Roosevelt delivered northern Negroes to the Democratic Party. He gave them better housing and job opportunities but not much more of civil rights. FDR's vote appeal, however, still is strong.
Republicans now offer firm if localized enforcement of racial integration of the public schools. Butler seeks to offset that chanting Republican anticemphor by keeping on page one evidence of northern Democratic support for at least as much and maybe more civil rights than Republicans might endorse.

Negroes May Decide
Negro votes in big industrial states outside the South may determine the winner of next year's congressional election and of the presidential contest in 1960. All hands, including the Negroes, know it.
Butler is not merely reminding the nation of the great North-South division of opinion within the Democratic Party. He is following the 1930 strategy of Democratic Chairman John J. Raskob who went over the heads of congressional Democratic leaders to demand repeal of prohibition.
That caused a blistering outburst of party strife. But it worked. The 1932 party platform junked prohibition despite the battle of Southern statesmen to keep the party tied to the so-called dregs.
Southern Democrats accepted repeal of prohibition because the North forced the issue on them.

A Hallowe'en "No-Trick Treat"!

For a simply super treat to serve at a Hallowe'en party, make good old-fashioned homemade donuts. This recipe is excellent, and easy to make . . . and if you haven't done any deep-fat frying lately, you couldn't find a better, or easier, recipe for practicing. Your guests will go for these delicious donuts. And you can be sure they will thoroughly enjoy the gay little coconut and cherry faces. For other occasions, decorate the donuts by placing cut cherries in a circle on top of the coconut.

Perfect Donuts

- 3/4 cups sifted flour
- 4 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon nutmeg
- 2 tablespoons shortening
- 3/4 cup sugar
- 4 egg yolks, well beaten
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
- 1/2 teaspoon lemon extract
- 1 cup milk
- Tart red jelly, beaten well with a fork
- Baker's Angel Flake Coconut
- 10 maraschino cherries, cut

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, salt, and nutmeg, and sift together three times. Cream shortening, add sugar gradually, and cream until light and fluffy. Add egg yolks and flavorings and beat well. Add milk and mix thoroughly. Add sifted dry ingredients, beating until smooth. Chill dough for easier handling. Roll dough 1/2-inch thick on floured board. Cut with floured 2-inch biscuit cutter. Fry in hot fat (375° F.) until brown, turning when tops of donuts become rounded. Drain on absorbent paper. Dip donuts halfway into tart red jelly, then dip into coconut. Place coconut-side up on large tray or platter and form faces on top of each donut with cut maraschino cherries.

Sesame Seeds Turn Cinderella Recipe Into Flavor Creation Fit For A Queen

All Baba and the Forty Thieves is probably best remembered by the line "Open Sesame!" As in the book, the line helped to make the plot more interesting and exciting . . . so too, in cooking, sesame seeds add just that particular flavor note which turns a "cinderella" recipe into a queenly creation.

Sesame Veal Chops is the perfect type meat dish to use in combination with this food seasoning. As most homemakers realize, veal has very little fat, because it's actually young beef. Many of the retail cuts are very similar to those of beef except on a smaller scale. In veal, however, the cuts from the loin and rib section are called chops; comparable cuts of beef are called steaks. In this recipe, the rib veal chops correspond to the rib beef steaks.

Because veal is young and lacks fat, a long, slow cooking process is required. The best methods for cooking veal are braising, roasting, and pan-frying. To assure a tender, juicy dish, it is recommended that all veal be cooked to the well-done stage.

Veal maintains high honors on the dinner tables of many homes in Europe, and is served in many different forms. Most familiar to American homemakers is Veal Scaloppine found in Italy while the Germans and Austrians favor their native veal dish, Wiener Schitzel. Sauces and rich gravies are often served with veal. They add a pronounced flavor to this delicate flavored meat. The sesame seeds found in Sesame Veal Chops assume the part of adding the distinctive flavor note.

Flavor wise, sesame seeds have a typical nut flavor somewhat similar to that of toasted almonds. The seeds are native to Asia, centuries ago, the ancients used them to flavor breads and cakes, as they do today. However, now sesame seeds have also found their way into cream soups, salads, toppings for casseroles, breadings for meat cuts, pie crusts, potatoes, rice, cookies and candy.

SESAME VEAL CHOPS

- 6 rib veal chops, cut 1/2 to 3/4 inch thick
- 1 egg, beaten
- 2 tablespoons milk
- 1/2 cup flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1 teaspoon paprika
- 2 tablespoons sesame seeds, toasted, if desired
- 1-3 cup lard or drippings
- 2 packages (10 ounces, each) frozen green beans, cooked
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
- 1 can (10 1/2 ounces) condensed celery soup
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1 teaspoon salt

Combine egg and milk. Mix together flour, salt, pepper, paprika and sesame seeds. Dip chops in egg mixture, then flour mixture. Brown chops in lard or drippings. Mix green beans, onion, celery soup, milk and salt. Pour green beans into a 2-quart 8 x 12-inch baking dish. Place veal chops on top. Cover and bake in a slow oven (300 degrees F.) 45 minutes. Uncover and continue baking 15 minutes. 6 servings.

Miniature Sweets Balance Big Menu

The traditional Thanksgiving feast means abundance — an abundance of turkey and all the trimmings. But, sometimes there's so much of everything that, when dessert comes around, we're barely able to move. Let alone enjoy another heavy course.

Here's a dessert suggestion to make your Thanksgiving dinner a little more comfortable and, at the same time, altogether festive. Why not serve tiny, bite-size sweets with fragrant after-dinner coffee — all in the living room for a real easy-chair comfort and lively conversation. Specially created for the occasion are pretty Coffee Cashew Kisses and colorful Tom Thumb Tarts. Indeed, they make the perfect ending to the perfect Thanksgiving meal.

Thinking of using autumn leaves and cattails to decorate? Then prepare them so they will last. Hang them in a room at normal temperature for about a week. This dries out excess moisture. To prevent twisting, hang wild grasses and flowers from the stem. When dried, use shellac for dipping or spraying.

Holiday Leftovers Definite Challenge To Chef's Imagination, Culinary Skill

Leftover letdown is a common ailment among cooks the morning after the holiday feast. The remains of yesterday's dinner are seldom inspiring and cold turkey — even with all the trimmings — is a definite challenge to a chef's imagination and culinary skill.

While this attitude about leftovers was understandable in grandmother's day, it is not justified today. Modern kitchen appliances, like the Oster electric meat grinder, take the leftover problem well in hand by chopping, mixing, grinding and blending ingredients into gourmet treats at the flick of a switch. With this indispensable helpmate, the family chef can conquer the leftover holiday bird in record time.

As any housewife knows, leftovers work miracles on the family food bills. In mastering them, the lady of the house gains her husband's praise as a cook — and a budget expert.

Chefs in John Oster's test kitchen experimented on turning out tempting taste treats from the usual odds and ends of leftovers and created these delicious he-man dishes fit for a king.

New Peanut-Butter Cookie Give-Away

Each time your doorbell rings on Hallowe'en, you can be assured a chorus of voices will greet you with "tricks or treats!"

Hallowe'en is part of growing up; costumed in silly array, the children have a grand time parading from door to door.

But adults can join in the fun, too. Reba Staggs, home economist and meat expert, has a culinary hint for all mothers. Prepare Bacon-Peanut Butter Cookies for your Hallowe'en surprise. The lard used in this recipe helps keep these "tricks and treats" cookies fresh and ready for the October 31st festivities.

Even the adults like this combination, bacon and peanut butter, so be sure to make enough to keep your cookie jar filled.

BACON-PEANUT BUTTER COOKIES

- 3 cups sifted enriched flour
- 2 teaspoons soda
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup lard
- 1 cup granulated sugar
- 1 cup brown sugar
- 2 eggs, well beaten
- 1/2 cup peanut butter
- 1/2 cup chopped cooked bacon (4 ounces or 6 slices)

Stir in chopped cooked bacon. Shape into small balls about 1/2 inch in diameter. Place on greased cookie sheet and press flat with tines of a fork or bottom of a glass. Bake about 12 minutes in a moderately hot oven (400 degrees F.). Yield: 8 dozen cookies.

KIDDIES' KAPERS

For the mothers that have trouble choosing foods for their youngsters, here are a few helpful hints. Most children will like meat loaf, meat patties, lean meat, crisp bacon, frankfurters and canned meat spreads.

quarter teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon paprika and one teaspoon grated onion. Beat or shake until well blended. Arrange salad greens in salad bowl. Arrange tuna, two cups cottage cheese and one-and-one-half cups diced cooked carrots over salad greens. Pour dressing over tuna mixture.

Economical Tuna Fits Into Theme

Homemakers look forward to National Tuna Week as a time to catch up on the latest tuna recipes. These days, before the Thanksgiving and Christmas holiday season gets underway, provide a good opportunity to use economical tuna so holiday meals and parties do not put such a strain on the budget. Here are tuna salad recipes which fit right into this theme.

