US To Participate In Nuclear Talks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States notified the Soviet Union today that an American delegation will be on hand for the opening of scientific nuclear talks at Geneva Tuesday despite the Kremlin threat to boycott the conference.

A brief U.S. note was dispatched with unusual diplomatic speed and delivered to the Soviet Foreign Ministry in Moscow this morning. It expressed hope that Soviet scientists will show up for the talks dealing with technical possibilities of detecting nuclear explosions if a testing ban agreement is reached.

The Soviet threat to scuttle the conference came Wednesday when the Russians declared they would not participate unless the United States agreed in advance to end nuclear weapons testing.

Wheat Harvest Still Third Uncompleted

The wheat harvest in the Top of Texas area is about two-thirds complete, County Agent Ralph Thomas said today.

"South of Pampa the wheat is almost in, but at Laketon, they're just about half through," he said. "The farmers who can get in their fields find the moisture content too high but some of them can't even get in their fields. The rains have slowed the harvest down considerably and it will be a good week before it is finished," Thomas stated.

Ex-Publisher In Testimony On Influence

By TOM NELSON
WASHINGTON (UPI)—A former Boston publisher charged today that his Democratic newspaper was driven out of business by unnamed "extremely powerful forces" high in the Republican administration whom he linked to textile millionaire Bernard Goldfine.

John Fox, lawyer and financier who published the defunct Boston Post, said that after 1954 he became aware of "the most powerful and malign influences exerted against me" by the federal government.

He told a House subcommittee investigating the relationship between Goldfine and Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams that "this influence was inexorable, deadly and long-sustained."

Lebanon Braces For Fierce Attacks

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Cairo Radio reported today that "strong" rebel forces were marching on the port city of Tripoli and the Lebanese government braced itself for fierce new attacks before the United Nations can act in the current crisis.

Shooting broke out late Wednesday between the rebels and the army on the edges of Beirut's rebel-held Basta quarter just a few hours after Dag Hammarskjold took off for New York and meetings with the Security Council. Government sources expressed fear the rebel attacks were simply a test of army strength, perhaps for larger attacks later.

Other major Lebanese developments: Washington — The U. S. 8th Fleet, fully manned and 50 per cent above normal strength, was believed poised to supply the initial American portion of any UN military force sent into Lebanon.

against Goldfine, the textile manufacturer friend of Adams. Lawyers Roger Robb and Samuel P. Sears cited remarks by Fox in Federal District Court at Boston April 16, when Fox represented stockholders suing one of Goldfine's companies.

Tells Loan Deal

Fox was called to testify in public session after a 40-minute closed meeting at which the subcommittee rejected a move by Goldfine's lawyers to take Fox's statements behind closed doors. The attorneys argued in vain that House rules required a secret session because Fox's testimony would tend to defame and degrade their client.

Harris said after he received the letter Wednesday that he would ask the subcommittee to vote on whether it considered the testimony Fox would give would "tend to defame, degrade, or incriminate."

Fox, who published the now-defunct Boston Post, also was reported to have said Goldfine could gain favors from the government because he had Adams in "his hip pocket." Adams has denied he ever did anything improper for his New England industrialist friend.

Trujillo Favors Swank Hotel For Party

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Free-spending Rafael Trujillo Jr., 29-year-old Dominican Republic general, has given up plans for a party on his personal "man of war" in favor of a luxurious hotel soiree.

Scene of the celebration, expected to draw some of filmland's top figures, was switched without explanation Wednesday from the 350-foot Angelita, riding at San Pedro in Los Angeles harbor.

But, one fact now appeared certain. The generous general's blonde friend, actress Zsa Zsa Gabor, would be the hostess at the party July 8 at the Beverly Hilton Hotel.

Zsa Zsa's invitations to an exclusive list of 136 celebrities read: "I would like to invite you to attend a party in honor of my dear friend, his excellency Gen. Rafael Trujillo Jr. at O'Connell's of the Beverly Hilton at 8:30 o'clock, Black tie."

Sherman Adams And Right Of The People To Know

Sherman Adams

The following poem appeared in one of the New York newspapers: Here's to New England. The land of the bean and the cod. Where the Adamases speak only to the Goldfines. Under circumstances exceedingly odd.

The author of this piece of poetry was listed as "Unknown". No effort has been made to determine who originated it, but events and announcements that occurred subsequent to its appearance in the New York newspaper would indicate that it would be futile to look for the author at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue.

All statements, press releases, etc., coming from the White House on this subject would indicate that the structure is permeated with the same loyalty under the Eisenhower Administration as prevailed during the Administration of Mr. Truman.

Regardless of the view one takes of the situation, whether it be good, bad or indifferent, there is one inescapable fact about such an episode. It has news value. Until this news value has run its course or lost its effectiveness, the matter will not be dropped. Whether or not Mr. Adams leaves the employment of the government will depend upon how appreciable news value it will continue to contain appreciable news value so long as there are untold items that can be brought up one at a time. The question is, how long can Mr. Eisenhower and Mr. Adams stand the heat.

Other cases of misconduct, or as some would say, "imprudent" conduct, during this Administration were short-lived because their news value played out quickly. They were somewhat like a shooting star on the political horizon. The brilliance of their original flash was promptly dimmed by the quick severance of any ties or connection with the White House. However, the present situation presents a new, long, perhaps, a vicious, of another color. This is not a case where some distant relative whose fall into disgrace could be charged off to some inadvisable political marriage along the way. Politically speaking, this involves the blood kin in the immediate family, which probably explains Papa's reactions.

Although to many it may appear as a comedy of errors, the interwoven threads of tragedy must not be overlooked. The fact is that this country was built upon several basic principles. One of these was "equality under the law". In other words, a man was to be judged from a standpoint of complete fairness, regardless of his

Three 'R's' May Get A 'T' Added

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—The three "R's" may get a "T" added, if a University of North Dakota professor's summer teaching experiment proves a success.

Dr. John L. Rowe, chairman of the university's business education department, believes that typing instruction should begin in grade school, not high, just as some educators say that instruction in foreign languages should begin at the grade, even the kindergarten, level.

To find whether he is correct, Rowe is teaching a touch-typing course of one-hour daily to 28 volunteer third and fourth graders (14 boys, 14 girls) in an eight weeks session on the university campus. He hopes by the end of the classes, most of his pupils will be able to do 30 words a minute.

"Actually there are only 30 minutes of instruction," said the genial professor, in an interview. "We give 'em a 10-minute milk break."

Rowe said he chose the third and fourth grade groups because "at that age, they're an uninhibited fast-learning set. When parents heard about the experiment, we could have enrolled a thousand kids."

Rowe, a typing instructor in secondary schools and colleges for 25 years and co-author of several typing textbooks, outlined his reasons for the experiment during a recent visit to Manhattan.

"I think the child who goes through school knowing how to type learns faster, picks up grammar, spelling and punctuation easier, finds homework less work, improves his muscular coordination... well, I could go on."

"I also think the adding machine might well speed up a child's grasp of arithmetic," he mused. "But I haven't gotten into that."

Rowe, president of the National Association of Business Teacher Education, began his experiment last week. By long distance today, he reported that at the end of the first class, more than half the 28 children could touch-type, without effort, a whole sentence. They were picking up the mechanics faster than most high school classes he's taught.

His pupils are using electric portables.

Popcorn Is Tops For Summer Parties With Decorations That Are Good-To-Eat

Here's good news for those who are looking for a way to dress up summer party tables with decorations that are attractive, novel, good-to-eat and inexpensive! You can expect praise for your originality and good taste when you serve your delighted guests these snappy popcorn firecrackers and luscious buttered popcorn.

