We're Growing Fast! City Population Almost 27,000

Pampa's population is fast approaching the 27,000 mark and has jumped about 1,700 from one year ago, figures released Tuesday by City Assessor Audrey Jones showed.

The estimated population is now 26,720. One year ago the population was set at 25,000.

Part of the gain is attributed to 861 births recorded the past year in Pampa hospitals. In 1958 there were 166 deaths in Pampa for a net gain of 695.

The births and death figures, Jones said, includes those recorded in city limits, irrespective of usual residence — White Deer, Lefors, etc. The net gain however is considered a good indicator of the actual Pampa figure.

Other vital statistics show that of the 861 births here in 1958, 34 were non-whites, 827 were "whites," and a total of 450 males and 412 females.

Of 166 deaths in Pampa last year, 196 were males, 60 were females. In 1957 there were 199 deaths.

The Chamber of Commerce also reported the Pampa scholastic population is now 6,100 — 750 more than one year ago. Pampa also now has 7,665 water meters, 7,399 gas meters, 8,603 light meters, 8,603 light meters, and 11,501 telephones.

All of those figures show an increase over 1957.

CANCER FIGHTERS

Mrs. J. Eddie Jones, Public Education Committee Chairman of the Dallam-Hartley County American Cancer Society Unit, left, appears with principal figures of a District Cancer meeting held Tuesday in Pampa. To her right are Charles K. Alexander, vice president of the Lubbock County Unit; Dr. J. B. Roberts, chairman of the department of education, West Texas State College, Canyon; and Mrs. Jack Foster, a District director from Pampa.

PHYSICAL EXAMS, ONLY SALVATION

By WALLY TRUESDELL
Daily News Staff Writer

"Wouldn't it be wonderful if the American Cancer Society could go out of business?" Mrs. J. Eddie Jones said at a District luncheon Tuesday in the Pampa Junior High School Cafeteria. Mrs. Jones is Public Relations Committee chairman for the Dallam-Hartley County ACS unit.

The luncheon ended the annual meeting of District 3-North, attended by 30 people from the North Panhandle. The next District meeting will be held in October to avoid the possibility of inclement weather.

The morning session began at 9:30 with Dr. J. B. Roberts, chairman of the West Texas State College Department of Education, presiding. Rev. Jon Jones, minister of the Mary Ellen at Harvester Church of Christ, gave the invocation, and Cameron M. F. H. president of the Gray County Unit, welcomed delegates to Pampa.

Charles K. Alexander, vice president of the Lubbock County Unit, spoke on "You're Tossing a Crusade." He also led a discussion group on special gifts. Marvin Lillard, Amarillo, conducted a business and industry discussion and Mrs. R. E. McKernan, treasurer of the Gray County Unit, headed a workshop on house to house solicitation.

At the luncheon, Mrs. Jack Foster, Pampa, presided calling for an invocation from the Rev. Jones.

Burglars Hit 2 Firms Here

Burglars in two separate break-ins Tuesday night took four candy bars and a bag of groceries from two Pampa business establishments.

Police Chief Jim Conner reported this morning one of the burglaries was observed from start to finish by a Pampa woman whose suspicions were aroused too late for police to make an arrest.

The burglary was at Ward's Super Market, 600 E. Frederic. The woman, watching from home, said that shortly after 10 Tuesday night she saw two men kick in the store's front door.

Hearing sounds from the store her suspicions became aroused and she called police at 10:29. At 10:30 a police car was on the scene, but moments too late to apprehend the burglars who beat a hasty retreat up an alley.

The only reported loss was a grocery bag full of groceries.

Local Man Dies In Station Here

Robert Earl Thomas, 62-year-old employee of Pampa's division of Cabot-Franks, died this morning apparently of a heart attack at a Pampa service station.

Thomas, taken by ambulance to Highland General hospital, was pronounced dead on arrival.

The Pampa man slumped to the floor of a Texaco station at 420 W. Brown at about 7:20 this morning. Attendant Lee Brown told police officers Thomas had gone into the station to "warm up."

Mr. Thomas, who lived at 449 Beryl, had driven in and a blacked Brown for 10 gallons of gas. He said he felt cold and went inside the station where moments later he suffered the fatal attack.

Thomas, originally from Tulsa, Okla., had lived in Pampa the last two years. Survivors include two daughters and one son.

Mothers Slate March On Polio

Pampa, Lefors and McLean will hold their respective Mothers' Marches next Monday evening, January 26, it was announced today by E. Roy Smith, Gray County MOD chairman.

The Lefors march has as its chairman Mrs. Bernard Johnson. Mrs. Irma Hestir heads the McLean drive and Mrs. R. A. Mack is the Pampa chairman.

The Pampa drive will take place between 7:00 and 8:00 p.m. and the town has been divided into six districts with captains for each district.

"Working through the city PTAs, the following women will head the drive out of their school," Baker, Mrs. Warren Jackson; Carter, Mrs. Christine Dixon; Horace, Mrs. Mann; Tom Brooks; Lamar, Mrs. K. H. Cambern; Sam Houston, Mrs. Kirk Duncan; Stephen F. Austin, Mrs. George Snell; Woodrow Wilson, Mrs. E. A. McLeilan; Mrs. James Lewis and Mrs. B. E. Tidwell are co-chairmen. Mrs. Roberts Reddell and Mrs. Harry Gordon will be in charge of refreshments.

Each captain will have block lieutenants, with each block and house in the town being visited in that one hour. Mrs. Bob Andis and Mrs. J. H. Trotter will assume responsibility for the distribution of supplies for the captains.

There will be two types of containers for the march, one will be a canister and one will be a collection envelope with a mother's banner on it. There will also be receipts for those wishing to use them. Each mother will be using a mother's march banner on her arm.

DIES IN HOLLYWOOD

Filmdom Will Miss Its Giant: Cecil B. DeMille

BY VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Cecil B. DeMille, pioneer movie maker and producer of many of the town's great epics, died of heart seizure at his home this morning after a week's illness. He was 77. "He died almost in his sleep," a friend said.

At his side when he succumbed were his daughter, Cecelia, son-in-law Joseph Harper and his physician, Dr. Hans Schiff.

Producer of "The Ten Commandments," and scores of other movies, DeMille was bedded last week following a heart condition and circulation problems, according to Schiff. "It was a case of true heart failure," he said. "It just gave up."

Wife Not Told
DeMille had been in delicate health since his return Dec. 23

from a two-week tour to New Orleans, Atlanta and New York, plugging his company's most recent picture, "The Buccaneer," which was directed by another son-in-law, Anthony Quinn.

His widow, Constance, who was considerably older than her husband, was ill and in bed at 9:30 a.m. when DeMille died.

Members of the family said they would seek her doctor's advice before telling Mrs. DeMille of her husband's passing. They were married 66 years.

"We're afraid to tell her because she is so old," a friend said. "It might cause another tragedy."

The movie Titan died in a bedroom of his 13-room mansion on DeMille Drive, a few blocks from Griffith Park in the Los Feliz section of Los Angeles. The huge Mediterranean-type home commands a view of the sprawling city he helped make famous. He had lived in the home for more than 40 years.

City Traffic Stalled; Some Rural Areas Are Isolated

CHICAGO (UPI)—The biggest blizzard of the season slammed out of the plains into the Midwest, stalling traffic in big cities under a five-to-12-inch snow cover and isolating some rural areas.

Wind gusts as high as 50 to 65 miles an hour whipped the snow into deep drifts in the blizzard belt ranging from northeast New Mexico across the plains into Michigan.

A finger of snow stretched into New England during the night, and weathermen warned of hazardous driving conditions today in Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont as the storm pushes northeastward.

Severe thunderstorms raked the South Tuesday night and today, while a band of freezing rain and sleet slicked highways between the springlike weather in the South and the wintry storm in the North.

