Testing Center May Fire An 'Atlas' Next

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UP)—A third attempt to launch an Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile appeared today to be the next scheduled event at the missile testing center here.

Two Atlas missiles could be seen plainly from outside the center, their blunt noses towering 90 feet in the air. One was static-fired on the ground during last week's intensive testing activity that saw the explosion of the Vanguard satellite carrier. It may be fired later this week.

Russia successfully fired an ICBM missile, which would have a range of at least 5,000 miles, last August. The United States has tried twice and failed due to technical difficulties which made destruction of the Atlas by remote control while in flight a necessity.

However, information as to what is going on at the test center has been difficult to come by since the Vanguard exploded on its launching pad last Friday. Authorities lowered a curtain on activities on the theory that wide-spread publicity in advance of the Vanguard's failure helped heighten the intensity of ridicule from abroad.

In addition to the two gleaming Atlases in their service towers, two white missiles were visible in the Army launching area. Observers believed one is a Redstone, a short range vehicle already operational. The other is probably either a Jupiter or Jupiter C, although the Army at Huntsville, Ala., claims there are no Jupiters here.

Two Men Are Injured In Accidents

Two accidents on area highways Saturday night resulted in injuries to the drivers of the two cars. Each of the accidents involved only one car and in both accidents the cars turned over.

John Bybee of Amarillo was taken to Highland General Hospital in an ambulance after his car rolled several times on Highway 60 about three miles west of Miami at 10:25 Saturday night.

Hospital attendants reported this morning that Bybee received a possible back injury but otherwise was in good condition. According to the Highway Patrolmen who investigated the accident, the car turned over after Bybee had apparently lost its control.

Injured in an accident at 1:40 Sunday morning was Glenn Edd Knight of 727 E. Locust. He was treated for minor injuries and released, according to the investigating officers.

The officers reported that the 1956 Plymouth which Knight was driving overturned approximately eight miles west of Pampa on the Borger highway. Knight told the officers that he had gone to sleep while driving.

Car Flips As Police Pursue; Man Fined

Attempting to make the five-points curve, at the intersection of Cuyler, Barnes and Albert, at too high of a rate of speed resulted in an accident at 1:06 yesterday morning, according to local officers.

A 1957 Chevrolet, driven by Johnny Ray Day of McLean, turned over after attempting to make the curve at over 80 miles an hour, the officers stated, and landed on its top in front of Hawkins Radio and TV Lab.

Day and the owner of the car, Truitt Stewart, also of McLean, were taken to Highland General Hospital where they were treated for minor injuries and released last yesterday.

Officers reported that the Chevrolet was demolished in the accident. The car struck two steel pipes, bending one and tearing the other from the ground, before coming to a stop only feet from the front of the Hawkins building, the officers said.

At the time of the accident, the officers were in pursuit of the car to stop it for speeding and were witnesses to the accident.

Charges of driving while intoxicated were filed in County Court this morning against Day. He pleaded guilty to the charge and was fined $100 and costs, by the court and sentenced to three days in the county jail.

Two other charges of driving while intoxicated were heard in the court this morning.

Frank John King of Pampa, who was arrested by the Highway Patrol at 8:15 yesterday evening approximately two miles west of Pampa on Highway 60, pleaded guilty to the DWI charge and was fined $100 and costs and sentenced to three days in jail. He was arrested by the state officers after being observed.

Also pleading guilty to a DWI charge was John Washington, 249 S. Gray, who received a fine of $100 and costs and was sentenced to three days in jail. He was observed by officers in the 100 block of N. Faulkner.

Directors Of Chamber In Meeting

A board of Directors meeting of the Board of City Development and Pampa Chamber of Commerce was held today at noon in the Palm Room of City Hall, according to E. L. Henderson, president of the COC.

The major item on the agenda was to have been the presentation of the chamber's plan of work for the coming year. The plan includes several items which were submitted at a recent round-table discussion by Chamber directors and committee chairmen.

The 14 work committees were also presented to the board for approval and recognition. The committees are designed to cover all phases of chamber work and to allow different committees to take charge of the various projects.

The meeting today was to be the regular monthly meeting of the board with committee chairmen invited to attend.

Says NATO Commander

Russia Can't Destroy Our Retaliatory Bases

WASHINGTON (UP) — Gen. Lauris Norstad, supreme commander of NATO military forces, said today it would be impossible for Russia to destroy all of the thousands of retaliatory bases ringed that country.

In a copyrighted interview with U.S. News & World Report, Norstad said a Soviet attack—"whether by missile or otherwise"—would bring instant destruction of the Soviets "of a very high order."

"An aggressor would have to destroy thousands of places simultaneously — every air base, every missile site — to escape retaliation," he said. "As we go along and add missile launchers, there will be increasing thousands of places an aggressor would have to destroy in one blow."

"No aggressor can do this," Norstad said. "It is impossible... either now or in the future."

Weapons Fully Effective

The NATO military chief said the West's retaliatory power is "fully effective" with its manned bombers, base system, and "missiles with ranges of hundreds of miles that... are actually deployed right now" in Europe.

He said the West's striking power would continue to be improved in time with the addition of ballistic missiles and better manned aircraft.

Meanwhile, Vice President Richard M. Nixon urged Americans to come away from their "weeping wall" over failure of the first U.S. satellite launching and "get behind our missile people."

Scorning any "defeatist" attitude, Nixon assured Americans that the Florida missile did not mean the nation suddenly was "bankrupt of brains."

Senators Attention Turns To Violence

WASHINGTON (UP) — Senate investigators focused their attention on a trail of arson, dynamite, beatings and truck sabotage in the Nashville, Tenn., area that led, they said, straight to the office of a Teamsters Union local, headed by Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.), shifted the spotlight of its inquiry into Tennessee union terrorism from the Knoxville area to Nashville as it resumed hearings. Many of the incidents around Knoxville, explored last week, involved officials and members of Teamster Local 327 at Nashville.

The committee was especially interested in the activities of W. A. (Hand) Hearing Smith, Smith, business agent of the Nashville local and a man already pictured as a handy hand with dynamite.

Committee Counsel Robert F. Kennedy said the committee also would continue to press inquiry into an apparent "breakdown of law enforcement" on many cases involving the union in the Nashville and Knoxville areas.

"The investigators hoped their airing of alleged 'boom' violence in Tennessee would result in further investigations and prosecutions by local authorities."

Last week's testimony on dynamite, shootings, beatings and truck sabotage already has prompted District Attorney General Hal Clements Jr. of Knox county to promise to seek a felonious assault indictment against two officials of Tennessee Teamster locals.

UF Total Is $54,047

Subscriptions in the Pampa-Lefors United Fund campaign received this morning brought the total for the campaign to $54,047 according to Mrs. Elsie Gee, office secretary of the fund.

Cash received at the office during the campaign totals $44,496.25 with the remaining $9,550.75 in pledges.

Warren Hodge, campaign chairman, today urged all workers still having envelopes to complete the contacting of persons on their lists and make the report to the United Fund office this week.

President Returns To White House

By MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press White House Writer
GETTYSBURG, Pa. (UP)—President Eisenhower returns today to the White House and a jam-packed schedule possibly in preparation for his attendance at the NATO summit conference in Paris.

Eisenhower will be given a thorough medical checkup this week before announcing whether he will fly to Paris Saturday for the Paris meeting.

The President planned to leave for Washington late today after spending a long week end in the peace and quiet of his farm home here.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said the Chief Executive "certainly" benefited from his days of rest at the farm.

