Report Made On Vanguard Failure

By MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press White House Writer
GETTYSBURG, Pa., Dec. 7 (UP)—Acting Defense Secretary Donald A. Quarles sent President Eisenhower a preliminary report today on the Vanguard rocket's failure.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerly said the written report contains "one or two things" about parts of the rocket which he could not mention for security reasons. He said he had heard no mention of sabotage.

Otherwise, he said, the report covers "not much more" than was explained publicly by the earth satellite project officials immediately after Friday's mis-fire. A more complete report will be made next week.

Hagerly said the President probably will end his long weekend on the farm and return to the White House late Monday or early Tuesday.

Have to Wait
"I just don't know," he replied to a newsmen's question on the possibility of your play in connection with the rocket explosion. "We'll just have to wait for the full report."

He indicated the President does not share the strong misgivings voiced by some congressmen about the publicity build-up given the embarrassingly unsuccessful rocket launching.

Asked whether Eisenhower regrets the advance publicity, Hagerly said, "No, I don't think so." He pointed out, as an expression of his own opinion, that "many of the people and some of the organizations that are criticizing" the open publicity given the test "are the same ones that (earlier) insisted more information be given."

The President took time out from his schedule of indoor rest and painting today to proclaim Dec. 10 as United Nations Human Rights Day. He called on all Americans to "reaffirm our faith in the individual" and "strengthen generations to come."

Hagerly said he does not expect a decision on whether the President will attend the Dec. 16-18 NATO summit meeting in Paris until after his return to Washington next week. The decision will hinge largely on a medical examination of the President's recovery from a mild stroke on Nov. 25.

Dismal rainy weather confined the President to the glassed-in porch of his farmhouse much of the morning. There he was busy painting a picture which was not identified because it will be a Christmas present for someone. Friday he was working on a portrait of one of his granddaughters.

Rocket Team Goes Ahead With Tests

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla., Dec. 7 (UP)—The American scientific team recovered somewhat today from the shocked disappointment over its misfired earth satellite and plunged into new phases of the U. S. missile program.

An Air Force Thor, an intermediate range missile which can probably travel more than 2,000 miles, was believed to be set for a firing late Saturday afternoon. The Thor's launching pad was only a short distance from the spot where a Navy Vanguard rocket collapsed and exploded Friday during efforts to send it sky high with a small baby moon in its nose.

The next firing schedule for a satellite is indefinite.

Tests Studied
J. Paul Walsh, deputy director of the Vanguard project, gave reporters this rundown on the missile-satellite situation in light of Friday's failure:

"Electronic tape that recorded every phase of the Vanguard's death has been deciphered by experts and the information now is being studied strictly as a 'detective job' to discover what really happened. The intricate tele-fusing devices deep within the dud missile sent back valuable information to 'recording' equipment. It is from this report scientists hope to clear up their launching problem."

"At present 'we don't know a great deal more' than Friday about what caused the 72-foot Vanguard to lose the thrust of power that should have sent it into the blue."

Another Vanguard
"It is not possible to say when another Vanguard missile can be launched, although one is on hand at Canaveral. Cause of the failure must be found and corrected and the launching pad (which has undetermined damage) must be fixed. An expert from the firm that built it was rushed here to assess the damage."

"From now on I will concentrate on the next stage of the Vanguard program," Walsh said with an outward display of confidence that whatever bugs are in the project will be found and corrected.

Red Cross Board To Meet Tuesday

The Red Cross board will meet Tuesday at 7 a. m. in Johnson's Cafe, according to Libby Shotwell, executive secretary of the Pampa Chapter.

Acting field director of the Amarillo Air Force Base, M. K. Rathke, will be the principal speaker and will point out important items in the home service field.

Mrs. C. E. Jefferies, home service chairman of the Pampa Chapter is urging all members to be present and has sent invitations to all staff aid workers to also have a part in the meeting.

Routine business will also be handled and discussed.

Reds Claim Rocket Fell In Alaska

By HENRY SHAPIRO
United Press Staff Correspondent
MOSCOW, Dec. 7 (UP)—Russia said tonight the burned and broken remnants of the Sputnik I rocket fell "in the territory of Alaska and the west coast of North America" last Sunday, Soviet scientists "requested" the return of the pieces.

(In Washington today the Defense Department sent a message to Alaska asking for a report on what, if anything, last Sunday's helicopter search produced. Officials assumed the results were negative, as no report has been received here.)

(Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerly said he included Alaska Friday in stating that the rocket did not fall on U.S. territory, according to a check of "everybody concerned.")

A blazing object was spotted falling towards U.S. Army post at Fort Greeley, Alaska, last Sunday at 2 p. m. An Air Force helicopter from Ladd Air Force Base in Fairbanks searched for it. Results of the search never were announced.

Cambridge, Mass., Dr. Fred L. Whipple, director of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory, said he still believed the rocket fell outside North America. He said scientists in Alaska told him the flaming object last Sunday was a fireball, a rare natural phenomenon. British scientists also (See ROCKET, Page 2)

United States Promises To Come To Aid Of Allies

By DONALD J. GONZALES
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (UP)—The United States and 14 European allies are drafting a new missile-age pledge to fight back if the Soviet Union attacks any member of the Atlantic Alliance, it was learned today.

A renewed American promise to come to the aid of the western allies is to be given personally by President Eisenhower at the Dec. 16-18 NATO meeting in Paris. Only a strong stand by his doctors next week will keep the President away from the conference, administration officials said.

The new pledge is designed to strengthen allied unity under the 1949 NATO treaty, which provides that an attack on a member will be met by such action as the signatory powers deem necessary, "including the use of armed force."

The NATO summit meeting also will hear American offers to stockpile nuclear weapons at European bases for joint wartime use and a proposal to station 1,500-mile intermediate range ballistic missiles in Europe.

From British and continental bases, IRBM's could hit Russia and counter-balance the Soviet advantage in 5,000-mile intermediate and 800-mile medium range missiles.

Administration officials disclosed today that the United States and Britain already have agreed tentatively to begin building bases in the British Isles soon for four squadrons of IRBM's. Three of the squadrons would be British, and the fourth would be American.

The estimated $4 million dollar cost of the base construction would be shared by the two countries.

There is no assurance, however that Germany, France or other continental allies will permit basing big U. S. missiles on their soil. Strong political groups in Europe argue that such bases invite Soviet retaliation and only aggravate the cold war.

At the NATO meeting, the allies also are scheduled to take important new steps to coordinate and standardize weapons production, to set up a liaison system with other allied defense groups in the Middle East, Asia, and Latin America, and to tighten scientific and technical cooperation.

The allies are planning to set up a new system of pooling scientific information to exploit the west's brainpower in the technological race with Russia.

Here and in most western capitals, officials are saying privately that the NATO meeting could not come at a worse time.

There is growing feeling in official quarters, therefore, that the President should make the Paris trip if at all possible to help shore up sagging allied cooperation and morale.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles plans to leave Washington for Paris Thursday. He wants three days of final preparation on the scene for the meeting. Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy left Friday.

Nativity Scene Being Finished

The finishing touches of the Pampa Nativity scene are being applied by Mrs. Claudine Vail and Mrs. Jeanette Lyon, who are working in the old Perkins Drug building.

The women have been working during the past week adding touches to the old scenes and painting new scenes to be used along with the originals.

According to reports received from the Chamber of Commerce office, Pampa is the only city in this territory who has scenes of this nature on display in their city. The Nativity Scenes used in Pampa are painted by citizens during their own time, free of charge and strictly as a community service.

Contributions have been coming in from various groups and organizations to help with the upkeep of the scenes which have become tradition in Pampa. The Twentieth Century Club, the most recent donor, has given $10 to forward the touch-up of the Nativity Scenes.

Mrs. Lynn Boyd will act as coordinator of the program when the scenes are lighted in Central Park on Dec. 18 with a program being given by the speech and music departments of Pampa High School under the direction of Mrs. Boyd.

British Show Fears Of Summit Meet

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG
United Press Staff Correspondent
LONDON, Dec. 7 (UP)—Responsible British officials today privately expressed fears that the forthcoming NATO summit conference will do more harm than good.

Doubts and pessimism mounted as the time of the Dec. 16-18 meeting in Paris drew near.

The American satellite fiasco at Cape Canaveral, Fla., Friday dealt a heavy blow to United States prestige and leadership in Britain and was expected to weigh heavily on the Paris talks.

Other Reasons
Among the other reasons for British pessimism were:

—Anglo-American quarrel with France over shipments of arms to Tunisia, which France angrily opposed.

—A British dispute with West Germany over support payments for the 60,000 British troops stationed in the country.

—French suspicions that the United States and Britain seek to "dominate" the NATO alliance to the detriment of France and the smaller member nations.

—The boost to Soviet prestige and the consequent lessening of American prestige by the Soviet Sputnik launchings.

—Unhappiness among many of the smaller NATO nations over U. S. plans to set up a chain of rocket bases on their territories.

Trees For Windbreaks Available

Seedling trees for windbreak planting around the farm or ranch stand are available from the Texas Forest Service again this year, according to Gray County Agent Ralph Thomas. The species available are Australian pine, ponderosa pine, red cedar and Chinese elm.

The delivered price of the seedlings this year is $3 per hundred, which the Texas Forest Service says is barely enough to cover shipping costs and production.

Order blanks may be obtained from any County Extension office, and Thomas says that the secretary in his office will be happy to fill out order blanks for people desiring trees.

Orders must be received by the Forest Service by March 31, but Thomas advises putting in the order as soon as possible, as the supply may be exhausted before the final date.

According to Thomas, all four varieties are recommended for high plains planting, but of the plains, the Australian pine is not adapted for windbreaks. On shallow soils, only red cedar and Chinese elm are recommended, while on deeper sandy soils the ponderosa pine may also be planted.

With the supply of subsoil moisture available this winter, Thomas says that he believes the trees have the best chance of survival they have had in several years.

Texas Holiday Death Toll, 205

AUSTIN, Dec. 7 (UP)—A total of 205 persons will die violent deaths in Texas during the 12-day Christmas-New Year's holiday period, the Department of Public Safety predicted today.

The prediction, compiled by N. K. Woerner, manager of statistical services, forecast 113 traffic deaths, 48 suicides and homicides and 44 accidental deaths.

During the comparable 12-day period last year, 108 persons died in 89 traffic accidents. The prediction called for 115 traffic deaths.

Homicides and suicides during last year's holiday period totalled 51. There were 39 accidental deaths.

Gov. Price Daniel inaugurated a traffic safety program Friday aimed at saving 100 lives in December.

Col. Homer Garrison, head of the DPS said that "from all indications, the two week-end during the forthcoming holiday period will be high accident periods."

Racket Group Continues On Teamsters

By DAYTON MOORE
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (UP)—The Senate Rackets Committee heard testimony today that one Teamsters Union official threatened a Knoxville, Tenn., grocer because his store was dynamited and that another was on the scene when the blast occurred.

B. B. Powers, the food market operator, said his store was dynamited Sept. 5, 1956, less than 48 hours after he was threatened with "trouble" by William J. Reynolds, then president of the Knoxville Teamsters Local 621. He said Reynolds made the threat because he was selling soft drinks bottled in a plant that Reynolds claimed was on strike.

Two other witnesses testified that W. A. (Hard-Hearing) Smith, business agent of Nashville, Tenn., Local 327, was near Powers' store about the time of the dynamiting.

The main item on the agenda will be the submission and approval of the plan of work by the board. The committee chairmen of the 14 work committees will be on hand and will also be presented to the board for approval.

Lunch will be served preceding the business meeting. The 14 committees of the chamber are chosen each year and plans of work laid out in order that the functions of the chamber will proceed unhindered with different projects being under direction of appropriate committees.

John C. Chapman, a youthful sheet metal worker who now lives in Baltimore, and Luther C. Hargis, 32, of Knoxville, identified Smith from pictures as one of three men they saw in a Cadillac near the store.

Committee Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) criticized Knoxville police for laxity in handling the still-unresolved dynamiting case.

Teamster Ouster To Head Off Labor-Crippling Laws

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Dec. 7 (UP)—AFL-CIO officials today counted on the purging of their ranks to head off enactment of labor-crippling laws.

Leaders of the shrunken federation said they were more concerned about what Congress might do next year than possible reprisals by the giant truck union.

The AFL-CIO convention Monday will be asked to approve labor's policy on legislation before taking further steps in the clean-up campaign.

Votes on ousting the 160,000-member bakery workers union and the 75,000-member laundry workers were not due before Tuesday. Expulsion for both was assured by the near 4 to 1 vote that got rid of the teamsters. All three unions are accused of failing to remove corrupt officials from office.

Delegates to the AFL-CIO convention enjoyed an off-day after the dramatic session at which the 1,500,000-member truck union was sent packing. Teamsters officials left town but pledged not to start a labor war.

Other developments:
—About 275 delegates from some 50 dissident bakery union locals assembled to prepare a plea for an AFL-CIO charter in case their union gets tossed out. There was no indication from the Texas Highway Department, according to D. C. Greer, state highway engineer.

Greer stated that the money would be spent in an improvement project which will include a channel change and erosion control at McClellan Creek, 8.5 miles north of McLean, on State Highway 273.

The State Highway Commission has approved this appropriation to improve already existing highways in this county.

"We should have this program moving by spring," Greer said. The improvement project at McClellan Creek became necessary after heavy rains last spring caused a change in the channel which has resulted in heavy damage to the north approach of the bridge and on one occasion resulted in damage to a supporting pier.

Hereford Breeders To Meet Tomorrow

Directors of the Top of Texas Hereford Breeders Association will meet at 2:30 Monday afternoon in the conference room of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce office.

According to Clyde Carruth, president of the association, the main item on the agenda will be the discussion of details of plans which are being made in reference to the 1958 Show and Sale, to be held in March.

Daniel Enjoys Political Calm

AUSTIN, Dec. 7 (UP)—Gov. Price Daniel enjoyed his first period of political calm in almost 60 days.

Bitter controversies stemming from two consecutive special sessions enveloped October and November.

However, before Daniel can relax for the Christmas holidays, a desk load of important decisions remained to be made.

Foremost among these was the question of whether the Governor will veto or allow to become law a bill aimed at forcing the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People to disclose its membership.

The measure sparked a sharp fight in the House and received final approval in the Senate by a one-vote margin.

The Governor may sign the bill, allow it to become law without his signature—or veto it. Daniel told newsmen his action depends on a thorough study of the bill.

Barring an opinion from the attorney general challenging legality of the measure, a veto seemed unlikely.

Daniel attended a testimonial dinner Friday night at Sulphur Springs honoring Rep. Joe Chapman, a leader of the East Texas segregation bloc that fought for the registration bill.

Additionally, the Governor classes the NAACP as more foe than friend. The organization, he reminded newsmen, fought him in his race for governor. Since then, the NAACP has nettled Daniel by accusing him of all the crimes attributed to King George of England in the American Declaration of Independence.

However, the Governor said he "hopes" these factors won't influence his decision.

Also awaiting action by the Governor was his "anti-troop" bill, enacted in the first special session. Ultimate approval by Daniel of this measure was certain. He told newsmen it was just a question of getting around to signing it.

The Governor has also expressed hope that between now and Christmas he can clear some 80 appointments, long pending, to various state boards, bureaus and agencies.

Top Appointments
Among the top appointments on which Daniel is expected to act in the near future is that of selecting a successor to H. A. Beckwith on the Board of Water Engineers. Beckwith's appointment expired on Aug. 9. However, he serves until a successor is named.

Watson Named API Chairman

Johnny Watson of Pampa was elected chairman of the Panhandle Chapter of the American Petroleum Institute at the chapter's banquet last night in the Bona Vista cafeteria, west of Borger. He is an employee of the Humble Oil Company.

Other officers elected and installed last night were: Frank J. Storm Jr. of Amarillo, first vice-chairman; M. B. Rogers of Pampa, second vice-chairman; Max Bolick of Pampa, third vice-chairman; and Martin F. Ludeman of Pampa, secretary-treasurer.

J. G. Clenney, recently transferred to Snyder, is retiring chairman of the chapter.

The banquet was attended by approximately 425 members and guests.

The speaker, Cullin Aiken, an Odessa, businessman, spoke on various topics. He concluded by stating, "It looks to me like one thing that's wrong with the oil fields is that too many people want something for nothing. And they don't care what it costs to get it."

Local 'Cowhands' To Have Holiday

Ten young cowhands from the famous Cal Farley's Boys Ranch near Amarillo will be spending the Christmas holidays in Pampa. They are Jimmy Dodd, Charles Morris, Doyle Morris, Bobby Glen Harrison, Charles B. Harrison, Kenneth Ray Harrison, Stanley Forrest Lawley, Darrell Wayne Turner, Otis Ray Shaw and Robert Earl Shaw.

Nearly every one of the 236 boys who call Boys Ranch their home will leave the Ranch for a 12-day vacation with one parent or another, relatives or friends. A few of the boys will celebrate Christmas with a Ranch buddy.

The boys will be traveling to homes all over Texas and to 33 other states and a big Christmas party, on the evening of December 20, will precede their departure the following day. A dinner, chapel services and the presentation of gifts and special packages will be a part of the boys' annual party.

Christmas packages of dress clothing the boys will receive are being made possible through special donations of $26 from friends everywhere. The clothing is purchased by the Ranch at cost or below and the $26 provides a complete dress suit or sport outfit for a boy.

The boys will stay in Pampa for the holidays and then return to Boys Ranch on Jan. 2.

Little Rock 'Just Quiet'

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 7 (UP) — Little Rock's racial problem is not settled. "It's just quiet." Winthrop Rockefeller told an interracial goodwill meeting Friday night. The wealthy industrial and civic leader said his adopted state of Arkansas may suffer economic losses as a result of the turmoil over admission of Negroes to Little Rock Central High school. Rockefeller spoke before about 500 whites and Negroes at the 11th annual dinner of the Oklahoma City Urban League. He said he believed the racial problem will be solved eventually. Describing himself as a "moderate" on racial issues, Rockefeller said such persons were without leadership during the fight between Arkansas Gov. Orval Faubus and federal authorities. "A great number of moderates were left without leadership or means of expression," he said. "They are gradually putting their heads together and seeking solutions." Community activities which promote understanding and goodwill are essential to offset intolerant forces, he said, and time will work to the advantage of the moderates. "Each progressive year as children get out of school, they will Bruce Nurseries, 13 miles southeast of Lefors on the Alanreed Highway, has reported that it will give free Christmas trees to any civic or church organization which will come after it. The trees are Pyramidal Arborvitae and stand from six to 10 feet tall and are from four to six feet wide. They are to be given to any charitable organization in the Top of Texas, according to Paul M. Bruce, with the only requirement being they must be picked up at the nursery. They will be cut down by the nursery.

I. B. Hughey Rites Set

Mr. I. B. Hughey, longtime resident of Pampa, died Friday shortly after arrival at a local hospital. He had resided at 321 N. West for 52 years. Mr. Hughey was graduated from Grayson College and taught school in Sherman, Tex., for several years before coming to Pampa in 1905. He was the second superintendent of schools in Pampa and was secretary-treasurer of the National Farm Loan Bank for 23 years. He also served as secretary-treasurer of the Wheatgrowers Association. He was engaged locally in farming and ranching until his retirement in 1950. Mr. Hughey was a member of the First Christian Church. Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Catherine Hughey, Pampa; one daughter, Mrs. Johnny Hines of Pampa and one grandson, John Bourdon Hines, of Pampa; one brother, A. A. Hughey of Mountain View, Ark.; three sisters, Mrs. Willy Wilks of Pampa, Miss Elgin Hughey of Almagordo, N.M., and Mrs. George McGowan of Vega.

Pampans Attend Cancer Meeting

The 12th Annual Meeting of the Texas Division of the American Cancer Society met in Austin on Dec. 5 and 6. Representatives of III-N District were Dr. Carl Lang, official delegate of the Pampa Chapter and Mrs. Jack Foster, Woman's Lay Director of the State Board. Dr. David A. Wood, past president of the National American Cancer Society spoke to the convention and Dr. J. L. Cochran, vice-president of the Texas Division, headed a panel discussion of Pathologists and doctors. The afternoon session of the first day of meeting was devoted to four groups of discussion gatherings. The banquet was served in the Crystal Ballroom of the Driskell Hotel where the convention was held at 3 p.m. Paul Reinhold, president of the Atlas Equipment Company in Pittsburg, was principal speaker at the banquet. In the second day of convention, Dr. Melford R. Runyon, representative of the National Society, spoke on "Where the money goes, how it is used and the purpose of having a cancer fund." Group discussions were held in the afternoon by doctors and layity of the convention. Lunch was again served in the Crystal Ballroom and Mrs. L. Dudley, vice-president of the Texas Division presided. Ten-year service awards were given with none going to persons in this area, according to Mrs. Foster. A Board of Directors meeting was held later with Travis T. Wallace, present chairman of the Texas Division in charge.

