Capone Mob Said Thick In Unions

By DICK WEST
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Virgil Peterson, director of the Chicago Crime Commission, told the Senate Rackets Committee today that Capone gang hoodlums have infiltrated "innumerable" unions in the Chicago area.

Peterson specifically mentioned Local 593 of the Hotel and Restaurant Workers Union, one of the main groups now being investigated by the committee.

Gangsters also have had a hand in the operation of the Taxi Drivers, Juke Box and Electric Workers Union, he testified.

Peterson and Detective Lt. George Butler of the Dallas, Tex., police department were the first witnesses as the committee opened a new hearing on mobster influence in labor-management relations in the restaurant business in Chicago.

Peterson testified that three of the present officers of Local 593 were closely linked with the Capone mob.

He identified them as James Blakely, secretary treasurer of the local and a vice president of the parent union; John Lardino, administrative director, and Daniel Lardino, a business agent.

Butler testified that Daniel Lardino was active in an attempt by Chicago racketeers to take over an 18-million-dollar rackets empire in Dallas in the 1940s.

Butler indicated the move failed because the Texans proved too tough for the Chicago crew. When a Chicagoan started making trouble, he said, "one of those Texas boys would peel his head."

Butler also advanced the theory that failure of the Texas venture led to the gangland slaying of Nick De John who was found dead in San Francisco with a wire around his neck.

STIFF COMPETITION

Butler said De John at the time was a sort of "judge" of underworld disputes and arranged to underwrite the cost of the move into the Southwest. He said mobster Marcus Lipsky and his associates in Texas lost a good deal of money which De John was unable to make good.

Chief Counsel Robert F. Kennedy said Peterson would give the Rackets Committee the background on the Chicago restaurant business which is famed for fine food and naughty night life.

Other scheduled witnesses included four restaurant operators, a former waitress and a former union official. Some of the best-known names of the Chicago underworld will be called to testify later.

The Chicago Restaurant Assn. was expected to figure prominently in the hearings.

Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) said in an opening statement the committee would inquire into these four areas:

"Whether groups of employers banded together for the purpose of destroying legitimate unionization;

"Whether collusive deals were made between dishonest management and dishonest union officials;

"Whether gangsters or hoodlums were employed by an association of employers to keep out unionization or to handle their labor relations;

"Whether certain union officials have been or are presently in the control of the criminal syndicate in Chicago."

McClellan said "we expect to develop the fact that in arrangements of the types mentioned above, the needs and interests of the employees are completely ignored."

Chicago unions representing restaurant workers said in advance of the hearings "we have nothing to fear and nothing to hide."

They said 4 of the 11 locals in the Chicago joint board were involved. Kennedy said at least six locals would figure to some extent in initial stages of the hearing.

Gilliland Dies From Car Injuries

Howard A. Gilliland, 215 N. Somerville, owner of the LaNora Theatre here, died in Highland General Hospital about 7 p. m. Monday from injuries sustained in an automobile accident, which occurred about noon yesterday one mile west of Pampa.

Velma Canady Daniels, driver of the other vehicle involved, and her eight-year-old niece were injured in the accident. Both live in Pampa, 1113 Seneca Lane.

According to Highway Patrolman, Royce Logan, who investigated the accident, Gilliland was traveling west on farm road 750 and Mrs. Daniels was going north on a county road. The two vehicles collided at an intersection.

All three were taken to Highland General Hospital, believed not to be in a serious condition.

Mrs. Daniels suffered knee and leg injuries and her niece, Betty Farber, suffered a cut lip, according to Highland General Hospital attendants. Both were still in the hospital Tuesday morning, and were reported in good condition.

Mr. Gilliland's death was the 3rd auto accident fatality in Gray County this year.

Funeral services for Gilliland will be held at 2 p. m. Wednesday in the First Baptist Church with Bob Stroble, associate minister, the Rev. James Todd, formerly of Pampa, now serving in the First Christian Church in Claude, officiating.

Mr. Gilliland was born August 11, 1889 in Nebraska. He moved from Mobeetie to Pampa in 1919 and was owner of the LaNora Theatre building and had been active in the theater business for a number of years.

Mr. Gilliland is survived by his wife, Ruth, of the home address; one son Alfred, Berger, a step-

Warned Not To Use Propaganda

By MERRIAN SMITH
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House influence investigators excused Bernard Goldfine, millionaire friend of Sherman Adams, from testifying today after his lawyers pleaded he was suffering "physical and mental exhaustion."

At the same time they warned Goldfine's attorneys that the one-day delay in his testimony was not to be used by the Boston textile tycoon for "propagandizing the American people" through press conferences and broadcasts.

Roger Robb and two other Goldfine lawyers appeared at the brief hearing, leaving Goldfine behind at his hotel.

Robb said that the fess over the microphone found next to Goldfine's hotel quarters and the alleged burglary of his secretary's room "left Mr. Goldfine in a state of physical and mental exhaustion."

He said he had "every expectation" Goldfine could show up Wednesday but would not promise "categorically."

Subcommittee Chairman Owen Harris (D-Ark.) granted the request after delivering a stern lecture to Robb on what he pictured as publicity excesses and a lack of cooperation on the part of his client.

"I can see that unless there is a change of attitude there is going to be a clash," Harris said. "The committee will be prepared to meet it."

Harris reminded Robb that in

A post-midnight press conference was delayed Monday on grounds that a hidden microphone had been found behind a door adjoining his room. discussing the requested delay with him Monday night he had served notice that if the postponement was to be used "for propagandizing the American people with press conferences and radio and television appearances it would not be granted."

He noted acidly that he understood that Goldfine, despite his plea of exhaustion, had been able to talk to the press earlier today. He noted also that before delivering his opening statement to the subcommittee Goldfine had recorded it for nationwide broadcast.

Harris said, however, the subcommittee wanted to be completely fair and that under the circumstances he saw no other course but to grant the 24-hour delay as requested.

The House subcommittee on legislative oversight then adjourned until Wednesday.

The subcommittee is investigating Goldfine's relations with Adams, assistant to the President, and his various troubles with government regulatory agencies.

Robb said Goldfine's exhaustion "is due to the unusual course of events of the last 36 hours" during which:

—It was discovered a subcommittee investigator had "bugged" the hotel quarters of Goldfine's aides with a tiny microphone.

—Goldfine's secretary, Mildred Paperman, reported her room had been ransacked and private papers and records stolen.

The weekend events upset the subcommittee as well as Goldfine. Monday night it fired its chief investigator for his role in planting the secret microphone. The subcommittee reported the investigator said, however, that he had nothing to do with the purloined papers.

Goldfine's attorneys demanded that Harris answer questions (See GOLDFINE, Page 8)

9 Released Airmen Are Exhausted

WIESBADEN, Germany (UPI) — The nine American airmen released from captivity in Soviet Armenia Monday are suffering "extreme fatigue and exhaustion" and will be hospitalized when they arrive here, the Air Force announced today.