Eisenhower, who suffered a mild stroke two weeks ago today, wants

GIFT TO RED CROSS

Members of the Sub Deb Club recently bought a collapsible wheel chair for contribution to the local Red Cross chapter. The club, made up of local high school girls, made the money to purchase the gift from a bake sale. Three members are shown here as they prepared the chair for delivery to the Red Cross. They are, left to right, Marilyn Fite, club treasurer; Jo Ann Jones, president; and Kay Tooley, a new member. (News Photo)

Indonesian Ammo Dump Blown Up

By ROBERT MONAHAN
United Press Staff Correspondent
JAKARTA (UP) — The Indonesian army's biggest ammunition dump blew up Sunday night with a tremendous blast that rocked the west Java capital of Bandung, the PIA News Agency reported today. There was immediate speculation that sabotage caused the blast.

The reports telephoned to Jakarta said the explosion occurred at Bojongkeng about four miles from Bandung and was followed by a series of minor blasts for another 2 1/2 hours.

There was no immediate report on casualties but PIA said there were ten barracks at the depot and that 20 guards were on duty at time of the explosion. Fate of the guards was not immediately known.

Gibson Youth Dies; Victim Of Collision

The death toll in the Thanksgiving eve collision east of Wheeler climbed to five with the death of David Gibson Saturday afternoon in the Wheeler Hospital.

The Gibson youth, who lived at 742 E. Campbell, received a brain concussion in the collision which took the life of his mother, two other women and a man and injured his half-sister, Angella Kay.

The sister is still in serious condition in the Wheeler Hospital as the result of the brain injury she received in the collision.

Killed in the wreck were: Mrs. J. B. Gibson, the children's mother; and Harold O. Donham of Elk City, Okla., father of Mrs. R. F. MacDonald of Pampa.

The women and children, including two other Gibson children, Kay and Linda Sue, were enroute to Oklahoma for Thanksgiving and were all passengers in one car.

Donham was in a car by himself and was enroute to Pampa to visit Mrs. MacDonald when the collision occurred.

The body of David Gibson was taken to Chickasha, Okla., for funeral services and burial.

Court Takes Action On Youths

One 15-year-old Pampa boy was put on three months probation this morning in Gray County Juvenile Court following his arrest in Hobbs, N.M., along with two companions and a 15-year-old McLean girl.

The four youths had taken the girl's father's car and were traveling west when they were stopped by Hobbs officers.

H. A. Doggett, juvenile officer, went to Hobbs for the youths Friday night and brought them to Pampa. One of the boys, 14, had recently returned from Gatesville and Doggett was returning him to the correction school this morning following the incident and court action.

The remaining youth, 13, was held in county jail until his release yesterday pending further action.

The girl was returned to her home by her father upon her arrival in Pampa.

Would Command Use Of US Rockets, Etc.

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG
United Press Staff Correspondent
LONDON (UP)—Britain is asking U. S. Defense Secretary Neil McElroy for greater political control of British based American nuclear weapons—bombers, rockets and missiles—informed sources reported today.

McElroy meets twice today with Defense Minister Duncan Sandys and confers separately with Foreign Minister Selwyn Lloyd and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

He already has held one series of talks since arriving Saturday to map plans for planting American's frontline rocket defenses in Europe. He leaves Tuesday for the continent to consult reluctant NATO allies on setting up U.S. rocket bases closer to Russia.

Informed sources said despite Macmillan's assurances to Parliament last week the government is not satisfied with the existing arrangements for controlling American nuclear bombers and the missiles which soon will be located in Britain.

Wouldn't Act Alone

Macmillan told Parliament that American planes which carry live hydrogen bombs on last flights over Britain would not act without joint Anglo-American consultation.

There also were reports that McElroy would discuss a proposed joint American-British naval command. However such suggestions were expected to be criticized in many quarters as making the British navy subservient to the U.S. Navy.

In this connection, the Sunday Express reported Sunday in a frontpage bannerline story that British jet atom bombers are to be merged with the U.S. Air Force's Strategic Air Command as part of a major streamlining of the NATO armed forces.

Basics Chief Concerns

McElroy's chief concern appeared to be with rocket bases. Reports said that under present plans Britain has agreed to pay the 80 million dollars cost of constructing four launching sites for 1,600-mile rockets. One would be under U.S. command, the other three under British command.

McElroy told newsmen on his arrival Saturday that promised rockets would be ready for delivery here ahead of the original mid-1959 deadline. He said the United States is taking a calculated risk in putting them into production before completion of final tests.

Additionally, the United States wants to establish medium range rocket bases on the continent, particularly in West Germany and France. Both countries were reported reluctant to have them for fear this would provoke the Russians and subject their own territories to all out Soviet nuclear attack in event of war.

New Planning Group To Be Approved

The agenda for the meeting of the City Commission tomorrow calls for the approval of persons to be named to the new City Planning Commission.

The planning group has been discussed for some time by the commissioners and, when appointed, will be responsible for making recommendations to the commission on the needs of construction by the city for the future.

John Koontz, city manager, reported this morning that he was checking with other towns in the area which have planning groups on the organization of these groups so that the commission would have a better idea of how many men to appoint.

Also scheduled for action by the commission tomorrow is the opening of bids on the disposal of wet garbage. The contract has expired and the city is to award a new contract for such disposal.

The third reading of Ordinance No. 443, providing for the extension of the city limits to include two blocks of Country Club Heights, is scheduled for approval. The two blocks are located on Red Deer, between Browning and Harvester.

Other action expected is the setting of a bid date for the awarding of a contract on cyclo-type fencing at the new water well near the intersection of McCullough and Barnes, and the paying of monthly bills.

Charge Mother In Death Of 8 Children

PARK FALLS, Wis. (UP)—Authorities said today they will file child neglect charges against a mother whose eight children burned to death while she allegedly was out with another man.

The charred remains of the children, the oldest only 10, will be buried Tuesday in one casket.

The fire, apparently caused by an overheated oil burner, broke out in the frigid, pre-dawn darkness Sunday in the family's small frame home west of this northern Wisconsin community.

The mother, Mrs. Ardeta Klein, 35, was taken into custody by Price County Sheriff Andrew Pilch who found her running down a rural road toward the flaming home. The father, Harvey, 40, a logger, was at a lumber camp in nearby Butternut, Wis., at the time.

To File Charges Today

District Attorney Carl Bjork said he planned to charge Mrs. Klein with child neglect today, but arraignment would be deferred until after the children's funeral. "I'm sorry I didn't turn up with the children," Pilch quoted Mrs. Klein as saying. He said the mother was in a state of shock and fainted several times during questioning at county jail.

The blaze was discovered by neighbors who notified firemen. Fire fighters said the flames were raging out of control when they arrived and they had to wait for a conservation department water truck because their own pumper was under repair.

Neighbors Recover Bodies

Three neighbors recovered the bodies while the rubble of the home still was smoldering. Six of the children died in their beds and two others were found near a kitchen door where they apparently were overcome while trying to flee.

Pilch said Mrs. Klein had left her children unattended during the night while she went to a tavern and later for a ride with a man she met at the bar.

Fire Chief Merrill Roettcher said he believed all of the children suffocated before the flames reached them.

If it comes from a hardware store the home is owned by Mrs. L. L. Edson.

Actress Vanessa Brown Is Refusing Quiz Show Offers

By VERNON SCOTT
United Press Hollywood Writer

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Vanessa Brown, only actress-genius in television, is refusing offers to appear on big money quiz shows because "I want to be an actress, not an oddity."

A radio Quiz Kid when she was only 14, Vanessa would be a pip of a contestant for the skull-busters, but she's too shy to appear.

