BEEF SALES — A beef shortage in Argentina doesn't look likely here as a cook in Buenos Aires slices off steaks. But that holds true only for the first half of the month. During the last half there is a ban on selling beef locally in an effort to boost export sales. In the United States, Agriculture Department officials are predicting beef supplies will be more plentiful for consumers in the weeks ahead.

IN THIRD ATTEMPT

Laos, Pathet Lao Sign New Peace Agreement

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI) — Government and pro-Communist Pathet Lao negotiators, shaking hands and clinking champagne glasses, signed a peace pact today to end more than 10 years of war in the Kingdom of Laos.

Diplomats from the United States, China, North Vietnam and South Vietnam witnessed the brief, five-minute ceremony at the home of Prince Souvanna Phouma, the 72-year-old Laotian prime minister.

"With your support this agreement has been signed," Souvanna said to the diplomats.

Previous coalitions formed in 1954 and 1962 broke down when leftists and rightists failed to work together in this mountain kingdom of 2.5 million.

The Pathet Lao and Souvanna's supporters will get charge of five ministries apiece in the new government with two posts going to "nonpolitical" figures.

Prince Souphanouvong, head of the Pathet Lao and Souvanna's half-brother, missed the ceremony, remaining at Sam Neua, leftist headquarters 30 miles from the North Vietnamese border.

"There will be difficulties ahead," Souvanna predicted. "I hope my compatriots will accept this protocol which will lead to the end of the war and the beginning of national development and reconstruction."

Souvanna, who mediated the agreement, told newsmen he hoped the new coalition would be formed before Oct. 10.

Laotian officials said the new accord provides for:

- A council made up of 42 members from both sides to enforce the peace agreement and mediate outstanding issues.
- A cease-fire with 27 specified "hot spots" to be neutralized and then eventually pacified through mediation.

"I hope all friendly governments will support us after this war."

Ngone Sananikone, the government's chief negotiator, and Gen Phou Sipaseuth, the pro-Pathet Lao representative, signed the accord at precisely 9:40 a.m. on the advice of Souvanna's personal astrologer.

The Third Attempt
The peace pact, penned under an oil portrait of 66-year-old King Savang Vatthana, provides for the third attempt at a Laotian coalition government in 20 years.

Astros Continuing Resources Studies

HOUSTON (UPI) — In excellent health after 48 days in weightlessness, the Skylab 2 astronauts trained their space cameras today on natural resources from Baja California to the north central Atlantic Ocean.

Sherman, Cates To Talk On Aid To Schools

McLEAN — State Sen. Max Sherman and State Rep. Phil Cates will be in McLean next Tuesday night to discuss state aid to public schools.

Homer G. Jefferson, superintendent of the McLean Independent School District, said today the meeting at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the McLean High School auditorium will be open to the public.

Highlights of the talks by the two state officials from the Panhandle area will center around the amount of state aid that is being supplied.

In urging taxpayers to attend, Supt. Jefferson said:

"This will be an excellent time to let your state legislators know your feelings as to the tax burden placed on local citizens."

Jefferson, in a notice mailed to taxpayers, declared several new school programs have been passed into law, but are insufficiently funded by the State.

around highways for the state of Maine.

In addition to the 6,900-mile-long sweep with the array of earth study instruments, the research pilots continued to monitor the activity of a quiet sun and take more data on their bodies' reactions to their lengthy space flight. Ground controllers had to cancel another planned earth resources survey pass over the western United States because bad weather would have blocked the fliers' view.

The astronauts' chief physician said Thursday the crew has exercised its way to better health than had been expected after seven weeks in orbit, and the spacemen should have no more problems re-adapting to earth's gravity than the first Skylab crew did after 28 days of flight.

Dr. W. Royce Hawkins said Bean, Garriott and Lousma are in perfect health and have been given the medical okay to complete the record 59-day flight.

They are scheduled to splash down at 5:20 p.m. CDT Sept 25 in the Pacific about 290 miles southwest of San Diego.

"Their morale is really outstanding," he said. "They continue to work and perform very satisfactorily."

One of the major goals of the three endurance Skylab flights is to learn how man withstands the absence of gravity for long periods and what is necessary for the crewmen to stay in good health for trips to distant planets.

INVESTIGATING CORRUPTION CHARGES

Security Tightened For Maryland Jury

BALTIMORE (UPI) — N. Dale Anderson, successor to Vice President Spiro T. Agnew as chief executive officer of Baltimore County, pleaded innocent today to charges of conspiracy, extortion and bribery.

The seven-minute arraignment of the Democratic leader came one day after a special federal grand jury resumed investigation of Maryland political corruption amid security so tight one wing of the courthouse's fifth floor was blocked off.

U. S. District Judge Joseph H. Young scheduled Anderson's trial for next Jan. 7 and

Delegates Adopt Trade Negotiations Talks Plan

TOKYO (UPI) — Delegates from 82 countries adopted a landmark "Tokyo Declaration" today launching a new round of negotiations to rewrite the rules of international trade.

U. S. Treasury Secretary George Shultz played a major role in the talks and predicted a separate draft agreement on world monetary reform may be ready by 1974.

More than 600 high financial officials attended the Tokyo talks on the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT), which sets the framework for foreign trade among non-Communist countries.

The officials of GATT countries approved the "Tokyo Declaration," which provides for the trade talks, expected to last two years, and lays down ground rules for them.

Syria And Israel Jets Have Battle

By United Press International
Israel claimed its fighter pilots shot down 13 Syrian warplanes in two dogfights over the Mediterranean Thursday in the biggest air battle since the 1967 Middle East War. Syria said five Israeli and eight Syrian planes were downed.

Israeli Air Force commander Maj. Gen. Binyamin Peled told reporters in Tel Aviv about 30 planes from both sides battled over international waters opposite the Syrian port of Tartous, 125 miles north of the Israeli-Lebanese border.

A military spokesman said the Syrian jet toll was the largest in any Arab-Israeli air action since the six-day war.

Peled said only one Israeli jet was shot down and its pilot was picked up unharmed from the sea by a rescue helicopter.

A Syrian military spokesman, quoted by Damascus Radio in a broadcast monitored in Beirut, claimed 64 Israeli warplanes flew through Lebanese air space before reaching central Syria "in an attempt to carry out an aggressive assignment."

He said five Israeli and eight Syrian planes were shot down.

Official sources in Damascus said the Syrian Foreign Ministry today instructed its delegate at the United Nations to lodge a complaint with the Security Council against the Israeli air attacks. The request for the complaint did not include a demand for the council to meet, the sources said.

BIGGEST SINCE 1967

The actual working-level talks, which probably will be known as the "Nixon Round," are scheduled to open the last week in October at the GATT headquarters in Geneva.

GATT's last previous round of trade negotiations from 1964-69 was known as the "Kennedy Round" in honor of the late American president.

At a news conference before leaving for Washington, Shultz said that draft language for an agreement on a reformed world currency system may be ready by the time of the 1974 meeting of the International Monetary Fund (IMF).

Peled said a small number of Israeli Mirage and F4 Phantom fighter-bombers on routine surveillance "definitely not in Syrian air space" called in reinforcements when Soviet-built MIGs of the Syrian Air Force attacked.

Nine out of a total of 12 to 16 MIGs, he said, were downed by an Israeli covering force of 12 jets.

The hotel, owned by International Telephone and Telegraph, said all celebrities staying there receive a discount because they attract customers.

The New York Times said today a rich and politically influential supermarket executive in Maryland has regularly supplied Agnew and his family with gifts of food. Agnew's Washington office did not deny the story, and neither did Joseph H. Rash, the reported donor of the food. Rash is a vice president of Food Fair Stores Inc., third biggest supermarket chain in the country.

Youths Locked Into Building At Gatesville

GATESVILLE, Tex. (UPI) — Officials of the Gatesville State School for boys, aided by Texas Rangers, Department of Public Safety officers and sheriff's deputies, locked 100 rebellious inmates in the school's security building Thursday.

The youths had escaped the minimum security unit and been recaptured in the last two days.

"The only problem we have left is the ones that have been returned are really sounding off," said Dr. James Turman, executive director of the Texas Youth Council. "They're very rebellious. They're breaking their beds apart, knocking out glass and refuse to calm down."

Turman said 16 more teenage youths were missing from the Central Texas center.

"Law enforcement officials could have apprehended some of those and we might not yet know of it," Turman said. "All seven schools on the Gatesville campus are calm and the kids are going to class. It's just regular operations."

Only about 10 per cent of the campus population was involved. The rest didn't want to go along with it and didn't go along."

Agnew was notified Aug. 2 he was under investigation, but Richardson said he has yet to decide whether the Constitution allows criminal charges to be filed against a vice president while he is in office.

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI) — The sporadic gun-battles between the ruling military junta and snipers loyal to deposed President Salvador Allende died today and the army removed tanks which had surrounded the presidential palace.

Gunfire could be heard throughout the city overnight as the army moved to crush the last remains of opposition to its coup on Tuesday in which Allende was thrown out of office and died.

The junta released a communique today denying that a column of pro-Allende soldiers and armed workers led by Gen. Carlos Prats, former defense minister, was advancing on Santiago from the south.

(In Buenos Aires, Allende's widow, Hortensia Bussi de Allende, was quoted in an interview as saying: "Let the world know the truth of what has happened. President Allende was betrayed and overthrown by a Fascist coup and he was buried in the most complete secrecy.")

"The interview, given Thursday to a correspondent for the Mexico City newspaper Excelsior, quoted her as saying she was not permitted to see her husband's body before he was buried."

Declare Support
Two of the country's largest political parties, the middle-of-the-road Christian Democrats and the right-wing National party — both of which acted in Congress to block many of Allende's efforts to reform the Chilean economy — Thursday declared their support for the junta.

In today's communique, the junta said the situation this morning was "more peaceful than the night before."

It said "foreign radio reports" that Allende was alive, but wounded, were "completely without foundation. He committed suicide in La Moneda Palace Sept. 11 and interment was carried out privately the following day with members of his family present. We will soon make public documents to prove this."

It said Gen. Prats "has said he wishes to make a public statement within 24 hours through the news media in which he will reiterate his decision to avoid adopting any attitude which would signify a break in the cohesion of the armed forces, which he said was the fundamental motive for his retirement from the army."

The communique denounced reports circulated "by extremist elements solely to create a climate of confusion, fear and disorder aimed at dividing Chileans, which cannot be done as the citizenry knows that the government is issuing only information reflecting categorically the truth of what is going on in the country."

"Once more the new government states it is engaged in the patriotic task of national unity, not for the left or the right, but for the recovery of Chile, which will be achieved with serenity and within the harmony of the actual circumstances."

Machine-gun and rifle fire broke out at midnight with bullets smashing through windows of buildings near the battered La Moneda presidential palace where Allende reportedly killed himself Tuesday as army troops moved in to seize him.

The ruling military junta led by Gen. Augusto Pinochet, the army commander, refused to release details on casualties in the fighting, but unofficial reports told of up to several thousand dead since the armed forces overthrew the three-year-old Marxist government.

The unofficial reports told of massive roundups of Allende supporters across the country with 3,000 held aboard ships in Valparaiso harbor.

(In Geneva, the International Red Cross announced plans to send a special delegate to Chile to help the injured in the street battles and to try to arrange a truce.

(In Buenos Aires, three Allende supporters who fled to Argentina told newsmen Gen. Carlos Prats, the late president's defense minister, was leading Chile's 5th Army Corps and "a column of workers" toward Santiago from the South.