An Air Force spokesman said the men's condition after spending 10 days in captivity when their unarmed DC3 transport plane was forced down by Soviet MIG jets made a change in plans necessary for their reception here. The Air Force said the airmen will be met by their families as originally planned. Earlier today the Air Force indicated the families would have to wait until the men report on their experiences.

A news conference scheduled to take place immediately after their arrival was postponed until Wednesday afternoon. However, reporters were not barred from today's arrival ceremony. No questions were permitted.

Release of the nine American airmen left nine other Americans still in Communist hands in Europe. East Germany is holding nine Army men who landed in East Germany during a thunderstorm and negotiations for their return apparently are deadlocked. The puppet regime demands U.S. diplomatic recognition as the price of the men's freedom.

Still unexplained was the burning of the airmen's unarmed DC3 transport. It burned at a Soviet air base soon after two MIG jets forced it to land. There was speculation the men set it on fire to prevent the Russians capturing it. A Russian broadcast recently said the plane was "punished."

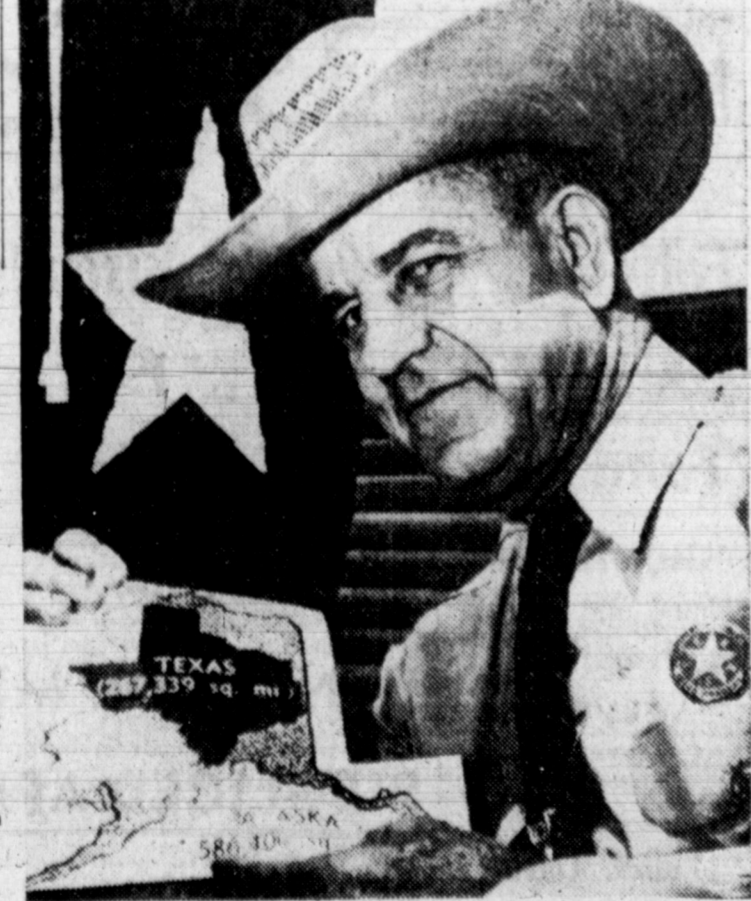

The nine men had left West Germany June 27 for Pakistan with non-military supplies. They had touched down in Cyprus only a few hours before they blundered across the border 100 miles into Soviet territory.

The Soviet Union released the men across the Iranian border Monday to Iranian officials who turned them over to Americans.

Ike Signs Bill For 49th State

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Only a referendum stood between Alaska and statehood today following signing by President Eisenhower of a bill to admit the territory as the 49th state.

The president late Monday signed the historic Alaska bill in a simple White House ceremony. He later issued a statement hailing the Alaska legislation but adding he was "extremely disturbed over reports that no action is contemplated by the current Congress" on legislation to admit Hawaii as the 50th state.

NO LAUGHING MATTER

The size of Alaska as compared to Texas is no joke to this serious looking Texas Ranger, Earnest Daniel. With President Eisenhower's signing of the bill to make Alaska the 49th state Monday, Ranger Daniel is like most Texans, right-proud to have Alaska as a new suburb to the Texas Panhandle.

HAVE BEARD, WILL ENTER!

So How Are You Fixed For Blades?

That's no bush, M'am. It's mah beard!

Shaving permits, for non-beard growing Pampa males, went on sale here today at a cost of $1 per freshly-shaven face.

The beard growing contest, sponsored annually by the Junior Chamber of Commerce in conjunction with Pampa's gala Top o' Texas Rodeo, Aug. 6-9, is open to all local males able to sprout so much as a tiny beard.

The contest judging will be held during Rodeo week between the Gray County Court House and City Hall.

Dickerson has asked wives to go easy on beard growing, husbands, especially since this event, like Christmas, comes but once a year. He is sure that no wife in Pampa would deprive her husband from growing the most outstanding beard.

Contest Chairman, Clyde Dickerson, has pointed out that he's noticed several men starting beards. "Some didn't even wait for us to officially open the contest last week," Dickerson said.

The Jaycees decided in their weekly meeting last Tuesday that they would again sponsor the "Best Beard" contest.

The contest judging will occur during a street dance that the Jaycees will sponsor at 7:30 p. m., Aug. 5. The Honest Jess Williams Band from Amarillo will desert television and radio long enough to play for the street dance. Williams, who sports a fine set of whiskers himself, will be one of the judges for the contest.

Judging by the beards already in growth around Pampa, it won't be easy naming the man with the "Most Outstanding Beard." Jaycees expect that everyone will have a chance, however, as the whitest, heaviest, blackest, reddest, thinnest and shaggiest beards will all share in the glory. Judges also will name the youngest beard grower.

The street dance will be held during Rodeo week between the Gray County Court House and City Hall.

Cubans Won't Release US Servicemen

By FRANCIS L. MCCARTHY
United Press International

HAVANA (UPI) — New Cuban rebel demands apparently snaggled the release of 30 American servicemen today but the Castro forces indicated they would free the last four kidnaped civilians before tonight.

"There was no indication whether the rebel demands included some assurances against renewed Cuban government warfare in mountainous Oriente Province or some sort of U.S. "recognition" of the Fidel Castro movement.

But apparently the rebels wanted some "high level negotiator" to talk with them before the Marines and sailors won their freedom. Earlier, the rebels had asked unsuccessfully to dicker personally with U.S. Ambassador Earl Smith.

Three more American civilians were flown out of the rebel mountain stronghold in Oriente Province Monday, bringing to 16 the total freed.

They said the last four civilians, three Americans and one Canadian, probably would be freed today while the 30 U.S. Marines and sailors probably would be freed "in the next two or three days."

