Misbehavior Is Entirely Normal All Children Misbehave; Some

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of three dispatches in which Dr. Fritz Redl, a leading psychologist, discusses the problem of child misbehavior. Today he tells how a parent can distinguish between "normal" and "neurotic" misbehavior.

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP) — All children misbehave. Most misbehavior is entirely normal. Once in a great while, misbehavior is the surface symptom of emotional illness which requires professional treatment.

Unfortunately for parents it is not always easy to distinguish neurotic conduct from normal mischief. But there are significant differences which can be spotted.

For this, you have the word of Dr. Fritz Redl, whom many regard as the world's leading authority on "disturbed" children. Redl is chief of the laboratory for child research at the National Institute of Mental Health.

"The first thing I would impress upon parents," he said in an interview, "is that you cannot judge

Chemical Responsible For 'Femaleness' Is Isolated

Science Today
By DELOS SMITH
United Press Science Editor
NEW YORK (UP)—A chemical compound largely responsible for femaleness in women has been isolated from ladino clover in a higher potency than from other sources.

It raises the immediate question of whether females have more or less femaleness because of what they eat—or don't eat.

The compound is estrogen which has a number of variants but all serving the common purpose of enhancing and maintaining femaleness. The new Estrogen was isolated and then reduced to a pure substance by a team of scientists in the U. S. Agricultural Research Laboratory in Albany, Calif.

Found in Other Grasses
Estrogens were isolated previously from subterranean and red clover and they are suspected of existing in alfalfa, and in rye, orchard and blue grass. From previous discoveries, it had been deduced that the females of animals feeding on such stuff have their functional femaleness affected by the amount of estrogen in their food.

It has been suggested, for instance, that milk cows give more milk but, on the other hand, female sheep are less fertile, since excessive estrogens can submerge other hormones, in this case, the hormone essential for the initiation of pregnancy.

Not only femaleness, but maleness as well. For instance, estrogenic meadows, it is suspected by scientists, fatten steers for market faster—by providing the female chemical which dampens male smoliness and tends to push males toward female placidity. So the discovery of the six Al-

Nation-Wide Effort To Find Diabetics

A nation-wide effort to find almost one million Americans who are unsuspecting victims of a puzzling and sometimes fatal disease, will get underway on November 17 to 23, during Diabetes Week.

The purpose: to find those who are still undetected victims of diabetes so that they may get proper, and possibly life-saving, medical care.

Authorities estimate that there are now about two million diabetics in the United States. That means that one person in every 40 is a victim of the ailment. Even more important, they point out that about 4,750,000 living Americans are likely to develop diabetes in the future.

The importance of early detection of diabetes can't be overstated, according to these medical experts, Dr. Howard Root, medical director of Boston's Joslin Clinic, a world-famous diabetes treatment and research center, says that 12 to 15 per cent of all patients admitted to the clinic in diabetic coma are unaware that they have diabetes. In contrast, statisticians at the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, attribute the gradual decline in diabetes mortality to early diagnosis and treatment.

In recent years, diabetics have been able to live practically normal lives with daily self-injections of insulin, careful diets and constant hygienic care. Good news for diabetics came in 1937 with the development of Orinase, a remarkable oral drug that can replace the insulin injection in selected cases of mild diabetes.

In the diabetic, the pancreas fails to produce sufficient insulin, a hormone which helps to convert carbohydrates — sugar and starches — into "fuel" for body energy. As a result, the body uses other resources — such as fat and protein — for energy. Unless better conversion of carbohydrates is made possible for the diabetes victim, it eventually leads to coma and even death.

For hundreds of years, doctors could find no way to combat the ailment and severe diabetics frequently had a very short life span. In 1921, two Canadian scientists found a way to extract insulin from the pancreas of animals, and manufacture of the vitally needed hormone followed soon after.

From the very moment that insulin was made available, a world-wide laboratory search began for an easier way to reduce the diabetic's abnormally high blood level of "unconverted" sugars, a substance that could be taken by mouth. Insulin worked well, but when taken in tablet form it was destroyed by digestive juices before it reached the blood stream. The problem of a pill for diabetes took more than two decades to solve.

Last June, The Upjohn Company announced the development of a tablet that would reduce the diabe-tic's high blood sugar level. Tested on thousands of American patients in one of the largest medical trials of its kind, Orinase is now being used by 250,000 diabetics.

The development of Orinase means a new way of life, and "freedom from the needle", for millions of diabetes victims throughout the world. And the discovery of the new drug has also served to emphasize the need for early detection of this mysterious metabolic disorder.

Typical symptoms of diabetes, according to medical specialists:

1. Excessive thirst and hunger
2. Passing of large amount of urine
3. Loss of weight
4. Changes in vision

A two-pronged battle against the growing problem of diabetes is now taking shape. The advent of a pill for diabetes, not only makes life easier for many diabetics, but also points to vital research leads which may bring greater understanding of the disease. Now, leading scientists hope that the pieces in the puzzle will gradually fall into place, as work in the laboratory and the clinic takes on new speed and direction.

The second "front" in the nation's anti-diabetes program is a continuous, full-scale job of diabetes detection. With this in mind, you can do your part during Diabetes Week and help to take a step in the direction of the ultimate goal: a real cure.

Another test is "the degree to which a child's behavior is way out of proportion to the thing which sets it off." A certain amount of "over-reacting" is natural to children. But it is cause for concern when "a small spark invariably starts a large fire," as in the child who chronically flies into rages over trivial disappointments.

"Age-appropriateness" is a third gauge of normal vs neurotic conduct. It is normal for a 3-year-old to ignore the difference between fantasy and fact; it is not a trait which you expect to find in an 8-year-old.

Similarly, it is normal for a boy in early adolescence to form intimate friendships with other boys

Garcia Leads In Re-Election Bid

By WILLIAM MILLER, United Press Staff Correspondent. MANILA (UP)—A flood of provincial government votes from the outlying provinces gave President Carlos P. Garcia an apparently unbeatable lead today in his bid for re-election. But Garcia, the Nationalist Party candidate, failed to carry his running mate. The vice presidential went to the opposition Liberal Party candidate, Diosdado Macapagal.

Macapagal had 514,016 votes to 256,744 for Nationalist Jose Laurel Jr., son of the man who was puppet president of the Philippines during the Japanese occupation in World War II. In contests for eight vacant senatorial seats, the Nationalists were leading for five, the Liberals for two and the Progressives for one. 19 Die In Typhoon. The typhoon, which swept through heavily populated Central Luzon during the balloting Tuesday, left 19 persons dead. Nine more were killed in violence connected with the election for a total of 28. Officials called it the "smoothest and safest" election in the 11-year history of Philippine independence. Garcia, who rose to the presidency last March when a plane crash killed President Ramon Magsaysay, took a beating in Manila but rolled up an ever-widening lead when the "farm vote" started coming in.

Russian Paper Says Space Dog Has Proved Valuable

By HENRY SHAPIRO, United Press Staff Correspondent. MOSCOW (UP)—The Communist newspaper Pravda said today studies of the space dog Laika had proven valuable in the studies of the effects of space travel on humans. It also disclosed that Sputnik II probably was accompanied on its orbit by a protective cone. The Pravda article which disclosed new facts about the space traveling dog said the animal "endured well" the physical problems it was subjected to in Sputnik II. Although there has been no official announcement, it was believed Laika died several days ago aboard the earth satellite. Pravda said today the "state of the animal was satisfactory throughout the experiment."

It pointed out that by sending the little dog up in Sputnik, Russian scientists were able to gather information on "the state of a living organism in conditions of weightlessness which continued for several days." "It goes without saying that the conducted observations are a considerable contribution to future interplanetary flights and will provide a basis for the invention of means of ensuring the safe travel of human beings in cosmic space," Pravda said. The article also gave a hint as to what the object is that some scientists reported was following Sputnik II. "It said the satellite itself, which is the last stage of a 'multi-stage rocket,' was protected 'from aerodynamic and thermal influence by a special protective cone.'" It said the cone was jettisoned after the rocket's last stage was put into the orbit. "It said Sputnik II has a 'pressurized cabin containing the experimental animal' and that the cylindrical cabin contains 'food and air-conditioning system consisting of a regeneration installation and a temperature control device."

Texan Heads News Group

BOCA RATON, Fla. (UP)—A Texas publisher takes over today as new president of the Southern Newspaper Publishers Assn. at the final session of the association's annual convention here. Millard Cope, president and general manager of the Marshall, Tex., News Messenger, was elected Tuesday to succeed James Knight of the Miami Herald as president of the group. Hugh B. Patterson Jr., publisher and general manager of the Little Rock, Ark., Gazette, was named treasurer. New officers were installed at a general session following a breakfast meeting of the association board of directors. After a speech by John S. Knight, president of the Knight Newspapers, the 350 convention delegates broke up Tuesday into three discussion groups based on papers with circulation of 50,000 and over, between 15,000 and 50,000 and under 15,000. Dick Jones of the American Newspaper Publishers Assn. Bureau of Advertising in Tulsa led the big-paper group that 1958 advertising lineage is expected to be "good," but possibly below the 1957 level. Frank Helderman, Gadsden, Ala., Times, told the middle circulation group that many newspapers in the South are failing to reach the Negro reader sufficiently. Closer contact with readers to determine their wants instead of outside readership surveys was recommended to another group by Robert Bunnelle of the Asheville, N. C., Citizen and Times.

HERALD—Marvin Fields Jr., of Miami, Fla., a victim of cerebral palsy since birth, is the 1957 Herald of the United Cerebral Palsy Association's Golden Child Crusade. Five-year-old Marvin is pictured as he was introduced to delegates at the organization's eighth annual convention in St. Louis.

