Not Just To Hear 'Beep' 2 Reasons Why Reds Hurried Moon Project

By JOEL R. COMBS
Pampa News Managing Editor
(Editor's Note: This is the first of a series of stories emanating from an interview with Congressman Walter Rogers. In the series, readers will be able to learn how their representative stands on various issues. Today Rogers comments on "Sputnik," the Russian man-made moon.)

CONGRESSMAN WALTER ROGERS looked toward Sputnik the other day and said, "I am not too much disturbed by it." The popular Pampa man had just been asked a question repeated many times during the last few weeks. "What do you think of Russia's victory in getting a satellite into orbit before the US?"

WALTER ROGERS, M. C.
... the sputnik furor

Rogers said the Soviets had two things to gain by beating the US thus far in the space race, (1) it is of a tremendous propaganda value, and (2) it did just what they wanted, created a furor in the United States.

"ONE OF the primary reasons the Russians were in such a hurry to get a satellite up was to create an uproar in the United States, cause a lessening in Americans' confidence in their own missile and satellite programs and create havoc in general over here," he said. And this much they did. . . . cause a furor.

Rogers predicted that Congress would "look into" the missile and satellite program very soon and it "will certainly re-evaluate the entire program. . . if there has been any failure on the part of those charged with certain responsibilities there will be some speedy changes made."

"Our defense had the money and authorization to get the job done. . . . spend more money than Russia to reach the project," he added.

THE CONGRESSMAN said, "Remember, we still follow the democratic processes. . . . the Reds could give their scientists a deadline and the satellite would roll around the world or heads would roll on the ground."

"I don't think we should become panicky. In my opinion we have a sound missile and satellite program which is on schedule. When the time comes and our satellite is up there, it will be equipped with the scientific apparatus necessary to give us the information we need instead of being used primarily for propaganda," he remarked.

The lean Texan, whose main form of entertainment in Washington, D.C., is watching TV, he says, pointed out that the US missile program got a large share of the defense budget, and add to that carryover funds, which adds up to the fact that our missile and satellite program should be "in shape" and, if it isn't, there will probably be some loud noises coming from the direction of Capitol Hill in the not too distant future.

Man Wanted Here Held In Orange

A man wanted in Pampa and other Texas counties on forgery charges has been arrested by officers in Orange.

Sheriff Rufe Jordan reported that William Watkins had been arrested in Orange last week by city officers. The sheriff said that Watkins is charged here in connection with the passing of a $98.50 check signed with the name "Irving Goldberg."

The check was cashed at the Vaughn and Roth Service Station on Sept. 29.

Watkins will be charged first in Orange, the sheriff said, then be charged in Ballinger before being returned to Gray County.

haps not scorewise, but in number of times out on the course. He said he had treaded the fairways only three times this year. He would like to play a great deal more but finds it hard to "accumulate" the time.

Soviet Satellite Silent

By WHITMAN BASSOW
United Press Staff Correspondent
MOSCOW, Oct. 26 (UP)—The radio voice of the Soviet satellite went dead today.

A Soviet Tass news agency announcement said "The satellite's radio station, having used up its reserve of power" in three weeks of steady signals has "stopped working."

Now, the 184-pound metal sphere hurtling around the world on its orbit can be tracked only by radar or visual observation.

The brief Tass announcement urged added efforts by "moon-watchers" around the world to keep track of Sputnik.

"In these circumstances," it said, "optical observations will become very important as they will be the main means of measuring the elements of the orbit of the satellite."

Soviet scientists had warned two weeks ago that the satellite launched Oct. 4 would lose its voice as its batteries lost their power.

Batteries Heavy
A later Tass report said "The satellite's transmission set has run out of electricity and ceased emitting signals."

Authorities said much of the relatively heavy weight of Sputnik was taken up by the batteries. Sputnik gave the first indication of radio failure Friday night. The steady "bleep bleep" signal which heralded its appearance over various areas of the world suddenly dimmed.

(In London, the British Broadcasting Corp. reported Friday night that the signal had become "very weak." Only the most powerful receivers could pick it up. At one point, there was no sound. Then a weak signal resumed.)

Man thus lost his only actual contact with outer space.

Sputnik now will travel in silence on its circular course at speeds in the 18,000 m.p.h. range, sailing on an elliptical track that ranges anywhere from 126 to 870 miles above the earth.

Western Allies Rushing For 'Summit' Meet

By DONALD J. GONZALES
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 (UP)—The Western Allies, united again by Russian threats, rushed plans today for a "summit" conference to modernize their alliance for the rocket era.

A White House announcement that President Eisenhower will attend the mid-December NATO council meeting in Paris is expected early next week.

The NATO standing committee first must meet and get approval of the 15 member nations for a top-level conference. Until that formality has been completed, the White House and State Department said, there will be no announcement.

Satellite Instrumental
Russia's launching of the earth satellite, he said, has "brought NATO nations closer together." He urged a halt in the reduction of armed forces pending the top-level conference.

Canadian Prime Minister John Diefenbaker did not wait for this, however. He said in Ottawa that he will attend the "gathering of NATO leaders at the highest level."

This statement, coming after the arrival there of British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, confirmed diplomatic reports that a summit meeting to reappraise the West's defense needs will be the next move in meeting Russia's new challenges.

The State Department and the foreign ministries of the other Atlantic allies already were considering ideas for a NATO "new look" which would emphasize pooling of rocket and nuclear know-how and weapons and inject fresh confidence into the free world.

Attendance of the chiefs of state would dramatize the revived spirit of Western unity in response to Soviet rocket-rattling.

American officials emphasized that the renewal of wartime Anglo-American cooperation was the historic result of the Eisenhower-Macmillan conference.

Concrete Steps
The western "Big Two" set in motion planning for concrete steps to strengthen the entire system of anti-Communist alliances and make better use of the free world's resources and talents.

Top O' Texas Knife And Fork Club To Hear Famous Four

Joe Gordon, president of the Top O' Texas Knife and Fork Club, announced that four noted men, three from countries abroad and one American, will be in Pampa to address the club members at their dinner meeting Thursday at the high school cafeteria.

The Honorable Camille Chautemps, four-time Premier of France and one of that country's greatest statesmen, will head the quartet of speakers. His three companions are not far behind him in recognition in their own country.

The Honorable Ben C. Limb, Korean Ambassador and former minister, and Colin Jackson, famous British commentator from London, who it is said is one of Britain's most popular television personalities, are the other two "foreigners."

Pre-Election Calm Settles On Turkey

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Oct. 26 (UP)—A pre-election calm settled on Turkey tonight despite shrill Soviet insistence that the ballots to be cast Sunday will turn into bullets the day after.

All interest appeared to be centered on the presidential and parliamentary elections Sunday rather than the "war" charges by the Soviet Union and Syria. The Soviets have charged that "immediately" after the election, Turkey will attack Syria.

So far, the Turkish people and their leaders have shown no indication that Turkey plans any military action against neighboring Soviet-armed Syria. Most military leaders have resigned their commissions temporarily to stump for candidates in the leading Democratic and Peoples Republican party.

At Gaziantep, Turkey, U. S. Col. Harvey J. Jablonsky, commander of a 20-man U. S. Army training detachment, said the only trouble he saw on the border was an attack last month by bandits on an American oil crew.

"If any war is brewing here, I sure don't know about it," Jablonsky said.

The Turkish people were deep in internal political arguments which would be resolved at the polls Sunday.

The election campaign which ended Wednesday was based primarily on domestic issues. Both leading parties support the West, NATO doctrine and the Eisenhower Doctrine. Their main argument is on the methods of industrializing the country.

Kiwanis Club Officers For '58 Elected

New officers for the Pampa Kiwanis Club were elected at the organization's meeting Friday at noon in the basement of the First Methodist Church.

Malcolm Hinkle will head the club as president next year with Sam Berger as first vice president and Arthur Aftergut as second vice president.

Four new members of the board of directors were elected. They were Aubrey Jones, Bob Alford, Bill Waggoner and Doug Morgan. Hold-over directors are N. J. Ellis, Mack Hiatt and Clifton McNeely.

The immediate past president is Warren Hesse, who was recently elected Lt. Governor of Division VI, Texas-Oklahoma District.

The installation banquet will be held Dec. 5. Marvin Cooper is heading the banquet committee.

The present Lt. Governor, John Rust of Borger, was a guest at the club's meeting Friday. He gave a brief talk.

The program for the day was given by Dr. C. A. Burch, professor emeritus and tennis coach at Texas Christian University.

May Be Headed For Premier Role

MOSCOW, Oct. 26 (UP)— Marshal Georgi Zhukov today was relieved of his post as Soviet defense minister. An official announcement said he would be succeeded by Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky, hero of the World War II defense of Stalingrad.

In London there was speculation the sudden announcement meant the early elevation of Zhukov, a wartime friend of President Eisenhower, to the post of premier, replacing Nikolai A. Bulganin.

There was no immediate explanation of the announcement that the Presidium of the Soviet Union had "relieved Marshal G. K. Zhukov of the post of U.S.S.R. minister of defense."

West Heard It First
A dispatch by the Soviet news agency, Tass, was beamed to the West by radio Moscow at 8:40 p.m. (2:40 e.d.t.). Four minutes later, it was announced on broadcasts for home consumption.

The announcement came as a surprise to the Soviet capital.

At the time of the announcement, Bulganin and Soviet Communist party chief Nikita S. Khrushchev were attending a reception at the Iranian embassy in honor of the birthday of the Shah of Iran.

Zhukov, 61, had served as defense minister since Feb. 9, 1955. He returned to Moscow today from a tour of Yugoslavia and Albania.

His successor, Malinovsky, a Red army marshal, is a "hero of the Soviet Union." He won acclaim for his defense of Stalingrad in 1942 and is a career soldier.

The change of status for Zhukov was as sudden to the public as the dismissal last July 3 of the "Molotov" trio of Georgi Malenkov, Vyacheslav Molotov and Lazar Kaganovich for "anti-party activities."

The announcement could mean that Zhukov was on his way up or down.

Observers noted in the past that whenever a Soviet official was elevated from one post to a higher one, his promotion was announced at the same time as his release from his old job.

But in Zhukov's case it was impossible to determine, because a more responsible post—probably as premier—would have to be made by another body than the Presidium, the upper echelon of the Supreme Soviet.

Malinovsky, 59, was elected a deputy of the Supreme Soviet (or parliament) in 1956. Zhukov was elevated to the Presidium in the shakeup last July.

The radio Moscow broadcast heard in London said: "The U.S.S.R. Supreme Soviet Presidium has appointed Marshal R. Malinovsky U.S.S.R. minister of defense."

"The U.S.S.R. Supreme Soviet Presidium has relieved Marshal G. K. Zhukov of the post of U.S.S.R. minister of defense."

What surprised western observers in Moscow was the timing of the announcement. They wondered why it had not been held until the eve of the celebrations for the 40th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution which falls on Nov. 7.

One Third Of United Fund Goal Reported

With the official end of the Pampa-Lefors United Fund campaign at noon yesterday the total in reported subscriptions was only slightly past the one-third mark with a total of $20,155.

The goal set by the directors of the United Fund is $60,000 and Warren Hesse, drive chairman, said yesterday that a large number of cards had not yet been turned in.

Volunteer workers contacting employees of large firms have been unable to complete all of their work so far but the cards are expected early this week, Hesse said.

Hesse also remarked that due to the large number of people having their subscriptions placed on payroll deductions, a large percentage of the amount given to the campaign would not be reported until after the firms can process the deductions.

Of the total reported yesterday, $18,399.25 was in cash and the remaining $1,755.75 was in pledges.

Contributions will continue to be accepted in the United Fund office in City Hall.

Governor Daniel Would Close Schools If Occupied By Troops

By O. R. LLOYD JR.
United Press Staff Correspondent
AUSTIN, Oct. 26 (UP)— Gov. Price Daniel said today he may submit legislation to the special session closing public schools if they are occupied by state or federal troops.

But Daniel told a news conference that the Legislature first must act on his program which includes enactment of a long-range water-planning program, lobby control legislation and law enforcement and crime prevention study.

The governor said he will decide in the coming week what matters, if any, he will submit for legislative action. The special 30-day session ends Nov. 12.

For Bigger Issue
Daniel said the matter of troops occupying school halls and campuses "is a far bigger issue than the matter of integration or segregation."

He repeated two broad policies underlying his thinking and possibly pointing toward future actions:

"I'm not going to use the police force of this state to enforce federal court orders."

"As long as I am governor of this state, we are not going to have federal troops occupying the halls and campuses of our schools."

Studying Question
The governor said it was a question as to what he could do to prevent troop occupation, and that was why he was studying the question.

He revealed he conferred by telephone with Gov. Leroy Collins of Florida, where the legislators enacted a law barring troop occupation of schools.

