January Wholesale Prices Increase Eight-Tenths Of 1%

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices jumped another eight-tenths of one per cent in January. The rise exactly matched December's increase and indicated that the expected Phase 2 price bulge has not yet begun to flatten out.

When adjusted for the usual seasonal trends, the rise in the wholesale index was only half as great, or four-tenths of one per cent, the Labor Department's announcement said.

The seasonal improvement resulted from a smaller climb in food and farm products, which rose 3.2 per cent in December—the biggest increase for those items in 10 months—and 1.3 per cent in January.

But there was no comfort for administration economists in the segment of the index that covers industrial materials and commodities. It increased five-tenths of one per cent, compared with four-tenths of one per cent in December. The industrial commodities are considered a better indicator of future price movements at retail than the food and farm prices, whose movements are more erratic.

White House economists had predicted substantial increases in both December and January, the first two full months following the end of the 90-day price-wage freeze. Early decisions by the Price Commission gave a green light to substantial adjustments of prices frozen since Aug. 15.

The wholesale price showing was disappointing nevertheless because consumer prices rose only one-tenth of one per cent in January, or three-tenths of one per cent after seasonal adjustment. This movement, announced Wednesday, was a distinct improvement in the cost of living increase from December when the jump was four-tenths of one per cent, or a rate of 4.8 per cent of a year.

The new wholesale figures suggested that more consumer price increases lie ahead, because the portion of the index devoted to consumer finished goods rose four-tenths of one per cent. This represents a sampling of commodities which closely resemble those in the commodity segment of the consumer price index.

Of the 15 major commodity groups measured by the wholesale index, 13 rose from December to January. 2 showed no change, and none declined.

The index for all commodities stood at 116.3 per cent of the 1967 average, or 4 per cent above a year earlier.

However, the inflation rate was still within bounds of President Nixon's goal of keeping price increases limited to 2 to 3 per cent a year, thanks to the stringent three-month freeze period.

In the five months following announcement of the freeze in August, the wholesale price index has risen at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 2.2 per cent. Farm products and processed foods and feeds soared 5.5 per cent in that period, but industrial commodity prices rose only eight-tenths of one per cent after allowing for seasonal trends.

Nixon And Chou Stress Better U.S.-China Ties

Two Leaders Make Pledges At Banquet

PEKING (AP) — Premier Chou En-lai pledged tonight that China "will work unswervingly" for normal relations and friendly contacts with the United States.

At a dinner in his honor, the Chinese leader responded to a toast in which President Nixon declared: "We have begun the long process of removing that wall between us."

Seated at round tables in the Great Hall of the People, the Chou and Nixon exchanged a nine-course meal of Chinese food except for grapefruit and orange segments flown from the United States. They sipped California champagne.

Nixon began the toasting by expressing appreciation for the Chinese hospitality shown the Americans the five days they have been in Peking.

Chou and Nixon came to the dinner from their fifth and final meeting, at which they presumably reached agreement on improving contacts through cultural and other exchanges, with diplomatic relations some time in the future.

Recalling his visit Thursday to the Great Wall of China, Nixon said the wall showed "the determination of the Chinese people to retain their independence throughout their long history."

"The Great Wall is no longer a wall dividing China from the rest of the world," he continued. "But it is a reminder of the fact that there are many walls still existing in the world, which divide nations and peoples."

"The Great Wall is also a reminder that for almost a generation there has been a wall between the People's Republic of China and the United States. In these past four days, we have begun the long process of removing that wall between us."

Nixon conceded that both sides recognize there are great differences between the United States and China.

"But we are determined that those differences will not prevent us from living together in peace," he went on. "You believe deeply in your system and we believe just as deeply in our system. It is not our common belief that have brought us together here, but our common interests and hopes."

Nixon and Chou applauded each other during the toasts.

Chou began by noting that Nixon had met with him and Chairman Mao Tse-tung and "we exchanged views on the normalization of relations between China and the United States and on other questions of concern to the two sides."

"There exist great differences of principle between our two sides," Chou noted. "Through earnest and frank discussions, a clearer knowledge of each other's positions and stands has been gained."

Noting the exchanges had been beneficial for both, Chou continued: "The times are advancing and the world is changing. We are deeply convinced that the strength of the peoples is powerful and that whatever zigzags and reverses there will be in the development of history, the general trend of the world is definitely toward light and not darkness.

"It is the common desire of the Chinese and American peoples to enhance their mutual understanding and promote the normalization of relations between China and the United States. The Chinese government and people will work unswervingly toward this goal."

The champagne was served in White House glasses bearing the presidential seal and flown from Washington. Many of the Chinese guests took them as souvenirs.

White-jacketed waiters and waitresses distributed presidential gifts to all those present. The gift was a clear plastic paperweight with Nixon's card imbedded.

The toasts seemed more lowkey than those voiced at the banquet Chou gave the presidential party Monday night when both talked of opening the gates to friendly contacts.

Before the banquet the Nixons toured the fabled Peking palace of China's emperors during a snowstorm.

Arrest May Be Next For Irving And His Wife

NEW YORK (AP) — Clifford Irving and his wife Edith have opened themselves to possible arrest or contempt citations as a result of their failure to appear in state Supreme Court for examination in two lawsuits.

Irving had been subpoenaed for pretrial questioning Thursday in a libel suit against himself and Dell Publishing Co. filed by art dealer Fernand Legros who claims Irving's book "Fake!" defamed him.

Mrs. Irving had been ordered to appear for examination about Irving's disputed Howard Hughes "autobiography" in a suit filed by Rosemont Enterprises, a Nevada firm that claims exclusive rights to Hughes' life story.

As a result of their failure to respond to the subpoenas, attorneys for the plaintiffs could seek warrants for their arrest or for contempt citations.

In another matter, the appellate division of the state Supreme Court upheld a lower court ruling permitting Time magazine to print up to 1,000 words of Irving's book but did not act on the question of whether it could print any more.

Probers Call Witnesses At McKee Investigation

Dallas (AP) — Mrs. Charlotte Heller, an attractive brunette, was one of the first to appear in the grand jury witness room today as probers began their investigation of the John McKee case.

McKee, recently resigned president of the Dallas Crime Commission and a prominent Mason, has been charged with embezzling $6,722 from the Scottish Rite Dallas Lodge of Perfection.

Police sources said that the checks were for partial payment for two automobiles, one of which was located at a residence owned by McKee in Irving, a Dallas suburb. Mrs. Heller is residing in the house.

Mrs. Heller glared at photographers as their lights flashed. She whispered to her lawyer as they went into the grand jury witness room.

Among other witnesses who arrived were Henry S. Miller and Dan Matise, Dallas real estate men, and Charles Smith, president of the Grand Avenue Bank and Trust Co. McKee was a director of the bank until recently.

Neither McKee nor Lee Lockwood of Waco were seen through the early stages of the inquiry. Lockwood is sovereign grand inspector general of the Texas Scottish Rite, an organization within the Masonic order. The charges specify that the alleged embezzlement was from Lockwood.

Earlier, Dallas Police Chief Frank Dyson and Dist. Atty. Henry Wade said in a news conference that McKee's real name is James Kell Zullinger and that he deserted the Navy in the 1920s.

A major area of investigation is expected to concern Paul Prasifka, McKee's son-in-law who participated in financial arrangements for both the Scottish Rite bodies' revolving fund and the Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children.

C. F. Jesse, executive vice president of the hospital, said last week that Prasifka had been relieved of duties as secretary of the endowment division of the hospital "because of his connection with a shortage in the Dallas County Scottish Rites Bodies and not because of any matters involving the hospital."

Judge Harold Bateman, who headed an internal Scottish Rite investigating committee, was quoted in the minutes of a hospital board meeting as stating that an employee had admitted "unauthorized borrowing" from the revolving fund. No official action has been reported in the matter.

The Internal Revenue Service disclosed Wednesday that it is studying records at the hospital—as a routine background check on McKee, according to hospital officials.

The hospital endowment fund of which Prasifka was secretary dealt in some real estate, but the annual audit showed no irregularities.

Reports about some bank stock transactions have circulated, but stock experts have said nothing appears illegal.

McKee has made no direct public comment since he was identified by officers as Zullinger. McKee denied the allegations through a secretary.

Bonn Pays Hijackers $5 Million

BONN (AP) — Transport Minister Georg Leber announced today the West German government paid a $5 million ransom to secure the release of the hijacked Lufthansa jumbo jet and its 14 crew members.

Leber told a news conference that a Lufthansa security official handled the payment of the money to members of an Arab guerrilla organization in Beirut.

He said the money was handed over Wednesday afternoon about 25 miles from Beirut airport, several hours after a deadline set by the hijackers, who threatened to blow up the plane and its crew.

"It was like a perfect thriller plot," Leber said.

He said the money was the only demand made by the five hijackers, who say they were members of an organization called the Victims of Zionist Occupation, a "daughter organization" of the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine. The Popular Front is the organization that has been responsible for previous airline hijackings.

The airliner was hijacked over India Monday night with 189 people aboard and diverted to Aden on the southern tip of the Arabian peninsula.

Leber said the hijackers' demands became known late Tuesday afternoon when Lufthansa's Cologne headquarters received a letter which had been posted in Cologne that morning.

GIs Fight Biggest Battle In South Vietnam In Months

SAIGON (AP) — American ground troops today fought their biggest battle in months, a clash with North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces 42 miles east of Saigon.

First reports from the U.S. Command said 21 Americans were wounded but none killed in the five-hour battle south of an American artillery base called Cross Sabers.

Enemy losses were not immediately known.

A spokesman for the U.S. Command, Maj. Chester Hanson, said the casualties were the heaviest since last July 5, when five Americans were killed and 38 wounded in a rocket attack on the Da Nang air base.

Fighting broke out at 3rd when a company of the 3rd Brigade, 1st Air Cavalry Division, engaged an enemy force of unknown size and exchanged small arms and automatic weapons fire.

The ground troops called in U.S. bombers, helicopter gunships and artillery to blast the enemy. Hanson said the fighting broke off just before dusk, but U.S. fighter-bombers continued to pound the area.

Meanwhile, U.S. military sources said heavy U.S. air strikes against three major enemy base camps along South Vietnam's western border in mid-February knocked out more than 200 trucks and destroyed large quantities of ammunition and fuel.

The sources reported, however, they could not say how the raids had affected enemy plans for an offensive in South Vietnam's central highlands, which has been predicted for several weeks by U.S. officials.

In other battlefield action reported today, enemy forces ambushed a 35-vehicle U.S. convoy in the central highlands and shot down a helicopter flying overhead. The U.S. Command said seven Americans were wounded and three vehicles damaged, but only minor damage was done to the helicopter.

Five more U.S. troops were wounded 13 miles southwest of Da Nang when an American helicopter gunship accidentally fired into their position while trying to drive off an enemy squad which engaged the U.S. patrol. A sixth man was wounded by the enemy, whose losses were not known. The command said the accidental firing is under investigation.