"The '$64,000 Challenge' wanted me to choose any category and to challenge any of their past contestants," Vanessa said in her quiet little voice. "It was flattering, but I turned it down—mostly because I'm shy, I guess."

"Besides, I couldn't decide which category would be best. Then I realized I didn't know enough about any single subject. My friends tried to talk me into studying up on Sherlock Holmes, but it would have taken too much time.

Refused "Tic-Tac-Dough" "Then 'Tic-Tac-Dough' asked me to try for the jackpot. I refused that also."

"With an IQ of 169 Vanessa is some 80 points smarter than the average citizen."

"I read slowly and have almost total recall," Vanessa said during a rehearsal break. "But it is hard work and takes time."

"To appear on a quiz show a person must be genuinely interested in a particular subject. There's no trick to it at all. It's a matter of collecting and saving facts — like some people collect money."

"Personally, I don't find quiz shows very interesting. I seldom watch them."

Fire In Home Kills Three Children

SAN ANTONIO (UP) — Three children, 5, 3 and 2 years old, were killed today by a fire that swept their four-room home while their mother was visiting across the street.

The children were Daniel Quirga, 5, and his brothers, David, 3, and Albert 2. The fire started when the hose of a gas heater came loose.

The gas from the end of the hose sprayed the hot stove starting a fire that spread across the room. It spread so quickly that the children were fatally burned before their mother could get back to them.

David and Albert were dead by the time an ambulance got them to a hospital.

Firemen had hoped they could save Daniel, whose main trouble appeared to be suffocation. But the next two ambulances after the one that took David and Albert away had no oxygen.

A fourth ambulance had to be summoned. Firemen administered oxygen from their own supply, but it was not enough to revive the boy before the fourth ambulance arrived.

He also was pronounced dead on arrival at a hospital. The victims were the third, fourth and fifth to be killed by fire in San Antonio in a week.

British Youth Is Rescued

KETTLEWELL, England (UP) — One of six boys and girls trapped all weekend in a flooded cave 300 feet below the lonely Yorkshire moors was rescued today by spelunkers and frogmen. He reported the other five, including two teen-age girls, in "good shape."

The first one rescued was 18-year-old Peter Clough.

Police informed the parents of the six college students they would all be brought out quickly and taken immediately to a hospital for treatment of possible injuries and exposure in the icy depths.

About 230 rescuers including frogmen had battled feverishly since Saturday night to reach the group who were trapped far below the surface when a flash flood filled up the passages leading to the surface.

Officials said earlier it would take rescue teams at least 10 hours to get the group out but their reports the group was alive erased their earlier fears that chances of survival were "dipping."

Frogmen who entered the cave time and again said their only chance of survival depended on their reaching a ledge high above the floodwaters. The frogmen reported almost all tunnels submerged.

Villagers prepared food and drink for the group when word was flashed here that the students were still alive.

Between 1934 and 1942, the number of American farms using electricity was doubled, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

According to a study by the Illinois Institute of Technology, there are 15,000,000,000 particles in every puff of cigarette smoke.

Along with the program, ways and means of upholding industrial safety will be stressed and discussed among the persons attending.

W. G. Irving Dies Sunday

CURB SERVICE — The problem of squeezing into tight parking spaces is made simple with a new device called the "Slider," invented by engine expert Archie Butterworth of Frimley Green, Surrey, England. To park a car equipped with the invention, the driver steers the front end into the curb. At the press of a dashboard button, a hydraulic undercarriage with two rubber disks (arrows) is lowered, raising the rear wheels from the ground. Powered by the car's transmission, the disks spin and move the car sideways into the parking space. Low gear swings the rear one way, and reverse the other.

Cage Indicted On Additional Charges

DALLAS (UP) — Ben Jack Cage, the one-time head of a far-flung Texas insurance empire, was indicted today on new charges in connection with his operation of ICT Insurance Co. of Dallas.

The latest indictment (the already has appealed one conviction) stems from a $500 check to J. Byron Saunders, former insurance commissioner. The indictment charges embezzlement from ICT July 8, 1955.

A Senate hearing brought out that Saunders was getting $300 per month from ICT, but Saunders claimed that the money was for an oil lease in Wood county.

Saunders later became insurance commissioner, and the indictment returned today by a Dallas county grand jury stems from the facts that Cage allegedly was unauthorized by the board of directors of ICT to write such checks as the $500 one to Saunders.

The hearing was set on the request of Giles' son, Roger Giles, an Austin attorney.

Giles began serving a six-year prison sentence on Jan. 10, 1956 following convictions arising from the veterans land scandals.

The pardons board was petitioned last Friday by an Austin businessman to grant Giles his freedom by Christmas. Earle E. Burkhalter presented the board a petition bearing some 100 names.

The board last April denied clemency to Giles and said he must serve the remainder of his term. Giles' discharge date is serving his full sentence and including all credits for good behavior and other factors — will be in January, 1959.

Giles, who was elected to nine successive terms as land commissioner, was convicted in Austin and pleaded guilty at San Antonio and Crystal City to bribery and theft accusations involving administration of the multi-million dollar-veterans land fund.

TU Victims Of Fraternity Gag Return Home

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UP) — Two University of Texas sophomores — victims of a "perfectly planned" prank that left them stranded on a lonely highway 700 miles from Austin in Tennessee — climbed aboard a train at Little Rock today for their return trip to Texas.

Bob Smith of Amarillo and Joe Binford of Dallas and an unidentified man from the University of the South at Sewanee, Tenn., fell for a gag worked out by Beta Theta Pi pledges on an interstate highway.

"We have to hand it to them, they had planned to perfection," said Smith.

It started Friday night as Smith and Binford left their dates after a basketball game in Austin. They were hustled into separate cars and driven all night to Arkadelphia, Ark.

There they were met Saturday noon by pledges from the Sewanee school who also had a fraternity member in tow. An exchange of prisoners was made.

The Tennessee students stranded Smith and Binford about midnight Saturday on a highway somewhere east of Memphis without money or identification. The Tennessee fraternity member was presumably dumped somewhere in Texas.

Binford had stuffed a dollar bill in his shoe "somewhere around Waco," and he and Smith used that to buy coffee while hitch-hiking back.

62 Passengers Killed In Air Line Disaster

BUENOS AIRES (UP) — A Argentine Air Lines plane carrying tourists to a summer vacation resort crashed and burned in a violent storm Sunday night. All 62 persons aboard were killed.

The plane, a four-engine DC-4, was en route to the Andes Resort town of San Carlos De Bariloche with 55 passengers and a crew of seven. It crashed about 15 miles from the town of Bolivar in Buenos Aires Province, about 220 miles southwest of this capital.

Several rescue parties trying to reach the blazing wreck were halted by roads made impassable by torrential day-long rains.

One party with a tractor finally made it and reported by radio there were no survivors. An air line official confirmed the report.

Lottie Moon Week Of Prayer Observed By Central Baptist Women's Groups

The annual Lottie Moon Week of Prayer was observed by the Central Baptist Church W.M.U. with services conducted each day. The theme for the week was "The Love of God."

Each day, meetings were opened with Mrs. Charley Thomas as leading the group in saying John 3:15. Mrs. Harry Crawford read the prayer calendar each day with members offering prayer for missionaries at home and in foreign lands.

Brother Harry Crawford presented a message in song each morning. The theme for Monday's program was "God So Loved That He Gave Us All Countries." The program was presented by the Carmie Jay Circle. Participating were Mrs. Crawford, Nolan Cole, Floyd Vaughn, N. R. Lowe, E. M. Clark, Mrs. Thomas gave the closing meditation. Twenty-one members were present.