Claim Fighting at Mine Site
(Former Mining Minister Jorge Arrage, labor leader Octavio Gonzales and former Chilean ambassador to Cuba J. A. Vega also claimed fighting at Chuquicamata, 300 miles north of Santiago, site of the world's largest open pit copper mine.)

The four-man junta, however, denied Prats was marching on Santiago and reporters close to the armed forces claimed the former defense minister was under house arrest in the capital.

A junta spokesman, at a news conference for foreign reporters, claimed the armed forces were in "firm control" of the country of 10 million.

The reporters saw bodies still in bullet-ridden cars and piles of human hair near where soldiers shaved the heads of captured long-haired opponents. Witnesses said prisoners who refused to let troops shave them were taken away and shot.

Fighting Strong At Phnom Penh

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Sharp fighting was reported on three sides of Phnom Penh today and government troops searched out the last remaining Communist infiltrators in the provincial capital of Kompong Cham.

At Kompong Cham, after having cleared the entire city, our troops are pursuing their operations to enlarge the zone of defense," the High Command announced.

The chief of staff, Maj. Gen. Sosthene Fernandez, visited Kompong Cham today by helicopter.

Foreign correspondents who visited Kompong Cham by government helicopter on Thursday said it might take months to secure the city completely.

A one-hour downpour, the third this week, soaked Phnom Penh and its environs today, further widening the Mekong River and filling Communist bunkers and shell holes. Heavy rains are expected to delay any Communist dry season offensive.

The command reported skirmishes today at Viba Suor, 10 miles northeast of Phnom Penh, where the High Command said "hard fighting" took place during the night. A command spokesman said reinforcements were en route to help the 700-man garrison there.

At Phum Prek Krasar, seven miles southeast of Phnom Penh on Highway 30, about 300 armor-supported government troops approached within 500 yards of the Communist-held village at midday but were stopped, suffering four men wounded, field reporters said.

At Wat Kdol, seven miles southwest of the capital, Communist forces attacked a government position manned by about 200 troops Thursday night and again this morning, but were pushed back each time, field reporters said.

Communist gunners fired mortar and recoilless rifle shells into the provincial capital at Kompong Speu, a town on Highway 4 about 30 miles southwest of Phnom Penh, earlier in the day. The High Command said the shelling killed two civilians and wounded 13 others.

The D.A.R., headed by Mrs. J.B. White, regent, annually heads the local observance of Constitution Week, with special attention in the public schools, newspaper articles and radio talks.

The mayor's proclamation says in part:

"The Constitution of the United States of America gives us the foundation for a free, prosperous and independent life for every citizen, but each generation, in time, must work for and claim it; otherwise, through carelessness or indifference, the rights and liberties we have enjoyed may vanish."

France Keeping Good Relations With U.S.S.R.

PEKING (UPI) — French President Georges Pompidou said today his state visit to China will not sway France from maintaining good relations with the Soviet Union.

Speaking at a news conference, Pompidou said that during extensive talks with Chinese leaders he and his hosts did not always see eye-to-eye on all major international problems.

He said the differences were due to different geographical location of the two nations and different preoccupations.

The 62-year-old Pompidou reaffirmed his determination to continue the Gaullist regime's 10-year drive for better relations with Moscow.

He was asked whether his visit would affect the French relationship with Moscow.

"Why should there be any consequences?" Pompidou responded, throwing up his arms. "France wants to be on good terms with the whole world."

Correction

It was erroneously reported by The News Wednesday that Warren Hasse, school board member, had been absent at a board meeting sometime during the year.

Minutes of school board meetings show Hasse has had perfect attendance at board meetings in 1973.

Hasse was, however, out of town on vacation at the time expenditures proposed for the spring school system bond election were announced.

The $26,000 for 69 typewriters for the commercial department at Pampa High School was included in the expenditures listed in the bond proposal.

The $26,000 was not a budget item, but it was an item included in the bond proposal which failed.

Well Oiled

Oil shale in the United States may hold 40 gallons of petroleum to a ton of rock, but no one yet knows how to extract it economically or without ruining thousands of square miles of the western United States by strip mining.

The oil shale holds many times the known American oil reserves of 45.4 billion barrels.

PETROLEUM OFFICIAL SAYS

Government Interference Creating 'Energy Crisis'

By CLAY LIVELY
"The federal government has short-circuited the law of supply and demand."

That was the answer Granville Dutton of Sun Oil Co. gave to the Panhandle section of the Society of Petroleum Engineers last night at a meeting at Coronado Inn in a talk on the causes of the present energy crisis.

Dutton said the operation of a free economy, with the buyer and seller of a product acting freely without government interference, was the only solution to the crisis.

He said the "solution to the energy crisis will be costly," but the operation of a free market will insure the long range solution of the problem.

It will not be a short range expediency such as the inflationary and self-defeating price controls imposed on the oil industry by the federal government, he added.

Dutton also attacked the easing of oil import quotas, saying that dependency on foreign oil hurts the United States both economically and militarily. He emphasized the point of noting, "foreign oil is cheap if you don't need it."

As further evidence of the need to exploit domestic oil supplies and not depend on foreign sources, Dutton gave as an example the recent expropriation of the majority of the stock in several American oil companies by Libya.

The speaker called upon those who make their living in the oil industry to familiarize themselves with the facts about the energy crisis, its causes and what must be done to alleviate the problem so they may better inform the public.

In continuing his indictment of government interference in the oil industry and the market in general, Dutton told the group the Texas Senate recently defeated a bill which would have allowed the oil industry to exploit known reserves.

Dutton also attacked the malignment of the petroleum industry by the federal government, the Congress and the news media.

As an example, he pointed out many people in the United States believe oil companies make excessive profits and charge too much for their products.

He demonstrated that gasoline prices to the public have increased from 28.7 cents per gallon (for a certain quality gasoline) to 36.2 cents per gallon in 1972. That is a 26 per cent increase, but 57 per cent of the increase was increased taxes.

At the same time, Dutton noted, all commodities in the U.S. increased 65 per cent.

On profits, U.S. oil companies had a 10.2 per cent average rate of return on their net worth for the period from 1952 to 1971, while all manufacturing companies in the country had a 10.8 per cent return, Dutton added.

He concluded his remarks by reiterating it is incumbent on the oil industry and its employees to do all they can to make the public aware of the facts about the cause of the energy crisis.

'Greenways' give home country look

By DOROTHEA M. BROOKS

NEW YORK (UPI) — "People want to get away from that manicured, urban look..."

"And it's just that urge that has led to the newest trend in recreational land development," says Richard Selleg of Selleg, Stevens, Peterson & Flock, Inc., St. Charles, Ill. landscape architect.

"Increasingly," says Selleg, "city folks and suburbanites are being introduced to 'greenways' — open trails of undeveloped land — near the lots they choose for their weekend, holiday and vacation retreats."

Greenways, he explains, are an extension of the "greenbelt" concept, which provides for a belt of parks or farmlands around a community — an idea which bloomed in 19th century Europe where "garden cities" were built, girdled with land, grass, flowers and trees, called the "lungs of the city" by Sir Ebenezer Howard, founder of the movement in England.

First adopted in the United States in Radburn, Fair Lawn, N.J., in the late 1920s, the open space concept has come into its own of late as cities encroach on suburbs and suburbs on the countryside, as open land is gobbled up by industry and highways and homes, and as, finally, people have begun to concern themselves with their environment.

As available land in the areas where people must live grows more scarce, its value increases — not only as a place to build a house, but for the land itself — for the open space, grass, trees and shrubs, the air, the solitude it offers.

The walks, parks and greenbelts of an open-space community give it a country-like atmosphere.

Greenways carry the idea a step further, says Selleg. A greenway is open, undeveloped land that winds among properties in a community, instead of just encircling it, keeping recreational, or second home communities, from developing into carbon copies of the everyday communities in which people have their primary homes.

The land planner helped the Branigar Organization of Oak Brook, Ill., develop the concept seven years ago at Apple Canyon Lake near Galena, Ill. "Before Apple Canyon," he says, "a recreational community was thought of as a big playground. Most of the land that wasn't sold as building lots was given over to tennis courts, golf courses and swimming pools. If people wanted to hike, picnic or go bike-riding, they headed for the nearest park or forest preserve."

"To make it convenient for these nature lovers, some developers located their projects near public parkland. But the supply of land adjacent to parks is dwindling. It is prime land. So companies like Branigar are creating open spaces and parkland within their communities."

Other locations

Branigar has since used the concept in The Windings of Person Creek, near St. Charles, Ill., where 37 of 250 acres have been left as open space, and at The Galena Territory near Galena, Ill. When completed, about a quarter of its 6,200 acres will be greenways, Selleg said. Branigar's Dutch Hollow Lake in the Wisconsin Dells area reserves 610 acres of the total 2,500 for greenways. They form 35 miles of open trails among the properties and along the lake, and about 85 per cent of the shoreline is open, Selleg said.

Greenways, Selleg says, make a community's amenities more usable. Open trails allow people to walk to beaches, tennis courts, clubhouse and other recreational areas. "You don't have to jump into your car or hike down a dusty road to get to the lake."

Greenways are used for picnicking, horseback riding, snowmobiling, skiing — and just plain walking. For many adults, walking is a pleasurable recreation. If they are not golfers, it may be their only exercise during seasons when a swimming pool or tennis courts are not available.

"In many recreational communities," Selleg said, "developers have missed the point. They're selling primary housing as they would in a city or suburb. The amenities are few and the owners wind up with nothing to do. They end up building a cabin on a lot next to a cabin on another lot. They put in a lawn and subject themselves to the same routine and maintenance chores they left the city to escape."

With greenways, the land is kept in its natural state, except for "primitive trails" that are kept open.

"People want to get away from that manicured urban look," Selleg said. "Put in lawns and you have to use fertilizer, which leads to pollution as rain washes it into the lake. Many recreational developments lead to lake pollution, and visual pollution, because the land is over-developed and crowded."

Some developers see greenways as a waste of land that could be sold as lots, Selleg said. However, he says, developing rough terrain is very costly for the developer and the homebuilder so, actually, it's wise to leave these areas untouched. "Open space and good planning are features that might cause a developer to take a second look at property he might otherwise turn down."

A landscape architect and planner, Selleg says, can see the possibilities in rough land with hills, rivers and trees. "We saw great possibilities in southwestern Wisconsin. The land has a combination of hardwood and softwood trees. It's hilly and has tremendous birdlife. I've seen indigo bunting and even a bald eagle."

And from the very practical viewpoint, he says, greenways are a powerful sales tool. Robert Kessler, Branigar's sales manager at Dutch Hollow, says: "Greenways help us sell. The idea is well received. People like it and tell their friends."

Investment Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — An analyst for Harris, Upham said the stock market pullback this week was "constructive" after two weeks of solid gains. But he cautioned that a rise in the prime lending rate to 10 per cent could cause a major reaction. He said banks probably have been reluctant to raise primes past the current 9 1/2 per cent because of bad publicity that would result from the step.

The prime lending rate has been artificially held down since 1972 and should actually be in the range of 10 1/2 to 11 per cent instead of the current 9 1/2 per cent. Blyth Eastman Dillon & Co., Inc., said in its weekly investment research roundup. The report said recent increases in the prime rate already have been discounted in the market.

The economic slowdown resulting from the current money squeeze probably will be longer in coming than had been expected, according to Henry Kaufman, economist for Salomon Brothers.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — The District of Columbia has the highest rate of admissions to mental hospitals in the nation, 48.9 admissions per 1,000 residents, compared with a national average of 18.0 per 1,000 and a low of 6.1 in Arizona, the Midwest Research Institute reports.

