Reds Won't Reveal Data On Sputnik

BRUSSELS, Belgium (UP)—Russia failed again today to reveal what information its "Sputniks" have extracted from outer space. A long-awaited Soviet report to world headquarters of the International Geophysical Year, purporting to contain scientific information about Russia's artificial satellites, actually consisted entirely of communiques published weeks ago in the Moscow press. "The report comes as an anticlimax," said IGY Secretary General Marcel Nicolet. "There is not a single result or conclusion in the entire 20 pages—only the satellite characteristics, radio frequencies, orbit angle and other details we have known for weeks." IGY officials had hoped that the report would include details of the temperatures and cosmic ray intensities the sputniks had encountered in space, along with information on meteor impact and other technical data. "In fact, the report did not even reveal such minor matters as where the satellite was launched—information that the United States made available immediately after its "Explorer" went into orbit. As a matter of routine, Nicolet handed the report over to IGY coordinator Sir Archibald Day for distribution to scientists in other nations taking part in International Geophysical Year activities. Day's staff received the report without enthusiasm.

Britain May Pull Troops From Rhine

PARIS (UP)—Britain may withdraw more troops from her 60,000-man army of the Rhine because of German refusal to use any of its nine billion dollars budget to support Allied troops there, high Allied sources said. Britain plans to pull out 13,500 troops and the sources said Britain would not hesitate to pull out more if Bonn keeps vetoing British demands for financial help. Britain asks 140 million dollars. NATO Secretary General Paul Henri Spaak was reported seriously concerned by his failure to make German cabinet members change their mind during his weekend trip to Bonn, NATO officials said. Spaak was said to believe the NATO alliance would be badly shaken if Germany kept its money and Britain withdrew its troops. But the sources said Spaak had not given up hope and may appeal personally to Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, now vacationing on the Riviera.

Business Not Due For Slump

WASHINGTON (UP)—Top government officials are privately assuring worried business and political groups the Eisenhower administration is not going to allow the current business recession to reach serious proportions. The administration's official view is that conditions are not serious enough yet to warrant moving in with anti-depression measures that might in turn lead to increased inflation. But it was reported in high official circles the administration is ready to use every economic weapon it thinks proper to ward off a depression. These weapons could even include recommending a tax cut as some Democrats and Republicans already are demanding. Leading business organizations and labor groups also are plumping for a tax cut, although they differ as to the Democratic party advisory council yesterday called on the administration to take "positive government action" now to halt the recession. Calling for steps including further easing of the "tight money" policy, the council said if the administration cannot halt the recession in other ways "a tax cut may be necessary to stimulate economic activity."

Abigail Van Buren Joins News

"Abigail Van Buren" is the pen name for attractive Mrs. Pauline Phillips, who is known to her friends as "Po-Po." Although the wife of a highly successful San Francisco business man and the mother of two attractive youngsters, Mrs. Phillips still finds time to read and answer sympathetically the problems of other people in her breezy column, "DEAR ABBY," which starts in The Pampa Daily News, Wednesday on the women's activities page. "Abby" has a keen understanding of problems confronting discontented wives and husbands, teenagers, distressed parents, mistreating sweethearts, and, in general, people who are faced with crises in their lives and are seeking an outsider's viewpoint. Interspersed with her sage advice is a bright, humorous style of writing you are certain to enjoy. Mrs. Phillips was born an identical twin on July 4th in Sioux City, Iowa, where she and her twin sister lived and attended Morningstar College. But Pauline's career was interrupted when she married handsome Morton Phillips. After a short time in Eau Claire, Wisconsin, the Phillipses moved to San Francisco and it was in that city that she resumed her newspaper career. Mrs. Phillips is quite serious about her readers and considers each and every problem carefully before giving her advice.

Try At The Moon Looms As Next American Project

Satellite Was Seven Minutes Late

WASHINGTON (UP)—For seven minutes early last Saturday our satellite was missing, Werner Von Braun and his friends feared. Von Braun, known in the army these days as "The Happy Dutchman," was a worried man 108 minutes after his Jupiter-C rocket blasted away from the Florida coast at 11:48 p.m. c.s.t., Friday. He and other scientists pacing the Pentagon floor with Army officials had carefully figured that at 1:34 a.m. the satellite carried aloft by the rocket—if it was going into an orbit—should be whizzing over San Diego, Calif. But the minutes rolled past 1:34 and no word from California trackers. It's history now that the man-made moon finally hove over California, successfully orbiting around the earth. But only today did the Army disclose details of the "Operation Sweet-Out" that Von Braun and others went through until the word came: "It's in at San Diego."

Search Continues For Three Escaped Slinnett Prisoners

GARDEN CITY, Kan (UP)—Law officers manned roadblocks on all highways east of here today confident that a "waiting game" would net them three desperadoes who broke out of a Texas jail Sunday, vowing they never would be taken alive. The sheriff's officers took up posts at the roadblocks after an all-night search in below freezing temperatures failed to flush the jail-breakers from their hideout somewhere in the desolate sand dune country. "Our game now is waiting until they make another move to flee," Gray County Sheriff Charles Thomas said. Radio stations warned farmers and townspeople to lock their doors and cars after one farm house was battered open near Cimarron, Kan., last night. Investigators said the Albert Holmness farm house south of Cimarron was broken into last night, but the intruders had disappeared when Holmness and his family returned home. The three men, who beat up Earl Cooper, a Slinnett, Tex., jailer in their escape Sunday, were identified as Charles Screws, a six-foot-five-inch, 230-pound three time loser who has escaped five times before, Jack Lee Trebb, 23, of Topeka, Kan., and William Clayton Brown, 29, of Amarillo, Tex. They stole Cooper's car and escaped with two pistols and a butcher knife. Their last words to Cooper were "They won't take us alive."

Hotel Owner Killed

PHARR, Tex. (UP)—Pharr hotel owner John Bradley Reed was killed Thursday when his car ran into the back of a truck on U.S. 281 south of here. Cimarron was broken into last night, but the intruders had disappeared when Holmness and his family returned home. The three men, who beat up Earl Cooper, a Slinnett, Tex., jailer in their escape Sunday, were identified as Charles Screws, a six-foot-five-inch, 230-pound three time loser who has escaped five times before, Jack Lee Trebb, 23, of Topeka, Kan., and William Clayton Brown, 29, of Amarillo, Tex. Recruiter Has Trouble With Draft Board

DUNCAN (UP)—A Duncan man did a double take when he received a letter from his former draft board at Denison, Tex. The board asked Robert Phillips what he was doing and why he had not registered with the Selective Service Systems. He answered the letter and enclosed an invitation to the board to enlist in the WAVES. Phillips is a Navy recruiter in Duncan and recently re-enlisted for a six-year hitch after completing 16 years of service. If it comes from a Hardware Store, we have it. Lewis Hardware

Local Boys Club Has Open House

The formal opening of the Optimist Boys Club was held yesterday at 2 p.m. with Rev. Dick Crews, pastor of the First Christian Church giving the dedicatory address. The Pampa Junior High Band played a concert preceding the program which was presided over by Johnny Campbell, president of the Optimist Club. The High School A Capella Choir, under the direction of Bill Hunt, gave a concert during the program which included a word of congratulations from Mayor Lynn Boyd to the Optimist Club for the $28,000 project which was undertaken three years ago. Robert Langford, president of the student body of Pampa High School gave a word of thanks on behalf of the youth of Pampa. Coffee and doughnuts were served to the approximately 400 persons who toured the building and grounds and viewed the facilities which will provide a well-splendid place of recreation and study for the boys of the city. The building itself has the capacity for boxing spectators, basketball games, etc. Locker and equipment room are available and a reading room with books and television will be open. Around 800 boys have in the past been associated with the Boys Club in one way or another, including summer baseball leagues and boxing teams. Investigation Begins On Double Aerial Crashes Near Los Angeles Over Weekend

LOS ANGELES (UP)—A doubly mysterious aerial tragedy faced investigators today—what caused four planes to collide in two separate crashes in this area within 24 hours, killing 53 persons? A Cessna 180 with four persons aboard and a Piper Tri-Pacer smashed together Sunday in over-cast skies near Yorba Linda, about 20 miles southeast of Los Angeles. All five persons in the two planes were killed. Less than 24 hours earlier, 48 were killed when a four-engine Military Air Transport Service (MATS) plane, carrying 41 persons, and a multi-engine Navy Neptune bomber with eight servicemen aboard collided over suburban Norwalk. All aboard the transport, a C-118 Skymaster, and six aboard the Navy P2V patrol craft died as the smashed planes screamed to earth from 2,500 feet, slamming wreckage over a heavily populated area. Emergency Defense Spending Bill Debate Scheduled Today In Senate

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Senate was scheduled to begin debate today on President Eisenhower's request for an extra $1,260,000,000 for emergency defense spending. The bill, already passed by the House, would step up missile development, expand the Strategic Air Command's dispersal and alert facilities and give the government an undisclosed number of additional scientists. Republican Sens. Prescott Bush (Conn.) and John Sherman Cooper (Ky.) offered separate bills for carrying out reorganization of the Defense Department. In Philosophy Bush said his bill was in line with President Eisenhower's "general philosophy" on Pentagon reorganization. It would make the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff the top strategic planner for the armed forces — one of the major changes urged by the Rockefeller Report. Cooper said his legislation followed recommendations of both the Rockefeller group and the Hoover Commission on government reorganization. It would demote the Army, Navy and Air Force secretaries to the rank of undersecretary, with the defense

Vanguard Chief Says US Equipped For Job

By LEE NICHOLS United Press Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON—(UP)—Dr. John P. Hagen, chief of Project Vanguard, declared today "We know how to put the things together to go to the moon." All that is needed, he told the United Press, is an official go-ahead plus the time needed to assemble and prepare the necessary "hardware." Official estimates of the time required to fire off a rocket to or around the moon have varied. Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.), a member of the newly-created Senate outer space subcommittee, said Sunday night the United States should be able to send a rocket to the moon "within a few months."

Yemen Joins Syro-Egyptian Union

By ZAKI SALAMA United Press Staff Correspondent CAIRO (UP)—Yemen joins the Syro-Egyptian Union today in a move that will strengthen further President Gamal Abdel Nasser's dream of leading the entire Arab world into "positive neutrality," informed sources reported. Yemeni Crown Prince Mohammed Seif al Islam al Badr was driving to Cairo by car from his desert kingdom and was expected sometime during the day to declare adherence to the new United Arab republic formed Saturday by Egypt and Syria. He spent the night in the Saudi Arabian city of Jeddah. There still was no official announcement on Saudi Arabia's position. Saudi Ambassador Sheikh Ibrahim el Suleiman called on Syrian President Shukri el Kuwailid Sunday and they stated that "King Saud has always striven for Arab unity."

Explorer Praised

The satellite, dubbed "Explorer" by its proud Army "parents" but officially called "1958 Alpha" was reaping a harvest of praise at home and abroad as the first U.S. entry in the space race. While admittedly not as impressive as Russia's two Sputniks, Explorer was a tangible sign this country was in the race for space, and an omen of more exploits to come. Next on the schedule was another attempt to launch a small man-moon via the Navy's Vanguard rocket which exploded at its first launching and has been plagued by difficulties. A new try with the Vanguard was expected any day. In addition to the Navy, the Army is said to have proposed using its Jupiter intermediate range ballistic missile (IRBM) (not to be confused with the Jupiter-C) to hurl a satellite high enough to circle the moon. The Air Force has officially revealed it is thinking of using its Thor IRBM for flights to outer space. Sends Strong Signals

Local Liquor Permit Canceled

State permits allowing the sale of wine and beer for off premises consumption of Leon Gay, 606 Elm, have been canceled by the Texas Liquor Control Board. The order for the permanent cancellation of Gay's license was delivered Saturday night by an inspector of the LCB. The cancellation resulted from a charge of selling beer during prohibited hours, filed by an LCB inspector last December.

Bulgarian Rejects Plans For Summit

By WHITMAN BANSOW United Press Staff Correspondent MOSCOW (UP)—Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin's letter to President Eisenhower flatly rejected a foreign ministers conference as a preliminary to a summit conference, it was disclosed today. Instead, the Soviet premier suggested that the agenda and procedural questions could be proposed through diplomatic channels once the great powers agree to a meeting at the summit. Bulganin's latest letter to Eisenhower was delivered in Washington Saturday. The text was released here today. The Bulganin letter was in reply to Eisenhower's answer to earlier Soviet proposals for a conference of the heads of state. The Soviet Foreign Ministry released the Bulganin note at a news conference this afternoon. Bulganin proposed nine points as a possible agenda for the conference. These already have been given in numerous previous Soviet declarations and announcements. They included: —Termination of atom and nuclear tests. —Renunciation of the use of nuclear weapons by the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union. —Creation of an "atom-free" zone in Central Europe. —A non-aggression pact between NATO and Warsaw Pact powers. —Reduction of the number of foreign troops stationed in Germany and other European nations. —Discussion of questions connected with preventing surprise attacks. —Expansion of international trade. —Prohibition of "war propaganda." —Measures to reduce tension in the Near and Middle East.

Nature is often careless in handing out beauty. She may give a girl classic features but eyebrows that are entirely wrong for her face. This isn't a serious beauty problem but it is one that needs correction. This girl has decided (left) that her brows grow too low and too close to her eyes, making her forehead look higher than it really is. She uses a scissor-handled tweezers to pluck her brows from underneath (center) and thus give them the arched look that she wants. Then she adds a few strokes with an eyebrow pencil (right) and combs her hair into bangs. The result is a far prettier face, one with a less severe look. Best way to find your right brow line is to follow bone structure just above the eye.

Nature Often Skimps On Beauty Gift, But Charm Wins By Eye-Brow Frame

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor
When your eyes are lovely, other beauty flaws, more often than not, go unnoticed.
Think about it yourself. When you see a woman with particularly beautiful eyes, isn't that what you recall most clearly about her?
Although, in the long run, eye beauty depends largely upon good health, thanks to modern beauty aids we can enhance the appearance of our eyes with a minimum of effort.
Your eyes should be a picture, framed by brows, lids and lashes, and it's up to you to make certain that the frame shows the picture at its best.
Your lashes will grow long and curly if you apply oil to them each night before going to bed. And for street and evening wear, mascara, carefully applied, will add to their beauty.

Your brows are the most important part of the frame. We're all familiar with the tricks of hair styling and cosmetics to change the shape of the face and minimize beauty flaws, but few of us realize how much reshaping of the eyebrows can do for us.
If you have a too high forehead, you can make it seem lower by heightening the arch of your brow to close in the distance between the hairline and the top of your eyebrows.
For a too low forehead, keep the brow on a straight line, giving the forehead as much space as possible.

Length can be added to a round face by arching the brows in the center. And a narrow face can be made to seem wider by tapering the brows and then using an eyebrow pencil to lengthen the line.
Many of us avoid corrective eyebrow shaping because we find tweezing painful. But there is on the market a new precision tweezers whose scissor handles, the maker says, create such leverage as to give you a rock-firm grip on each hair. The handles are angled to allow full vision, for your hand is toward the side of your face and not between the eyes and mirror. This tweezers is available, too, with a diagonal tip to allow you to tweeze while wearing your glasses.
To make tweezing painless, wring out a wash cloth in warm water and press it to the brows for a few minutes. Then work a tiny bit of light cream into the brows. Pat away the excess with tissue, and it won't hurt at all.
Try to take the time necessary to care for your brows and lashes so that the beauty of your eyes will be set in the frame it deserves.

It's hard on a teen-age girl to have a mother who doesn't show especially good taste in choosing her own clothes, yet insists on picking out her daughter's clothes.
Thinks that her daughter's life is so much more exciting than her own that she wants to hear every detail about everything her daughter does.
Takes her daughter's setbacks and minor disappointments every bit as hard as the daughter does, instead of helping her to see them in proper perspective.

Wants so much for her daughter to be popular that she acts more like a stage manager than a mother.
Tries to be cute and coy with the boys her daughter brings to the house.

Public opinion says the cause is due to several successive events; Little Rock; Soviet success with Sputnik; and Washington's neutrality in Jakarta's dispute with the Hague over Netherlands, New Guinea. Eyeglasses Aid To Prettier Hearing

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor
It's no fun to miss two-thirds of every conversation, and it's embarrassing to constantly have to ask friends to repeat what was said. Consequently, women whose hearing is impaired are very often reluctant to go out socially.
If you like to look attractive — and who doesn't? — you may feel that your appearance suffers from your hearing aid. And so you shy away from spending evenings at the theater or at parties with your friends.
Aware of this problem, a famous maker of hearing aids has now designed an aid that is completely concealed in slim, smart-looking eyeglasses. These glasses come in attractive styles and can be fitted with hearing aids for either one or both ears. Doerfer Of FCC Claims He Has Had 'Trial By Ordeal'

By NEIL MACNEIL
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—Chairman John C. Doerfer of the Federal Communications Commission protested today that he has been put through a "trial by ordeal" in the nation's press on "vague" charges of misconduct.
Doerfer told a House commerce investigating subcommittee he had been subjected to "torture... (of) medieval times."
While he was not permitted at once to answer the charges directly, he denied any wrongdoing.
Commissioner Rosell H. Hyde, also charged with accepting favors, told the subcommittee: "I emphatically deny that any of my acts as a government official warranted charges of official misconduct."
Robert T. Bartley, another FCC member, told the subcommittee that he also had done nothing wrong.
Promises Full Investigation
Doerfer, Hyde, Bartley and two other commissioners—Robert E. Lee and Richard A. Mack—were summoned before the subcommittee to answer charges by the subcommittee staff that they accepted color TV sets and other costly "favors" from the broadcasting industry.

