API President Criticizes Proposal On Tax Credit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Frank Ikard, president of the American Petroleum Institute, said today that proposals to eliminate foreign tax credits for oil companies would make all American companies noncompetitive overseas.

Ikard's statement came as Congress debated the emergency energy legislation. The bill, which gives President Nixon wide powers to meet the energy crisis including gasoline rationing, was expected to be

TIC Director To Speak Here For Seminar

James Harwell, executive director of the Texas Industrial Commission in Austin and several commission members will be in Pampa Feb. 25 for a one-day industrial seminar.

Morning and afternoon sessions will be conducted to discuss various aspects of industrial development.

Harwell will speak at a noon luncheon in the Starlight Room of Coronado Inn.

Preliminary plans for the seminar were discussed yesterday at the January meeting of chamber of commerce directors.

Other business at the board meeting included various committee reports. Luther Robinson, chairman of the chamber's Agricultural and Livestock Committee, reported plans are shaping up for the Top O' Texas Livestock Show here March 4, 5 and 6.

The committee will meet Tuesday, Feb. 5, to finalize stock show plans.

A vacancy on the chamber board of directors was filled with the appointment of Lee Fraser to serve a one-year term following the resignation of Henry Newman.

voted on later in the day although its opponents were trying to send it back to committee.

Ikard said elimination of foreign tax credits would reduce employment at home and impair the U. S. balance of payments.

"The foreign tax credit makes it possible to avoid double taxation of the same income—once by the foreign government and again by the U. S.," he said. "Since all other industrialized nations avoid double taxation, U. S. abandonment of this policy would make American companies noncompetitive, not only in oil but in every other type of business, i. e., automobiles, computers, farm machinery, mining, pharmaceuticals..."

On Monday, John C. Whitaker, undersecretary of the Interior, said in response to criticism of the administration and the oil industry in the present crisis that the President had done everything he could to help ease the shortage and the rest is up to Congress.

The Rest Up to Congress

"I think the right moves were made (by the President), I think what we could do administratively has been done," said Whitaker, the No. 2 man in the department. "And we need action and we need it desperately from Congress."

Speaking of the emergency legislation, which Congress failed to pass before it went home for the Christmas holidays, Whitaker said:

"Congress Christmas-treed us, amended it to death, snarled us, and went home angry, frustrated just before Christmas."

And although Congress is seeking to give Nixon the power to impose gasoline rationing, his chief energy adviser has continued to insist that he hopes it will not be necessary.

Energy chief William E. Simon said Monday the government plans to move next week to equalize home heating oil prices and he hopes gasoline production can be stepped up in order to avoid rationing.

Simon, in an appearance before a congressional committee investigating the energy situation, said that while the home heating oil situation had been manageable so far, it still could become critical, in part because of price differences for domestic and imported oil.

"This situation is particularly visible in New England, which historically has been dependant on imported products," he said.

He said the Federal Energy Office would publish new rules assuring suppliers equal access to foreign and domestic oil, thus stabilizing retail prices.

Once this is accomplished, he said, emphasis can be shifted to the problem of gasoline production, which has been cut back to ensure supplies of home heating oil.

In other energy developments: Seven Senators said they would support repeal of year-round Daylight Saving Time because of the hazard it poses to school children and its minimal impact on energy saving.

Dr. William Grouse, the head of the government's coal research effort, said the nation will have to triple coal production by 1985 to meet the nation's energy needs.

The Interior Department again refused to make public the details of its recent $210 million lease of oil shale lands in Colorado on the basis that such details would discourage future bidding.

Rail Strike Impairs British Commuters

LONDON (UPI) — Wildcat rail walkouts today threw London commuter services into chaos for the second day in a row. Tens of thousands jammed into the few trains running or tried to storm already overcrowded buses.

Leaders of Scottish miners appealed to rail and transport unions to blockade coal shipments if, as generally expected, Britain is plunged into a national mines shutdown Feb. 10.

Prime Minister Edward Heath's government headed into open conflict with both coal miners and railroad engineers. British newspapers said it could be one of the most destructive industrial disputes in the nation's peacetime history.

"Is everybody going bloody mad?" headlined the London Daily Mirror. "The prospect is dark," said the Times of London. "Cool it," urged the London Daily Express.

Len Murray, general secretary of the 16 million-member Trades Union Congress (TUC) called in rail engineers leader Ray Buckton to discuss the conflict.

This followed a decision Monday by the rail engineers to escalate their overtime ban of six and a half weeks and to step it up into twice-weekly, one-day regional rail shutdowns.

Leaders of militant Scottish coal miners met rail and transport union representatives in a bid to slap a crippling ban on coal movements in case of a national coal strike.

Merchants Still Studying Hours For Operation

An advertisement which appeared on page 9 of yesterday's edition of The News has caused a rash of phone calls from some city residents asking merchants just what store hours are in Pampa now.

The advertisement said that due to Daylight Savings Time, the Chamber of Commerce has recommended that merchants open their doors at 9:30 a.m. and close at 6 p.m. The key word is recommended.

Bill Hite of Heard - Jones Drug Store and a member of the CoC's Retail Trade Committee, said today the committee made the recommendation after a meeting Jan. 8 and the Downtown Business Association recommended the same hours after a meeting last week.

Hite said not many merchants in town have, in fact, changed their hours pursuant to the recommendation, as most appear to be waiting to see what the competition does.

Should Pampa merchants (other than grocery stores, drug stores and other which as a matter of course have longer hours than most retail businesses) uniformly change their hours to those recommended by the CoC and the Downtown Business Association, that information will be carried in The News.

The advertisement in yesterday's edition was run exactly in the form in which it was brought in by a representative of the Downtown Business Association.

China To Free U.S. Prisoners

HONG KONG (UPI) — China announced plans today to release six ailing prisoners, including an American, seized during two days of land, air and sea clashes with South Vietnam for control of the disputed Parcel Islands.

The New China News Agency said the "sick and wounded captured personnel" would be freed Thursday at Shumchun, a border-crossing 15 miles north of Hong Kong.

The American, identified by U.S. officials as Gerald Emil Kosh, 27, of Lafayette Hill, Pa., was captured when Chinese forces stormed the Parcel Islands in the South China Sea Jan. 19 and 20.

The official Chinese news agency said the one American and five South Vietnamese made up the first group of Parcel prisoners to be released in stages.

Six in the First Batch

The Chinese government has now decided to repatriate the captured personnel in batches, China said. "The first batch, consisting of five sick and wounded captured personnel of the Saigon troops and the captured American who is ill, will be repatriated on Jan. 31 at Shumchun, Kwangtung Province, China."

American officials described Kosh as a civilian employe of the U.S. Embassy's Defense Attache's Office and a liaison officer attached to the South Vietnamese Navy.

At most U.S. embassies around the world, defense attache offices monitor military intelligence for the Pentagon.

U.S. officials said Kosh, a former army officer in Vietnam, was seized when China captured Prattle Island in the disputed archipelago.

SWPS OFFICIAL SAYS

Energy Crisis Not Aided By 'Hysterical Approach'

By TEX DEWESE

Congress and the administration are taking an hysterical approach to the nation's energy problem, Edward G. Weber, vice president in charge of public affairs for Southwestern Public Service Co., told a Chamber of Commerce luncheon audience here Monday.

"They're looking for someone to blame," Weber said. He then pointed to Senators Mondale of Wyoming, Ribicoff of Connecticut, Stephens of Illinois and Jackson of Washington as being among leaders of the "hysterical approach" method.

"We're not sick," he said. "They're sick, but they want us to take the castor oil along with them."

Using energy wisely creates jobs and contributes progressively to the economy, Weber stated.

"But when you cut off the energy, the economy comes to a halt and cuts off jobs," he added.

Turning to Southwestern Public Service Co. development and expansion in the Texas Panhandle, Weber said the utility is planning a $266 million program within the next five years.

Referring to the cry of the environmentalists, the speaker said the real pollutants today are "hot air and the double-cross."

"We need a reasonable approach to the energy crisis if we are to solve the problems," Weber said.

The speaker pictured SWPS as being in the process of continuing its planning to take care of all the area's needs for electrical energy.

He spoke of the company's plans for a coal-burning plant north of Amarillo and current exploration and 65 to 70 per cent recovery of shale-oil in Colorado.

"We have to be prepared to provide service for any kind of load," Weber said, "and we are prepared in this area. We have the equipment to provide it and the investments are being made to continue it."

Weber said his company shares the responsible interest in the country's environmental problems.

"There are some areas where it needs to be preserved," he said, "and there are other areas where it needs to be utilized."

Weber was introduced to the monthly chamber membership audience by Rex McAnelly, chamber president.

Gene Steff, chamber vice president, presented plaques for outstanding service to David Fatheree, United Fund president, and David Ganz, UF drive chairman, for the successful completion of Pampa's 1973 United Fund campaign.

She showed maps indicating the location of major production fields, refining factories and routes of shipping the narcotics into surrounding areas (Japan, Korea, Hong Kong, Burma, Thailand, etc.) for an eventual destination in the United States.

Miss Yuan blamed the failure of the Americans to win a decisive victory in the Vietnamese conflict upon the Red China program of developing and encouraging drug use among the American soldiers.

She quoted Chou En-lai, Red China premier, who reportedly told the late Egyptian leader Gamal Nasser in 1963. "We will use opium to defeat American people. We are planting the best opium for this."

According to figures Miss Yuan gave, 30 per cent of all U.S. troops in Southeast Asia were addicted drugs to one degree or another.

Miss Yuan claimed the American people have been deceived by reports from government leaders and news media that most of the drugs

PIONEER WANTS ADJUSTMENTS

Special Meeting Called To Study Gas Request

A special meeting of the Pampa City Commission has been called for 2 p.m. Friday to study a request of Pioneer Natural Gas Co. for monthly adjustments in rates charged for the sale of gas to consumers in Pampa and other cities on the company's West Texas distribution system.

Currently the rate adjustment is made only once a year in April.

Pioneer is asking for the monthly adjustment, to the nearest .01-cent, in accordance with the increases or decreases in the average monthly cost to Pioneer of gas purchased for its West Texas transmission system.

City Manager Mack Wofford said today a steering committee, headed by City Manager Fred Poe of Midland and representing cities on the utility's West Texas system, has recommended that Pioneer's request be granted and has drawn up a model ordinance.

The steering committee's recommendation, according to the Midland city manager, is based on general agreement that it would be to the best interest of all cities served by Pioneer to help Pioneer secure adequate gas supplies.

Pioneer filed its request in August of last year but action by the cities had been delayed pending outcome of a similar case being heard before the Texas Railroad Commission on a request by Lone Star Gas Co.

It had been believed the commission's decision in that case would be forthcoming by Feb. 1. Now it is indicated there will be no ruling until late March or April.

The steering committee chairman wrote a letter to City Manager Wofford:

"In light of this new date and in view of our interest in keeping Pioneer competitive for gas in West Texas, the Committee felt that it was no longer appropriate to continue delaying Pioneer's request."

Pampa and 57 other cities served by Pioneer in West Texas are affected by the utility's request filed last August for an adjustment of the general service rates to cover the increasing cost of gas on a monthly rather than an annual basis.

Pioneer says as the change in the energy situation accelerates, action becomes increasingly important to the gas supply of the West Texas area.