Tuesday's theme carried the thought that "God So Loved That He Sent To All People." The program was presented by the Kezlie Mae Searight Circle with Mrs. Charles Broxson, Jimmy Sell, W. O. Horton participating. Mrs. W. L. Ferguson offered the closing prayer. Twenty-six ladies were present.

Mrs. Wayne Cobb read the prayer calendar for Wednesday. The Sara Beth Circle presented the program with the theme "God So Loved That He Empowered Against All Hindrances." Members on the program were Mmes. Leon Brown, L. G. McDaniel, William Stiffler, Forrest W. Ashbourne, Sam Hanks, Mrs. Charley Thomas closed the meeting by reading "There Is A Green Hill Far Away." Twenty-nine ladies attended the meeting.

Thursday's program was presented by the Mary Nell Giles Circle with the theme "For God So Loved That He Called From All Races." Taking parts of the program were Mmes. Curllis Liles, J. H. Reeves, R. C. Brown, Charles Broxson, Mrs. Thomas gave the closing meditation. Nineteen members were present.

Friday's theme was "For God So Loved That We Must Love Him Too." The group repeated John 3:15 together. Opal Miller Circle presented the program with Mmes. Thomas, J. P. Adams, Kenneth Gray, Don Rosenback, J. B. Lee, George Wing, Everett Sheriff, W. G. Godding, Mrs. T. O. Uphaw closed the meeting with prayer. Thirty members were present.

The executive board of the Central Baptist W.M.U. met Friday for a short business meeting. Focus Week will be held Jan. 4-12-17, it was announced.

Royal Service will be observed on Jan. 8, instead of Jan. 1, as planned. Mrs. L. G. McDaniel closed the meeting with prayer.

The business meeting was opened with song. Mrs. A. H. Barrick offered prayer for missionaries. Reports were given by each general officer. Reports were also given, on the cheer baskets which each circle prepared for Thanksgiving.

Opal Miller Circle presented the program for Royal Service. Luncheon followed in Fellowship Hall.

High On Yule List For Glamor Giving

By GAILE DUGAS
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK (NEA) — People with foresight do their Christmas shopping before Thanksgiving. Lazy people do their shopping on the afternoon of Dec. 24th, when the stores are nice and empty and one can browse around in peace.

Only trouble with the second plan is that everything that's any good has been bought. Also, one must carry every single thing home since, while the stores are willing enough to gift wrap and send, it's fairly obvious that the gifts will not arrive until Dec. 27th or thereafter.

Now, lingerie and robes always brighten the stores at this time of year. People like to give them and other people just love to get them.

Here, we show two Christmas gift possibilities that look delicate, frilly and feminine but actually are made of strong nylon. Both wash easily and neither needs ironing.

The duster (left) is lightweight quilted nylon tricot cut with full puff sleeves. There's a big scarf bow at the neckline.

Gown - and - peignoir ensemble (right) in airy nylon tricot is trimmed with bands of embroidery. Peignoir has lantern-type sleeves. We show the ensemble in periwinkle blue.

Tracy D. Cary, former Pampam, who is now living in Fort Worth, where he is a member of Arlington College music faculty, spent the Thanksgiving holidays, visiting with his parents, Attorney and Mrs. C. E. Cary, 430 N. Sumner. He also attended the Pampa High School Homecoming.

He had an interesting experience, just prior to his visit home, which we would like to pass along. Mr. Cary was host to Fernando Germani, famed organist of the Vatican Church of St. Peter in Rome, Italy. Mr. Germani is also head of the Pontifical Institute of Music and the Saint Cecilia Academy.

Communion Clothes Project For Unit

Making First Holy Communion dresses is a current project for the Committee Cooperation with Catholic Charities of Pampa Parish Council of Catholic Women. It was announced by Mrs. R. E. McKernan, chairman.

"To date, we have 12 dresses in volunteer seamstresses hands," Mrs. McKernan said. "And a promise of three more to be sewn when we find volunteer donors of the material."

"The dresses are for size 10 girls, requiring 3 1/2 yards of dotted Swiss or similar cotton material, and 2 1/2 yards of white petticoat material, with approximately total cost of $2.50," Mrs. McKernan explained.

"The finished garments will be sent to missions for the use of youngsters receiving their First Communion, not only in this country but in foreign missions as well."

Seamstresses, who met recently in the McKernan home, to discuss details of the construction were Mmes. M. F. Roche, E. J. Machowicz, R. W. Laycock, O. R. Hudson, Lloyd Simpson, Walter Pung, and James Chism.

area in 29 years.

Commenting on the growth and beauty of organs in Texas Churches, since his last visit, Germani said, "We, too, have enlarged our musical facilities in St. Peter's. We have not one organ, but five! Two are Italian makes; one, French; one, Belgian; and one, German."

"Our instruments are not so large as yours, since the vibration of a large instrument might weaken the structure of the church, which is 400 years old." He added later, with a slight twinkle, "Although I don't think there would be too much danger in this since we had a very good architect in the beginning . . . Michelangelo!"

Stockings should be washed promptly after they have been worn. This prevents perspiration damage and leads to longer wear. Fruit pulp often is stubborn and won't rinse out of glasses or pitchers. If the pulp has dried in a glass, you may need to soak the glass in warm suds. A long-handled sponge or brush is good to get into pitchers or shakers and scrub them clean.

Harvesters Host Vernon Tomorrow

Three Home Games Slated For Week

The Pampa Harvesters open up tomorrow night in Harvester Field House with the Vernon Lions for the first game in a three-game stand this week.

Tomorrow night's tilt with the Lions will mark the fifth encounter of the season for coach Cliff McNeely's charges, having registered a 3-1 record for their first two weeks of action.

The controversial opener with the Childress Bobcats went down in the records as a 49-48 victory for the opposition to mark the lone loss for the Harvesters. Following their initial tilt they romped over Phillips, 76-47; downed Elk City, 95-51, in their first home game; and defeated Vernon there Saturday night, 86-52.

Rounding out the week of activities here, the Harvesters will clash with Hobbs, N.M., Friday and Saturday night, Dec. 13 and 14.

Individually, Mack Layne leads the Harvesters in scoring, having accounted for 64 points in the four games of the season. Trailing by a slim one-point margin is Coyie Winborn, who has 63 points to his credit.

Following in the third and fourth spot is Bill Brown with 53 points and Ray Stephenson with 50 points.

Team-wise, the Harvesters have scored 305 points against 229 for their total opposition.

Probable starters for tomorrow night will be:

Pampa: Winborn, Layne, Brown, Gindorf, Stephenson.

MACK LAYNE
...top scorer

Vernon: McAfee, Phillips, Percival, Beard and Bolton.

Rice, TCU Rank High In SW Race

An 18-game Southwest Conference basketball schedule this week will offer some ideas on the comparative strength of title contenders Rice and Texas Christian University as well as how some of the other league members shape up against mutual foes.

The direct comparison between championship-favored Rice and its chief rival, TCU, comes tonight at Oklahoma City when TCU tackles the OCU Chiefs, a team that extended Rice last week before tumbling 53-45.

Tonight's program also marks Rice's only outing of the week—at home against Louisiana State—and a comparison of Texas Tech's surprising newcomers and graduation-weakened champion Southern Methodist. SMU enters the Hamline, a club that fell to Tech 65-45 last week.