The U.S. Command also issued its weekly summary of aircraft losses, and this one revealed the crash of a Navy F4 Phantom into the Tonkin Gulf due to engine trouble a week ago, the loss of a small Army OV1 reconnaissance plane in the Mekong Delta four days ago and the loss of two helicopters elsewhere during the week.

The summary said three crewmen were killed and one injured in the four crashes.

Israeli Planes, Tanks Hit Southern Lebanon

TEL AVIV (AP) — New Israeli raids were reported in southern Lebanon today in retaliation for guerrilla attacks as U.N. mediator Gunnar V. Jarring arrived in Israel in an effort to revive his deadlocked peace mission.

Residents in southern Lebanon reported that Israeli planes and tanks struck in three areas.

There was no immediate confirmation from the Lebanese or Israeli governments, but Beirut Radio interrupted a religious program to broadcast a message for "security forces in remote areas" to "beware, snakes in Zion 10."

Arab guerrillas killed a young married couple in a bazooka ambush just below the border early Thursday, and infiltrators in another attack later in the day killed a soldier and wounded seven others. Lt. Gen. David Elazar, Israel's chief of staff, warned the Lebanese government that reprisals were likely unless it curbed the guerrillas.

Reports reaching Beirut said an Israeli ground force of about 200 men backed by armor moved across the border at dawn into Aitaroun and Ainata, two villages two and three miles inside Lebanese territory.

Israeli planes meanwhile attacked the town of Rachaya-Foukhar, in the southeast corner of the country on the lower slopes of Mt. Hermon, these reports said.

Initial reports said the invaders blew up several houses in Aitaroun and Ainata in the belief that they were used by the guerrillas.

Coal Miners In Britain Back On Job

LONDON (AP) — Britain's 280,000 coal miners ended their nationwide strike today, casting an overwhelming majority vote that guaranteed a speedy windup of the power crisis disrupting Britain's economy and idling millions.

The miners voted 210,039 to 7,581 to accept a big pay offer from the National Coal Board. The offer of a 20 per cent pay increase was based on the recommendations of a government-appointed court of inquiry. Miners were earning an average of $49.50 weekly before the strike.

The miners will go back to work Monday.

The vote was taken over the past two days and the results, announced today, meant that officials could go ahead with plans for an industrial recovery after coal begins returning to power generating stations.

Government officials said power cuts were expected to continue for several weeks, until coal supplies are built up at power stations.

fabulous travels to China in the 13th century missed seeing the wall and it was not until 1793 that the western world was to learn details of it.

The Mongol dynasty was succeeded by the Ming which lasted from 1368 until 1644. Then the troops of the Northern Manchus penetrated the wall under a ruse of helping the Mings against their enemies. Once inside the wall however, they pressed southward conquering all in their path and established the Ching dynasty, the last of China's 26 dynasties dating back 5,000 years through the reigns of nearly 300 sovereigns.

Pampa Museum Shows Fragment From Great Wall Where Nixon Visits

Many Pampans watching the television report of President Nixon's visit to the historic Great Wall of China this week were unaware that an artifact of that same 2,200-year-old wonder of the ancient world is one of the rare items on display at the White Deer Land Museum here in Pampa. It is owned by Tracy D. Cary chairman of the Gray County Historical Survey Committee.

The small fragment of mortar was obtained on a visit to China in 1915 by Cary's father, the late Judge C. I. Cary, during the time he was stationed in the Philippine Islands with the United States Department of Education. It was obtained at a location some 20 miles north of Peking at a place where the Wall had been intentionally and destructively broken to make way for a road... news reports indicate this is the same approximate location which President and Mrs. Nixon visited this week.

The Gray County historical researcher provided the following piece of Chinese history on the Great Wall:

"When Tsin Shih Whang Ti, then Prince Cheng in the state of Chin, became 'Whang' or Emperor in 221 B. C. he soon brought three contending minor vassal states of North China into subjection and linked together the four

Dowdy's Wife Seeking Election To Congress

WASHINGTON (AP)—The wife of convicted Rep. John Dowdy is returning to Texas today, seeking votes of vindication. She hopes to follow the pattern set 48 years ago by the legendary Ma Ferguson.

Mrs. Dowdy, known as J. D., doesn't think the comparison is apt but says many people are making it.

A Baltimore federal court has convicted Dowdy of bribery charges and this week sentenced him to 18 months in prison and a $25,000 fine.

Dowdy said bad health is keeping him from seeking reelection. His wife decided to run instead, saying she got between 500 and 1,000 telegrams, letters and calls from friends urging her to take up the banner.

"I think if I got a large vote it would be a vote of confidence for him," Mrs. Dowdy said.

She said her initial sampling of constituent sentiment showed the conviction of Dowdy might work in her favor.

"I find that so many of them are really mad about it," she said. "They feel like I do, too. I don't think it was a fair trial."

Mrs. Dowdy said she doesn't think her candidacy can be separated from the trial. And, pressed for what she planned to say in this respect, she typed out this statement:

"The trial of my husband is not over. It will not be finished until the U.S. Supreme Court has an opportunity to review the very peculiar features of it. We believe the Supreme Court will establish rulings which will help to insure justice and fairness for you, if YOU should ever be falsely accused."

The idea of vindication for an alleged wrong done to a spouse is what propelled Ma Ferguson into the governor's chair in 1924.

The Texas Legislature impeached and convicted Gov. Jim Ferguson in 1917, technically for taking a $150,000 "loan" from brewers. The action came soon after Ferguson had vetoed appropriations for the University of Texas.

His wife won election, according to history buff Rep. W. R. Poage, "strictly on a platform of vindication for old Jim. And the people vindicated Jim, by a very substantial vote."

Mrs. Ferguson served two years; was defeated, won election again in 1932 and again was defeated after two years.

"I see a great deal of similarity today," said Poage, a Waco Democrat.

"Sure, I think she has a chance," he said. "I think it is a very similar issue. It could be an issue in East Texas for a great time to come."

Dowdy was charged with taking a $25,000 bribe from a nowdefunct home-repair firm in exchange for help in squelching a federal probe of the company.

The veteran East Texas conservative says however, that his enemies in the District of Columbia got even with him for his years of what he calls "crime-fighting efforts" as a member of the D.C. Committee.

Approximately 100 students from Pampa High School, Pampa Junior High and Lee Junior High will compete in the University Interscholastic League music contests at West Texas State University in Canyon tomorrow.

Contestants will enter scheduled events in vocal solo, ensemble and piano solo categories. The students will perform before judges who will rate them from poor to superior.

Dallas Sheriff Issues Alert For Suspect In Six Murders

DALLAS (AP)—Cities on the West Coast have been alerted by the Dallas County sheriff's department to be on the lookout for a murder suspect who may hit their areas in the near future.

The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal told of the development in its Friday edition.

Dallas authorities say the suspect may be connected with the murders of five women and one man in Salt Lake City, Utah; Lakewood, Colo.; and Lubbock and Mesquite, Tex.

The alert was in a confidential bulletin sent Thursday by Dallas Sheriff Clarence Jones to cities in California, Oregon, Utah and Texas.

This bulletin was the result of three days of efforts by police officers from Texas, Colorado and Utah, who gathered in Dallas to pool their information about a series of murders since last August which had striking similarities.

For one thing, all victims were shot with .32 caliber weapons, apparently German-made.

Also, most of the killings were carried out in drive-in grocery stores between 8 and 10 p.m.

The bulletin warned cities of 50,000 and more on the West Coast to expect "the same type of offense within a time period of 10 to 30 days following Feb. 19, 1972.

The killings occurred Aug. 12 in Salt Lake City, Aug. 20 in Lakewood, Sept. 28 in Lubbock, two in Mesquite on Oct. 17 and one more in Mesquite on Oct. 20.

Jones indicated in the bulletin that information pooled by the peace officers indicates that the murders are the work of one person.

The suspect indicated that the suspect may be traveling in any direction from Portland, Ore.

The Red River Valley in the border country between Minnesota and North Dakota usually has the coldest winters south of Canada.

Insurance Company Men Attack Idea Creating 'Guaranty Fund'

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A Texas consumer advocate strongly backed legislation Thursday to guarantee policyholders something more than apologies when life insurance companies go broke.

Executives of two leading Texas-based companies, however, attacked the idea of a "kitty" to pay off claims of defunct firms.

The testimony was before an interim legislator-citizen study committee chaired by State Insurance Commissioner Clay Cotten.

"Why should the policyholder be the one to bear the burden of an insurance company failure? ... They are the ones who are least able to bear it," said Joe K. Longley, chairman of the Texas Consumer Association's legislative committee.

Longley endorsed Cotten's proposal requiring all insurance companies that sell life and medical insurance in Texas to hold a certain amount of their funds in trust. The money would be used as a "guaranty fund" to pay claims of policyholders against insolvent insurance companies.

Ben H. Carpenter of Dallas, board chairman of Southland Life Insurance Co., denounced the plan as a "poor political expedient."

"This is locking a barn door after the horse has been stolen, and then assessing the neighbors for contributions to buy a new horse, and at the same time permitting other barn doors to remain unlocked," Carpenter said.

Carpenter said the answer to insolvent companies lay in an "early warning system" and in raising the number of state examiners who probe for weak spots in insurance companies.

"There is nothing to stop someone from taking the money and stock and going south with it is there?" asked Sen. Murray Watson of Waco, who sponsored an unsuccessful guaranty fund bill last year.

"There is no way you can prevent crookedness," Carpenter replied.

Watson said he had never seen Carpenter testify before legislative committees in favor of larger appropriations to hire insurance examiners.

"I hope you show as much interest in testifying before the House Appropriations Committee as you have in testifying against the policyholders of Texas," Watson said.

Longley said 45 companies in Texas had gone into receivership in the past nine years, with a resultant loss to policyholders and their beneficiaries of at least $40 million.

"Are you connected with Ralph Nader?" asked one committee member, W. H. Seay, president of Southwestern Life Insurance Co. and president of the Texas Life Convention.

"He is a member of our association, but other than that, I don't know of any connection," Longley replied.

Seay also asked Longley if he thought the Texas Consumer Association should bail out its Oklahoma counterpart if it went broke.

"I sure would if they were in the business of writing insurance," Longley replied.

Cotten told the committee the purpose of the "guaranty fund" proposal was to "establish confidence among the public that when they purchase an insurance policy ... they will be fully protected ... just like a depositor in a bank is protected by the FDIC (Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.)."

"This is a very small price for the insurance industry in this state to pay for the confidence of the public," he said.

State Insurance Board Chairman Larry Teaver said he thought a means could be found to remove what he called "inequities" involved in the payment by strong companies for the mismanagement of weak ones.

Hanoi Blasts Nixon's Trip

HONG KONG (AP) — North Vietnam today made its first comment on President Nixon's visit to China, and it was an adverse one but did not mention China by name.

Nhan Dan, the newspaper of the North Vietnamese Communist party, accused the Nixon administration of "dark plotting to carry out continued U.S. neocolonialist war in South Vietnam and throughout the Indochina peninsula."