1 cup water
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
4 quarts salted popcorn
Combine candles (or sugar), butter, water and salt in heavy saucepan, place over very low heat and allow candles to melt, stirring frequently. Cook syrup until it reaches light crack stage (280-290 degrees F.). Remove from heat and stir in vanilla. Pour syrup over popped popcorn and stir with large buttered spoon until kernels are thoroughly coated. Spread candy coated popcorn onto waxed paper to cool. When cool, break into small pieces. Yield: 4 quarts.

Combine sugar, butter, water and salt in heavy saucepan, blend well and cook over low heat to light crack stage (280-290 degrees F.). Remove from heat and stir in vanilla. Pour syrup over popped popcorn and stir with large buttered spoon until kernels are coated. Fill the tubes with popcorn to overflowing, then stick a short length of pipe cleaner or stick candy in the top for the wick. Shape any leftover corn in balls, wrap in cellophane and tie with red, white and blue paper ribbons.

POPPING FIRECRACKERS

Cut into four inch lengths the cardboard tubes from the centers of paper towels, waxed paper, aluminum foil, etc. Cover the outside of about six tubes with red paper, using rubber cement or cellophane tape to hold in place. Cut pieces of waxed paper the same width as the tubes, roll them up and drop into tubes, folding just a little over the top edge of tubes. Make glossy white popcorn syrup: 2 cups granulated sugar 1/2 cup butter 1 cup water 1/2 teaspoon salt 1 teaspoon vanilla 4 quarts salted popcorn

Dutch Cheese Cake Is Elegant Dessert

Call it Dutch, call it baker's or call it pot. By any name, cottage cheese is still the same fine milk product it was in colonial days.

Settlers from Holland and Germany introduced the art of making cottage cheese to this country. Their skill for making and using "smearcase" has been passed down from generation to generation. Here's one of their recipes that has become famous. It's called Dutch cheese cake. It's a very inexpensive, but elegant dessert, calling for 1 pound cottage cheese, 1/2 cup milk, 1-3 cup sugar, grated rind and juice of 1 lemon, 1 pie crust, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 cup chopped raisins, 3 eggs beaten and 2 tablespoons melted fat.

Plan a Patio Picnic

There's no need to wait until the week end to have a picnic. How about having a patio or backyard supper some night during the week? Your family will welcome the change from the everyday routine. Keep your menu simple so you'll enjoy the fun, too.

Lamburgers in buns are a real treat, especially when they're topped off with a favorful American Blue Cheese Sauce. If you're budget-conscious, you'll appreciate the fact that ground lamb is economical.

Another easy and delicious choice for your picnic-at-home are these American Blue Cheese Lamb Rolls which make good use of lamb that might be left from Sunday's roast lamb. The subtly-sharp, salt-and-peppery flavor of creamy blue cheese adds special zip to this broiled sandwich.

ARMCHAIR COOKING RECIPE: With "Beef Balls on Spanish Rice," hot-weather cooking techniques can be employed, according to the Texas Beef Council. Spend 15 minutes or less preparation time in the kitchen, turn the heat low, and relax in your most comfortable armchair while dinner simmers.

Big Beef Balls On Spanish Rice Means Hostess Can Cook From Living Room

When Texas temperatures hover near the 100 degree mark, the Texas Beef Council feels that Texas homemakers should develop hot-weather cooking techniques which will permit them to leave the kitchen during most of the meal preparation time. "Beef Balls on Spanish Rice," the Council's June-dinner suggestion, requires about 15 minutes of actual kitchen preparation. When this meal-in-one dish is covered and the heat turned low, the homemaker can escape to a cooler part of the house, returning only occasionally to stir the simmering dinner. This cook-it-from-the-living-room recipe serves 4:

Miss Shirley Lee Quirk, Bobby Husted Pledge Nuptial Vows In Church Service

The Groom First Methodist Church was the scene on June 7 of the wedding of Miss Shirley Lee Quirk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jean A. Quirk, Groom, and Bobby Carl Husted, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marion G. Husted, south of the city.

Rev. C. R. Hankins read the double-ring service before an altar decorated with baskets of gladioli and greenery, flanked with candelabra holding blue tapers. The aisle was decorated with greenery and blue candles.

Miss Nancy Helton, organist, played the traditional processional and recessional wedding marches and was accompanied by Miss Marlene Schaffer as she sang, "Whither Thou Goest," "With This Ring I Thee Wed" and "The Lord's Prayer."

BRIDE

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a full-length gown of rose-point lace over tulle and satin fashioned with a torso bodice, sabbina neckline and cap sleeves. Her fingertip veil of

"My husband seems to take great delight in making me jealous," writes a wife.

"He is always raving about how good-looking some girl is. He never misses a chance to flirt with a waitress or to be extravagant in his compliments to other women. Since I can't help being jealous, what can I do to make him stop trying to keep me constantly stirred up?"

You can spoil his fun by failing to react the way you always have in the past and the way he expects you to.

Next time he raves about how good-looking some other woman is, out-rave him. Agree to all he says and point out a few things he hasn't mentioned.

When he flirts with a waitress, join in the banter, instead of sulking. Instead of acting like a hurt wife, act like a gay companion who couldn't care less.

Add your compliments to his when he starts paying them to another woman. And, above all, when you get him alone keep right on being gay and unconcerned.

If you can manage to do all this—and it's a big order for a jealous wife—you ought to have everything under control in short order.

For there is no point in trying to make a wife jealous if she obviously isn't the least bit concerned. In fact, if you do your play-acting convincingly, your husband will probably be so surprised he will begin to wonder WHY you aren't jealous any more—and then he can do the worrying and wondering, for a change.

DEAR ABBY...

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a widower with a nice home, a good automobile and some money in the bank. A friend fixed me up with a widow who is supposed to have plenty of money. On our first date he told me he left his money in his other trousers and I had to pay for the gas. (He filled his tank.) He said he didn't care for public cafes because they were too noisy, so we came home and I fixed us some dinner. He mentioned several times that he doesn't believe in spending foolishly and he is saving his money for his old age. I am 62 and he is past 70. Would you say he was cheap or just conservative?

WONDERING

Dear Wondering: Don't be so concerned about HIS money—just watch yours. This man is an old hand at saving his money and spending somebody else's. Include him out of your plans unless you want to support him.

DEAR ABBY: I am 17 years old and my boyfriend is 19. We love each other very much and expect to be married when we go to enough money saved. About two months ago he told me he went to see a girl just for one thing and now this girl told him she was having a baby and it is his. Do you think she can make him marry her? She is only 16 and has a terrible reputation anyway. Abby, we are very much in love and need your help.

LINDA

Dear Linda: The girl is under age and your boyfriend could be in some very serious legal trouble. No law in the land can force a

When you travel, travel in style and comfort. Leave your small handbag at home and treat yourself to a great big handbag, one large enough to hold paperback book, plane ticket, passport, cosmetics, wallet and odds and ends with ease.

Keeping items made as a hobby to decorate a home or give to friends is relatively simple. Some hobbyists like to oil paint on inexpensive glassware. Dry paint won't rub off if the surface is covered with a thin coat of clear shellac.

Beauty-Diet Pills Latest Beauty Tip

By ALICIA HART NEA Beauty Editor

There's a whole new approach to beauty these days. It lies in a formula which says that beauty comes from within and without and has nothing to do with a soulful look.

It does mean that skin, for example, gets help in two ways: from vitamins and from use of a rich skin cream each night. The same principle can be applied to any phase of beauty if different ways.

One famed beauty house has brought out a duo intended to accomplish much for the woman who's 30 or more. This beauty house does not take the immature stand that a woman starts falling apart at 30. But it does point out that skin becomes drier after 30 and needs more careful attention in order to keep a blooming look.