Tuesday night, Baylor plays Abilene Christian, an outfit laced 95-59 by Texas Tech, and Texas hosts McMurry, which has lost 75-50 to TCU and 90-59 to Baylor. And, on Thursday night, SMU hits the road to play Oklahoma, a team that whipped Arkansas 64-52.

Intersectional play Intersectional play highlights the week's program in the wake of the opening games that saw Rice, TCU, Texas and Texas Tech all win both their starts. Arkansas took two out of three, Baylor lost two out of three, SMU trip twice and the Aggies once. The Aggies, rated a darkhorse contender, embark on the most ambitious trek when they play at Memphis State tonight, at Wake Forest Wednesday, at Richmond Thursday and at Ohio State Saturday in an attempt to wipe out some of the stigma of an upset 69-56 loss to St. Mary's.

SMU, with four sophomores in the starting lineup, also will host Vanderbilt on Saturday night in addition to the Hamline and Oklahoma tilts, while Texas has a Saturday night date with Tulane at Austin.

TCU participates in the Birmingham, Ala. Classic Friday and Saturday nights and draws Auburn as its first rival.

Texas Tech, after entertaining West Texas at Lubbock Wednesday night, launches a sewing through the South against Georgia Tech at Atlanta Saturday night, the same time Baylor opens a similar tour against Alabama at Tuscaloosa.

Arkansas tangles with Mississippi at neutral Little Rock Friday night in its only start. Other results last week saw Rice beat New Mexico A&M 72-45; Texas trim Texas A&I 62-45; and Trinity 79-59; TCU wallop Austin College 83-33; Arkansas defeat New Mexico A&M 59-50; and Tulsa, 79-41; Baylor fall to Utah 73-64 and 72-49; and SMU lose to Minnesota 66-52 and to Iowa 65-60 in overtime.

Texas Tech's Leon Hill jumped out in front in the scoring-race with a 21.5 scoring average in two games, trailed by Temple Tucker of Rice and Bob Johnson of Texas A&M with 20.6, Ron Stevenson of TCU with 19.0 and Bobby James of SMU with 17.0.

Musial's Title Shared By Aaron, Mays

NEW YORK (UP)—Stan Musial's seventh National League batting title shared honors today with splendid all-round performances by two of the circuit's younger stars—Hank Aaron and Willie Mays.

Final official figures released Sunday by the Elias Baseball Bureau confirmed Musial, of Donora, Pa., as the NL batting champion with a .351 mark that was his best since 1951. The St. Louis Cardinals' 37-year-old star batted .500 in a five-player battle for the crown and put him far ahead of Mays' .333 second-place figure.

Musial's seventh championship leaves him one short of the league mark held by Honus Wagner and his 176 hits raised his career total to 2,997—only 43 shy of the 3,000-mark which has been achieved by only six players in modern baseball history.

Aaron, Mays Stand Out But, great as Musial's performance was, it could not completely overshadow the steady day-to-day batting exploits of Aaron or the all-around skills of the ever-amazing Mays.

Aaron, the world champion Milwaukee Braves' most valuable player award winner, led in three important departments—runs, 118; home runs, 44, and runs batted in, 132. His .322 average tied Cincinnati's Frank Robinson for third and his 369 total bases beat out Mays' total by three.

Mays Extra Base Leader Mays, the 26-year-old center fielder of the New York Yankees (San Francisco) Giants, was the first player in 29 years to hit 20 or more homers, triples and doubles in the same season. Willie, who'll replace the Golden Gate as "Prisco" of the most spectacular landmark in '58, numbered 35 homers, 20 triples and 26 doubles among his 195 hits and also led the circuit with 38 stolen bases.

The pennant-winning Braves trailed the Cardinals in team batting, .289 to .271, but they scored the most runs, 772, and hit the most homers, 199. The hard-hitting Braves scored 100 runs more than four other teams—the Giants, Phillies, Cubs and Pirates. Shortstop Dick Groat of the Pirates, at .315, and second-baseman Red Schoendienst of the Giants and Braves, at .309, were the only other .300 hitters in a league which averaged .260. Schoendienst also led the league in hits, with 200, for the first time in his career.

Admission is $1.50 for ringside; $1.25 for reserved seats; 90 cents for general admission adult and 50 for general admission children.

Browns Clinch Eastern Title; Three Teams Tied In Western

By EARL WRIGHT United Press Sports Writer Cleveland is ready to play the 1957 National Football League championship game but the Detroit Lions, San Francisco 49ers and Baltimore Colts are tied for the Western Division lead. It may be 1958 before they untangle and provide a title rival for the Browns.

Here's how the weekend action gave the Browns the 11th division title in their 12-year history and left half the Western Division clubs tied for first.

The Browns, enjoying the type of good fortune that helped build pro football's finest record, won the Eastern crown for the seventh time in eight tries while watching television Saturday at Detroit as the Pittsburgh Steelers eliminated the New York Giants, 21-10.

The Chicago Bears, who entertain Detroit defeated the Cardinals, 14-6. Don Bosseler plunged for three touchdowns and Eddie LeBaron passed for two in a 42-7 Washington Redskins romp against the Philadelphia Eagles.

The Forty-Niners entertain the Packers next Sunday. Of the Western leaders, San Francisco appears to have the best chance in the finals. The Lions, whose Bob by Layne was carried out of the Cleveland clash with a broken right ankle bone, haven't downed the Bears at Chicago since 1953. The Colts have won only one of 11 previous games on the West Coast.

If all the Western leaders win

Pittsburgh did the Browns a big favor because the Lions handed Cleveland a 20-7 defeat Sunday. New York's hopes of retaining the league and Eastern division titles would have been alive if it had won at Pittsburgh.

Three hours later Sunday at San Francisco, rookie John Brodie passed 14 yards to Hugh McElhenry in the last 46 seconds to give the 49ers a 17-13 triumph over the Colts. That touchdown toss produced the three-way tie because Baltimore started the day leading Detroit and San Francisco by a game.

Two also-rans who will play key roles in next Sunday's regular season windups scored victories in Sunday's other games. The Los Angeles Rams warmed up for Baltimore's yards by whipping the Green Bay Packers, 42-17.

The Chicago Bears, who entertain Detroit defeated the Cardinals, 14-6. Don Bosseler plunged for three touchdowns and Eddie LeBaron passed for two in a 42-7 Washington Redskins romp against the Philadelphia Eagles.

N.C. Tarheels Equipped For Title Defense By JOE SARGIS United Press Sports Writer

North Carolina's smashing opening-game victory served notice on the college basketball world Monday that Coach Frank McGuire's Tarheels are solidly equipped to defend their national championship.

The Tarheels, performing without the graduated Len Rosenbluth and injured Joe Quigg, walloped Clemson, 79-55, Saturday to run their unbeaten streak to 33 games. The victory was especially impressive because three of North Carolina's principal rivals were hard pressed to win and a fourth challenger suffered its first defeat.

Second-ranked Kansas had to go all out to shade Northwestern, 71-65; fifth-ranked Kentucky went to three overtimes before downing eighth-ranked Temple, 85-85; and seventh-ranked Kansas State was tied six times before taking a 66-61 decision from Indiana.

Fourth-ranked Notre Dame had it a bit easier—the Dema swamping West Texas State, 73-45, and the Irish clobbering Wisconsin, 76-53.

Kansas, Kentucky, Kansas State, Temple and Notre Dame go right back into action tonight as does third-ranked Bradley, Kansas opposes Marquette, Kentucky plays Maryland, Kansas State faces Purdue, Temple meets Cincinnati, Notre Dame plays Nebraska and Bradley faces Arizona.

