Flares Reported In Plane Search

By CHARLES BERNARD
United Press Staff Correspondent
HONOLULU (UP)—The Coast Guard ordered planes and ships to check out reports today that three white flares were seen in the area where a Pan American Stratoliner with 44 persons aboard is reported missing.

The flares were reported Sunday night by two of the planes taking part in the giant air-sea search.

Along with three other clues—a patch of yellow dye, a report of another flare and an oil slick—they raised the hopes of the searchers that they could find survivors.

The Coast Guard said a Navy Super-Constellation sighted two white flares at 2:25 a.m. e.s.t. The Navy plane said the flares were 440 nautical miles toward Honolulu from the last position given by the missing plane and on the general course it would have followed a few minutes later.

Another Flare Sighted
Shortly after, an Air Force KB-50 refueling tanker sighted another white flare 340 nautical miles west of the flight the missing plane would have taken.

A spokesman said all search planes in the area are under strict orders not to use flares. There was no other apparent explanation for the lights other than that they really are flares, although the spokesman did not want to say that this meant there was life where the flares were sighted.

Earlier, searchers reluctantly discounted a report of a radio distress signal. They said it did not have the characteristics of emergency gear furnished Pan American planes.

Additional planes and ships joined today in the search, possibly the biggest ever such in peacetime.

'Space Dog' Is Believed To Be Dead

By JOHN D. PARRY
United Press Staff Correspondent
LONDON (UP)—Moscow dispatches said today the space dog aboard earth satellite Sputnik II was generally believed to be dead.

United Press Correspondent Henry Shapiro said Moscow scientific circles believed the little dog had been given a sleeping draught to make death painless as the power supplies failed aboard the satellite.

The Italian Communist organ L'Unita which previously reported Laika had been poisoned said later the animal had been given a sleeping draught and is now "sleeping an eternal sleep."

The Stockholm Communist Daily Ny Dag said today many persons in Moscow believed Laika had landed in Russia but had not yet been found by search parties. It reported an "extremely strong interest in Laika's fate in Moscow."

Confirmed by Announcement
The belief Laika was dead was generally confirmed by a Moscow announcement that "medical and biological observations had been completed" and that observation now would be by sight or by radar.

Moscow said last week the dog (See "SPACE DOG," Page 3)

Mideast Scares Arise

By WALTER LOGAN
United Press Staff Correspondent
A new war scare swept through Syria today with reports of large scale Turkish maneuvers along a wide stretch of the border.

All Syrian army units along the border were alerted. The Syrian cabinet held an emergency session after midnight.

The foreign office in Damascus said Turkish troops massing took place at four points on the frontier early today.

The points were said to be in the general area of Bab El Hawa north of Aleppo. Extensive troop movements were said to have been carried out under cover of darkness.

Vehicles Along Border
The Syrian foreign office said an estimated 300 Turkish vehicles including tanks were seen moving along the border yesterday morning. Villages and border posts on the Turkish side of the frontier were reported blacked out.

The maneuvering of troops and vehicles was said to have lasted several hours. No incidents were reported.

Informed sources in Damascus said it appeared the Turkish military activity was related to reported growing unrest in Jordan, where there was said to be more outspoken opposition to King Hussein.

The reported Turkish "show of strength" was felt in Damascus to be a veiled warning to Syria not to interfere in Jordan.

Officials in Damascus said they had no intention of interfering with Jordan's affairs.

Students Demonstrate
Meanwhile, some 5,000 Palestinian Arab students and school children marched through the streets of Damascus today chanting anti-Hussein slogans, including "Hussein must go" and "Hussein is a traitor."

Woman Who Tried To Rob Bank Taken To Amarillo

The woman who attempted to rob the First National Bank in Pampa Saturday, Mrs. Edna Gail Jantzen of Spearman, was taken to Amarillo today by a U.S. marshal to await the filing of a charge against her.

Mrs. Jantzen, also known in Spearman as Mrs. Jack Emory, was arrested by two local officers, Patrolmen P. E. Bailey and Bob Crouch, Saturday when she returned to the bank a few minutes after attempting to rob a teller at the bank, Mrs. Hugh (Vallie) Shotwell.

According to a statement made by Mrs. Shotwell, Mrs. Jantzen gave her a note demanding that all $5, $10, $20 and larger bills be given to her.

The note also said that a gun was on Mrs. Shotwell and that she was not to call any one.

Apparently Mrs. Jantzen became alarmed by Mrs. Shotwell's actions and grabbed the note. She ran from the bank, followed by two bank employees, and went up Cuyler, into a local department store, down an alley and then returned to the front of the bank, where she was arrested by the officers.

And Here's The Reason

Veteran's Day Is Observed Over US

By ALETHA DAVIS
Pampa News Staff Writer
The banks and postoffice of Pampa are closed today in observance of Veterans Day. Thirty-nine years ago today the German Allies signed an Armistice ending the four year battle of World War I and previously this day has been called Armistice Day.

Local clubs and auxiliaries have been selling the traditional poppies made by veterans and ceremonies were held in Arlington Cemetery, Washington, D. C. today and over the nation in honor of the American war dead who remain unknown.

November 11, 1918, world had been received in the United States that Germany had sued for peace after a four year struggle for power over France, England, Russia and finally the American "doughboys."

One of the causes of this tremendous struggle lay in the death of one man... the heir apparent to the Austrian throne, who was slain in the little Balkan country of Bosnia on June 28, 1914. But the actual causes, of course, lay far deeper... in the rivalry and jealousy which arose among the greater powers of Europe, Austria, one of these powers, demanded vengeance for this murder from Serbia, and the terms were so exacting that a Russia entered the picture on the side of the smaller state.

Before this time, the countries of Europe, the great nations with power, had maintained a balance of power that prevented any one nation gaining an upperhand over the others.

Upon the death of the heir to the Austrian throne, countries one by one began to take sides in the controversy, and in a few days a war that was to be the greatest yet in that time had begun.

Germany had the largest standing army, and it immediately went to the aid of Austria in two great campaigns; one into France and the other against Russia. By August, the Germans had overcome Belgium and were entering France. At this time, England took up arms to the aid of the French and the first great battles for the defense were in the protection of Paris.

For three years the great armies raged against one another in battles not only in France, but along the Russian frontier, south through the Balkan States and Turkey, and even into Asia Minor. Nearly every country in the world became involved even to the great distances of Japan, South America, Australia, and New Zealand.

Blockades on the high seas made trade and transport almost impossible. The most necessary commerce and trades of the world were steadily being put to a halt as the German navy and armies controlled greater and greater amounts of land and goods as they advanced on the smaller and weaker countries of Europe.

President Wilson, voted into office for the second term because of his strong feeling of neutrality, tried to keep America out of the conflict; however, the German submarines continued to sink and threaten to sink our neutral ships, thus the United States took sides against the Germans.

In April, 1917, after the war had been in progress for nearly three years, Congress formally declared war on Germany and her allies.

In feverish haste, the American army was prepared to be in readiness for service abroad. It was the first time in American history that American soldiers had been sent to Europe on such a mission, and when the first detachment of troops paraded through the streets of London, the scene was memorable. Within a few months our (See VETERANS DAY, Page 3)

Flu Deaths Top 700 Mark Today

By UNITED PRESS
Flu-associated deaths across the nation have topped the 700 mark, with three states accounting for nearly half of the fatality toll.

An "alarming" flu epidemic in Georgia has been blamed for at least 92 deaths, and health officials have urged all Fulton (Atlanta) county, Ga., residents to get Asian flu inoculations.

The death toll in Pennsylvania from Asian flu, other types of influenza or flu complications reached 100 Sunday, and New York reported at least 134 flu-blamed deaths.

The United Press counted at least 718 flu connected deaths since the first outbreak of Asian flu in the country last summer.

The toll in other states included Ohio 48 deaths, Michigan 41, California 40, Iowa 31, Tennessee 25, Illinois 23, Louisiana 21, Wisconsin 18, Nebraska and Washington 16 each, Connecticut and Minnesota 15 each, Utah 11, Colorado and Indiana 10 each, Hawaii and Kentucky 9 each, Kansas and Oklahoma 5 each, New Jersey 4, Maryland, Missouri and Oregon 3 each, Arkansas and North Carolina 2 each and 1 each in Arizona, Maine, Virginia and the District of Columbia.

All of Georgia's fatalities were reported in Atlanta, where a month-long epidemic has raged. Other sections of Georgia also were hit hard by the flu, but no reports of deaths, if any, were available outside of Atlanta.

An Atlanta health official said most of the flu victims were in the age group beginning at about 55 years old.

JRC Opens Membership Drive Here

Pampa elementary schools are participating in the National Junior Red Cross Membership Drive throughout this week.

Membership is maintained through the annual enrollment of schools. Enrollment is for the calendar year.

A fee of $1 is charged for each class, and groups of 30 persons in secondary schools.

These fees, plus contributions, are deposited in the Junior Red Cross Fund of the local American Red Cross Chapter.

Junior Red Cross members provide service to the armed forces and to veterans hospitals by producing comfort and recreational items and holiday decorations. School dramatic and music groups also furnish entertainment. The American Red Cross Children's Fund supports services to many schools and communities.

Members of the Junior Red Cross are provided with a unique opportunity for members to assist in stimulating understanding and good will among young people throughout the world by taking part in the gift box, school chest and international communications programs. These programs are made possible through the Children's Fund, which supplies direct material aid to children when international disasters occur.

The training program of the JRC is under the direction of a student council made up of the Junior Red Cross members, teacher-sponsors and chapter-wide councils.

The teacher-sponsor receives enrollment supplies from the chapter. Included are the annual enrollment poster, membership table, membership rolls for the elementary schools, and membership cards for high school members.

The Lefors fire siren is rigged up in such a manner as to "sound off" when someone calls a certain phone number. When the siren begins to wail, members of the department gather at the fire station to drive the fire trucks and fight the fires.

Time and again yesterday they gathered only to have the party making the calls hang up when the phone was answered.

Finally, in desperation, the firemen had to increase the danger of homes being burned before they could arrive to fight a fire by disconnecting the phone from the siren. The firemen were told that the next time they heard the siren they could be sure to come because it would be turned on by hand.

Presumably Discuss Speedup In Missiles

By LEE NICHOLS
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower confers with his defense chiefs today, presumably on plans for speeding U. S. missile-satellite research. The meeting followed an official admission this country cannot hope to catch up with Russia soon in earth satellite development.

The President, due to leave Walter Reed Army Hospital after an overnight stay for a physical checkup, scheduled a late afternoon meeting with Defense Secretary Neil McElroy and Deputy Defense Secretary Donald A. Quarles.

While the purpose of the meeting was not announced, it was expected to deal with plans for speeding U. S. missile and satellite work.

Quarles said Sunday night outer space control is going to be "increasingly important and I think that we must undoubtedly move energetically into this area."

Asked in a TV interview (NBC's "Youth Wants to Know") whether this country would be "up with" Russia by March when the first fully instrumented U. S. satellite is slated for launching, Quarles replied:

"I would expect we will not, because I would expect they would do other things in the meantime along this general line." He did not elaborate.

Quarles said, however, he did not consider Russia's space advances as serious a threat to U. S. security as some leading American scientists and rocket experts claim.

He also said this country has rockets as powerful as the missile apparently used by Russia to launch its second Sputnik, and predicted the two countries will not be far apart in attaining "operational capability" of "very long-range" ballistic missiles.

He said the United States is ahead of Russia in military electronics, atomic weapons and much of its aviation.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was due back this afternoon from a "working vacation" at his Duck Island, Lake Okauchie, retreat. He was expected to have ready a tentative blueprint for following up the President's call for wider military-scientific cooperation with the nation's Free World allies.