In his Jan. 7 letter to the various cities on the company's system, K. Bert Watson, Pioneer president, wrote:

"Each of you understands, I believe, that unless new gas is regularly acquired, the ability serve even existing customers will immediately commence to deteriorate as the deliverability of gas wells is continually reducing."

City Manager Wofford said no action would be taken at Friday's study session.

BY SECRET SERVICE

GAO Considering Agnew Protection

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Despite a request from President Nixon that former Vice President Spiro Agnew be guarded by the Secret Service, there is no legal basis for that protection, Comptroller General Elmer B. Staats has ruled.

In a letter released today by Rep. John Moss, D-Calif., Staats said the General Accounting Office still is awaiting further information from the White House before ruling on the legality of the expense of paying eight persons to help Agnew close out his government affairs.

Having earlier attacked as a "scandal" Agnew's use of a staff at government expense and a chauffeured limousine, Moss asked the GAO to rule on the legal authority for such expenditures.

Agnew resigned Oct. 10 and did not contest a charge of income tax evasion, arbitrary action on behalf of a convicted felon.

Staats said the White House told GAO the expense of providing protection for Agnew, including limousines and drivers, is covered under an appropriation titled "special assistance to the President." The total amount expended in protection from Oct. 10 through Dec. 15 was $89,222.

The protection has continued but the number of agents assigned to the detail and the cost since Dec. 15 was not made available to the GAO. The Secret Service also refused to say how long the protection would continue.

On Oct. 10 Nixon sent a letter to Treasury Secretary George Shultz stating: "You are hereby requested to direct the United States Secret Service to provide a detail for the protection of former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew for a reasonable period of time."

Shultz sent a letter Oct. 11 to the Secret Service, stating: "In accordance with a request from the President, a copy of which is attached, you are hereby requested to provide a detail for the protection of former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew for a reasonable period of time."

Red China Behind Drug Problem, Speaker Claims

By LARRY HOLLIS

"I don't understand why your American laws protect the criminals. Why don't your laws protect the majority of the American citizens against the criminals?"

Thus asked Miss Yuan Moun-Ru, a former resident of Red China now living in the United States, during a two-hour address last night sponsored by the Pampa TRAIN (To Restore American Independence Now) Committee in the Gray County Courtroom.

Miss Yuan attacked the drug culture being cultivated and encouraged by the Communist party of Red China as a means to destroy American society and eventually lead to the takeover of the United States by Chinese communist forces.

"The communists want to destroy your young American population," Miss Yuan warned the audience who packed into the room. "They want to drug the whole world."

A graduate of Chung King University, Miss Yuan was denounced by the communists as a "rightist" during the years she spent in China and at one time was sentenced to a labor camp for 3 1/2 years because of her "counterrevolutionary thoughts and crimes," and associations with rebel groups.

She later escaped to Burma, from which she later came to the U.S. through the aid of a sister who was already living here.

During her years behind the Bamboo Curtain, she became acquainted with the totalitarian methods of the Communist party, its propaganda efforts, its attack on intellectuals and its aims to enslave the world, hopefully by peaceful means of deception and demoralization.

She also gained knowledge of the production of narcotics by the Chinese communists, who cultivate over 900,000 acres of opium poppy for the production of narcotics, including heroin and morphine, to eventually be used by American addicts. She claimed there are currently 72 factories on mainland China producing narcotics. Both fields and factories are guarded by armed patrols.

"The communists do not produce narcotics for Chinese people," Miss Yuan said. "They do it for you—the American people."

Drug abuse is treated very harshly in China itself, she noted. Smugglers and dealers are killed upon conviction; drug users are given two warnings, and then if found in a third offense, they are killed.

She showed maps indicating the location of major production fields, refining factories and routes of shipping the narcotics into surrounding areas (Japan, Korea, Hong Kong, Burma, Thailand, etc.) for an eventual destination in the United States.

Miss Yuan blamed the failure of the Americans to win a decisive victory in the Vietnamese conflict upon the Red China program of developing and encouraging drug use among the American soldiers.

She quoted Chou En-lai, Red China premier, who reportedly told the late Egyptian leader Gamal Nasser in 1963. "We will use opium to defeat American people. We are planting the best opium for this."

According to figures Miss Yuan gave, 30 per cent of all U.S. troops in Southeast Asia were addicted drugs to one degree or another.

Miss Yuan claimed the American people have been deceived by reports from government leaders and news media that most of the drugs entering the U.S. are coming from the Middle East. She said at least 65 per cent of the heroin and similar drugs come from Red China and enter the U.S. from other countries, including the Middle East.

She stated the government officials and news media personnel were getting the wrong information from the communists.

"Foreign people can never get the first-hand information from the Chinese people," she claimed, because of limited travel, the constant presence of communists in tours of the country, the inability to communicate directly with the Chinese people because of the language barrier and the direct management of news by the communists.

Miss Yuan also claimed the new "thaw" in relations between the U.S. and the Chinese communists is part of the conspiracy of Peking to eventually overthrow the nation and later the entire world through its practice of deceit and attempts to undermine the effectiveness of future generations because of drug problems and other immoral situations.

She also attacked Mao Tse-tung, Communist leader in China, as "the number one murderer of the Chinese people, yet President Nixon treats him like a friend."

The Chinese communists are responsible for the deaths of 60 million Chinese, Miss Yuan said, nearly one-third of the total U.S. population.

She added that "most of the Chinese people don't want war with your country." She said that if a shooting war developed, the communists would have to fight both the Americans and many of their own countrymen.

"America needs to develop a strong foreign policy that would help the free world, not cripple it," she said.

She also criticized the United Nations.

"I think it's time for the American people to wake up to the fact that the U.N. is meant to be the center of a world communist government" under the Chinese.

She concluded her address by urging Americans to write their congressmen and "tell them we want to get out of the U.N. and to give us the truth about the drug problem."

Following the talk, she showed a 45-minute film from the Taiwan government containing footage smuggled out from mainland China.

AS PRINTED IN PAPERS

Judge To Rule On Confession

HOUSTON (UPI)— State District Judge William M. Hatten will decide on an individual basis whether reporters must tell how they obtained details of a confession made by suspected mass slayer Elmer Wayne Henley.

Attorneys for the Houston Post and the Houston Chronicle told Hatten Monday the two newspapers would provide anything they printed about Henley.

But they asked the judge to quash a subpoena requiring reporters to tell where they learned what Henley told police.

"I don't see how a decision (on confidentiality of sources) can be made in advance until the materiality of the question comes up," Hatten said.

Defense attorney Will Gray has asked the court for a six-month delay in Henley's trial arguing his client's case has been damaged by "inflammatory" news accounts.

Gray said he wants to know who leaked the contents of Henley's confession to the news media.

The first of between 30 and 50 reporters, writers and broadcasters subpoenaed by Gray were expected to begin testimony today.

Hatten ruled Friday a Newsweek Magazine reporter did not have to tell how he learned Henley, 17, had confessed to some of the sex and torture murders of 27 teen-age boys.

Henley, a junior high school dropout, is charged with six of the murders. He is on trial in the death of one of the victims, Charles Cobble, 17.

Gray said he would ask that the trial be moved to another location if his motion for delay is denied.

Hatten said he would consider the motion for delay along with a possible change of venue.

Under Texas law, a judge can enter a motion to move a trial to another city if he thinks such action is warranted.

District Attorney Carol S. Vance said he would go along with a decision to move the trial.

Egypt Thinning Out 3rd Army

By United Press International
Egypt today began thinning out its 3rd Army, trapped for more than three months by the Israeli army, and some units crossed the Suez Canal from the Sinai Peninsula and entered Suez City.

The Israeli forces which had driven to within 50 miles of Cairo in their deepest penetration of Egypt, began pulling back from the Kilometer 101 area today in the second phase of their withdrawal.

Hundreds of other Israeli trucks and tanks had rumbled eastward across the canal Monday toward what they have dubbed the Kissinger Line in the Sinai Desert, about 15 miles behind in the first phase of their withdrawal from Egypt.

Maj. Gen. Hassan El Greitly, the Egyptian army chief of operations, said in a speech in Cairo Monday the Israeli pullback came as a result of Egyptian military pressure.

"The battle against the enemy will continue until all occupied Arab territories have been liberated," he told a meeting of a women's club. "The battle does not end at the Suez Canal."

One group of Israelis withdrew Monday, ending the siege of Suez City and freeing the Egyptian 3rd Army. Another force which had driven to within 50 miles of Cairo in their deepest penetration of Egypt in the October war began pulling back today in the second phase.

An Israeli spokesman said Israeli troops started pulling out of their positions in the farthest westward penetration into Egypt, in the desert about seven miles north of the Cairo-Suez Highway.

Ray May Get New Hearing

CINCINNATI (UPI)— The U.S. 6th Circuit Court of Appeals ruled today that James Earl Ray, presently serving 99 years in jail for the murder of Martin Luther King, was entitled to an evidentiary hearing which could lead to a new trial.

Ever since the day after Ray pleaded guilty on March 10, 1969, to the assassination of the civil rights leader, he has been seeking a new trial and permission to change his plea to innocent.

Ray pleaded guilty to the April 4, 1968, shooting of King in exchange for a 99-year prison sentence.

FOR ASTRONAUTS

Accomplishments List 'Impressive'

HOUSTON (UPI)— There's at least one wit on late night television who's fond of asking his audience if anyone knows there are astronauts in space right now and who the guys are.

For the record, the Skylab 3 astronauts are Gerald P. Carr, Edward G. Gibson and William R. Pogue, and if they aren't exciting much interest among laymen, their list of accomplishments for science is impressive.

Flight Director Donald Puddy Monday ticked off a list of only a few "firsts" for the third crew to man the orbiting space station.

— For the first time, an assortment of instruments has been aimed at a comet from space simultaneously, and for the first time a comet has been observed just before and after swinging around the Sun.

— They collected the first data ever from space on suspected deposits of geothermal energy which might someday be harnessed to drive electric generators cheaply and without pollution.

They photographed a huge solar eruption, called a flare, from beginning to end, giving weather scientists clues about the Earth's upper atmosphere, and adding to knowledge that also might help the energy crunch.

— From the standpoint of scientific accomplishments, we feel we are ahead of where we originally predicted we would be at this point," Puddy said.

Carr, Gibson and Pogue were slowly beginning to wind down from more than 10 weeks in space in preparation for coming home Feb. 8.

They have only two more full days of scientific experiments, but will continue some of the research until the day before splashdown southwest of San Diego in the Pacific Ocean.

Bolivia To Oust Leftists

LA PAZ (UPI)— President Hugo Banzer imposed a state of siege in Bolivia Monday night to combat what he called an attempt by foreign guerrillas to set up bases in his country for attacks against other nations of South America.

Brig. Gen. Banzer, in a radio and television speech to the nation, said his right-wing government intended to oust the alleged leftist guerrillas and maintain peace and order in Bolivia.

Political sources said Bolivian authorities made numerous roundups of suspected subversives throughout Monday, but they declined to give any details.

Banzer, who came to power in 1971 coup against leftist Gen. Juan Jose Torres, said the state of siege, abrogating constitutional law, would give his government power to crack down on the guerrillas.

Interior Minister Walter Castro, who followed Banzer to the microphone, claimed three subversive movements, including two directed from outside the country, were gravely threatening the political and social stability of Bolivia.

Col. Castro said Latin American extremists plotted during a recent meeting in France to set up two headquarters in Bolivia for subversion across South America.