Yugoslavia Cancels Aid

BELGRADE, Dec. 7 (UP) — Yugoslavia has cancelled all future U.S. military aid because of the U.S. Senate "re-examination" of the arms program makes it too uncertain, reliable sources said today. The sources said President Tito informed U.S. Ambassador James Riddleberger of the decision Friday at Brioni Island, an Adriatic retreat where Tito is recuperating from an attack of lumbago. The conference was "very friendly" and Tito emphasized that the decision would not harm the development of friendly economic and political relations between the two countries, the source said. Tito was quoted as saying that the removal of the thorny problem of arms aid would help improve relations. The United States cut off military aid to Yugoslavia last October when Tito's regime recognized communist East Germany. "Each progressive year as children get out of school, they will

Two Men Held For Forgery

Two men wanted in Gray County on charges of forgery were arrested in San Antonio yesterday. Sheriff Rufe Jordan stated that Don Lewis Long and Alfred Miller were arrested by a Texas Ranger yesterday. The two men were turned over to the sheriff of Belton County on similar charges and will be brought to Pampa later in the month. Jordan said that the men forged a check on Mrs. Hattie M. Clegg, 506 N. Frost, in the amount of $326.40 on Aug. 7, 1957. He stated that the two men checked on a termite exterminating job they had performed for Mrs. Clegg in 1956 and that before they left town, they forged the check.

Wasson has been in the furniture business for 20 years and has in stock a complete line of period and modern furniture along with appliances and accessories. Wasson and his wife reside at 1203 Rham and have been in Pampa approximately one month. All stock in the store is nationally advertised with a moderate cost of purchase for fine furniture, including standard dinette suites. Wasson, along with Johnny Clauch, Mrs. Martha Trantham and David Marlar, all employees,

Great Interest

The analysis and examination of the not-completely burned out remains of the carrier rocket and the "blishment of the site of their fall are of great scientific interest," a communique issued by the Soviet Tass news agency said. Echoing the charges Friday by Soviet Communist party chief Nikita S. Khrushchev that the United States retrieved the rocket "on American territory" and "will not give it back to us," the Soviet academy said it "requests the scientists of the U.S.A. to report data on the places where remains of the carrier rocket of the first artificial satellite fell and to forward all remains of which are found to the following address: USSR, Moscow, Academy of Sciences." In Washington, the White House said it had checked everywhere and "nobody knows anything" about Khrushchev's claim that the rocket fell on American soil. HOLLYWOOD TODAY!

MOVIES—TELEVISION
By Erskine Johnson
NEA Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (NEA)—Hollywooders are talking about Sid Caesar's long-time TV straight man and occasional comedy stooge, Carl Reiner, headed for his film debut in MGM's celluloid version of the Broadway comedy, "Tunnel of Love." He'll play a philandering neighbor of Glenn Ford and Doris Day in the film "Dana Andrews and Jane Powell teaming up for 'Typee,' the Herman Melville classic being filmed in Acapulco, Mexico. . . . Zsa Zsa Gabor saying she'll be billed in the future minus her last name. On the theory, I guess, that the world is full of Gabor's but there's only one Zsa Zsa. . . . Film industry analysts reporting a 1,500,000 increase in adult movie-going since October. . . . Marlon Brando and Ann Kashfi dating the stork. But don't ask me the name of the grandpa. . . . Terry Moore and Fox calling it a day, with Terry's vow: "I'm pulling a Piper Laurie—I'm dead serious about becoming a good actress."

A CHICAGO THEATER'S decision to climb on the TV bandwagon. When the house played the movie, "Brass Legend," its marquee read: "TV's Hottest Stars—Wyatt Earp and Perry Mason in 'Brass Legend.'" The names of the stars, Hugh O'Brian and Raymond Burr, were listed in smaller letters beneath. Ben Gazzara may be "the most huggable villain since the youthful Humphrey Bogart," but movie producers dangling gold before his eyes aren't finding him very huggable. Dark, moody and young (27), Ben has been turning down scripts like movies were going out of style ever since his zoom to Broadway stardom in "A Hatful of Rain" and "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof."

BUT IT ISN'T because he's an "arty dreamer" or anti-Hollywood or a lad unhappy about the box office flop of "The Strange One," a filmed-in-Florida movie. In Hollywood from his New York home for "The Troublemakers" on Playhouse 90, he told me why he's been a strange one to Hollywood. "I respect motion pictures too much," he said, "to do bad ones." And no one can argue with that statement. He missed doing the film version of "Hatful" because Fox wanted to star him in four other films as part of the deal "and I didn't want to do four other films." But now it looks like MGM will get him for the film version of "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof."

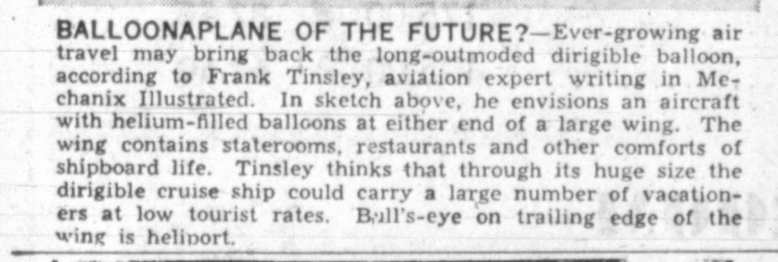

THERE'S ALSO another Broadway stage play—a romantic comedy—waiting for him. Switching from heavy drama to comedy is his idea of what "all young actors should do these days." Ben spent the summer in Italy where he was expected to wed his long-time pal, actress Elaine Stritch. But he church said no and they called it off. But he told me, "It's not a big breakup. We're thinking it over."

Ed Wynn tells it about the movie producer raving about a glamorous doll. "She has stardust in her hair, stardust in her eyes, and stardust in her lips," he enthused. "Himmmmm," said a cynic, "what a dust pan." That advertisement in "The Observation Post" gave Hollywoodites a chuckle. It read: "Slightly used cannon for sale. Reasonable. Dragged across Spain by three movie stars."

Not in the Script: Red Buttons about his ill-fated TV career: "I'm a guy who's got scars. When I talk another TV series, I won't make the same mistakes." Overheard: "I'm so full of penicillin that if I sneeze I'll cure somebody." . . . Universal will remake "Imitation of Life," if Fox will lend Deborah Kerr for the role. . . . Jayne Mansfield's wordage about Mickey Hargitay, the musclemans she'll wed in January: "He's the man who has everything—ME." . . . The separated Rock Hudsons are giving it the old Hollywood try. Dinner dates but then he goes to a Beverly Hills hotel and she goes home. . . . Vivian Blaine says she's nixed stepping into Ana Sothorn's shoes for new chapters of "Private Secretary." "It would be," said Vivian, "like a comic following Bob Hope." On and off stage, for that matter.

MONKEY PARTY SLATED
DENVER (UP)—A chimpanzee will play Santa Claus to 40 monkeys in an annual Christmas Party at the Denver Zoo. Each monkey will get a Christmas package from a chimp obtained by Mrs. Billie Shannon of Idaho Springs, Colo., who has been conducting the party for 20 years. A Christmas tree, decorated with later be given to a needy child especially for the monkeys, will later be given to a needy child. A chimpanzee named "Buttons" who performs on a local television program, will hand out the gifts as Santa Claus. He will assume the role of Mrs. Shannon's own monkey, "Skipper," who was Santa Claus for the party for years, until he died in 1952. The party will be held outside if the weather is good. Otherwise, it will be conducted in the monkey house. It will be held Dec. 22.

BALLOONPLANE OF THE FUTURE?—Ever-growing air travel may bring back the long-outmoded dirigible balloon, according to Frank Tinsley, aviation expert writing in Mechanix Illustrated. In sketch above, he envisions an aircraft with helium-filled balloons at either end of a large wing. The wing contains staterooms, restaurants and other comforts of shipboard life. Tinsley thinks that through its huge size the dirigible cruise ship could carry a large number of vacationers at low tourist rates. Bull's-eye on trailing edge of the wing is heliport.

Army Hay Supplier Gets Compensation

By EDWARD COWAN
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—A judge's knowledge of drought in America's "Dust Bowl"—and his flair for describing it—has figured in a $1,480 award to an Army hay supplier.

U. S. Court of Claims Chief Justice Marvin Jones of Amarillo, Tex., found a "severe weather" clause in his contract and found it worth about 9 per cent of the hay man's claim.

The Vinita Hay Co. claimed that it lost $17,298 in 1952 selling hay to the Fort Reno, Okla., quartermaster station because of a drought.

Adlai Dispatch Called 'Hoax'
WASHINGTON (UP)—A spokesman for Adlai E. Stevenson pinned a "hoax" label today on a dispatch published in the London News-Chronicle under the byline of the two-time Democratic president.

But the judge said "it seems like placing a penalty on energy or integrity" to deny the claim, when Vinita went to such lengths to "perform."

Penalty on Integrity
The judge said "it seems like placing a penalty on energy or integrity" to deny the claim, when Vinita went to such lengths to "perform."

Then he commented on Oklahoma weather: "The hot winds come and sweep with blistering trails across the prairies, the heavens become like brass and the earth as iron. The small streams go dry, the leaves wither and the growing grass becomes seared. . . ."

William Blair, Stevenson's assistant, said neither the former Illinois governor nor any member of his staff had either written or authorized the dispatch, which sharply criticized the Eisenhower administration.

The dispatch said the President and his staff "sacrificed truth" and "the respect and confidence of our friends abroad" for political advantage. It also criticized administration plans for the forthcoming NATO "summit" meeting in Paris.

Administers Acreage
The Forest Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture administers 181,000,000 wooded acres in "It shouldn't have been cut. . . we needed all that money (for defense spending)."

GRAY COUNTY Soil Conservation District News
By JIM SMATHERS
Work Unit Conservationist
During the past week, a live- stock water dam was staked on the Charlie Webb place, located southeast of Lelaton. Locations were also made for erosion con- trol dams on the same place.
Billy Davis has recently com- pleted an erosion control dam on his about 11 miles south of Lefors. This dam was constructed to cut water off of a large diversion ter- race that had been washing and to reduce other erosion that had started.
The installation of a concrete pipeline has been started by Mor- ley Doss on his irrigated farm southwest of Pampa.
The benefits of good cover crops could be seen this past week on farms in Gray County. A couple of dieds that did not have litter or some kind of cover could be seen blowing.

Recruiters Offer Christmas Special
Local Army recruiters have an- nounced that they have a "Christ- mas Special" to offer.
Persons enlisting in the Army now can take a holiday vacation and then start their Army career off with the New Year.
Enlistees can pin point where they want to serve, overseas or stateside. The US Army is the only service that lets high school grad- uates pick their school before en- listment. Army recruiters say, "Remember you get choice, not chance, from your Army recruit- er." The Army recruiting office is open in Pampa on Monday, Wednesday and Friday. Or, call BR-2322 in Borger.

During the past week, a live- stock water dam was staked on the Charlie Webb place, located southeast of Lelaton. Locations were also made for erosion con- trol dams on the same place.
Billy Davis has recently com- pleted an erosion control dam on his about 11 miles south of Lefors. This dam was constructed to cut water off of a large diversion ter- race that had been washing and to reduce other erosion that had started.
The installation of a concrete pipeline has been started by Mor- ley Doss on his irrigated farm southwest of Pampa.
The benefits of good cover crops could be seen this past week on farms in Gray County. A couple of dieds that did not have litter or some kind of cover could be seen blowing.

Recruiters Offer Christmas Special
Local Army recruiters have an- nounced that they have a "Christ- mas Special" to offer.
Persons enlisting in the Army now can take a holiday vacation and then start their Army career off with the New Year.
Enlistees can pin point where they want to serve, overseas or stateside. The US Army is the only service that lets high school grad- uates pick their school before en- listment. Army recruiters say, "Remember you get choice, not chance, from your Army recruit- er." The Army recruiting office is open in Pampa on Monday, Wednesday and Friday. Or, call BR-2322 in Borger.

How Ridiculous

Governor Price Daniel has called the Legislature back into special session, a political expedition which will cost the taxpayers of the state $15,000 a day. Two pieces of blatant nonsense—an anti-lobby bill and an anti-troop bill—have occupied the legislators for quite some time, accomplishing nothing unless it is to soothe the feathers of the delegation from East Texas.

The anti-lobby bill, as it is misnamed, is a clumsy and impossible attempt to set aside the Bill of Rights without abridging our Constitutional guarantees. It is full of sound and fury, signifying nothing. It would outlaw stealing, perjury, bribery and bribery—which activities already are illegal in Texas, although widely practiced; and it would add the notation that it is illegal also to tempt our senators and representatives with the baubles unless you have duly registered yourself as a paid cad.

Phui! More deplorable and lots funnier is the proposed "anti-troops" bill, as the governor has called it. It provides that "the (local) school board may close the school" in case of "violence or danger thereof."

This, mark you, is permissive legislation. If the school boards of Texas don't already have the authority—indeed, the duty—to shut down a school to prevent children's heads from being bashed in, then we suppose they need to be told.

The bill goes on to provide that "if, upon order of any federal authority, the National Guard or any other military troops or personnel are employed or used on public school property or in the vicinity of any public school for direction or control of the order, operation, or attendance at such school, the school board having jurisdiction shall close the school."

This is not permissive legislation; it is mandatory. Consider: if there is danger of a child losing his life in violence, the school board MAY close the school; but if federal troops arrive, however uneventfully, then the school board MUST shut down the factory. Lord, what logic!

Then, the bill sweeps on to its majestic ending: "The fact that public education under martial law or military occupation is wholly unsatisfactory and contrary to the concepts of freedom and democracy, and that it would be extremely detrimental to the well being and education of the school children of this state to be required to attend public school under the force and surveillance of military troops . . . etc., etc."

We just don't get it, Price. What is "undemocratic" about the biggest fish swallowing the smaller one? If the state has taken over the local schools, why shouldn't the federal government take over the state schools? What is inherently good about state control and bad about federal control?

Why is it repugnant to send a child to a school "under the force of military troops" and beneficial to send the child to a school built and operated by the guns of the sheriff, the state national guard and the other police powers of the state which require compulsory school attendance and compulsory support of public schools by all taxpayers?

Now, honestly, these are birds of a feather. And the way out is to have private schools—lots of them—just as we have private churches which get along without federal troops, violence, bloodshed and eternal strife and discontent.

BETTER JOBS

Herbert Hoover On Results Of Our Schools

More and more people are beginning to see that there is something definitely wrong with our schools and colleges. If we are to judge by results.

One of the wire services carried a story about Herbert Hoover making an address recently at a dinner of the United Engineering Societies in New York's Waldorf-Astoria. The story quoted him as saying "this nation had better wake up to the failures of its educational system or knuckle under to the greatest enemy of all mankind—the Communists."

Hoover called on the taxpayers, the school boards, (and) the Parent-Teachers Associations to realize the situation is "critical"—that the educational system has failed to provide the United States with enough scientists and engineers.

He added: "It seems that it required Sputnik to awaken the country to certain facts of life. The answer, however, is not more Sputniks but something right down to earth."

The wire service continued, under the heading, "U. S. Slipping..." "Hoover pointed out the situation has been investigated, reported upon and its critical necessity thundered by the scientific and engineering professions during the past 10 years.

"The trouble is that we are turning out annually from our institutions of higher education perhaps fewer than half as many scientists and engineers as we did several years ago. The Communists are turning out two or possibly three times as many as we do."

"Hoover pinned a major part of the blame on the nation's high schools..."

Hoover's suggestion "Hoover suggested more high schools be consolidated into institutions for special training for the entrance requirements of universities and technical institutes."

"He added: "The parents in this country are allowing talented youngsters to be educated as desk workers—a career already overcrowded—at less future pay than they can earn as a bus driver. And this, at a time when the scientific profession yield great rewards and great dignity."

"But this is an old story to all engineers, and we are grateful to Sputnik and to President Eisenhower for his vigorous statement of this national need."

It seems that Hoover still believes in coercion. He doesn't seem to believe in a free market for education. He even wants the parents to direct the lives of their children.

When children are led to believe that somebody is going to give them an education whether they earn it or not or whether their parents pay for it or not, they do not appreciate it. And when the student person has as much to say with his vote about those who will teach and what they will teach, as the wisest man, we cannot expect very much results. There are always more visionless people than there are people with vision. They always outvote those with vision.

While Russia uses force, it also uses discipline. Our teachers hold their jobs being popular rather than stimulating the youth to have the will to learn. The results of our educational system are just what could be expected. They are just as useful as religion would be under the control of the state.

Teachers Greatly Handicapped. And, of course, the teachers in compulsory schools are greatly handicapped. They have to teach what the politicians direct and under conditions they legislate rather than teach what they believe will stimulate the youth to develop his faculties.

The fact that many of the larger magazines and more and more people are beginning to see the deficiencies in our educational system, is encouraging. If our educational system paid a little more attention to respecting the initiative of the peoples of other lands, as well as our own people and had reverence for the lives of all people, there would not be such a need for engineers to create instruments of destruction, instruments of war.

Our failure in the educational system is a moral failure. Just as can be expected when it is based on compulsion.

A RIGHT AND AN OBLIGATION (Industrial News Review)

Beginning on Oct. 22, the McClellan investigating committee changed direction. Leaving for the time being, its inquiries into racketeering and other abuses within the labor unions, it has looked into possible abuses of a kind in the part of management.

It is, of course, perfectly proper and necessary, and is in accord with the committee's purpose as defined by Congress. Immoral practices in management are every bit as indefensible as immoral practices in the unions and should be exposed.

Clamor For Economy Going Unheeded Now

By Thurman Sensing

KEEP THAT BUDGET BALANCED!

There was a very disquieting note in the President's speech at Oklahoma City on November 13, 1957. It was when he said that Americans "will not sacrifice security worshipping a balanced budget."

Now, there is nothing wrong at all in that statement by itself. It is in the implication contained therein that the disquieting factor lies; namely, that in order to provide ourselves with security, it may be necessary to sacrifice a balanced budget.

What the President should have made clear to the American people is that that alternative just is not there. Security can be provided along with a balanced budget, if the Administration and the Congress and the American people only have the will to do it that way.

In other words, the President should never have raised the question of a possibly unbalanced budget. He should have recommended increased expenditures for defense, if he thought they were necessary, under a balanced budget; and then, if it did not turn out that way, it would be the fault of the Congress and not of the Administration.

In fact, it is to be wondered just which "Americans" and how many of them the President was speaking for when he made this statement. The likelihood is that he was falling into the common error of so many politicians who claim their own attitudes as the attitudes of the "American people", and the President probably meant that the Administration "will not sacrifice security worshipping a balanced budget."

How does he—or anyone else—know what "Americans" will do? It is entirely true, of course, that our national security must be "first of all firsts" in this country, as the President pointed out. But neither the President nor ourselves must overlook the fact that a sound economy is a most essential part of national security. What we are trying to do is to preserve a way of life in this country, from all dangers everywhere, within and without. If we allow our economy to be destroyed, either by unwise fiscal management within or by pressure for additional expenditures from without, we can be quite sure our way of life will go right along with it—and that without a shot being fired. There is surely no sense in spending ourselves into bankruptcy in order to protect ourselves militarily.

It has been the open boast of the Communists that they will eventually cause us to spend ourselves into destruction—and we should never get the idea that this is not possible, for it certainly is. Continually rising national debt, continuous unbalanced budgets, continued inflation would all work together to destroy us, and then the Communists could take over without any risk on their part whatever. We would do the job for them.

The antidote, of course, is gradual reduction of the national debt, ranking the necessity for a balanced budget as an essential part of the "first of all firsts," and a return once more to an honest dollar. If along with all this, we find it necessary to deny ourselves certain budgetary benefits to which we have become overlong accustomed, then let us face it

The Doctor Says

By Edwin J. Jordan, M. D.

