In the gubernatorial race, former Gov. W. Lee O'Daniej accused Gov. Price Daniel of mixing religion with politics in an appearance Friday with evangelist Billy Graham at a religious rally in San Antonio.

"I do not believe that religion should be mixed with dirty politics, but my opponent in this governor's race . . . has drafted a widely-known evangelist from North Carolina into his campaign at the 11th hour," O'Daniel said. Daniel had earlier said that he had "asked that no advance publicity be given to my participation so as to prevent anyone from injecting false political implications into a religious meeting."

Daniel campaigned in southeast Texas Wednesday. He answered a charge from Sen. Henry Gonzalez concerning old age pensions. Daniel said as U.S. senator and governor he had pushed legislation which actually boosted old age pensions $5 a month.

Gonzalez said if he were elected he would veto a general sales tax and said "I favor a tax on dedicated gas reserves if it should turn out to be necessary."

State Democratic Chairman Jim Lindsey spoke up, saying "The continually repeated charge of W. Lee O'Daniel that Gov. Price Daniel tried to get the state Dem-Executive Committee to his name off the ballot is a Taplets falschood."

LOTS TO EAT—Two large striped bass were caught in Long Island Sound by Jimmy Colon, 15, of Carle Place, N. Y. The lad fought half an hour to land the one at left, a 30-pounder believed to be the largest caught in the area so far this season.

AWAY SHE GOES—Jane Aull was skimming along nicely in the bay at San Diego, Cal., when, whoops!—this happened. She's about to splash into the water the hard way during some water ski and boat championships there.

MAYOK-LEAGUE — Mayor Florimond J. Bergeron of Willimantic, Conn., is batting a' ball for his own City League. The mayor suffered a heart attack not too long ago, and this appearance was his first real physical exercise he's had since that time.

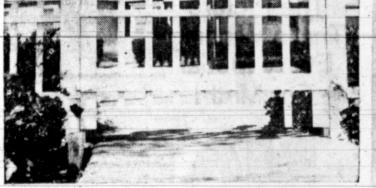

TODDLER FOR TENNIS—Born during lest year's tennis tourney in Wimbledon, England, tiny Pancho Wimbledon Contreras seems to be trying to follow dad's footsteps in that same city. His pop is Francisco Contreras, of Mexico, and the family was back in England for the tennis matches there.

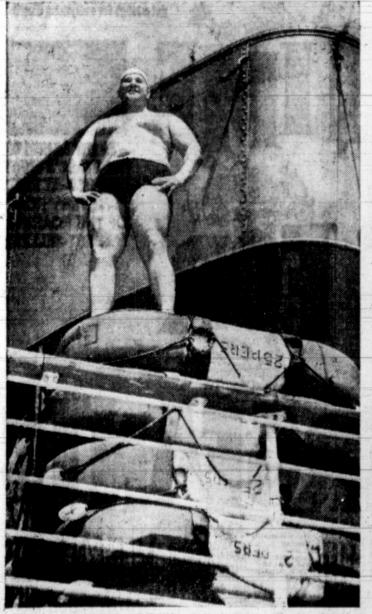

NOT WHAT IT SEEMS—Some sorrowing souls with heads bowed in Deauville, France, are not taking part in a funeral procession. Their loss is nothing more than a golf ball, hit by a competitor in an international golf tournament there. It's lying hidden in the tall grass beneath the searching glances of the spectators. Once found, the searchers will be their usual gay selves as the game is resumed.

SHOT PUT GAL—She's Cynthia Wyatt, of Williamsville, N. Y., shown as she prepared to hurl the shot at the Women's National A.A.U. Track and Field Championships at Morristown, N. J. She was the winner of the event with 39 feet, 3½ inches.

HIGH SPIRITS—Singer Andy Williams is leaping over the fence at his home in Los Angeles in answer to the dinner bell. Andy, who's more noted for his warbling than for his leaping, is minding the "Chevy Showroom" TV show out on the West Coast for the summer. The work gives him an appetite.

HIGH, AND HE'S MIGHTY—Billed as the Pacific Northwest's new Paul Bunyan, Bert Thomas, 32, of Tacoma, Wash., struck a pose atop some life rafts when he sailed from Hoboken, N. J., aboard the liner Nieuw Amsterdam. Thomas, who weighs 275 pounds, is an endurance swimmer and the first person to swim both Puget Sound and the Strait of Juan de Fuca. He'll try the English Channel over and back.