Then, in an obvious reference to the President's trip, Nhan Dan said: "Never before has there been a war when a U.S. president has had to run to the East and his vice president to the West."

"And never before has a president gone to an international meeting in an area which before was a very strange place for a great majority of all American people."

Sharp Reported To Have Tried To Build Up Speaker For Race

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Houston promoter Frank Sharp was grooming Speaker Gus Mutscher in 1969 for a statewide race this year. The Associated Press learned Thursday.

Sharp asked Vance Newell, Houston public relations counselor, to advise him on how a Mutscher campaign should be organized.

Newell replied in a confidential letter dated Sept. 17, 1969. Sharp sent Mutscher a copy of the letter on Sept. 19—10 days after the passage of two banking bills Sharp sought. The state alleges that Mutscher took a bribe from Sharp to push the bills through the legislature.

Gov. Preston Smith vetoed the bills 10 days after Sharp sent Newell's letter to Mutscher.

The letter does not specify which statewide race was being considered, but apparently it was either the governorship or the lieutenant governorship.

"A little money at the right time for a legislative candidate can pay dividends," Newell wrote.

He recommended that two "bright" assistants be hired at a total of $50,000 a year, plus expenses, to begin work in 1970 on a statewide campaign for Mutscher in 1972.

This would be worth more, he said, than $500,000 injected into a campaign in its final weeks.

Mutscher should avoid projecting an image that Newell said Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes was acquiring: a young man in too big a hurry.

Newell said he would like to handle Mutscher's campaign. Apparently the idea soured for Sharp after Smith vetoed the banking bills.

The bills would have permitted state banks, including Sharp's bank in Houston, to avoid federal bank examiners.

Texas Filing Fee Law Ruled Unconstitutional

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled Thursday that a Texas state law requiring candidates in local primary elections to pay filing fees sometimes as high as $9,900 is unconstitutional.

Upholding a lower court ruling, the justices said the Texas filing fee scheme discriminates against candidates who would otherwise be qualified to run for county judges, county commissioner or other similar offices. They are barred, the court said, simply by their inability to pay.

The opinion written by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger said, "many potential office-seekers lacking both personal wealth and affluent backers are in every practical sense precluded from seeking the nomination of their chosen party, no matter how qualified they might be and no matter how broad or enthusiastic their popular support."

Today In History

By Associated Press

Today is Friday, Feb. 25, the 56th day of 1972. There are 310 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1793, George Washington met at his home with the heads of the various U.S. government departments. It was the first recorded Cabinet meeting.

On this date: In 1783, Denmark recognized U.S. independence. In 1836, the Colt revolver—the first practical gun of its kind—was patented. In 1913, the 16th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution went into effect, giving Congress authority to levy income taxes. In 1919, Oregon became the first state to tax gasoline. In 1927, inhabitants of the American Virgin Islands were granted U.S. citizenship. In 1956, Nikita Khrushchev went before a Communist party congress in Moscow and denounced the late Soviet dictator, Joseph Stalin.

Ten years ago: It was announced that the Soviets were, for the first time, behind in their payments to the regular budget of the United Nations.

Five years ago: The man claiming to be the "Boston strangler," was captured in a Lynn, Mass., store 24 hours after his escape from a mental institution.

One year ago: President Nixon said in his State of the World report that heavy U.S. help might be needed for military operations against Communists in Laos and Cambodia.

Today's birthdays: Democratic Sen. John L. McClellan of Arkansas is 76. Former Beale George Harrison is 29.

Thought for today: Nothing is ever accomplished by a reasonable man—George Bernard Shaw, British writer, 1856-1950.

1971 Termed A Bumper Year For Texas Animal Diseases

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Seems like every time a farmer wanted to move one of his barnyard critters last year the state or federal government slapped a quarantine on him.

It was a bumper year for animal diseases in Texas, according to figures compiled by the Animal Health Commission.

In 1970, there were quarantines for only two diseases, hog cholera and scabies.

Sixty-four quarantines clamped a lid on movement of swine. Two premises in Deaf Smith County were quarantined for scabies, a virus that attacks cows.

In 1971, the disease count jumped to six: anthrax, fever ticks, hog cholera, Newcastle disease, scabies and Venezuelan equine encephalomyelitis (VEE).

The big one was VEE, which rode mosquitoes across the Mexican border and is estimated to have killed more than 1,400 horses.

The state quarantined 13 counties along the border, then together with the federal government quarantined the entire state.

The number of hog cholera quarantines declined slightly, from 64 to 57, but the number of counties effected climbed from 33 to 49.

Five ranches in Maverick County were placed under quarantine last spring for anthrax, a virus that kills red blood cells in cattle, sheep, goats, horses and other mammals, including man.

A portion of Cameron County was quarantined for fever ticks, which also attack red blood cells.

Thirty-four counties were placed under a scabies quarantine.

On the next to last day of 1971, the federal government quarantined a portion of El Paso County because of an outbreak of Newcastle disease, which wipes out whole flocks of chickens.

WOODBURY, N.Y. (AP)—The Long Island Restaurant and Catering Association, representing 120 establishments, has boycotted French wine, liquors and brandies in an effort to have the French government deal more forcefully with the heroin problem.

The group said the main source of supply of heroin came from drugs imported from Turkey, processed in Marseilles, France, and then distributed illegally throughout the world.

House Approves Foreign Aid Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House today passed a $3.2-billion money appropriation for foreign aid and related agencies—the last step in Congress' four-month foreign aid battle—and sent it to the Senate for final action.

Sen. William Proxmire indicated the Senate might vote on sending the bill to President Nixon before the end of the day.

The measure appropriates $2.62 billion for foreign aid itself and the rest for related programs including $72 million for the Peace Corps.

It restores $86 million for the United Nations' own foreign program, from which the House had voted to withhold the entire 1972 U.S. contribution, and international bank money the House had sharply curbed.

AND NOW it's Barbara Jo Brimmer of Hyde Park, N.Y., who wants to break new ground for women in a previously man's world—as a midshipwoman at Annapolis. Nominated as a naval academy candidate by Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., she's the second coed candidate for the Naval Academy, following Valerie Shoen of the University of Michigan.

U.S. Astronomers Believe Titan Warmer Than Originally Thought

HOUSTON (AP)—Astronomers from the University of Texas and the University of Hawaii say they have discovered that Titan, the largest moon of Saturn, has a more massive atmosphere and is warmer than originally thought.

Dr. Laurence M. Trafton, a member of the UT astronomy department, said spectrographic analysis of light received from Titan by the 107-inch UT telescope at McDonald Observatory near Fort Davis indicates the atmosphere on the 2900-mile diameter body is at least 10 times more dense than previously suspected. He also said the atmosphere appears thicker than the atmosphere on Mars.

Dr. David Morrison of the Institute of Astronomy at the University of Hawaii said infrared measurements made through another telescope in Hawaii of the heat emitted by the large satellite show that temperatures at the top of Titan's atmosphere is about 290 degrees below zero Fahrenheit. He said it warms up to a minus 160 degrees on the surface.

Morrison said the surface temperature is about 90 degrees warmer than it would be if Titan's atmosphere were as thin as originally thought.

"The situation is one that we don't understand fully but this kind of temperature variation certainly gives evidence for there being quite a massive atmosphere," Morrison said.

However, he doubts that Titan is warm enough to sustain any sort of life, although the new results solidify Titan's reputation as being one of the oddest of oddballs in the solar system.

So far as is known, Titan is the only satellite that has an atmosphere. However, it is not the largest moon as Jupiter's Ganymede is a few hundred miles larger in diameter.

Dr. Gerald P. Kuiper discovered the existence of an atmosphere on Titan at McDonald Observatory in 1944.

Trafton estimates that the minimum surface pressure on Titan is about 10 to 11 millibars, about twice that of Mars, although Mars is larger than Titan.

A millibar is a thousandth of the standard atmospheric pressure at sea level on Earth, about 14.7 pounds per square inch.

"The mystery is how could Titan have so much atmosphere," Trafton said. "Perhaps this is outgassing from the interior of Titan."

A Little Inflation Is A Good Thing?

By JOHN CUNNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Do you remember when people used to say that a little inflation is a good thing? It keeps the economy moving, makes people work hard, gives them a little extra reward. That's what they said.

It wasn't too long ago either. When an economy is bogged down people begin to talk that way and, in response, political leaders begin to put such thoughts into action. They seek to spend the economy into action.

Inevitably, however, every- one a bit of inflation now realize the extent of the chain reaction as one segment of the economy feels the pressure of higher costs and so raises its prices in order to maintain balance.

The return to equilibrium is almost unattainable without government intervention and most likely also a recession.

In that sense, the ordinary American of 1972 is a lot smarter than his counterpart of 1966. He has lived through the cycle and probably will never forget it.

But population changes constantly and that means that the ordinary American of 1972 will be a stranger in 1982, when Americans who have not lived through the boom-bust cycle will be in a position to experiment.

Meanwhile, the postrecession economy does seem to be struggling painfully and slowly toward balance. The consumer price index receded last month to an annual rate of only 3.6 per cent, a one-month drop of 1.2 per cent.

But the results will long be with us. Among them: —About 25 cents has been pared from the value of money since 1967, which means that insurance policies, savings bonds, savings accounts and pensions have been seriously impaired.

—The economy has lost a great deal of its freedom of action and, judging by past involvement of government in what are considered free enterprise areas, the same degree of freedom may never be regained.

—Joblessness remains stuck at more than 6 per cent and seemingly cannot be sharply reduced without the danger of re-inflation.

Even with an inflation rate of 3 per cent or so the value of money is cut in half in about 25 years. Like the compounding of interest, inflation builds upon previous inflation.

As a rule of thumb, you can estimate the half-life of currency, or the time that must elapse before 50 per cent of value is lost, by dividing the rate of inflation into 72.

A steady one per cent rate means that the dollar will lose half its value in 70 years. If a two per cent rate is maintained the dollar is cut to half in about 35 years. At three per cent the time period is a bit less than 24 years, and so on.

By using that formula one can easily see that the current 3.6 per cent rate is satisfactory only in relation to what went before. It means that in something like 20 years $1 becomes 50 cents.

Many people didn't like to hear this six years ago. Families were upwardly mobile on the economic scale and, unconsciously perhaps, felt that a little inflation would help redistribute the wealth that they eagerly sought.

No doubt that inflation did help do this. It took from the conservatives and rewarded the speculators. Fortunes were made during the 1960s and many of them have been retained. But many more people were hurt than were helped.

It hardly can be denied that if somebody takes 25 cents from your dollar he hasn't helped you.

More Than A Starlet, Less Than A Star

NEW YORK (NEA)—Fran Jeffries has been prancing around the fingers of stardom for 15 years, singing, dancing, acting and being described as "sultry."

She has played most of the country's top-line supper clubs and resort spots, cut a few records, been in a handful of movies, appeared on the big network TV shows, been featured in a Playboy magazine spread and in general spent nearly half of her 32-year-old life working hard at becoming an overnight success.

