Russian Rocket Overshoots Moon

Man-Made Planet Will Orbit Sun

By HENRY SHAPIRO
United Press International

MOSCOW (UPI) — Russia's moon rocket will overshoot its goal and orbit around the sun millions of miles in space as the first man-made satellite, the Soviets said Saturday. Nikita S. Khrushchev hailed the flight as a "new victory for communism."

Preliminary calculations reported by the Tass news agency showed that the massive rocket will reach its nearest point to the sun at a distance of some two million miles from the earth, on Jan. 14. It will go into a 213,502,000-mile orbit around the central body of the solar system. Each circuit will take 15 months, Tass said.

The sun is 92,000,000 miles from earth. Tass said the rocket would travel 90,968,000 miles from the earth before going into orbit around the sun.

"The 'Moonik' with its payload of almost half a ton of scientific instruments will miss its original goal, the moon, because its speed was too great.

Despite the failure to reach the original target, the Russians were jubilant.

In a speech at Minsk, celebrating the 40th anniversary of the Byelo-Russian Republic, Khrushchev said the launching "signifies we are the first in the world to map out the way from the earth to the moon."

The Soviet news agency Tass quoted Khrushchev as saying the moonshot "dissipates slander" against communism by its enemies.

Soviet scientists said the moonshot was the first time man has achieved a speed allowing a rocket to break away from the pull of earth's gravity and soar into interplanetary space. A spokesman called it "a true last rehearsal for the real cosmic journey" to the planets.

Milestone for Science
Khrushchev said it was a "new victory of the USSR" which opens up "vast opportunities for the growth of girls and talents in which the Russian people are so rich."

Russia is second in world industrial production after the United States, he said, but first in the creation and production of the intercontinental rockets, the launching of the artificial earth satellites and many other achievements of science and technology. The speed and course of the rocket and its breakthrough from gravity was a spectacular milestone for Soviet science that overshadowed the fact that the rocket with its 3,245.7-pound last stage will bypass its primary goal: "The area of the moon."

Two Boys Find Clothes From Kidnaped Baby

NEW YORK (UPI)—Two boys playing in an abandoned Brooklyn building Saturday found a pink kimono and blanket in which an infant less than three hours old was bundled when a bleach-blonde kidnaped her from a hospital basement.

The blanket, kimono and a white garment, believed by police to be a diaper, were found in a hallway of the building, about three miles from the hospital. Hospital officials identified the garments as the ones issued to the baby and police pathologists immediately began examining them.

Police said the woman believed to have snatched Lisa Rose Chionchio from the fourth-floor nursery at St. Peter's Hospital in Brooklyn apparently had set out to take a baby from another hospital, only three blocks away. She was frightened away from that hospital, however, and went to St. Peter's instead to select a baby at random.

Lisa Rose was stolen at about 11:45 p.m. Friday. She was born at 9:17 p.m. to Frank Chionchio, 28, an attorney for the Port of New York Authority, and his 26-year-old wife, Frances. They have one other child, a 1-year-old girl.

—Father Sees Baby
Shortly after Chionchio had his first glimpse of his new daughter, she was stolen from her bassinets, presumably by a woman who had been seen lurking near the nursery. The woman managed to get past a nurse and a night watchman without stirring suspicion. She carried the baby into a near-freezing night wrapped only in a pink cotton and wool hospital blanket.

Science, Ever-Changing Dr. Myers Declares

By WALLY TRUESDELL
Daily News Staff Writer

In a little old New York research outfit, a man with three degrees is looking for some way to keep pathological bacteria out of textiles. The man is Dr. John T. Myers, father of John C. Myers, 420 N. Wells.

Dr. Myers, who knows three languages, commented on his work last week while vacationing with his son and daughter-in-law.

Dr. Myers is medical director of Bentine and Schlesinger, a firm that has stood at the same street corner of New York City since 1843. At one time it marked the northern boundary of little old New York.

Although the firm got its start as a retail pharmacy, it is now more toward research than toward drug store practices, Dr. Myers observes.

A paper is now in the works that will tell textile manufacturers how to treat fabrics for bacteria. The object is to "prevent mold growth which destroys fabric," says Dr. Myers. This has both a medical and an industrial application as pathological bacteria can cause illness, he explains.

"New chemicals prevent bacterial mold growth so that cloth will not carry bacteria from one part of the body to another or to other people," reports Dr. Myers.

These chemical-bacteriological studies are based on the use of various chemical compounds to check the growth of known bacteria and molds.

Dr. Myers did his undergraduate work at Washburn College, Topeka, Kan. He got his Master's degree in chemistry and bacteriology from the University of Kansas and his Ph.D. in bacteriology and sanitary engineering from the University of Chicago. Later he received a "Medical degree from the University of Nebraska where he taught.

He is originally from Lawrence, Kan.

Dr. Myers' knowledge of Languages comes in handy when he makes chemical abstracts for the American Chemical Society. A few of his assigned journals are written in German and French. He is assigned 18 scientific journals a month to brief for Chemical Abstracts, a publication of the ACS.

The doctor and others like him abstract articles from 700 different scientific publications every month.

"It's the only way I can keep up," says Dr. Myers. "Things are happening so fast in the scientific

Arline Judge Heads For TV Comeback

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Arline Judge, much-married glamour girl of the 30s, is headed for a comeback in a television series starring former heavyweight champion Max Baer.

Absent from movies for 10 years, Arline returned to circulation two months ago as a talent agent for young performers.

When she braced oldtime friends for her clients, the agents responded by offering Arline jobs.

"It was embarrassing," Arline smiled. "Instead of talking about my clients, we'd end up discussing the possibilities of resuming my own career. Now I'm anxious to perform again."

"But I have" started Larry Gray world that it's all you can do to keep up with what's happening in your field."

son, a 25-year-old singer, on his way. He's playing in Las Vegas right now, and I'm sure he'll become a star.

Arline currently is living with her seventh husband, inventor Edward Cooper Heard, in a Beverly Hills mansion, along with two sons by previous marriages, Dan Topping Jr. (a UCLA student), and Wesley Ruggles Jr. (a movie director).

"My last picture was 'The Sin of Harold Diddlebock,' back in 1948," the actress said. "And I've never appeared on television at all."

"Max Baer and I are making a pilot film titled 'Maxie's Bar.' But it's not what it sounds like. It's a soda fountain bar for teenagers with Max and me running the place. Strictly for laughs."

"I enjoyed making pictures, and doing a series with Max would be more fun than work

HAUL DOWN FLAG

SWINDON, England (UPI)—A group of Swindon movie theater Friday nighters had a Nazi flag being flown to advertise a war film. A crowd besieged the theater while young men tore the flag from the flatstaff and threw it to the ground, where it was trampled in the mud. The theater manager flew the flag before the Union Jack to advertise the war film "Sea of Sand."

"I'm also thinking about a daytime TV show interviewing all my old co-stars. I made about a hundred movies, and I like to include some film clips from them, too."

At 46 Arline still is an attractive woman. She's confident her new career will be successful.

Committee Hits Insurance Failure

AUSTIN (UPI)—A report by a state Senate investigating committee criticized state insurance officials in connection with the failure of the defunct Estate Life Insurance Co. of Amarillo.

The report of the committee, headed by Sen. Charles Herring of Austin, was issued Thursday. It summarized hearings of December, 1957 and February, 1958. In December, 1957, senate investigators revealed the former president of Estate Life, John L. McCarty, had given $2,000 in cash to a veteran insurance department employee, J. W. Pierson of Dallas, who was later fired.

The report stated that Pierson sought out Estate Life as a prospect to assume the industrial and ordinary life insurance obligations of a Dallas company which was in receivership.

The firm was Physicians Life and Accident Insurance Co. of Dallas.

Deprived of Rights
The report said transfer of the insurance obligations was made "with little or no effort being made" by state officials or Estate Life management to examine the business or accurately determine the amount of obligations necessary to protect policyholders.

"Diligence in the enforcement of existing insurance laws would have prevented the consummation of this transaction which resulted in irreparable harm to the policyholders of both Estate Life Insurance Co. and Physicians Life Insurance Co."

The report added that the transfer, without transfer of assets, authorized by then insurance liquidator J. D. Wheeler with approval of Harrison, deprived policyholders of Physicians Life of their rights as general creditors under the Physicians Life receivership.

Plan Devised
Although it was well known that Estate Life lacked sufficient assets to meet the financial requirements demanded by assumption

Thousand Die In '58 Fires

BOSTON (UPI)—Nearly 1,000 persons died every month in fires across the nation in 1958, and flames caused the highest amount of property damage in history, the National Fire Protection Assn. said today.

Preliminary estimates by the non-profit organization's fire record department showed fire-caused deaths totaled 11,500, an increase of about 200 over 1957, but under the 12,100 record of 1954.

The property loss total, $1,915,000,000, was a record. It represented an increase of 25 million dollars over 1957.

The worst single tragedy was in Chicago where 90 children and three teachers died in a parochial school fire Dec. 1. The association pointed out that the same number of persons died in fires over the four-day Christmas holiday.

The worst fire in terms of property loss was an oil refinery blaze at Signal Hill, Calif. May 22 which did nine million dollars damage, the report said.

There are more than 35 names for the small mouth bass.

AROUND THE WORLD

WINTER WONDERLAND—Pausing to admire this snowy scene, a couple gazes at lights gleaming over the fresh snow outside the stately Hotel Plaza in Manhattan. They were on their way to the Wollman Memorial Skating Rink in Central Park, but had stopped to enjoy the wintry panorama in the big city.

SKATING DESIGNER—Three years ago, Sheila Muldowny traded her ice skates for a sketching pad. Today, the former figure skater is a designer of clothes for active sportswomen. Before turning fashion pro, the 23-year-old miss made her own costumes. Now she's also making them for a lot of other women.

OVERHEAD—Clothes hanging on the sidelines look like signal flags for a soccer game being played in foggy London, England. Perhaps the drying wash spells out the message that "England expects every player to do his duty."

TALLY HO!—Wearing his Western costume, actor Hugh O'Brien joined an English fox hunt in Thoburnborough, England. O'Brien portrays frontier marshal Wyatt Earp in his television series and those new-found canine friends seemed to take quite a fancy to him. O'Brien rode with the hunters until the hounds caught the scent.

WARMING UP—Determined to keep warm during an outdoor jaunt, the carefree competitor at left wears pajamas, but carries extra clothing during a race over hill and dale at Brussels, Belgium. The cross-country race is an annual event in the Belgian capital.

EYE-CATCHER—Enough to make any fisherman reel, Florance Crow, of Cypress Gardens, Fla., turns her curves to angling. What poor fish wouldn't be perfectly content to fall for such nice lines and wind up decorating a well-set dinner table!

JUST THE THING—Charley Winner (left), backfield coach of the Baltimore Colts, is comparing sneakers with Steve Myhra, field goal kicker of the Colts, in Baltimore, Md. They had to wear them to gain better traction when the playing field was frozen.

OVER THE HURDLES—Ynon Jolin, of Montreal, Que., is up and over as he trains for the ninth annual world barrel jumping championship competition at the Grossinger, N. Y., Country Club. It will be held there in January.

SIREN SONG—Singing star Jane Morgan is holding up mighty good evidence that she's pretty apt with rod and reel. She's singing at a hotel in Las Vegas, Nev., and hooked those tasty bass in nearby Lake Mead. Jane's got enough of them to supply the hotel where she's working.

LUTHERAN CHURCH IS MOTHER CHURCH OF PROTESTANTISM

EDITORS: This is the 19th in an intermittent series of dispatches profiling America's major religious bodies.

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

The "mother church of Protestantism" is rapidly overcoming the peculiar handicaps that history imposed on its growth in America.

The number of Lutherans in this country has increased by more than 50 per cent since World War II. Now nearly 8 million strong, the Lutherans rank after the Baptists and Methodists, as America's third largest Protestant denomination.

Scandinavia. And this is a clue to the special problem which the church has faced in America. It has been identified, for more than 200 years, as a church that primarily serves German and Scandinavian immigrants.

Established in 1638, the first Lutheran congregation in the New World was established in 1638 by a group of Swedes who settled along the Delaware River.

die West, where most of the immigrants settled. There were German-Lutheran churches for the Germans, Swedish-Lutheran churches for the Swedes, Danish-Lutheran churches for the Danes, and so on. Most of them conducted services in the congregation's native European language rather than in English.

Entrenched in Tradition
By the time the great waves of immigration ended early in the present century, U. S. Lutheran churches were deeply entrenched in a tradition that set them apart from each other, and from the main stream of American life.

During the 19th Century, millions of German and Scandinavian immigrants came to America. And with them they brought, not merely the Lutheran faith, but the particular expression of it that they had known in the national churches of their homelands.

Justification by grace, through faith. Man is by nature so sinful and self-centered that he is utterly unable to redeem himself through good works or even sustained good intentions. Because man is helpless, God comes down to him in Christ and does everything that needs to be done to save him.

Doctrinal Differences
Why don't they all merge into one "big Lutheran church"? Many Lutherans believe that will happen, eventually. The chief obstacle to full unity is that some Lutheran bodies (for example, the Missouri Synod) are more conservative than others (for example, the United Lutheran church) in their doctrinal differences.

These doctrinal differences are important to Lutherans, who are the most theologically-minded of Protestants. But the points on which Lutherans differ seem to an outsider at least, to be relatively minor compared to the great body of faith which they all hold in common.