Treasure Lake Interest in Spanish Sahara has grown with the discovery in recent years that the land is not the empty waste it appears. A four-year search for oil proved fruitless in the 1960's, but revealed possibly the world's largest subterranean fresh-water lake.

mon Brothers. Kaufman, speaking before the Securities Industry Association, said consumer demand will remain strong as will the demand for goods and services from businesses and foreigners. Consequently the peak in money rates is still to be attained, probably before the end of the year, he said.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — One of the many cruelties of inflation is the way it prematurely exhausts the savings that parents have put aside for their children's education.

This fact was brought home to us again this week as schools across the nation reopened for the first time under Phase IV of the government's economic program.

The plight of many parents was that of Mr. and Mrs. Clement Upbash, who live in my block.

"We have been scrimping and cutting corners and pinching pennies ever since our son Wally was born," Mrs. Upbash told me, almost in tears.

"We thought we had put aside enough to see him through four years of college, but it took every cent we had just to get him started in school this year."

I said, "There's no doubt that school tuitions are climbing out of sight."

Talking at Cross Purposes "Who's talking about tuition?" Mrs. Upbash wailed. "I'm talking about Woody Woodpecker lunch boxes."

And not only are school supplies outrageously expensive, wiping out most college nest eggs at the fifth-grade level. Some items are scarce as well.

School officials in many places report shortages of fuel and paper and have asked teachers and pupils to conserve supplies.

Hardships and deprivations are inevitable, but students and faculties appear to be cooperating beautifully. Here are some examples turned up in a coast-to-coast survey:

—When Willis Stubfinger, seventh-grade student in Freebee, Iowa, was assigned to write a three-page essay on "My Summer Vacation," he voluntarily ended his composition at the Fourth of July.

He Saves Two Pages

"I've saved two pages this way," he proudly pointed out.

—Third-grade boys at the E. J. Boil Elementary School in Kickshaw, Okla., agreed among themselves that for the duration of the shortage they would refrain from chewing up paper to make spitballs.

Instead of throwing spitballs, they are throwing hand grenades.

—When clerical employees of the William Nilly Jr. Senior High School at Egads, N.D., need to make carbon copies of something they are typing, they get the onion skins from real onions.

—Classroom sweethearts in the New Fagle Sr. Junior High school at Oceandrop, Fla., no longer pass notes to each other.

When they feel the need to communicate, they hold up their hands and the teacher gives them permission to go home and call each other on the telephone.

But it's not smoggy

MANILA (UPI) — The municipal board of a Manila suburb has passed an ordinance banning "calesas" (horse-drawn rigs) from all streets starting Jan. 1, 1974. The board said the ban was designed to "rid the town of unsightly and unhealthy horse waste on the streets."

Laser-Plate Printing Successfully Field Tested

Pampa, Texas PAMPA DAILY NEWS 3
67th Year Friday, Sept. 14, 1973

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI) — The Laser-Plate, which eliminates normal engraving and stereotyping printing procedures for existing conventional letterpress newspapers, has been successfully field tested, the Gannett Co., Inc., reported.

Gannett, a Rochester-based group of 53 newspapers, said the system was tested under daily newspaper operation conditions at Gannett's Elmira Star-Gazette.

"The tests have confirmed the technical feasibility of the Laser-Graph and Laser-Plate system," Paul Miller, chairman of the board, and Allen H. Neuharth, president and chief executive officer, said. "Marketing and production studies are continuing to determine the extent of commercial feasibility."

Gannett announced last year that it was engaged in research and development of the Laser-Graph system to produce printing plates through a series of non-polluting, non-chemical multiple laser beams directly from photo composed pasteups of newspaper pages, eliminating both photograph negatives and all hot metal from composing room to pressroom.

The pre-production plates were produced by Laser Graphic Systems, Inc., of Sudbury, Mass.

The average work week is shortest in Utah, 38.5 hours.

Dad wants to marry but daughter says no

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I've been going with a wonderful man who's been talking marriage. The problem is his 38-year-old daughter. She's never been married and lives with him. Her mother died 15 years ago, and she isn't interested in dating or going anywhere except with her father. This daughter has never earned a dollar in her life. She keeps telling her father he's too old to marry again (he most certainly is NOT!) and he's taken her to Europe, South America, to the Orient; name it and they've been there.

He is such a dear and generous man, he doesn't want to hurt his daughter, but he says he loves me, and if I'll just be patient, in time his daughter will eventually come around to accepting me.

I want to marry this man, but I'm afraid it's hopeless. What do you think?

GIVING UP

DEAR GIVING: It's hopeless, unless Father tells Daughter that it's important for her to start making a life of her own because he's not going to be around forever. Unless I miss my guess, Daughter might need some psychological surgery to separate her from her father. Unless Father is willing to go along with the above-mentioned suggestion, forget him. "Time" accomplishes nothing. People do.

DEAR ABBY: My "ex" and I have been divorced for 18 months, and I have custody of our four sons, ages 5 to 16. My "ex" has unrestricted visitation rights which he seldom uses, although we're all in the same city.

The few times he's come to see the boys, he just drives up in front of the house, honks his horn, and expects the boys to take them. (They do, of course.) He never offers to come for a ride. He just visits with them while they stand in the street, and he sits in his car.

I feel this is degrading to the boys and have told the older one to please tell his father that he is welcome to come in our home to visit, and I would absent myself while he's here. (The divorce was so messy, my "ex" can't look me in the face.)

The last time he was here, our 13-year-old asked him for his address so he could write to him or maybe visit him there, and his father quickly drove off without even answering him. Needless to say, the boy was hurt and burst into tears, and his brothers were upset, too.

The boys say they feel funny standing on the street. How can this awkward situation be handled?

HURTING FOR THE BOYS

DEAR HURTING: Your 16-year-old should be sufficiently mature to tell Father that it's embarrassing to stand outside, visiting, and in the future he should please come in the house. [He can repeat the fact that "Mother" will not be around.] If that doesn't do it, since you're not speaking, perhaps your lawyer could write his lawyer a letter.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 28-year-old adult who writes like an 8-year-old child. As you can see, my penmanship is horrid! My husband is so embarrassed, he doesn't want me to address our Christmas cards. I try to slow down and write very carefully, but I find myself grasping the pen so hard my fingers ache.

I realize this is something that should have been corrected during my first few years in school, but unfortunately it wasn't.

This may not seem like a very serious problem to you, but it is to me.

Any suggestions you can give me will certainly be appreciated.

ASHAMED

DEAR ASHAMED: I read every word of your letter with no difficulty and believe me, I have seen worse. Strive for legibility, and don't worry about the rest.

DEADLINE FOR WEDDINGS — ENGAGEMENTS — Due to the number of summer weddings, the following deadlines and procedure on wedding stories is being announced. For a wedding story to appear in a Sunday edition, the information and picture must be turned in to the women's editor by 5 p.m. on the Monday BEFORE the wedding. All wedding stories submitted after that time will appear during the week. Engagement announcements must be submitted by 12 noon Wednesday to appear in Sunday's edition.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

SATURDAY, SEPT. 15
Your birthday today:

Whatever you have done throughout life brings repercussions all year; some are very good, others a bit difficult. All of them are susceptible to constructive application. Following early challenges, your material position in the world promises to wind up relatively well advanced. Today's natives work hard, but are not always at ease in large social groups, public affairs.

Aries [March 21 - April 19]: Impulse spending quickly separates you from your money; you have little to show for it, or something of temporary interest only. Social activity should be lively.

Taurus [April 20 - May 20]: Agreement on broad outlines is enough to achieve; on details there isn't likely to be any, unless the special personal views and problems of others are taken into account.

Gemini [May 21 - June 20]: Try letting people arrange or figure out things for themselves. Avoid competition with those you cherish. Communications invite detailed attention, produce high results.

Cancer [June 21 - July 22]: Begin early, with all the energy at your disposal. As the day wears on, cooperation lags, and nothing can be done about it. Find diversion, unaccustomed pastimes.

Leo [July 23 - Aug. 22]: Not an easy day, with some conflict likely between what you'd like to do and what you must do for your own best interests. Amateur advice is especially suspect.

Virgo [Aug. 23 - Sept. 22]: Differences between expectations and reality run deeper than surface appearances indicate. Being alone can be inconvenient, dependent on chance, requires continual alertness.

Libra [Sept. 23 - Oct. 22]: Your energy increases in response to recent tension and stimulation. In setting matters to rights in and around home, beware of proceeding more harshly than is called for.

Scorpio [Oct. 23 - Nov. 21]: Spend the day tidying up, consolidating your position where it is—a little more and you may overreach yourself. Collect what is coming to you; add what you can to resources.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22 - Dec. 21]: Be helpful; see how it gets you involved. Then mention a long-past and supposedly settled rivalry or disagreement. Learn the hard way to let well enough alone.

Capricorn [Dec. 22 - Jan. 19]: Stay on the surface—there is too much social activity and distraction to get any serious business or research done. Much of the news going around deserves celebration.

Aquarius [Jan. 20 - Feb. 18]: Older and younger people alike are under emotional stress. Perhaps you can tide some of them over with pleasantries, diversions, but please, no unsolicited advice.

Pisces [Feb. 19 - March 20]: Much of what you hear and see is provocative—you needn't rise to the bait. Give fellow travelers plenty of space and time to maneuver. Get an early start.

Paula Holland-Eugene Hapeman Pledge Nuptial Vows Recently

Miss Paula Laverne Holland and Eugene Claude Hapeman, 408 W. Browning, exchanged nuptial vows Friday, Aug. 17 at 7:30 p.m. in the Calvary Baptist Church, Pampa.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. W.H. Holland, Miami, Tex., and Mr. and Mrs. G.W. Hapeman, 330 N. Davis, Pampa.

THE CEREMONY

The Rev. Dave Adkins, pastor, performed the double-ring ceremony before an arch decorated with greenery and large pink and white carnations with matching streamers. Either side of the arch was flanked by a seven-branched candelabra centered with nosegays of light and hot pink carnations. The hot pink memory candle, placed on the kneeling bench, completed the arch setting. Pews were marked with hot pink bows.

Mrs. Lois Fagan, organist, played "Because." "Here Comes the Bride," the theme from "Romeo and Juliet," and

"Two Candles Glowing as One," as the couple lit the memory candle. Mrs. Milo Jantzen, Ringwood, Okla., sang, "Because," and "The Wedding Prayer."

THE BRIDE

The bride, given in marriage by her father with the "her mother and I," avowal, was attired in a formal floor length wedding gown of peau de soie and Chantilly lace designed with a high neckline, empire waistline, long bishop sleeves, and semi A-line silhouette with full back. Inserts of the Chantilly lace enhanced the neckline, bodice, sleeves and skirt of the gown. Her mantilla of imported illusion fell from a coil ending in a sweeping chapel length train and she carried a nosegay of white camellias with a hot pink center corsage.

For something old and borrowed, the bride wore a necklace belonging to her paternal grandmother, a gift to her grandmother from her grandfather on their wedding day. Something new was her wedding gown, and she wore a blue garter and a birth date penny in her shoe.

ATTENDANTS

Mrs. Rodney Airington, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a light pink knit princess style floor length gown and carried a lace backed nosegay of hot pink carnations with hot pink and light pink streamers which ended with matching flowers on each streamer.

Danny Hammer, Pampa, was best man, and ushers were Roger Holland, brother of the bride, and Wilbur Hapeman, brother of the bridegroom.

MOTHERS

The bride's mother wore a dark pink summer knit dress topped with a white vest edged in pink. She wore white accessories and a hot pink camellia corsage.

RECEPTION

For the reception in fellowship hall of the church, the serving table was centered with a mixed bouquet of light and hot pink spring flowers arranged by the bride's paternal grandmother. The setting was flanked with hot pink candles.