The blizzard took a mounting toll of lives, many on highways glazed with ice or packed snow. There were three weather-caused traffic deaths in Indiana, two each in Illinois, New Mexico and Iowa, and one each in Kansas and Oklahoma for a total of 11.

Pampa Man Wants To Get Your Goat!

"I need a goat," J. C. Roberts exclaimed today.

Though he didn't give any details, Roberts explained that he is the March of Dimes' official Keeper of the Goat and this job necessitates an honest-to-goodness live goat, preferably not over two feet high.

So if you have a goat grazing in your back yard that you think will fill the bill, contact J. C. Roberts at MO 9-9442 or MO 9-9447.

As Roberts put it in summing up his case: "Please, someone, I need to get your goat!"

Cars Collide

Two cars collided Tuesday afternoon at the intersection of N. Gray and W. Browning.

The mishap at 5:20 a.m. involved a 1957 sedan driven by Shirley S. Ellison, 1225 Coffee, and a 1949 coach driven by Arthur R. Shupp, 410 Crest. Shupp was tagged for failure to yield the right of way. Damages totaled $350.

ToT BOARD APPROVES HOME FOR AGED PLANS

Dr. M. C. Overton Jr. reported on plans for the proposed Barrett Memorial Convalescent Home at a meeting of the Top O' Texas Foundation board Tuesday in President Arthur Teed's office. Dr. Overton chairs the Foundation's planning committee.

The plans were accepted and are being activated, according to Mrs. Jack Foster, a board

School Construction Contracts Are Let

Contracts totalling $624,440 were let Tuesday night for the construction, wiring and plumbing of a new elementary school and an addition to Pampa Senior High School. Twenty local and out of town contractors converged on the City Commission Room at 7:30 p.m. to place their bids before the Pampa School Board.

The C. S. Lambie Construction Company of Amarillo won out against six competitors for a $192,570 contract on general construction. Lambie will build both an 18 classroom plus elementary school and a two story, 17 classroom addition to Pampa High School.

A $70,500 mechanical contract went to the Reynolds Plumbing and Piping Company of Amarillo for the elementary school's plumbing. The High School plumbing contract, worth $78,746, was awarded to the L. H. Sullins Company of Pampa. Eight plumbing concerns were in the running.

An electrical contract, covering both projects, went to the Electric Supply Company of Pampa on a bid of $12,621. Representatives from five electric companies were present.

The contractors will begin work "right away," Knowlton, superintendent of Pampa Public Schools, said today. Work will start as soon as supplies can be rounded up and the weather changes.

The new elementary school will be built on the same plans as the Stephen F. Austin School, with 18 classrooms, a cafeteria and a gymnasium combination. It will be built on land owned in the North Crest Addition.

The High School addition is planned to stretch facilities to accommodate 1,500 students. The present enrollment is 983.

The architect for both projects is B. R. Cantrell and Company, Inc. of Pampa.

These projects are the first of five improvements in the Pampa Independent School District authorized in a $1,250,000 school bond election Dec. 6.

Future developments will be an addition to B. M. Baser, Elementary School, work on Pampa Junior High School and the construction of a metal shop and vocational agriculture shop at Pampa High School. The School Board also plans to purchase two sites for future expansion and by the present site of Pampa Junior High School from M. K. Brown.

Drifts Choke Roads

Near hurricane winds ripped the southern plains of Texas Tuesday night, and sleet pounded central and north Texas. About six inches of snow blanketed portions of the Texas Panhandle, where DeMille, frequently referred to as a giant among the giants of Hollywood, was born Aug. 12, 1881, at Ashfield, Miss. His parents, Mathilda Beatrice Samuel and Henry Churchill DeMille, had of the storm - three-foot drifts

AILING REBEL

A lung specialist examined ailing Fidel Castro in Havana and barred all visitors. Castro's secretary said the rebel leader had a touch of pneumonia and was running a high fever. He has been ill for almost a week. However, he is expected to be on his feet for a mass rally by some half million supporters.

Reports from Oriente Province, where Castro launched his revolution, say farmers there had a saying about Soza: "Que pasa cuando Soza pasa? (What happens when Soza passes?) — cruelty and slaughter."

Maj. Miguel Duque de Estrada, rebel legal officer for Havana Province, said the start-of the trials here was delayed to give the authorities time to interrogate 600 farmers from the Oriente hills who will testify.

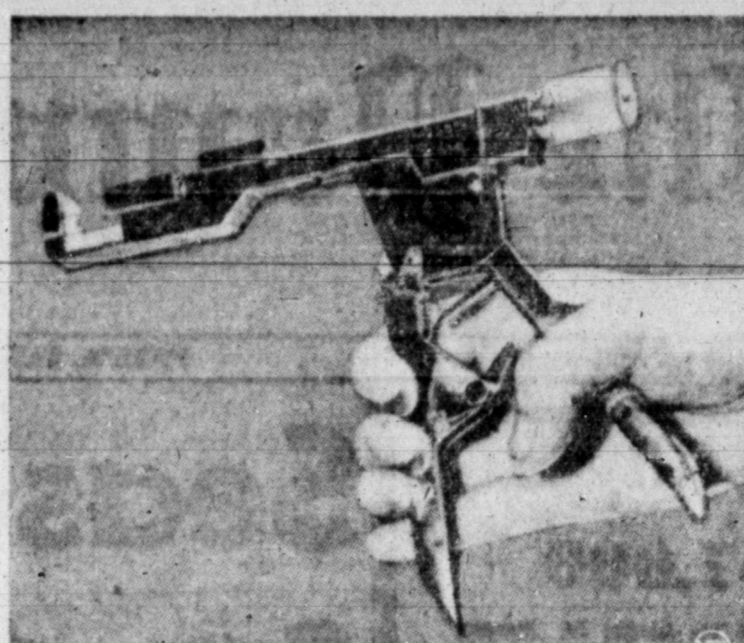

Story Of Ingrid Bergman Is The Story Of Our Times

INGRID BERGMAN stars. United Press International. The private life of actress Ingrid Bergman has been filled with as much drama, conflict, romance and sensationalism as any of her scores of motion pictures. At 41, the tall Swedish beauty has twice risen to the pinnacle of success as a screen star. She has won two Academy Awards and now demands — and gets — $350,000 for a single starring role. She has been married three times, borne four children. She has been damned by American clubwomen because she bore Roberto Rossellini a child while she was still married to Dr. Peter Lindstrom, praised by movie-fans throughout the world because she dared flourish convention — and happens to be a good actress. Ingrid Bergman, born Aug. 28, 1917, was orphaned at 12. She was brought up by an uncle who thought acting was sinful, but by 1919, a month before she divorced the time she was 17, she was considered one of Sweden's greatest her freedom was high. A promise not to see her daughter Pia again. It was not until 18 months ago that Pia — now called Jenny — was reunited with her mother. Ban Bergman Films "Stromboli" and other Bergman films were banned in many American cities and the actress was condemned as an evil woman by many women's clubs and religious groups. After the birth of their twin daughters Ingrid and Isabella, the Rossellinis drifted apart. Rossellini was reported having an affair with a married Indian actress and Miss Bergman went to Paris and London to make "Anastasia," which won her a second Academy Award two years ago. Last summer she began seeing a millionaire Swedish theatrical producer named Lars Schmidt, and on Dec. 23, 1938, after Rossellini obtained an annulment of his marriage, Schmidt and Miss Bergman were married. Now she and her former husband have entered, counter-suit for custody of Roberto, Ingrid and Isabella.

