New Segregation Bills In Florida

By LEON BURNETT
United Press Staff Correspondent
New Bills designed to keep white children out of integrated classrooms go to the Florida Senate for consideration today.
The House of Representatives chose the bills from a dozen segregation proposals offered during Tuesday's session. The bills would automatically close any school to which troops might be sent during a racial crisis and allow white parents to remove their children from integrated schools with little or no penalty.
With those bills cleared, the House today turned its attention again to a "last resort" segregation bill, which it has turned down on two previous occasions.
The first of the new House-passed bills would allow school boards to transfer students until troops were removed and the school reopened.

Governor Velasco
The latest reason bill, which in one form cleared the Legislature earlier this year to receive Gov. LeRoy Collins' veto, would close the public schools and lease facilities to private interests rather than allow integrated classes.
The States Rights Council of Georgia held a big rally Tuesday night in Atlanta and Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.) told a cheering crowd of 1,600 that Vice President Richard M. Nixon and U.S. Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell Jr. are the "two principal evil geniuses in the United States today."
The delegates paid $25 a plate to attend, and officials reported that since the Little Rock crisis membership has boomed. The council is a counterpart of the White Citizens Councils operating in other Deep South states.
Sen. Herman Talmadge (D-Ga.), another speaker at the rally, accused both major political parties of "fomenting racial strife in a determination to win the Negro vote for the next election."
Russell termed Nixon the "most

CoC Officers Are Installed At Dinner

The installation dinner for new officers and directors of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce was held last night at the Pampa Country Club.
New officers installed were: E. L. Henderson, president; Calvin Whitley, vice president; and Warren Haase, finance chairman.
New directors include: H. O. Darby, C. R. Hoover, Hershel Wilks, Ray Duncan, Jake Osborn, Crawford Atkinson, Don Cain and John Gikas.
The installing officer was Jack Lacy, executive vice president and general manager of the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce.
Approximately 54 people attended the dinner—including the hold-over directors, officers and the new directors and officers, along with their wives.
Entertainment for the evening was provided by the "Maxine Milliron Trio" which consisted of Maxine Myatt, Nancy Stephenson, and Barbara Lunford, with Maxine Milliron accompanying the group.
Ed Myatt, 1956 president, presided over the meeting in absence of Paul Crouch, outgoing president, who is now in Florida attending the Fire Power Demonstration with Amarillo Air Force Base Gen. Jerry Lee's group of selected personnel from Guam.

Tanker Runs Aground; Hull Ruptures

HONOLULU (UP)—The 14th Naval District reported today that the Navy-chartered tanker Mission San Miguel ran aground at top speed on Laysan Reef, 775 miles northwest of Hawaii, and was being pounded by heavy seas.
The 22,000-ton vessel, carrying a crew of 45 civilians, requested immediate assistance. It was en route to Seattle, Wash., from Guam.
The captain of the tanker reported that the hull was ruptured when the vessel hit the reef at top speed of 15 knots. He said the ship was being pounded and driven harder aground by the strong surf.
He said the ship was resting in 24 feet of water, with its bow in the air and water pouring into its stern tanks.
The Navy reported it "temporarily" lost communications with the Mission San Miguel at 11:45 p.m. but, said a Navy amphibious plane from Midway was down over the ship with flare life rafts and rescue equipment within the hour.

Bond Set On Assault Charge

A plea of not guilty to a charge of aggravated assault was entered in County Court yesterday afternoon by Russell Stranfield, 321 S. Barnes.
The alleged assault took place on Oct. 8, according to the charge filed against Stranfield.
Following the entering of the not guilty plea, the court set a bond of $1000 for Stranfield.

Warren Haase Is Kiwanis District Lt. Governor

The Texas-Oklahoma Kiwanis District Convention was held in Tulsa, Okla., Oct. 6-8.
Warren Haase, Pampa, was elected Lt. governor of District 6. Lee Hart and Bob Hudson and their wives also attended the convention as delegates. The meeting was launched by H. Park Arnold of Glendale, Calif., who is the present president. Merle Tucker of Gallup, N.M., was in charge of the meeting sessions on Monday and elections were held Tuesday.
Newly-elected officers in District 6 are: governor, Charles B. McFarland and Warren Haase, Lt. governor.

Recording To Be Heard In Solon's Trial

AUSTIN (UP)—District Judge Mace Thurman today overruled defense objections and ordered that a jury could hear a tape recording alleging to show former Rep. James C. Cox agreed to accept a bribe.
Defense attorney John Cofer sparked a legal hassle when he demanded copies of any written statements that Dr. Howard Harmon, San Antonio naturopath and a key prosecution witness, may have made to the district attorney.
District Attorney Les Procter said he had no such statements and heatedly added that he wouldn't turn them over to the defense if he did have them.
Cofer snapped back that Procter was apparently not acquainted with rulings of the Supreme Court of the United States.
"We're not in the Supreme Court. We're in the state of Texas," Procter replied.
Cofer then demanded a transcript of any testimony Harmon might have made before the Travis county grand jury which indicted Cox. The court overruled this request.
Harmon was called to the witness chair as Procter went through the preliminaries of identifying for the legal record the 40-minute tape recording which was played Tuesday in the absence of the jury.

TRYING TO TRACK SATELLITE

Scientists at Stanford Research Institute in Menlo Park, Calif., are attempting to track the Soviet satellite with one of the world's most powerful radar sets, left. At right, technician Joe Wheeler adjusts controls of the 61-foot parabolic antenna. It has a field of only about three degrees, thus making a fairly accurate fix necessary before it can train on the artificial moon and thus accord US scientists their first precise knowledge about the object. Disclose Satellite Details

Reds Campaigning For 'Peaceful Co-Existence'

By DANIEL F. GILMORE
United Press Staff Correspondent
LONDON (UP)—The Soviet Union opened a double-barreled diplomatic offensive today for "peaceful co-existence" and general disarmament and said its successful satellite was the "best propagandist" for a course.
Radio signals from the artificial satellite perked up again today and British scientists who Tuesday night predicted its fall "within a matter of hours" reversed themselves and said it was still going strong.
Moscow also disclosed new details about the satellite and its launching. It said three objects actually were orbiting the earth—the aluminum-shielded satellite, the rocket which sent it into space, and the protective cone which shielded the satellite.
How It Was Done
The official Communist organ Pravda disclosed that the satellite was carried aloft by a three-stage rocket which started off vertically and then leveled off on a course parallel with the surface of the earth. The third stage of the rocket reached outer space.
It said the satellite eventually would fall into the earth's atmosphere and die the death of a meteor. But "even if it fell now the Soviet has achieved a momentous propaganda victory and one that has led the United States to reexamine its entire disarmament policy and its rocket missile building program."
Washington dispatches said President Eisenhower was deeply concerned with the Soviet achievement despite an outward air of calm, and was holding almost constant conferences with his military and scientific advisers.
The State Department already has reversed itself on the question of disarmament. Tuesday night it offered to discuss control of outer space and missiles with Russia, without waiting for an overall disarmament agreement. A few hours earlier it said no such proposal.
Fall From Pravda
Pravda called for peaceful co-existence in all fields and said the satellite which is revolving round our planet where both socialist and capitalist countries are situated.
There were reassuring words from some American scientists on the U. S. rocket research program. But some of the military scientists attending the World Astronautical Congress in Barcelona, Spain, let it be known they would rush home to press for an all-out effort to beat Russia to manned space flight.
The American scientists said nothing could prevent the Russians from being the first to land an object on the moon and added: "We must leapfrog the Russians beyond the moon to manned space flight. The war for the (See REDS, Page 3)