Chairman Morgan M. Moulder (D-Mo.), in opening the initial hearing today, promised a "thorough and full" investigation of the staff's finding that the five FCC members had been guilty of "official personal misconduct" and had permitted the broadcast industry to exert a "wrongful influence" on them.
Hyde denied that the broadcast industry had paid any living expenses for him and said that any expenses he charged the government were "more than justified to cover actual costs incurred by me."
He also denied that industry officials paid living expenses for his wife or that anyone "has presumed to attempt to influence my official actions in any matter before the FCC."
Hyde said, however, that he saw "no violation of law or moral standard" in accepting "on loan" color TV sets from the broadcast industry. He said they were "necessary tools for the performance of my official duties."
Bartley said "there is nothing unusual about the giving and receiving of greetings and gifts at Christmas time, anniversaries, etc."
"In no instance, during my nearly six years on the commission," he said, "has anyone stepped beyond the bounds of propriety nor have any gifts been received by me or my family which I considered more than a mere token of courtesy and respect."
Bartley said he has attended "innumerable meetings, conferences, conventions, and demonstrations," and generally has charged the government for his travel expenses.
On a number of occasions, he said, "the organization which I was addressing or conferring with took care of the hotel bill."
He said there also were a "few instances" in which he and other FCC members were provided transportation "at no expense to the government" to inspect new plant and equipment, to study problems of broadcasters, or to inaugurate or dedicate a new service.
"It was in the public interest for me to do so," Bartley said.

Police Check Confession Of Youth

EL PASO (UP)—Police today awaited the results of a fingerprint analysis of a 20-year-old man whose murder confession they first regarded as a publicity stunt.
Police in Juarez, Mexico, were holding Raul Oscar Hernandez, who confessed to the murder of Miss Refugio Prieto, 64, last Nov. 8. At first they thought it was a hoax, but he was able to draw an accurate diagram of the murder scene and relate other little-known information.
El Paso Chief of Detectives C. C. Key said a photograph of a fingerprint on a bloody soft drink bottle used to beat the woman and Hernandez' prints had been sent to Austin for analysis.
David Jaurez, 20, charged last Friday with the murder, was a photo of the print on the bottle seized Sunday when enlarged photos of the print on the bottle showed it wasn't his. He had been held when the print showed 12 points of similarity.
Hernandez confessed that he and a friend robbed and beat to death Miss Prieto in her living quarters behind her small grocery store. Police on both sides of the border were hunting the youth Hernandez said helped him kill the woman.

Authorities Uncertain About Charges Against Fugate Girl

LINCOLN, Neb. (UP)—Confessed mass killer Charles Starkweather faced arraignment today on a first-degree murder charge, but authorities were uncertain what charge to lodge against his 14-year-old girl friend.
They questioned Carl Fugate intensively Sunday and Sunday night in an attempt to get a written statement from her.
County Atty. Elmer Scheele said Carl also would be arraigned today after it is decided whether to return the first degree murder charge already filed against her or file some other charge.
Both Carl and Starkweather, 19, were charged originally with the sex murder of Carol June King, 16. The bodies of the King girl and her boyfriend, a 20-year-old bachelor farmer near Bennet, Neb., a prominent Lincoln industrialist and his wife and mother and a traveling salesman slain near Douglas, Wyo.
Because of her age, Carl was held at Lincoln State Hospital rather than at a jail.
Both Carl and Starkweather at first said she was a captive of the former Lincoln garbage collector on his murder trail through Nebraska and Wyoming.
But Starkweather later reversed his story and now claims Carl was a "willing accomplice" in his murder marathon.

AFL-CIO Attempts To Deplete Hoffa

MIAMI BEACH (UP)—The AFL-CIO moved today to push through labor unity in Michigan and cut down the prestige of Teamsters President James R. Hoffa in his home state.
George Meany, AFL-CIO president, was expected to revoke the separate charters of the AFL and CIO state organizations in Michigan and propose a "shotgun marriage" of the two groups.
The 29-member executive council, opening its midwinter meeting today, appeared certain to approve the Meany recommendations.
AFL-CIO sources said Hoffa and the Michigan teamsters have successfully blocked a merger in the state even though the truck union is not supposed to belong to the state AFL group.
Meany sent orders to sever ties with the teamsters on state and local levels after the AFL-CIO kicked them out on corruption charges involving Hoffa and other officials.
Labor sources said Hoffa, who rose to power in Detroit, has been the controlling influence in the Michigan Federation of Labor. Merger talks in Michigan broke up recently after the MFL refused to bar a teamster official from its unity committee.

Marijuana Seized In Wisconsin

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UP)—Federal agents Sunday seized $700,000 worth of marijuana which was smuggled from Mexico to a frame house just north of Kenosha, Wis.
The six agents who nabbed more than 700 pounds of the narcotic worth about $1,000 per pound said it was the largest marijuana cache ever nabbed in this country by the U.S. Customs Service.
A Mexican smuggling syndicate apparently chose Kenosha as midwest distribution headquarters because the area is mostly free of marijuana distribution and would attract the least suspicion, agents said.
Isuata Garza, 34, was alone in the house when the agents—four from Chicago and two from Laredo, Tex.—made the raid. Garza was brought to Milwaukee and was scheduled to be charged today with smuggling, possession and transportation of narcotics.
U. S. Customs Collector Bernhard Gettelman, Milwaukee, said the captured marijuana, in one pound packages, was also brought to Milwaukee and will remain here until after Garza's trial.
The raid climaxed months of investigation by the agents. They knew the marijuana was grown near Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, just across the border from Laredo. They finally traced a shipment made by truck last December to the Kenosha area.

Unbeatable Delaney Runs Just Fast Enough To Win

BOSTON (UP) — Unbeatable miler Ron Delaney's Irish brogue is fascinating but confusing. At least that's one explanation of why it was generally understood that the 22-year-old Dubliner, via Villanova, was out to set an indoor mile record Saturday night in the Boston A.A. meet at the Garden.

Delaney didn't establish a new mark, nor did he come close to his own best time, winning easily with a 4:05.3 clocking. But he said quite matter-of-factly after the race that he had never meant to go for a record. "Where do you fellows get your information?" he grinned.

Is The Family Car Taking To The Water? 1958's Boat Crop Makes It Look That Way

By SUMNER AHLBUM NEA Staff Correspondent NEW YORK (NEA) — Will the family car of tomorrow be an amphibian?

Maybe not, but a died-in-the-baby sailor can't be blamed for getting that idea as he plots a course through the 1958 armada of boats, motors and accessories being offered by the pleasure craft industry.

For the boat and engine makers, who took a mild dip into the Detroit look last year with such embellishments as sea-going upswep tall fins, now have plunged in up to the gunwales.

There's a pushbutton gear shift on a 60 m.p.h. speedboat. Power steering for outboard motors. An outboard "station wagon" with electrically controlled seats. And a horse power race in the outboard field, topped by a six-cylinder, 70 h.p. motor.

But unlike Detroit, which so far has been having trouble luring customers to its 1958 product, the boating industry is as happy as a clam at high tide.

If the 48th annual National Motor Boat Show in New York's Coliseum is any example, boating enthusiasts are in a buying mood. They not only jammed the Coliseum for 10 afternoons and evenings; they kept salesmen busy writing orders.

Two $60,000 sales, one of a power yacht, the other of a windjammer, may not necessarily indicate a trend, but what adds up are reports like that from the Pearson Plastic Corp. of Bristol, R. I., which sold 121 small boats (8 to 18 feet) in the first four days of the show for a total of $375,000.

It is figures like this which have salesmen panting for the doors to open at later boat shows in Chicago, Miami, St. Louis, Boston and elsewhere.

Among the items which drew the crowds in New York: The outboard "station wagon," a new boat design by Brooks Stevens for Evinrude. It's a 21-footer with retractable cabin top that changes it from a runabout to a weekend cruiser with electrically powered seats that convert to bunks for four. The announced price was $18,500, but since it's one-of-a-kind it's not for sale; Evinrude hopes some boat maker will pick up the idea.

A luxury inboard cruiser by Century Boat Co. with pushbutton hydraulic gear shift on a 325 h.p., 50 m.p.h. engine, sports car bucket seats, high stern tail fins, and a sliding clear plastic bubble canopy.

Smallest cruising sailboat ever seen at the show, a 17-foot English import which sleeps two, and the first all-plastic mast for larger sailing craft on the all-plastic Bounty II, a 41-foot sloop, a new blend of rubber and plastic to compete with molded plywood and Fiberglas for hull construction, exhibited by U.S. Rubber in a 9-foot dinghy ($275) and a 14-foot runabout (about $950).

A 6 1/2-foot water scooter with 10 h.p. inboard engine by Arnolt priced at $395, and an 18-foot "inboard outboard" runabout (the outboard is in a well amidships) by Ranson F. Shoup, the voting machine manufacturer.

In the outboard power race, Mercury's 70 h.p. six cylinder, inline engine is the most powerful production job in the field. Scott-Atwater offers the first three-cylinder model which generates 60 h.p.—and has power steering as an extra accessory. Both Evinrude and Johnson have the first vee-banked, four-cylinder outboards at 50 h.p. And to match the economy-minded segment of the auto industry, American MARC is out with the first diesel outboard, a 7 1/2-h.p. two-cylinder unit which, they say, runs on almost nothing.

OUTBOARD "STATION WAGON," Evinrude's boat of tomorrow, is 21-footer with retractable cabin top that allows conversion from runabout to weekend cruiser sleeping four.

RUBBER-HULLED RUNABOUT is made from U.S. Rubber's new rubber-plastic blend to compete with other plastic hulls.

Where all this is headed is suggested by Johnson Motors' William H. Jonas, who predicts that by 1975 there will be sixty million persons enjoying boating, nearly double today's total and one-fourth of the projected 1975 population; 15 million boats in use, 13,500,000 of them outboards, about double today's total.

With the boating boom during all those people to the waterways, the time may even come when it will be possible again to get somewhere by automobile of a weekend without bumper-to-bumper misery.

House floor in the Capitol. Mr. Speaker, do you believe the American people are frightened by Russia's successes in missiles and space vehicles?

"No, I don't think they are scared. But they are very troubled and humiliated to find out that we are behind the Russians in some things. I think they'd like to get to work remedying the situation if somebody would lay down a program for them to work at."

While Rayburn carefully refrained from direct criticism of President Eisenhower, it was clear throughout the interview that he does not regard the administration's program as anything like an adequate national response to the present emergency.

"Time again, he spoke of the need for bolder leadership in government 'starting at the top.' And he said this need for bolder leadership extends beyond government—into business and every other segment of our society.

Sam Rayburn Doesn't Beat Around The Bush

By LOUIS CASSELS United Press Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON (UP)—Speaker Sam Rayburn doesn't beat around the bush. When you ask him what's wrong with America, he has a quick, three-word answer: "Lack of leadership."

That may sound like a Democrat's political jibe at a Republican president. But "Mr. Sam," although a Democratic leader, made his reply cover both parties and beyond government to business and other areas.

He had been asked, as a statesman, to answer a question which the United Press put to six prominent Americans representing government, the military, business, labor, science and the church. The question was: "What troubles you most as you look at America today?"

The man who has served as speaker longer than anyone else in history emphasized that his judgment of timid leadership was not aimed solely at the White House.

People Underestimated "I think," he said, peering over his pince-nez glasses, "that the entire political leadership of the country—Congress and the administration, Democrats and Republicans—is guilty of underestimating the American people."

Rayburn said he is convinced that Americans "want to know the cold, hard facts, of where we stand in the arms race with Russia."

"I believe the people are ready to work hard, to have stern demands made on them," he said. "They are ready to make whatever contributions are necessary to keep this country strong and free."

But Rayburn said political leaders—and again he included Congress—have been reluctant to ask Americans to make heroic contributions.

"There has been a tendency to shield the people from bad news, to withhold essential facts that they ought to know. There has been a hesitancy to impose burdens on them—even necessary burdens."

Singapore's Importance To Be Stressed By Britain

By HAROLD GUARD
United Press Staff Correspondent
LONDON (UP)—The vital importance of Singapore as a military base will be underlined in Britain's defense White Paper due to be published next month.

Coincident with the reorganization of the command structure of British forces in the Middle East and Africa, the White Paper also will outline the adjustments made in Southeast Asia and the Far East.

It is expected the White Paper will give details of the changes which already have taken place in the command structure at Singapore and the subsequent run-down of staff which has entailed economies.

Need Will Be Stressed

At the same time, it will stress that Britain needs Singapore as a defense base now more than ever, mainly because of the gradual reduction of other bases along the line stretching from Gibraltar to Hong Kong.

This poses the question whether Britain can count firmly on Singapore after the colony achieves its internal self-government in the near future.

Already some doubts have been expressed in the British press and by members of Parliament who recognize that as Britain loses some bases because of political pressure the importance of the political climate in remaining bases increases.

Office Apparently Confident

The Colonial Office apparently is confident Singapore will be administered by a government which would not be disruptive. But responsible press reports from the island are less optimistic.

Defense authorities here, who make no bones about their conviction that there is no substitute for Singapore as a base, are also looking at the political scene.

They see the Malayan campaign against the jungle terrorists as slowly grinding to a finish. When this happens army headquarters in the Malayan capital at Kuala Lumpur is to be shifted to Singapore.

They also want to see a beginning made in the building of a commonwealth army cantonment near Malacca which was authorized under the defense agreement with Malaya last year.

According to the agreement on self-government for Singapore, Britain retains ultimate authority in defense and foreign affairs but the British defense authorities would like to feel more certain about this.

She Took Sign Literally

STOURBRIDGE, England (UP)—Elizabeth Poulton was amazed when she was haled into court for taking two shopping baskets home from Stourbridge's first American-style supermarket.

"Why, the sign by the pile of baskets said 'Please take one,'" she said. "So I did - each of the two times I visited the store."

Miss Poulton was acquitted by Judge H. P. Jones, who agreed with her.

"If you put a pile of baskets by the door and say 'please take one,' why shouldn't someone take one?" Jones asked.

The store manager said the sign has been removed.

Rambler Ups '57 Sales 40%

DALLAS — Rambler sales in American Motors' Dallas Zone increased 40.1 per cent in 1957 to establish a new record, according to T. J. Sloggett, Zone Manager. The Dallas zone covers Texas and New Mexico.

"The great sales gains posted by the Rambler dealers in the Dallas Zone indicate that the trend toward compact, economical cars has reached new heights," Sloggett said.

Sloggett added that Rambler sales in the nation totaled 98,567 in 1957, surpassing the previous year's record of 73,807 sold in 1956 by 33.6 per cent. Last year's sales total also was a gain of 38.2 per cent over 1956.

MARSHALLS TAX FORCE

SEOUL, Korea (UP)—Mayor Hu Chung blamed delinquent taxpayers today for the city's $3,500,000 budget deficit and set out to remedy the situation. Hu marshalled 100 three-man tax-collecting teams, assigned them quotas of $5,000 a day and told them to beat the bushes for citizens who haven't paid their taxes.

Safety Sticker

They remind you: April 15 is the deadline for your Texas State auto safety inspection. Beat the crowd, save your time - have your car checked at your official inspection station, Hukill & Son!

Equipment Hukill mechanics use include the latest Sun and Allen Testing Machines: generator, regulator, distributor, compression testers, tachometer, timing lights.

Other equipment includes the valve grinding machines, Hukill's own test panel which checks windshield wipers, starters, generators, martrums, coils; the cleaning vat to cleanse thoroughly all parts, the lathe, undercutter and the Rochester and Carter tools to set carburetors.

Front End Alignment

Also there is the Bear Equipment for wheel alignment, balancing, Front End Man "Coochie" Sanders operates equipment exclusively in this area at Hukill & Son.

You know wheel alignment is a system of interrelated angles of the axles, wheels and other front end parts. The precision adjustment of these angles allows you to steer your car straight and makes it possible to turn corners without having either front wheel skid sideways. When any of these delicately balanced angles is disturbed, wheels may be thrown so far out of adjustment that they drag, skid and scuff.

Alignment is related directly to the ease with which your car steers, the safety with which you drive, the life of your tires and the amount of wear on vital front end parts.

Under ordinary conditions cars should be checked for alignment and wheel balance at least twice a year or every 4,000 miles.

Hukill's Bear Taligner makes possible faster, more accurate detection and alignment conditions. You see the results yourself on the Taligner screen.