Daniel said Collins explained that in Florida a school is closed automatically, without any action on the part of the governor, when it is occupied by troops, and this affords a "cooling off period."

Possible Legislation
Daniel said he was also considering legislation by the East Texas segregation block directing that the attorney general of Texas represent local school districts in court contests involving segregation.

On other news conferences subjects, Daniel said: He was considering proposals aimed at curbing oil imports which bear directly on Texas' petroleum production.

He implied that the legislature should "burn the midnight oil" if necessary in order to get his program passed and enact other bills coming before the session.

She had the ticket of the fourth number drawn from the cage by Angelia Ann Roush, M. Z. Silver, left, and Al Metz, right, members of the Merchants Activities Committee of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce, sponsors of the Value Days, were in charge of the drawing and made presentation. # A Former Pampan's Impressions Of Queen's Visit To Washington

In a letter to Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Brown, Mrs. Lillian Benedict, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Rice of Pampa, gives her impressions of the visit of the Queen and her husband, Prince Philip, to Washington.

Mrs. Benedict is the secretary of O. C. Fisher, representative from San Angelo, and her husband, Dan, is a Lt. Colonel.

The following is the letter Mrs. Benedict wrote to the Browns: "Dear Mr. and Mrs. Brown: "Yesterday was a colorful and memorable day in Washington! Elizabeth II, Queen of England, arrived at MATS Terminal for a four day State visit. Although the weather must have made her feel at home, everyone was disappointed that our previous weeks of wonderful Indian Summer had to be hidden by a curtain of rain-clouds. Fortunately the rain stopped just before her plane arrived, and did not begin again until they were inside the White House. The rain, like the sun, must have been disappointed not to have fallen on such a pretty Queen. In spite of the weather, however, thousands gathered at the airport and hundreds of thousands of Americans, thrilled with anticipation, lined the streets of Washington. . . . beginning in the early hours . . . to get a glimpse of Queen Elizabeth and her outstandingly good looking Prince Philip. It was worth every raindrop!

"Dan and I were fortunate enough to obtain 'VIP' passes to the private enclosure at MATS to witness the colorful ceremony. There were no more than 50 or 75 people in the enclosure where we were and when the Queen trooped the lines, she was almost close enough to touch . . . and looked good enough to eat.

"Over to one side at the public enclosure, there must have been a thousand or more awaiting the arrival of the plane . . . and of course, the military was out in force, with all the flags . . . and the Queen's flags . . . in perfect lines of attention. The crowd was orderly and excited, but not in the least hysterical. When the plane landed there were ohhs and aaahhhhs in unison . . . but when she stepped from the plane with Prince Philip there was a whisper of a tremendous sigh from the crowds. She was dressed in Royal Blue and the color of her costume matched the brilliance of her smile as she proceeded down the ramp to meet the President. Mrs. Dulles, the first woman in line, handed her a tremendous bouquet of deep red roses . . . and she continued down the reception line to the ramp where she would receive her public welcome and return her greeting to the United States.

"The crowd loved her . . . they didn't applaud or yell, because she was so every inch the queen that we were all too busy taking in the beauty of the tiny ruler and the elegance of her Prince. Thrilled as everyone was, it would have seemed inappropriate to have made a loud display of welcome.

"She walked down the lines of troops carrying her roses, and accompanied by MDW's General van Houten and President-Eisenhower. I suppose it is not appropriate for the Prince to troop the lines with her . . . but everyone, including the men, was obviously disappointed not to get a better look at Philip. It also afforded many of us our first close look at our President and he certainly looked in the pink of health. I've seen him at the Inaugurations the last two times and at the Inauguration Balls, but he's always been behind something like a railing of a speaker's rostrum, but I hadn't realized what a short man he is.

"The Queen is so poised for one who looks so young . . . much younger than statistics show. Her skin is so flawless that it looks almost transparent . . . and her gracious smile endeared her to everyone. I do wish you could have been here to see her for yourself.

"Upon completion of the troop inspection, she was ushered into the President's 'bubble' car and since Mrs. Eisenhower was not along, the Prince rode on the left side of the car and the President between him and Elizabeth. Everyone got a good look at the Royal pair as they drove very slowly from the airport to the White House. We ran from the private enclosure on the landing side to the front street . . . and there were literally thousands of people out there who, I was told, had been standing against the ropes for as long as we'd been inside.

"Prince Philip is so uninhibited that the women and girls were positively squealing when he raised his hand to wave at those waving at him . . . and he was obviously enjoying it. Unlike many other royal personages who have been to Washington since I've been here . . . these two seem like people you'd really enjoy knowing personally. In spite of Royal protocol that requires him to walk behind the Queen, Philip seems to do the on the homage paid to his bride. He watches her as though it is a treat to him to see her, too.

"We watched the reception on TV last night, which you may have watched also . . . and she was radiant with the compliments paid her by all the people and by the applause . . . and he was enjoying it no less. Everytime anyone paid her a compliment, Philip would look at her like he wished he'd said that!

"In watching them together at these various receptions and dinners that are televised . . . I get the feeling that they would have more fun if the people attending were less of the stuffy diplomat, Senator, Ambassador types and more of the 'peon' class. Not from anything they show . . . because they are graciousness itself . . . but it seems such a shame for such a young couple to be always surrounded by protocol and stiffness. They could learn more about us by stopping in a private home, kicking off their shoes and having a short beer! Hmmm . . . wonder where they are right now???

Now, don't get excited, Mr. Brown, I'm not gonna call and say Phil old bean . . . how about a short one? . . . but I almost believe the invitation would be accepted! Ho hum . . . I'm sure I was meant to be the hostess with the mostest where those two were concerned. On the other hand, did they invite me to Buckingham Palace when I was in London? My mistake . . . I forgot to call them!"

FCC Blocks Texas Tech TV Channel

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Federal Communications Commission today blocked the proposed grant of TV Channel 5 at Lubbock, Tex., to the Texas Technological College pending further inquiry into the station's financing.

In mid-September, FCC examiner Millard F. French recommended grant of the VHF channel to the college for operation of a non-commercial educational station. French ruled after C. L. Trigg withdrew a competing bid. The recommendation was to become effective Monday. In holding up final action today, the commission said it was particularly interested in proposals of Lubbock's two competing commercial stations KCBD-TV and KDUB-TV to help finance the college station.

The stations have offered to donate $30,000 each to the Texas college to help construct its new TV outlet. The commission also may consider American Broadcasting Company's protest that grant of commercial Channel 5 for educational use would wipe any chance of an ABC network outlet in that city. Lubbock has only three VHF channels.

LANGER IN SURGERY
WASHINGTON (UP)—Sen. William Langer (R-N.D.) underwent eye surgery Thursday for removal of a cataract. His office said his condition was "good." Langer entered Bethesda, Md., Naval Medical Center Tuesday for a check-up. Doctors then advised the operation. Langer spent most of the last Congressional session in the hospital recovering from pleurisy and pneumonia.

'Payoffs And Shakedowns' Hinted By Senate Probers

By JOHN A. GOLDSMITH, United Press Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 (UP)—Senate investigators said today their current hearings on improper practices by management will link Nathan W. Shefferman's consulting firm with "payoffs and shakedowns." Chief Counsel Robert F. Kennedy said the racket committee will spotlight such transactions between employers and employees of Labor Relations Associates Inc.—the Shefferman firm—when it continues its hearings next week. Kennedy described the transactions as "payoffs and shakedowns" and said a narrow line separates the two. He said the new facets of Shefferman's activities will be explored after the committee completes its examination of labor relations activities of Sears, Roebuck and Co. Currently studying Shefferman's work for Sears in Boston, the committee is expected to check on similar operations in Indianapolis and Pittsburgh. Wholesale Rates The committee counsel also disclosed that certain union officials — most of them officers in the giant teamsters union—have been asked to satisfy the committee that they reimbursed Shefferman with their own money when he bought merchandise for them at wholesale rates. Shefferman's own testimony before the committee in March showed that he performed get-it-for-you wholesale services for union friends, Kennedy said. Shefferman has supplied an "extensive" list of such transactions in reply to a committee request. He said most of the purchases were made for teamster officials. He added that for "certain of them where the purchases were quite large, we have asked for records to show that they personally paid him back." Purchasing Agent The committee's previous testimony showed Shefferman acted as a kind of purchasing agent and paid a wide variety of bills for Teamster President Dave Beck. Reimbursement came, not from Beck but from union treasuries, according to committee testimony.

SOVIET

(Continued From Page One) time (9 a.m. c.s.t.), Sputnik, in its 22nd day of flight, had made 326 revolutions around the earth. It apparently has speeded up slightly. It now takes 95.31 minutes for each revolution compared with an original time of 96.2 minutes. It still is falling behind the fellow-traveling rocket which hurled it into its orbit. The rocket carrier which overtook and passed Sputnik is catching up with it again. The rocket takes 94.68 minutes to complete one tour around the world, Tass said. It appeared that virtually all the tracking of Sputnik now would be through binoculars and telescopes. Although radar can pick up the track, few if any radar sets are known to be in use on the job of tracking man's first venture into space. Just how long Sputnik and the rocket would remain in space remained in the realm of conjecture.

UNICEF 'Trick Or Treat' Drive Is Stated Here For Hallowe'en

An organized "Trick or Treat" campaign to raise money for needy children will be held here this Thursday night, Hallowe'en. The campaign, sponsored by the Pampa Ministerial Alliance and the Pampa Council of Church Women, will have local youths knocking on doors asking for a "treat," in the form of money, for UNICEF (United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund).

UNICEF is a part of the United Nations, but is governed by its own 30-nation executive board which includes the United States. Requests for aid are made by governments, reviewed by experts in the field and at headquarters and sent to the executive board for decision. Since 1946, the Children's Fund has helped children and mothers in over 100 countries and territories by projects to control mass diseases, combat malnutrition, improve basic health services and meet emergencies. These activities are carried out with the technical assistance and cooperation of the World Health Organization, the Food and Agriculture Organization and the United Nations Bureau of Social Affairs, all aided by the United Nations Technical Assistance Program. Last year, over $600 was collected here and sent to UNICEF. Mrs. Bob McCoy is chairman of the affair here for the Council of Church Women and the Rev. Ronald Hubbard of the Presbyterian Church is chairman for the Ministerial Alliance.

Sadness Is Stimulus To Youth's Poetry Writing

By ALETHA DAVIS
Pampa News Staff Writer

To see the smiling face of Bill Barnes, son of Mrs. W. H. Barnes, Fritch, and the late Mr. Barnes, you wouldn't believe that he could ever feel depressed or sad; but according to him he does, and that is when he writes poetry.

YOUNG POET — Bill Barnes, who writes poetry when he feels sad, is shown here looking over one of his latest efforts. Bill combines his school and church activities with his poetic work and comes up with a "natural combination."

Bill was born in Pampa on Aug. 31, 1940, and attended the Pampa schools until last year when he transferred to Lefors High School.

Bill is active in basketball and plans to go out for the track team this spring. He is presently living in the D. T. Phell home in Lefors in order to finish school there. His mother and two brothers are now residing in Fritch to permit his older brother, Charles, to attend Frank Phillips Jr. College. Otis, his 11-year-old brother is attending school in Fritch.

According to Bill, about two years ago he began to write verses and found that he could naturally write poetry if he worked at it a little at a time. He stated that usually he thinks of a line or two that are concluding thoughts of a verse and eventually fills in the rest as it comes to him.

There are numerous activities to take up his time so the occasions he sits down to write are filled with thoughts that "must be recorded" before he "loses the feeling for writing." Bill says that he isn't really too interested in being a writer; he feels that he should enter the ministry and continue to write for his own benefit as he does now. He plans to attend Frank Phillips for two years following his graduation in May and then he will probably go on to Wayland College for further study.

Bill says that English and "trig" are his favorite subjects in high school and that he would like to study English literature and poetry to a greater extent.

When asked who his favorite poets were, Bill stated that he thought Edgar Allan Poe and William Bryan were the best; but, he didn't think too much of the conclusions of Poe's works. When everyone concerned in the works is dead, the imagination has to stop there, says Bill. He states that he doesn't try to copy any of the great poets because they have a set style and he writes differently each time according to his mood. His is natural ability.

Bill's first attempt with serious verse came when he was barely 15 years old and he wrote poetry from which the following is a part: "A fiery sigh, a tacit lie, Dwindle in this vast eternity, And death, that most insatiable

Man is dead, life is gone, Yet nothing is lost, but rather something is won. Upon the death of his father who was an admirer of his work, Bill composed the following lines:

Where art thou oh Death?
You were, but you aren't.
You are, but you weren't.
In triumph, you trampled over man

And while at your zenith
You stilled his beating heart.
But where are you now, oh Death?
Oh, Grave where is your victory?

Oh, Death where is your sting?
He lives now and forever complete.
And death is swallowed up in victory.