"What I would really like is to have some fans," she says with a slight sigh of frustration. "I would like to have some people who would give me a little respect and recognition as a singer, who would buy my records and who would come to see Fran Jeffries, not to see how she looks or what she is wearing or if she is sexy but to listen to me sing."

She is a singer of considerable and versatile talent whose style falls somewhere in the musical twilight zone between pop and jazz. But her dark deep eyes and lithe body trapped her into the sexpot syndrome, which has led her to inject modified go-go dancing into her act, almost but not quite in spite of herself.

During a three-week stint she began here at the snugly opulent Rainbow Grill on Valentine's Day ("a sultry singer appropriately opening February 14th with songs of love"), she appeared in a pants outfit that was hardly demure and punctuated her act with dancing that was either sensuous or extraneous.

Television And Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

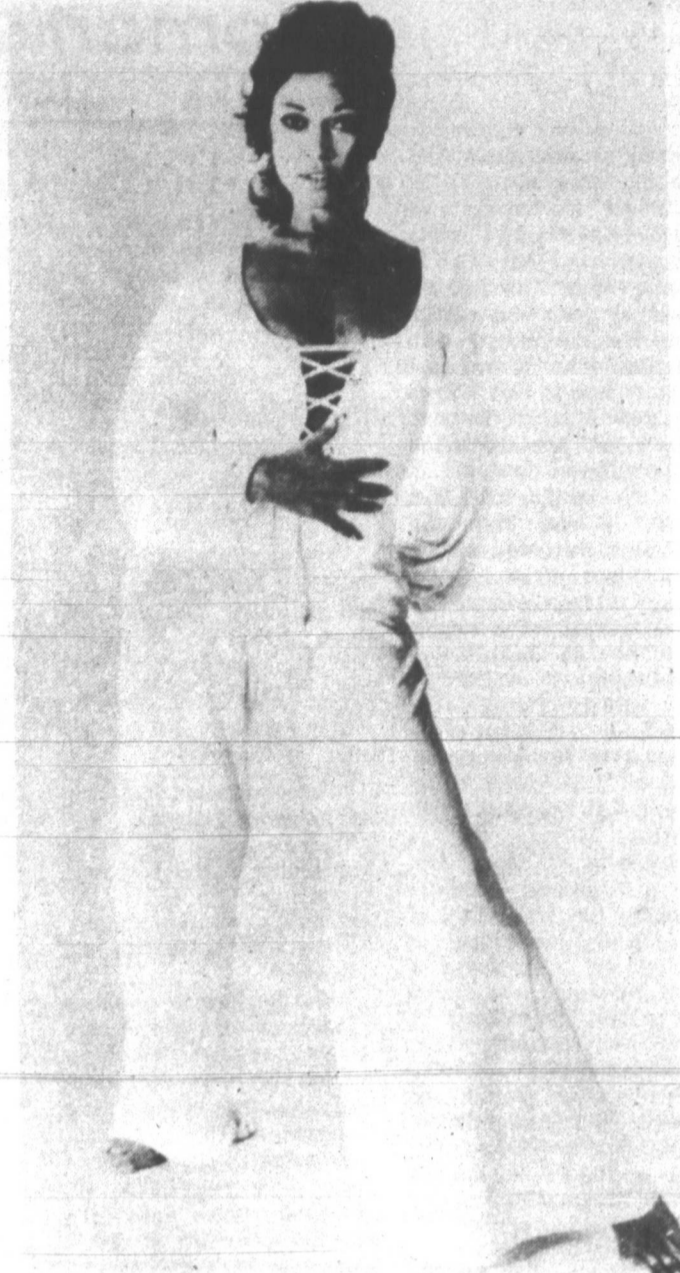

NEW YORK (AP) — High point of the television week for adult lovers of macabre, strange and weird stories has to be Wednesday's "Night Gallery" on NBC.

In earlier days, Alfred Hitchcock's half-hour series often spun playful, mischievous horror tales: Rod Serling's contemporary approach is sober and serious, often heightening the effect. It certainly did that in the pair of eerie presentations on the hour this week.

First came a spooky story set in a primitive, famine-beset section of the British Isles, full of damp mists and strange accents. A starving man agreed, on promise of food and three gold pieces, to eat from the chest of a corpse awaiting burial. It was based on a custom called "sin-eating"—the dead man's sins were transferred with the food to another person.

This jolly segment was followed by one about robots in human form programmed to perform menial functions. One vicious couple attempted to torture their pretty robot housemaid, resulting in a revolt of the machine. The revenge was a snapper ending with a Hitchcock twist.

The stories are usually beautifully cast with talented performers—Geraldine Page, Cloris Leachman and Broderick Crawford were among the actors Wednesday night, but there is a strange kind of violence about the series.

Change is in the wind at both NBC and ABC.

James Stewart and "The Jimmy Stewart Show" will not return after this season. The situation comedy, a big disappointment to viewers as well as the star, never has done well.

Johnny Carson's desire to move "The Tonight Show" to Hollywood has been fulfilled. NBC has given the green light to the shift of the show's base to the Burbank studios starting May 1. All of Carson's key people, including Ed McMahon, will move with him.

This should be a break for ABC's "Dick Cavett Show" as far as booking nonshow-business guests is concerned.

Carson's departure means another loss to New York as a TV entertainment production center. Just about all that is left in the East now is a handful of daytime game shows and a number of soap operas.

Tom Kennedy of the syndicated daytime game show, "It's Your Bet," seen on NBC's owned and operated stations as well as elsewhere, will quit the show. He will be replaced March 6 by Lyle Waggoner, the body beautiful on "The Carol Burnett Show."

Tom will jump into the host's spot on ABC's new game show, "Split Second." It starts March 20, replacing reruns of Mario Thomas' "That Girl."

making a comeback. But neither the marriage nor the partnership lasted. And she has not been able to make a break-through into the Big Name Star ranks.

She hasn't made a record in five years, since she ended a brief and unhappy relationship with a Nashville record company by cutting an album she says "went nowhere." That flop naturally didn't help her reputation with record companies and she hasn't been willing to compromise her superselective taste in material, which runs to such seldom sung tunes as "Spring Can Hang You Up the Most," "I Fall in Love Too Easily" and "Moment of Truth."

"I've always like songs that are different, songs that may be difficult to sing but have sensitive lyrics," she says. "That's the only kind of thing I can really get into."

She has also met with less than rousing success in her movie career, which has included substantial but far from starring roles in "The Pink Panther," "Sex and the Single Girl," "Harum Scarum" (a Presley film), and "A Talent for Loving."

Her film appearances have even contributed to the singer's sexpot-schizophrenia and was "A Talent for Loving" that led her to pose for the Playboy spread. She doesn't pretend that she had ever hidden her physical attributes under a bush. But about the early 1971 magazine layout, in which she hid her attributes under nothing, she says:

"They had asked me to pose a few times before but I had said, 'I don't need that.' Then I saw other people had done it and gotten a lot of publicity. I thought that the movie would be coming out at the same time as the magazine so I would be helped that way. And I cleared all the pictures they used."

"But then the movie was never released—why I don't know. And at the first show I did after the magazine came out, at a place in Milwaukee, almost the whole crowd was men who had obviously come to look, not to listen. I began to feel a little disgusted about the whole thing."

Despite the string of disappointments, she hasn't lost her enthusiasm.

"Even when I first started out, wearing very modest clothes and a nice bouffant hairdo, people said I was sexy," she recalls. "Maybe it's because I have thick lips or something. I don't know. It's kind of nice in some ways but then somebody will say something like, 'Fran Jeffries is velvet dynamite.' Now what does that mean?"

Her image problem has not been her only source of frustration.

After touring for a year with Bob Scobey's dixieland group, she gained her first national exposure in the early '60s as the singing partner-wife of Dick Haymes, w.o. was LONDON (AP) — Britain's top monarchy-baiter apologized yesterday for describing the heir to the throne as a twerp.

Mothers react to letter on birth of 'special' child

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: This is my first letter to a column:

How should one react to the news that their friends have had an "abnormal" child? I think I can answer that because we had one. We were lucky enough to be told immediately of our baby's condition and did not have the agony of the slow realization that "something was wrong."

Feeling it best to face the problem, we freely told our friends and relatives about our "special" child. Although we knew very little about what to expect, he was our baby, and we knew we wanted to keep him with us. He is now a lovable, mischievous 11-year-old Mongoloid, going to a special school, and we have never regretted our decision.

Perhaps "congratulations" are not in order, but to ignore the presence of a new baby in a home, when you would normally express interest in it, I think, cruel. To this day I remember the pleasure I felt when someone came to see our baby, to hold him, and to let me talk about him.

One of the burdens a mother of a retarded child has is not having anyone with whom to compare notes about her child's progress. Every tiny gain has a tremendous important meaning for the mother of a handicapped child.

So, do acknowledge the birth of a special child. Or send a little gift. Or send flowers to the mother. Continue to show an interest (not curiosity), and encourage the parents to get in touch with their local society for retarded children for help with mutual problems. It will be rewarded with much love, affection, and gratitude.

EDITH

DEAR ABBY: Someone wrote asking you if they should send a gift or a card of "congratulations" to a mother who has given birth to a Mongoloid child. Thank you for saying: "By all means, yes. To a mother, a child is a child."

I know your advice was sound because I had a Mongoloid son. Friends called. They stopped by. They even gave me a surprise baby shower when he was a month old. Here is the message on one card which meant so much to me:

"God gave this child to you to guide,
To love, to walk thru life beside,
A little child so full of charms,
To fill a pair of loving arms.
God picked you out because he knew
How safe His child would be with you"
God bless friends like that. MRS. C. B., BEACON, N. Y.

DEAR ABBY: I liked your answer to the person who wanted to know if she should acknowledge the birth of a Mongoloid child or out of kindness ignore the "tragedy."

I will always be grateful to friends who sent cards and gave us the feeling of "normalcy" when our Mongoloid son was born. He is now a happy 6-year-old and a great source of joy to us. He goes everywhere with us and is so full of love, we wouldn't trade him for any other child in the world.

Not all Mongoloid children are severely retarded. No one knows at the time of his birth what his potential will be if given a chance. He deserves better than to be written off as a "tragedy." An investment of love and care and a little work can be returned tenfold.

There are organizations all over the country to guide and counsel parents who share this experience. Anyone interested may write to The Mongoloid Development Council, 1810 S. 31st St., Kansas City, Kas. 66106.

Suzanne Paden, Guy Hylton Repeat Vows In Maryland

Miss Suzanne Paden, of Bladensburg, Md., and Guy Ryland Hylton, Jr. of Hyattsville, Md., were united in marriage, Jan. 22, in the Central Baptist Church, Bladensburg.

THE CEREMONY
The Rev. Paul Faircloth, pastor of Central Baptist Church, Bladensburg, officiated for the double-ring ceremony. Mrs. Virgil West, organist, played various wedding selections preceding the ceremony. Mrs. William A. Fogg, Jr. sang "I Love Thee," by Greig, and "The Wedding Prayer," at the close of the ceremony. The bride and bridegroom wrote their own vows, each lighting their love, and lighting a large candle, from two single candles, signifying two lives becoming one. The entire ceremony was recorded.