Bardot Fears U. S. Males

(EDITORS NOTE: American wives who've wondered how their husbands would behave with Brigitte Bardot need have no worry — BB is afraid of American men. In the following exclusive interview with United Press International Correspondent Robert Ahier, she tells why.) By ROBERT AHIER United Press International. PARIS (UPI) — Brigitte Bardot came out with a startling admission today: American men frighten her. "So much so, in fact, that she doesn't want to go to the United States and meet them. She said in an exclusive interview that Frenchmen, despite their reputations, are easier to handle. "I would love to visit the States as a private tourist with nobody showing me up," she said. "I'm sure I would love it and I would have a lot of fun. But to go as a movie star and be snowed-off like the Statue of Liberty — never!" "I don't like that sort of thing and in any case I'm afraid of American men." This was a startling admission coming from the girl whose naughty adventures on the screen have won her world-wide fame as the "sex-kitten." Naturally Miss Bardot was asked why. "Every week I get some 200 fanmail letters," she said, the famous "pout" much in evidence. "About half of them are from Americans, proposing marriage or simply offering to take care of me. "Imagine going to the States and meeting all those people. I'd never be able to keep them off." Brigitte talked on the set of her latest movie, in which she switches from sex to smiles to play the frothy comedy role of a girl soldier in the wartime French army. "I'm not going to get undressed in this picture," she said firmly. "Anyone can come to see it — even the children." "Don't think that I have given you sexy parts. I'll play some more. But I have to feel in the mood, and right now I want to show people that there is another side to BB." "Just as soon as we can find some time and a quiet place, we are going to get married," she said. "We want the ceremony to be a private affair." Miss Bardot also scotched rumors that her engagement to guitarist Sacha Distel was on the rocks. Left Bank gossip has had them drifting apart for some

New Valentines Apt To Be Objectionable

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK United Press International. NEW YORK (UPI) — The new crop of valentines, more nasty than ever, is bound to draw snarls — meaning a snarl and a smirk. That is — if you're a thinking woman. Some cards are liable to draw complaints from the mailman. The ones 18 inches long and seven inches wide. One might draw blood if opened for postal inspection. Contains a mouse-trap. The postmaster himself may grunt about the many cards that urge him to cancel the stamp by hand. These are sentimental in a sticky sort of way. Candy's inside. Typical of the nasty-nice productions is a card with "Mona Lisa's" much-debated portrait on the front. "Me, be your valentine?" No Nasty-Nice For Teachers The answer inside: "Don't make me laugh. You can get a nasty-nice card for almost anyone. Teachers excepted. Cupid's ghost writers apparently decided it would upset the applicant to tell teacher to "drop dead" if she has ideas about being your child's valentine. Teachers this year are "swell" according to the nameless poets who dream up the heart-tickers. But for a child unsure of the sen-

Reds Ready For Mars Rocket Trip

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Dr. Werner von Braun believes the Russians could send a rocket to Mars this year but doubts that the United States could. The rocket scientist, speaking at the 40th annual convention of the Associated Contractors of America Monday, urged that the U.S. missile program be stepped up. "We may find ourselves surrounded by several planets flying the hammer and sickle flag" unless our program is speeded up, he said. The recent Soviet hunk rocket demonstrated the Russians have the capability of sending a one-way rocket to Mars right now, he added. Von Braun predicted that within five years a manned rocket ship will circle the moon and return to earth, and in 10 years the first man will land on the moon.

Ike's Budget No Political Football

By MERRIMAN SMITH
UPI White House Reporter
WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Eisenhower said today that Democratic congressional critics of his 77-billion-dollar balanced budget were suffering from what he called budgetary schizophrenia. He said they were on all sides of the budget.
The President made it plain he would not have any part of making his budget a political football. He told his news conference that the Democratic attacks on his budget came from so many different angles that he could not escape the conclusion that his opponents were suffering from budgetary schizophrenia.
(Webster's New International Dictionary defines schizophrenia as "a type of psychosis characterized by loss of contact with the environment and by disintegration of the personality. It includes dementia praecox and some related forms of insanity.")
Eisenhower firmly rejected the idea, as voiced Tuesday night by Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson, that his budget was politically motivated and invalid.
Despite Economic Controls
The President also provided these other news highlights:
—The Navy Department and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare are looking into the possibility of providing public school education for at least some of the more than 5,000 children of armed forces personnel in Norfolk, Va., where the schools are closed in an effort to prevent court-ordered integration.
—In response to a question, Eisenhower said he would like to see repealed the constitutional amendment limiting presidents to two terms. This would not apply to him, but he said he thought Americans should have the right to choose whom they please for the presidency.
—He said he despised the prospect of economic controls to combat inflation, but that if the American people did not exercise discipline and a mounting inflation resulted, something would have to be done. He said, however, he had no specific controls in mind.
—He reported being assured Tuesday night by one of the most important Senate Democrats that Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan was told forcefully on Capitol Hill that there was no division between Congress and the executive branch in the field of over-all foreign policy.
—As aftermath of the Mikoyan visit, he said the United States stood ready to explore any proposal at any time if it advanced the cause of peace. But he said this country would not accept without question a proposal by the Kremlin simply because Russian leaders insisted it was the only avenue to peace.

—He expressed the opinion that a federal conciliation agency proposed by Senator Johnson to help solve civil rights disputes would not be fruitful at present as a new division of government. But he added that his mind was not closed on this matter.
—In dealing with legislation passed by a heavily Democratic Congress, he said he would not hesitate to veto a bill he regarded as bad for the nation in its overall effect. He said he would do his best to approve all legislation which, in his opinion, advanced the welfare of the nation.

Cass Revealed As Very Gifted Artist

By TRACY CARY
Richard Cass, South Carolina born pianist, soared to musical heights Tuesday night when he played a Pampa Community Concert.
In a brilliant performance of the masters, classic and modern, Cass proved himself an interpreter of searching sensitivity and imaginative freedom, revealing the profoundly gifted artist.
In a program of wide ranging technique and style, Cass brought together works of different epochs which are of the same class, of the same sentiment and of the same spiritual family.
One had only to hear him reproduce the sonorous tone of the organ in the opening Bach prelude and Fugue in A Minor to know an artist of true feeling and sound training was at work. This work, an early one from Bach's miscellaneous writings, contrasted sharply and sustained pedal point in the Prelude to the crisp brilliancy and precision of the "Prelude in C" Major. Here the theme starts alone after which the other enters into pursuit with much contrasting imitation ending on a major note called the "picardy" third.
Next came the Sonata in D Major by Mozart with a light staccato melody, peppered with left hand drum rolls and broken chords. Chopin is reported to have murmured on his death bed, "Play Mozart in memory of me and I will hear you."

Before playing the languorously beautiful "Barcarolle" by Chopin, Cass gave a brief explanation of the Barcarolle; his personal favorite.
The highlight of the program was Brahms' Variations on a theme of Paganini. These 14 variations wove a pyrotechnical display of thunderous chords, rapid octave passages and complex rhythms.
The artist concluded with two works by Ravel, "Ondine" and the Minuet and Toccata in which he displayed a command of power and speed, exploiting the resources of the keyboard. Chopin's "Aeolian Harp Etude" served as encore.

planned for him to be born at the family home at Washington, N.C., but DeMille arrived early while his mother was vacationing in the Berkshires.
The family name was spelled De Mil when its first member arrived in the new world from Holland in 1638. DeMille's mother was born in England. DeMille's middle name was Blount after a paternal grandmother.
DeMille, often praised for his epic-type films based on the Bible such as "The Ten Commandments" (1923) and "The Sign of the Cross" (1932) and "Samson and Delilah" (1949), was influenced greatly by his father, a playwright. He was a lay reader, and it was a nightly custom for the DeMille boys—Cecil and his older brother, William—and their father to read aloud two chapters of the Bible plus a chapter on American, English or French history.
"One of the most important values and one I would like to see stressed to the American people is the reading and understanding of the Bible," he once said. "I think that if this were done regularly in American homes, the prisons and reform schools wouldn't be quite so full—the nation and the whole human race would benefit."
DeMille was exposed to show business when stock companies began to spring up in the East. There was a demand for plays written by David Belasco and his father in partnership, and soon his mother wound up with the DeMille play company.