Besides his work in poetry, Bill is thinking seriously of doing some work in short stories and plays. He states that they will be tragedies; but, of lighter nature than most he is familiar with.

Bill is an active member of the First Baptist Church in Lefors where he is a member of the Training Union, Young People's Sunday School Class and sings in the choir. College plans still seem far away from him at this time and he is studying hard to make a high average in his graduating class. He now has a 95 per cent standing and is trying to "do better than that," he says. Bill works part time at the school and states that if he had more time he would really like to work on the school paper, but, studies and work come first.

There's no business like show business for the second generation, either. But it's—mostly the sons, not the daughter, of famed movie and stage stars who are turning out to be "slices off the old ham."

Latest member of the Screen Actors Guild is Bob Mitchum's 16-year-old Jim, a spittin' image of the star, who is playing Bob's younger brother in "The Whippoorwill," a movie about moonshiners in the Deep South.

Jim, an inch taller than Bob, seems to have inherited the "natural" acting talents that have always trademarked the elder Mitchum's roles and is said to be eager for a full-time acting career.

RECENT second-generation newcomers to Hollywood cameras include: Helen Hayes' son, James MacArthur; Pat Wayne, son of John Wayne; Alan Ladd's 10-year-old David, working with him right now in "The Proud Rebel"; silent star Billie Dove's son, 18-year-old Bob Kenaston; Bill Wellman Jr., son of the director; Joel McCrea's handsome sprout, Jody; Dennis, son of Andy Devine, and Alan Dinehart III, who recently played Dean Stockwell's buddy in "The Careless Years."

On TV there are Ricky and David Nelson, Ronnie Burns, Jason

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Behind the Screen: Maybe it's the brisk fall weather or maybe the out-of-work writers, for out-of-work TV comedians are now selling their best lines to movie stars. Anyway, Jayne Mansfield and Bing Crosby have just scored on the laugh parade. Someone in London asked Jayne if she was still feuding with Zsa Zsa. Jayne's icy reply was: "Zsa Zsa who?"

And when a pal asked Bing Crosby, "Where's Bob Hope these days?" Bing replied: "He's in Little Rock entertaining the troops."

Alice Faye and Phil Harris are coming out of their long-time retirement I hear, to headline the floor show at the Desert Inn in Las Vegas during the sixth annual Tournament of Champions in April of 1958. It's bet on Phil showing up but Alice has changed her mind before about returning to the spotlight. . . . With moviegoers screaming about gray-topped actors being mismatched on the screen with "too young" leading ladies, how about that Sophia Loren-Carlo Ponti marriage? He's better than twice Sophia's 22 years.

There's no business like show business for the second generation, either. But it's—mostly the sons, not the daughter, of famed movie and stage stars who are turning out to be "slices off the old ham."

Latest member of the Screen Actors Guild is Bob Mitchum's 16-year-old Jim, a spittin' image of the star, who is playing Bob's younger brother in "The Whippoorwill," a movie about moonshiners in the Deep South.

Jim, an inch taller than Bob, seems to have inherited the "natural" acting talents that have always trademarked the elder Mitchum's roles and is said to be eager for a full-time acting career.

It's the reason Mike can afford to rent Madison Square Garden for a night for "a little party for my friends." Every thing can be deducted on his income tax — ha hopes.

STAFF NOTES

JOEL R. COMBS, managing editor

TWO BOOKS are coming out soon which I predict you will like very much. One concerns Texas in a broad sense and the other is about a Texan who annually visits in Pampa.

A Pampa institution is given a whole chapter in the latter book. WISH I could tell you about them now but we have requests to hold up until the dates of their release. Though this might whet your appetite a little and keep you looking. They'll be out next month.

WE KEEP getting interesting letters which I want to pass on to you. Here is one from Africa. A Nigerian wants to become pen pals with a Pampan or two. He says:

"Dear Editor, I am writing you from Lagos, the capital town of Nigeria. I am 17 years, 5 feet, 6 ins., and black in complexion. I am seeking pen pals with whom I could exchange some African articles such as Ebony Carvings, snakeskin handbags and wallets, Leopard skin, decorating carvings and calabashes and dagger knives for shirts, jackets, trousers and camera.

"I shall be very grateful if you can publish this for me in your newspaper — May God assist you in your undertakings. Thanks in advance.

CHARLES CULLIN sports editor

It takes a lot of faith to do most anything worthwhile, and the Optimist Club of Pampa has demonstrated this lately as it has undertaken the construction of a Boys Club amounting in value to $50,000. This is being done by an organization of 40 members.

When completed, the club will be open to all boys of Pampa. It will have facilities for all kinds of sports and capable supervision at all times. For many months, the club was a dream for a few of the members and the dream began coming true a few months ago when land was purchased on the intersection of Craven and Barnes, and the structure was planned.

In starting the building, the Optimist members gave of their time and means in supporting it to the limit. Newt Secrest, as chairman of the building committee, has been on the site working during every spare minute possible. Johnny Campbell, club president, has pushed the whole program with all his well known energy and force, and members have worked after their normal working hours and on week ends to hasten the completion.

Bill Stevens, John Schoolfield, Ben White, Harold Anderson, Vern Pendergrass and many others have given of their time and labor to the project. Local firms have also contributed, in cash, products and manpower.

Figuring beyond the $50,000 involved in the building, these men are giving Pampa a thing not to be measured in dollars, and every person in Pampa, whether Optimist member or not, has the opportunity to help. A majority of the financing will come in through donations of members of the "800 Club," who have pledged to give $1 per month to the building fund. Persons may join the "800 Club" by contacting any member of the Optimist Club.

Weather in Pampa during the past week crowded Sputnik, the American rocket program and the labor union troubles for news value.

According to the Weather Bureau in Amarillo the snow Friday morning was the earliest recorded in recent years. The Weather Bureau said the earliest snow in the Top of Texas prior to Friday occurred on Oct. 5, 1951.

The weather last week ranged all the way from balmy shirt sleeve weather to freezing drizzle. I can remember as a child that the standard joke in the Panhandle in reference to new settlers was, "So you don't like the weather, well, wait a few minutes and it will change."

This has been the case last week. The weather changes didn't help those with the cold and flu, either. As soon as a person was getting well, the weather changed for the worse and it all was to do over again.

The flu situation didn't help the reporting staff here. During the week two people were out part of the time with flu and the remaining three should have been home in bed on one or two days.

Speaking of trouble at a paper, an anonymous note was received at The News last week that I can't keep from printing. We wish we knew who contributed the following gem of wisdom but since we don't we are not able to give credit where credit is due.

AIN'T IT THE TRUTH
They find fault with the editor
And say he should be shot;
That columns are as peppy
As a cemetery lot.
They say he shows poor judgment,
The jokes, they say are stale,
On upper floors they holler,
On lower floors they wall,
But when the newspaper's issued
(We say it with a smile),
If someone doesn't get one
You can hear him yell a mile.

People have more fun that anyone else. This profound statement was illustrated this week at the Tacky Party given by the Rebels in their lodge hall at 210 W. Brown.

At preceding meetings, members had brought a dress, a hat, and a purse. These items were auctioned off sight-unseen. At the party on Thursday night, they wore the items they had bought. And some of the items were a "sight for sore eyes" if we may re-coin a phrase.

Just as a for instance, we saw the first sack dress in Pampa worn by Mrs. Hazel Lockhart. It was of black crepe and hung, but loose, straight from the shoulders. Her fellow-members called her "Minnie Pearl" all evening. Mrs. Eula Thornhill was lucky (?) enough to buy, sight unseen, a green crepe blouse that lacked about three inches meeting in the back. But she solved this problem by lacing it together with what looked like shoe-laces. The effect was, uh, shall we say "different." Mrs. Ethel Wilson was a colorful figure with an unmatched blouse of bright orange and a bright red skirt.

Everyone had a hilarious time playing "Shoe Scramble." "Pass A Rock On Your Ankle," and "Pass a Life-Saver On A Toothpick." We'll just match this party, laugh for laugh, fun for fun, with any teen-age party held in town.

Before the evening was over, the tackiest, the silliest, and the cutest costume had to be chosen with those honors going to Mmes. Ruth Lawley, Ola Isabel, and Ethel Wilson. We took some pictures and the first of this next week, we'll show them to you.

We hope your family is taring

As bad as I hate to admit defeat, the "flu bug" has bitten this reporter but good.

Vaporizers and aspirins I find are just about the "mostest" when you're under the weather.

You know, it sure is hard to keep in style around here these days. Last year I had what was in style then — sinus, and this year Asian flu. The ironic thing is — I felt the same both times! Wonder what it really was?

All joking aside, the flu in Pampa is really beginning to take its toll and smart teenagers confined to their big dates Saturday night to sock parties and popcorn at home where that chilly Texas wind couldn't penetrate their bones. With this gai could have made it to West Texas State yesterday to see the old buddies. They were having the big homecoming event, you know. Something about a Hardin-Simmons-West Texas football game always brings tension around here. Of course I was betting on WT!

Take my advice, keep your feet warm, go overboard on the shuttles, and stay out of crowds. Just a tip to the high school crowd — coke dates with the T.V., algebra book and popcorn bowl are the best bet until this "flu demon" subsides. Stay home and have the gang over — if they haven't got the flu too.

Jack Frost has blown in here with a bang hasn't he? Never thought I'd be cold again after spending some time on the Mojave this summer; but, much to my discomfort, I found my self mistaken. That's not unusual I must say.

Much to the sorrow of several school age children around town, classes proceeded as usual Friday morning. However, I received several calls from "hopefuls" that just knew the weather was too bad for school when they awoke and saw the swirl of snow flakes outside their windows. Hang on kids, you probably will get your chance to drive mom into a tizzy later on this winter. Don't wish bad weather on us, it'll get here soon enough.

Well, I guess it's back to the bed with my aches and pains. Here's hoping that you are victorious over the "bug."

GRAY COUNTY Soil Conservation District News

By JIM SMATHERS
Work Unit Conservationist

Grass seed harvest is in full swing in the Gray County Soil Conservation District. Harvesting of Indian grass and Sand Lovgrass is well underway in the McLean Area.

Dick Everett was looking after a couple of combines and a grass seed stripper he had operating Wednesday afternoon. The grass seed stripper is a machine of real interest. It is an old cotton stripper converted to harvest such grasses as Indian grass.

James Clett, north of McLean, has a good looking field of Sand-love and Indian grasses that he plans to harvest. Quentin Williams has some promising fields of side-oats grama close in to Pampa.

The fields of grass in the McLean area are fields that were once in cultivation. Many of these fields had erosion problems and were unproductive. Now they are paying with grass seed and grazing.

These fields were not retired but put to use within their capability. Those that were put back to grass while they would still produce a crop are the ones that are now producing the best grass.

If you have a field that should be in grass, don't wait until the field is worn out. Put it to grass

The Pampa Harvesters open the 1958 football season with the newly organized Tascosa high school. This means more than an addition to district 3-AAAA, in that it will mark the end of the field day the Sandies have had for the past few seasons.

When Pampa played Amarillo, comments were made by a few coaches and newsmen about the boys on the field who would be switched to Tascosa next year.

THE SANDIES now draw their team from a population that doubles the resources of most of their fellow contenders, but with the additional school, should put a little more spark into the district competition.

After two district games, the Harvesters still lead in the passing department with 133 yards. Quarterback Gary Wilhelm ranks fifth in the district with three completed of three attempts for 47 yards.

Pampa dropped only one place in pass defense after the Sandies game, allowing only 44 yards in the two conference encounters. After facing the roughest foe on the schedule, the Harvesters rank fifth in total offense, leading Palo Duro and Borger.

IN THE INDIVIDUAL calculations, Don Bigham placed in all six departments. He has gained 106 yards in 29 carries to rank sixth in rushing with a 3.6 yard per carry average.

Don ranked third in passing with five completions of eight attempts for 88 yards. With passing and rushing combined, he accounted for 122 yards, to rank second in the district in total offense. In punting he placed fourth with a 22.9 average of 11 kicks.

Another high ranking Harvesters was end Jim Scott, who ranked third in pass receiving, with 44 yards on two completed passes. Scott moved from junior high ball last year to a starting position on the Harvesters this year.

The Lefors Pirates dropped to a thin chance at the 2-A title Friday night as they were defeated by the Clarendon Broncos. Clarendon leads with two victories, having gained the first through a forfeit by McLean. Memphis won its conference opener over McLean and stands now as the only undefeated team other than Clarendon. The Broncos face two rough opponents

Razorbacks Topple Mississippi From Ranks Of Undefeated Teams

By JOE McDAVID
United Press Sports Writer
MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 28 (UP)—Quarterback Billy Kysar scored two touchdowns, one after a 75-yard lateral play from fullback Gerald Nesbitt, to lead Arkansas to a 12-0 upset that toppled Mississippi from the ranks of the unbeaten and untied.