However, reports from the U.S. Naval base at Guantanamo indicated the return of the servicemen may be a prolonged affair. Rear Adm. Robert B. Ellis, commander of the naval base, after conferring with the newly-released hostages Monday, disclosed the servicemen had been split into groups of three and four men.

He said this had made it difficult to communicate with the scattered rebel bands holding the men, thus delaying their release.

Ike Lands In Canada For Talks

OTTAWA, Ont. (UPI) — President Eisenhower came here today for a three-day visit and round of fence-mending talks with Prime Minister John Diefenbaker.

The President's plane, Columbia III, landed at nearby Uplands Airport. Governor-General Vincent Massey, Diefenbaker and other government and military officials greeted the President.

Eisenhower was accompanied by his wife and Secretary of State and Mrs. John Foster Dulles.

A large crowd of spectators waving flags of both countries stood underneath overcast skies to greet the visiting President.

Eisenhower, making his first visit to Canada since 1953, inspected the guard of honor after the band had played the American national anthem.

The two heads of state open their talks today against a background of the most elaborate documentary preparations ever made in this capital for a visiting head of state.

The visit was being made for discussion primarily of economic differences with Canada that have developed in the past year or so.

However, Dulles said world problems as they affect the two countries, jointly also would be brought up.

The main economic differences include U. S. disposal of surplus wheat overseas for foreign currencies, pressures within the United States to increase tariffs on lead and zinc and restrict their imports, and joint water resources in the northwest United States and southwest Canada.

Others were restrictions on U.S. imports of Canadian oil, failure of U. S. companies to use Canadian subsidiaries in management of their subsidiaries in Canada, and Canada's so-called "unfavorable balance of trade" with this country of about one billion dollars a year.

County Gets Over Million For Roads

Gray County is on schedule for $1,016,000 in State Highway construction during the next two years, according to Charles W. Smith, Texas Highway Department district engineer.

On July 1, the State Highway Commission approved the 1958-1960 Consolidated Highway Program which covers the proposed construction work on the Federal Aid Primary and Secondary Systems.

The roads affected in Gray County will be State Highway 152 from Laketon to the Wheeler County line, State Highway 273 from US 66 at McLean north 8.5 miles and 5 miles north of Fort Worth & Denver underpass west to State Highway 70.

The Highway Department plans to reconstruct and widen the base as well as surface a span of Texas 152 at an estimated cost of $335,000.

Another $335,000 will go for widening, reconditioning and resurfacing on 8.5 miles of State 66.

Reconditioning and surfacing of 1.5 miles of State 273 and grading, structures and surfacing for 4.2 miles there will take an estimated $346,000.

Funds for the purchase of right of way on this section of State Highway 273 were approved on a previous program.

Interstate Highways and farm to market roads were not included in the Consolidated Highway Program. County Judge Bruce Parker and G. K. Reading, Texas Highway Department supervising resident engineer, received letters today from Smith in Amarillo, informing them of the approved construction.

June Jobless Hits High For Past 17 Years

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Unemployment in June shot up to 4,437,000—a 17-year record high—the government reported today.

It said most of this rise was due to the nearly two million students and new graduates who entered the labor market last month.

The Commerce and Labor departments said the number of jobless rose by $33,000 from the May figure of 4,404,000. This was about the normal increase for this month in the postwar period.

But the total unemployment figure reached the highest point since the government counted 5,620,000 out of work in August, 1941. It was the highest figure ever for any June since 1941 when the total was 6,190,000 jobless.

City Commission Received Radar Bids Today

Pampa City Commissioners had a very tight schedule on the agenda in their meeting this morning.

The commissioners paid the monthly bills and set a bid date of July 29, at 10 a. m. to take bids on water well pumps for the city.

The commissioners also received bids on new radar equipment for the Pampa Police department. No action has taken on the bids submitted. Pampa City Manager, John Koonitz, said the commissioners would study the bids a while longer before deciding which one to accept.

'Futurama' Theme For Hep Cat Party

The summer rush season for the Hep Cat Club began last week with a patio party held in the home of Miss Julia Vaih, 2016 Mary Ellen. The theme of the party followed a "Futurama" theme and featured "Purple People Eaters" creatures from outer space, and colored balloons in the decorations.

As each guest arrived, she was greeted by the club officers, Miss Beverly Stephens, president; Miss Margaret Burns, vice president; Miss Kay Bailey, secretary, historian and reporter; Miss Dianne Snider, treasurer; Miss Pat Nichols and other club members. Guests were pinned with a nametag in the shape of a satellite.

Cokes and cookies were served complemented with purple and white napkins, monogrammed with the club's name and colors, to approximately 75 guests.

Entertainment for the evening consisted of singing the "Hep Cat Song," listening to music and dancing.

DEAR ABBY...

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Every night my father comes home and turns on the Hi-Fi. You can hear it all over the house and it is so loud it goes right through me. It is driving my mother and me crazy. He says it is supposed to be loud like that or there is no sense in having Hi-Fi. We can't ask him to turn it down or he gets mad. Have you any solution?

DEAR ABBY: I am in love with the most wonderful boy in the world. He is in the reformatory now, but I know he couldn't have done what they said he did. He is 18 and I am 14 and my problem is my mother won't let me write to him and she says if any letters come from him she will tear them up as soon as she sees them. Don't you think my mother is very narrow-minded? Please help me convince her that my boyfriend is innocent and if he knows I believe in him it will help him to live a better life when he gets out.

DEAR ABBY: I am eleven years old and in the sixth grade and my problem is a terrible one. I still wet the bed and everybody knows it and makes fun of me. I have had pills and needles and don't drink anything after three o'clock in the afternoon but nothing helps. I can't stay over at anybody's house and no camp will take me. I wish I could die. Just sign this "UNHAPPY" and please answer.

Sidewalk Cafe Scene Of Fourth KKK Rush Party

An Italian supper was served to members and guests attending the fourth rush party of the Kit Kat Klub held in the home of Miss Norma Jean Fatheree, 1717 N. Russell.

Italy-shaped nametags identified each guest as she arrived and was escorted to the back-lawn where tables were arranged as in a sidewalk cafe. Misses Rita, Nita Cartwright and Doris Bullard served as waitresses.

Following a dinner of Italian chicken, garlic bread, tossed salad, iced tea and musical oranges, guests were entertained in the living room of the Fatheree home. Presenting numbers on the program were Miss Karen Capps, who sang a torch song in Italian, "Return To Me" and in English, "I Should Care," accompanied by Miss Marilyn Smith.

Guessing the names of famous Italians, which had been pinned to rushes' back, and conversation concluded the evening's party.

During a recent meeting of the KKK, held in the home of Miss Jane Ann Hoover, 526 N. Gray, Miss Kay Baker, president, presided during the election of new officers.