Senate Investigators Seek Missile Data

By JOHN A. GOLDSMITH
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—Senate investigators spurred by Russia's Sputnik, began asking the Pentagon for missile data today in what could become the most important investigation of the coming session of Congress.
Informed sources said Defense Department agencies were getting requests from the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee for the latest information on U. S. missile programs. The requests carried a priority label, they said.
The same government sources said the Central Intelligence Agency will be asked for its best appraisal of the Soviet's missile program which zoomed Russia's earth-circling satellite into its orbit last weekend.
"Complete" Inquires Asked
The subcommittee's quiet call for information came as one of its members said the full Senate Armed Services Committee should hold "complete" hearings on the question. Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) recalled that the full committee conducted the widely publicized investigation of former President Truman's dismissal of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.
Symington, a long-time critic of the administration's handling of missile programs, wired his views to Chairman Richard B. Russell. Preparedness Subcommittee staff committee. Russell disclosed Monday the staff of the Preparedness Subcommittee was launching a study.
Russell, advising Symington the Preparedness Subcommittee staff would assemble "all available facts," said the study should help determine "the wisest course to pursue."
Study Determines Path
Russell's statement made it clear the future course of the committee's missile investigation will depend on the staff study. Symington's statement—plus the concern voiced by other committee members—made it equally clear only a full-scale investigation will satisfy some congressional leaders.

Faubus Is Under Fire

By BRUCE MILLER
United Press Staff Correspondent
LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UP)—Gov. Orval E. Faubus, under fire to put up or shut up, faced close questioning today on his charge that troops enforcing integration at Central High School have invaded the privacy of girls' dressing rooms.
Faubus scheduled a news conference today, but gave no hint of what he would discuss in his first full-scale meeting with the press since making his charge.
However, reporters were certain to ask for clarification of a letter in which he said he had received complaints that paratroopers had accompanied Negro girls students into the dressing rooms.
The Faubus letter, to the general commanding the troops at Little Rock, was denounced by the White House as untrue and vulgar. School and Army officials also denied the Faubus charges.
Army Secretary Wilber M. Brucker demanded Tuesday that the governor back up his statement with proof.
"If he has any evidence to support his allegations," Brucker said in Washington, "he should come forward and tell the public immediately all of the details upon which he leveled such serious and defamatory charges. He cannot be allowed to hide behind generalities."
Faubus told a reporter Tuesday that he had received at least a dozen telephone calls supporting his charges. He said, however, he did not intend to make public the names of any girl students who reported the incidents.
"If it comes from a hardware store, we have it, Lewis Hardware."

Neil McElroy Becomes 6th Defense Secretary For US

By CHARLES COORDRY
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—Neil Hosiier McElroy, soap manufacturer and advertising expert, becomes the nation's sixth secretary of defense today.
He takes over the Pentagon helm as the armed forces head into a challenging new race for missile and space control.
The 52-year-old Cincinnati, Ohio, executive takes the oath in a White House ceremony. He succeeds Charles E. Wilson who presided over the military establishment for almost five years in a time of revolutionary ferment in both methods and machines of war.
Despite all he could do to smooth the way, Wilson had to leave a raft of problems for McElroy, who gave up his $285,000 a year post as president of Procter & Gamble to head the defense organization.
Some of his immediate problems will be:

No Security Threat By Red Satellite-Ike

By MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press White House Writer
WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower announced today that the United States will start firing earth satellites into outer space in December.
Eisenhower told his news conference that in his opinion, based on long conferences with American scientists, the Russian satellite now circling the earth poses no threat to American security.
The President said, however, that the rocket which propelled the Russian satellite more than 500 miles above the earth's surface means that Soviet scientists have in their possession a very horrible thrust.

Influenza Is Mounting In Texas

By UNITED PRESS
Influenza and "influenza-like illnesses" are mounting rapidly in Texas, according to state Health Department figures.
A total of 37,753 cases were reported for the week ending last Saturday, the highest to date. Only 74 counties reported, but it brought the number of cases during the past month to 82,319.
Nine counties reported 1,000 or more cases last week. They were Bexar, 700; El Paso, 1,281; Harris, 5,000; Jefferson, 2,843; McLennan, 7,000; Nueces, 1,500; Shelby, 1,000; Tarrant, 5,000 and Travis, 2,450.
Absenteeism rose in Dallas schools, but flu seemed to be tapering off among adults there. Absence percentages up to 26.9 were reported in the Dallas school system.
All schools in Italy remained closed today and will be closed until at least Friday. One football game, between Odessa Negro high school and Dallas Lincoln, was called off due to flu when a number of Odessa players became ill.

Fire Truck Undergoing Tests

Pampa's newest fire truck was in Amarillo today undergoing pressure tests to determine if the pump would meet state specifications.
Ernest Winborne, fire chief, left this morning with the new truck. He reported that he expected to return as soon as the tests are completed.
Before Pampa can receive credit for the new truck on fire insurance rates the test must be completed, the chief said. Amarillo is the closest place that the test can be made.
Before leaving this morning, Winborne said, "We hope to move into the north fire station, located at 17th and Aspen, by Oct. 19 or 20."
The new station is one of 110 sub-stations under construction. Until the new stations are completed the Central Fire Station is crowded with men and equipment.
With the arrival of the new pumper, one of the old trucks had to be placed in storage at the city warehouse pending the transfer of pumps to the new stations.
No date has been set for moving into the other station, on S. Barnes, Winborne said.

Brisk Fall Weather Returns To Texas

By UNITED PRESS
Brisk fall weather returned to much of Texas today, but the path of the cool front that brought it was marked by one death, several injuries and some property damage because of lightning, hail, wind and rain.
An unidentified Mexican bracer was killed by lightning near Lamesa on the lower South Plains during a brief thunderstorm and several other bracers were injured, none seriously, by hailstones during a turbulent storm near

Master Spy Sentenced To 7 Years

NEW YORK (UP)—Master spy Jack Soble, guilty of a crime that could have meant the electric chair, today faced a relatively light term of seven years for conspiracy.
Soble, 55, evaded the more serious charge of espionage by pleading guilty to conspiracy. He told Federal Judge Richard H. Levett last week he would never the 15 years he spent as U.S. agent to forgive himself for hoops of a Soviet espionage ring.
Levett, taking into account Soble's remorse and the aid he has given in uncovering other spy activity, Tuesday imposed the comparatively light sentence.
At the same time, Levett cut the 5 1/2-year terms imposed earlier on Soble's aides, his wife, Myra, and Jacob Albam.

ATOP THE WAVES—Luxury passenger ships a few years hence may be equipped with hydrofoils enabling them literally to fly through the water at speeds up to 100 m.p.h. according to an article by artist-author Frank Tinsley in Mechanix Illustrated Magazine. Hydrofoils are wing-like devices attached to legs beneath a ship. When under way they lift the hull out of the water and increase speed and stability. Over 50 years old in principle, hydrofoils only recently have been tried on large craft, by the U.S. Navy and others. Tinsley, in his drawing above, predicts their use on large transatlantic liners that would make the trip to Europe in two days. The luxury liner would have rounded glass deck enclosures, a submarine-type conning tower and stern fins with bullet-like dock bridges.

However, Langmuir added, "We'll be through with the Asian flu by Christmas."

Reports from around the nation indicated flu outbreaks were gaining in strength with the onset of chilly weather.

The disease killed two persons in epidemic-stricken Milwaukee, doubled in intensity in the other World Series city of New York and cropped up in numerous other areas around the country.

Health officials in Chicago planned a post-mortem examination of a woman who died shortly after she received an Asian flu vaccination.