A sellout crowd of 30,000 saw the Southwest Conference elite come from behind to stop ninth-ranked Mississippi in the inter-sectional battle where the upset is the rule rather than the exception.

Notre Dame Drops Pitt

By ED SAINSBURY
United Press Sports Writer
SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 28 (UP)—Sophomore George Izo hit speedster Aubrey Lewis with a 74-yard touchdown pass to open the fourth period today and give Notre Dame a 13-7 triumph over Pittsburgh for its fourth win without defeat in the 1957 season.

It was a rough scrap between the Panthers, who suffered their third loss in six starts, and the undefeated Irish. Three players were thrown out of the game for fighting, Pittsburgh's first-stringer, end Dick Scherer, and two of Notre Dame's starters, quarterback Bob Williams and right halfback Dick Lynch.

Lynch was ousted in the first period for slugging on Frank Reynolds' one-yard plunge into the end zone for Notre Dame's first score, while Williams and Scherer got into a free-swinging brawl in midfield after a Pittsburgh punt with only three minutes gone in the third period.

The Irish, noted for staunch defensive ability this season, made good on that reputation to preserve the win. Pittsburgh, virtually even in statistics for the game, once went to the Notre Dame 12 and failed to score and in the last period, the Panthers drove to the Notre Dame 10 and fell a yard short of a first down.

Pittsburgh's touchdown was by Bill Kalden on a one-yard drive after a parade of 56 yards, and Ivan Tonic converted to give the Panthers a one-point margin they nursed until the Izo-Lewis pitch.

Army Clips Virginia

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Oct. 28 (UP)—Quarterback Dave Bourland brought Army from behind with two perfect touchdown passes in the fourth period today to outscore Virginia 20-12 in an inter-sectional thriller.

Virginia, a two-touchdown underdog, held the upper hand for three quarters as the Cavaliers fought as furiously as if they were defending Richmond itself against the soldiers.

But with Bourland's passing and the end flashes of halfback Bob Anderson and Fete Dawkins, the eighth-ranked Cadets rallied from the brink of an upset.

Bourland passed 15 yards to Anderson for one touchdown and 25 to Dawkins for another in the final period after the Cavaliers pitched a crowd of 24,000 into a frenzy by leading 12-6 with 15 minutes playing time left.

Florida Drops LSU, 22-14

By DAWSON OPPENHEIMER
United Press Sports Writer
GAINESVILLE, Fla., Oct. 28 (UP)—Florida mixed Louisiana State's big gun, Billy Cannon, in a second half showdown today and rode out a 22-14 victory largely built up on the visitors' weak punting game.

The Florida Gators capitalized on poor kicks for two touchdowns and a safety and never was behind. But some 28,000 fans were kept howling until the middle of the last period when Gator halfback Bernie Parrish took a pitch-out from quarterback Jimmy Dunn and went 27 yards for a clinching score.

The run climaxed a 29-yard drive set up when Cannon punted off the side of his foot for only 12 yards.

COACH STEVE SCOTT of the Miami Warriors takes top honors for half-time pep talk after his game. Last week Coach Scott's Warriors trailed after the second quarter, 31-0, and ended the game winning 44-31. He should sell that speech.

quarterback Ray Brown hit left end Larry Grantham in the end zone with a nine yard pass, clinching a 50-yard march. It included a 17-yard pass play from Brown to halfback Billy Lott. Halfback Leroy Reed's kick was wide.

Arkansas scorings: Touchdowns, first period, came to life in the second period. Quarterback George Walker passed 35 yards to Kysar, who was stopped on the Mississippi 13 when Lott pulled him down from behind. Two plays later, Kysar went over from the eight to wind up a 58-yard drive. Nesbitt's kicks were wide in both tries.

By ED FITE
United Press Sports Writer
COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Oct. 28 (UP)—Jarring John Crow jolted the Baylor defenses apart in the clutch on two Texas A&M scoring drives today as the nation's third-ranked Aggies rang up their sixth straight victory with a 14-0 blanking of Baylor before a 42,000 sellout crowd.

The 210-punt Springhall, La. halfback personally accounted for 31 yards in a 54-yard Texas A&M scoring drive in the first three minutes of the game and then both teams moved best with the wind in the sharp, 44-degree weather and two tremendous kicks — one a 75-yarder by Baylor's Larry Hickman and a 70-yarder by the Aggie's Osborne played a big role in the game.

The victory was the Aggie's second in defense of their Southwest Conference championship and showed them a long strike toward their goal of a repeat title and an automatic bid to the Cotton Bowl.

Horned Frogs Battle By Marquette Warriors

By DAN HANLEY JR.
United Press Sports Writer
MILWAUKEE, Oct. 26 (UP)—Texas Christian scored its first touchdown of the season on a pass and hard-running fullback Buddy Dike plunged for two scores to lead the Horned Frogs to a 26-7 victory over Marquette that disappointed a Warrior homecoming crowd of 10,945.

Marquette held fast in the first half but gave way near the middle of the third period. It could only recoup on an intercepted pass for its touchdown, and fell to defeat for the 16th time since Nov. 12, 1965. Dike broke the scoreless deadlock with just 2:40 remaining in the half when he plunged over from the one to cap a Texas Christian drive that started on the Marquette 41 and took 14 plays to complete.

Marquette closed the third quarter with a touchdown when guard Bill O'Connell intercepted a pass from rookie quarterback Jack Sledge that Warrior tackle Silas Wood deflected. O'Connell raced 60 yards for the score and quarterback Ernie Safran converted. Texas Christian, now with a 3-2-1 record, broke the scoring ice in the air when hard-running halfback Jimmy Schofer threw his only pass of the game for a 25-yard touchdown to end Chico Mendoza, with less than three minutes left in the third quarter.

Dike, a Southwest Conference star and record TCU ground gainer, had completed his scoring some four minutes earlier when he again plunged over from the one. Texas Christian had gotten the ball on the Marquette three on an exchange of fumbles.

Fired-Up Buffs Lead Briefly In Final Period Of Game

By CARTER BRADLEY
United Press Sports Writer
NORMAN, Okla., Oct. 26 (UP)—Top-rated Oklahoma fought for its life today and survived to defeat Colorado, 14-13, in a Big Eight Conference showdown witnessed by a record crowd of 61,700 persons.

Colorado, 45th straight victim of the 1956 national champions, missed a tie when Oklahoma guard Bill Krisher blocked Ellwin Indorf's conversion.

The fired-up Colorado team led briefly in the final period before Oklahoma's great halfback Clendon Thomas raced eight yards to tie it up 13-13.

Quarterback Carl Dodd booted the winning point after touchdown. The Oklahoma winning touchdown drive covered 53 yards in 10 plays.

Colorado, led by halfback Bob Stranky, who averaged 3.6 yards in 15 carries, controlled the game most of the second half.

The touched down Oklahoma scored to gain its 7-0 halftime lead came after a quick kick by Thomas carried 67 yards to the Colorado 14.

A Colorado player touched the ball before it stopped rolling, and Oklahoma's Jerry Thompson pounced on it.

Intercepted Pass
Stranky intercepted a pass from Thomas a minute after the halftime and ran 40 yards for the first Colorado touchdown. Then Krisher's block left it 7-4.

Early in the fourth period Stranky passed to quarterback Boyd Dowler, and Dowler ran from the eight to give Colorado a lead which Indorf made 13-7 with his conversion kick.

Colorado halfback Eddie Dove was the top ground gainer of the game with 62 yards in 10 carries. Oklahoma rushed 250 yards to 213 for the challengers.

The victory, though a squeak, moved the Sooners farther along the glory road toward another Orange Bowl trip.

They still play Kansas State, Missouri and Nebraska in their own league.

HOUSTON, Oct. 26 (UP)—End Jimmy Phillips raced 71 yards on Auburn's opening play tonight to open a scoring spree that handed Houston its worst defeat in three years, 48-7.

Auburn scored in every quarter, with end Jerry Wilson adding a safety, but Houston halfback Paul Sweeten stole the show with an 89-yard romp for the Cougars' only touchdown in the second quarter.

Sweeten, a diminutive junior fullback from Bauxite, Ark., intercepted a long aerial from Auburn quarterback Lloyd Nix to end Jerry Wilson for his epic gallop, longest in Houston's history.

Top-Ranked Defense
But it just wasn't Houston's night, hampered against the nation's top-ranked defensive team by the loss of the Cougars' two leading ground-gainers — speedy halfback Claude King on the sick list and fullback Owen Mulholland, dropped from the team last week.

Auburn scored twice, added a safety in the first period, a touchdown each in the next two, and three more in the final, courtesy of Phillips, Bryant Harvard, Bobby Hoppe, Billy Atkins, Lamar Rawson, Pat Meagher and Hindman Wall.

Abilene Eagles Reach State Record Of 44 Straight Wins

By UNITED PRESS
Abilene's eager Eagles breezed to a new state consecutive victory record of 44 straight Friday night, as 14 previously undefeated Texas schoolboy football teams were toppled from their lofty perches.

The Eagles trounced Big Spring 32-0 in opening their bid for a district title and in doing so surpassed by one the previous mark of 43 straight set by Hull-Dalsetta in the late 1930s.

Meanwhile, Plainview, Temple, and San Antonio Burbank in Class AAAA; Weatherford, Waco University, Beeville and Port Lavaca in Class AAA; Hamlin, Gilmer and Rio Grande City in Class AA; Sunray, Waco Connally, Hemphill and Jourdanton in Class A met defeat for the first time.

The carnage left 28 teams undefeated and untied and 13 others unbeaten but tied with one of the perfect record teams scheduled to play Saturday.

La Vega's 13-8 upset of Waco University, and Kingsville's 27-12 victory over Port Lavaca in Class AAA, and Pettus' 19-13 upset of Jourdanton in Class A.

The rest of the state's various division powers came through handily.

In AAA, Corpus Christi Ray blanked McAllen 33-0, Highland Park crushed Dallas Wilson 44-0, Wichita Falls beat Denton 26-0, Baytown battered Texas City 34-0 and San Antonio Jefferson trampled Alamo Heights 46-6.

In AAA, Port Neches beat Vidor 32-0, Sweetwater stopped Lake View 34-20, San Antonio Edison beat San Antonio Northeast 28-0, Palestine stopped Ennis 27-0, Kilgore beat Henderson 54-25 and Breckenridge downed Brownwood 47-0.

In Class AA, state champion Stamford whipped Haskell 27-0, McCamey battered Fort Stockton, 27-10, Coleman beat Ballinger 25-7, Terrell blasted Willis Point 49-14, Bonham ran over Pittsburg 49-7, Marlin beat Mexia 47-14, Brady slaughtered Fredericksburg 61-6, Belton beat Round Rock 26-7, Giddings blanked Columbus 29-0, Gonzales stopped Luling 20-6 and Liberty beat Port Acres 19-0.

In Class A, Sundown whipped Seagraves 14-0, Big Lake rolled past Marfa 47-0, Throckmorton battered Abilene Wylie 35-13, Linden whitewashed Hughes Springs 44-0, White Oak cut down Hallsville 40-7, Wilmer-Hutchins humiliated Burleson 72-6, East Chamber beat Bridge City 35-13, Humboldt stopped Waller 26-0 and Bastrop nipped Granger 12-7.

Dodgers May Sign Dreesen

LOS ANGELES (UP) — The Dodgers front office organization today displayed the efficiency that made it one of the most successful clubs in the major leagues as it announced training plans, processed ticket applications and apparently moved to add Chuck Dreesen to its staff.

Dreesen, who managed the Dodgers in Brooklyn and guided them to a pennant, was reported on the verge of signing as assistant manager Wall Alston. The fact that the Dodgers had conferred with Dreesen was confirmed by both parties.

"I don't mind admitting that I've talked to the club," Dreesen said when contacted at his home. "I'm very fond of the Washington club and I consider Calvin Griffith a good friend."

"But I'd like to be on the firing line helping run a club instead of scouting and handling front office duties. We haven't worked anything out definitely but we're not far apart."

E. J. (Buzzy) Bavasi, vice president in charge of Dodger personnel, branded reports that Dreesen had been signed as "premature." But he and Vice President Fresno Thompson both said the club management had talked to Dreesen but had nothing definite to announce yet.

Thompson, however, was definite in stating that despite their move to Los Angeles the Dodgers would continue to train at their Dodgertown camp in Vero Beach, Fla.

"We'll be back at Vero Beach in 1958 and expect to be there for some time to come," he said.

By S. V. WHITEHORN
At thirty minutes before sunrise November 3, the fall duck, goose and coot season opens in Texas except on state game preserves, statutory state wildlife sanctuaries, and on public roads and highways, within the state.

The shooting hours shall be from thirty minutes before sunrise until sunset. The daily bag limit will be for ducks, five in the aggregate with not more than one wood duck included plus not more than one hooded merganser in the daily bag. The possession limit is ten ducks with not more than one each of the wood and hooded merganser species.