Officers to serve for the ensuing six months are Misses DeAnn Prince, president; Miss Doris Bullard, vice president; Ginger Hopkins, secretary; Sherry Thyng, treasurer; Glenn Lewis, chaplain; Gay Vandenburg, reporter; Misses Nita and Rita Cartwright, historians.

Plans for the next rush party were discussed. Refreshments were served by the hostess before adjournment.

The blood types are O, A, B and AB.

GOLDFINE

about the conduct of Baron I. Shacklette, the investigator who "bugged" the hotel room of Jack Lotso, new public relations adviser to Goldfine.

Asks Full Probe

The subcommittee, after two secret meetings Monday at which Shacklette was questioned at length, voted unanimously to accept his proffered resignation. They also called on the Justice Department, the FBI and the city police to conduct a full investigation of "all phases" of the matter.

U. S. Attorney Oliver, Gasch said his office was looking into "some possibilities" the eavesdropping by Shacklette may constitute an offense. But he said the action did not constitute wiretapping in the usual sense.

The U. S. Supreme Court ruled in 1942 that evidence obtained by federal agents through use of a detectaphone applied to the wall of a room next door to an office was not a violation of a Constitutional ban against illegal search and seizure.

Many subcommittee members appeared disgusted and angry their investigation had become snagged—at least momentarily—on a staff problem reminiscent of the explosive ouster of former chief counsel Bernard Schwartz Feb. 20.

But there seemed no inclination to ease up on the inquiry into Goldfine's affairs. Harris declared the group "will not be diverted from its purposes and objectives."

He called it "significant" the incident was brought to light just as the subcommittee was "reaching the climax of its investigation."

Rep. John B. Bennett (R-Mich.) a subcommittee member, joined Harris in deploring the incident but said it "shouldn't detract" from the group's aims.

In Boston, the Massachusetts tax commissioner announced his agents were making an investigation of all Goldfine's personal and corporation taxes. The Internal Revenue Service here was presumably delving into the textile tycoon's admitted tax deductions for gifts to Adams and others.

Goldfine's secretary, Mildred Paperman, reported her hotel room was rifled and a number of important documents, including secret correspondence and bank records, were stolen.

After the subcommittee fired the investigator, Harris said Shacklette had freely admitted the "bugging" but denied entering Miss Paperman's room or swiping any of Goldfine's papers.

Quiz Queen Is Dethroned On 'Twenty-One'

By FRED DANZIG United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI)—Quiz queen Elfrida von Nardroff failed to answer an easy question Monday night, ending a 21-week reign on the TV quiz show "Twenty-One" that gave her $220,000 in winnings.

Elfrida was dethroned by educator Robert Leicester, 48, but she went back to her Brooklyn apartment with the most money ever won on a television show.

Miss Von Nardroff, 33 last Thursday, had reached the total of $253,000 during her tenure on the NBC-TV quiz but lost $33,000 of this amount when she faltered on a question about a Nazi leader.

The money she lost went into Leicester's kitty and he continued playing against author Stephen Becker of Bedford Village, N. Y. As the program ended, Leicester was leading Becker, 10-0.

The income tax people did considerably better financially Monday night than did Elfrida. Of her $220,000 winnings, an estimated $174,019 will go for federal income taxes and an estimated $15,080 will go for state taxes, leaving her a $40,401 profit.

The program, based on a form of the card game, finds each contestant seeking to reach 21 points. Questions are graded 1 through 11, depending on their difficulty and each point in worth $500 at the start of a contest. The games add $500 to the point value.

Monday night the Leicester-Von Nardroff duel, tied for six games, was valued at $3,000 a point.

Miss Von Nardroff's defeat came when she was asked to name the Nazi leader who committed suicide after being sentenced to the gallows by the Nuremberg war crimes court. She mentioned both Hermann Goerring and Joseph Goebbels while trying to pick out the answer and finally took a stab at the latter. It was the wrong guess.

2 Are Dead From Bomb

By LARRY COLLINS United Press International

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI)—A rebel bomb exploded today in a crowded five-story department store in the heart of Beirut, killing at least two persons and injuring 40 to 50 others. Police said many more "probably" were killed.

It was the biggest bombing incident in the nine-week-old Lebanese crisis. The bomb exploded just as the first wave of shoppers poured into the store. Many of them were hurt in the fire that quickly enveloped the building.

A police officer said the bomb was left inside the front door in a dummy package. The blast tore out the ground floor plate glass windows, shattered others for a block around and shook houses a mile away. Fragments of flying glass were hurled through the streets.

Jagged chunks of glass from soft drink bottles on a truck parked in front of the store also whistled through the street like shrapnel and the driver of the truck was killed.

Tobacco Plant Is Bad Change Artist, Claim Scientists

By DELOS SMITH
UPI Science Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — While probing into the private life of the tobacco plant, scientists caught it red-handed in the act of changing a good chemical into a bad one. And casually, too, without even a suggestion of a quail.

The good chemical is nicotine, one of the "B" vitamins which people and beasts and plants must have if they're to live healthily and to the full. The bad one is none other than nicotine.

So far as science knows the tobacco plant is the only plant which, after "making" beneficial nicotine, turns around chemically and converts it into something poisonous, if it's in the right amount. But not poisonous for the tobacco plant, obviously.

Dr. Ray F. Dawson, professor of botany, Columbia University, and his team of private life-probing scientists, were unable, however, to find the slightest reason why the tobacco plant should do such a thing. So far as they could tell, nicotine is wasted on it—it does it no good.

Use Radioactive "Tracers"

Dawson and his associates used radioactive "tracers" to solve the chemical mysteries of how the tobacco plant "makes" nicotine and where it gets the material. Nicotinic acid was suspected of being the material.

The scientists attached four atoms of radio-active hydrogen to the molecules of the living plant's nicotinic acid. Because the hydrogen atoms were radioactive, they could be traced through the plant's chemical workings. And, sure enough—the hydrogen atoms were in the nicotinic molecules when the plant "made" them.

It is an important contribution to scientific learning because the current trend in tobacco processing is to reduce the nicotine as well as the tar content.

Two other scientists have shown that the plant can be persuaded (chemically) into "making" less nicotine than it usually does, indicating that nicotine production is not its chief reason for existing. L. G. Burk, of the U. S. Department of Agriculture's research station at Beltsville, Md., and T. C. Tso of the University of Maryland, did so by dropping tiny amounts of gibberellic acid on their leaves while the plants were young.

ADAMS' SUCCESSOR?—Widely circulated rumors say that Secretary of the Interior Fred A. Seaton will succeed Sherman Adams as presidential assistant should Adams be forced to resign. Adams has been the object of attacks demanding he be relieved of his post for having accepted gifts from Boston millionaire Bernard Goldfine.

Gibberellic acid may be a new chemical to you, and indeed, it is a rather new chemical to science. It is "made" by a certain Japanese fungus and during the past few years, scientists ability to make some plants grow faster than they would have without it.