For the candlelight service, the church was decorated with two large candelabra holding white tapers at the altar, and two large standing floral arrangements of white mums and gladioli. In each of the church windows, was a blue candle, encircled with a white flower ring. White bows and ribbon streamers marked the pews, and the aisle cloth was of white taffeta.

She carried out the traditional "something old," with an old coin hidden in her bouquet; "something new," "something borrowed," and "something blue," and a sixpence in her shoe.

Her tiered veil of silk illusion, edged with Venice lace, was attached to a hat of white velvet, falling into a cathedral length train. She carried a bouquet of crystal lace mums, centered with white roses.

MOTHERS
The mother of the bride wore a sleeveless coat ensemble of light blue and silver double knit, with

All wore identical formal gowns of various shades of blue velvet, trimmed with iridescent beading that outlined the empire bodice, neckline and sleeves. They wore matching blue velvet evening hats, and carried nosegays of blue and yellow cushion mums, tied with white ribbons. Forrester M. Burt, of New Carrollton, Md. served as best man. Groomsman were Tim Shanklin, Catonsville, Md.; Mark Hylton, and Barry Hylton, brothers of the bridegroom. Hyattsville Billy Rogers, Glendale, was ring bearer. Having been so often told, "Youth wants to know!" we are inclined to clipping out items from newspapers and tacking them onto kitchen bulletin boards so the youth in our homes can keep up with the world.

And I become more firmly convinced that Youth really doesn't want to know half the stuff we're pushing.

"My goodness," I say in a sprightly fashion during our dinner hour, "Did you see those photographs of Mars? The ridges and cracks do look just like lava flows, don't they?"

"Pass the gravy," my son answers.

"I hope you noted the article on the bulletin board," I say. "There seems to be a brightening of the economic picture according to the governor, so maybe a summer job won't be so hard to find this year!"

"Why do I have to have such a little beast for a brother?" my daughter answers. "He threw my ice skates on the garage roof again. Boy, he gives me a pain in the neck!"

Grasping at straws now, I reply, "Jerry—that's my friend who is the psychiatrist—said at lunch the other day that our expressions of anger, such as, 'he gives me a pain in the neck,' indicate where we are very likely to experience real physical pain. Isn't that interesting?"

"Can you pick me up after school tomorrow?" she answers.

In an effort to pique her interest, I mention among other things, Golda Meir's appeal for a million Jews to emigrate to Israel, the Apollo 15 astronauts' tour of Poland and Yugoslavia, the possibility of farmers experiencing a corn leaf blight this summer and a casual reference to the season scores of the Milwaukee Bucks.

Her replies include: "May I have a raise in my allowance? Do you know what that crazy Steve said in history class today? And wait until you see Evie's new dress—HITLL, DRIVE YOU MAD!"

Crisis Of Craft Personnel Cause Repair Frustrations

By LYNN SHERR
 Associated Press Writer

Maybe you noticed it the other day, when your car broke down on the way to work. Or perhaps it was last week, when your dishwasher conked out after a dinner party. Or last fall, when you moved into that new house and couldn't find anyone to build the bookcases for the den.

Whatever the problem, it had no easy solution. You probably went to the telephone, dialed, had a frustrating conversation, then dialed again. And again.

Because even if the telephone was working, the repairman probably wasn't. It's getting impossible to get service.

Tradesmen say it's due to "a crisis of craft personnel." One general contractor from the South gazed fondly at the ornate mansion in Asheville, N.C., built by the Vanderbilts at the turn of the century and remarked, "If I had the money to rebuild the Biltmore House today, I couldn't find the workmen."

Despite a general increase in the number of craft personnel over the past two decades—10 million workers in 1968, compared with 8.1 million in 1948—the needs are now growing faster than the employment rate. One government report projects that some five million more such workers will be needed by 1980, which is about 3.5 million more than we'll probably have if present growth rates continue.

The shortage already is evident.

Russell M. Sanders, vice president of operations for the American Homeowners Association—AHA—says, there are regional differences. If you live along the East Coast, you need major contractors: plumbers, electricians, plasterers, carpenters. In the Midwest, it's appliance repairmen. In the Southwest, you're short of masonry and roof workers. And in the West, according to Sanders, it's everything—particularly in the Los Angeles area.

One of the reasons behind the growing demand for service employees is the ever-increasing number of items that need servicing. The Association of Home Appliance Manufacturers says that Americans now own some one billion appliances, not even counting radios and televisions. That figure is double what it was a decade ago.

The shortage of personnel exists during a period of more than six per cent unemployment and despite the promise of very substantial pay.

Why aren't young people in particular flocking to Boston, for example, where a carpenter says he earns $20,000-$25,000 a year or to Dallas, where a 25-year-old plumber takes in $12,000-$15,000 annually?

Labor mediator Theodore M. Khell explained: "Before this generation, a man who was an electrician would have three sons and they'd all become electricians. Now the smart ones go to college."

As for the others, "they just don't care any more. They just want a day's pay," said Anthony Ferrari, of Ferrari Plumbing and Heating in Lexington, Mass.

Jack Schenpp, of the RCA Service Co. in New Jersey, said that the number of young people entering the company training centers had declined recently. "Service electronics is not exactly the glamorous end of the business. There is very little social significance attached to fixing someone's TV set," he said.

Of course, there are exceptions. Some trades do report youthful interest: the advanced stages of electronics work, for instance, and apprenticeships in construction.

And there are parts of the country, hard hit by the nation's lagging economy, which show no signs of a serviceman shortage at all.

Auxiliary Chooses Delegates

The American Legion Auxiliary met at the Purr's Cafeteria for a dutch dinner, with the president, Mrs. Ruth Sewell, presiding.

Mrs. Frank Shotwell gave the Council of Clubs report and told of the guest speaker, Mrs. Karla Kaufman of Amarillo, who spoke on "Planned Parenthood."

A letter of interest was read from Olive Castleberry, VA Hospital representative, thanking the group for the cash gift sent to the hospital by the Auxiliary.

It was announced spring convention will be held at Memphis, March 11 and 12. Each president is urged to bring a written report of her group's activities. Elected delegates to the conference were: Mrs. Ruth Sewell, Mrs. Gladys Turner and Mrs. Evelyn Stout. Alternate delegates are Mrs. Molly Butts, Mrs. Libby Shotwell and Mrs. Estelle Wheeler.

Get well cards were signed by the members and sent to Mrs. Katy Vincent, Mrs. Buelah Huff and Mrs. Mary Martin. The president announced that 27 members had paid their dues and the need for one more member would make the quota for 1972. Persons who are eligible to be members are urged to pay their 1972 dues. Nine members were present. The group will meet again March 16.

Guests attending were Mrs. Cumi Warren and Mrs. Tommie Tyson. Members attending were Mrs. Edith Flanglan, Bessie Galmor, Ether Lea Dyson, Elnita Atkins, Gazelle Patterson, Margaret Trout, Ella Johnston, Edith Dunn, and Thelma Dunn.

Consumer Marketing

Shop the beef counter carefully, and check the cost of each item before making a decision. Generally, items to check include chuck roasts and steaks, round steaks, some of the boneless pot roasts, ground beef and liver.

Pork prices are on the increase, but good values include Boston butt roasts, quarter loin sliced, rib chops, smoked hams, picnic hams and some brands of bacon.

According to the specialist, most fresh vegetable prices are higher than at the same time last year. This is the time to make price comparisons in fresh, canned and frozen vegetables to find economical choices. Supplies of green cabbage are plentiful and quality is excellent. Potatoes, carrots, dry yellow onions, bulk turnips, hard shell squash and rutabagas are among the most economically priced vegetables.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Our Capsule Policy

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces can he develop to his utmost capability.

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

Consumer Still King

Any doubts that the consumer is still king can be erased simply by looking around.

People buy the products they want to buy in the quantities they want to buy and in the styles and quality they desire.

To be sure, some consumers make what turn out to be unwise purchases in the long run and at other times their choices are wise and profitable.

Well, that's all obvious and elementary, one might say.

But the point is that the consumer of America today is under great siege by consumer groups, political bureaucrats and pseudo moralists all working in what might appear to be a conspiracy to discredit the free enterprise system.

So subtle is the multi-pronged attack that the conspiracy theory will be disbelieved. An in truth, it may not be a conscious conspiracy as such. However there can be no doubt that the philosophical roots of these anti-consumer movements strike at the very heart of the idea upon which the economy of America was built—a free marketplace.

What makes possible the increasing strength of these attackers is that each has an element of truth upon which they base their campaigns.

There are some shoddy items offered for sale, there are some dishonest individuals engaged in unwise business practices, there are some unsafe products. And thereby the political interventionists justify their stranglehold on all who engage in marketplace activity. They seek the force of law to restrict production and distribution in the name of ecology, public health and consumer protection.

Certainly, no one can quarrel with the stated goals—dependable, safe products, a clean environment and equitable exchanges between buyer and seller.

The fact that the methods they employ create greater opportunity for the abuses they seek to eliminate is lost in the emotionalism of the moment.

Yet, despite all the stumbling blocks thrown in the way of the enterprisers and the customers they seek to satisfy, business goes on.

Certain makes of automobiles are attacked as unsafe, but the customers keep buying more and more of them. Cigaretts are blasted from many directions, are heavily taxed and even forced to bear labels designed to curtail their sale, yet the customers still make purchases in increasing numbers. Pornographic literature and movies catch the wrath of organized campaigns from coast to coast, still the individual customer continues to make his choice.

There is a lesson in all this, if we will but learn it.

And that lesson is that despite all the sound and fury, human beings still remain individuals who apparently believe the line in the Declaration of Independence that men are endowed with the unalienable right to the pursuit of happiness.

They may not find it by ignoring the warnings and by-passing all the blockades thrown in their path.

But they seem to want to make their own mistakes, and after all, isn't that what freedom means?

Even Lies Are Bad

A White House study now informs us that the administration can't reach its employment goals because the World War II "baby boom" is about to hit the labor market full force.

As we recall War II began in 1941. Babies initiated that year would be 36-to-27 years old. So it doesn't seem to us that the Washington group can hang its short-comings on a series of acts of God that occurred more than a quarter century ago.

The more likely explanation for the government's failure to perform as expected is the fact that all government undertakings tend to fall on their face as the years roll along. A few examples are the failure of the postal service, the failure to control crime, the failure to ensure prosperity.

The use of the War II "baby boom" to explain away the inability of government to accomplish something the government never should have attempted shows the bureaucratic politicians are so bankrupt creatively that they can't even invent a new lie.

Are The Seeds Of Our Destruction Growing Here?

The revolution of the twentieth century will take place in the United States. It is only there that it can happen. And it has already begun. Whether or not that revolution spreads to the rest of the world depends on whether or not it succeeds first in America.

Extreme words, these. Did they flow from the pen of a rabid right-wing "fearmonger"? No, indeed. They were written by a self-avowed revolutionary, a Frenchman named Jean-Francois Revel, in his book, "Without Marx or Jesus."