WASHINGTON — Lincoln White, State Department spokesman, on London reports that the United States has changed its stand and now is prepared to take a short-cut to East-West summit talks: "It should be abundantly clear that what we desire, as the President clearly states in his letter to Soviet Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin, is to move toward a summit meeting under conditions which give promise of success."

MOSCOW — Soviet Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin, in a Tass news agency dispatch praising the new U.S.-Soviet cultural-agreement, on the need for settlement of political disputes as well:

"It would like to stress the great importance we attribute to concerted actions of the two countries for settling urgent international problems."

"To us it's not a luxury. It's part of our job to see how it works. We look at television shows not for fun but to learn what's going on."

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. — Treasury Secretary Robert B. Anderson, in a speech at the annual banquet of the Northwest Texas Field and Stream Assn., on how the national economy will fare in 1958:

CZECH WINS
LONDON (UP)—Karol Divin of Czechoslovakia captured the European men's figure skating crown at Bratislava Friday night, according to a Ceteka Agency message from Prague.

Fred M. Truett, left, President of Southwestern Drug Corporation, explains the rules of the 1958 Red Arrow Moon Contest to G. B. "Buck" Park, President of Texas Pharmaceutical Association. The contest, sponsored by Red Arrow Laboratories, Waco - a division of Southwestern Drug - offers as grand prize a round-trip to the moon, plus ninety-nine other prizes.

NEXT STOP: THE MOON!

Someone from the Southwest may be the first passenger on a commercial flight to the moon! Red Arrow Laboratories of Waco, Texas, is showing its confidence in the ability of American scientists to conquer outer space at an early date, by offering a round-trip to the moon as the grand prize in its 1958 Moon Contest.

Running through the month of February in drug stores throughout the Southwest, the contest will offer a thousand dollars cash to the grand prize winner, should he not care to make the trip. Altogether, prizes will be awarded to the one hundred best entries completing the sentence, "I would like to win a trip to the moon because..." in 25 additional words.

"We firmly believe that within the next two years the U. S. will be able to provide commercial transportation to the moon," said one official of Red Arrow. "In offering the moon trip as a prize, we hope the Red Arrow Moon Contest will contribute to the public awareness of the importance of establishing an American beachhead in outer space."

"This year, in offering an out-of-this-world prize," continued the spokesman, "our purpose was not only to get away from a run-of-the-mill prize, but to emphasize the fact that we are on the threshold of a wonderful new age of science, heralding advances beyond dreams in education, medicine, and manufacturing, as well as transportation."

THE STORM WINDOW THAT DOES WHAT OTHERS ATTEMPT TO DO

The Pampa Daily News

YOUR FREEDOM NEWSPAPER

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is not license. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule, the Ten Commandments and the Declaration of Independence. This newspaper is dedicated to promoting and preserving YOUR freedom as well as our own. For only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

Editorial Policy

The News recently changed its statement of policy, which is found above in the masthead, because we thought it necessary to refine our statement of basic policy for the purpose of clarity. Since it is what individuals and organizations believe to be basic that forms the various avenues of approach to every human problem, we believe it is of the utmost importance that our readers understand the foundation upon which we develop our views of the human situation, particularly the relation of the individual to the State.

Most newspapers have a statement of policy, usually summed up in a slogan, through which they tell their readers what their policy is but our approach varies considerably from most newspapers and we think the difference is of some importance. The average newspaper gives affirmation to the proposition that it will cover the news in an unbiased fashion, fight fearlessly against evil and offers other platitudinous expressions which we think redundant for it is so much an elementary proposition that a newspaper should be honest, fearless, etc. that to remind the reader daily of this stand appears to be asking recognition for conduct which every reader has a right to expect. It is like an individual constantly reminding those whom he contacts that he is honest and expecting special commendation for the fact.

On the other hand, while not detracting from the importance of being honorable in the responsibilities of reporting news, we hold that there are issues which do have a priority of statement, particularly on the editorial page, and those issues are related to the broad moral problem of the day which have such importance in the individual's fulfillment of his destiny as a man. Since this era has found an unprecedented rise in the power of government over the individual, we view this as the key to most of the tragedy and discontent of our times, not only in our own country but also on the international level. This does not mean to imply that a man cannot, as an individual, find his personal destiny in the ultimate sense under these adverse conditions for the ultimate always implies the individual and his relation to his God. What it does mean is that the increasing power of government is a positive evil in that it must inexorably thwart the individual's search for the ultimate because it institutionalizes aggressive violence as proper action in the affairs of men. So corrupting is this influence that it has grasped the minds and spirits of the dominant influences in certain leading religious and almost all educational circles.

The first nine words of our policy statement sets the whole tone of what we endeavor to stand faithful to in our examination of the proper relationship between man and the State. These nine words, "We believe that freedom is a gift from God..." form a declaration of belief which gives rise to challenge the concept of government which is held by the vast majority of individuals today and makes our policies unpopular with many of the "leaders" in the communities where Freedom Newspapers publish a newspaper. Since there is no organic relationship between popularity and truth, we disregard the former when it comes to challenge that which we reason is at cross purposes with such moral guides as the Golden Rule, the Ten Commandments and the Declaration of Independence.

One of the ominous signs of indifference in our country today is signified by the necessity of committing ourselves "... to promoting and preserving YOUR freedom as well as our own." This is nothing but a clear recognition of the fact that the slavery of certain elements in our society by other elements is a process of moral erosion which takes away every individual's freedom a parcel at a time. Our position that we must be as attentive to YOUR freedom as our own is but an attempt to recognize a common brotherhood and the necessity of mutual concern for survival.

As our readers note, we spend a great deal of editorial energy trying to explain what is happening to endanger our material, as well as moral, well-being because of the appetite for plunder on the part of government and our reason for doing this is to point up the more outward and obvious ramifications of aggressive violence. Though the momentum of freedom has handed us a heritage of material well-being unknown in history, the real glory of the traditions of human freedom is man's ability to aspire to his fullest spiritually as a creature of God. The dealing with material ends is the sole claim of government which violates the Stealing Commandment under the sanction of government while a voluntary society finds the abundance of material things multiplying because of the individual's ability to aspire as a responsible, self-controlling entity in search of his own destiny.

We are not utopians! We know of no way to implement a "perfect" society! But we do believe the way to the fuller life, both spiritually and materially, is on the basis of a God premise which exalts love as the anti-thesis of aggressive violence, peace as the opposite of aggressive war and voluntary exchange as in the market place as the contradiction to government sanctioned plunder.

Conference On Moral And Spiritual Values

I was interested in reading a five-page press release from the California Junior College Assn. telling about a conference being sponsored by the 59 junior colleges of California to be held at the University of California Davis Campus for a history-making conference on moral and spiritual values in junior colleges. It is to be held from Jan. 31 to Feb. 2.

The press release says the initiative of the California Junior College Assn. was taken because of the deep concern of the California junior college educators for discovering more effective ways of supporting moral and spiritual values.

I am indeed glad that the junior colleges, supported by taxes, realize the necessity of instilling into the students the need of better understanding moral and spiritual values.

The committee in this press release makes the statement that the conference is "...based on... the conviction that any higher education that omits training in these values is incomplete and truncated education. Because of this conviction and the present widespread searching on the part of students for a faith to live by, as well as the many new initiatives for the support of religion in all types of public institutions of higher education, we consider this a timely moment for California Junior Colleges to grapple more seriously with this subject than heretofore.

It seems reasonable to believe that any education that doesn't teach moral and spiritual values which enable men to have peace and goodwill toward their fellowman is not only incomplete and truncated (cut off) but, in fact, not education at all.

It is dangerous if men do not know the difference between right and wrong, what is fair and unfair, and what is just and unjust. As they are trained to harness the forces of nature if they are not governed by moral and spiritual values, they become more dangerous instead of more useful to themselves and to mankind.

What Standard Of Moral Values? Just what standard can involuntary schools use to determine moral and spiritual values? They certainly cannot use the Ten Commandments or the Golden Rule or the "Love Thy Neighbor As Thyself" Commandment.

They cannot use these standards because they are violating them. They will have to set up a different standard, a standard that is not in harmony with these laws. If they use these standards and are successful in instilling into the youth the belief in these standards, they would void compulsory schooling attendance and support out of existence.

It is hard to conceive what moral and spiritual standards they can discuss. They can use a lot of words and kid themselves into believing they can teach moral and spiritual values, but if the best way to teach is by example they will be unsuccessful. Most of us learn what we know by trying to live in harmony with people we regard as moral and ethical.

It would seem that these great moral guides of spiritual values are the only real guide. Any other guide is a mockery and a delusion. If the supported teachers are to teach by example, how can they instill into their pupils a belief in respecting the inalienable rights of others? How can they teach them to love their neighbors as themselves?

Would they want to be forced to pay for training that they regarded as harmful to their fellowmen? And how can they actually believe they can teach these moral values when they are practicing that they need not render a service well enough that people will voluntarily support them?

How can they teach humility when they have so exalted themselves that they believe, judging from their acts, that they have the right to force others to pay for their services when they do not want to use them? They certainly cannot use the teachings of Jesus. Remember, he said: "Is it not lawful for me to do with my own as I will?"

They are, by their acts, saying that it is not lawful for those who are forced to pay for their services "to do with my own as I will" — to buy the kind of education they want, but they must buy their particular brand.

The Great Teacher also said: "...and if the blind lead the blind, both shall fall in the ditch." Are we not falling in the ditch when we are drafting soldiers, when we have labor unions that practice strikes that impoverish mankind, when we have a tax system that is patterned after man's will rather than God's will, when we have long periods of unemployment, when we have protective tariffs and immigration quotas that are bound to lead to wars, when we are full of fear and have no confidence in our government and are in almost continuous war?

What did Jesus mean by falling in the ditch if these things are not falling in the ditch? The conference is being financed by the Edward W. Hazen Foundation of New Haven, Conn. It is paying the cost of preparatory work, research and paying the expenses of three delegates from each of the 59 public junior colleges in California.

If any one of them would get his eyes open and recognize the impossibility for teachers teaching moral and spiritual values when they are practicing compulsion

Impressions On The Texas Millionaires

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK — I would not give $5 to frisk all the millionaires of Texas because, I myself, and some of my friends in the red-baiting business have taken occasion to observe them and it is our observation that a Texas millionaire's favorite pocket-piece is a half-dollar and that they have developed a fascinating little trick they perform so casually that they seem to do it instinctively. They roll it on their fingers, as a magician would, then they fold it and put it back in their pants.

I first heard of it from a beautiful patriotic young woman in Dallas, Mrs. Dan Smoot, known to her friends as Betty, in a discussion of H. L. Hunt, who was going to dollar-for-dollar all the millionaires of the eastern seaboard in a campaign to save our beloved country from the fate of Poland, Hungary, the Baltics and all them. Mrs. Smoot's husband, a former agent of the FBI, does a broadcast and TV show and kicks out a little political pamphlet called the Dan Smoot Report. This Hunt decided to underwrite or subsidize him out of his hundreds of millions.

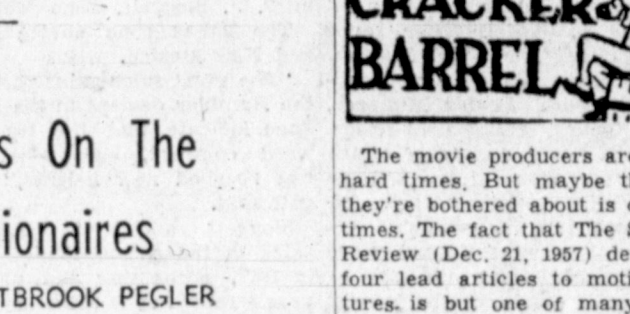

Hunt made his hundreds of millions starting with a ten hand crap game on a blanket up near Smackover, Ark., a few days before the whole county went up in the air, dissolved in a gusher.

Smackover is a clay-eater's corruption of smacker, the regional name of the spread where down toward the Civil War there were millions of quails and ducks and other feathered friends. Everybody in those parts took off licket-rip when that gusher went up except Mr. Hunt. Some of my friends down there say he had worn a hole in his pants pocket and his folded four-bills had slid down through and of course you couldn't expect a man to light out leaving his half-dollar. So there was Mr. Hunt, all alone in Smackover, down on his knees in the rich, oily muck and muttering morosely.

I once heard down thataway that Mr. Hunt done bought himself a great big cotton-patch with his $500 from the crap-game and that when the soil came plopping back to earth after the gusher, he said to himself well that soil wouldn't be fittin' to grow no cotton for nine ten years, all messed up with petroleum. So he decided to poke some wells down in the yard and put some bar's and washboilers and cattle-tanks around to hold it and if you need a blueprint from that point on, you ain't payin' attention.

I met Mr. Hunt myself once in the Waldorf tower in New York, right across the hall from the lair of Arthur J. Goldsmith, the toothless dragon of the letterhead political layouts that dribble petty money into Utah, Idaho, New Hampshire and Vermont to elect senators, cheap, but beholden to New York. Mr. Hunt sent word he'd like to get seen by me. Having seen them all from H. T. Green down to Joe Kennedy, and found them pretty much alike, and aggression, it would be worth the cost. At any rate, most of them will have a good time at the expense of tax-free foundations.

The CRACKER BARREL

By JACK MOFFITT

The movie producers are yelling hard times. But maybe the thing they're bothered about is changing times. The fact that The Saturday Review (Dec. 21, 1957) devotes its four lead articles to motion pictures, is but one of many indications that the screen is changing from a mass to a class means of entertainment. "Round the World in Eighty Days" shown as a road show, has taken in $15,000,000 and is still going strong. There is every sign that "Sayonara," which stars Marlon Brando in a beautiful love story set against lovely and exotic backgrounds, will do equally well. With longer screen plays, movies now have the space to achieve the maturity and depth of a novel. While the wide screen, combined with improved camera and color techniques, permits a flexibility from vast spectacle to intimate scenes that has hitherto been impossible during all the centuries of history of the drama. The brilliantly pioneering camera work and film editing in Kirk Douglas's "Paths of Glory" give proof that, as an expanding art form, the motion picture is still creative and vital. But there has been no doubt that television has killed mediocre movies.

Old Jack Garner, down in Uvalde, has a chattel mortgage on every sallow nester's rusty iron stove in a stretch as big as Pennsylvania. A very rich and very honest man. And I am laying 8 to 5 he won't leave a dollar to defend any emotional Americans from malicious litigation or income tax hatchet jobs directed by any of the fronts in the index of the House Committee.

The surest way to get mistook for a millionaire in Texas is to dress seedy and leave nickel tips for the footsore little girls in the lunchrooms.

NATO Indifference At Spread Of Communism

By RAY TUCKER

AUCKLAND — New Zealanders and Australians are amazed at the indifference by the NATO powers, especially Britain and the United States, show toward the growth of Communist influence in Indonesia, which lies not far from these bulwarks of the free world in the South Pacific.

Both NATO and the United Nations have looked the other way when this problem was raised. For fear of subjecting themselves to new charges of "colonialism" and "imperialism," such as they have encountered in the Middle East, they have not supported Holland in the dispute over West New Guinea.

The leftist Indonesian government demands that Holland surrender this area to the Indonesians. Australia controls East New Guinea as a protectorate, and does not relish a Communist regime as a next-door neighbor. Its newspapers both in articles and editorials, express a fear over future developments in that area.

ANTI-RED DILEMMA — Should global war ever break out, and should pro-Russian forces gain control of this key, oil-rich territory, it would give the enemy a bastion and base squarely in the midst of the nations of the Southeast Asia Treaty organization.

Whereas Australia and New Zealand were the mobilization centers and take-off points for General Douglas MacArthur's return to the Philippines and conquest of Japan, a Russanized Indonesia might become a similar base for the Communists in the event of another war. It would provide them with oil and bases for their planes and submarines in a vast and vital area.

Indeed, it might even give both Russian and Chinese Communist forces control of Australia. Not a week ago the main nations which make up SEATO, principally East Pakistan and Thailand, the Chinese Red have made such inroads into Laos and Cambodia in Indo-China that the pro-West nations have had to strengthen patrols on their borders.

AUSTRALIA'S POLICY — Australia's concern over this question is reflected in its immigration policies. Government agencies are conducting a campaign to attract European immigrants of sturdy, hardy stock, especially British and American.

It is no wonder that Richard G. Casey, Australian Minister for External Affairs, expressed the view several weeks ago that the various anti-Communist groupings should be welded into a great global alliance, an idea which Secretary Dulles opposes violently. However, when I interviewed Mr. Casey subsequently, he seemed to have weakened on this question — possibly because Dulles had denounced it in the meantime.

However, it is a fact that the Aussies down here feel somewhat neglected by and isolated from their Allied comrades-in-arms to the North.

Not-Going To Be 'Taken' While Visiting In Paris

By HENRY McEMORE

PAMERS — I wish I knew what size sandwich board I wear. Is it a 40 Short? A 42 Stout? Or a 41 Long?