The three-tiered, white wedding cake carried out the bride's chosen colors. The first large tier was decorated with swags of light pink roses with hot pink leaves. It was separated from the second tier by Grecian columns. Inside the divider were angels with harps. The second tier was decorated with garlands caught with fleur de lis. Cupid pillars separated the second and third tiers. The top tier was decorated like the first. It was topped with a cherub fountain atop a bowl of light pink roses with hot pink leaves. The cake was served by Mrs. Melissa Holland, sister-in-law of the bride, assisted by Mrs. Ollie Duniven, who made the cake. Jane Boyd served the punch and Mrs. Denise Hammer registered wedding guests.

For the wedding trip to Raton, N.M. and Cheyenne, Wyo., the bride wore a two-piece knit suit of hot pink and white and lifted the hot pink corsage from her bridal bouquet.

The couple will be at home at 750 M. Apt. 4, Gering, Neb.

AFFILIATIONS

The bride is a 1973 graduate of Pampa High School. The bridegroom is a 1971 graduate of PHS and is employed by Miniature Cattle Co., Miniature, Neb.

PRE-NUPTIAL EVENTS

The bride was honored recently with a miscellaneous shower hosted by Miss Punkin Kelley and Miss Donna McFall.

Another miscellaneous shower was held in Calvary Baptist Church, hosted by the WMC class.

OUT-OF-TOWN GUESTS

Attending the wedding from out-of-town were Mr. and Mrs. A.A. Hunt, Brooklyn, N.Y.; Mr. and Mrs. W.P. Ridley, Clovis, N.M.; Mrs. Maude Holland, Erick, Okla.; Mrs. Odell Tanner and Steven, Elk City, Okla.; Mr. and Mrs. G.A. Stamper, Stong City, Okla.; Mr. and Mrs. Milo Jantzen and family, Ringwood, Okla.

Glenn Burris, Earl Burris, Mr. and Mrs. Ricky Burris and Paul, and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hull, all of Wichita, Kan.; John Burris, stationed with U.S. Navy in Maryland; Mr. and Mrs. Dean Ruff and Dusty, Amarillo; Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Holland, Mr. and Mrs. J.C. By Oswald & James Jacoby

Some people like to barge ahead recklessly without paying any attention to warning signals. Sometimes they go a long way, on other occasions they wind up in the hospital.

South ruffed the heart lead in dummy and remarked, "We may have missed a grand slam. Still I suppose I had better try to make five."

He ruffed the heart in dummy while making his speech. Then he led dummy's 10 of spades. East played low and South let West score his singleton queen.

West did the best he could by cashing his ace of diamonds, but that was the last trick for the defense.

Of course, South could have made seven if he had wanted to play for it and known the trump situation. After winning the first spade he could have returned to dummy with a low club: finessed against East's

Why they travel
LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The National Automobile Club reports that visiting friends or relatives accounts for 44 per cent of car travel in the United States.

Travel for entertainment or sightseeing makes up 22 per cent of auto travel; business accounts for 13 per cent, and 10 per cent of the drivers are seeking outdoor recreation.

Chicago's Steak Yard Inn is one of the best-known steak houses in the country. It was built to serve cattlemen who had brought their herds to the world's biggest stockyards.

The Inn's architecture is a combination of the West's and of England's. Near the center of the dining room is the "Steak Throne" where beautiful steaks are displayed on a bed of ice. This display is flanked by brasses holding brooding lions. You can choose the steak you want, then brand it with an iron of your own selection. Your brand will still be legible when the steak is served sizzling hot.

Teresa Wright has hidden asset—a sense of humor

By Dick Kleiner

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — Teresa Wright came back to Hollywood for her first visit in five years. What, rather who, brought her back was her husband, playwright Robert Anderson. He was here to promote his first novel, "After."

While she was here, Miss Wright was sent a TV script — and she accepted the part. So we'll soon be seeing her again, which will be nice.

Anderson, incidentally, says that nobody has ever capitalized on his wife's sense of humor.

"People don't realize," he says, "that Teresa is a very funny lady, a great low comedienne. All through her career here she was always playing somebody who was sick. I used to call her, 'Have sickness, will travel.'"

Paul Winfield, who won an Academy Award nomination for "Sounder," thinks that picture has been a big help in interracial relations.

Winfield says that the biggest stumbling block in the path of racial understanding has always been "the huge gulf between the races — there has been no means to communicate."

"But 'Sounder' has opened up a way of talking to each other," he says. "It is the first black picture which the whites have seen, too. It made people talk to each other."

THE PSYCHIC STARS: Shirley Bassey

Shirley and her first husband were divorced but they were still close and good friends. She had just returned to her home from an extensive tour. She took a sleeping pill — "I used to take a lot of them; but no more, thank God" — and went to bed.

About midnight, she woke up with that terrible feeling

WORRY CLINIC

Read Susan's shrewd remarks. Then note how her mother is a "twin" for the indignant Women's Libber quoted below. You husbands can easily make such wives purr contentedly and boast of the Mrs. in front of their names, by using the sex booklet below!

CASE Y-517: Susan F., aged 17, is a high school senior.

"Dr. Crane," she began, as I addressed her Journalism Class, "it must be very pleasant to write a daily newspaper column."

"For you know you can help educate millions of people who never get a chance to go to college."

"But why do you often 'needle' readers, especially women?"

"My mother never fails to read your column every day."

"But sometimes you make her so furious that I've seen her tear up the entire page where your column appears."

"Once she even threw the fragments on the floor and then stamped on them!"

"But she always comes back to it next day when our paper arrives!"

FRINGE BENEFITS

There are many "fringe benefits" that an educator obtains from helping straighten out muddled thinking.

That's what motivates most teachers, as well as clergymen, too.

And I admit to "needing" many stodgy wives, as well as soporific clergymen and lazy teachers who try to coast on "tenure," with mediocre lecturing.

But occasionally I receive a barb, such as this recent missive:

"Dear Dr. Crane," it began, "each day I delight in reading your column. Why?"

"Because you are so absolutely corny, ignorant about female sex and egotistical!"

"So I read you every day just for amusement!"

"It is hard to believe that anybody would take you seriously."

"You think you are so clever in your constant criticism of Women's Libbers!"

"It is obvious that you are 100 percent completely threatened."

"Dr. Crane, you are the one who is sexually immature. For you feel that all men are superior."

"You seem to think a woman's role is merely to 'purr contentedly and boast of the Mrs. in front of her name!'"

"While she purrs, you men are to dominate everything and perform the meaningful, important things in life!"

"A woman's whole being is just to reinforce a man! Sick! Sick! Sick!"

"I am a feminist and I am NOT frustrated, a lesbian, ugly, old or unhappy!"

"So leave us alone, Dr. Crane!"

"You are sick sexually — not us women!"

that something was wrong. She fought to wake up, got dressed and drove to her ex-husband's home. She found doctors swarming around his bedside where he was seriously ill.

When he regained consciousness, his first question was, "Is my wife here?" Luckily, because of her E.S.P., she was.

Jacqueline Susann's next novel is already titled — it will be called "Five Feet

JAMES STEWART

Two. But it will be a long time in coming — first she's scheduled to write the screenplay for "Once Is Not Enough," then the book for the musical version of "Valley of the Dolls," then a book about her dog. We can wait.

Jimmy Stewart, like Cary Grant and many other old-time stars, never sees any movies now, or very seldom.

"I find it very discouraging to go to the movies," Jimmy says. "They seem to have no redeeming qualities at all these days. Most of them are a total waste of time."

And television isn't?

(NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

By George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

Y-517

"Remember, Dr. Crane, that this is the 20th Century!"

That type of letter is superb "proof of the pudding."

You mature readers can see that this woman is "protesting too much," as Shakespeare wisely warned.

Any wife whose husband has employed the proper erotic technique in their boudoir, will never write such a missive.

For a sexually satisfied wife LIKES to purr!

And she enjoys having a dominant husband.

For women were created that way! It's part of the original plan for the proper domestic relationship between husband and wife.

Remember, it's only the trees that produce the big, juicy apples that have the sticks and stones thrown at them!

Such letters are proof of the educational value of this column.

So send for the medical booklet "Sex Problems in Marriage," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents, and you husbands can make such a wife purr till her Golden Wedding Day!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of The Worry Clinic, Hopkins Drive, Madison, Indiana 47916. Enclose a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

How are you going to keep tourists in Acapulco after they see Cancun?

By Don Oakley

MEXICO CITY — (NEA) — The name Cancun will someday be as familiar to international fun- and sun-seekers as Acapulco, Nassau and Jamaica are today.

It will, if years of careful planning by dynamic Mexican bureaucrats, computerized analyses and the investment of millions of dollars — not to mention sparkling beaches, unspoiled scenery, ideal climate and nearby archeological treasures — have anything to do with it.

Cancun (pronounced "kan-koon") is a narrow, 14-mile-long island on the tip of the Yucatan peninsula jutting into the Mexican Caribbean. Uninhabited until a few years ago, except for transient fishermen, by the height of the coming tourist season the island will host a minimum of 1,000 hotel rooms ready for occupancy.

A completed 200-foot bridge will connect Cancun with the mainland and provide access to a new international airport, capable of handling the biggest jets, which is scheduled to go into operation by the end of this year.

The Mexican government, which so far has committed $100 million to the project, expects 60,000 tourists to come to Cancun in its first year. It is confident that in 10 years a half-million will visit the resort, and by 1993 a million a year.

Why Cancun? One answer is simply that tourism represents Mexico's greatest source of foreign revenue. In 1972, some 2.9 million visitors — about seven of every eight of them from the United States — spent $737 million in the country.

It's estimated that every 17 tourists provide a livelihood for one Mexican for one year, and provide it most — low-skilled non-skilled people.

In 1967, the Banco de Mexico, the equivalent of the U.S. Federal Reserve, set up a trust called the Fund for the Promotion of Tourism Infrastructure to study the feasibility of creating one or more new recreational zones in Mexico. ("Infrastructure" refers to essential facilities like power, water, roads, etc., basic to resort development.)

The trust, called INFRA-TUR for short, under the direction of Harvard Business School-educated Antonio Enriquez Savignac, began assembling an enormous amount of facts and figures — how far Caribbean tourists were traveling and for how long, statistics on other resorts, such as number of hotel rooms, annual temperatures and annual rainfall. All this and more was fed into computers.

Then over a two-year period, Savignac and a team of bright young technocrats, including economists, ecologists, urbanologists and others, fanned out to personally investigate a variety of sites along Mexico's coastlines.

Among the many factors considered by the INFRA-TUR scouts were the availability of good beaches, manpower that needed employment, weather conditions and distances from major U.S. cities. These data were also fed into computers and checked against previously computerized information.

Eventually, the choice narrowed down to Cancun on the Caribbean coast and Ixtapa on the Pacific coast as the ideal "resorts of the future."

A MAJOR ASSET of Cancun, in addition to the island's sunny Caribbean setting, is accessibility of the built-from-scratch resort to major North American cities.

Geographically, Cancun was found to have a lot going for it besides its sun-favored location (an average 80-degree temperature with no extremes of hot or cold) and its proximity to such famed Mayan ruins as Chichen-Itza. Florida is a mere 55 minutes away by jet, and Los Angeles is actually closer to Cancun than it is to Miami.

What followed was the formulation of a master plan for Cancun, using an initial $21.5-million loan from the Inter-American Development Bank plus $25.6 million of Mexican government money, to develop a basic infrastructure of roads, public utilities and an international airport.