2 Mishaps Reported

Two collisions within the city limits last night were reported to the police department. The first of the collisions was reported at 8:05 p.m. on Cuyler, 95 feet north of Kingsmill. A 1957 Ford, driven by Stan Carl Organ, 1300 Duncan, and a 1950 Ford, driven by Earl Glen Collins, 325 N. Dwight, were in collision. Damages to the '57 Ford were estimated at $100 and the '50 Ford met with damages estimated at $150. At 8:55 p.m. the other collision was reported on Hobart, 65 feet north of Foster. A 1957 Ford tractor-trailer, driven by Clarence C. Horton, 516 E. Browning, and a 1950 Oldsmobile, driven by Paul E. Cooper, Alanreed, were in collision. The Oldsmobile met with damages estimated at $50 and the truck was reported as undamaged.

Catholic Groups Set Meet

Joel Combs, Managing Editor of The Pampa News, will address the Public Relations committee of Holy Soul's Catholic church organizations, Thursday evening at 8 in Parish Hall, it was announced by Mrs. O. Ray Hudson, Parish Council chairman. "Any persons interested are encouraged to attend also," she said. Combs has been asked to speak on the subject, "What the Local Press Wants from Church Organizations," and to give details of "copy submission," "dead line," "pictures" and other pertinent information in regards to newspapers and how they operate. "The aim of the Public Relations Committee is to inform the public, both Catholic and non-Catholic, in a skilled, professional manner," Mrs. Hudson said, "and this can be done only when we learn this skilled, professional manner." Organizations to be represented in addition to Parish Council, will be Holy Soul's Altar Society, Home and School Association, Catholic Youth Association (C.Y.A.), Couples club, and the Knights of Columbus. In the absence of Rev. Otto Meyer, C.M., pastor of Holy Soul's, Rev. John Roche, C.M., assistant pastor, has been asked to attend.

McLEAN — Joseph Nathaniel Phillips, a retired farmer, died Monday morning at his home at 1105 Western, Amarillo. Mr. Phillips was born Feb. 23, 1871, in Tennessee, and had lived in the Pampa area since 1908. He was affiliated with the Masonic Lodge and had been a member for 82 years. He was a former resident of McLean. Funeral services were to be held at 2 p.m. today at the Church of Christ in McLean with W. Dale Pearson, minister of Southlawn Church of Christ in Amarillo, officiating. Masonic rites will be conducted in the McLean Hillcrest Cemetery with members of the McLean Masonic Lodge serving as pallbearers. Burial will be under the direction of Boxwell Brothers Funeral Home of Amarillo. Survivors include two sons, Giles O. Phillips of Amarillo and John W. Phillips of Clovis, N. M.; one daughter, Mrs. Euna Robertson of Amarillo; eight grandchildren and 16 great-grandchildren.

Safety Award Set For Pampa

The city of Pampa will receive a "Pedestrian Safety Award" Friday as a result of the "excellent record of the city during the three year period of 1954, 1955 and 1956." The award will be presented to Jim Conner, chief of police, who will represent the city, by Hal Wyrwick of Amarillo at the noon luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis Club Friday. The award is being made to Pampa as a result of the record of Pampa for the three years, in that no fatal pedestrian accidents occurred in Pampa. Announcement of the award was made by C. L. McNeil, district safety officer of the Texas Highway Patrol. Each community should see that certain local citizens make up the citizens committee to work with Red Cross so that no duplication of funds would result. He reported that this had happened in the case of Silverton which had no Red Cross representative. Funds sent in aid of the community are still unused. Ed Barker, disaster chairman from Orange, presented an address on the subject "Let's Do Better Next Time." His speech derived from the fact that Orange was struck by tornado and disaster just twenty-four hours prior to the Convention opening. Six hundred persons attended the 1957 Convention. San Antonio was nominated and approved as the site of the 1958 Convention.

Amarillo Lady Lost 26 Pounds With Barcetrant

Mrs. A. G. Davies, 4444 Bowie St., Amarillo, Texas, wrote us as follows: "I weighed 180 pounds. I took Barcetrant and lost 26 pounds. I now weigh 154. I feel just wonderful since taking Barcetrant." — And Mrs. E. Herring, 1240 Proctor St., Fort Arthur, Texas, states the following: "I started taking Barcetrant as a tonic and to my surprise I lost 15 pounds." Get Barcetrant from any Texas druggist. If the very first bottle doesn't show you the way to take off ugly fat, without starvation diet, return the empty bottle for your money back.

While rummaging through some high school souvenirs of our daughters, we came across this poem. It lists no author, so we cannot give credit, but we remember, it was given to her by her physical education teacher, Miss Shirley Goodford. We'd like to pass it along to you. It is entitled, "An If For Girls."

"If you can dress to make your self attractive, yet not make puffs and curls your chief delight, if you can swim and row, be strong and active, but of the gentler graces lose not sight, if you can dance without a craze for dancing, play without giving play too strong a hold, enjoy the love of friends without romancing, care for the weak, the friendless, and the old, if you can master French and Greek and Latin, and not acquire as well a priggish mien, if you can feel the touch of silk and satin without despising calico and Jean, if you can ply a saw and use a hammer, can do a man's work when the need occurs, can sing, when asked, without excuse or stammer, can rise above unfriendly snubs and slurs, if you can make good bread as well as fudges, can sew with skill and have an eye for dust, if you can be a friend and hold no grudges, a girl whom all will love because they must, if sometime you should meet and love another, and make a home with faith and peace enshrined, and you its soul, a loyal wife and mother, you'll work-out pretty nearly to my mind, the plan that's been developed through the ages, and win the best that life can have in store, you'll be, my girl, a model for the sages, a woman whom the world will bow before."

Horace Mann Plans AEW Observance

Horace Mann PTA will observe American Education Week at its monthly meeting on Thursday evening at 7:30. Parents are invited to attend and visit their children's rooms; to see their work, which will be on display, and get acquainted with the teachers.

A short business meeting, during which the PTA membership prize will be announced, will be held in the school auditorium, preceding the room visitation.

Sneak Preview Of Guild's Yule Bazaar Shows Many Suggestions For Shopping

A sneak preview of the fourth annual Christmas Bazaar, sponsored by St. Matthew's Women's Auxiliary, to be held tomorrow and Friday in the Episcopal Parish Hall, 727 W. Browning reveals many excellent suggestions for Christmas shoppers.

The setting for the Bazaar will be blue and silver with an attractive mobile suspended from the ceiling. Each department is identified with white signs and black printing. The decorations were planned by Mrs. Bob Malone.

With Thanksgiving so close at hand, the food department, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Jack Reeve, is well stocked with pies, pound-cake, orange and banana bread, leek and cranberry bread, homemade bread (specialties of Mrs. William E. West and Jack Cooper) breakfast rolls, pizza pies, baked beans, jellies, relishes, pickles, salad dressing, and chili. The deep freeze, in which these items have been stored, was furnished through the courtesy of Joe Hawkins Appliance Co.

The department of Mrs. Joel Middleton and J. Foster Elder, fruit cake chairman, is amply supplied with dark and white fruit cakes, and, also, a specialty of

Deborah Unit Has Sewing Session

The Deborah Circle of the Church of the Brethren met recently in the church parsonage with the new president, Mrs. Robert Swope, in charge.

The devotional period, led by Mrs. Robert Dial, had as its background the 23rd Psalm.

Following devotionals, a sewing session was held under the direction of Mrs. Ray Burger, Aid and Service chairman.

Plans were made to hold a "silent auction" at the next meeting, which will be held in the home of Mrs. Wayne D. Irvin.

Attending were Meses. Robert Swope, Robert Dial, Harry Miller, Ray Burger, Dean Burger, Wayne Irvin, Charles Beard, Russell West, Don Ellidge, Wayne Jones, Clyde Carruth, and the hostess, Mrs. James Minnich.

Luncheon was served at noon by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Harry Miller.

RUTH MILLETT

A wife writes: "About a year ago I made up my mind that I was going to make my middle-aged husband's health one of my main concerns."

"Not having any desire to be a widow, and seeing several of my husband's overworked colleagues drop with heart attacks, I went to work to try to get my husband to start taking it easy."

"The other evening I dragged him home from a party before he was ready to leave so that he could get a good night's rest. He had told me earlier the next day was going to be particularly trying."

"I began to wonder if in making my husband face the fact that he has reached an age when he ought to slow down I might not be setting him up as an easy mark for the first young woman who takes it into her mind to make him feel young."

"Am I just being silly, or is there a possibility of such a thing happening?"

"The point is, the wife who feels she ought to urge her husband to slow down, have regular physical checkups and see that he eats properly has to be a diplomat."

"She should base her plea that he take things a little easier on the grounds that his job is demanding and that he is carrying a bigger load than any man ought to carry."

"She should be careful in dragging him away from parties not to act like a mother hen clucking over a chick. She doesn't have to explain that they are leaving early so that her husband can get his rest."

"She doesn't have to do a lot of talking about his cutting down on fattening foods, etc. She can do more by planning menus carefully and not tempting him with fattening foods than by a lot of talk."

"It might be dangerous for a wife to make a middle-aged husband begin to feel old by making a big fuss over his health. But with a little tact she can look after his health without making him determined to prove that he is just as young as he ever was."

Southwesterners Plan Secret Gifts

The Southwesterners Club met recently with Mrs. Gene Dougherty, vice president of the group, who presided during the business meeting. Plans for the club's bazaar to be held this month were cancelled. Suggestions were made for secret pal gifts.

Refreshments were served during the social hour.

Members attending were Meses. Charles Bailey, Mike Boswell, Gene Dougherty, Robert Elliott, Dale Gibson, Kenneth Hamon, Leonard Husted, Melvin Jayroe, Carl Lotlin, Floyd Lassiter, Evert Reardon, George Swayden, Joe Wilson, and Clyde Wofford.