SATELLITE (Continued From Page One) launched an orbiting American satellite before now by merging scientific effort with military programs. But, he added, this would have been detrimental to scientific goals and military progress.

"Our satellite program has never been conducted as a race with other nations," he said. "Rather, it has been carefully scheduled as part of the scientific work of the International Geophysical Year."

Despite outward signs of virtual indifference, the United Press learned Eisenhower has been in almost continual contact with his highest military and scientific advisers since the Russians launched their earth satellite Friday.

The Soviet achievement already has touched off a massive reappraisal of U.S. defense policies.

The President received several scientists at the White House Tuesday, some of them by a side door. They included Dr. John Paul Hagan, chief of the Navy's Vanguard project, guiding the U. S. satellite program.

It was learned the President continued in contact with top advisers until the time of his news conference.

Among the things Eisenhower was briefed on, it was believed, was the date for the launching of a small test satellite sometime in the near future.

New Rocket Ready The Air Force also is ready to shoot a rocket 1,000 to 4,000 miles out into a space from a balloon suspended platform 20 miles over the Pacific. The firing is awaiting only favorable weather for a chance to seize some of the initiative away from the Soviet satellite.

One clear indication the satellite has been under intense study for days by the White House came late Tuesday with a sudden shift in the U.S. position on making controlled missiles and outer space troj missiles and outer space vehicles.

After meeting with Eisenhower, Secretary of State Dulles said this country might work out with Allied approval a separate agreement apart from an overall first-step disarmament agreement.

Knighthood Long Gone But Coat Of Arms Business Good

By GAY PAULEY
United Press Women's Editor
NEW YORK (UP)—It's been a long time since knighthood was in flower, but the coat of arms business still thrives.

"I'll have another boom when Queen Elizabeth gets here," said Mrs. Mary E. R. Mulford, a bright-eyed little woman who for 40 years has studied and painted heraldic insignia. "The British are green for trappings... there was a lot of new interest in coats of arms during the coronation."

Coats of arms also come from Ireland, Scotland, and Wales, and from continental countries including France, Italy, Germany, Spain and Switzerland.

Started at Home Mrs. Mulford became interested in heraldry from the two coats of arms which hung in her own home when she was a girl in Philadelphia.

One represented her mother's side of the family, from Switzerland; the other, her father's branch and great-grandparent who was minister to Germany's Frederick, the Great.

"I started making copies for other members of the family, someone wanted money in front of my nose and offered to pay me for tracing their lineage, and I was in business," she said. She now works with James A. Watson, an antique dealer and heraldry expert also. He has some 6,000 prints of coats of arms and a vast library on the subject.

Why do people want to brag about their ancestors? "It isn't bragging," she said proudly. "It is part of their heritage."

FLIP-FLOP—Brazilian architect Oscar Niemeyer has done just that with a pyramid design in this model of the new Caracas, Venezuela, art museum. The windowless structure shaped like an inverted pyramid, will be lighted by the sun streaming through louvers in the roof. The building, which is to be completed next year, will give visitors "an emotional lift," Niemeyer says. He calls most art museums "modern dungeons."

More encouraging words came from Dr. Paul E. Klopfetz, associate director of research of the National Science Foundation. He said in Washington the United States is leading or abreast of other nations in many fields of basic research, including nuclear physics.

However, the clamor continued in Washington for an investigation to see if Russia's satellite warranted a full-scale congressional review of the U. S. missile program.

Leading critic of the administration's program was Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo) who said the issue was of such grave importance there should be a full fledged investigation.

He was backed by Sen. Alexander Wiley (R-Wis.) who said in Kansas City, Mo., that someone in the Pentagon "goofed" in connection with satellite development and predicted "the artificial moon may utterly change concepts of warfare."

Criticism of the program and the long-simmering inter-service squabble broke out in Barcelona where U. S. Army Maj. Gen. Holger Toftoy and Brig. Gen. John Barclay said the Army could have launched a satellite as far back as 1955 if the Navy had not interfered with the project.

Mobs Divert Two Accidents Reported Here

OSLO (UP)—A plane bringing German Gen. Hans Speldel to Norway for his first official visit as NATO ground commander was diverted from Oslo today when angry crowds appeared likely to try to lynch him.

The plane was stacked up over Fornebu Field for nearly an hour while a crowd of about 1,000 persons shouted anti-Speldel slogans on the ground in memory of the Nazi brutality of World War II.

British Gen. Cecil Sugden, chief of NATO's northern section, was reported to have been stoned by the crowd when he was mistaken for Speldel as he arrived in another plane.

Speldel's plane was diverted from Fornebu to a military field at Oestfold after police urgently pleaded with Fornebu officials not to let him land there.

At Fornebu Field a demonstration described by veteran observers as the "ugliest in peacetime" in formerly occupied Norway built up as Norwegian blood boiled over the Speldel visit.

Ghana Official To File Protest

NEW YORK (UP)—The finance minister of Ghana said he will file today an official protest with the State Department over the refusal of a restaurant in Dover, Del., to serve him.

K. A. Gbedeman, considered the second most powerful political figure in the newly independent Negro nation, said he was refused service in the Howard Johnson restaurant Monday night "because colored people were not allowed to dine there."

The finance minister said that Vice President Richard M. Nixon had dined in his home in Ghana, and so had Adlai E. Stevenson.

"I cannot understand why I received such treatment at a roadside restaurant in America when these two great men have dined at my home," Gbedeman said.

Three-Man Moonship 'On Boards'

BARCELONA, Spain (UP)—A three-man moonship is on the drawing boards for test flying within five years and will cost little more than a jet transport.

Three United States scientists today told delegates to the eighth International Astronautical Congress that the "Meteor Junior" project could be ready for operational use in space in seven to eight years.

Darrell Romick, Richard Knight and Samuel Black of the Good-year Aircraft Corp., Akron, Ohio, described the earth-to-moon roundabout of the future as basically a three crewman unit capable of carrying supplies for a two-month stay in space.

They said, however, that if "Meteor Junior" was shot up for a week only, four extra passengers could be carried along.

If just a one-way trip to the moon was projected 15 passengers and one and a half tons of cargo could be carried, they said.

The scientists estimated its cost "somewhere between five and 10 million dollars" and said fuel cost "is likely to be something around $75,000."

They said the "Meteor Junior" could be used as a transport vehicle "to ferry men into space" and "as a temporary satellite station."

Lacy, using "Give" as his topic, expressed his views on the goals and ideas that should be adopted by the chamber.

Concluding the program, the newly installed president, E. L. Henderson, spoke briefly on his plans for the coming year, and set up his program of accomplishment.

Madame Zoro And Flying Horse

EPINAL, France (UP) — Madame Zoro, a lady druggist, looked up and saw a horse flying through the air right at her. So she leaped out a window, suffering serious bruises.

It wasn't the horse's fault, however. The horse had been harnessed to a cart heavily laden with wood. It started going too fast down a steep street in front of the pharmacy and he cart plunged into the drug store wall.
The impact flung the horse up and through a window. When Madame Zoro saw the horse coming she ducked, out another window.
The horse suffered only minor injuries. He was led out the front door.

Gomulka Undergoes Severe New Test

By CHARLES M. McCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent
Wladyslaw Gomulka is undergoing a severe new test of his strength in his attempt to rule Poland as a semi-independent Communist leader.

The rioting which broke out in Warsaw last Thursday was started by students in protest against the suppression of a newspaper which had consistently accused Gomulka of subservience to Soviet Russia.

Over the week end, young hoodlums took the leading part in the riots. But the students continued to demand that the bar on their weekly newspaper Pro Prosty (Plain Speaking) be removed.