He claimed the extremists planned to launch urban and rural guerrilla movements on the continent in a drive to impose Communist regimes in South America.

President's Role In Antitrust Activity Against ITT Still Uncertain

Editors: This is the fifth and last in a series of dispatches by UPI Watergate reporters into where the many-faceted scandal stands and where it may be going. In today's report, Mike Feinsilber of the Washington staff explores the controversy surrounding President Nixon's handling of antitrust activities involving acquisitions by the International Telephone and Telegraph Corp., and subsequent offers by ITT to help underwrite the 1972 GOP National Convention.

By MIKE FEINSILBER
WASHINGTON (UPI) — As with so many of the troubles which beset him, the question about President Nixon's role in the ITT case is not what he did but why he did it.

What he did was to intervene personally in the Justice Department's attempt in 1971 to force the International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. to sell off all or part of six businesses it had absorbed in one gulp.

Nixon's intervention did not come to light at the time and one of his attorneys general—John N. Mitchell and Richard G. Kleindienst—gave sworn testimony that he had not intervened.

His account was contradicted on Jan. 8, 1974, when the White House issued an ITT "white paper" defending Nixon's role as neither improper nor unusual—and in no way related to ITT's pledge to underwrite some of the expense of holding the 1972 Republican National Convention in San Diego, Calif., where Nixon wanted it.

Out-of-Court Settlement
Nixon's intervention delayed a Justice Department appeal of a lower court decision upholding ITT in one of the department's three antitrust cases against the firm, the Grinnell case.

The delay was long enough to permit ITT and the government to negotiate an out-of-court settlement of all three cases. ITT made its convention offer in the course of those negotiations.

Ever since the terms of the settlement were announced, experts have differed on who won—ITT or the Justice Department.

Certainly, ITT got more than it would have if Nixon had played no role and if the case had gone to a Supreme Court conclusion and the court upheld the Justice Department's case—as the court has in every other major antitrust action of the last two decades.

On the other hand, no less a critic of the Nixon administration than Archibald Cox has called the settlement satisfactory.

So has Erwin N. Griswold, another former solicitor general. Griswold played a larger role than was known at the time.

At the time, Lawrence O'Brien, then Democratic national chairman, and consumer crusader Ralph Nader raised a howl but got nowhere in questioning the relationship between the ITT settlement and the pledge by ITT's Sheraton Hotel subsidiary to support a San Diego convention.

Dita Beard Memo
The amount of ITT's commitment never has been established. The "white paper" says it "apparently" was $200,000 with $100,000 already forwarded when the decision to hold the convention in San Diego was scrubbed. ITT received a refund.

But Dita D. Beard in her famous memo said she understood the pledge was $300,000 and had been raised to $400,000 as ITT pressed for an antitrust settlement. She called the convention pledge "our noble commitment."

The Dita Beard memo, surfacing nearly six months before the Watergate break-in, gave the Democrats what they were looking for—the whiff of major scandal in the Nixon administration in an election year.

Mrs. Beard, the swear-like-sailor lobbyist for ITT, added just the touch of mystery and drama to keep the story on page one. Especially when she vanished from sight shortly after the memo was published in Jack Anderson's column.

The memo suggested ITT's San Diego pledge was a payoff for the antitrust settlement. "Our noble commitment," said Mrs. Beard, "has gone a long way toward our negotiations on the mergers eventually coming out as Hal wants them. Certainly the President has told Mitchell to see that things are worked out fairly."

"Hal" was Harold S. Geneen, chairman of ITT. "Please destroy this, huh?" said Mrs. Beard at the end of her memo, addressed to her boss, William R. Merriam.

ITT gave rise to bumper stickers that read "Nixon's Had ITT" and the case educated the nation about paper shredders.

When in the course of a Senate hearing Merriam explained why ITT stuffed its Washington files into a paper shredder, this exchange took place:

Sen. Sam J. Ervin: "You could not destroy that (Dita Beard) memo because you did not have it."

Merriam: "No, that is right, but there might have been a lot of others in there like that."

Mitchell had excused himself from handling the ITT matter because he had represented an interested party as a lawyer before becoming attorney general.

So Kleindienst, his deputy, handled the case. When Mrs. Beard's memo surfaced, Kleindienst, who had won Senate Judiciary Committee approval to succeed Mitchell without facing a single ITT question, demanded that the hearings reopen "to clear my name."

They lasted six weeks and tarnished his image. He was forced to acknowledge that he had met five times with an ITT director despite his earlier assertion the settlement "was handled and negotiated exclusively" by Richard McLaren, the department's antitrust chief.

A Supreme Court Ruling
McLaren had taken office in 1969 determined to slow the growth of conglomerates, whose high acquisitions at the time seemed worrisome.

He saw in the ITT case a chance for a Supreme Court ruling which either would broaden the definition of anticompetitive behavior, or invite Congress to broaden it.

In the settlement, ITT agreed to sell off the Canteen Corp., a food vending and catering service; Avis Rent-a-Car, Levitt & Sons, Inc., the homebuilding giant; the fire protection insurance division of Grinnell Corp.; a plumbing, water sprinkler and firefighting equipment maker, and two small insurance companies. In all, ITT agreed to shed $1 billion worth of assets and to buy no firm with sales over $100 million.

In exchange, ITT got to keep the Hartford Fire Insurance Co., with its $1 billion in annual premium income and large liquid assets which the cash-starved ITT badly wanted. The Hartford acquisition was the biggest conglomerate merger in history.

ITT is a Goliath among giants. It is the eighth largest U.S.-based company and the world's largest international conglomerate.

Ten Major Industries
At the time of the settlement, ITT had nearly 400,000 employees and operated in 87 countries. Its subsidiaries are leaders in 10 major industries with sales approaching $10 billion and insurance premiums adding $1.6 billion. Its biggest sectors are insurance and telecommunications. (ITT is to the rest of the world what AT&T is to the U. S. telephone industry.)

Chairman Geneen, 63, is a hard-driving executive whose 1972 salary and bonuses of $813,311 made him the nation's fifth highest paid businessman. His company's profits approach half a billion a year.

Under Geneen, ITT has taken over some 250 companies. Its appetite makes ITT what Business Week calls "the symbol of the acquisitive Machiavellian corporation whose sole interest is profit by any means."

general, swore that Justice had not asked for them.

Casey, now undersecretary of state for economic affairs, has been nominated by Nixon to head the Export-Import Bank. The Senate Banking Committee has delayed acting on the nomination while Casey is investigated for possible perjury.

Last fall, a short time before Nixon fired Archibald Cox as special Watergate prosecutor, Kleindienst went to Cox with a new version of ITT events.

He said Ehrlichman called in 1971 with instructions not to pursue the ITT appeals. Kleindienst said he replied he could not drop the appeal because it had been recommended by McLaren and approved by Griswold.

Threatened to Resign
A short time later, Kleindienst told Cox, the telephone rang again and Nixon came on the line. After calling him a vulgar name, he said, Nixon said, "Don't you understand the English language?" and ordered the appeal dropped.

Kleindienst said he threatened to resign rather than carry out the order. Only then, he said, did Nixon back down.

Kleindienst's account to Cox came to public attention on Oct. 30. The White House responded with a denunciation of Cox for "leaking" Kleindienst's account and an explanation which for the first time assigned an ITT role to Nixon.

The White House statement said Nixon had directed Kleindienst not to appeal because he felt the ITT appeal "represented a policy of the Justice Department with which he strongly disagreed—namely, that bigness per se was unlawful."

"When the specific facts of the appeal were subsequently explained in greater detail, the President withdrew his objection and the appeal was prosecuted in exactly the same form originally proposed."

The Jan. 8 "White Paper" gives a somewhat different version. It says Ehrlichman described the ITT appeal as an "attack on the conglomerate" which violated Nixon's antitrust policies. It says Ehrlichman said he could not convince the Justice Department to drop the appeal.

"The President expressed irritation with the failure of the head of the antitrust division, Mr. McLaren, to follow his policy," the paper says. It says Nixon telephoned Kleindienst and ordered him not to appeal. Two days later, Mitchell "advised the President that in his judgment it was inadvisable for the President to order an appeal to the Supreme Court in the Grinnell case," the white paper says.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ruth Downs could lean back and enjoy the carefree life on Easy St. in Carefree, Ariz.

Instead, the wife of Hugh Downs, the television personality, film producer and author, heads up a brand new business putting people in stitches. Mrs. Downs is the latest to capitalize on the needlepoint epidemic sweeping the country.

One year ago, Mrs. Downs opened a needlepoint shop in Carefree ("population about 200"). Today, she and her partner, Gary Jones, employ eight fulltime artists who paint their designs on canvas, plus the women in the area who do stitching for the shop in their homes.

Apparently the opening of Ruth Downs, Ltd. couldn't have been timelier. Already her regular customers range through Arizona and as far away as New York and California.

"We have a Colorado woman who'll call and order $1,000 of canvas and yarn at a time," she said. "That's a lot of needlepoint."

Mrs. Downs sells from her own shop, through selected other outlets, by direct mail, and soon the 11 stores of Marshall Field also will offer her needlepoint designs.

For brunette Ruth Downs, it was a case of a hobby converted to business.

Learned Early
"I was always interested in needlework," she said during a New York visit. "My mother taught me embroidery when I was small. We had a first and second grade teacher who would take a couple of hours sometime during the week to teach needlework. I used to knit and crochet too. I guess if you start early enough, it's always with you."

She began doing needlepoint about 15 years ago when her husband was host on the network television show "Today" (he also was featured on the "Tonight" and "Home shows").

Dear Abby

This criminal needs to forgive himself

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1978 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Syndicate, Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Altho I am in prison, I am a loyal reader of your column. Mostly because I miss sharing life with people.

At times you have expressed faith in God. Deep in the night I am restless and unable to sleep because the memory of my crime (murder) haunts me. I have sought God's forgiveness and believe that Jesus died for our sins, but I am unable to find relief from my troubled conscience.

Abby, is murder a forgivable sin? I find no reference to it in the Bible, but there is reference to an eye for an eye. If you can give me the answer, you will do much for my peace of mind. Thank you.

A FRIEND IN RALEIGH, N. C.

DEAR FRIEND: All religions endorse the concept of forgiveness to one who is sincere in contrition and repentance. It was expressed in the Old Testament in Isaiah 55:7. "Let the sinner abandon his way and his thoughts and let him return unto the Lord for He will have mercy upon him and fully forgive." In fact, so strong is this feeling in the Bible it is repeated seven times in the Old Testament.

If a misdeed was committed, it can be fully atoned by paying one's debt to society and also by examining one's conscience and then self-understanding changing one's ways and returning to the path of goodness. A beautiful expression of Divine forgiveness and mercy was given by Nahman of Bratslav, an 18th-Century sage: "There is no sin that will not be forgiven by sincere repentance."

To this may I add that the hardest person to forgive is oneself. God bless.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my mother. She shoplifts. I know this for a fact because I have seen her in action. She takes only small things that will fit into her purse. I'm the only one in the family who knows about it. I really can't understand why Mom would steal. She can afford to buy anything she wants. Besides she picks up things she has no use for, like cheap sunglasses, and orange lipstick! She stole a can of cat food, and we don't even have a cat! My mother and I aren't very close, so I can't talk to her about it. She'd probably deny it anyway.

It would kill my father if he knew. He is a highly respected elected government official. I am 15. Please don't use my name or town, but tell me what to do.