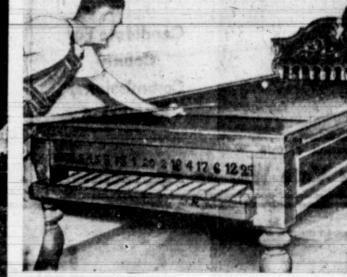

FOR THE RACES—New excitement is given to the look of leather with a jockey jacket in true racing colors. This one is done in blazing white calfskin with a bright band of blue on the jacket's yoke. The matching jockey pants are all white leather. A hobby horse lends a note of authenticity.

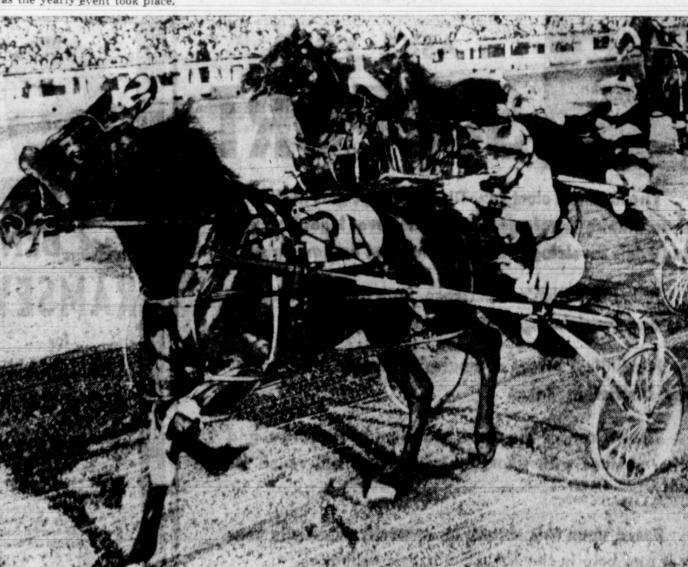

CANVAS SPECIALIST-In fact, Harwood Crawford specializes in two kinds of it. He's a commercial artist who does brilliantly plumaged birds for a calendar company. The same week he met welterweight Gaspar Ortega, of Mexico, the 24-year-old Crawford had an exhibit of his art work in Madison Square Garden. It's a toss-up between boxing and his other canvas work.

WINNING TEAM—Harvard University's Rowing Club, right, won by the narrow margin of two-thirds of a length, with Kent School Club, of the U.S.A., second in heat of the Thames Challenge Cup at Henley, England. Harvard's time was six minutes, 57 seconds. The river banks were lined with spectators as the yearly event took place.

GAME OF THE CENTURY—In Venedy, Ill., this billiard-like game table, thought to be more than 100 years old, is still in use. The player is trying his luck at a game called "pigeonhole," in which a ball is sent through numbered holes at the far end. The balls roll back through a chute.

PACE-MAKER-James Jordan keeps O'Brien Hanover out in front of the pack on the way to winning the $108,565 Messenger Stakes at Westbury. N. Y. The horse, frained by Del Miller, won the mile test in 2:01.4. Flying Time was second.

BORGER - Pampa's prolific portsider, Keith Yager, didn't exactly give a hoot what time Borger's All-Stars showed up at Huber Park for their scheduled 8 p.m. tilt here Wednesday night. But the crafty southpaw chunker was awfully happy the Borger outfit finally did make it, even if they were a full hour tardy.

Picking up steam with each appearance, Yager was in rare form Wednesday night as he tamed Borger with a stingy two hits and coasted to an easy 7-1 victory, his second in three decisions for Coach Deck Woldt's American Legion Rebels.

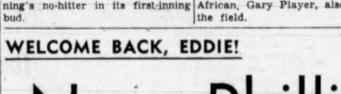

The game was an abbreviated five-frame tiff since it was nearly 9 p.m. before the two clubs got the show on the road, due to Borger's late appearance because of a schedule mixup.

Yager, who's been the workhorse of Woldt's pitching corps this summer, posted seven strikeouts to run his whiff total to 22 in 17 and two-thirds innings this season. He walked only two.