President Eisenhower flies to Oklahoma City, Okla., Wednesday to make his second "chins up" speech on the nation's scientific situation. He is expected to deal with plans for promoting long-range advancement of science education in schools and colleges.

Emphasized Red Policy
The Russian concentration on science was emphasized Sunday night in a report by the U. S. Office of Education showing Russian students get 10 years of mathematics, five years of physics, four years of chemistry, five years of biology and one year of astronomy by the end of high school.

By the end of the week Dr. James R. Killian, president of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, is expected to set up shop here as the President's full-time scientific adviser and coordinator of government military-scientific programs.

In other developments in the missile-satellite field:
—The Navy claimed its new ballistic missile, the Polaris, would reduce Russia's defenses "to almost impotency" in any nuclear war.

—Dr. John P. Hagen, head of the U. S. satellite "Project Vanguard," told the United Press it appeared "something went wrong" with Russia's Sputnik II.

Movie Theater Destroyed At Canadian

(Special To The News)
CANADIAN Residents of this Top of Texas city were awakened during the night with the sounding of three fire alarms when the Palace Theatre caught fire.

The interior of the building, also containing a barbershop and an insurance agency, was gutted and damages were estimated at $25,000 this morning.

The fire, of unknown origin, started in the rear of the building sometime between 2 and 2:30 this morning. The blaze was engulfing the building before the fire was discovered and the Canadian Volunteer Fire Department was notified.

Fire damage was confined to the theatre building, owned by Mrs. Jeanie Cole, of Elk City, Okla., with only minor smoke damage reported in the Palace Variety, located next door.

The fire in the theatre this morning occurred as remodeling work was completed on the interior. The remodeling consisted of painting the walls and new furnishings.

The theatre is operated by McMorde Theatres and the other businesses destroyed, located in the same building, were the Palace Barber Shop, operated by Jess Vessie, and the Hobart and McMorde Insurance Company.

The front walls of the theatre building are still standing and observers standing on Main find it hard to realize that the building has been destroyed. No report was available on whether the theatre will be rebuilt.

Bids On Repairs Opened

Bids were opened this morning in Gray County Commissioners Court for the construction and repair of three bridges in Gray County including the Denworth Bridge, south of Laketon, the Canton Bridge, east of Lefors, and the Bohr Bridge near Groom.

Paving costs of the approaches to the bridges are included in the bids.

Bids presented to the commissioners were Cooper Woodruff, $45,590.77; T. A. Construction Company, $54,278.89; Ed Baker & Co., $49,566.61; Ivan E. Demart, $54,964.14; Bob Baker, $24,099.21; Ray Boswell $52,756.19.

Bills were also presented and approved at the meeting.

FD Getting Radios Installed
The installation of a radio system for the local fire department is in progress with the transmitter and receiver installed at Central Station and mobile units installed in the station wagon and the panel truck.

Ernest Winborne, fire chief, said today that work on the construction of the antenna for the new fire station is underway and the transmitter-receiver for that station should be installed today.

Last Honor Paid Solely To First War

ARLINGTON, Va. (UP)—Wreaths will be laid at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington National Cemetery today in the last Veterans Day ceremony honoring solely the dead of World War I.

By next Nov. 11, remains of unknown soldiers of World War II and the Korean War will have been laid to rest alongside the World War I unknown.

Gov. Joe Foss of South Dakota, a Medal of Honor winner and a World War II and Korean War aviator, will deliver the principal address. He will be introduced by Maj. Gen. Melvin J. Mans, USMC (ret.).

Veterans Administration chief Harvey V. Higley was chairman of a joint committee of all veterans organizations sponsoring the Arlington program, highlight of Veterans Day ceremonies across the nation.

The ceremonies marked the first appearance of the new Air Force Academy's 120-voice choral group.

1st Concert Of Season Set Tonight

The first concert presented by the Pampa Community Concert Association for the 1957-1958 season will take place tonight at 8 as the Esplanade Quartet will perform in the Junior High School Auditorium.

Composing the quartet are Henri Temianka, first violin; Charles L. Bove, second violin; Charles Fodart, viola; and Lucien Laporte, Cello. The Quartet takes its name from the instruments it uses, all one time, owned by the virtuoso, Paganini.

The quartet has been performing since 1946, when the Beethoven Cycle was given in six concerts at the Library of Congress in Washington, and has since given hundreds of concerts throughout the United States, Canada and Europe.

Minor Quake Shakes Tokyo
TOKYO (UP)—A rolling earthquake shook Tokyo for more than a minute today but there were no reports of major damage.

The swaying motion rocked light fixtures back and forth and caused windows to rattle.

Santa Day Parade Plans Grow

Charles Cook, chairman of the Merchants Activities Committee of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce, stated today that word has been received from Willis Giddins Jr., director of the Shamrock High School Band, that the Shamrock band will be on hand for the Santa Day Parade that will be held on Tuesday, Dec. 3.

The Parade will form at the corner of Craven and Cuyler and will proceed down Cuyler with the three Pampa bands, a minimum of three out-of-town bands, and floats designed along the Christmas theme representing various clubs and businesses.

Merchants are urged to enter floats, according to the Merchants Activities Committee, with the only restriction being that they must be between four thousand and five thousand candy-filled stockings will be distributed to children by Santa Claus following the parade. Santa and the candy will be located on the Court House square.

United Fund Drive Total Climbs To $42,152 Today

The total subscriptions in the Pampa-United Fund campaign climbed to $42,152 this morning as additional reports were made by campaign workers.

The total today is approximately $18,000 short of the $60,000 set as the goal for this year's campaign.

No report was available late this morning as to what amount of the total was in cash and pledges, according to Mrs. Elsie Gee, United Fund secretary.

Grande Dame Of High Society Devotes Her Life To Causes

By GAY PAULEY
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP)—Mrs. August Belmont owned the wherewithal to become a hostess with the mostes, had she wished.
Instead, one of the last of the grande dames of high society chose to devote her life to causes. Now in her 70s, she still is busy with them, has found time to write her memoirs, but is far more interested in planning the future than reminiscing about the past.
"I never was a great party-giver, nor a great party-goer," she said in an interview in her spacious overlooking Central Park.
Mrs. Belmont has been active since 1917 in the American Red Cross; in its nursing committee; helped establish what is now the community service society; was the first woman elected to the board of directors of the Metropolitan Opera Assn.; founded the Opera Guild in 1935 to further the cause of opera nationally, and has backed numerous other social and philanthropic projects.

Davis, Caruso, George Bernard Shaw, to name a few, Shaw wrote "Major Barbara" especially for her, but she never played the role, much to his irritation.
Mrs. Belmont observed that the death of Mrs. Vanderbilt a few years ago marked the end of an era—the passing of the "old-fashioned society leader." But she seemed to have no regret.
"Society leaders. Where are they now?" she said. "Who owns a place big enough for 300 house guests? Now, entertaining is at a club or hotel. The circumstances don't provide for the same leadership."
Mrs. Belmont has been active since 1917 in the American Red Cross; in its nursing committee; helped establish what is now the community service society; was the first woman elected to the board of directors of the Metropolitan Opera Assn.; founded the Opera Guild in 1935 to further the cause of opera nationally, and has backed numerous other social and philanthropic projects.

Was Famed Actress
There were no big headlines about a "Cinderella bride" when in 1910 actress Eleanor Robson married August Belmont, a widower with three sons. "Oh, it was startling enough at that time for an actress to marry society," she said in the interview. "But we hadn't gone around talking about our engagement... although the immediate family knew of it for a long time and accepted me with all kindness. I closed in a play in Brooklyn one day. We married the next." There were no children of this marriage. Belmont died in 1924.

Today, she lives in comparative modesty, wintering at the apartment in New York and spending summers in "A little cottage with a giant view" in Northeast Harbor, Maine. She no longer is active in breeding and racing thoroughbreds—the Belmont track in New York is named for her husband's family.
H.Q.C. "P.B. Man O' War, the greatest of them all," she recalled. "I loved the horses just as dearly as my husband."

Stresses Soviet Unity
"The Soviet forces are capable of crushing any aggressor should he attack our country," Malinovsky said. "The army and navy closely rallied around the Communist Party of the Soviet Union and its Leninist Central Committee will continue to live up to the trust of the Soviet people and stand guard over the gains of the October revolution."
Malinovsky reiterated the month old charges of Western plots against Syria with "Turkey as their tool" and said the Soviets condemned this "interference of imperialism in the Mideast and sympathize with the people struggling for their independence."
He referred to the Soviet intercontinental ballistic missile and the two earth satellites which "have made a beginning in the conquest of space" and said the Soviet people ardently desire peace.
He spoke of the horrors of an atomic war and said "foreign circles," notably in the United States "are pursuing a policy aimed at increasing international tension, preventing disarmament and threatening mankind with the dangers of atomic war. The enemies of peace are hatching new adventures in the Middle East."
Malinovsky spoke for ten minutes and then the Soviet anthem was played by 1,000 massed military bands. The march past began with the firing of an artillery salute.

Half A Stomach Is Better Than None

By DELOS SMITH
United Press Science Editor
NEW YORK (UP)—The stomach as a key organ for nourishing the body does very well in that endeavor after half of it has been removed, according to a surgeon who specialized in such removals for the purpose of curing ulcers.
But people don't get along very well, nutritionally speaking, on less than half a stomach, continued Dr. Harold D. Harvey, of Columbia University's College of Physicians and Surgeons, speaking from his experiences with 1,068 persons who gave up parts of their stomachs.
Dr. Harvey recommended that no more than one-half of any stomach should be removed in ulcer surgery, "except perhaps in exceptional cases."
Dividing Line Is 1948
In reporting his interesting statistics to the American College of Surgeons, he divided his cases between those who had their operations between 1936 and 1948 and those who got their after 1948.

The dividing year is important because it marked the time when improved surgical techniques permitted the relatively safe taking of more than half a stomach.
Among the pre-1948 patients who lost one-half their stomachs, only 14 per cent lost 5 per cent or more of their pre-operative weight in the three years following the operation. But Harvey said this wasn't too good a way of measuring because many weight losses were not "harmful" but were "at times even beneficial."
"A loss of weight from 200 pounds to 170 after operation would not be disturbing, but a drop from 100 to 95 might well be," he said.
So he made these pre-1948 statistics more specific and found that only 2.1 per cent had weight losses which "disturbed" the doctor and only 1.8 per cent had "serious nutritional defects."
Statistics Show Results
Then he made an identical statistical table for the patients after 1948. These patients gave up 60 to 75 per cent of their stomachs. During the first three years afterward, 31 per cent lost 5 or more per cent of the pre-operative weight, 11.9 per cent had weight losses which were medically disturbing, and 6.3 per cent had "serious nutritional defects."
By removing part of the stomach the surgeon removes a por-portionate part of the source of the gastric acids which in excessive amounts cause ulcers. He may also remove the part of the vagus nerve which incites the flow of those acids.

In his recommendations, Harvey recommended vagus removal along with 50 per cent stomach removal, together with certain refinements in re-connecting stomachs who replaced Marshal Georgi Zhukov as defense minister, spoke from a terrace above the Lenin - Stalin mausoleum flanked by Soviet Communist Party leader Nikita S. Khrushchev and other members of the Presidium.
"The Soviet forces are capable of crushing any aggressor should he attack our country," Malinovsky said. "The army and navy closely rallied around the Communist Party of the Soviet Union and its Leninist Central Committee will continue to live up to the trust of the Soviet people and stand guard over the gains of the October revolution."