WORRIED FOR MOM

DEAR WORRIED: This type of shoplifting sounds like kleptomania. It's an illness and can be cured with treatment. First tell your mother what you have told me. And if she denies it, tell your father. He won't "kill" him. He'd appreciate learning it from you.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "HURTING DOWN DEEP IN PHILLY": Don't be ashamed of an honest emotion. There are no good losers. Only good actors.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 6

Your birthday today: Coincides with a full moon, complete at 6:24 p.m. EST. Your coming year should bring you general public notice for whatever you achieve in your vocation, probably favorable. Relationships tend to fresh starts. Those which end are without regret or bitterness. Your pride increases, your temper is a little shorter; self-discipline is needed. Today's natives are versatile, may master several vocations, and are often advanced or set back in unexpected ways.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Emotions are out on top today, and it's all too easy to begin arguments—but not to finish them: Your patience with loved ones makes all the difference.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Your personal affairs tend to spread into your work plans. Your effort to untangle things could be misunderstood if it is the least bit complex.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Think what you are doing and you will make it thru the day learning much before nighttime. For later hours, reflect and get details straight in your mind.

Cancer [June 21-July 21]: Your friends invite you into speculative deals which are highly unlikely to work out as promoted. Be prepared to state your views plainly.

Leo [July 22-Aug. 22]: Questions arise, including some you had thought were answered long ago. With poise and as little emotional stress as possible, restate your views.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Chances now come home to root. Where you are vindicated, don't crow. Where not, begin to understand where you got off the track.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 23]: Tidy up long standing conditions about you. Stay out of the endless rounds of discussion. Expect no favors from those in authority.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Tact and tolerance turn the tide, with little cooperation available. Conflict between personal and business obligations seems likely.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Antagonism is your natural approach, and it must be contained, disciplined, particularly during any sort of travel or experimentation.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: The quantity or number of anything gets to be a focal point for disagreements. Have your facts and figures ready, abstain from new departures.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Concentrate on work which you can do alone. Stay out of the middle by minding your own business. Your ideas, where they are known, attract opposition.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Whatever else you do, avoid overdoing anything. Asking favors or assistance merely adds to your workload, one way or another.

KARPIN ON BRIDGE

By FRED KARPIN

Generally speaking, aces were born to capture kings and queens, as opposed to wasting their power by capturing twos and threes. But there are days when aces must permit kings and queen to reign in order to assure a happy future for the ace holders. Today's deal depicts one of those days.

Both sides vulnerable.

Opening lead: Nine of ♣.

What motivated West to lead a spade will never be known. But he found the only lead that could have defeated South's contract.

On the lead of the spade nine declarer put up dummy's king, which East captured with his ace. East then cashed the spade queen, after which he led a third spade to South's jack. It now became a routine matter for declarer to establish dummy's diamond suit. When play had ended, declarer had fulfilled his contract, with an overtrick.

When West led the spade nine, East should have been certain of one thing: that South possessed both the jack and ten of spades. Therefore, South could not be prevented from winning a spade trick. Actually, South figured to have the J-10-x of spades, for if he had held only the doubleton J-10, he surely would have played low from dummy at trick one.

By capturing the king with the ace (as he did) and following up by playing the queen and a third spade, East established two spade winners for himself. But he should have recognized that he never could obtain the lead to cash them.

As East should have appraised the situation, the defenders' sole hope of defeating South's contract lay in East's ability to capture four spade tricks. For this to be negotiated, West had to have some key card as an entry, like, perhaps, the ace or king of diamonds. Hence East should have indulged in the wishful thinking that West would obtain the lead before declarer made nine tricks.

East, therefore, should have allowed dummy's spade king to win the opening lead. When declarer would then attack the diamond suit, West, upon taking his ace, would return his remaining spade — and East would cash four spade tricks.

Turkey Population Up

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (UPI) — In 1962, just 20 years before the year of the highest trapping success, the Missouri wild turkey population reached its lowest ebb — fewer than 2,500 turkeys remained, the State Conservation Commission said.

"Hunters bagged 5,726 birds in the spring open season of 1973," a commission spokesman said.

Area Resident Gives Varietas Program

Varietas Study Club met with Mrs. Lee Harrah Tuesday afternoon, with Mrs. Clyde Ellis, president, presiding. Plans were made for the Valentine Party on Feb. 12.

The afternoon's program was by Mrs. W.A. Bohot and Mrs. W.E. Abernathy and concerned Health with emphasis on the topic, "Aids to Mankind from Space Travel." Mrs. Bohot introduced Mrs. R.J. Sailor of White Deer, who gave the program.

Using as her theme, "The Space Program Spin-Offs," Mrs. Sailor outlined the history of the space projects, from the first Russian "Sputnik" to the present U.S. astronauts in orbit. She said, "Taxpayers sometimes wonder whether the space program has been worth its cost, but the truth is that the research in this field has produced a broad range of concrete benefits."

She discussed each of the ways in which mankind has won improvements through space. She listed among them a better standard of living, advancement in technology, the 120 NASA field centers which distribute information, the global TV programs through satellites, and other definite advantages.

She said, "In weather forecasting, our satellites watch the world's physical environment and relay an unbroken flow of data to weathermen on the ground, making it possible to forecast hurricanes, floods, and other disasters."

She discussed the world photo operations, the space benefits to industry, and the special improvements in the field of medicine, such as the motorized wheel chair that can be operated by a sight-switch, the spectrometer, the sleep analyzer, the ear oximeter, and others. She concluded with the statement, "Our new frontier, Space, may possibly provide the mighty stimulant necessary to set in motion enough enterprise to end poverty and to supply the ability to coordinate the people of the earth to reach, at last, the goal of living together in space."

Present at the meeting were Mrs. Sailor and members Miss Anna Pierce and Mmes. W.E. Abernathy, W.A. Bohot, H. Price Dosier, Clyde Ellis, S.C. Evans, J.E. Bigson, Lee Harrah, Rue Hestand, J.E. # Over 40 Years Serving Pampa Is King & Sons

John T. King and Sons, 918 S. Barnes, has been serving the oil industry since 1930—for over 40 years.

The company was then known as Stapp King Electric and Machine Co., where the first Pyle National Generators, run by steam, and the old Robert Obsch Magnetos were repaired. Old-timers will remember the type EK, type R and Oc Wice magnetos that were rebuilt at this time.

Six years after its founding, the company became known as the King Chemical Company, with patent rights on the first paraffin solvents and paraffin scrapers that were popular in the oil fields for many years to follow.

Since the end of World War II,

John T. King and Sons have been serving the Panhandle field in various capacities and have met challenging changes with the advent of future automation in the field of oil field production and products.

John T. King and Sons handle a complete selection of industrial magnetos, pumps, skids and industrial electronic automation equipment.

One of the newer types of magnetos stocked by King and Sons is the Altronic, a magno used for larger industrial purposes.

The firm also has Frank Murphy safety switches and electronic control units for field installation.

Safety devices include United Engineer PKM and Keystone and Associated Well Sounders, Rockwell water meters and Worthington pumps. Fischer controls and natural gas regulators are also found at John T. King and Sons.

King is represented as an authorized central distributor for the latest type of ignition units that eliminates breaker point and impulse couplings, spark plug life extended, higher voltages available at low cranking rpm, shielded and low fire hazards—all are featured in the newest Altronic ignition system.

John T. King and Sons, more so than keeping up with changes that are sweeping our period of time, are finding newer and better ways of pleasing their old and new customers.

YEARS OF EXPERIENCE — John T. King and Sons, serving the Panhandle since 1930, has undergone changes in areas of service and name, but it has never failed to offer top-notch service to the oil industry. The company continues to lead its field with "first" and "best" in all departments.

Contact, Suicides Linked

ATLANTA (UPI) — A University of Georgia sociologist thinks the depth of social contact on the job and not the work itself is the most important factor in suicides.

Dr. Leonard Linden, project director for several suicide prevention studies at the school's Institute for Behavioral Research, says "The difference between various occupations is not as great as was once thought."

Valuable Primate Useful In Researching Fever

DALLAS (UPI) — Dr. James M. Lipton carefully squirmed around a fidgety squirrel monkey and adjusted the brain implant used in a temperature regulation study.

"This is our $6,500 monkey," Lipton said, releasing the small monkey's head. "It really cost about $55, but it's worth 100 times that in research we've conducted with it."

Lipton, 34-year-old assistant professor in the Department of Physiology at the University of Texas Southwestern Medical School, is conducting research into a particular body mechanism that controls fever in squirrel monkeys—and humans.

He believes he has found not only one, but two, thermo regulatory centers in the brain.

Temperature Control
He said the primary thermostat is in temperature sensitive cells in an area, called the preoptic anterior hypothalamic region, at the base or floor of the brain. "That part of the brain seems to play a great part in temperature control."

Using national death statistics, Linden is testing a hypothesis that occupations can increase or negate opportunities for "meaningful social communication" and that any opportunity that reduces social contacts greatly increases the chance of suicide.

Farmers Rate High
Linden is handicapped somewhat by his statistics, because the most recent set of complete mortality figures by occupation available is for 1950.

Curiously enough, Linden says, farmers, once considered as stable and having a rather tranquil life, have a suicide rate 50 per cent above the norm.

"I suspect this has resulted from the rural to urban migration and disrupted social relationships," Linden said in a telephone interview from his home in Athens.

Doctors and lawyers are less prone to suicide because of the constant contact they have with their peers, but the rate for dentists is 50 per cent higher than that of physicians, he said.

Teen-Age Reports Misleading
"Dentists are usually loners and work by themselves," said Linden. "They are often considered as marginal health practitioners."

Linden emphasized the depth of the friendship is the key. "A bus driver may not have constant contacts but not have any significant relationships," said Linden, who is studying the phenomenon with a grant from the National Institute of Mental Health.

Professions with substantially lower than normal suicide rates are the clergy (50 to 60 per cent) and teaching (20 to 30 per cent), he said.

Recent reports that teenage suicides are increasing are misleading, he said. In 1960, the rate for males under age 15 was 4 per 100,000 people, but the figure soars to 30 per 100,000 in men aged 45 to 54, he said. "If the teen-age suicide rate doubled from one to two we'd be lying with statistics because the increase is not significant," Linden said.

Schools Can Save Energy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Schools can find more than 20 ways to save energy, from turning off lights at appropriate times to rearranging their schedules, according to the nonprofit Educational Facilities Laboratories of New York City.

The foundation-financed corporation is in the business of helping schools and colleges with their physical problems, and energy is the biggest general physical problem facing schools today. The firm's recent report on energy conservation in school buildings was considered so timely that the U.S. Office of Education (OE) made it available to 10 regional government offices for discussion with state and local education officials.

"In many cases schools are built on the lowest bids submitted, which means they may not be the most efficient in terms of heating control devices, of insulation, of good design for recovery of heat or preservation of heat," said John L. Baird, OE coordinator for energy policy.

Reduce Library Lighting
The report lists fuel-saving tips for principals or superintendents, operations and maintenance supervisors, and district administrators, subject to local code requirements.

Principals can set thermostats at 68 degrees for heated spaces in general, 62 for gymnasiums and entranceways, and 78 for air-conditioned spaces. Instruct janitors to turn off lights and heating or cooling when they leave each work space, schedule maintenance work during daytime if possible, encourage teachers to turn off lights in empty rooms, reduce cafeteria and library lighting, adjust classroom lighting to outdoor light, and reschedule the school calendar to minimize operations in cold, high-energy-consuming seasons and make up time in low-energy-consuming seasons.