The Rebels will work out at 6:30 p.m. Friday in preparation for their Sunday game with the district champion Hanson Post Chiefs of Amarillo. The game will start at 3 p.m.

The verdict, second of the season for Pampa over Borger, a team they lambasted by a 13-6 score in their campaign opener back on June 28, put the Rebels record of the year at 5-2.

Two games remain on the Rebel KEITH YAGER schedule. They roll out the red . . . looks sharp carpet for district champion Hansen Post of Amarillo in a 3 p.m. game at Harvester Park in Pampa Sunday and then wind up their season on the Amarillo Air Base field against the Amjets next Tuesday night. Pony Stars Tear Woldt said he didn't plan on booking any more games for his charges after the Tuesday tilt at Amarillo. At present, Runnels has a clutch on a Boston billet which he dearly wishes to turn into a double hammerlock, or at least a crossover leg sissors with a rocking chair split.

A native of Lufkin, Texas, where he was a loud noise in the football fortunes during the twilight of the "Golden Era" at the East Texas high school after Abe Martin had left as head coach for greener pastures and before Buck Prejean arrived on the scene, Runnels lovingly caresses his pact with the Red Sox. And you can't blame him. Not one dollar's worth you can't Twelve years ago, if you had predicted that James Edward (Pete) Runnels would someday be the leading American League base-hitter with a trim .332 figure for the Boston Red Sox, we would have offered you an asprin, a seat in the shade and slipped away to call the men in the white coats.

When Runnels left Lufkin, with his one-suiter suitcase tucked beneath his arm, for his crack at professional baseball, there was a strapping hairychested fellow going with him. The big guy's name was Les

Campbell Is The Man

In terms of specific and concrete issues, the race for State Representative from the 87th District has produced little. In terms of underlying political philosophy, however, it has brought to light a definite variance between the two contenders for this office, incumbent Grainger McIlhany and Johnny Campbell.

Campbell, as many in the Texas Panhandle know, has devoted a considerable amount of time both as a private citizen and a candidate for office proclaiming his belief in the ability of a voluntary society to solve the major social and economic problems of the day. The reliance on government, Campbell contends, to handle those relationships which should be decided in the open market presents the spectre of the deadening hand of government control. Campbell, you might have noticed, is not promising any group anything except the judicious weighing of legislation in the light of his platform which sets itself firmly for free enterprise, a self-reliant citizenry and just treatment of all "special interests," whether large or small.

In last Monday's issue in this column, we pointed out that McIlhany was markedly disposed to represent causes particularly dear to those classified as left-of-center politically. Several years ago his position was, according to a Texas Manufacturers' Association rating, extremely favorable to the far left on key issues relative to a governmental climate favorable to business. This last session found him, on balance, with more votes "favorable" to the Texas CIO-AFL than "unfavorable."

In keeping with this philosophy, we note in last week's issue of the McLean News an ad for Mcllhany which says: "Vote for Grainger McIlhany and help free Texas from the influence of big business." This is the rather time-worn stirring of the old thesis of the so-called little man versus big business which has been the doctrine of the left-wingers for years and would appear to be harmonious with McIlhany's voting record. If Texas is under the "influence of big business," which we would dispute, under whose influence would McIlhany place Texas? The group attempting to assert the most influence to control government, both federal and state, is organized labor and yet McIlhany fails to mention this element.

BETTER JOBS By R. C. HOILES

Seeing Results Of Horra's Transport Monopoly

Year

James R. Hoffa, head of the Teams r's Union, has made known that half of all the nation's transport workers are now aligned in a permanent conference on transportation unity. He also prophesies that before the summer is over all of them will be enlisted in the new transport popular f.ont.

His aim seems to be to unite the teamsters, the railroads, the ware housemen, the airplanes and water transportation It doesn't seem hard to see that if any group has a complete monopoly on transporting goods the whole country will be at its mercy. This is true because goods are of no value unless they can be transported to where they are use-

It is difficult to understand why the American people can sit idly by and allow such gigantic power acquired by federal laws to come about. The federal law that makes these combinations legal is the Clayton Amendment to the Sherman Anti-Trust Law that allows farmers and workers to combine to form a monopoly that is not a erime according to the Sherman Anti-Trust Law. In other words, it exempts them from being crim inals when doing things that would be crimes if done by groups other than farmers and employes. If men could not exchange goods and services, most of us would perish in a few days. To give any group the power to stop people from exchanging is to violate the inalienable rights that each and every man received from his Creator. It, is undoubtedly because we believe we get. our natural rights from the government rather than from nature or God that we have been so shortsighted as to not recognize the serious results that are bound to follow combinations for restraint of trade. When men exchange goods and services they both benefit. In fact, everybody benefits because real wealth is added. We have been told so often that labor unions that interfere with people exchanging goods and services are beneficial to the worker. that many people actually believe it. Possibly we will have to have one big combination like transportation that can strangle us before we realize that any combination that interferes with men treely exchanging goods and services, whether it is a few or many, is harmful to everybody.

The trouble with learning by permitting such a combination as is proposed by Hoffa, is that when they get control they become as powerful and as tyrannical as any communistic government or any dictator that they are hard to overthrow. As one man pointed out about the only way a dictator can take over a country is by way of labor union monopoly. And if a combination of all transports cannot bring the American people to their knees, then nothing can. Beliefs Of course, what we have to do is to get people to change their beliefs; get them to see that when one man produces wealth, no matter how much, he benefits everybody in the world; that producing wealth is not like wars or gambling or labor union monopolies where one man gains and everybody else loses; to get people to see that they need not be afraid of large amounts of wealth being created by a few people will hurt no one, because in order to benefit the creators of this wealth it will have to be distributed. The owners of it will have to spend it for their own enjoyment, will have to give it away or loan it or reinvest it in tools and bid against other tool owners to get labor to operate these tools. They will also have to compete with other creators of wealth in selling their production. This will reduce prices just as bidding against other employers will raise wages. I can think of no other way of materially benefiting mankind as a whole. It is exactly the opposite than the theory advocated by Hoffa. Reuther and all labor leaders, that the way to promote higher wages is by the chaotic method of strikes and boycots made legal by the government, giving the laborers special advantages that others do not enjoy. Just think for a moment what Hoffa's proposed labor union would do to our economy. No one could build a house or transport food or even grow food of any quantity if they couldn't get the tools to cultivate the land. We couldn't have any entertainment any comforts of life that were not sanctioned by those who had dominion over us - that is, the transport labor monopoly. What's Needed What we need to do, of course, is to repeal the Clayton Amendment to the Sherman Anti-Trust Law and the Norris - Laguardia Law and put all men on the same basis where they have a right to sell their services to the world's highest bidder and no labor union, the state or federal government or any legislative body has a right to interfere with men voluntarily exchanging what they produc If we had a free and unhampered market where no one had special privileges, we would not have long veriods of unemployment, production would greatly go up, everybody would then more near ly get all they produce, men would not be spoiled by having a legal right to get more than they produce. They would be happier, healthier, and have goodwill in

Have you ever seen an 11-month It's a pitiful sight. His ears fly at half-mast, his tail droops like a stalk of boiled "asparagus and in his eyed one can read disappointment, heart-break and, worst of all, loss of faith in man, the creature to whom he is best friend.

This tragic tableau is staged at our house every day, and has been ever since May. For it was in May - the 28th to be exact that I had a wire from Beverly Hills telling me that "Charlie," our toy poodle, had been chosen to receive a Lassie Gold Award. As soon as I could calm down, I read the wire to "Charlie." As soon as he could calm down we told Mary, and when all three of us had calmed down, we started telling people of "Charlie's" honor. We took to the telephone and "Charlie" took to the sidewalks of the neighborhood.

In 24 hours after the news from California we had spread the word of "Charlie's" recognition by "Lassie" a good fifty miles in all directions: Since then, using the mails, we have notified half the country

"Charlie's" promise of a Lassie Gold Award changed our lives considerably, for the better at first, and now for the worse. For a while we were poointed out as the couple who owned "Charlie," the gold medal dog. People stopped by and asked if they could have a look at "Charlie." That was fine, and set us up no end. Then, about the middle of June, people began asking to see the medal. After a week or so of this, we started not answering the doorbell, and "Charlie" spent a great deal of time under the bed. Now we are known in the neigborhood as the people who just thought they owned a dog that was to get a gold medal. We're being talked about as fakers. "Charlie" has gotten so sensitive that when some passer-by leans over and ask, "Aren't you the little dog that has a gold medal? Well Where is it?" he either takes a snip at them or bows his head and walks away. If I had any dreaming idea what a Lassie Gold Medal looks like, would have a goldsmith strike me one. I can't afford a gold medal, but neither can I afford to have a poodle go to pieces before my eyes.