So far, Gomulka's civil militia-men who constitute the main police force have been able to break up all disorderly assemblies without any serious bloodshed.

But where they started out by using truncheons and tear gas, they are now carrying rifles.

The question is whether the rioting can be confined to its present limits. The big danger is that industrial workers might decide to start strikes to back up their own demands for greater freedom and higher pay.

While Gomulka is facing this situation, he is still under attack by "Stalinist" members of his Communist Party who do not like his independent attitude and accuse him of leading Poland back toward capitalism.

Soviet Russia probably is watching the Warsaw situation with as much interest as is Gomulka.

Gomulka is no pin-up boy in Moscow. His election as first secretary of the Communist Party last October after imprisonment as a rebel, was a big defeat for Russian Communism. The only kind of Communist that Russia likes is one who follows the Moscow party line.

If Gomulka lost control of the situation because of anti-government riots, it is certain that Russia would have to intervene as it did in Hungary and crush opposition by brutal force.

But the revision against the Hungarian intervention throughout the world, not only in Western countries but in the "neutralist" ones and in Communist parties themselves must be fresh in Kremlin minds.

For that reason, it is likely that Soviet Russia leaders will be glad if Gomulka can keep control of things.

It is one of the strange angles of the present situation that the Roman Catholic Church in Poland, despite its detestation of everything that Communism represents, has supported Gomulka ever since he was restored as Communist leader and Poland's real ruler.

"Stefan Cardinal Wyszyński, Roman Catholic primate of Poland, called for support of Gomulka in the elections he called after his victory in establishing himself as at least semi-independent of Moscow rule."

On Sunday, Wyszyński again came out in Gomulka's support. In a sermon marking the opening of the academic year, Wyszyński said to students:

"I can understand your yearning for freedom of speech and thought. But you should respect what you have."

He also told the students that they must understand that "our country is in a particularly difficult situation."

Display Of Planes At Woolworth's

Air Force planes are now on display at Woolworth's Dept. Store, 105 South Cuyler, with other interesting Air Force material. To quickly dispel confusion, Mr. Sgt. D. L. Roberson and A. R. Weldon explain this museum-type display of planes in not a actual size, but authentic models of jet fighters and bombers assembled from Revell kits, designed from original blueprints.

"This Air Force exhibit," states Sgt. Roberson, is part of the national celebration of the Golden Anniversary of the U.S. Air Force. "Just 50 years ago the air service, forerunner of what is today the world's most powerful air force, obtained its first military airplane. In no other country in the world have such important strides been made, not only in the development of aircraft, but in the men who fly them."

According to Sgt. Roberson, many men now making the Air Force their career first thought of building their future with the service through the hobby of assembling and collecting scale model planes such as those now on display at the Woolworth store.

A New Approach To Dealing With A Big Social Problem

By DELOS SMITH
United Press Science Editor
NEW YORK (UP)—A new scientific idea for dealing with persons who are "social outcasts" because they are homosexuals is that they can be helped toward normality and mental health through group psychotherapy.

That is a technique whereby a group of persons with similar difficulties discuss their mutual problems with a psychiatrist serving as moderator—to keep the discussion on the target.

The idea is that of Dr. Samuel B. Hadden, associate professor of psychiatry of the University of Pennsylvania Medical School, Philadelphia. Psychiatrists regard homosexuality as an illness and homosexuals as sick people. But psychiatry has been able to do very little to help them. Other branches of medical science gave up on them long ago.

Idea Now Publicized
Hadden presented his idea at an unpublished medical meeting some time ago. But now it is being publicized by the Medical Society of the state of Pennsylvania in its technical journal which means it is reaching the entire profession.

In experimental group psychotherapy for homosexuals, Hadden said he had been struck by "the speed with which the group breaks down the rationalizations of its component members." This was "beneficial," he added.

"It becomes quite apparent that the smug rationalizations are a faulty protection against the intense anxiety which exists about their abnormality," he continued. "In such groups, discussion of the particularly brutal crimes committed by homosexuals, the high suicide rate, the loneliness and the ostracism that these individuals must eventually face are brought to the fore... and they seek to change to a normal pattern of behavior."

Urges Research
He advocated a "research project" whereby large numbers of homosexuals would be put into psychotherapy groups by the compilation of courts which had convicted them of social offenses. But this would not be "at the taxpayers' expense. I believe that homosexual offenders should be held responsible for the maintenance of such a research project. I feel that they should carry the full burden of cost for treatment designed to reintegrate them into the main stream of society as self-respected and respected citizens."

Alcoholics, he recalled, had helped much toward understanding and solving the problem of alcoholism through "the psychiatrically sound program of Alcoholics Anonymous."

He deplored the lack of understanding, even "in psychiatric circles" of homosexuality. One particular he cited was the notion that the homosexual male was necessarily effeminate.

"In my treatment experience with them I have had Marine sergeants, professional football players, world champion boxers, steeplechase riders, and those whose appearance and public behavior might well be the envy of almost any man," he said.

It is an open affair and any interested woman is cordially invited to attend. The pros and cons of political issues will be discussed to assist women voters with information and knowledge in order that they may know what and why they are voting. A similar meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Willis White, 1008 Twiford, on the first and third Thursday of each month at 2:30 in the afternoon. The two unit leaders, Mrs. Campbell and Mrs. White, stress that these meetings are open meetings, without individual invitations, and it is hoped that women of the community will take this opportunity to avail themselves of the opportunity to familiarize themselves with issues on local, state, and national levels.

Those reported ill were Mrs. Maggie Webb, Mrs. Peggy Lybrand, and Ross Neugin. Twelve sick visits were made by the members in the community during the week.

A letter was read from Mrs. Ruth Edmonds, assembly president, thanking the lodge for the pilgrimage funds, and inviting the lodge to visit the homes. She also stated that the linen funds for the Orphanage at Corsicana, and the Old Folks Home at Ennis needed to be replenished. Mrs. Edmonds, also, sent a list of suggestions to enable the lodges to cut down on the suspension list.

The noble grand asked that anyone wishing to pick up tickets to sell for the barbecue to contact Mrs. Clifton Hanna, ticket chairman. The barbecue is being held by the Oddfellow lodge and the Rebekah lodge in the IOOF Hall on Oct. 12.

Hooking up an outdoor shower for children will help wash off at least the top surface of play dirt before the youngsters go into the house. A word of caution, though: a heavily perspiring youngster should not be allowed to jump under a cold stream of water.

I suggested that its telephone number be REconciliation 1-1000 — and that the number be widely publicized for what it was: security to which any child or parent strained beyond his strength could cry out the real appeal in his heart. "Bring us together again, please."

Among other newspapers, the columns appeared in the Honolulu Advertiser. One of its executives, Gerald B. Burnett, is also his city's community services director. He took the plan to its chief of police, its Children's Court people, its director of public welfare — and some time after, it was adopted under the name of Operation Help.

The other day from the juvenile crime prevention division of the Honolulu police department, I received the first report on its progress.

The report says: "In January 1956 we adopted a bold new approach in the field of prevention. Under this project, a child welfare worker is assigned to assist in the adjustment of family situations which appear to be contributory to the delinquency of a child or children. Providing direct referral to Operation Help has enhanced cooperation between police officer and social worker. It has resulted in faster and better service with less cost to the community. We hope that it will be able to continue with its much-needed program."

It added, "Proper counseling may change the whole future of a potential delinquent."

I needed this news. For just last month in my mainland city's Children's Court, I had sat in on the arraignment of a group of shuff-faced children charged with setting upon another child — and killing him, murdering him, doing him to death.

MATURE PARENT
By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
One day two years ago a child in my city was set upon by other children — and killed, murdered, done to death at the age of 13. The night I wrote these columns. They proposed a new plan called "Operation Help" for the control of juvenile crime.

They pleaded for a new municipal department to be called the Family Emergency Service, staffed by social workers operating with subordinate police officers in teams of two. The service's function would be to make a team available to telephone call from any embattled parent or child, not only to bring under control the immediate conflict, but to judge the need for continuing help and referral to community guidance agencies.

Yank's Turley Was 3-2 Favorite To Beat Buhl Mantle, Skowron May Be Through For The Series

By LEO H. PETERSEN
United Press Sports Editor
NEW YORK, (UP)—The New York Yankees pinned all their hopes on Bullet Bob Turley to keep them alive in the sixth game of the World Series today, and also to keep the Milwaukee Braves from stripping them of the world championship title.

Down three games to two, the Yankees were 3-2 favorites to beat right-hander Bob Buhl today although the Braves were quoted 9-5 favorites to win the Series.

The Yankees faced the bleak prospect of being without the services of sluggers Mickey Mantle and Bill Skowron for the remainder of the Series. Mantle is suffering from a torn tendon in his right shoulder while Skowron's ailing back has failed to respond to treatment.

Adding to the Yankees' troubles was the report that pitcher Johnny Kucks and Art Ditmar had contracted the flu.

Milwaukee had quite an imposing hospital list of its own as the teams prepared to square off at Yankee Stadium following Tuesday's off-day. Southpaw Warren Spahn was confined to his hotel room with the grippe while Red Schoendienst was a doubtful starter because of a groin injury suffered in the fifth game of the Series.

Both Knocked Out
Turley and Buhl both failed to survive the second inning when they started against each other in the third game of the Series at Milwaukee last Saturday.

Turley, the hard-throwing right-hander, was removed in the second inning Saturday after yielding four walks and three hits. He left the game leading 3-1 and Don Larsen came on to receive credit for the Yankees' ultimate 12-3 victory.

Buhl, a right-handed fastballer who, like Turley, is hampered by control trouble at times, was rocked for three runs in the first inning and was charged with the loss.

Yankee manager Casey Stengel said he probably would start rookie Tony Kubek in Center field, although he pointed out he might change his mind at the last minute and use left-handed hitting Joe Collins in Mantle's spot.

Plans Full Bullpen
"That would be a silly thing for me to do if it turns out for me no seventh game," he said. "Every pitcher I got will be in the bullpen."

While Casey wasn't concerning himself with the prospect of a seventh game, he indicated Don Larsen would be his starter in that one.

Spahn's sudden illness posed quite a problem for Milwaukee manager Fred Hahey should the Braves be forced to play a seventh game. If Spahn isn't up to pitching in the seventh game, Haney might be forced to go with lanky Gene Conley or even start Lew Burdette again with only two days rest.

Tourney Postponed

Melvin Chisum Takes Club Tourney Medalist Honors

Melvin Chisum won medalist honors of the fourth annual Club Golf Tournament as he registered a low score of 69.

Chisum has previously won the championship in the City Golf tournament and runner-up in the 1957 Top of Texas Tournament.

Winners in the first three tournaments played were Don Prigmore in 1954, L. E. Chisum in 1955, and C. F. McGinnis in 1956.

The tournament, limited to club members, was scheduled to begin this week, but was postponed due to the world series games.

TU, Baylor Prepare For Top Games

Southwest Conference crews held spirited workouts Tuesday, testing their preparedness for opponents' plays.

The University of Texas worked on defending Oklahoma's various offenses for the Saturday date with the Sooners in the Cotton Bowl. Monte Lee took over regular right end and Robert E. Lee started at right guard in the workouts.

Baylor scrimmaged both offensively and defensively against Arkansas plays, going through one of its best scrimmages of the season. Coach Sam Boyd was particularly pleased with the Bears' pass defense.

Bryant Happy
Coach Bear Bryant was happy with his Texas Aggies' enthusiasm but was disturbed over the nine players of his first 22 still out with injuries. Halfback John Crow worked out in pads but is not in Loyd Taylor, is expected to work top shape. His running mate out in sweat clothes today.

Arkansas pointed up pass defense and timing for Saturday's Baylor game. Coach Jack Mitchell said his Porks may be embarrassed when they carry their No. 13 national ranking against Baylor.

Bill Meek, watching his Southern Methodist club work on goal line activity, expressed fear of Missouri for Friday night's game because "they will be fired up after their loss to the Aggies."

Lon Slaughter, who returned from a knee injury Tuesday, was sharp on defense.

Top Graded Harvesters Of Wichita Falls Game Named

Robert Langford, Jess Ingle and Frank Snow headed the list of top defensive players in last Friday night's game with the Wichita Falls Coyotes. Harvester coaches announced yesterday. On the offensive side, Gary Matlock, Dick Watkins and Bailey Clements were the outstanding men.

Each week after games are played, the films are reviewed and players graded as to their effectiveness. The grading is by number of plays participated in, and the number of errors in the execution of the plays.

Defensively, Langford participated in 49 plays, having a grade of 85. Ingle followed closely with a grade of 77 with 62 plays and Snow was third at 70 with 62 plays.

Pampa Gridders Hampered With Illness For Palo Duro Game

The Pampa Harvesters are harder hit this week with injuries and sickness than any previous week of the season, head coach Jack Lockett, announced yesterday.

The Harvesters are preparing this week for their first district encounter, to be against the Palo Duro Dons Friday night in Amarillo.

The Dons have a perfect string of wins so far in the season, downing Poly of Fort Worth, 19-0; Midland, 13-2; and Bowie of El Paso, 13-7.

Lindsey, Hall Boost Chicago

Ted Lindsay and Glen Hall, acquired from Detroit during the summer, have boosted the Chicago Black Hawks into an unaccustomed position atop the National Hockey League.

Lindsay, who was second in scoring last year, blazed home the only goal Tuesday night as Chicago defeated Toronto, 1-0, in the opening game of the season. Hall earned his starring role by turning back all Maple Leaf scoring threats while compiling a total of 25 saves in the Hawk goal.

Toronto outplayed Chicago during the first half of the game, but near the close of the second period Pierre Pilote of the Hawks stole the puck at mid-ice and passed it to Ed Litzenberger.

Reaper Game Postponed

A scheduled game between the Pampa Reapers football team and the Dumas ninth grade team tomorrow has been postponed.

Reaper coach Norma Phillips reported this morning that both teams have so many players out with flu and for other reasons that it was decided to play at a later date.

The date for the postponed game was set as Oct. 31, in Dumas.

After the Westerners, the Shockers play the Plainview "B" team Oct. 17 at 3:30 p.m. in Harvester Park.

Probable starters for tomorrow's game will be:

Player	Pos.	No.
Ingram	Left end	86
Huffacker	Left tackle	75
Stone	Left guard	63
Dunham	Center	85
Combes	Right guard	85
Stokes	Right tackle	78
Mitchell	Right end	88
Wills	Quarterback	22
Daniels	Fullback	31
Collum	Left half	33
Urbansky	Right half	24

The shockers are coached by Weldon Trice and Deck Woldt.

Miteff Has 3-1 Odds Tonight

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UP)—Argentine heavyweight Alex Miteff, who came to the United States to seek his boxing fortune, knows that the spoils of tonight's nationally televised bout with Mike DeJohn is a contender's status.

"I will win," he said simply, and the oddsmakers agree, making him a 3-1 favorite.

Miteff, 22, built his string of 12 pro victories against no losses on his punching and his swiftness. DeJohn, 26, is a puncher, maybe the best that's some Miteff's way.