Maintenance workers can reduce outdoor ventilating to one air change an hour when the code permits, schedule periodic furnace maintenance, checks of thermostats and humidistats and lubrication of fans, pumps and others equipment, caulk and weatherstrip windows, sash, door bucks and roof flashings to prevent air leakage; draw window drapes in severe hot or cold weather, insulate heating, ventilating, and air conditioning ducts where they extend through cold spaces and all hot and chilled water pipes, and use no outside air for first half-hour of heating startup.

Incentive Program
More substantial investments for school districts to make in plant improvements are doubleglazing of glass areas, installation of awnings over windows to cut heat gain in summer by 50 per cent and installation of improved combustion equipment.

"In most schools, a rigorous energy-conservation program could save more than 20 per cent of the energy consumed without loss in comfort or operating efficiency," the report said.

Business Today

By DEAN C. MILLER
UPI Business Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — It's one thing to agree that the country must develop and is capable of developing alternative sources of energy and quite another to find the money to do it.

President Nixon underscored that problem in his January 19 report to the nation on the energy crisis. While saying that the U.S. government would supply "seed money" for projects designed to make the country independent of foreign oil interests, he emphasized that most of the research and development capital would have to come from the business community.

Insurance companies pull in millions of dollars in premiums each day and are ready sources of capital. At the end of 1973, U.S. insurance companies had $254 billion in assets, $14.7 billion of it in cash, according to the Institute of Life Insurance. And an industry survey indicates that insurance executives have turned their portfolio attention to the energy crisis.

New Fuel Reserves
Otto Fleig, senior vice president of Metropolitan Life, said the Met is investigating the development of petroleum and gas fields and already has $1 billion in gas transmission lines. "We've placed energy needs in the forefront of our role in supplying capital," he said. Northwestern Mutual of Milwaukee is participating directly in the search for new fuel reserves. It has invested $70 million as part of a bidding syndicate which purchased oil and gas tracts in the Gulf of Mexico. "We have a responsibility to the national interest," said Robert B. Barrows, senior vice president for investment at Northwestern.

"We know there will be a huge demand for funds to finance energy related projects and we expect to participate," said Raymond A. Charles, senior vice president for bonds and commercial loans at the Prudential.

Nuclear Plants
At Mutual of New York, investments in energy development and production represent more than 21 per cent of the company's industrial portfolio, "probably the highest percentage in the industry," according to David Bullwinkle, vice president for securities investments in oil and gas.

Dr. John Fey, president of National Life of Vermont, said his investment department is "prepared to work with other companies to help finance refineries or nuclear power plants."

More than 25,000 muskellunge were stocked in Minnesota lakes in 1973.

Price Says U.S. Vulnerable To Lands With Raw Materials

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Bob Price, R-Tex., taking the Arab oil embargo as an indicator, said Monday the United States may be economically vulnerable sudden actions by certain foreign nations in at least 19 other basic raw materials.

Price, in his weekly report to constituents, said his research, based on 1973 figures, indicates this country obtained more than half its consumption of 19 of 43 basic raw materials from foreign sources. And, he said, in all cases more than half came from one or two countries.

He cited our imports of chrome ore and platinum from Russia, bauxite from Jamaica, unwrought cobalt from Zaire in the African Congo and from Belgium, manganese ore from Brazil, natural rubber from Malaysia and tin ore and unwrought tin from Bolivia and Malaysia.

"Of course, simple import statistics do not necessarily prove a strict dependency," Price said. "We might, in some cases, have adequate domestic sources, or we might be able to develop alternative foreign sources, or we might be able to utilize substitutes."

"But, in every case, we would have to be ready to pay significantly higher prices for the alternative solution."

In the case of chrome ore, Price said, it "is readily available from Rhodesia, but the official U.S. policy, which I disagree, is to support United Nations sanctions against Rhodesia."

Deductible Items Help Taxpayers Reduce Federal Income Tax Bills

Editor's Note: This is the second of five articles providing guidelines on how to prepare—and perhaps save money on—your 1973 federal income tax. The guidelines come from the Commerce Clearing House of Chicago, an authority on tax law.

By United Press International
Making a thorough check for deductible items can help many taxpayers reduce their federal income tax bills. Deductions which are not connected with a trade, business or profession are divided into two classes:

—Deductible from gross income in order to arrive at the proper figure for "adjusted gross income."
—Deductible only from "adjusted gross income" and then only if the standard deduction or optional tax table is not used.

The first class has no effect on the taxpayer's disposition of the second class, leaving him free to itemize deductions on Schedule A, Form 1040, or to take the standard deduction.

You can deduct the following items in arriving at your "adjusted gross income," which will be shown on Form 1040:

Alimony Payments
Capital losses (limited), including nonbusiness bad debts; contributions by self-employed persons to retirement plans; depreciation on income-producing property; entertainment expenses of employees, totals being reimbursed by employer; moving expenses of employees; outside salesman's expenses; reimbursed employee's expenses; rental or royalty property expenses; traveling expenses; business trips; travel expense for education that is "directly related" to taxpayer's business or employment.

The following items are deductible only if they are itemized on Schedule A, Form 1040. They may not be deducted in arriving at "adjusted gross income":

Alimony for separate maintenance payments taxed to recipient; casualty losses and theft losses, personal, to the extent each loss exceeds $100; child and dependent care expenses, limited; contributions to charitable organizations, limited; cooperative housing taxes and interest; employment agency fees for securing employment; entertainment of customers, unreimbursed, if not an outside salesman; cost of preparing income and other tax returns; interest on nonbusiness mortgages or installment purchases.

Also, medical, dental and hospital expenses in excess of 3 per cent of adjusted gross income, for example: ambulance hire, artificial limbs and teeth, drugs and medical supplies to the extent they exceed 1 per cent of adjusted gross income, eyeglasses, hearing aids, special food, hospital, doctor and dentist bills, medical insurance premiums (up to $150 may be deducted in full), nursing care, operations and related treatments, psychiatrist and psychologist fees, support or corrective devices, and transportation expenses relative to illness, including fare to doctor's office, X-rays.

Personal Property Taxes
State and local taxes also deductible include: automobile license fees, in some states if considered a personal property tax, gasoline taxes, income taxes, personal property taxes, real property taxes, per rated for year of sale, and sales taxes; uniforms and protective clothing; union dues.

Here are some of the items which cannot be deducted regardless of the method used in computing the tax. These, among others, are considered by the Internal Revenue Service as personal and family expenses:

Adoption fees, fines for violation of law or police regulations, food, attorney's fees, funeral expenses, nonbusiness gifts to individuals, automobile upkeep, expense of pleasure car, house rent, baby sitter—unless qualified as child care, insurance on residence, child-support payments, life insurance premiums, domestic servant's wages—except as child or dependent care, dues, social club for personal use, employees' insurance—other than hospitalization, amount deducted from salary for uniforms which replace regular clothing.

But, remember that many taxes you pay are deductible. For instance, the following nonbusiness state and local taxes are deductible when a taxpayer itemizes his deduction on separate Schedule A of Form 1040: real property taxes, personal property taxes, income taxes, general sales taxes and taxes on the sale of gasoline and other motor fuels.

Thus, the real estate taxes you paid on your personal residence are deductible if you itemize your deductions. Also a bona fide cooperative housing tenant can deduct amounts paid, or accrued, by him to the corporation as his share of the real estate taxes paid or incurred by the corporation on its building and land. Each owner of a condominium unit can deduct real estate taxes which he paid on his apartment.

If you sold real estate in 1973, the real property tax is allocated, for purposes of deduction, to the buyer and seller in proportion to the number of days in the real estate tax year that each held the property.

Gasoline Tax Deduction
Sales taxes are imposed by 48 states and the District of Columbia and by numerous city and county governments. The state rates range from 2 per cent to 6.5 per cent for 1973. All 50 states and the District of Columbia impose a gasoline tax ranging from 5 cents to 10 cents per gallon. The taxpayer may use flat amounts allowed in guidelines issued by the Treasury Department to deduct his sales tax. There are also flat amounts allowable for the gasoline tax deduction.

The federal tax on gasoline and special fuels—benzol, naphtha and others—used on a farm or on gasoline for other non-highway purposes is allowed as a credit against income tax, as is the tax on lubricating oil used for any purpose other than a highway vehicle. The credit is computed on Form 4136 and entered on line 63, page 2 of Form 1040.

Some taxes, however, cannot be deducted. No nonbusiness deductions are allowed for taxes on cigarettes, tobacco and alcoholic beverages and for fees, not considered a tax, for the registration or licensing of motor vehicles and for drivers' licenses. However, in some states, payments for the registration of motor vehicles, which can be construed as personal property taxes, are deductible. These amounts vary from state to state and information as to the amount that may be deducted is obtainable where the license plates are sold.

Federal taxes which are not deductible include income, estate and gift taxes, old age benefit contributions by employees, railroad retirement tax on employees, the self-employment tax and excise taxes on personal goods.

The Borman Brief, by Clive Egleton. (Coward, McCann & Geoghegan, $6.95)

World War II lacks the historical patina of the Civil War but despite its newcomer status it is approaching the War Between the States in its attractiveness to writers and historians.

The fanaticism of the Nazi regime, the righteous and triumphant Allies, the terrible but controlled destruction of pre-atomic bomb warfare, the plight of crumpling Germany—all these black and white qualities combine to make it fine fodder for dramatic writing, fact or fiction.

It's the black hats against the white hats again in a world-wide shootout.

Egleton uses the drama in a novel that is an unpretentious piece of good entertainment that keeps the reader flipping the pages in expectation of the next bit of action.

Col. Ashby, an English ex-pat, persuades his superiors to allow him to train a group of anti-Nazi Germans as an assassination team, a sort of Dirty Dozen. Their target: Martin Bormann, that shadowy figure who now seems a piece of fiction himself.

Egleton's technique is a trifle episodic—we jump from deepest Germany to Wales and back with sometimes bewildering effect—but his writing is clear and bright and his story intriguing.

Joan Hansner (UPI)

The Plundered Past, by Karl Meyer. (Atheneum, $12.95). The voracious appetite of museums, private collectors and dealers for great art has resulted in the pillage of archaeological sites, thefts from museums, private collections and churches, and international smuggling. This is the first major survey of the 20th Century's rape of the art legacy of the past.

Alexander Woolcott, by Edwin P. Hoyt. (Chilton, $6.95). Detractors can point out that Woolcott's writings proved as durable as yesterday's newspaper copy, and his personality, a creation of willful, indulgent pre-World War II society, seems more appalling than appealing now. But he was representative of his time and it certainly is fun to read about him, his life style and such of his friends as Harpo Marx and George S. Kaufman.

Myself, Christopher Wren, by David Weiss. (Coward, McCann & Geoghegan, $15). Architect Christopher Wren lived 90 years and helped transform 17th Century London into one of the

PATCO Aids User Tax Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Professional Air Transport Controllers Organization (PATCO), formed in January, 1968, with the claim that the air traffic system was undermanned and the equipment outmoded, helped spark the Airport and Airways User tax bill.

That provided funding for new equipment, new airports, more controllers. PATCO now represents controllers in all the contiguous United States, plus Hawaii, Alaska, San Juan, the Canal Zone, Guam, and all American possessions.