And "Charlie's" much too smart for me to try to deceive him with a phony medal like, say, a notary seal or a ginger ale bottle top. "Lassie" has long been a favorite of mine, but I am seriously thinking on punitive measures. I might put some fleas in my television set so that "Lassie" would catch them during a performance. It's a sneaky thing to do, I'll admit, but no worse than promising medals and then forgetting all about it.

The worse thing is that "Charlie" is in his most formative months. If he were ten years old, and a dog of the world, he could handle it. But right now - well wish you could see him sitting out on the porch waiting for the postman, one paw stroking the collar where a shiny, new medal should be hanging.

The Nation's Press LAW OR NO LAW, THERE IS

A RIGHT TO WORK!

(The Saturday Evening Post) The poor showing made by Sen ator Knowland in the recent Califorma primary election is being cited as evidence of a national disapproval of right-to-work laws. He had based much of his campaign for governor on the Republican ticket on that issue. However, it is a little early for friends of the common man in the labor unions to throw in the towel. In several states right-towork candidates fared better. In Alabama, Attorney General Patterson won convincingly against a candidate who vigorously opposed legislation to protect rank-and-file workers from exploitation by goon and politically ambitious union bosses. Successes were scored also in New Jersey, Illinois, Indiana and New Mexico by candidates who showed independence of union backing.

Whatever happens to right-towork laws, the Supreme Court, in g recent decision, has

The truly principled man in political life has little to say about "bringing home the bacon" to his constituents for he recognizes the danger in making government the confiscator and distributor of tax funds to the special benefit of groups or sections. Rather, an awareness of the inimical implications of such practices marks the man who should fill public office and Johnny Campbell is a man possessed of this awareness.

Prior to this election there has been little choice between the philosophies of candidates for state representative and it behooves every holder of a poll tax to make the most of his vote by affirming this area's historic belief in the free enterprise system and limited government with a vote for Johnny Campbell.

The secret plan for Khrushchev to make a hoopla visit to Egypt was inadvertently disclosed by Nasser himself.

dent Gamal Nasser. But Intelligence is doubtful Khrushchev now

Nasser extended the invitation for this trip during his 18-day stay

in Russia last month. Khrushchev accepted on the spot, and preparations were begun to make the visit a resounding event. It would be the Soviet ruler's first journey to Africa, and the utmost was to be made of it - particularly for

But from Iron Curtain and other authoritative sources, latest Intelligence deductions are that Khrushchev now will not go to Egypt.

anti-U.S. propaganda.

The Arab dictator did that in a chat with Ambassador Raymond Hare.

The U.S. envoy had inquired about Nasser's announced intention to make a trip this summer to Italy, Apparently without thinking Nasser replied he hadn't decided whether he would go there before or after Khrushchey's visit to Egypt.

Hare instantly asked, "When will that be?" Nasser answered, "Around August 1, on your calendar."

With that, Nasser clammed up, Ambassador Hare has been unable to get any more from him about this matter. But Intelligence has obtained additional information including the latest word that it's now unlikely Khrushchev will go through with the plan.

THE RING LEADER - Cairo has become the Moscow for Afro-Asian nationalists. A detailed Intelligence report cites a long list of Afro-Asian nationalist organizations which now have their headquarters in the Egyptian capital. Many, if not all, of them are subsidized by Nasser. Latest to set up such offices in Cairo are: A Red-tinged nationalist organization from French Equatorial Africa; another from Uganda; both housed in a villa provided by Nasser; a third pro-Communist group from Kenya, led by a trio which recent ly returned from an extended stay in Russia as "Kremlin guests'

. Senator Styles Bridges, N.H., chairman of the Republican Policy Committee, is taking a lot of credit for persuading President Eisenhower to send troops to Lebanon. Bridges is telling colleagues, "I went to the White House at 8 o'clock Monday morning, after I was tipped off that President Chamoun wanted us to intervene. I told Ike that we had to act forthwith or the whole Middle East would be lost. He told me, 'I guess you're right,' and got busy' Central Intelligence Director Allen Dulles is privately cautioning congressional leaders that "it's entirely possible Russia will resort to volunteers. It has the manpower and other means to do that.'