Most of Cancun's hotels (a total of 10,000 rooms is projected by 1993), marinas, golf clubs, night clubs and other leisure facilities are to be financed and built by private investors, including foreigners under a new Mexican law permitting non-Mexicans to own real estate.

Cancun City, a support center for resort employees and other permanent residents, is going up on the mainland. Homes, schools, churches, clinics, shopping centers, a convention center and municipal building are to be built through INFRA-TUR. Ultimately, the city will house a population of up to 70,000.

Where does the jaded jetsetter go after he's seen Acapulco and the Bahamas? Mexico, which still offers a bargain for the weakened American dollar is betting on Cancun.

Pampa Tests Dumas Demons Today

In a battle of first-week losers, Pampa's Harvesters travel to Dumas today to face the 1-AAA Demons at 7:30 p.m. in Dumas Stadium.

Pampa lost to Hereford, 12-0 last week, while Palo Duro whipped Dumas 29-0 Saturday. Neither Pampa nor Dumas could generate an effective offense in the losses, and Harvester head coach Buddy Williams said, "Both Pampa and Dumas have equal size and ability."

"We're going to have to play real well and make few mistakes if we hope to beat Dumas."

In last week's loss to the Whitefaces, the Harvesters could manage only nine first downs and 168 total yards. Quarterback Rick Leverich was Pampa's leading ground-gainer with 65 yards on 12 carries.

Pampa's starters for today's game will be virtually the same as those in the Hereford contest, except for a few changes on defense, according to Williams.

On the offensive line, will be center David Hampton (6-0, 167, junior), left guard Joe Holt (5-9, 174, junior), right guard Joe Graves (5-11, 219, junior), left tackle Dane Rasmussen (6-2, 195, junior), right tackle Bill

Cox (6-2, 180, senior), tight end Tony Frogge (5-11, 165, senior) and split end Howie Lewis (6-5, 180, junior).

Lewis was Pampa's leading pass-catcher against Hereford with three receptions for 30 yards.

Leverich (5-11, 161, junior) at quarterback, senior Joe Curtis (5-10, 152) at tailback, David Nipp (6-1, 179, senior) at fullback and Chuck Reeves (5-9, 147, senior) at slotback will be the starting Harvester backfield.

Defensive starters are linemen Tim Thornburg (5-10, 156, junior), Cox, Rickey Carpenter (5-11, 157, senior) and Randy Linville (6-0, 183, senior). Linebackers will be Hampton and senior Terry Moore (5-9, 172), and cornerbacks will be Reeves and Ricky Smith (5-7, 145, senior). Safeties are Leverich and junior Chuck Quarles (5-8, 113).

Dumas coach Bill Spann will start senior Mark Schachle (6-0, 180) at center, senior Phil Bonsal (5-6, 160) at left guard, senior Dennis Curbo (5-6, 165) at right guard, junior Robert Ames (6-0, 175) at left tackle, senior Randy Galloway (6-0, 187) at right tackle, senior Paul Hill (6-2, 180) at tight end and junior Wheeler Russell (6-2, 165) at split end.

Hill was named offensive player of the week by Dumas coaches.

Senior Phil Courtney (5-11, 170) will start at quarterback, senior Dan McDowell (5-11, 185) will start at fullback, and left and right halfbacks are seniors Wayne Laughry (5-10, 156) and Matt Vollert (5-9, 165).

Schachle, Hill, Galloway and Ames will start on the defensive line for the Demons. Dumas runs three different defenses, a 4-3, a 5-2 and a 4-4.

Curbo, Bonsal and junior Wayne Jones (5-11, 165) are Spann's starting linebackers. Keri Sullivan, a 150-pound senior, will play at one linebacker slot when Dumas goes into a 4-4.

Vollert and Larry Austin (5-9, 155, senior) will start at the defensive halfback positions, and Laughry is the starting safety.

"Dumas has a real aggressive football team, with great pursuit on defense. Their quarterback throws the ball well, and they've got two fine punning backs — Vollert and Laughry.

"Laughry's got good speed and he's a fine receiver. Hill's a real good tight end too," said Williams.

"We had an excellent practice Wednesday, but we didn't have good workouts Monday and Tuesday. We've got to play well to beat Dumas."

Secretariat To Run

NEW YORK (UPI) — You can feel the excitement building at Barn No. 5 at Belmont Park racetrack.

For this Saturday means another big test for the horse that won the 1973 Triple Crown, for his stablemate already a millionaire in winnings, and for the current first lady of racing, Helen "Penny" Tweedy, manager and part owner of The Meadow Stable, producer of the championship thoroughbreds. At stake is a total of $250,000 in the newly established Marlboro Cup Invitational, $150,000 of it to the winner.

The race could make that 3-year-old superhorse Secretariat into a millionaire in winnings also, alongside the 4-year-old Riva Ridge. Secretariat needs only $18,000 to enter that magic circle.

Miami, 49ers Vie Sunday

By United Press International
The San Francisco 49ers will be trying to do a little blackout lifting of their own Sunday.

The National Football League was forced by the government to withdraw its blackout policy on sold-out home games Thursday but the blackout the 49ers are most concerned with is the one the Miami Dolphins have thrown against opponents on the field.

The Dolphins take a 15-game regular season-winning streak against San Francisco in the National Football League season opener at Miami's Orange Bowl and hope to use the 49ers as a stepping stone toward tying the pro record of 17 straight victories the following week against Oakland.

Veteran John Brodie is expected to lead the 49er offense after his annual summer battle with reserve Steve Spurrier. Brodie threw for 611 yards and four touchdowns in pre-season.

San Francisco's running game has been hurting with Vic Washington, its big outside threat, bothered with a knee injury. The 49ers picked up speedy Randy Jackson earlier in the week from Buffalo but he may not have absorbed enough of the offense to get much time.

In other openers, San Diego is at Washington, Oakland at Minnesota, Dallas at Chicago, Detroit at Pittsburgh, Los Angeles at Kansas City, Houston at the New York Giants, Baltimore at Cleveland, Cincinnati at Denver, Atlanta at New Orleans, St. Louis at Philadelphia and Buffalo at New England. The New York Jets meet Green Bay in Milwaukee on the Monday night opener.

George Allen's teams have never lost an opener—winning seven in a row—and the Redskins are favored to keep that string alive against San Diego.

Oakland meets a strong Minnesota team that handed the Raiders their only pre-season loss, a 34-10 drubbing. Both clubs are favored in their divisions and many say this could be a Super Bowl preview.

Blancas Leading Heritage Classic

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (UPI) — Nothing could slow Homero Blancas, out front by a stroke going into today's second round of the $150,000 Heritage Open golf classic.

After intermittent rain and two delays in play, Thursday Blancas posted a 5-under-par 66 that survived a late charge by big Jim Wiechers and winless John Mahaffey.

His putting gave him seven birds, including the last two with 30-footers, and he credited the lush greens of the 6,655-yard Harbour Town Golf links with soaking up the water and a lot of hazards.

"When you get spike marks and it rains, it washes them out," he said. "Every green has good grass on it. They're putting absolutely great."

Wiechers and Mahaffey, who each had a string of three consecutive birdies, were a stroke ahead of Bert Yancey, the West Point graduate who captured last year's American Golf Classic.

Gary Player, who posted his first victory of the season in last week's Southern Open, headed a group at 2-under 69 that included rookie Ben Crenshaw, Jerry Heard, Hale Irwin, Bob Wynn and Cesar Sanoudo.

Another stroke back were Arnold Palmer, Julius Boros, George Archer, Dewitt Weaver Jr., Forrest Fezler, Grier Jones, Sam Adams and Tom Watson.

Officials twice suspended play as rain and lightning plagued the tight little course that Player calls "the best championship golf course I've ever played."

More rain fell as the final threesomes trudged in through gathering darkness, and the National Weather Service warned that still more might be in the offing today.

Rated the pretournament favorite, Player posted his 12th consecutive round at 70 or better, but others given a good chance before the event's start of capturing the $30,000 first prize had their troubles.

Defending champion Johnny Miller collected 17 pars and a lone bogey en route to his 107 and admitted, "It was just one of those days."

Blackout Ban—A Law Today

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon, an ardent sports enthusiast, was expected to sign into law today legislation which would enable pro football fans to watch on television the sold-out home games of their favorite teams.

Congress, uncharacteristically, acted on the anti-blackout bill with the speed of a wide receiver. It took just one week for the measure to move through the committee process and gain approval by both the Senate and the House.

The bill, which passed the House on a rollcall vote of 366 to 37 Thursday and was approved by voice vote of the Senate minutes later, provides that any game sold out 72 hours in advance would be televised to hometown audiences, which have traditionally been blacked out.

In New York, National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle, a staunch opponent of the blackout ban, said the league would allow the televising of sold-out season openers Sunday, despite the fact that the 72-hour stipulation of the bill technically expired hours before final congressional action.

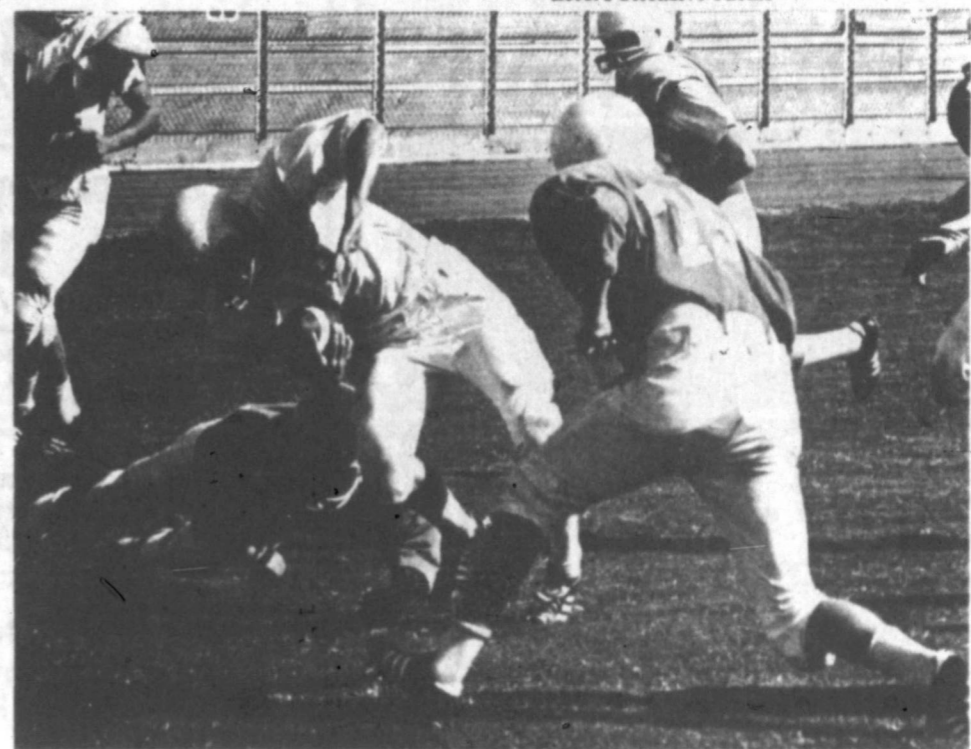

Although bowing to the congressional order, Rozelle warned the bill will ultimately have an undermining effect on the sport.

Baylor Frosh Tie Yearlings

WACO, Tex. (UPI)—Tailback Cleveland Franklin of Brenham crashed over from the six in the fourth quarter Thursday night to give the Baylor freshmen a 7-7 tie and end a nine-year Cub losing streak against the Texas Yearlings.

Texas' score came in the second quarter on an 86-yard pass from Tommy Campbell of Odessa to Mike Hardinger of Colorado Springs, Colo.