An exceedingly difficult question comes from M. T., who asks for my opinion on what I consider a "favorable" climate for a person who has chronic bronchitis.

Unfortunately, it is not possible to come right out and say that someone afflicted with chronic bronchitis will get completely well, or even improve remarkably, if he will only move to such and such a place. This holds true also for a number of other ailments which are sometimes considerably affected by the climate of residence. I shall have to discuss this matter, therefore, in general terms.

A few diseases are more common in some climates than in others. For example, there are fewer people who suffer from sinus infections or from rheumatic fever in tropical and subtropical parts of the world than in the stormier regions farther north.

MOVING FROM one climate may result either in an improvement or worsening of a particular ailment. This is perhaps particularly true for the diseases involving the nose, throat and lungs; that is, the breathing or respiratory system.

Should a person with some of these diseases move to a warmer climate? The answer is "not always" because no one can count on getting better by such a move. Furthermore, it is as hard to decide where to move as it is to decide to move at all.

Some bronchitis and sinus sufferers, for example, improve in parts of the southwest, like Phoenix and Tucson in Arizona, whereas others may actually become worse in those regions.

Southern California and Florida are also popular areas. THE PROBLEM is complicated by the fact that some sufferers from any one of these disorders do well in one place and not in another. Consequently, anyone who is considering changing climate on account of disease can only pick what looks like a desirable spot and then try it for several months. Even if results are good for them, it may not be for someone else.

Why a change of climate should be helpful in some cases is not quite clear. Most warmer regions do not have the variation in temperature from season to season that is present in northern regions. Also, there are likely to be fewer storms, and storms seem to be hard for some human bodies to take. For example, there is a tendency toward fewer

JACK MOFFITT

The Cracker Barrel

Though it was published in 1954, Igor Gouzenko's "The Fall of a Titan" remains one of the greatest novels concerning Communism of our time. Gouzenko is the code clerk who fled from the Soviet Embassy in 1951 to expose a vast Red spy ring. His story is a thinly disguised fictional account of how Stalin liquidated the great Russian literary genius, Maxim Gorky. But it's more than that. It is an exposure of the Kremlin's contempt for all "intellectuals" and its delirium of ruthlessness and hardboiled realism. Yes, through the world, "intellectuals" persist in a suicidal determination to ignore forty years of bloody Communist practice and continue to promote Marxism. Gouzenko explains it in these words: "With out noticing it, they become infected with a disease very common among so-called broad-minded intellectuals—THE DISEASE OF SUBCONSCIOUS EGOTISM. STAND APART FROM SOCIETY, TO CONTRADICT. As a rule, it turns 'broad-minded intellectuals' into narrow Philistines; into the exact opposite of what they imagine themselves to be."

New York Police Compare Terribly With French

By HENRY McEMORE

PERPIGNAN — To anyone raised on New York cops, the French gendarme takes a lot of getting used to. He is too nice to be true. In New York — and in most other large American cities for that matter — the "copper" is too busy to give you the time of day. Only the purest yokel, one whose hair is still wind-blown from the slammung of barn doors, would ever think of interrupting in New York bluecoat for information.

To ask for directions is to get a stare that makes you forget where you wanted to go in the first place, and, if the information is granted, it is usually given with a few jerks of the thumb. The "copper" makes it quite plain that he is far too busy with whatever he is doing to give aid and comfort to the bewildered.

In La Belle France, the gendarme seems to place the citizen first, with the preservation of law and order, and the even flow of traffic, following in that order. Nothing is too much of a bother, and the manner in which he grants a request is downright courtly.

The French cop makes you feel as if you're doing him a great favor in asking for help. This even goes for the traffic cops in the middle of a busy intersection. Only a mad fool would stop his car alongside a traffic policeman at home and ask for directions. To halt the progress of traffic for even six seconds is looked upon as a cardinal crime by the officer, and the questioner would be shocked along his way as if he had asked for the loan of a pistol.

Here in France the traffic cop greets the motorist as if he (the cop) were lonesome and just dying for someone to talk with. He tips his cap, bows from the waist, and all but offers to get in the car and personally drive you to your destination.

Often he will quit his post in the middle of the street, wave you to a parking spot by the curb, and leisurely point out the way. True, this plays havoc with traffic. It tangles, snarls, backs up and gets generally clogged. But the French gendarme couldn't seem to care less. You are lost, and it is his duty to help you find your way.

Here in this busy little city I pulled to a stop beside a traffic cop and asked him to recommend a good restaurant. Not only did he recommend one, but he went into details concerning the food and suggested that I try the speciality of the house, broiled chicken with a superb sort of devil sauce.

During all this, cars stacked up behind my car, but the cop was as unconcerned as if he had been seated at a sidewalk cafe. He took a cigarette I offered, and had time for a dozen puffs. I am sure that this gallantry by policemen, as helpful as it is, would not work at home. Americans would get out of their cars and have a "gr" at the gallant cop, or simply drive around him and be on their way.

Working Harder Given As Recipe For Guns And Butter

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA) — Every man, woman and child in the United States will have to tighten the belt, pay more taxes and do without butter so that America can have more missiles and catch up with the Russians.

This is the line most commonly heard in Washington these days. People wait for the leaders to tell them what to do without.

But big, blunt-spoken Lemuel R. Boulware, vice president of General Electric, came to town the other day to put over the idea that all this sacrifice isn't necessary at all.

What's more, it is Boulware's opinion that all — or most all of the research problems of atomic aircraft, intercontinental missiles have been solved. What's needed now is for someone in government to make decisions and tell industry what to produce.

Boulware is something of an authority on crash programs. In World War Two he was vice chairman of War Production Board. As such, he was given absolute, clear-like authority over American industry on three different occasions.

Twice it was to build landing craft for the North African and Normandy invasions. The other time it was to build a destroyer escort fleet of submarine killers. Building missiles today to beat the Russians calls for the same kind of a high priority, all-out production drive. But —

"We don't have to choose between butter and missiles to fix cases of illness and even a lower death rate in regions like Australia and Argentina which have few storms."

Some medical investigators are inclined to place great emphasis on climate and weather in relation to disease. Although there is no complete agreement on this matter, further study on the relationship between climate, weather and a number of human ailments may make it possible in the future to answer questions like Mrs. T.'s more accurately.

So — if this 20 per cent slack in American production could be taken up, everything that the government needs in the way of missiles could be produced without strain.

Boulware insists he is not advocating any return to the speed-up evil.

"We don't want people to go home from work Friday night nearly as tired as they come back to work on Monday morning after one of our typical weekends," he explains with a grin.

Boulware gained considerable reputation as a tough guy, though a jovial one, in handling General Electric's labor relations after the war. His big crusade now is to make the purposes of business better understood. He thinks they are now widely misunderstood.

"A surviving business," he says, "is a place where people can come together and do more for each other than if they worked separately."

"The maximum economic and social service is performed by a business when it helps people cooperate. But ideas of cooperating for a common purpose are now resisted by changed attitudes."

These changed attitudes are what he says is responsible for the estimated 20 per cent lost productivity.

"Too many people have been taught that the way for each of us to have more is for each of us to do less. People have even been led to believe that doing useless work — or standing around drawing pay when the work has been taken out of a given process — is the way for each of us to live better."

"Solve this one problem of the ill-advised attitude," says Boulware, "and we could produce 20 per cent more with the same facilities and personnel — and still live 20 per cent better."

The "engraver" beetle, which bores elaborate patterns under the bark of trees, runs up a damage bill of more than $2,000,000 annually in forests of the United States.

'Maverick' Topping Sullivan And Allen

By VERNON SCOTT
United Press Hollywood Writer

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Ed Sullivan and Steve Allen have called off their rating feud to battle a common enemy, a pair of mavericks named Bret and Bart.

Big surprise of the 1957-58 TV season is the way "Maverick" has stolen the thunder (and audience) from the two big variety wheels.

On the air only 11 weeks, the hour-long horse opera passed Allen in the Trendex rating the second week out of the barn. It took six weeks to catch Sullivan. Now that it's out front, "Maverick" is pulling away fast. Last Sunday it trounced Allen by eight points and Sullivan by five.

The show scared Jack Benny by coming within seven digits of his show.

Success of the new entry is credited to its rough and tumble stars, Jim Barner (Bret) and Jack Kelly (Bart), who are as ruggedly hell-for-leather off screen as they are on the program.

Won't Needle Opposition
Both are delighted their show is whipping the opposition, but they refuse to needle the slipping emcees.

During lunch the big guys spent their time ribbing one another about Kelly joining the show six weeks after it went on the air.

"Turning out an hour show on film was too much for one actor," Garner explained. "I was working 14 hours a day, and we were falling behind schedule. So we decided to write a brother into the script."

"That's his story," Kelly put in brashly. "The ratings were lousy and they needed some real talent to pull it out of the hole."

"He's crazy," Garner fired department of chemistry and chemical engineering, listed five "do-nots" which "even the most highly-trained scientists follow in the field of rockets and propellants."

1. Do not play with home-made rockets to demonstrate the principle of a rocket. Instead use a rubber balloon or one of the commercial solid-propellant rockets available in hobby shops.

2. Under no circumstances should potassium or sodium chlorate be played with. The chlorates are very unstable and when mixed with sulphur or zinc can explode easily rather than burn. The perchlorates can also explode when improperly handled.

3. Do not use mixtures containing finely divided metals such as aluminum and zinc. Powdered magnesium must not even be considered. All such mixtures can readily be ignited by a spark from static electricity.

4. Never try to ignite a rocket with a match held in your hand. Experimental rockets are always fired by some remote means from behind a barricade and observers are never permitted to come near the rocket during testing.

5. Never launch a rocket from a simple wooden trough or stove-pipe.

Warren pointed out that the Department of Defense spends millions of dollars annually to build facilities where scientists can work safely.

latest thing in weapons may be started to learn that it just isn't so.

Rockets are old hat.

An article in the July, 1854, issue of Harper's magazine shows conclusively that when it comes to rocketry, there's really nothing new under the sputnik.

They didn't call them by impressive names like Matador and Atlas and Jupiter and Titan, or even Bazooka, but it seems that "Rockets, considered as projectile weapons, were of great antiquity in India and China."

Fired In Napoleonic Wars
The unsigned Harper's article, written 103 years ago, revealed that big rockets were first used by warships in 1806 at Boulogne, during the Napoleonic wars.

"It was less than half an hour after the commencement of the attack," the article said, "that the town was observed to be on fire in many places, and the damage effected was doubtless very great... Lord Lauderdale, while passing through Boulogne shortly after the attack, was vigilantly watched, lest he might observe that "very pretty visitors" Copenhagen was the target of "very heavy rockets" lobbed much-feared weapons were used in many land battles, among these the Battle of Waterloo, where rockets wrecked "sad havoc" and helped give Napoleon his coup de grace.

The rockets of that time were 8 to 10 feet high and weighed up to 300 pounds. The anonymous writer of the Harper's article observed that "ery pretty visitors these to come hissing into the midst of a town!"

Used Chinese Principles
In pre-Civil War days, war rockets were called "Congreve rockets" after their developer and ardent exponent, Sir William Congreve. This gentleman, a sort of latter-day Werner von Braun, modestly insisted that all he did was perfect the rocket principles of the Chinese.

Soviet Union Gives America Another Advance To Match

Foreign News Commentary

The week's good and bad news in the international balance sheet:

Russia gave the United States another advance to match when it announced the launching of the world's first nuclear-powered surface ship, the 16,000-ton icebreaker Lenin.

Three days before, the keel of the first American nuclear-powered surface ship had been laid at Quincy, Mass. — the cruiser Long Beach.

French Premier Felix Gaillard won a vote of confidence in parliament on a bill that would give him emergency powers to meet a serious financial situation. The vote was 223 to 187.

The bill would authorize the government to raise $250 million in new taxes. Gaillard proposes also to raise government-controlled prices and to refuse pay raises to civil servants.

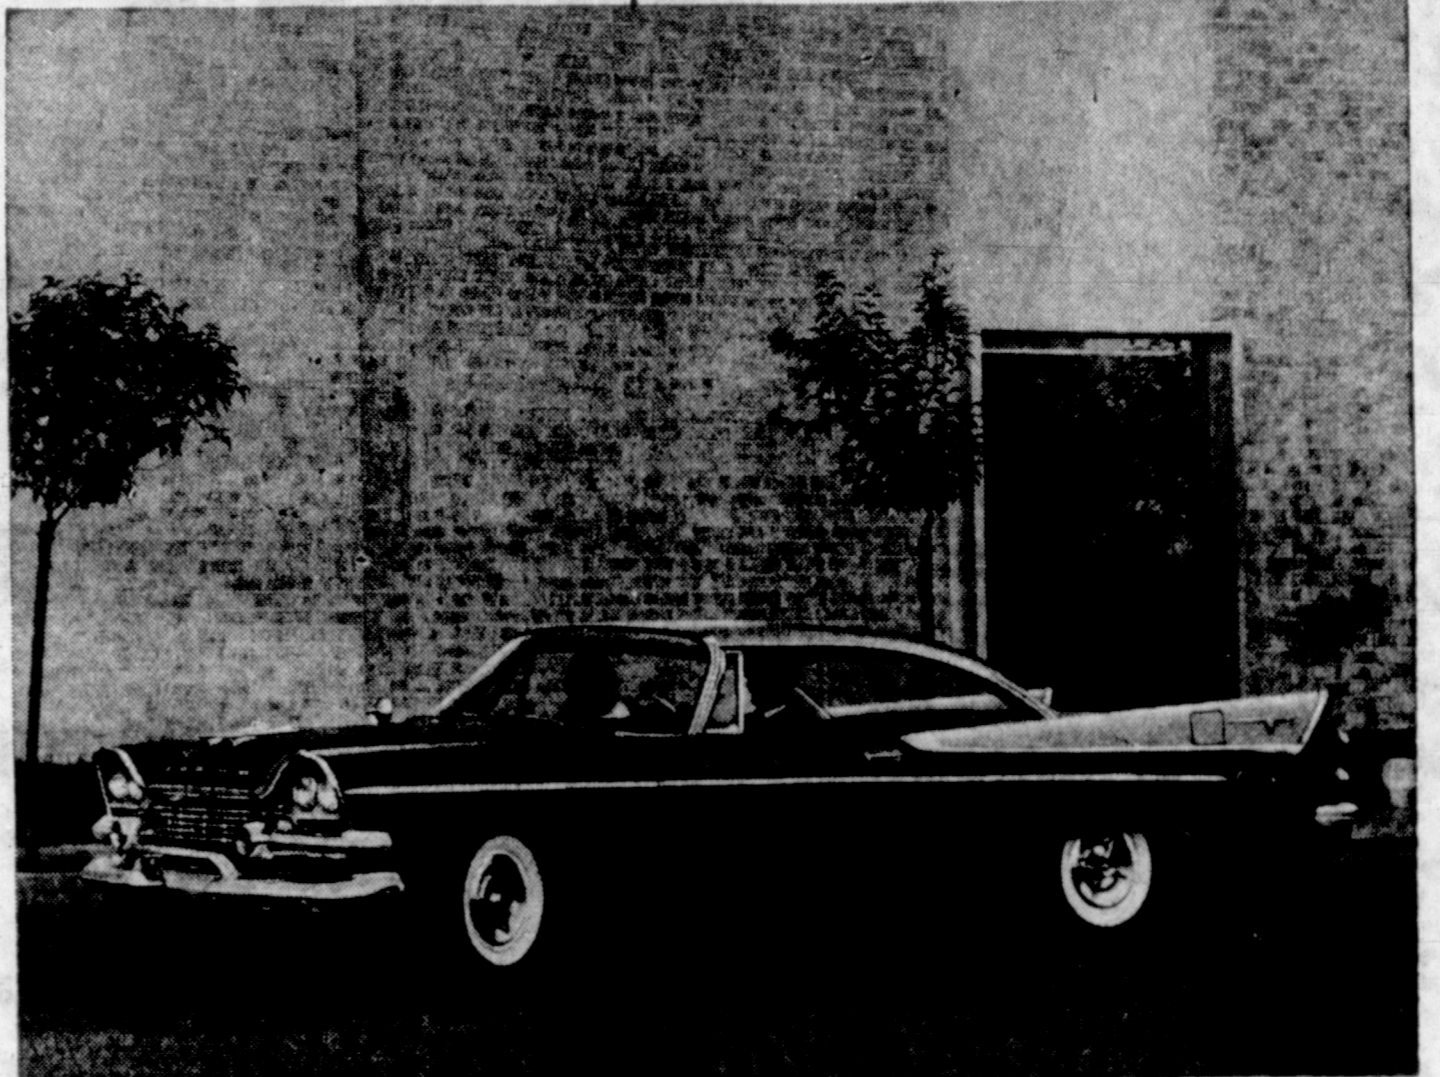

But the tax bill is still to face a final vote and the threat of a defeat which would force his resignation still hung over Gaillard's head.

Relations between the Netherlands and Indonesia, its one-time possession in East Asia, reached the crisis stage.

Angered by the Netherlands refusal to give it Dutch New Guinea, and by its failure to win United Nations support for its claim to the territory, Indonesia launched a drastic anti-Dutch campaign.

An officially sponsored 24-hour strike was declared against all Dutch enterprises in Indonesia. Dutch publications were suspended. Landing rights of the Royal Netherlands Air Line were withdrawn. Dutch consulates were ordered to close. The government threatened to nationalize the $1,500,000,000 holdings of Dutch interests in Indonesia. Many merchants refused to sell even food to Dutch citizens.

"ALMOST, BUT NOT ENOUGH" is our verdict on how close competitive cars have come to matching the Swept-Wing 58. Take style. Other new cars are "almost" as low in inches, but still seem high and boxy in looks. Some of them are "almost" going to fins, but not enough to really make a difference. Then take performance. None of the other 1958 cars have anything to match the sway-free, dip-free, vibration-free ride of Torsion-Aire. (It's standard equipment.) Most of them still don't even have push-button driving! So after you've seen the "almost" cars, come in and drive a Swept-Wing 58. You'll see why we say: They're catching on, but they can't catch up.

Sports Roundup

By CHARLES CULLIN Pampa News Sports Editor

The 1957 Harvester season opener got off to an odd start last Saturday night in Childress when the game ended in a maze of confusion as to who won.

The whole controversy concerned a late field goal by a Childress team member, so that if counted, would have won the game for the Bobcats, 49-48.

When a question was raised, both officials, Gordon Hire and Bill Castleberry, announced that it was their decision. This itself was in error, as the rules provide for the decision to be made by the timekeeper, who by this time had reversed somewhat and refused to state definitely one way or the other, even though the decision was his to make.

COACH McNEELY offered to play either a three minute overtime or another full quarter, but this was turned down by the Childress coach. It seemed unlikely that a game would not be decided upon at all, and the Pampa team left Childress under this impression.

After, however, the Harvesters had departed, the Childress school superintendent, J. W. Hamilton, contacted Dr. Ray Williams, state athletic director in Austin, and related the story. Dr. Williams stated that if the timekeeper would not decide, then the officials would be the ones to rule on the question. As the officials had been the ones to signal the points, they signed the score book and a Childress then considered it a victory.

The game was not protested by Pampa coaches, being non-conference and being played mainly for the experience. But with an inexperienced enced timekeeper and two officials in error on the court, it gave Childress a rather shaky victory to decide on the matter with the Pampa team already on its way home. But due to the statement passed by Dr. Williams, it will stand as a win for the Bobcats.

CHILDRESS PRINCIPAL R. T. Smith stated that the main trouble was in the fact that Pampa didn't like being beaten by an AA ball club. He said there was no doubt as to the fact that Childress won. He went on to say, however, that he was not able to attend the game himself.

Force of Habit THE ABILENE EAGLES left little doubt yesterday as to who fielded the strongest team, and a lot of the fans are wondering why the Eagles were polled as second best through most of the season.

The Sandies held up through three quarters but fell to pieces in the late minutes of the game. The Eagles are going to win a 4th their ninth state playoff game, having a 6-3 record for past play off tilts. They were state champions in 1923, '28, '31, '54, '55, and '56. They lost the final game in 1922 and '27.

Amarillo was shooting for its seventh crack at the title, having won in 1934, '35, '36, and '40, and placed as runner-up in 1930 and '48.