Burk and Tso found that as

Two Pampans Appear In WT's 'As You Like It'

(Special to The News)
CANYON — Back in the sixteenth Century, William Shakespeare decided to write a play in which everything would turn out as the audience would desire it, and he named the play "As You Like It." This happy-ending comedy will be presented as Panhandle audiences would like it by the Palo Duro Players as a high spot in the tenth summer theatre season at West Texas State College.

The production, third Shakespearean show to be directed at WT by William A. and Margaret Moore, will be presented outside in front of the Education Building so the audiences may enjoy the cool Panhandle evenings. Opening show will be Wednesday and performances will continue through Saturday with curtain time each night at 8:15.

Admission for Wednesday, opening night, will be 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children. Prices for other nights will be 75 cents for adults and 50 cents for children. Reservations may be made for any night through the WT speech department.

Costumes and an unusual set for the outside stage will be designed by Robert L. Antrim, technical director for the Branding Iron Theatre. Most of the action for the production takes place in a forest on the lawns facing the Education Building, with staging along the sidewalks and before the archway of the building's entrance.

In the manner of the early Shakespearean companies, many of the cast will double in several parts for "As You Like It." Only the lead actors will play a single part, and some of them are disguised as other people during the play.

"One of the mysteries of the Shakespearean companies was their ability to play many parts with only a few actors," said Moore. "We are going to find some of the answers in this production."

In the lead female roles are Marty Hinson of Groom as Rosalind and June Hamilton of Amarillo as Celia. Jerry Williams of Canyon has been cast as Orlando, lead male role, and Tommy Culpesser of Canyon will appear as Touchstone, who weaves in and out of the comedy like Cupid with a quirk in his head.

Other single roles are Duke Senior by Jim Perkins of Berger, Amiens by Fawayne Murphy of Dimmitt, Jaques by Roy Lowe of Amarillo, Charles by Larry Hamilton of Amarillo, Sir Oliver Martext by Charles Pierce of Canyon, Corin by Dan Stallings of Pampa, Pheobe by Jo Metcalf of Vega, and Audrey by Roberta Hickman of Canyon.

Appearing in dual roles will be

Meiwa Maru Hits Radio Active Water

ABOARD THE MEIWA MARU IN THE WESTERN PACIFIC (UPI) — The Japanese freighter Meiwa Maru moved away Monday from dangerous radio-activity from the U. S. nuclear testing grounds.

Another vessel, the Chowa Maru, reported from a spot 300 miles northwest of the Meiwa that it also ran into radio-activity. The freighter was 900 miles southeast of Bikini Atoll Sunday when it detected radioactivity of 400 counts per minute per liter in currents flowing from the direction of Bikini and Eniwetok.

Today the vessel was moving out of the contamination zone believed to extend 900 miles down current from Eniwetok.

Geiger counter instructions aboard the ship said a count of 400 was highly dangerous when contacted by the skin over a one-week period.

The ship's crew apparently suffered no injuries.

Men With Masks Get $2,500 In Beer Money Theft

GALVESTON (UPI) — Two bandits wearing Halloween-type rubber masks staged a bold daylight robbery at a busy intersection Monday and escaped with more than $2,500 taken from a beer truck driver.

The original get-away car was found abandoned eight blocks from the scene and witnesses said the two men, still wearing their masks, got into a light green 1953 Mercury and sped away.

The second car, owned by Fred Mabe, was found a short time later on a hotel parking lot. His brother, Jimmy Mabe, 16, was arrested by police as he walked away from the car.

The younger Mabe admitted he had been driving the car, but said he had had it all morning and had been working with his father, Fred Mabe Sr.

The bandits forced the truck driver, Joe Spragna, to the curb at 33rd and Avenue D at 10 a.m. One man jumped out of the 1949 green (Ford) automobile and stuck a .45 caliber pistol in Spragna's face.

"If you don't give me those bags I'm going to kill you," the bandit said to Spragna. The truck driver said he handed one bag to the man but he insisted that he give him the other bag of money.

"I tried to knock him down with the bag but missed," Spragna told police. He said the bandit grabbed the money bag and they fled.

The robbery was witnessed by a number of people, including a city crew working on a traffic light at the intersection.

"It all happened so fast that nobody had time to do anything," Spragna said.

Spragna is employed by the Pearl Distributing Co. An official of the firm said a check showed the bandits took $2,551 from the driver.

Huge Bond Issue Will Come To Perryton School Vote

(Special To The News) PERRYTON — Perryton School District voters will cast ballots July 19 on a $1,750,000 bond issue to finance new school construction.

A petition signed by taxpayers asking for the vote was presented to the board of education last week.

The taxpayers' petitions also called for a vote on raising the legal tax rate limit for the School District from 11 to 11.50. This request will be a separate question on the July 19 ballot.

Included in the issue will be money for construction of a new high school, another elementary school, purchase of land for the high school, remodeling of the present school buildings and equipment for the two new schools.

Plans call for the elementary school to be ready for occupancy at the beginning of the 1959 school term and the high school completed one year later.

Overcrowding of existing facilities and anticipated increases in enrollment in the Perryton school system have made the construction of new buildings an absolute necessity.

All available space will have been converted to classroom use in the elementary school this year. An enrollment of 849 pupils is expected in the first five grades this year with 917 expected in the beginning of the next term. Studies indicate that enrollment will rise steadily in those five grades, reaching 1474 by the start of the 1963 school year.

comparison to an enrollment of 376 this year, 431 are expected next year, 479 in 1959 and 794 by the start of the 1963 academic year.

Junior high increases will require conversion of the present high school to use for the middle three grades which had 333 enrolled last year. Estimates show 410 enrolling this fall, 501 next fall and 707 five years from now, in 1963.

Plans call for abandoning the present classifications after the new buildings are completed. Now the elementary schools have grades one through five, junior high enrolls grades six through eight and high school students comprise the remainder of the enrollment. A 6-3-3 plan planned beginning in 1958. Eighteen classroom buildings in the elementary school which will be built school in ready owned land. It will also southwest of Perryton, principal's office for 650 students will be in the new high school building for high school by 1963. A 6-3-3 plan will make the building adequate for the top three grades.

The classroom phase of the building will be designed to permit expansion of the number of rooms for future population growth. Heating, utilities and service rooms are being designed for a total enrollment of 800-900 due to the greater difficulty in expanding these facilities.

Baseball Writers Making It Rough On Mark Busters

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI)—The Baseball Writers Assn. has adopted three rules changes to clarify future records on individual playing and batting streaks.

The changes were voted by the writers, 26-8, at their annual mid-summer meeting Monday night in connection with the major league All-Star game. They arose from disputed cases in the past.

Phillips Pops Lefors By 9-1

Phillips got steady five-hit hurling from the strong right arm of James Shew Monday night in coasting to an easy 9-1 victory over Lefors.