Fidel Castro Built Revolt From Corps Of Only 12 Men

Personality Spotlight
United Press International
Fidel Castro—Cuban rebel leader.

At 32, Fidel Castro has established himself as one of the great political adventurers of modern times.

This angry, intense young lawyer built his massive opposition to the government of Cuban President Fulgenio Batista from a corps of 12 men, the survivors of 81 captives who landed in Oriente Province from Mexico on Dec. 1, 1956.

Castro was not too well known to most Cubans then—just another of the score of political leaders who hoped to rally a agitation against the autocrat Batista. But two years of steady, if not always successful, warfare rallied to Castro the overwhelming support of freedom-loving Cubans that toppled Batista Thursday.

The big, sturdy, low-voice revolutionary was born Aug. 13, 1926 to a Spanish father and an aristocratic Cuban mother. The senior Castro, a rich sugar cane and cattle rancher, died in 1956 and left his six children a fortune. By that time Fidel and his brother Raul had dedicated their all to the deposition of Batista.

Castro swears he is strongly opposed to Communism; but his second-in-command, brother Raul, is known to have spent two weeks behind the Iron Curtain attending an international student congress.

Castro's announced program, when he invaded Cuba two years ago, was for quick nationalization of the nation's industries, but he has since watered down his economic program as a sop to U.S. opposition to drastic socialist poverty and unemployment. He has called for land reform, limiting the amount of land any one plantation owner can hold. He wants to end government corruption, to re-establish political freedom and freedom of the press.

Pampan Starts Navigation Studies
HARLINGEN, (SpI)—Aviation Cadet James R. Cox, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Cox Sr., 903 E. Francis, has recently begun training in the Primary Basic Navigator Course at Harlingen Air Force Base.

Cadet Cox will receive 30 weeks of intensive training in dead-reckoning, radar and celestial navigation, fundamental electronic theory, and officer training in order to qualify him for a crew position in today's high-speed, jet propelled Air Force.

Upon completion of this training, Cox will be commissioned a second lieutenant, awarded his silver navigator wings, and take his place in America's main line of defense—the United States Air Force.

GRAY COUNTY
Soil Conservation
District News

By JAMES SMITHERS

The Gray County Soil Conservation District supervisors and the county commissioners plan to tour part of the Washita watershed project in Oklahoma Jan. 7.

Some of the farmers and ranchers interested in a watershed project on McClellan Creek will join the tour.

The tour will be on the Sandstone Creek portion of the Washita watershed. This portion has been completed and is now in operation.

The tour will be made Wednesday, Jan. 7. The group will leave Pampa at about 8 a.m. and meet in Elk City, Okla.

A small watershed project takes care of flood waters in the upstream portions. A number of small dams are constructed at selected locations. On a majority of farms within a watershed land has had to be treated to control run-off.

Land treatment includes 1 and conversions of unproductive cropland back to inactive grasses. Other management practices necessary include deferred grazing, proper use of rangeland and contour farming and stubble mulching of cropland.

In many cases cropland with steep slopes must be terraced. The above are a few of the necessary steps in treating an upstream watershed.

On upstream projects the government has agreed to build the structures. Local ranchers must furnish easements and right-of-ways and must carry out the necessary conservation practices.

Each project undertaken is completely surveyed and has to be economically justified. This is carried out before any construction is undertaken.

Exams Set For Dept. Public Safety

The Texas Department of Public Safety announced today that examinations for the uniformed services of the Department will be given in Lubbock, Amarillo and Wichita Falls on Jan. 20, 21, and 22 respectively.

"Applicants interested in applying for the Highway Patrol, License and Weight, Motor Vehicle Inspection, or Driver License Service, must have their application in Austin on or before Jan. 12," said Major R. A. Crowder, Region-5 Commander, Texas DPS.

The patrol positions offer young men between the ages of 21 to 35 an opportunity to become a member of one of the world's most noted State police agencies. Men accepted will receive their training from experienced State officers at the Department's Law Enforcement Academy in Austin prior to being assigned to a service.

"Benefits," said Major Crowder, "include automatic pay raises after graduation from the Academy, longevity, two weeks paid vacation annually, and sick leave allowances." It was pointed out that other benefits include modern liberal retirement system, eligibility to compete for promotion plus being furnished uniforms, firearms, and other necessary equipment.

Applications may be obtained from any member of the four services in addition to the nearest office of the DPS in Texas. Employment Commission.

... And Where It Landed They Knew Not Where

FROM HERE TO AMITY

Pampa's young Carr brothers, Robert (left) and John, piece together a note addressed "To Whoever Finds It," a note that traveled with a helium-filled balloon from Pampa to Amity, Okla., last week. Who found the balloon? A 12-year-old girl. She wrote back: "My girl friend and I found it. If you want to write, my name is Betty Porter. Of course, I am a girl."

By MARVIN OLSEN
Daily News Staff Writer

Robert and John Carr, 10 and 8 year-old sons of Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Carr, 1104 N. Somerville, watched their small, helium-filled balloon rise swiftly in the wind Sunday morning (Dec. 21). Tied to the balloon was a note addressed "To Whoever Finds It."

"On the 26th day of December, about three miles east of Amity, Arkansas," the shrunken, nearly deflated balloon landed in a small pond, a 12-year-old young Arkansas Miss wrote in a letter to Pampa Monday.

In her best 12-year-old scrawl, Miss Betty Porter of Amity wrote: "We found it on a pond about one-fourth mile from our home. My girl friend and I found it. If you want to write back, my address is Miss Betty Porter, Amity. I am 12 years old. Of course I am a girl. Is the helium in the balloon harmful?"

Mr. and Mrs. Carr told the Daily News the balloon was given to their boys at a Chinese Christmas party. They tried to send a balloon on a similar voyage last year, but never got an answer. This time their balloon traveled several hundred miles and was found. Amity is a small town midway between Little Rock and Texarkana, about 600 miles from Pampa.

WARNER LOCKED OUT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Jack M. Warner, son of film producer Jack L. Warner, was locked out of his office Friday at the studio bearing his family's name. The ouster followed a studio announcement that he had quit his job as vice president in charge of production of industrial and commercial films. Warner, 42, said he did not resign.

Scott Sees Army Career For Private Elvis Presley

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — United Press International undertook some star-gazing this week and came up with the following predictions for the denizens of Movieland in 1959: Jayne Mansfield will forego sexy roles and low-cut gowns in favor of playing Ophelia opposite Hamlet in "Hamlet."

Jerry Lewis and Dean Martin will patch up their quarrel and reunite in a movie titled "My Buddy," with Eddie Fisher in the supporting cast. The Libesaco brothers (Lee and George) also will bury the hatchet in a TV series featuring a harmonica band.

Mamie Van Doren will be named "Miss Valentine's Day" of 1959, (posing with a cardboard heart).

Butler doesn't smoke, either.

POLITE POLICE

PARIS (UPI) — Parking violators found the following "tickets" on their windshields on New Year's Day: "In wishing you a Happy New Year, the prefect of police asks you in the future, in your own interest and in those of others, to respect the traffic laws which you have just broken by parking here."

Woodward will revive the "Malign Cars and Campaign Buttons" and "Pa Kettle" films.

Frank Sinatra will star in a story about a newspaperman who almost gets run over by a singer. One of the cheapie producers will make a sequel to "The Blob," entitled "Son of the Blob Fights Life for the FBI" starring Charles Laughton.

Elvis Presley will be released from the Army, but sign up for a four year hitch — at the request of the Defense Department and the Ricky Nelson fan clubs.

Zsa Zsa Gabor and Marie McDonald will forget their differences to form an independent branch of the PTA, with King Farouk as secretary-treasurer.

Russell Asks Federal Aid To Negroes Moving North

By WARREN DUFFEE
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Richard B. Russell claimed growing support today for his proposal to help solve the race problem through federal aid to Negro families who want to leave the South for other parts of the country.

"I'm going to work hard for this proposal and I believe it will have considerable support when people fully understand it," Russell told reporters. "It won't cost much and I think it is the real solution to the problem," the Georgia Democrat said. "After all, we have done the same thing in other countries" under the foreign aid program, he said.

Under the Russell plan, the federal government would provide aid in moving and relocating families from the South or other regions to areas where they could improve their economic status.

But the Georgia senator emphasized that it would not apply only to Negroes. All moves would be entirely voluntary.

White families, for example, could be aided in moving from depressed areas to territories offering firm job opportunities. "It would be a great stimulus to business," Russell said. One feature of the plan, he said, would permit low-interest government loans to businessmen providing firm job opportunities to relocate families.

RECORD CROP YEAR

American farmers, blessed by good weather and aided by modern technology this year produced the biggest crops in U.S. history. It was more than the previous record year of 1957. Wheat and corn, the biggest crops, showed marked gains even though they were planted on the least acreage since 1918. 329 million acres. Production records were set for eight crops: wheat, corn, soybeans, barley, sorghum grain, hay, popcorn and tung nuts. Fourteen other crops chalked up new highs for acreage yield. Corn yielded 51.7 bushels an acre this year compared with 47.1 in 1957. Wheat yields were 27.3 bushels an acre compared with 21.7 in 1957.

Science Might Find Way To Grow Cheap Mushrooms

University of Florida, in their small-scale pilot cultivations, got higher yields with less work from the sawdust than the most skilled ability of putting mushrooms into every pot by making those deli-gel from manure.

Mushroom fanciers ignore the cheap foods. The promise is based on the discovery that they can be made to grow abundantly in sawdust.

They're now usually grown in richly manured composts which means the declining horse population has made mushroom cultivation more and more expensive.

The Florida scientists, Seymour S. Block, George Tsao and Lughwa Han, showed that chemically the mushroom is cleverly the woody waste of American industry is estimated to total more than 33 million tons annually. This includes bark, sugar cane pulp, rice hulls and straw, in addition to sawdust.

Scientists are unable to get the mushrooms to produce in sawdust until they are treated with a special solution.

Must Start Process. But mushrooms can extract the constituents and use them for their own growth. The scientists found, however, that agaricus campestris, which is the mushroom most people mean when they use the word (since it is the common commercial mushroom) needs to have degrading of rotting process started for it. This is done by mixing it with soybean meal and sawdust in a fermenting compost.

The wild mushroom, pleurotus ostreatus, the scientists grew readily in sterile sawdust fortified with oatmeal and got their first crop in two weeks. This mushroom belongs to the "wood-rotting" group which start the rotting process from scratch for the purpose of propagating themselves. P. ostreatus is a tasty if strong-flavored mushroom prized by chefs as an ingredient for soups, sauces and gravies.

Reporting their experiments to the technical organ of the American Chemical Society, the scientists lauded the simplicity and practical excellence of mushroom growing and pointed out that with sawdust they could be "factory-produced" the year round.

Rebel Movement Started With Bloody '53 Uprising

United Press International

The rebel movement against Cuban President Fulgencio Batista had its beginnings on July 26, 1953, when a lawyer named Fidel Castro Ruz, launched a spectacular, bloody and unsuccessful revolt against Batista.

The real revolution, called the "26 de Julio" movement, began in the fall of 1956 when Castro went about his business of overthrowing Batista with a thoroughness that won Thursday with Batista's flight to the Dominican Republic.

Castro was jailed after his abortive uprising of 1953, but he had set in motion a train of events that proved Batista's downfall.

Batista himself seized power in a coup d'etat in 1952, and many Cubans went into exile, including ousted President Carlos Prío Socarrás. It was these exiles who helped supply and arm the once puny Castro groups.

Money was raised in anti-Batista circles throughout the Latin world. Supplies were smuggled in by plane and ship. During raids by Castro's guerrillas captured other arms and equipment—sometimes airplanes at gunpoint.

Batista admitted in an interview that he had a "rebel attempt to seize an army garrison in Matanzas, 60 miles from Havana. He suspended constitutional guarantees. Confiscation of press and radio began.

First Attacks Failed

On May 20, Castro himself came back, landing in Oriente Province with forces raised in Mexico. Oriente, with its Sierra Maestra, a rugged mountain range, was perfect for guerrilla warfare. It also is a wealthy province, "heart of the sugar-growing industry that is Cuba's lifeblood."

Castro's first attacks were failures, and he hid out in the mountains. But more men rallied to him. Word spread that he was a Cuban Robin Hood, robbing the rich and giving to the peasants.

'Cheyenne' Is Back In Saddle

By VERNON SCOTT

UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Clint Walker, poker-faced star of TV's "Cheyenne" series, has settled his nine-month fracas with Warner Brothers studio and is back in the saddle again.

Within the next month or two, television will see the lanky cowboy riding off into the sunset once again in the top-rated horse opera.

But more important to Clint, at least movie-goers will also find him riding into sunsets on the silver screen. That's what the beef was all about.

The studio suspended Walker when he demanded roles in feature pictures and quit the TV program. Experience-wise, moguls expected the 6-foot 5-inch actor to come crawling back after a few months begging for his old job.

But Clint sauntered off prospecting for uranium in northern California and Arizona, occasionally returning to town to assault the studio.

The bigwigs flinched, but stood pat, waiting for their wandering boy to return to the fold. Then last month Clint sold his house and announced his intention of moving to Illinois to launch a health food business.

That did it.