We'll be in Paris tomorrow, and I'd like to have a sandwich board to wear while I'm there. I wouldn't care whether it were single-breasted or double-breasted, or cut Ivy League or Correspondence School style.

All I would want would be a sandwich board cut large enough, front and back, to bear these words, or similar ones, on back and front:

"I Am An American But I Am Neither Rich Nor A Sucker! While I Am In Paris I Do Not Intend To Be Rooked, Taken, Gyped, Had, or Clipped By Any Frenchman!"

"So Please Pick On Some Other Tourist To Put On The Path To Bankruptcy!"

I'd like Mary to have a sandwich board, too. Sack style, of course. For the French are no respecters of gender when it comes to overcharging. They'd just as lief charge a three-year-old baby girl seven prices for a lollipop as they would a 75-year-old man a week's wages for a room and bath.

Sandwich board or not, I am entering Paris tomorrow with a new attitude, one which could be termed "defiantly snarling."

I am going to get my money's worth or fight Frenchmen all day long. I may be wrong, but I feel that I can at least hold my own with men who wear shoes as pointed as Frenchmen do, and are as accented.

The first Frenchmen who insists that I buy a bottle of champagne for $15 before I sit down to hear a jazz band play in a cellar joint is going to get the stuff (which cost him $1.50 at the most) right over the head.

The first cab driver who hisses at me — and they have — for not tipping them four or five times the fare, is going to get not a piece of my mind, but nearly all of it.

The same goes for laundries, of it, waiters, drugstore clerks, and all the other Parisians who prey on tourists, particularly Americans, with the greediness of Gallie hyen-

THE NATION'S PRESS

SHARE THE LOSSES, WALTER?

(N. Y. Daily News)

Getting ready for spring and summer bargaining with the automobile companies, Walter P. Reuther and his United Auto Workers have come up with a rather foggy proposal for sharing the profits about 10 per cent, before taxes.

At the same time the union, cocking an eye toward the spunkies, postponed demands for a shorter work week.

The profit-sharing pie would be cut four ways, with 50 per cent going to the stockholders and executives, 25 per cent to the workers and lower-echelon salaried employees, and 25 per cent to the consumers in the form of rebates on car purchase prices.

As thus far blueprinted, the proposal smacks of the Socialism which is so dear to Reuther's heart, and our tip to the manufacturers would be to fine-comb it for bugs, gimmicks and time-fuses — which of course they will do.

Just because they live in what must be the all-round loveliest city in the world doesn't mean they have licenses to rob. The river, the churches, the Louvre, the avenues aren't their private concessions.

Just once while in Paris, I'd like to pay what Frenchmen pay. I've often wished I liked vermouth, had a spade beard, and enough nerve to sit at a sidewalk cafe for three hours over a glass of mineral water, all the while reading free newspapers and magazines. That would place me as a Frenchie for sure.

Pamers, where we are now, might have a sandwich board maker for all I know. Think I'll go look around. But how do you say sandwich board in French? That ends that!

Well, I'll shadow box for a while, practice my left hook, and sharpen my footwork just in case I'm wrong about the fighting prowess of men who wear pointed shoes and use lots of perfume.

"Oh, boy! They've got a 21-inch color TV!"

Charles Boyer Abdicates Title Of 'The Great Lover'

By VERNON SCOTT
United Press Staff Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Charles Boyer today abdicated the title of "The Great Lover," with no takers in sight to claim the dubious distinction.

Twenty years ago Boyer was credited with murmuring "Coo-witz me to see Cabash" to Hedy Lamarr for a love scene in "Algiers." Since then, balding, beset-eyed Boyer has epitomized French lovar to Americans.

He has waged a 20-year battle denying it. "I never spoke that line in my life," the actor ranted. "Nor has anyone else to my knowledge except for people impersonating me. For a while the fiction existed that Peter Lorre spoke the line in the musical version of 'Algiers.' He is not the type."

Disclaims Lady-Killer Title
A veteran of 40 television shows (currently for NBC-TV's "Alcoa-Goodyear Theater"), and 70 movies, Boyer maintains he has played romantic roles in only a handful of his performances.

"I absolutely abdicate the great lover title," he said. "It is something I never earned nor wanted. I am not a lady-killer on screen nor off. I am happy to say I've been married to the same girl (Pat Patterson for 24 years).

"And in the 25 years I have lived in this country there have been no sensation stories about me — which means either I am very good or very clever."

He theorizes France gained its reputation as a nation of great lovers during World War I when American women worried about their soldiers in France. If the war had been fought in America the Yankees would now have the lamentable distinction of being "sexy."

Title Goes Begging
Asked about a successor to his vacated title, Boyer doubted if any Frenchman would want to qualify. He did not that Jacques Bergerac is making his mark in TV and films.

Bergerac, who recently completed dashing Gallic roles in "Gigi" and "Les Girls" was adamant in his refusal to take up hand-kissing where countryman Boyer left off.

"Americans are misled in believing Frenchmen say 'Ooh-la-la' and speak with exaggerated accents," Bergerac said in a thick accent.

"Boyer and Maurice Chevalier are the only ones who have attained stardom in Hollywood. Leslie Caron is the only French femme to make it."

WASHINGTON — Dr. Wenhner von Braun, German-born designer of the U.S. satellite launching rocket in predicting that the launching of "Explorer" was the start of a long range program to conquer outer space:

"Satellites have many uses of great value in scientific, military and communications fields. We will move onward to more challenging missions as fast as our resources permit."

"I think that Russia getting a satellite up first is the best thing that happened to us. Now we've got our nose to the grindstone and by the end of the year there will be 10 or 15 satellites in the sky. And at least half of them will be ours."

NEW YORK — Adlai Stevenson, in proposing that the United Nations appoint a "citizens" committee from the world over to gather together every peace proposal that has been made to provide a basis for serious negotiations among the major powers:

"First, it would take the great life and death issue of our age out of the realm of competing propaganda; second, it would give the non-nuclear world some degree of responsibility for breaking the vicious circle. Third, the committee's report at a minimum could clear the air of all the bunk and phony proposals."

LINCOLN, Neb. — Guy Starkweather, father of "marathon murderer" Charles Starkweather, when asked if he thought his son should be sent to the electric chair:

"That's a hell of a question to answer. He should be punished but I don't know just how or in what manner."

LINCOLN, Neb. — Guy Starkweather, father of mass murderer Charles Starkweather, on whether he would disown his son:

"I guess I've got every reason to. But I just can't."

DOUGLAS, Wyo. — William Dixon, Converse County, Neb. attorney, after Wyoming Gov. Milward Simpson said he would never permit execution of the death sentence on Charles Starkweather, on his decision to release the mass murderer to Nebraska officials:

"In view of all the circumstances we are going to waive jurisdiction and allow Nebraska authorities to take over."

Britain To Share More Secret Data

LONDON (UP) — Britain announced today it will hand over more of its secret data on controlled hydrogen power to the United States next week.

It will be a further sharing of classified information since both countries disclosed progress made by their scientists toward harnessing the power of the hydrogen bomb.

The announcement was made by the British Atomic Energy Authority. It appeared to indicate considerable work had gone beyond the unclassified point.

AN IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT

To Every Texan who ever enjoys a glass of Beer

Seventeen years ago, a new idea was born. It was this: To produce a beer to match the taste characteristics of the world famous Munich beers of Bavaria — but to combine with this taste, a special lightness of body designed for increased enjoyment in warm or hot climates.

The result was Lone Star... a delightfully different beer of absolutely superb quality ideally suited to the Texas climate. It was the first of the great "light" beers of modern brewing. And it changed the tastes of Texans. It grew almost overnight into a great favorite of the Southwest, became the fastest growing brand of beer in America and built the Lone Star Brewing Company into the largest brewery in the Southwest — all in just a few short years.

But this is history.

Now another new idea is here — an idea that promises to make another great change in the beer preferences of Texas. As you know, many statements are made about beer quality. They concern "top" quality, "premium" quality, "supreme" quality, "consistent" quality, "uniform" quality — or make special claims for water, yeast, hops, grains, and almost every other phase of beer processing. And many of the same statements are made about almost all beers. Yet taste and common sense tell us that despite what is said, all beers are not the same in either quality or taste.

How then could you, as a consumer of beer, ever be absolutely certain of the relative quality of any brand, — or even that your preferred brand was always the same quality, whenever you bought it?

Until now of course, the answer has been — you couldn't. But now — in Lone Star — you can. For many months now, we at Lone Star have been developing a system whereby the quality of the beer in every Lone Star bottle or can could be verified and Certified by one of the world's greatest independent testing laboratories.

As of this week, this completely new idea in absolute Certification of quality in every Lone Star package has become a reality. And we at Lone Star are proud indeed to be able to bring to Texas the nation's first CERTIFIED QUALITY beer. The Certificate shown here tells you in detail just how much this means.

Certification of Unexcelled Quality 131185

Know All Ye By These Presents: UNITED STATES TESTING COMPANY hereby attests that all beer brewed and sold under the name Lone Star and stamped with the word CERTIFIED followed by the applicable registration number, has been brewed under the strictest laboratory control by a system of 213 separate tests which assure uniform excellence of raw materials, processing, and finished product.

We Therefore issue this Certificate of Unexcelled Quality under the number outlined, to

LONE STAR BEER

"As Fine a Beer as is Brewed in the World" and authorize the Lone Star Brewing Company to release under our certification all beer brewed under registration numbers as assigned in our records. This Certification is made after thorough examination of daily laboratory and brewing records of Lone Star, and we attest that the highest brewing standards have been met therein. Records examined and certified include effective tests for characteristics and mineral properties of water, quality of malted grains, hops, and adjuncts used, efficiency of yeast, thoroughness of aging and blending, uniformity of flavor, clarity, color, character of aroma, and efficiency in each brewing and packaging process.

Ira J. Yocom, Jr.
UNITED STATES TESTING COMPANY

The "CERTIFIED QUALITY" stamp and registration number you will now find on each Lone Star label tells you these things:

1. Every completed brew has passed through 213 tests and quality checks which have been verified by the United States Testing Company as having met the very highest standards of quality brewing.
2. Every brew has been registered, by number, with the United States Testing Company and individually Certified.
3. The beer you buy in each Lone Star package came from the Certified brew whose number appears on its label.

With the advent of absolute and positive quality certification by a qualified independent, unbiased organization of unquestioned integrity, a new era is now launched in the field of quality brewing. We are proud to say of Lone Star... in no other beer can you now be so sure of "As Fine a beer as is brewed in the World."

End To Compulsion

Dr. Glenn Couch of Oklahoma U. has now added to the reams of material being written about the condition in which we find the nation's schools. Himself a professor, Dr. Couch has struck right to the roots of the problem. He says, while writing in the University of Oklahoma's alumni publication, that what we have probably done in this country is to confuse compulsory education with "free" education. It's a sound argument.

Dr. Couch's contribution to current educational lore, contains this suggestion. Stop making the young people go to school. If the boy or girl doesn't want to go; is more interested in having a job; or simply won't apply himself or herself, well and good. Kick out the slacker and get on with educating those who want to be educated.

We've always maintained that this was good sound sense. Perhaps now that a full-fledged professor says the same thing, someone will sit up and listen.

There's an old adage that describes the condition. "You can lead a horse to water, but you cannot make him drink." Exactly. By means of compulsory school laws, the nation's children are herded together in classrooms like so many sheep. And in the minds of the infantile reasoner, this herding together in a school constitutes education. Actually, of course, it has little or nothing to do with education. Any more than driving the horse to the trough will result in his having his thirst quenched.

The only way water can be taken in by a horse, is for the horse to expend his own energy in the process. He has to WANT to drink. And the only way a young man or woman can receive an education, is for the education to be imbibed by the use of the student's own energy.

The student who wants to learn, will. The student who is in school under compulsion and wants to be elsewhere, will learn many things but they can't be classed as education. Such a student will learn rebellion, resentment, cheating, delinquency and a host of things not intended at all. He will not learn his lessons because he does not want to learn his lessons. And that about sums up the situation.

Of course, Dr. Couch tries to take some of the sting away from his profession. He suggests that what is wrong is that the parents of children have dumped more and more of their responsibilities onto the school system. Others could claim with equal validity that it isn't the parents who are at fault. Rather, they will say, the schools themselves, filled as they are with the politically ambitious, have themselves sponsored the laws which result in compulsory attendance.

Whichever are primarily at fault, schools or parents, the results are visible. We are bogged down in this nation of supposedly free men, with old world violence and coercion insofar as attendance in schools are concerned.

This isn't the only source of the current contagion, however. Compulsory attendance should be relatively easy to repeal, now that the results are so apparent. But the idea of running schools at the point of a gun goes back further into the system. For in this land, every citizen is compelled at the point of a gun, to pay for the schools whether he has children, whether he believes in education, whether he can afford to pay, and even if he is privately paying to send his children elsewhere than to the lax run institutions. And this practice, which is right at the root of our government school from kindergarten to state university, is the basic cause of evil.

A person who truly believes in a moral life, lived in a moral society, simply cannot condone the collection of money for any purpose when that money is collected against his will and for purposes with which he is out of sympathy.

So while we're thinking with Dr. Couch about repealing compulsory attendance laws, let's also do a bit of thinking about the collection of money by force and violence to sustain government education. The one compulsion is neither better nor worse than the other. What our school system needs is to divorce itself from all types and kinds of violence. Then and then only will we begin to get true education in place of mass conformity.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES

"Those 'Exorbitant' Profits Again"

With more and more people being out of work and working shorter hours, and with the electric companies generating less power for the week of Jan. 12 than they did a year ago in that week by 1.2 per cent, any discussion on why unemployment is increasing should interest every person. This is the first time since 1946 that total electric power has less than the same week the year before.

With this idea in mind I want to quote from the First National City Bank Monthly Letter, under the heading of "Those 'Exorbitant' profits again."

"Labor's pat answer to all this unemployment problem is simple: No need to boost prices just because wages are increased. Just take it out of those 'exorbitant' profits.

"As Mr. Reuther summed it up at the convention: 'We are in trouble because big business is taking a disproportionately large share of the fruits of our developing economy. What is needed is higher take-home pay for workers and lower take-home profits for corporations.'

"The charge of 'exorbitant' profits is, like the 'purchasing power' thesis, an old favorite of the unions to justify wage increases. Its use varies with the circumstances. When, in an environment of full employment, with the evidence of excessive spending already present on every hand, the raiser-raises to create a more purchasing power argument no longer applies, then the 'exorbitant' profits argument—soft pedaled when profits are too far down to offer an attractive target—gets the play.

"The idea that profits constitute an inexhaustible well that can be dipped into indiscriminately for wages to the detriment of no one but 'greedy corporations' is a complete myth.

"With corporation income before taxes aggregating some $13 billion in 1957 (annual rate for first half year) against wages and salaries of $27 billion, it will be clear that, barring price increases (mostly impracticable in a period of business contraction as at the present), any substantial percentage increase in the latter must mean a corresponding decrease in the former. This reduces both revenues available to the U. S. Treasury and earnings available for distribution in dividends to shareholders or for reinvestment in the improvement and expansion of the business.

"Profits VS. Labor Income" "Nor do the official figures support the charge that 'big business is taking a disproportionately large share of the fruits of our developing economy.' As shown by the table, corporate net earnings have, in the aggregate, shown little improvement over the post-World War II period (1946 to the present), despite the huge increases in business volume and the billions invested by corporations in new plant and machines over the period. As a percentage of national income, corporate profits have declined one third since 1953. By contrast, labor income, as a percentage of national income, has moved upward—standing at 69 per cent in 1957 as against 62 per cent in 1953.

* 1957 annual rates for first half year. "It is true that some individual concerns and some industries have prospered over the period more than others—hence they will be in a better position to pay higher wages. In fact, this is precisely what is happening. It is, generally speaking, the industries making the most money that pay the highest wages. Labor, instead of railing at the 'exorbitant' profits of these successful companies, might better be striving to promote the progress of these companies to the mutual interest of shareholders, management, and the workers themselves.

"In stressing the ability of some of the larger or more rapidly growing companies to absorb wage increases, it must be remembered that these settlements are not made in a vacuum. The leaders generally set the pattern to which all businesses must more or less conform. Smaller concerns feel the pinch most because they generally operate on more slender margins of resources and are less able to make adjustments. Yet without adequate profits, the smaller employers cannot reward management or obtain adequate capital for the growth that is essential if our economy is to retain the flexibility and vitality that comes from the constant pressing forward of new enterprises with new leadership, new methods, and new products."

Free World Depends On US For Continued Peace

By RAY TUCKER

SYDNEY, Australia — The Free World's reliance and dependence on the United States for continued peace and prosperity is almost unbelievable. This trust is entered into by both the statesmen and the peoples of the anti-Communist nations.

This is the outstanding impression gained by 30-odd newspaper correspondents from 13 countries after a 20-day trip around the world under the auspices of Qantas, the great Australian airline. It was the first world flight on a single, closed circuit route in aviation history. All other lines have important gaps or must link up with other firms to circle the globe.