Complete Five-Car Electric Train Is Made For Girls

By DOC QUIGG
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP)—In a major breakthrough into new concepts of railroading, the Lionel people have developed a complete five-car electric model train made for girls only. That's crash thinking, boys.
Always, they explain, female toys have had to content themselves with playing with brother's model trains. But that's all behind us now. The new, girlish choo-choo features pastel colors such as a pink-frosting steam locomotive, robin's egg blue New York Central boxcar, lilac Lehigh Valley hopper, blue Pennsylvania illuminated caboose, and buttercup yellow M-K-T boxcar.
The model train people always have copied details from the big, real-life railroads, but this time they seem to have gone out on their own for the women's trade. And therein may lie the virus of an idea for the real railroads.
Trains For Ladies
In the recent disclosure that talks have been underway looking toward possible merger of the New York Central and the Pennsylvania railroads, there were estimates that each line was losing around 50 million dollars a year on its passenger service. Well, why not take the plunge and go right after the powerful distaff trade by whipping up special trains for ladies?
"Ladies' Limited" Now leaving on Track 29, for Pough, Albany, Pittsburgh, and State Street shopping center in Chicago! Please accept our kind request for your presence aboard... Pennsy-Central, at home, after 6:14 p.m. standard time.
Under the Quigg plan, the Ladies' Special would consist of several eral boudoir cars—one with chintz drapes outside, another polka dot, another cozily wall-papered. Inside, there would be mirrors instead of windows, since the passengers would be much more interested in looking into them than in looking outside. The observation car would have picture mirrors.

The exterior architecture of the Pullmans would vary with each car—ranch house, Georgian, Cape Cod, cottage—small by a waterfall... there would be brass knockers and chimes on the doors. Also, a fireplace in every car, attended, naturally, by a fireman—or firewoman.
Blue Serge Must Go
Those simply horrible blue serge suits on conductors would have to go. They could wear Bermuda shorts in summer and something gaudy like matador uniforms in winter. The tickets would be glamorized—heart-shaped and possibly in booklet form surrounded by advertisements, plus a couple of juicy heartthrob stories for berthtime reading.
Of course, there would be beautiful salon cars, chiropodist cars, a cook-it-yourself diner, a bar serving only pink lady and Alexander cocktails. The train butchers would hawk hors d'oeuvres instead of ham and cheese sandwiches.
When the train wheels whirled to the rails while crossing trestles, it wouldn't sound as if they were saying the traditional "Heinie Manuh... Heinie Manuh will play today." They'd say "Gussie Moran... Gussie Moran...," or maybe, "Elizabeth Secord reigns supreme."

Book Week To Be Observed

National Book Week has been declared for Nov. 10-17, by the American Library Association.
Mrs. Lillian Snow, librarian of the Lovett Memorial Library, stated that several hundred books have been purchased by the library in the last sixty days. These, among others, are now available at the library.
According to Mrs. Snow, the new books are largely in the pre-school age group, plus fiction for the teenagers and children. New adult fiction books are also to be ready for the public's use on Monday.
Lovett Memorial Library is open six days a week with hours of 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., Monday through Friday; and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday.
NEW YORK (UP)—Vinnie Ferguson, 19-year-old middleweight amateur champion, will have Dwight Davis Jr., son of the donor of the Davis Cup, as one of his co-managers when he makes his professional boxing debut at Madison Square Garden, Nov. 15.

erally boudoir cars—one with chintz drapes outside, another polka dot, another cozily wall-papered. Inside, there would be mirrors instead of windows, since the passengers would be much more interested in looking into them than in looking outside. The observation car would have picture mirrors.
The exterior architecture of the Pullmans would vary with each car—ranch house, Georgian, Cape Cod, cottage—small by a waterfall... there would be brass knockers and chimes on the doors. Also, a fireplace in every car, attended, naturally, by a fireman—or firewoman.
Blue Serge Must Go
Those simply horrible blue serge suits on conductors would have to go. They could wear Bermuda shorts in summer and something gaudy like matador uniforms in winter. The tickets would be glamorized—heart-shaped and possibly in booklet form surrounded by advertisements, plus a couple of juicy heartthrob stories for berthtime reading.
Of course, there would be beautiful salon cars, chiropodist cars, a cook-it-yourself diner, a bar serving only pink lady and Alexander cocktails. The train butchers would hawk hors d'oeuvres instead of ham and cheese sandwiches.
When the train wheels whirled to the rails while crossing trestles, it wouldn't sound as if they were saying the traditional "Heinie Manuh... Heinie Manuh will play today." They'd say "Gussie Moran... Gussie Moran...," or maybe, "Elizabeth Secord reigns supreme."

Merv Griffin All Shook Up; His Fans Didn't Like Him Fat

By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP)—Merv Griffin, a singer who used to be fat and happy, is currently slim and hungry.
"I used to weigh 245 pounds. I used to eat anything I wanted to," recalled Griffin with a smack of his lips. "You can imagine how I looked. I'm five-foot-nine."
"In fact, I was so fat early in my career that when I was with this local show in San Francisco, most of the night in a Broadway restaurant, just munching away, embarrassed to send out my picture."
Griffin, lullied into semi-somnolence by the blissful perkings of his digestive system, was unflinched by this treatment. But he did take pause one morning when he was called upon to appear on a local breakfast show with another singer, Joan Edwards.
"Well, Joan heard me sing and she said — 'Merv, you got the end, but the blubber's got to go,'" recalled Griffin.

after that, I almost added up on lettuce leaves."
Griffin hacked off 90 pounds in four months, a feat roughly comparable to negotiating the Sahara in roller skates.
"The terrible thing about sticking to a diet in show business is that the people in it are the greatest eaters in the world," said Griffin. "Everybody's always eating—during rehearsals, before the show, after the show. Lots of people in the business will sit up most of the night in a Broadway restaurant, just munching away."

"And then, of course, when you're out of work, it's even worse. You have nothing to do but eat. I was at liberty for one point last year and ballooned to 180 pounds."
Griffin, 30, a native of San Mateo, Calif., is currently running a daily evening radio show of his own on the American Broadcasting Network. The listening audience never gets a chance to glimpse his svelte figure, but Griffin doesn't mind too much.
"Sure, I'm a little sad about not being fat anymore — I loved eating. I loved the booming laugh I used to have and I loved the way girls used to love me. No kidding, girls like fat men better than thin ones, I've found," he said.
"But then, being thin has its advantages, too. Now, I can dance the mambo without being conspicuous and it's also possible for me to get my arms around a girl. But man, am I hungry!"

Too Fat For Her
"Then two days later, this elderly lady fan came up to me and when she found out who I was, she shrieked—'But you're so fat, I think she got a little hysterical about it because she kept saying it over and over.'"
Griffin was, as another musical observer has put it, all shook up. "I decided maybe I better trim some of it off—television was beginning to come in around then, too, and I figured—my fat had to go," he said.
"I did it the hard way—nothing but steaks, eggs and cottage cheese. I knocked off 11 pounds the first week. I got so enthused."

The OES Gavel Club will meet on Thursday evening at seven in the home of Mrs. O. A. Davis, 335 N. Faulkner, it has been announced by Mrs. Clara Melier, publicity chairman.

BOSTON (UP) — Eight-year-old Aurora Way, who has spent most of her life in Red China, today was getting acquainted with the parents she had not seen in more than seven years.

Regardless of whether Laika was alive or dead, the successful launching of Sputnik II and the world wide acclaim received by Soviet scientists still was having major effects throughout the world.

Aurora's 11-year-old brother, Douglas, advanced shyly, hugged his sister and gave her a toy poolie. Her father, a graduate of Technology, carried her from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, carried her from the airfield.

Arrests Made In Lone Star Steel Strike

HUGHES SPRINGS, Tex. (UP) — Upshur County Sheriff Hub Owens announced today the arrest of four persons in connection with violence in the recent Lone Star Steel Co. strike.

Owens also announced that Cliff Carney, 40, of New Diana, was arrested Saturday on a charge of threatening. His hearing for bond had not been set.

would live only as long as radio signals were emitted from Sputnik II.

Today's official Soviet Communist organ Pravda meanwhile hinted the Soviets were working on a satellite which would pick up energy from the sun.

One of the exhibits at the current Moscow industrial exhibition is a solar transistor. Pravda said scientists were "perfecting techniques wherein this will serve as a powerful instrument for extraction of electricity by the satellites."

The Moscow correspondent of 'Unita' also said the value of experiments on the space dog would have been more valuable "if it had been possible to remove Laika, but this was practically impossible to fulfill."

He then reported the dog was given a sleeping draught which "looked care to ensure a completely tranquil and painless passing away for the little dog" whose plight brought worldwide protests.

Observers said it was merely a more pleasant way of saying the scientists killed the animal now that it was of no more use to them.

There was renewed speculation in Moscow the little dog had been ejected from the satellite in an attempt to get it back to earth, but an official announcement failed to materialize.

Moscow Radio said only the telemetric instruments aboard the second satellite had finished their operations and that all further observations of the satellite would be visual.

This meant the batteries probably had failed aboard Sputnik II a little more than a week after it was sent into space 1,200 miles above the earth. And with the end of the power supply would be the end of radio signals — and the electrical circuit which kept Laika air conditioned and fed.

Planned 7 Day Study Moscow said the program of scientific studies connected with receiving data from the Sputnik "was planned for seven days and at present this program is fully completed."

Regardless of whether Laika was alive or dead, the successful launching of Sputnik II and the world wide acclaim received by Soviet scientists still was having major effects throughout the world.

An Open And Shut Case Of Amnesia

NEW YORK (UP)—Jerry and Alberta Duffie came home from the dance for a bit of an argument Sunday morning, police reported. About 3 a. m., Mrs. Duffie conked Mr. Duffie with a pot.

His eyes kind of glazed over, she said, and he acted as if he didn't know her. When he didn't know the neighbors either, Mrs. Duffie marched Mr. Duffie off to a nearby hospital.

Clear case of amnesia, the hospital said, and ordered an ambulance to take him to Bellevue Hospital's psychiatric ward.

At one minute after noon, the ambulance banged into a car on the East River Drive.

Duffie stirred and turned to his wife. "Where am I?" he demanded. "Don't worry," said Mrs. Duffie. "We're taking you to the hospital."

"Hospital?" shrieked Duffie. "We just got back from the dance."

Case dismissed.

West Texas Is Hit By Snow, Sleet

By UNITED PRESS Snow and sleet hit West Texas Sunday as a cold front moved across the state.

South Texas received the heaviest rains — up to 3 inches in the Kennedy area — and the forecast indicated more moisture for that area through Tuesday.

A slow warming trend was predicted for Tuesday and the five-day outlook for all of Texas called for temperatures near or slightly below normal.

Precipitation will be moderate to heavy in East and Central Texas and moderate in West Texas for the next five days, the forecast said.

It was cloudy over most of the state today and intermittent rain fell in the southern and light drizzle in the Edwards Plateau and South Plains.

The snow and sleet in West Texas melted as it fell. Rain measurements the past 24 hours — included: Brownsville 1.24, Laredo 1.37, Junction 1.21, Cotulla 1.10, Corpus Christi .90, Big Spring .56, Palacios .53, Midland .43, San Antonio .33, Galveston .32, San Angelo .22, Houston .21, Abilene .17, College Station .08, Mineral Wells .07.

'Stone Baby' Removed After 37 Years

CHICAGO (UP) — A "stone baby" was removed last December from a 67-year-old woman who apparently had carried it for 37 years, Holy Cross Hospital has disclosed.

Dr. Edward J. Krol, hospital chief of staff, said the calcified fetus, known as a lithopedion, was discovered in X-rays taken of the woman before surgery for a stomach tumor. She died after the tumor and the stone child were removed.