To make six servings of Tuna Fruit Salad, drain two seven-ounce cans solid-pack tuna. Break tuna into pieces. Combine tuna, one cup diced apples, one-half cup diced oranges, one-third cup finely chopped celery, one-quarter cup chopped walnuts, two cups torn lettuce and one-half cup French dressing. Toss lightly and chill thoroughly.

The Tuna Cottage Cheese Salad recipe makes four servings. Drain two seven-ounce cans solid-pack tuna and reserve oil. Combine tuna oil, two tablespoons salad oil, one-

- 2 tablespoons lard or drippings

- 1/4 cup chopped onion
- 1-3 cup green pepper strips

More Than Enough Men To Go Around

(But They Aren't Going!)

By WARD CANNEL
NEA Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (NEA) — Score one for the men in the battle of the sexes.

According to the Census Bureau's Current Population Reports, there are now more than enough marriageable men to go around. But, according to recreation, resort and cruise people, the trouble is that the more-than-enough don't like to go around.

Just for the sake of caprice, let's get the census statistics straight: there are more single men than single women in America today. At the age of 30, it's two-to-one. At 35, it's five-to-four. At 45 through 55, it's almost even — but not quite. (After 55, it's ridiculous.)

"So where are the men?" young ladies ask after a week of nothing but rest and relaxation at expensive resorts or on cruises.

And recreation directors, beleaguered by ratios as high as 20 women per man, nervously finger their whistles and suggest an exhausting swim or a heavy meal. One advertising man, conjuring up horror at the remembrance, described his first venture in placing a resort ad.

"I did the usual thing," he said. "I had a drawing of a girl lassoing a man. And when the ad appeared, the hotel man called me up and threatened me with worse than death. He was flooded with reservations by women. So I changed the sketch. Now it shows a man lassoing a woman."

Many resorts, projecting their own reservation figures, predetermine how many women they will accommodate by how many men they can expect.

But a savvy bachelor can beat either brag that they have enough men, or complain that they don't, there is a new trend in recreation that is trying to take advantage of the whole mess.

Typical is Gramercy Tours' new plan called Bachelor Party. No subterfuge, no camouflage, no enervating relaxation. This one calls for unattached persons.

The first bachelor party will go to Europe for the holidays: Christmas in Rome; New Year's in Paris. Later, there'll be a bachelor safari and so on — if it works. "Of course," a Gramercy spokesman said, "most of our first inquiries and reservations came from women. But there are some men signed on. And we expect more."

today's high cost of planned entertainment by merely reviewing the situation with the resort manager as he makes his reservation. Discounts, cut-rates, kickbacks are available to marriageable men on vacation.

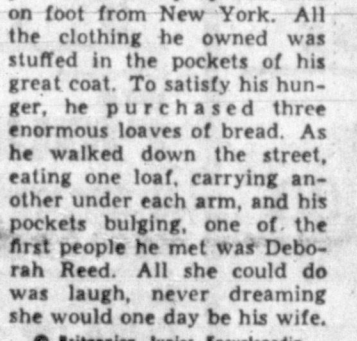

The problem in travel is the same, only more so. A young lady with her money tied up in a steamship-and-tour ticket can hardly take the next bus back home if there is moonlight but no romance.

Worried travel agents say that few reservations discussions with young women omit the crucial question:

"Will I meet any — you know — any PEOPLE?"

And by PEOPLE, one travel agent said, they don't mean a lovely couple from Fikhar or Lubbock.

He will close reservations to women if things get out of hand, he said. And he might even offer a He will close reservations to women

Matter of FACT
As the situation developed, Saud promised to side with Syria, one of its colleagues in the Arab League, against any aggressor. Saud knew that neither Turkey nor the United States had any intention of attacking Syria.

Tension Strengthened King Saud's Position

Foreign News Commentary
By CHARLES M. MCCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent
The Turkish-Syrian tension has strengthened King Saud's position as the chief moderating influence in the Arab world.

From the beginning of the dangerous situation which developed when Syria charged Turkey with plotting aggression, the Saudi Arabian monarch has worked untiringly to prevent an explosion.

Saud has conferred with the leaders of Turkey and of Arab countries.

Finally, he offered personally to act as mediator between Turkey and Syria.

The big contribution of Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser, who likes to fancy himself as the No. 1 Arab leader, was to send Egyptian troops and warships to Syria at the most serious stage of the dispute.

Offered To Fight All Syria's pro-Russian leaders have breathed fire and offered to take on all comers — presumably including the United States, which was supposed to be in the alleged plot-in event of war.

The plitful record of both the Syrian and the Egyptian armies in the Arab-Israeli war, and in last year's Israeli invasion of Egypt, did not seem to make a fight to the death likely against Turkey's powerful, tough army of 600,000 men.

Soviet Russia, of course, was a prime contributor to the tension and helped build it up stage by stage with threats against Turkey.

King Saud was not able to do anything as regards Russia. What he did do was to work with Middle Eastern countries themselves, as an Arab and as a fellow Moslem with the Turks.

Saud Sides With Syria
As the situation developed, Saud promised to side with Syria, one of its colleagues in the Arab League, against any aggressor.

Saud knew that neither Turkey nor the United States had any intention of attacking Syria.

Under pressure, Saud also found it advisable to say that he never had formally accepted the Eisenhower Doctrine against Communist aggression in the Middle East.

That was true. But Saud had accepted the doctrine in fact because with him Communism ranks beside Israel as an enemy.

The Syrian-Turkish situation has been simmering down for some days, despite Russia's attempt to keep it boiling.

Saud seems, in the process, to have made it clear that he, not Nasser, is the leading figure among the Arabs.

NEWS IN CANCER BATTLE
FRANKFURT, Germany (UP)—New methods of treatment and new equipment have strengthened physicians in the battle against cancer, delegates to the German Roentgen Congress said today. Cancer specialists from all parts of West Germany reported effective steps against lung cancer were being developed and new methods were opening the way to at least easing the situation of patients with advanced cancer of the breast.

CLEARWATER, Fla. (UP)—Pinellas County Sheriff Sid Saunders said today three prisoners escaped his "escape-proof" jail by sawing through bars with mop strings. Saunders said he thought each bar contained a hard steel core which was supposed to turn when pressure was exerted with a hacksaw or file. But the bars were cut, and the three prisoners got out. The escapes used strings from a mop in lieu of a hacksaw or file. They coated the strings with cleaning powder to act as an abrasive.

TANK KILLER—This new nine-centimeter long-range anti-tank recoilless rifle is ready for testing at Stockholm, Sweden. The new Swedish weapon, which is the equivalent of a 90-millimeter gun, is expected to be a powerful addition to the nation's arsenal because of its light weight and wallop. When removed from its two-wheeled carriage in the background, the anti-tank gun weighs 176 pounds.

Supreme Court Hears Appeal In Murder Case

WASHINGTON (UP)—The U.S. Supreme Court today considered the appeal of Alvaro Alcorta of San Antonio, convicted of the fatal stabbing of his wife in 1955. Nearly all nine justices questioned Bexar county Assistant District Attorney Roy S. Barrera concerning his handling of the case. Alcorta's attorney contended his conviction was based on perjured testimony and suppressed evidence. Questions of the justices centered on Barrera's failure to ask Natividad Castilleja, the prosecution's star witness, if he had previous sexual relations with Alcorta's estranged wife. Alcorta stabbed her to death while she was sitting in a car with Castilleja June 19, 1955.

Barrera said he knew Castilleja had sexual relations with Mrs. Alcorta when he put him on the stand. Chief Justice Earl Warren asked why he kept that information from the jury. Castilleja testified at the trial his only "dates" with Mrs. Alcorta consisted of driving her home from work. Justice William J. Brennan Jr. asked why the prosecutor had not "appreciated that his answers to these questions were false." Justice Hugo L. Black asked whether there would have been "practically no chance to convict" Alcorta if the jury had known of the relations between Castilleja and Mrs. Alcorta. "Yes sir, under those circumstances, absolutely," Barrera answered. Barrera started to defend his advice and will rule later.

Daniel Denies NAACP Claim

AUSTIN (UP)—Gov. Price Daniel said Wednesday he did not tell Edwin Washington, National Association for the Advancement of Colored People field secretary, that the NAACP could hold a meeting in Longview. Longview News Publisher Carl Estes said Washington told him Daniel assured him it would be all right to hold a state-wide meeting in Longview. "This man has not even contacted me or my office concerning the matter and if he had, I would have advised him exactly," Daniel said. "Falsehoods of this nature are typical of the trouble which these agitators are trying to stir up instead of trying to preserve good relations within our state." Dartmouth College played its 77th season of intercollegiate football in 1957.

Surgery Can Be Used On Twins

WELLINGTON, Tex. (UP)—A physician indicated today successful separation surgery could be performed on Siamese twins born here Saturday.