Revel wants a global revolution which will end with a world government. Under his hoped-for regime, there would be economic equality, abolition of social classes, enforced disarmament, and enforced population control.

"The second world revolution," he declares, "will consist in putting an end to that notion which is the source of all evil—the notion of national sovereignty."

Revel's revolution would produce a society with a socialist economy, but political democracy. Which is to say that the government will control and allocate income and production, but allow men to be politically "free." He observes that Communism has failed to allow freedom; his criticisms of Communist nations in general and the U.S.S.R. in particular are stinging, to wit:

"Under Khrushchevian liberalism, the number of political prisoners and of labor-camp inmates remained the same as under Stalin...what freedom there was under Khrushchev was quickly suppressed by the regime that followed him."

He does not explain what magic will prevent the makers of the New Revolution from falling into the same, oft-repeated trap. The Communists promised "freedom," too. When Revel's revolutionists have forcibly seized the reins of all governments and set forth to rule the world under a socialist economy, just what "power" will they give to "the people?"

Why America? Why "must" the revolution start here? Because we are an open society, and do not repress dissent. And dissent is the prelude to revolution. Revel opines that the current wave of worldwide "dissent" began at Berkeley in 1964-65 with the student uprisings there. Everything since, in Europe and the Third World, have been "imitations." This goes for racial militancy, women's liberation, the ecology movement, rejection of traditional morals and culture; it all began—and was allowed to begin—in America; now it is spreading throughout the world.

Will the American revolution succeed or fail? Revel doesn't know, but quotes the words of Eldridge Cleaver: "It is no exaggeration to say that the destiny of the whole human race depends on the way in which America solves the problems which confront her today. The number-one question of the contemporary world is: will she go to the Right, or to the Left."

Relax. Friday the 13th won't occur this year until October.

Sensible Program Best Weight Loss

Dear Dr. Lamb—I am about 30 pounds overweight and have decided on dieting. I was informed by a friend that while dieting I should not exercise until I had reached my normal weight. I was told by another person that dieting and exercising together were an unbeatable combination. I would appreciate your opinion on which would be best.

Dear Reader—Losing excess body fat is a simple procedure of using more calories than you eat. One way of using calories is by exercising. Quite clearly, if you are able to restrict your calorie intake at the same time you are increasing your calories used, you will lose excess fat more rapidly.

When a number of people exercise, they stimulate their appetite and really don't stay on their diet. A sensible reduction in your calorie intake with a sensible exercise program maintained on a continuing basis will produce remarkable results in a period of several months. To lose 30 pounds in a sensible manner it will possibly be close to a year's project, but you can do it sensibly and comfortably if you will take the time and not try either a crash diet or a crash exercise effort.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I would like to ask a question about rheumatoid arthritis and prednisone (5 milligrams). My husband has been on that for some time. What are the effects if any on that low a dose of prednisone? He was on ACTH shots and they seemed to do him a lot more good than the prednisone. The doctor took him off them. What is in ACTH?

Dear Reader—ACTH stands for Adreno Cortico Tropic Hormone. Adreno Cortico refers to the adrenal cortex, the small gland over the kidney which produces cortisone naturally. Prednisone is a purified medicine which has many of the effects of cortisone but not quite as many adverse side effects. Tropic refers to stimulating and H to Hormone, so basically ACTH is a hormone from the pituitary gland beneath the brain (the master gland) that stimulates production of the adrenal hormone. Thus, prednisone and ACTH have similar effects.

It is usually not good to stay on high doses of cortisone, prednisone, or ACTH for arthritis. I would suspect that your doctor has changed your husband's medication to keep him from having undesirable complications and still try to help control his arthritis. These hormones must be used carefully if one is to avoid having serious complications. They do not cure the arthritis. They may relieve a person's symptoms.

Inside Washington

Russian Bear on the Prowl While Nixon Visits Peking
By ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON — Russia has not been idly sitting by while President Nixon was meeting with the Peking rulers.

The record is starkly clear that the Kremlin masters, with venomous aggressiveness, have been waging a worldwide offensive to undermine and sabotage the historic discussions.

The evidence on that is massive and conclusive. It shows that virtually every critical area has been under intense Soviet pressure and manipulation.

In this global counteroffensive, Russia is forcefully resorting to every conceivable political, economic, military and propaganda stratagem. Where menacing threats and bald provocation don't fit, other, less truculent measures are employed.

It is very apparent from the nature and scope of these crafty and artful machinations that the Kremlin is leaving nothing undone to literally subvert President Nixon's foreign policies. This somber situation strikingly underscores a threnchant remark made here recently by Harvard Prof. Ross Terrill, author of two widely discussed magazine articles based on an extended stay in China, including talks with top officials:

"Peking authorities consider the Democrats more susceptible to Russia than the Republicans. From what I heard and observed, I gathered that the Chinese would rather deal with the Republicans than the Democrats."

The extent and nature of this Soviet drive are graphically detailed in a private Congressional study. Its primary sources were intelligence and military reports and assessments carefully studied by President Nixon before embarking on Red, China.

The overall conclusion of this backstage analysis sums up the matter concisely and explicitly as follows:

"From the very beginning, when the President disclosed his intention to improve relations between the U.S. and Communist China, Moscow has unceasingly exerted every effort to counter this move by strengthening and enhancing its influence and position in every vital section of the world. To this end, it has used the carrot-and-stick concept."

"In some areas, bald force or the blatant threat of it has been employed; in others, the method is exactly the opposite, with money, weapons and other subventions and enticements being the bait. This agile and opportunistic maneuvering and manipulating has worked."

"There must be no illusions about that. The record of the Soviet's successes is as impressive as it is disturbing."

The Disquieting Details
These blunt conclusions, unpalatable as they may be, are strongly supported by the evidence spelled out in the Congressional study.

In substance, the highlights are as follows:
—Launching of a vigorous diplomatic and propaganda drive to bring about the withdrawal of U.S. military forces from Western Europe. As part of this adroitly conducted operation—supported by leading Democrats in Congress—Moscow agreed to compromise on Berlin, and staged a series of fanfare meetings with West German Chancellor Willy Brandt, President Pompidou, Prime Minister Trudeau and heads of other NATO governments.

—Established itself as the paramount power on the Indian subcontinent by arming and backing India in its aggression against Pakistan, on the hypocritical ground of protecting Bengali refugees and rebels. Also loudly and truculently assuring Hanoi of increased military support and economic aid to expand the long and torturous Vietnam conflict to Laos and Cambodia. These aggressive Vietnam operations were highlighted by an ostentatious visit to Hanoi by President Indira Gandhi and a lavish Kremlin reception by Prime Minister Kosygin for a new North Vietnam ambassador.

—Despite Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's loud and self-righteous professions of neutrality and keeping aloof from alignment with the rival big powers, she was wheeled into signing a so-called "treaty of friendship and cooperation" with the Kremlin—putting her squarely in the Soviet camp, where she has always been privately and ideologically.

—Large weapons shipments and contingents of Soviet military personnel to Syria and Iraq. Also the establishment of air bases in both and a naval base in the former. Despite this provocative intrusion in the explosive Middle East, Moscow belligerently denounced an agreement between the U.S. and Greece for the use of naval facilities in the latter.

—Sending Soviet Defense Minister Marshal Andrei Grechko and an accompanying pack of generals and admirals to Egypt following a visit to Moscow by President Anwar Sadat. In a harangue in Cairo after his return, Sadat strongly implied he had been promised ground-to-ground missiles that could reach Tel Aviv and every other city in Israel.

African Leader Raps Western Missionaries

NEW YORK (AP)—An African church leader, the Rev. Dr. Jean Bokeleale, has appealed to Western missionaries to quit spreading their own divisions among Christians in his country.

This is a sharpening issue in many Asian and African areas, a scene once dominated by American Protestant denominational extensions, but where new, indigenously run churches are now developing widely.

"We do things differently

H. G. Field Appointed Missionary

ATLANTA (BP)—H. Glen Field, a Wheeler, Tex. native, and his wife Aletha, have been appointed as career missionaries in Bozeman, Mont., by the Southern Baptist Home Mission Board. Field will serve as superintendent of missions in the northwestern state. Both are graduates of Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Fort Worth. He is also a graduate of Baylor University, Waco. A Ducktown, Tenn. native, Mrs. Field is a graduate of Carson-Newman College, Jefferson City, Tenn.

Before going to Montana, Field served as pastor of churches in Colorado, North Dakota, Georgia, Texas, and as a U.S. Army chaplain.

Christian Science Services

Divine healing's place in prophecy will be examined Sunday at Christian Science church services.

"Christ Jesus" is the subject of the Bible lesson-sermon. It includes this text from Revelation: "The testimony of Jesus is the spirit of prophecy."

Commentary from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, includes this citation: "The highest earthly representative of God, speaking of human ability to reflect divine power, prophetically said to his disciples, speaking not for their day only but for all time: 'He that believeth on me, he works that I do shall he do also; and these signs shall follow them that believe.'"

"Dear brethren," wrote Dr. Bokeleale, "how can our people, who know nothing of all the problems in America, understand this?"

from what you have been brought up to do," says Dr. Bokeleale, general secretary of the recently launched United Church of Christ in Zaire (Congo).

In an unusual letter to all foreign missionaries there, he urged them "to preach love, unity and holiness among the children of God, instead of setting us one against the other."

"We understand your difficulty," he wrote in an appraisal of the problem. "It is very hard for some of you to accept unity of the children of God, because in your own experience in your own countries, there has never been room in people's hearts for unity."

He emphasized that most missionaries of the major mainline denominations have stopped concentrating on denominational interests. Most have ended their control and turned over the reins to the newly maturing younger churches.

But Dr. Bokeleale said a minority of missionaries "continue to spread confusions by dividing Protestants," just at a time when the newly united Congolese church is getting started. It was formed in 1970, including 39 denominational groups once tied to various American and European denominations, and has about five million members.

In his letter, also circulated among mission agencies in this country, Dr. Bokeleale said some of their representatives in Africa have opposed his church's unification because it was "a decision of Africans and not of missionaries."

He said a missionary recently told him: "You are our children and you have no right to do anything without the agreement of your parents."

In other words, Dr. Bokeleale said, "this brother was saying that we cannot unite without the agreement of the missionaries and, since the missionaries are not yet disposed to accept unity, we will not have peace."

As an example of the resulting confusion, he said one group of visiting Baptists from America insisted that "their Baptist" denomination had nothing to do with "those Baptists" who were fomenting conflict.

"Dear brethren," wrote Dr. Bokeleale, "how can our people, who know nothing of all the problems in America, understand this?"

The Weekly Message of Inspiration

REV. JERALD MIDDLEAUGH
Calvary Assembly of God

We read in Romans 8:37, these words: "Nay, in all these things we are more than conquerors through Him that loved us."

Paul speaks here of the love of Christ, asking the question "what shall separate us from the love of Christ? Shall tribulation, or distress, or persecution, or famine, or nakedness, or peril, or sword?"