The duo consists, therefore, of a night cream with vitamins, polyunsaturates and royal jelly. It's a rich, really creamy product that accomplished wonders when it's used faithfully each night.

Working with the cream and supplementing it are beauty diet capsules containing vitamins and minerals. These are intended to reduce the chance of vitamin deficiency. The capsules come in a smart white opaline apothecary jar.

Now Is The Time For All Good Men; Plenty Of Jobs For Women Graduates

By JERRY BENNETT
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The male college graduate, who can't afford to continue his education, still has a good chance of shooting for that money making Masters of Ph. D. degree — by getting married.

Despite the recession, jobs for female grads are plentiful this year. And most of them pay a young working wife enough so that her studious husband can concentrate without having to worry about dying of starvation.

Take teaching for instance. An expected increase in elementary and kindergarten enrollments will open up at least 35,000 jobs for new teachers. And about 60,000 more will be needed to replace those leaving elementary schools.

In addition to having professional tutoring available at home, the guy who weds a school teacher can expect her to deposit between $3,500 and $3,600 in the family till each year.

High school teachers make the most. But gals may find these jobs hard to get in some cities since more high schools are requiring beginning teachers to have a Masters Degree. Most of the high school jobs will be for teachers specializing in math, science, home economics and English.

Nursing is another booming field for employment hunting brides.

This year's crop of breadwinners: Plenty of jobs for the gals — and enough income to support a studious husband.

At least 70,000 new nurses are needed right now, according to officials of the National League of Nursing. And the mounting demand is expected to last for years.

Starting salaries for nurses range from $50 to $80 a week. Hospitals still need plenty of medical technologists, X-ray technicians, speech therapists, physical therapists, medical social workers, medical librarians and dietitians.

Weekly salaries for technologists range from $37 to $54. X-ray technicians usually make from $54 to $76. And the average salary check for dietitians can be cashed for amounts ranging from $69 to $85.

Besides having someone handy to type his thesis, the guy who marries a secretary can count on a weekly pay check averaging between $65.50 and $84. General stenographers make about $12 less, junior typists about $24 less.

Officials of the U.S. Department of Labor's Women's Bureau say that current demands make the job picture for female office workers very favorable. They believe future employment conditions in this field will continue to be bright.

Plenty of jobs are also available for the graduating gal who wants to go to work for Uncle Sam. Civil Service jobs start most college grads without professional experience at $3,670 per year.

The studious guy, however, who believes luxury is a prime necessity for adequate studying conditions had better marry a scientist or math expert.

Salaries for beginning Civil Service workers in most engineering and scientific positions have been raised to $4,480 per year. And beginning lady chemists in private industry are earning an average annual salary of $4,800.

Even the fellow who feels desperately insecure can find the money maker of his dreams. For instance, Washington, D.C., pays its policewomen rookies as high as $4,100 a year.

TRUCKERS' HERO—Reuben C. Thomas, 29, of Enterprise, Ala., was named national "Driver of the Year" by the American Trucking Association. He risked his life to rescue an injured woman from a flaming automobile and was nearly electrocuted by high-voltage current from a downed power line lying across the burning car. A truck driver for the Sessions Company, Inc., Thomas has driven 585,000 miles without accident of any kind.

Full Recovery From The Recession Will Take While

By ROBERT G. SHORTAL, United Press International
NEW YORK (UPI) — Full recovery from the present recession may take anywhere from 12 to 36 months, a survey of 12 leading economists showed today.

The forecasters, polled by United Press International, said the economy will move in a narrow range for a few months and then start a gradual, but halting, upturn.

A number of the economists held that the next real boom in the economy will not get underway until the early 1960s, when the World War II babies begin marrying and having children of their own.

Neil H. Jacoby, dean of the graduate school of business administration, University of California, said "Not until the 1960s can we expect a sharp lift in new family formations which will raise demand for housing, autos, and consumer durable goods to new high levels."

fore business, in most lines begins setting new records, however," he added. "I expect the next boom to be stimulated when continued growth of population and markets restores our present industrial over-capacity to under-capacity."

Abraham L. Gitlow, associate professor of economics at New York University, believes the next boom may get underway within 12 to 18 months, spurred by increased government spending for defense, roads and schools.

"The degree to which a boom follows the present contraction will depend on the degree to which consumption spending and investment develop," Gitlow added.

Roy L. Reiersen, vice president and economist for Bankers Trust Co., said the next major boom will not get underway until "several years from now" and most likely will be spurred by higher investment spending.

HAND-RAISED—After dogs killed a female opossum near Nowata, Okla., home of Dr. S. A. Lang, investigation showed she was carrying a litter of six tiny young'uns in her kangaroo-like pouch. The Langs rescued them and, being a medical family, saved all six. They were about an inch and a half long and "very ugly." Fed baby formula through an eyedropper, as Mary Ruth Lang is doing above, they are now thriving. When they are large enough, the Langs will donate them to a zoo.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Tugboat Captain Bert Deeley, a witness to the collision of a freighter and gasoline tanker on New York's East River:

Rick Pezdirtz ★ purely paydirt

Mr. Roy Harris is a rawhide, nagging sort of backwoods citizen who'd rather fish than fuss, and it looks like he's gonna argue heavily with Mr. Floyd Patterson over just who wears the heavyweight boxing crown for the whole wide world.

They're still kicking around the idea of not staging the Great August Fist Frolic in Los Angeles, and by the time the ink is dry on this deathless essay, the Big Chance for Mr. Harris may be all down in black-and-white for a Houston or New York arena.

Just how big Roy's chance is, well, sir, that there is a mule of another brand. Outside of his friends and relatives in the deep innards of the Big Thicket, ain't many citizens voting Harris much of a shake against Patterson. But there'll be a whole mess of interest over the fight, wait and see.

First there'll be interest because heavyweight championship fights are almost items of the past, like the dodo bird and parking space.

Nowadays, a gent wins the heavyweight title, then hastily retires to a mountaintop, builds a castle with moat, and sets the dogs on all callers. Especially if they are callers above 175 pounds with bashed nose bones.

Floyd Patterson won his title in July last year, after Rocklike Marciano decided to retire and eat spaghetti for a living. Since then, Patterson has entered combat only once, if you can call his business with Pete Rademacher a combat. It was more like a police action, like refereeing the potato race at the office picnic.

It's A Natural; Harris' Home

Too, interest has been fanned by the many folk legends that have been constructed about Harris and his colorful birthplace, this Cut-and-Shoot thing in East Texas.

In fact, some of the Eastern writers have been so cautious as to remark that no one would have heard of Harris if he'd been from Houston or Dallas or somewhere.

But the stories have set him up as a junior Dan'l Boone, with alligators in the front yard, houn' dogs yapping at his road-work, a boxing bag tied onto a sapling.

And that name, Cut-and-Shoot, it's a brass-bound something. Hollywood never had it so good. Actually, there is no such place such as Cut-and-Shoot. No place you can point a finger at, like a store or postoffice or tabernacle. It's just an area around the Harris dominion. It's down impossible dirt roads. We know this, after visiting Cut-and-Shoot last spring and retiring a backwoods mechanic with our busted axle.

Cut-and-Shoot got its name, so the story goes, for the Saturday night activities in those parts, which consisted mostly of cutting and shooting thou neighbor.

Its exact location is hard to finger, it's 40 miles north of Houston, close to Conroe. The Eastern typewriters eat it this up with thinly-disguised relish. And who can blame them? More interesting than a hilltop castle, moat and whatnot.

Viscusi Has Fat Stable

Another reason for the interest is that Harris is a white fighter. Leave us face it. Managers and promoters are ever in search of white heavyweights. Maybe you won't hear it mentioned openly, but a good white heavyweight, a real contender, is like Fort Knox at the gate. Ask the promoters. They'll tell you, if they're honest about it.