A tornado funnel cloud dipped to the ground near Vicksburg, Miss., late Tuesday, but did no damage. Violent thunderstorms crackled across parts of Arkansas, Mississippi and Tennessee.
The storm swirled into Chicago during the rush hour Tuesday afternoon, dumping amounts ranging from a few inches to more than a foot in southern suburbs. At one time Tuesday night more than 150 cars were abandoned on Chicago's Outer Drive.
South Bend Hit Again
About 750 snow plows and sand-spreaders and 1,000 men battled through the night to keep Chicago's main streets open for the morning rush. Most roads in the city and suburbs were open but extremely dangerous.
Another foot of snow hit the South Bend area in Indiana, buried under a 19-inch fall only last weekend. All public and parochial schools in the South Bend, Mishawaka areas were closed today as well as some schools in adjoining areas of southern Michigan.
Army and Marine reservists pushed through the drifts near South Bend Tuesday night with five-ton trucks to deliver emergency food supplies to an isolated family with 13 children.
Weathermen warned of continued heavy snow today from northeast Kansas through Iowa and into the Great Lakes region. Cold wave warnings were issued for southeast Colorado east through Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri and Arkansas.

Emotional Stability Is Vital Factor In Obesity Often Overlooked In Reducing

For some, overeating is an outlet for strong feelings.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Here's the fourth of a six-part no-nonsense diet series prepared by NEA's Food and Markets Editor with the active cooperation of the American Dietetic Association and 11 of the nation's top nutrition experts.

By GAYNOR MADDOX, NEA Food and Markets Editor.

Any effective and lasting weight reduction program depends on three factors. The first two are eating less and getting moderate exercise more regularly. The third is emotional stability while reducing, a factor often overlooked in panic eagerness to banish fat.

Among scientists studying the national problem of obesity, there is a growing conviction that emotional instability is one of the basic causes of overweight.

"Overeating is for some people a favored method of handling strong feelings," reported Walter W. Hamburger, M.D., of the department of psychiatry, Strong Memorial Hospital and University of Rochester School of Medicine and Dentistry.

"Certain obese patients eat when they feel blue, angry, sexually excited, apprehensive or ashamed, this highly regarded scientific statement, it is as though eating protected them from feeling too much."

He noted in the Journal of the American Dietetic Association that many obese patients actually rebel against all reducing methods.

Dr. Hamburger, together with Hilde Bruch, M.D., associate clinical professor of psychiatry, College of Physicians and Surgeons, New York, warns against shaming, or pressuring members of your family or friends OR your self into drastic weight reduction.

University of Pittsburgh, 400 obese middle-aged men and women are being studied. They are between 40 and 60, the period when obesity is most prevalent, the time when emotional tensions and responsibilities tend to increase. After unwanted pregnancy, death of a member of the family, or other emotional causes, many of the women put on weight and often abandoned their diet completely.

Robert E. Olson, M.D., Ph.D., of the university's Graduate School of Public Health where the studies are being made, stated: "Our observations convince us that attempts at weight reduction must be carried out with the idea of replacing the patient's emotional need for food with some other kind of emotional support."

Most clinical workers advise dieters to seek "some other kind of emotional support" in activities that relax tensions while they are cutting down on food. Any activity that takes the dieter out of himself, enlarges his interests, helps make less difficult the self-discipline needed for a long-term weight control program.

Today in large areas of the country, enjoying a cocktail or highball after the day's work has become an accepted part of our cultural pattern. That explains why many students of obesity problems hesitate to banish alcohol completely from long-term weight control schedules.

Asked if the use of alcoholic beverages should be permitted in scientifically planned weight reduction programs, Robert E. Shank, M.D., of St. Louis, professor of preventive medicine at Washington University School of Medicine, replied: "Clinicians have long known, and carefully undertaken investigations, have established the fact that many persons who become obese are importantly motivated by problems of insecurity. As a group they may, therefore, also be likely to find enjoyment and satisfaction in occasional or sometimes frequent use of alcoholic beverages."

Dr. Shank added: "The effects produced by alcohol are those which can bring about important reductions in personal tension. Therefore, if we can be sure that there is real purpose in encouraging or certainly not discouraging the use of such materials by obese persons who may have feelings of insecurity."

He warned, however, that it should not be forgotten that all such beverages contribute calories which must be included in estimation of daily intake. When total calories are limited to 1,200 or 1,500 a day, many cocktails cannot be included in the diet without serious interference with foods of greater nutritional value.

"Therefore, it would seem wise to conclude that in a reduction program, alcoholic intake has to be limited, just as food intake must be limited," he said: "There is also the possible disadvantage that the cocktail consumed before a meal may stimulate the appetite."

To estimate the number of calories in hard liquor drinks, here is a good rule of thumb: per ounce per proof equals calories. For example, one ounce of 86-proof whiskey contains 86 calories. If you use ginger ale, cola, vermouth, etc. in your drinks, the calories in these mixers must be added to the total calories.

Eight ounces of American beer contain about 100 calories; ale and foreign beers slightly more. Red wine contains around 74 calories per slightly over three ounces and white wine around 90. Two ounces of sherry contain about 84. Although he does not recommend alcohol from a nutritional viewpoint, Frederick J. Stare, M.D., chairman of Harvard University's Department of Nutrition, realized that without their customary drink or two, many dieters might not stick to their reducing program.

"If to be relaxed and to maintain your emotional stability you feel you must drink while reducing, then remember that two drinks before dinner supply about the same number of calories as a rich dessert or a good serving of meat," he advises. "So if you drink, the nut out desert. But not the meat, because meat supplies protein necessary for nutritional balance."

The following basic 1,800-calorie diet pattern, prepared by NEA Service by the American Dietetic Association, can be adjusted to psychological needs of certain dieters without upsetting the nutritional balance.

1,800 CALORIE DIET PATTERN. For the Day Amount Calories. Whole milk 1 pink 340. Meat, fish, fowl, eggs, hard cheese, 7 ounces 525. Breads, cereals, noodles, potatoes, etc. 7 servings 490. Vegetables 3 servings 35. Fruits 3 servings 120. Fat 6 teaspoons 270.

NEXT: Less food, more activity.

CHOP SUEY is a tasty method of combining meat and vegetables together. Brazil nuts will add texture to the dish.

COOK'S NOOK

Brazil Nuts Are Important Item In Chop Suey Recipe

By GAYNOR MADDOX, NEA Food and Markets Editor. Although chop suey is not a typically Chinese dish, it does follow some principles of Chinese cookery.

For example, the small amount of fat used, and serving meats and vegetables together. Cooking time is short, and the seasoning subtle.

Chop suey combines ingredients popular in the Far East—bean sprouts, soy sauce, ginger. Brazil nuts supplement the crispness and flavor of the dish and have a texture somewhat similar to water chestnuts.

Brazil Nut Chicken. (Yield: 6 servings). Two tablespoons salad oil, ¼ cup coarsely chopped Brazil nuts, 1 cup diced celery, 2 cups chicken stock, 1 package (10 ounces) frozen-purée green beans, 1 can (1 pound) bean sprouts, drained; 1 can (3 or 4 ounces) sliced mushrooms, 2 cups diced cooked chicken, 1 teaspoon monosodium glutamate, 1 tablespoon soy sauce, ½ teaspoon cornstarch, 1 tablespoon water.

Heat oil in large skillet. Add nuts and cook, stirring occasionally, until lightly browned. Add celery; cook until tender, but brown. Add chicken stock, beans, bean sprouts, mushrooms, chicken, monosodium glutamate, soy sauce and ginger. Bring to a boil, breaking up frozen beans with a fork. Reduce heat and simmer 5 minutes. Mix together cornstarch and water; stir to smooth paste. Gradually add to chicken mixture and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture comes to a boil. Serve with hot cooked rice.

Brazil Nut Crabmeat Salad. (Yield: 6 servings). One can (4½ ounces) crabmeat, ½ cup diced celery, ¼ cup sliced Brazil nuts, 2 tablespoons chili sauce, 1-3 cup mayonnaise, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, ¼ teaspoon salt, avocado or tomato.