Mergansers are the fish eating ducks and are also the type that will drive you from the kitchen while they are being cooked. They are not nearly so desirable as some of the other species for good eating.

Many duck hunters have difficulty in determining what species of ducks they have in the game bag. In the October issue of the Texas Game and Fish, a monthly publication of the Game Department, there is a very instructive feature on Duck data. The feature was written by Jean Richmond and should be read by every hunter. For example the managing editor has this to say about some of the waterfowl: Pintail, a spring and fall migrant and winter resident, is smaller than the mallard. Long neck and slender. Male, chiefly gray, black and white with brown head. Bill and feet are gray. Middle tail feathers are long and pointed. Wing patch is iridescent bronze, green and purple bordered with buff on the front edge, bordered with a bar of black, then a bar of white on the hind edge. Female — streaked and mottled with browns. Resembles females mallard and gadwall. Bill and feet are gray. Wing patch on speculum, mostly brown, speckled with black, with some iridescent green. Pointed tail. Average weight slightly over 25 pounds. Average wingspread, 35 inches.

The timely article on the different species of waterfowl that frequent the Panhandle should be a must on every hunters reading list. The October issue can be obtained from the Texas Game and Fish Commission for 20 cents. A year's subscription costs only two dollars.

How much does a mallard weigh? Five pounds? Six pounds? A fellow once told me that they weigh up to ten pounds. I knew that they didn't get that large, but was at a loss to state specifically what the average weight of a mallard was. Miss Richmond, in the article, can set any hunter straight when it comes to facts. Here is what is said about mallards:

Best known of the ducks in Texas, is a fall and spring migrant and a winter resident. It frequents all waterways, occasionally feeding in upland fields. Green head of male identifies it. Other markings are a ruddy breast, white neck ring, gray body, black rump, white tail. Bill yellow, feet pinkish to orange red. Weigh average two pounds and 11 ounces with a wingspread of 36 inches.

With the duck article in hand it would be simple for any hunter to identify each species of ducks in

Busso To Battle Rosi In Garden Bout On Nov. 29

By JACK CUDDY
NEW YORK (UP) — Lightweight contender Johnny Busso, who beat a No. 2 substitute Friday night, will meet the "real article" in Italian Paolo Rosi at Madison Square Garden, Nov. 29.

Busso of New York, ninth-ranking contender, won a close but unanimous decision over Canadian-born Gale Kerwin of Valley Stream, N.Y., in their TV-radio 10-rounder at the Garden Friday night.

Kerwin, 22, substituted for Sonny Boy Williams of Washington, D.C., who was to have substituted for Roli, the fifth-ranking contender. Both Williams and Roli were kayoed by the fit, Matchmaker Billy Brown said today. "I'll put Busso in with Roli on Nov. 29. I'm pretty sure Roli will be over the flu in time to train. We'll know for sure Tuesday." Young Kerwin made an excellent showing Friday night in his first Garden main event. He forced the fighting in nearly every round of their see-saw contest; but he was floored for a count of nine in the sixth session by a right to the chin and he ate more than his share of Johnny's late jabs.

Fraley's Report On Japanese Caddie In Golf Tourneys

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer
TOKYO (UP) — This was back in Texas and a golfing alibi artist who always had an excuse when he flubbed out glared at his motionless caddy just before hitting his shot.

The caddy remained unmoving and, as expected, the golfer took a yard long divot and barely moved the ball. Whirling on the caddy, he screamed: "That's your fault. I expected you to move and you didn't."

The caddy wouldn't have had a prayer here in Japan.

All the caddies here are girls and there are no finer ballhaws in the whole world. They never move when you're shooting, don't talk unnecessarily, never swing the clubs and, summing it up in one word, are perfect bag tolers.

I won't say they never, never make noise. But this case is an exception. Because Old Fearless has a swing which would draw a hearty guffaw from a stone Buddha, as such I quickly got accustomed to the giggles.

But caddying truly is an art in Japan, where the sloe-eyed little sisters of the six iron make it a comforting, if not very rewarding, career. Apprentices must walk along with veterans caddies many weeks before they are permitted to lug a bag. All they do, in their impassive manner, is to stand by and watch until they finally are given their chance.

During this training period, they observe how their shagging tutors handle the caddying art. Which it is. For these mites of the midiron, most of them just about as big as Sam Snead's leather golf bag, are flawless on the fairway as well as from tee to green. They can "club you," which is a golfer's expression for telling you which club you need to reach the green, from any spot on the course. Hit the ball a half dozen times and they'll never miss—even though you might.

One of their cutest tricks is the manner in which they mark your ball on the green. In the cuff of their blue denim uniforms they each carry different colored bits of wool yarn for this purpose. Off the tee they are always out in front of the golfers and on a blind shot the custom for them is to run—not walk—to the best vantage point.

All of this, mind you, for 75 cents a round — although when it's raining the price is raised outrageously to 90 cents.

Demaret Shuns Advice
Jimmy Demaret's caddy in the International Trophy and Canada Cup matches is an almond-eyed little beauty named Hiroko Ikenoya. James didn't trust her judgment—at first.

"I asked her once if I could get there with a four iron and she said no and that I should take a three," Demaret explained. "So old hard-headed Jim took a four iron—and left it short. Since then when I'm in any doubt at all, I let her call the shot."

So I let my caddy call the shots today when a bunch of us played the Tokyo Country Club.

There was just one thing wrong, though. I should have let her hit the shots, too.

Four NFL Leaders To Clash Today

By EARL WRIGHT
United Press Sports Writer
Four of the National Football League's offense and defense leaders clash Sunday when the Chicago Cardinals play host to the Cleveland Browns and the Washington Redskins visit the New York Giants.

Cleveland, tied with New York for the Eastern Division lead, is a 2 1/2 point favorite to boost its record to 4-1 by defeating the Cardinals (2-2). The Browns have allowed fewer points than any other team, 39. The Cardinals, sparked by Ollie Matson, lead the NFL in rushing with 694 yards.

New York, the defending league and Eastern Division champion, has allowed fewer yards than any other club, 752. The Giants have allowed only 48 points, a mark second only to Cleveland's.

The Giants are 11-point favorites against Washington although the Redskins (1-3) lead the Eastern Division in total offense with 1,852 yards and have the league's top-ranked passer in Eddie Lebaron. Lebaron has an average gain of 10.63 yards per throw.

The Baltimore Colts, tied with the Detroit Lions and San Francisco Forty-Niners for the Western Division lead at 3-1, entertain the Green Bay Packers (1-3) and are 10-point favorites. The Colts lead the league in scoring (127 points), total offense (1,422 yards) and passing (734 yards).

Detroit plays the Rams (1-3) at Los Angeles and is a three-point underdog. The Lions scored a 10-7 triumph over the Rams at Detroit Oct. 13.

The oddsmakers follow the same path at San Francisco where the Forty-Niners are 3 1/2 point underdogs against the Chicago Bears (1-3). The Forty-Niners edged the Bears at Chicago two weeks ago, 21-17.

In Sunday's other game, the Steelers (2-2) are favored over the Philadelphia Eagles (1-3) by 3 1/2 points at Pittsburgh.

Nakamura Heads International Golf Tourney

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer
TOKYO (UP) — Japan, with Chubby Torakichi (Pete) Nakamura's 13 under par held a seeming lock on the International Trophy and Canada Cup individual and team golf championships as shot-makers from 30 nations prepared for Sunday's fourth and final round at Kasugaseki country club.

Nakamura, who worked in the rice paddies as a youngster, shot a record-tying 67 in Saturday's third round. Added to a pair of previous 68's, it gave him a 203 total. This put him seven shots up on Welshman Dave Thomas and eight up on teammate Koichi Ono and Jimmy Demaret of the United States, and nine up on Sam Snead of the U.S. and Canada's Stan Leonard.

Iron Mike To Battle Joe In Wrestling Main Event

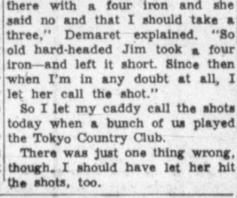

Tokyo Joe will meet Iron Mike DeBlase tomorrow night in the main event match at the Sportsman Club wrestling. The top battle will go two out of three falls, with a one hour time limit.

In the second event, Country Boy will battle the Great Bolo in another two-out-of-three match, limited to 45 minutes.

In last week's matches, Iron Mike and Joe were given a disqualification for assault on the referee in the main event. Both men had one fall when the match was called. In the semi-final, John Tallas was disqualified in a bout with Tommy Phelps. The first event saw Sonny Myers and Bolo battle to the 20 minute limit with neither able to gain the winning fall.

The wrestling, held each Monday evening at 8:30, is sponsored by the Pampa Shrine Club. Sportsman Club is located one mile south of town on the Lafors highway.

Admission is $1.50 for ringside; $1.25 for reserved seats; 90 cents for general admission adult, and 50 cents for general admission children.

Preview Of Hallowe'en

GUESS IT IS TIME to start, and stop looking at the blank page . . . we have decided that the grass in the back yard wasn't dead for the winter after all . . . since the rains we have had this past week, the grass has come out green and pretty . . . we feel quite guilty that we neglected watering the stuff, just because we took it for granted it was time for it to turn brown . . . we have seen many beautiful lawns around town, of the kind that stay green most of the winter . . . is it bluegrass that does it? . . . anyhow . . . the John Lee Bells have beautiful grass now . . . and next door the Bob Norton's is also a sight to see . . . and the Pampas grass every where is in its glory.

THE EARLY BREAKFAST held for the people who are helping with the United Fund drive was quite an affair . . . Cliff Whitney is the president . . . of the Pampa Lefors United Fund . . . Warren Hasse is drive chairman this year . . . and has the worrying-est job of all . . . keeping the thing rolling at proper speed . . . Bob Cardin handles the publicity . . . we know H. V. Wilks . . . Max Bolling . . . Newt Secret . . . Gene Fatheree . . . Kirk Duncan . . . S. B. Haralson . . . Lamond Hall . . . John Branan . . . Johnny Gikas . . . Bill Tarpley . . . Ray Duncan . . . and many others were there . . . it has been a busy week for all.

WE HAVE BEEN HEARING . . . that there has been quite an art festival going on this weekend . . . yesterday and today, as a matter of fact . . . in Amarillo . . . Marion George and Peggy Palmier had some things in the show that we saw . . . beautiful mosaic tables . . . and a couple of necklaces . . . and some mosaic wall plaques . . . the thing is the Festival of Regional Art which opened yesterday . . . and will be open today from 1 to 6 p.m. in the Commercial Exhibits Building of the Tri-State Fair grounds . . . it has been sponsored by the West Texas Art Guild and includes displays of all types of arts and crafts . . . the theme of the show was that "every day, everybody buys art." . . . this is apparently a yearly affair . . . we know it was held last year . . . but there were more Pampans participating then . . . Pearl Spough . . . Mary Reeve . . . Nova Mayo . . . Mary Dean Dozier . . . Mary Ewing . . . Mrs. Alton Moore . . . and Ardelle Briggs were among those from Pampa who went to Panhandle recently to the regional meeting of Delta Kappa Gamma . . . the luncheon was a very nice affair . . . and the dried fall arrangements on the tables were a nice touch . . . and speaking of flowers . . . we have heard talk that the Pampa garden clubs want to build a small building on one of the city parks . . . to have as a sort of community project . . . a meeting place for the garden clubs . . . and also for other clubs . . . and to have flower shows and so on . . . this sounds like a tremendously useful project . . . we have heard that they are working on the thing and we suspect that they need encouragement and support . . . there is a Guest Day tea coming up in about a month . . . maybe we'll hear more about the building by then . . . the leader of the talk, which is to be about dried arrangements, will be Per Stubbe . . . assisted by Mrs. Fred Hart . . . some of the hostesses for the coming tea will be Mrs. Mary Weaver (who has just recently come to Pampa, by the way) . . . Mrs. Joe Gates . . . Mrs. A. J. Mitchell . . . Mrs. W. L. Rountree . . . Mrs. Robert Huffhines . . . Mrs. E. A. Baldwin . . . they are all working like the proverbial "dogs" . . . the garden club really is a grand, active organization.

A BIT OF NOSTALGIA was presented the other day on the TV . . . did you see the Shirley Temple movie . . . you know, that kid was really as good as we remember her . . . and the rash of Shirley Temple dolls is beginning again . . . we remember that they were all the rage at the Chicago World's Fair Exposition many years ago . . . and the most fashionable thing for little girls was a Shirley Temple permanent . . . a mass of tight curls all over the head . . . ghastly things, when you look back on them . . . there are to be some more of her movies presented this fall, and we intend to watch them all . . . and the children will enjoy them, too, although they won't know why the older folks feel such a glow of remembrance for the little child star . . . there will never be another to equal her in just the same qualities!