Franklin was the game's leading rusher with 103 yards on 15 carries and was backed by former high school teammate Matt Murski with 81 yards on 14 carries.

RED TEAM quarterback Eddie Brown (10) looks for running room against the Blue squad and Greg Ellis, 75, Thursday, as the two ninth-grade Pampa teams played to a 20-20 tie in junior high football action. The eighth-grade Blue team lost to Canyon, 14-0 Thursday in Canyon, while the Red tied Hereford, 6-6 in Hereford.

Pirates Down Chicago Cubs

By United Press International
The Pittsburgh Pirates may be making their move—finally.

The Pirates, kingpins in the shaky NL Eastern Division and pre-season favorites, won their third game of a four-game series with the Chicago Cubs, 6-1, Thursday as Willie Stargell provided the punch, driving in two runs.

The win gave the Pirates a one-game lead over idle St. Louis and shoved the Cubs back into fifth place, 4½ games behind.

"Coming here and taking three out of four was the thing to do," said Stargell, who upped his National League leading RBI total to 107 when he doubled home two runs in the first inning. "Even though it's great to be in first place, we still can't take anything for granted. We'll see what happens, but when you're in first place the other clubs have to catch you."

The Pirates are not about to claim anything yet, especially since the Montreal Expos are only 1½ games behind and the New York Mets, who topped Philadelphia, 4-2, in 12 innings, are 2½ out.

In other sparse major league action, Los Angeles topped Houston, 8-6, and San Francisco downed San Diego, 8-6, in the NL while in the American League, Baltimore nipped Milwaukee in 10, 8-7, New York edged Boston, 2-1, in 12, and Kansas City nipped California, 5-4.

Taking advantage of three Cub errors in the first inning, the Pirates scored three runs. Bob Moose and Ramon Hernandez combined to handuff Chicago on just six hits. Moose posted his fourth shutout, yielding five hits before Hernandez took over in the eighth.

BIG GUNS BOOM—Look For Surprises In The Big 10 Openers; Trojans Open Drive For The National Title

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOORLE
Upset Champion

Egad, friends, what a tasty bit of fare we have for you football devotees this week. Would you believe that with only one week of the season gone there would be a full slate of Big Ten games on the schedule? Or that the Minnesota Gophers would humble the mighty Ohio State Buckeyes? Or that John Jardine's rebuilding Wisconsin Badgers would ruin Alex Agase's debut as Purdue Boilermaker's head man? No? Well, dear readers, that's exactly what's in the cards—um-kump!

Yes, there will truly be some earthshaking upsets in the Midwest as Cal Stoll's Gophers shade Woody Hayes' Ohio lads, 27-22, and the lowly regarded Badgers upend Purdue, 17-14—har-rumph!

Here's how the Hoorle System rates the other Big Ten encounters: Illinois 28, Indiana 20, Michigan 33, Iowa 22, and Michigan State 21, Northwestern 14.

The intersectional sked is a dazzling one—Colorado at LSU, Missouri hosting Mississippi in their first-ever gridiron engagement, Arkansas visiting Southern California, Penn State at Stanford, Arizona State at Oregon and Alabama entertaining California's Golden Bears.

Old friend John McKay's Southern California Trojans, undefeated in their last 17 outings, including last season's Rose Bowl, will start their drive for a second consecutive national title by rolling over game but outmanned Arkansas, 35-15.

Perennial power Penn State will ambush the Stanford Indians—heb-heh—on the latter's home grounds, 22-17, and Louisiana State, still unsettled on its quarterback but boasting a host of fine runners, will prevail over Colorado's Buffaloes, 19-15.

Hannibal Wottaburp, our man from Missouri, assures us the Missouri Tigers will have little trouble disposing of the visiting Rebels, 26-10. Meanwhile, the Arizona State Sun Devils, whose coach, Frank Kush, has amassed an amazing .784 winning percentage by racking up 121 victories, while losing only 33 and tying one in 15 seasons, will start the season off right by whipping Oregon, 29-15.

Way down in Birmingham, Paul (Bear) Bryant, beginning his 29th year as head coach of a major eleven, will record his 21st victory as his "Bama Boys" repel invading California—har-rumph!

Now go on with the fore-cast!

SHOCKER FULLBACK Frankie Lemons tries to avoid Clovis tacklers on a sweep in Thursday's 43-0 Shocker win over the Bobcats. Lemons gained 170 yards on 20 carries in the Pampa win. The Shockers, now 1-0-1, traveled to Dumas next week.

Shockers Blast Bobcats, 43-0

By PAUL SIMS

An explosive running attack, led by fullback Frankie Lemons who gained 170 yards on 20 carries, and a stingy defense, which held Clovis, N.M. to 133 total yards while forcing eight turnovers, spelled disaster for the New Mexico team as Pampa's Shockers downed the Bobcats 43-0 Thursday night in Harvester Stadium.

The Shocker defense also forced six Clovis punts and didn't allow a completed pass. The Bobcats lost five fumbles and Pampa intercepted three Mario Griego passes.

Pampa was very impressive, those boys executed well and were extremely powerful," said Clovis junior varsity coach Steve White following the game. Lemons scored three touchdowns to pace the Shockers, one coming on a 49-yard romp early in the fourth period. Points were spread out after that, as four players scored once.

Clovis was never in the game. The Shocker defense didn't allow a first down in the opening period, and only one in the first half.

Lemons opened scoring with a two-yard burst off right tackle at 10:08 in the first period. A 32-yard run up the middle by halfback Kelly Baker, on the second play of the game, set up Lemons' scoring run.

After a Bobcat punt, Pampa rallied again, driving 57 yards in nine plays with Lemons scoring on a three-yard scamper around right end. John Agan made it 14-0 with the conversion run after a fake kick by extra point and kickoff man Jerry Matney.

Baker made it 21-0 at the end of the first quarter with a 48-yard romp up the middle with no time showing on the clock. Baker was apparently stopped at the line of scrimmage but broke loose to score. Matney booted the extra point.

Defensive tackle Keith Eastham fell on a Griego fumble midway through the second period, giving the Shockers the ball on Clovis' 43. On the first play from scrimmage, second-string running back Lewis Dinkins broke down the right sideline to give Pampa a 27-0 edge. Matney's try for the point after was no good.

Matney's kickoff left the Bobcats on their own five. Pampa held, forcing a punt, which was blocked, and David Edwards fell on the ball on the 11. Pampa was unable to score, losing the ball on downs. Jim Walters recovered a Tony Madrid fumble on Clovis' next possession, as Pampa had another scoring opportunity, this time on the Bobcat six.

Matney made it 30-0 with a 22-yard field goal, as first-half scoring ended.

Clovis never threatened in the half as Pampa's 39 early in the second quarter.

Lemons gained 71 yards in the half.

John Agan rambled 55 yards on a punt return early in the second half to make it 36-0. Matney's extra-point try was blocked.

The Bobcats' Billy Bryant set up Clovis' first serious scoring threat, recovering a Dinkins' fumble at 4:18 in the third quarter on Pampa's 22. The threat was short-lived, however, as Edwards fell on a Griego fumble two plays later. After a Matney punt and a 25-yard Bryant return, Clovis had the ball on the Shocker 20 and ran it to the eight in four plays. Edwards stopped the scoring opportunity again, recovering a Tony Madrid fumble.

Lemons gained 97 yards on Pampa's next scoring drive, which came early in the final quarter. The 49-yard scoring run came with 10:11 left in the game. Matney booted the point after, and the Shockers led 43-0.

Baker gained 89 yards on four attempts, as the halfback was Pampa's second-leading rusher. Dinkins (2-31), Steve Munsell (11-26) and Russell Thornburg (12-24) followed Lemons and Baker in rushing yardage for the Shockers.

For Clovis, Madrid gained 46 yards on eight carries. Bryant picked up 42 on 13 carries and fullback Robert Berkopec gained 25 on nine attempts.

Clovis is now 1-1, after downing Plainview's junior varsity, 36-13 last week, while Pampa is 1-0-1 after tying Hereford, 8-8. The Shockers travel to Dumas Thursday for a 7 p.m. contest.

Trojans 3TD Pick

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — University of Southern California, a magnificent football machine that ripped through 12 opponents last season, opens defense of its national championship Saturday night and the No. 1-rated Trojans are three-touchdown favorites against Arkansas.

"I don't think these odds are in line," said USC coach John McKay, whose team whipped the Razorbacks 31-0 in its first game last year at Little Rock.

"I know Frank Broyles has a young team but I also know that Frank Broyles isn't in the habit of recruiting bad athletes. I expect a tough game."

McKay, 50, will find it hard to top 1972.

Yaz Angry With Favoritism To Aaron

NEW YORK (UPI) — He describes himself as "an angry 72-year-old" in his letter, and what he's so fired up angry about, he says, is all this "partiality" Hank Aaron is being shown over Babe Ruth.

He's writing from Ashland, Ohio, but that in itself isn't significant, he might just as easily be doing so from Friendship, Tenn., Drumright, Okla., San Anselmo, Calif., or Baraboo, Wis.

The senior citizens around the country feel Babe Ruth is getting the short end of the bat and that nobody really is speaking up for him with Hank Aaron bearing down on his all-time home run record.

"Babe Ruth hit his 714 home runs in 8,399 at bats and Aaron has 710 in 11,247 times up, how can you even compare them?" asks the Ashland letter-writer. "Ruth did it without helmets; without livelier balls; without better bats and without the longer season."

True enough, but if this isn't a private fight, Carl Yastrzemski would like to get a couple of words in.

A Hank Aaron Man Right up front he says he's a Hank Aaron man first and foremost.

"If he breaks Ruth's record, and it looks as if he will, I say it has to be the greatest accomplishment in the entire history of sports," says Boston's sweet-swinging 10-time all-star.

"Ruth never had to play night ball. He never had to contend with the slider either. It's so difficult to pick up a good hard slider under the lights. The ball is just a blur. In the daytime though, you can pick up the spin on the ball, and if you don't think that makes a tremendous difference, go ask someone like Stan Musial. I think Musial said it all when he explained how the entire game has changed from the time when he broke in. Stan said all he used to see when he first came up was fast ball, curve. That was all he used to look for. But when the pitchers added the slider, he said there was a whole different concept. It made hitting the ball all that harder."

Yastrzemski comes into the Aaron-Ruth debate with some credentials of his own.

Since reporting to the Red Sox 12 years ago, he has belted 284 home runs of his own to put him 15th on the list among active players and 41st on the all-time list.

Makes Up for Advantage "Night baseball more than makes up for any advantage people say Aaron has over Ruth," says Yaz. "In my opinion anyway. How many days games has Aaron played the past few years? Not very many.

Ball players from the old days say riding the trains was much rougher than riding the planes we do today.

I don't know about that, and I've ridden some trains, too. I know a lot of players who don't like riding airplanes. I'm not that crazy about them either, but I know I have to do it. I think that makes for a little added pressure.

"I never saw Babe Ruth," adds the Red Sox 34-year-old superstar. "The only way I've gotten to know anything about him is through Mr. Yawkey (Red Sox owner Tom Yawkey).

Watergate Termed Act Of "Disloyalty"

By United Press International
To a politician who sacrificed his own career rather than compromise his integrity, the Watergate affair appears beyond all else, a massive act of "disloyalty."

That is the reaction of former Rep. Brooks Hays, D-Ark., expressed in an editorial published by Baptist newspapers. Hays is an active Baptist layman and was president of the Southern Baptist Convention in 1958 and 1959.

Hays was the congressman representing the Little Rock district when President Eisenhower sent federal troops into the Arkansas city to enforce a court school integration order that was being defied by Gov. Orval Faubus.