Lou Viscusi (Harris' manager) has another heavyweight in his stable of more promise than Harris. He is a superbly muscled Negro named Cleveland Williams. But it's Harris who is getting most of Viscusi's attention right now.

Of course another of Viscusi's boys, lightweight champ Joe Kenny Lane in July, is not being forgotten. The money he's been bringing in spends good too.

Cooper Favors Floyd

Actually, Roy Harris is an honest campaigner whose chief asset is his toughness. He has a skin of white leather, one that bleaches under blows, but never seems to pain. His jaw seems to be made out of quartz; he takes a punch with unblinking courage and is ever on the offense.

Young Cooper, now stationed in Japan, cast a solid vote for Patterson to whip Harris, should the two ever meet, while home in May. Cooper has traded punches with Patterson too, losing a close decision in the 1952 Olympic tryouts at Kansas City.

Harris is strong. Once he was woefully awkward. We remember him as a raw 14-year-old, climbing through the ropes for his first fight in old Shands Gym in Lufkin, Texas. His eyes were wide and his ribs were boney, his hair unshorn and his feet bare. But he was wonderfully game, just as were a number of shoeless brothers and uncles who fought before him, that night.

Extinct, Like The Dodo

Now, Harris has developed a sort of clumsy grace, if there is such a term. Not tigerish, like Patterson. More like a packhorse on a mountain road, a dogged, effective agility. And Roy has learned to punch with a right hand.

pride and a fierce determination.

That's probably not enough for the likes of Patterson. But it apparently is enough for a heavyweight championship fight. You remember what that is, don't you. Look it up next time you're in a museum. Right over there, next to the dodo bird.

Who's Farrell?...He's Fast

By FRED DOWN
United Press International

Dick Farrell, a 24-year old "Boston strong boy," is the National League's answer to New York Yankee speed king Ryno Duren.

A 6-3, 220-pound "bomber," who National Leaguers say throw every bit as hard as Duren, Farrell is working on his second straight year of spectacular relief work for the Philadelphia Phillies. He compiled a 10-2 record and a 3.39 earned run average last season and so far this year stands 4-2 with an amazing 1.23 ERA.

inning and limited the Cubs to one hit over the last 3 2-3 innings.

Fernandez Triples The Phillies pushed over the winning run in the 10th when Harry Anderson hit into a force play and Chico Fernandez followed with his second triple of the game. The blow dealt Chicago relief ace Don Elston his fifth defeat against six victories, and prevented the Phillies from dropping into the cellar.

The St. Louis Cardinals moved to within 2½ games of first place when they beat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 3-1, and the San Francisco Giants clobbered the Milwaukee Braves, 10-2, in the other National League games. The Kansas City Athletics shredded the Washington Senators, 4-3, in the only American League victory.

The Phillies, who had been scoreless for 23 innings, took a 1-0 lead in the third inning on a double by Anderson and Fernandez' first triple and added two more in the fifth on Stan Lopata's ninth homer. Another run in the sixth made it 4-3 but the Cubs tied the score with three runs in the seventh with the help of an error by Anderson.

Misell Pitches Tight Game Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Misell pitched a three-hitter for the Cardinals who won their fifth straight game and beat the Pirates for the sixth time in succession. The Cardinals scored all their runs in the sixth on three singles, two stolen bases, a walk, two Pittsburgh errors and a passed ball. Ted Kluswehki had two of the hits off Misell, who stands 5-5 for the year.

The Giants unleashed a 13-hit attack, that included a two-run homer by rookie third-baseman Jim Davenport, to hand Bob Rush his third defeat. The Giants broke open the game with a five-run sixth-inning rally after errors by Johnny Logan and Joe Adcock kept them "alive." Al Worthington got credit for his sixth win although Ramon Monzant pitched the last one and a third innings.

Keller Wins A three-run homer by Mike Bridges in the bottom of the fifth paved the way for a 6-3 E. M. Keller victory over One Bull Ranch yesterday.

The win moved Keller one-half game in front of Utility Oil in the Western Little League. Keller and Utility play tonight for first place.

Rickey Goodwin picked up the win for Keller giving up three runs on four hits and striking out eight. Larry Gregory took the loss for Bull giving up six runs on seven hits.

THE EYES OF TEXAS — Roy Harris, right, brought his father, Henry with him when he went to Los Angeles, showing his eagerness to fight heavyweight champ, Floyd Patterson. Between the two of them and a smart manager, Lou Viscusi, they landed an August match.

AT WIMBLEDON

Budge Goes To 3rd Net Round

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI)—Budge Patty, the dapper dandy who won the title here in 1950, was expected to join two Americans in the third round of men's singles in the Wimbledon tennis championships today, but signs pointed to another battering for the U. S. delegation.

Because of the rain, today's program included a hodge-podge of second and third round matches in men's singles and women's doubles.

Going into today's matches only seven Yanks still were "alive" in men's singles, and that number was expected to fall to as low as four or five by nightfall. Only five American women still were competing in women's singles, including defending champion Althea Gibson of New York who faced a third-round match today against Mexican star Tolando Ramirez.

Three other Yanks hoped to move into the third round today in addition to the Patty-Perry winner. But Nick Carter of San Francisco was up against former U. S. junior champion Rod Laver of Australia; Greg Grant of San Marino, Calif., faced Bob Mark, a "second-line" Aussie veteran of international tournaments; and Gardner Mulloy of Denver, Colo., risked his 44-year-old legs against John Hurry of South Africa.

MacKay, who scored a 6-1, 9-7, 6-2 victory Wednesday over Eric Bulmer of Britain, and Green, 7-5, 6-1, 6-4 winner over lesser-known Aussie Bill Kearney, both were idle in singles today although Green was scheduled in doubles.

Bolt's Popped!

EAST NORWICH, N.Y. (UPI)—U.S. Open champion Tommy Bolt was rated the favorite in the $25,000 Pepsi Open golf championship starting today despite the latest storm he's stirred up and the fact that he's all tired out.

Bet On US!

HELSINKI, Finland (UPI)—Harold Connolly of Boston, the world hammer-throwing record-holder, predicted today that the American team would soundly beat the Russians in their track and field meet at Moscow next month.

Cougars Repeat

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass. (UPI)—The University of Houston held its third straight NCAA national golf championship today as the field of 64 teed off in the start of a record-long 144-hole title chase.

Houston, paced by stubby Phil Rodgers, successfully defended for the second time its team crown Wednesday.

Rebels Work

Pampa's American Legion Rebels will workout at 8 p.m. today on the Harvester Park diamond for their opening game of the season at Borger Saturday night.

The Saturday 11-lifter is slated for 8:30 in Huber Park. Coach Deck Wold's crew launches its home season at Harvester Park Sunday, with a 3:30 p.m. game against Perryton's Legionnaires.

Deck hopes to land a Tuesday night game at Borger and his club plays at Perryton July 4, and hosts Pleasant Valley and D&D Pharmacy of Amarillo on successive Sundays, July 6, 13.

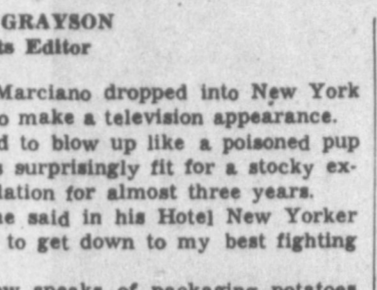

Cooling It

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Both sides in the controversy over the city's contract with the Dodgers for Chavez Ravine today faced a waiting period of a week to 10 days before Superior Judge Arnold Praeger rules on three taxpayer suits.