Patterson's Manager Bitter In Feud Against IBC Promotions

By JACK CUDDY United Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (UP)—This writer, friendly to both Cus D'Amato and Jim Norris, tried over the week-end to arrange a forget-the-past conference that might settle their feud and result in a big heavy-weight title fight.

Patterson's manager, Bill Patterson, is negotiating for a spring title defense in England against an undesignated opponent. He added, "and we have four offers for title fights in the United States—from independent promoters."

Meanwhile, Norris stressed his willingness to confer with D'Amato. He said, "if Cus doesn't want to meet me in New York now, I could fly up from Miami in 3 1/2 hours or from Chicago in two hours and 40 minutes, any time he wants to sit down and talk it over."

But the world's best known promoter added: "If he doesn't want Patterson to fight under our promotion, I'm sure he won't put us out of business. The government might put us out, but D'Amato won't."

Norris' "government" mention referred to the monopoly decision now before the United States Supreme Court for confirmation or reversal. Last summer Federal Judge Sylvester Ryan found the IBC guilty of violating the anti-trust laws and ordered the IBC broken up. But his verdict was appealed to the Supreme Court.

Friends of D'Amato say he fears the IBC will try to "control" Patterson if he defends under IBC PROMOTION.

only a tie to mar its record; Highland Park, Terrell, White Oak and Jourdanon had lost only one game all season; Sweetwater has been beaten and tied; Cleburne beaten once and tied three times; Port Arthur beaten three times and tied once, and West Columbia beaten three times and tied twice.

Abilene, which staged a mild upset last Saturday with a 33-14 defeat of Amarillo for its 49th straight victory, was the only 1958 champ left in the running. And, the Eagles will be after an unprecedented fourth straight crown. Waco and Amarillo also have won three straight.

Garland, which had been in the running for a repeat AAA title, was jolted 20-0 by Cleburne last week; and Stamford and Stinnett, the other 1958 champions, were eliminated in district play.

Abilene, Austin and Highland Park ranked Nos. 2, 4 and 6 in the United Press coaches board final ratings, while Port Arthur wasn't among the top 10. Abilene's victory took out the No. 1 team, Amarillo.

Nederland topped the UP's AAA ratings, while Sweetwater was No. 2, Edison No. 4 and Cleburne No. 11.

Flowers From Roberta's Say "Merry Christams"

SANTA AND HIS HELPERS AT ROBERTA'S—Among the flocked Christmas trees, Yule plants and arrangements Santa pauses with his helpers, Mrs. Vera Cornett (left) and Mrs. Roberta Valliant (both seated) and J. C. Hopkins (left) and Cecil Gill—at Roberta's Flowers, 217 N. Ballard, MO 4-3309. Santa knows only flowers and plants are so eloquent in expressing our Christmas greetings, and that only arrangements of flowers and plants are so cordial in creating an atmosphere of friendliness in our homes. This year send flowers to your friends here, especially the hospitalized, and wire flowers anywhere from Roberta's Flowers, 217 N. Ballard, MO 4-3309.

Santa Claus has come to town. He's at Roberta's Flowers, and he's saying "Merry Christmas, Happy New Year" with flowers from Roberta's, 217 N. Ballard, MO 4-3309.

mond king also.

However, there are such things as singleton kings. Mrs. Grue played dummy's ace of diamonds and to behold there was East's king!

Now all that was necessary was the mopping up. The ten of diamonds was carefully dropped. It was necessary to unblock the suit. Trumps were drawn and the five of diamonds led. West played low and dummy's eight was finessed, whereupon all dummy's diamonds were good and Mrs. Grue had managed to wind up with an over-trick.

The kindly old man in red and white daily waves to all from Roberta's window, and he gives you to understand that:

As an expression of man's goodwill and friendship only living flowers and plants so eloquently describe the beauty and warmth of the Christmas season. At Christmas God gave the gift of His only Son to man. So also are flowers the gift of beauty from God to man.

Send Flowers

Only the beauty of living flowers, plants so eloquently describe the warm friendliness of the Christmas season. So flowers are especially appreciated as gifts, and are especially appreciated in decorations for holiday occasions.

Send your Yule greetings with flowers and plants:

With the eloquent beauty of plants like the Christmas poinsettia, chrysanthemum, azalea, and cyclamen.

With the brilliance of bouquets of roses, carnations, chrysanthemums.

With the daintiness of a Roberta's corsage of orchids, gardenias, roses or carnations.

With the originality of a Roberta's centerpiece, door swag, or arrangement.

Flowers For Shut-ins

The eloquence of these flowers, plants and arrangements are appreciated most by hospitalized and shut-in friends and relatives. Remember them often with the living beauty of flowers and plants from Roberta's. Several times each day deliveries are made to both hospitals.

And remember to wire flowers anywhere from Roberta's, a member of F.T.D. — Florists Telegraph Delivery.

Business men who plan to remember their special customers at Christmas may delight them most with a floral arrangement tastefully designed by Mrs. Roberta Valliant, J. C. Hopkins or Cecil Gill. Bring in your list, and let these florists help you.

Plan Arrangements

To plan for your gatherings during the holiday season let Mrs. Valliant, Hopkins or Gill help you with your decorations — from the cordial door swag outside to the plants, centerpiece and other floral arrangements inside your home. Their novelty arrangements will spell out your friendliness.

Visit Roberta's to see the wide selection of Christmas ideas: including Yule bushes, decorative lanterns, miniature strings of Christmas lights, the miniature reindeer and Santa Claus, the Christmas planters and pottery.

Roberta's has a most complete stock of holiday candles: glitter tapers, colonades, lanterns, candles shaped like a post and many, many more.

Browse through the wide assortment of planters and original arrangements — to delight every home lover!

Plan your decorations with Roberta's, and plan to send the most welcome gift of all — flowers, from Roberta's, 217 N. Ballard, MO 4-3309.

A FLEET IN ONE—Out for its shakedown cruise, the world's largest birchbark canoe skims over the waters of Golden Lake, in Ontario, Canada, propelled by a total of 16 paddlers. In the bow of the giant craft is 85-year-old Matt Bernard, who supervised its building. The canoe, a copy of those used by early fur traders, is 36 feet long and six feet wide. It will be shipped to Ottawa for display in the National Museum.

It Might Have Been

"For of all sad words of tongue or pen,
The saddest are these: 'It might have been!'"
—John Greenleaf Whittier
from "Maud Muller."

The American dream took its form from the belief that each man should be free. The result of this dream in our formative years, was the most astounding advance in science, invention, enterprise, industry, and literature, ever to occur among a given people during a particular period of time.

As a new nation, unsaddled as yet with a top-heavy and tax rapacious bureaucracy, we blazed countless trails. American inventors ripped off the veil of prohibitions which had stifled the peoples of the world for many past centuries.

Someone invented the cotton gin, the sewing machine, the steel plow, the harvester, the repeating rifle. Electricity was discovered, and along came the electric light, the phonograph, wireless telegraphy, radio, electric milkers, vacuum cleaners, washing machines, garbage disposal units.

Then came chemical inaugurations and nylon and other synthetic fabrics were born. Airplanes sprang into being. And automobiles.

New ways of doing old things were found. We had steam engines, steam boats, steam railroads. Refrigeration changed our way of life. So did central heating, air conditioning and the development of petroleum products.

Look across the list of American firsts. For the most part they occurred during our salad days, when we were young, when a man was free to run what risks he would, and when, if a risk paid off, the risker would win the accolade.

Today we are in a far different condition. What once was, and might have been today, is no more. Today, had it not been for government interference there might have been a score or more of "sputniks" whirling in space, each one bearing the tab, "Made in U. S. A."