Shred crabmeat and remove membrane; add celery and puts. Combine chili sauce, mayonnaise, lemon juice and salt. Add to salad mixture and mix lightly. Serve with avocado or tomato wedges. TOMORROW'S CHINESE DIN.

Exemplars Discuss Valentine Dance. Exemplar Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, met recently in the home of Mrs. G. C. Goodwin Jr. 1905 Ripley.

During the business meeting, conducted by Mrs. Byron Hillburn, president, plans were discussed for the Beta Sigma Phi Sorority Valentine Dance to be held in the Country Club on Feb. 23 preceded by dinner in the Colonial Inn.

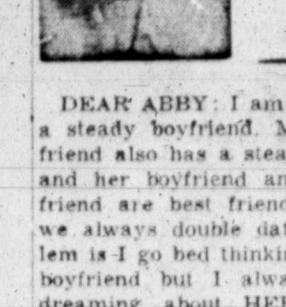

Included, also, on the business agenda, Mrs. Stanley Simpson was granted membership-at-large; Mrs. Jack White reported pledge-training meetings would be held on Thursday nights preceding the regular meeting dates. The club voted to support the Endowment Foundation plans to contribute to the support of the Children's Cancer Hospital in Boston, Mass.

Mrs. Hillburn announced that the BSP state convention will be held May 29-31 in Fort Worth. A crystal ball was presented to Mrs. Buster Grayson, a recent bride. The program, "Methods of Education," was presented by Mrs. Jeff Trully, who discussed "What the Pre-School Child Should Learn" and "The Early School Years."

Mrs. Jim Poole discussed "The Grammar School and Junior High School." The program was followed by open discussion by members.

During the social hour, coffee and cake was served by the hostess assisted by her mother, Mrs. E. M. Keller. Those attending were: Mrs. Margie Eastley, Ted Knox, Wanda Keefer, Roy McKee, Buster Grayson, Bill Bridges, G. C. Goodwin Jr., Dot Francis, Thelma Bray, Jim Poole, Jeff Trully, Byron Hillburn, F. L. Stone, Hsnaford Oyler, Yvonne McCracken, Joe Fischer, John Piaster, Jack White, Paul Sealey, Jack Vaughn, Miss Virginia Vaughn and a special guest, Mrs. Lillian Esser.

It was announced that the chapter will meet with Mrs. Harrison, 20th Mary Ellen on Jan. 26 at 8 p.m.

DEAR ABBY...

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am 17 and have a steady boyfriend. My best girlfriend also has a steady boyfriend and her boyfriend and my boy friend are best friends. Naturally we always double date. My problem is I go bed thinking about MY boyfriend but I always end up dreaming about HER boyfriend.

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend and she calls herself a WIDOW. She WAS a widow ten years ago, but she got married again and because I really love my boyfriend and think of my girlfriend's boyfriend only as a good friend, do you think my dreams mean anything and what should I do about it?

DEAR BURNED: These people are obviously very conservative, but anyone who waits on the public sees this type every day. Find your sense of humor and enjoy the hankie to laugh in—not to cry in.

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend and she calls herself a WIDOW. She WAS a widow ten years ago, but she got married again and because I really love my boyfriend and think of my girlfriend's boyfriend only as a good friend, do you think my dreams mean anything and what should I do about it?

DEAR DREAMER: Consciously you love your own boyfriend, but I'm a Freud UNCONSCIOUSLY you wish your girlfriend's boyfriend were your own boyfriend. Don't make any life-time decisions about one fellow while you are dreaming about another.

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem concerning my little seven-year-old daughter. She goes to Sunday school and is learning the Ten Commandments; I have to tell her the meaning of each commandment. The one I am stumped on is "THOU SHALT NOT COMMIT ADULTRY." How can a man tell his seven-year-old daughter what "adultery" is?

DEAR FATHER: Simply say "To commit adultery means to break marriage vows."

DEAR ABBY: I am employed as a waitress in a first class hotel dining room. One elderly couple dines here regularly, always at the same table. They are rich people but they order one order and split it between them. He orders coffee and gives her the second cup. They run me ragged saying the cream is sour, the butter is rancid, the chops are cold and I am even asked to pick the seeds out of the blackberry pie. They never leave a tip but at Christmas they give me a handkerchief. I like my job here and the manager says these people like me and won't let my body rise wait on them. What should I do?

BURNED UP WAITRESS. NEER: Egg drop soup, Brazil nut chicken, chop suey, tossed salad, pineapple-coconut dessert—coffee, tea, milk.

Red Griggs

the pipeline

You're breezing along with a 30-game winning streak, without a worry in the world, and then pow! Lady Luck knocks you down and stomps you in the face.

As late as Sunday morning, the Harvester basketball team was unbeaten and it appeared unbeatable. Monday morning they were just another basketball team.

Unless you've just returned from a goodwill visit to Outer Mongolia, you know by now the reason for this sudden downgrading of Pampa's cage squad. Charlie Minor is out for three weeks with an injury.

Ordinarily, the loss of a 5-11 guard from a team averaging 6-3 in height would not be cause for alarm. But Charles Minor is no ordinary guard. He's one of the best little basketball players in the state.

In our humble opinion (worth two cents according to the last stock market quotations) the Harvesters could have afforded the loss of any other man on the team, better than that of Minor.

Minor's Loss Really Hurts

The loss of Coyle Winborn, Bob Gindorf, or Mack Layne would hurt the Harvesters tremendously, but probably not as much as losing Minor.

Minor has only a 13 point per game average, but many of his points could well be counted as four. Any time he steals the ball and goes down for a layup, he's preventing a possible enemy score, as well as making a basket for the Harvesters. And he's done this plenty of times during the season.

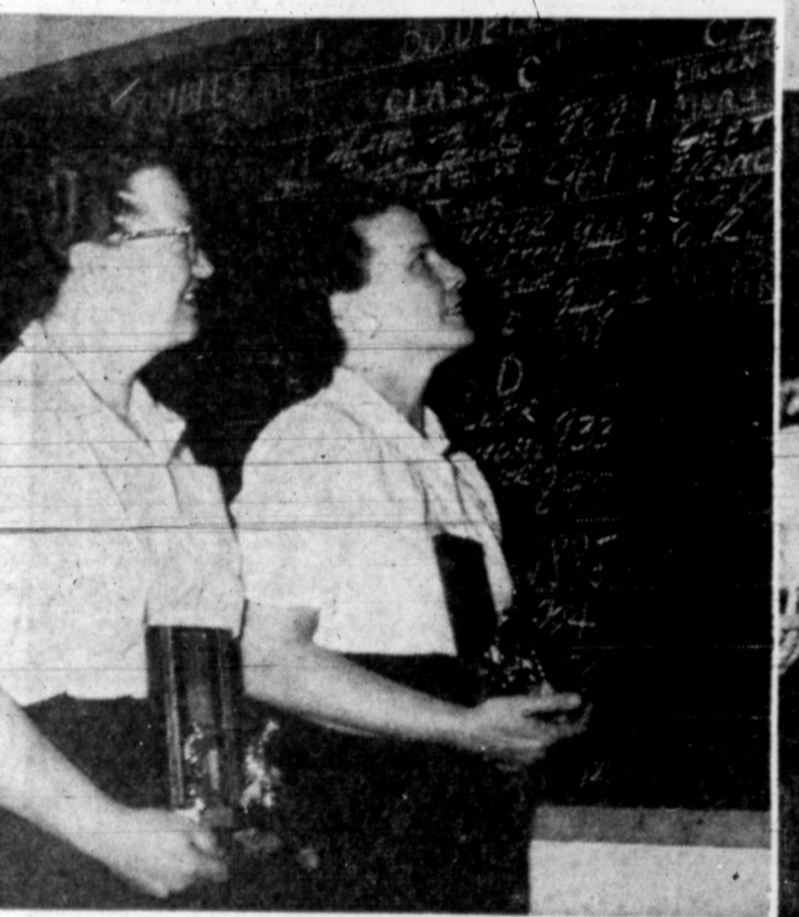

Besides his defensive and shooting abilities, he's the Harvesters' playmaker, the equivalent of a football quarterback. Pampa can ill afford his loss at this crucial stage of the district championship race.