On this trip, the members of the "Flying Newroom" interviewed the political leaders, the editors and industrialists of 13 countries, from the United States to Australia. They had private audiences with such figures as the Pope, the Archbishop of Canterbury, Nehru and the Premiers of Cabinet Ministers of each capital they visited.

None look forward to another global war because of its total destructiveness. But even those who dislike the American-sponsored system of alliances, and who, like Nehru, profess complete "neutrality," appreciate Washington's contribution to maintenance of world peace in the postwar years.

FIRST RUSSIAN DETERRENT — They realize that, had it not been for our atomic deterrent, Russia might have jumped the gun years ago. And, although not so hysterical over the two Sputniks as Washington has been, they expect the United States to match the Communists in that field also. There was a wave of new confidence and satisfaction over President Eisenhower's request for $1.3 billion of new money for technical and scientific development. Like many Americans, they had become concerned over an apparent lack of leadership and imagination at Washington. Despite this deep hunger and yearning for permanent, universal peace and prosperity, the other most vivid impression from this international interviewing is the utter disagreement on practical means to achieve these idealistic objectives.

NEHRU MORE FRIENDLY — Few share Secretary Dulles' faith in the United Nations because of Moscow's shenanigans at New York. The Pope and the Archbishop of Canterbury advocate a spiritual revival and awakening to combat atheistic forces behind the "Iron Curtain."

The British, French and Germans insist upon negotiations with Russia, even as they build up NATO. Some Allied statesmen believe that the various anti-Communist groupings should be cemented into a global alliance. Others fear that it would be too unwieldy and incoherent an organization.

Nehru, of course, cries "A plague on both your houses," and his "neutralist" ideas are making some headway in Asian-African circles. However, in his long interview with us, he seemed more friendly to the U.S. than he has been in the past.

Another great fear is the possibility of a serious American recession with worldwide repercussions. After discussing war prospects, Eisenhower's health and Vice President Nixon's capabilities, almost every statesman and businessman asked about the economic prospects in the United States. They were not worrying so much about curtailment of Federal loans and grants; they were interested chiefly in a possible loss of trade in the American market, and in a reduction of the flow of American capital to expand their industries, railroad and power facilities.

ECONOMIC DIVERSITY — The various postwar recovery programs enabled them to begin this kind of modernization and industrialization in a small way. They need economic diversity because when world prices for their raw materials—wheat, cattle, rice, oil, rubber, teakwood—fall, as they are doing now, they suffer from serious internal crises, including political instability and the crash of Cabinets.

Thus, it is not surprising that almost every spokesman, especially in Asia, emphasized that the best way to combat the spread of communism is to "keep peoples' stomachs and pocketbooks filled."

This may be a difficult and expensive job for Uncle Sam, since they seem to look to him to carry out both assignments.

One American export enjoying a high degree of popularity and prosperity is "hot music" from Tin Pan Alley and Hollywood.

MUSIC AND "CHA-CHA" — Night clubs across Asia, as well as the leading hotels' more exclusive grills, rely on this "cha-cha" stuff for the local bobby-soxers. At Bangkok, Thailand, Kipling's East and West collided head on, musically speaking.

A tiny, fairy-like girl performed a famous Thai ceremonial dance. Dressed in a two-foot jeweled tiara and a gleaming brocade gown, she pantomimed an historical and semireligious story similar to a story from the Old Testament. Even to a Westerner, who did not understand the symbolism, it was haunting, enchanting and moving.

But when she had finished and the weird, wailing music was hushed, the orchestra swung into "April Love," "Tammy," and—believe it or not—Rudy Vallee's "Stein Song."

WAR BIRDS ON THE WIRE

(Chicago Daily Tribune) It is most remarkable how the same group of men who have managed our recent wars have turned up again in anticipation of a new war. Consider the gentlemen who drafted the Gaither report—a supposed secret document which has now been leaked in outline to the public.

The thesis of this document is that Russia is fast ousting the United States, that we are in deadly peril of extinction, that only mountainous new spending may help to save us, and that per-

Socialism Contributes To Present Population Problem

By HOWARD KERSHNER, L. H. D.

The world is already suffering from a population explosion. No one knows how the additional tens of millions of new mouths which appear in this world every year are going to be fed.

Socialism in general and the family allowance in particular are largely responsible for this phenomenon. Socialism teaches that someone else rather than fathers and mothers are responsible for meeting the cost of raising children. The family allowance especially underlines that idea. It puts a premium on irresponsibility. It teaches young parents not to limit their families to their ability to bring up children properly, but to go ahead procreating and showing the burden on more cautious and responsible people.

Intelligent parents may be unwilling to undertake to raise large families because of higher taxes, limited means and strength. Is it right for others with less forethought, intelligence and sense of responsibility to force them to contribute to the raising of other children? If Family A cannot afford more than, let us say, three children of their own, should they be obliged to contribute to Family B with six or seven children? Has the latter the moral right to compel the former to part with some of its money in order that Family B might indulge the natural instinct of desiring a large family? Faced with that prospect, Family A might well decide that it preferred to have children of its own rather than contribute to the children of others. There is no limit to the explosive possibilities of population expansion under such conditions.

Senator Richard L. Neuberger is one of the chief exponents of this form of socialism in our country. He declares that a Gallup Poll in Canada showed 90 per cent of the people in favor of family allowances. That is not surprising as few people will vote not to receive proffered checks. The same people would no doubt vote every year for checks of double size. Unfortunately, voting to receive wealth from others does not produce wealth but leads inevitably to inflation, lower production, poverty, disaster and the loss of freedom.

A Budget Should Be Used As A Restraint

By Thurman Sensing

THE POTOMAC FEVER If a budget is to include everything one desires and exercise no discipline or restraint over what one spends, then there is no real object in having a budget. Yet that is just about the situation we find ourselves in as a nation right now.

About a year ago, we had sprung upon us the highest peacetime budget in history—about $72 billion. There was decided reaction throughout the nation to any such expenditures. The opposition to such a budget was the greatest, insofar as measured by Congressmen hearing from their constituents back home is concerned, that any budget ever had.

As a result, the budget was cut a great deal—on the face of it. Actually, though some claimed cuts as high as $5 billion, it was not cut at all. The reason it was not cut is because it could not be cut—not with $70 billion authorized but unexpended funds already available at the beginning of the fiscal year. Current estimates of total spending for this fiscal year now bear out this view.

Still, the members of Congress were able to point out to the voters that they had voted for budget cuts and that apparently they had been successful. And the voters themselves, having, too, with the feeling of having really brought pressure to bear on Congress and of having accomplished a very worthwhile job. What illusions on both parts!

Now, a year later, we are being faced with an even higher budget—almost $74 billion. And the advocates of big spending, knowing that Congress will go along—especially in an election year—unless the reaction from "back home" is too strong, have been actively fear-washing the people for some time now so there will be no reaction.

First, we hear from many testifying scientists that Russia has gone ahead of us in missile and satellite development. Then we hear rumors about a Gaither report to the effect that we are in mortal danger. Next we hear from the Rockefeller report that we must spend at least $3 billion more a year on defense to keep up with Russia, much less get ahead of her.

All this came along prior to submission of the budget so that the people back home would be so scared they would not object to any size budget, no matter how large. Without objection, we know that the members of Congress will soon become so weakened with Potomac Fever upon their return to the capital that there will be no trouble on that score.

This Potomac Fever is a treacherous disease. Otherwise sound men soon become infected with it after getting into government service. Many Congressmen who see things quite clearly from the viewpoint of their constituents while they are repairing fences back home soon become infected with it upon returning to Washington. Its symptoms are rather clear. First, it causes a person to become addicted to spending without regard to where the money is coming from. Second, it causes him to heed rumors and listen to rumors of rumors rather than getting the facts and standing off and looking at matters clearly.

The usual procedure when faced with unusual expenditure demands in one direction is to cut the budget in some other direction—but not if you have the Potomac Fever. Find excuses, such as the danger is so great when no one knows how great the danger is. Or, spend upon increased income to balance the budget—when no one knows whether there will be any increase or not. Or, just cut "wasteful" expenditures and go back to the original New Deal philosophy of regarding deficit financing as a blessing rather than a curse—when anyone knows that continued deficit financing will as surely destroy a nation as atomic bombs and guided missiles.

The only antidotes to Potomac Fever are common sense and patriotism. Use of common sense very quickly stops one from spending money he does not have, especially if he has already borrowed to the hilt. And certainly one is not unpatriotic if he simply; instead, he will place defense first and cut down on other expenditures until the safety of his country is assured.

Pampa To Host All-Region Choir

This year, for the first time in the history of Region XI of the Texas Music Education Association, a selected All-Region Choir will be held. The choir will meet in Pampa, Feb. 6 at the Junior High School auditorium, according to William A. Hunt, Pampa High School choir director.

All high schools in this region were invited to participate, and there have been about 135 students accepted thus far. Each school will have its own auditions and will select a double octet, two people on each part.

Frank McKinley, associate professor of music at North Texas State College, will direct the All-Region Choir. McKinley is a graduate of Muskingum College, New Concord, Ohio. He completed the degree of master of music at Westminster Choir College, Princeton, N.J., and completed coursework and residence requirements for a doctor's degree in music education at Indiana University.

He has served as adjudicator for Interscholastic League vocal contests, as clinician for state high school groups and guest conductor for numerous music festivals and conventions held in the Southwest. McKinley will select the music for the choir which will have two mornings and two afternoon rehearsals. The All-Region Choir will present an evening performance at 8 with no admission charge.

Members of Pampa High School A Cappella Choir, under the direction of Hunt, will take part in the regional choir.

Ranchers and livestock farmers often wonder how to tell whether their native pastures are improving or declining. They can tell when major changes take place such as the dying out of grass and weeds take over, but when the weeds are no longer present they need indicators to tell how the pasture is faring. Ranchers need to know the grasses that grow in their pastures before this can be done. After they learn this they must know the production potential. This can be learned by observation from trained technicians and from experience in managing rangeland. The following general types of range land and the best indicators are given.

Short Grass Prairie

Heavy clay type soils compose the short grass prairie. The top grasses are blue grama and buffalograss. These grasses are both short and seldom grow over 12 inches in height. As this type of rangeland declines the indicators by stages of deterioration are as follows: First Stage—blue grama will die out and buffalograss will spread to cover this area. Second Stage—Buffalograss will thin out and sand dropseed, prickly pear, and annual weeds will spread to cover this area. Third Stage—Buffalograss is still present, along with perennial weeds, prickly pear, and annual weeds. Brush such as mesquite where adapted will invade. In this final stage management will call for brush and weed control requiring chemical spraying or, similar measures, deferred grazing, and light use.

Short-Mid Grass Prairie

Light clay loam and heavy sandy loam soils compose the short-mid grass prairie. The top grasses are side oats grama and blue grama. Side oats grama grows to a height of 20 inches and is called a mid grass. As this type declines the indicators by stages are as follows: First Stage—Side oats grama will die out and blue grama will spread to take its place. Second Stage—Blue grama will thin out and sand dropseed, buffalograss, and silver bluestem will take over. Third Stage—Blue grama makes a thin stand along with prickly pear, annual weeds, and yucca (bear grass). Mesquite where adapted will invade. In this final stage management will call for brush control requiring chemical spraying or similar measures, deferred grazing and light use.

Mis Grass Prairie

Light sandy loams and shallow light soils compose the mis grass prairie. The top grasses are little bluestem and side oats grama. These grasses grow to a height of 30 inches on this type. As this type declines the indicators by stages are as follows: First Stage—Little bluestem will die out and side oats grama and shorter grama such as hairy and blue will spread to take its place. Hairy grama is adapted on shallow soils. Second Stage—Side oats grama will thin out and blue or hairy grama, sand dropseed, silver bluestem will take over leaving some bare spots. Third Stage—Blue or hairy grama, sand dropseed, yucca, and brush such as red berry juniper and feather dalea cover the area. In this final stage management will call for brush control requiring mechanical methods, deferred grazing, and light use.

Pampans Invited To 'World Premiere' Open House Today

Pampa home lovers are invited to a "world premiere" open house show starting today in North Crest, according to O'Brien Elliott, sales director of Hughes Development Co. The home opens today at 2 p.m., and remains open daily until 7 p.m.

"More than a year ago," Elliott said, "Hughes architects were told to design a home with more usable livability, more flexible planning, more conveniences, to meet the demand of today's modern and growing family. They were also told to design this home to sell for the least possible cost."

The "Architect Award Home" is the result of such planning and is being shown for the first time today anywhere, Elliott said. The all-new home is located at 1113 Cinderella Drive in North Crest, the newest street of new homes in the Hughes development.

The home is completely furnished and decorated throughout. Wasson Furniture Co. ordered special furnishings to place in the home which boasts an "Early American" motif. New merchandise was also ordered especially for the home show by Zales Jewelers, Malone Pharmacy, Heath's Mens Wear, Franklin's Ready To Wear, C & M Co. Many supply firms have contributed displays for the open house show, Elliott said.

Interior decorations for the home are being supplied by 11 home economics students of Pampa High School, under the direction of Mrs. Edith Kral, home economics instructor.

The Hughes sales director said Hughes representatives would be on duty at the Architect Award Home today and daily to show people this new home and many other new model homes now open for display. "We cordially invite everyone to visit this all-new home today and we believe each member of the family will find something new to appeal to his or her desires in a modern home.

We also invite everyone to register as often as they desire for a host of valuable prizes, donated by participating sponsors of the home show, which will be awarded at a drawing the night of February 28. "Elliott pointed out it would not be necessary to attend the drawings to win "but," he said, "you must visit the home to register."

North Crest, which will eventually have more than 550 new homes, schools, shopping center and other attractions, is now building the second hundred homes.

Citizens Bank To Thank Customers

Customers of Citizens Bank & Trust Co. will receive special consideration during the period of February 1-14. That fortnight will be "Customer Appreciation Time" and the Citizens Bank & Trust Co. is going to give extra recognition to its customers.

Capitalizing on the Valentine season, the local banking institution plans a special promotion. This celebration will include a Valentine card which will be given to all the banks' customers.

A heart shaped box of candy will be given everyone opening a savings account.

In addition, during the two-week period, all employees of the bank will wear a bright red heart with the wording, "Thanks for Banking with Us."

"We believe that the big difference in banks today is the way people are treated," F. E. Imel, president, stated yesterday. "And we want each customer to know that we appreciate his business. So, we are using this special Valentine program at Citizens Bank & Trust Co. to tell our customers that we hope our pleasant relationship will continue for many years, and to say, "Thanks for banking with us."

Rich Plan Opens Office In Pampa

An office of the Rich Plan, national suppliers of frozen foods, has been established in Pampa, according to Ray Fitzler, manager. The office is located at 319 1/2 W. Foster.

In making the announcement of the office opening, Fitzler said, "The Rich Plan offers a way of bringing food into the American home at a savings to the family."

The local office will serve customers in the following counties: Gray, Wheeler, Ochiltree, Hamilton, Roberts, Lipscomb and Carson. Five salesmen are available to contact residents of this area. Rich Plan distributes graded and inspected meat, tested vegetables, fruits, juices and baked items. Flash Storage Units, manufactured by Carrier Air Conditioning, are handled by the firm.

Democrats Press Ike For More Spending

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Democratic Party and its political allies are pressing President Eisenhower for more spending. This is remarkable because the Eisenhower administration already has established a new high for spending the taxpayers' money.

Pressure for spending is not limited to Democrats and such left-of-center political allies as New York's liberal party and spokesmen for organized labor. Republican members of the Congressional farm bloc, for example, have put on the pressure for more spending to support farm prices.

Spending pressure from whatever source but, especially, from Democratic sources raises a question: How much spending of enough or, more importantly, how much is too much?

Back in the Truman years, the Democratic Party was in a position to fix spending levels and objectives to suit its idea of what was good for the country. That idea also is considerably influenced, regardless of who runs the government, by considerations of what would be good for the party-in-power.

high level of home front as well as of defense spending.

Budget Director Percival C. Brundage was before the Senate Republican and Democratic members of the Finance Committee this week. He, alike, warned him that Congress will not accept cuts in home front spending.

Not surprising, this being an election year.

Nearly Perfect

Famous English archers of the middle ages used yew wood to make their longbows. This wood still is considered the most nearly perfect wood for making bows.

New Dresses Will Solve Problems Of Extra Pounds

By GAY PAULEY
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (UP)—Around Manhattan:

Adding on pounds usually means letting out the seams. But no longer, if the prediction of Charles Weiner, a textile official, comes true.

Weiner said that dresses which will expand, or contract, with the changes in weight are in the test stage and may be available before the end of the year.

Weiner is merchandise manager for a Philadelphia company (Textured Yarn) which makes a synthetic called Tycora. Made in dresses which look like a lightweight wool jersey, the yarns are heat set so that the contours remain, even though the figure underneath has shifted. Yarn elasticity is built in.

A company stylist, Alma Triner, is one of the guinea pigs for the test dresses.

"I'm perfect because my weight is always changing," she said. "In the last two months I've gone from a size 8 to a size 10 and from 114 pounds to 125."

The dress expanded with her, she said. Now she's anxious to find how it will contract.

Said Miss Triner: "I've gone on a diet."

Just about everybody who is anybody in New York society and the entertainment world turned out for this year's "March of Dimes" fashion show in the Waldorf Astoria Hotel ballroom. Models for the event, sponsored by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, included Shirley Booth, Dody Goodman, Julie Harris, Doretta Morrow, Teresa Wright and Thelma Ritter.

But it was the finale that left a lot of the guests breathless. A blonde beauty, dressed in form-clinging champagne colored dinner dress, appeared on stage, escorting Lindy and Sandy Solomon, six-year-old twins of Warner Robins, Ga., who are this year's polio fund poster children. Almost to a man, and woman, the some 2,000 guests gasped, and then stood up for a better look.

Harvesters Stifle Sandies, 56-52

Set To Meet Palo Duro In Home Game Tuesday Night

By CHARLES CULLIN
Pampa News Sports Editor

Pampa's Harvesters were tied at halftime and led by only three points going into the final period but managed to pull away in the late minutes of the game to stifle the Sandies, 56-52, in Amarillo's Fair Park Coliseum Friday night.

The victory kept the Harvesters deadlocked for the district lead as they marched over the Golden Sandstrom for the second time this season and for the 19th time in Coach McNeely's Cagers jumped to a fast lead in the opening minutes, gaining an 11-4 margin, and by the end of the first quarter had pushed the score to 20-13.

Although Pampa led through the second quarter the Amarillo quintet caught fire in the late minutes as they dropped 10 fast points to end the half tied at 32-32.

Pushing hard through the third quarter the Sandies managed to gain the lead twice but fell back going into the final period of action to trail by three points, 42-39. The final quarter told the story and proved too much for the Amarillo cagers as they met a stiffened Harvester defense and failed to score until only 5:15 remained in the game. Pampa began holding the ball with just over four minutes to go but still managed to net three field goals in addition to collecting four from the free-throw line.

Coach T. G. Hull's Sandies gained the ball four times from the Harvesters in the final three minutes but couldn't push through the needed points.

In the crucial second half the Pampans outpointed Amarillo 10-7 in the third quarter and 14-13 in the final.

Pampa's Coyle Winborn paced the scoring for the night, hitting seven of ten field goals and four of five free throws for 18 points. Running a close second was Charles Minor who netted 17 points off four field goals and nine free throws.

Ronnie Mayberry led the Sandie attack with 15 points, followed by John Peek with 14.

The Sandies edged Pampa in field goals, 23-20, but did so off 53 tries while Pampa gleaned theirs from 37 attempts. Pampa's percentage from the field led Amarillo, .541 to .434. The Harvesters dropped 16 of 21 free throws while Amarillo netted six from 10 tosses.

Presently Pampa is tied in the SAAAA loop with the Plainview Bulldogs, having six victories against one defeat. Coming up this week will be Palo Duro here Tuesday night and Borger here Friday.

Eighth Grade Cagers Drop Phillips

Pampa's eighth grade cagers finished their season Friday night as they downed the Phillips eighth grade, 28-27, in an overtime contest.

Crossland netted 13 points to spark the Pampans to the victory, followed by Fant with nine points.

Coached by Bobby Reynolds, the young hoopsters finished the year with a 9-8 mark having come through with victories in the four of the final five games of the year. Results over the past two weeks have included wins over Lefors, 32-19; Phillips, 32-19; and Miami, 30-25. The last loss came at the hands of Borger, 32-18.

By UNITED PRESS

Defending champion Rice, Texas Christian and Southern Methodist plan to start spring football drills during the coming week with each about equally blessed as to returning lettermen.

Other Southwest Conference schools will wait until later to get in their between-seasons sessions, but Rice and TCU plan to start Monday and SMU Tuesday with all three winding up with intrasquad games on March 1.

Conference rules permit 18 practice sessions within 28 calendar days. Jess Neely will have 17 lettermen from his champion Owl team of last fall as he starts his 19th season as Rice head man, but also will get three 1956 lettermen in center Bruce Henderson, halfback G. F. Alsbrook and guard Hart Peebles.

Sports Roundup

By CHARLES CULLIN
Pampa News Sports Editor

PAMPA'S "big one" for the season will be here Friday night as they clash for the second time this year with the Bulldogs of Borger. The game will be in the Harvester Field House.

Playing at home and up to par the Harvesters should walk off with a victory.

THE HARVESTERS have now pushed their total scoring to 1,525 points, making an average of 72.6 per game. Defensively they have held their opponents to 1,201 points for 57.1 per game.

Pampa's three top scoring men on the starting five, have all ranked about even in their shooting. Bill Brown leads with 328 points for a 15.6 average; Mack Layne is second with 300 points for 14.3 per game and Coyle Winborn ranks third with 266 for a 12.8 mark.

IN THE FIRST clash with Borger Charles Minor, Stephenson and Brown all tied for high-point honors with 15 each.

Since the last meeting with Borger the Bulldogs were defeated by Plainview, 55-53, and Pampa downed Plainview, 64-57. Also the Sandies were edged two points by the Bulldogs and the Harvesters took their second meeting with Amarillo by four points.

IN FRIDAY NIGHT'S game at Amarillo the Sandies pushed the Harvesters through the two middle quarters but fell apart toward the end of the game. After Pampa put on a freeze in the last four minutes of the game the Sandies were able to steal the ball but were hesitant to shoot and when they did find trouble in finding the basket. One Amarillo fan commented that the Sandies had it won and "blew it." Also prevalent were the usual "referee" complaints.

It was one of the Harvesters' weaker games of the conference season but fans who have watched for years say they never play their best in the Coliseum.

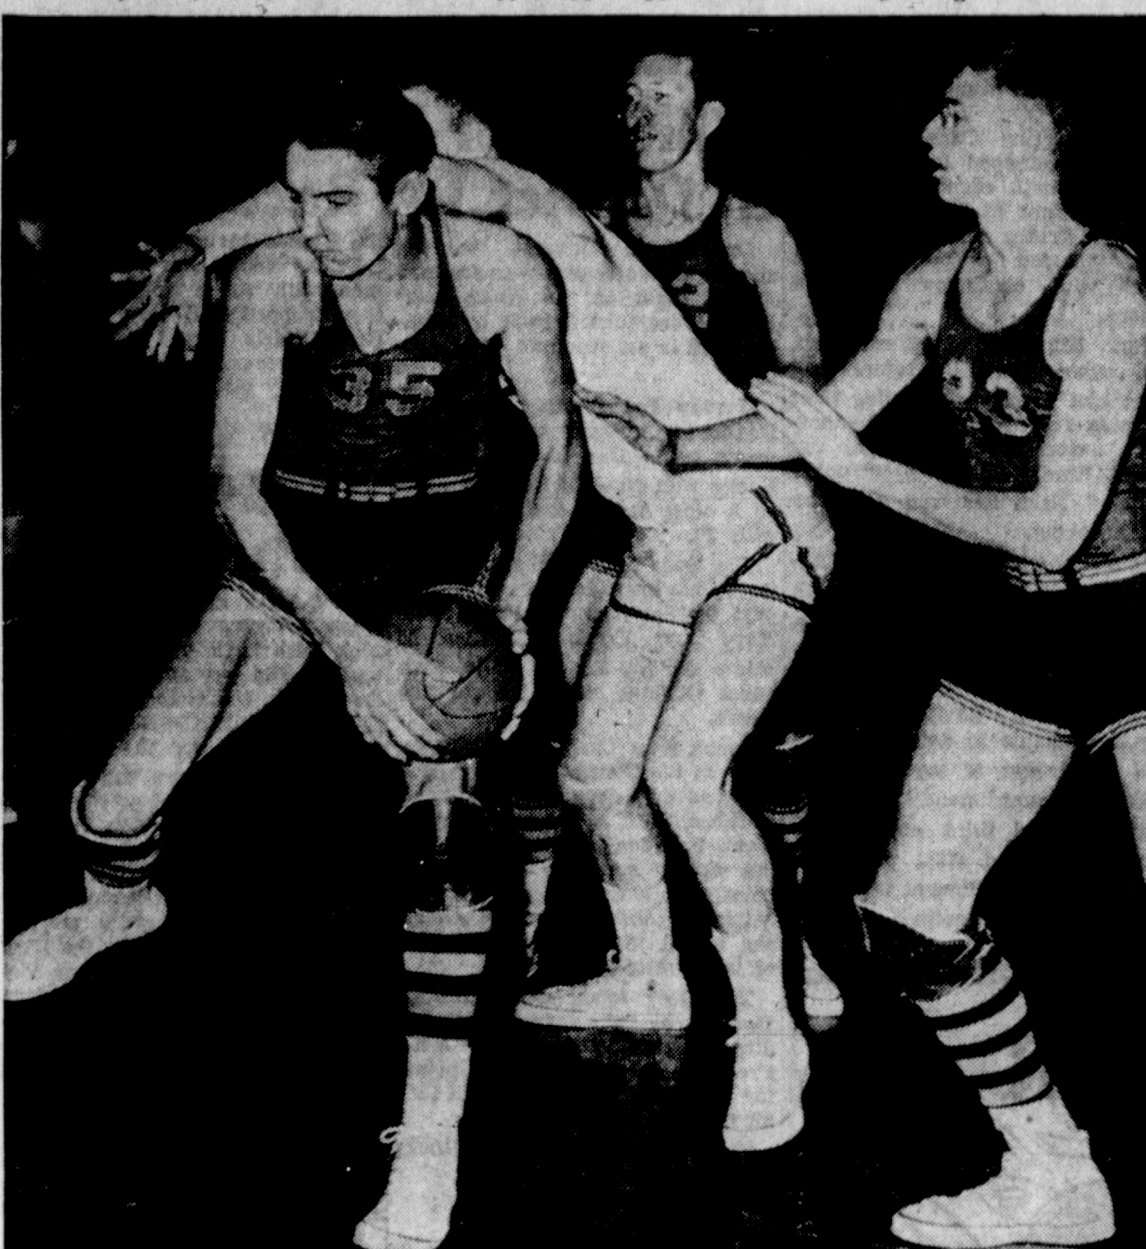

New Coaches
THE 1958 HARVESTER football team will have to begin under a new head mentor after Coach Jack Lockett's resignation last Friday. Coach Lockett had been at the helm of the Harvesters for the past three seasons, compiling an over-all 6-23-1 record.

He was the third football coach in District 3-AAAA to resign, following Joe Kerbel of the Sandies and Bill Willard of Borger.

Petitions have been in Borger to hire Chesty Walker to replace Willard, Walker coached in Phillips 18 years before joining the University of Washington staff, where he presently is an assistant.

One Borger resident said Bill Davis of Canyon might be considered for the Bulldog post. Davis set a good record in Panhandle for two years before moving up to Canyon, where he also turned in a good season with the AA Eagles.

Regional Coach
OLLIE WILHELM of the Pampa Optimist Club boxing team was chosen to serve as head coach for the regional team in the Fort Worth State tourney. Both of Ollie's boys, Gary and Bobby will be fighting in the meet.

SW Teams To Begin Spring Grid Drills

Defending champion Rice, Texas Christian and Southern Methodist plan to start spring football drills during the coming week with each about equally blessed as to returning lettermen.

Other Southwest Conference schools will wait until later to get in their between-seasons sessions, but Rice and TCU plan to start Monday and SMU Tuesday with all three winding up with intrasquad games on March 1.

Conference rules permit 18 practice sessions within 28 calendar days. Jess Neely will have 17 lettermen from his champion Owl team of last fall as he starts his 19th season as Rice head man, but also will get three 1956 lettermen in center Bruce Henderson, halfback G. F. Alsbrook and guard Hart Peebles.

Pasadena Crusaders Slip By Wayland's Pioneers, 68-67

Chuck Bailey of the Pasadena Crusaders fired a field goal in the last three seconds of the game to boost his team by the Wayland College Pioneers, 68-67, in Harvester Field House last night.

A crowd of 2000 fans saw the two college units battle evenly throughout the game in a top cage battle that displayed superb shooting on the part of both teams.

Playing for Pasadena and furnishing a major part of the offensive power was Jimmy Bond, an ex-Harvester all-stater, who netted 12 points for the evening. Bond also carried off a bulk of the rebounds gained by the California quintet.

At halftime the Pasadena team had gained a slim one stroke margin in leading, 25-24, and during the final half the lead switched several times. The Pioneers had gone into a stall as the final minutes rolled around but a loss of the ball and a fast two points by Wallace of Pasadena gave the Plainview team a one point lead at 67-66.

Following a time out with three seconds showing on the clock, Bond passed the ball into Bailey who fired at the basket after taking the ball to net the winning two points.

At halftime E. L. "Smiley" Henderson, president of the Chamber of Commerce, presented Bond with a plaque commending him for his outstanding achievements in the field of sports. Henderson stated that the award was given on behalf of the city of Pampa.

The game was sponsored by the Pampa Kiwanis Club.

Playing at 6:30 prior to the clash between Wayland and Pasadena, the Reapers finished their regular season in the tilt with the White Deer cagers.

Tagging high-point honor for the evening and lead the Pampa offensive attack was Carter, who netted 20 points for the night. Running close to Carter was Richardson with 10 and Garren and Warner tied with seven each.

For White Deer, Knight led with 16 points, followed by Powell with 13.

Leagues Set Schedules

NEW YORK (UP) — American League teams will play a total of 221 exhibition games and Golden State League teams 217 in spring training this year, it was announced Saturday.

There will be a grand total of 167 games in which an A.L. team will play an N.L. squad. The American League also reported 40 "intra-league" games and 10 against minor league teams, while the National League did not detail its additional games.

Both leagues reported that this spring will show a trend away from the "intra-city" rivalries that featured training campaigns in the past.

Coach Jack Lockett, head football mentor for the Pampa Harvesters for the past three years, resigned Friday from his duties with the Pampa schools.

Assuming duties in 1955, Coach Lockett replaced Aubra Nooncaster, who had served at the Harvester helm for one year.

Lockett was a graduate of Norman, Okla. High School and played collegiate football with the University of Oklahoma. During his years under Bud Wilkinson he was a standout end on the Sooner team.

Following his graduation Lockett spent two years in the Marine Corps and returned to Norman for one year, where he served as graduate assistant at the university and earned his masters degree in physical education.

During the three years spent with Pampa teams, Lockett compiled an overall 23-6-1 record. During the first season the Harvesters had 2-7-1, and gained a 2-8 mark for the past two years.

Coach Lockett stated that he would remain in coaching but had no definite plans at the present time.

Baylor Replaces Chamberlain For Runner-Up In Scoring

Durelle Gets Many Offers

NEW YORK (UP)—Light-heavy weight contender Yvon Durelle was swamped with offers today because of his sweet-revenge kayo over Clarence Hinnant that stretched his unbeaten string to 12.

The slugging Canadian fisherman, who stopped lanky Hinnant in the seventh round of their return TV fight at Madison Square Garden Friday night, had offers that included a proposed title fight with champion Archie Moore.

But Hinnant, of Washington, D.C., who claimed the referee had done him wrong by stopping their bruising fight at 1:46 of the seventh, dared Durelle to meet him in a third fight — "rubber match." Each has won a technical knockout.

Hinnant, who had stopped Durelle on a cut eye in the seventh round at Miami Beach last Feb. 19, was halted by Referee Harry Kessler because, "his eyes were glassy and his legs rubbery, leaving him unable to defend himself and the target of too much unnecessary punishment."

Yvon, rated third among contenders, weighed 175½ pounds to Hinnant's 171½. Hinnant is ranked eighth. But the betting was at "even money."

By JOHN GRIFFIN
United Press Sports Writer
Elgin Baylor, with 43 points Friday night and a whoppint total of 103 in the last two nights, replaced Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain today in the runner-up spot in the national college basketball scoring race.

The six-foot, six-inch Seattle University star, who tallied 60 points, against Portland U. on Thursday night, followed it up with 43 more against the same foe Friday night in an 84-80 victory. To put the icing on the show, he scored 19 of Seattle's 25 points in a seven-minute sprint to clinch the game.

Baylor thus ran his record to 519 points in 16 games, an average of 32.44 points per game.

Big O Still Leads
Chamberlain, who is idle until next Monday, has 389 points in 12 games for 32.42 points per game. National leader Oscar Robertson of Cincinnati, who puts his ranking on the line tonight in a game against Duquesne, has 523 points in 16 games (only four more than Baylor) for an average of 32.69 per game.

West Virginia and San Francisco, ranked No. 1 and No. 3 in the nation by the United Press Board of Coaches, also scored victories Friday night.

West Virginia bounced back from its lone defeat of the season at the hands of Duke to beat Florida State, 103-51, for its 15th win in 16 games. After scoring only two baskets in the first 5½ minutes, the Mountaineers found their old pace and pulled away to win easily as Ronnie Retton set the scoring pace with 17 points.

Dons Win Again
San Francisco also pushed its record to 15-1 with a 52-38 victory over Loyola of Los Angeles, giving the Dons a 4-0 record in the West Coast Athletic Conference. Mike Farmer led the Dons with 23 points in the easy win.

In other leading games Friday night: Syracuse trounced Georgetown (D.C.), 62-46; Oklahoma City downed Western Kentucky, 67-59; Brigham Young defeated Utah State, 67-55; and in the Pacific Coast Conference, Dave Gambee's 24 points led Oregon State to an 82-62 victory over Oregon and Washington beat Stanford, 69-58.

Jacoby On Bridge

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"How should we have reached the grand slam," writes a St. Petersburg reader, "since I was void of diamonds I merely responded one heart. Then when my partner went to two clubs I jumped directly to six. Should he have gone on to seven?"

The answer to our reader's question is that it is very difficult to bid a grand slam scientifically with freak hands but I think that North might have done a trifle better. After South's two club bid North might have temporized by bidding two spades. South would have gone to three clubs and then North might have taken the bull by the horns and leaped to seven clubs.

He could reason that his partner had shown at least 10 cards (quite possibly 11) in the minor suits and that the grand slam would have to be a good gamble. Incidentally while my reader did not comment on the play of the hand it does require a little care to bring the grand slam home.

The opening spade lead must be won in dummy and the other losing spade eventually discarded on the ace of hearts. Now the ace and king of clubs are cashed in order after which South can start on the diamond suit which he will eventually be able to establish by ruffing three small in dummy.

If South tries a cross ruff before pulling trumps he will get overruffed in diamonds or hearts in short order. If he starts by ruffing a heart he will wind up without being able to establish either a heart or a diamond for his thirteenth trick.

Miss Thomasson, Eugene P. Vineyard Pledge Nuptial Vows In Church Rites

Peg O' Pampa

AS OF WHEN WE ARE COMPOSING THIS LITTLE WORK OF ART, our friend Earl Davis is still waiting for the citizens of Pampa to bring him down from his high house atop the derrick in front of the City Hall...

AROUND THE TOWN we were certainly pleased by the announcement that Warren Hasse had received the Pampa Jaycee's distinguished service award...

OUR HUMOR FOR THE WEEK perhaps is weak a definition of what the doctors and nurses call "minor surgery" that is any surgery which is done on someone else but yourself...

HOW DID YOU LIKE the concert, Vienna on Parade, last week Wednesday we thought it was a "lollapalooza" of a show and very well led by Captain Hermann...

FOR A FASCINATING TIME go and watch the work on the underpass on Hobart street golly we walked out on the wooden "cat-walk" across the Big Ditch in front of Ward's grocery store...

LAST LAP or nearly news for friends of Gene and Wadene Vineyard they came through town on their way to Amarillo Junior College...

BY THE BY, BEFORE WE LEAVE YOU FOR THE WEEK MEN did your wife show you the small article in "The Better Way" section of this month's Good Housekeeping magazine...

Yours truly, Peg

Wedding vows were pledged by Miss Wadene Thomasson and Eugene Paul Vineyard on January 25 in the sanctuary of the First Methodist Church at 7:30 p.m.

Miss Thomasson is the daughter of Mrs. Dora Thomasson and the late Wade Thomasson. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. George Vineyards, Amarillo.

Elegant simplicity in the wedding scene was formed by a fan-shaped arrangement of white gladioli on the altar, flanked by urn pedestals holding white gladioli.

Pews of honor were marked with candelabras, holding white tapers and finished with white satin bows. Mrs. Mae Foreman Carr played pre-nuptial airs and the traditional wedding marches.

Given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Louie Hooper, the bride was gownned in ivory satin styled along princess lines with tiny satin buttons extending from the neckline to the hemline.

Her full-length veil of imported Belgian lace, edged with a floral design of medallions was attached to a tiara encrusted with pearls. She carried a white orchid arranged with a shower of white satin ribbon and stephanotis atop a pearl-covered white Bridal Bible.

Mrs. Louie Hooper, sister of the bride, was matron of honor gownned in pale green chiffon, ballerina-length. She carried a cascade arrangement of white Sweetheart rose-buds and feathered white carnations.

Misses Cynthia Duncan and Ruth Gwen Adcock, serving as bridesmaids, were dressed identically in light pink chiffon ballerina-length dresses. They carried colonial arrangements of white and pink rose-buds.

Mr. Vineyard served his son as best man. Seating the wedding guests were Howard Vineyard, brother of the bridegroom, Ronnie Martin, and David Smith.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Thomasson wore a mauve wool jersey suit with satin trim. Mrs. Vineyard, mother of the bridegroom, chose a powder-blue taffeta suit. Their corsages were of white carnations.

Miss Sharon Bruce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Bruce, was flower girl in a white lace, waltz-length dress, fashioned with long tapering sleeves and a bouffant skirt worn over a hoop.

RECEPTION Pink and white carnations centered the bride's table at the reception, held following the exchange of vows, in the Fellowship Hall of the church. Mrs. Carr played background music during the reception.

Mrs. Gary Herr presided at the Miss Judy Ellis served cake. Guest registrar was Miss Myrna Montgomery. Assisting with the reception were Misses Sarah Harnly, Carolyn Ford, Kaynell Baldwin, Dot Gantz.

GRACE FRIEND

Dear Grace Friend During the Christmas festivities my husband and I went to an open house in a neighboring town. During the affair I was introduced to a woman whom I had met long before.

The friend who had introduced us didn't waste a minute after we had left the third woman to tell me that I had committed a bad error in mentioning the adoption. She said that the couple have never told the girl she is adopted and that they want everyone to believe that the child is their own.

In fact my friend had not known until I mentioned it so actually she was assuming that the adoption has been kept secret since she sees the family frequently.

Needless to say I am miserable as several people must have heard me in that crowded room. I certainly would never have knowingly revealed the situation had I dreamed they didn't want it to be known.

My problem is this, Grace. I want to make what amends I can and I have been wondering if I should write the woman a letter or even go to call and explain that I meant nothing by my remark.

Mrs. R. C.

Dear Mrs. D. C. Nothing you can do now would undo your remark which was made so innocently at the party. I believe, in your place, that I would say nothing more but just let the matter rest where it is.

There is a good possibility that the family has made no secret of the adoption in the first place. It may be that it just didn't happen to be discussed in your friend's presence.

If they have been trying to keep it a secret, your mentioning it might be a good thing in that it will show them how easily it might be brought up in the child's presence and if they are aware of the harm such an off-hand revelation could do the child, they will hasten to see that she learns of her adoption. Many children are adopted and there are many ways of telling them so without hurting them. It is far wiser for the parents to discuss it with the youngsters so that they will be protected should the subject ever come up.

Louise Evans, Amarillo Newswoman, Speaks On "Geriatrics" For Altrusans

Mrs. Louise Evans was featured speaker at the meeting of the Pampa Altrusa Club in the Pampa Hotel on Monday night. Her topic was "Geriatrics."

"The average American in 1900 had a life span of 48 years," she explained. "Now it is 69 years for men and slightly higher for women, with the greatest increase shown among those 75 years old and over."

"In another ten years, even if medical science doesn't progress an inch in the field of geriatrics, 20 million Americans will be in this age group," Mrs. Evans stated.

In speaking of what is called "retirement age," she said that no human being ever gets the chance to retire from the joys and realities of life, unless his mind ceases to recognize reality or his heart stops. She said there is a need for more jobs with modified duties, without loss of dignity, for those over 65.

The fear of growing old may be cause of senility in this country, she told the group, explaining that there are few cases of senility in countries where old age is revered.

Good health habits, wise use of antibiotics and vitamins at middle age could help stave off senility, she advised, adding that a little more veneration of the aged would help also. She stated that poor living conditions, lack of proper medical care, the fears and frustrations caused by low income have a detrimental effect on the aged.

"The psychological advantages of being needed and wanted is better than any antibiotic for the aged," Mrs. Evans told the Altrusa members.

In planning a good program for senior citizens, she recommended a house-to-house survey be made to find out "who they are, where they live, what they want and what they need." She said similar surveys have shown that some needed glasses, some needed false teeth and there was a need for transportation to things they enjoy attending.

She recommended sewing machines be made available for women who do not have them, and domino tables be provided for the men. Other suggestions were programs for the blind, and good visual programs for those who see well, but who do not hear well.

A SeniorCee program, similar to that of the Jaycees, where senior citizens work for the betterment of the community, has met with success many places. Such groups stage parades for children at Christmas, go out on field trips for the Chamber of Commerce and other things Chambers of Commerce usually do."

Mrs. Evans suggestions for improving health and living conditions of senior citizens included a convalescent home, under hospital supervision, where they can recuperate from such things as broken bones; and centers where they can receive rehabilitation for chronic illnesses. She said low-cost group housing units for old people would help solve their housing problem, and that nursing homes are needed for those with terminal illnesses.

"Aging is pretty much a psychological process, not physical," she told the group. "The older person can do all he wants to, only it takes a little longer."

She stated a person's peak of mental activity comes as late as their 40's and stays on a plateau until death, if the mind is kept "well oiled." "Once one reaches the plateau of old age, there is not much medical evidence of why they die," she concluded, "adding a person has pretty much control over when they die after reaching this plateau."

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. W. A. Spoonemore, and Mrs. Jack P. Foster, president, led the business session. Newsletters, prepared by Mrs. Spoonemore; Miss Ola Gregory, Mrs. Ray E. Wilson and Mrs. N. G. Kadango, were distributed.

YOU... and YOUR HOME
 by Jack Foster

IF YOU LOVE LUXURY

Your home—the walls that shelter you, the floors you tread on, the rooms you live in—all of these should be decorated in a manner that will give you and your family emotional as well as physical satisfaction and comfort.

Whether you are consciously aware of it or not, you respond emotionally to style, color, line and design. Each of these plays an important part in your over-all decorating plan.

Color, line and design are all tied in with style. And style, particularly furniture style, always reflects the spirit and conditions of the time during which it arose. That is one of the reasons why, if you love luxury, you'll undoubtedly have a strong preference for fine Traditional furniture because it reflects the refinement, the exquisite detail, and the rich beauty that was stressed during the eighteenth century.

The afterglow of this luxurious period is evident in the Traditional room, sketched above, arm grey walls, rose-colored draperies and rugs furnish a richly receptive background for the gleaming mahogany furniture. Note how the fireplace group and the dining group are clearly defined by the use of two rugs—one with pattern, the other a plain rose oval. Here is a room with luxurious eighteenth century styling intercepted in the smart mood of today.

That much-desired look of luxury isn't so much a matter of cost as it is a matter of selection. Our friendly decorators will be more than happy to assist you with your style and color selections whenever you can come in. So do make it a point to visit us real soon.

"Young At Eighty" Discussion Subject For Twentieth Century Club Meeting

Mrs. Ronald Hubbard, 515 N. Gray, was hostess to members and guests of the Twentieth Century Club on Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Raymond Harrah had as her guest, Mrs. Betty Hodges, now of Littlefield, who was one of the charter members of the club. Mrs. Hodges has kept her interest in federated club activities; having held offices in district and state organizations.

Mrs. Jack Foster, club president, had as her guest her mother, Mrs. A. W. Brown.

The opening devotional was given by Mrs. Harrah, who began her remarks with the quotation, "Grow old with me. The best is yet to be. The last of life for which the first was made." She led the members in reading of the Litany.

Mrs. Foster presided during the business meeting as the announcement was made that the next meeting will be on Feb. 11 in the home of Mrs. F. M. Culbertson. It will be guest day with Mrs. Fred Neslage and Mrs. Richard Stowers as co-hostesses.

million Americans are in their 80's and 90's."

"Approximately 14,750 people in the U.S. are aged 65 or more and their number is increasing at the rate of 1,000 more a day. In another 100 years, even though medical science does not progress one inch in its geriatrics division, around 20 million Americans will be in this upper age bracket."

Mrs. Andis stated that 44 per cent of our adult population is either middle-aged or in the older age group. "The problem of the aged in America is compounded thereby, because the ranks will not thin, but greatly increase as the decades roll on."

"A 1950 Texas survey showed that there were four times as many citizens 65 years or more than shown in a like survey in the year 1920. In Pampa, the report showed 1200 or more in this age group. It is expected that by 1960, the percentage of oldsters will have jumped to 7.8 per cent, when the expected Texas population will have reached 8,750,000 persons."

Mrs. Andis said, "There are two specific aspects of old age; one physical and another mental."

Pertaining to the physical, she stressed the importance of proper diet, as older persons especially need proteins and the necessity of the proper intake of fat in the diet as excess fat is especially injurious to the circulation system.

Mrs. Andis advised for mental stimulation, "It is well to have outside interests and only the right amount of exercise." Also, that "tendrils tend to cause glandular disturbance."

"We are as young as we think," she said.

Other items of interest as told by Mrs. Andis were those of the interest; to still be able to take changes, but not chances; to keep contacts with friends; and especially to have a hobby."

In closing, Mrs. Andis quoted Bernard Baruch as saying, "Old Age is always 15 years older than L."

To all these quoted statistics and admonitions, Mrs. Andis said that she would like to add one more important thing necessary for the happiness and welfare of older folks, that of LOVE.

Refreshments were served during the social hour following the program.

A young housewife trying to live within a budget will find she spends less for groceries if she shops only once a week. Running to the store every day leads to buying unnecessary items.

A sudden rash of housecleaning may leave curtains and windows sparkling bright. But what about window sills and frames? Clean curtains will highlight the dingy frames, inside and outside the house. So they have to be washed, too.

RUTH MILLETT

A home economist says that, despite the rush of the food industry to get more and more ready-to-serve foods in the country's supermarkets, women are beginning to show a new interest in learning how to make the old-fashioned dishes that gave Grandma her reputation as a cook.

The home economist didn't explain why young Mrs. America is learning to bake bread, wants to know how to make the kind of soup that starts with buying a soup bone instead of opening a can, and has a sudden yen to be able to turn out a batch of fragrant doughnuts instead of picking up a dozen at the nearest bakery.

But I think I know why the easy-to-prepare or ready-for-the-oven foods are beginning to lose their appeal.

Serving them may be quick and easy—but heating a prepared dish or sliding a pan of half-baked rolls into the oven doesn't give the housewife any sense of accomplishment or satisfaction.

Nor does the process of transferring food from a package to the table bring her any cheers from her family.

But let a housewife roll up her sleeves and go in for an old-fashioned session of cooking from scratch, tasting and testing as she goes, and right away the whole family gets interested.

When she cooks in the old-fashioned way she not only produces food that doesn't have a standardized taste, she is, in a sense, a creative artist. So it's not surprising that the family immediately gathers around to find out "what's cooking."

What comes in cans or in frozen packages can't save a family's hunger. But to arouse their interest in what's going on in the kitchen, a woman has to do more than heat-and-serve.

The cotton knit cardigan sweater that's veiled in roseprinted chiffon is a brisk pick-up for a tired winter wardrobe.

Fashions And Personality Discussed At Recent Varietas Study Club Meet

Varietas Study Club met Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. J. G. Doggett, 915 N. Somerville.

Mrs. W. A. Wagoner opened the meeting and led the members in giving the club collect in unison.

Roll call was answer by each member giving a "fashion tip."

During the business meeting, it was voted to give two card tables to the Senior Citizens Club and to donate $10 to the March of Dimes.

Mrs. H. H. Butler, project chairman, requested that each member bring a book to the next meeting for the club's bookshelves in Highland General Hospital.

New officers for the coming year are Mmes. Dow King, president; Joe Z. Weaver, vice president; H. H. Bratcher, secretary; Cecil Dalton, treasurer; J. A. Hopkins, parliamentarian; H. T. Hampton, library chairman.

Mrs. Lee Harrah discussed "New Thoughts On Face And Figure." She opened her remarks by saying that every woman has at least one facial characteristic that can make her attractive and unforgettable.

She gave new ideas about cosmetics, colors and new fashion trends for Spring and stated, "The woman, who achieves day after day, whatever the other demands on her time and thought, an appearance that is pleasing to the eye need apologize to no one. Having learned to make the most of herself in the realm of personal appearance, she will have learned the elements of bringing order and beauty into her life and into the lives she touches."

Mrs. Butler discussed "Trends In Personality." She said, "Man's greatest puzzle is his own personality. To understand individual personality, it is necessary to observe behavior in its entirety and in its widest variety. It can be understood most simply as the total organization of values symbolic of experience previously assimilated."

"Self acceptance and spontaneity are among the easiest achievements in healthy children and among the most difficult in self-questioning, self-improving adults," she said.

Mrs. Butler quoted from Duvall's "Family Living": "Know yourself, and correct your faults as best you can." "Try to understand people. Learn to understand how others feel." "Develop real friendships. Learn to like people. Share yourself and you will find yourself in a cause bigger than you are."

Refreshments were served during the social hour.

'The Magic Barrel' Top For VB Club

WHITE DEER — Paul Buchanan, assisted by Everett Butler, both employees of Dorchester Company, presented "The Magic Barrel," a demonstration of the use of petrochemicals, at a meeting of the Venado Blanco Club on Monday evening, in the home of Mrs. Floyd Ulrich.