THIS AND THAT AND THE OTHER . . . add to your list of beautiful, tall, blonde Pampans . . . Mary Ann Cohea . . . we saw her taking a coffee break one day in a drug-store . . . and hastened to find out who she was . . . Pampa is certainly graced with pretty women . . . many, many of them we think . . . Betty Jean Boynton has been visiting here from Denver . . . Leone and Loyal Davies have returned from a fabulous trip throughout the South . . . they were accompanied as far as New Orleans by Ruth and Harvey Nensiel . . . they, the Davies, went on to Florida and back . . . they saw Cotton Bowl and Orange Bowl games . . . and generally had one fine time . . . we are torn between going to the Knife and Fork Club dinner and staying home for the Hallowe'en festivities this coming week . . . dog-gone it . . . the kids have to go trick-or-treating . . . and we have to take them . . . just to a few friends' homes . . . so maybe we can accomplish both things . . . the dinner and the trick-or-treating . . . Sandra Flynn is a tall, young blonde . . . a very pretty girl . . . she will turn out to be a credit too, we bet . . . and Judy Miller has one of the sweetest smiles we have seen lately . . . as well as being pretty, the lucky thing . . . Marion Osborne went to Amarillo for a Girl Scout Camping Institute . . . we hope the new fire trucks on 17th street in the East Fraser addition don't have to be used . . . but is it not comforting to have them there? . . . gosh, Saturday night was busy, what with both the Square Dance Jamboree and the Parade of Barbershop Quartets held then . . . Dr. Lang has returned from medical meetings in New York and Atlantic City . . . Icie Harrah must be settled nicely into her new home by now . . . and we noticed that Clifford and Mary L. Jones were moving last week into their pretty white-brick home . . . bet Pat will enjoy being closer to the High School this year . . . much more convenient for her activities . . . the couples club at Holy Souls church is having a Hallowe'en party today . . . with good fun in store for everyone . . . the new resident Priest is from Denver . . . Father John Roche, and he is taking Father Lang's place . . . Father Lang is in turn taking the place of Father John Jankowski who is leaving for New York . . . a new resident of Pampa is Mrs. R. G. McKenny who is very charming, a Bostonian, and has pretty red hair . . . she says this is the farthest south she's ever been and she likes it here very much . . . the McKennys have a little girl . . . and are expecting a baby soon . . . for which they have a most unusual, old-fashioned baby cradle . . . we welcome the McKenny's and thought you'd like to know a little about them!

THAT ABOUT WRAPS it up for the week . . . take a breather from the Hallowe'en activities . . . ready yourself for the race for Thanksgiving . . . and we'll be seeing you next week . . . if we survive the afore-mentioned Hallowe'en.

Love, Peg

TRICKS OR TREATS—Two gaily-dressed gypsies and a sweet little Miss Bo Peep may come knocking at your door some evening this week asking for a treat or they will trick you. Their Tricks will be for fun though for behind those masks are, left to right, Miss Janie Leverich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Leverich, 1824 Christine; Miss Diana St. Clair, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Byron St. Clair, 1723 Chestnut, and Miss Sammie Monroe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Monroe, 1806 Chestnut.

A HONEY OF A BUNNY—"Carrots for two, please," asks little Miss Debbie Carter, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Carter, 1030 Fisher. Debbie and her friend on the left, have some Hallowe'en plans that include going "Tricking or Treating" with her older brothers, Johnnie and Ronnie, around to the homes of friends in her neighborhood.

Hallowe'en

Hark! Did you hear that sound in the grass?
Mayhops, a witch or a ghost did pass.
Was that the owl's lone cry?
Is that the wind among the trees?
What voice is whispering in the breeze?
Are spirits really nigh?
Hark! Did you hear that sound in the grass?
Mayhops, some mischief-makers pass.
There's laughter in their cry
This is the night for girls and boys,
For games and pranks and stunts and noise,
With lanterns gleaming high.

MYSTERY WOMAN??? — Hallowe'en may be for the children, but the young-at-heart can enjoy it, too, as this glamorously gowned (?) gal proves. She was snapped at a costume party this week, with a group of her friends, having as much fun as a barrel full of monkeys. In real life, and out of the fashionable attire (?) pictured here, she is an attractive matron about town. Do you know her?

"THEY SAY WE ARE TOO YOUNG"—Perhaps, Louie, 2½, and Bambi, six months, son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Turnbo, 1004 S. Banks, are a bit too young to go "Trick or Treating," but they are just the right age to be intrigued by the Jack O'lantern, which their parents have prepared for them. Bambi was especially delighted with the pumpkin and sat up straight just one split second before the picture was snapped. Louie was more interested in the camera and wanted to see his picture immediately. Well, here it is, Louie.

MR. AND MRS. LOUIS E. ORTHMAN JR.

The recent wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Edward Orthman Jr. is being announced today. Mrs. Orthman is the former Miss Mary Louise Helbert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Helbert, Skellytown. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Orthman Sr., 945 E. Denver. The vows were exchanged on Sept. 29 at three o'clock in the Barrett Baptist Mission Church with Brother Jerry Spears officiating. Mrs. Pauline Payton served as matron of honor. Jerry Criner was best man for the bridegroom. The couple is now at home to friends at 621 1/2 N. Carr. (Smith Studio Photo)

Venado Blanco Club's 20th Anniversary Celebrated At Sunday Afternoon Tea

(Special to The News)
WHITE DEER — In observance of its twentieth birthday, the Venado Blanco Club entertained with a tea last Sunday afternoon in the homemaking department of the White Deer High School.
Mrs. Florette Burns presided at the guest book. Mrs. R. J. Sailor Jr., president, Mrs. B. R. Weeks, first president of the club, and Miss Claudia Everly, a charter member, greeted the guests.
Mrs. Horace Williams served the birthday cake decorated in the club colors of white and gold. Mrs. Davidson Grayson presided at the coffee and spiced tea service.
An arrangement of white Chrysanthemums in a silver epergne with white candles formed the centerpiece for the serving table, which was laid with a white linen cut-work cloth.
Illness prevented a large number of former members from attending, but among those who were present were Mrs. Milton Bryan, a charter member and her mother, Mrs. T. R. Baker, Berger; Mrs. Ray Vineyard, Dumas; Mmes. Mitchel Powers, Winfield Powers, Richard Barnes, Geraldine Rampey and Mrs. Weeks of White Deer.
Addresses of only about 75 of the 116 former members of the club were available. Invitations were sent to these and replies were received from 15 members, including Miss Marguerite Clayton, chief of reference in the White Plains Public Library, White Plains, N.Y.; Mrs. Philip Patterson (Lee Christine Cousins) Cedar Grove, N.J.; Mrs. Charles Meissner (Bobby Roberts) and Mrs. Sam Zeff (Mary Dee Mer-shon) of Modesto, Calif.; Mrs. J. B. Gobbs (Virginia Martin) Petaluma, Calif.; Mrs. Nora Morris, West Plains, Mo.; Mrs. Alvin Smith, Hereford; Mrs. C. B. Chunn, Amarillo; Mrs. Chester Strickland, Denton; Mrs. Elizabeth Scout Sittel, Grand Prairie; Miss Gladys Holley, Plainview; Mrs. Jim Haught, Oklahoma City; Mrs. Glenn Davis, Alpine; Mrs. Harry Reid (Dorothy Willif), Kermit; and Miss Gertrude Golladay, Fort Worth. Mrs. Fred Mullings and Miss Helen Walker, Lubbock, sent a congratulatory telegram.
The Venado Blanco Club was organized Oct. 21, 1937 with 22 charter members. Only one of them, Miss Claudia Everly, is still active in the club.
The first officers were Mmes. B. R. Weeks, president; Miss Elizabeth Scott, vice president; Miss Gladys Holley, recording secretary and treasurer; Miss Virginia Martin, corresponding secretary; Miss Louise Helgate, parliamentarian; Miss Claudia Everly, reporter; Miss Odessie Howell, critic; Miss LeNette Cook, federation counselor; and Mrs. E. H. Grimes, sponsor.
The club's major projects throughout the years have been a Santa Claus visit to all the small children in White Deer and a citizenship award to a senior in high school. Another major project was the acquisition of the plot and the landscaping of the city park, which for a number of years was maintained by the club. Minor projects included Christmas lighting contests, gifts of books and magazines to the public library, assistance to individual students, adoption of the Paul Scarlet Rose as the city flower; and distribution of the plants and various other community activities.

APPROACHING NUPTIALS

MISS CAROL GERMANY

Nuptial vows will be read November 28 in the First Baptist Church, Skellytown, for Miss Carol Germany and Bill W. Cofer. The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Germany, Skellytown. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Lola Hall, Skellytown and the late Mr. Hall.

Home Atmosphere, Communications Are Topics At Twentieth Century Club

Mrs. Kirk Duncan was hostess to the Twentieth Century Club on Tuesday afternoon.
The meeting was opened with the pledge to the flag led by Mrs. Raymond Harrah. Mrs. Traylor Price gave a meditation on Home and Family, emphasizing that a home is a place of peace with more thought given to affection and to persons rather than upon things.
Mrs. Jack Foster, president, presided, during the business meeting. Following discussion, unanimous vote was given for the recommendation brought before the meeting by the scholarship committee that the $200 scholarship, given by the club, be available for a graduate student of Pampa High School, who meets the requirements, and that the scholarship be used at any Texas State college.
An interesting panel discussion on home atmosphere and communications, "Are They Usurpers?" was given by Mrs. Robert Sanford, as leader, with Mses. Fred Nestage and Mrs. Traylor Price participating.
The discussion centered around the changes in the American home, of the many labor-saving devices and those of communications, both audible and visual. Some interesting statistics were mentioned, namely, that 70 per cent to 90 per cent homes have automatic washers and dryers, radios and televisions, with vacuum cleaners running a low 67 per cent. It was also brought out that the up-keep on all of these push-button devices is more than the original cost, amounting to around $16,000,000 yearly to the repairman.
It was agreed by the panel and those present that regardless of the costly up-keep, the women of today love their push-button appliances and do not wish for the days of their grandmothers and mothers; that these new labor-saving devices enable today's home-

MRS. W. B. LANDRUM

Mrs. Landrum To Be Guest Speaker For District Meet

The Pampa District of the Woman's Society of Christian Service will hold its annual fall meeting on Oct. 28 in the First Methodist Church.

Mrs. W. B. Landrum of Little Rock, Ark., will be the main speaker. Mrs. Landrum has had wide experience in the work of the Woman's Society of Christian Service in her local church and as a district, conference, and jurisdiction officer.

Mrs. Landrum, who was born in Benton, Ark., has an AB degree from Hendrick College, Conway, Ark., and did graduate work in the University of Arkansas. After her marriage, she lived in Texas and served as district president and as secretary and president of the Central Texas Conference. She was a member-at-large of the Woman's Missionary Council of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. After unification, she was elected secretary of Christian Social Relations in the WSCS of the South Central Jurisdiction. She became a member of the Board of Missions in the second quadrennium.

After her husband's death, Mrs. Landrum became a field worker for the Woman's Division of Christian Service in 1947. Since then, she has spoken in every state in the United States, has taught in conference and jurisdiction Schools of Missions, and has pioneered in the establishing of Schools of Missions in Alaska and Hawaii.

Mrs. Landrum does not consider herself an "Arkansas Traveler" or one who lives out of a suitcase. "When I entered the work," she says, "I accepted the challenge of Isaiah, 'Enlarge the place of thy tent. . . Stretch forth the curtains of thine habitations.'"

Magic And Flowers Topic For Culture

Twentieth Century Culture met Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Michael Wilson with Mrs. W. L. Hasse as co-hostess.

Following the business meeting, Mrs. E. L. Henderson gave the devotional.

The study program entitled, "Magic With Arrangements" and "Fun With Flora" was presented by Mmes. J. L. Chase and R. E. Dobbin.

Mrs. Chase displayed examples of her magic for the members. Among them were arrangements of double petunias, roses, cockscomb, castor beans, and chrysanthemums, which were arranged artistically with painted or dried materials, such as, magnolia leaves, okra, wheat, and Bois-Dorc apples.

Mrs. Dobbin chose as her "fun flower," the rose. Showing pictures of fourteen of the most beautiful and popular roses, she discussed the history of the rose and its cultivation.

Television, Radio, Automobile Influence On Education Discussed For Study Club

Mrs. J. R. Spearman was hostess to the members of the Variety Study Club in her home, 1707 Mary Ellen, on Tuesday afternoon.

The meeting was opened by Mrs. W. A. Wagoner, president, and the club collect was given by the members in unison.

Mrs. Otis Nace gave a short talk on the three amendments to be voted upon in the Special Tax Election on Nov. 5. Copies of the amendments were given to each of the members and they were urged to study them and cast their vote.

Mrs. Luther Pierson gave a report on "International Affairs." Mrs. Cecil Dalton gave a report on school news and told about the new junior high school that is under construction in our city.

The program, "Trends In Education" was led by Mrs. S. C. Evans, who spoke on the influence of television, especially on the children. She stated, "Whether or not, television is good for children, it is clear that they are good for television."

"Last year," she said, "advertisers spent over a hundred million dollars on telecasts aimed at the child 'market'." Mrs. Evans said that despite the absence of conclusive findings, however, most parents will agree that television does influence a child's personality, growth, development, ideas and behavior. "The signs are all around us."

In continuing the program, Mrs. H. P. Dosier spoke on the "Influence of Radio," stating that radio is holding its own and the sales of radios reached an all-time high this past month. "Economically, therefore, radio appears to be in a pretty sound position, but the radio we knew a few years back has undergone a complete change. They have moved away from network programming and at a local level have more personal appeal."

Mrs. Dosier stated that as public servants, our radio stations are playing a vital role in the lives of their communities, by assisting in civic projects, sensitive to the needs of the shut-ins and the blind. Mrs. Dosier concluded her talk with "The American people and the radio remain inseparable companions."

Mrs. J. E. Kirchman's subject was "The influence of Transportation on Education," which in Mrs. Kirchman's opinion, she said, is greater than any other agency. "As the car came into every-day use, people began to get away from their homes—and their outlook broadened. Today the little country school house is almost a thing of the past as school buses bring the children from rural areas into towns and cities where they are given the advantage of superior facilities. People travel to neighboring cities for art exhibits, concerts, shows and the like.

Transportation has given us a new conception of education and a new pattern of living today," stated Mrs. Kirchman.

TASTE A PERSONAL MATTER

"What a handsome room, it has cocoa shades, and the deep, strong atmosphere!" How often do we hear this remark made about exceptionally simple rooms. What gives a well-decorated room atmosphere—and how is it achieved? The answer can be found in one simple word: taste.

While the problems of taste are always personal ones, the underlying principle of today's concept of good taste calls for simplicity of design and the harmonious use of colors. Restraint in the use of decorative detail and effects is another factor in developing a tasteful room.

One of today's most popular taste trends is the subtle treatment of just one color with the entire scheme of decoration composed of varying tones of the basic shade. This color treatment is equally satisfactory with warm or cool colors, and offers plenty of scope for light and shade, strong contrast or subtle gradation.

A warm and friendly color scheme of varying shades of brown, for instance, might conceivably employ the pale champagne tones, the intermediate

The one-color scheme of brown used in the room sketched above is largely dependent upon the use of texture for variety. A wood-paneled wall in natural walnut has been relieved by wallpapering a portion of the wall with champagne-color Chinese silk paper (or grass cloth) and using narrow wood striping to simulate a standing screen. Colorful dots of yellow, orange, cocoa and seal brown heighten the effect.

What are the new trends in home decoration? The new concepts of taste and style? Our friendly decorators will be happy to talk over these topics with you, give you timely ideas in room planning whenever you can conveniently come in. Do make it soon.

Preserving attempts of weavers in the family is worth while. Chalk drawing by youngsters, for example, can be preserved and mounted to decorate the home. Dust the drawing lightly and cover it with a thinned coat of shellac. This also will stiffen the drawing paper and make it easier to mount.

Never refuel a tractor or other motor when it is running or extremely hot.

'Life Of Albert Schweitzer' Reviewed By Mrs. Steele For Women's Society

Members and guests of the Woman's Society of Christian Service assembled in the parlor of the First Methodist Church at 9:30 on the morning of Oct. 23 for the regular monthly meeting with members of Circle One as hostesses.

The church parlor was decorated with bouquets of chrysanthemums. Coffee, miniature rolls and doughnuts, fruit were served from a table attractively covered with a lace cloth and centered with an arrangement of rust-colored chrysanthemums.

Following the refreshment period, the group assembled in the chapel for a book review presented by Mrs. Aubrey Steele on "The World of Albert Schweitzer" by Erica Anderson.

"Albert Schweitzer, Doctor of Music; Doctor of Medicine, Doctor of Philosophy and Theology, the only person to earn four doctorates, is one of the most extraordinary men of modern times," Mrs. Steele began.

"Fifty miles below the equator to the village of Lambarene, Dr. Schweitzer came in 1913 to establish a hospital. To this remote hospital, the world has since built a well-beaten path. Albert Schweitzer's fame, however, is not due simply to his having established a hospital in an equatorial jungle. His significance lies in the extent of his exceptional gifts, native endowments, perhaps, but cultivated beyond the excellence of most, and in their dedication to a common end. He is the author of books in all the fields in which he has excelled; books that have been translated into many languages. A study of his accomplishments in any one of these fields would prove both interesting and rewarding."

"His philosophical thought has so profoundly influenced two generations," continued Mrs. Steele. "As a theologian he has practiced what he has preached and his text has been 'Reverence of Life.' In putting it into practice in hot, humid Africa, he has become a symbol throughout the world of man's belief in man, an example of compassion for persons. He says, 'I had read about the physical miseries of the natives in the virgin forests and the more I thought about it, the stranger it seemed to me that we Europeans trouble ourselves so little about the great humanitarian task which offers itself to us.'"

"This world-famed missionary and great humanitarian was 82 on the 14th of January. He is on the job from 8 a.m. to midnight. His chief interest is the operation and enlargement of his hospital at Lambarene. He is finishing the third volume of his philosophy of civilization and a book on the Kingdom of God."

"Mr. McGregor, the US Consul to French Africa, and Chester Bowles visited Dr. Schweitzer on his birthday and described him as they left, '... blackish gray hair, tumbled in confusion, locks of it falling over the forehead. In profile, the nose protruded, the mouth obscured by the thick mustache, the chin firm; the eyes hidden under bushy, black brows; his shirt open at the neck. We were struck by the magnificent simplicity of the man. We understood why Africa was his home. What Africa had contributed to his stature, to his experience of life. For in this savage, primitive Africa nothing artificial long survives. False values shrivel up. The man standing there in his soft shoes, his loose cotton trousers, his open neck shirt and sun helmet is working out his destiny with as much assurance as God vouchsafes any man. . . The last view of the Doctor, a small figure measured against gigantic trees of the forest, slowly climbing his way back to the hospital, moving again to the multitude of his tasks."

In the business session, conducted by Mr. Bob McCoy, president of WSCS, a recommendation was brought from the executive board that cards be made bearing the name of the Society that can be left when homes are visited and no one is at home.

Announcement was made of the district meeting to be held in the First Church, Pampa, on Oct. 28 at 9:30 a.m. with Mrs. W. B. Landrum, Little Rock, Ark., as the speaker.

Announcement was also made of the meeting on Nov. 1 of the United Church Women of Pampa in St. Mark's Methodist Church. A request was made that clothing for boys and girls of all ages and baby blankets be brought to send to the headquarters of the United Church Women for distribution to the needy.

Where It Goes

There are approximately 165 million persons in these United States. Of these, some 40,810,699 persons received checks from federal, state or local governments during fiscal 1957 which ended on the 30th of June.

That is approximately one fourth of the total population. And if it were true that only one such payee existed in each family, it would mean that on an average three out of four families would be receiving help via taxation. The condition is deplorable beyond words to describe. Nor can it be continued indefinitely.

These more than 40 million persons who received government checks, got them for services rendered, for grants-in-aid, social security, veteran benefits, agricultural subsidies and for other and more obscure reasons.

These checks rack up to a frightening total. Payrolls for federal, state and local government employees, including teachers and others in our coercive educational institutions, come to well over $25 billion. Federal employees alone nick the treasury for $11 billion.

So called "benefit" payments under the Old-age and Survivors Insurance Fund is fiscal 1957 totaled $6,514,580,758. Withdrawals by the states from the unemployment trust funds came to $1,510,749,527. Then there is the civil service retirement fund which disbursed $588,073,111.

During the month of July, the first month in the 1958 fiscal period, these same "benefits" exceeded income by $362,170,296. And it might be appropriate to recall that this year payments under Social Security are scheduled to exceed income by more than a billion dollars.

In addition to the more than 40 million persons who received this largesse from our various governments, there are some 5,274,036 others who got loan guarantees from the Veterans' Administration, this constituting a contingent liability to our federal treasury. Then there are some 5 million more in miscellaneous categories who also received loan guarantees from the government or aid in the form of insurance.

While we're listing the losses and the liabilities we might mention the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, which operated last year with a deficit of $20,811,599 plus an additional $6,210,000 which the taxpayers had to put up to pay for the administration of this giant governmental combine.

Still another federal agency which is continuing to operate at its normal deficiency is the Farmers' Home Administration with an actual cumulative debt of $54,100,826 in the fiscal 1956 which is estimated to have expanded to a grand total deficit of $78,120,389 in fiscal 1957.

And one other point worth mention. Many of the checks written by our federal government, were sent to people outside the United States, some of whom reside in communist controlled countries such as Albania, Bulgaria, China, Czechoslovakia, East Germany and Russia. There were 48,528 such foreign residents who got tax money from Uncle Sam last year.

Now if you take a moment to realize that all of this money came out of your pockets, the size and scope of the governments arrayed against American humanity becomes clear.

It might be an auspicious moment to remember this phrase from Abraham Lincoln: "The people of the United States are the rightful masters of both Congress and courts, not to overthrow the Constitution, but to overthrow the men who pervert the Constitution."

The Doctor Says

By EDGAR P. JORDAN, M. D.

Each year a number of prospective mothers, or mothers of young children, inquire about what is called the Rh factor in the blood.

This is an extremely complicated subject to discuss briefly in simple terms, so that unless there are new developments in the field, I am usually required to repeat a good deal of what I have said on this subject.

First, it must be said that the Rh factor is not present in the blood of all people. It is possible to test the blood for the presence or absence of the Rh factor.

However, this is only one aspect of the blood which can be tested by various laboratory procedures. The particular importance for testing for the Rh factor lies in its relationship to pregnancy because it may have something to do with miscarriages or to an infant's disease known as erythroblastosis fetalis.

THE Rh factor is complicated by the fact that it consists of several types. Stated most simply, however, 97 per cent of us have an obscure substance in our blood which classifies us as being Rh positive. The other 3 per cent have Rh negative blood.

Those of us with this type blood can become sensitive to Rh positive blood, with possible dangers not only in pregnancy, but also from blood transfusion.

If a woman has Rh negative blood and becomes pregnant with an Rh positive child because the father is Rh positive, the child may be born with erythroblastosis fetalis. However, this does not always occur.

The first child is usually healthy (and often later ones) unless the mother has previously received blood transfusions with Rh positive blood. This is something becoming more rare because of greater care in this regard.

Furthermore, only about one woman in 25 or 50 with Rh negative blood and an Rh positive husband becomes sensitive and gives birth to a baby with erythroblastosis.

EVEN IF a newborn child should develop erythroblastosis, much can be done by giving blood transfusions after birth. Whereas three-quarters of the infants with erythroblastosis formerly died, now all can be saved with the right kind of transfusions.

The situation may be summarized: If both parents are Rh positive there is little to worry about. If the mother is Rh positive and the father is Rh negative, there is nothing to worry about. If the mother is Rh negative and the father Rh positive, occasional trouble can be anticipated, but this is by no means inevitable.

Finally, it should be clear from this brief discussion that the blood of prospective parents should be tested for the Rh factor. This should be done before, or at least early in, pregnancy.

BETTER JOBS

Why I Think Unions That Strike Are Harmful

Because I believe they reduce production. Cause unemployment. Waste human energy. Create envy and ill will. Increase taxes and finally bring on such a condition of confusion and stagnation that the government prints irredeemable currency and bonds that result in prices going up and up indefinitely, until the medium of exchange becomes worthless or nearly so.

Are the above conclusions rational? Let me explain.

Stop me if I am wrong. The columns are open. There are few subjects that need a better rational discussion than do labor unions that get an increase in money wages by strikes or the threats of same.

Premise (1). Most men would perish if they had to supply all their wants for themselves without specializing and exchanging goods and services. A free and unhampered division and exchange of the fruits of labor is essential for an ever-increasing production. Any belief that interferes with a free market reduces production and therefore the standard of living.

It seems reasonable to believe that unions reduce production by limiting apprentices, by jurisdictional disputes, by seniority — keeping the less efficient man on the job, by making unnecessary work, by strikes, by having unproductive organizers, by wasting about $300,000,000 yearly of dues, and by making wages too high as to cause unemployment, by refusing to adjust wages quickly so as to result in full employment.

Premise (2). Both parties must believe they are benefited in order to have an exchange of goods — employer-employee relation. When one party believes he is not benefited, there ceases to be an exchange. Then there is unemployment. If it is not true that wages can be so high as to cause unemployment, then why not multiply wages a hundred fold if the height of wages has nothing to do with employment — if only one of the parties in an employer-employee relation needs to be benefited?