Reserves Could Plug Gap

The Harvesters still have three big things going for them—the schedule, height, and good bench strength.

Three of the five remaining games without Minor will be played at home. That's quite a break, because all five games will be against the tough teams of the district. Pampa is due back in the lineup.

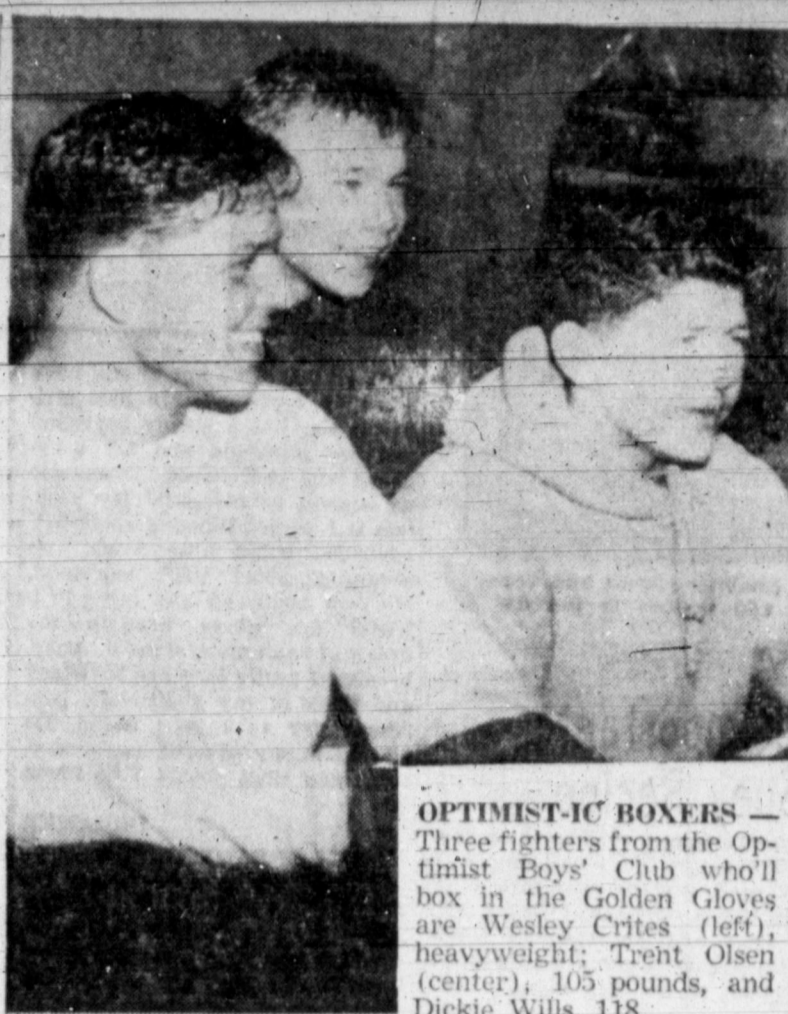

However, one of the two road games could be real trouble—the one at Borger. The Bulldogs were the last team to beat the Harvesters, and they'd love to finish Pampa's winning streak this year.

Willie Mays Signs For 80 Thousand

United Press International
Willie Mays, "definitely satisfied" with a new $80,000 contract, looked forward today to a "steady 340 season" and a possible National League pennant for the San Francisco Giants.

"We have a good chance for the pennant because the young players who helped us so much last season should be better," said the brilliant, 27-year-old center-fielder. "I'll be satisfied if I can have a good steady season and wind up around 340."

Mays hit .347 and missed his second batting championship by only three points last year but conceded, "I dropped a lot in the middle of the season." Willie was hitting more than 400 at the end of May but then went into a long slump that didn't end until September.

Willie's new contract makes his second only to Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals ($100,000) on the National League pay scale.

District Golden Gloves Meet Will Open Tonight

Pampa's District Golden Gloves boxing tournament opens tonight at the Optimist Boys' Club. Matches will continue Thursday and Saturday, with Friday off.

A total of 70 entries are expected for the tournament, and a near-sellout crowd is anticipated.

Boxers from Amarillo and Dumas will be entered, as well as Pampa's own 35 to 40 man squad.

Many of the Pampa fighters who won high school division titles at Borger may be moved up to the open division. Among those probably slated to move up, according to boxing coach Oren James, are welterweight Norman Rexroat and lightweight Charles Coffee.

Tonight's first bouts, in the pee-wee division, will begin at 7:30 p.m. High school and open bouts will begin at approximately 8 p.m.

No definite pairings have been made for tonight—except that Gary Wilhelm will fight an exhibition match, probably against Paul Pulley of Amarillo.

General admission tickets for each night are $1.25, except for Saturday's finals, which are $1.50. Ringside seats are $1.50, and $2 for Saturday.

Tournament ringside tickets may be purchased for $4, and tournament general admission tickets for $3. They are on sale at James Feed Store and Richards Drug.

Fights will be held tonight in all weight divisions, from pee-wee to heavyweight.

Some of the top open boxers entered will be, in the 112-pound division, including Pete Garcia, Dumas, Jimmie Bryant, Borger, and Dickie James, Pampa, in the 118-pound class, Ramirez, Moore, Joe Johnson, Borger, and James.

In the 126-pound open class, some of the better boxers will be Durwood Williams and L. T. Tillman of Borger, and Lucky Dunham and Kenny Powell of Pampa. Williams and Dunham, who fought a good scrap at Borger, may be rematched. Williams copped the Borger decision.

Some good welterweight open boxers are Larry Foster of Borger, and Gary Willis and Norman Rexroat of Pampa; Open middleweights are Glenn Ward of Pampa and Tunney Bayles of Amarillo (former Tennessee champion).

Light-heavies are Charles Snider of Pampa, Sam Lilly of Stinnett, and Paul Pulley of Amarillo. Going in the heavyweight division will be Wesley Crites and Herman Geise of Pampa and Carl McClure of Dumas.

In the high school division, Johnny Ironmonger of Pampa will be moved up from the 105-pound class to 112, and Ronnie Lytle of Borger will also be in the 112-pound class. Trent Olsen of Pampa will fight at 105.

Ronald Ward of Borger will be one of the main attractions in the high school 118-pound class, and going in the 126 division will be Corky Morse and Billy Washington of Pampa.

In the 155-pound division (high school) John Caldwell of Pampa and Mike Curry of Borger will be the top contenders. John Ward of Borger will be tough in the 160-pound class.

SILKY SHELVED
ARCADIA, Calif. (UPI)—Silky Sullivan, after one start this winter, has been shelved for the season because of leg trouble, trainer Reggie Cornell disclosed today at Santa Anita.

The stretch-running sensation of the 1958 winter and spring season has developed a splint in his right front leg after having a similar ailment on his left-front leg treated earlier.

Tight Defense, Poor Don Shooting Give Pampa Win

The Harvesters without Charlie Minor were like an army without a general here Tuesday, but the Pampa cagers carried on like good soldiers and whipped Palo Duro, 57-40.

The other four starters tried just a little bit harder, and managed to throw together a pretty good offense, despite their disorganization. Their shooting percentage didn't suffer any, as they hit 36 percent in the first quarter, 60 in the second, 50 in the third, and 55 in the fourth.

Coyle Winborn even managed to duplicate Minor's ball-shooting trick a couple of times, as he moved in fast to hit the ball out of the hand of a Palo Duro player, dribble it down court, and put it in for an easy layup.

However, it wasn't the offense which beat the Dons, it was an excellent defense, coupled with some wild shooting by Palo Duro.