The club will meet next with Mrs. Elliott, 913 W. Montague, on Nov. 20 at 7:30 p.m.

New Dispenser Foils Squeezers

By ALICIA HART NEA Beauty Editor

Do you stop just short of screaming when you see that tortured, twisted tube of toothpaste? Do Pop and Junior refuse to roll it up from the bottom, so that it resembles a lead soldier that a't's been bent and melted with heat?

If so, you'll be pleased to know that there's a brand-new idea in dentrifices now appearing at drug and toiletries counters. It comes in a pretty plastic bottle, and a slight squeeze will dispense just the right amount of dentifrice on your toothbrush. The container, of course, retains its shape.

The bottle is an attractive Wedgewood blue, with bright touches of crimson and white, and its flat base makes it possible for you to set it down anywhere without fear of its rolling or sliding to the floor.

Aside from preventing waste and mess, this unique plastic dispenser should be a decorative addition to the bathroom shelf.

The dentifrice itself, the makers say, is a new flowing formula that will leave your teeth feeling clean and your mouth refreshed.

Women who type may wonder their fingernails chip constantly. They should check the length of the nail. Nails kept at about fingertip length are recommended both for secretaries or the woman at home. It is a more flattering and practical length.

Rebekahs Planning Round-Up Dinner

The regular session of the Pampa Rebekah Lodge No. 355 was held in the IOOF Hall, 210 W. Brown, with Mrs. Bernice Ladd, noble grand, presiding. Several members were reported ill. Eight sick visits were made by lodge members.

Mrs. Ruth Lawley, district deputy, held a school of instruction and, also installed Miss Grace Nease as chaplain and Mrs. Irlon Cook as left supporter to the chaplain.

Members decided to fill a Thanksgiving basket for a needy family. Members are to bring items for the basket by Nov. 21.

It was announced that there will be a Rebekah Round-Up covered dish supper on Nov. 21. All new Rebekah members are especially invited to attend. The entertainment committee is asked to meet with Mrs. Lawley in her home tonight at 7 p.m.

Panhandle Circle will meet with Jacinto Lodge No. 145 in Amarillo on Nov. 26.

A letter from the state president of Rebekah Assembly, Mrs. Ruth Edmonds, was read, advising members of the new by-law books available now.

Twenty-two members were present.

Business - Professional Women's Club President Has Sage Advice For Girls

By ALICIA HART NEA Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON (NEA) — If your mind wanders in class, girls, just make sure you're day-dreaming about landing a good job instead of a man.

Miss Hazel Palmer, president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, believes that in the future more and more women are going to have to go to work. And a lot of these girls will be married, too.

"That's why she warns college girls: 'Don't use college as a marking-time period to the altar.' Instead, she urges college girls to take courses that will train them to hold down a definite job."

Miss Palmer believes a girl should start planning for a secure future long before ever setting foot on a campus. "By all means," the BPW president declares, "a high school girl should see that she educates herself for her future existence and progress."

Miss Palmer strongly recommends that if a girl is unable to attend college, she should get some kind of job training while going to high school.

Miss Palmer points to the nation's booming economy as a strong indication of the future needs for more womanpower. For example, she cites the increased number of homes mushrooming across the country. As more houses are built, more goods will be needed to furnish them.

In order to meet this demand for household furnishings and appliances, she says more women probably will have to join the labor force to manufacture and help buy them. She explains that a family with several children will be especially affected by the high standard of living.

"In due time," Miss Palmer says, "the woman in that home will have to go to work to help make enough money to give each child the advantages of life a woman wants her children to have. This includes a college education."

When it comes to work, the top BPW official can do a lot more than make predictions or give advice.

Manners Make Friends

Just because you find that you "owe" a lot of people, don't decide to give one big party and invite them all and "get it over with." That's a sure way of having an unsuccessful party. The only way to entertain well is to invite just those persons you feel sure have something in common for the kind of evening they would vice. Miss Palmer daily sets an example of female initiative and activity that would amaze the most energetic corporation president.

Being president of the BPW requires her to represent the 170,000-woman organization at important national conventions and conferences throughout the United States.

Last year she attended more than 150 meetings. And in one week she was on hand for six events, all of them in different states.

When trying to meet a heavily booked schedule, Miss Palmer reveals that she never has time to sit down and relax. "I just keep moving," she says.

In addition to her time-consuming work with BPW, Miss Palmer is a practicing attorney in Sedalia, Mo., and a member of several legal organizations.

She joined BPW in 1935. And except for the first few months of her membership she has always held some kind of office in the large organization. She became national president last year.

A Comedy Team Establishes Itself: Psychiatrist, Patient

By DOC QUIGG United Press Staff Correspondent NEW YORK (UP)—It may be a true symbol of our shaky - tense age, a time when every man seems bent on mooning around in exploration of the outer spaces of his own mind, that a new comedy team has established itself in the everyday world of the common joke.

The team consists of the psychiatrist and his patient, plus the standard props of psychiatrist's couch and notebook. The comedy sometimes varies — patient and patient; or doctor and doctor — but the basic idea is the same.

That great old workhorse joke team, Pat and Mike, whose doings and sayings were simple, if not always too pure, has just about ended its orbiting. The mother-in-law and son - in - law team, a hardy fact of life, seems a bit worn in its routine.

The traveling salesman, in person, has been disappearing from the American scene during the last generation—and so, naturally, have the jokes about him and the farmer's daughter.

But the psychiatrist is having a heyday—from the simple exchange of greetings to the long and winding story.

The simple exchange may be patient-to-patient. Two psychiatrically aware gents, friends, pass each other on the street.

First patient: "Hello." Second patient (musing): "Now, what did he mean by that?" Or it may be doctor-to-doctor. Two psychiatrists meet, and one opens the conversation: "Hello. You're fine; how 're you?"

Slipped Into Goldwynism The thing has, logically enough, slipped over into the field of the simple Goldwynism: Sam Goldwyn is alleged to have said: "Anybody who would go to a psychiatrist ought to have his head examined."

And then, there is the young lady whose family urged her to go to a psychiatrist because she liked pancakes. She plopped onto the couch.

Psychiatrist: "Now tell me about yourself." Girl: "My folks say I should see you because I like pancakes."

Psychiatrist: "Because you like pancakes?"

"From this report, young lady, it's evident you saw the movie and the TV version—but it's difficult to believe you read the book!"

Girl: "Yes. I'm quite fond of it, and he lies there on a couch and all he does is talk about me."

Psychiatrist: "Look, my dear. That's perfectly natural. Almost everybody likes pancakes. I like them very much myself."

Girl: "Well! You must come to my house. I've got 500 trunks full."

Sometimes the theme goes into a proud-parent routine. One lady meets another: "I must tell you what a wonderful son I have! Twice a week he goes to this head-doctor, and he pays $50 an hour, and he lies there on a couch and all he does is talk about me."

Pampan Gets Firm's Award

Bill Lewis, agency vice president of the Gibraltar Life Insurance Company of America of Dallas, has announced that Bob Hudson, general agent of Gibraltar in Pampa, has won the "Be Our Guest" award by virtue of his leading the entire company in total sales the past month. He has won an all-expense paid three day trip to Dallas for himself and his wife, Helen.

The trip will consist of a three-day stay in Dallas, also attending the Arkansas-SMU football game Saturday. The trip will begin Thursday and will continue through Saturday. This is the third month during the year of 1957 that Hudson has led the Gibraltar Life Insurance Company in total sales.

It takes about five quarts of milk to make one pound of American cheese.

Americans Living High On The Dog High On The Cuff

EDITOR'S NOTE: The first of three dispatches on the small loan business. Today—the credit picture and small loan companies.

By FRED DANZIG United Press Staff Correspondent NEW YORK (UP)—Americans are living high on the hog. And high on the cuff, too.

Among us, we owe 43 billion dollars, nearly 3 billion more than last year.

But even as we sign IOUs, we salt away cash. Our savings this year add up to well over 800 billion dollars.

Installment credit outstanding accounts for about 33 billion dollars of the total personal debt. Of this, commercial banks have 12 billion 300 million dollars; sales finance companies (automobiles, appliances) have loaned 9 billion 300 million dollars; small loan companies, or consumer finance companies, have around 3.2 billion dollars this year, according to the National Consumer Finance Association.

One Family In Six The 10,745 small loan offices around the nation, operated by 1,850 firms, claim one out of every six families for a customer and they look for a 12 to 14 per cent growth in volume next year.

Is there danger in this rising installment credit spiral? Many economists believe it is doing no harm since nobody will continue to extend new credits if repayments do not come in on schedule.

Why do we borrow? About one-third of the 16 million loans made by small loan companies this year are for debt consolidation, where the customer borrows to pay off a flock of bills and is left with one debt. Medi-

Air Force Recruiters Here

A team of Air Force specialists headed by Captain Chester W. Sorenson, commander of Air Force Recruiting in the Texas Panhandle, will be in Pampa today through Friday.

Captain Sorenson, who has logged over 2,000 hours of flying time in Air Force planes, will be here to interview applicants for Aviation Cadets.

M-Sgt. Joe Lackey will interview young women interested in becoming members of the Women's Air Force. Sgt. Lackey is also head of Advertising and Public Relations for Air Force Recruiting in the Texas Panhandle and in this capacity will visit schools and program directors of civic clubs relative to presenting programs at a later date.

Any one interested in a program should contact him in the Post Office Building, Pampa, this week or call him collect at DRake 2-6857 in Amarillo.

T-Sgt. R. L. Smith, the third member of the team, will be here to interview veterans interested in re-enlisting in the Air Force and assist M-Sgt. Doyle Roberson and M-Sgt. Aubrey Weidon, local Recruiters, in interviewing new men desiring information about training with the U.S. Air Force.