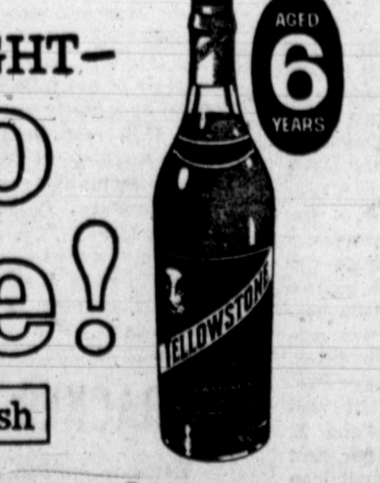

1. In regard to streaks on consecutive games played, in order for a player now to get credit for an appearance in a game for streak purposes he must either have one at-bat in which he is retired or reaches base or he must play at least one inning in the field. An appearance only as

2. A consecutive times-at-bat or games batting streak shall not be broken by at-bats resulting in bases on balls, hit by pitcher, sacrifice bunt, or a play on which the batter is awarded first base because of interference. After such argument, the writers decided not to include sacrifice flies among these exemptions.

3. All performances in a game which is suspended on one date and then completed on another shall count as having been performed on the original playing date for streak purposes.

Many baseball observers expressed the opinion that the new rules will make it almost impossible ever to break such records as Lou Gehrig's major league mark of playing in 2,130 consecutive games or Stan Musial's National League consecutive game record of 895. Gehrig and Musial both included in their streaks games which might not qualify under the new rules.

However, it was also believed that the new record would make it somewhat easier to break such a record as Joe DiMaggio's mark of hitting safely in 56 straight games. Now a batter need no longer fear that his attempt to break this mark will be broken by a game in which he is walked three or four times.

Ike, Adams And Korea

If the Republicans were not already in enough difficulties, the recent expose concerning Sherman Adams, his hotel bills, his relationship with Boston industrialist Goldfine, not to mention a fine vicuna overcoat, may have supplied the missing ingredients. The GOP has hit a snag, and a big one. It is entirely within the realm of possibility that the "old guard" is about to face its final changing.

In previous times, whenever some event of potential slander seemed brewing in the wings, it was enough to say that President Eisenhower was personally popular, and the various dissident factions, and the separate fractious individuals were neatly corralled into mute and servile docility.

In the latest event, no such corraling appears possible. Democrats and Republicans alike are somewhat amazed at Ike's insistence that he "needs" Mr. Adams. Apparently Mr. Adams, in the President's mind, is the single indispensable ingredient of his regime. And we wonder just what that means.

Mr. Eisenhower has taken numerous opportunities in the past to turn his back on Republican stalwarts who happened to cross his will. It is believed, by many, that not only did the leader of the Republican party turn his back, but that he actively assisted in ousting certain figures who were opposed to him—and this, despite a weakening in the ranks of the Republicans thereby achieved.

So, ir- standing firmly behind Adams, Mr. Eisenhower has departed from his custom. The departure from custom has fiery portents.

There are those who insist that Mr. Eisenhower has always been an enemy of the Republican Party despite the fact that he enjoys the position in it of nominal leadership. If this enmity is real, Mr. Eisenhower's defense of Adams is fully in character. Nothing futher should be needed to disabuse the public mind as to the frailty and lack of principle in the GOP.

This is particularly important since Mr. Eisenhower rose to power while himself accusing Democrats of accepting mink coats, refrigerators and other favors from devoted party followers. The shoe is firmly on the other foot, and Ike, even more than Adams, has put it there.

The degree of hostility against Eisenhower arising over this issue is illustrated by a little heralded event which originated in Glenwood Springs, Colorado. In this mountain community, Captain Eugene R. Guild has headed up an organization known as "Fighting Homefolks of Fighting Men." It has been Guild's chief objective to cause a return or at least an accounting for of the American soldiers and airmen abandoned in Korea by both the United Nations and the United States. For all the years since the end of the Korean fighting, Captain Guild has labored in vain.

Now the Adams affair has set him off again, and it is possible that this time he may have struck a vital nerve.

Five parents of missing boys in Korea, who are all members of Guild's organization, have announced that they are mailing to President Eisenhower the coats of their sons, still missing and believed alive in Red Chinese prisons. A letter from Rita Van Wees, one of the mothers, which accompanies her son's coat, makes interesting reading:

Dear Mr. President:

"Your Mr. Hagerty says it's all right if people give you presents. Well, it seems logical insurance if someone gets in trouble later."

"Well, my son, Corporal Ronnie Van Wees got into trouble fighting the Communists in Korea. He is still missing in action, maybe still held alive by the Communists like the other 450.

"Now I haven't any vicuna coats or vicuna material to send you, so I am sending with this letter Ronnie's coat. It is of good material, and he did not wear it much."

"I hope that if a lot of mothers send you their missing boys' coats they will remind you that you forgot to do something about Mr. Zablocki's resolution last year, urging you to take action to liberate or get an accounting of our missing sons.

"Maybe you could help Ronnie and his buddies by picking up a telephone like Sherman Adams did."

Even if Mr. Adams intercepts this letter at the palace gate, as has been his custom, it is possible that some reaction will issue.

"Voluntary Taxation— A New Political Concept"

I want to reproduce an article in the June 14 issue of "National Review" written by Mildred Adams McLearn under the above heading.

Mrs. McLearn uses the word "taxation" rather loosely because there can be no such thing as "voluntary taxation." In the rest of her article she talks about voluntary support, and, of course, that is what she means by taxation. It does not seem to me that her theory is a new concept because the Declaration of Independence says that governments derive their just power from the consent of the governed. This concept was never put into practice as the Constitution permitted the Federal Government to have certain excise taxes and tariff taxes.

Here is the way Mrs. McLearn presents her case: "So far, all of us have been attempting to combat Communism—and all forms of collectivism—by employing middle - of - the road ideas and policies. This strategy is producing defeat in the cold war, and loss of our domestic liberty. A winning strategy would require us to oppose the socialist principle of solving every problem with government force over the individual. We must face the elementary logic of the situation; either our way of life is effective enough to serve us now, or it is inadequate and we should give up the pretense that we are fighting for it.