Warners called Clint in for a conference and a new contract. "I'm in complete agreement now," Walker grinned. "I go back to work, and back on salary. Monday. They agreed to let me play once again in the top-rated horse opera."

"First thing they're gonna do is take 'Yellowstone Kelly' outta mothballs and put me in it. That's a movie, you know. Maybe later they'll give me a straight leading man role in a regular drama."

Walker's contract, with the studio has five years to run. His new agreement doesn't call for a raise in salary.

"That's unimportant to me," he said.

"Money doesn't buy satisfaction in your work."

Did Clint strike any uranium? "Now you know a prospector never tells about what he finds," he said. "I was keeping my eye open for other precious metals, too. But I ain't talkin' about it."

Batista Never Believed Self A Dictator

Personality Spotlight
United Press International

Fulgencio Batista—ousted president of Cuba.

Fulgencio Batista never believed he was a dictator. This man of charm, the quick smile, the glad handshake and the loud laugh thought of himself as the Lincoln of Cuba. Indeed, Lincoln was his idol and he was read nearly everything available on the life of the American Civil War president.

Lincoln rose to true greatness in civil war. Batista was the cause of such a war, and it was his downfall. Yet he was a true child of the people—the orphaned son of a poverty stricken peasant family of Spanish, Negro, Indian and Chinese descent. He was self-educated and he had the pride of a self-made man.

Batista was born on Jan. 16, 1901 in Oriente Province in a mud floored, thatched roof hut. He went to a school run by American quakers and worked in the sugar fields, in a grocery store and on the railroads. He often joked about his desire to be a railroad engineer.

But destiny led Batista into an army career. He enlisted in 1921, later took a secretarial course and returned to the service as a stenographer at army headquarters. In 1933 he led a bloodless "sergeants' revolt" and from then on was the power behind the throne of several presidents, becoming himself president from 1940 to 1944. After four years of exile, he seized control of the government in 1952 in another bloodless coup.

Batista is a husky man, handsome, almost dashing. He is fond of athletics, late-hour reading, parties, and good fellowship. Even having aristocrats of pure Spanish descent found his presence in their clubs and society more of a pleasure than a distasteful duty. His divorce from his first wife, Elisa, mother of his two daughters and eldest son, did not please church authorities, however.

His second wife is beautiful Marta Fernandez, by whom he has four sons. She shares his exile.

However, he had bigger game in mind.

In March, 1957, revolt fever spread to Havana itself. Havana students tried to storm the presidential palace. They almost got to Batista. But soldiers and bodyguards won the fight. Forty students and five soldiers were reported killed.

Last April, Castro proclaimed total war, which Batista described as a "demonstration of arrogance."

Bombings and shootings became common occurrences. Castro declared a general strike. It failed, and Batista received extraordinary powers from the cabinet and legislature to cope with the spreading revolt.

Last June Castro kidnaped 45 U.S. citizens and 3 Canadians as a protest against American policy, which Castro claimed favored Batista. By July 18, all were freed, but the attention of the United States had been drawn to the revolt which now entered its climactic stage.

'Winter Wonderland' Theme Of Las Cresas Ball

"Winter Wonderland" was the snowy theme of the 1958 presentation dance Tuesday by the Pampa Las Cresas Club. Girls and their escorts danced in the Pampa Country Club, with a real winter wonderland outside.

As The Velvets played the theme song, Miss Carol Rose, Miller, former club member, narrated a grand march of snowflakes and their snow princes. Couples were presented to Miss Carolyn Wallen, Club president. Standing before a white sleigh, trimmed in red velvet, Miss Wallen presented each new member with a white velvet muff topped with red roses.

Behind the sleigh hung a red curtain glittering with snowflakes. And spotlighted at the entrance to the ballroom was "Frosty," a seven-foot snowman.

The pledges, presented to poetic narrations, were:

Miss Dana Cantrell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. S. Cantrell, 1613

Duncan, escorted by Scott Wilson.

"Dana is dainty and we think she's grand—especially when she sings in the Harvesters Band."

MARY ALICE COOMBS, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Coombes, 1230 E. Frederic, escorted by John Campbell. "Let the great world bustle on. She's calm and charming from dusk to dawn."

Idella Lane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Lane, 728 E. Frederic, escorted by Jerry Quarles. "Idella is cuddly and petite. Besides that, she's very sweet."

Carol Choate, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Choate, 501 Roberts, escorted by Bill Hassell. "She is the mirror of all courtesy and love. This little snowbird is as gentle as a dove."

Jean Nichols, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Nichols, 850 S. Banks, escorted by Jack Carlson. "It is so natural, like sugar and spice, when she is so naturally charmingly nice."

Beryl Nash, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Nash, 1201 Garland. "Ask her no questions and she'll tell you no lies. But she is witty, likeable and wise."

Jackie Beauchamp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Beauchamp, 1136 Prairie Drive, escorted by Gary Mackie. "She may act as if she's shy. But still waters run deep, that's why."

Jean Gerik, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Aloiph Gerik, 817 Rider, escorted by Bryan Wilson. "It is said she wears a bashful look. But by the cover, don't judge the book."

Carol Dawson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Dawson, 1002 Somerville, escorted by Dwayne Glover. "She chatters as she goes but may she go on forever. And besides, we think she's so cute and so clever."

Alice Richmond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Richmond, 1141 11th Prairie Drive, escorted by Charles Reed. "She's got freckles but make no mistake: Angela has kissed this little snowflake."

Margaret Meeks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Meeks, 621 S. Russell, escorted by Harry Price. "No matter if you've known her just a little while, you'll be charmed by her sweet disposition and sunny smile."

Patti Foster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Foster, 711 N. Somerville, escorted by Randall Cross. "There's a little bit of Heaven in her smile. And she always dresses in the best of style."

Lette Roberts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Roberts, 2201 Christine, escorted by Charles Warren. "Our bitwin eyed doll with a sweet personality, flavored with just a little rascality."

Sue Barnett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Barnett, 1212 21st, escorted by John Carlson. "Her smile is cheerful, her manner mild, she can certainly be called Venus' own child."

Quenella Archer, daughter of

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Archer, west of City, escorted by Ronnie Stapleton. "This is the girl, a friend true blue. And this little snow queen, the boys like too."

Myrna Haiduk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Haiduk, Grooms, escorted by Ronnie Biggerstaff. "She laughs and everyone feels better. Cheerfulness fits her to the letter."

Wiletta Lowther, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Lowther, west of City, escorted by George Olds. "A clever lass in every way. Success will be her's someday."

Virginia Vance, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Vance, 701 N. Russell, escorted by Corky Gordon. "There's no one we would rather have at our dance than our libeable, clever Virginia Vance."

Trecia Flowers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Flowers, 1037 Farley, escorted by Russell Bowen.

"She has curly hair and laughing eyes of blue. We think this little snowflake is cute, don't you?"

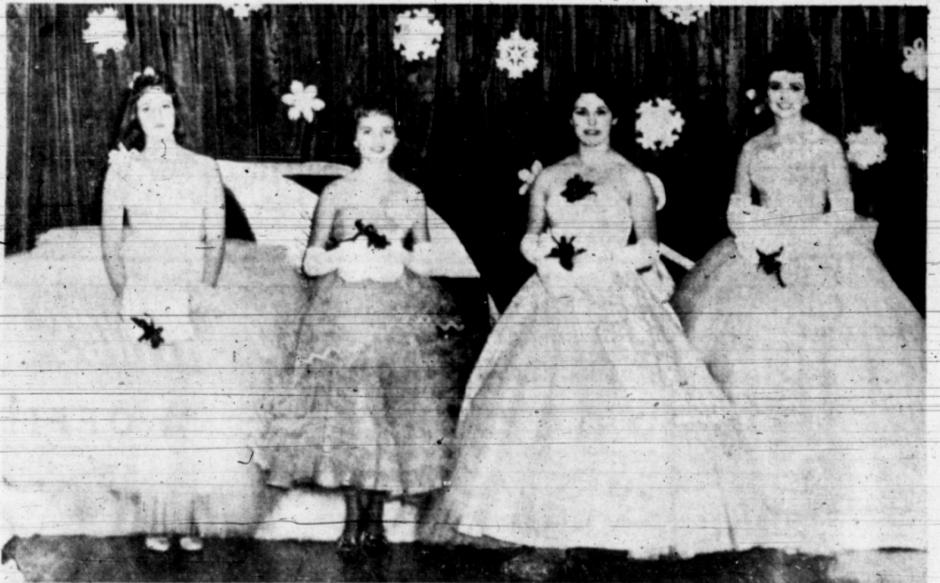

Named Best Pledge and Snow Queen, Lette Roberts was again escorted to the stage and presented with a bouquet of red roses and a tier.

After the presentation, a buffet supper was served in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Dawson.

Lynne Marie Followell Says Vows With Harold W. Cline

The Rev. William E. West performed the double-ring rites, which united in marriage Miss Lynne Marie Followell and Harold Wayne Cline on December 27 at five o'clock in St. Matthew's Episcopal Church.

Miss Followell is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clem Followell, 1218 E. Browning. Mr. Cline's parents are Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Cline, 717 Griggs, Fort Worth. Poinsettias and white mums decorated the wedding scene.

BRIDE

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in Chantilly lace and net over satin peau de soie, fashioned with a Sabrina neckline, long tapering sleeves which came to petal-point over the hands. The waist-length skirt, en-joined to a bodice trimmed with pearls and sequins, ended in a chapel train. The elbow-length Veil of Illusion was secured to a head-dress of Chantilly lace and pearls.

ATTENDANTS

Miss Rose Smith as maid of honor wore Poinsettia red fashioned along Empire lines with a red chiffon drape to the hemline in back. A matching headpiece with short veil complemented her dress. The two bridesmaids, Misses Sarah Satoff of San Antonio and Miss Dorothy Chisum were dressed as the maid of honor. The junior bridesmaid, Miss Clara Christine Hart and Dana Louise Followell, bride's sister, wore ballerina-length white crystalline with a red-velvet bow-headpiece.

Jerry Edward Cline, bridegroom's brother, served as best man. Groomsmen were John Roy Dunderberg and Clarence William Garrard of Fort Worth. Donald Campbell and Millard Jones, both of Fort Worth, were ushers. Mrs. Jack Skelly at the organ, provided the traditional wedding marches and was accompanist for James Dalley as he sang, "O Perfect Love" by Barnby and "Whiter Thou Goest."

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Followell chose a Wedgewood Blue, ballerina-length dress of brocade with complementary hat of white and blue petals. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Cline, wore a gray lace sheath with matching hat and crystal accessories. Their corsages were of red roses.

A reception was held in the parish hall of the church immediately after the ceremony. Miss Deanna Rose provided background music. Mrs. Donna Hankins presided at the punch service. Miss Judy Smith served cake. Guests were registered by Mrs. Dorothy Followell, aunt of the bride. Others assisting with the reception were Mrs. James Hart, Mrs. Ned Pryor and Miss Betty Hinton.

For a wedding trip to Santa Fe, N.M., the bride traveled in a blue wool fitted suit with white accessories. She wore the rose corsage from her bridal bouquet.

The bride was graduated from Pampa High School and for a brief period was employed by Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. At present she is a junior student at North Texas State College, where she is a member of Junior Mary Arden, an honorary English fraternity; Canterbury Club, the Episcopal Student Organization.

The bridegroom was graduated from Arlington State, North Texas State with highest honors and is at present employed by Haskins and Sells in Dallas. While in college, he was a member of Alpha Chi fraternity and the Accounting Club.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Cline, bridegroom's parents; Ralph Ware, Miss Denise and Deanna Rose, both of Morton; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hufstetler and children, Mr. and Mrs. Hohn Holt, all of Fort Worth; Mr. and Mrs. David Harbaugh of Coffeyville, Kan.; Miss Sara Sathoff of San Antonio; Mrs. Dwayne Hankins of Roswell, N.M.

Homemaking Hints

HOW TO BE A BETTER BABY-SITTER

By KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer

If your daughter aspires to a baby-sitting career, your guidance in basic homemaking skills may be the deciding factor in her success.

Although baby sitters are much in demand, for a girl to be rated "top-notch" and to build up a list of loyal "clients" requires effort.

When mothers compare baby-sitting lists they do a comprehensive job of rating the girls. Those who don't rate so high are usually relegated to the bottom of the list, to be called only in an emergency or for very short sitting periods.

The importance of cleanliness should be understood by a sitter, especially if she will be handling babies.

Washing hands before fixing baby's bottle and feeding him would seem a well-established routine, but many mothers have told me sitters need to be reminded of this.

Clean clothes make a good impression, too.

The homemaker should supply her sitter with an apron, or a sifter can bring one of her own if feeding children is on the docket.

More comprehensive coverage is afforded by Terrycloth jerseys with gripper snaps at neckline and sleeves.

Such a garment protects baby from clothes and clothes from baby.

Its loose fit adjusts to any size and the absorbent Terrycloth can double as a bath blanket.

Even though a sitter doesn't contract to wash dishes, she should know how to rinse and stack them neatly. Few sights are more discouraging to a returning homemaker than to see the table still uncleaned, the kitchen untidily cluttered.

Supplies taken from the refrigerator or pantry shelf to prepare for snacks or meals should be returned to their proper place.

Most young sitters are not expected to do any real cooking, but making sandwiches or heating soup for lunch or supper should not be beyond their ability.