If American industry and business had not been compelled to hand billions to its government, it would have had those billions for its own private research and its own free development.

No one, of course, can safely predict what would have happened had we retained our freedom during the intervening years. Freedom is always unpredictable since the combined talents of all our people would have been able to express themselves fully. As it is now, only those talents desired by the government receive full expression. And the rest of us pay the bill for whatever it is the government thinks is worth doing.

Up until the development of atomic power, all major power developments the world over had always occurred at private instance. It might have been still true today. But, alas, we have given away our freedom, through the fear that we need protection more than we need our liberty.

It is possible that instead of "sputniks" spinning in useless orbits about the planet, Americans might have already landed space explorers on the moon, Mars or Venus. We might have developed all kinds of things. We'll never know now what might have been, because what might have been has been replaced by government control. The wonders, the miracles of life, have largely been superseded by political certainty.

We were in a fair way to be the way-showers for the world indefinitely, until we began to copy the cloying collectivism of Europe and Asia. Then it was that we became soft, ineffectual, afraid of risks; preferring the certainty of daily bread, to the possibility of progress and glory beyond our dreams.

If the same tendency persists we will find that we have grasped for a crust when all the solar system might have been our own.

There is one major point in which American collectivism is even worse than Russian or old-world collectivism. In this country, when we band together in stupid dependency upon an agency of violence, our government, we stop working. We sit down. We relax. We seek the sunshine, ease and contentment. Work is for others who are less fortunate, we presume.

The collectivist countries of the old world have had dependency thrust upon them. We have sought ours voluntarily.

In the old world, work is the keynote to their present progress and one has only to look at Western Germany and the Russian science program. In the former, work has been resumed through choice to blaze a brave new trail. In the latter, work has been demanded by the state, with rewards offered for success, and death for failure.

If only we had elected to be free. It might have been . . .

"My Game Has Improved Enormously"

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. Hollis

"Have We Become Brain Washed, Voiceless And Captive Citizens?"

The other day I received a 26-page manuscript from Ted. R. Lewis, San Angelo, Tex. He paid $1.30 postage to have it airmailed to me, requesting that I publish it. It is, of course, too long to publish, but since Mr. Lewis seems to have a good idea as to why we are in the predicament we are in today, I want to quote from the manuscript.

He asked several questions as to why we are in this condition. He puts it this way:
"Who and what were to blame for our failure to keep pace of Russian scientific progress? Inter-service rivalry of armed forces? Our schools? Our President and his advisers? Suppression of information? Public apathy? Our way of life? All the above named reasons are responsible for our present dilemma, for we have a cancerous growth eating into the vitals of our national security, our government, our schools, our churches, and our homes. What is the 'thing' that threatens to destroy our nation? Our way of life, our freedom, and our religious faith; and will put into bondage our children, and their children's children for generations to come? It is the many-headed Hydra called the United Nations."

"The Atlantic Charter" outlined the common national policies of the two nations of — No agrardizement: No territorial changes without the people's consent — The right of all people to choose their governments — Equal rights of all nations of equal access to raw materials and trade of the world — Improved labor standards, economic adjustments, and social security.

"The United Nations was conceived. Into Teheran, and Moscow, and Yalta, and Potsdam the unborn baby went — In June 1945 the baby was born in San Francisco, and in October the baby was baptized, and formally adopted by fifty nations.

"Who were the principal representative architects for the United States? Mr. Alger Hiss, who was later convicted for perjury in denying that he was a communist — And our peripatetic secretary of State Mr. Dulles. Who really developed the United Nations Charter? Mostly communists, socialists, travel travelers, and one-world advocates from all over the world. Who was appointed by our government to create the World Monetary Bank at Bretton Woods? Mr. Harry Dexter White whom the Eisenhower Administration has taken special pains to describe as a dangerous communist."

"We shall examine first the organization called United Nations Education Scientific, and Cultural Organization, UNESCO. The headquarters for UNESCO is in Paris, France. It is an alien organization to our way of life, and its principal purpose is propaganda. The UNESCO subversive, and politically slanted propaganda is skillfully, deliberately, and internationally planned like some evil virus in the blood stream of our educational system, and our public institutions, and seeks to mold the American way of thinking. UNESCO is a specialized Agency, it employs the services of specialized agencies; UNESCO operates under its own constitution, functions as a special purposes organization, and is brought under the U.N. by special agreements concluded between the U.N. and the agency. In the United States UNESCO is aided and abetted by the State Department, and other federal agencies."

Local School Boards And N.E.A.

I do not know the background of Mr. Lewis but he seems to understand what is happening in our educational institutions. He puts it this way:

"How does UNESCO affect our local public schools? Your local college or university?
"Your local school or college, or university is controlled by an organization known as the National Education Assn. The people in this organization are men and women that most of your community have never known, or heard of. This organization, the N.E.A. has a hand in selecting the textbooks for your schools, and controls the education of your teachers. How? Textbook publishers must bow to the N.E.A. lobby, or go out of business. Your school curricula is under the N.E.A.: The N.E.A. controls the office of education, and without the N.E.A. support no man could hold the position of commissioner of education. The President of the United States would not dare to appoint a secretary of Health, Welfare and Education, unless approved by the N.E.A. To get money for the School Lunch Program your local school must comply with the suggested criteria that is passed down from the federal government to the state government, and thence to your local school.

"What did the Special Congressional Committee to study tax-free foundations say? It (N.E.A.) recommended that the teachers in our schools educate pupils into internationalism and gave specific suggestions as to objectives and methods. . . Putting the evidence together, we conclude that the National Education Assn., has been an important element in the tax-exempt world used to indoctrinate American youth with internationalism."

Sub Today, Star Tomorrow?

Hankering

European cars don't have the extra burst of speed for passing that our 350 horsepower chrome jobs do, so when one gets behind a truck he follows it until there is a good mile of clear road ahead. Drivers in their right minds wait for this much free road, but since few French motorists are in their right minds, the result is much like one of those Dodge-Em rides at a carnival. The French drive with blind faith, a method guaranteed to provide an American driver with a fresh supply of gray hairs every minute, on the minute.

Thrift In Roadsigns Makes Hazardous Travel In France

By HENRY McEMORE

PONT-SAINT-ESPIRIT — We are driving down Le Grande Route de France No. 7 (we hope) but are not at all sure.

The French, it appears, are as thrifty with their road markers as they are with their centimes. It has been three or four hours since I last saw a No. 7 sign, and in that time we have passed, and been tempted by, a thousand or more side roads.

The French are a bit stingy with their road repairs, too. This Grande Route is Grande chiefly because of the landscape it traverses and the charming little villages it meanders through. For smoothness and width it is about on a par with one of our secondary State roads at home, and since there are as many trucks as passenger cars on noes ca, it is accustomed to trailing Delaels up hills and around curves.

When I regretted the lack of road markers, on French highways, I did not mean that there aren't plenty of direction signs — for there are. Hundreds of them. But they point the way to hamlets so tiny they aren't on any map. The big towns and cities, toward which most of the motorists must be headed, are never mentioned. The French obviously believe that any man who doesn't know the way to a town the size, say, of Lyons, shouldn't have started out in the first place.

Crossroads are seldom, if ever, marked. When you get to one, it's like choosing between the red and the black at Monte Carlo.

There is another road sign in France that is sure to fascinate an American. It reads, "Tous Directions" and means just that. From it roads lead in every known direction and to every city, town, and village. A man can go daffy at one of these trying to decide which way to turn.