The Passing Fords Ken Ford of Hardin - Simmons University ranks as the No. 1 passer in the nation for the past season. He was named to the All-Border Conference team and was listed as honorable mention for All-American. In four years he has passed 591 times, completing 269 for 3,546 yards and 29 touchdowns.

In 1949 and 1950, Ken's older brother John "Model T" passed the Cowboys in national prominence when he tossed 26 scoring replays for a national record. John was three times named to the All-Border Conference team.

Harvesters Sweep Two Week End Victories

Defeat Elk City, Okla. In Home Opener, 95-81

The Pampa Harvesters surged to their second victory of the season, the Elks made one aggressive thrust early in the second quarter as they tied the score, 25-25, but fell behind at halftime, 32-40, and were unable through the second half to close the margin again. Pampa led at the end of the third quarter, 73-36.

Four of the top five Harvesters were closely grouped in scoring, with guard Bill Brown leading for the evening with 23 points, followed by Coyle Winborn at 19, Bob Gindorf with 18 and Mack Layne with 16.

For Elk City, Max Savage ranked as top scorer with 26 points, followed by Eddie Peach with 22. Coach Clifton McNeely's charges looked smooth as they unleashed offensive power in a consistent manner to roll up the high scoring victory.

Gindorf turned in an especially brilliant game with outstanding rebound and tip-in action throughout the night. He gained the exceptional mark of 88 per cent on field goals by dropping seven in eight attempts and rostered a straight 100 per cent on free throws, having made good all four of his attempts.

In reaching the high-point mark for the night, Brown gained 77 per cent on free throws, hitting seven of nine. Winborn also came in for a share of the high percentage with 75 per cent, sinking nine field goals in 12 attempts.

Other scorers for the evening were Ray Stephenson with eight points, Charles Minor with four points, Larry Cruise with three and Don McGuire with two.

Pampans Down Vernon To Score 3rd Straight Win

The Pampa Harvesters swept to their third straight victory of the season last night as they rolled over the Vernon Lions, 85-52, in a game played in Lion Gymnasium. Mack Layne paced the Harvesters through the evening hitting nine field goals and 10 free throws to rank as high-point man with 28 points. Coyle Winborn garnered seven field goals and four field goals to place second with 18 points.

For the Lions, Jackie Phillips poured through six field goals and nine free throws to lead the losers with 21 points.

Despite a height disadvantage, the Lions stayed within reaching distance of the Harvesters throughout the first three quarters. Pampa led at halftime, 38-31. Bill Brown, scoring eight points, played brilliant ball as he set up Layne and Winborn for numerous scores.

Pampa broke the game wide open in the third period when they reeled off eight straight points to stretch the margin to a 15 point lead.

Working off the height of Winborn and Layne, the Harvesters came through with 47 rebounds off the opposition's backboard.

Next game for the Harvesters will be Dec. 10, when they host Vernon in Harvester Field House, followed by a two-night stand at home with Hobbs, N.M., Dec. 13 and 14.

Shockers Down Vernon 'B'

The Pampa Shockers moved to another win last night as they defeated the Vernon "B" team, 45-39, in a game preceding the Harvesters tilt.

Craig Winborn paced the victors with 20 points, followed by Karl Kitto, who accounted for 12. For the losers, Jerry West ranked as high scorer with 22 points.

Previously, the Shockers lost to Claude in their opening tilt of the season, and followed by downing Childress "B" and Phillips "B" before last night's game with the Lions.

North Carolina Takes 33rd Straight Win

CHAPEL HILL, N.C., Dec. 7 (UP)—National champion North Carolina opened its basketball season today by romping to its 33rd straight victory, 79-55, over Clemson as game captain Tommy Kearns led the way with 32 points.

Coach Frank McGuire's Tar Heels, named No. 1 in the nation again this season in the United Press Board of Coaches pre-season ratings, shot off to a 29-14 lead at halftime and coasted to victory.

Clemson never threatened as the Tar Heels led all the way. The Tigers, however, picked up the second half when the Tar Heels cooled off after a fast opening. Kearns was the star throughout. He teamed in the starting lineup with Pete Brennan and Bob Cunningham, the other two returning starters from last season's champions, and two sophomores, 6-9 Dick Kopley and 6-7 Lee Shaffer.

Kopley and Brennan fired the opening North Carolina shots and then Kearns, taking long passes, drove repeatedly to the basket and dropped in the layups. The Tar Heels ran the count to 15-1 with the game 10 minutes old and had it 33-9 shortly before the period was over.

The Tar Heels, with reserves playing much of the way, had difficulty getting started in the second half.

Wellington Skyrockets Sweep McLean Basketball Tourney

The Wellington Skyrockets took the championship in the McLean basketball tourney last night as they defeated McLean, 60-30, in the final tilt. Facing the Skyrockets was Jerry Elliott with 17 points, while Jack Bailey and Joe Howard tied for honors on the Tiger squad with ten points each.

In the consolation final tilt, the Groom Tigers rolled by the Lefors Pirates, 64-46. Leon Anglin sparked for the Tigers by sinking 20 points and Leroy Miller ranked as top man for the Pirates with 22 points.

In the girls division, the McLean team took the championship with a 63-47 win over Wellington, with Laura Mae Sweitzer accounting for the high mark of 36 points for McLean, and Sherry Bownds ranking as high scorer for Wellington with 18 points.

The girls' consolation playoff went to Shamrock over Lefors, 65-39. Running close in the scoring, Dickie Neely placed high for Shamrock with 22 points and Rebecca Rice paced the Lefors team with 23.

All-Tournament teams named after the final game are as follows.

Men's Division Most Valuable Player - Jerry Elliott, Wellington. All-Tourney Players: Jack Bailey, McLean. Ferris Woods, Wellington. Roy Sessions, Canadian. John Eschley, Groom. Pat Wilkins, Wellington.

Girls' Division Most Valuable Player - Laura Mae Sweitzer, McLean. All-Tourney Players: Natalie Herndon, McLean. Ann Griffen, Shamrock. Yelda Bell, Wellington. Jerry McPherson, McLean. Sherry Bownds, Wellington. Rebecca Rice, Lefors.

Crow Named UP Player Of The Year

Player Of The Year By JOHN GRIFFIN United Press Sports Writer NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (UP)—Line-smashing John Crow of Texas A&M, a young man mighty serious about a future in pro football, was named today as the United Press college football "Player of the Year."

Crow, previously honored as "Back of the Year" in a similar nationwide poll by the United Press, was an overwhelming winner of the latest award with 88 votes against 25 for his nearest rival, speedy halfback Walt Kowalczyk of Michigan State.

Alex Karras of Iowa, the "Line man of the Year," took third with 21 votes. End Jim Phillips of Auburn was fourth with 14 and half-back Bob Anderson of Army fifth with 12.

Crow All-Around Back Crow's 1957 performances marked him as a brilliant all-around back and also made him a marked man for the professional football scouts. A rugged runner who admits he has more fun crashing through the line instead of running around it, was a work-horse on offense, carrying the ball 129 times and gaining 562 yards with six touchdowns.

Sandies Fall To Abilene, 33-14

AMARILLO, Dec. 7 (UP)—Abilene's soaring Eagles pulled three successful trap plays in the second half today to rout Amarillo 33-14 and continue on its way to an unprecedented fourth straight Class

AAAA championship. A record of 22,000 watched. The Eagles used a daring play early in fourth quarter to puzzle the favored Sandies as they drove from a 14-14 halftime tie to their sixth straight victory. The Eagles had a shaky 20-14 margin when they went to their bag of tricks in the final period. They had the ball in a fourth down - 10 to go situation on the Amarillo 40 yard line.

Colvin Makes Down They dropped back to punt formation, but Chuck Colvin, the short back, took the snap from center. On a center trap, Colvin burst up the middle 14 yards for a first down on the Sandies 26.

Then, on the next play, Abilene pulled another trick - a reverse trap. It worked over left tackle and Colvin went all the way into the end zone for a 36-14 lead over the mystified Sandies.

Coach Chuck Moser's team scored once more. Stan Cozy went 87 yards on another reverse trap - this time over right tackle.

Cozy Gains Cozy, a little 5-10, 155 pound speedster, was the game's no. 1 rusher, gaining 107 yards in 12 carries. Amarillo started off like it was going to stop the longest winning streak in Texas schoolboy history. The Sandies scored the only touchdown of the first quarter and Abilene was behind for the first time since 1954, when Breckenridge beat the Eagles.

Second-ranked Abilene tied it up

Redi-Mix Takes ToT Invitational

The Redi-Mix basketball squad took the Top of Texas Invitational Tourney the hard way last night as they battled up from the losers bracket to down the Amarillo Air Force Base team, 78-77, in the first tilt and 78-48, in the nightcap.

Previously beaten by the Air Force basketballers, the Redi-Mix team dropped to the losers bracket and downed Holmes, 94-77, Friday night for a berth in the playoff tilt last night. The first title game last night went into overtime before the AF team was turned back

Six teams will be competing in the tourney, including Panhandle, Claude, Groom, Clarendon, Sunday and White Deer. Finals in the tournament will be played Saturday night.

Boxers Take Team Win Over Dyess

Two TKO's Highlight Bouts With Rugged Dyess Fighters

Pampa's Optimist Club boxers took their fifth team victory of the season last night as they battled to eight of ten match wins with the Dyess Air Force Base squad in Recreation Park's arena.

Highlighting the evening was a wild swinging fray in the final event with Pampa's Bobby Wilhelm taking a decision over the powerful Jesse Nurse of the Air Force Squad. Both fighters scored staggering punches throughout the three rounds, with Wilhelm taking a knockdown in the final round to take an edge in the decision. Nurse rebounded, however, undazed to finish the fight.

Displaying exceptional power from the AF team was Bob Haden, from Compton, Calif., who scored a TKO over Floydada's Grant Cooper in 13" of the first round. The two fighters had exchanged only a brief series of blows when Haden landed a smashing right to the head of Cooper, sending him staggering into the ropes.

In another top-notch battle, fans saw Pampa's Jesse Ring drop a hard-fought decision to Manuel Flores of the Air Force. Flores, from Los Angeles, Calif., battled Ring in the welterweight division.

Gary Wilhelm, another of Pampa's well-known boxers, found a top match in Maurice Gagger, of Washington, D.C. Wilhelm, who ranked as runner-up to state champion in last year's Golden Gloves tourney in Fort Worth took the decision in the hard-slugging battle.

Scoring another of the TKO's for the evening, John Fred Brown of Floydada stopped Dave Hatcock of the Air Force in 23 seconds of the second round. Hatcock gamely fought Brown in the initial round but was staggered early in the second by a series of hard rights to the head when the fight was called.

In one of the roughest bouts of the evening, Charles Snyder took a decision over David Harris. Snyder and Harris battled constantly, with Snyder gaining the lead and decision in the final two rounds.

Other bouts, by weight, were as follows: 118 Pounds - Lucky Dunham of the First National Bank team took a close decision over Carl Conway of Dyess in a crisp, fast-swinging battle.

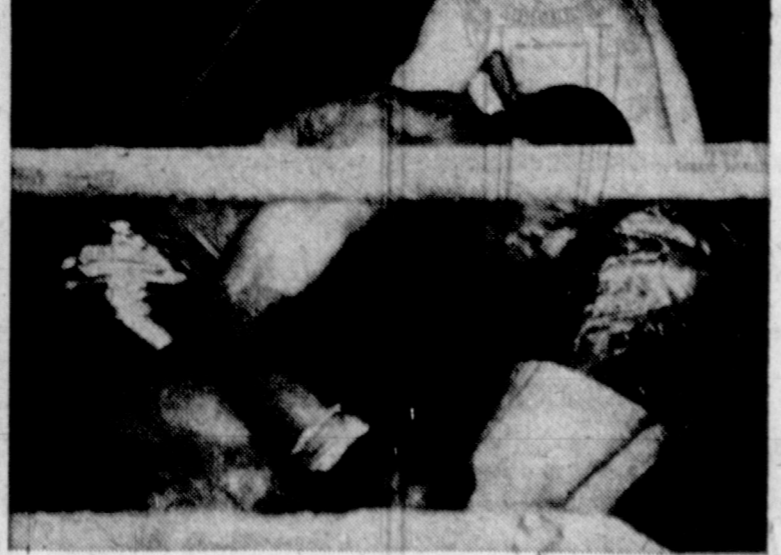

126 Pounds - Charles Coffee battled Joe Fabrizio of Trenton, N.J., to a close decision in a hard contested battle.

135 Pounds - Scooter Darden of Borger took the decision over Gary Allen of Ogden, Utah. Jim Murray, one of Pampa's top fighters, took a decision over William Stam of the Air Force. Cautious in the first round, both boys opened up in the final two, with Murray gaining two hard flurries of blows in the late seconds of the final round.

Norman Rexroat and Robert Bigham, both of Pampa fought an exhibition match in the 140 pound division.

Next bouts will be with Amarillo, Borger and Memphis on Dec. 12, followed by San Angelo on Dec. 19.

Reapers Take First Games Of Season

The Pampa Reapers opened their 1957 season during the past week by rolling to two victories in their first two encounters on the schedule.

Tuesday night, the freshmen basketballers rolled by Palo Duro, 44-35, with Pat Carter pacing the team with a high mark of 20 points. Benj Richardson ranked as second high scorer in the opening tilt by accounting for 18 points.

Friday night, the Reapers gained their second win of the season as they downed Elizabeth Nixon Junior High of Amarillo, 43-25. Again it was the combination of Richardson and Carter doing the bulk of the offensive work, with Richardson ranking first with 18 and Carter following closely with 14.

Next game on tap for the team is Tuesday in Amarillo when they clash with Sam Houston Junior High of Amarillo. The Reapers are coached by Pernal Scoggin.

ACC SHUNS NIT

GREENSBORO, N.C. (UP)—The Atlantic Coast Conference has accepted a proposal to permit ACC baseball teams to accept an invitation to the National Invitation Tournament in New York. The NIT was once the country's most respected tournament.

By S. V. WHITEHORN
It has been six years since there was top bird shooting in the Panhandle. 1950 was an excellent year and '51 wasn't far behind but since then the hunting, on the average, has been poor. From most observations the quail shooting in Hutchinson and Roberts counties is just about as poor as it was in 1952. From seventy five to one hundred one of the poorest years for bird hunting. Even though the bird hunting is at its poorest this year, 1957 is quite different from 1952 in many respects.

In '52 there was practically no food or cover for the birds over as this year the food and cover is plentiful. There are more birds in the country now than then, but due to the large growth of grass and weeds the birds are very difficult to locate and more difficult to hunt. Two of the larger ranches in the Panhandle have privately closed the quail hunting on the respective ranches, and rightly so in my opinion, but nevertheless there are more than a dozen covets of bobs on each ranch. The birds on these two ranches, as well as others, will make the winter with plenty of fat. Weed seeds abound and there is an ample amount of green food also available. It is impossible to predict what amount of bird crop we shall have in 1958 but one thing is certain, conditions are perfect and will be through the winter for the upland game birds. In some areas the quail are more plentiful, G. H. Whitlock, of Shamrock, and two companions had little difficulty in getting their bag limit of 12 (the daily bag is twelve in the Panhandle) in two hours. The hunters flushed six covets in that length of hunting time.

The ideal country, or native habitat, for the bob whites is Virginia. The deep south is also well adapted for quail. The Texas Panhandle is on the outer fringes of the bob white home range. Where a condition such as this exists it is typical that there are high fluctuations in game populations. When we have a good bird year, in my opinion, we have far better quail hunting than farther east. Practically the whole thing is tied up to the rainfall in this area. Haywood McDaniel and I flushed 150 bobwhite quail in exactly 120 minutes a few years back on the Studer ranch. We were dog training. That's a lot of birds when you can find them at the rate of more than one per minute for two hours or more. The next year I turned down $350.00 for an unregistered dog which was sold a few years later for $35.00. When the bird population reaches the peak in this country the enthusiasm will also grow to the extent that a first class shooting dog will bring from one to five hundred dollars.

Now days, most of the dog owners, outside of a limited amount shooting, will have to be content with what they will be able to hunt that fall.

Celtics Rampage In NBA Loop

By UNITED PRESS
The Boston Celtics, the scourge of the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division, are making life miserable for the St. Louis Hawks of the Western Division, too.

The Celtics whipped the Hawks Friday night for the third time, 111-97, for their 18th win in 20 games and the Hawks' ninth loss in 19 contests. Frank Ramsey and Bill Sharman scored 31 points each for the Celtics, who remained unbeaten in eight home games.

The Celtics trailed, 65-57, three minutes into the third period but rallied to go ahead, 77-76, at 11:30. Then, they outscored the Hawks, 34-21, in the final period to win easily. Bob Pettit had 23 points for the Hawks.

Larry Costello's 20 points paced the Syracuse Nationals to a 118-91 win over the Detroit Pistons.

Browns, Colts Can Clinch '57 NFL Titles In Today's Game

By UNITED PRESS
The Cleveland Browns and Baltimore Colts will win the National Football League's 1957 division title Sunday if they can break two of the pro game's biggest jinxes. Cleveland can clinch the Eastern crown by whipping or tying the Lions at Detroit. The Browns lead the New York Giants by 1 1/2 games with only two to play.

The Browns-Lions game is rated a toss-up although Cleveland probably will play without its No. 1 quarterback, Tommy O'Connell. Off their past record against the Lions, the Browns will have a tough time winning at Briggs Stadium before a capacity crowd of more than 55,000.

Detroit is the only team that has been able to handle the Browns consistently since they entered the NFL in 1950. In 14 regular season, championships and regular season contests with the Lions, the Browns have salvaged only two victories and a tie. They never have beaten the Lions in a regular season game.

If Cleveland beats Detroit, the Colts can clinch Western Division honors by defeating the Forty-Niners at San Francisco. San Francisco, tied with Detroit a game behind Baltimore, is favored by 2 1/2 points.

The Colts also bump against a formidable jinx before a capacity crowd of about 60,000. They have won only one of 10 games they have played in California. They never have won at San Francisco, recording their only West Coast triumph in 1954 when Gary Kerkorian's field goal in the last 11 seconds produced a 22-1 triumph over Los Angeles.

The Giants open the week-end action against the Steelers at Pittsburgh this afternoon as 71 of the pro game's biggest jinxes. Cleveland can clinch the Eastern crown by whipping or tying the Lions at Detroit. The Browns lead the New York Giants by 1 1/2 games with only two to play.

Major Leagues Wind Up Meet Territorial Rights Battle Is Wide Open

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press Sports Writer
COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (UP)—Baseball's controversial bonus rule officially was dead today, but the battle over territorial rights was more alive than ever, with New York being declared "open territory" for anyone—even the departed Dodgers, if they wish to return.

The major leagues wound up what was probably the most hectic meetings in their history Friday, not only by killing the bonus rule, but by instituting a new type four-year unrestricted draft, raising the player salary minimum to $7,000 and waging a drawn-out fight for the territory left vacant by the departure of the Dodgers and Giants to California.

Boiled down, the battle stacks up this way:

Women's Tag Team Match To Feature Tomorrow's Wrestling

Feminine wrestlers take over the Sportsman Club in a big way tomorrow night as four grappling beauties will tangle in a main event, two-out-of-three fall tag team match.

Limited to one hour of combat, Nell Stewart will pair with Elaine Ellis in battling Betty Hawkins and Patti Neff in the highlighted spot of the evening.

The second event will pit Tokyo Joe against Paul of France in a two-out-of-three fall battle, which will be limited to 45 minutes. Paul is reputed to be one of the strongest men in the world, having performed many feats of weight lifting.

In the opening match of the evening, the girls have another battle as Elaine Ellis is scheduled to go one fall or 20 minutes with Patti Neff. The first event will begin at 8:30.

The wrestling is held each Monday evening at Sportsman Club, located one mile south of town on the Lefors highway. The Pampa Shrimers sponsor the matches, donating the proceeds to the Crippled Childrens Fund.

Admission is $1.50 for ringside; $1.25 for reserved seats; 90 cents for general admission adult and 60 cents for children.

Rangers Split Week Of Roundball Tilts

The Perryton Rangers had one win and one loss during the past week for the 1957 basketball squad as they defeated Spearman, 48-47, in an overtime game Tuesday night and fell to Stinnett, 51-43, in Friday night's tilt.