This life is filled with many problems and difficulties, which at times, we find no solutions. These situations become giants to us and if we face life, we also must face the giants which are distributed throughout.

I recall to your remembrance the incident of David and Goliath.

David was a man of little stature, yet mighty in his love for God.

Goliath, the Philistine, was a man of great stature. He was a mighty warrior, and skillful in his art.

David went against Goliath with only a sling-shot and five stones, yet with the power of God. As he faced this Philistine giant, he spoke these words: "I come to thee in the name of the Lord of hosts, the God of the armies of Israel, whom thou has defied," and from this moment on the situation was overcome. David became a conqueror because he trusted in God.

My friend, this persuades me today, to live the life that is pleasing to God, and when circumstances arise which are beyond our control, we can, because of God, be a conqueror and overcome the wiles of Satan.

In closing, I invite you to know God in the measure which David knew Him. Be a conqueror and overcome! You, too, can say as Paul the apostle said, "I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me."

Heros Falter In Gleason Open

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Golf's glamor gang—Nicklaus, Trevino, Palmer, Player—couldn't dent par at the beginning Jackie Gleason's $200,000 Inverrary Classic.

For heroes, you had: —Gene "The Machine" Littler shooting a record 65 for the first round lead, displaying the faceless precision that magnetizes golfing perfectionists if not the roaring majority.

—Bruce Crampton, the "Awful Aussie" to some, close behind at 67 and explaining how he is perhaps the most misunderstood man on the tour.

—And, other contenders at 68 with such unmagical names as Bob E. Smith, Benson Rayfield McLendon and Forrest Fezler.

Jack Nicklaus began double-bogey, double-bogey and "rallied" for a one-over-par 73 on the 7,128-yard layout.

Arnold Palmer "played miserably" with a 74. Lee Trevino shot 76 and marched to the putting green for practice. Gary Player was the best of the millionaire clan with even-par 72.

Crampton, while not in the upper strata of golf's glory squad, has always performed well in high-paying tournaments. The son of a Sydney cop won a $50,000 payoff at the 1970 Westchester Classic and has bagged $120,000 in his three latest tour triumphs.

With $52,000 top money on the table this week, Bruce headed around the first turn in magnificent position behind Littler, the family man from San Diego who gets a kick out of tinkering with his three old Rolls Royces, a Model A Ford and a 1955 TBird.

Rookie Fezler, along with unheralded campaigners Smith and McLendon, played well during an unusually windless Florida morning.

Sensational rookie Lanny Wadkins, Masters king Charles Coody, Englishman Tony Jacklin and Doug Sanders were among a group of seven players at 69.

In all, 27 men cracked par on what was supposed to be a rugged Robert Trent Jones-designed course. The Nicklaus-Palmer-Player-Trevino bunch faced a battle today to make the 36 hole cut.

Blue May Have A Yen For Japanese Check

By Associated Press

While Harmon Killebrew is happy with his dollars, Vida Blue says he might start collecting his paychecks in yen.

Killebrew, Minnesota's 35-year-old slugger who has hit 515 home runs and driven in 1380 runs in his major league career, signed his 1972 contract Thursday for an estimated $125,000. This would be $15,000 more than he made in 1971, when he clubbed 28 homers and knocked in 119 runs.

Blue, meanwhile, was home in Mansfield, La., even though the Oakland A's were opening their spring training camp in Mesa, Ariz. The 22-year-old pitcher is said to be asking $92,000, while Oakland owner Charlie Finley has offered $50,000.

And according to a report in the San Francisco Chronicle, if he can't come to terms with Finley, Blue might seek employment in Japan.

"Yes, I've been talking to them in Japan," the Chronicle quoted Blue's attorney, Robert Gerst, as saying. "They are interested, if we can't reach an agreement with Finley."

Blue earned $14,750 last season, when he had a 24-8 record, a 1.82 earned run average and 301 strikeouts. He won both the Cy Young and Most Valuable Player awards.

Although he still feels he'll eventually get Blue to come to terms, Finley conceded there is a growing possibility the 22-year-old lefthander might not play for the A's this season.

"I'm beginning to wonder," he admitted.

Killebrew, meanwhile, maintained his record of never having been a holdout with the Twins. The veteran slugger, who broke into the major leagues in 1954, has averaged nearly 30 homers and 104 RBI in each of the 13 seasons he's been regular.

Other than Killebrew, most of the major signings Thursday involved pitchers.

The Chicago White Sox signed Tom Bradley, a 15-game winner last season; Detroit came to terms with Mike Killebrew, expected to be a candidate for the Tigers' starting rotation and Kansas City inked Dick Drago, who won 17 games in 1971.

Veteran reliever Eddie Watt, 3-1 with 11 saves, signed with Baltimore, while George Culver signed with Houston and Ross Grimsley with Cincinnati.

College Roundup

By Associated Press

"We didn't go out to set any records," said Oral Roberts Coach Ken Trickey. He could have fooled Union College.

The 20th-ranked Titans, led by Richard Fuqua's 51 points and tremendous production from the reserves, squashed the Jackson, Tenn., school 155-113 in college basketball Thursday night.

"We just got up and down the court like we should do all the time," said Trickey in a masterful understatement.

His club, the nation's leading scoring team, "got up and down the court" enough times to deposit 70 field goals. Yes, 70.

"This is a heck of a way to go out of this building," said Trickey, referring to Oral Roberts' last game in its 3,000-seat field house. The Titans move into more expansive headquarters, the 10,500-seat Special Events Center, next year.

In other action Thursday night, 16th-ranked Houston defeated Corpus Christi 105-81 and No. 19 Memphis State stopped Wichita State 108-98 in a key Missouri Valley Conference game.

Fuqua, the second leading scorer in the country, boosted his average to 35.3 behind Southwestern Louisiana's Dwight Lamar. He started out slowly, scoring only eight points in the first 12 minutes before getting red-hot and helping Oral Roberts move into a 71-45 halftime lead.

The reserves added 51 points after the starters were given a rest and the scoring output gave Oral Roberts a 107.7 average for the season. Sophomore Dwight Jones scored 27 points and grabbed 18 rebounds and senior Dwight Davis scored 24 and accumulated 15 rebounds for Houston. The Cougars have won 10 straight games since over-coming early-season problems.

"Overconfidence had a lot to do with it," said Davis. "It was just our attitude. Some of the younger guys didn't have the desire to put out."

Memphis State's triumph, built on 26-point performances by Larry Finch and Don Holcomb, moved the Tigers within a half-game of first-place Louisville in the intense MVC battle.

Memphis State meets Louisville in a probable showdown match on March 2.

Angel Star Conigliaro Will Retire

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Outfielder Tony Conigliaro says his baseball career is over, the Los Angeles Times reported today.

The newspaper said Conigliaro, speaking by telephone from his home in Nahant, Mass., reported that an eye test showed his vision had not improved enough for him to attempt a comeback with the California Angels this season.

"I feel I'm nothing without baseball, but this time I can't fight it," the Times quoted Conigliaro. "I've been through two comebacks already and I can't do it again."

"If you can't see the ball you can't hit."

The 27-year-old outfielder, once considered a budding superstar with the Boston Red Sox, was hit in the head in a 1967 game by a pitch thrown by the Angels' Jack Hamilton. After missing the 1968 season and trying unsuccessfully to make it as a pitcher, Conigliaro came back with nearly normal eyesight in 1969 and had two more good seasons with the Red Sox.

He was traded to the Angels before last season, but never pulled out of a season-long hitting slump and announced his retirement at a dawn news conference July 10, saying, "I'm losing my sight and am on the verge of losing my mind."

Later, Conigliaro said he thought his vision might be improving enough to attempt another comeback.

But he said the examination Thursday by Dr. Charles Regan of the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Hospital showed that the vision in his left eye was only 20-100, compared to 20-30 in 1970.

Conigliaro told the Times that Regan's report read, in part, "There is no indication he can play baseball more effectively now than he did last July."

Pampans Dominate District Results

Winning battles doesn't always win the war is the best description of the final results of District 3-AAAA basketball as the Pampa Harvesters almost completely dominated the scoring and rebounding records while Palo Duro goes into regional playoffs.

Mike Edgar, 6'6" senior, led the league in his scoring efforts with a 30-game average of 17.5 points per encounter. Richard Bunton was a close second with a 16.3 mark and hit eleven in the season closer against Borger.

Edgar ended his high school career with a 32-point career high against the Bulldogs. The tall Texan pulled down an average of 11.9 rebounds per game while once again Bunton was close behind with a 10.8 average.

Pampa's skills weren't completely limited to the two superstars as Gary Haynes made a name for himself with his accuracy at hitting field goals. He hit 114 of 207 attempts for a 550 percentage. Bunton was here again second hitting 213 of 394 attempts for a 540 percentage mark. Edgar meanwhile dropped back into fifth place hitting only 215 of 440 attempts for a 488 percentage.

Another Pampan to make the district standings was Donnie Cain finishing in tenth place in rebounds pulling in 30 of 228 for a 7.3 mark.

The Harvesters will be losing their starting five due to graduation but the bench (starters in this year's instance) has much strength and the Shockers of 1971-72 have many fine replacements for next year's team.

Palo Duro won the second half of District play outright after tying with the Harvesters the first half giving them the 1972 3-AAAA title. This is the first time the Amarillo school had won district in eleven years.

B.J. King Loses In Opening Round

BETHESDA, Md. (AP) — Billie Jean King stalked out of the press room Thursday night following her loss in the opening round of the Virginia Slims Women's Invitational Tennis Tournament and said she planned to rest her foot for at least a week.

"I'm physically and mentally exhausted and I can't play my best," the tournament's topseeded player from Long Beach, Calif., said.

Later, Mrs. King defaulted her doubles match. "I choose not to risk further damage of my big toe," she said.

She also said she was withdrawing from the Birmingham, Mich., tournament next week and will make a decision later on the Dallas, Tex., tournament March 7-12 where both Chris Evert and Wimbledon champion Evonne Goolagong are expected to play.

Mrs. King awoke Monday with the big toe on her left foot infected. She went to a doctor and was given a cortisone shot which relieved the swelling, enabling her to play.

Thursday night, however, Mrs. King swept past Julie Heldman of Houston 6-3, in the opening set before dropping the next two 6-4, 6-1.

"She won the first set," Miss Heldman said. "I won the second and, on a silver platter, she gave me the third. I don't think she wanted to play in that third set."

Mrs. King refused to use her injury as an alibi. "The foot didn't hurt at all," she said. "There was no pain. You can't blame my loss on that."

"The thing that hurt me is I couldn't practice all week. But it's just indicative of the way I've been playing lately."

Janet Lynn Digging For Gold In Denver

NEW YORK (AP) — Janet Lynn brought home bronze from Sapporo but she says she'll be digging for gold in Denver in 1976.

"I want to skate for four more years because I would really like to get that gold medal," said the 18-year-old Rockford, Ill., girl who captured her country's only figure skating medal of the 1972 Winter Olympics.