Do encourage your daughter-sitter to take seriously the skill involved in the daily household chore of "keeping up."

If her charges have scattered toys all over the place, picking them up and restoring them to their boxes and shelves before she leaves proves she knows her job.

It's up to the women of the house to provide her young sitter with telephone numbers where she can be reached and whom to call in emergencies.

The sitter should also have a pad and pencil to record telephone calls.

But it's up to the sitter not to monopolize the telephone with long conversations with her friends.

Before your young hopeful starts looking for sitting jobs, see if you can arrange a trial job or two with friends or close neighbors.

This gives her a chance to see if she really wants the responsibility of caring for youngsters and if she has an aptitude for getting along with little ones.

If she does, then a clear policy of which days and hours she can work and of how much she should charge should be decided upon.

Write you will encourage her to be prompt on a job, encourage her also to make sure her employer knows the rules which govern her working.

It will cause fewer misunderstandings if an employer knows, at the outset, for example, that her 15-year-old sitter must be home by 10 p.m.

Tany Talbot Marries Bob Brown In Olustee

Double ring wedding vows were solemnized at 4 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 21, in the Olustee First Baptist church by Miss Tany Talbot of Olustee and Mr. Bob W. Brown.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Talbot of Olustee, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Hollingworth of Pampa.

Rev. Keith Wiginton officiated as the vows were exchanged before an altar-decorated with baskets of red gladioli and greenery flanked with branched candelabra holding lighted tapers. A white aisle cloth and red Christmas balls with white bows for the pews completed the decorations.

Miss Paula Cordell, pianist, presented a pre-nuptial program, played the traditional wedding marches, and accompanied Mrs. Don Prock as she sang "Wonderful One," "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of brocaded satin and bridal veil. The fitted bodice was styled with a scalloped neckline and wrist-length sleeves which ended in points over her hands. The dress was highlighted with a front panel of tiered satin and a back panel of brocaded satin which ended in a chapel train.

Her finger-tip veil of illusion fell from a tiara of seed pearls. She carried a white Bible, which had been given to her by her college chapter of YWA, topped with a white orchid tied with white satin streamers.

In carrying out the tradition of something old, new, borrowed and blue, the bride used a 52-year-old handkerchief belonging to her grandmother, Mrs. R. L. Talbot, and wore a penny in her shoe.

Miss Ramona Figate of Butler was maid of honor, and Miss Corene Kirtley of Perry was bridesmaid. They wore identical red velvet sheath dresses styled with deep necklines. Each carried a white satin muff topped with red carnations and white satin streamers. Their headbands were red velvet Dior bows.

Gary Dockery of Pampa served as best man, and Ray Shelton, brother-in-law of the groom, was the groomsmen. Ushers were Larry Trullinger, Bill Brown, brother of the groom, Bill Breaghears and Marvin Berry, all of Pampa.

Misses Zelma and Delma Franklin of Pampa served as candlelighters. They were attired in identical princess-line dresses of red velveteen which featured white chiffon drapes around the neckline. They wore white satin Dior bows as headpieces.

Flower girl was Miss Patty Hollingworth, sister of the groom. She wore a red velveteen princess-line dress with a white satin Dior bow headpiece and carried a white satin basket containing red petals.

Ringbearer was Dusty Stout.

Mrs. Carroll Noble
Mr. and Mrs. R. I. McGuire, 632 N. Zimmers, announce the marriage of their daughter Sharon to Carroll Noble, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Noble, Skellytown. The vows were exchanged in a double ring ceremony performed in the Stinnett Baptist Church recently.

Cousin of the bride, Miss Jeanette Milner presided at the guest register.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Talbot chose a brown and black dress with white accessories. Mrs. Hollingworth, the groom's mother, wore a navy and white suit with white accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of white munis.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents immediately following the wedding.

Assisting at the reception were Mr. and Mrs. Ken Strange, Mrs. Elvia Robertson and Mrs. Alex Swain. Serving were Mrs. Dale Ledbetter, Mrs. Victor Koester, Miss Glenda Robertson, Miss Zelma Franklin and Miss Delma Franklin.

The bride's table was covered (See MARRIES Page 16)

Miss Cross And Williams Married In Pampa's Pentecostal Holiness Church

Miss Vonna Lee Cross and Glen Williams were united in holy matrimony recently by Rev. J. B. Caldwell in the Pentecostal Holiness Church, Pampa. It was a double ring ceremony. Vows were exchanged in a setting of white glads flanked with candelabra.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luther R. Cross. The groom is the son of Mrs. Jewel Williams, Baton Rouge, La., and the late Rev. H. P. Williams.

Miss Carol Jean McBroom, pianist, played nuptial airs as the guests assembled. She also played the traditional wedding marches. Mickey Caldwell, accompanied by Miss McBroom, sang two of the couple's favorite songs: "I Love You Truly" and "O, Promise Me."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white silk taffeta. The fitted bodice featured a lace inserted V-neck and long tapering sleeves which ended in a petal-point over the hands. Her finger tip veil of illusion was attached to a pleated bandeau.

She wore a string of pearls given her by the groom and carried a white Bible topped with white orchids.

Miss Pat Caldwell, maid of honor, wore a ballerina length dress of peacock blue taffeta styled with Princess lines with a matching headpiece. She carried a white fan with blue carnations and blue streamers.

The bridesmaids were Miss Sandra Baker of McLean and Miss Patsy Pittman. They wore dresses of ice blue taffeta styled identically to the maid-of-honor's.

Delbert Stewart of Amarillo was the best man. Ushers were Jerry Max Pritchard and Bob Thacker Jr. Judy Kay Meeks was flower girl and Leroy Thacker served the couple as ring bearer. Elaine Baker of McLean was guest registrar.

Mrs. Cross, the bride's mother, wore a navy blue silk with matching accessories. The groom's mother wore a maize lace with matching accessories. Both wore corsages of white carnations.

A reception took place in the church's Youth Hall following the ceremony.

The four tiered wedding cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom and was served by Mrs. Bob Thacker Jr. and Mrs. Doyce Schaffer. Mrs. Jack Hutchinson presided at the punch service.

On a wedding trip to Louisiana, Mrs. Williams wore a black tuxedo suit with matching accessories. She wore the corsage from her bride bouquet.

Mrs. Williams is a graduate of Blue, Okla., High School. Williams graduated from Laville, La., High School. He is employed by Cabot. The couple will make their home at 416 W. Browning.

DEAR ABBY...
By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Your idea of forming the W. W. F. S. (WON'T WEAR FREAKISH STYLES) ANONYMOUS was a good one. But why doesn't someone say something about the SHOES women are being forced to buy? Those pointed toes are uncomfortable and ridiculous. The little spindly heels get caught in gratings and cracks in the sidewalk and are downright dangerous! I'm glad I have enough sense to "old-fashioned" shoes to last me until the shoe manufacturers get over this madness.

AGAINST NEW SHOES
DEAR AGAINST: The W. W. F. S. is against ALL freakish styles for women; shoes included! (Are you listening St. Louis?)

DEAR ABBY: I see by your column that somebody else has my problem of living in sin. The only difference is my man would like to make it legal but he's afraid of the needle for the blood test. When he was married to his first wife he didn't have to have a blood test. His wife passed away and we are now living as man and wife. We have a daughter and all get along fine. We would like to have our marriage blessed by the Priest but when we found out we have to have a license and witnesses we gave up. Everyone thinks we were married by a Justice of the Peace but I would feel better if things were legal and blessed by the Priest. How can we get it straightened out without any publicity?

WANTING TO LIVE LEGAL
DEAR WANTING: Keep "needing" him until he "lets the Priest. Let him tell you how to "make it legal" with the blessing of your Church without a lot of publicity. Good luck.

DEAR ABBY: I have a suggestion for "TAKEN FOR A RIDE" who can't get the so-called friend to pay him back the $250 he loaned him because he has nothing in writing. Write the "friend" a letter, asking him to pay back the $200 he owes you. He will surely write back that he doesn't owe you any $200. It was only $450. Then you've got it in writing.

ONE WHO KNOWS

DEAR ABBY: I accepted a date with a boy for New Year's Eve. When my parents saw a "D" on my report card they told me that I could not date all Christmas vacation and that includes New Year's Eve. This boy has made all the plans and I don't think it is fair for him to be punished because of me. Please put your answer in the paper and maybe they will let me go. I am 18 and the boy is 18. Thank you.

BEING PUNISHED
DEAR BEING: If you had an understanding with your parents, that you could not date during Christmas vacation if you got a "D" then you should cancel the New Year's date. But if they agreed to let you accept this date, and after seeing your grades changed their minds, they are unfair.

CONFIDENTIAL TO LILA: Your "big wheel" must have lost his "w." Lose him.

LIGHTEST WOOL—A brand-new weightless wool weighing a mere two ounces makes its debut in this group of resort clothes by Nat Kaplan. The fabric is a worsted, is porous and crisp. We show it here in an all white (left) bolero dress which has free-swinging top over skirt which is attached to a silk lining. Cut of the collar is wide and open. Pocket trim on jacket is embroidered in buff. This sheer all-wool is used in pale blue (center) for an elegant dress with draped collar. Skirt is widely pleated; gold kid is used for the belt. Pale blue print on which chiffon sheer wool worsted (right) is incomparably fresh-looking. Classic cut takes on a new look through unusual collar treatment and wide midriff belt.

COOL AND CASUAL

Elegant New Chiffon-Wool Dresses Are Designed For Resort Wear

By GAILE DUGAS
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK (NEA)—The idea of wool fashions for resort wear is not a new one. But the idea of a two-ounce, very nearly weightless wool for dresses is new.

In the past, wool for sunny climates has been confined largely to wraps. It's been used for sweaters, both plain and trimmed, for lightweight coats, for slacks and jackets.

Now we have the crisp resort dress in a chiffon wool worsted, light and crisp. It has all of the properties that have endeared wool to women for years. It resists wrinkles, holds its shape and is porous.

It is being used currently for dresses of casual elegance. Many of them are done in all white with touches of gold as trim. But some are done in the pastels and there are even pastel prints in this sheer wool.

Travelers who know the West Indies equip themselves for many changes in climate. Weather that's hot and sunny during the day is equally crisp and cool in late afternoon and evening. As soon as the heat of the sun goes around 4 p.m., a girl is ready for a dress that will ward off the breezes.

At night, a lightweight wrap is an absolute must. And if you're touring about an island, sight-seeing, the dress under that wrap might very well be a chiffon wool.

with a white linen cloth and tulle. The cloth was caught up with holly and wedding bells. A centerpiece of holly and four twisted tapers centered with floating gardenias was flanked with a three-tiered wedding cake decorated with red roses and the traditional bride and groom. Punch was served from a Santa Claus punch bowl. Pine and wedding bells sprayed with snow completed the party room decorations.

When the couple left for a short wedding trip to points in Texas, the bride was wearing a red wool suit with black accessories.

They will establish a home at 314 E. Huber in Weatherford, where both are attending the School of Pharmacy of Southwestern State College.

Iridescent Eyes Mirror Excitement

By ALICIA GART
NEA Beauty Editor

Iridescent color, in creamy stick form, is the newest way to give yourself evening eyes for after five. It's intended to deepen the color of your eyes and to add a certain sparkle and excitement.

There are two ways to apply this mist of color. In a streak at the edge of the lid, add in a luminous film over the entire lid. By experimentation you can find out which is most becoming to you.

Generally, your eye color is a sound guide to the color of the eye shadow you choose. But teal frost can be used for either blue or green eyes. And iridescent silver is a shade that all women can wear superbly. It's lovely with the sparkle of pearl and rhinestone jewelry. Since it makes the white of the eyes look whiter, it deepens the color of the iris by contrast.

Mauve mist is a shade that many women will want to experiment with this winter. It's lovely for wear with white or the whole range of blue or violet.

Hair, Like Hands, Needs Regular Care

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

With the coming of cold weather, women who had no hair problems before suddenly find that their hair refuses to curl, develops sticklike ends and flattens out to the head.

It is, in short, stubborn and hard to handle. A permanent helps even if you don't have one at any other time of year. But it also adds to the problem in a sense. It further dries out the hair and that is exactly what was wrong with it to start.

Just as your skin needs creaming in order not to dry and crack, so does your hair need creaming all winter long. But it needs the precious oils restored gently.

One new lanolin-rich cream which comes in a tube will, the makers say, benefit the hair in one application. It's both a conditioner and a hairdressing. It will give best results if you brush it in thoroughly.

Good Homemaker Knows How To Move

The ability to make a new home or apartment "liveable" almost immediately upon moving in is the mark of a good homemaker.

It requires planning and patience with a generous amount of old-fashioned hard work, but it most certainly can be done.

Actually, the key to orderly relocation is planning. The more time you spend planning you move, the less time it will require to put your new home in order.

Not only must you decide in advance where you want each of the major furniture pieces placed in your new home but you should be prepared to proceed immediately with some of the appointments that transform a house into a home. Things like curtains and draperies, for instance.

In this respect, the surest way to guarantee that your curtains and draperies will be ready for hanging in your new residence—assuming there will be no alterations necessary—is to take the proper precautions when packing. Along these lines, moving specialists of Aero Mayflower Transit Company, one of the nation's major moving organizations, advise the use of wardrobe cartons for this purpose.