Bringing to the public the problem of pressures on the job helped the passing by Congress of what is considered one of the best sets of retirement provisions of any public body.

Smelters Injure Trees
ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI)—Copper smelters have caused apparent sulfur dioxide injury to trees in four national forests in Arizona and New Mexico, the U.S. Forest Service says.

The Forest Service said a disease detection survey found leaf or needle tissue death among trees in the Tonto, Coronado and Apache National Forests in Arizona. The study said the symptoms were those of "acute sulfur dioxide injury."

In New Mexico, the report indicated further investigation was needed for verification but said symptoms resembling sulfur dioxide injury have been found in the Gila National Forest.

world's most strikingly beautiful cities. Weiss, an old hand at biographical novels, handles with marked skill the cast of personalities from Isaac Newton to Van Dyck. Wren's epitaph in St. Paul's Cathedral sums it up: "If you seek a monument, look about you."

Landmarks of the Revolution, by Mark M. Boatner III. (Stackpole, $10). Here is an incomparable picture story of the American Revolution, a detailed description of the actual places where the battles were planned and fought and of the men involved. This is no mere road map. The author, a military historian, tells superb stories within historical context.

The Tower, by Richard Martin Stern. (McKay, $7.95). The World's tallest building goes up in flames the day of its dedication and many of the city's leading figures are trapped in its tower restaurant. In recent years fire experts have feared just this type of catastrophe and the author milks it for a swell tale of terror, 1970s style.

Help your son get ahead.

This boy knows that courtesy is good business.

Newspaper route management can be a boy's first step forward

A BOY with a newspaper route truly is in business for himself. With an assist from our people who are experienced in working with boys.

He buys his newspapers from us and retails them to you.

He sells, he delivers, and he collects. Like any good businessman, he keeps records (you can see how valuable this is in applying the lessons he learns in the classroom in a practical way).

And like any good businessman, he shows a profit. A boy with a newspaper route earns money that can help him build a sizable bank account of his own. Useful for the things he wants. Even for a college education.

Not only does a newspaper route sharpen a young boy's business sense (which will be helpful to him throughout life no matter what career he chooses). It also offers him some important extras—the ability to deal with people, and the lessons of promptness, of care, of self-reliance, and of good manners.

In these ways, a newspaperboy manages to keep a step ahead of other boys in preparing for life.

If your son wants to handle a route, put him in touch with us. One may be available for him in your neighborhood. It will be an unusual opportunity for the self-advancement you want him to have.

TV In Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Television executives who pay close attention to the ratings list of video's most popular series should learn one major lesson, and it is this:
Forget all the trends at any given time, and just concentrate on coming up with an individual, well crafted show.
The ratings indicate overwhelmingly that hot trends and imitations of commercial hits are not the significant audience factors that one might suspect them of being. Audiences are more discerning than some television executives think.
Consider the wide variety of network video hits:
Atop the list recently is "The Waltons," which went against just about every old-fashioned television theory for creating a commercial smash. It is about poor people, it is set in the 1930s Depression, it has no sex appeal and its stories are, for video, "soft."
Then there is television's top comedy hit, "All in the Family." It could hardly be more different than "The Waltons." It is set in the modern era, it is raucous and blunt, and it takes place in a big city, whereas "The Waltons" has a rural locale.

Traditional Show Biz
Another individual hit is the Walt Disney series, which is unlike almost anything else among video's top-rated shows. It is traditional in its show business approach, and is a potpourri of nature programs, animated hours, movies and adventure stories.

"Maude" is about a divorcee who has remarried. The networks used to consider the subject of divorce about as attractive as a plague. Furthermore, the central figure in this comedy series is aggressive and sometimes overbearing—hardly the old-style television approach for making a woman character endearing to the mass audience.

"Adam-12" is a traditional police series with almost no embroidery to it, and it just keeps rolling along.

There are almost no westerns left among network series, and yet "Gunsmoke" is as popular as ever—because it is as good as ever.

The Lucille Ball Show is another weekly entry that seems able to run from here to eternity, because it knows exactly how to put itself across. Yet some years back, when NBC-TV tried to imitate this CBS-TV hit with a Debbie Reynolds situation comedy, only Lucy was left when the dust had cleared.

Mary Tyler Moore's weekly comedy is another sharply crafted show that displays CBS-TV's know-how in turning out frivolous, amiable and harmless timekillers. But when NBC-TV tried to imitate this show recently with a Diana Rigg situation comedy, that too failed.

If there is one real rule to start with in trying to create a hit television series, it is this: There are no rules.

Network programming executives, who are usually unqualified for the show business demands of their jobs, cannot escape this fact. They face the reality that they must survive on their own judgment. That is why most of them don't last very long.

Popular records

NEW YORK (UPI) — At the time that Tom Jones was at the height of his popularity, he said on one of his weekly television shows that he had been influenced deeply by Elvis Presley.

Presley was one of the first white singers to come down the pike with a blackish sound in many a year and he made musical history for the rock and roll generation.

Jones himself created crashing waves more than a decade later when he developed a sound that was so black that his records were best sellers in Harlem.

And when the record fans in Harlem found out that Jones was white there was no bitterness, just as there was no resentment among whites when Charley Pride came forth with the most authentic country voice since the early days of Ernest Tubb and Roy Acuff.

Big Year for Presley
One of Jones' best songs was "I'll Never Fall in Love Again" and it has been preserved in a new release, "Tom Jones' Greatest Hits" (Parrot PAS 71062).

This collection also includes "Help Yourself," a song that underlined the physical vitality of Tom Jones, a catchy tune that helped develop his personality. A later hit, Paul Anka's "She's A Lady," also is included.

Among other songs are "It's Not Unusual," "What's New Pussycat?," "Green Grass of Home," "Funny Familiar Forgotten Feeling" and "Daughter of Darkness."
If you are a Tom Jones collector, you have all of these numbers because they were lifted from his previous albums. If not, this is a good reason to become a Tom Jones fan.

The year 1973 was a big year for Presley, who packed auditoriums in personal appearances, even though he was written off by some myopic observers as a flash in the pan almost 20 years ago.

His continuing popularity has prompted RCA to showcase him in a lead-off album in its "Legendary Performer" collection.

It is entitled "Elvis, Vol. 1" (RCA CPL 1-0341) and is made up of some of Presley's best-seller recordings plus four numbers which had not been released.

The album includes the early Presley favorites—"Heartbreak Hotel," "Don't Be Cruel," "Love Me Tender" and "That's All Right." It does not play back two of Elvis' biggest hits—"Blue Suede Shoes" and "Hound Dog," possibly because RCA wanted to make room for the unreleased material—"Love Me," "Trying to Get to You," "Tonight's All Right for Love" and "Are You Lonesome Tonight."

"Elvis" also features an interview which was granted on Sept. 22, 1968.

IN EUROPEAN COUNTRIES

Trains Offer Inexpensive Travel

By MURRAY J. BROWN
UPI Travel Editor
Energy crisis or not, the railroads of 13 West European countries are still offering American travelers low cost unlimited first-class rail travel. Would you believe 21 days for $150, for instance.

And that includes Europe's super-duper Trans-Europe Express (TEE), the high-speed extra-fare trains which link 172 key cities on the continent. Moreover, the same cut-rate Eurailpass entitles the purchaser to free rides on certain steamers, ferries and motor coaches as well as other extras.

The Eurailpass has to rank high among travel bargains anywhere in these days of the floating dollar and energy crunch. European trains are among the most modern—they are clean, comfortable, frequent, fast and reliable as I have learned from personal experiences in Italy, France, Germany and Norway.
Eurailpasses must be bought in the United States—they are not available in Europe—from travel agencies or local offices of the member railroads. The pass must show the holder's passport number with both being checked by train conductors and border guards. To insure full value, do not get the pass stamped until the first train trip.

Prices Go Up
There are about 100,000 miles of track in the combined networks of the member railroads in Austria, Belgium, Denmark, France, Italy, Luxembourg, the Netherlands, Norway, Portugal, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland and West Germany.

Eurailpass prices have gone up $20 to $50 since the dollar crisis in 1973 but they are still a good buy, particularly for Americans who plan to travel extensively in Europe. In addition to the 21-day pass for $150, there's a one-month pass for $190, two months for $260 and three months for $300. Children 4-12 pay half-fare while those under 4 ride free.

Students under 26 are eligible for a two-month, second-class Student Railpass with unlimited mileage for $165. The student pass includes many of the side benefits offered by the Eurailpass.

In addition to its low cost, Eurailpass offers other dividends for the American traveler. By paying in advance, he doesn't have to worry about paying a higher fare because of currency fluctuations. And there's the convenience of city-center to city-center transportation which eliminates the time and expense of getting to and from outlying airports. But, probably more important, the energy shortage is expected to have only a minimal effect on rail services.

Reservations a Must
The Eurailpass Executive Committee noted that most of the railways, "particularly the highly trafficked routes," are electrified and depend more on power generated by hydroelectric and coal-burning plants than on oil.

"No curtailment in services are planned," the committee said recently. "As a matter of fact, possible additions are being planned to compensate for heavier demands expected as a result of automobile and aircraft fuel curtailments."

The passes do not include meals or sleeping accommodations such as couchettes. But Eurailpass holders do not have to pay the supplementary fare usually charged for seat reservations on the crack TEEs and other luxury trains. There now are 39 of the all first-class international specials, each running in two directions daily, in the TEE network. But advance reservations still are a must.

Trains on the more popular routes generally include dining cars but it also is possible to buy snacks and soft drinks from vendors on board. Food and drink also can usually be purchased from stands and shops at stops along the way.

You can fix your itinerary as you go, stopping off whenever and wherever you decide.

Slow Burns Costly

NEW YORK (UPI) — Most laymen don't understand that it burns more jet aircraft fuel to fly slow than to fly fast.

Commercial jets cruise at around 500 knots. Interviews with senior airline pilots about conserving fuel during the present shortage disclosed a feeling that present speed practices could be changed to help.

The pilots said that in approaching a terminal there is a limit of 250 knots when the plane gets below 10,000 feet. Then they will be reduced to about 160 knots at 2,000 feet.

One of their recommendations is that the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), which has jurisdiction over the air traffic controllers, raise the 10,000-foot speed limit and at the lower altitude let them keep the speed up to 200 or 210 knots and the altitude up to 3,000 feet to conserve fuel and to get the noise a bit farther from people on the ground.

A tremendous amount of fuel is burned up, they say, when a plane is held in the air at 160 knots waiting its turn to land in congested traffic.

Asked about the possibility of increasing speed on approach, Daniel Bove, chief controller of the New York area, said however: "Under 10,000 feet in congested areas, we don't want 'em barreling along at 600 miles per hour."

Ali Gets Revenge

NEW YORK (UPI) — In a classic rerun of their first fight, Muhammad Ali got his revenge, winning a close but unanimous decision over Joe Frazier before an emotionally charged throng at Madison Square Garden Monday night.

The scoring saw Judge Tony Castellani call it 7-1; Judge Jack Gordon 8-4 and Referee Tony Perez 6-5-1, all for Ali. The UPI had it 7-4-1.

As it was in their first match in March of 1971, it was again the clash of the big power man, Frazier, and the great boxing stylist, Ali. As it was again, it was Frazier wading after Ali from start to finish, taking the punches, taking the punches in the hopes of getting that one big one in himself.