In battling the Lynx Tuesday night, Del Ray Mounts ranked as high point man with 23 points, followed by Harold Shiftlett and Howard Swink, sacking eight point each. For Spearman, Jimmy Green ranked as top man with 15 points, followed by Bill Wilmoth with 11 points.

As the Rangers fell to Stinnett Friday night, Mounts again came to the front as he led in the scoring column with 14, followed by Swink with 11.

The Rangers will enter the Spearman tournament next week, which is slated to begin Thursday to run through Saturday.

Junior High
The Rangers' junior high team came through with a successful week as they tagged two victories, the first over the Spearman junior high, 20-12, and the second over Hooker, 34-7.

Rangerettes Take Two

The Perryton Rangerettes, coached by Eddie Williams, made a clean slate for the week in the girls basketball loop as they edged by Spearman, 53-52, Tuesday night and defeated Stinnett, 43-25, Friday night.

Carol Thomas paced the team against the Lynx Tuesday with 24 points, followed by Martha Fyfe with 17 points. For Spearman, Mary Kay Pearson ranked high for the evening with 34 points and Mary Vernon placed second with 13 points.

In the Stinnett tilt, Carol Thomas again ranked as high scorer, accounting for 19 points, followed by Marjorie Swink with nine points.

The junior high girls basketball team also scored a victory in the Spearman series as they downed the Lynx J. H. team, 31-25.

Both the senior girls' team and the junior high squad will compete in next week's tournament in Spearman.

Lefors Women Honor Pirate Grid Team With Luncheon In Church

(Special to The News)
LEFORS — To climax the football season, the Women's Society of Christian Service was hostess to the Pirate Football team at a hot dog supper Wednesday, Dec. 4, in the basement of the First Methodist Church.

In order that the guests might attend mid-week services at their respective churches, the supper was held at 5:30 p.m., the welcome and blessing being given by Rev. Wesley Daniel.

Hot dogs, chili, potato chips, punch and ice cream were served to approximately seventy persons.

After the meal, entertainment consisted of games led by Rev. Daniel.

Women preparing and serving the food were Meses. Wesley Daniel, Bernard Johnson, J. F. Busseil, Bill Mullins, Earl Atkinson, and Bill Teal.

Guests were Messrs. and Meses. H. W. Callan, Edward Lemnick, Jerry Jacobs, G. N. Moulger, and the football boys and dates.

Tebbets Adds Six Pitchers To Cincinnati's Hurling Staff

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (UP)— Manager Birdie Tebbets of the Cincinnati Redlegs looked over the names of six new additions to his pitching staff today and proclaimed that Harvey Haddix, obtained Friday in a trade with Philadelphia, may be just the man he needed.

"We came to this convention knowing that we needed to change our pitching picture," said Tebbets. "And now we have six new additions. Maybe we can find the right combination."

Haddix was obtained in a swap with the Philadelphia Phillies, who got power-hitting outfielder Wally Post from the Redlegs in an even-up deal.

Managers of both clubs said they were happy with the deal.

"I hated to give up Haddix," said manager Mayo Smith of the Phils. "But we simply needed more power. Post was the best power hitter available and I think he will be a better ball player in our ball park. You gotta give up something to get something in this game."

Post, 28, batted only .344 last year, but had 20 homers and drove in 74 runs. He struck out 84 times. In 1955, his best year, he hit .309, waloped 40 homers and knocked in 109 runs.

Haddix is 32 and had a 10-13 record last year with a 4.05 earned-run average.

General manager Roy Hamey of the Phillies added that "we came down here to fix up our offense and Post fits the category."

It is expected that the Phillie outfield now will stack up with Richie Ashburn at center; Post in right and either Rip Repulski or Harry Anderson in left.

Tebbets said that he planned to use Haddix "both as a starter and reliever."

Dodgers To Remain In Los Angeles

(UP)— As far as Walter O'Malley is concerned, the Dodgers are in Los Angeles to stay, come referendums or high water.

O'Malley, the Dodger president, scoffed today at reports that he might take the team back to Brooklyn because of the referendum that will hold up start of construction of a 50,000-seat ball park in Chavez Ravine.

"That was a 'run away' story that a newspaperman put out in trying to find out what the possibilities were of another team going to New York," said O'Malley.

"Sure, there always is the possibility of the Dodgers going back. But we have absolutely no intention of doing so. We are quite happy in Los Angeles and are hopeful of playing there."

The Dodgers plan to play in Wrigley Field and-or the Coliseum in 1958, while they await the result of a ballot that will decide if it is okay for the City of Los Angeles to furnish some land on which to build.

Logart Ranks 8-5 Against Field After Dropping Ortega

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UP)— Cuban Isaac Logart became an 8-5 favorite against the field today to win the vacant world welterweight crown because of his impressive victory over Mexican Gaspar Ortega in the first elimination bout.

Cocky Ike from Camaguey, Cuba — home town of ex-welter champion Kid Gavilan — said he was "just playing around with Ortega."

Friday night as his crisp, short hooks hammered out a unanimous 12-round decision at the Cleveland arena.

Logart weighed 155 pounds to Gaspar's 145½ for their feature bout of the annual Cleveland News Christmas Fund show before 6,314, who paid $34,990. The bout was televised nationally.

Stocky Ike beat lanky Ortega so thoroughly that he now is favored to win over the four remaining men in the tournament to determine a successor to Carmen Basilio. Carmen gave up the 147-pound crown in September when he won the middleweight title from Sugar Ray Robinson.

With Ortega eliminated, the other four in the tourney are Gil Turner of Philadelphia and Vince

Martinez of Patterson, N.J., who doubtless will fight at Philadelphia sometime in January; and George Barnes of Australia and Virgil Atkins of St. Louis, who probably will be matched at New York in February.

Layne Acquitted Of DWI Charge

DETROIT (UP)— It's back to football today for Detroit Lions quarterback Bobby Layne who Friday spent an uneasy 7½ hours in Detroit traffic court before a jury of 11 women and one man acquitted him of a drunk driving charge.

Layne appeared dejected during the trial and even after the verdict was read it was moments before he smiled while courtroom spectators cheered the decision and Lion General Manager Nick Kerbawy rushed up to congratulate him.

"That was tougher than a n'y football game," said Layne who had been worried all week-long about the trial which had been postponed three times.

Peg O' Pampa

TO BE TRITE . . . the time is getting shorter and shorter . . . when we were young, it seemed that Christmas would never, never come . . . it was a whole year of months between Thanksgiving and the most important day of the year, outside of a birthday, to a child . . . now . . . it is hardly a fortnight . . . and a fast moving one at that . . . the Santa Day Parade was a LOLLO-PA-LOOZA . . . and what a superb day for it . . . but our little ones were disappointed that Santa didn't come over Pampa on a helicopter as he did last year . . . however, the candy in a sock was just as acceptable.

THE WEEK STARTED WITH A BANG . . . and may end with a whimper that we didn't get any Christmas shopping done at all as we planned to do . . . but the Pancake Supper was a huge success . . . and we mean huge . . . seemed like everyone living in Pampa showed up for the goodies . . . among them were Mrs. Carl Lang and children . . . and Mrs. Bob Norton with Christopher . . . Bev Fancher was drinking coffee . . . maybe waiting for husband Kay, who was Master of Ceremonies with the microphone . . . saw Maxine Watson as she was leaving . . . Ray Duncan spent some time flipping pancakes . . . Melvin Jayroe did a good job as chairman of the committee . . . swarms of children were excited about Santa Claus . . . no doubt they were glad of the chance to see him, especially if they missed getting to talk to him in the mob downtown at the parade, earlier . . . the bacon was particularly good . . . but we noticed that as the evening wore on the pancake flippers either improved with experience or grew weary and inaccurate, depending upon whether they began as recruits or veterans, respectively . . . Tommy and June Phillips played and sang . . . piano and guitar . . . remarkable brother and sister . . . with considerable talent it seemed to us . . . Mary Pursley played the piano, also . . . all this to entertain during the supper . . . all in all, it was quite a day . . . the whole affair is becoming it seems to us, a wonderful tradition in Pampa.

WE HEARD ABOUT A CLEVER IDEA which seems a nice thing to do . . . it seems that in some areas of Chicago the residents decorate whole blocks . . . in one theme . . . for instance, a few years back each family on a certain block affixed a big letter to its home so that one side of the street spelled out "Merry Christmas" and the other shouted "Happy New Year" . . . other blocks have used huge 10-foot-tall red candles . . . some used big bells . . . candy canes . . . or other appropriate motifs . . . but the point is that all of the houses in the block had one spectacular decoration . . . and the effect of a whole block of houses uniformly decorated was terrific.

IF LAST WEEK HAD A NAME . . . most week of the year do . . . somewhere . . . like National Poster Week, or National Chicken Week . . . or some such . . . it would have been, in Pampa, at least, "Bazaar Week" . . . with the Opti-Mrs. Bazaar and the St. Paul Methodist church bazaar . . . the things at the Opti-Mrs. bazaar were simply marvelous . . . the cutest felt doer-knob covers, with ribbons and bells . . . and adorable slippers made of washtuchs . . . we asked who made some of the items, but were told that everyone pitched in and made whatever she was best at . . . but we did find out that the gorgeous huck-towel-weaving was done by Mrs. Dewey Palmittier . . . and the incredibly beautiful doll clothes were made by Mrs. Ray Powers . . . there were hats, large picture style hats with rows of lace . . . there were taffeta and nylon net evening dresses . . . and coats . . . and little cotton frocks . . . and robes . . . and even a navy-blue taffeta circle skirt with a blue wool jersey boat-neck, three-quarter sleeve blouse to match . . . Mim Secret was one of the workers at the bazaar and she and Mable Crossland made the slippers we mentioned above . . . now for the St. Paul's Methodist bazaar . . . held in the Fellowship Hall . . . for those who didn't go . . . you missed something . . . the hall was decorated with red and green paper, the tables covered in white . . . and from the busy kitchen came odors of the most delicious fried pies we ever sank a fang into . . . Norma Autry, in a pretty red dress that complimented her dark hair, was taking orders for the pies . . . and the phone was ringing frequently with orders for more . . . and Virgie Matejowsky was delivering orders . . . back at the food table the most frequent request was for Loraine Helton's banana nut bread, which did, indeed, taste delicious . . . these bazaars each year are indeed a gift-hunter's paradise!

HOW ABOUT THIS FOR a gift idea for a youngster you know . . . give him a big, bright red, plastic dishpan, to be used as his private "lake" to sail his little boat on . . . someone else could add a bright green beach towel to be used as a "shore" around the "lake" and to help with the mess . . . the dishpan can be used for a hundred other things, too, according to the imagination of the child . . . well, we are trying to be helpful.

THIS AND THAT, HERE AND THERE . . . we were very sorry to hear that Mrs. Schuneman fell and broke her hip . . . saw Vera Davis who has returned from a trip . . . Matt and Ivey Duncan are back from a "winter vacation" . . . at Gulf Port . . . deep sea-fishing, we wonder? . . . we know he enjoys the sport . . . Clinton and Fern Henry are back from Mineral Wells . . . where they have been luxuriating in the baths . . . one of the first seasonal parties was the "Holiday Brunch" at the Country Club Saturday . . . Mrs. Clifford Braly . . . Mrs. Tom Braly . . . Mrs. Frank Carter . . . Mrs. Rex Rose . . . Mrs. Bob Tripplehorn were hostesses . . . heard Adrienne Foster talking about their trip to Dallas for the Thanksgiving holiday . . . and how they were in Neiman-Marus' store when King Mohammed V of Morocco was there . . . she said he was dressed in gray silk, and was not ornately "got-up" at all and some of the attendants looked more "kingly" . . . he seemed bored with the proceedings . . . she has gone to Austin to a meeting of the cancer society . . . or rather, she went last week . . . Maxine Dunham gave the program for the Pampa Couples Garden Club . . . we got a glimpse of the little booklet of meeting dates and programs at a friend's house and it sounds interesting from now to Spring . . . Macie Ann Batson is a beautiful bride-to-be . . . Curt Beck and his new wife, Willy are back in town after their honeymoon . . . seems like the bandmembers who play in the Parade get younger every year . . . there are bands in grade school now . . . we are going to remember to gather up the toys we have lying around, not being used, and give them to the fireman . . . may the best man win the race for Christmas . . .

see you next week,
Peg

Jo Ann Miller, Sonny Sullivan Pledge Nuptial Vows In Late Autumn Ceremony

With an exchange of vows on November 28 at seven o'clock in the First Baptist Church, Miss Jo Ann Miller became the bride of Sonny Sullivan. The double-ring ceremony was performed by Rev. M. E. Smith before a background of baskets of yellow and brown chrysanthemums flanked with lighted tapers in candelabra.

Miss Miller is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas S. Miller, 1232 Garland. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Sullivan of Archer City.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in white Chantilly lace over slipper satin and tulle fashioned with a stand-up Peter Pan collar and long sleeves tapering to bridal points over the hands. The slipper-satin ballerina-length skirt featured a scalloped peplum of Chantilly lace. She wore an elbow-length tulle veil of illusion, which was secured by a tiara encrusted with rhinestones and seed pearls. The bridal bouquet was fashioned with white rose-buds atop a white Bible.

Mrs. Bill Archer, matron of honor and Mrs. Duane Miller, bridesmaid, were gowned identically in bronze brocade styled with matching cummerbund. They carried yellow pom poms arranged on white muffs.

Lighting the altar candles were Miss Sue Sherer and Miss Eulene Moore, wearing yellow satin sheath dresses with a back drape extending from the shoulder to the hemline. They wore bronze pom pom wristlets.

Jackie Arrington served the bridegroom as best man. James Overstreet was groomsmen.

Misses Laura and Terrie Miller, sisters of the bride, were ring-bearers attired in bronze brocade dresses with yellow mum corsages. The rings were carried on a yellow satin pillow.

Miss Mary Kennedy, organist, played traditional wedding marches for the bridal party and was accompanied for Joe Whitten as he sang, "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The mother of the bride, Mrs. S. Miller, chose a Bermuda Blue dress of chamospun cotton and dacron with white and black accessories. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Sullivan, wore a two-piece suit-dress of lavender with white and black accessories. Their corsages were of white roses.

Guests were received in the lower auditorium of the First Baptist Church immediately following the exchange of vows. Miss Kennedy played background music during the reception.

The bridal table was covered with a lace cloth over yellow center and bronze pom poms. The white teed wedding cake was decorated with yellow fluting and white love-birds and topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom. Miss Sue Sherer served the cake. Pink frosted punch was served by Miss Eulene Moore. Assisting with hostess duties were Mrs. H. C. Hollingsworth and Mrs. Lester Stewart. Miss Patsy Monzingo presided at the guest register.

Out-of-town guests were Messrs.

MR. AND MRS. SONNY SULLIVAN and Mrs. R. M. Miller and family, Leveland; Bill Archer, Austin; Duane Miller, Wichita Falls; Hefly Morris and family, Archer City; Mmes. J. B. Miller, Hollis, Okla.; Morris, Archer City; Jackie Arrington and James Overstreet, both of Denton.

For a wedding trip to Dallas, the bride wore a coral, worsted knit, two-piece suit with black accessories and the rose-bud corsage from her bridal bouquet.

Mrs. Sullivan, who was graduated from Pampa High School, where she was a twirler in the band and a member of the Kit Kat Klub, entered Northwest Texas State College in September. She has been employed by Hughes Development Co. during the summer and plans to continue her studies in religious education at mid-term at NTSC, where her husband is completing his senior year. Mr. Sullivan was graduated from Archer City High School, where he was a member of the football team. He is a member of the Gizee Fraternity and is majoring in secondary education.

A pre-nuptial shower honored the bride, prior to her marriage, in the parlor of the First Baptist Church.

MARCH WEDDING

MISS CHARLOTTE JOYCE WRIGHT

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edward Wright, 16054 Valerio, Van Nuys, Calif., announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Charlotte Joyce to William Don Fuller, Los Angeles, Calif., son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Fuller, 813 E. Francis. The wedding is planned for March 1, 1958, in the First Baptist Church in Van Nuys. Miss Wright and Mr. Fuller are attending college. He is associated with the Atomic Energy Commission in the Research Department of Atomic International, a branch of North American Aviation.

Guild Plans Gifts For Boys' Home

St. Margaret's Guild made plans for a Christmas party to be given for all the women of the Church on Dec. 11 at 8 p.m. during its Thursday evening meeting held in St. Matthews Episcopal Parish Hall. Mrs. Lou Ballinger from St. Francis Boys' Home near Salina, Kan., and Mrs. Bob Plummer will present the party's program.

During the meeting, it was decided that instead of exchanging gifts everyone will bring money, gift wrapped, to hang on the Christmas tree. The entire amount will be given to Mrs. Plummer to purchase curtains for the boys' room in the Home.

Plans were also begun for the annual Parish meeting dinner to be held in January. St. Margaret's Guild will plan, cook, and serve the dinner. It is with this meeting that the new fiscal year for the church begins.

Announcement was made of the resignation of Mrs. Terrill Ziller, who will be leaving Pampa soon with her family. The Zillers are being transferred to Louisiana.

An informative and inspirational program was given by Mrs. W. J. Felter on "The Colonial History of the Episcopal Church."

Refreshments of date cake and coffee were served by Mrs. James Hart. Seventeen members were present.

Brownie Scout Banquet To Feature Third-Year Brownie Toastmistress

Girl Scout Neighborhood Round-table met at 9 a.m. Friday in the scout office.

Mrs. J. W. Dugan, public relations chairman, announced that plans have been completed for the Brownie Scout Banquet to be held on Jan. 11 in the High School cafeteria at 7 p.m.

The theme for the banquet is to be "Living Our Brownie Promise." Each Brownie troop is to make a table decoration carrying out this theme.

It was, also, announced by Mrs. Dugan, that third year Brownies, who are interested, may try out for Banquet Toastmistress on Dec. 17 at 3:30 p.m. in Stephen F. Austin School. Judges for the try-outs will be Mmes. J. E. Gunn, Bob Curry, and Ray E. Wilson.

Tickets for the banquet will go on sale Dec. 16 and are $1.10 per person.

Goodwill HD Club Has Yule Party

The Goodwill Home Demonstration Club met on Tuesday with Mrs. Ray Frazier, 512 Doyle, for its Christmas Party.

Mrs. A. P. Coombes, president, presided. Mrs. T. C. McGlohon read a poem, "What Is A Greeting Card?"

"I've Got A Secret" was played by the group. Miss Helen Dunlap, county HD agent, installed officers for the coming year.

Following the installation, gifts were exchanged and refreshments were served. The Christmas motif was used in the home's decorations. The refreshment table was covered with a black cloth and a strip of cotton in the center. The centerpiece was two large snowmen made of plastic foam with holly around them.

Refreshments of lime sherbet with gingerale, Christmas decorated cookies, candy, and nuts were served. Favors of styrofoam snowmen holding flags with the members' name on it were given to each guest.

Members present were Mmes. A. P. Coombes, Leland Dimond, J. M. Hahn, Tom Haggard, Harry J. Dulaney, James Smathers, George M. Perkins, Olen H. Kirchner, T. C. McGlohon, Lewis Epps, Ray Frazier, John L. Johnson.

Miss Dunlap was a guest of the club.