Dr. Dale Watkins said the twin girls, joined at the chest and stomach, have separate digestive and circulatory systems, which could lead to successful separation. Watkins indicated he would undertake the operation in Wellington. No date was given.

The twins were born to Mrs. Lena Estrada of Donna, Tex., the 38-year-old wife of an itinerant laborer now working in the Rio Grande Valley. He has not been to Wellington since the birth and it was not known whether he knows of the birth.

Mrs. Estrada, who speaks no English, has eight other children. The twins, named Guadalupe and Raquel, were doing fine, Watkins said.

Siamese twins occur once in every 122,000 births, Watkins said.

Unparalleled Terror Reigns In Hungary

VIENNA (UP)—Secret police terror unparalleled since the Communists came to power coupled with an appearance of economic prosperity—that is Hungary one year after the nation rose against Communist oppression.

This is the sum of observations made by diplomats and western visitors returning recently from visits to the Hungarian capital.

The visitor is first impressed that shops are now filled with food and clothing. Shop windows are arranged tastefully and offer a surprising variety of goods.

New restaurants and bars have mushroomed and theaters and movies are sold out practically every night.

No Better Off

Nevertheless, the average Hungarian is no better off than before the revolt. Prices have outstripped wages.

Few can afford the new consumer goods imported from Russia and other east bloc countries. The average income is 1,400 forints (about 60 U.S. dollars) a month.

Reconstruction of buildings damaged during the revolt has made considerable progress. But some badly damaged sections are not yet rebuilt.

Tourist Hotel

The Kilian barracks, headquarters of revolutionary hero Gen. Pal Maleter, recently was opened as a tourist hotel.

People who a year ago welcomed a foreigner with open arms today avoid him. The secret police may be watching.

Hungarians estimate that the new armed forces including the police corps totals more than 20,000 men. Forty thousand persons are believed held in prisons or concentration camps.

There are fewer and fewer announcements in the press of trials or arrests of "counter-revolutionaries."

But it is generally understood that secret trials are being held every day.

New French Scent Adored By Milady

By ALICIA HART

NEA Beauty Editor
Most women have a favorite French perfume. They've discovered, through the years, one scent which seems to do the most for them and it's this that they reserve for festive moods and gala occasions.

Every now and then, they experiment with another perfume just for the fun and novelty of exploration. And sometimes they return to the old love, but just as often they find they've acquired a second favorite.

Just making its debut in this country is a brand new perfume by a famed French house, a house that is known for the world's most expensive perfume. It's the first new fragrance that this firm has introduced in ten years.

Many American women are going to make it theirs. It's a brilliant, feminine and sophisticated perfume which comes in a crystal bottle fluted like the skirt of a dress.

Frilly christening gowns for Baby now can be worn for extra special dress occasions, too. Embroidery and permanent accordion pleats present little trouble

A lot of our friends, neighbors, and members of our own family are laid-low these days with common colds and the old-fashioned flu. Just how far the Asian Flu has entrenched itself in our city is not definitely known, but to keep the cases at a minimum, we have some information that will be helpful.

In the interests of national public health, the surgical dressing firm of Bauer and Black suggest the use of a hospital-type face filter masks to help check the progress of Asian Flu.

There is medical evidence that normal talking and breathing usually are accompanied by the constant escape of bacteria-laden droplets from the nose and mouth. Did you ever stop to think that the simple pronunciation of the letter "P" results in an explosion of germful droplets? Health officials have warned that the Asiatic influenza disease is carried by airborne sneezes and cough droplets.

These Curtly filter-masks are generally available in drug stores and department stores, nominally priced, and are obtainable in sealed envelopes. They are recommended for persons in or near home, sick-rooms of flu victims, and also for mothers with babies and small children. The mask has a 100 per cent germ filter fabric between layers of fine mesh gauze. The filter stops germs, even if the mask wearer sneezes and can be repeatedly laundered and maintain its effectiveness.

Covering both the nose and mouth, it provides protection against spreading the disease, especially in the infectious stage of the first three days.

And Dan Mahony, an executive of the Lily-Tulip Cup Corp. expresses the opinion that the improved homemaker can help protect her family against Asian influenza by keeping house with paper products. "The home will be the first line of defense against the expected virus attack. Health experts predict that most cases of Asian 'flu' will be treated at home rather than in the hospitals."

Here are a few suggestions from Mr. Mahony as to how to "throw away" germs and protect your home: 1) Use a home dispenser with convenient paper cups in the kitchen and bathroom to replace common drinking glasses; 2) Use paper plates and cups for all meals to avoid germs which usually cling to not-quite antiseptically washed dishes; 3) Use paper containers for deserts, eggs and in-between-meal snacks. This will not only lessen housework, but avoid washing especially sticky hard-to-clean glasses and cups; 4) Use paper napkins, paper tablecloths and paper towels. Twice-used linens can convey germs; 5) Use cleansing tissues instead of germ-carrying handkerchiefs; 6) If someone does become ill, use paperware for sickroom use. Scoop up the trayful of paper cups and "dishes" and throw them away.

In addition to following these germ-avoiding house keeping rules, it is suggested that the Lady-Of-The-House follow the suggestions of health officials in keeping a strict eye on proper diet during the pre-epidemic period so that resistance to disease will be high. Meals should be well-balanced with plenty of proteins and vitamins.

Hair that has lost its luster may not be traced to the wrong shampoo. It may be accompanied by a rough skin and a more tired-than-usual feeling. If this is true, check to see if you are eating properly and getting sufficient rest.

Those who still enjoy filling their winter pantries with homecanned goods know the value of proper sealing. Reusing old rubber rings is dangerous. These rings become porous and fail to do a proper job. Spoilage may result and cause illness or even death.

HORSEPLAY—With her colt looking on, that Appaloose mare, named "Gypsy Sweetheart," appears to be staging a sit-down strike at Hartland, Wis. Actually the mare is showing her offspring how she sits down on command for her owner and rider, Fred Werseen. This is the real "visual" training, and mother knows best.

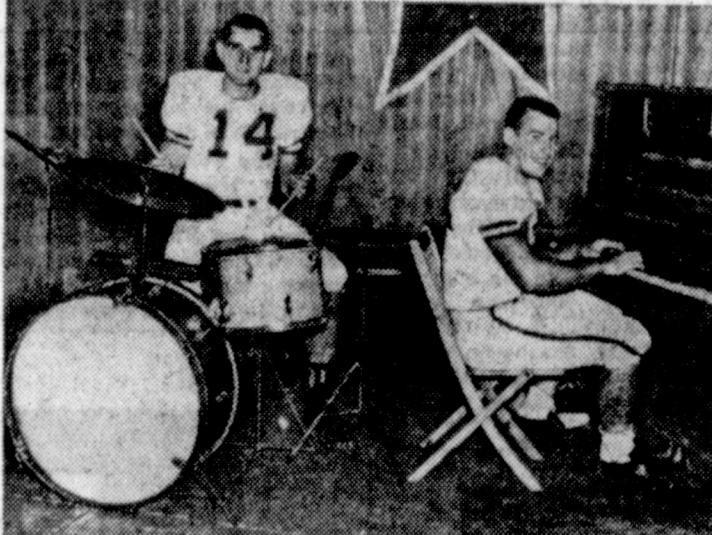

HANDS DOWN WINNER—The leg muscles of 32-year-old Austrian athlete Siegfried Waslberger look in great shape, even after a walk of 203 miles. There's no reason they shouldn't because he covered the entire distance walking on his hands. Equipped with special leather gloves, the topsyturvy expert began his marathon jaunt from Salzburg to Vienna which took about four months. A newspaperman is checking his muscles.

SHOOTIN' GAL—She's shapely Kay Martin, a singer, who was Queen of the Sahara Gun Club's Fall Trapshooting Tournament in Las Vegas, Nev. Looks like Kay was a good choice for the title, but she does hold her rifle in an "unusual" manner. Chances are she won no prize in the competition.

SEINE SUIT—French inventor Jean Lepape is wearing the life-saving suit he invented. He's all ready to jump into the Seine River in Paris to demonstrate its effectiveness. It can be put on in 10 seconds and Lepape claims it'll keep a man warm and afloat for three days.