ROCKY MARCIANO SAYS: Patterson's Still Without Any Worthy Challenger

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) Rocky Marciano dropped into New York for the first time in months... to make a television appearance. For a fellow who was supposed to blow up like a poisoned pup when he quit fighting, The Rock is surprisingly fit for a stocky ex-warrior who has been out of circulation for almost three years.

Rocky Marciano... he rates 'em to make one more good showing, and none of them did unless it was Harris, and he has never been nationally televised and is little known outside of Texas,' he said. 'I know how it was, I was fortunate to have LaStanza, Layne,

Louis, Mathews, Walcott, Charles, Cockell and Moore, and the fact that they kept active helped'. I recall how I was critized when a Florida match with Danny Nardico, a light-heavyweight, and another with Dan Bucceroni at Madison Square Garden were suggested.

It is Marciano's opinion that Patterson is still without a suitable challenger with whom he can get the more important money, yet sees the Brooklyn boy's match with Harris doing well.

"Texans are proud," he stresses, "and they think well of Harris in Houston, should make the trip in droves."

"Willie said the fight was close and that Harris was rough and awkward," the Rock recollects. "Willie said he would beat Harris in a return, but you know how it is, the loser always says he would win in a return."

"From what I have heard, I can't give Harris much chance against Patterson, but those rough and awkward guys can give anybody trouble for five or six rounds."

MARCIANO NOW FILLS ONLY dates that are convenient, or about eight a month, at $700 and $1000 a crack. He referees wrestling matches, speaks, just plain shows up for the Church of Lorenzo. The Rock was en route to Buffalo for the Church of Lorenzo. "I'm doing all the favors I couldn't do when I was in training," he said, "more than 100 of them. I believe I've done a lot of good the last 10 months. Usually there is a business appointment nearby that covers expenses."

City Golfers Reach Showdown Stages

Weekend Finals Set

By RICK PEZDIRTZ
Daily News Sports Editor

They start separating the men from the boys, so to speak, during the next four days as Pampa's City Wide Golf Tournament zooms into the showdown stages.

It took almost three full weeks of preliminary matches to dispose of the bulk of a 104-man field, slamming it out in 11 flights, but the entry list still in the running for titles now stands at only 26, and of that number, another four will be cropped before all flight's finalists will be determined.

There's at least one finalist ready to swing for his flight crown in all but the Championship Flight, where semi-final matches will be unrolled within the next three days.

Two times city champ, Dr. Foster Elder meets young Baylor University golfer, Don Prigmore, while veterans Harry Wilbur and C. F. McGinnis collide for spots in the Championship Flight finals.

Other finalists include: A. L. Leonard vs. Grover Austin Jr. in the First Flight; Bill Ellis vs. winner of James Cantrell-George Thompson match in the Second Flight; Dr. Julian Key vs. Jim Triplehorn, Third Flight; Al Kemp vs. Francis Lackey, Fourth Flight; Gene Hall vs. D. V. Biggers, Fifth Flight; and C. R. Finlayson vs. Jack McCreary, Sixth Flight.

Also, G. C. Shay vs. Melton Grappe, Seventh Flight; Clarence Ward vs. Joe Reid, Eighth Flight; Walter Jung vs. Art Dobbin, Ninth Flight; and Bill Cooper vs. winner of Gene Sidwell-Bob Lincecum match, Tenth Flight.

Match-O-Gram

1st FLIGHT
SEMI-FINALS: A. L. Leonard over Jack Foster, 3-2; Grover Austin Jr. over Scott Hall, 2-1.

2nd FLIGHT
SEMI-FINALS: Bill Ellis over Jeff Bearden, 4-3; James Cantrell vs. George Thompson.

3rd FLIGHT
SEMI-FINALS: Dr. Julian Key over Dr. Frank Kelley, 1-up in 19; Jim Triplehorn over Tom Rose, 2-1.

4th FLIGHT
SEMI-FINALS: Al Kemp over Frank Kemp, 3-2; Francis Lackey vs. Jerry Boston.

5th FLIGHT
SEMI-FINALS: Gene Hall over Bobby Howard, 3-2; D. V. Biggers over D. E. Holt, 2-1.

6th FLIGHT
SEMI-FINALS: C. R. Finlayson over Phil Davis, 1-up; Jack McCreary over Loyd Davies, 2-up.

7th FLIGHT
SEMI-FINALS: G. C. Shay over Gerald Pool, 4-3; Melton Grappe over F. N. Hills, 5-3.

8th FLIGHT
SEMI-FINALS: Clarence Ward over Bill Wright, 4-3; Joe Reid over Loyd Jones, 2-1.

9th FLIGHT
SEMI-FINALS: Walter Jung over Floyd Ulrich, 5-2; Art Dobbin over Bob Triplehorn, 5-2.

10th FLIGHT
SEMI-FINALS: Bill Cooper over James Mullins, 2-1; Bob Lincecum vs. Gene Sidwell.

OUT OF IT — Forrest Hills, displaying top-notch driving form, reached the Seventh Flight semi-finals in the annual City Wide Golf Tournament which winds up with this Sunday. Hills lost to M. A. Grappe, 5 and 3, in the semi's, after ousting W. N. Lane, 2 and 1 in the opening round.

AGAINST CREE

Newsman Shoot For Pony Title

Nothing less than the Pampa Pony League championship will be at stake this evening when manager Jerry Glover, one of the league's top hurriers, ready for mound service, while the Newsmen used their number one pitcher, Robert Woodard, in last night's 9-2 triumph over the Bankers.

Front-runners for almost the entire season, the Newsmen currently boast a one-game lead over Cree with two tilts remaining. The Newsman trampled First National Bank, 9-2, Wednesday night to move into their comfortable position with a 10-3 record.

As an added bonus, the pennant-winning managers automatically have first shot at piloting the Pony League All Star team.

Cree, a club they've won two of three games from, has a 9-4 mark, and would slip into a first place tie with a win in this evening's 5:45 tilt at Pony League Park.

Both outfits have one remaining game next week following this evening's vital fracas, and a Cree win tonight, coupled with two straight Newsman reversals would swing the pennant into the Driller's back yard.

Leftfielder Danny Mathews swung the big bat for the Newsmen in last night's 9-2 victory, smashing out 3 for 5, including a solo homer in the second frame. First-sacker Bobby McCain also had 3 for 5, including a two-bagger, off losing pitcher, George Simmons, who worked the route for the Bankers.

Ingrid Bergman Is Now A Woman Without A Country

By VERNON SCOTT
United Press International
LONDON (UPI)—Ingrid Bergman, once the darling of the world's movie-goers, is a woman without a country living like a gypsy in Europe.
"I have no home," she said wistfully.
"So I live where I work. And fortunately there is work enough to keep me busy."
No longer a popularity girl in her native Sweden, afraid to return to Hollywood, and with bitter memories of Roberto Rossellini in Rome, the statuesque movie star is at loose ends.
Now that her scandal-shot marriage to Rossellini is behind her, Ingrid plans to lead a more normal life with her friends and children.
Apple-cheeked and bursting with energy, she is wasting no time on past mistakes.
"When you are young your career is everything—ambition, wealth, travel and excitement," she smiled. "I have outgrown that part of my life. Now I want to live a bit."
"Yes, Live and work here in Europe," she added. "Hollywood is not a normal place, and it is difficult to raise children there. It has too much of everything—too many parties, too many swimming pools, too many people interested in personal affairs of others."
"In Europe, especially France, there is not so much emphasis in looking through keyholes."
Ingrid says she bears MovieLand

no malice. But she refuses to return to the land of her great movie conquests.
"I can't understand why people ask me when I will go home to Hollywood," she said. "That place is not my home. It never was. I only visited there for 10 years."