But this was not to be the case, for Ali in magnificent condition did what he said he would do. Flashing around the ring brilliantly in the opening rounds, dancing as he said he would, he was constantly sticking stinging jabs in Joe's face.

But again, the pattern of the first fight followed true and by the middle of the fight, Ali's jabs had lost their sting and Frazier's body punches began to slow Ali down. But it was too late for Frazier over this 12-round distance. In his victory over Ali, he had won over 15.

Ali took the first two rounds with consummate ease and in the third, Frazier for the first time began to get a few punches into Ali's body, egged on by the shouted advice from his corner to "stay down low, Joe, stay down low."

Thus the battle raged through the middle rounds, setting the stage for the furious closing three.

In the ninth round, Frazier was taunting Ali, still carrying the fight to him, ignoring the punishment of the flicking lefts which had lost their sting but were still piling points for Ali.

Ali was exhausted but as the final seconds ticked away, he could not resist the last bit of showmanship, giving the crowd once more the Ali shuffle.

Obviously, Ali's greatest goal is within reach, that being, of course, the heavyweight championship of the world now held by George Foreman, who it must be remembered destroyed Frazier in two rounds last January.

When the Ali-Frazier match was made, there were those who thought they could not recapture the drama, the theater, of the 1971 bout which had been labeled simply: "The Fight." But this one did—to the ecstatic delight of Muhammad's followers in the Garden crowd of 20,748.

For the privilege of seeing it in the flesh, they bought tickets ranging from $20 to $100 for a gross gate of $1,053,088.

The only other non-title gate to exceed that money was the Jack Sharkey-Jack Dempsey battle in July of 1927 when the money amounted to $1,083,530—but this was paid by 75,000 people at Yankee Stadium.

RICK BEESLEY has been a valuable asset to the Harvesters this season, particularly with his 20-25 foot set shot from either side. Beesley and teammates can clinch at least a tie for the first-half championship tonight with a win over Amarillo High.

Ali Wants Foreman And Then He'll Quit

BY MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — In this, one of his finer hours, when his critics figured he'd crow the most, Muhammad Ali went completely the other way, saying it isn't the little tired of it all and he'll be hanging up his gloves pretty soon now.

"Yes," he said somewhat wearily as he lay on a leather covered table in his much-too-small dressing room after evening the score with Joe Frazier by way of a unanimous 12-round decision over him at Madison Square Garden Monday night. "I'd like to fight George Foreman someday."

"One day soon, I mean, I'm sure George and his people want him to be the real champ, and they know he has to fight me to be that. After Foreman, I'll probably quit."

"You only say that now, derided one of his listeners indicating he didn't believe it. Ali didn't care to argue.

He's Tired
"No," he said, "I'll probably quit after Foreman. Why not? I'm tired; I got three million in the bank; the interest is pretty good and I could live off that alone."

"Your wife or somebody else bucking you to quit?" came a question.

Ali shook his head.

"Nobody's telling me what to do," he said. "I just figured it getting to be time."

As he talked, one of Ali's handlers worked on his body, kneading his shoulders and pectoral muscles with an amber colored liquid.

Ali suddenly moved up to a sitting position on the table and directed his conversation at Dr. Freddie Pacheco of Miami, one of those standing near by.

"Look at this," he said, displaying the knuckle on the third finger of his left hand. "I got an infection here. There's pus in it."

Pacheco inspected the finger which was swollen.

"I'll get it tomorrow," he said.

"No, get it now," Ali commanded.

"Yeah, now."

Doctor Treats Infection
Pacheco reached into his medical kit and extracted some ethyl chloride which he sprayed on the infected knuckle.

He then pulled a long needle out of his bag and without any ceremony stuck it right into the knuckle. Ali winced but said nothing as some of the fluid drained from the finger.

"Did you get that during the fight?" one newsman asked.

Again Ali shook his head negatively.

"He scratched himself before the fight and the glove must have irritated it," Pacheco said.

Talking about the fight Ali admitted Frazier hurt him twice but he either did not remember the rounds or didn't want to remember them because every time he was asked which rounds he was shook up in he changed the conversation.

"I hurt him a few times," he said. "In the sixth, seventh and eighth rounds. I know I did because I could feel him."

Frazier said he thought he won the fight but didn't sound very convincing. Now and then he'd whistle a couple of good shots off Ali's head, but from where I sat he never seemed able to put enough punches together to change the way the fight was going. On my card, Ali was clearly the winner, 7-4-1.

All Couldn't Resist
Before the fight, Ali had said he wouldn't clown around this time. He couldn't resist though. Not for 12 whole rounds.

After Frazier clipped him with a crackling left to the jaw in the seventh, Ali came off the ropes and winked at the crowd. Angelo Dundee, who guides him in the corner, was quick to pick it up.

"I blew my stack when he came back to the corner," Dundee revealed afterward.

"What's matter with you?" I said to him. "Jeez you said you wouldn't do that didn'tcha? What are you tryin' to do?" ... he listened to me he didn't do it anymore."

It was Ali, not Frazier, who came out smokin' in the last two rounds. He stood there and actually slugged it out with Frazier winning both rounds.

"Why did I do it?" he asked later, repeating a question put to him. "I'm about finished and I wanted the people who saw this fight to remember me this way, I thought this fight was better than our first one, didn't you?"

Not really.

Harvesters, Sandies Play Tonight At Amarillo High

Pampa's Harvesters, winners of eight of their last nine games and seven in a row, take on the lowly Amarillo High Sandies at 7:30 p.m. today in the Amarillo High School gymnasium.

Pampa, 19-5 and undefeated in three district games, will be heavily favored to dispose of the Sandies, who are 2-19 for the season and 0-3 in 3-AAAA play. The Harvesters gained sole possession of first place in the district standings by beating Palo Duro, 84-53, Friday night in Amarillo.

After its three district games, Pampa has found itself with the best shot at winning the first-half title. After the Sandies, Pampa will host the Borger Bulldogs, 2-1, Friday and Pampa has lost but one game at home this season. That game will wind up first-half action for the Harvesters.

The Harvesters have beaten

Caprock, 78-54; Tascosa, 73-54, and Palo Duro.

Pampa's win streak dates back to Jan. 5 when the Harvesters hosted Liberal, Kan., and won, 61-56. The last time the Pampans lost was Jan. 3 as Lubbock Monterey left Harvester Fieldhouse with a 51-50 victory. At this time last season, Pampa was 13-8 and 2-1 in district play.

The Harvesters have showed balanced scoring and exceptional defense due to an awesome full-court press this season. Pampa has averaged 69.2 points per game, while holding the opposition to 56. Only twice have teams scored as many as 70 points on Pampa—Odeasa Ector, 74, and state-ranked (Midland Reporter-Telegram poll) Midland Lee, 79.

The Harvesters have scored at least 90 in three games, at least 80 in four and at least 70 in four.

Three Harvesters are averaging in double figures—6-3 post Billy Wilbon, 15.3; 6-6 post Randy Warner, 10.8, and 5-10 guard Ray Powell, 10.4. Six-five forward Howie Lewis and 6-2 forward Rick Beesley are averaging 9.5 and 9.4 points respectively.

Pampa's three top players on the bench are 6-9 forward Robert Young, 6-8 sophomore Matiga Bunton and 5-11 guard Keith Samples. The three sport averages of 7.5, 5.8 and 5.6. Bunton led Pampa scorers against Palo Duro Friday with 15 points, playing the finest game of his career.

Wilbon, Warner, Beesley, Lewis and Powell will start tonight. Amarillo High's starters will probably be 6-4 post Nelson Taylor, 6-3 post Tom Davis, 6-4 forward Perry Hughes, 5-11 C.L. Phillips and 5-11 guard David Cook. Everett Garner, a 6-0 forward, is also expected to play against Pampa.

Pampa coach Robert McPherson isn't paying attention to Amarillo's 2-19 record. "They haven't been beaten bad at any time."

"We were 3-0 in district last year (in the second half) and went over there (to Amarillo) and barely escaped with a two-point win (30-48)."

McPherson added, "They're going to be sky high for us. If we're looking ahead to Borger Friday night, we're going to be in trouble."

The Shockers will play Amarillo's B-team at 6:00 p.m. Pampa is 18-5 on the year and 2-1 in district after dealing Palo Duro's JV a 58-40 loss Friday.

Cowboys Have 1st Pick Today

NEW YORK (UPI) — Eddie Jones, a bruising 6-foot-8, 260-pound tackle from Tennessee State, was expected to be the third consecutive defensive lineman to be made the No. 1 pick when the Dallas Cowboys opened what could be the lengthiest college player draft in years.

The Cowboys all but came out and said beforehand that Jones would be their No. 1 choice, a pick obtained last year from the Houston Oilers for Tody Smith and Billy Parks.

What could make this the longest draft in many years in the birth of the World Football League, a 12-team group that held its own preliminary draft of 72 players last week. For the first time since the bitter war days of 1960-66 between the old American and National Football Leagues, clubs won't know for sure that they're getting who they pick.

The NFL hasn't said it but the usual 15-minute time limit for the first two rounds and five minutes for the next 15 was expected to be waived. Some observers said the draft, which normally ends about 7 p.m. EDT on Wednesday, might even run into Thursday.

The WFL apparently even drew first blood when its Southern California franchise Monday announced the signing of UCLA running backs James McAlister and Kermit Johnson and University of Southern California guard Booker Brown.

Six teams—Dallas, Chicago, Baltimore, San Francisco, Minnesota and San Diego—each had extra first-round picks. Houston, New England, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Atlanta, and Washington did not have first-round choices and Houston, with the worst record in the league at 1-13, was not scheduled to make its first selection until the fourth round. Clubs drafted in inverse order of their final 1973 standing.

Babe Ruth hit his record 60th home run on Sept. 27, 1927, at Yankee Stadium, New York City, off Tom Zachary, Washington pitcher.

NHL's BEST All-Star Contest Tonight

CHICAGO (UPI) — The National Hockey League All-Star game will be staged at 7:30 p.m. CDT tonight, although Coach Scotty Bowman of the East may have an under strength squad or not know who will be on the ice until game time.

Bowman leveled charges that both the New York Rangers and Boston Bruins were not cooperating in furnishing players for the game and detailed a blow-by-blow account of his efforts to keep his squad at the authorized strength of 20.

Monday night he had 15 players, exclusive of goalenders, and the promise that three more players might be available. But some of the players were fill-ins for fill-ins and not exactly what he wanted.

For instance, he wanted Jean Ratelle or Walt Tkaczuk with the Rangers and he said "the Rangers refused to send anybody."

He wanted Carol Vadnais from the Bruins and he said General Manager Harry Sinden said, "You've got Dallas Smith and that's enough."

Bowman, who has won one, tied one and lost one in previous All-Star competition, said he hoped that Jim McKenny would be made available by Toronto, that Red Berenson was coming from Detroit, and that his own Larry Robinson from Montreal definitely would be there.

But he was bitter at the prolonged problems he faced in trying to put a team together. "I spent all day Sunday trying to do it," he said.

"To me, if the All-Star game isn't any bigger than the people in it, I don't know what they're going to do."

Coach Billy Reay of the Chicago Black Hawk, directing the West for the fourth time with one win and two losses on his record, might be missing one player, Bill Goldsworthy of Minnesota, due to a jury, and if Goldsworthy can play, he will seek no re-ment.