Krol said the child apparently formed in a fallopian tube instead of the uterus and developed normally for about four months. Then it ruptured the tube, he said, and passed into the mother's abdomen where its nourishment was cut off and it began to calcify.

He said the woman collapsed one day in 1920 while washing dishes. She lost considerable blood he said, and went into a coma. She was treated for intestinal flu.

Krol did not say whether the woman had been unaware of her pregnancy or had believed she suffered a "normal" miscarriage. "It looked like a carved marble statue, with all the features plainly visible," he said of the child.

Three Guilty Pleas Heard

Three cases of driving while intoxicated were handled in Gray County Court today, according to Don Cain, county attorney.

Raymond S. Miller, 506 Warren, was arrested by city police on Saturday at 4:30 p. m. at the corner of Starkweather and Browning.

He pleaded guilty this morning in Gray County Court and was fined $100 and costs and sentenced to three days in jail.

Bill William Wood, Stinnett, was charged in Gray County Court with DWI today following his arrest Saturday after he had been involved in a collision on Hobart at 1 p. m.

He pleaded guilty today and was fined $100 and costs and sentenced to three days in jail.

Floyd Dabbs, 1113 Terrace, pleaded guilty today in County Court to a charge of DWI. He was arrested by city police at 7 p. m. Saturday. He was fined $100 and costs and sentenced to three days in jail.

National Guard Has Annual IG Inspection

The Annual Inspector General Inspection of the 47th Field Battalion National Guard Unit, was held last week, according to CWO William Leonard.

Inspecting General was Col. Ernest Peters, who was accompanied by Lt. Col. Carl E. Kapischkie of the Houston Headquarters, and Lt. Col. Warren J. Beale, Commander of the 47th Field Battalion which has its headquarters in Pampa.

Inspection was made in Dalhart at Battery "B" on Monday; in Dumas on Tuesday at the Battery "A" Armory and in Shamrock at Battery "C" Armory on Wednesday.

The Headquarters staff and Medical Detachment are in Pampa along with the Service Battery which is under the command of Lt. Lawrence Herdie.

Inspection was held on Friday for the Medical Detachment, under command of Lt. Terrance E. Culley.

The Headquarters Unit is under command of Lt. Earl Tarvet. Purpose of the inspection is to check on the progress, training periods, advancement following summer training in the field and to maintain a high level in the maintenance and study of the National Guard.

US Prepares For Challenge Of Russ Scientific Teaching

WASHINGTON (UP)—The United States is preparing to meet the challenge of Soviet education that crams kids so full of science and math, it makes their heads ache—but produces Sputniks and giant rockets.

The U.S. Office of Education released a report Sunday night detailing the extent of Russia's concentration on scientific training in schools and colleges.

The special two-year study showed, among other things, that all Russian students take 10 years of math, five of physics, five of biology, four of chemistry and one year of astronomy by the end of their 10th year in school.

The report is certain to touch off sharp repercussions and controversy among American educators and politicians.

L. G. Derthick, U. S. education commissioner, said in releasing the report it posed a challenge to "every American to reexamine the extent to which we support our Democratic system of education."

He said the report should challenge the country to "take new interest" in meeting school and college needs.

Rep. Elizabeth Kee (R-N.Y.) said the report brought out the "spectacular advances" in Russia's education system and contrasted this with the "sorry attitude" of Americans toward education. She called for passage of a federal school construction bill and greater incentives for science teachers.

Rep. Joel T. Brophy (R-Va.) said he would like to see American schools give more time to "basic studies" instead of to "fringe" courses such as physical education.

Education Seen a Red Tool Derthick said Soviet schools, rigidly controlled by the state, were putting increasing emphasis on education as a tool of the government. But the relentless pursuit of the scientific goal has taken its toll among Russia's young.

The report said nine prominent Soviet physicians charged last year that education authorities endangered the health of school children by over-loading them with lessons and homework.

They cited "chronic over-exhaustion, frequent headaches, weakened memory and vision, proneness to infectious diseases with various complications."

These and other aspects of Soviet education were detailed in the illustrated 226-page report. It was based on data furnished by government agencies, scholars, former teachers in Russia and the Soviet Ministry of Education.

President Eisenhower plans to deliver the second of his "chins up" speeches in Oklahoma City next Wednesday and he undoubtedly will propose new steps to increase the output of scientifically trained Americans.

CoC Directors Meet Today

The regular monthly dinner meeting of the Board of City Development and Pampa Chamber of Commerce directors was to have been held at noon today in the Palm Room of the City Hall.

Principal item on the agenda was to have been the approval of committee chairmen heading the 14 work committees for the coming fiscal year.

Discussions were also to be held concerning the ways and means of building progress of the chamber in the coming year.

Approximately 25 persons were expected to attend the meeting.

troops had poured into France in an increasing tide of power.

From the United States there flowed a wave of money, food, munitions, clothing and the wholehearted support of the American people.

To the war-weary soldiers of the European battle field, of trenches and barricades, word rushed like wild fire, "The Americans have come!"

Early in 1918, the fourth year of the war, American soldiers were in a force of one million in the European theater. These, with the seasoned troops of England, France, and by now, Italy, turned the tide in favor of the Allies, and in the fall of that year, Germany was ready to sue for peace. Her emperor was abdicated, and as one result of the war, Germany became a republic. The Austrian emperor also resigned from his throne.

In a car of a railway train in the Forest of Compiègne, France, the German delegates were received. The car was the office of Marshall Foch and his headquarters. The German delegates came and for three days discussed terms of peace, and at 3 o'clock in the morning of November 11, the Armistice was signed. The greatest war in history was ended.

On November 11, 1918, businesses were closed for the day, people went wild with joy, bells rang, whistles shrieked, and the chimes in all the churches pealed out praise and thanksgiving.

Armistice Day has been celebrated with appropriate ceremonies on each succeeding year since that momentous time, both in this country and abroad. As the years go by it will take its place as one of the most significant dates in modern times. Congress declared the date as a legal holiday in 1921.

A body was taken from the ranks of the unknown war dead and buried in an impressive ceremony in the Arlington Cemetery in Washington. Thus, another war came to an end and unlike former wars, the praise and glory did not go to a general; the chief of glory was given to the unknown dead who had died that their people might live in peace. Their names, like that of the enshrined Unknown Soldier, will never be known. In England, France, and other lands similar shrines have been erected.

Amid the horrors of another great war that has ravaged Europe, the graves of other Unknown Soldiers still give mute yet eloquent pleas that a new peace and an understanding may arise among nations, and that their own sacrifice may not be in vain.

This is Armistice Day, 1957, and the world peace is on a shaky level. Will the deaths of millions be insignificant in handling the present day problems?

Water Bill In Hands Of Senate

AUSTIN (UP)—The administration's water bill, bouncing back and forth between the two houses like a ball, was in the hands of the Senate today as the special session rapidly drew to a close.

The Legislature must pass the bill by Tuesday when the session ends. But Gov. Price Daniel has announced his water and lobby-control program, neither of which has passed the Legislature, will be submitted to a second special session starting Wednesday if they are not passed in this session.

Daniel announced the calling of a second session to pass an anti-troop bill in regard to school segregation. This bill is expected to move swiftly through the Legislature in the second session.

Holds Up Water Bill The House Friday balked at accepting the Senate-approved version of the water bill and substituted its own proposal. Now, the bill is back in the Senate.

The upper chamber has the choice of either accepting the House version, or rejecting the bill and sending it to conference committee to compromise the differences.

Hope was expressed in both House and Senate that the bill would be acceptable to the upper chamber. Studied in Committee Lobby legislation, enacted in different versions by both House and Senate, will be under study in a conference committee.

Competition

Competition is probably here to stay. It has, in fact, become virtually a way of life. But what is competition? Of what elements is it composed? Competition is peaceful action in which two or more persons, firms or organizations, strive to perform the same task at much the same time. It exists in the sports world between individuals who run races or between teams who play games. The individuals run the same races and the fastest is judged the best. The teams play the same games, and the score determines the winner in a complex of rules and actions no one of which is necessarily a deciding factor.

In the business world, competition is discovered existing at two general levels. There are businesses which provide identical products or services and which strive for customer approval on the basis of any number of variables. For example, there are many kinds of vacuum cleaners. Each make secures customers by virtue of some unique characteristic. One type of cleaner will attract buyers largely because of price. Another will be sold because it has so many attachments. Still another will feature a time payment plan, or a particular type of motor, or a specific gadget which is exclusive with it.

This illustrates direct competition. But there is also indirect competition in business. For example, while various makes and models of vacuum cleaners all vie with each other for customer approval, there are other devices such as brooms, dust mops, floor polishers, sweepers and so forth, which, while entirely dissimilar to the vacuum cleaner, can still be noted as competition as attention is given to the job that is being done. These illustrate parallel competition.

But there is still another kind of competition which should be noted. This is the type of rivalry which exists between gangs or organizations specializing in violence and evil. In these cases of rivalry, success crowns the efforts of the most brutal, the most unscrupulous, the most vicious. Few if any kudos go to the gang or organization which falls short of its objectives by virtue of a conscience, or a reluctance to descend to the depths in securing its own way.

In this category, we see such outfits as gangs of hoodlums, labor unions and various governments. These groups of humans achieve pre-eminence only when they are strong. They depend neither on skill nor on public acceptance. Force is the modus they employ and in fact, their aim is constantly to eliminate all rivals. So, while it can be shown that there is competition between various gangs and organizations of this type, it can also be demonstrated that they do not enjoy competition.

Any agency or group which relies on force must, by its nature, abhor free and open competition. While it may pretend to go along with competition since it is known that the idea has such wide public acceptance, the fact remains that it will always seek to eliminate its rivals, or at least to immobilize them and make them ineffective in the area where force is used.

With these things being true, why is it that human beings for long ages of time, have tended to distrust the businessman, who must compete with all his rivals, both direct and parallel, or perish? Yet these same human beings tend to trust some gang or agency of force which is opposed to competition and which survives because of its guns, its bayonets or its unscrupulous behavior.

In the end, people must come to understand, as they seem to understand in sports, that competition is a better disciplinarian than violence. If a pair of tennis players are matched for a championship bout, the public abhors any effort on the part of a gang to influence one of the players to "throw" the match. It lets out a cry of indignation if evidence appears that some unscrupulous manipulator has handicapped one player to the benefit of the other. The very element of competition in sport demands that each player be governed by the same rules, have equal opportunities to score, and that the skill, stamina and knowledge of each player be permitted to combine in utmost effort to win. But this is sport.

In the field of business, the same element of good sportsmanship is strangely lacking. The public seems to enjoy any move made by government which tends to handicap a particular business to the advantage of its competitors. Illustrations are legion. Yet it is the public who suffers if any particular enterprise is subjected to special rules of force and violence thereby curtailing the effectiveness of that particular enterprise.

Inflation What It Is - What It Does

I am continuing to quote from a "Christian Economics" editorial on "Inflation! What It Is - What It Does." Under the heading of "Temptation to Government," the editorial continues:

"Government officials are constantly tempted to tolerate inflation because it seems to make their task easier. Increasing the quantity of money makes the burden of debt lighter. It can be retired in dollars of less value and the interest load grows less as the value of the dollar decreases.

"Government also has a special interest in rising wages for at least 20 per cent of every increase returns to government in income taxes. Suppose labor in some large industry is demanding a 10 per cent increase in wages. Management and union cannot agree, government arbitrators are called in. We can scarcely assume that they and the higher government officials for whom they work are unmindful of the fact that if labor wins an increase of $100 million a year government will receive at least $20 million of it. It is difficult for government officials to resist such temptation.

"In the short run, and before increasing costs take effect, government profits from rising wages. The same is true, of course, of rising salaries, profits and dividends. These plus the temptation of easing the burden of the national debt are a powerful inflationary influence tempting government at all times.

"Spendthrift governments like inflation as it enables them to take the property of their citizens. When it is all seized they are quite willing to re-evaluate and return to sound money. When wealth again accumulates, the temptation to seize it through the medium of inflation is often too great and governments again will leave the gold standard and return to inflation as a means of stealing the goods of their citizens.

Encourages Debt "Inflation encourages installment debt. People know that money retained in banks, bonds, or life insurance gradually loses its purchasing power. Commodities, on the other hand, are steadily increasing in price. One can buy something on two years' time with the fair prospect that it will cost less at the time of purchase than at the time payment is completed. One would reason, therefore, that the more things they bought, even though their equities in them were small, the better his position would be. He would stand to profit from whatever inflation ensued.

Conversely, the smaller the percentage of his total wealth that is in the form of dollars the better off he would be as he would have less on which to lose as inflation progressed. This is one reason why so many people today determine whether or not to purchase something, not alone on the basis of its price, but on whether or not they think they can meet the installment payments. One hears people talking about the prices of various commodities not in terms of the total price but the monthly payments. A refrigerator, for instance, may be $5 a month, a television $10 or a car $40 a month. A home costs not $15,000 but possibly $725 a month.

"If one reckons that the rate of inflation is greater than the rate of interest, the longer his term of payments run the better his position will be. This type of thinking, within limitations, is sound and is no doubt one of the important reasons for the growth of installment debt.

"If we could see the truth of inflation, debts and deficits, before we destroy the economic fabric of our country, we could avoid the terrible suffering and loss that will come upon us if we persist in our mad course of confiscating dollar-savings through the continuing process of expanding the quantity of money and credit.

"The Kremlin tyrants see this matter clearly. One of their chief objectives is to promote inflation for the purpose of destroying our free economy and making us an easy prey to communism. Those who minimize the importance of government debt and deficit, who advocate inflationary spending for war, foreign economic aid or welfare states at home, unwittingly or unwittingly are playing the game of the communist schemers. The only safe way in sound money, balanced budgets and thrift."

Lose Control When government prints paper money that is not redeemable in anything of value in itself, the voters lose control of the government. When there is money that is limited by nature - like gold - rather than politicians printing more money, the government cannot tax enough or borrow enough to meet out its soaring expenses.

It is possible with irredeemable money to benefit some voters by printing others. This can be done only longer with irredeemable paper money than it can with money of value in itself.

It is hard to believe the politicians will stop issuing irredeemable bonds or currency until the dollar becomes practically worthless. It is the history of nations that is what happens when it is made a crime to own money of value in itself.

It would take 33 days for an astronaut to fly to the moon at the speed of 300 miles per hour.

A Transformation In American Thinking Needed

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — A vast store of historical and understandable prejudices held by the American people will have to be swept away, if the United States and its Allies are to meet and match Russia's challenge to the Free World today. The very political leaders who have fostered a respect of the mobilization of physical and intellectual resources, he said, in effect:

"The time has come to forget the height of the tail-fin on the new car, or the depth of the pile on the new rug, and to prepare to shed blood, sweat and tears to save the Free World."

GUNS VS. BUTTER — The ranking Republican on the Senate Military Preparedness Committee implied that, temporarily at least, guns or their equivalent must come before butter. And butter, in this context, means concentration on comforts and luxuries, peak wages and high prices, excessive corporate profits, salaries and dividends.

As Senator Johnson suggests, this grim outlook necessitates "bold thinking." But these are a few of the thoughts spunking in the minds of the anxious men at the Capital today.

The American Way

ACADEMIC SERVICE OR SERFDOM? By Dr. Alfred P. Haake One of the most powerful lobbies maintained in Washington, D. C. is the National Education Association with its more than 704,000 members throughout the United States. With dues at $5.00 a year per member, the NEA enjoyed an income of about three million dollars a year. But, with an expanding program, dues have been raised to $10.00 a year per member, and drive is on for strongly increased membership.

It is interesting to note for what some of the money sought is to be used. According to a booklet soliciting additional members, the NEA plans an expanded program of activity. Among the items in its increased budget are: Field Service. For improving the conditions and quality of teaching, the Association plans to spend $520,000.

Research. To study the problems of teachers, including studies in taxation, so that the NEA will be armed with appropriate facts when legislators say there is no more money for schools. For this item, $415,000.

Welfare. For activity in the development of welfare of their members, as teachers, direct consultative services on salaries, tenure, retirement, security from objectionable pressures, they want to spend $215,000.

Television and Radio. To tell the story of education to the public, to help in the battle of budgets when money is wanted for schools. This will also include press contacts to help. The amount contemplated is $747,000.

Working with Congress. Increased activity to provide further legislative gains for teachers and schools. This will call for a much larger staff in the NEA Legislative Division and more money to be spent in building support for such legislation. The amount for mere $877,200! That is money even in Washington, D. C.

The NEA Journal. Issued nine times a year, this is called the "that binds us together." Helpful articles, lists of new resources, news to keep members informed. The amount required is not stated in dollars, but will take the dues provided by members from Colorado, Florida, Kentucky, Maine, Michigan, New York and Rhode Island barely to pay the bill.

Better Instruction. To provide articles on principles and methods of teaching, for periodicals, work-shops and other services. For this, $500,000.

Department of Classroom Teachers. To strengthen the program of this department and develop its leadership, as well as the prestige of the NEA, through conferences, bulletins and workshops, it is planned to spend $148,500.

It becomes interesting when we group the above items into those which serve the membership and those which can be called propaganda and lobby persuasion. In the service category we can place a total of about $1,417,500. But for lobbying and propaganda, a total of about $1,840,000. Where the rest of the money goes is not revealed in the booklet.

This seems a rather disproportionately high expenditure for propaganda, especially that to be spent on the Congress. But, the real danger can be detected when we realize that a national association avowedly organized in the best interests of teachers and the country, is actually engaged in a program which must eventually destroy the very academic freedom it uses for this purpose, to fasten on the necks of the American people a government so powerful that it not only can take what money it wants for whatever purpose it seeks, out of the pocket of its citizens, but can tell those citizens what to think and believe as well as how to live.

And this, if you please, through federal aid to education. And according to a Supreme Court decision, federal aid gives the government power to control and regulate what it subsidizes. The irony in the process is the folly of buying the most expensive help that education can be given. Federal aid is no more than our own money, paid in taxes, coming back to us minus the cost of collecting, handling and loose spending. For every dollar the government gives to the schools, the taxpayers must pay a little more than two dollars.

Why not keep that education dollar at home and spend it all on our schools, instead of paying 52 cents out of every tax dollar to get back 48 cents in federal aid?

Research. To study the problems of teachers, including studies in taxation, so that the NEA will be armed with appropriate facts when legislators say there is no more money for schools. For this item, $415,000.

Welfare. For activity in the development of welfare of their members, as teachers, direct consultative services on salaries, tenure, retirement, security from objectionable pressures, they want to spend $215,000.

Television and Radio. To tell the story of education to the public, to help in the battle of budgets when money is wanted for schools. This will also include press contacts to help. The amount contemplated is $747,000.

Average European Doesn't Know About Cash From US

By HENRY McLEMORE

MUNICH — If my name were George Trot, and I ran a poll, I'd send a postcard to every citizen of every country which has been helped financially by the United States.

On the postcard would be a dollar sign, and after it each citizen would be asked to mark down his guess at the amount of money the United States has given his country during the past ten years.

I am positive that the guesses would not only surprise me (Mr. George Trot) but would also come as a great shock to the State Department as well as to the U.S. citizens who earned the money that has been given away.

My observations in Europe and the Middle East over the past 18 months or so have convinced me that the average man over here has little or no idea of the aid his country has received.

At various times, in a dozen countries, and at what seemed propitious moments, I have asked foreign acquaintances to make a guess at how much money the U.S. has handed out.

Those asked the question — and I asked it as humbly and as unoffensively as I could — almost invariably said they had no idea. Many said they didn't know their country had received anything from us. They were much more familiar with the rock 'n' roll than they were with the Marshall Plan.

I asked the question of all sorts of people — waiters, hotel help, garage mechanics, owners of small businesses, soldiers, and occasionally a man in what we would call the higher brackets.

Some people in the United States harp on the fact that our country talks too much about the money it gives away, and that one of the main reasons for our unpopularity is that the people resent being indebted to us.

From what I have seen, the opposite is true. They don't feel indebted at all. Maybe the statesmen who handle the loans and gifts resent us, but not the ordinary people.

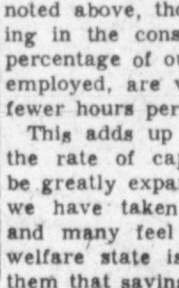

If Uncle Sam wants to be the quiet, anonymous giver, he appears to be succeeding.

It also appears to me that even those who know of the United States' generosity have a very foggy idea of where the money comes from. They don't connect it with the plain, everyday working American. They think of the millions and millions coming from a bulging Fort Knox, and not from the nine-to-five laborers of people like themselves.

The United States should devise some means of getting this information across. It should be made clear to these people over here that the money isn't a deal between cabinet ministers, but a gift or loan from ordinary citizens to ordinary citizens. They should know that the money represents a sacrifice on the part of people no different from themselves.

No one need try to tell me that all foreigners are so callous they wouldn't appreciate a favor from a friend. I think all they need is to know about it.

It's Up To You

Fewer People Working To Support More Non-Workers

By HOWARD KERSHNER, L. H. D.

We live in a time of an explosive birth rate. It is estimated that the population of our country will expand by 60 million during the next eighteen years. During this time the proportion of our people below working age will increase. Moreover, the marked tendency to prolong the period of education and training for our young people further increases the percentage of the population under working age.

At the same time longevity is increasing. The percentage of our citizens who are past retirement age is rising. Not only so, but there is a marked tendency for those who are working to work fewer hours per week.

For these three reasons, therefore, we have fewer people working to support a rapidly increasing number of people both in the pre-work and post-work age groups. As if that were not enough, as noted above, those who are working in the constantly diminishing percentage of our people gainfully employed, are working fewer and fewer hours per week.

This adds up to disaster unless the rate of capital accumulation be greatly expanded. But here too we have taken the wrong road, and many feel that because our welfare state is responsible for them that saving has become relatively unimportant. At a time when savings and capital accumulation is more important than ever we have a sharp reaction against it.

A part of the answers to the above problems would be (1) for parents to assume more responsibility about the growth of the population; (2) not to press the campaign for shorter working hours, until a new balance has been achieved as between the over expansion of the non-working as compared to the working segments of our population; (3) not to force retirement at age sixty-five but to allow and in fact encourage all who are able and willing to continue working to do so. Many will do useful and efficient work far beyond that age, thus tending to restore a more normal relationship between the working and non-working segments of the population.

Finally, we need a return to sound money to emphasize the importance of thrift and saving in order that capital accumulation may be greatly stimulated. Our hope of maintaining our present standard of living, not to mention increasing it, will be to greatly expand the rate of capital accumulation.

When people are responsible for providing their own retirement income, their savings flow into constructive enterprise, capital accumulates and production expands. On the other hand, when government is responsible for retirement income the Social Security tax is spent as rapidly as it is received and nothing is added to capital. The former lays the foundations for continually expanding production by providing more capital, while the latter adds nothing to our capital equipment and paves the way for reduced production as the process of decapitalization gets under way.