"Three 'invisible miracles,' competition, private enterprise, and initiative, have made possible the many 'visible miracles' of the petroleum industry," said Mr. Buchanan, as he produced from his "magic barrel" samples of soil conditioners, refrigerative chemicals, fabrics, explosives, perfumes, microfilm, and almost a hundred other products of petroleum.

"Many of these," he stated, "are now accepted as a part of our way of life, but they are only a forerunner of the fabulous products that are already in view in the petrochemical laboratories."

Mrs. George Stanley Hostess To Circle

(Special to The News)
SHAMROCK — The Business Women's Circle of the WMU of First Baptist Church met for Bible study in the home of Mrs. George Stanley recently.

Mrs. C. V. Woods presided and led the opening prayer. Mrs. J. F. Shortt taught the lesson, and Mrs. Lee Newman closed with prayer.

Refreshments were served to the following members, Mmes. Paul O'Neal, Lulu Harris, M. E. Lewallen, J. F. Shortt, Guy Valentine, Austin Byrd, Lee Newman, Dona Tucker, C. V. Woods, Mary Bledsoe, Andrew Morgan, Eunice Mayfield, Myrtle Marshbanks, Horner to deprive him of promotion, whether we're an employe fearing the boss's power to take our job or a wife fearing an in-law's power to destroy her marriage.

It is our fear of the person's power that makes us hate him. Once it's overcome, we are at peace with him. Our new, accepting tolerance usually saves us our promotion, our job and our marriage.

This principle works whether we are Chuck fearing Miss Coe's power.

MATURE PARENT

BY MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Chuck's French teacher is always checking on kids. If Miss Coe tells you to write a translation, you never know when she may materialize beside your desk and stand there watching to see how you do it.

One day after she'd done this to Chuck during a test, he was so resentful his father noticed it. Explaining his anxiety, Chuck shouted, "I can't stand it when she stands over me. The old snoop!"

"Why don't you tell her how you feel?" his father asked. Chuck exploded. "She'd fail me!" he yelled. "She'd get so sore at me she'd fail me!"

"It's better to risk failing than to go on feeling so mad," his father said. This statement seemed crazy to Chuck. But later up in his room, it began to make sense. He suddenly decided to give up his hope of a passing grade in French to tell Miss Coe he couldn't work when she stood over him.

But the next day, he found all need to protest to her had gone. When, as usual she came down his aisle, he found he didn't care whether she stopped at his desk or not. She'd lost all her power to disturb him.

Indeed, as she passed to check on the kid three seats behind him, he felt a little sorry for her. He thought, "Gee, I'm glad I don't have to worry all the time that somebody's going to cheat me."

He got an excellent term mark in French. I don't wonder. Chuck had applied the principle given us by Jesus when he said, "Whosoever will save his life shall lose it; and whosoever will lose his life for my sake shall find it."

When we are willing to give up some important things another person can give us for the sake of our self-respect, we also give up fear of the person—and his power to deprive us of that thing.

This principle works whether we are Chuck fearing Miss Coe's power.

Giving Others What She Couldn't Have 4H Leader Satisfies Childhood Dream

BY ALICIA HART

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Thousands of American youngsters will better meet future responsibilities because a woman official of the U.S. Department of Agriculture could never forget an unfulfilled childhood dream.

Miss Fern Shipley, an associate leader of the 4-H Clubs, has the important job of helping to plan and develop programs for the youth of 11 western states, Alaska and Hawaii. The 4-H Clubs are groups of boys and girls, chiefly from rural or suburban areas, dedicated to the principles of Head, Heart, Hands and Health.

Miss Fern Shipley

Ironically, Miss Shipley never was able to become a 4-H member, herself.

"It was one of the biggest disappointments of my life," she says. "I was fascinated with the 4-H activities, but the town where I lived was too big to have a club." She explains that in those days towns with a population of more than 2,500 didn't qualify for 4-H projects. And kids from these areas weren't permitted to join a club in a smaller town.

But Miss Shipley never let this destroy her enthusiasm. She says that everytime she got a chance, she would visit clubs as a guest of friends or relatives.

When she entered Utah State Agricultural College, Miss Shipley got a part-time job at the state 4-H Club office. She believes this was the turning point in her life.

Her future plans were to become a school teacher. But the job increased her interest in 4-H work so much that she decided to make it a career.

Soon after graduation she launched her life's work with a full-time job in the state office. Seventeen years later, she was moved to the national office in Washington.

And her intense enthusiasm for 4-H Clubs has increased with each year that she has been on the job.

"What we do in club work is important to the growth of young people," she explains. "That's why it's the most satisfying job I could imagine. You just have a feeling that you're part of something that's so much bigger than you."

Throughout the years, Miss Shipley has seen many changes take place in the 4-H programs. For example, she explains that today more youngsters who don't come from farms are enrolling in the clubs. She attributes this to the increasing number of city workers who are moving into homes in the suburbs or rural areas.

And she expects the non-farm enrollment to keep booming. "Even some cities are starting to demand 4-H programs," Miss Shipley explains. And she adds, "In fact, in most cases it's impossible to tell the country boy or girl from city youngsters."

This trend toward identical urban and rural characteristics is reflected in the 4-H leader's own personality.

Although she works a great deal planning agricultural and homemaking projects, Miss Shipley thoroughly enjoys an evening at the ballet or theater. And one of her favorite hobbies is photography. "I'm an ardent shutterbug," she explains.

Despite chemise conversation, the wool jersey sheath, fitted and shaped, continues to be a prime fashion favorite for winter wear. Best-liked colors are black, navy, red, royal blue and green.

Newest silk chiffon scarves have beading or jewel-streak decoration. They're pretty in jewel tones and black or white, too.

Mrs. Aubrey Steele and Mrs. M. McDaniel had charge of the program on "World of Books."

Using Henry Van Dyke's books, they illustrated that Christmas living and Christmas giving need not be for only one day and night. Only a single day of generosity, ransomed from the dull servitude of a selfish year.

Books used to illustrate the art of Christmas-living throughout the year were Van Dyke's "Days Off," "The Spirit of Christmas," and "The Mansion." Refreshments were served by the hostess to fifteen members. The next meeting will be held on Feb. 11 in the home of Mrs. John McCrery, 1311 Christine.

The silk paisley shirt dress is the ideal addition to a wardrobe right about now. It looks forward to spring and takes the edge from winter.

Giving Others What She Couldn't Have 4H Leader Satisfies Childhood Dream

BY ALICIA HART
 NEA Staff Correspondent
 WASHINGTON (NEA) — Thousands of American youngsters will better meet future responsibilities because a woman official of the U.S. Department of Agriculture could never forget an unfulfilled childhood dream.
 Miss Fern Shipley, an associate leader of the 4-H Clubs, has the important job of helping to plan and develop programs for the youth of 11 western states, Alaska and Hawaii. The 4-H Clubs are groups of boys and girls, chiefly from rural or suburban areas, dedicated to the principles of Head, Heart, Hands and Health.
 Ironically, Miss Shipley never was able to become a 4-H member herself.
 "It was one of the biggest disappointments of my life," she says. "I was fascinated with the 4-H activities, but the town where I lived was too big to have a club." She explains that in those days towns with a population of more than 2,500 didn't qualify for 4-H projects. And kids from these areas weren't permitted to join a club in a smaller town.
 But Miss Shipley never let this destroy her enthusiasm. She says that everytime she got a chance, she would visit clubs as a guest of friends or relatives.
 When she entered Utah State Agricultural College, Miss Shipley got a part-time job at the state 4-H Club office. She believes this was the turning point in her life.
 Her future plans were to be a school teacher. But the part of something that's so much bigger than you."

 Throughout the years, Miss Shipley has seen many changes take place in the 4-H programs. For example, she explains that today more youngsters who don't come from farms are enrolling in the clubs. She attributes this to the increasing number of city workers who are moving into homes in the suburbs or rural areas.
 And she expects the non-farm enrollment to keep booming. "Even some cities are starting to demand 4-H programs," Miss Shipley explains. And she adds, "In fact, in most cases it's impossible to tell the country boy or girl from city youngsters."
 This trend toward identical urban and rural characteristics is reflected in the 4-H leader's own personality.
 Although she works a great deal planning agricultural and homemaking projects, Miss Shipley thoroughly enjoys an evening at the ballet or theater. And one of her favorite hobbies is photography. "I'm an ardent shutterbug," she explains.
 Despite chemise conversation; the wool jersey sheath, fitted and shaped, continues to be a prime fashion favorite for winter wear. Best-liked colors are black, navy, red, royal blue and green.
 Newest silk chiffon scarves have beading or jewel-streak decoration. They're pretty in jewel tones and black or white, too.

Gulf Employee To Retire After 37 Years Service

Charles Vavirka, field mechanic for Gulf Oil Corporation at Carson will retire on February 1 after 37 years service with the company.

Vavirka was first employed by Gulf Pipeline Company in 1918 at Gandy, Oklahoma, as Telegraph Operator and Gauger. On Nov. 25, 1920, he was employed by Gulf Production Company at Breckenridge as water station operator, later transferring to Electra and Archer City to operate a water station there. In May 1935, he transferred to the Panhandle field as field mechanic, in which capacity he has served until the present time.

Vavirka, a member of the Electra Masonic Lodge No. 1967, is active in the New York Stock Exchange and spends a great deal of his off-duty days at the Exchange in Amarillo. He plans to make his home in Pampa after retirement.

Former Pampan Is Oil Company Head

A former Pampa resident, Walter E. Biery, has been named president of the Mid-Continent Pipe Line Co.

The promotion of Biery was made after the former president of the firm, J. Marston Lineham, resigned to assume the duties of vice-president and manager of crude oil and transportation for Sunray Mid-Continent Oil Co. and D-X Sunray Oil Co., its refining and marketing subsidiary.

Biery joined Mid-Continent Pipe Line Co. in 1944 as a chief gusher and tank strapper. He successively served as assistant division superintendent, superintendent of operations, general superintendent and general manager of the company, being named vice-president and general manager in February in 1957.

From 1927 until 1944 Biery was associated with Sinclair and is well known in Pampa, Borger and Amarillo.

WALTER E. BIERY named president

His wife, Dorothy, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Doucette, 211 N. Frost.

Oil Men Will Hear Alcorn Wednesday In Amarillo

AMARILLO, Texas, Feb. 1—The third in a statewide series of district gatherings of Texas oil men will be held in Amarillo Wednesday night as the industry prepares itself to weather a year of uncertain production, allowables and crude prices.

Principal speaker at the dinner hosted by Harold Dunn and John G. O'Brien, Amarillo oil men, will be Charles W. Alcorn, Houston, president, Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association. Dunn is president of Shamrock Oil and Gas Corp. and a vice-president of Texas Mid-Continent. O'Brien is president of Panhandle Producers and Royalty Owners Association.

Alcorn will be the honored guest at the meeting which is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. at the Amarillo Club.

"Acceptances indicate we will have oil people from many Panhandle cities, including Borger, Pampa, Shamrock, Stinnett, and White Deer," Dunn said.

"The Amarillo meeting of Panhandle oil men is part of a series of gatherings at which Alcorn is meeting with industry leaders in the major oil and gas producing regions of Texas," he said.

Alcorn, an independent oil producer and drilling contractor, was elected president of Texas Mid-Continent last October. He succeeded French M. Robertson, Abilene, who is executive vice-president of Falcon Seaboard Drilling Company, which he helped organize in 1935.

From his Houston office Alcorn is personally involved in the detailed activities of Falcon Seaboard's wide-spread operations, which include 30 drilling rigs and oil and gas production in several states.

He began his oil career 38 years ago as a roustabout in Louisiana. Since that time he has held jobs as gauger, production clerk, pump station foreman, head roustabout, and farm boss. In 1920 he tried his hand at wildcatting and lease

Group Demands Controls On Petroleum Imports

TULSA (UP)—Mandatory controls on petroleum imports was demanded in a resolution adopted by 15 independent petroleum associations Friday.

The controls were asked "to assure the stability and growth of all industries vital to the national security."

The meeting was called by the Independent Petroleum Assn. of America to form a united front in favor of controls.

Gordon Simpson, president of the IPAA, declared after the meeting that the action taken "reflects wide alarm and deep concern over the critical conditions which now threaten to undermine the ability of the domestic industry. The economy of wide areas of the country and the security of the United States."

Twenty associations of independent producers were represented, but five refrained from voting for the resolution, because they were "not authorized to act." The 20 groups represent more than one-third of all producers in the U.S.

The resolution calls in general, terms for support of the IPAA policy to seek congressional action "to assure the stability and growth" of "all industries" vital to the national security.

The final paragraph calls for mandatory controls on imports through congressional action, in order to "attain the goals of the President's cabinet authorized recommendations," and says that such additional controls should include quotas or excise taxes on both.

Association Predicts Upswing In Oilwell Servicing Business

A steady upswing in the oilwell servicing business was predicted by members of the Association of Oilwell Servicing Contractors at their second annual meeting recently held in Dallas.

The new association, which had a record attendance with more than 250 registered from a five-state area, voted to hold its third annual meeting again in Dallas at the Baker Hotel in January 1959. Members voiced their approval so frequently during the convention on its overall success that the directors and new officers took only a short time to select the same convention site for 1959.

New officers for the association include J. F. McAdams, Hobbs, New Mexico, president; J. C. Williams, Jr., Springhill, La. and Thomas E. Goebel, Houston, Texas vice-presidents; and Jimmy Wilkins, Odessa, Texas, re-elected treasurer.

Three new associate directors were also added to the board following a combined meeting of the active and associate members. The new "advisory" associate members elected were: Carl Joyner, Odessa, Texas; Tom C. Waldrop, Arlington, Texas; and Fulton Johnson, Kilgore, Texas.

Members gathered in Dallas admitted that their present oilwell servicing activity was below last year somewhat, but many said that they already had seen definite signs of a speed-up already beginning.

"Our well servicing industry is in for a more steady, regular growth than has been," said A. Leander McAllister, Wichita Falls, Texas, one of the organization's founding members.

"Because of imports, prorating, and the like, the desire to drill wells isn't strong now. The economics are against it. There will be more remedial work. And the operators will be trying to produce more oil efficiently out of what they already have," McAllister explained.

Other operators pointed out that trading, drilled a gas well and a dry hole, then went to work for Shell Oil Co.

In 1924 he moved to Breckenridge. The same year he was named Shell's district superintendent in North and Central Texas. He transferred to Dallas in 1927 as assistant general superintendent of the company's central division. He resigned in 1933 and moved to Wichita Falls where he became an independent producer with properties in Archer and Young counties, Texas. He sold these properties prior to organization of Falcon Seaboard Drilling Co.

although oil producers have slowed down their spending of money for drilling because of reduced allowables, that the operators are seemingly learning to live with reduced allowables and to realize the necessity of maintaining their wells and protecting their investments.

In other convention activities, oilwell servicing contractors had serious discussions on the problems facing them in their relationships within the oil industry and their own internal problems.

"We need to win wider recognition of AOSC purposes and goals," said outgoing president Frank Bateman of Hobbs, New Mexico. The association now has ten active chapters in New Mexico, Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, and Arkansas. Next state on the immediate agenda is Oklahoma, with feelers out for other oil-producing state organizations planned for this year. The organization's headquarters is in Odessa, Texas, with W. H. Fox as executive secretary.

Other problems discussed in speeches and informally included high insurance rates, excessive employee turnover, supplier-contractor relationships, need for better accounting procedures, and the squeeze between costs and income.

One substantial service contractor pointed out, for example, that while rates have risen from $13.50 an hour in 1944 for a workover crew to between $18 and $20 an hour now, a complete well servicing unit could be purchased in 1944 for $15,000 and the same unit now costs about $50,000.

SAN ANTONIO (UP)—Pete Garcia, 19, changed a plea of not guilty to guilty Wednesday and was sentenced to eight years in prison on charges of possession of marijuana. Garcia also pleaded guilty to three other charges of narcotics possession and was sentenced to 10 years on each count for a total of 38 years.

Shell Research Develops Aid In Fighting Smog

Scientists at Shell Development Company's Emeryville Research Center have developed a new technique for measuring air pollutants which may lead to smog.

The method of analysis identifies and measures infinitesimal amounts of hydrocarbons resulting from incomplete burning of gasoline in cars, organic matter in incinerators or other sources.

Greatest benefits of the new technique are its low cost, simplicity of operation and speed with which highly detailed analyses can be made. It fills an urgent need for a simple, accurate and highly sensitive tool for determining hydrocarbon traces in small samples of air. Detailed information on the technique has been offered free by Shell Development Company to any organization engaged in air pollution research.

It is now possible, as a result of the Shell development, to separate and identify a wide range of lighthydrocarbons in quantities as low as four parts per 100 million parts of air. Analyses are made by passing air samples through a long tube filled with finely ground solid material which physically separates various gaseous components from one another. They emerge