Directing Energies

In talking to a friend the other day, we asked if he had any immediate plans for retirement. His comment was colorful and graphic. He said: "I'm going to keep on riding my bicycle until I fall off."

The more we think about it, the more we admire this point of view. Altogether too many folks we know are not thinking in terms of the contribution their skills and talents can make in this world. They are looking to the future with the idea of pulling out. How much more constructive it would be if they were to look to the future with the idea of putting in.

Which brings us to a thought concerning freedom. There is far too much emergency thinking, relating to our lost liberty. The general opinion seems to be that we must save the country sometime between now and the next fiscal year in Congress, or that will be the end of freedom for all time. We have been listening to this kind of talk for at least 20 years. The theory for the argument seems to be about the same as the theory respecting retirement. Let's make a maximum effort now so that in a year or so we can all go back to sleep, pull the rug over our own eyes and relax.

We know, in fact, one very dedicated libertarian who holds that our major purpose in life ought to be to put libertarian efforts out of business. He suggests that if we were successful in our efforts toward regaining liberty, once we have done the job we can dismantle the instrument by which the job was done.

The idea sounds good, but it is the same kind of emergency thinking to which so many subscribe. Inherent is the idea that freedom or liberty is a goal that can be achieved. Once we have attained the goal we can quit.

We would like to submit the idea that freedom is like success. It is not a goal but is a direction to be pursued. One never achieves success in the sense that one can stop making maximum effort. Success, like a sunrise, is a transient condition which must give way with the passing of time. And freedom, in similar vein, must be pursued forever.

Man can never be free in a static sense. He must be free by virtue of his willingness to strive toward freedom. And no matter how far he approaches the ideal, he will always fall short of it, for freedom can never be nailed down and made permanent. Freedom is a living thing and must be sought, defended, and expanded indefinitely.

Therefore, it seems a matter of paramount urgency that all fighters for freedom come to recognize that freedom can never be permanently won in the next election, or in any election, for that matter. It would behoove those who love liberty and reason, honor and the great human qualities of perseverance, integrity and understanding, to re-assess their position with the view to conducting a perpetual effort in the direction of freedom, rather than with a view to making some great effort now so that later on, all effort can cease.

This is in no way intended to mean that we can rest on our oars and let come what may. By refusing to make maximum effort now we can be swept ever further down the stream of socialism. And each mile we drift in the wrong direction is just one added mile to be traveled again when we have corrected our direction facilities.

Let's wake up and realize that all of the great things of life, including life itself, represent a constant, not a temporary challenge. We must be forever up and doing. Like our friend who indicated that he would keep going until he "fell off his bicycle," we should gird up our loins for constant combat.

Let us hear no more talk of dismantling what few agencies are in existence fighting for freedom. Instead, efforts must be made to train and encourage more and more persons so that with each new generation, a further advance toward liberty can be achieved.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES
Inflation
I have been quoting an address made by Robert C. Tyson, chairman of the finance committee of the United States Steel Corp. before the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce.

It would seem to me that any person who wants to gain understanding would give careful thought to what a man of experience like the finance head of United States Steel has to say rather than men like Walter Reuther, who never furnished any jobs, never reduced costs and is a dreamer rather than a producer. Under the heading of "Inflation," Mr. Tyson says:
"Wartime inflation in America—as in other times and places—is characteristic. You can read all about it in the textbooks. You can think of it as a demand-pull type of inflation. It results from government resorting to printing-press money or its more modern equivalent of issuing debt that becomes the basis for the expansion of bank deposits that people use for money. With this new money the government drains the markets of goods to meet its huge wartime demands. The resulting inflation is accepted or endured as part of the process deemed necessary to winning the war. But continuous peacetime inflation is a new thing in America. You cannot read about it in the textbooks. You can think of it as a cost-push inflation. Its fundamental root is the continuing elevation of employment costs resulting from the rise to tremendous political and economic power of industry-wide labor unions."

"More and more people are coming to understand and accept this as a fact, regardless of whether their attitudes be sympathetic or critical. But what people do not so fully understand is that when basic employment costs advance, industry by industry, to a degree greater than the rise in over-all national productivity they cannot help but force all other costs up with them. The direct employment costs of any one business may range from a small part to a very large part of its total cost. But every business must purchase goods and services from others. These purchases in turn reflect the increased employment costs of the suppliers, whose own purchases reflect the increased employment costs of their suppliers in turn, and so on and so on. When all industry is taken on a consolidated basis, employment costs represent over three-quarters of all costs. These costs cannot rise endlessly and judiciously without bringing about cost-covering price increases; and there is your cost-push inflation, as simple as that."

"I suppose at this point I should take one minute to dispose of the propagandized notion that inflation has been due to expanding corporate profits. The facts as collected and published by the United States government show that total corporate profits in 1957 were actually $2 billion less than in 1950. In the same time-span labor income per year increased by over $85 billion. It is not profit inflation, it is wage inflation that has forced prices upward. It is the essence of our new institutionalized cost-push inflation."

"There is a distinctive feature of cost-push inflation that is worth noting. It is that, being a manifestation of power rather than a reflection of economic circumstance, it is quite insensitive to economic forces as we know them. I find this reflected in the records of my own company—as indeed it is reflected in the records of the nation as a whole. Year after year, whether in war or in peace, in good years or bad years, the employment costs per hour inexorably march ever upward. In my own company for over 20 years the average annual increase in employment costs per hour has been the equivalent of about 8 per cent per annum compounded."

"Well, as I noted a moment ago, these matters are gradually coming to be better understood by more and more people, so I need not dwell on them. But I do assure you that they are worthy of your most thoughtful consideration in studying the problem of recession with inflation, for what better guarantee could one have that unemployment would be hastened and prolonged as the great postwar boom fades than that business should be confronted with ever increasing basic costs as it tries to sell into increasingly saturated markets?"

"Gentlemen, I now come to the conclusion of these remarks, and as I do so I confess that I have no specific panacea to offer. But I do have a plea to make. It is that you will each for yourselves seek—as I have here briefly sought with you—to discover and define the process through which new productive jobs come into existence and with them the more and better and newer products and services that make for an ever rising scale of living in our land. Learn, too, the things that can impair that process, as well as the things that must be done to guard and improve it. And then, ever afterwards, let your attitudes, your actions, and your words, public and private, be such as to guard rather than undermine that precious American heritage."

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI)—Philip H. Wilkie, son of the 1940 Republican presidential candidate, of his possible nomination by the GOP for U.S. senator: "I'm not willing to say as of this moment I am a candidate. I'm just on the edge."

Warren Pension Case Is A 'Most Brazen' One

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

LOS ANGELES — There are two overprivileged masses of super-pensioners in this country. They are public officials, starting with the Supreme Court, on one hand, and officials of corporations, on the other. Union racketeers do not fall into either group. They are at home in both.

Neither the public officials nor the corporation officials will squeal on one another. The Houses of Congress will not attack the larcenous graft of corporation executives. The corporation men will not raise outcry against exorbitant pensions of Senators and Congressmen, Judges, Governors and all such trash.

The House and Senate have passed laws, unknown to most citizens, that enable their members to drain their victims' blood as leeches do. The Legislators have made their racket so intricate, interlocking it with state, municipal and even military and naval pension rights of sedentary, clerical, short-term heroes, that a plain explication is beyond the talent of any expert.

The case of Earl Warren, Chief Justice, is one of the most brazen. He is legally entitled to $18,000 a year from the taxpayers of California, as of next Jan. 1, on a theory that an old, discredited politician can't earn a living. Warren is now 67. The pension law for his important incidental benefit was passed, and improved for his special benefit, while he was Governor and boss of a ruthless machine with power of favor and reprisal.