A driver must watch out for sharp turns, too. They are marked, but with a difference typical of the French. The warning sign is right at the curve. When you read the sign, you are curving. This is often true of railroad crossing also, so a tourist who takes advantage of the No Speed Limit is asking for a trip into an adjoining vineyard or a real close-up meeting with an engineer and fireman.

School zones are marked, as at home, with silhouettes of children running and playing. It was amusing to note that the silhouettes of the kids in Italy and Germany are much plumper than in France. The spaghetti, sauerkraut and potato soup account for that, I imagine.

With gasoline at anywhere from 85 to 95 cents a gallon, there is a strong temptation to coast down all hills and "Cheat Rockefeller," as we called it in the South years ago.

A national debt of $10,000,000 was incurred under the Articles of Confederation.

They'll Do It Every Time

Fair Enough

Why Not A Code For Presidential Behavior?

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK — That English fellow who wrote such impolite comments about his conscientious but probably unhappy Queen and the persons of "The Court" which surrounds her, has raised a question which we Americans may discuss to much better effect in our own case.

Their Kings and Queens are Monarchs by no choice whatever. Neither the Monarch nor the subjects have any refusal. The office goes down the line by certain laws and it would do no good to digress at this point to sneer at the mating and breeding and the historic indecencies of some past incumbents. That all has been canvassed in books and plays and it is worth noting, as a sidelong comment on our own sincerity in snooting the royal system, that Americans still grovel for admission for the most perfunctory social acknowledgment by Presidents of the United States, and those who wangle overnight invitations to the White House come away with sheaves of stationery and many of them sit up far into the night writing letters so that they may bear a special postmark.

But I was going to say that our Presidents ask for the job. They spend months or years building up their publicity which actually is the true content of their reputations as statesmen, and they knock themselves out campaigning in presidential election years.

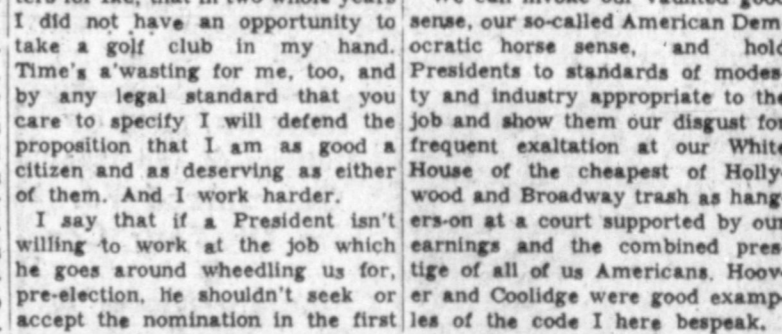

Nobody ever tried harder than Harry Truman to win the job in his 1948-1952 term. Yet, throughout that term and often since, he has gone around the country belly-aching that the task is an awful man-killer, although he held it almost eight years, picked up a fortune from practically a negative economic start, spent weeks loafing at Key West and elsewhere when the rest of us were working for a living and, even at 73, five years after he gave over, is able to walk young reporters breathless on his silly morning hikes along Park Avenue calculated to show what a spry old fellow he is. He makes his own whims ridiculous by his own conduct in this particular and Eisenhower has contributed his share to the reputation by walking about six miles a day over hill and dale at the age of 67. One week this year he shot four rounds of golf.

It looks as though those guys must want to live forever. Anyway, I know that I have been so busy earning money to pay an income tax to redeem the stupid follies which both of them committed in red Berlin, East Germany and Soviet Russia just after the war and to pay Truman a tax-exempt expense allowance which was nothing but a tax-free bonus on top of a big salary, and buying private planes and helicopters for Ike, that in two whole years I did not have an opportunity to take a golf club in my hand. Time's a wasting for me, too, and by any legal standard that you care to specify I will defend the proposition that I am as good a citizen and as deserving as either of them. And I work harder.

I say that if a President isn't willing to work at the job which he goes around wheedling us for, pre-election, he shouldn't seek or accept the nomination in the first place.

The English critic of the court is beating a dead horse. We, however, have a remedy at hand. We can invoke our vaunted good sense, our so-called American Democratic horse sense, and hold Presidents to standards of modesty and industry appropriate to the job and show them our disgust for frequent exaltation at our White House of the cheapest of Hollywood and Broadway trash as hang-ons at a court supported by our earnings and the combined prestige of all of us Americans. Hoover and Coolidge were good examples of the code I here bespeak.

It's Up To You

Housing Restriction Moves Nearer To Socialization

By HOWARD KERSHNER, L. H. D.

The ownership of property means little unless it includes the full right of its moral use and disposal. For government to control the property of its citizens is to go a long way toward confiscating it.

New York City is seriously considering an ordinance that would deprive housing property owners of the right to decide to whom they will rent their dwelling units. This would be another long step toward socialization of all housing. Rare indeed would be the individual who would invest his savings in housing property if he had little to say about the tenants to whom it would be rented. Rental property is already very scarce in most parts of our country. If this giant leap toward confiscation is taken, privately owned housing property will be on its way out.

Felicians under the spur of popular demand on the part of people who have lost respect for the Ten Commandments are determined to equalize wealth first by coveting and then by seizing the possessions of others are not only destroying existing wealth but slowing down the process of creating new wealth. It won't take them long to seize existing wealth but painful and slow will be the process of creating a new wealth under their direction.

The right to choose one's associates and manage one's property as one sees fit is essential to freedom. If these rights are not to be respected, men will become the slaves of the state. Some may seem to gain temporarily but in the end they too must subordinate themselves to the authoritarian government.

Coveting and stealing, which includes all attempts to equalize income and wealth by coercion, destroy initiative and incentive, retard production, and inevitably bring suffering and hardship upon any people who practice them. The one way to have relative abundance with the hope of conquering poverty is to unleash the creative spirit of man by offering to each one the full free market reward for his efforts so long as he does not injure his fellows. Translated into the vernacular, that means the right to own, use, enjoy and dispose of one's property as one sees fit and to be free from despoliation by private bandits, government regulation or excessive taxation.

If men will not discipline themselves to that end by voluntarily observing the moral law, the penalty is to be disciplined by the secret police or to work one's life and heart out as a slave to the state.

ON THE BEACH

While the USS SCORPION was being readied for her cruise to the U.S., skipper Dwight Towers shopped for presents for his family in West Mystic, Conn. He brought a red and reel for 10-year-old Dwight Jr.

For his wife Sharon, he bought a costly emerald bracelet, after hours lost in a futile search for a pogo stick for Helen, his six-year-old daughter.

He had set his heart on a pogo stick since seeing one among the childhood relics of Moira Davidson, a girl sympathetically aware of his inability to realize that his family must certainly have died in World War II.

Justice Department Takes New Look

By HELEN THOMAS. United Press Staff Correspondent. WASHINGTON (UP)—The Justice Department is taking on a new look under the dynamic leadership of Attorney General William Pierce Rogers.

Justice Department Takes New Look

As number two man in the department under Brownell, Rogers had a hand in all the policy-making decisions—and a bigger hand in seeing that they were carried out.

Justice Department Takes New Look

It was Rogers who told Nixon to appeal to the public as he would to a jury. The result was the famous broadcast in which Nixon said the only personal gift he ever got was his dog "Checkers."

These officials, the reports say, are members of the many district and provincial Communist committees of the Soviet Union.

Rogers ranks next to Vice President Richard M. Nixon as GOP glamor boy. But they are not rivals for political favor. They are close friends, and Rogers is among those plugging the hardest for Nixon to win the next Republican presidential nomination.