"But I'll take it one year at a time," said the four-time U.S. National champion. "If competing ever gets too much for me, or if I get tired or decide to go to school, I'll quit."

Miss Lynn was speaking Thursday from her Rockford home where she was confined with a cold that curtailed her practice for the World Championships in Calgary, Alta., starting March 6.

"I figured out what was wrong," said the 5-foot-1 wisp of a girl with a hoarse laugh. "I haven't been taking my iron pills."

Miss Lynn, who was fourth in the 1971 World Championships, finished third to Austria's Beatrix Schuba and Canada's Karen

Bedford-Stuyvesant's Proud Of Its Girls

NEW YORK (AP) — "It means something to the people of Bedford-Stuyvesant," says Fred Thompson, "that a bunch of local girls can be champions."

Thompson is coach of the Atoms Track Club and those girls, led by Cheryl Toussaint, will have a lot of fans behind them tonight in the National AAU Championships at Madison Square Garden.

The women in almost any track meet are all but shunted aside by the men—but not in New York. Here, the Atoms command as much respect as their male counterparts.

In the front window of a bank in the heart of "Bed-Stuy," the sometimes volatile sector of Brooklyn, stands a trophy, signifying the Atoms' national championship.

"The man at the bank told me he has to clean that window every day," Thompson said. "He has to clean away the hundreds of hand prints and nose prints from all the neighborhood kids who pass by that window."

And, referring to the Atoms' championship, he said: "It's the kind of thing you hope can pull the neighborhood a little closer together."

The Atoms will be defending their championships tonight in the 640-yard relay, the 800-yard sprint medley relay and the mile relay and Miss Toussaint will be out to retain her title in the 800-yard run.

She'll also be in the 440, attempting to beat out defending champion Jarvis Scott, as will Kathy Hammond, Gail Fitzgerald, Mavis Laing and eight other entries.

Other women out to defend their championships include Pat Hawkins in the 60 yards, Pat Johnson in the 60-yard hurdles, Esther Stroy in the 220 and Doris Brown in the mile.

There are carloads of stars in the men's events, too, although one of the brightest, miler Marty Liquori, will be absent, having reinjured his left foot last weekend.

But several of the other mile entries, headed by Byron Dye of New York University, are more than likely to batter the four-minute barrier. His main competition will come from Dave Wottle of Bowling Green, who beat Dye last Friday night in the 1500 meters at the Olympic Invitational.

Drake Makes Fifth Bid For MVC Title

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Host Drake bids for its fifth straight Missouri Valley Conference indoor track title here Saturday, but the Bulldogs face a stronger and bigger field than usual.

Nine schools including newest Valley members New Mexico State and North Texas State are entered. Only St. Louis, which does not have indoor track, will be absent.

"This should be the 59 conference indoor in quite awhile," offered Drake coach Bob Ehrhart, whose team returns six of the nine defending champions expected to be on hand.

Ehrhart feels this year's title chase should be close and "could go down to the final event—the mile relay."

North Texas State, West Texas State and Wichita State loom as the Bulldogs' three chief challengers, said Ehrhart.

"Every school entered—even Louisville, which has a real small contingent—has at least a couple of real fine competitors," said Ehrhart. "So I look for a real dogfight."

West Texas' chances rest heavily on sophomore hurdling standout Carl Brown, who defends his titles in the 50-yard intermediate and 50-yard high hurdles.

Bradley high jumper Randy Crady is the only other non-

Drake athlete back to defend his title. He won at 6-7 last year and already has a 6-10 indoor effort to his credit, equal to the Valley record.

Drake's Dave Nauman in the 800, Lynn Lee in the two-mile and Bob Becker in the 1,000 seek their third straight titles.

"Lynn's title should be the toughest to defend," said Ehrhart. "He has done 9:08.5 so far, but four other already have been under nine minutes indoor."

Heading the list is Wichita State's Keith Pharr, who did 8:56 in the Astrodome at Houston.

Drake's Jim Cape defends his 600 title and teammates Lansing Holman in the 440 and Jeff Swenson in the pole vault also seek repeats.

Holman, a sophomore from St. Louis, could score a double. He faces stiff competition from Vernon Evans and Sam Brouse of North Texas in the 440, but appears a threat in the 50.

"The hurdles will be a swing event for us also," noted Ehrhart. "If we can get some points from our freshmen there it will help."

Drake took nine firsts and piled up 102½ points in romping to the title here last year. West Texas State was a distant second with 45.

Preliminaries are scheduled Saturday morning with the finals to begin at 2:30 p.m.

PRO Roundup

Associated Press

Johnny Green, like that of man river, just keeps rollin' along.

Green, who has the distinction of having played professional basketball in three decades, came off the bench with just six minutes left to play Thursday night and sparked the Cincinnati Royals to a 108-97 National Basketball Association victory over the Buffalo Braves.

In the only other NBA game, Golden State defeated Detroit 116-106, while in the lone American Basketball Association contest, the Floridians defeated Denver 130-118.

Green, 38, entered the game with the Royals ahead only 85-83. He scored six points and added three assists down the stretch, teaming with Nate Archibald on four fast-break baskets.

Now in his 13th pro season, the 6-foot-6, 210-pound Green is regarded by his coach, Bob Cousy, as an inspirational team leader. Green, who broke into the NBA with the New York Knicks in the 1959-60 season, led the league in field goal accuracy the past two years.

Meanwhile, Archibald led all scorers with 32 points, while center Sam Lacey contributed 20 points and 15 rebounds. Cincinnati has now won four straight.

Rookie center Elmore Smith led Buffalo with 23 points. Forward Bob Kauffman had 21 and guard Walt Hazzard added 19.

Warren Jabali scored 30 points, including a team-record six three-point goals, to spark the Floridians. Jabali also had 10 assists as the Floridians, tied 92-92 after three periods, outscored Denver 38-26 in the fourth quarter.

Ralph Simpson had 29 points and Dave Robisch 24 for Denver, while Willie Long netted 25 and Mack Calvin 23 for the Floridians.

Golden State trailed 55-43 at the half, but came back strongly in the second half to defeat Detroit, outscoring the Pistons 34-23 in the final period.

Cazzie Russell scored 20 points in the third period to spark the Warriors' comeback effort. Russell finished with 26 points, while teammates Nate Thurmond had 27, Jeff Mullins 25 and Jim Barnett 24.

Detroit center Bob Lanier led the Pistons with 26 points and 20 rebounds. Guard Dave Bing added 25 points.

The victory moved the Warriors one-half game ahead of idle Seattle in the race for second place in the NBA's Pacific Division.

East Texas' Thicket--A Place Of Legends Extensive Feuds

Editor's Note: The Big Thicket of East Texas is not just flora and fauna. It is a place of legends and extensive feuds, perhaps more than anywhere else in Texas. A few of them are related in this third and last of a series on the thicket.

By ROBERT HERD
Associated Press Writer

There is history in the Big Thicket. There are legends here. And many people want this area preserved as much for these reasons as for its botanical wonders.

These people especially are interested in a 20,000-acre block of land in a triangle formed by Saratoga, Kountze and Sour Lake. This is the Saratoga Triangle.

Just west of the triangle is the community of Batson, where around the year 1900 all unmarried young women were thrown in jail periodically, and bachelors bid to bail them out. Each winner got to take the girl home with him for 24 hours.

In the triangle you can find old cabins with hand-hewn planks, square-headed and square-shafted nails, and chimneys made of mud bricks because there are no stones in this country.

Saratoga is the home of the Big Thicket Museum.

According to Geraldine Watson, self-trained botanist and an expert on the thicket, Saratoga reputed to have "the meanest people in the world."

Why?

"I'm told it's the water. It's got a lot of sulphur in it. Sam Houston is said to have bathed his wounds from San Jacinto here."

Kountze another corner of the triangle, advertises itself as "the town with a sense of humor."

Is it the water?

She laughed. No. It simply has more than its share of family feuds and violent politics, she said.

Kountze also has Archer Fullingim, a newspaper editor with an acerbic pen. He flatly calls two of the leading candidates for governor crooks.

Fullingim champions the Saratoga Triangle as the quintessence of the Big Thicket.

Geraldine is less interested in saving those portions of the thicket with historical significance. "I think we should save the Big Thicket for what is here now," she said.

Lumbermen support a 35,000 acres "string of pearls" concept, with several units separated from each other. If more acreage is needed, they want payment not in money but in federal timberland farther north in East Texas.

One of the highlights of Geraldine's tour is a eutrophic lake, a body of water that to the untrained eye looks like any other lake but to the scientist is a thing of wonder.

In a sense, it is a dying lake, cut off from sufficient movement of water to prevent the diminution of oxygen. This causes mineral and organic nutrients to multiply and thus promote plant life. Alligators dig deep holes in the bottom.

Glowing balls of gas lift into the night air from this lake, feeding the legend of a Mexican brakeman who lost his head under a train's wheels and no one bothered to find the head so it could be buried with the body.

The illuminated gas is the lantern carried by his ghost as he looks for his head, the storytellers say.

"This may not be interesting to the average person," Geraldine said of the lake, "but scientists just flip over this place."

Maybe that's the trouble.

The Big Thicket can be an enthralling place, if you have a Geraldine to tell you what you are looking at.

You would never realize, for example, that certain tiny plants are bloodthirsty insect eaters unless someone pointed them out to you.

"Look at that log over there," Geraldine said in the Jack Gore Baygall. "I always have a weakness for moss-covered logs."

One wonders how many people share this weakness.

The only historical thing that Geraldine wants to preserve is the music of the dog people--woodsman who hunt with dogs. She had promised her passengers a concert by "the best old-time fiddler I ever heard."

Unfortunately the fiddler was on a two-weeks' drunk.

Then she was going to show off "a young boy with a sweet voice who knows all the oldtime songs--learned them from his mother--but he's in jail. Seems like he can't stay out of jail."

Finally, she arranged for them to hear I. C. Eason's teen-age daughter, Mickey.

Beside a big fire in a cabin near Silsbee, Mickey sang country-western songs as television cameras turned.

I. C.--everybody calls him I. C.--mouthing the words along with Mickey and watched the television men out of the corner of his eyes to see if they were impressed.

His wife, Lorine, a strong-eight Indian, also mouthed the words, but she stopped sooner than I. C., convinced that Mickey was doing just fine.

"I got no education and I don't mind people knowing it because I get along as good," I. C. said.

He was one of 17 children and once at age 9 or 10 threatened to shoot an old game warden hired by a lumber company. It was during the depression of the 1930s, and I. C.'s dad was sick. His mother traded some eggs for three .22-caliber bullets and sent her son after game.

I. C. shot a big doe, then heard the warden coming through the forest on horseback. "I knowed who it was because I heard it before," he said.

The boy sat on the deer with his single-shot rifle and said to the warden: "Old man, I got hungry brothers and sisters at home. I don't want to kill you."

The warden scratched his head. "Kid, I believe you mean what you said." The old man warned him not to come back, but I. C. said he would return the next time they got hungry.