Separates in corduroy are ideal for the wardrobe of the young mother-to-be. They are both light and warm for autumn and winter wear and are moderately priced. This girl (left) picks an evening ensemble in brown corduroy with metallic thread and gold buttons. With it, she wears a necklace of golden chains. At home, she wears mid-length and tapered slacks (center). Boldly-striped middie comes with contrasting tie. Out for a walk with her first offspring, this young mother wears suit of wide wale corduroy (right). Jacket has a back belt attached high on each side. The little girl wears miniature car coat and slacks with cuffs of tattersall check flannel. All designs shown here are washable for complete practicality.

Ladies-In-Waiting Lead Active Lives In Pretty Clothes Designed For Them

By GAILE DUGAS NEA Women's Editor NEW YORK (NEA) — Maternity clothes become prettier season by season. The era of the shapeless jacket and skirt has gone and in its place are fashions which follow current trends. The development of the evening fashion in maternity clothes is, of itself, a great departure from what used to be. So are the slacks and at-home wear, the pleated one-piece dress and the really lovely lingerie. Designers are aware that this is a country of young mothers

Girl Scouts are nice people. That remark doesn't surprise you, we are sure, but it does remind us of a nice deed that a group of Girl Scouts recently did for their community. It is the type of thing that is duplicated daily by them and we are glad when someone is thoughtful enough to tell us about it. The Girl Scouts, we are talking about, are members of Intermediate Troop 54, whose members are Mary Cooper, Candy Noblitt, Gay Arndt, Linda Arey, Martha Price, Nan Grady, Kathy West, Julia Wilson, Susan Watson, and Linda Andis.

When Frost Appears On Pumpkins, Good Food Becomes Order Of Day

When the frost is on the pumpkin and good food becomes the order of the day.

So, you'll bring happy smiles to little faces if you have a good supply of these delicious doughnuts on hand. Easier to make than most doughnuts, these are exceptionally light and tender and instead of being fried, they are simply baked in a hot oven for about 10 minutes.

Whole bran cereal is added for good nutty flavor and moistness, and if you wish, frost them with a light confectioners' icing when they've cooled.

BAKED DOUGHNUTS 1 1/2 cups milk, scalded 1/3 cup shortening 1/2 cup sugar 2 teaspoons salt 2 teaspoons nutmeg 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon 1 cup All-Bran (whole bran cereal) 2 cakes compressed or 2 packages dry granulated yeast 1/2 cup lukewarm water 2 eggs, slightly beaten 4 1/2 cups sifted flour 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted

Pour hot milk over shortening. Stir in sugar, salt, spices and All-Bran; cool to lukewarm. Dissolve yeast in lukewarm water; add to All-Bran mixture together with eggs, mixing well. Add flour and mix thoroughly. Cover and let stand in warm place until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour.

Turn dough out on well-floured board; shape into a ball. (Dough will be very soft to handle.) Roll out lightly to about 1/8 inch in thickness. Be careful not to stretch dough. Cut with floured 3-inch doughnut cutter. Place about 2 inches apart on greased baking sheets. Brush with melted butter and let rise in warm place until doubled in bulk, about 20 minutes, about 10 minutes. Cool and ice with thin confectioners' icing or decorate as desired.

Yield: 3 dozen doughnuts, about 3 1/2 inches in diameter.

Refreshments of coffee and cookies were served by the hostess, Mrs. James O. Harris. The next meeting is to be held on Nov. 21 at 8 p.m.

Those present were Mmes. Robert Mitchell, Robert Malone, Talsey Baker, Bob Huston, Clem Followell, H. T. Ziller, James Hart, J. R. Reeve, Bruce Scott, Chas. Bruce, W. J. Felter, George Rorback, William E. West, C. B. Howard and Miss Susie Tucker.

Mrs. Cain Hostess To MM Class Fete

LEFORS — The Mary Martha Sunday School Class of the First Baptist Church met Monday night, in the home of Mrs. Leonard Cain for its monthly social.

Mrs. David Robinson, president, opened the meeting with a prayer, after which discussion followed concerning illness among members and their families. It was agreed that Mrs. Billy Keith, secretary, should be responsible to mail cards to the ill.

A committee composed of the present officers was chosen to select members, who would be best fitted to serve as officers for the coming year, and have its report ready by the next meeting, at which time the officers will be elected.

The Christmas party is to be held in the home of Mrs. Charles Earhart, the date will be decided later.

Refreshments were served by the hostess during the social hour. Members present were Mmes. David Robinson, Leonard Cain, Charles Earhart, Bob Peterson, Albert Stokes, Billy Keith, Wendell Akin, R. E. McDonald, Frank Cooksey, Launa Hill and H. W. Callan.

Aggies May Clinch SW Title In Tilt With Owls

By ED FITTE
United Press Sports Writer
John David Crow & Co., more conservatively known as the Texas Aggies, can wrap up their second straight Southwest Conference championship and their first Cotton Bowl bid since the 1942 game this Saturday afternoon at Houston.

All the Aggies have to do is defeat the dangerous but three-beat-back Rice Owls and the honors automatically fall their way regardless of what happens in the traditional season-closer against Texas at College Station Thanksgiving Day.

Crow and his mates assured themselves of this enviable position last Saturday night when they blunted Southern Methodist's bid for glory with a 19-6 victory—their eighth straight this season, their 14th in a row stretching back into last season and their 17th against lone tie since Turkey Day 1955.

One More Win
The Aggies need only one more victory to assure themselves a title tie, but a loss to Rice would leave the door open for the Owls to slip into the Cotton Bowl even if the Aggies bounced back to whip Texas for the share of the crown. Rice would also have to overcome Texas Christian and Baylor for that to happen.

While the Aggies make their big pitch at Houston Saturday, Texas entertains TCU at Austin and Arkansas invades Dallas against SMU. Baylor will be idle. On the basis of the defense the Owls threw up against Arkansas in defeating the Razorbacks 13-7 last week, the Aggies won't be in for an easy afternoon. But, they haven't had a romp all season as team after team keyed itself in an effort to upset the champs.

SMU gave signs of it for three quarters, even calling up a musty spread formation, but in the end, the Aggie defense prevailed and Crow and teammate Roddy Osborne furnished the punch that put the Mustangs back in their place.

Osborne scored once to take over the loop scoring lead with 42 points, while Crow scored and converted to move into fourth place in the scoring race with 31 points.

Three Top Bowl Invitations May Follow Saturday Games

By JOHN GRIFFIN
United Press Sports Writer

Three of post-season football's choicest plums — both berths in the Rose Bowl and the host bid to the Cotton Bowl — may be picked next Saturday but the first bowl bid already has gone to Oklahoma.

The Big Eight championship and the Orange Bowl berth that goes with it both were nailed down by Oklahoma on Saturday with its 39-14 romp over Missouri — the Sooners' 47th straight win in a record streak and 64th straight league victory.

Ohio State, a 20-7 victor over Purdue, can nail down the Big Ten title by beating Iowa this week for one Rose Bowl spot and the other will go to Oregon if it can whip Southern California.

Texas A&M, the nation's No. 1 team with a 19-6 win over Southern Methodist on Saturday night, can officially clinch the Southwest Conference crown and the host bid to the Cotton Bowl by beating Rice. Right now the figuring is that the Aggies' New Year's Day foe might be the winner of the Army-Navy game on Nov. 30—or, if neither service school is willing, Mississippi and Tennessee might be in the picture.

Here's the current view of the other big bowl games:

Sugar — Ineligibility of Auburn, the Southeastern Conference leader, and the fact Army wouldn't accept because of racial laws, leaves this one cloudy but Mississippi, Tennessee, and Mississippi State are believed in contention.

Orange — Duke, which tied Navy, 6-6, on Saturday, appears most likely foe for Oklahoma.

Gator — West Virginia's 7-6 upset of Pittsburgh makes the Mountaineers a strong possibility for one berth with the other wide open.

Here's the situation now in the major conference races:

Big Ten — Ohio State on top with a 5-0 record to Iowa's 4-0-1 with their meeting this week the decider; Pacific Coast — Oregon still leads with 5-1-0 despite 13-6 loss to Washington and needs to win only one of two remaining to clinch bowl berth; Southeastern — Auburn, 5-0-0, has two left against weaker opponents than has Mississippi, 4-0-0; Atlantic Coast — Duke 4-0-1 with two left, North Carolina St. 4-0-1 with one league game left; Southern — VMI, 4-0-0, has two left and West Virginia, 3-0-0, only one; Southwest — Texas A&M, 4-0-0, can clinch this week;

PALYS GETS SECOND TRY
CINCINNATI (UP) — The Cincinnati Redlegs are hopeful that Stan Palys will be able to break into their hard-hitting lineup next year in his second chance to make good in the majors. Palys hit .359 for Nashville last season.

Skyline — Utah St., 4-1-0, leads Brigham Young, 3-1-1, with one each left; Ivy — Princeton, 5-0-0, and Dartmouth, 4-0-1, seem headed for showdown on Nov. 23.

Duke's tie with eighth-ranked Navy and 10th-ranked Oregon's loss to Washington were among the few surprises on a weekend that saw the nation's top seven teams all win. Perhaps the top upset of the day was North Carolina State's 7-4 loss to five-time-beaten William & Mary.

The Texas Aggies broke a 6-4 tie to beat SMU; third-ranked Auburn had to come from behind a 7-0 score to beat Mississippi State, 15-7; fourth-ranked Michigan State crushed Notre Dame, 34-8; fifth-ranked Iowa beat Minnesota, 44-20; Army won over Utah 39-33; 3-0-0, only one; Southwest — Texas A&M, 4-0-0, can clinch this week;

Abilene, Garland Claim Spots In State High School Playoffs

By UNITED PRESS

Defending champions Abilene and Garland, neither of which are given too much chance of repeating, are among the 11 teams expected to sew up spots in the Class AAAA and AAA state schoolboy football playoffs this week.

Coach Chuck Moser's Abilene Eagles, winners of 45 straight games, need only to defeat Midland Friday night, to assure themselves of a return trip to the playoffs, where they'll meet El Paso Austin in the opening bi-district round.

Coach Bill Ellington's Garland Owls, who have lost two and tied one in eight starts this season, still are unbeaten in their district and can sew it up by defeating Fort Worth Brewer Friday night. The Owls would likely meet either McKinney or Gainesville in the opening round.

Sew Up Playoffs
Five clubs in AAAA and two in AAA already have sewed up their playoff spots although the regular season has two weeks to run. These include El Paso Austin, Highland Park, Texarkana, Houston Bellair and Galena Park in AAAA and Brenham and San Benito in AAA.

In addition to Abilene and Garland, other clubs needing only a victory this week end to make the playoff grade are Amarillo High, Austin High and Alice in AAAA, Sweetwater, Hockley, Killean or La Vega, Nederland, Eagle Pass and Cuero in AAA.

Most of them are expected to make it, but there are potential upsets in the making in the Breckenridge vs. Weatherford, Eagle Pass vs. Del Rio and Cuero vs. Kingsville contests.

Not Much Trouble
Amarillo isn't expected to encounter too much trouble against Borger, and neither is Austin against Austin Travis nor Alice against Laredo.

Sweetwater isn't expected to be extended by Lamesa, nor is Nederland by Vidor. Killean and La Vega or both undefeated in their district, while Eagle Pass' foe, Del Rio, also has an unblemished district mark. Del Rio,

Undefeated

By UNITED PRESS

An even 30 teams, eight of them blemished by ties, remain undefeated as the Texas schoolboy football season rolls heading toward the state playoffs opening next week in Classes AA and A. Port Neches in AAA, Coleman and Giddings in AA fell from the perfect record ranks last week while once-tied Mount Vernon of AA also met defeat.

Class AAAA has four perfect teams and one with a tie; AAA has only one perfect team, but has three with ties; AA has nine undefeated-untied members and two with ties, while AA has seven perfect eleven and two with ties.