Outstanding Area Gridders Named

Williams who proved to be the power in the winning attack. Bell scored first for Panhandle in the initial quarter when he galloped 99 yards for the touchdown. In the power department it was Williams, who accounted for two extra points and numerous power gains during the game to play a valuable part in the Panther victory.

White Deer vs. McLean
The White Deer Bucks' Courtney White proved himself not only as outstanding in the ground gaining department but as a versatile man, as he carried for three touchdowns and three extra points, and also kicked a field goal. In the line for the powerful Buck team was and A. J. Alford, who received passes boosting the White Deer aerial game to 136 yards, including one touchdown throw. Alford also furnished a vital part in the defense that held the Tigers scoreless during the entire game.

Wheeler, Groom Take First District Wins Of Season

Two districts in the Top of Texas area got underway last Friday as was expected, while a few non-district games revealed surprises and upsets as another week rolled by in high school football.

The Wheeler Mustangs got off to a roaring start in 2B as they trounced Quitaque, 35-0, and the Groom Tigers captured their 1-B inaugural over Claude, 25-13. Both teams are defending district champions, with Groom having lost to Wheeler in bi-district last year on penetrations in a 7-7 tie. The Mustangs went on to win the regional crown.

Among surprises last week was the 21-13 win the Panhandle Panthers scored over the Lefors Pirates. It was the first victory of the season for Panhandle. Perryton had its upset snatched away in a heartbreaking battle that saw the Phillips Blackhawks narrowly get by the Ranger team, 19-13, with Perryton scoring on the final play executed, but not in time to be counted.

The mighty White Deer Bucks rolled handsily to their fifth straight win of the season as they blanked the McLean Tigers, 57-0. In the final game of the area, the Cananda Wildcats defeated Gruver, 26-7, to tag their first victory of the season.

Wheeler vs. Quitaque
Emerging as outstanding gridders from the 2B battle was Larry Hunter and Harold Crossland from the Mustang team. During the evening, halfback Hunter romped for two touchdowns and two extra points, in addition to setting up another TD for Wheeler. Quarterback Crossland also scored twice during the game, once on a 90 yard sloggi returning a pass-ter yard gallop returning a pass interception. Both men have consistently ranked as top backs for the strong Mustang squad.

Perryton vs. Phillips
As the Rangers battled the close game with Phillips, the unerring combination of Harold Shiftlett and Howard Swink again produced top notch results for the Ranger offensive attack.

Odds Set For Weekend Games In Collegiate Football Circles

NEW YORK (UP)—Army was selected as a one-point favorite today to whip Notre Dame when the bitter rivals meet once again on a football field Saturday after a 10-year hiatus.

Broadway oddsmakers at the same time established Michigan State as six-point favorites over Michigan in their contest at Ann Arbor. The game, expected to draw a crowd of more than 100,000, will pit second-ranked Michigan State against the fifth-ranked Wolverines in a Big Ten test.

Army, ranked eighth by the United Press Board of Coaches, is undefeated in two starts this year, as are the Irish, who are tied for 11th in the ratings.

The contest, regionally televised, will also attract some 100,000 fans to Philadelphia's huge Municipal Stadium.

All other top teams will see action on Saturday with Oklahoma, No. 1 in the nation, heading the list as 22-point favorites over Texas. Texas A&M (third) is 18 points over Houston; Minnesota (fourth) is 9 over Northwestern; Oregon State (sixth) is 18 over Idaho; Duke (seventh) is 1 over Rice; Iowa (ninth) is 20 over Indiana; and Auburn (10th) is 13 over Kentucky.

Three Midwestern games are even—Wisconsin-Purdue, Detroit-Wichita and Cincinnati - Xavier (Ohio).

In Friday night games, Southern Methodist is 13 over Missouri, Miami of Florida is favored by 7 points over North Carolina and Tulane is rated a point better than Georgia.

Other Saturday favorites: Intersection — Navy 7 over California, Pittsburgh 17 over Nebraska, Texas Christian 11 over Alabama, West Virginia 6 over Boston University, Holy Cross 14 over Marquette, Penn State 16 over William & Mary, Villanova 6 over Virginia Tech.

Lust For Power

Human energy, being what it is, is always under individual control. No human being can control the energy of another individual. By means of coercion and violence in or out of government, one man may be able to prevent another man from using his energies as he would wish. But he cannot control the other man's energy.

Most of us have considerable difficulty in actually controlling our own human energy fully. Since we tend to have difficulty within our own spheres of endeavor, it becomes immediately apparent that any effort we expend to control others, is not only fraught with greater difficulties, it is actually impossible.

But this is the great and final trap for the individual who seeks self-control and mastery of his own environment. Most persons so cherish the idea of controlling others that there is a great hunger within them to exercise their ability along this line. This can be called the search for power. These persons tend to give up on themselves. They conclude that they will achieve much more in this world if they can be credited with controlling others. Hence, they do not seek to discipline themselves according to the Golden Rule or the Decalogue, and concentrate their energies on disciplining, mastering or controlling others. It is the great temptation.

And it is particularly tempting among persons of ability.

Many of our young people are lured into government channels simply because of this lust for power over others. The desire to be a "big shot" is nothing in the world but the desire to "boss" and to tell others what to do and what not to do. And in this world such temptations are all about us.

Not all positions of this type are within government. There are a majority of them there, but there are similar places of power and prestige within labor unions, other organizations, and even businesses.

At the root of this unholy lust is the proclivity of prying into the affairs of other people, or neglecting one's own business or activity in a general preoccupation with "public" problems.

What this world so sadly needs is a dedication toward minding one's own business. As a matter of fact, most of us stray from this ideal some way and in some degree. However, the harm is slight until power is actually obtained by someone. For then resistance goes down before a display of power. And we are left with mechanisms of power and with great loss of character and individualism.

Lord Acton had it thus: "All power tends to corrupt; absolute power corrupts absolutely."

No one has successfully refuted this statement. Yet, if Lord Acton is correct, our great tendency to seek power over others is simply a tendency toward corruption. It would seem that our search for power is rooted in a willingness to corrupt others or to accept corruption for ourselves. And this is difficult for any person to admit to himself.

If we actually aspire to the good life, we must begin with ourselves and not with others. We cannot build character or achievement out of running the affairs of others. For all that we accomplish by that direction given to our energies is to stifle and limit the energies of others, while at the same time stifling and limiting our own energies through false direction.

This is not to say that it is impossible for us to assist others. But true assistance consists of transmitting to others the willingness and the desire to run their own affairs, not to establishing devices which will preclude that possibility. All education is the process of getting others to do for themselves. It is not the process of removing either the willingness or the desire by substituting regulation in place of freedom of action.

The biggest job any of us can ever undertake is self-control.

The Doctor Says

By EDGAR P. JORDAN, M. D.

BRAIN DOES NOT REGENERATE AFTER DAMAGE THE SAME AS OTHER TISSUES

The writer of today's first letter cannot look forward, I fear, to enormous improvement.

Q—Two years ago I underwent surgery for removal of a cystic brain tumor. The paralysis on my left side, which was caused by the tumor, is still present in about the same degree. I should appreciate advice.—Mrs. O.

A—This is distressing. It is probable that the paralysis is the result of brain damage near the place where the brain tumor was located. Unlike some other tissues of the body, the brain does not regenerate after damage. At this date it is unlikely that there will be much improvement, even though the original source of the damage has been removed.

Q—My father's illness has been diagnosed as acute pancreatitis. Would you please discuss this illness?—Mrs. G.

A—This is an acute inflammation of the internal organ known as the pancreas. There are several varieties, most of which are of uncertain cause. The severity of the condition varies from person to person. In some there is shock and the treatment of this shock is the first step. The outlook for recovery also differs from person to person. I hope it will be good in your father's case.