The team will establish its headquarters at the Air Force Recruiting office in the Post Office Building and can be contacted there. Phone MO 4-8622 for an appointment.

CANDIDATE — Edmund G. (Pat) Brown, attorney general of California, announced in Los Angeles that he will seek the Democratic nomination for governor of the state. On the Republican side, Sen. William Knowland has already declared himself in the race against incumbent Gov. Goodwin Knight for the 1958 GOP nomination.

Tech Stadium Expansion Plans Told

LUBBOCK — During half time ceremonies of Texas Tech's 1957 Homecoming last Saturday, plans for expanding and remodeling Jones Stadium were announced.

The expansion program, brought about by Texas Tech's entry into the Southwest Conference, will bring the total seating capacity of the stadium up to around 55,000 seats.

The plan calls for moving the present East stands about 250 feet back (a Herculean effort in itself because the stands are estimated at better than 10 million pounds).

The playing field will be lowered to a depth of about 30 feet. Around this man made bowl, new seats will be built forming a bowl around the gridiron.

The cost of this program has been estimated at $1,700,000. To finance this plan, certain desirable sections will be classified as option sections and seats within them sold with the option being good for a period of fifteen years.

The new expansion is being timed to be completed for the first home game of the 1960 season when Texas Tech competes on a full conference schedule.

Magic Plains Oil Show Set Nov. 14-16

Borger will take the wraps off its shimmering new aluminum dome exhibition hall Nov. 14-16 when it toasts industry at the 1957 Magic Plains oil show.

The aluminum coliseum will serve as headquarters for some 66 exhibits, with over 10 outside displays slated for viewing.

Other fair attractions on tap are a massive fireworks show, a fire-fighting demonstration, featuring a daredevil "who walks through fire," and a giant midway. Another fair highlight is the Borger High School homecoming football clash with the undefeated Amarillo Sandies Saturday afternoon.

Exposition gates will be open from 2 to 10 p.m. Thursday and Friday and 1 to 10 p.m. Saturday. Over 25,000 programs will be handed out at the fair.

The three-day oil pageant is expected to lure nearly 25,000 visitors from the Southwest and other parts of the nation.

Borger's fair, one of three major oil shows in the U.S. this year, alternates with the Permian Basin Oil Exposition in Odessa.

Home Designing Returns To 'Division Of Areas'

By GAY PAULEY United Press Staff Correspondent NEW YORK (UP)—Look what's new in home design. Rooms.

The interior design trend is away from the "living area" plan and back to the "division of areas," said William D. Hamilton, executive secretary of the American Institute of Decorators.

Hamilton said there are two major reasons for the return of the old-fashioned house where once again a dining room is just that—not an alcove in the living room.

"Families got tired of everything mixed up together," he said. "Of one huge room being the center for eating, reading, watching television, sewing and entertaining."

Adverse To Caverns "And families also found that to decorate a living area is costly," he added. "I'd rather do four rooms than one of those caverns. The decorator HAS to break a big room up. That can take an awful lot of furnishings."

Hamilton, a native of Elyria, Ohio and a World War II pilot, has been secretary of the decorator group which has 1,700 members since 1952.

He said in an interview that interior decor is on an "elegance" kick, probably because we Americans got "a bit too casual" and because the "general education level is higher than ever before."

"More of us appreciate quality," he explained. "Semantically I suppose elegance means obedience," said the decorator. "To me, it represents a fuller life, a desire to live better on the money we spend, no matter what the income."

"It marks the end of sterile furniture. The chrome era is over. The rich wood finishes are back. Fabrics no longer are shiny and flat, but have body and feel."

With the new formality of furnishings comes the revival of the dining room and what Hamilton called "controlled entertaining."

He said the mass cocktail party is a fading custom. Now, he said, the sit-down dinner with a limited number of guests is the housewife's favorite way of having company, no matter what her budget.

"Seems to me everybody's taken up cooking," said Hamilton. "And the woman who is a good cook likes to impress someone besides her family. Guests now expect to be fed... and not just canapes."

Pampa Boxers Take Opening Matches

Four TKOs Scored In Winning 6 Matches With Hereford Team

Pampa's Optimist sponsored boxing team swung its way to a victory in the first matches of the season last night by taking six victories, four by TKO, while allowing five to the Hereford pugilists.

Entries from Pampa ranged from 65-pound Wayne Morgan to 215-pound Doug Simmons in the 11-hour matches that took place in the Hereford boxing arena.

Starting things at a fast pace, Morgan gained the first Pampa TKO as he downed Chester Lee West midway in the final round. James Tucker, a veteran of one year's previous experience, gained a second-round TKO over David Green in the 90 pound bracket to score the second Pampa victory of the night.

PAMPA TKO—Charles Snyder, right, 154 pound boxer is shown shortly before he staggered his opponent, Wes Chavers of Hereford, and accounted for one of the four TKOs scored by Pampa boxers over Hereford contestants. Pampa won the matches, 6-5, and will host the Hereford team for the first home bouts on Nov. 22. (News Photo)

Charles Coffee of Pampa evened the match count as he scored a decision over R. C. Welby in the 130 pound class.

Fans then viewed one of the top battles of the evening as Charles Snyder blasted Wes Chavers for the third Pampa TKO of the evening. Chavers, at 159, took the edge of five pounds over Snyder and fought to a near-even battle in the first round but in the late second and early third was staggered before Snyder's lethal onslaught.

Another fast and furious, though brief, battle took place as Clyde Steel stepped into the ring for his first time and folded Hereford's R. D. Graves in two rounds.

The final two decisions for Hereford came when John Fred Brown won over James Snyder and Arthur Gonzales took the nod over Jim Murray at 147 pounds.

Rounding things out in a big way was heavyweight Doug Simmons, who blasted to a decision over Hereford's Gene Waits in a hard-fought, heavy swinging battle. In addition to local matches, Simmons gained recent experience as a fighter with a Navy team.

The first Pampa matches will be held Nov. 22, when the Hereford team will be hosted in return bouts. Other matches scheduled are Clovis, N.M., there on Nov. 19, and here on Nov. 30.

HEINRICH WILL PLAY

Harvesters Prepare For Final Road Trip Of '57 Grid Season

The Pampa Harvesters are preparing this week for their last road trip of the season, set for Saturday night in Lubbock at 8 p.m. with the Tom S. Westerners.

Standing for the season with three wins, four losses and the one tie, the Westerners' only conference victory was scored against Borger, 42-8. Season victories have been over Woodrow Wilson of Dallas, 9-0; Northside of Fort Worth, 23-0; and Borger. The Lubbock gridders have been defeated by Odessa, 13-0; Plainview, 13-6; and Amarillo, 41-0. Their line tie came with Palo Duro, 14-14.

THREE FOR JOHN

NEW YORK (UP)—Jockey Johnny Ruane rode three winners at Jamaica Tuesday, including both parts of a $36.60 daily double and the Valenzuela brothers also won three, two by Ismael and one by Angel.

Shockers Play Final Game Of Season Here With Palo Duro

The Pampa Shockers play their wind-up game of the season tomorrow night as they host the Palo Duro Dons' "B" team in Harvesters Park at 7:30.

Standing for the season with two wins against five losses, the Shockers defeated Dunbar, Perryton and have fallen to Borger, Plainview, Monterey, Phillips and Amarillo. One game during the season, with the Westerners' "B" team was cancelled due to illness in the Lubbock team.

Probable starters for tomorrow's game will be:

Fraley's Follies With The Week End Football Winners

TODAY'S SPORT PARADE

(Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.)
By OSCAR FRALEY

United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—Fraley's Follies and the weekend football "winners" — while all shook up because this is the 13th.

Game of the Week

Oklahoma over Notre Dame—

The Sooners have had a couple of close scrapes but possibly because they were looking ahead to the Irish. This is a battling Notre Dame team and yet Oklahoma would seem to have the horses.

Army over Tulane — Sure I'm superstitious.

Navy over George Washington—

Run from black cats.

Penn over Columbia — Don't walk under ladders.

Princeton over Yale — And how come those smart colleges all have mascots?

Also: Dartmouth over Cornell.

Harvard over Brown, Penn State over Holy Cross, Syracuse over Colgate and Boston College over Marquette.

The Midwest

Michigan over Indiana — Ben Jonson wasn't on my team.

Michigan State over Indiana—

He had a line for us guys.

Ohio State over Iowa—"It's better to be dumb than superstitious."

Purdue over Northwestern — So I win a doubleheader.

Also: Wisconsin over Illinois, Dayton over Miami, Iowa State over South Dakota, Missouri over Kansas State and Colorado over Nebraska.

The South

Georgia Tech over Alabama—

Edmund Burke spoke bravely.

Auburn over Georgia — No rabbit feet for him.

Duke over Clemson — "Superstition is the religion of feeble minds."

Tennessee over Mississippi— My straitjacket fits well.

Also: Florida over Vanderbilt, West Virginia over Wake Forest, Kentucky over Xavier, Mississippi State over LSU, North Carolina over VPI, South Carolina over Virginia and Miami over Maryland.

The Southwest

Texas Aggies over Rice — See a pin and pick it up.

Arkansas over SMU — All the day you'll have good luck.

Texas over TCU — See a pin and let it lay.

Oklahoma State over Kansas—

Bad luck you'll have, all the day.

Also: Texas Tech over Hardin-Simmons, Tulsa over Cincinnati.

The West

Washington over California—

Shallow men believe in luck.

Oregon State over Stanford—

Strong men believe in cause and effect.

Oregon over USC — So quote Emerson.

Washington State over Idaho—

I'd rather be lucky than strong enough to lift a sack of popcorn.