CLASS AAAA
El Paso Austin (7-0-1, 17-73) idle.
Abilene (8-0, 276-47) vs. Midland.
Amarillo High (8-0, 334-90) at Borger.
Dallas Tech (8-0, 232-58) vs. Dallas Sunset.
Austin High (8-0, 232-26) vs. Austin Travis.

Corpus Christi Ray (8-0, 288-15) vs. Corpus Christi Carroll.
CLASS AAA
Nederland (8-0, 301-43) vs. Vidor.
El Campo (7-0-1, 153-47) at Yockum.
San Antonio Edison (7-0-1, 206-45) at New Braunfels.
Cuero (8-0-1, 225-64) vs. Kingsville.

Chagrined Texas Western winds up its league slate this week against league's Arizona at Tucson; Hardin-Simmons plays one-time Border loop king, Texas Tech, at Lubbock; West Texas plays Drake at Des Moines, Ia., and the New Mexico Aggies entertain Omaha at Las Cruces.

Hardin-Simmons handed Arizona its sixth setback against a tie last week with a 26-20 decision that gave the Cowboys a 2-2 league mark and 4-3 for the season.

West Texas, which has ended its league play with a 3-1 record, downed Abilene Christian 12-2 for its seventh victory in nine starts, while the New Mexico Aggies dropped their sixth game in seven tries to McMurry 25-6.

Hornets Take District In Win Over Booker, 39-34

The Mobette Hornets rolled to the district championship on Saturday night as they downed Booker, 39-34, in a hard-fought six-man game played on the Hornets' home field.

Facing the Mobette team to the win was Clifton Simpson, Paul and Dan Hathaway, Tommy Corcoran and Archie Scribner, who all accounted for a part of the Hornets scoring.

Next Friday the Hornets will meet Flomot in a non-district encounter.

Before the game, Mobette had trailed Booker one half game in the district standings.

Head mentor Paul Kitchens, serving his first year at Mobette, brought the team through the season with only one loss, that being to Booker in the first encounter of the two teams earlier in the season.

First game in the bi-district playoffs will be with either Beulah or Spade, which will be played in two weeks.

Next Friday the Hornets will meet Flomot in a non-district encounter.

Whatever happened to... JAMES J. BRADDOCK
By UNITED PRESS

The depression and a fading fight career sent Jim Braddock back to the New Jersey docks in 1923 to feed his hungry family. Only a year later, in a com' s'ek he launched to get an occasional extra payday, he became boxing's "Cinderella man" by upsetting 8-1 favorite Max Baer for the heavyweight championship of the world.

In 1937, in as gallant a fight as a fighter ever made, he lost the crown by an eight-round knockout to young Joe Louis.

Whatever happened to Jimmy Braddock? Today, at 81, he owns a ship's chandler store dealing in surplus supplies and personally runs the thriving business at North Bergen, N.J.

Browns, Forty-Niners Cling To Leads

By EARL WRIGHT
United Press Sports Writer

The Cleveland Browns, gulping snuff pills while starving the opposition, and the San Francisco Forty-Niners, beaten before the National Football League's biggest crowd, clung to one-game division leads in the wake of Sunday's action.

The Browns, who have been taking thousands of special pills to build up their strength, shut out the Pittsburgh Steelers, 24-0, to retain their Eastern lead over the New York Giants. New York kept on Cleveland's heels by downing the Chicago Cardinals, 27-14.

The Detroit Lions and Baltimore Colts, tied for second behind San Francisco, cut the gap to one game by whipping Eastern Division opponents. Bobby Layne threw three touchdown passes to pace Detroit to a 27-16 triumph over the Philadelphia Eagles and Johnny Unitas dashed three yards in the last minute to give Baltimore a 21-17 victory over the Washington Redskins.

Goal in Last Minute
Rick Casares bolted nine yards with a minute remaining to give the Chicago Bears a 21-14 victory over the Green Bay Packers in the other game.

Cleveland now boasts the league's best record, 8-1. New York has a 5-2 mark. Pittsburgh, which invaded Cleveland tied with New York and with a chance to tie for the Eastern lead, fell two games behind the Browns. San Francisco stands at 5-2, while Detroit and Baltimore have 4-3 records.

Norm Van Brocklin, booed so often in the Coliseum, sent his biggest single audience home happy. He threw scoring passes of 13 and 50 yards to Bob Boyd while completing 14 of 23 for 224 yards to spark the Ram offense.

Cleveland scored touchdowns on Tommy O'Connell's heaves of 49 yards to Ray Renfro and 18 to Preston Carpenter plus Don Paul's 49-yard dash with a Billy Walls fumble.

Frank Gifford, bedded Saturday with a flu attack, played his best game of the season for New York, defending league and Eastern Division champion. Gifford ran 24 yards for the team's last touchdown after his running and recapping helped set up Charley Conerly's 32-yard scoring pass to Bob Schnelker and 13-yarder to Kyle Rote plus two 17-yard Ben Agajanian field goals. Ollie Matson plunged a yard and ran 57 for the Cardinal touchdowns at Yankee Stadium.

Layne, whose ribs were badly bruised at San Francisco last week, lifted his taped-up frame off the bench in the second period at Philadelphia and rallied the Lions by completing six consecutive passes for three touchdowns.

The Redskins took a 17-14 lead on Sam Baker's 37-yard field goal early in the final period at Washington. But the Colts, beaten twice in the final minute while dropping their three previous starts, won with 50 seconds to go when Unitas capped an 86-yard march with an end run.

Zeke Bratkowski's 21 and eight-yard passes to Willie Galimore and Galimore's 15-yard run set up Casares' victory dash for the Bears at Chicago.

Archer Favored Over DeCola

NEW YORK (UP) — Welterweight Jimmy Archer is favored at 7-5 to register his 12th straight victory tonight in a return TV fight with Tony DeCola at St. Nicholas Arena.

Their 10-rounder will be televised by Dumont at 10:30 p.m. e.s.t.

Aggressive Archer, a slam-bang stevedore from New York's pier 86, won a split and loudly protested decision over Brooklyn's clever DeCola at St. Nick's, Sept. 30.

The voting was 6-4, 6-4, 4-6 but Archer's face was so bloodily carved he hasn't fought since. Meanwhile DeCola registered an upset technical knockout over Tony DiBiase (?) on Oct. 18. It was the same DiBiase who had lost a close verdict to Archer last May 12.

Jimmy, 22, is favored to beat DeCola, 21, again because of his aggressiveness and his winning momentum. Also because his 13-0 record includes seven knockouts.

Orchid Man Has Paris Bistro

Whatever Happened To... GEORGES CARPENTIER
By UNITED PRESS

Known as boxing's "Orchid Man," Georges Carpentier fought in every division from flyweight through heavyweight in his 19-year career, ending in 1926 and in his first American fight flattened Battling Levinsky for the world light heavy title. Then began a fabulous build-up. It ended in boxing's first million-dollar gate, at Boyle's Thirty Acres, Jersey City, N.J., July 2, 1921. When Carpentier met tigerish Jack Dempsey — and was knocked out in four rounds.

Whatever happened to Georges Carpentier? At 63, he's still a familiar figure on the boulevards of Paris, owner of a plush new bistro that gives him no strain. It's open only three hours daily.

During the historic Boston Tea Party of 1773, the tea, dumped in the harbor, was valued at nearly $60,000.

Shepherd To Speak At Gas Meeting

John Ben Shepherd, former Texas Attorney General, will deliver the principal address at the Panhandle Plains Regional meeting of the NGA on the Herring Hotel, Amarillo, Texas, on November 22, 1957.

Mr. Shepherd is presently Secretary-Treasurer of the Odessa Natural Gasoline Company of Odessa, Texas.

NGAA Vice President A. L. Vaughan, of the Northern Natural Gas Company, Omaha, Nebraska, will give the opening remarks at the morning session, and will be followed by a technical session. Presiding at the morning session will be C. A. Cash, Vice President of the Shamrock Oil and Gas Corporation, Amarillo.

Technical papers to be heard by more than 300 gas processing plant supervisory and management personnel will include: "Problems of Field Boosters," by E. O. Nelson, Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Company, Kansas City, Missouri; "Petroleum Chemicals in the Texas Panhandle," by Harrison Hays, Phillips Petroleum Company, Bartlesville, Oklahoma; "Hydrogen Blistering," by C. M. Schillmoller, of the International Nickel Company, Los Angeles, California; "Fundamentals of Gas Chromatographic Analysis," by K. H. Clough, of W. H. Curtin & Company, Houston.

In addition, there will be a panel discussion on plant operational problems. "What's Wrong With My Plant?" The panel members, all recognized authorities on plant design and operation, are: Gene Mott, consultant, Tulsa, Oklahoma; Earl Nutter, Nutter Engineering Company, Tulsa; C. P. Stanley, Dresser Engineering Company, Tulsa; and Will Swerdloff, Magnolia Petroleum Company, Dallas.

Part of the panel discussion will be an open question and answer period for participation by those attending the meeting.

A. F. Cox, president of the Amarillo Oil Company, Amarillo, is general chairman of the meeting.

After the technical session, there will be a short fellowship hour, courtesy of the Natural Gasoline Supply Men's Association, with Ernest Oakley of Clowe and Cowan, Inc., Amarillo, in charge.

A dinner will conclude the meeting. Toastmaster for this event will be E. L. Greene Jr., vice president of Cabot Carbon Company, Pampa.

The projected plan to combine research and development for mutual benefit.

Makeup of the British team was expected to be completed in a few days. It would leave immediately thereafter for the United States.

Roberto's Lover To Seek Divorce

By CHARLES W. RIDLEY
United Press Staff Correspondent

ROME, Nov. 9 (UP)—Roberto Rosellini and Mrs. Sonali Das Gupta today made plans to return to India where she will file suit for divorce so she can marry the Italian movie producer, it was reported.

Friends of Mrs. Das Gupta's father said in Calcutta that she had gone to Paris to "engineer" a legal separation between Rosellini and actress Ingrid Bergman and that this had been accomplished.

Applies for Visa

Rosellini has applied for a new visa to return to India and reports from New Delhi said the government would grant it.

Informed sources said the government at first hesitated because of the publicity over Rosellini's romantic affairs, but gave its permission when a friend intervened.

Asked about reports that Mrs. Das Gupta was pregnant, her father told a newsman in New Delhi that he was surprised. However, he said he still would take her back if she returned to her family.

"All is Forgiven"

He said all would be forgiven if she returned home and predicted that if she gets a divorce and weds Rosellini the marriage would be a failure.

An earlier report in New Delhi said the Indian girl, mother of two children by Das Gupta, already had filed for divorce in India on grounds her husband used to secure the patronage of film magnates to further his own career.

However, friends of her father said there was no prospect that Mrs. Das Gupta would be free to marry Rosellini soon because in Indian divorce laws were very stringent.

Britain To Send Team To US

LONDON, Nov. 9 (UP)—Britain will send a hand-picked team of experts to the United States shortly to help organize a joint scientific general staff, official sources said today.

The move is an outgrowth of the recent Washington talks between President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan which included discussion of the need for closer Anglo-American scientific cooperation in the face of Soviet advances.

Chief task of the experts Britain will send to Washington will be to plan closer alignment research and development.

Sir Frederick Brundrett, chief scientific adviser to the defense ministry, was expected to head the British group.

William Penney, director of the atomic weapons program, and Robert Cockburn, head of the British guided missiles development program, also were expected to be named to the group.