Sigma Delta Sub Deb Club Has Brunch For Ex-Members In City Club Room

The Sigma Delta Sub Deb Club held a Reunion Brunch in the City Club Room during the Thanksgiving Holiday. Guests were registered in a golden guest register by Miss Maynette Loftus, club secretary, and were greeted in the receiving line by Miss Jo Ann Jones, president; Mrs. H. M. Luna and Mrs. Richard Kastein, sponsors; the club's officers and members. The brunch table was covered with a forest-green cloth centered with a tall arrangement of seasonally colored fruits tapering from the wrought iron horn of plenty. Mrs. Luna presided at the coffee and cocoa service. Miss Jones welcomed the "exes" by expressing past, present, and future loyalty to the tradition of Sub Debs. Miss Nancy Goodnight sang "If I Loved You" by Rogers and Hart. Miss Sarah Lou Harnly, past president of the club, gave a short talk on the modeling and self-improvement course, which the girls financed themselves and took three years ago, and which was conducted by Mrs. Terry Culley. Present activities of the club were reviewed for the guests. Among these activities were the purchase of new Sub Deb sweaters and the trip to Santa Fe this summer, which were considered among the highlights of the past year's projects. Others mentioned were that the Sub Debs were the first high school girls' club to belong to the adult-sponsored Council of Clubs; the club's purchase of Community Hotel stock; the gift of $100 to the Youth Center from funds derived from the Charity Ball given in the Cabot auditorium; gifts of holiday baskets to needy families; winning first place in the Beta Sigma Phi Sorority's Table Setting Contest last Spring. It was reviewed that the Sub Deb Clubs prepares and presents programs for the Amarillo Air Force Base, and, at the present time, they are donating a wheel chair to the Red Cross. Miss Mary Kennedy was given special recognition for representing the club in the Miss Pampa contest this summer in which she placed third. Miss Goodnight, chaplain, concluded the program with prayer. Ex-Sub Debs present were Mrs. Vicki Caldwell, Iris Buckingham, Frances Thompson Hawkins, Charles Hill Hart, Ida Ruth Taylor Price, Marlene Kolb Rice, Carol Waggoner Neef, Carol Greene, Elaine Carlson Waters, Dorothy Culberson Stowers, Sybil Pierson Dickey, Merdella Roberts Chapman, Phyllis Scheig Curtis, Marjorie Sloan Walters, Pat Pierson Moore, Vera Andis, Jerry Shelton Clark; Misses Shirley Epps, Judy Ellis, Sarah Lou Harnly, June Smith, Mary Young, Dortha Gantz, and Mary Kennedy. Current members present were Misses Marcia Miller, Jan Foster, Linda Kay Buchanan, Ann Kennedy, Marilyn Myatt, Nancy Goodnight, Dianne Zachry, Mary Pursley, Karla Cox, Maynette Loftus, Martha Marsh, Linda Skewes, Linda McDonald, Anite Guidry, Kay Tooley, Jeannine Harvey, Mary Ann Harvey, Eloise Carlisle, Betty Lou Smith, LaJean Caldwell, Kay Waggoner, Mary Sturgeon, Betty Sprinkle, Mary Sanford, Nancy Cleveland, and Barbara Baer.

GRACE FRIEND

Dear Grace Friend
On your item of eight children dated 11-15-57 may I express my thoughts. Why do you state the husband should assume his responsibility when his wife has stated that he has gone everywhere to locate work. It seems you think he is trying to avoid any jobs. I have five wonderful children and have always been in the higher income bracket until the past year. My work has been cut back and I have only worked five months of this year. Now tell me why I should assume any responsibility when I have looked everywhere for any kind of position. When I apply for a lower paying position they will first state that since I have had a high income I would not be satisfied with what they could pay. Or that I am higher qualified than for what jobs they have open. Or I couldn't get along with my big family and their small salary. When I tell them that any amount I could make would help a lot they say "anyone with the recommendations you have will soon find something in your field." So tell Irene to not have any more children, as her husband is responsible for not working when I'll bet all of my bills that the guy has tried everything he knows as I have.

Golden Date For A. C. Thurmonds

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Thurmond of Lefors are celebrating their Golden Wedding Anniversary in their home today with their children and grandchildren. Mr. and Mrs. Thurmond were married 50 years ago on Dec. 8, 1907 in Tushka, Okla. At that time, Oklahoma had just become a state and Mr. Thurmond, with his father, owned and operated cotton gins in what was then "The Choctaw Indian Nation." The Thurmonds came to Lefors on New Year's Day in 1930 and report that it "was one of the coldest winters the Panhandle has ever had. The temperature ranged from 14 to 18 below zero at times." After working around the oil fields for some time, Mr. Thurmond became a pumper for Dancing Oil and Refining Co., where he worked for many years. During the war, he left Dancing and purchased the Central Drug Store in Lefors in co-ownership with his son-in-law, C. H. Gustin, which they operated until 1946. Finding retirement for several years not to his liking, Mr. Thurmond took a job with McMahon Oil Co., which he still holds today. Mr. and Mrs. Thurmond have three children, James A. of Pampa; Paul of Sikeston; and Mrs. C. H. Gustin of Lefors; and grandchildren, Gwen Thurmond Stark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Thurmond, who is married and a junior in Oklahoma State College, Stillwater; Paul and Jimmy, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Thurmond; and Charley Gustin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Gustin.

RUTH MILLETT

Sometimes a wife underestimates a husband's love simply because his reactions and attitudes aren't the same as hers. A young mother of small children is upset because, though she can quickly sense her husband's moods, he never knows if something is troubling her unless she spells it out for him. She admits he does his best to encourage her and sympathize with her, but only if she tells him in so many words how she feels. Yet she can't help thinking he ought to understand her without explanations. That young wife is suffering from the romantic notion that love means perfect understanding. She is also suffering from a stubborn belief that because she knows instinctively when something is troubling her husband he should be just as intuitive about her. Men just aren't as sensitive to the moods of others as women are. That kind of sensitivity to the changing moods of others is a feminine trait. So it's a waste of time and happiness for a woman to bemoan the fact that she doesn't get as complete understanding as she gives. Any husband who is sympathetic and understanding once he is told that his wife is unhappy, upset, or disturbed about something is showing his love just as much as is the wife who doesn't have to be told when her husband needs her help. Any wife with a husband who is genuinely concerned about her welfare ought to thank her lucky stars she has him instead of expecting his reactions to be the same as hers. Men are men and women are women and the only way they can live happily together is never to expect exactly the same kind of reactions from each other.

Christmas Dinner For Credit Club

Pampa Credit Women's Club met in the City Club room recently with Mrs. Virginia Cox, president, presiding. Mrs. Ruby Crocker, recording secretary, read the minutes. Mrs. Cox gave the Council of Clubs report. It was decided that Christmas stockings for service men at Amarillo Air Base would be filled and brought to the Christmas party to be turned over to the Red Cross. Mrs. Claudia Nees gave the treasurer's report and distributed new membership cards to the members. Christmas party plans were discussed by Mrs. Elizabeth Lewis, chairman. It was decided that the party will be in the form of a dinner to be held on Dec. 13 at 7:30 p.m. in the City Club Room with husbands and other guests welcome. Reservations should be made by Dec. 11 by calling Mrs. Lewis at MO-4-3246. New credit manuals were given out for the year's study course. Following the reading of the club creed, Mes. Bobby Brummett and Lola Nicholson, hostesses, served refreshments. Members present were Mes. Cox, Lewis, Brummett, Nees, Crocker, Nicholson, Leola Higginbotham, Ethel Stilwell, Mammie Peoples, Lyda Gilchrist, and Virginia McDonald.

Miss Dunlap, Gray County HD Agent, Prepares Report On HDC's Progress

Miss Helen Dunlap, County Home Demonstration agent, in her annual report on the activities of Gray County Home Demonstration Clubs and its 4-H Clubs reports that:

"One hundred seventy patterns were altered by a new method by 49 home demonstration club women this year. The agent taught 14 leaders how to alter patterns, which eliminated the need for fitting the cut garment. Garments cut by these patterns, saved time on the part of the seamstress, once the pattern was changed to fit the individual. The women made 803 garments at a saving of $1992.78, besides tailoring 11 garments for a saving of $205.00."

"The home demonstration women and the 4-H girls conserved 3158 quarts of foods by canning, 775 quarts of fruits and vegetables and 9,975 pounds of meat and poultry by freezing. They conserved 1289 containers of jellies, jams and preserves. The girls helped their mothers with meal preparation by preparing 1087 dishes and serving 476 meals. Especially, are the older girls doing much of the home baking, since they learned to make breads, cakes, cookies and pies."

"The leadership program is helping the women and girls to teach others what they learn in club work. The agents trained 18 foods, 14 clothing, and 10 home improvement leaders, who in turn gave 45 demonstrations to 289 people. The members gave information they learned to 876 other families."

"Ten adult leaders learned to give demonstrations related to kitchen improvement. Twenty-one kitchens were arranged into the main work centers, mixing, cooking and serving, and cleaning. They added 26 major pieces of home furniture and 405 household articles."

"From previous training in homestead improvement, the women built five barbecues and made three other outdoor living rooms. They sodded three lawns, planted and have living 13 shrubs and 33 trees."

"Three boys and three girls attended the junior leadership laboratory on the state basis. Last year they represented the district in this state workshop. It has enabled them to learn recreation, plan and help direct their own county-wide 4-H parties."

Sheriff Jordan Is Speaker For TCC

Twentieth Century Cotillion Club met with Mrs. Dale Thut, 1105 Mary Ellen, on Tuesday morning. Mrs. Lee Moore Jr., president, conducted the business meeting, which opened with the club collected by Mrs. Thelma Bray. Mrs. Don Baker, secretary, read the minutes of the previous meeting and called roll, which was answered with safety hints.

The club decided to bring gifts to be sent to the hospital in Wichita Falls and to help Pampa's 800 Club.

Mrs. Kenneth McGuire introduced the speaker, Rufe Jordan, who gave the program on Civil Defense. Members were told that they are only eight hours flying-time from a Russian Air Base, and that the Panhandle area is listed 13th in the nation with regard to national defense.

Mr. Jordan said that the local civil defense unit was ever in contact with the Amarillo radar when weather conditions were unsettled. "When the reports come to the sheriff's office, they are, in turn, given to the local radio stations, who keep the people informed. In case of disaster, the court-house would be headquarters and if it were destroyed the National Guard Armory would be the auxiliary headquarters."

Cotillion members responded to Mr. Jordan's informative talk with a number of questions.

Those attending were Mrs. E. Don Baker, Robert Boyd, Charles Brauchle, Thelma Bray, Bill Coffey, Jim Campbell, N. J. Ellis, J. B. Maguire Jr., Lee Moore Jr., Kenneth McGuire, Ralph McKinney, Bob Price, W. D. Price Jr., Martin Stubbs, and Dale Thut.

PE Club Planning Children's Party

Mrs. Warren Fatheree presided at the brief business meeting held by the Parent Education Club on Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 in the home of Mrs. Fred Vanderburg, 1615 N. Russell.

Mrs. R. M. Hampton reported for the project committee concerning records the club plans to buy for Mrs. Nell Ralston for her use with exceptional children.

Mrs. Fatheree introduced Mrs. Julian Key, who presented a review of "Let's Keep Christmas," a sermon given by the late Dr. Peter Marshall with an introduction by his wife, Mrs. Katharine Marshall. "This was one of Peter Marshall's most inspiring and memorable sermons. A moving expression of gratitude that the Christ child came into the world and a plea that we keep Christmas in all the loveliness of its ancient traditions."

Members present were Mrs. J. B. Deer Jr., Gene Fatheree, Warren Fatheree, Jack P. Foster, L. L. Garren, R. C. Goodwyn, R. M. Hampton, H. D. Johnson, Julian Key, Myron Marx Jr., H. L. Meador, Jack Osborne, Tom Rose, Horton Russell, Bob Vall, Fred Vanderburg, and C. C. Whitney Jr. Refreshments were served during the social hour.

The next meeting for the club will be the Children's Christmas Party to be held on Dec. 17 at 3:45 p.m. in the City Club Room.

MATURE PARENT

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
George was at the dining-room table working on a subtraction example his teacher had assigned for homework. Suddenly the point of his pencil snapped. After a slight pause, he uttered a four-letter word which contains offense for many people. He uttered it quite loudly.

Stunned, his father dropped his newspaper. But before he could open his mouth, George's mother shook her head at him vigorously. Moving over to the sofa beside him, she whispered, "Ignore it. He's picked it up at school. He said it yesterday, too. Don't worry. It means he's maturing, identifying with his own age group. Just ignore it—and he'll stop saying it."

But George didn't. He used the offensive word when he got home from school the next day to find his little sister had eaten the cake left over from supper the night before. Later, he used it when his father denied his appeal to stay up for the end of a TV show.

This time, his father ignored the advice to ignore it. With impressive firmness he said, "I don't like that word. As a matter of fact, I'm tired of hearing you say it. I don't want to hear it again."

Not too curiously, George felt a strong sense of relief.

For he'd known his parents felt discomfort with the word. At school the friend who'd introduced it to him had warned him darkly, "Better not let your Pop hear you say it." He'd felt his mother's recoil when he'd spoken it first and heard the sudden living-room silence that followed his later use of it.

So his parents' apparent toleration of it had confused him. It had actually scared him a little so that he had to increase his use of it to get a more honest response. Now that he'd got it, he felt the same relief he feels when he gropes for the light switch in the bathroom—and finds it exactly where he expected it to be.

We do not reassure children by pretending to like behavior that we do not like.

Certainly, it's helpful to know that George's shock word is his way of saying, "See, we kids have an idea or two of our own!" It cools the heat of our protesting feelings toward it. But if, in their cooled condition, they still exist, we do neither ourselves nor George a favor by pretending this isn't true.

Miss Vada Waldron Feted At Luncheon

Miss Vada Waldron was guest of honor at the First Baptist Church Royal Service Program held on Wednesday of this week in the church basement.

Members were seated at their individual Circle tables, which were decorated in keeping with the Christmas season.

Mrs. Bob Andis introduced guests.

Following luncheon, Mrs. Owen Johnson gave a devotional and presented Miss Waldron with a set of handmade, matched luggage, as a token of esteem from members of the Women's Missionary Union.

Miss Waldron, who is a missionary to Mendoza, Argentina, where she has been for 20 years, will return there on Sunday for five more years. She is director of the Baptist Good Will Center, Kindergarten and Vacation Bible School.

While on furlough, Miss Waldron is making her home with Mrs. Travis Lively her sister.

The group adjourned to the church parlor for a program on Foreign Missions.

The theme of the program was, "For God So Loved."

Miss Waldron showed colored slides and discussed her work in Argentina.

The meeting was adjourned with prayer by Mrs. Roberta Woods.

Preceding the luncheon the executive board of the WMU met at twelve for a business meeting. Mrs. J. B. O'Bannon, president, presided during the meeting, which was opened with prayer by Mrs. O. A. Davis. Mrs. Earnest Argy gave the treasurer's report. Mrs. A. L. Prigmore read the secretary's minutes.

All through the past week, WMU members met in the church for Lottie Moon Week of Prayer for foreign missions.

Cook's A Look

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

For holiday entertaining, every hostess needs some unusually good dips to serve with potato or corn chips, crackers or raw vegetables. Here are a few:

CORONADO OLIVE DIP
(Makes about 1-2 1/2 cups)

One-half cup ripe olives, 2 (2 1/2-ounce) cans deviled ham, 1 cup commercial sour cream, 1/4 teaspoon onion powder, 1/4 teaspoon paprika, 2 or 3 drops Tabasco sauce.

Cut olives into medium-sized pieces. Blend ham with sour cream and seasonings until smooth. Stir in olives and chill until ready to use. Serve with crisp potato chips, crackers or Melba toast.

AVOCADO CHILI SPREAD
(Makes about 1-1 1/2 cups)

One avocado, 1 tablespoon minced canned green chili pepper, 1 tablespoon minced sour pickle, 1/4 cup chopped celery, 1/4 teaspoon garlic salt, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, 1/4 teaspoon paprika, potato chips or crackers.

Cut avocado into halves lengthwise and remove seed and skin. Force through a sieve. Blend with remaining ingredients. Spread on potato chips or crackers.

AGUACATELI
(Lemon Avocado Dip)

One large avocado, mashed; 2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese, 2 tablespoons minced onion, 1/4 teaspoon chill powder or crushed red pepper, 1/4 teaspoon oregano, 1 tablespoon sajad oil, 2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice, 1 tomato, mashed (peeled and seeded), salt to taste.

Combine all ingredients, chill and serve on lettuce cup arrangement with adequate lemon quarters for additional zest and tangy flavor. Corn chips are excellent for this dip.

Tomorrow's Dinner: Coronado olive dip, potato chips, pan-broiled top sirloin steak, Spanish rice, canned lima beans, enriched bread, butter or margarine, half grapefruit, cookies, coffee, tea, milk.

"The UN Needs More Muscle" Topic For Wesleyan Service Guild Meeting

Miss Inez Clubb was hostess to the Wesleyan Service Guild of the First Methodist Church on Dec. 2, for a regular meeting in the Church Parlor.

During the business session, Miss Minnie Allen, president, read a letter from one of the teachers in a school in India, to which the Guild sends contributions.

Mrs. Frank Stowell gave the devotional, using as her scripture Philippians 1, "where Paul tells the people in Philippi of his deep concern and love for them." "This same permeating loving spirit should dominate our lives this Christmas season to enable us all to enjoy the maximum spiritual benefit that the celebration of the Christ-child's birth should bring to each."

She added that our Christian deeds would help others to benefit also. "Have you ever thought about the act of mailing Christmas packages and cards early, as being a Christian act? It is, for the reason that it lessens the load just prior to Christmas of those handling mail, and thus eliminates strain which detracts from full meaning and enjoyment of the Christmas season," Mrs. Stowell brought out.

Mrs. W. W. Adcock had charge of the program, and gave facts leading up to the forming of the Charter of the United Nations. She also gave some of the highlights of the Charter and showed colored slides of the UN building and surrounding area which were taken by Rev. Adcock.

Mrs. W. C. Hutchinson reviewed an article, "The UN Needs More Muscle," by Carlos P. Romulo, Philippine Ambassador to the United States and former president of the UN Security Council, "who purposes that the UN begin now reporting regularly to the world on the development, testing, production and possession of arms. Accurate, complete, and universally available arms data can soon become the basis for UN sponsored efforts to achieve world arms control, and ultimately, progressive reductions."

"The real objective can only be a UN wise and strong enough to bring our planet a rule of law and justice, a justice involving not merely the careful and precise operation of legal machinery, but also a vital concern for the human individual, making life as meaningful and purposeful as the human potential will permit. And this is the main business of the human race."

Mrs. Hutchinson reminded us that carved in granite in the UN plaza area, are the words from the Biblical prophecy of Isaiah 2:4, "They shall beat their swords into plowshares and their spears into pruning hooks, nation shall not lift up sword against nation. Neither shall they learn war any more."

Refreshments were served to 16 members, who were, in addition to those mentioned above, Mmes. J. A. Knox, Aubrey Jones, Lillie Mae Fowler, Harold Wright, Mattie Fountain, Ben Ogden, Bert Meek, J. M. Turner, Malcolm Denison; Misses Lillian Mullinax and Ila Pool.

Club To Sponsor Santa Claus Visit

(Special To The News)
WHITE DEER — December 19 has been selected as the date for an annual visit of Santa Claus to the children of White Deer, under the auspices of the Venado Blanco Club.

Plans for this event were made at a meeting recently in the home of Mrs. Hueyl Laycock, after a dinner at Butch's Drive-in.

Mrs. Laycock will be in charge of the list of names of children to be visited. She requests that parents, who live in the country, but plan to bring their children into town that evening to see Santa Claus, notify her or Mrs. Horace Williams before Dec. 17. They may be reached at their homes any afternoon after four o'clock. Children in the third grade or below are to be visited.

Preceding the business meeting, Mrs. David Grayson gave a demonstration of Christmas wrapping and home decoration. Members were then asked to place a paper on top of their heads and draw a picture of Santa Claus. For the most recognizable drawing, Mrs. Floyd Ulrich received a doorway decoration.

The next meeting will be a Christmas dinner in the home of Mrs. Florette Burns on Dec. 16.

Charles Wesley Is Topic For Circle

The Thursday morning meeting of Circle Two of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Harvest Methodist Church was conducted by Mrs. G. O. Hall, chairman. Mrs. P. D. Gross reported on the results of the Tupperware Party held on Monday.

Mrs. Johnny Pierce opened the program with a devotion using the 12th chapter of I Corinthians as the text. Following silent meditation, Mrs. Pierce led in prayer. The devotional period concluded with group singing of "Love Divine."

Mrs. Hall discussed the life of Charles Wesley and some of his best-known hymns. And she reported on "Child Labor" in Texas and the United States.

Mrs. Merl Black presented a solo, "Jesus, Lover of My Soul" by Charles Wesley. She was accompanied by Mrs. Hall at the piano.

Following benediction, the meeting adjourned.

Other members present were Mmes. Tom Price, P. D. Gross, Dallas Hodges, and James McCauley.

Mrs. Mack Elected To Council Office, Convention Reports Given At Meeting

City Council PTA met this week in the Junior High library with Mrs. R. A. Mack, vice president, presiding. Invocation was given by Sam Begert, Horace Mann school principal.