Also: UCLA over College of Pacific and Utah over Air Force Academy.

HOUSTON, Tex.: Joe Brown, 140½, New Orleans, outpointed Kid Centella, 138½, Nicaragua, (10, non-title).

STOCKTON, Calif.: Ross Padilla, 119½, Stockton, outpointed Baby Rios, 120, Tijuana, Mex. (10).

Aggies Given Seven Points Over Rice

NEW YORK (UP)—Iowa was rated one point over Ohio State in their possible Big Ten championship game Saturday. Oklahoma was favored by 18 over Notre Dame in the nationally televised game, and Texas A&M, No. 1 team in the nation, was only seven points over Rice.

Iowa and Ohio State both are unbeaten in conference play, and an Ohio State victory would clinch a Rose Bowl bid. While Saturday's winner will not have clinched the Big Ten crown, it will be in the Big Ten crown, it will be in the favored position.

Oklahoma Coach Bud Wilkinson is on record as fearing Notre Dame in their game at Norman, Okla., and the 18-point spread was larger than expected.

Three games were rated even on this week's card — South Carolina at Virginia, Miami (Ohio) at Dayton, and Mississippi State at Louisiana State in a night game. In a Friday night game, Miami (Florida) was favored by 7 over Maryland.

Michigan State was favored by 14 over Minnesota at East Lansing, Mich. Duke was 7 over Clemson at Durham, N.C., and Auburn was 14 over Georgia at Columbus, Ga.

Point spreads on other major games:

South — North Carolina State 8 over Virginia Tech; Florida 7 over Vanderbilt; Kentucky 16 over Xavier (Ohio); West Virginia 13 over Wake Forest; Georgia Tech 13 over Alabama; Tennessee 7 over Mississippi.

Midwest — Purdue 11 over Northwestern; Missouri 11 over Kansas State; Wisconsin 4 over Illinois; Tulsa 1 over Cincinnati; Colorado 12 over Nebraska; Oklahoma State 7 over Kansas.

Southwest — Texas Christian 2 over Texas; Arkansas 1 over Southern Methodist.

Far West — Washington State 7 over Idaho; California 4 over Washington; Oregon 7 over Southern California; Oregon State 4 over Stanford.

Aggies, Rice Fight Weather In Workouts For Saturday Game

By UNITED PRESS
Southern Methodist and Texas engaged in player promotions Tuesday while other Southwest Conference teams were busy dodging raindrops.

Baylor, which has an open date this Saturday, even went as far as to call off practice while Texas A&M and Rice, preparing for their decisive clash Saturday, had trouble with the weather.

Coach Bear Bryant couldn't figure out which was the sloppier—his Aggies or the rain-drenched turf. He even moved the team over to Kyle Field in an effort to "get in a good practice."

Rice, which is preparing to play before the biggest crowd ever to see a football game in Houston, was soaked when it was caught in a downpour near the end of the practice.

Full Strength
Both teams were expected to be at full strength for the game, which would give the Aggies the title if they win or Rice a chance for a tie if it wins. Ronnie Kramer, Ovi No. 1 center, was slowed by an ankle injury yesterday, but it should be okay by gametime, the Rice trainer reported.

The game is a sellout with more than 72,000 expected, Rice officials said.

The Owls went through recognition drills on Aggie plays and brushed up on their offense before the rain caught them.

The Cadets concentrated on their defense, but also worked on kicking, rushing the passer and pass defense. They also had some extra point and field goal protection.

Dunn Promoted
In Dallas, Billy Dunn, the ex-101 quarterback who became the third team left end, was promoted to the first team at that spot Tuesday. Jerry Sharrock also moved up in the line, taking over first team center for SMU.

Texas, which returned to the outdoors with a scrimmage, made three first team changes. Promotions were issued to halfback Max Alvis, guard Don Wilson and tackle J. T. Seaholm.

Texas Christian ran through a defensive drill in preparation for Texas and Coach Abe Martin appeared pleased.

ador Matadors, who have also downed all district competition.

In District 1-A, the White Deer Bucks nearly fell from the lead they gained after defeating the Stinnett Rattlers when they squeezed by Panhandle 27-26, after trailing two times during the game. The Bucks now have only Sunday to defeat before clinching the district crown. So, it should be White Deer and Lefors in the first area Class A playoff game.

The Perryton Rangers handily rolled by Guymon, Okla., in the last non-conference warmer of their season. They play Shamrock Friday night in a game meaningful as concerns the district, in that the Rangers clinched the 3-AA title two weeks ago by downing the last unbeaten team on the district slate. In bi-district, the Rangers will clash with Seymour, who downed the mighty Stamford team last week, 19-6.

Top Gridders
Though meaning little as a conference encounter, two players from both teams again proved outstanding as the Canadian Wildcats downed McLean, 38-14. For the Wildcats, John Grist turned in another night of long runs and high scoring as he accounted for three Canadian touchdowns and two extra points. Grist has ranked throughout the season as a top running back and scorer for the Wildcat team. Bolstering the line in continued brilliant defensive play was Larry Schaeff, who has been ranked by opposing teams all season as one of the top defensive linemen in the district.

For McLean, David Crockett and David Woods paced the offensive team by accounting for all scoring in the game. Crockett raced for the two touchdowns on runs of 26 and 70 yards, and Woods added both extra points.

Groom vs. Vega
The Groom Tigers' outstanding extra point conversion record through six straight district victories is due to 205-pound end Leon Anglin, who has consistently boot extra points for the Tigers' while providing a major part of the line strength. Pacing the Groom backfield has been quarterback Johnny Eschle, a versatile boy who carries a bulk of the running load as well as the passing department.

Eleven Berths Remain In Class A High School Football Playoffs

By UNITED PRESS
Eleven berths in the state Class A schoolboy football playoffs still are up for grabs and it may take some complicated juggling to determine just which teams will make the grade after Friday night's games.

In four districts, the situation is simplified to the extent that the winner of the crucial game this week will automatically qualify for the playoffs, but things aren't so simple in the other seven.

Malakoff and Edgewood in district 18-A and Cotulla and Pearsall in 28 hit their finale unbeaten in district play and the winner will get the nod. Rails in 4-A and Albany in 10-A are unbeaten in loop play, but their foes this week have lost only one game and if Crosbyton should beat Ralls or Abilene Wylie upset Albany they could claim the playoff berth.

One 3-Way Tie
Only one three-way tie is shaping up where each team defeated one of the others to set the stage for a district committee session to pick the playoff team. That is in 27-A where Boerne, Atascosa Southwest and Schertz-Cibolo are likely to wind up with identical 3-1 records.

Complications are possible in districts 2, 6, 7, 25 and 29, but in these cases there are precedents for determining the playoff team.

Lefors can win in 2 if it beats McLean, otherwise the nod goes to the Memphis-Canadian winner. Merkel must defeat Roscoe in 6 or Rotan can get the nod by beating Roby.

Possible Tie
Iraan can finish in a tie with

Arizona State Clings To Lead In Total College Grid Offense

NEW YORK (UP)—Arizona State of Tempe clung to the national college football lead in both total offense and scoring today although defending champion Oklahoma was starting a late-season rush to retain both crowns.

Arizona State's Sun Devils, unbeaten and untied in seven games, actually increased their lead in both vital statistics during a weekend that saw them crush Texas Western, 43-7.

State boosted its scoring average to 36.6 points per game, against 33.0 for second-place Army, and increased its total offense average to 437 yards per game against 412.1 per game for Army.

But Oklahoma, which won both titles for the past two seasons, made impressive strides as it trounced Missouri, 39-14. The Sooners moved up from 10th to fifth in scoring and up to ninth in total offense — perhaps still too far behind in both to catch up in the time remaining.

However, the Sooners racked up 424 yards rushing against Missouri to drive from seventh to third in rushing yardage, another department they have led for two straight years. Mississippi retains the lead in rushing with 337.8 yards per game to 320.3 for Army and 300.1 for Oklahoma.

Utah, with ace Lee Grosscup doing most of the pitching, now has virtually wrapped up the national title in passing. The Redskins gained 316 yards through the air against Army last Saturday to

Lane Arrives For Duties With Indians

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UP)—New general manager Frank Lane of the Cleveland Indians arrived here today to begin flexing the "free hand" the Tribe directors promised when they announced his appointment Tuesday.

It was unqualified control of the Indians which Lane sought when he offered himself to the directors. Until Lane acted, the Indians recognized the claim of the St. Louis Cardinals on Lane.

Once it was clear that Lane sincerely wanted to accept the Cleveland challenge, he got his contract on his terms. First was that "free hand." Then came "a three-year contract and a higher salary than I got in St. Louis."

Lane arrived for a one day look around Cleveland. He was due to return to St. Louis for one day, then fly to Havana to confer with the Tribe's new field manager, Bobby Bragan, who is piloting a club there.

O'Connell Leads NFL Passing

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—The Cleveland Browns, content to win the most games with the least fanfare in the statistics columns, finally popped to the front in the National Football League figures by placing Tommy O'Connell first among the passers.

O'Connell took over as the league's leading passer by outting Eddie Le Baron of the Redskins. Rookie Jim Brown muscled himself into second place among the individual rushers.

Final Games On Tap Friday Two Districts To Play Off Crucial Tilts

Another district was virtually decided in the Top O' Texas area Friday night while two more await the season's crucial game to determine the playoff representative.

The Lefors Pirates spent a non-conference night downing the Sunray Bobcats, but were given a near-clinch to represent 2-A when Clarendon received its second conference defeat at the hands of the Memphis Cyclones. The Browns have been the only team to defeat the Pirates in district action, and if Lefors can get by the thrice-beaten McLean Tigers Friday night, they will gain a berth in the bi-district decider.