Although he was warned several times that his stand would cost him his job, Hays firmly supported Eisenhower's action. He was defeated for re-election the following year. Years later, he told me he had never regretted his costly stand in the Little Rock crisis.

"I did what my conscience told me I had to do," he said. "I don't think 'politics' is ever an excuse for failing to behave morally."

Although he is a Democrat, Hays tried in his Watergate comments to take what he called a "non-partisan approach." He condemned no individual, by name or implication, and did not try to anticipate the ultimate decision of congressional investigators or the courts about the degree of White House implication. But he said enough facts already have come out to make clear that some people in high places allowed loyalty to friends and associates to take precedence over their duty to serve the "general interests" of all the people.

And this, said Hays, amounts to disloyalty to every public servant's real employer, the people of the United States.

"Basically, it was distrust, even contempt, for popular rule that led to the criminal actions that are now being revealed," Hays said.

"The essential immorality of these activities is their subversive character. Democracy is primarily a process, and men who resort to crime to win an election subvert the democratic process and commit an assault upon us all."

Methodists Gather
SAN AUGUSTINE, Tex. (UPI) — Texas Methodists gathered 12 miles east of San Augustine at McMahan's Chapel today for the annual observance of Texas' oldest continuous Protestant church.

McMahan's Chapel was organized as a Methodist church in 1833 by the Rev. James P. Stevenson, a minister from Louisiana, in the home of Col. and Mrs. Samuel Doak McMahan.

The Rev. L. B. Broach, pastor of the First United Methodist Church in Nacogdoches, preached at an 11 a.m. service today.

DAVID POLING, D.D. The President and the pulpit

By David Poling

In his August statement on Watergate, President Nixon excused some of his overzealous and misguided associates for their criminal actions — they were only responding to a higher loyalty not unlike the civil disobedience that had been preached from American pulpits during the war in Southeast Asia.

The President indicated that clergymen like William Sloan Coffin Jr. of Yale, the Berrigan brothers, Eugene Carson Blake of the World Council of Churches and Robert McAfee Brown were morally responsible for the illegal plots, the Watergate break-in, the White House "plumbers" — nearly two-dozen individuals closely associated with this administration. These are serious charges and mark the second time in six years that Mr. Nixon has faulted the clergy for the failures of other people.

In October of 1967, Richard Nixon wrote in Reader's Digest: "Our teachers, preachers and politicians have gone too far in advocating the idea that each individual should determine what laws are good and what laws are bad, and that he then should obey the law he likes and disobey the law he dislikes." At that time the ashes of Watts and Newark and Detroit were still warm, and the major antiwar demonstrations sweeping campus and city alike.

Now Mr. Nixon equates the actions of his former associates and advisers as being on the same moral plane and level, similar to that taken by religious leaders who opposed the war and preached civil disobedience. The comparison is unfair to the churchmen for three reasons:

1. Every action taken by militant antiwar spokesmen (such as Blake, the Berrigans, and Coffin) was done in public, in full view of the world. The White House clique sought absolute secrecy, their actions hidden and when found out, tried to cover it up with further lying and conspiracy. The leading churchmen mentioned had nothing to hide, they were not ashamed of their stand.

2. The militant clergymen operated within a larger community, and were in constant dialogue with those who supported and those who resented their position. The White House aides and employees did everything possible to remain hidden, operating with elaborate codes, pursuing goals that were injurious to community and the public they should have served.

3. The antiwar clergy took the consequences of fines, arrest, imprisonment and personal injury where their cause failed. The White House agents used (and are using) every device possible to avoid detection — and now investigation and conviction.

It appears that the pulpit is next to the press on the President's list of adversaries. That is unfortunate, for each must live with the other. For more than five years the White House has refused to receive the official leaders of the major religious bodies. And keeping the clergy at a distance, the President continues to blame them for the moral failures of his administration.

A gospel meeting will begin Monday at the Central Church of Christ with Leon Odum of San Antonio as the visiting evangelist. Services will be conducted each day at 7:30 p.m. through Saturday with the concluding service at 6:30 p.m. Sunday.

Odum has preached in points throughout Texas and many states over the past twenty-five years. For the past three years he has served as local evangelist for the Austin Street Church of Christ in Midland, Texas. In addition to his local work, he regularly conducts ten to twelve meetings each year.

The meeting at Central will be the last such efforts of this congregation for this year. Two and possibly three meetings will be conducted next year.

The lessons each evening in meetings of this kind place emphasis on fundamental principles of the Bible, Robert McDonald, minister of the church, said.

McDonald said all services are open to the public.

Catholic, Protestant and Jewish clergymen have volunteered to be available to hospital patients on a 24-hour basis. If an emergency arises, the nurse on duty can contact a clergyman of the patient's faith.

DON'T UNDERSTAND, JUST PRAY

Readers of Plato never cease to wonder at the skill with which he was able to pluck from his student's brain the self-evident truths of life: As the right person from whom to learn carpentering is the carpenter, not the musician; the right person from whom to learn the art of shoemaking is the shoemaker, not the plumber. For it is only the specialist who teaches us. To whom shall we turn to learn the indispensable art, the art of praying, but to him of whom it is written:

"As He prayed, the fashion of his countenance was altered and His raiment was white and glistening."

Living men may no longer hear Jesus pray; however, his prayers survive in his Memoirs, the Gospels, to search, shame, and recreate us. Reinforced by invitations, stern commands, and unlimited promises, the prayers of Jesus open to us the flowing river of his wisdom and power, the soul of his love, the root and recipe of life lived under the smile and power of God.

In every crisis of life, we find that Jesus prayed. These crises were ordinary through which all spiritual life must pass, and upon which all enduring character must be built. As Jesus passed through the door of Baptism into the joy, peace and power of the public ministry, and into its blood, sweat and tears also, he prayed the prayer of self-dedication. Without the prayer of self-dedication, we run away from the character-building experiences of life. We seek ease, carpet on the roadway of our life, tender meat instead of the crusty bread of strength, feather mattress instead of the board of God's discipline for our health.

When Jesus stood on the verge of vital decisions; or negotiated his inevitable load of disappointment, weariness, and depression, he prayed the prayer of Dependence. The downfall of the American is his own self-reliance. We feel the greatest shame in the world is not to be able to overcome the world in oneself. There is a promise given by Jesus in Luke 11:22: "If you being evil know how to give good gifts to your children, how much more will the Father give the Holy Spirit to them that ask him." The Devil today is telling the American that religion is "Pie in the Sky and By." Thank God for that Pie... and that sky... Listen to Jesus from the fifteenth chapter of John's Gospel, "Without me you can do nothing"... Listen to him again as he speaks from the same gospel... "Without the Father the son can do nothing." This is the one upon whom He depended.

When Jesus foresaw his disciples tottering on the edge of moral precipices, he prayed the prayer of Intercession. Beloved, this is where so many of us lose the battle. Do you not know that he that lives within you is greater than he that lives in the world. If you have the son that is disobedient or the daughter that is wayward; if you feel that your world is falling around your shoulders because of someone else, lift that one up to the Master Jesus. Intercede. Hold him up to the one who can divide asunder the soul and the spirit. Not for a day but every day, find patience in believing that Jesus will hear and will care.

I wish you could have been in Central Baptist last Wednesday evening and could have seen 100 people at the altar calling out for two brothers in the hospital very ill — one with skull fracture, the other with partial paralysis. When these men were lifted up before the face of Jesus by their brothers and sisters, these at the altar got a new vision that Jesus will hear the intercessor.

When bright angels descended from Heaven bearing victorious answers to his supplications, he prayed the prayer of Thanksgiving. This is the mark of Christ. An ingrate no one loves. We should thank him for every blessing.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Our Capsule Policy

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces can he develop to his utmost capability.

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

Our 'Hidden' Economy

America's real gross national product may be far in excess of the figures a host of government agencies keep tabs on.

This is because there is an incalculable volume of "off the books" enterprises operating at all levels of society — the neighborhood baby sitter, the free lance auto repairman, the hustler are examples — says Prof. Louis A. Ferman of the University of Michigan School of Social Work.

This seldom noticed economic system, which he calls the "irregular economy," is most heavily concentrated in poverty areas, where people have less access to well-paying jobs and adequate goods and services than members of society at large.

Ferman and his wife, sociology Prof. Patricia R. Ferman of Eastern Michigan University, are preparing a book on the irregular economy, to be released late this year.

The existence of two side-by-side economic systems first came to their attention 15 years ago during research among 20 "hard-core" unemployed residents of the Detroit ghetto. They had hypothesized that these people would be alienated and withdrawn from society, engaged in occasional job-seeking and leisure pursuits.

To their surprise, they found that most of them were working regularly, if in an irregular way. Some were in criminal activities, such as prostitution or narcotics, but most worked at such conventional jobs as gardening, handicrafts, home repair or the selling of low-priced goods.

Further investigation has confirmed the existence of informal, sometimes invisible, occupation networks within many low-income communities. The majority of the work is not criminal, but it is illegal, since it goes unreported for licensing or tax purposes.

Jobs in the irregular economy thus offer some major advantages over jobs in the regular economy.

They are not accountable to any legal authority, since no records are kept of them. The earnings tend to be larger and more predictable since no taxes are deducted. And since the worker can accept or reject jobs as he pleases, he enjoys a control over his economic fate unparalleled by most conventional employment.

Ferman stresses that the irregular economy is ancillary to the regular economy, not distinct from it. Some goods and services may even shift from one economy to the other, as liquor did after the repeal of Prohibition.

Although the irregular economy also operates to some extent in middleclass suburbs, in the ghetto it's more likely to be a survival mechanism.

It offers, says Ferman, the only means by which some residents "maintain a level of existence similar to that of regular society." It is a means for redressing inequities.

End Run Around Truth

One of the more original end runs around the truth by a member of the beleaguered Nixon administration, to borrow a term from the game favored by that same administration, has to be that of Melvin R. Laird the other day.

Far from pleading lapse of memory as others have done, the former secretary of Defense, who is now the President's counselor for domestic affairs, forthrightly stated that he had recommended secret bombing operations in Cambodia in 1969 and 1970 in order to hit Viet Cong and North Vietnamese sanctuaries and to save American lives in South Vietnam.

When asked at a news conference about the method by which the raids were kept secret, he confirmed that a "separate channel of reporting was established for these particular attacks." The press was told only the bomber targeting in South Vietnam, which provided a credible cover story for the secret strikes.

But while admitting that "I did approve the separate reporting procedure on the Cambodian strikes," Laird went on to say that "I did not approve at any time the falsification of any Air Force, Navy or Defense Department records."

In other words, the truth about the Cambodian raids existed all the time and was available to those in the government with a "need to know." Though the press and the public were fed a lot of baloney, the secret records were never falsified.

Imagine a court hearing the same kind of defense from, say, a man charged with tax evasion.

"Yes, it's true that I did use a 'separate reporting procedure' in reporting only part of my income to the Internal Revenue Service. But I did not at any time falsify a second set of records I kept for my own use."

With all the spooks in high places, who needs Halloween?

BERRY'S WORLD

"Honestly! Sometimes you make me wonder if that 'siege mentality' at the White House is catching!"

Question

Box

QUESTION: The News is opposed to many government activities the people want. Do you people not believe in majority rule? Don't you know the government does not embark on its services to the people unless the people demand the services and a majority favor them?

ANSWER: There are two different questions. In the first place, we do not object to majority decisions being made by members of a voluntary organization. If persons voluntarily enter some sort of cooperative endeavor to accomplish some activity, they have a right to establish in advance the rules by which the endeavor will be operated. That includes majority decisions, or could even include arbitrary decisions by an elected or appointed executive — if that's the way members want it.