Assuming that a broken-down politician deserves a "social security," Warren, in decency and honor, might have insisted that he should have no more than the legal standards established by the federal, state, social security systems. But his pension of $18,000 a year from California on top of his "salary" of $38,000 a year as Chief Justice is grotesque in proportion to the "social security" of the common man and his wife who pay that pension. His pension alone is almost three times the income of most successful white-collar citizens who create national income. Warren and his kind only devour it. He has been a consumer of income all his life; never a producer. This being the attitude of the Chief Justice and of Congress, the chances of reform are strictly academic.

Vincent Impellitteri, who served a hitch as Mayor of New York, slithered to the bench to round out his tenure and run up a pension of nearly $25,000 a year for life. His account has been padded even by a few paltry dollars for gallant service as a Broadway bluejacket of the naval reserve in the First War. However, Impellitteri can't draw any pension until he retires. Warren can, by virtue of laws passed under his hand as political boss of California. The reasoning that bestows a poor-relief benefit of $18,000 a year on a dignitary drawing $38,000 a year salary clearly implies that a politician in office, probably a hack as most of them are, has a sort of boodler's vested right.

Union officials fix their own pensions, usually in executive meetings. I know of no pension for any union boss that was proposed and approved by the rank and file. In most cases, the rank and file do not even know about their commitments to support their bosses in extravagant vulgarity.

There are many tricks. Jimmy Petrillo may accept a relatively modest "pension" of $20,000 a year from the national organization of his racket. But his wholly-owned Chicago local may continue to pay him $30,000 a year as salary or as additional pension. Or possibly as a drawing account for "public relations" work on behalf of the common man. No public law says this cannot be. And union law says it can and should be. Dan Tobin, of the Teamsters, a disgusting old porker, wrote into his constitution a provision for luxury as lavish as any emperor's.

The Securities Exchange Commission tried about 20 years ago to outlaw a type of fraud that is now almost universal in big business. Executives vote themselves outrageous pensions, even from busted companies that have not paid a dividend for many years and even though the beneficiaries had been employed only a few years at scandalous salaries. These elegant thieves are fleecing the stockholders of both famous and obscure corporations for great pensions on the ground that they cannot take their pay as pay because Uncle Sam would top off the top third or half. It is all right for Sam to pick the bones of the stockholders and the wage-earners.

So Reuther and others muscled in, demanding pensions for the robots who operate drills and presses by pressing red buttons while chewing candy bars. Like the grand executives, they are employees, too. In the end, the stockholder is the only one in big business who has neither a pension nor anybody to fight for him.

General MacArthur has the following vital words to say about income taxes: "The fundamental and vital issue at stake is not merely our money—it is liberty itself. The excessive taxation of an overgrown government versus personal freedom is the issue before us. Our swollen budgets constantly have been misrepresented to the public. Our government has kept us in a perpetual state of fear with the cry of a grave national emergency. The administration must cut spending not only to relieve the burden of the people but to eliminate arming the magistrates with a patronage of money which might be used to corrupt the principal of government. Heavy taxation removes from industry the funds with which to expand and create new jobs for the increasing population."

Admiral Rickover Is Now In Educational Waters

By HENRY McLEMORE

Admiral Rickover, the submarine authority who can't resist sticking his snorkel into almost any subject that begins with a letter of the alphabet, is now diving and surfacing in educational waters.

In a commencement address at Stevens Institute of Technology the Admiral fired a broadside of granting degrees to students of beauty culture, gourmet cookery, trailer park operation, and the like.

"Blge," I say, if only to let the Admiral know that this comes from a man well up on things nautical himself. "Ship Ahoy!" "SOS," "Galley," and "Luff," if he wants further proof.

What's wrong with a degree in the operation of a trailer park, Admiral? If I had a trailer I surely would prefer to park it in a place under the direction of a man with a degree, than, say, one run by an ex-steepjack who had had to retire because of dizzy spells.

Running a trailer park could, I imagine, be about as difficult as running an atomic submarine. Just imagine people from all 48 states parked alongside one another, arguing about space for their awnings, deck chairs, garbage pails, more hot water, and goodness knows what.

The Admiral should remember, too, that not all of us have sense enough to get technical degrees, which is probably what he thinks we all should have. I could go to M.I.T. long enough to wear out three deaks and six presidents without ever really mastering the technique of changing a blown-out fender or repairing a pair of scissors.

Much better, I say, that I got my degree in cymbal-clashing, which I did, than to have spent half my life in Massachusetts learning how to make electricity.

Gourmet cooking is another subject which the Admiral thinks it ridiculous to major. I would like to remind the Admiral that if everyone in the world today was sure of three, well-cooked meals

The Nation's Press

GENEROUS CONGRESS

(Chicago Tribune)
The merry-go-round of wage and price increases has stopped for a moment to take on new passengers. Congress has approved military pay increases costing 668 million dollars a year. The postal workers got a boost amounting to 265 million dollars annually. The House has voted a 10 per cent raise for a million more government employees, which is expected to cost 542 million dollars a year.

All the raises together will add nearly 1½ billion dollars to the expenses of the federal government. By contributing to future deficits they will cause further price inflation, which will cause the unions to demand higher wages, which will cause further increases in the cost of living, which will cause government employees to clamor for further pay increases. And so on.

President Eisenhower, in his state of the Union message last January, spoke of the extra effort which the nation must make for security purposes and said "we must apply stern tests of priority to other expenditures, both military and civilian." His recent New York speech on the economic situation warned business and labor against making wage and price decisions that mean "another dismal sequence of ever rising costs and prices."

The government itself ought to start following this sound advice. Government pay boosts raise taxes, a business expense just like the cost of labor or materials.

Instead of applying "stern tests of priority," as the President recommended, Congress seems ready to accept every spending scheme as a measure to combat the recession. The House committee which recommended the 10 per cent raises for federal employees proclaimed that the legislation "should tend to have a valuable influence in the efforts to arrest the decline in the national economy."

Government at all levels should pay wages high enough to attract competent employees. It should increase wages when necessary to retain complete employees. Raising wages to stimulate the economy is simply wasting the taxpayers' money.

The Doctor Says

By EDGAR P. JORDAN, M. D.

The white blood cells play an important part in the resistance of the body to infection and possibly in other functions.

Their increase in number in the presence of many kinds of infections. Usually there are about 7,500 white blood cells in each cubic millimeter of blood (as compared with about five million red cells).

Because there are so many more red cells, the white cells can be counted satisfactorily only when the red cells have been destroyed by a special solution.

The count of the number of white cells is made by taking a measured quantity of blood and putting it into a solution which dissolves the red cells. After mixing, some of the solution is placed between two glass slides which have markings that can be seen under the microscope.

The distance between the glass slides is known. Thus the white cells can be counted under the microscope and the calculation of the number of per cubic millimeter of blood made by simple arithmetic.

This white blood count is an important test in studying the blood. For example, the white blood count is almost always higher than normal in acute appendicitis. The number of white cells is also increased in many infections, so that it is not a test for any one disease, but rather a reflection of some infection or disorder of the body.

Mrs. R. E. has recently asked what causes the white cells to drop in number and stay that way.

The general name for such a situation is leukopenia. It commonly results from some poisons or drugs. It can be serious if the patient is attacked by an infection because there may not be enough white blood cells left to fight the disease germs.

In addition, there is a specific disease called agranulocytosis. This is characterized by lessening in the number of leukocytes, or white cells, and is accompanied by ulcerations in the mucous membranes and elsewhere.

A person who acquires agranulocytosis is usually quite ill, has a high fever, sore throat and headache. This is a serious disease and active treatment of it with all measures available is in order. Unfortunately, however, its exact cause is still not clearly understood.