Facing the rough ones of the season are Groom of District 1-B and Wheeler of District 2-B. The Tigers meet Stratford, a team once defeated in district play but considered as the most likely to stop Groom, which has rolled up a string of six straight district wins with no losses.

Wheeler, also unbeaten in conference action, will meet the Matadors, who have also downed all district competition.

In District 1-A, the White Deer Bucks nearly fell from the lead they gained after defeating the Stinnett Rattlers when they squeezed by Panhandle 27-26, after trailing two times during the game. The Bucks now have only Sunday to defeat before clinching the district crown. So, it should be White Deer and Lefors in the first area Class A playoff game.

The Perryton Rangers handily rolled by Guymon, Okla., in the last non-conference warmer of their season. They play Shamrock Friday night in a game meaningful as concerns the district, in that the Rangers clinched the 3-AA title two weeks ago by downing the last unbeaten team on the district slate. SCOUTS VISIT THE NEWS

Members of Cub Pack 4, Den 6, toured The News plant recently. They were shown the processes through which a story goes from the time it is 'typed up' until it appears in the paper.

Walter Rogers Reports:

Did Bickering Between Three Services Slow US Satellite?

WHAT PRICE BICKERING? It is the opinion of quite a few here in Washington that Russia's successful launching of two earth satellites in advance of such an accomplishment by this country...

cautions were necessary and that our scientific advances were keeping up with all other countries in the world.

Whether or not our failure to equal Russia in this particular achievement is the result of that bickering may be a debatable question. That there has been such bickering within the Defense Department is not debatable.

Jealousy of jurisdiction or pride of authorship in an individual, or small group of individuals, can be a very dangerous thing when the security of a country is involved.

It is true that elevator operators can accept 14 per cent moisture content milt for CCC loans, if the operator will certify that he will deliver to CCC grain sorghum having a moisture content of not in excess of 13 per cent.

The American people have always enjoyed patriotic speeches in eloquent words, well-termed phrases and beautiful quotes. They enjoy these just as they do good music and other forms of entertainment; however, when the time comes that they want facts, they want the facts in cold, unvarnished truth.

It is difficult to understand how Russia was able to forge ahead in launching the earth satellites. Tremendous sums of money have been provided for scientific exploration in this country behind the tightly locked doors of 'classified security reasons.'

Although no reason was immediately presented for the crash, the plane was traveling in a heavy overcast and a driving rain. It was flying from Monroe, La., to Dallas.

Marshall police said the victims were Donald P. Jackson, 23, Ratana; Alfred W. Harp, 59, North Miami, and Wesley E. Jackson, 50, Latuna, Fla.

Pigs In Clover

The pig, a noble meat producer, is beginning to live these days in air-cooled concrete luxury with all manner of self-service and automatic gadgets at his command.

Increasingly the feeder-size pigs are moving in to place of porcine magnificence or swank which are described as "Pig Parlors," "Hog Palaces," "Swine Salons," and "Pig Cafeterias."

No more wallowing in the mud. In fact, pigs would probably never wallow in the mud anyway, if they had any other way to keep cool on hot days.

The more fortunate pigs stay delightfully cool now on the hottest of mid-summer days, sprayed constantly by a cool mist from overhead.

His regular food comes to him in the same manner, cafeteria style, at any time he feels the urge. The concrete floor of his domicile is kept clean by the frequent use of a hose.

Not all pigs, by any means, have reached this state of affluence. But a lot of them have, and it begins to look as though the pig will soon be taken out of the underprivileged class of the barnyard kingdom.

The idea of the relatively low-cost porcine housing developments is spreading rapidly, particularly throughout the Southern states, where pigs can get mighty hot, in fact, they won't eat except early in the day and after sunset.

Basically, these housing developments for pigs amount to raising hogs in confinement on concrete so that highly developed feeding techniques and labor saving devices and gadgets can be easily used.

It's simply a matter of outlay and profits, a matter of introducing good-management methods and of raising pigs somewhat along the assembly-line basis.

"We've poured more concrete in 1957 than in the preceding 57 years," is the way the situation in North Carolina is summed up by J. K. Butler Jr., animal husbandry expansion specialist at North Carolina State College.

Feeder pigs are put into the "parlor" or "salon" when they reach a weight of 60 to 80 pounds. They never leave until they reach market weight—say, 190 to 240 pounds.

A popular type of one of these swine quarters, which takes care of 50 pigs at a time, costs about $400 for materials and equipment, and is intended for summer feeding or year-round use in warm climates.

Sometimes these new-type pig establishments may be barns or other farm building converted to "confined rearing" of pigs on concrete. There have also been conversion of new broiler houses into a "parlor house" which is a project larger in size than the usual concept of a shed-type of "pig parlor."

The United States at last count had a pig population of around 55 million. Pigs, however, aren't native to the continent; perhaps the first ones to reach here landed with DeSoto in Florida in 1539.

Nowhere else than in America, however, is the pig apparently climbing toward so high a standard of living. It's because research has demonstrated that with modern feeds, management and sanitation, hogs can be made to grow faster on concrete than on pasture.

Why Humans Must Be Free II

I want to continue to quote from an article written by V. Orval Watts published in the November "Freeman" magazine on "Why Humans Must Be Free." The last installment explained that when man was forced to acquiesce in helping one another, his purpose was not to assist the other but to prevent himself from being injured.

"It is this inescapable conflict of purposes that makes slavery, the 'planned society' and the 'welfare state' destructive of all human values and character. The purpose of the masters or government officials may be to get certain work done or to improve the understanding and character of their subjects.

"Fear of a master's lash or of a communist firing squad, for example, may cause men for a time to go through certain dictated motions, but these motions do not make efficient farmers. Instead, the private purposes of those who suffer from the coercion cause increasing inefficiency in pursuing the masters' purposes because these private purposes of the victims have to do with escape, resistance, or retaliation.

"The final result depends on the victims' ideas about how they may best escape the threatened violence. They may decide on open flight or resistance, or they may choose secret sabotage and slow-downs.

"The complaints of Lutz are echoed everywhere, except among the peasants who have benefited from Gomulka's de-collectivization policy. In the cities, low living standards, desperate consumer-goods shortages, and hopelessness for the future all combine to throttle initiative.

"The outcome widened the breach between liberal Northern Democrats and their more conservative brethren in the South, already broad because of the Little Rock episode. It also disclosed a sharpening of conservative sentiment against President Eisenhower's "modern Republicanism."

"Similarly, when any person or group tries to compel others to be charitable, industrious, thrifty, or kind, the victims of the coercion lose their sense of personal responsibility for acquiring these virtues. Deprived of opportunity to use and develop their human qualities of self-direction, they revert toward the animal level.

"Both of these questions probably refer to an extremely common disorder known as seborrhea. In its more severe form it is usually called seborrheic dermatitis. Besides causing discomfort and trouble with frequent washings and other treatment, this scalp condition is one of several possible reasons for loss of hair—at least for speeding up this process.

SEBORRHEA is often considered to be of two varieties: dry seborrhea, or dandruff, and oily seborrhea. Both are more common in the scalp but may extend to other parts of the body.

In oily seborrhea the hair and scalp feel greasy and are hard to keep clean. Dirt floating in the air sticks and the hair follicles tend to clog up with oil, tiny scales of skin, dirt and the like.

This can be painful as well as mildly annoying. What is responsible for either form of seborrhea is not well known. No parasite or germ has been identified, though there are reasons to believe that some kind of infection may be at least partially at fault.

HOWEVER, SEBORRHEA often starts (and always worsens if previously present) after the general health has been lowered by such things as disease or fatigue. Anemia, constipation, indigestion, lack of fresh air and exercise, and the wearing of stiff and ill-ventilated hats have been suggested as contributing factors.

No easy or quick cure for seborrhea is available. If some chronic, weakening disease is present it should, of course, be treated. Any obvious health fault such as anemia or constipation should also be remedied.

LOCAL TREATMENT of seborrhea involves first the removal of the crusts and accumulated fatty material and later the use of stimulating applications. The removal of the crusts and debris may be accompanied by the loss of a good deal of hair. The fatty accumulations are first soaked with some carefully chosen lotion to aid in removal. This is followed by thorough and frequent shampooing.

Many chemical preparations have been used in the form of ointments or lotions after the removal of the scales. However, the disorder frequently resists treatment and tends to come back unless treatment is continued for weeks or months after the skin looks clear.

Voters May Have Killed 'Constructive Legislation'

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — A death sentence to enactment of any new, needed and constructive legislation by the next Congress has been delivered by the American voters, although they may not be aware of the consequences of their action.

It is ironic that most of these proposals are embraced in what like calls "modern Republicanism" and he asked for favorable action on them at the last session. But they were blocked in House or Senate by a conservative coalition of Taft Republicans and conservative Southern Democrats.

ANTI-KE GOPERS — Anti-Eisenhower Republicans have also been encouraged. They noted that in the so-called "bedroom counties" in Northern New Jersey, Long Island and Westchester County, where wealthy and generally conservative commuters reside, the Democratic tickets showed exceptional strength. Taft Republicans either voted Democratic or played golf at their clubs.

Thus, both factions will return to Washington next January with high spirits and ambitions. But they will be so evenly matched and so desirous of pleasing their respective but clashing constituents that the result will be a legislative stalemate. That could prestage a possible breakup of historic political allegiances at the 1960 conventions and elections.

So far, the venture has paid off handsomely for the young Republic of Indonesia. By exporting oil to eager Pacific customers, Indonesia has been getting the hard cash it needs for crucial imports of food and Western hardware.

Sumatra's oil wells and refineries have created thousands of high-paying jobs for Indonesians. Oilmen have chopped new roads into the jungles which, in turn, have sparked-plugged other Indonesian industries and agriculture.