Such cartons, available from most leading moving firms, enable you to transport your draperies virtually wrinkle-free from one home to another. Simply roll the draperies from the traverse rods, fold them neatly (placing white tissue paper in the folds if you think it's necessary) and then "drape" them on a clothes hanger. The hanger is placed on the hanger bar that fits across the wardrobe carton. When the carton is filled, a cover slides in place over the top to give the draperies maximum protection.

You can place at least a half-dozen drapery panels in the standard-sized wardrobe carton. The carton cost is nominal and is well worth the cost in "woman hours" saved in worry and work.

THEY'RE TELLING MORE ABOUT FURNITURE

By KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer

When the old sofa sags like a hammock and the upholsterer shakes his head sadly and suggests a decent burial, you may as well give yourself the hunt for a replacement.

Shopping for a new sofa or lounge chair presents a special challenge. While we search our minds for intelligent questions to ask the salesman about construction, quality, fabric and durability, we know that a lot of the answers are hidden under the fabric.

When we finally settle on a style we like, the next job is to select a covering fabric from a swatch book.

How a few square inches of fabric will look multiplied to cover several hundred square inches of couch is not easy to visualize, even for a professional.

A pretty pumpkin shade in a swatch may look more like a Western sunset on a 90-inch sofa in your living room.

Progress is being made to give the consumer more of a break. More informative booklets are being written to instruct the salesman in new construction methods, in the differences between various filling materials, in fabric qualities.

Trade publications give them detailed style and color information about new furniture.

A colorful change in marketing a new line of furniture greatly reduced the chance of error in choosing fabrics.

This furniture, which is built on a new principle by an old-time, long-established bedding firm, is in the moderately high price range.

The selection includes eight sofas and nine lounge and occasional chairs. They're simple, basic styles in modern, provincial or traditional design.

To give the shopper more than a bird's-eye view of upholstery fabric choices, the manufacturer uses a lifelike fabric color bar.

It holds about 250 swatches, each 13 inches wide by 31 in. long, long enough to drape over the back and seat of a sofa.

The bar is arranged in a spectrum-like display of color. Fabric range from polished cotton prints to linen-velvets and damasks.

The quality in the samples I fingered is excellent.

Construction is new, too. Steel and wood combine to make the frame extremely strong. There is a steel grid base with concealed torque springs to adjust the pitch of the seat according to the weight of the person.

On the base is a removable cushion.

ion of individually pocketed coil springs and on top of this a seat cushion which is of torn rubber or daron or down over foam rubber.

Most sofas have three cushion seats.

Smart Women Dress for the Occasion

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

Make-up and coiffures have their proper time and place. And the girl who sets out for the office in the morning wearing heavy eye make-up and an elaborately-curl-ed bouffant hairdo is out of tempo.

She attracts attention, all right, but it's not complimentary. She looks every bit as silly as the girl who turns up at a party with a dash of lipstick, her hair slicked back wearing tweeds. Neither girl has learned the fun of suiting clothes and make-up to the occasion, then forgetting about both.

They're inclined to be self-conscious because they're vaguely aware that something is wrong.

This is a day and age in which make-up techniques and the right clothes are available to everyone who really is interested.

Hair coloring isn't entirely a matter that must be tackled from the outside. Once your hair has turned gray, of course, it's a different story. But if you want to keep the natural color of your hair, watch your diet.

Take cod liver oil capsules regularly and be faithful about your vitamins. Your diet should stress shell fish, salmon, green vegetables, tomatoes and bananas. Emotions affect the hair and its color, so remember this the next time you're tempted to lose your temper.

Each time you shampoo your hair, massage your scalp vigorously with your fingertips. Actually move the scalp about so that you begin to feel a tingling sensation. Have a good nylon brush to brush your hair dry after shampooing and a bristle brush to polish it.

If you're nearly always in doubt when you go to shop for new clothes, you can help yourself by adhering to a few rules.

The first of these is that the simpler the dress, the better.

The fact that both top and supporting cushions can be removed means easier and more thorough cleaning.

This new type of construction does increase the weight of the piece.

Pen Men Hopeful

By PORT MADISON, Pa. (SpI)

Designing some pens to appeal solely to the female sex will help the fountain pen industry increase its sales by 5 to 10 per cent this year over 1958, according to a prediction by Edmund F. Bryman, marketing vice president of the Sheaffer Pen Company.

An example of a product with a specific appeal is the new Lady Sheaffer fountain pen, designed as a fashion accessory, he said.

"Instead of selling men's pens to women," Bryman said, "we have engineered, designed and promoted a new product expressly for women, and this has opened up a new market."

Cotton Maid Loaded With Pills, Textbooks

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—Malinda Diggs Berry, 20, the 1959 Maid of Cotton, came to town with a supply of vitamin pills and an armload of textbooks.

The pills, she said today, are to help her through a six-month tour as the cotton industry's ambassador of good will. The textbooks are to help her through the current semester of college.

Miss Berry, daughter of a Stillwater, Okla., oil producer, was selected at finals in Memphis on New Year's Eve. She defeated 29 other candidates for the honor which goes each year to some pretty and poised young woman from a cotton producing state.

This year's maid receives a new wardrobe of 43 outfits—all cotton, naturally—which will be made for her while she's in New York. She also gets a quickie course in modeling, a new car, a new set of luggage, and three weeks of sight-seeing and play-going in Manhattan.

On Jan. 27, her tour begins with a trip to Nassau. She will visit several U.S. and Canadian cities, will go to Europe, and finally around the world with stops in Karachi, Bombay, Bangkok, Tokyo, Hong Kong, Manila, Sydney, Brisbane, Melbourne and Honolulu.

"That's why I brought textbooks," she told a news conference today. "I'll take my finals by mail, sometime before Jan. 21."

"The vitamin pills were mother's idea, although she knows I'm healthy as a horse."

Navy Party Will Have Feminine Companions Of Some Sort

By MC MURDO SOUND, Antarctica (SpI)

Feminine charms now grace Antarctica in the person of pretty, pint-sized Miss North Kingston.

The first "lady" to land on the desolate, frozen continent is vacationing at the McMurdo Sound Air Facility.

The petite blond was assisted aboard a Navy P2V aircraft by the crew members, in Queen Point, R.I., home base for the Navy's Air Development Squadron 28.

Miss Kingston was escorted to the seat in the transparent bulb of the plane's nose section and started the 12,670-mile re-supply flight to the Antarctic. Dressed in a firehouse red bathing suit, the first lady of the Antarctic drew attention wherever the plane landed.

At Alameda, Calif.; Honolulu, Hawaii; Canton Island; Nandi on Fiji Island; and Christchurch, New Zealand.

The new member of the wintering over party at McMurdo is not likely to flutter the hearts of the lonely Navy men and scientists at the bottom of the world, however, as she is a department store mannequin.

Members of the squadron who wintered over on the ice had repeatedly expressed the desire to take a mannequin to the South Pole, but had no idea of how to go about getting one.

Knowing the value of good morale among men on isolated duty, Mrs. Harold Bracken, wife of a Navy aviation-mechanic mate attached to the squadron, adopted it as her pet project.

Remembering the power of the press, she enlisted the aid of her local newspaper, the North Kingston (R.I.) Standard, and two days later, the mannequin was donated by a local merchant. Dressed in Mrs. Bracken's bathing suit, and installed in the unusu- bow of the P2V, she was on her way to joining the wintering over party at McMurdo Sound.

MARRIAGES WITH BUILT-IN DISHWASHERS ON UPSURGE

By AILEEN SNODDY
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — At a recent gathering of housewives in the nation's capital, one woman said she was sorry she had a dishwasher. With a machine to do the work, she missed her hubby drying the dishes.

Such a development makes a woman wonder what mechanization is doing to her home. For, it seems, the hand that rocks the cradle does not necessarily guide the vacuum sweeper.

According to a recent survey, a man's place is in the home, and he had better know his way around with a mop and pad because three married men out of every four help their wives with housecleaning.

Women interviewers canvassed 75 cities, towns, and villages to find out just what was going on behind those picture windows. They say they caught the men red-handed, some with apron on waist and dust mop in hand.

Of 5,000 reticent subjects in the poll, 30 per cent "took the Fifth Amendment." But the females got their answers in what might be considered an unorthodox method.

Young men, still hitching up school dungarees, have this to look forward to: if you wind up in the middle income group, are a city dweller, are professional, executive or junior executive type you'll dust, sweep mop, etc., more than any of your contemporaries.

Newlyweds by tradition and survey are among the top contenders as Mother's little helpers.

The study was inspired by a firm that manufactures house-cleaning products and disinfectants. It revealed that more than 73 per cent of all American men do housework.

Twenty-eight per cent of them do it every day, either before or after work. Another 28.3 per cent admitted donning a dust cap two or three times a week. And on weekends the remaining 48.9 of them were correlated for such tasks.

The burden of responsibility falls on the middle-income man — the $5,000 to $15,000 variety. Howards S. Cohoon, president of the company.

Instigating the survey, divulged that 85 per cent of those who admitted they helped at home came into this salary range.

What a man of the house does for a living also bears on whether he'll step into the kitchen or laundry. The least reluctant group, 38 per cent, were in the professional executive category.

On the low end of the homework totem pole we find semi-skilled and unskilled laborers. Only 9 per cent of these helped at home, and Cohoon said, "Either they do so much manual work they are too tired for household chores, or . . . they have more fortune than their counterparts."

City dwellers who may not like their extracurricular work, might consider life down on the farm.

Only 14.5 per cent of the farmers and others living in rural areas admit to cleaning anything but their barns.

Cohoon, a former Hoosier who knows his alfalfa from his timothy, comments that this may indicate these men have a greater spirit.

For the smartest look of your life, add this adaptable little hat to your wardrobe. It's equally at home in the city or country, and is easily and quickly crocheted from jumbo yarn, felt strips or silk ribbon. Trim it with boxes of feathers, and presto — this hat will win many compliments.

Pattern No. 2574 has crocheted directions; material requirements; stitch illustrations.

SPICED LUNCHEON LOAF WITH
CRANBERRY SWEET POTATOES
(Yield: 4 servings)
One can (12 ounces) luncheon meat, whole cloves, 2 oranges, 1 can (1 pound) jellied cranberry sauce, ¼ cup sugar, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 1 can (1 pound, 2 ounces) vacuum packed sweet potatoes.

Place meat in shallow baking dish or casserole; cut loaf into slices about 1-inch from bottom. Insert whole cloves in each slice. Cut peel from orange in circular motion, removing white membrane with peel. Cut one orange in slices; insert one slice between each two slices of meat. Juice remaining orange. Break up cranberry sauce in saucepan. Combine orange juice with cranberry sauce, sugar and butter. Place over medium heat, stirring until cranberry is melted. Remove from heat. Arrange sweet potatoes around meat; spoon cranberry mixture over meat and potatoes. Bake, uncovered in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.), 30 minutes, turning potatoes occasionally.

Stir in soup until smooth. Add beans and rosemary; mix well, turn into a baking dish. Top with buttered bread crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 20 minutes. Tomorrow's Dinner: Casserole of canned tuna and condensed cream of mushroom soup with chopped canned mushrooms; steamed rice, canned peas, enriched bread, butter or margarine, apple and celery salad, canned pears, cupcakes, coffee, tea, milk.

If you are a chronic leg crasser, it might interest you to know that this is the chief cause of hollow legs, especially if yours are on the thin side.

of independence. City males lead with 48.9 per cent and 36.6 per cent of suburbanites confess to being regular fireballs with a vacuum sweeper and suds.

"The suburban figure may be misleading," Cohoon admits. "We didn't account for those who mow the lawn, fix the plumbing, shovel snow, paint the house and do hundreds of other odd jobs."

Despite the increased number of men helping their wives at home, few feel this indicates men are more hen-pecked than their fathers.

Experts offer as explanations everything from working wives to army life.

Army life, they point out, trained millions of men in the intricacies of the mop and pail.

And, many grateful husbands feel it only fair that they share the housework with a working wife.

But a strong factor which makes the apron a symbol of masculinity rather than Mique-toast is pride in the home.

More than 57 per cent of the men who said they did "things" around the house, own their own homes.

RUTH MILLETT
Memo to the older woman who wants her later years to be rich and rewarding:

If in the past you have been a careless manager of time and energy, working in spurts, putting things off, never looking for easier ways to do routine jobs, you'll have to change your ways, and learn to pace yourself. Only by doing this will you have time for everything you want to do.

If you wish to keep old friends and to continue to make new ones, go a little more than 50-50 in doing the small, thoughtful things that nourish friendships. Plan something yourself instead of waiting for others to include you in their plans.

If you want to stay young in mind and spirit, continue to learn. Don't kid yourself that you are too old to learn something new.

If you want to be congenial with those who are much younger than you, cultivate a tolerance for their ideas and opinions and ways of doing things. They may not be your ways, but that doesn't necessarily mean they aren't good.

If you possibly can, keep your own roof over your head instead of moving in with a son or daughter. It will be much easier on your disposition and morale, and you'll keep your freedom.

Never miss a chance to be useful to others. It will do more to build up your self-esteem and to make you feel needed than words anyone can say to you.

Be cheerful and optimistic. Instead of letting yourself get down in the dumps and become apprehensive about the future.

If you live today with good cheer, the problems of tomorrow will somehow work out.