Q—My mother writes that she has been miserable for a long time and suffers severe exhaustion. The doctor sent her to the hospital for some tests. Her blood sugar was 76, which he says is low and could contribute to her exhaustion. What do you think?—Mrs. J.B.

A—It is possible that a persistently low level of the blood sugar could be responsible for your mother's exhaustion. However, one should want a number of tests of the blood at different times of day and probably other examinations. If it does prove to be persistently low, other tests may be made. Sometimes the frequent feedings of high-protein meals will be successful under such circumstances. Of course, there are also many other possible causes for chronic fatigue.

Q—Would you please discuss hemochromatosis?—Mrs. J. E.

A—This is a chronic disease characterized by the deposits of iron in the body tissues with disturbance in the functions of some of the organs involved. Sometimes the disease is of unknown cause. Sometimes it results from numerous blood transfusions and sometimes apparently from dietary causes. It is quite often associated with diabetes. The treatment tries to remove the excess iron through bleedings, treatment of diabetes if present, a high-calorie diet and other measures.

Q—Would you please tell me the cause of puffiness around the eyes? I am 34 and have noticed it only in the past year.—Mrs. I.C.

A—There are several possible causes. Anyone with this symptom should have a complete examination. Puffiness under the eyes may be the result of fluid accumulation from disease of the kidney.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. Holmes
Freedom To Shop Around
No. 2

In the last issue I was quoting from an address made by Hart Buck, Statistician of the Bank of Toronto, at the Queensway Lions Club at Toronto, Canada.

The last installment ended by pointing out that freedom to shop around included not only freedom to buy material things and invest to one's best advantage, but it also included the employer's freedom to shop for the kind of help that would give him the biggest production for the amount he pays and the worker's freedom to shop for the job that pays him the best.

Competition Equals Freedom

I continue to quote from the address:
Competition is nothing but freedom looked at upside down. In a market where buyers are free to shop around, sellers must outdo each other to get and keep customers. Through competition there is produced the maximum of goods and services that the public wants most. Competition does not mean dog eat dog. Instead, it is the necessary preface to cooperation. Competition helps us to decide with whom we can best cooperate in production.

The driving force behind the free market is the enterprise of the businessman. He is the man who sees a chance to turn unused resources to account, and produce something out of them which the public will want. He buys materials, secures tools, hires helpers, and sells his product in the hope of recovering all his costs; including the cost of his own time and the cost of any tools that may be his. Perhaps he does not recover his costs, which means that some better use could have been made of all the resources involved, so that everybody loses all round. Or else he may be lucky, and recover all his costs plus something extra. The extra is profit, and nothing else is.

On the free market, his costs will tend up, and his prices will tend down, through the pressure of competition. They will so adjust themselves in time that the businessman will earn no more than he could get by renting his tools to some other businessman and going to work for him. When that happens, he has no profit any more. Profits are the businessman's return for trying something new and desirable. When it is no longer new, profits stop. Profits are temporary only, but the gain to consumers, investors, and workers is permanent.

Everybody a Businessman

Most of us think of the businessman as distinct from the worker or the worker as distinct from the investor. In fact, the worker is the operator of a going business. So typically he is, nevertheless, every investor is a businessman when he invests his money in hopes of a bigger return some day than his investment brings him now; and, most important, every worker takes on the character of a businessman when he fits himself for one line of work rather than another, in hopes of turning his own capacities to the best account possible in the end. You may say, therefore, that all of them are speculators, and so they are. Enterprise is speculation, and speculation is enterprise. Both of them mean anticipating in advance what other people will want, and facing the possibility that they won't want it.

Under the free market everyone is free to anticipate and speculate. As businessmen and speculators—even if we are investors or workers—we may feel handicapped, not by our own freedom to shop around, but by other people's; and so we may try to stop them, or to get the government to do it for us. We may succeed; this involves controlling the supply of some factor of production, and turning out at our own price a smaller product than the customers would take if we didn't control the supply. But if we do, we may find that the pressure of competition makes us pay extra for the factors of production whose supply we don't control. As monopolists, therefore, we may find ourselves no better off than we had no monopoly. The public, on the other hand, loses the goods that the monopoly keeps them from getting.

Under the free market, therefore, some people may get special benefits temporarily, but everybody benefits permanently. Under a market that is not free, some people may get special benefits for a time, but everybody loses permanently. It is never under the free market that some people benefit at other people's expense. This results, instead, from interference with the free market.

False Ideas

People are not convinced of this nowadays, to the same extent as was the case once. Many people feel that the Dirty Thirties and the Fighting Forties have discredited the free market for good. Since the Thirties a great many ideas, contrary to the idea of freedom to shop, have been embedded themselves in everybody's subconscious. These ideas, if we leave them there, can only handicap the development of our country's economy and the expansion of our standard of living.

For example, we are accustomed to hear, perhaps even to say, that the problem of production has been solved. It hasn't. It will never be solved until everything people want has been made as cheap as the air we breathe. Until then, businessmen will have opportunities galore for finding cheaper and more efficient ways of making things. And out of two and one-half billion people on this globe, two billions would be glad of the chance to make for themselves all sorts of things that the most fortunate half-billion of us take for granted.

US Accused Of Trying To 'Hog' World Markets

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — A trade war directed against the United States threatens another serious split among the Western Allies at the very moment when powerful groups in Congress are insisting on greater tariff protection for American industry against foreign competition. The domestic interests involved range from manufacturers of automobiles and textiles to California and New England fishermen.

This country's economic superiority now arouses the same sort of resentment that our vast military and political power, including the stationing of our troops overseas, has caused in Britain, France, Germany and Japan. They accuse us of seeking to "hog" world markets in the same way that, according to their viewpoint, we try to run the United Nations.

So menacing has the commercial warfare become that American and Canadian officials are meeting at Washington today to discuss these difficulties. It may be the last chance to prevent Canada from joining with England and the Commonwealth countries — 11 in all — in a tariff deal designed to reduce sharply our exports to their markets.

QUOTAS — Under this plan, which is now before the British and Canadian Governments, the 11 Commonwealth nations would lower their tariffs for their joint benefit, and also establish quotas against American goods. In short, they would aim to become free of commercial dependence on the United States as a buyer or supplier.

The British Labor Party, which would probably topple the Macmillan regime if an election were held today, is bitterly anti-American on this question. A speaker at Labor's recent off-year political convention declared:

"If our friends in the United States want a free, strong world, they must examine the results of their actions in the field of exports and imports. We wish to live by the results of our own energy, and Americans can help by increasing her imports."

BEAR GRUDGE — In order to cut down the inflow of U.S. goods, which has reduced their gold and dollar reserves to the danger point, both Britain and France have had to resort to "austerity" programs. They have closed the door to purchase of luxury and essential American articles. These everyday hardships contributed to the recent fall of the Bourgeois-Matignon Ministry in France, as they helped in the election of the Diefenbaker-Government in Canada a few months ago. Popular discontent also endangers the life of the Macmillan regime in London.

Thus, it is not only the bankers, the industrialists and the traders — the so-called ruling economic classes — which have grievances against the United States. Every household — the so-called "little people" — has a personal and private grudge against Uncle Sam, who is still portrayed in many foreign cartoons with a $ mark across his chest.

The Nation's Press

SHIFTING THE ATTACK

(Wall Street Journal)

A lot of legal eyebrows were lifted when the Supreme Court decided that the DuPont Company had to get rid of General Motors stock on the ground that the DuPonts might some day exert some control that would hurt DuPont's competitors through the record of 40 years showed that they had never done so.