The sources said the United States, in turn, will send a committee of experts to London under Joins MOTHBALL FLEET—The USS Iowa, with a delegation of 20 Iowaans aboard, steams out of Hampton Roads for her trip to Philadelphia to join the mothball fleet. Thus the USS Wisconsin becomes the Navy's last active battleship. The Wisconsin is slated to join the Iowa in mothballs at a date not yet announced. In background is Old Point Comfort, Va., and Fort Monroe.

Western Moves Station

The Western Company, oil well servicing concern with headquarters in Midland, has moved its Odessa station from West Second Street to a new location four miles west of Odessa on U. S. Highway 80, reports H. E. Chiles, Jr., president.

The station is Western's largest from standpoint of building area, equipment and shops.

The shop building, with 12,400 square feet of floor space, contains a paint shop for Western's equipment, and is completely fire-proof and can be totally sealed.

Offices are located in a building separate from the shop and have a 2,500 square feet of floor space.

The new Odessa station has an extensive intercommunications system which provides contact with all offices and departments of the station.

Western operates eight other district stations in four state areas, offering logging, perforating, fracturing and acidizing services.

Surgeon General's Statement On Toy Lead Poisoning

Dr. Leroy E. Burney, surgeon general of the Public Health Service, issued the following statement concerning the potential hazard of lead poisoning from children's toys.

"Recent public statements have suggested that paint used on toys, especially imported toys, now on sale in retail stores constitutes a serious hazard to American children.

"The Public Health Service, in response to numerous inquiries, has studied this matter with the informal assistance of a group of consultants who are experts in lead poisoning. From our own studies and the report of the consultants, we have found there are no published data which suggest either the direct involvement of painted toys in lead poisoning among children or any alteration in this situation during the last decade. There is, therefore, no occasion for special alarm at this time.

"Nearly all cases of lead poisoning in children are reported among those in the age-group one to three who have eaten considerable quantities of lead paint from walls, windowsills, home-painted furniture, or other surfaces accessible to the toddler child, usually in older houses painted with old-fashioned lead paint.

"Parents should be alert to the threat of lead poisoning in small children, and should try to prevent the chewing or licking of painted surfaces of all kinds."

Woman Is Aroused From 'Hypnotic Hibernation'

By ART UNDERWOOD
United Press Staff Correspondent

(CHICAGO, Nov. 11 (UP)—A Rip Van Winkle housewife was aroused from hypnotic hibernation today, skeptical about having slept five days in a "heavenly" trance.

Mrs. Nora Hughes, 27, ex-preared diabetical when she was awakened by hypnotist Edwin L. Baron from the deep sleep in which he placed her last Monday.

"When are we going to start?" she asked Baron groggily.

"When told she had been dosing peacefully 20 to 22 hours daily since Monday, the East Gary, Ind., mother of three children replied:

"You can say it but I won't believe it."

Finally, Mrs. Hughes — who lay on a bed in Baron's office before a crowd of newsmen — accepted the fact after receiving confirmation from several of Baron's co-workers.

Gains Four Pounds

Dr. Daniel Thomas, Gary, Ind., who examined Mrs. Hughes after she woke up, said she had gained four of the five pounds she hoped to realize in the experiment, jumping from 102 to 106 pounds. Her pulse and respiration were normal, Thomas said.

Baron returned Mrs. Hughes from her trance slowly, telling her softly she would count to three and she would awaken.

As Mrs. Hughes' husband, Virgil, watched, Baron counted and the woman began stirring. Opening her eyes, Mrs. Hughes looked at Baron and asked when he planned to begin the experiment to which she agreed in hope of gaining weight and losing nervousness.

About five minutes later, Mrs. Hughes looked at her hand and noticed a rash that had bothered her hand had disappeared.

"Just Went to Sleep"

"You've done something to my hand," she accused Baron.

"It's mighty strange," she said. "I feel as though I just went to sleep."

Friday, at the first news conference ever conducted under hypnosis, Mrs. Hughes told newsmen it "feels like heaven. It feels like pins or needles sticking in me... but it feels good."

During hypnosis, Mrs. Hughes was fed regularly by staff members of the Hypnotism Institute of Chicago, headed by Baron, where the experiment was conducted.

WASHINGTON — Assistant Defense Secretary Paul D. Foote, in denying charges before a congressional subcommittee that interservice rivalry delayed the U.S. satellite and rocket programs: "This is absolute nonsense. The rivalry that has existed has accelerated the missile program. The real reasons are we are behind that the Russians started earlier." George Washington Carver discovered more than 300 uses for the peanut.

Global Reporter Asks:

How Craven Can US Get?

(Editor's Note: Pulitzer Prize winner Fred Sparks found himself in an angry mood when he returned to New York from the crisis-ridden Turkish border and the equally touchy Far East recently. What he has to say below is not calculated to make Americans proud of themselves; if it helps shake them up, it will have achieved its aim.)

By FRED SPARKS
NEA Special Correspondent
NEW YORK (NEA) — I have just circled the world looking at the human and material defenses against communism on the hem of Red China and Soviet Russia. I have seen the bold determination of free men within pistol — not Sputnik — shot of the threatening tyranny.

"They are not afraid. And now I have returned to America to find my countrymen — far too many of them reacting to the Soviet scientific circus in a manner hysterical, cowardly, I am ashamed.

"How fast are we, how soft, how craven?"

Last week in a maneuver field in Turkey — within one hour from a Soviet airstrip — an officer said:

"We have no air force, really, none of the new gadgets. The Russians can put in the field 10 men for every one of ours. With their Syrian allies they border us for 1,000 miles. And each night their radio — which we hear clearly in our homes — spells out what terrors they plan for us.

"All right. Let them come. When they will kill many, many. Meanwhile, why worry?"

This week in the looming richness of Manhattan an American of considerable income and education said: "What does NATO and all our treaties mean today? Nothing. Suppose the Soviets attack Turkey — or even England?"

"What will we do? Nothing. What can we do? They have Sputnik and the ICBM."

His words, his face, made me ill. This from an American! This from an American whose brother — a fine boy with football shoulders and a brainfull of dreams — died on a stinking Pacific beach with a curse on his lips for the enemy.

Three weeks ago at a primitive port on Formosa the young captain of an armed Nationalist junk whose rail craft nightly patrols the Straits within full, naked view of Red Chinese shore batteries said: "If the Reds attack Quemoy and Matsu they might overwhelm us. But — oh! — they will pay heavily. We do not ask the Americans to stand on those islands by our side. But I assure you the bullets you have given us will be well spent."

This week, standing on a thick carpet in a prosperous duplex whose windows frame New York's skyline an industrialist said: "I certainly have sold many of my stocks and I'm going to dump more. The whole global balance of power has been changed by Sputnik and Moscow's rockets. . . . 'I'm a business man, I face facts, I'm not a gambler.'"

He might have an adding machine for a mind — he certainly has a limp twist of jelly for a backbone.

Four weeks ago I interviewed a refugee priest in a house of quiet retreat on a Hong Kong hill. When the morning mist cleared we looked onto the gray-green flatness of captured mainland China. He said: "Yes, they fore the habit off Sister Wu and they made filthy obscene gestures in front of her and they kept her on her feet 36 hours without food or drink.

"They demanded she sing a confession accusing Bishop X (an American) of being a spy and an spreading United States' war of warfare. She only said two words, over and over again like a gentle chant: 'Not true . . . not true . . . not true . . .'

"This week, in a Gotham cocktail lounge hazy with tobacco smoke and delicate perfumes a political commentator, full of sources and opinions, said: "I'm a realist. We must all be realist. The Soviets are so far ahead of us in science, in laboratory techniques, we must re-examine all our commitments.

"We dare not chance a war. We must sit down and compromise."

Is the word compromise? Or is the word crawl?

Are the hides of the professional Cassandras of press and radio, gone fleshy with the canapes of Washington's diplomatic beat, any more precious than the skin of Free Vietnamese soldiers guarding the jungle paths leading to the Communist neighbor?

Salgou isn't swallowing tranquilizers tonight.

Is the wretched American politician who indirectly plays proponent for Moscow by gawking in wonder at Sputnik and downgrading all our efforts a more competent judge of Russia's ability than the mayor of the Greek town who fought — and humbled — Communist guerrillas?

Athens isn't crying havoc tonight.

Does the discredited, party-line New England chemistry teacher now crying for an end to U.S. atomic tests for fear it will agitate the "powerful" Russians have more to lose than the Turkish statesman who rejected a threatening Soviet note with the curt finality of a man brushing an insect off his lapel?

Ankara isn't asking for fresh disarmament talks tonight.

This I believe: If America lives one thousand years the twitters, jitters, near panic of the last several weeks will be our darkest hour.

I am sure the fever will soon pass. Sputnik is for all men a new beginning. For America it is certainly not the end.

Central Tire Works Features Skid Resistant Mud Tires

Better than ever — the mud and snow tire with the traction: that's the Central Tire Works recap tire. Central Tire, 618 E. Frederic, MO 4-3781, makes this high-traction tire from live, cold rubber according to the precision requirements of Ward Maddox, owner and operator of Central Tire, and his son, Vernon.

The get-up-and-go tread is yours on any passenger car tire from the Tin Lizzie to Cadillac size.

Central Tire, one of the most modern and efficient tire shops in the United States, has retreads for just about every passenger automobile and truck in this area.

In addition Central Tire Works repairs all sizes and types of tires from small passenger car tires to giant tractor tires.

Tire Reliners

There is a special money-saver at Central Tire: tire reliners for all tractor, truck and passenger car tires. These cord reliners (just like tires without the outside rubber) add years of service to tractor, truck and passenger car tires. If you have trouble getting a tractor tire, put in a reliner! Then you will get years more of service from your old tire.

For Panhandle traveling, particularly on unpaved roads and on leases, use Central Tire's Mud and Snow Tires — they grip. They dig in and move you.

This tire tread was designed to give traction unequalled by any other pattern. These tires, described by some customers as "mean looking," have the go-power to carry you to and away from leases, along dirt roads and over snow and ice.

Try these mud and snow tires on your passenger cars and on your pickup vans. You'll agree: you can't beat them.

Retreads

To retread your tires, Central Tire Works offers you 24 hour service, a feature made possible because Central Tire has increased its capacity 33 per cent.

In the 24 hours during which your tires are being recapped or repaired, you use the tires loaned to you FREE OF CHARGE!

Only the newest, most modern Bacon molds are used by Central Tire Works to retread tires for both passenger cars and trucks. These molds protect the life of the tires because of the low temperature in which they are used.

Experts at Central Tire use steam bags to apply pressure only where that pressure is needed to make repairs. That is why there is no damage to the tire body! This shop also has the best methods and materials known for repairing tubeless tires. Such repairs include punctures, invisible leaks. Progressive Central Tire is equipped to vulcanize and size truck or tractor tire. Equipment here is designed to handle the largest and smallest tires.

Inspections

Before any tire leaves this shop it must pass several rigid inspections. On a retread the body is inspected before the tread is applied. Another inspection is made when the tread is placed on the carcass. Still another inspection is made when the work is completed.

Central Tire Works concentrates on tire repair and retread. You are invited to visit this place at 618 E. Frederic, MO 4-3781, at any time. This visit will be of interest to you, and you will be guided by Ward Maddox, owner and operator. Come in today.

IT'S TOPS—Central Tire Works' deluxe tread design is skid-resistant and is made from live, cold rubber to precision requirements. This tire shown by Ward Maddox, owner-operator, has the traction-power worthy of Central Tire Works, 618 E. Frederic, MO 4-3781. Other products of this firm include the complete line of retreads, all of which are made to give new tire service and which fits most all cars, trucks, Central Tire Works repairs all sizes of tractor and truck tires, and has made a specialty of repairing new tubeless tires. For all tire needs, drive in today: Central Tire Works, 618 E. Frederic, MO 4-3781.