Stamvac, to date, hasn't made much dough. In 1956, for instance, Stamvac earned only $32 million after Indonesian taxes. Same year, it poured in $30 million of new capital — for new wells, tankers, refineries, etc.

But in time, the oilmer hope, their huge investment will pay off. Right now the Far Pacific still has to import lots of petroleum products. That could prestage a possible breakup of historic political allegiances at the 1960 conventions and elections.

The Doctor Says

By Edwin J. Jordan, M. D.

Mrs. L asks for a comment on a scalp condition involving constant itching in which the skin under the hair is covered with white scales.

Mr. M. writes that he has an excessively oily scalp and that a kind of "scum" forms shortly after he has washed his hair.

Both of these questions probably refer to an extremely common disorder known as seborrhea. In its more severe form it is usually called seborrheic dermatitis. Besides causing discomfort and trouble with frequent washings and other treatment, this scalp condition is one of several possible reasons for loss of hair—at least for speeding up this process.

SEBORRHEA is often considered to be of two varieties: dry seborrhea, or dandruff, and oily seborrhea. Both are more common in the scalp but may extend to other parts of the body.

THE ANSWER TO GIVEAWAYS (N. Y. Daily News)

The National Planning Association, a highly respected and independent organization, has just published its sixth report under the general heading of "United States—Business Performance Abroad."

The first five dealt with successful — and popular — American private enterprise operations in Mexico, Peru, the Philippines, Venezuela and Liberia.

This new survey gives the low-down on the Standard-Vacuum Oil Company (Stanvac). That big outfit is owned 50-50 by Standard Oil of New Jersey and Socony Mobil, and functions exclusively in the Eastern Hemisphere.

The economic situation out in the Pacific, at the close of World War II, was dismal in spaces. To develop, Indonesia and other Eastern lands needed oil and capital. They had neither. Stanvac's big refinery near Palembang, Sumatra, had been blasted twice — first by the Dutch to keep the oil out of Indonesia, and then by the Japanese.

After VJ-Day Stanvac's 600,000 stockholders had to decide whether to give up Indonesian oil production as a bad bet, or to risk $65 million more in a revolutionary country. After talking with all local hands, but not meddling in Indonesia's politics, Stanvac decided to take a chance.

So far, the venture has paid off handsomely for the young Republic of Indonesia. By exporting oil to eager Pacific customers, Indonesia has been getting the hard cash it needs for crucial imports of food and Western hardware.

Sumatra's oil wells and refineries have created thousands of high-paying jobs for Indonesians. Oilmen have chopped new roads into the jungles which, in turn, have sparked-plugged other Indonesian industries and agriculture.

Nothing gives me more pleasure than to try a new breakfast cereal. As far as I know I was the first man to throw a spoon into the breakfast food of champions, and while other "cereals" dispute my claim, I am confident that my ears were the first to hear the snap, pop and crack, the whistle, sigh and moan of a dozen other noisy cereals.

At a cost I cannot afford, I keep a full-time secretary who does nothing but scan all publications for advertisements of new breakfast treats. You can imagine my thrill, then, the other day, when my secretary burst into the billiard room where I was practicing difficult three-cushion shots and cried: "Sahib, Rajah, Monsieur Henry! Drop your cue, shave and put on a tie. Slip on some shoes and let's be off."

I obeyed with alacrity because such a request could mean but one thing — my secretary had discovered a new and exciting cereal. While I tied my ascot, he showed me the advertisement and my fingers trembled with excitement. The advertisement announced the placing on the market of a "talking cereal."

This could mean only one thing, namely, that some breakfast food manufacturer had given tongue to his product. No more unintelligible snaps, pops, cracks, whangs and d bangs, but words that could be understood.

I am not positive of the world's record time for the dash from my house to the supermarket, but I am quite sure I bettered it. I rushed into the market and panted to the clerk, "Quick, let me have a package of the new talking cereal!"

Fair Enough

Pegler: You Name It! Texas Has Got It! By WESTBROOK PEGLER

You name it! Texas has got it! Texas could swallow New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania with room left for little old, beat-up, rundown, dilapidated Rhode Island with her obsolete port of Providence and her sway-backed, rickety, textile towns.

Texas has a tropical coastline as fair as Florida's, but with more seaports on it and more commerce whether in tons or dollars. Mountains? Waters? Climates? Wealth?

And finally, people? The Constitution wouldn't let them, but Texas and at least three other Southern states, Louisiana, South Carolina and Mississippi, would select their immigrants, if they could. The sentimental invitation to wretched refuse on the plinth of the Statue of Liberty is not a quote from the Constitution but an unofficial effusion of an ephemeral New York poet.

It is ironic that the vast epileptic whose bombast has been notorious for the world over for a hundred years, the vulgar, corrupt, filthy, metropolitan of the Western world, boastful of her squalor and her crime-rate, lately should have chosen Texas as the butt of abusive propaganda, belittling virtue when she hath it not. Sneering at the manners, the ethics and principles of a pushful, stalwart American people.

New York is the center of the publishing business and radio and of the many sinister phases of propaganda which go forth as "entertainment," drenching the nation with her peculiar morals. Her picture magazines blanket the barber shops of the whole country. There is no counter-current flowing out of Texas.

Criticism of Texas comes awkwardly from the city whose poet, George M. Cohan, sang the braggy anthem "When you're away from old Broadway, you're only camping out." The "old Broadway" from the Middle East and the United States. Eventually, if touchy Indonesian politics permit Stanvac to explore and drill as a dynamic oil operation must, Stanvac and Indonesia will thrive together.

Indonesia's politics, of course, are complicated by Communists, doing their best to upset the American appeal. To date they haven't had much luck. Their most recent demand was that the schools set up by Stanvac to train Indonesian technicians and managers, and to educate their children, be taken over by the government. The Reds were promptly told to go climb the nearest eucalyptus tree. Indonesian workers have found that education pays off fast. The teachers themselves prefer Stanvac's generous wage scale to their government's.

You name it. Texas has got it! Texas has minerals, great cities, great prairies, cattle, cotton, and more than a drop of oil and a whiff of natural gas. She has leisure. She has room. She can produce a terrible norther with blizzards and sleet and the balmy lure of an azure sea on the same day. The bee-line from Brownsville to the Gulf to the Oklahoma line is about 600 miles. El Paso is much farther from Texarkana than Chicago is from Dallas.

The coastal strip of the Gulf of Mexico is a tropical fishing ground in the same parallels with the undisputed seductions of the Florida tropics. The chief difference up to now has been that the Texas coast hasn't been discovered. The Rio Grande Valley is almost confidential, but a bounteous land in her own right.

Texans with business in New York put down their lightly and laugh off envious ridicule of an old seaport whose commerce has been strangled by unions. New York hotels have changed and Texans don't tarry.

The oil works, the petrochemical mazes, a new world of industry, raise weird, enormous shapes in the Odessa-Midland desert and down along the Gulf coast. The ship canal which moved the seas up to the inland city of Houston is a solid avenue of huge, ugly wealth. (There is a hundred-mile stretch of similar miraculous growth from Baton Rouge to New Orleans.)

To the eastward, Longview, Tex., only recently a dusty country trading-post, has burst into unbelievable bloom as a miniature Dallas, which is turn-mimics Paris in fashions and tries to show wine on whiskey drinkers. And suburbs of Longview are held down now by great, solid industrial works producing plastics, heavy construction machinery and steel. The Lone Star Steel mill at Dalingerfield, recently troubled by a firecracker reign of terror incidental to a strike, is back at work, turning out miles and miles of casing for the oil and gas industries all made from Texas iron mined nearby.

You name it. Texas has got it! Hankerings

I am a simple man with pleasures to match. Nothing gives me more pleasure than to try a new breakfast cereal. As far as I know I was the first man to throw a spoon into the breakfast food of champions, and while other "cereals" dispute my claim, I am confident that my ears were the first to hear the snap, pop and crack, the whistle, sigh and moan of a dozen other noisy cereals.

At a cost I cannot afford, I keep a full-time secretary who does nothing but scan all publications for advertisements of new breakfast treats. I am not positive of the world's record time for the dash from my house to the supermarket, but I am quite sure I bettered it. I rushed into the market and panted to the clerk, "Quick, let me have a package of the new talking cereal!"

"I ran back home almost as fast as I had run out. My perfectly trained secretary, a high-caste Algerian named Gus, had the breakfast nook table set with cereal bowl, sugar, pitcher of milk, and a paper napkin.

I opened the box and poured the cereal into the bowl. How nice it will be, I thought to myself, always to have a pleasant breakfast conversationalist. How wrong, how wrong! The cereal talked all right, but it didn't believe in a thing that I believed in.

"That coffee you're drinking smells like scorched oak leaves to me," the cereal said to me. "Shut up!" I told the cereal. "It would be my luck," the cereal said, "to be bought by a grouch. Incidentally, I had hoped to be eaten out of a better looking cereal bowl than this. You must have bought this at a wayside stand while traveling. Poor pottery if I know anything about pottery. And I like cream poured on my head not milk."

"Who do you like for the presidency in 1960?" I asked the new talking cereal. "Red Ryder."

I determined right then and there not to buy any more "talking cereal" until the manufacturer plainly stamps on the box what you are getting. Friendly talkers. Grouchy talkers. Republican or Democratic talkers. Sweet talkers or mean talkers.

Life is too complicated as it is without having a box of cereal start you off on the wrong foot. Don't you think so?

FLIP-TOP BUS—A car and home are combined in this New Bedford Dornobile Caravan being manufactured in England. The vehicle features a hinged roof, shown closed in top photo, which opens (bottom) to provide headroom of 6 feet, 11 inches. All-around curtains provide privacy when the family stops for the night. Equipped with a gas stove, closets, movable rear seats and storage space in the rear doors, the vehicle can accommodate four people and has sleeping space for two.