NO TROOP CUT - Senate bipartisan leaders are bluntly demanding the cancellation of Administration plans to slash the armed forces by 275,000 men. They served this demand on Deington, "This cutback is nothing less than suicidal. The only way it can possibly be justified is that the danger is less, and you can hardly say that."

"It's the policy of the President," declared McNeil.

"How many boys were drafted into the Army last month?" asked Symington.

"Somewhere around 13,000." said McNeil, "Then why cut 25,000 volunteers from the Marine Corps?" demanded Symington. "These men are professional soldiers; highly trained and willing to serve. Why eliminate them and then draft boys off the farm and from the cities?"

"I have asked that question myself," admitted McNeil, "but I've never been given a good answer."

"You have given me one," said Symington. "We're going to see to it this incoherence and absurdity. stops."

Missile director William Holaday also came in for caustic grilling by the two Senate leaders.

Holaday asserted the Defense Department is planning to spend $6 billion in the next few years to improve the nation's anti-aircraft defenses. He cited particularly a new anti-missile missile.

"The real truth is." retorted Symington, "that we have no defense now against ballistic missiles; isn't that right?"

"Yes, that is true," admitted Holaday.

"Yet you tell us you propose to spend billions on a guided missile which will not have the capability of knocking down ballistic missiles that the Russians can launch from planes or submarinen," sais Symington. "Why do that?"

Holaday made no reply. Senator Bridges asked about the number of cargo-type planes being produced monthly

"Isn't it a fact we're only making one of them a month?" he asked.

"Yes." admitted McNeil.

"That is shocking, in view of what is transpiring in the Middle East," said Symington. "Here we are, cutting back our military forces, producing only one cargo plane a month for our strategic airlift at a time when conditions throughout the world are going from bad to worse. It is nothing short of outrageous and fantastic. Undersecretary Quarles promised to take these matters up with the President when Defense Secretary McElroy returned from the atomic tests in the Pacific. NOTE: Under the proposed Administration cuts, the Army would lose 130,000; the Air Force 70,000; the Navy 50,000; and the Marines 25.000. Overall military strength would be reduced to 2,682,000.

conceded that there is at least a right to work. The court upheld the right of an Alabama worker who had been forced by union pickets to remain unemployed and whose automobile had been damaged in a violent assault, to sue in the state courts. Chief Justice Warren in a dissenting opinion made this extraordinary statement:

"There is a very real prospect of staggering punitive damages accumulated through successive actions by members who have succumbed to the emotion that freguently accompanies concerted activities during labor unrest."

In other words, a worker who is beaten up by pickets, his property damaged and his family terrorized should have no redress because the union might have to

To curb goon violence, which is part of a calculated campaign of terror, it is hardly sufficient to give the aggrieved worker the right to sue the union for damages, a right which he seldom has the hardihood to exercise. The rankand-file worker should be protected by law in his right to join or not to join a labor union as he is protected in his right to choose a church or a chain store.

It is seldom mentioned by opponents of right-to-work laws, but one giant in the labor movement who had serious doubts about the right of unions to decide who should work and who should not was the late Samuel Gompers. In the 1925 edition of his autobiography, Seventy Years of Life and Labor (Dutton), Gompers, after giving an account of an encounter with a man who had been thrown out of a union for strikebreaking wrote: "I held and I hold that if a union expels a member and he is deprived of his livelihood, in theory or in fact, in so far as he and his dependents upon him are concerned, it is capital punishment.'

Last year an abridged edition of the Gompers biography appeared under the editorship of Prof. Philip Taft, of Brown University. and John A. Sessions, a former professor now associated with the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union. Unfortunately this edition omits the great emancipator's comment that exclusion from membership in a union could amount to "capital punishment". If a man can be deprived of the right to work because of nonmembership in a union, he can easily be the victim of the capital punishment described by Mr. Gompers. Indeed, the files of the Mc-Clellan Committee contain many tragic letters from men who are walking the streets in search of work after incurring the displeas ure of a union leader and have lost their jobs because of union shop agreements!