Premise (3). Labor unions waste human energy by unemployment, by keeping those from below from learning to do the most difficult job they are capable of doing, by featherbedding, by creating monopolies, by wasting dues, by retarding the accumulation of productive tools, etc.

They create envy and ill will by striking because an employer refuses to pay more than he believes others, including his customers, are willing and able to do the same job for. It is hard to conceive how an employee who is willing to quit a job with the idea of injuring the person who has been benefiting him more than any other employer would, has good will in his heart toward his employer and his customers. Or, he has been persuaded to believe that he owns the job and his employer is his property to injure if the employer will not concede to his demands.

Labor unions, by causing unemployment by their demands, result in taxes being increased to take care of the destitute unemployed. Some 8 to 12 million unemployed in the 20's and 30's so increased the need for money for the government that it could not borrow enough or tax enough to take care of them — so the government went off the gold standard and started printing irredeemable paper money that had no value in itself. This was just another way of taxing those who had their savings in the form of currency. This has resulted in prices going up and up and the end is not yet.

It seems reasonable to believe that as long as people believe that wages can increase without increased production, that prices will continue to rise, until they wipe out the savings of those who have credits.

These are the reasons I believe labor unions that strike are harmful to mankind, even including those who temporarily get a material benefit.

This is true because anything that retards production and thus the accumulation of tools is harmful to every one.

The columns are open to refute any of the above conclusions. Let us have light on how to increase real wages so as to benefit every human soul.

GOOD WORK, SENATOR, BUT—

(N.Y. Daily News)
Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) continues to pursue James R. Hoffa — demands all records regarding delegate selection at the teamsters' convention that elected Hoffa union president, says the Senate racket committee already has uncovered "some delicate" situations, which are just "blatant scandalous," and so on.

That's fine, we think. We are all for McClellan & Co. keeping after this pal of crooks and racketeers in hope of somehow upsetting the high-rolling Hoffa apple cart.

But Hoffa isn't the only villain in the Big Labor story. There is also Walter P. Reuther — personally honest, so far as we know, but a man whose Socialist-slanted political ambitions have been obvious for years. Reuther is type

UN May Assume Some US Mideast Responsibilities

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — A partial transfer of America's self-assumed Middle East responsibilities to the United Nations offers the best practical solution for preventing that area's current difficulties from provoking World War III. Indeed, many diplomats at Washington believe that it would provide a permanent deterrent.

It has been agreed in Eisenhower-Macmillan conversations that Britain's immediate role in the Levant must be minor, if not invisible, in view of her participation in last year's attack on Egypt. Despite our protest against that invasion, Russian propaganda has tried to tar us with the same imperialistic brush.

Our pro-Israel policy under the Roosevelt-Truman regime, which Eisenhower has tried to moderate in the face of fierce Zionist criticism, has reacted against us among the Arabs. Moreover, the loss of prestige has been aggravated by the Soviet's Sputnik, intercontinental missile and other scientific gains.

United Nations intervention, however, might solve both current and long-range problems, in well-informed diplomatic opinion. An investigating commission, composed of small, neutral nations, could expose the fallacy of Russo-Syrian charges that the United States is egging Turkey into an attack on Syria.

U.N. BORDER FORCE — The U.N. could also guarantee the security of the borders and lands of every Middle East nation — Arabs, Israelis and Turks. As it has done along the Israeli frontier, it could organize another force to be stationed between Turkey and Syria.

It could be made sufficiently mobile, in assignment and equipment, to thrust itself between any two Middle East belligerents whenever or wherever they threaten to become embroiled in a local struggle.

Indeed, the formation of another U.N. expeditionary unit for peaceful purposes might lead to establishment of a permanent, international constabulary. Russia blocked such a project when it was discussed after World War II at Berlin. But the successful operation of another body of this kind might force its acceptance by the Communists.

As a matter of fact, in view of neutral nations' contribution to the Korean armistice and the exchange of prisoners, diplomats hold out the hope that a similar — or third — experiment might make it a permanent and far-reaching innovation in world disputes and affairs. Alas, such a stabilizing influence, they recommend an embargo on shipment of arms to every nation in this sector.

COULD REVEAL INTENTIONS — There is another important consideration here. Acceptance or rejection of such an offer by Moscow and Damascus would furnish dangerous, by far, we believe, than a Beck's or a Hoffa's misuse of union money, had that been the case. What we'd like to inquire is: When does Sen. McClellan take off after his fellow Democrat, Reuther, with the same zeal and expertise that he has shown in his war on Beck and Hoffa?

BETTY KNOWLES HUNT

THE RE-BORN "BRAVES"

What with Little Rock, Sputnik, and the Asian Flu sobering our minds and hearts last week, it was a welcome and exciting diversion to follow the harmless battle between the New York Yankees and the Milwaukee Braves.

As a transplanted Bostonian here in the Midwest, it has been difficult to understand the sudden hero-status of the once lowly Boston Braves. Driving through Wisconsin on the way to our summer cottage, it has always been a shock to see the blown-up pictures of Braves team-members around gas stations, in store windows, on billboards, and in fact — just about everywhere. These nice ugly ducklings became beautiful and adored swans practically overnight just by moving to Milwaukee!

One could speculate on the reasons for such a rapid metamorphosis from the National League cellar to the new World Champions. There may be important technical, financial or accidental causes involved, but it seems more probable that the major factor was simply that intangible thing called "morale". Surely the display of others' loyalty and love is capable of inspiring tremendous personal effort. Back in Boston, the Braves were always the overlooked kid-brothers of the Red Sox, but in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, they were as wonderfully welcome as a first adopted child. Nourished by a wild outpouring of Wisconsin devotion and dreams, how could the Braves possibly do less than their super-best? And their super-best has now put them at the top of the baseball ladder.

This happy little fairy tale of the sports world may well be just the first in a series, what with the New York Giants now moving to San Francisco and the Brooklyn Dodgers to Los Angeles. Brother! What a California rivalry that could spawn in the future!

Perhaps this is the beginning

Mac Is Proud Owner Of A Washable Suit

By HENRY MCEMLEN

THESE MIRACLE FABRICS ARE GREAT!

Some of my friends are dry cleaners, and I hate to rob them of my patronage, but they have just about been paid their last penny by me.

I am now the proud owner of a suit that can be washed at home by anyone with a cake of soap, running water and a few minutes it dries like a pup in the sun, and needs no ironing.

It's a miracle suit — pure and simple, and must rank right along with the electric light, the cotton gin, and the clip-on bow tie as one of the great inventions of all time.

I thought the salesman was pulling my leg when he urged me to buy it and said I could take a shower in the suit if I so desired. In fact, he said that was the way many of his customers washed the suit — they just put it on, kicked off their shoes, and hopped under the shower.

The man was dead right. I tried of the suit for a two-team city, no matter how big it is. Aside from the money and facilities needed, perhaps no city has enough baseball stadiums, and loyalty to support two teams, whereas there are numbers of cities which could easily whip up enough to support one.

In this connection, the thought comes to mind that of all the states in this union, the one that could probably produce the loudest hurras and huzzahs for a home team — is the state of Texas! Something tells me that if I were an owner of the Chicago Cubs, I would already be sounding out the eager-beaver moguls of Houston, Dallas or Austin on the possibility of adoption. What Milwaukee morale did for the Braves, surely Dallas or Houston hooptia could do for the Cubs! In fact, you could undoubtedly bet on it.

Strangely enough, you could almost feel sorry for the Yankees this year — at least, not here in the Midwest where a Yankee fan was harder to find than a Hoffa supporter. What irony it is to find a majority of people hoping you will fall flat on your face just because you have been the best in the business for so long, but that's how it was! Everybody was rooting for the underdogs, and the only logical compensation is that next year the Braves will be starting out from the top, a position it is much easier to topple from than climb toward.

Once sudded up, just follow the ordinary bathing routine. To look at the suit drying you'd swear six ironings wouldn't get it back into shape. But, no, it seems to press itself as it drips and dries, and really doesn't look bad at all.

Oh, there are a few wrinkles in the collar, and the lapels curl up at the edges as if they were made of lettuce, but aside from these minor flaws, there can be no complaint.

Give a man two of these suits and a garden hose and he could travel around the world with practically nothing else.

Will National Debt Run Into Trillions?

By Thurman Sensing

The total debt of the people of the United States is now almost $800 billion. We seem to be rapidly approaching the era when trillions will become as familiar as billions have become during this generation. This is assuming that debt keeps growing at the rate we have experienced over the past ten years.

Is the total debt getting too big, is it getting out of hand, is it more than the people can safely carry? That is the question.

The national debt is limited by law — but, of course, the law could be changed. State and local debt is, in some cases, limited by law — but not to any appreciable extent. There is no law limiting private and personal debt — except good sense and the "law" of the creditor.

It is astounding to realize that our total debt has jumped from $446 billion at the end of 1946 to $783 billion at the end of 1956. But this is not the amazing part of the end of 1946 was $259 billion and has only increased 7 per cent to $276 billion at the end of 1956, whereas the balance of our total debt has increased from $187 billion at the end of 1946 to $506 billion at the end of 1956, an increase of 170 per cent.

This balance of the total debt is divided into three groups — debt of individuals, debt of corporations and debt of state and local governments. The largest percentage increase in these groups during this period has been in the debt of individuals — up 245 per cent — from $80 billion to $207 billion. The next largest percentage of increase has been in the debt of state and local governments — up to 212 per cent — from $16 billion to $34 billion. Debt of corporations increased from $110 billion to $249 billion — up 126 per cent.

All these debts are heavy to bear and burdensome on the people — for, after all, they are debts of the people.

Just to carry the national debt is heavy enough, without paying anything on the principal, whereas we all know it is just good business to make substantial payments on the principal each year.

Corporations, we may assume, protect themselves in a businesslike manner, though even here there could be trouble in case of a recession or depression.

It is in the case of individuals that concern with the growing debt really lies. Governments, too, state and national, can increase taxes if necessary to take care of their debts. Of course, such a solution is of no consolation to the people; it just leaves them with that much less to take care of their personal debts — but it is nevertheless true. Corporations, generally speaking, have ample collateral to make good their debts, and also, generally speaking, will continue to operate and work themselves out of their troubles, if any.

But with individuals, the situation is different. When the debt of the average individual increases three and one-half times in the space of ten years, it is quite clear that there is something going on in the country that should give us great concern. Either many individuals are getting out in the pool of debt beyond their depth or the problem of inflation is really much worse than we have realized. In either case, we should give this whole matter of individual debt serious thought.

If there are a great many individuals beyond their depth in debt in this country and there should be any appreciable recession and decrease in employment — and who is to think such a situation will not arise again, since that has been our experience throughout all history — then the inability of these individuals to take care of their debts will make the recession just that much worse. If the whole problem is one of inflation, then that is a matter to give everybody serious concern.

It is a matter for the individual to keep his own finances in order. It is a matter for the government to stop inflation.

FLORENCE, Italy (UP)

Claudette Colbert is touring this north Italian city in an unaccompanied role as a prospective large scale buyer of jewelry, clothes and fashion accessories. Miss Colbert told newsmen she is considering the idea of opening a shop in Hollywood.

While France continued its painful search for its 24th post-war premier, Konrad Adenauer was elector to a third four-year term as chancellor of West Germany. Since Adenauer was first elected eight years ago, France has had 14 premiers.

Thus it emphasized ironically the contrast between prosperous, unified West Germany, beaten into unconditional surrender in World War II, and France, one of the victors, which has struggled through years of political instability and of colonial wars which have drained its blood and money.

A few hours later Harold Macmillan, her prime minister, arrived in Washington for a three-day conference with President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

There was every reason to believe that the Washington conference would result in closer relations between the two allies than they had enjoyed for years.

Soviet Russia tirelessly developed the blatant and dangerous propaganda campaign in which it seeks to increase tension between Turkey and Syria and threatens to strengthen relations.

In its latest moves, Moscow made it known that it had appointed Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky, its No. 2 soldier, as commander of the military district facing Turkey and that its troops had conducted maneuvers — with nuclear weapons — in the frontier area.

In the United Nations, Russia and Syria together fanned tension further by attacking Turkey and the United States in a General Assembly debate.

Russia's little Sputnik satellite, still spinning round the world, stirred the United States to sharply accented concentration on its development of nuclear missiles.

The Air Force shot a rocket at least 1,000 miles into the air — possibly higher — in a test over the Eniwetok Atoll in the Pacific. The Army successfully tested its 1,500-mile Jupiter intermediate range ballistic missile. The Navy with equal success tested its Vanguard rocket, which it is developing as an earth satellite launcher. Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy announced that some Navy planes in the Atlantic Fleet are now equipped with atomic depth charges for use against submarines.