Mrs. Ed Williams presented the program on the book, "Your Child and God" by Robbie Trent. She opened with "A prayer For A Child," by Jane Merchant. Mrs. Williams stressed parents should begin a child's religious training early, both in the home and church. "A child needs religious instruction for emotional stability, faith, guidance and standards of religious training. The child is eager for a connection with God. Read books selected carefully to follow the Bible, but do not let these books replace the Bible.

"Teach your child to pray," she said. "Some children need form prayer; others may say them, extemporaneously. Answer your child's questions about God and family worship centers are rewarding and bring peace and harmony in the home," Mrs. Williams stated.

She closed with this statement, "Children absorb the parents' concept of God; parents make it easier or harder for the child to accept God. Parents often stand between the child and God."

During the business session, a letter of resignation from Mrs. Buster Sublett, president, was read. Mrs. Mack, who has been serving as vice president, was elected to the office of president. Mrs. William Leonard was elected to the office of treasurer, to replace Mrs. Ralph Delashaw, who resigned during the past month.

Mrs. Tidwell reported that Hopkins School will have the PTA radio program on Dec. 7.

Mrs. James Lewis reported on the state PTA convention held recently in Galveston where two thousand officers and delegates met.

The presentation of the Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers was given by Galveston High School students. Plainview gave the district presentation using a movie theater screen predicting harmony with the theme, "Yellow Rose of Texas."

Partnership Day was highlighted with two films, "The Child in the Middle" and "You and Your Teenager" with narrations by Dr. John McFarland of Amarillo.

Mrs. Kenneth McGuire, hospitality chairman, requested all unit hospitality chairmen to contact her or Mrs. Robert Reddell before the joint PTA meeting on Jan. 24. The program for this meeting will be presented by the high school speech club, The Thespians.

Steve Bigham Feted On Fourth Birthday

(Special To The News)
LEFORS — Mrs. M. E. Bigham entertained her son, Steve, on his fourth birthday with a combination birthday party and luncheon, Dec. 4 in the Civic Center. Assisting Mrs. Bigham was Mrs. L. M. McCathern, grandmother of the honoree, and Mrs. Wayne Harris, aunt of the honoree.

Acircus theme was carried out by the hostess with balloons decorating the center pole and windows. The cake, iced in green, boasted a gay circus tent with prancing horses and the inscription "Happy Birthday."

As the guests arrived at eleven a.m., they were presented with circus hats of different fashions. Games were played and luncheon served.

Gifts were presented to the honoree.

Moving pictures were taken by Mrs. Harris.

Guests were Paula Wall, Timmy Tutor, Richard and Morris Roberts, John and Octavia Pinkerton, Diane Hughes, Jody and Don Archer, Rhonda and Deborah Howard, Sharon McLaughlin, Doris and Martha Carlton, Guyia and Pam James, and Belinda and Billy Bigham.

Adults present were Mmes. Walter Hughes, Joe Archer, Bobby Howard, Charles Roberts, Letha Pinkerton, Bud Whiteley, L. M. McCathern, Myrtle Whiteley, Aubrey Carlton, and G. W. James.

Mrs. Pundt Hostess To Pioneer Club

CANADIAN — The Pioneer Club met in the home of Mrs. John L. Pundt recently. The devotional was given by Mrs. W. A. Merrell. Mrs. J. B. Lindley presented the topic.

A guest, Mrs. Charles Tubb, was present and members attending were Mmes. Ben Beard, W. L. Helton, John H. James, J. B. Lindley, Tom Hext, W. A. Merrell, Isaac Simpson, E. H. Snyder, F. D. Teas, Dan Witt, Charles Teas and Frank McCormick.

Busy Bee HD Club Gives Resuscitator

(Special To The News)
WHITE DEER — Official presentation of a resuscitator purchased by the Busy Bee Home Demonstration Club was made recently to R. M. Hubbard, city councilman, by Mrs. Dale Burch, president of the club.

Members of the club have been working for more than a year raising the approximately $420 needed to buy this equipment. Part of the money was secured through donations and part was raised by bake sales and the sale of house numbers.

The resuscitator has been used twice, though to no avail in either instance; once in the case of a young boy, who was drowned at the swimming pool last summer, and, again, when a young man was asphyxiated in a local hotel last fall.

Officers of the club are Mmes. Burch, president; Clint Freeman Jr., vice president; Leon Osborne, secretary; B. O. Bertrand, treasurer; and Joe Wheeler, reporter.

The fake fur shoe in all-black or all-red is an interesting companion for daytime woollens this winter.

The continuing popularity of leopard prints extends to lingerie and includes slips, half-slips, panties, gowns and robes.

Fellowship Class Has Bible Study

(Special To The News)
SKELLYTOWN — The Fellowship Sunday School class of the Community Church met recently in the Fellowship hall for a Thanksgiving social.

The serving table was laid with white cloth and centered with a ceramic horn of plenty filled with fruit.

Mrs. B. T. Clements was in charge of a study on the 4th Chapter of Revelations. The 5th Chapter of Revelations will be studied at the Christmas social, to be held at the church on Dec. 19.

Each member of the class was asked to bring a visitor to the Christmas social.

Attending were Messrs. a and Mmes. I. M. Kibler, Junior Ellis, Bill Lemons, Richard Payne, Rev-

Henpecking A Husband Begins Early, Sometimes Even Before Wedding Vows

By GAY PAULEY
United Press Women's Editor
NEW YORK (UP)—This week in Manhattan: Henpecking a husband begins early these days — even before marriage.

So reported Lester Rand, president of the Youth Research Institute, which studies the tastes, habits and thinking of the nation's teen-agers.

Rand said some boys going steady turn their allowances and earnings over to their girls to manage, and the girls promptly put the boys on a budget. He said this is only a "brush fire" trend, for now, but other young people who have heard of the custom think it's a good idea.

Other hen-pecking habits he listed: Older teen-age girls go shopping with the boys and have a strong, often final, voice in what is purchased; the girls begin correcting the boys' appearance and manners; some even talk their "steadies" into cutting down on sweets and smoking, and rather than hiring the professional, one study shows. Researchers for a tile flooring manufacturer talked with 4,200 home owners, in income brackets from $8,000 to $25,000 a year, living in 18,000 to $65,000 homes.

Some 72 per cent said they didn't use a decorator because of the expense involved. Fourteen per cent gave a variety of reasons, from not knowing decorator costs to not realizing what a decorator offers in service.

As a public service, I offer these two Christmas gift suggestions for the man "who has everything." One, a gold-handled cane, the matched mate of one carried by King Saud of Saudi Arabia, selling in a New York shop for $495. The second, a complete suit of armor, vintage 16th Century, on sale at an antiques shop. The price, $6,500.

The shop said it would fit "a king-sized modern knight."

Let your taste be your guide in choice of wines with the holiday turkey, says Don W. McColly, president of the California Wine Institute.

McColly said that at this time of the year, the institute is deluged with letters and telephone calls asking which wine goes with the bird.

"It is proper to serve any dinner wine—red, white, rose, still or sparkling—with turkey," he said.

"All the old rules have been thrown out, and it's simply a matter of personal taste. But most of us seem to enjoy the drier dinner wines at mealtime, sweet dessert wines afterward, and of course, sherry at any time."

Interior decorating still is largely a matter of do-it-yourself

Skellytown HDC Have Dinner Meet

SKELLYTOWN — A Thanksgiving dinner was recently held in the IOOF hall for the Skellytown Home Demonstration Club members and their families.

The U-shaped table was covered with lace cloths and centered with horns of plenty filled with fruit. Large pumpkins were placed at intervals on the table. Plate favors were miniature turkeys, made from marshmallows.

Mrs. Fannie Williams gave the invocation.

Attending were the families of Messers. and Meses. Joe Chapin, R. C. Heaton, Clarence Hoskins, Guy McKenney, E. R. Randolph, Bill Adams, Ben Ross, Cecil Shipley, W. I. Colley, W. F. Casey, Gerald Huckins, W. S. Berry, Everett Crawford, Junior Ellis, W. E. Ogle, Clifford Coleman, Leon Atkins; Miss Judy Rogers, Mrs. Elizabeth Tinsley, and special guests, Mrs. Janie Fletcher and Mrs. Fannie Williams, both of Panhandle.

Miss Glenda Anderson, 1217 E. Kingsmill, was hostess to the recent meeting of the Janet May YWA meeting of Central Baptist Church.

During the business meeting conducted by Miss Barbara Brown, president, plans were made to help under-privileged children at Christmas. It was also decided to help a girl in the Beeville Children's Home.

Miss Nanette Flynn, chairman, presented a prayer program, "For God So Loved." A Lottie Moon Christmas offering was taken.

Members present were Misses Barbara Brown, Joyce Owens, Gwynn Salzman, Sue Roberts, Nanette Flynn, Glenda Anderson, Murline Attaway, Irene Marchman; Meses. James Baird and Charles Terrell.

Miss Sandra Browning, a new member, and Miss Pat Wells, visitor, were welcomed.

Refreshments were served during the social hour by the hostess and her mother, Mrs. O. G. Anderson.

Adverse News Hurts Stocks

By ELMER C. WALZER
United Press Financial Editor
NEW YORK (UP) — Stocks lost only 1.2 per cent in their general average during the past week in the face of many adverse news items, capped by failure of the U. S. satellite to get off the ground.

Statistics available generally were those of the Thanksgiving week and these made a very poor showing compared with a year ago, largely because the holiday then was a week earlier. However, car loadings had their poorest Thanksgiving week since 1934. Electricity output showed its first year-to-year decline since early 1949. Building dipped from the previous week and a year ago. Retail trade was well below a year ago, and the gains anticipated for the Christmas season were less than should be recorded on the basis of population increase.

Lower Profits Seen
Added to these were predictions of manufacturers that profits would be pinched further in 1958 even though sales are expected to rise. Leaving these items somewhat was a move of the Federal Reserve to pump more credit into the economy through purchases of government notes. This might have been helpful Friday had it not been for the Vanguard failure.

Even that was taken in stride by the market after a bit of selling in the missile makers. Martin

Co., supervisor of the Vanguard, met a deluge of selling orders and had to be suspended for a time. The issue only lost a half point on the week. Douglas was off more than two, but others of the missile group showed gains ranging to nearly four points in Grumman.

Anticipation or hope the government would move to build more atomic ships to cope with the Russian threats led to good demand for shipbuilding issues. American shipbuilding ran up 7 1/2 points on the week and New York Shipbuilding gained 6. Bath Iron works was up 4% and Newport News shipbuilding gained 3%.

Oil Stocks Lower
Oils were hurt by some price cuts. The domestics didn't fare too badly, however, and widest losses came into the internationals where Gulf and Royal Dutch each lost more than three.

Tires responded to predictions of a record 1957 and prospects for further gains in 1958. Their advances ranged to more than five points in Goodrich.

Chrysler lost more than three points and Ford nearly two points in the motors. Automobile production gained on the week but was under the level of a year ago. Tobaccos ruled strong.

At the close Friday, the Dow-Jones Industrial average stood at 447.2 off 2.67 points from the previous week's close; rails 99.20 off 4.77, utilities 67.80 up 0.07 and 65 stocks 148.40 off 1.83.

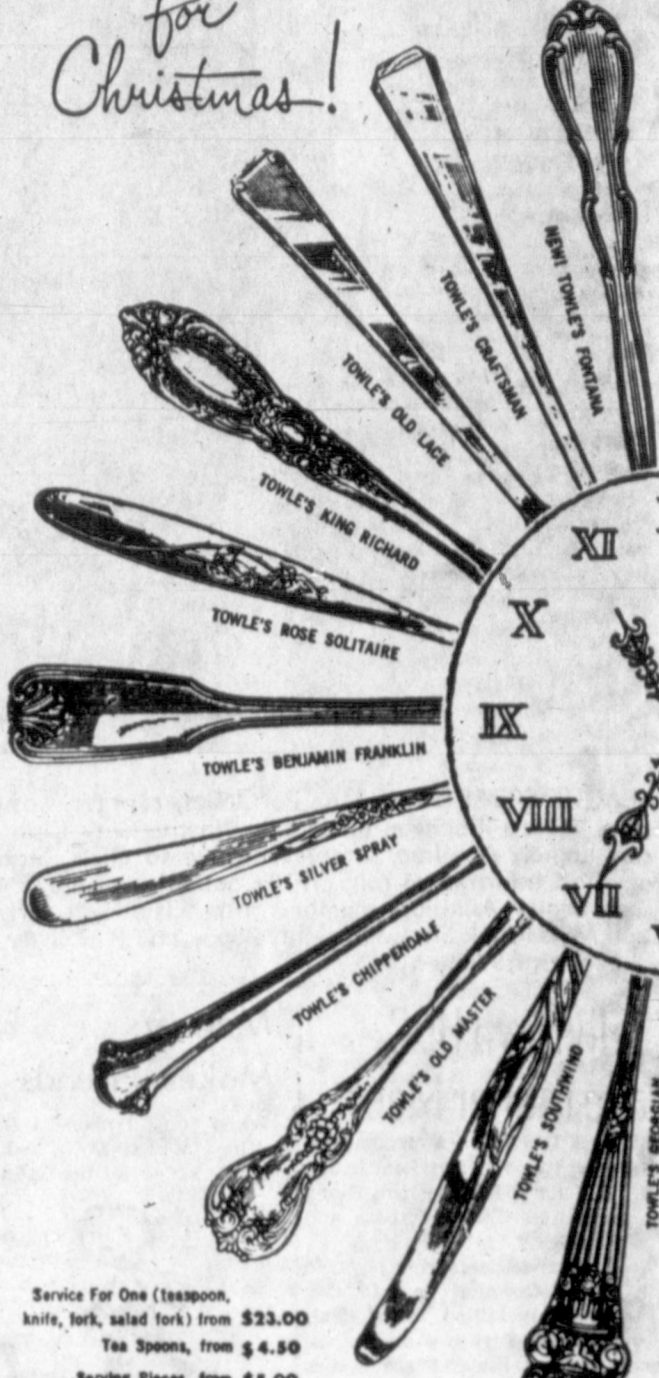

Correction Of 'Wrong Data' Is Requested

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Bureau of Indian Affairs plans to ask Congress to correct the "widespread misinformation" that has surrounded the government's policy of terminating federal control over Indian tribes.

Commissioner Glenn L. Emmons said Congress should issue a "further declaration policy" reaffirming that Indians can continue to maintain their tribal organizations and hold their lands in common after termination of control. "Recently there have been published comments that gave the mistaken impression that termination of federal trusteeship over the lands of a particular Indian tribe means that the tribal lands must be sold off by the government and the tribal organization will no longer be permitted to exist," Emmons said. "Nothing could be farther from the truth." The commissioner said all of the termination laws enacted so far have contained explicit provisions authorizing the affected Indians to continue holding their lands in common and to maintain a tribal organization after termination.

Missionary To Argentina Is Anxious To Return To Work

By ALETHA DAVIS
Pampa News Staff Writer

Pampa last week was visited by a Baptist missionary to Argentina, Miss Vada Waldron, who has served in the foreign mission field in that country for the past 20 years as teacher and instructor in Baptist work. She is the sister of two Pampans, Mrs. Travis Lively Sr. and Mrs. Roberta Wood.

Miss Waldron was born in Monday and, as a small child, moved to the Clarendon area. She received her elementary and high school education in that city and later went to West Texas State College where she received her Bachelor of Arts Degree.

Miss Waldron taught in the public schools of Clarendon for eight years from 1928 until 1936. She received her Master's of Religious Education Degree from Southwestern Theological Seminary in Ft. Worth, and on Dec. 11, 1937, sailed from New Orleans on the S.S. Del-Sud for the three-week cruise to Mendoza, Argentina, South America.

"Argentina seems like home now," states Miss Waldron, "and upon arriving in the states last years I found that Spanish words came to my mind before English words on several occasions."

Miss Waldron is director of the Southern Baptist Kindergarten in Mendoza and also director of the Baptist Goodwill Center of that city. Along with her work in the local area, she works in Vacation Bible Schools in the district and does special church work a long similar lines.

"The people of that country are in general a well-bred cultured race, who live in conditions below the standards of America. They live without the items Americans think of as necessities; for those things are luxuries in Argentina."

Mendoza, Argentina, is a city of 200,000 in the foothills of the Andes Mountains. The principal industry is the large grape industry which is maintained by irrigation. In the middle of the Earthquake Belt, Mendoza is in a dry climate which is unusual to surrounding areas as the climates are varied a great deal over short distances. Close by can be found areas with too much rain and dense undergrowth of jungle, while in others there are moderate climates.

In 1943, an earthquake struck in Argentina only 100 miles north of MISSIONARY VISITS PAMPA—Miss Vada Waldron, formerly of Clarendon and now Baptist missionary to the natives of Mendoza, Argentina, South America, visited in Pampa last week and spoke to several meetings of W. M. U. groups in the First Baptist Church. Miss Waldron has been in the foreign field for 20 years, returning to the States only three times during that period for twelve month furloughs. She will sail from New Orleans on the S. S. Del-Sud, on Dec. 12, to return once again to her field. Two of Miss Waldron's sisters live here.

Mendoza, killing many and entirely wiping out the city. Miss Waldron reports that they have been strongly felt in her city; but, fortunately, there have been no major tremors in the local area.

Miss Waldron finds the customs are different and would seem strange to Americans on their first visit, but, according to her reports, the people are congenial and you soon learn to admire and like their way of life which upon first glance of Americans used to the jet-age and jumble of activities, would seem a bit primitive.

In previous years, Miss Waldron has only been able to come home every six years; but, due to change in plans, she will now be able to take a furlough every five years for a year of rest, such as it is, speaking and traveling over the state, and vacation.

Miss Waldron was to leave this morning at 6 a. m. for the port in New Orleans where she will again sail on Dec. 12, aboard the S.S. Del-Sud for Argentina once again.

Miss Waldron stated that the first time she left the New Orleans port for her field, there were eight missionaries aboard and "we managed the ship and had wonderful services the entire cruise."

Mrs. Lively and Mrs. Wood both look forward to her visits home, few as they are.

Miss Waldron states that she is ready to go back even though she will of course miss her family and friends, but then, Argentina seems like home to her now. She is already receiving letters from the natives reminding her that her year is nearly up and it is time once again to return to the mission field where she has served for 20 years.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Today's hand helped make two new life masters; Bill Burns and Bob Chow of Toronto.

The game was board a match, team of four, and at practically every table East and West arrived at a six spade contract; only to have North and South save at seven clubs.

Six spades makes easily since all East has to do is to draw trumps, discard two of dummy's diamonds on his long hearts and concede a diamond trick. As for seven clubs, declarer must lose one club and two hearts only for a mere 500 point penalty.

When Bob Chow sat West he chose to make an irregular response of two diamonds to his partner's opening spade bid. This call effectively stifled North's ambitions to defend and East was allowed to play and make the spade slam.

When Bill Burns sat North, his opponents really made things tough for him. They were using a strong but nonforcing opening two bid so East opened with two spades. West jumped right to the small slam and it was up to Bill to act at the six level.

He did all right. He bid six no-trump. This is a most unusual extension of the unusual no-trump convention. This bid tells partner to choose a minor suit and is used with hands such as Bill's.

South then bid the seven clubs and took his small loss.

Congratulations to our two new life members. It is nice to know that their own good bids contributed to their success.

Santa Claus Starts On His Annual Joy-Bringing Trek

FRANKFURT, Germany (UP)—Dutch children and their parents, who started celebrating with a massive dinner last night, exchanged their presents today. Practical-jokers presented their masterpieces after weeks of planning, and shook with deep-bellied Dutch laughter as the recipients unwrapped pencils hidden deep in three-foot long imitation cigars, and herrings in canary cases.

Santa Takes Breather
Saturday Santa took a breather. On Dec. 24 he plunges into the second round—Scandinavia, Austria, Switzerland and Germany again, where presents are opened on Christmas Eve.

Although aircraft, helicopters and even Sputniks were being pressed into service in the rest of the world, Finnish children know he drives down from Lapland in a curly-rimmed sled drawn by Finland's own reindeer.

The next day, Dec. 25, Santa makes his rounds of Great Britain, Portugal, and France—where he leaves his gifts in wooden homes in front of the fireplace, or on the radiator if fireplaces are lacking.