The decision brought on some special problems. Federal Judge LaBay — who after long litigation had found no law violation in the DuPont ownership of GM stock — was told by the Supreme Court to tie up all the newly-created loose ends and arrange "equitable relief" necessary and appropriate to the public interest.

A number of suggestions how to do this were reported by our Mr. Karmin the other day. One would be to place all the DuPont stock in a non-voting trust, which would appear to answer the Supreme Court's fears about future control of a company's affairs. But the Government anti-trust division lawyers say this would be unsatisfactory because the DuPont Company would still own 23 per cent of GM stock.

Another alternative would be to distribute the GM shares owned by DuPont to DuPont stockholders. But the Government thinks this method bad, too. Christiana Securities Company, a holding company created by the DuPont family though others can buy the shares, owned at last report 12 million shares of DuPont common stock, or about one quarter of all the outstanding stock of the giant chemical company. Since a stock distribution would give Christiana Securities a big chunk of the GM stock and the DuPonts control Christiana Securities, the Government still retains influence in GM.

This, in objecting to the stock distribution suggestion, the Government has shifted its emphasis from the DuPont Company to the DuPont family.

This line of attack is not new; it was part of the original Government case.

IRONIC SITUATION

— There is deep irony in this trade offensive. Many of the overseas industries demanding protection have been rebuilt and expanded with American taxpayer money. And Germany's amazing recovery, which was similarly financed, has worsened the world situation by robbing the protesting countries of many of their profitable prewar markets.

Congress, which has become strongly protection-minded in recent years, will react angrily and violently to these trade discriminations in January. And then, the economic war will blaze in a big way, to Moscow's delight and satisfaction.

McLemores Are Staying In A Gigantic Hotel

By HENRY MCLEMORE

FAENZA — This little town (whose name you probably have seen written on the bottom of Italian pottery) is on the road between Rimini and Bologna, and boasts of a hotel which has the largest rooms in Christendom.

The hotel is the Grande Vittoria on Via Garibaldi, and I am in one of the rooms now, writing this piece. If the charge for the room was based on square feet, only a millionaire or a counterfeiter could afford it.

I just walked it off, and it took me twenty extra long strides one way, and twelve the other. I don't know the length of my stride, but the room is large enough for a halfback to make what would be described as a broken field run.

The desk is in the corner by a window that must be twenty feet wide if it's an inch. The s e a r t h curves between the desk, where I am, and the bed, where Mary is stretched out reading. I can see the smoke of her cigarette over the horizon, but not her.

I wouldn't be surprised if there were an hour's difference between the time on her watch and mine, and we had different latitudes and longitudes. Could be that we are in different zones, too! It is quite blamy in my section of the room, but she has a spread over her.

The manager doesn't speak English, nor does any of the help so I don't know what the Grande Vittoria was originally. It certainly could not have been a hotel. Architecturally it appears to be a cross between a railroad station and a castle. There are tremendous corridors, mighty marble columns, acres of tile floors, and an inner court which is large enough to accommodate two elaborate fountains and a grape arbor, whose vines are heavy with clusters of purple grapes.

To get back to our room, it has four double beds in it, yet it isn't at all crowded. There is ample room for four bureaus, two chaise-longues, six or seven chairs, and two oversized wash basins.

Why were we assigned this room is a mystery. It just couldn't be the smallest one in the Grande Vittoria. It makes me curious about the size of the suites. If the suites are on the same scale as this double room, then they would have to have a bus system for the use of guests. A man could shave in the morning and have five o'clock shadow before he reached the door to go downstairs.

When I saw our vast room, complete with a ceiling painting in which the cherubs are as big as fighter planes, I thought I had better ask the price. There's no use renting half the town for a night's sleep.

When I heard the price I said I'd take it. With breakfast, the tariff is 1300 lira or two dollars and eight cents for two; that figures out at about a mill a square yard, with coffee, rolls and jam thrown in.

Will Supreme Court Rule 2 Times 2 Equals Five?

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

If the Supreme Court should decide today that two times two makes five, maybe that would be the law of the land.

There would be no legal appeal to any higher authority. The court would not have to give any reason or explanation. However, it could refer to a dream-book, written by a gypsy fortune-teller and sold for the guidance of policy-makers in the slums of New York and Chicago, as justification.

In the Integration Case, the court's decision alluded to a book by a foreigner who had spent a brief sojourn in the United States as the paragon of a paragon of tax-exempt "foundation" and had reached his own conclusion that Negro children's feelings suffered injury under segregation.

His decision was not originally binding on anyone but himself and even he had the right to decide otherwise at his convenience. This foreigner, a Swede, ultimately laid down a fateful proposition which is now absolutely binding on all the people of the United States and on all the states and all the states and their governors. The proposition is that problematical and unproven injury to any person's feelings by any other person is wrong.

The court has now laid it down that the president can call out the Army to prevent specific practices which are alleged to injure the feelings of such person or persons. The book never was mentioned during the actual court activities and the "defendants" had no chance to dispute the Swede's "facts" or disprove his conclusions. The book could not be cross-examined because you can't cross-examine a book. And, anyway, the book never has appeared in the case, even to this day. It is not a part of the record. It is just referred to.

The court might as well have referred to Confidential Magazine and set forth some dirty story about some actress as the law of the land. Anyway, das har blubber eater from Stockholm bin wrote a book and das har dam book is das har law of das har land.

Eleanor Roosevelt wrote that she suffered in her feelings as a little girl because she was an ugly duckling. But those things work out even. A beautiful woman who died in the San Quentin gas chamber two years ago said this never would have happened if she had been an ugly duckling in her childhood. But she was cute so boys made passes. Did Eleanor grieve because boys didn't make passes? Girls are a puzzle, aren't they?

If the court should decide, 5 to 4 or even 1 to 0, that 2 x 2 equals 5, the treasury might stand by the old-style arithmetic. Anyone who tried to use the new standard in his tax return does so at his own risk, including the risk of imprisonment. However, in that case, the secretary of the Treasury and the entire executive branch of the government, including the President, would array themselves in open rebellion against the court and be liable to prison for contempt of court. That sentence could run forever.

There is no limit set by any law on the length of a sentence for contempt of court. It is theoretically longer than "natural life," which expires when life ends. There is no provided termination so, in some fine, theological-mathematical speculations, the extent of a sentence for contempt is eternity.

That may strike you as the worst nonsense that ever smeared up good white paper, but you had just better watch your tongue because that is the law of the land. You might get held in contempt for saying that that is absurd. Then good-bye forever.

But, anyway, the treasury could not punish anyone for using this proposition to reduce his tax. The supreme court could just throw out all such convictions, even assuming that some lower courts would convict. Next generation a court educated in the progressive schools could say that 2 x 2 is anything you like. It would have the power.

It is often said that when the Supreme Court reaches a certain height of arrogant pomposity or absurdity, "reality" goes to work to frustrate the theoretical inevitability of chaos. In little words, if a court can't enforce its decisions if the executive branch says "Go to hell, court." That is the theory. It worked for Andrew Jackson when John Marshall gave him the business in his brutal treatment of the cherokees.

Marshall couldn't enforce an injunction because he didn't have an army. But if the present court wanted to enforce a 2 x 2-5 decision, most of the Army officers and rank-and-file might throw in with the court for selfish reasons. That might be a short-cut to repeal of the income tax.

There is absolutely no limit on the absurdity or wickedness that may be laid down by this court as the Law of the Land. And the horizon of mischief, which always invites bloodshed and chaos, is billions of leagues wider now that the court has had the gall to base a decree on an irrelevant book, which might have no more meaning than hi-diddle-diddle.