Fresh Make-Up For After-Five Date No Problem For Well-Groomed Office Girl

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

A five o'clock date presents a dilemma for the working gal, whether it's last minute or planned in advance. After eight hectic hours at the typewriter, she's expected to look like a carbon copy of a cover girl. Still, the miss with ingenuity can accomplish the transformation with little difficulty.

On the day of the big date, she will wear a dress and jacket ensemble to the office. The jacket will permit her to look trim and smart at work. When it's removed, she will be suitably décolleté for evening.

If sparkling costume jewelry will complete her costume for a night on the town, she can carry it to the office in her handbag.

Make-up for an after-work date is no problem for the well-groomed office girl. No morning beauty routine will last all day, so she keeps an office beauty kit, knowing it's important to look her best, not only for evening events, but at work, too.

If you don't keep beauty preparations in the office, you should. In a box tucked into the corner of a desk drawer, place make-up remover pads, face cream, soap, brush, comb, a duplicate set of the make-up you use at home, a sifter of perfume, and an empty board and nail polish.

You might add a jar of petroleum jelly for eye beauty. A quick swab to make your eyes seem to sparkle and your lashes look longer and darker, is to use it on your lids, lashes and brows. It requires only seconds to apply, and your "glamour" won't run or rub off.

It's important, too, for that special date, that your hands look soft and lovely. So during the cold months, when they're apt to chafe, it's a good idea to put a stick of camphor ice in your purse. It won't be bulky or heavy to carry, and it can't break or spill. It isn't messy to apply and will leave your hands smooth to touch.

In your desk, along with your beauty kit, keep a plastic bag containing an extra pair of stockings and a clean pair of gloves. Then you're set for any emergency, mighty pert and pretty.

Peg O' Pampa

HERE WE ARE WITH a new year on our hands... sometimes we hate to think about it, and then again... well, maybe we have just as much fun and just as much joy this next year as during the one lamented... and also, probably, just as much not-joy, which we all need for a sense of balance... at any rate, here we go with what little we know about Pampa people.

LAST YEAR... Sharon and Martha Haralson, and their teen-ager sons Terry and Randy visited friends in Colorado... for the Christmas holidays... also, H. H. and Teed Hicks were contemplating a fine vacation... winter style... in Old Mexico... Monterrey and perhaps Mexico City... what a wonderful place to go just when we have some snow... Fred and Lenora Sloan had house-guests for the holiday season, too... Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Lively... from Lyons, Colorado... sunning themselves in Texas' ever-shinin' sunlight... Miss Alice Marriott and her mother, Mrs. R. G. Marriott, from Oklahoma, City... among the guests... and speaking of sunlight... and the snow just past... why did it have to wait until after Christmas to do the job right... personally, if we have to have snow during the year, we'd just as soon it come for Christmas... start snowing big, lazy flakes on Christmas Eve, after we have done all the running around we find necessary, and stopping mid-morning Christmas Day... then melting off Christmas Day in the evening, and all clear and warm the next day after, for the kiddoes to try out their skates, and bicycles... and hoola-hoops, and Pogo sticks... and stilts... and doll-buggies, and so on... how does that sound for a snow-formula?

TWO SECTIONS DOWN... two or three to go... we'll make it yet... although after New Year's Eve, we wondered if we would be able to crawl out of bed and to the typewriter... it's not that we had such a celebration... it's just that the children did, and didn't get in until after midnight, naturally, and we, as most parents do, waited up until they rolled in... yawn... we can feel an afternoon nap coming on... heard that Mrs. Ralph Bellamy is the proud owner of a new white poodle... toy size... there surely are lots of poodle owners in town... reminds us of the cartoon showing the lady in a pet shop with her poodle, asking the proprietor... "what do you suggest for a dog that has everything?"... friends of Norma and Floyd Brandt, formerly of Pampa, received Christmas cards with a darling picture of their small daughter, Mary Lynn behind a huge card that said... Merry Christmas... one of the very most attractive cards we have seen was the one sent out by Peggy and Dewey Palmistier... a rosy-pink card with stylized deer and Christmas trees on the front... and while we are on the subject... the Syperts call their DOG "Sister"... in case you didn't know... just to set the record straight.

SCENES OF THE TIMES... did you notice the huge white snow-pillows resting comfortably on Florence Jackson's outdoor patio furniture?... the long and sweeping tracks of the children's sleds down all the hills in town... the young boys dressed in heavy, heavy "car-coats" with not a sign of a hat on, and their ears red and frost on practically every hair of their heads... and no gloves... but that heavy car-coat all by itself... a cat dodging snowdrifts, lifting its paws, one at a time, to shake off the cold white stuff... a dog racing through a drift like a snow-plow... snow flying everywhere... women wading the gutters downtown, trying to keep the ankle deep water out of their boots... a crooked and humpy snowman with no face... the mailman, coping with drifts and snow in the mailboxes... the garbage collectors fighting mud and drifts during their "appointed rounds"... ah, snow.

MORE AND MORE... young David Irwin is going to have a birthday party tomorrow, when he will turn seven... he lives at 2020 Christine... son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Irwin... and Brian Duncan turned seven on New Year's Day... he was the New Year's baby seven years ago; if you will remember how time does fly... and while we are on the subject of children... let's talk about some who are quite a bit older than seven... Jo Ann Jones returned to Stephens College in Missouri... she will follow the snow up there, we wager... and Maynette Loftus is back at T. C. U... Ann Hafess visited with a friend in Kansas, whom she met last summer at the dance workshop she attended... such activities are wonderful for the young people... giving them a chance to make friends in other cities, who lead different lives... such things as Scout conclaves, and music camps and church summer camps, and so on, give the youngsters grand opportunities... bet the Jerry Bostons are happy with their new daughter-in-law... she is going to be a very pretty addition to Pampa's younger set... and another beautiful bride was Sheila Lemons with a Christmas-time wedding... we think Christmas weddings are the very best... such a joyous time anyhow, and all the wonderful colors that can be used... of course, it rather mixes up the gift situation, when one has to provide not only the usual Christmas gifts, but also the usual Anniversary gifts... it can be rough!

ALL ONE COULD get out of the men... and some of the women... on New Year's Day was a grunt... they were watching the bowl games... and some even went to the game in Dallas in person... Rick Pedritz was one such... and the DeMaris Holts went to Dallas for the Cotton Bowl game... as did the Skeet Rogers... and also Ruth and Harvey Nensiel and Erfel and Bernice Ward... good fun was had by all, we expect... but we just enjoyed watching the Parade of Roses on our trusty TV set... that was a marvelous party that the Johnny Hines' and Mrs. I. B. Hughey gave before the Country Club dance on New Year's... and the dance itself as a great success... everybody had a simply marvelous time... parties are fun anytime... let's have more of them this year.

OF COURSE, new year's resolutions are always in order... but we can't do better than some of these... we resolve to try to be as efficient and energetic and wonderful as Ann Heskew... and try to be as kind and gracious as Mrs. Raymond Harrah... and to be as calm and sweet as Mary Hills... and so on... and before a leave you at the end of this first column of the new year... a bit of incidental intelligence, such as we love to throw in from time to time for your edification... if you have children in the house who are already sick of the sight of their new Christmas toys and hunting around for more worlds to conquer, here is a suggestion for some more gifts... some clothesline... a 4-8 foot length will do, and it should be grimy, limp and slightly frayed... it will be used for lynching dolls, playing horse (as a rein)... tying their tricycle to the bumper of the car, and so forth... a stick... crooked ones with the bark still on are appreciated... but processed ones, like broomsticks and mop-handles will be acceptable... and a big, empty cardboard box from the grocery store... preferably one with the cover on, if you can catch the store-keepers before they rip off the cover entirely... and so on... any parent knows the sort of thing the kids drag home from their foraging trips down the alleys... so, with this bright suggestion for the new year...

Merry Fourth of July,
Peg

RUTH MILLETT

To get along with men, a woman has to know at least this much: Every time she wins an argument with a man she loses a little of his admiration for her as a woman.

There are a few things a man doesn't enjoy being kidded about; his hair if it is receding, his helplessness in the face of a balky car or leaky faucet, and his making a big deal out of a small illness.

The surest way of making a man wonder if he really does love you is to insist he doesn't.

The more a woman talks the less attention a man pays to what she says.

It is just asking for trouble to persuade a man to do something for you and then to stand around giving him directions and offering suggestions and criticisms.

While a man may not be entirely satisfied with his job he doesn't want to have his wife belittle it.

All bad news should be saved for a husband until after he has finished a good dinner and had time to put his mind at rest.

Few men like to be asked what they want for dinner—especially at the breakfast table.

It is an insult to a man to have a woman question his ability to judge character as it is for a woman to have a man question her taste or her social savvy.

No matter how often she has heard her husband tell a funny story, a wife must laugh as heartily as though she were hearing it for the first time.

If she doesn't intend to take a man's advice she shouldn't ask for it, for it rises a man to have a woman consider his opinion and then overrule his decision.

Every time she says "I" instead of "we" a woman is actually pushing her husband into the back ground.

The name Phillips is from the Greek Philippo's, "lover of horses."

Fair Play in Politics

Normally like and respect fair play. For example, have you ever noticed at the meeting of the "Got-Nothing-To-Do" Club, when nominations are made for president, vice president, secretary and treasurer, the candidates are asked to leave the room and the voting proceeds without them.

Parties Promises

The Democratic-controlled Congress failed to act on such a request and the Republican-dominated Administration has two more Democratic platform called for repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act; the party convention platform they promised to repeal the Taft-Hartley Act; the administration called for repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act; the party convention platform they promised to repeal the Taft-Hartley Act.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES Answering The Swear Shop Argument for Labor Unions

Invariably one hears the plea for labor unions on the basis that wages were very low in the past and, therefore, since wages are high now, labor unions were responsible for this improvement.

But on this matter of keeping the jobs out of the hands of politicians, a great deal more needs to be said. As things stand right now, one out of every eight persons who is employed in the United States is working for federal, state or local government.

Now if you add the people who are getting subsidy payments of one sort or another, you'd have to add the total populations of New York, California and Florida. And if you put in the armed services...

So, simply from the standpoint of who draw salaries or subsidies of self-interest, as fair play has been the government to have a long since been abandoned in its favor.

And it must be darn embarrassing for these publicity-minded chaps to go running to the polls by the people and for the people to cast ballots for themselves.

That Cute Little Cub-

Robert Allen Reports:

Truman Tries To Replace Butler As Demo Chairman

WASHINGTON — Harry Truman is losing no time in starting the Democrats' 1960 campaign rolling. The former president is playing a leading role in a backstage drive to replace National Chairman Paul Butler with former Senator Earl Clements, Ky., director of the Democratic Senate Campaign Committee.

This significant move is going to be coupled by Truman with a public endorsement of Sen. Stuart Symington, Mo., for the 1960 presidential nomination. The Truman announcement is slated for sometime next week.

Others include Senator George Smathers, Fla., chairman of the Senate Democratic Campaign Committee; Governor David L. Lawrence of Pennsylvania who is national committee man from that state; Carmine G. De Sapio, New York national committee man; Frank McKinley, former Democratic National Chairman and long a Butler foe; Leo G. Graybill, Missouri national committee man; Charles E. Shuttles, Indiana State Chairman; and most of the committee men from Southern states who have long been bitter enemies of Butler's agency of drastic civil rights measures.

Outcome of this inner struggle is still a question mark. There have been other attempts to oust Butler, but they got nowhere. Even at the December meeting of the National Committee there was talk of axing him. This was vetoed when the Committee instead voted endorsement of his civil rights stand.

Butler has strong supporters who will fight the move to oust him. Capital had not been accumulated to buy better tools; because freedom had so recently emerged from centuries of feudalism that the inventors and scientists and businessmen had not had a chance to dream and to plan.

Parity ratio in 1938 stood at 82 percent. In 1958, a farm bill was approved that reduced price supports and eased production controls on cotton, rice and corn and extended for three years the incentive payment program for wool.

The greatest single blessing of representative government, it seems to us, is less the casting of popular ballots than the fact that the various pressure groups and special interests tend to cancel each other out. An almost intolerable national production of laws already afflicts us. If the two major parties were able to accomplish all they promise (or threaten) the burden would be even greater and the burden even more unpleasant.

The New Deal, fortunately, died of its own sheer weight and gross dimensions. So do most of the social "reforms," sooner or later. This is the savior of America: no matter how much they promise, only a small part of the economic nostrums manage to get into law and very few of those laws operate for long.

Down South

By Thurman Sensing

Indications show that cities are the newest elements in American life that may become full-fledged wards of the federal government. Of course, city governments have been receiving some federal aid for a number of years. But the incoming Congress may include a sizable bloc of Representatives who want to vastly extend welfare-state coverage for urban communities.

Senator Joseph S. Clark (D-Pa.), former mayor of Philadelphia and a rising figure in "liberal" circles, sounded the battle cry for more federal aid for cities when he urged the creation of a "department of urban affairs" to deal with such matters as "the deterioration of mass transit in the cities" and stepped-up urban redevelopment.

What the nation faces is the danger of a welfare-state agency designed to pour tax money into the cities — an agency that will spend nothing but political relief programs. Such programs are always both costly and ineffective.