Palo Duro played a ball-control game and worked in carefully for their shots. They actually managed to get in for more close shots than any other Harvester opponent this year—but they couldn't make them.

The Harvesters rushed them and made them hurry many of their shots, and that accounted for some of the misses. However, most of the missed buckets were due to just plain bad shooting. There were times it seemed the Dons couldn't have hit the basket using radar.

Coyle Winborn had his usual great first quarter to lead the Harvesters to a narrow 12-11 first period lead. Winborn sank all of Pampa's first eight points within two minutes, the first at 1:25 of the first quarter.

He got the first one on a 10-foot jump shot from the left side, the second on his deadly over-the-head shot from under the bucket, the third on a steal and fast-breaking layup, and the fourth on a set shot from the free throw line. He stole the ball for another layup shot with just five seconds remaining in the first quarter.

Winborn finished the game with 14 points, as did Bobby Gindorf.

'High Adventure' Had Some Great Footage, Nothing Else

By WILLIAM EWALD United-Press International NEW YORK (UPI) — High Adventure, a one hour CBS-TV travel series, delivered its third installment of the season and it proved a scrawny 60 minutes. Last October, a group of scientists shipped out to the Pacific island of Puka Puka for IGY, who is, of course, the educated brother of Izzy. The object of the scientists was to film a solar eclipse and the object of the accompanying CBS-TV camera crew was to film the scientists. Unfortunately, shooting scientists is not nearly as entertaining on TV as shooting, say, Indians and as a result the hour seemed stretched thin to the point of futility. Among the show's duller pieces of padding, I would include an irrelevant trip to a Honolulu night club, a peek at the initiation ceremony aboard a ship when it crossed the Equator, a group of speeches by natives in Puka Puka and a group of speeches by scientists in semi-scientific. There were a few useful sequences in the hour: Some underwater photography, some shots of the solar eclipse and some really stunning color footage of flares along the skin of the sun. But for the most part, the visit to Puka Puka was pretty punka punka. Short Shots: ABC-TV's "Youth Anonymous," a one hour peek at...

United Press International Both U.S. exports and imports will rise moderately in 1959, the National Foreign Trade Council said. It also said the outflow of capital from the U.S. will be around the $3,800,000,000 of 1958 with higher investments abroad offsetting lower borrowings in the U.S. The AFL-CIO Oil Workers Union voted to accept the 5 per cent wage increase offered by Sinclair Oil Corp. and removed threats of a major walkout. The union was expected to set a pattern for the industry and may mean an increase in prices of several petroleum products. American Motors Corp. reported earnings of $21,032,165 or $3.36 a share in the quarter ended Dec. 31. This compared with $4,918,724 or 89 cents a share a year ago. Total production of Rambler cars in the latest quarter was 81,279, against 41,992 a year earlier. The government's short-term borrowing costs climbed again this week. The Treasury announced that this week's issue of 91 day bills sold with an average yield of 3.035 per cent, against 2.808 per cent last week. This week's issue of 182-day bills sold with an average yield of 3.233 per cent, against 3.034 per cent last week. The Federal Power Commission reported that privately owned electric utilities had a net income of $128,160,000 in November, up 12.4 per cent from a year earlier. Unemployed Raise National Budgets

By LOUIS CASSELS United Press International WASHINGTON (UPI) — One of every six employed persons in America is on a government payroll. This statistic is one big reason why federal, state and local budgets — now so much in the news — are so high. The latest official figures show that nearly 11 million men and women are currently engaged in defending the country, passing laws, teaching schools, delivering mail, collecting garbage or performing other tasks for which they are paid with tax dollars. The total include 2,600,000 in the armed forces, 2,400,000 civilian employees of federal agencies, and 5,900,000 state and local employees. What does it cost to maintain this large force of public servants? The U. S. Department of Commerce says that payrolls at all levels of government totalled $10,119,000,000 in 1957. The 1958 figure hasn't been computed yet, but it will be somewhat higher because of pay raises granted during the past year. Defense Biggest Activity What do they all do? National defense is the biggest activity of government, requiring the services of about 35 per cent of all employees (including, of course, all of those in uniform). Education is second. Nearly 25 per cent of the composite federal state and local government payroll consists of persons who are hired to teach, administer, clean and otherwise service public schools from kindergarten through college. Hospitals and health services account for about 7 per cent of the payroll, postal services 6 per cent, highway construction and maintenance, 5 per cent. The rest are scattered among hundreds of different kinds of jobs, from providing police and fire protection to maintaining bodies, blowing glass, classifying cotton and burning worn-out dollar bills. Although the government payroll has had its ups and downs, reflecting the temporary impact of such things as wars and economy drives, the long range trend has been steadily upward. Tremendous Payroll Increase Since the turn of the century, non-government employment has increased 80 per cent. The federal government has done its share toward this result.

"The Welfare State Idea"

Under the above heading of "The Welfare State Idea," F. A. Harper adds an appendix to his essay on "Morals and The Welfare State." Here is the way he puts it:

"The concept of the Welfare State appears in our everyday life in the form of a long list of labels and programs such as: Social Security; parity or fair prices; reasonable profits; the living wage; the TVA, MVA, CVA; federal aid to states, to education, to bankrupt corporations; and so on.

"But all these names and details of the Welfare State program tend only to obscure its essential nature. They are well-sounding labels for a laudable objective—the relief of distressing need, prevention of starvation, and the like.

"Yet the state, as such, produces nothing with which to supply these benefits. Persons produce everything which the Welfare State takes, before it gives some back as 'benefit'; but in the process, the bureaucracy takes its cut. Only by thus confiscating what persons have produced can the Welfare State 'satisfy the needs of the people.' So, the necessary and essential idea of the Welfare State is to control the economic actions of the vassals of the state, to take from producers what they produce, and to prevent their ever being able to attain economic independence from the state and from their fellow men through ownership of property.

"To whatever extent an individual is still allowed freedom in any of these respects while living under a government like the present one in the United States, then to that extent the development of the program of the Welfare State is yet not fully completed. Or perhaps it is an instance of a temporary grant of freedom by the Welfare State such as when a master allows his slave a day off from work to spend as he likes; but the person who is permitted some freedom by the Welfare State is still a vassal of that state just as a slave is still a slave on his day off from work."

"The Independent American advises us that it might be a sound procedure to send a postcard to your Congressman—Senators and affix on the corner of the card a tea bag as a mute reminder that Americans can stand on their own legs and fight back against unbridled taxing and spending. The reason to be contained in several tons of tea being thus dumped on our law makers' desks, might have a salutary effect, the sponsors of this idea fondly hope.

Robert Allen Reports:

National Debt Ceiling Going Up

WASHINGTON — The national debt ceiling is to be raised again possibly as much as $295 billion.

At present there are two statutory debt limits: A permanent one of $285 billion, and a temporary one, expiring June 30, of $288 billion. Both are compromises voted by Congress last year when the President sought a permanent increase to $285 billion.

Currently, the national debt is running around $284 billion as compared to approximately $275 billion last year this time.

On the advice of Treasury Secretary Robert Anderson, the President has definitely decided to ask for another boost this year. Congressional leaders have been informed of this.

They have been told the exact amount is still indeterminate and will be determined on the basis of tax receipts in the next 60 days.

Looking Sideways

By Whitney Bolton

NEW YORK — There is no doubt about it, men, the place to sit down and talk turkey — I don't talk Japanese, myself — is in her dressing room in that quiet, relaxed time between a matinee and evening performance.

Pat Suzuki's dressing room is up one flight at the St. James Theater, and when I got there I found a slender, soft-spoken Japanese woman addressing Pat in swift, musical Japanese.

"I thank you, it is kind of you to think of me," said Pat, in English, "but I do my own hair. One flick of a comb forward and one twist of my mane to make a pony-tail. Time: three seconds. I also wash it myself, because I hate dryers and the time they take. But my most earnest thanks for your consideration."