If it an involuntary organization and persons have no way to withdraw from membership, a requirement that individuals abide by decisions of a majority can work great hardship and wrong. The News contends there are certain acts which should not be done under any circumstances, whether the decision is by a majority of one or one billion. Theft and murder are never proper or moral by one person or a group working in concert.

In response to the second question, the myth of government activities because of the people's demand and majority approval has long since been disproved.

Long experience in observing political action "for the people" has shown that in nearly every instance action starts with either a small political action group or a committee appointed by a legislative body to investigate the "feasibility" and "desirability" of such activity. The hand-picked committee then comes up with the recommendation sought by the initiating group.

In some states, local grand juries have been used rather regularly by boards and other elected and appointed officials to hear just one side of a proposal and then to bring in a recommendation to the local governing board. Many times the grand juries have little experience with government and they are prone to bring forth the desired recommendation. Then the governing board can claim the proposal was investigated and recommended by a committee of citizens. Grand jury recommendations also are used as endorsements if issues are brought before the people for a vote.

As to a majority approving every issue that is adopted by those in government, that myth certainly has been disproved many times. At few elections does a majority of people go to the polls; and at many a majority of those eligible to vote do not put in appearance at the polls for whatever reason. Many times, bond issues have been voted by as few as 10 or 15 per cent of the registered voters going to the polling places. If only 50 per cent of the people are registered to vote, and 15 per cent of registered persons actually vote, simple arithmetic shows that only 5 per cent of all people can carry an election to obligate tax payers for the next 20, 30 or 40 years. Five per cent is not a majority decision of anything.

A less common but most important exemption, often called a "loophole," is that exemption offered to those who purchase municipal bonds. Local governments "sell" municipal bonds to citizens, usually the more affluent, to raise revenues needed to build industrial parks to attract industry or to build schools and other public facilities.

Because interest on municipal bonds is tax-exempt, the federal government "loses" about two billion dollars a year. Local governments pay only two percent on some bonds and the buyer is therefore donating the other three percent he could have earned to the local government in return for federal tax exemption on the two percent earned. Actually such a person is paying a "tax" at the rate of 60 percent of his income to the local government.

The real beneficiaries of this "loophole," therefore, are local governments who otherwise would have to pay higher interest on their bonds. If this federal exemption, or "loophole," were abolished, the effect would be a rise in local taxes so the average taxpayer would certainly be no better off, and the local governments would be worse off.

Figures for 1970 show that over half of all personal

"This Calls for an Expert, Sonny!"

Who Benefits From Those Tax Loopholes?

WASHINGTON, D.C. — So-called tax "loopholes" are of great interest to hard-working, taxpaying Americans, but there are a few misconceptions regarding the issue which should be corrected.

In any discussion of this nature a definition of the term "loophole" is necessary. Dictionaries define "loophole" as an ambiguity or omission in the text through which the intent of a statute, contract or obligation may be evaded.

In the case of so-called tax "loopholes," this definition is less than valid. Perhaps a more accurate statement of definition would be: "One man's tax 'loophole' is another man's tax exemption and vice versa."

Obviously, all of us enjoy certain tax exemptions, and some enjoy more than others. The most common tax exemptions are: the personal exemption, the standard deduction, tax-free income from social benefits (social security, welfare, veteran's benefits, etc.) and itemized deductions — for state and local taxes, interest paid, medical expenses, charitable contributions, etc. Without these exemptions, or "loopholes" if you prefer, many of our churches and charitable organizations would be hard pressed to operate and some persons on fixed income would find that income rapidly dwindling.

The truth is, so-called tax "loopholes" benefit almost everyone, and especially the lower and middle income groups. Only a few of the very rich pay no taxes and there is usually a good reason. Closing "loopholes" would only save a small amount of money and would not help the average taxpayer and would hurt the average community or church or charity.

It would appear that the best way to reduce taxes is not to close "loopholes," but to reduce federal spending drastically, thereby permitting a substantial reduction in taxes.

Cong. Bill Dickinson

income is not subject to income tax and that of all persons who filed returns, 20 percent pay no federal tax and 50 percent of persons with incomes under 5,000 paid no tax. On the other hand, only 0.2 percent of all persons with incomes over $10,000 paid no taxes and there was usually a good reason.

Additionally only 112 persons with incomes over $200,000 paid no federal income tax in 1970. The remaining 99.3 percent in this higher income group paid an average tax of $177,161. Even if this 112 had paid taxes at an average rate, the average taxpayer's taxes could have been reduced by only about 25 cents for the year.

Yet, a former presidential candidate from South Dakota would have us believe that "loopholes" benefit only the rich, and that if the rich could be made to pay their fair share of taxes, the average tax burden could be reduced substantially. This is simply not true!

These nice systematic evaluations are not always possible in multiple sclerosis because numerous unrelated areas of the brain may be involved. This, in itself, is one clue to the diagnosis.

Multiple sclerosis may cause problems with vision, speech, or muscle coordination affecting body movements. Weakness of the arms and legs is a common finding. Muscular weakness may progress to paralysis. When the lower legs are involved urinary complaints are common.

There are a number of factors which appear to precipitate some attacks, even including flu. But, there's no clear-cut identification of factors which may precipitate an attack.

The cause of multiple sclerosis is not known. A recent suggested cause is a small slow acting virus that, over a period of years, produces its effects. In my own medical career there have been multiple theories advanced for the cause of multiple sclerosis, and to date none have been established as the real cause for the disease.

It's difficult to evaluate the effectiveness of treatment because many patients have spontaneous remissions and get along well without any manifestation of any problem for long periods of time. The disease can be severely disabling, or it can be more of an intermittent inconvenience. There is no way to be certain how severe the disability is going to be, whether it is going to progress rapidly or not, and each case is different.

It's important for anyone who has such a problem to have continuous careful medical supervision. A great deal can be done to help individuals with this problem, but I must also say that there are no specific cures. To show you some of the problems that the medical profession deals with in trying to tell you what to expect with this type of disease, the life expectancy varies from a few weeks to over 50 years after the problem has been diagnosed, and that's quite a long range.

Until black people have confidence in themselves and each other to a greater extent than in the past there will be no permanent, lasting solution to the problem of black poverty in the United States.

Multiple Sclerosis Cause Isn't Known
By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Just what is multiple sclerosis, and how does it affect the body? Is there any real help for it?

Dear Reader — This is a tough one to describe for you. It can cause a wide variety of symptoms. The problem is located in the sheath that surrounds nerve cells. This outer sheath is essential to the normal function of the cell. In multiple sclerosis this sheath degenerates, and the cell doesn't function properly.

The cells affected are not all in one location in the nervous system. Multiple sclerosis can affect different spots of nerve cells in a patchy-like distribution. Many diseases of the nervous system affect only specific cells. A brain tumor, for example, may affect cells in one spot. Since the cells involved can be identified with a particular body function, a good neurologist (brain specialist) can often accurately locate the spot involved by the tumor. A stroke may affect the tongue and swallowing mechanisms, which would mean that specific areas of the brain are damaged, and the artery involved in the stroke can be identified.

These nice systematic evaluations are not always possible in multiple sclerosis because numerous unrelated areas of the brain may be involved. This, in itself, is one clue to the diagnosis.

Multiple sclerosis may cause problems with vision, speech, or muscle coordination affecting body movements. Weakness of the arms and legs is a common finding. Muscular weakness may progress to paralysis. When the lower legs are involved urinary complaints are common.

There are a number of factors which appear to precipitate some attacks, even including flu. But, there's no clear-cut identification of factors which may precipitate an attack.

The cause of multiple sclerosis is not known. A recent suggested cause is a small slow acting virus that, over a period of years, produces its effects. In my own medical career there have been multiple theories advanced for the cause of multiple sclerosis, and to date none have been established as the real cause for the disease.

It's difficult to evaluate the effectiveness of treatment because many patients have spontaneous remissions and get along well without any manifestation of any problem for long periods of time. The disease can be severely disabling, or it can be more of an intermittent inconvenience. There is no way to be certain how severe the disability is going to be, whether it is going to progress rapidly or not, and each case is different.

It's important for anyone who has such a problem to have continuous careful medical supervision. A great deal can be done to help individuals with this problem, but I must also say that there are no specific cures. To show you some of the problems that the medical profession deals with in trying to tell you what to expect with this type of disease, the life expectancy varies from a few weeks to over 50 years after the problem has been diagnosed, and that's quite a long range.

Inside Washington

Foreign Aid Battle a Sham; Real Total Over $18 Billion

By Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON — Don't be fooled by the seeming continued deadlock between the Senate and House over legislation to authorize more billions for foreign aid — which since 1946 has cost U.S. taxpayers some $220 billion, comparable to about one-half the total national debt.

That battle is a sham; far more din and furor than substance.

Behind the clangorous rhetoric, pompous bickering and rancorous parliamentary maneuvering, the real facts are that:

(1) This hassle has been going on since 1971 without the slightest hitch in huge foreign-aid spending. While the Senate and House have been at loggerheads over foreign-aid budget authorizing legislation, the program itself has gone on operating full blast on the basis of the $3.2 billion budget voted in 1971 — by the convenient parliamentary device of so-called "continuing resolutions."

(2) The stalled new foreign-aid budget (somewhere between $2.8 billion and $3.2 billion) actually is only a small part of proposed foreign spending in the current fiscal year.

Mind-boggling total of those expenditures is $18,003,191,000.

In other words, what is popularly known as the "foreign-aid program" is actually on the tip of a colossal, unknown pyramid.

Thus, although the U.S. is desperately grappling with many grievous, complex and pressing economic and fiscal problems, the pending federal budget lists 28 separate foreign-aid outlays totaling a stunning $18 billion-plus.

Authority for this jarring information is an impeccable source — Rep. Otto Passman, D-La., veteran chairman of the House Appropriations subcommittee with jurisdiction over foreign spending legislation. No member of Congress is more knowledgeable about this field, or more outspoken about it.

Says Passman grimly: "The U.S. cannot survive as a strong nation if we continue to dissipate our resources and give away our wealth to countries all over the world. This practice is destroying our world markets."

Who's Getting It? Rep. Passman's startling compilation is well worth the few minutes it takes to go over.

Not only is it the only one of its kind, but it's immensely enlightening. It spotlights huge foreign-aid expenditures about which nothing is ever heard. It's a list totaling $18 billion that merits the widest attention and concern.

To Passman, continuing such immense outlays doesn't make sense.

"While many needed and desirable projects in the U.S. are being closed down," says the Louisianaan, "we keep on spending as usual abroad. As a result of such worldwide free-wheeling spending, our gold holdings have been slashed from upwards of $22 billion to little more than $10 billion and our balance of payments and trade have gone deeply into the red.

"Such heedless spending covering the face of the earth has also helped greatly to escalate our national debt to some $60 billion more than the combined public debt of all the other countries of the world. It's no wonder we are in such a distressing predicament both at home and abroad."

Foreign-aid operations include 99 nations, more than 4,000 projects, and employ 51,000 Americans and foreigners.

He Ought To Know Surprisingly, one of the harshest critics of the Senate's $3.2 billion foreign-aid authorization bill is one of the chamber's leading internationalists — Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee.

He berates the bill on three caustic grounds:

(1) It's "far too extravagant in view of our government's fiscal situation."

(2) It is "essentially a face-lifting job for a badly sagging foreign-aid program, plus a sweetener thrown in for Congress and the business community in the form of a $3 billion scheme for subsidized exports."

(3) While on the surface the measure appears to strengthen congressional control over foreign-aid spending, actually it is "legislative sleight of hand."