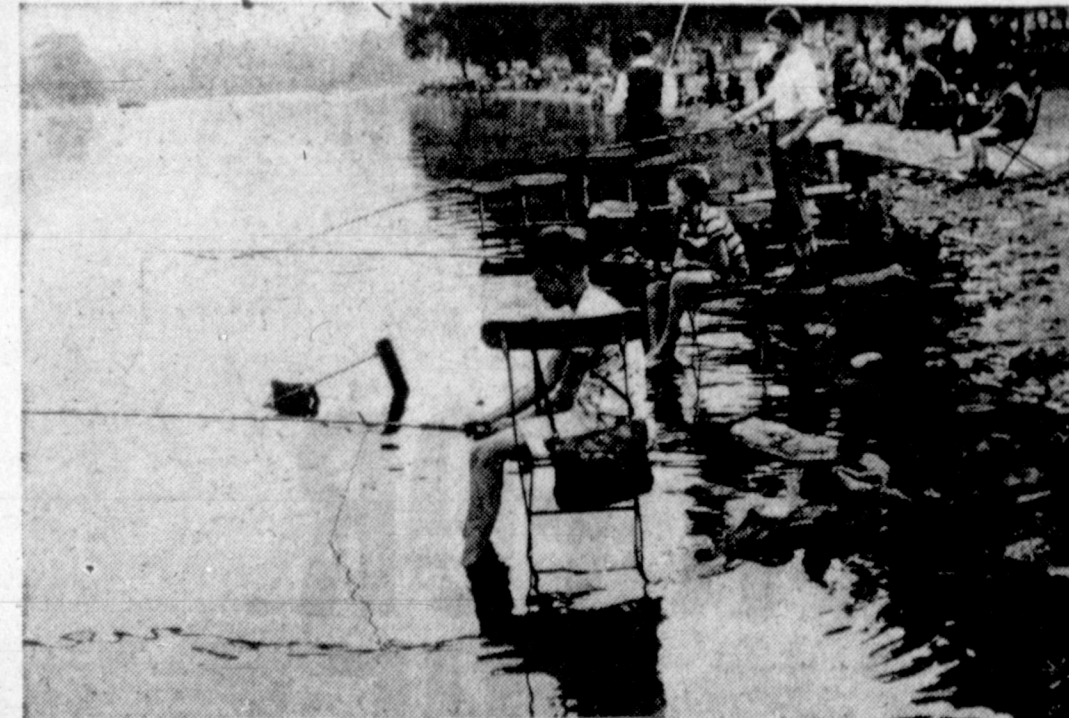

HAVING A BALL—Tufts College's musical quarterbacks, drummer Hobie Ellis and pianist Dick Fortin, carry out musical chores without changing grid uniforms in Medford, Mass. They filled these "positions" with the campus dance band and scored heavily with every number.

ROUND TABLE—An unusual billiard table in San Francisco was designed to assist in the coordination training of Navy fliers. It represents "unique dynamic actions analogous to those experienced in flight." The table is a training aid as well as an amusement.

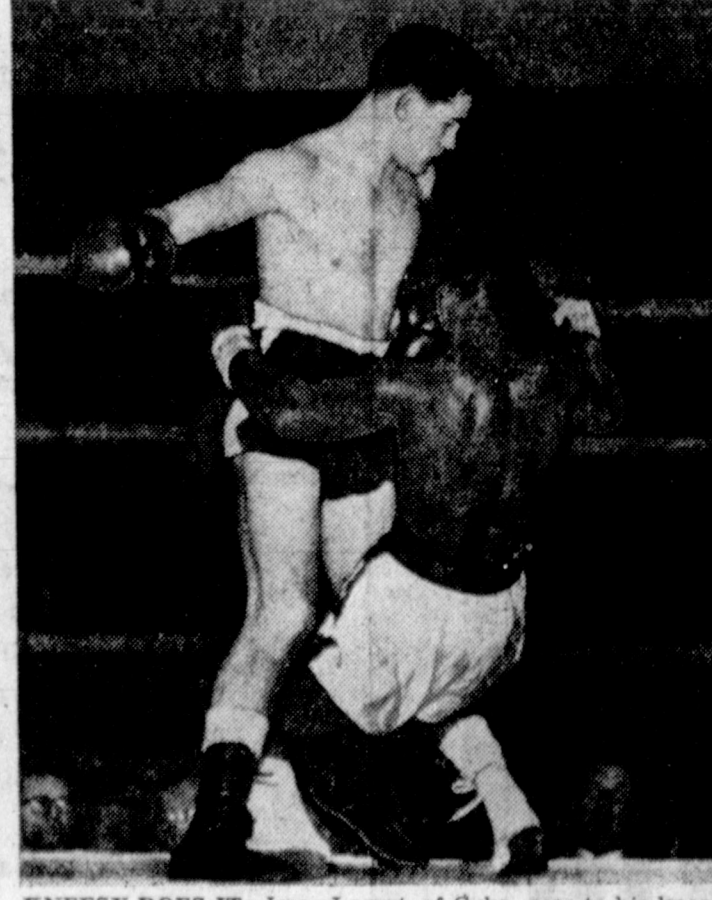

THEY TIED—Proud lads are Raymond Compos, left, and John Gallagher, both 10, in New York City after they tied for the title of "Average American Boy." The contest was held at a Children's Aid Society and was based on measurements of average U.S. boys as put out by insurance companies.

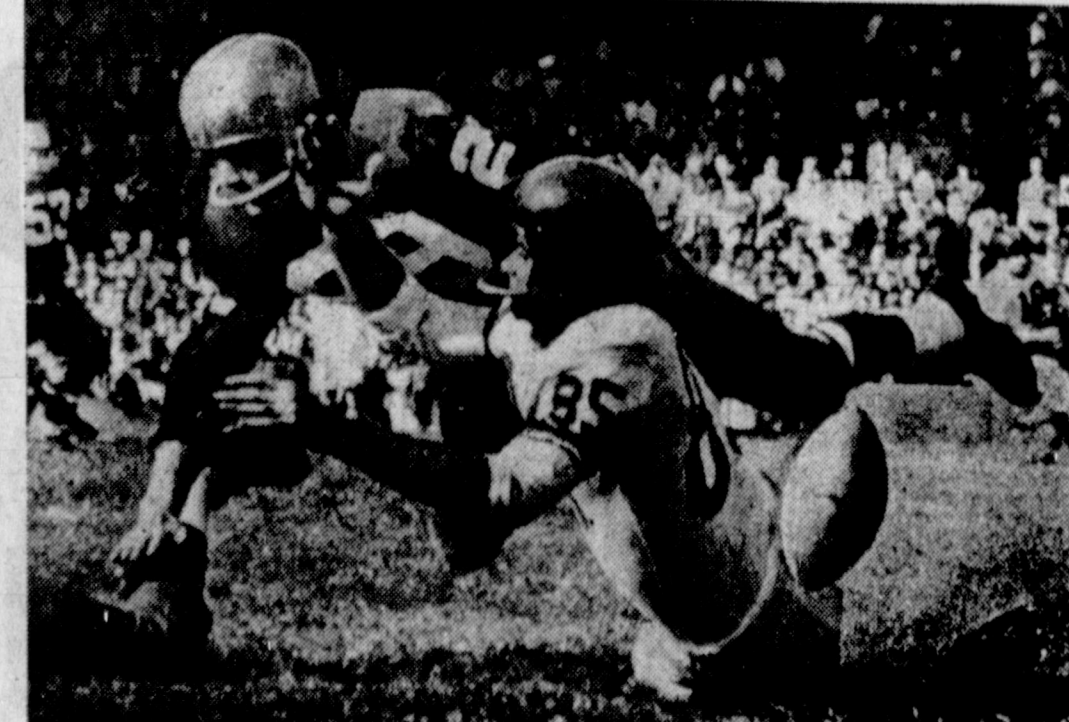

BRIEF INTERLUDE—During some warm autumn days in London, these youngsters took things mighty easy while they did some fishing in a lake in Hyde Park. It's not everyone who can sit in a comfortable chair right in the water as they wait for the fish to bite.

FROM THE SIDELINES—Spectators in Genoa, Italy, move from the beach to a roadside to watch some puffing cyclists go by in a grueling cross-country race. Those pedalers would probably be very glad to change places with the easy-going swimmers.

KNEESY DOES IT—Isaac Logart, of Cuba, goes to his knees after a short right by Joe Miceli in the second round of their 10-round bout in Detroit, Mich. Logart rose to win a unanimous decision.

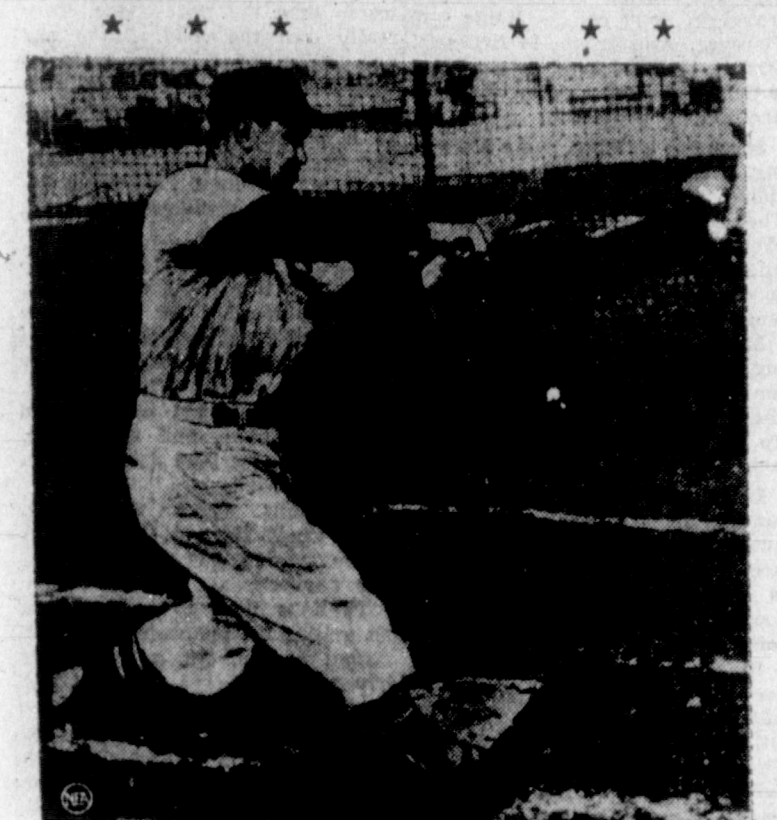

A MISS—A pass from Giant quarterback Charles Conerly bounces after being missed by Bobby Epps (85), Giant back, during the Redskins-Giant game in Washington, D. C. Bert Zagers, Redskin halfback, tried for an interception but also missed ball. Giants won, 24-20.