Britain keeps on celebrating through Dec. 26, which is called "Boxing Day."

And finally, on "Old Christmas"—Jan. 6—there's a last round for the weary old man, to Spain and Italy, although in the latter he gets a helping hand.

Swiss children get the same reminders.

In Bari, Italy, it was a day of religious commemoration in tribute to the first Saint Nicholas, who is buried there. But the religious holiday, and the saint, really had no connection with modern Christmas ceremonies.

In Holland, though, Friday this was the big day. Santa Claus canted through the streets of Amsterdam on an impressive white horse. His blackamoor servant, "Black Piet," followed with a bundle of switches.

Christmas Preview Today
Friday is St. Nicholas Day, a religious holiday. As a sort of Christmas preview in Germany, Santa Claus distributes bundles of green switches and packets of chocolates and candies to remind children they must behave if they want larger rewards on Christmas Day.

The building is the 16-story State Labor and Industry Department structure, newly erected in the state's capital city. The cross effect is achieved by leaving the lights on in certain offices while others are blacked out.

STARTING TO MAKE IT LIKE NEW—Bob Hart, 801 E. Francis, is shown as he began the job of disassembling a girl's bicycle in preparation to rebuild it. The rebuilding and painting of toys before Christmas, so that children can have a happy Christmas who would normally do so, is the hobby of Hart. He gathers the toys, and with the help of fellow workers, rebuilds and repaints them. He plans on giving the toys to various churches in Pampa to distribute as they see fit. (News Photo)

Pampa Has A Branch Office Of Santa Workshop In A Garage

By FRED M. PARKER
Pampa News Staff Writer

Be-Gorhaaaaa! A wee bit of the North Pole has been transplanted to Pampa.

This section of the north pole is a portion of Santa Claus' workshop that is located at 801 E. Francis. Normally this is the residence of Bob Hart, but during this time of year it is a rebuilding shop for old toys.

Hart believes in helping to make Christmas bright for children that would not otherwise have much of a merry Christmas. He takes old toys and makes them new so that the eyes of less fortunate children can be bright on Christmas day.

The toys are obtained from personal friends and others that know of his project, he said. He takes the toys apart, wire brushes the tires and sand blasts all of the metal parts. Any part that needs replacing is thrown away and a new part is put in its place, he stated.

Hart has made arrangements with local firms to buy replacement parts at the firms' cost and he uses new parts wherever they are needed. After all of the parts are reconditioned they are painted and the toys are reassembled.

All of the work but the sand blasting takes place in his garage. The volume of the toys has caused the family car to be parked outside and spend its time on the driveway.

When all of the parts have been reconditioned, Hart will paint with a spray gun. Stripping will be placed on the various toys, so they will look like new, and the tires will be painted and the wheels put back on the toys. He said that his aim is to make the toys look like new and to have them rebuilt so that the children who receive them will be able to use them for several years.

One night last week, Hart was busy disassembling a bicycle. As he took each part off he straightened it back to its original shape. He had just finished straightening the front of a pedal car and, except for the lack of paint, it looked as good as new.

Hart is general construction foreman for Cabot and at the present time is in charge of construction work at the Pampa plant. During his travels with Cabot he found himself in Louisiana and became interested in his Christmas-time hobby, he said, when he and another man rebuilt several toys for a church one Christmas.

He stated that the joy that came to the faces of the children that received the toys that Christmas help to make other children happy whenever he could.

It is his plan to rebuild about 10 wagons, 20 bicycles and 15 to 20 tricycles, along with other toys, this Christmas. He has been promised several of these items and was to pick them up last week.

As soon as the toys have been gathered, work will pick up at the "branch toyshop" on Francis. Hart said that several men that he works with are planning on helping him with the work.

If anyone is interested in furnishing some of the toys to be rebuilt this Christmas, Hart can be contacted at MO 4-2490 and he will be glad to pick up the toys, he said.

Local church groups will get the toys to distribute as they see fit.

Poage Says U. S. Losing Prestige

WACO, Tex. (UP)—U.S. Rep. W. R. Poage charged Thursday that the United States lost more prestige advertising its first satellite which failed to go up than by Russia getting two Sputniks into space.

"We ought to keep our mouths shut until we do something, then let the people of the world look up in the sky and see for themselves," Poage said.

How Will Vice President Represent US At NATO?

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—A gambling man would have to lay odds against the United States' representative accomplishing much at this month's NATO summit conference in Paris.

The U.S. entry will be either President Eisenhower or Vice President Richard M. Nixon, probably the former.

If it proves to be Nixon, however, the vice president will go under handicaps without precedent. Neither Nixon nor Eisenhower would know, at parting hand-clasps, more than the vague and general outlines of the powers and authority reposed in the vice president in Paris. Nor would the other North Atlantic Treaty Organization chiefs of state have any true measure of the weight to give Nixon's words.

If he goes to Paris, Nixon will be laying on the line his prestige, his record of hard and difficult work well done and—perhaps—his political future. His authority, of course, would be as great or greater than that of any ambassador or, even, of the secretary of state. He is, after all, the vice president although neither he nor any other could explain under the circumstances now prevailing exactly what the title means and what duties attach to it.

Presidents Filled As Diplomats
American presidents have not been very successful at personal diplomacy. Woodrow Wilson invented it in 1918 to negotiate the Treaty of Versailles and the League of Nations covenant.

Franklin D. Roosevelt made personal diplomacy pay off for a time, but only so long as he and his conferees were committed by the circumstances of war to an absolute singleness of purpose. Then came Yalta where the free nations began the bitter experience of losing the peace.

Harry S. Truman, ill prepared, experienced and frustrated at the 1945 Potsdam Conference. Eisenhower's effort at the 1955 Geneva Conference was a colossal bust.

The effort in Paris in mid-month will be to tape up the NATO grand alliance, an urgent job, and there are some specific problems, such as:

—The stationing of U. S. missiles in Europe.

—Where to put nuclear explosives and who shall fondle the trigger.

—A search for better operational machinery to enable NATO to be an effective defensive organization.

NATO Needs Boost
Beyond all else, NATO needs an inspiring shot-in-the-arm. The pending summit meeting was conceived for that purpose.

"The Economist," a thoughtfully edited London weekly publication, posed the problems awaiting the Paris conferees, and concluded:

"But NATO is in need of something else as well—the spark of leadership that can come only from America; to strike it not only imagination is needed, but confidence in power and a grip on the realities. Can Mr. Nixon summon up the qualities to grasp this opportunity?"

A drab and disappointing ending to this month's NATO meeting—if the vice president represented the United States—would not be for Nixon a forward step toward his great goal, which is the Republican presidential nomination in 1960.

B-58 BUICK

It begins with a greater use of aluminum
-and takes off from there

ONE IDEA sparked the creation of this B-58 Buick—and that was to build it with more aviation principles than ever before.

So this one starts with a greater use of airweight aluminum—inside where its special cooling properties can be used—outside where its beauty and protection are needed.

But wait till you see what else is here to make land travel as modern as air travel.

The first automatic transmission to use the infinitely variable pitch stator principle of today's strato-cruisers.

The most modern engine it is possible to build for today's fuels.

A Buick-engineered air-suspension ride that literally floats you on four columns of air.

Returning home, Lt. Comdr. Peter Holmes described the agonies of radiation sickness to his wife. "But you don't have to die in a mess," he concluded.

He showed her a vial of tablets. "Just take one with a drink, and that's the end." Knowing Peter might be at sea in September, when the sickness was expected, Mary protested. "But who will take care of Jennifer?" Peter pointed to the syringe.

"I've got to kill Jennifer!" asked Mary, white with rage. "She may live on for days, crying and vomiting, with you dead on the floor beside her," said Peter. "Do you want her to die like that?"

It's A Cold Winter For Some Laid-Off Defense Workers

By FRED DANZIG
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (UP)—The contract cancellations, reductions and stretch-outs that hit the aircraft industry last summer are adding up to a cold winter for thousands of laid-off defense workers.

A recent survey of 22 major aviation firms by Aviation Week Magazine found that firings will exceed 40,000 by the end of the year, on top of 100,000 firings in 1956.

The aircraft industry on Long Island, represented by Republic, Grumman and Fairchild, comprised 10 per cent of Long Island's 600,000 wage and salary workers. Republic Aviation, which once employed 30,000, now is down to 10,000.

Unemployment On Increase
Total unemployment on the island last month was 16,100, more than double last year's figure of 7,900. Seasonal layoffs in the construction field led to the November unemployment rise.

The aircraft workers have had some encouragement from defense budget reports out of Washington. Republic recently recalled 845 workers, with 30 more expected this week.

The "stay put" atmosphere dominates these defense workers. Recently this was demonstrated when a representative from an out-of-state industry came along and signed up 100 former Republic employees. A few days before the men were to move, Republic began rehiring. Ninety-nine of the 100 recruits thereupon decided against leaving.

Sells Vitamin Pills
Whitney Barnes, 42, of Massapequa Park, was laid off by Republic last August. A crew chief there, he was able to get a job in a service station, but it was temporary. He's now selling vitamin pills and hoping to get a temporary post office job.

Barnes is hanging around, confident that come January or February, he'll be recalled by Republic. He's even talking about keeping the vitamin pill business as a sideline. While Barnes was taking home $115 a week, without overtime, the average Republic worker received $80 or $84.

John Shuart, managing director of the Long Island Assn., a commerce-boosting agency, reports that the defense layoffs amount to 3 per cent of the total employment and have had no "massive impact" on the island's economy as yet.

"Missile experts knew that the satellite would not go. It was pretty well known that it was not ready but the demand was so great that we had to try it."

Gary Cooper Is Starring With Newcomer—Suzy Parker

By VERNON SCOTT
United Press Hollywood Writer
HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Gary Cooper, who's starred with three generations of great leading ladies, is co-starring in a new movie with a glamour girl who can't act her way out of a soap opera, according to critics.

The newcomer is Suzy Parker, the sultry beauty who drew critical brickbats in her first picture, "Kiss Them For Me." The reviews of Suzy's emoting were so severe there were no bars left for Jayne Mansfield's acting in the picture.

Suzy shifted to TV with a "Playhouse 90" performance in "The Death of Manolete." Her video gambit stirred up more abuse than stars.

Instead of dropping from sight or heading for the actor's studio, La Monroe, Suzy has landed a top role opposite Cooper. And O'Coop likes the idea.

"I usually choose my leading ladies," he said in his clipped, non-committal way. "There's a cast approval clause in my contract. And this isn't the first time I've worked with a girl starting out in the movie business."

"Suzy is a beautiful, warm girl with a nice personality. She has the desire to become a star and she might just be great."

Helped Girls To Stardom
Cooper started Marlene Dietrich, Sylvia Sydney, Grace Kelly, Joan Leslie and Patricia Neal on the road to stardom when the girls were testing their celluloid wings.

In his own quiet way the spindle-shanked actor has managed to snag off the best of Hollywood's leading ladies down through the years, which puts him in a class by himself when it comes to screen lovers.

You can separate his co-stars into three separate eras, starting with the newest crop of beauties. Audrey Hepburn, Ruth Roman, Grace Kelly, Elizabeth Montgomery and Lorraine Day climbed the stardom ladder playing opposite Cooper in the past few years.

Now go back to the 1930s and you'll find the tall Montanan was starring with Carole Lombard, Paulette Goddard, Barbara Stanwyck, Merle Oberon, Loretta Young, Joan Crawford and Ann Harding.

You can go back farther, but O'Coop just as soon you wouldn't. No Box Office Duels
He's made 90 pictures in his career and seldom has one been a boxoffice dud. Gary says much of his success has been due to his choice of glamour girls.

"I think I've chosen some mighty good ones," he says. "The greatest actress I ever worked with was Helen Hayes. The only two I regret never having appeared with are Greta Garbo and Olivia DeHavilland."

"And if I had to bet on it, I'd say Suzy's going to do herself real proud."

1st Half Of Theatrical Season Was Victim Of A Bum Rap

By JACK GAVER
United Press Drama Editor
NEW YORK (UP)—It develops that the first half of the 1957-58 theatrical season — June through November—has been the victim of a bum rap.

Almost since the new productions began to roll off the assembly line in any quantity in October, people in and close to show business—they probably are, periodically, the shortest-remembered persons extant—have been complaining that things have been mighty drab.

Yet a smash hit musical, always a big boost to any season, arrived as far back as September—"West Side Story" at the Winter Garden. Five days later came the first dramatic success in "Look Back In Anger," a genuine "sleeper," another type that always gives a theatrical season a lift.

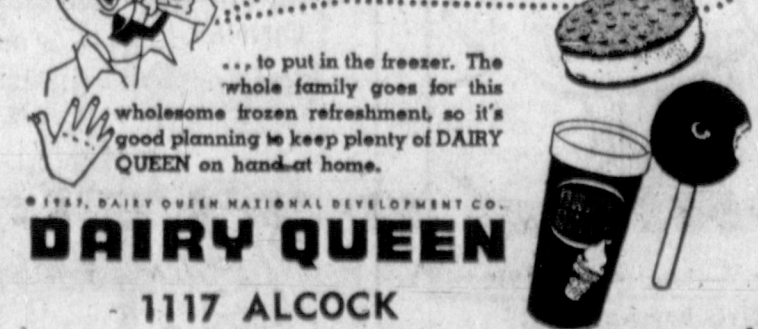

Figures Are Impressive
The total figures are even more impressive. The first half of the current season brought in 23 Broadway productions (excluding one-man exhibitions, arbitrarily limited runs and repertory, none of which is assessable by the commercial standards applied to Broadway productions in general).

This compares with 22 in the first half of the 1956-57 season and 21 in the comparable part of the 1955-56 season. So, in numbers alone, 1957-58 is ahead.

Of the 23 shows, 9, possibly 10, are potential money-makers in greater or lesser degree — thus indicated successful productions. Even if a couple of these should weaken and fail to make the grade the total would be high. Only nine were quick flops by Nov. 30.

The first half of the 1956-57 season held only five genuine commercial successes. There were 18

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — The National Council of Churches in a resolution calling on Christians to work harder for peace: "In this faith, we welcome such new potentialities as may enhance human life under God and we therefore dedicate ourselves to work with him in changing those things which threaten destruction of human life and its highest values."

INCREASING numbers of house-heating customers are being served as a result of extensive development by gas companies of natural gas underground storage facilities in the United States. Such "warehousing" of natural gas has been increased about 17-fold in the past decade. Piped in during mild weather when demand is low, this gas will provide heat for approximately 18 million homes.

Oil Men To Visit Interior Department

By HARRY WILSON SHARPE, United Press Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (UP)—A big group of oil men will parade to the Interior Department Monday in hopes of heading off a rule that would bar them from exploiting 17,421,000 acres of federal wildlife lands.

Opposing them will be an equal force of wildlife conservationists who not only will defend the rule but urge that it be made more drastic.

Secretary of the Interior Fred A. Seaton proposed the regulation after his predecessor, Douglas McKay of Oregon, opened the lands to oil and natural gas development. McKay had rescinded the order after vociferous protests

GRIM REMINDERS—The sight of these crosses in a cemetery at Einhausen, Germany, at the side of the autobahn between Frankfurt and Mannheim, ought to give passing drivers pause for thought. This particular section of the road has been called the "Highway of Death," because more than 200 persons have been killed on it in the last five years. It stretches for miles straight as an arrow, tempting drivers to excessive speeds.

Walter Rogers Reports: What Was Our Intelligence Doing While Reds Worked

THE PRESIDENT'S ILLNESS The shock and concern that engulfed the Capital City at news of the President's illness could be felt even before the cause was known. It was very evident something was wrong, and many people, when they got the news, were heard to remark that they felt something had gone wrong but did not know exactly what it was.

It was generally suspected throughout the nation's capital that the whole story was not being told when it was reported the President had suffered a chill. It is pretty hard to fool the American people, and subsequent developments proved they had not been misled by the original soft peddling as to the condition of the President.

At the time this report is being written the President seems to be in good condition; however, defects in the circulatory system can get better or worse momentarily. By the time this letter reaches you, anything might have happened. Let us all hope and pray it is for the better and our President is in excellent health by that time.

SCIENCE The outstanding scientists of this country have had several big days before the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee headed by our Senior Senator, Lyndon Johnson. They have undertaken to explain the

Engineers Society To Meet Tuesday

The Panhandle Chapter of the Society of Petroleum Engineers of AIME will be held Tuesday night at the Pampa Country Club. The meeting is scheduled to begin at 6:30 p.m. with a social hour, to be followed by the dinner at 7:30. R. K. Swanson, vice-president in charge of engineering and research of Frontier Petroleum Co., will present a paper on the "New Developments in Nuclear Logging." He has been with Frontier since 1955 and prior to that time was associated with Schlumberger Well Surveying Corp.

Reservations for the dinner can be obtained until upon Tuesday by calling MO 4-3253. Tickets are $3 each.

will be Roger Ernst, assistant interior secretary for land management, and Ross L. Leffler, assistant secretary for fish and wild life. An interior spokesman said each witness will be given "every leeway" to aid his views.

and projects so secret the people who furnish the money are not even allowed to know the general purpose for which it is spent. No doubt this is another Agency which will be looked into come 1958.

The truth about our scientific failure, if it could be so called, goes a lot deeper than many of the reasons which were given to the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee or to any other committee investigating the matter on Capitol Hill. The simple truth is, there has been a failure by our entire country to fully realize and appreciate the need in the fields of science. In many of the schools there is no science course. This may be due to lack of funds for equipment, but usually it is due to the lack of funds with which to pay properly equipped school teachers, in some instances the money is available but there are no teachers.

This is not a mistake or a failure that has occurred within the last few years. It has been going on for a long, long time. It cannot be solved by some fly-by-night cure-all legislation permitting the government to finance some child who has been chosen as having a mind with a scientific turn. The solution of this problem lies at the grass roots of the nation. Proper facilities and teachers must be made available to every school in this nation. The facilities can be readily acquired — the teachers cannot — unless we are willing to recognize them for their true worth and to pay them in accordance with the contribution they are making to this nation and its future.

HONORING FREEDOM—Commemorating religious freedom in America and the Flushing Remonstrance of 1657 in particular, this three-cent stamp is slated to go on sale in Flushing, Long Island, N.Y., on Dec. 27. The stamp's central subjects are a Bible, which speaks the everlasting truth, a hat symbolic of the people and the times, and a quill, representing man's determination to speak the truth through the written word. The stamp in black, was designed by Robert Geissman of New York City.

Card of Thanks
He would not want the ones he loves to grieve for him today. We must not say that he is dead, for he is just away. As we recall, he is not dead, for he is just away. As we recall, he is not dead, for he is just away.

Beyond The Veil
Veiled from our sight, witnessed from our embrace. Wrapped in God's invisible which we care not to see. Yet in our dreams we will see loved faces and feel their presence near when we awake.

JUST ROUTINE!
TOLEDO, Ohio (UP)—The state highway Patrol's Sylvania patrol delivered a child for Mrs. Bernard Nasbaum Thursday when she and her husband saw they wouldn't make it to a hospital and drove into the patrol parking lot. The patrol dispatcher and two patrolmen are becoming experienced midwives. It was their second delivery.

Card of Thanks
There comes a time for all of us when we must say good-bye. But faith and hope and love and trust can never, never die. Although the curtain falls at last in that a cause grieves. The future's fairer than the past if only we believe in it. And trust in God's eternal care. So when the Master calls. Let's say that in the love of the Lord. And trust in God's eternal care. So when the Master calls. Let's say that in the love of the Lord. And trust in God's eternal care.

Card of Thanks
We wish to thank our many friends and neighbors for their kindness and sympathy during the death of our beloved husband and father. We are grateful for the beautiful services, arrangements, and the delicious food that was brought and served in our home. We especially wish to thank Rev. Nealey for his word of comfort during our sorrow. We also wish to thank the service to Duengel-Carmichael Funeral Home for the impressive last rites.

Card of Thanks
I cannot say and I will not say, that he is dead, he is just away. With a cheery smile and a wave of his hand. He has wandered to an unknown land. And left us dreaming, how very fair it needs must be since he lingers there. And you, to you who the widest yearn for the old time, we especially wish to think Rev. J. E. Neely for his good message, and to those who furnished music. Also to Duengel-Carmichael Funeral Home for the beautiful last rites.