Now it's a fact that some American cities are in trouble. One reason is that the federal government has taken over most of the major sources of local money. But the way to help cities regain their health is not to increase taxes or borrow money and then pour a lot of the money back into the cities.

BUY HIM OUT — In an effort to avoid a knock-down-slugging match, the anti-Butler group is talking of offering him an attractive private job. So far this is still in the tall stage. While they would like to ease him out this way, no one has yet come up with a lucrative offer for Butler.

Actually, Butler himself has been putting out feelers for a private job for some time. Several law firms have been propositioned about a connection for him. Two factors helped decide Truman to take part in the effort to make Clements National Chairman.

First is the $700,000 debt which has been hanging over the party since 1958. Truman and his group feel Clements will be able to clear this up. He had marked success in raising funds for this year's Senate races.

The second factor is Butler's failure to produce funds for this year's House contests. He promised to raise $100,000, but only came up with $10,000. Speaker Rayburn was particularly miffed by this.

POLITICALS — Truman's presidential declaration for Symington will probably trigger a similar announcement by Adlai Stevenson for Senator Hubert Humphrey, Minn. Senator Estes Kefauver, Tenn., still has the old White House job. Although he's up for a third term in 1960, he is telling friends he may be in the fight for the presidential nomination that year as well.

The way to avoid such a mess in the cities — conditions that would undermine municipal authority — is to stand firm against the folly of federal aid for urban areas. Reckless expenditures in any and all cities that demand federal aid would wreck the businesses and commercial establishments that make cities what they are.

A big urban redevelopment scheme is under way in my home city of Nashville, Tennessee, and the mayor has applied for Federal aid, saying it is simply too big a job for Nashville to do alone. If the City of Nashville, which has been operating under a balanced budget, cannot afford to do the job, how can the Federal Government, which is operating under a current annual deficit of $12 billion, afford it?

Hankering

By Henry McLemore

I have made but one New Year's resolution. It is: To violate as many "Do Not" signs as I can during 1959.

From a simple beginning — Do Not Walk On The Grass and No Smoking — signs of command in this land of the free and the home of the brave have multiplied until a citizen dare not make a move until he reads his instructions on the wall or post.

The more timid among us are in danger of losing our initiative and becoming regemented by the pointing finger and that word "NO." We WATCH OUR FEET, eat vegetables we dislike because the menu says NO SUBSTITUTIONS, drive blocks out of our way because a man's driveway bears a NO TURNING ROUND warning, and risk having our noses chopped off in elevators by obeying the FASTEN THE FRONT COMMAND.

I am going to launch my rebellion against signs of command this afternoon with a visit to the zoo. I am going to leave the car at home and go by bus so as to get a lick in against the HAVE CHANGE READY order. When the driver sticks out his hand he is going to get a big, round, hard silver dollar, a souvenir of my trip to the zoo.

As I stroll along I am going to make it a point NOT TO LOOK OUT FOR STRAY CATTLE, to boldly knock on all front doors where USE SERVICE ENTRANCE signs are out, and do my resting on corners and lots where LOITERING IS PROHIBITED.

I am going to be on the look-out for buildings where USE OTHER DOOR IS ordered, and if I am in at a movie I am going to make my exit on the dead run. If I stop for refreshments on my way home I might, even so rebellious as to disobey the NO TIPPING sign, if there happens to be one.

No, on second thought, that would be TOO rebellious. A man has to call a halt somewhere!

I think Confucius left a message for Harry Truman. Confucius said, "The perfect man is never satisfied. If he is satisfied with himself, he isn't perfect."

Every man of good will hates the morons who bomb Jewish synagogues and extends his sympathy to the congregations who have suffered such indignities. And, since it is hard to remain calm while being bombed, every right-minded Gentile lives in fear that a few criminals may recklessly produce tragic racial and religious hostilities in the United States. All of us, therefore, should be grateful for the common sense voiced in New York recently by A. L. Redelheim, president of the Zionist Organization of America when he said: "The attitude of the American people to these incidents does not reflect any upsurge of anti-Semitism in our country. On the contrary, it has clearly labeled anti-Semitism and hoodlumism as a biological and hoodlumism."

He's right, we should unite against hoodlums and we never should permit rangers to come between friends.

86th Congress To Be Interesting

Congress In 1959.
The First Session of the 86th Congress bids fair to be one of the most interesting and active sessions of Congress in the history of this nation. The chances are that it will start off with a decided "bang". At this reading, it would be my prediction that the first pop out of the box will come a number one controversial issue that could well shake political roots clear across the nation. The controversial issue will be whether or not to receive and swear in a new Member duly certified by the State of Arkansas as having been elected. The newspapers here have reported that objection will be made to the seating of this Member and that the matter will be put to a vote by the House of Representatives. The result of that vote will determine whether or not this Member must stand aside until the House has thoroughly investigated the election at which he was elected. No doubt efforts will be made between now and the opening of the Congress to compromise the situation and avoid the head-on conflict that would result from such Parliamentary procedure. Whether or not these efforts are successful will depend on the willingness of the self-designated liberal group to yield on the point. The fact is that it would not work, and that it should be discarded. The first vote that I cast when I came to Congress was a vote to restore to the Rules Committee the power to exercise jurisdiction over the legislation to come before the Congress. It is my sincere hope that whatever attempt is made to do away with the power of the Rules Committee will fail, and it is my studied opinion that such will be the fate of the attempt by this group should it be tried in this session of Congress.

When these two matters have been disposed of, the Congress will then begin to consider a mass of legislative proposals that will provide the backdrop to the most hectic session in many years.

Business Recovers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Commerce Secretary Lewis L. Strauss said today that business had made a "quick and substantial recovery" from the recent recession.
"We start the new year from a position of increasing strength and of growing confidence," he said.
But he warned that "while the expansion in business since last spring has been substantial and the base of recovery has widened, some major elements of demand are still lagging."
For example, Strauss said in a year-end statement, there "is as yet no clear-cut evidence of a renewed upswing in business outlays for new plant and equipment."
"The latest survey of intentions by businessmen for the first quarter of the new year indicates firming tendencies," he continued, "but an investment rate only slightly in advance of the final quarter of 1958."
Two other sectors of the economy which must show marked improvement if economic recovery is to continue unabated, he stated, were the automobile industry and exports.

the numerous committees. It constitutes a safety valve on the type of legislation to come before the Congress, and provides an opportunity for legislative bills that have been approved by the several committees to be carefully weighed with reference to the time for the presentation of such bills, whether or not the same are necessary, and whether or not their bills may be advisable when viewed in the light of the fiscal condition or fiscal policy of the government.
The reason that the self-styled liberal group wants to throttle the power of the Rules Committee is because there are a number of bills that come before the Congress each year that these Members would like to bring before the entire House for extended debate or for immediate passage if the mood of the House at that particular time so demands. Should this power of the Rules Committee be destroyed, it is obvious that the much needed cooling-off period so necessary in the careful scrutiny of bills that are to become the law of this land would be likewise destroyed. This would cause chaos and confusion and could very well operate to the detriment of the entire country. The Congress tried this method a few years back, and found out that it would not work, and that it should be discarded. The first vote that I cast when I came to Congress was a vote to restore to the Rules Committee the power to exercise jurisdiction over the legislation to come before the Congress. It is my sincere hope that whatever attempt is made to do away with the power of the Rules Committee will fail, and it is my studied opinion that such will be the fate of the attempt by this group should it be tried in this session of Congress.

Versatile Grandmother Serves in Several Jobs

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mrs. Winona Allen, a grandmother in her 50's, is a one-woman sightseeing bureau; shopping service; babysitter; adviser to the lovelorn; and amateur sleuth.
She manages to combine all these in one job — as head of guest relations for the Hotel Commodore, located at a crossroads for travelers — Grand Central Terminal.

On the job for 16 years, the gray-haired widow believes hers is a career unique in the hotel field. Her one assignment is to keep guests happy and make them want to stay at the same place on their next trip to the nation's largest city.

But accomplishing all this calls for tact and patience, plus a vast storehouse of information about New York's sights, its shops and its prices. During World War II, when servicemen by the thousands either stayed at the hotel or made their lobby their hangout, she located everything from misplaced dates to a de-scented skunk for a ship's mascot.

"So you're Mrs. Allen. Well thank goodness. My husband comes home talking about you every time he's been in New York. I was afraid you were young and blonde."

Said Mrs. Allen, "I told her if I had had what she thought, her husband wouldn't be coming home talking about me."

Racket Committee Extension Sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Karl E. Mundt, ranking Republican member of the Senate Rackets Committee, says he will support a year's extension of the committee's life.

The special committee, under the chairmanship of Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.), is scheduled to go out of existence Jan. 31. McClellan said last fall he would ask the 86th Congress to give the committee an extra year for its long investigation of improper practices by labor and management.

"Our investigations are not completed," Mundt said Thursday. "There is another full year of work ahead."
Mundt said he had conferred with McClellan about the new lease on life for the committee, and "I don't anticipate any trouble" in getting approval from the Senate for the additional year.

Commenting on the contention of Sen. Pat McNamara (D-Mich.) that the Rackets Committee had said "he never was very enthusiastic about it," McNamara was one of the original members of the committee but resigned last spring.

The South Dakotan also predicted that the current attempt of James R. Hoffa's Teamsters Union to organize New York police men would "fall flat on its face."

Mundt said that as a matter of public policy he felt unions should not try to organize police departments and other law enforcement agencies.

SLIGHT EMPLOYMENT DIP

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.) reported today that federal civilian employment during November totaled 2,354,717, a drop of only 765 government workers from the previous month.

"I told her, 'Madam, what you need is an almanac.'"
Not too many days ago, one well-dressed woman appeared at Mrs. Allen's desk, stared at her a few minutes, and then commented:

"So you're Mrs. Allen. Well thank goodness. My husband comes home talking about you every time he's been in New York. I was afraid you were young and blonde."

Said Mrs. Allen, "I told her if I had had what she thought, her husband wouldn't be coming home talking about me."

Auburn Could Break SEC Title Hold Of Kentucky

Auburn's crack basketball team owns the nation's longest college winning streak, an honored place in the top 10, and a good chance to break Kentucky's monopoly of the Southeastern Conference championship. But just as in football, Auburn has no place to go if it keeps winning. Even if Coach Joel Eaves' Tigers win the SEC title, the same recruiting penalties which ruled out a football bowl berth would prevent them from playing in the NCAA basketball tournament, where they might prove their claim to national honors. With an 8-0 record for this season, Auburn seeks its 20th straight triumph tonight at home against Mississippi. The Tigers were the last team to beat Kentucky, winning 64-63 last Feb. 24. They meet this season at Lexington, Ky., Feb. 21. Cincinnati Faces Bradley Cincinnati, which held the No. 1 national rating last week before losing twice in the Dixie Classic at Raleigh, N.C., returns to the wars to play Bradley in the leading game on tonight's schedule. The slate also includes two key Big Ten conference games pitting Michigan State at Iowa and Northwestern at Michigan; an inter-sectional clash which finds St. Louis at Pittsburgh; and Furman at West Virginia. Kentucky, rated No. 2 last week

Stamford, Terrell Dominate AA All-State Football Team

United Press International. Donald Davis, Stamford's great center and guard on the Brady line that held Stamford closer than any AA team but Terrell, made up the middle of the line with Anderson. The tackles were Jimmy Payne of Stamford and Billy Plaacke of Giddings and the ends Stanley Irwin of Terrell and Taylor's Gene Raess. Anderson and Appleton are both juniors and will have a chance to make the 1959 team—a feat impossible this year, since the 1957 team was an all-senior outfit. Terrell and Angleton also placed one man each on the second team with Terrell's Jimmy Keller making a return appearance on the No. 2 team. Bobby Wisnand of Electra, a second team center.

No Panhandle players made the first two teams. last year, showed up on the honorable mention list this time. The second team also had 12 players due to a tie for the second tackle position. Orr Named Rookie of Year In National Grid League

NEW YORK (UPI)—Jim Orr, an end who averaged 27.6 yards per catch for the Pittsburgh Steelers during the past season, today was named the National Football League's outstanding 1958 rookie in the annual United Press International poll. Orr beat out three other first-year players by the slim margin of two votes. Halfbacks Bobby Mitchell of the Cleveland Browns and Ray Brown of the Baltimore Colts and Lou Michaels, defensive lineman and linebacker for the Los Angeles Rams, tied for second with four votes apiece. Jim Gibbons, offensive end for the Detroit Lions; Alex Karras, offensive tackle for the Lions; and Phil King, offensive back for the New York Giants, were next with two votes apiece. End Jerry Meents of the San Francisco Forty-Niners, guard Gehe Hickerson of the Browns and guard Dick Dale Meiner of the Chicago Cardinals split the other three votes. Orr led the balloting in voting by 27 sports writers who covered the NFL games in the 11 league cities. No rookie dominated the poll this season as Jimmy Brown of the Browns did in 1957 when he received all except two of the votes cast. Orr, who played his college football as a halfback for Georgia, started the 1958 NFL training season with the Rams. Coach Buddy Parker of the Steelers was impressed by Orr's play during an exhibition with Los Angeles shortly before the regular season began and obtained him in a deal. Parker also got quarterback Bobby Layne and fullback Tom Tracy from Detroit in another shuffle and they teamed with the 190-pound Orr to form a 1-2-3 offensive punch that kept the Steelers undefeated in their last seven games.