But there have been no other roster changes on the selected West team.

"I'm not going to try anything special like matching up forward lines," Reay said. "I've got four forward lines and three sets of defensemen and I'm just going to rotate them."

Both Reay and Bowman paid tribute to one of the missing Easterners, Bobby Orr of Boston.

"He's the greatest in the game today without a doubt," Reay said. "He rises to the occasion and does everything well."

The game, the sixth between the East and West after 21 games matching the defending Stanley Cup champion against an All-Star squad, will be televised nationally, and there will be unlimited sudden death overtime if the regular playing time ends in a tie.

A record crowd of around 18,000 with a record All-Star gate of about $180,000 was expected.

Tech On Road Against Owls

By United Press International
The Southwest Conference leading Texas Tech Red Raiders play their second straight road game tonight, but playing the Rice Owls in Houston is not like most road games.

It is more like playing at a neutral site.

Tech will be going for its fifth conference victory without a loss, and with the right set of circumstances, the Red Raiders could open up a two-game lead on the field tonight.

Texas is currently alone in second place with a 3-1 record and must take on Texas A&M (2-2) at Austin in tonight's other major attraction. Elsewhere Arkansas is at Baylor (both are 2-2) and SMU is at TCU (both are 1-3).

Every coach in the conference with the exception of Tech's Gerald Myers will be pulling for Rice tonight, and Owl coach Don Knodel appreciates all the vocal support he can find.

"Our kids play better in front of crowds," Knodel said, "regardless of whether it is at home or on the road."

"Crowds are part of the game. Texas Tech and Texas gets big crowds because they have captive audiences (as compared with the 2,500 enrollment at Rice)."

"Whenever we get in front of big crowds we seem to play better. I just wish we had a little better crowd here at our place."

Rice's Atry Court, which has a capacity of 6,000 persons, is seldom half filled.

The Owls, however, have shown the capability of giving teams a bad time this year. Just last Saturday they forced Texas A&M to the wire before a record crowd at College Station before losing by one point.

Before taking on the Aggies last Saturday night, Knodel watched Tech edge Texas and saw a team he was used to seeing.

"They haven't changed much from last year," Knodel said of the Red Raiders. "They are a well balanced ball club that plays together. They realize their limitations and stay with their game plan and go to their strengths."

"And one ingredient they have that you need. They keep cool in tight situations."

"You have to shoot well against them. They only are going to give you just one shot with their front line. They are not only big, but they are physically strong. They take up a lot of real estate."

Even if Rice does not pull off the upset, Knodel would not be ready to concede the conference race to the Raiders.

"This is just the fifth game," he said. "There will be nine left and anything can happen. I think the teams at the bottom can still have a good shot at beating the teams at the top and that could make for an exciting race."

Vanderbilt, Bama Win In College Basketball

By United Press International
Vanderbilt and Alabama did nothing to ease the tight Southeastern Conference basketball race Tuesday night.

Seventh-ranked Vandy downed Kentucky, 82-85, and ninth-ranked Bama put away Florida, 98-79, as both teams upped their SEC records to 6-

1. And so the deadlock on first place will not likely be broken until Monday when the two teams collide at Tuscaloosa.

Elsewhere, Louisville edged Drake, 75-73, Oklahoma routed Nebraska, 85-63, Furman outlasted East Carolina, 88-80, Michigan upset Wisconsin, 83-75, and Michigan State put away Illinois, 93-82.

Jan van breda Kolff muscled in 22 points—20 in the second half—as Vanderbilt rallied from a two-point deficit at the intermission to defeat Kentucky on the Wildcats' home court.

Van breda Kolff also did his part defensively for the Commodores, shutting off Kentucky's inside game and holding the Wildcats' Bob Guyette to six second half points after he had gotten twice that many in the first half.

Alabama, paced by a 22-point performance by 6-10 Leon Douglas, maintained its share of the SEC lead by running up a 13-point halftime lead on Florida before coasting home with a comparatively easy win.

Louisville didn't have things quite as easy against stubborn Drake. The Cardinals' top scorer Allen Murphy fouled out with 8:40 to go, but they never allowed Drake to take the lead.

The slim two-point victory also enabled Louisville to maintain its hold on first place in the Missouri Valley Conference.

UCLA Tops Poll

NEW YORK (UPI) — If there is anything college basketball does not need, it is UCLA trying harder.

But, being No. 2, that's what the Bruins had to do Saturday against Notre Dame and the results were devastating.

It was an Irish wake as Notre Dame was trounced, 94-75, returning the United Press International Board of Coaches' No. 1 ranking to UCLA.

Three 'Oldies' To Join Hall Of Fame Aug. 12

NEW YORK (UPI) — For all of you who enjoyed the 1887 "World Series," you'll be happy to know that Sam Thompson has been named to the Hall of Fame.

Thompson, who played most of his career before the turn of the century, was named to the Hall of Fame Monday by the Committee on Baseball Veterans along with "Sunny Jim Bottomley" and umpire John B. "Jocko" Conlan.

Only Conlan of the three is still living. They will be inducted into the Hall of Fame Aug. 12 in Cooperstown, N.Y., along with former New York Yankee greats Mickey Mantle and Whitey Ford, who were elected earlier this month by the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Thompson's statistics look good but it's difficult these days to judge a guy who starred in 1887 when Detroit—then in the National League—played against the American Association St. Louis team in the "World Series." Of course, the modern day World Series didn't even start until 1903 when the American League—formed in 1901—met the National League, which dates its existence back to 1876.

Bottomley and Conlan are more familiar to longtime baseball fans. Bottomley, who died in 1959 at the age of 59, was a St. Louis Cardinal standout who led the National League in hitting in 1931 and in RBIs in 1928 and 1929. Conlan umpired for a quarter of a century before retiring in 1965.

Thompson starred in the 1887 World Series in Detroit's 10 games to five victory over St. Louis, batting .377.

Thyroid Enlargement Is Goiter

By G.C. THOSTESON, M.D.
Dear Dr. Thosteson: My granddaughter, 11, has an enlargement of the thyroid gland and is taking three little white pills a day. Some days you can see the enlargement very well, other times it is not so noticeable.

causes the white, foul-smelling particles that appear on my tonsils? What can I do to prevent them?

get closer than six feet to. If you don't believe this, let me ask you when was the last time you ran into a case of genuine bad breath?

She is very faithful in taking her pills and doesn't want it to get any larger. Will you answer these questions:

I've tried gargling and "attacking" them with cotton swabs and often they still do not dislodge. They are not patches of infection.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What would cause excessive sweating of the hands and feet? My sister's palms are usually dripping.

1-Can it get larger?
2-Will it be a goiter?
3-Will she need an operation?

There is really little you can do about the situation short of removal of the tonsils, which I would not recommend having done for such a relatively trivial reason.

The usual cause is excessive nervous tension.

1-Enlargement may or may not continue. Or it may subside - which obviously is the hope of the doctor who is treating her. That's why he has her on medication.

Eventually, of course, they simply disintegrate and disappear.

"Bad Breath Can Be Corrected" is the title of Dr. Thosteson's booklet explaining the causes and cure of bad breath. For a copy write to him in care of Publishers - Hall Syndicate, 401 N. Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill. 60611, enclosing a long, self-addressed (use zip code), stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

2-Goiter is enlargement of the thyroid, so let's say it in plain English: she has a goiter.

You had best start looking for a good mouth wash and breath mint.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

3-Since treatment is starting early, there is a better chance that medication will normalize the gland and she won't need surgery, but there are many things that cannot be predicted absolutely, and whether this will happen or not is one of them.

In my experience, though, most people who worry about mouth odors are their own worst critics. If all the letters I get from folks complaining about their bad breath were valid, then we would be a nation of people you wouldn't want to

I'D RATHER BE LIGHT TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Bobby Vinton reports that trading stamps are back at some gas stations. But now the customer doesn't get them - he gives them.

He was asked about his best friend Dean Martin Jr. and Liza Minnelli.

THE MIDNIGHT EARL... About "Bei Mir Beist Du Schoen" - whether it's Jewish or German - it appears that the original lyrics were Yiddish, written by Jacob Jacobs of Brooklyn, who's still receiving royalties; music by Sholem Secunda. English lyrics by Sammy Cahn and Saul Chaplin.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Comic Jackie Kannon insists he doesn't mind noisy audiences: "It's a sign that I'm improving. I used to get sleepy audiences."

"A lot of charges against Liza have been reduced," he said. "As for Liza, we still talk, we're good friends. If I have a chance, if she has a chance, we'll probably see each other."

Desi Jr. grinned in what seemed to be an appreciation of his father.

Country music is getting to be everybody's gig, it seems. Not only is there a new regular prime-time show ("Music Country USA") on the tube, but Dinah Shore will focus on Nashville, the country music center of the world in her special coming up April 7.
"It's my way of saying 'thank you' to Nashville, the place where I got my chance as a young girl," she explains.
Keep an ear out for Mara Lynn Brown who we think will be the next big female voice to rank right up there with Streisand, Midler and Minelli. (Distributed By Columbia Features, Inc.)

wealth is no guarantee of a happy marriage!

BIG GEORGE!

"I've already made a sorry mess of my life!"

Now I regret ever having broken my engagement to my college classmate, even though Mother prodded me into doing it!

"But it is partly Mother's fault, for she was always obsessed with my marrying a rich man."

Playboys are doubly dangerous marriage prospects! Why? Because they often have plenty of $$$ but little "sense" or gumption!

"So she contrived to have me introduced to wealthy playboys in our city."

That's often why their wealthy and indulgent parents place them on a cash allowance, for the parents know their sons are greenhorns at earning a living in their own right.

"However, in college I really fell in love with a poor boy who was working his way through school."

Moreover, if they have played around with many girls and thus have dissipated the idealism of true love, they soon get the wanderlust to start "chasing" again.

"He waited tables at our girls' dormitory and was such a gallant, industrious boy that I began to date him regularly."

Each succeeding sexual affair then gives them less erotic thrill than the preceding one, so they grow terrified lest they may be growing prematurely platonic.

"We were engaged in our senior year but Mother broke it up."

This sets up a panicky quest for the initial thrill they enjoyed with their first conquest.

"On the rebound, I met a playboy named Teddy at a New Year's Eve party."

A vicious circle ensues, for the more women they seduce, the less erotic excitement each one produces, thereby further frightening the scared male.

"A lot of drinking was going on, and this playboy suggested that we run away and get married."

Send for my "Tests for Sweethearts," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

"I was in such a mixed up state of mind and a little dizzy from a few drinks, so I finally agreed."

So I got a divorce. Dr. Crane, please warn your millions of readers that (Always write to Dr. Crane in care of The Worry Clinic, 401 N. Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill. 60611. Enclose a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Teaching Jobs

NEW YORK (UPI)—Teaching of the gifted and handicapped offers strong job opportunities, according to the Education Yearbook (Macmillan).

Despite the generally tight employment situation in education—surpluses in many teaching categories—there is an inadequate supply of properly trained tutors to staff programs for exceptional children. Individual state programs for such children range from modest expansion of existing programs to development and implementation of ambitious master plans. During the past two years a number of states have established target dates of five years or less for providing full service programs for all eligible children and young adults in the exceptional grouping.

Canning Production High
SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI)—The California canning industry produces more than 200 million cases of canned fruit and vegetables annually. It supplies the nation with about 35 per cent of its annual consumption of these products.