In general, the leukocytes, or white blood cells, must be considered important to the functioning of the human body. Counting them is an important aid in diagnosing diseases. This test is therefore done for almost everyone who goes to a hospital or a doctor's office.

BUILDING A NEW AGE—Photograph above shows the 45-million-dollar Dresden nuclear electric power station, the nation's largest currently under construction, near Lorenzo, Ill., about 50 miles south of Chicago. Expected to go into operation in 1960, the plant will generate enough electricity for a city of 250,000 persons. Sixty tons of uranium will keep it going for six years. A conventional power station the same size would burn more than three million tons of coal in that time. Sphere at right, 190 feet in diameter and 14 stories high, will house a 285-ton nuclear reactor, now being built in Camden, N.J. It will be transported to the Dresden site via the Atlantic Ocean, Gulf of Mexico and Mississippi River.

3 Asian Countries Have Growing Pains

By CHARLES M. MCCANN
UPI Foreign News Analyst
Three neighboring east Asian countries, free for 10 years, are still suffering from acute growing pains.
In Indonesia, full-scale rebellions at the western and eastern ends of the long island chain are deteriorating into guerrilla warfare which threatens to last for months if not years.
In Ceylon, it is reported that up to 400 or 500 persons have been killed in riots between the island's 7 million Sinhalese and its 2 million Tamils over the adoption of an official language.

In Burma, the dominant Anti-Fascist People's Freedom League Party has split wide open in a dispute over Premier U Nu's policies.
A meeting of the party's Supreme Council has voted to throw Nu out of its membership. The situation is so serious that government officials express fear it may explode in a civil war.
The trouble in Indonesia and Ceylon stem from jealousies and rivalries between sections of the people over the preferential treatment which, dissidents say, the governments give parts of the country.

Rebellions Chronic
The Indonesian and Burmese governments have been harassed by chronic or recurrent rebellions, little publicized but serious, which have persisted ever since the countries attained independence.
From the time when Indonesia won its freedom from the Netherlands on Dec. 28, 1949, the people of Sumatra and Celebes have accused the government of showing extreme partiality toward Java, the main island and seat of the government at Jakarta.
Sumatra, rich in oil and other products, accuses the government of siphoning off the profits from its exports and using them for the benefit of Java alone.

It is also a source of bitter complaint that the federal system adopted after independence, by which the main islands were to be given a considerable measure of self-rule, has been abolished in favor of a "unified" central government. The central government, it is complained, is actually a dictatorship.
Rioting broke out in Ceylon last month between the Tamils and the Sinhalese over the language issue. The Tamils want their language formally recognized as on a par with Sinhalese, the official language. The dominant Sinhalese want the Tamil language suppressed.

State Of Emergency Declared
Mobs surged through cities all over the island, looting, burning and rioting. A national state of emergency was proclaimed. Troops fired on rioters.
The rioting has subsided, but the state of emergency remains, along with a curfew, and the language dispute is no nearer a solution than it was when Ceylon won its independence Feb. 4, 1948.

Burma has been plagued ever since it became independent Jan. 4, 1948, by a Communist guerrilla army which holds part of the provinces.
Political dissension in the dominant AFPFL party erupted early this month. Former Deputy Premiers U Ba Swe and U Kyaw Nyein, both members of the party, accused Premier Nu of various crimes and misdemeanors, including cooperation with the Communist Party in parliament.
Nu won out against a vote of confidence in parliament on June 9. The vote was 127 to 119 for Nu. But he won only because the 28 Communist members supported him, and this embittered the opposition.

Slow Recovery From Recession Expected

By ROBERT G. SHORTAL
United Press International
NEW YORK (UPI)—Most top economists feel the nation has hit the bottom of the recession but they look for a slow recovery to full production and employment, a United Press International survey showed today.

Of 12 top economists polled, 7 said the recession has bottomed out, 4 said the decline will go still deeper and 1 said he was not sure.
Almost all the economists agreed the prospects were dim for a sharp recovery such as followed the recessions of 1949 and 1954.

Generally, they felt the near-term outlook is cloudy, the medium-term outlook is fair and the long-term outlook is rosy.

They agreed that inflation will continue to be a problem in years ahead, but none felt the nation was on the verge of a runaway price spiral. All opposed federal controls over wages and prices as an anti-inflation measure.

Ask Lower Tax Rate.
The economists opposed by a 10-2 vote a general across-the-board tax cut at this time, but most said there is a pressing need to reform the tax structure.
Gordon W. McKinley, chief economist for the Prudential Insurance Co. of America, said he favored a general tax cut now as a means of speeding the recovery. He said the delay so far in reducing taxes "has verged on the farcical."
He predicted that a tax cut would return the economy to "normal, prosperous output by the end of this year."

A number of the economists said tax rates on corporate and personal incomes should be lowered, especially on the higher income brackets, to spur capital formation and investment. Many felt excise taxes imposed as emergency measures in wartime should be repealed.
Almost half the economists expressed the opinion that the government moved too slowly last fall when the recession began or came up with too little, too late lead with the queen.

At this point East had an excellent opportunity to chuck the hand to South. All he had to do would be to lead a diamond. South could play the eight and West's queen would be forced out.
East was well aware of this danger. He knew that his partner might have been strapped for a lead and East decided to check the heart suit first. He placed the ace of hearts on the table and West came through with the best signal he could afford: the six.
This was enough signal for East. He continued with the heart suit and declarer had no way left to avoid the loss of two more tricks and his contract.

Opening lead—♦2

West had no satisfactory opening lead and finally selected the deuce of diamonds. The three of hearts would have been a happier choice but West could not be sure. Dummy's jack lost to East's king and the six spotted out the ace. South had nothing better to do than play clubs and hope for the best. He cashed dummy's ace and king and a third lead cleared up the suit and left East in the the recession in part on excessive wage increases which helped price products out of reach of the consuming public.

Yale Brozen, professor of economics at the University of Chicago, said flatly the "chief cause of the downturn was a rise in real wage rates in the last two years greater than the rise in productivity."

He said the economy is suffering not from excess capacity, but from "excessive prices, including the price of labor." If wage rates and prices were reduced, he added, "we would find ourselves short of capacity with the sales increase that would then occur."

Neil Carothers, dean emeritus of Lehigh University, said the effects of forced wage increases on the basic industries of the nation are "ruinous" and create an inflationary wage-price spiral.
The economists polled by UPI, in addition to McKinley, Soule, Jacoby, Brozen and Carothers, were: A.W. Zelomek, visiting professor of economics at the University of Virginia's graduate school of business; John E. Kane, professor of finance at Arkansas University; Douglas E. Bellemore, research director at Tucker, Anthony & R.L. Day; Roy L. Reier-son, vice president of Bankers Trust Co.; George Cline Smith, vice president and economist of F.W. Dodge Corp.; Abraham L. Gitlow, associate professor of economics at New York University and Ira T. Ellis, economist for E.I. du Pont de Nemours & Co.

Guide To Good Buys In Food

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Most cheering news for food shoppers this weekend is increasing supplies of fruits and summer vegetables.
Watermelons, strawberries, cantaloupes and peaches are in abundant supply and prices favor the family budget. Vegetables in excellent supply and bearing reasonable prices include tomatoes, corn, cabbage, potatoes, lettuce, onions, mustard and turnip greens, peppers, and celery.
Many meat counters across the country will feature chuck, rib, and round roasts, chuck steaks, ground beef, and smoked hams. Veal will bear favorable prices at some markets, and fryers and broilers continue abundant and economical. Other protein foods include dairy products, and always-popular eggs and cheese.

In fish, best buys are canned tuna, fishsticks, and shrimp.

There are between 2,500 and 5,000 languages and dialects in the world, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.