Fox, Mantle Are Only Unanimous Picks On UP All-Star AL Team

McDougald, Berra, Wertz Also Among 10 Top-Rated Players

By FRED DOWN
United Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UP)—Nelson Fox, who's hit a total of 25 home runs in 11 big league seasons, and Mickey Mantle, who's hit that many in half a campaign, were the only unanimous picks on the United Press 1957 American League All-Star team.

Nellie Fox

er Ted Williams of the Red Sox, outfielder Roy Sievers of the Senators, pitcher Jim Bunning of the Tigers and Fox' White Sox teammate, pitcher Billy Pierce.

The Baltimore Orioles and Kansas City Athletics were the only teams not represented on a squad that averages 30 years of age per man. The eight regulars hit a total of 200 home runs this year and both pitchers hit the 20-victory total on the nose.

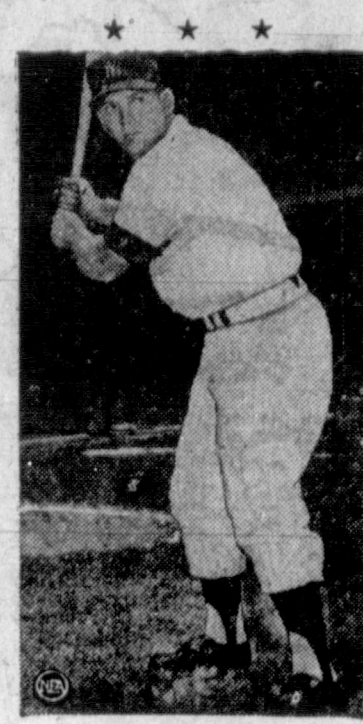

In Fox and Mantle, the writers honored perhaps the two key men in an American League pennant race that quickly developed into a two-team fight between the White Sox and Yankees.

Fox, a 5-foot, 9-inch, 155-pounder from St. Thomas, Pa., typified the "White Sox" seasonlong struggle to out-hustle and out-fight a Yankee team that was superior in both front-line personnel and depth. A fighter all the way, Fox played in all 155 of his team's games, led the league with 196 hits and batted .317 — fifth best average in the circuit.

Mantle, of course, was the Yankees' "big stick." He batted .265 and hit 34 homers despite the fact he was walked 146 times. The youngest regular on the team at 26, Mantle is a strong candidate to win his second straight most valuable player award.

The All-Star team follows:

Spieser Posts Bond For Bout

DETROIT (UP) — Chuck Spieser's financial backers had to post $75,000 with the Michigan Boxing Commission by 3 p.m. today to validate contracts signed Wednesday for a January light heavyweight title fight with champion Archie Moore.

If the money isn't posted by the deadline Spieser must forfeit the $10,000 filed with the commission Oct. 15 as the downpayment towards a $100,000 guarantee to Moore.

Spieser's brother manager, Joe Spieser, said "the money will be there" and apologized for the "embarrassing incident" Wednesday. He said the backers didn't realize their bank closed at noon Wednesday and arrived too late to make the necessary deposit to back the check.

Jan. 17 has been selected as the tentative date for the title fight at the Michigan State Fairgrounds Coliseum. Final decision on a date rests on whether television rights are sold.

LA Dodgers Begin New Operations

LOS ANGELES (UP)—President Walter O'Malley and his executive staff today began hammering out the details of getting the new Los Angeles Dodgers in operation for the 1958 National League baseball season.

O'Malley, on his arrival Wednesday by plane from New York, assured a welcoming host of several thousand new fans that the Dodgers were going to be a dynamic ball club in the West.

He said the most important single thing facing the Burns' organization immediately was "to get that big stadium in operation," referring to the $0,000-seat ball park he plans to erect in Chavez Ravine.

O'Malley declared that Los Angeles fans need not have any "misgivings" as far as the players are concerned.

"We've got some good boys coming along and we'll tell you all about them in due course," he said.

O'Malley said his official staff would be here about a week "until we accomplish everything on our agenda."

Harvesters Rest As 3 Other Games Head 3-AAAA Action

The Pampa Harvesters have a day of rest tomorrow as the remaining six teams go into another week of action in District 3-AAAA.

Three teams remain undefeated after two weeks of play and one of these will drop from the coveted ranks as the Monterey Plainsmen host the Sandies of Amarillo.

In the other two games, Tom S. Lubbock will battle the Bulldogs in Borger and Plainview will host the Palo Duro Dons.

Monterey, one of the undefeated in conference play, is the next on tap for the Harvesters, set for Friday Nov. 1 in Harvester Park.

The Plainsmen dropped their first three games of the season to Pasha of Fort Worth, Highland Park of Dallas and Abilene, but turned suddenly in the path and dropped Borger, 14-7, and Palo Duro, 6-0.

The Dons were pre-season favorites to come closer to the Sandies than the rest of the district teams, but barely edged past Pampa in their first district game and lost in the second.

Plainview pulled a few surprises also as they stand (other than the Sandies) as the remaining team undefeated in conference play. The Ponies defeated Lubbock, 13-8, and drubbed Borger, 20-0. For the season, their record is marred only by one tie, with Brownfield, 21-21. They have defeated Littlefield, 10-14, Levelland, 23-18, and Hereford, 37-7.

In the final contest slated for tomorrow, Lubbock will host Borger in a game that should hand the Westerners their first district victory.

Hoople Returns With More Unerring Grid Predictions

The unerring authority of my able advisors enable me to announce once again the certain outcome of the Friday night grid encounters. Stupendous problems have been tackled and an immeasurable amount of calculating has gone into process of determining the winning teams.

Slight miscalculations in the past were due to an entirely unworthy assistant whose careless findings are no longer considered. He was dismissed from the service.

With no further comment, here are the winners:
Amarillo 40, Monterey 7
Plainview 19, Palo Duro 14
Lubbock 14, Borger 6

Western Golf Circuit Begins

HESPERIA, Calif. (UP) — The Winter Western swing of the pro golf circuit got underway here today with more than 100 of the nation's top golfers competing in the $15,000 first annual Hesperia Open Invitational Tournament.

The four-day tournament which ends Sunday is co-sponsored by the PGA and play today marked dedication of the course on the Mojave Desert which was started only last summer.

Golfers approached the 7,100-yard desert course without much knowledge of its difficulties. The course is dotted with three artificial lakes and an unusual Joshua Tree sandtrap by the 16th green. Par is 36-38-72.

Among the outstanding golfers entered were Doug Ford; Dow Finsterwald of Bedford Heights, Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa.; Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio; Ken Venturi of San Francisco; Marty Furgot of Cog Hill Course, Ill.; Gene Littler of San Diego, Calif.; Lloyd Mangrum of Apple Valley, Calif. and Ed Oliver of Canton, Mass.

Fearless Fraley Gives Lowdown On World Baseball Popularity

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer
TOKYO (UP) — There may be an argument as to which section of the United States plays the most baseball but whether it's Podunk or Podesta you can take it from Oscar Fraley today that it runs second to Tokyo without even counting the rest of baseball-happy Japan.

This is a town with more diamonds than Kimberley. And they give 'em a bigger play than the original doll who coined the phrase about sparklers being a girl's best friend.

For in Tokyo they play baseball everywhere there's room to swing "rui-vivre" slinger or give it a windup which would put Joe E. Brown to shame.

Tracks, Lots, Rooftops
There is a suspicion in this corner that babies teeth on nickel rockets and that son-san practices swinging the hickory in the closet after lights out. Because these diamond daffodils can be seen giving it the Lew Burdette or the Yogi Berra on railroad tracks, in parking lots, on the main streets and even on rooftops.

As an example, Jeiji Park has dozens of diamonds and they are filled, actually, from dawn to dusk. They have kid teams, junior teams and all the way up to bespectacled senior teams composed of guys old enough to know better. And there isn't a one of them who wouldn't swap you every Shinto Temple in Japan for a .350 batting average or the ability to knock one over the fence.