The woman stood and bowed. Pat stood and bowed. The woman left. I bowed at Pat and she put out a forlorn California right hand and said: "Hi."

"What did she want?" I asked. "She has a beauty salon," said Pat. "She invited me to become a patron. These things we handle with courtesy and kindness. After all it is cold out. She could have sent a note instead of coming in person."

Pat unlocked her bangs and untwisted her mane and relaxed in a mechanical chair that opened out like an umbrella. While she attended to her hair, I studied her dressing table. It is the great unlooker of secrets. You can tell a lot from the dressing table of an actress. Some look as though a bulldozer had moved across them, some are as spry as the cell of a monk. Some look like a trash bin. Pat's looked like the desk of a student. Turned out—she is.

Items: makeup objects, a brush, a comb, two powder puffs, a box of foaming tissues, a telegram (neatly folded) and nine books. The books were neatly stacked in a line: "The Spines to the Front," "The Spines to the Back," "The Spines to the Side," "The Spines to the Top," "The Spines to the Bottom," "The Spines to the Inside," "The Spines to the Outside," "The Spines to the Middle," "The Spines to the End," "The Spines to the Beginning."

Barefoot Truths From Life's Path!

By HENRY McLEMORE

In thumbing through the notes I have been taking for years against the day I start my memoirs, I found a batch headed: Great Truths I Have Learned While Walking Barefoot Down The free of ribbons, cloze of powder, mounds of cigarette stubs or anything else.

I said I thought she had a fortunate circumstance not in possession of almost all of the Oriental players in her "Flower Drum Song" or in the across-the-street "World of Suzie Wong." She could and did speak accentless, perfect English and could sing as few have sung since Ethel Merman.

A small, ragged-edged cloud swept across her face.

"You mean I can sing and make albums and do not have to depend on a mainly Oriental show to get work," she said. "True, and not true. One has to have happiness, too. And the blessing of security from within. That sounds like a Method actress. Never mind the security from within. I'm not Method. But I am troubled. I do not feel myself as the Belter from Beltsville. I like to sing ballads. I am being because it has been forced on me. You built out in a night club, and I don't love them at all. You built out in a show because you are supposed to be the firebrand girl, the igniter, while all others around you are gentle. I'm gentle, too. But I am expected to go out after a spell of their gentleness and set the place afire like dropping a match in an open drum of gasoline. But this makes me unhappy. It's not me. Result: I have been talking to a song therapist. Remarkable young man. He leads you to peace and self-tranquility by letting you sing what you want to sing and just letting out that any other way is just for money, a job. But this is the real YOU. Odd, but it works. I'm not sure I'll take a course with him, but he makes enormous sense. He could, also, give me the hump to be an actress and not just a song-belle. I'd like to be a good actress, a real one. Right now, in my own conscience, I am a loud singer who speaks a few dramatic lines in between. But do I sound like a student to an audience? I don't know. I am dissatisfied with myself, I'll tell you that."

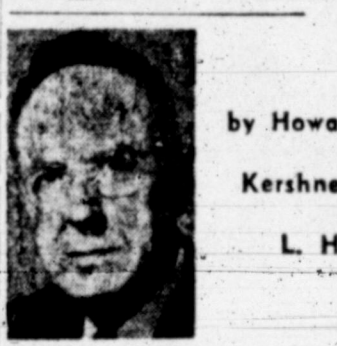

In free time, what? "I am a remnant addict," she said. "I buy remnants at $1.35 a yard which were $7 a yard. They told me to walk through Orchard Street on the Lower East Side on a Sunday afternoon and bargain. I went and became so fascinated I forgot to look for yardage. Then I found some and talked for an hour to two sweet, bearded old men who owned the shop. I loved them so I could not bargain. They said it was $2 a yard and I paid that and when I started to leave one said: 'You did not bargain. You are like a chicken ready to lose its feathers. Here is your change at $1.65 a yard. You need protection.' My mother is making a skirt for me. I tried to. Hopeless. I said 'Suzuki, you are shaped thus and so here and thus and so there' and held the material to me and cut accordingly and it was a mess. But my mother thinks she can salvage a reasonable skirt from it."

We talked of enchanted San Francisco and history — drenched Istanbul and suddenly it was 8 o'clock and time to leave. When you see "Flower Drum Song," don't believe that that tiny belle from Beltsville is trying to be the new Merman. She is having it rough just being contented young Pat Suzuki, New Broadway Star.

"Knight and Knowland still are battling each other for the election. Reminds me of the husband and wife who got to fighting. 'After all!' shouted the wife, 'You didn't have to marry me!' 'That's true, dear,' replied the husband, 'But we didn't know that at the time!'"

It's Up To You

Sacrifice Capitalism; In Favor of Christ

A devoted minister told a group of ministers recently we in a have to sacrifice capitalism to follow Christ. What is capitalism? It is the belief and practice that by accumulating better tools and equipment, production can be increased, suffering relieved and poverty conquered. It is the further belief that tools, equipment and men are more productive under a system of private ownership. History and human experience show this belief to be true.

If men are assured of the right to enjoy the fruits of their labor they will work hard, live economically and save for the future. These savings flow into better tools and equipment as production of wealth mounts higher and higher.

We see no reason to believe that Jesus opposed private ownership of the means of production. On the other hand some of His parables seem definitely to approve it. No doubt many sensitive souls are called to live — property-less prophets, to live from — breaking off the head of grain sown by thrifty farmers and to be entertained in the most worthy homes wherever they go. As described in the Bible, Friars pledged to poverty played a large role in the propagation of Christianity. But in order for a few men to be thus effective we must have many men who give much attention to the production of wealth.

Former President Of Voters League Outlines Crusades On Community Level

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)— Gone are the days when the crusades of a Carrie Nation or Carrie Chapman Catt stirred the nation.

But the woman in search of a cause can find one readily still—right in her own community, says Anna Lord Straus, a leader in public affairs projects.

"She said that today the issues, the causes, may not always be so clear cut as was the fight for prohibition or for woman suffrage. But there are still plenty in the fields of better schools, better hospitalization and medical care, better government and better race relations, to name a few."

"There is such an infinite amount of work to be done," she said, "that I often wonder at a woman expressing boredom."

Miss Straus, whose "great-grandmother" was the suffragist leader, Lucretia Mott, is president of the Carrie Chapman Catt Memorial Fund, a research and educational project set up by the League of Women Voters.

Mark's Anniversary
This month marks the anniversary of the birth of Mrs. Catt, who campaigned for suffrage until the amendment was written into the Constitution in 1919 and ratified in 1920.

Today's crusader has a wonderful chance to make her community "the best possible place for her family and her neighbors to live," Miss Straus said. "In doing so, better government often is the key. Sometimes it is just lack of citizen support which encourages a 'don't care' attitude in public officials."

Not A Feminist
Miss Straus, member of a prominent New York family, is former president of the League of Women Voters of the United States. She has served on numerous presidential committees on education, welfare and economics, and in 1961 was a member of the U.S. delegation to the United Nations General Assembly.

She is a woman of medium height, with bright brown eyes, graying hair and untamed energy. She has traveled the world to talk of woman's role in public life, but she is not a feminist—"at least not a militant one," she smiled. "That type can be trying."

But she is critical of any party which has not given women the right to vote pointing out that all the new, independent nations have, but Switzerland, for example, has not.

"There the men pulled a switch in their campaign to prevent suffrage," she said. "Elections are held on Sunday, and some of them complained they wouldn't get Sunday dinner with their wives off at the polls."

Rambler

The compact Rambler which set an all-time high sales record this year features new styling and engineering changes designed to further increase economy of operation and durability for 1959. The new six-cylinder and V-8 now on sale at Rambler dealerships across the country. Shown is the 1959 Rambler Cross Country four-door station wagon, the most popular model in the Rambler line. All Rambler bodies are "deep-dipped" in a rust-preventing primer during manufacturing to give the car longer life.