LEFORS (UPI)—Lefors and McLean tied for the boys' championship of the Lefors basketball tournament with 3.1 records. The tourney was decided on a percentage basis as it was not an elimination meet. In the final game Saturday night, McLean defeated Lefors 36-32. In the girls' division, Canadian was first and McLean was second. Sportsmanship trophies were awarded to Canadian's boys and Miami's girls. Trophies went to the two outstanding players on each championship team and to the outstanding player on each of the other teams.

AGGIES FACE RICE, BAYLOR

By ED FITE United Press International. The Texas Aggies, taking up where they left off last season when they stacked up as the toughest outfit in the circuit at season's end, face two more challengers this week as they try to win a championship to go with their Southwest Conference tournament laurels. Coach Bobby Rogers' agile Aggies have three other teams for company at the top as the league heads into the first full week of little play, but there are bound to be some casualties before the eight-game program is completed next Saturday night. For, while the Aggies are meeting two of the opening night losers—Rice at College Station Tuesday and Baylor at Waco Friday, pre-season title favorite Texas Christian will be taking on two of the first-night winners. Frogs Host Hogs, Steers The Frogs, who yielded their No. 1 role to the Aggies after bowing to the cadets in the tourney finals last week, entertain Arkansas at Fort Worth Wednesday and play host to Texas at Fort Worth Saturday. The Aggies, TCU, Texas and Arkansas start the week with 1-0 records, while Southern Methodist, Baylor, Rice and Texas Tech have 0-1 marks. TCU rapped Baylor by 10 points, 72-62, at Waco, but it took a final seconds pump-in by Wayne Lawrence to give A&M a 63-61 victory over SMU on the latter's court; Arkansas trapped Tech at Fayetteville 61-57, while Texas rode a 30-point performance by Albert Almada to a stunning 61-55 upset of Rice at Houston. Almada Leads Other action this week will have SMU at Texas and Tech at Baylor Tuesday night and Tech at SMU and Rice at Arkansas Saturday night.

The versatile all-conference quarterback, whose passing and running averaged 147.8 yards per game in the eight games he played, won out in close voting by the Texas Sports Writers Association over Rice's all-American end Buddy Dial and Abilene Christian sprinter Bobby Morrow. Meredith, who has another year of eligibility at SMU, polled 24 of the 83 votes cast to 20 for Dial as (1 write-in).

A Value Judgment

In one sense, the great conflict for the minds of men in which this world appears to be engaged, related to the human sense of values.

Value, as Ludwig von Mises so aptly shows us, is inevitably subjective. It is a personal affair. We are told, for example, that a certain product is worth X amount of money. If we don't happen to like the product, we wouldn't purchase it.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES

Sweat Shop Argument For Labor Unions

I want to continue to quote from Samuel B. Pettengill's explanation as to why we have been reducing poverty. Under the heading of "A Measure of Progress" he writes: "One measure of the progress of civilization is the extent to which mechanical horsepower and tools supplement human labor."

"The laboratories do far more for mankind than do the legislatures. If modern Americans were to go back to the same tools and horsepower that were available when Benjamin Franklin was trying to capture lightning from the sky, our production of wealth would at once go down 90 percent."

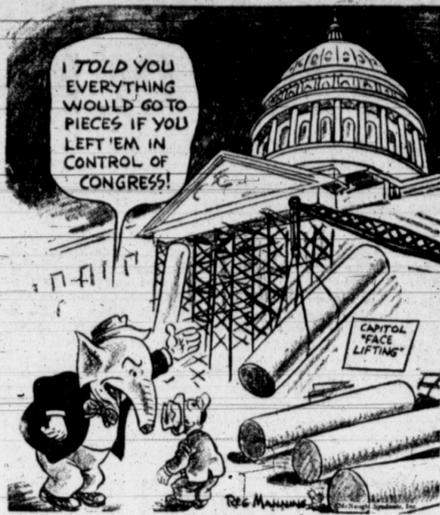

"In Vermont where I was raised, a man back in my great-grandfather's time dug some iron ore out of a hill. He got 100 pounds in a bag on his back and walked 30 miles through the wilderness to sell it to an iron foundry in Troy, New York."

"Let us say that James Watt and the man who financed his project were not humanitarians. Let us say that they put their brains and money together in a common enterprise for the profit motive."

"The wage motive prompts men to make better tools and to cut costs in order to sell cheaper, and again, all mankind benefits."

"Above all, we want the very pertinent fact to be kept uppermost in mind that the President will need our votes to enact his legislative program in the New Congress. These important votes of ours cannot be taken for granted."

It's Those Democrats-

Robert Allen Reports:

Senate Republicans Refusing Efforts

WASHINGTON - Those Senate Republicans insisting on new party leadership are firmly refusing efforts to enlist the help of either Vice President Nixon or Governor Nelson Rockefeller.

The two presidential possibilities are being privately consulted by members of the liberal group. But that's all. Despite several attempts to bring Nixon and Rockefeller to powwows of the group, that has always been blocked by emphatic dissent.

Foremost among the objectors are Senators George Aiken, Vt., and Clifford Case, N.J. One especially significant incident occurred at a New York meeting presided over by U.N. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge. Behind the scenes, he has advised and supported the Senate liberals.

"I haven't a thing in the world against the Governor," declared the Vermonters. "But I just don't think it's wise for us to involve him in what we are trying to accomplish in this Senate fight."

Looking Sideways

By Whitney Bolton

NEW YORK - Once upon a time I wanted to get away from things, so I got 3,000 miles away. I went to Hollywood and was invited to a party. The guests were people who had, at various times, made as much as $3,000 a week each.

"I did everything," he said. "Everything. I cut out jigsaw puzzles, made toys and had insomnia. Who didn't? Some people in New York were even jumping out of windows. I took a circular piece of left-over linoleum one day and laid out the basic game. I typed the title cards on old shirtboards. I had some wooden beading from the lumber yard and made the houses and hotels. My wife and I played it to keep our minds off our miseries, never even thinking of selling it. Then we had some friends in and they played it with us and the winner wanted a copy for himself. I charged him $4. It got so where I was making a set or two a day and the news was spreading. After making 100 sets at $4 each, our ladder was supplied but I was stumped. I knew I had to manufacture or give up. Friends pitched in. One printed the game board, another made the pieces, we had the title cards made. I could make six games a day now, and they sold as fast as I made them. I had to contract for printing, packaging and delivery. Buyers from stores began coming by to see the game. Customers had asked for before the depression was really over I was on a 20,000-games-a-year basis. I faced facts. I had to borrow bank money to keep going or sell out to a games company. The Parker people made an attractive offer and I took it rather than smother myself in bank loans and clatrap. I have never regretted doing business with them at Parker's. It has worked out all right."

Robert B. Barton is president of the games firm and here is a note from him: "I can say that Monopoly is the biggest thing that ever hit us. It was like capping six oil gushers at once or wading naked under Niagara Falls. We got so many orders we filled them in huge laundry baskets. A Boston company specializing in tough bookkeeping jobs refused for a fat fee to undertake ours. And we almost lost this flood, when, chivvied by friends, Darrow showed us the game, we all wanted to say 'No.' It was too complicated and took too long to play. We did turn it down the old afternoon. The next morning we got hold of him and did business. It seems several of our executives took a home the night before and couldn't stop playing it. It violated all our rules for a game but was irresistible. We acknowledge we almost turned down a diamond mine."

The company figured that with the end of the depression, the game would stop selling. People once more would have real money and could make their own deals and didn't need a parlor game with fake money and false deals as a palliative. It has gone on without letdown ever since, selling into the millions, with resulting goodies for Darrow as well as the Parker firm.

Darrow now travels three months a year, de luxe, and raises orchids as a hobby. If you invent a solid game you can do that kind of thing. He likes to make home movies and does so on his travels, which are mainly in older lands with ruined, ancient cities.

Fair Enough

McCutcheon Cartoon Unusual & Great

by WESTBROOK PEGLER

The three greatest cartoons on the front page, I would not possibly do justice to the subject. However, I said I would try. "We'll try again to get a good morgue and no good picture of Teddy was available. So about five o'clock, the M. E. came back and I showed him what I had done meanwhile. Teddy on a horse waving farewell and headed for the long, long trail. The M. E. said it's not very good, is it? We'll try again to get a good photograph. But in another hour he said we would use the drawing for the first edition and would I make something else for the last edition? I made an 'In Memoriam' with undertaker's crepe and sadness and the cartoon of Teddy was pulled. But I forgot to cancel the shipment to the syndicate of about 125 papers. I took the 11 o'clock train out of Des Moines and if Chicago was surprised to see 'The Long, Long Trail' on page one of the Post."

John McCutcheon did not know he had done unusual work that day so he let the original drawing and the text-copy get away. Years later at his happy home on Treasure Island, off Nassau, he told me sadly that some man to whom it had been lightly given had never offered it back. "Ding, whose name is Jay N. Darling, thought he had done something poor and mawkish in his Roosevelt opus. His base was the Des Moines Register and Leader and being a stickler for tradition, he was a little behind schedule. So he locked himself in his office to turn out three political cartoons in one afternoon. Ding was one of the few surviving Page One political cartoonists even then. The Page One drawing had been standard in all sizeable cities for many years, but papers were getting less and less brash about their principles and, too, a few cartoonists were more important to the public than the papers that employed them."

"That Teddy Roosevelt cartoon almost never did see the light of day," Mr. Darling writes me. "I was leaving for New York that evening and several knocks on my door brought no response. But about four in the afternoon, the managing editor called through the door that Roosevelt was dead. The news knocked me for a loop and I said he would have to get a picture of Teddy and turn the rules over to me. The next morning there'd be 100 people in line. Funny thing. When it became popular the world over we had to change the locales of the city used in the game. Churchill adores the game and he uses the British version, which is based on London real estate and pound sterling monies. In France, it's Paris and francs and so on. In South America they use the original game and point to it as an example of Yankee trading talents. We have not sold to Russia. They say it's capitalistic."

The Doctor Says:

by EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

One of the great needs of our time is to develop better methods and more facilities for the care of the older people in our population.

Never before in history have we looked forward to having such a large proportion of our fellow citizens over the age of 65. This does not mean that after that age we are through, but it does mean a change in the kind of problem facing the aging person, his or her family, and the community.

Men who live to this age suffer in a similar way, but there is some question as to whether the men who survive so long are as liable to serious ear difficulties as the women.

The Democrats and Republicans have both done so much coquetting with Communism that it's pretty hard for the average American to know what he thinks of the two-party system. This old man was plodding across the fields of France carrying his 2 daughters. One of these gorgeous creatures was riding in a hammock stretched across the old man's back. The second pretty girl rode in a sling suspended across the old fellow's chest. They met a traveler who paused to look at the lovely young woman and to ask, 'Are they pure?'

New Congress Will Provide Training For 1960 Hopefuls

By RAYMOND LAHR
 United Press International
 WASHINGTON (UPI)—The new Congress which convenes this week will provide a daily forum and testing ground for at least four potential candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1960.

It will also be the base of operations for Vice President Richard M. Nixon, now the strongest contender for the Republican nomination, although he plays no direct public role in dealing with the legislative program.

Nixon presides over the Senate, votes only in case of ties and works offstage as an agent of the Eisenhower administration. He also appears likely to inherit from President Eisenhower the active leadership of the Republican Party organization.

Here are the potential Democratic candidates in Congress:

Sen. John F. Kennedy (Mass.), 41, now viewed as the pace-setter. He will play a key part, just as he did in 1958, in whatever the Democratic-controlled Congress does to combat corruption in labor unions. Membership on the Foreign Relations Committee also offers him a vehicle to gain national attention. He has substantial support in the south.

Humphrey Rallying Point

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (Minn.), 47, a likely rally point for the more aggressive liberals in the Democratic Party. However, he is weak in the South. He will be in the forefront of the fight to change the Senate's anti-filibuster rule next week. He is a member of the Foreign Relations and Agriculture Committees and chairman of the subcommittee on disarmament but readily and deeply involves himself in issues in other fields, too.

Sen. Stuart Symington (Mo.), 57, who is often described as "everybody's second choice" for 1960. As a former secretary of the Air Force, he gets most attention for his frequent attacks on the Eisenhower administration's defense program. Like Kennedy, he is regarded by southern Democrats as much more acceptable than Humphrey.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex.), 50, dominant figure in writing the Democratic Party record during the past four years while majority leader of the Senate. Although he insists he is not a candidate, many Democrats consider him a potential contender, at least in case of a convention deadlock.

Kefauver Failed Twice
 A not so possible Democratic contender, is Sen. Estes Kefauver (Tenn.), who tried twice and failed to win the Presidential nomination. However, he may be kept busy protecting his Senate seat in 1960.

While these and possibly other Democratic senators will figure in the pre-convention maneuvering for the 1960 nomination, all of them know that U.S. political parties seldom choose presidential candidates from the Senate.

Other possible candidates—Govs. Robert B. Mayner of New Jersey and G. Mennen Williams of Michigan, Gov. Earl Warren of California and Adlai E. Stevenson—can stay aloof from the daily battle.

There is a widespread belief among Democrats that state presidential primaries will weigh heavily in the selection of the 1960 nominee. Unless one candidate builds a commanding lead, most states are expected to support favorite son candidates or send uncommitted delegations to the 1960 convention.