That, if anything, is the chief Japanese deficit. Maybe it's a lack of vitamins or too little puff in their babyhood rice but, for some reason or other, the Japanese couldn't knock your hat off with a base viol. A guy who wallops the ball at better than .200 clip is a helluva hitter and .310 ordinarily will make him the reincarnation of "baby-san russe."

Tokyo "Giants" Beaten
This partially accounts for the fact that the Nishitetsu Lions' "no hit" Inao this season has posted a record of 25 wins against a mere six defeats in leading his team into the Oct. 26 World Series (Japanese variety) against Tokyo. The Tokyo team is known as the "Giants," which may startle a few folks in New York and/or San Francisco, the statists variety being a bit on the undersized and anemic side.

Yet, despite this craze which draws as many as 80,000 fans to a mere college game, professional baseball is not a short cut to Fort Knox or whatever may be the Japanese equivalent. A few stars earn as high as $500 a month but the average salary is $200 per month and the teams do not travel.

Wally Yonamine, a Hawaiian Neisel who once played football for the San Francisco Forty Niners, just about wrecked the major league situation in Japan this year by hitting in the .340's. Wally could probably run for emperor and nobody would sell his chances too short.

But all those in the baseball "know" insist that Ted Williams could come over here and, with a shave and a haircut, hit .500 one-handed. There's just one thing wrong with that.

Imagine what would happen, by official decree, to us sportswriters. Better he stays home and hits a lousy .388.

Boyd Earns Garden Bout

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UP) — Middleweight Bobby Boyd, who won a grudge fight Wednesday night to extend his comeback trail, will get a longer step toward a title bout next month.

International Boxing Club matchmaker Billy Brown said Boyd, who beat Germany's Franz Suzsina in a 10-round bout in the Syracuse War Memorial, will get a Madison Square Garden fight Nov. 22.

Weather Clears For Final SW Workouts

Clear weather and dryer practice fields Wednesday, allowed all Southwest Conference teams to get outside for practice licks in preparation for Saturday's games.

Rice went through a rugged practice session that Coach Jess Neely called "a hard recognition drill, but not an all-out scrimmage."

Neely expressed regret that the Owls were not farther along defensively and would not have more time to work on defense. He plans to taper off today with the kicking team to go through a lengthy workout.

Texas went through a light hour and a half workout concentrating on offensive patterns to employ against the Owls.

Halfback Mickey Smith, the only Longhorn to miss action because of injuries this season, appeared ready and will likely see action on the second team.

Timing Drills
Coach Sam Boyd directed three Baylor varsity offensive units against the freshmen in a dummy scrimmage with timing drills, running plays and various defensive procedures.

Boyd continued to stress passing and pass defense as his var-

Lefors Pirates Battle Broncs In "Area Game Of The Week"

The Lefors Pirates will travel to Clarendon tomorrow night to encounter the powerful Bronchos in the game set for the area "Game Of The Week." Both Lefors and Clarendon are undefeated in conference play, with the Pirates winning over Canadian last Friday, 7-6, and the Bronchos receiving a forfeit from McLean.

Clarendon has compiled a 3-4 record for the season, having rolled by Shamrock, 14-7 and Panhandle, 31-0, while losing to Stinnett, 21-7; White Deer, 28-26; Perryton, 32-7, and Wellington, 13-8.

The Pirates have gained an even 3-3 mark in their first six games, having defeated Shamrock, 20-7; Wellington, 12-6, and Canadian, 7-6, while losing to White Deer, 20-7; Panhandle, 21-13 and Stinnett, 20-0.

What Happened To Red Grange?

By UNITED PRESS
The greatest football hero of the golden era of sports in the 1920's was Harold (Red) Grange, a University of Illinois halfback called the "Galloping Ghost," "Wheaton Iceman" and also some non-complimentary nicknames by frustrated opponents. He later moved into the professional ranks and proved his ability as a runner.

Whatever happened to Red Grange? Today, he broadcasts the color commentary on (NBC) weekly telecasts of college football games.

Five Districts See Action Tomorrow

Seven games highlight the area grid scene tomorrow night as five districts go into another week of play.

Perryton, Clarendon, White Deer, Lefors, Groom and Wheeler all were victorious in last week's district encounters while Panhandle and McLean stand with one loss in conference play.

3-AAA
The Perryton Rangers will host the Childress Bobcats in an effort to gain their second straight district victory after defeating top-rated Quannah Indians, 27-13, last Friday. For the season, Perryton stands with four wins against two losses, having defeated Canadian, Clarendon, Dalhart and Quannah and having lost to Phillips and Canyon.

Childress was dropped last Friday by Wellington, who should rank as the top team likely to unseat the Rangers from their district championship title.

1-A
After an open date, the White Deer Bucks roll into district competition as they meet Gruver on the Greyhounds' home field. The Bucks have compiled a 4-1 record for the season, having downed Groom, Clarendon, Lefors, Canadian and McLean, while suffering their only loss to Friona. White Deer should have easy sailing until they meet Stinnett Nov. 9 in the game that should decide the district championship.

3-A
The Lefors Pirates will travel to Clarendon tomorrow night to battle the Bronchos in the game that could easily prove decisive in the district race. In last week's games, Lefors edged by Canadian and Clarendon collected a forfeit from McLean. The Pirates have a 3-3 record for the season, having lost to White Deer, Stinnett and Panhandle while winning over Shamrock, Wellington and Canadian. The Bronchos have a 3-4 record with their losses coming at the hands of Stinnett, White Deer, Perryton and Wellington while winning over Shamrock, Panhandle and McLean.

In the other 2-A clash, the McLean Tigers will travel to Memphis for the Cyclones' conference opener. The Tigers were forced into forfeiting their first district game last Friday with Clarendon. Their record for the season stands rock, 7-6; tied Panhandle, 13-13; at 1-5-1, having defeated Shamrock and been beaten by Wheeler, Stinnett, White Deer, Wellington and Clarendon.

1-B
The Groom Tigers will go for their fourth district win of the season as they host Spearman tomorrow night. The Tigers' only loss for the season came at the hands of White Deer, 28-6 and they have defeated Gruver, Claude, Darrouzett and Follett and tied

U.N. Day In Pampa

Mayor Lynn Boyd yesterday signed a proclamation declaring today as United Nations Day in Pampa. The mayor stated that in making the proclamation he was following the request of the Governor of Texas who, of course, was following the request of some influences up the line so it is without indulging in personalities that we challenge the ineffable place which the United Nations is supposed to be held in our respect.

First, we would like to state that we are in favor of nations meeting together to iron out and mediate problems which arise from misunderstandings. Our basic premise, of course, is that the nations involved should be honorable and that equity should be the end desired. If the UN were just a meeting place for this purpose with no ramifications but those implied by the foregoing, the UN would not portend the grave threat to our liberties it presently does.

The naked truth is that the UN is refined power politics where members are primarily in the same manner as ward politicians would toward the problems that come before them. This is illustrated by the tremendous absurdity of us sitting in equal council with a power which represents the worst despotism in recorded history, Soviet Russia. This power is in no way seeking the professed objective of the UN, which is a peaceful world, and is in a position to completely establish the end results of the organization in matters of consequence. Hence, the UN serves as a device to be used opportunistically when it is to Russia's advantage.

Of course there is the sidelight to the UN which prompts the enthusiasm of those who are at heart modern Robin Hoods. This is broadly known as the social and economic action facets of the UN which uses the force of the respective national governments to take from the more affluent to "give" to the poor nations. The greatest grass root support for this endeavor in the United States comes from the sentimentalists groups who confuse religious compassion with political expropriation and dispensation. Those carrying the banners for these causes are usually women's groups of various types and the National Council of Churches branch of Protestantism. The Presbyterian women's organization in Pampa, for instance, received a good dose of this line in their circle groups last year.

An example of the UN's dangerously expanding power over our lives is the fact that we have had over the last several years numerous court opinions which have held the UN Charter to be the basis upon which decisions are rendered. Eisenhower, in defending the sending of federal troops into Little Rock, used the Charter as partial justification and it is this encroaching specter of the UN as a super-state that should give all who fear omnipotent government concern.

In the General Assembly, which is designed to become the ultimate governing body of the UN, 5% of the world's population can muster a majority of votes with 10% claiming a two-thirds majority. Can any rational individual contend that the UN, which is constantly expanding its power and influences in favor of collectivistic force, does not portend eventual domination by groups which are alien to our Judaic-Christian heritage?

UN propaganda constantly besieges us that it is the great peacemaker and yet, by yielding to the forces of power politics, it can be held primarily responsible for the number one international problem of today, the Middle East, through its child, Israel. And the problem looks insoluble since Russia is free to exploit this situation to the hilt among the Arabs who have good reason to feel the injustice of the creation of the State of Israel.