Alcoria Says Just Wants A Fair Trial

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (UP)—Alvaro Alcoria, who has received several stays of execution since last Dec. 15, said today "the man upstairs is looking out after me" after he learned of the reversal of his death sentence by the U.S. Supreme Court.

Alcoria was sentenced to die for the murder of his wife. The Supreme Court reversed the sentence when Roy R. Berrera, who prosecuted the case, admitted he knew his star witness, Natividad Castilleja, had sexual relations with Mrs. Alcoria.

However, Castilleja, who was in a parked car when Alcoria stabbed his wife to death, did not mention this and neither did Berrera. He said he had only taken her home from work a time or two.

"I knew if they looked in the court records, something would happen to me," Alcoria said. "I just had faith."

"My prayers are answered," he said. "All I ask is I will be given a fair and a just trial according to law."

1 Card of Thanks

And we know that all things work together for good of them that love God, to them who are called according to His purpose. (Romans 8:28)

Not now, but in the coming years, it may be in the latter Land, I'll read the meaning of our tears, And then, as then, we'll understand.

And finish what we began; Heaven will be the mystery explain. And then, as then, we'll understand.

We'll know why clouds instead of sun were over many a chartered plan; Why song has ceased, when scars are there, sometimes, we'll understand.

God knows the way. He holds the key. He guides us with unerring hand; We'll know why, sometimes, we'll understand.

Yes, there, up there, we'll understand. Then trust in God through all thy days; Fear not for He doth hold thy hand; Though dark the way, still sing and praise. Sometimes, we'll understand.

SHIPMATES — Night-club comedian Don Rickles, left, and actor Burt Lancaster seem pleased about the whole thing. Rickles has been making a success of his act by insulting well-known personalities. Lancaster liked the treatment Rickles gave him so well he hired him to play the part of a Navy quartermaster in his forthcoming submarine film, "Run Silent, Run Deep."

Nasser Is Wooing Trade With The US

Foreign News Commentary
By CHARLES M. MCCANN
United Press Staff Correspondent
President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt appears to be making a serious attempt to lessen his country's economic dependence on Soviet Russia.

To do this, Nasser seeks to restore normal trade and financial relations with the United States, Great Britain and France.

He has just asked Eugene Black, president of the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development, to act as mediator in negotiations under which Egypt would pay compensation for the seizure of the Suez Canal. Black said Monday he had accepted.

Egyptian delegations also are negotiating with Great Britain, in Rome, and France, in Geneva, to restore normal economic and financial relations with those countries.

It has been reported off and on for several months that Nasser is somewhat anxious over Egypt's increasing dependence on Russia.

Red Trade Tripled
Egypt's trade with Russia and other countries of the Communist bloc now totals about 50 per cent of its total foreign trade. Three years ago the total was but 14 per cent.

It is too early to tell whether the various negotiations will succeed. Everything depends on whether Nasser really wants to reach a fair settlement with the western countries. He has shown no such desire in the past.

The situation is somewhat puzzling because of Nasser's activities as an Arab leader.

Egyptian radios and newspapers have started a vicious campaign against King Hussein of Jordan, who last April threw out his country's leftist government and broke up a plot to overthrow him.

The Egyptian government denies responsibility for the attacks. But there is no doubt that unless the government approved them they would not be made.

Seized Canal in 1956
When Nasser seized the canal in July, 1956, he said he was willing to pay stockholders compensation on the basis of Suez Canal stock quotations on the Paris Exchange at that time. The canal company rejected this offer. It said that the quotations had been forced down previously by uncertainty over Egypt's policies.

The separate negotiations Egypt is conducting with Britain and France concern compensation for British and French interests which Nasser seized at the time of the Suez Canal seizure, and the release of Egyptian funds which Britain and France seized in retaliation.

These negotiations have been going on sporadically since last May.

BEACON — New York's first bronze skyscraper lights up the Manhattan sky as light from its luminous ceiling illuminating system pours through its 3,676 windows. The 38-story Park Avenue office building is nearing completion.

Overall, the big question is whether Nasser is worried enough over Egypt's dependence on Russia to be reasonable.

Quotes In The News

LONDON — Former U.S. Ambassador to Russia George F. Kennan, on the position of Russian Communist chief Nikita Khrushchev today:

"Having reached that pinnacle of power he is very isolated and exposed in his occupancy of it. Plainly this is not a stable situation. I cannot believe that it will be of long duration."

HONOLULU — Capt. Sam Read, chief press information officer at Pearl Harbor, on the disappearance of a Pan American World Airways plane en route from San Francisco to Honolulu:

"There are many theories to be explored in the sudden and mysterious disappearance of a huge plane. However the explosion theory is receiving priority."

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower, in saying one of the most difficult problems in perfecting an intercontinental ballistic missile was firing it into space and bringing it back to earth with a spherical criterion:

"Our scientists and engineers have solved that problem."

J. O. Musick, general manager of the Texas Safety Association, made this statement today in behalf of TSA's current program to develop healthy safety attitudes:

"Parents often treat children as if they were deaf, dumb and blind," he said. "They don't realize that children have keen minds and pick up their first habits, good and bad, from their parents. This is especially true of safety habits."

"Truly, safety begins at home, and parents should be sure their actions set the right pattern of safety practices for their children to follow."

He also said that parents themselves are often victims of their own carelessness, or are responsible for accidents to their children through failure to stress safety measures in their own behavior around children.

"Many parents," he said, "will drive carelessly, jaywalk or use unsafe tools around the home, in the presence of their children. Yet these mothers and fathers will scold their children for doing the same thing."

Musick reminded parents that past National Safety Council figures indicate that more than 10,000 children under 14 years of age will die in accidents of all types this year — unless better safety education is provided in the home.

"It simply doesn't add up," he said. "If parents want to do right by their children, they must set a good example in everything they do. If they want to instill in their children the necessary precautions which will keep them out of the list of scheduled accidents, they had better inventory their own safety habits."

'Essence Of Mental Health' Is Challenged By An Expert

Science Today
By DELOS SMITH
United Press Science Editor
NEW YORK (UP) — Those experts who preach that the very essence of mental health is knowing reality when you see it and rejecting all things which are not equal, have been challenged by an expert of another stripe.

Dr. Claude C. Bowman, of Temple University, admitted he was no mental health expert although he is a sociologist and anthropologist.

Various psychiatric ideas of mental health to the contrary, a certain amount of unreality just has to exist in mental processes if minds are going to be healthy and have high morale, said Bowman.

Indeed, unreality is the reality of every day life as most of us know it, he continued, and called the attention of scientific reality proponents to their own (and Bowman's) little world, which is the world of scholarship.

"As subject-matter in various fields of knowledge has broken down into more specialties, scholars tend to concentrate upon knowing more and more about less and less," he said. "Under these circumstances it is easy, and perhaps necessary to over-value the particular segment of knowledge where one's own proficiency lies."

"Such over-evaluation seems integral to professional adjustment in the academic world as it exists."

In short, academic people "like other practical men of affairs, accept the reality principle only so far as it is practical to do so." But take love, he said. It is "fashionable" for scientific experts to "decry romantic illusions (such as, 'Love is blind,') and urge a more realistic point of view."

"Realism Doesn't Understand But this 'realism' fails to understand that love is loaded with unreality. Nor are these 'elements necessarily harmful; in many instances they are distinctly advantages to both persons.'"

Furthermore the mentally healthy "tend to be somewhat unrealistic about good friends, thinking the best of them and criticizing those who criticize them."

Bowman addressed himself directly to the psychiatric science, which contains most of the strict adherents to "the reality principle," through the technical journal of the American Psychiatric Association. He was not in agreement, he said most flatly, "with those who believe that good mental health must be based upon realistic conceptions of environment and self."

Look Out! 'God's Little Acre' On Way

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Vernon Scott is on vacation. Today's column is written by director Anthony Mann who currently is directing the most controversial picture yet made in movietown — "God's Little Acre.")

By ANTHONY MANN
Written for United Press
HOLLYWOOD (UP) — I'm currently in the brickbat business. Risking injury by being belted by same, that is.

Usually my major preoccupation is directing motion pictures. That's how I got into the present position, by filming a novel called "God's Little Acre."

Now this is no brand-new hot-off-the-press book. Erskine Caldwell wrote it 25 years ago. But the heat generated then doesn't show signs of cooling yet.

Classic is a very large word, and the prime test is the continued popularity of a book. In a quarter century, sales of more than 8-million copies of "God's Little Acre" in 14 languages have been recorded.

What's that got to do with making a movie? Well, assume that the 8-million recorded purchasers of "God's little Acre" read the book. Perhaps half of them had friends of book borrowing intimacy. And they read the book.

MOBILE LAWN FURNITURE—Recently unveiled in Turin, Italy, is this Fiat "Jolly" sports car in which doors and roof have been discarded, and traditional seats replaced by wickerwork. The car was designed by Turin designer "Ghia" for hunting and picnic trips and, according to the posters behind it, also for yachting and golfing. Styled somewhat like a streamlined Jeep, the vehicle features "Americanized" headlights.

That makes 12-million armchair critics.

If you do their story damage, you can count on hearing from some of them. Maybe a million or two.

aware of the impossibility of ever finding the appropriate actor for the leading role of Ty Ty Walden, the colorful old Georgia dreamer.

My job is matching actors to parts, but this time it had to be done for me — not once but twice.

Robert Ryan came to me and asked for the role. Bob is clean-cut, very talented and at least 10 years younger than shaggy Ty Ty should be. I told him not to call me, I'd be in touch. But before

I had a chance not to keep my promise, Caldwell sent a suggestion for Ty Ty: Robert Ryan. With makeup we made up the superficial difference.