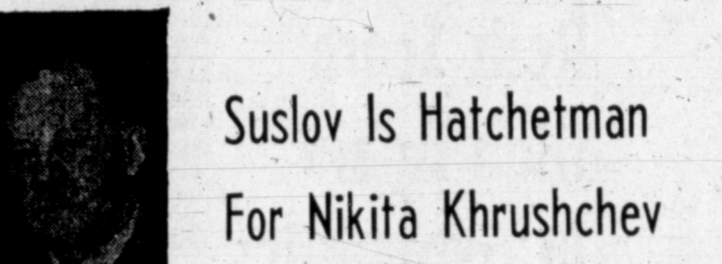

"But no one has risen up to champion, wholly and unreservedly, the principle of individual liberty. Even the individualists, who stand for voluntary action, have left a great Trojan Horse in their system for the use of the collectivist worshippers of coercion. This is compulsory taxation. The Founding Fathers tried to solve man's eternal problem of liberty and government by conducting one of the noblest experiments in human history. But there was a fatal flaw in the Constitution they drafted, and this flaw ate at the heart of America and finally corrupted the government. That a flaw was forced taxation. For the Fathers failed to realize that all compulsory taxation is tyranny, with or without representation. Grant coercive taxation, and the resulting monopoly of force, to a gang of politicians and bureaucrats, and the consequence is the very destruction of the Constitution that we are watching helplessly today. Of what use are 'checks and balances' when each of these checks is corrupted by the arbitrary power of forced taxation, and all branches can cooperate to aggrandize government? Forced taxation is the root of tyranny, and from this root the bureaucracy has grown and misinterpreted the Constitution almost at will. The solution, then, is to adopt the principle of pure liberty: voluntary, instead of coercive, support of government. In all of society, government is the only agency which obtains its revenue by force and violence. Men have cooperated voluntarily to build our civilization; voluntary methods have financed great productive aggregations of capital, great universities, Rotary Clubs, works of charity, and our whole nationwide free market. All of these obtain their revenue by voluntary purchase or gift. Why not government."

Linked To The Vote
"How might voluntary taxation work? Let's start with the franchise. The religious base of self-government is the faith that each man is worthy of the dignity of personal responsibility. Efforts to implement this belief have led to the free universal franchise, which ignores the fact that there can be no such thing as something for nothing in any field, whether in economics or voting. It is precisely this false assumption that underlies the free vote, which demagogues can easily exploit for their own purposes. We declare by law that a man (or woman) has the right to vote, but we don't attach any responsibility for its exercise. We must learn that for every human right there is a corresponding duty or responsibility. And unless authority (the power of the vote) and responsibility (the obligation to pay the cost of the decisions) are commensurate, freedom dies. For that which is not responsible is not free. And that which is not responsible is not moral. Morality presupposes the absence of power of one person over another. Every man must pay the price of his own decision. "Under voluntary taxation" the franchise would be based on the uncoerced willingness of the individual voter to pay his share of what is voted. This could take the form of a voluntary percentage income tax. A man's decision to vote (and to pay his share of the cost of government) would be made at registration time. Registration day would be the due date for the previous year's income tax returns to be mailed, and registration would merely consist in filing a voter's decision to exercise his franchise. "If registration day were set sufficiently in advance of election day, the revenue department could total all the incomes of the prospective voters and publish this figure along with the number of voters registered. This would permit the political parties to calculate what percentage of total income would be necessary to finance their various proposed programs. This percentage would ap-

You'd Think The World Would Learn

Robert Allen Reports:

Suslov Is Hatchetman For Nikita Khrushchev

WASHINGTON — The man who tried and executed former Hungarian Premier Imre Nagy and General Pal Maleter is Mikhail Suslov, Second Secretary of the Russian Communist Party. That has been definitely established by U.S. and British intelligence authorities. Suslov, a dour, fanatical Stalinite, who has been a close henchman of Premier Khrushchev throughout his tortuous rise to power, was sent by him to Hungary early in June for the express purpose of trying to slay the two betrayed leaders of the tragic 1956 revolt. During this period, foreign correspondents in Moscow reported the "mysterious" absence of Suslov. Some accounts went so far as to express the belief that he had fallen into disfavor and was being purged. It is now positively known that the real reason for Suslov's wide-discussed "disappearance" was his gory mission to execute Nagy and Maleter. As carefully pieced together by intelligence from Yugoslav, Iron Curtain and other informed sources, the main outlines of this barbarous perfidy and murder are as follows: Janos Kadar, Kremlin-installed head of the Hungarian Communist Party, who for a brief period was a member of Nagy's cabinet, balked at killing him and Maleter. Kadar contended that would lead to "disastrous consequences" abroad and at home. He favored imprisoning them for life, or equivalent of that. THE CRACKDOWN — This position was supported by other Hungarian Party leaders and in Poland and Czechoslovakia. The latter particularly warned against executing Nagy and Maleter because of the treacherous manner in which they had been seized. The revolt leaders had voluntarily left their refuge in the Yugoslav embassy on unequivocal assurances they would not be imprisoned. Confronted with this inner party resistance in the satellites, Khrushchev resorted to naked force. Soviet troops in Poland were reinforced and took up threatening positions. Similar movements occurred in Czechoslovakia. And Suslov suddenly arrived in Budapest and "took charge." The murder of Nagy and Maleter followed soon thereafter. This was Suslov's second key role in Hungary. In 1956 he played a leading part in crushing the revolt. When the Kremlin decided to smash the uprising Suslov was rushed there with the Russian tanks, and reinforcements. Throughout the bloody suppression Suslov was the actual ruler of prostrate Hungary. In appearance, manner and ideology, he is every inch the communist killer. He has also had the personal supervision of both Stalin and Khrushchev. In all of the latter's fateful show-downs, Suslov has been one of his chief hatchetmen. In last year's touch-and-go Presidential struggle, Suslov was a major factor in Khrushchev's hair-breadth victory. Later it was Suslov who wielded the ax on Marshal Zhukov. The World War II commander had sided with Khrushchev in the desperate Presidential battle, but subsequently was deemed too popular with the Russian people, so he was kicked out of the ruling clique while visiting Marshal Tito. Graphically indicative of the close ties between Khrushchev and Suslov is the significant fact that both are never out of Russia at the same time. NO PLEASURE TRIP — Another reason for that mysterious summoning to Moscow of six top Red ambassadors — among them "Smiling Mike" Menshikov in Washington. Exactly what transpired at this mystery-shrouded Presidential meeting is still not fully known. But it has been definitely ascertained that Khrushchev urgently needed the support of these six ambassadors, who are members of the Presidium and have a vote in its decisions. Apparently Khrushchev was confronted with another bitter challenge of his policies and rule. Congressional Foreign Policy leaders were given some light on this portentous situation by Assistant Secretary of State William Macomber, Jr. Briefing them regarding the explosive Lebanon strife, he was asked if the State Department "has drawn any conclusions concerning this curious recall of six Soviet ambassadors at one time." We believe it was due to the fact that Khrushchev had a very important decision before the Presidium, and wasn't sure he could put it over without the Macomber. "All these ambassadors are Khrushchev men, and he could be sure of their backing." "Have you any idea what this decision was?" "We have some information, but nothing positive as yet," said Macomber. "The matter is still under study."