The basis upon which the broad program of the UN is defended by the average UN enthusiast resolves itself to such wierd paralogical reasoning as "if you don't believe in the UN, you must believe in war" or "of you don't believe in the UN, you must believe in little children starving." The thought process which forms such postulates is itself an indictment of what it attempts to defend.

The UN is an organization which is basically inimical to the traditions of freedom which have made this nation great and is not worthy of having a day set aside for it in special recognition so excuse us, Mr. Mayor, if we disagree.

Gems From Friendship Book

Some 60 years ago when I was selling subscriptions in the country to farmers, I used to always mention that the newspaper I was selling carried the sermons by Henry Ward Beecher. Here is a quotation from Beecher on friendship:

"It is one of the severest tests of friendship to tell your friend his faults. If you are angry with a man or hate him, it is not hard to go to him and scold him with words; but so to love a man that you cannot bear to see the stain of sin upon him, and to speak the painful truth through loving words, — that is friendship. But few have such friends. Our enemies usually teach us what we are at the point of the sword." — Beecher.

Other Quotations

"The man who will share his purse with you in the days of poverty and distress, and, like the good Samaritan, be surety for your support to the landings, you may admit to your confidants, incorporate into the very core of your heart, and call him friend; misfortunes cannot shake him from you; a prison will not conceal you from his sight." — J. Bartlett.

"We call that person who has lost his father an orphan, and a widower that man who has lost his wife. And that man who has known the immense unhappiness of losing his friend, by what name do we call him? Here every human language holds its peace in impotence." — Joseph Roux.

"As ships meet at sea, — a moment together when words of greeting must be spoken, and then away upon the deep, — so men meet in this world; and I think we should cross no man's path without hailing him, and, if he needs, giving him supplies." — Beecher.

Dulles' Threat Reveals Weakness In NATO

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — A basic and possibly fatal weakness in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) has been revealed as a result of Secretary Dulles' threat that the United States would retaliate against the Russian heartland in the event of a Russo-Syrian invasion of Turkey.

It has raised the question of whether the European members of NATO would be willing to fight alongside of us in such a conflict, or permit us to use their advance bases for atomic bombardment of Soviet targets. Without these airfields, our longest-range bombers could not hit Moscow, Leningrad or Russian military centers.

Unless they, too, had declared war on Moscow, they would probably discourage American use of their airfields.

Finally, the NATO nations have been deeply shocked and frightened by Russia's recent military and scientific triumphs. When NATO was organized 10 years ago, the United States was the only power which had a stockpile of atom bombs. Now they fear that Russia is matching us.

PARLIAMENTARY ACTION — Nor is it certain that European Parliaments would ratify an American declaration of hostilities. Macmillan has a majority of only 50 in the House of Commons, where the Labor Party and many Conservatives resent Britain's close tie-up with the United States. France's government is usually weak because of Communist and Poujadist strength in the National Assembly.

Lying under Russian guns and bombs across the border, and defenseless even in conventional forces and weapons, West Germany would be helpless. Nenni's Socialists in Italy, as well as other splinter parties and neutralists, would undoubtedly prevent any anti-Russian deployment at Rome.

overrun the whole Middle East before a single airplane loaded with atomic bombs could take off from a NATO base in Norway, Denmark, the Balkans, or anywhere else in western Europe, or North Africa.

Unless they, too, had declared war on Moscow, they would probably discourage American use of their airfields.

In fact, it is understood that British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan has brought up this question in his Washington conferences with President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles, together with the Middle East problem and a pooling of scientific resources in order to meet the Communist challenge in this field.

ATTLEE'S TRIP TO — Former Prime Minister Attlee, it is recalled, made a similar trip to Washington when it was suggested that former President Truman might authorize the dropping of atomic bombs on North Korea during that "police action." Attlee feared that such retaliation would bring China and Russia into the conflict, thereby precipitating a global struggle for which Britain was wholly unprepared.

An atomic duel above Europe, such as realization of the Dulles warning might produce, would be even more dangerous and destructive to Britain, France, West Germany and all our other NATO Allies, from the Low Countries to Turkey itself. All of their cities are within easy range of Russian air forces equipped with atomic and hydrogen explosives, not to mention the intercontinental missiles which the Kremlin may possess.

As a result of the Dulles statement and hurried re-examination of the terms of the NATO Pact, it becomes clear that this defense structure may be merely another Maginot Line, which proved useless under Hitler's first serious assault.

DULLES CONFIDENT — It is true that the NATO agreement establishes the premise that an attack on a single member of the organization shall be construed as an attack on all the other signatories. Thus, a Russo-Syrian invasion of Turkey, theoretically, should require all the other members to rush to the assistance of the beleaguered nation. Dulles apparently feels confident that this provision would be fulfilled by our Allies.

However, and largely at former President Truman's insistence, Article V of the treaty, which he called the "key provision," provides that "each nation would be expected to lend aid to the victim in accordance with its own constitutional processes."

ARTICLE V OF TREATY — Thus, the United States could not rush to Turkey's defense or retaliate against Russia directly without a declaration of war by Congress. With Congress now in recess, the delay would permit Russian forces

European Roads Are Swarmed By People

By HENRY McLEMORE

SIENA, ITALY — The best way to see Europe is by car.

You not only see all of Europe — you also see every blooming European as well.

There must be a law which requires that every European travel a certain distance along a highway (or in the middle of it) every day. No matter what road you travel in your car — Rome to Florence, Amsterdam to Brussels, Madrid to Barcelona, or Stuttgart to Cologne — you pass by, through, and among people.

Some are walking, some are riding motorcycles, and some are riding in horse-drawn wagons. Then there are thousands of bicycles, hundreds in carts pulled by bullocks, vast swarms on motor scooters, and, now and then, infants pushed in baby carriages.

Mary and I have been traveling by Volkswagen (a 1952 sedan) for the past three months, and there has been a scare a minute. To an American, highways mean automobile traffic.

In Europe, while there is a vast amount of coming and going in automobiles, the highways really are the national sidewalks. This is particularly true in and about towns, of which there is one every mile or so.

Right in the towns the streets are solid with people. Even the villages have sidewalks, but the citizens avoid them like the plague. They act as though walking on a sidewalk would be like wearing a badge of shame.

They would rather be caught dead than on a sidewalk — and that's what many of them risk as they stroll three, four and five abreast, arms linked, down the highways.

They pay no more attention to an oncoming car than they do to an autumn leaf blown across the road. You can blow your horn until you're madd in the face, for all they care. They won't budge an inch, but keep right on walking. There is only one thing to do and that is to slow down and creep around them, or tag along behind them in low gear until they happen to make a turn onto a side street or lane.

Europeans love to stop and chat, whole bunches of them, just over the rise of a hill, or on a curve. To go over a hill at a brisk rate more than a snail's pace, is to risk plowing into a covey of them. What saves them from being run down by the millions is a mystery to an American. For European automobile drivers go at near top speed all the time. True, most of their little cars don't cruise at much more than 50, but 50 can hurt.

The bicyclists are as bad if not worse than the pedestrians. They really own the road. Bump one and you've had it. So they meander from side to side, and cruise down the middle, without ever so much as a backward glance. To pass one is to hold your breath and pray that he doesn't suddenly decide, like the well-known chicken, to cross the road.

Children barely out of the toddler stage ride bikes everywhere. On bikes too big for them, they swing and sway and teeter in the path of cars. It is enough to gray every hair on a driver's head. Really, I would not be surprised to pass a baby, still in diapers, tooling his own bike down a main highway.

Americans drive defensively. Their whole thought is to get to where they're going without hitting anything or anyone. They don't have time to worry about not getting hit themselves.

Juan Fanguio, No. 2 automobile driver in the world, recently had a smash-up near Milan. He was driving peacefully along in his own private car, but even his superb skill was not enough to outwit the combination of the highway strollers and the here-I-come-get-out-of-the-way European driver.

I have the back seat filled with four-leaf clovers and the hind legs of rabbits, and hope they'll prove enough!

ON RECEIVING END—Accustomed to working on the other side of the spray, these St. Louis (Mo.) firemen face a watery challenge as they try to cope with a broken hose connection. They faced this complication while battling a three-alarm blaze.

Women's Control Of Wealth
Doesn't Show In Savings

By VIVIAN SANDE
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK, Oct. 22 (UP) —

Ladies, your much-reported control of the nation's wealth does not show in savings accounts, according to a number of people—including women—in the banking industry.

"Although at least half of the savings accounts in this country belong to women, it's the men who have the impressive balances," said Hilda Hoffman, assistant secretary and statistician for the Bowery Savings Bank of New York.

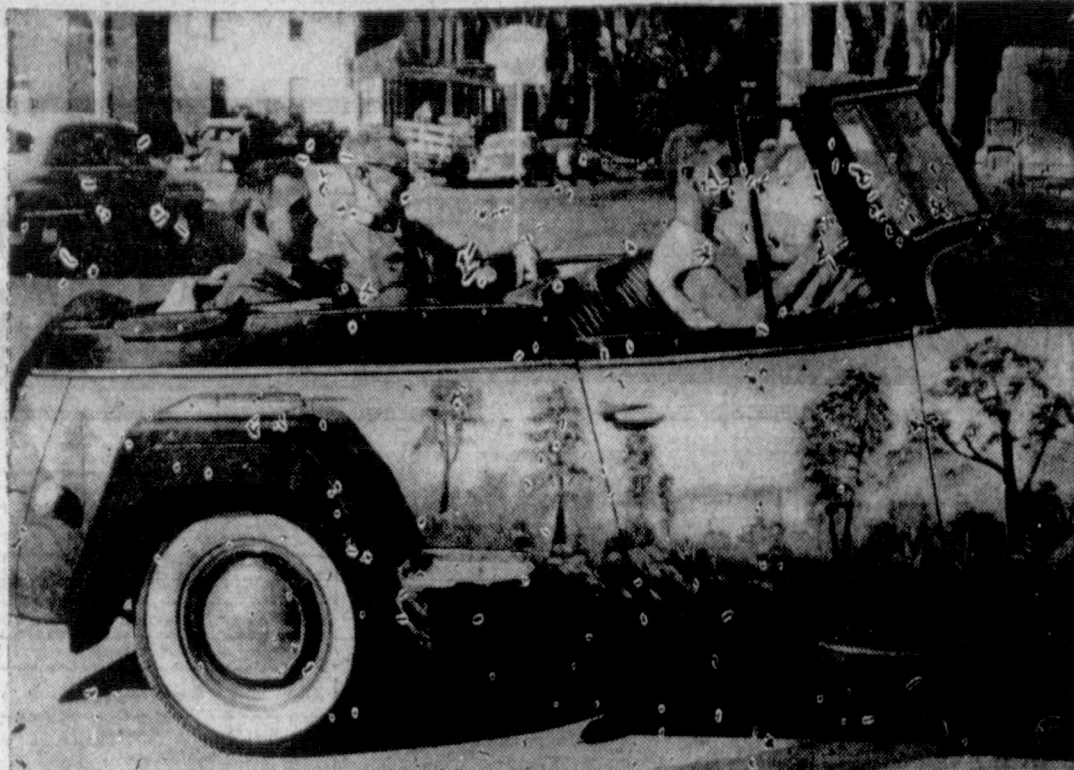

She added, "In our bank, a man's average balance hovers near the $3,000 mark whereas many a working gal has just enough to keep a bank balance alive."

have changed, and for the better. The following are more of the findings in studies on the subject made by the Union Dime Savings Bank, the Bowery Savings Bank, and the East River Savings Bank, all of New York.

As more and more women have joined the labor force and stayed in it after marriage, more and more women open savings accounts in their own names.

More and more people are saving with the idea of spending. Once they have accumulated the amount of money they want, they draw it out and start saving all over again.

(Miss Hilda Hoffman of the Bowery Savings Bank estimates one-quarter of her bank's total accounts usually are in turnover). Women make less use of bank services.

SCENIC DRIVE—Two and three-tone autos are nothing new, but this one in Monroe, Wis., takes the artistic cake with a paint job of woodland scenes all around its sides. How Will Oil Industry
Weather "Adjustment"?

By CLYDE H. FARNSWORTH
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (UP)—How will the petroleum industry weather the "adjustment" being widely predicted for the economy in 1958? Better than most major industries, say economists, because unlike most, petroleum's two most important products are fairly well insulated from the effects of modern business adjustment.

Adjustment or no adjustment you'll use your car just about as much as ever, and the house and office probably will stay heated.

What's happened in the past? The Chase Manhattan Bank reports that in the recession years of 1949 and 1954 the strength of gasoline and heating fuel demand held overall demand for petroleum show a gain.

Domestic consumption in 1949 was 0.5 per cent greater than in 1948, according to the bank. Had the winter weather been normally cold there would have been a gain of about 2 per cent.

For 1954 the Chase reported an actual increase of 2 per cent over 1953 that would have been only about 1 per cent if weather had been normal.

The Chase, along with other industry observers, warns that the industry can weather an economic adjustment best if it has its house in order or inventories in normal position.

Excessive inventories. Both the 1949 and 1954 adjustment periods were entered into with excessive inventories. Supplies are high now, too.

However, September supply patterns assumed a more favorable shape as imports fell below

Ancient Plane
Lands In Dallas

DALLAS (UP)—A 1917 biplane, which has been in a hayloft for 30 years, winged into Dallas 15 minutes ahead of schedule Wednesday on a non-stop flight from Oklahoma City.

The 1817 plane and a 1911 model, which was shipped to Dallas, arrived for Pioneer Day ceremonies in the week-long dedication of Love Field Terminal.

The plane landed in "good as new" condition and Ken Hunter, the pilot, slipped off unobserved after he flew in ahead of time.

Hunter, chief pilot for Kerr-McGee Oil Industries Inc., and Ches-Gottschalk, a mechanic for the firm, arrived in the plane which Hunter flew nearly 40 years ago when he operated an aerial circus.

Billy Parker, chief pilot for Phillips Petroleum Co. of Bartlesville, Okla., will attempt to take the 1911 model up Friday.

CZECH'S SEIZE TWO

VIENNA (UP)—Prague Radio announced Tuesday night the arrest of two "spies" who allegedly worked for Western intelligence services. The broadcast said Martin Schmitt and his wife of Prague were seized by Czech police on charges of spying for the British Secret Service.

August levels and production was cut.

The month saw 13 million barrels put into storage, against a 20 million barrel addition in September last year.

Crude oil and the minor products showed losses while gasoline, the distillates and residual fuel all recorded gain.

Radio, TV
To Fight
Court Rules

DALLAS (UP)—Radio and television broadcasters Wednesday resolved to unite in an attempt to break down barriers against broadcasting legislative and judicial proceedings.

Concluding its annual convention, Region Six of the National Assn. of Radio and Television Broadcasters adopted a resolution stating its opposition to bans against broadcasting and televising trials and similar proceedings. The region includes Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas.

The broadcasters also approved resolutions commending the Federal Communications Commission for adopting rules providing remote control operation of AM and FM radio stations with directional antenna systems or with power in excess of 10 kilowatts.

Access To News
James Byron, news director for WBAP and WBAP-TV of Fort Worth, said the entire industry must apply itself to gaining freedom of access to news.

"It must be approached from the level of the station news editor, through station management, station ownership, and through the efforts of the networks," he said.

"This is a fight in which the intelligent approach, hard work and recognition earned through unassailable merit alone can break down the barriers; righteous indignation simply will not get the job done."

Another resolution adopted at the meeting calls on NARTB members to inform their congressmen and the public of issues involved in a controversy of music licensing.

Music Licensing
The resolution notes there have been "allegations by various song writers and performers against broadcasters and the broadcasting industry in connection with relationships existing in the area of music licensing and the practices of broadcasters..."

It said the charges stem from a lawsuit pending in a New York state federal court and they appear "to be an attempt to bring into the public forum and the legislative halls the same issues involved (in the lawsuit), resulting in an unjust malignment of all broadcasters..."

Smugglers Cause
Battle In Turkey

DAMASCUS, Syria (UP)—There was gunfire and a land mine explosion on the Turkish border Wednesday but the excitement was caused by smugglers, not by a war.

Seven Turkish tobacco smugglers, unimpaired that the crackle of small arms fire on the tense border could touch off a major war, engaged in a gun battle with a Syrian anti-smuggling squad.

The fight took place in the Gembalik Valley on the Northeast border sector.

The police patrol captured two of the intruders and the other Turks escaped across the border, authorities said.

At another point on the Northeast frontier, a farmer hit a Turkish land mine with his plow and was seriously injured. The land mine probably was planted a long time ago to stop smugglers. Elsewhere along the border it

Bovet May Get
Nobel Prize

STOCKHOLM (UP)—Swiss-Italian pharmacologist Daniel Bovet was expected to win the Nobel Prize for Medicine today for his work in harnessing the dangerous Indian poison Curare for medical use.

Medical sources said the 50-year-old Bovet was the choice of the awarding body ahead of a number of prominent scientists including Dr. Jonas Salk who developed the world famous Salk polio vaccine.

Bovet was known best for his work with curare but he also was a leading member of the group of researchers who discovered the anti-histamines and thus opened the way to a full scale battle against allergies.

The Nobel medical prize carries with it a cash award of 209,000 crowns ($40,000). Winners of this and the prizes for literature, physics and chemistry will receive the awards from King Gustaf Adolf on Dec. 10, anniversary was quiet.

Here in the capital the government remained determined to press demands for a United Nations investigation of Syria's charge that it is the massing of Turkish troops north of the border that is causing the tension.

Reliable sources said Syria would continue to resist mediation attempts by King Saud of Saudi Arabia, even though the General Assembly adjourned for three days last Tuesday to give Saud a chance to try to work it out.