RED FALLOUT — The Institute of Nuclear Research in Dubna, near Moscow, now has a synchrocyclotron capable of accelerating atomic particles with the energy of 840 million electronvolts. That is greatly in excess of present U.S. and British capabilities. Also working at this Institute are East Germany, Rumania, Bulgaria, Hungary, Poland, China and North Korea. . . . Poland is completing a research reactor at Swierk, near Warsaw. The power of this reactor is rated at two megawatts.

CRACKER BARREL

Bertram Russell and Albert Schweitzer, who are always telling us we should abandon our nuclear protection from the threatened brutality of Soviet Russia. BUT THEY HAVE NOTHING TO SAY ABOUT THE FATE OF THE HUNGARIAN PEOPLE. That's the horrible fate we will share if we abandon our defense. JACK MOFFITT

Honesty Gets Him Shipped Overseas

By HENRY McLEMORE

WASHINGTON — A young Army procurement officer is sadly wondering whether it pays to be honest! He was removed from a choice East Coast assignment and sent overseas when he turned over to superiors a $1,000 greenback that an Army contractor handed him in a sealed envelope at a dinner party. This embarrassing bill is now in the hands of Assistant Army Secretary Frank Higgins, in charge of logistics, who is still undecided what to do with it. Meanwhile, the contractor and his firm have been blacklisted by the Army. Details of this curious affair, as so far uncovered by congressional investigators, are as follows: The young procurement officer and his wife accepted a dinner invitation from this contractor. During the evening, the businessman handing the contractor a sealed envelope and asked him to open it when he got home. Later, when he did that, he was astounded to find a $1,000 greenback and nothing else. Early next morning, the young officer reported the matter to his superior. The superior immediately dispatched the $1,000 bill, envelope and a full account of the affair to the Pentagon, which ordered an investigation. It produced two findings: (1) The officer had never given the contractor any favors; (2) the latter had never asked for any. After much cogitating, Army authorities finally decided to take no legal action against the businessman. But he and his company have been barred from bidding on orders. And apparently to be "impartial," the Army rewarded the young officer for his honesty by relieving him of his job and sending him abroad. Disposition of the $1,000 bill is still being pondered by Assistant Secretary Higgins.

PRESIDENTIAL CARTEL — A remarkable proposal is being circulated among Democratic presidential aspirants. Under this backstage plan, the 1960 White House hopefuls would enter into a "gentleman's agreement" designed to avert expensive and time- and effort-consuming primary battles. Sponsored by Senator Humphrey (D. Minn.), this "Gentleman's agreement" would do the following: Set up a series of regional groupings in which one particular candidate would have a priority interest, subject to "favorite son" claims. "Favorite son" candidates would be encouraged to run in their own states, with other aspirants staying out of these primaries. In states where clashing factions are unable to get together, all of them to be included in a "compromise" delegation to the national convention. This intriguing scheme has evoked "favorable responses" from New York's Governor Averell Harriman, Michigan's Governor G. Mennen Williams, Adlai Stevenson, and former President Truman. Still to be heard from are New Jersey's Governor Robert Meyner, Senators Lyndon Johnson, Estes Kefauver, and Stuart Symington. Definitely cold to the idea is Senator John Kennedy. Some of his lieutenants go so far as to indicate they think the primary purpose of the plan is to block the young Bay Stater's flourishing presidential boom. They object particularly to two points. While favoring the encouraging of "favorite son" candidates to enter their state presidential primaries, the Kennedites are strongly against dividing the country into regional groups and constituting compromise delegations of warring factions. Kennedy himself is saying nothing about the proposal, in line with his policy of maintaining silence about the presidency until after his senatorial election in November.

DEMO POLITICALS — The Democrats, as well as the Republicans, are having a hard time getting campaign contributions. Recently this column disclosed that Representative Richard Simpson, Pa., chairman of the House Republican Campaign Committee, had to borrow $200,000 to meet election commitments. Now Representative Michael Kirwan, O., head of the House Democratic Campaign Committee, is telling party leaders his coffers are "virtually empty." He reported, "Contributions are running far behind 1956. We're having a harder time raising funds than we had in many years. . . . Former President Truman has agreed to open the Democratic campaign in Maryland to recapture that state, which the GOP have ruled for 10 years. Truman will address a $100-a-plate dinner in Baltimore on September 18. . . . Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt is sending out a personal letter, with a leaflet titled, "A Clean Politics Appeal," asking for funds for four western Democratic senatorial candidates — Representative Clair Engle, Calif., Representative Eugene McCarthy, Minn., Dr. Fred Anderson, Nev., and Professor Gale McGee, Wyo. Mrs. Roosevelt warmly lauds them as "exceptionally able, liberal and the kind of senators the nation urgently needs in these trying and dangerous times."

Hollywood Plays To The Continent

By VERNON SCOTT
United Press International

ROME (UPI)—Europe is more important to Hollywood now than a coral full of glamour girls and matinee idols because it is the lire, pounds, francs and marks that spell the difference between financial disaster and money in the bank.

Therefore it is important to movie moguls to know the likes and dislikes of European audiences.

As in the United States, Europeans generally prefer well-established stars — Clark Gable, Doris Day, William Holden, Jimmy Stewart. Teen-age idols Elvis Presley and Sal Mineo don't draw flies over here.

The average age of moviegoers throughout the continent is higher than in America where teen-agers largely support the boxoffice. Newcomers are thus tremendously handicapped.

U. S. Stars Unknown In France "The Long, Hot Summer" billboards display Orson Wells' picture and name in bold print, while the film's stars, oscar-winner Joanne Woodward and her husband Paul Newman, are lucky to edge into the small print.

Woodward and Newman aren't stars in Europe. Neither are their fellow actors studio graduates who currently slobber through screen roles in "realistic" fashion.

Musicals also are boxoffice poison here. The Italians, French and Austrians say the lyrics of the songs make little sense to them.

Shun Gangster Films
Westerns and other rough and tumble films in which brutality runs rampant are ill received by censors. Sex is not offensive to them and neither is nudity. Commentators take the undraped female figure with a shrug. But a maniac with a submachinegun unsettles censors and populace alike.

American gangster films are shunned.

Television is making inroads on movies in Europe. And Hollywood

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, on his Paris talks with French Premier Charles de Gaulle:

"I left with the impression that Premier De Gaulle is a man of wisdom and power and will do much for the problems that beset France so that France may play its rightful role in the world."

is beginning to feel the pinch. English movie audiences have fallen off sharply as video programs improve. Italians also are spending more time with their TV sets which has affected local movie-making as well as Hollywood imports.

WASHINGTON — Boston industrialist Bernard Goldfine, returning to Washington to undergo questioning by congressional influence investigators:

"It's nice for me to be back in Washington where the weather is warm. I hope the climate cool off by Tuesday, however."

MOSCOW — Russia, in a note to United Nations Secretary Dag Hammarskjold protesting demonstrations against its U. N. headquarters in New York last month:
