President Back From China Trip

Taipei And Tokyo Blast Nixon-Chou Communique

By Associated Press
Taiwan newspapers today blasted the communique issued by President Nixon and Premier Chou En-lai, and Japanese papers called it another blow to Prime Minister Eisaku Sato.

The Taipei stock market took another dive. Many Chinese on the disputed island indicated to inquiring reporters that they feared the way was opening for Peking to take them over.

The Soviet press made no direct criticism of the Chinese-American summit meeting. But Pravda, the Soviet Communist party newspaper, plainly showed the Kremlin's displeasure and misgiving by reprinting a comment from the U.S. Communist party's Daily World. "Instead of strengthening peace and security in Asia and the entire world," it said, "the agreement between Maoists and the U.S.A. will evermore sharpen tensions."

Taiwan's newspapers were enraged by Nixon's pledge that U.S. forces would ultimately be withdrawn from the Nationalist-held island and by his statement that Taiwan is part of China, a position they never questioned as long as the United States was backing Chiang Kai-shek's claim that his was the only legitimate government of both the mainland and Taiwan.

"The great name of America and its people is covered with shame," said the United Daily News.

All Taiwan newspapers reported the communique in detail.

Accusing Nixon of a unilateral decision to reduce American forces on Taiwan, the China Times said: "The reduction of military installations and U.S. forces in Taiwan should be decided by the Nationalist Chinese and U.S. government in accord with their mutual security and interests. President Nixon has no right to make such a unilateral announcement."

The paper said that before his visit to Peking Nixon assured the Nationalist government many times that the United States would honor its commitments to defend Taiwan.

"Now Nixon has dishonored what he said by making such a unilateral announcement," it added.

A six-column banner headline on the front page of Tokyo's Yomiuri Shimbun read: "Third shock for Sato's administration." The reference was to Nixon's announcement of a new China policy last July, his 10 per cent import tax and other currency measures in August and the Shanghai communique, all without prior consultation with the Japanese government.

"America's 'about face' in seeking closer relations with China 'has undoubtedly raised a feeling of betrayal,'" the English-language Japan Times declared. "The anxiety will still remain among the smaller nations that, as the two giants come closer together, their interests may be subordinate and agreements will be made at their expense."

In Hong Kong, the non-Communist press generally adopted an approving, if cautious, view of the communique. But Sing Tao Jih Pao asserted that the Chinese Communist party would not be bound by agreements the Chinese government reached in talks with Nixon.

The paper said the party is the real power organ, while the government "is only the executor of the dictatorship of the ruling class..."

$1000. REWARD for information leading to the arrest and conviction of person stealing cattle. Brand Cross Bar x-7 on left shoulder. John Bowers.

Pro-Taiwan papers minimized the importance of the agreement and expressed belief that the Soviet Union will step up its anti-China activities.

North Vietnamese sources were reported as saying the communique "has nothing to do with solving the war in Vietnam." A Japanese newsman in Hanoi said the sources declared they would not change their evaluation of the United States.

"Nobody except the United States and those who are fighting on the battlefield can make a decisive negotiation on the problem of the war in Vietnam," the correspondent of the Nihon Dempa News reported.

North Vietnam's officials and newspapers have refrained from commenting on the Nixon visit to China directly.

61 KNOWN DEAD

Over 400 Missing In Dam Collapse

MAN, W. Va. (AP) — National guardsmen and hundreds of volunteers set out at dawn today in search of an estimated 400 missing persons, victims of flooding that left 61 known dead and wiped out whole communities.

Meanwhile, attention began to focus on the cause of a break in an earthen dam which precipitated the flash flood in Buffalo Creek hollow Saturday morning. Waters from an 18-acre lake were unleashed.

Ben Tudor, general superintendent of the Buffalo Mining Co., said the situation had been building for a long time.

He said the state had denied the coal company permission on many occasions to send some of the slag and sludge which had accumulated in the firm's lake into valley streams, relieving pressure on the dam.

"They were too concerned about the trout downstream," Tudor said. "It either had to be the people or the trout and now both are gone."

Authorities said they expected to find many more bodies as bulldozers began searching the remains of 14 Appalachian coal camps along the 20-mile hollow.

National Guardsmen made it the last 2 1/4 miles to the end of the hollow early today; guardsmen said only two of 37 houses remained in that area. They said the onrushing water stripped the land down to bed-rock.

Gov. Arch A. Moore Jr., who planned to ask the West Virginia Legislature today for $1 million to start relief work for flood victims, estimated that 4,000 of the Buffalo Creek area's 7,000 residents were left homeless.

President Nixon told Moore by telephone from China that he had declared West Virginia's Logan County a national disaster area.

Many flood survivors spent Sunday night on cots in classrooms and hallways of public schools across the county as officials from the Department of Housing and Urban Development arranged for mobile homes to be trucked in for those left homeless.

Many residents of the hollow acknowledged they had been warned this past week that the dam might break. But they said similar warnings had been issued in previous periods of heavy rain.

Son-in-Law of McKee Indicted By Grand Jury

DALLAS (AP) — The grand jury indicted Paul Prasifka, son-in-law of troubled John McKee, today on allegations of forgery and embezzlement from funds of Scottish Rite bodies in Dallas.

The indictments allege that Prasifka embezzled a total of

Jury Selection Begins In Trial Of Mutschers

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) — The jury panel for the bribery conspiracy trial of Texas House Speaker Gus Mutschers was pared from 255 to about 130 within an hour of the opening session today.

Few of the prospective jurors are under 30, and there was only one black among them—a man about 35.

Men and women were about equally represented, and about half of the men appeared to be related to agriculture and the other half to city businesses.

Those excused from jury duty included persons over 65, mothers with children under 10, and hardship cases.

The jurors filled out a biographical sheet that listed such things as employer, spouse's employer, religious preference, prior jury service, prior interest in the outcome of a criminal trial and political party preference.

The purpose of the data sheet was to expedite the questioning of the individual prospective jurors by state and defense lawyers.

$27,000 in Scottish Rite funds by forging the name of Leon V. Shaw to checks made out to Prasifka.

Shaw is a trustee of the Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children in Dallas.

Prasifka had been executive secretary of the endowment fund for the hospital but was fired Jan. 14.

C. F. Jessee, official of the hospital, said Prasifka was not fired because of matters involving the hospital but because of actions connected with the Scottish Rite bodies.

McKee, recently resigned as head of the Dallas, Crime Commission and a prominent Masonic and Scottish Rite official, also has been indicted on a charge of embezzlement—$6,722 from Lee Lockwood as a Scottish Rite official.

Dallas officers claim McKee really is James Kell Zullinger who deserted from the Navy in 1929.

One indictment returned today against Prasifka alleges he embezzled $15,000 from the Dallas Scottish Rite bodies Aug. 25, 1969, by signing Shaw's name to a check. The check also carries the name of McKee who at that time was chief executive of the four Dallas Scottish Rite bodies.

Another indictment charges Prasifka with forging Shaw's name to a $2,000 check Aug. 23, 1969. It also carried the name of McKee.

In the third indictment, Prasifka allegedly forged Shaw's name to a $10,000 check July 2, 1969. Prasifka countersigned his own check.

Militant Angela Davis Goes On Trial Today

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — Black militant Angela Davis goes on trial today as lawyers begin choosing a jury to hear charges she helped plot an escape try that left four persons dead a year and a half ago.

The first 150 of 5,500 potential jurors, including 18- to 21-year-olds, have been summoned to the heavily guarded courtroom.

The 28-year-old Communist is charged with murder, kidnap and conspiracy. She faces life in prison if convicted.

The charge had carried a possible death sentence until the California Supreme Court on Feb. 18 declared capital punishment unconstitutional. The ruling may be appealed, however.

The decision paved the way for Miss Davis' release on $102,500 bail last Wednesday.

Since her arrest Oct. 13, 1970, in a New York City motel, Miss Davis requests for freedom were denied under a California law that prevented bail for persons charged with offenses carrying the death penalty.

Miss Davis is accused of helping plot an escape attempt involving black convicts who were testifying in the Marin

Nixon, Aides Returning To Washington Tonight

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — President Nixon returned to American soil today after a historic week in China during which he pledged to withdraw all U.S. forces from Taiwan some day and agreed with the Chinese to develop bilateral trade, exchange programs and contacts between the two governments short of formal diplomatic relations.

As expected, there was no change in the two governments' opposing positions on Vietnam.

The Spirit of 76 landed the President and Mrs. Nixon at Anchorage's Elmendorf Air Force Base at 12:04 a.m.—5:04 a.m. EST. The presidential party was to rest for nine hours in Anchorage and will arrive in Washington tonight.

Nixon left Washington on Feb. 17 and arrived in Peking on Monday, Feb. 21, the first U.S. president to visit China while in office.

"This was the week that changed the world... The Chinese and American people hold the future of the world in their hands," Nixon said at his final banquet with Premier Chou Enlai in Shanghai Sunday night.

It was a clear, crisp night with the temperature at 17 degrees as the President stepped from his big jet, followed by the First Lady. Few spectators were on hand, but the Nixons were welcomed by Lt. Gen. Robert Ruegg, commander of the Alaskan Command, and Maj. Gen. Joseph Cunningham, commander of the Alaskan Air Command.

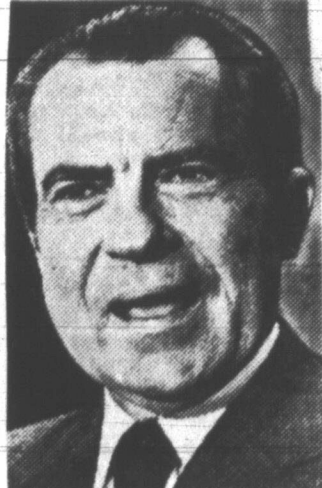

Nixon and Chou summed up their talks and separate discussions by Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Foreign minister Chi-Peng-Fei in a 1,750-word communique issued Sunday. Explanations of the communique were given American newsmen at a briefing by presidential adviser Henry Kissinger and Marshall Green, the assistant secretary of state for East Asian and Pacific Affairs.

The communique (1) set forth statements of position from each side summing up their differing positions on Taiwan, Indochina, Japan and Korea; (2) expressed mutual adherence to certain general principles of international conduct; and (3) announced agreement to expand relations in various fields "to broaden the understanding between the two peoples."

Nixon at the banquet Sunday night noted that the communique showed areas of disagreement as well as agreement.

"But what we have said in that communique is not nearly as important as what we will do in the years ahead to build a bridge across 16,000 miles and 22 years of hostility which have divided us in the past," the President declared. "What we have said today is that we shall build that bridge."

In furtherance of this goal, the two governments said they could facilitate "people-to-people contacts and exchanges" in such fields as science, technology, culture, sports and journalism.

They also agreed to "facilitate the progressive development of trade between their two countries," and to "stay in contact through various channels, including the sending of a senior U.S. representative to Peking from time to time for concrete consultations..."

Kissinger said the two governments would establish a "contact point" in some third country where they both have representatives, and the discussions about exchanges and trade would be held there. Ottawa appeared one likely choice.

With regard to Taiwan, which the Chinese termed "the crucial question obstructing the normalization of relations between China and the United States," the United States said it acknowledged the position of both the Communist and Nationalist regimes that "there is but one China and that Taiwan is a part of China."

The United States "reaffirms its interest in a peaceful settlement of the Taiwan question by the Chinese themselves," the communique continued. "With this prospect in mind, it affirms the ultimate objective of the withdrawal of all U.S. forces and military installations from Taiwan. In the meantime, it will progressively reduce its forces and military

Nixon's China Journey Gets Mixed Reaction

By Associated Press

The U.S.-Chinese communique issued at the close of President Nixon's visit to the Communist mainland has received a mixed reaction from both Republican and Democratic presidential contenders, but the conservative candidates of both parties like it least.

Rep. John M. Ashbrook of Ohio, a conservative challenging Nixon for the GOP nomination, said he was shocked and dismayed Sunday at the President's agreement to Peking's demand for unilateral withdrawal of U.S. forces from the Nationalist Chinese island of Taiwan.

"Almost equally distressing," Ashbrook said, "was the contrast between the conciliatory, deferential rhetoric employed by the United States and the military propaganda that marked the Chinese portions of the communique."

Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, one of the more conservative of the Democratic hopefuls, noted the document did not announce a withdrawal of Chinese troops from Laos and said:

"It appears we're doing the withdrawing, and they're doing the staying. That doesn't sound like a good horse trade."

Mayor Sam Yorty of Los Angeles, also a Democrat, said Nixon's personal triumph in China might be "at the expense of appeasement which may cost the United States in the future."

Candidates generally considered more liberal than Nixon were less critical of the communique, although some installations on Taiwan as the tension in the area diminishes."

Kissinger at his briefing contended that the promise to withdraw U.S. forces was a "general statement of policy which we have enunciated on innumerable occasions in innumerable forms."

Nixon gave specific U.S. endorsement to the five principles of peaceful coexistence adopted at the Bandung conference of nonaligned nations in 1955.

These call for "respect for the sovereignty and territorial integrity of all states, nonaggression against other states, noninterference in the internal affairs of other states, equality and mutual benefits and peaceful coexistence."

The communique continued with a statement of other agreed principles of international relations:

1. That progress toward normalization of relations between China and the United States is in the interests of all countries.

2. That both China and the United States want to reduce the danger of international military conflict.

3. That neither China nor the United States should seek hegemony—dominance—in the Asia-Pacific region, and "each is opposed to the efforts by any other country or group of countries to establish such hegemony."

"Both sides are of the view," the communique added, "that it would be against the interests of the peoples of the world for any major country to collude with another against other countries, or for major countries to divide up the world into spheres of interest."

When the newsmen asked if this was a reference to the Soviet Union, Kissinger repeated a previous statement that U.S. relationships with Communist China are not directed against the Soviet Union. "We had no particular country in mind" when these paragraphs were drafted, he added.

U.S.-China Communique Gist

SHANGHAI (AP) — Here are the viewpoints of the United States and the People's Republic of China as expressed in a communique summing up five days of talks between President Nixon and Premier Chou En-lai last week in Peking.

THE WORLD
The United States: Supports individual freedom and social progress for all the world free of outside intervention or pressure. Favors improved communications between countries of differing ideologies. Countries should treat each other with mutual respect and none should claim infallibility over others; all nations should re-examine their attitudes for common good.

China: "All nations, big or small, should be equal; big nations should not bully the small and the strong nations should not bully the weak. China will never become a superpower ... Peking supports struggles of 'all oppressed people and nations' and maintains that all have a right to choose their own social systems. 'All foreign troops should be withdrawn to their own countries.'"

INDOCHINA
The United States: The Indochinese people should be allowed to determine their own destiny without outside interference. The U.S. government favors a negotiated settlement on the basis of the eight-point U.S.-South Vietnamese proposal of Jan. 27 calling for elections and the resignation of President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam a month before balloting.

China: Peking supports the Viet Cong's seven-point proposals, including the immediate withdrawal of U.S. forces and the dismantling of Thieu's regime, as elaborated by the Viet Cong earlier this month.

NATIONALIST CHINESE-TAIWAN
The United States: Does not challenge the premise that all Chinese—Communist and Nationalist alike—maintain there is one China and that Taiwan is part of China. Reaffirms its interest in a peaceful settlement of the question by Chinese themselves. In line with its ultimate objective of withdrawing from Taiwan, the United States will progressively reduce its forces and military installations as tension in the area lessens.

China: This is a crucial question obstructing U.S.-Chinese relations. The People's Republic is the sole legal government of Taiwan.

The liberation of Taiwan is an internal affair of China and all U.S. military forces must be withdrawn. Peking opposes any activities that advocate "one China, one Taiwan" or an attitude that holds "the status of Taiwan remains to be determined."

JAPAN
The United States: It places the highest value on friendly relations with Japan and will continue to do so.

China: "It firmly opposes the revival and outward expansion of Japanese militarism and firmly supports the Japanese people's desire to build an independent, democratic, peaceful and neutral Japan."

KOREA
The United States: It will maintain close ties with South Korea and support efforts for a relaxation of tension and increase communication on the Korean peninsula.

China: It supports North Korea's proposals for reunification of the two Koreas and for the withdrawal of the U.N. Command in Korea.

INDIA AND PAKISTAN
Both agreed that India and Pakistan should withdraw their military forces from both sides of cease-fire lines in Jammu and Kashmir. The United States said it supports "the right of the peoples of South Asia to shape their own future in peace, free of military threat and without having the area become a subject of big-power rivalry." China said it "firmly supports the Pakistan government and people in their struggle to preserve their independence and sovereignty and the people of Jammu and Kashmir in their struggle for the right of self-determination."

U.S.-CHINA RELATIONS
Both acknowledged essential differences remain, but agreed that regardless of their social systems the United States and China should conduct relations on the principles of respect for sovereignty and territorial integrity of all states, of nonaggression, of noninterference in internal affairs of others, of equality and equal benefit and peaceful coexistence. Both agreed that it is against the interest of world peace for any major country to collude with another against other countries or for major countries to divide the world into spheres of interest. They proposed continuing contacts between the United States and China through science, culture, technology, sports, journalism and trade. They suggested periodic diplomatic contacts for concrete consultations on normalizing relations between Washington and Peking.

Pampa Youth Is In Jail On Charge Of Robbery

Jerome Bradshaw, 20, 601 S. Gray, charged with robbery and assault, is in jail in lieu of $10,000 bond following his arraignment before Judge E. L. Anderson Saturday night.

James Wesley Spencer, 38, Crawford, Okla., told officers he stopped at a Pampa cafe for coffee late Friday night. As he was leaving a man approached him for a ride home.

The police report of the incident said Spencer, "wanting to be friendly," took the man home. He was offered coffee in return for the favor which he declined, according to his account. The man asked him to wait and returned with another man. The pair assaulted Spencer and took $370 from him.

About 3 a.m. Saturday, Spencer flagged a patrol car and told them what happened. Officers went to the address and found an empty house. Further investigation through Saturday led to the arrest and charges of Bradshaw.

Meanwhile, the robbery victim, not badly injured continued to Oklahoma but told officers he would return to press charges against his assailants.

Three Pampa girls, all minors, were taken in custody by Sheriff's Deputy Joe Brewer over the weekend on suspicion of possession of marijuana.

The policeman summoned help from the sheriff's office and Brewer responded.

Further action in the case is pending according to authorities.

IT'S YOUR HEAD BE CAREFUL

Today, wearing a hair-piece, styling the hair or even having a hair transplant, is becoming very commonplace among those men who are especially conscious of their appearance. However, along with this desire for better appearance there is an even more important need for the everyday care of the scalp and hair.

If there is a scalp problem, such as severe dandruff or if there are allergies that cause a braving out in a rash, a dermatologist should be consulted before making any changes in how you treat your hair. His advice may help you eliminate or control any unforeseen problems that could arise. We have in stock regularly, many products he might recommend.

YOU OR YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a delivery. We will deliver promptly without extra charge. A great many people rely on us for their health needs. We welcome requests for delivery service and charge accounts.

Dear Abby

Father of 20-year-old objects to name 'Dad'

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: My parents were recently divorced. I live with my mother, but I see my Dad occasionally.

I made a date to play tennis with him on Sunday at a club he recently joined. When we met he asked me not to call him "Dad" because he didn't want anyone to know he has a 20-year-old daughter.

I was hurt. He is my father. Should I call him "Dad" anyway?

HIS DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER: Certainly. And if you're in a playful mood, just for fun, call him "Grandpa." He's old enough to be one!

DEAR ABBY: I must make a decision soon and I don't know what to do.

I am in love with, and want to marry, a man of considerable means and position. I am 36 and have never been married. He is 44 and divorced. His ex-wife has remarried, and she is no problem. But he has a 20-year-old daughter who lives with him, and she's the problem.

The daughter never got along with her mother. [That's why she's living with her father.] She is an only child, and while I don't know this for a fact, I think she's slightly retarded.

She has never had a date in her life, and the reason is obvious. She has a bad complexion from eating sweets continually. She is terribly overweight, very lazy, and very, very sloppy.

She "works" for her father ["filling" at his office] when she feels like it, which isn't very often. She's usually at home, eating and watching television.

She likes me, but I don't think I could stand having her live with us for the rest of her life, and I'm afraid that would be the deal.

Well, Abby, what do you say?

BETWIXT AND BETWEEN

DEAR B AND B: If you are considering marrying a man, you should be able to discuss the matter of his "problem daughter" with him. [Does he know what her potential is? Why is she permitted to vegetate?] If she is "slightly retarded," surely she could be doing more with her life. If you don't love this man enough to want to help him with his problem, and his daughter is his problem, don't marry him.

DEAR ABBY: In hiring a secretary I bear in mind that a good secretary is one who is a good "keeper of secrets," as the word "secretary" implies.

I receive all kinds of mail from people all over the world, and I never know what will be contained in those letters. However, I expect no raised eyebrows, censoring, or personal comments from my secretary regarding the contents of my mail. And certainly none regarding my replies.

When I dictate to my secretary, my thoughts are transmitted to her as mechanically as to the typewriter itself. This doesn't mean that I consider my secretary to be less than a human being with personal feelings. However, whatever her personal feelings might be, they should never interfere with her job.

If I should ever feel the need of a censor or editor, I would hire someone else who is qualified in that field.

Surface Moisture Continue Short In Many Texas Areas

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Springlike weather over Texas during the week brought a flurry of farm activities as the tempo of land preparation began to pick up. Surface moisture continues short in many areas and is slowing the growth of small grains.

Planting of cotton and grain sorghum has begun in the Rio Grande Valley, said Dr. John E. Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Some preplant irrigation is underway on the South Plains.

Small grains are making little progress although the warm weather has provided some relief. Grazing continues to decrease and cattle are being moved off small grain pastures. Marketings have increased in some areas with prices continuing on a strong note. Supplemental feeding is generally active.

The warm weather has brought home gardeners out in east and southern areas. Vegetables are being planted with the hope that the final freeze for the season is past.

The vegetable and citrus harvests continue active in the Winter Garden and Rio Grande Valley, noted Hutchison. Melon planting has begun in several southwestern counties.

Reports from district agricultural agents give the following conditions in their respective areas.

PANHANDLE: It was another week without moisture, and wheat is being irrigated in some counties, noted Bill Grisham Jr., Amarillo. Land is being fertilized and plowing is under way. Protein supplements continue to be fed to livestock with animals in generally good condition. Some stockers are moving to feedlots while others are being sold. Calving is in progress.

SOUTH PLAINS: Farmers are busy with land preparation and the application of fertilizers and herbicides. Livestock continue to move off small grains due to the lack of surface moisture to boost growth. Some wheat is being irrigated and some land is being pre-irrigated for spring planting. Livestock continue in good condition with markets holding strong.

ROLLING PLAINS: Moisture is needed throughout the area for small grains and ranges, said James Simmons, Vernon. Greenbugs are damaging wheat in a few counties and spraying is underway. Some small grains are being topdressed with nitrogen. Land preparation and cotton stalk destruction continues on an active note. Some stockers are moving to market as grazing conditions decrease.

NORTH CENTRAL: Soil moisture is short in western counties, and a good general rain is needed over the entire area for small grains and vegetables. Small grains are making some growth due to warm weather but need to be topdressed with nitrogen. Potatoes, cabbage and other vegetables are being planted with beets, collards and turnip greens being harvested. Supplemental feeding of livestock continues and stocker calves are selling at a premium, up to 65 cents per pound.

NORTHEAST: This area has adequate soil moisture and winter pastures have made some improvement with warmer weather. Planting of home gardens is active, according to R.S. Loftis, Overton. Pastures and ranges are below average to average with winter and early spring grasses showing some growth. Some supplemental feeding of livestock continues.

FAR WEST: A good general rain is needed to boost range conditions and small grains. Irrigated small grains are providing some grazing as livestock continue to hold up well. Lambing is increasing and goat shearing is in full swing. Land preparation continues for spring crops but farm labor is in short supply.

WEST CENTRAL: Small grains are suffering from the lack of surface moisture, reported Allen Turner, San Angelo. Winter weeds are up and making new growth for grazing. Lambing continues as well as supplemental feeding of livestock. As small grain grazing decreases, cattle are being shipped to market or to feedlots. The livestock market continues to hold strong, especially for good cows and calves.

CENTRAL: Most of the Blackland counties have good moisture but others need rain. Small grains are providing little grazing but livestock conditions remain good with some feeding. Home garden activity is picking up with the springlike weather. Land preparation and fertilizer application are major farm activities.

EAST: Warm weather is booting small grain growth where moisture is adequate, said Bill Lehmburg, Overton. Although ranges are average, legume pastures are making poor growth. Livestock are in good shape with some supplemental feeding. Home gardens continue to be planted. Fire ants are heavy in truck gardens in Jasper County.

SOUTHEAST AND UPPER GULF COAST: Soil moisture is adequate to surplus over the area and wet soils continue to hamper field operations. Some pastures and ranges remain too wet for grazing. Oats continue below average with little grazing. Home gardens are being planted and early native peaches are beginning to bloom.

New subway cars recently tested in New York City cost $213,000 each.

Worry Clinic

By-George W. Crane, Ph. D., M. D.
Harry wonders why kings formerly had such large harems, with Solomon recorded as possessing 1,000 wives and concubines! It wasn't just love or even sexual attraction but diplomatic expediency! For those wives were life insurance policies!

Read below!

CASE T-512: Harry D., aged 18, teaches a Sunday School class.

"Dr. Crane," he asked, "why did the kings of Israel marry so many women?"

"Why, since Solomon had 1,000 wives and concubines, it would have taken him almost 3 years to have made the rounds, wouldn't it?"

"By the time he visited the 1,000th wife, he would have forgotten what the first one even looked like!"

WIFE DIPLOMACY
One of the main reasons why ancient monarchs had many wives was political.

If you were thus the king of a small country and had more powerful kings at the head of adjacent lands, you would be fearful of invasion.

To help prevent such attacks by the bigger armies of the surrounding nations, you thus married a daughter of each of those neighboring kings.

Then your more powerful royal father-in-law would not be likely to send his armies against you.

For it isn't natural for a father to try to reduce the prestige of his own daughter, who was a queen of the smaller kingdom.

Not only did the kings thus wed foreign princesses as a form of diplomatic insurance against war, but they even picked daughters of the chieftains of lesser tribes or clans to stop insurrections.

Besides, there was often a surplus of princesses and not enough kings to go around.

So it became necessary for one king to marry the daughters of a dozen or even a hundred surrounding rulers.

And the princesses approved, for it was a social disgrace not to be mated with a prince or king.

In an emergency, a king would even offer one of his daughters as the "prize" for one of his ablest generals.

After David thus slew the giant Goliath, King Saul grew insanely jealous of David's popularity with the crowds.

So he offered David a chance to marry his daughter Michal but as a dowry from David, King Saul demanded the sex scalps from 100 Philistines.

Saul thought David would be slain in the process and thus Saul could eliminate David's threat to the throne.

But David killed 200 Philistines, so Saul had to pay up by letting David marry Michal.

Such casual slaughter of men in war kept the male population reduced, which thus led to a surplus of women.

For... Spring was the time "when kings were wont to go to war," as the Bible states.

In order to divert attention from taxes and internal problems, the kings extorted the attention of their subjects by an annual attack on some neighboring nation.

U.S. Urged To Take Timely Step To Deal With Fuel Supply Issue

HOUSTON (AP) — Energy suppliers say U.S. consumers have much to learn from Great Britain's coal crisis.

Many believe a similar crisis could develop in the United States in the not too distant future unless something is done rather quickly about developing oil and natural gas supply shortages.

The coal strike, to say nothing of inconveniences to consumers, curtailed Britain's economy severely.

U.S. energy suppliers say the situation is particularly significant in that Great Britain relies on coal for only 50.8 per cent of its energy supplies while the United States relies on oil and gas for 76.2 per cent of its energy requirements.

U.S. Rep. Wayne Aspinall, D-Colo., chairman of the House Interior and Insular Affairs Committee, said an even more severe energy crisis is facing the United States and the British power shortage should encourage U.S. studies of the consequences of an inadequate or unstable supply of fuels and energy.

Aspinall has encouraged his committee to hold hearings later this year on all aspects of a national energy crisis.

Gene P. Morrell, director of the Interior Department's Office of Oil and Gas, stated recently 23 per cent of U.S. petroleum supplies in 1970 came from abroad and that intentionally optimistic projections indicate a 45 per cent dependence on imports by 1985.

"So we find ourselves in danger of drifting into dependence upon sources over which we have no control for the energy that is absolutely critical to our national growth and prosperity," Morrell said.

Robert C. Gunness, president of Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, told the American Institute of Chemical Engineers last week the 1985 projection for dependence on foreign oil is 53 per cent.

Zane Q. Johnson, executive vice president of Gulf Oil Corp., told the same group there is a possibility of a 30 per cent gap between domestic fuel supply and demand by 1985.

Johnson said the situation boils down to a choice of dependence on insecure foreign supplies or a concerted effort to develop domestic supplies, including synthetic fuels and nuclear power as well as new oil and gas reserves.

C. Howard Hardesty Jr., senior vice president of Continental Oil Co., recently commended the American Mining Congress for accurately summarizing conclusions reached in a National Petroleum Council report on supply and demand trends.

The summary included three points: The current natural gas shortage will increase in severity, the nation will become increasingly dependent on crude oil from the Eastern Hemisphere, and the energy industries will find it difficult to raise the estimated $375 billion in capital by 1985 to "provide for our burgeoning energy requirements."

Both Morrell and Aspinall said much time will be needed before nuclear power and synthetic fuels can ease the nation's energy problems.

Aspinall said nuclear energy currently is "an unhatched egg and the energy crisis is not going to evaporate while the nation waits for it to hatch."

Morrell said there currently is no commercially acceptable process for removing sulphur from coal, either before, during or after burning, and that, with luck, there may be a shale oil prototype plant in operation late in the decade and a commercial plant by 1980.

He said current commitments to coal gasification research offer hope for a commercial scale plant by 1980 but that a commercial nuclear breeder reactor is unlikely to appear before 1985.

"These first plants will contribute only minuscule amounts to total energy supply, and a time lag of several more years is involved before significant production can be achieved from the new sources," he said.

A CRYING SHAME
WATFORD, England (AP) —When amateur actress Lynda Savory had a baby, the local dramatics group was delighted to know the child would provide the recorded sound effects for their latest play. But since rehearsals began, baby Alan hasn't shed a tear for the tape recorder which is switched on day and night.

"My husband and I haven't had a quieter time for months," Lynda said. "It looks as if Alan won't play bawl."

Fish Fillets "Convenient" For Baking And Broiling

AUSTIN—Make no bones about it—fish is easier to eat and prepare if purchased as boneless fillets.

The extraction of bones from fish defies any semblance of grace at the dinner table, and the presence of bones could be a hazard to small children. Neither of these problems are encountered with fish fillets.

In addition to being more socially acceptable and safer, fish fillets are convenient for baking and broiling.

Filleting a fish is quite an art, and chances are that after your first effort the result will look like something which has been run over with a lawnmower. The frustrations of filleting a fish can be avoided by letting the man behind the counter do it. He's an expert, and he makes it look easy. In some cases he will do it free of charge.

Since fillets are so thin they usually bake in 20 to 25 minutes. Broiling takes only eight to ten minutes.

Caramel Frosting

Quick to make and delicious.

one-third cup butter
1/2 cup firmly packed dark brown sugar
Dash of salt
3 tablespoons milk
1 1/2 cups sifted confectioners' sugar

In a 1-quart saucepan over low heat melt the butter; add the brown sugar and salt; mix well and cook for 2 minutes. Add the milk; cook, stirring constantly, until mixture boils. Remove from heat and cool 10 minutes. Gradually beat in the confectioners' sugar until of good spreading consistency. Use to fill and frost top of two 9-inch round layer cakes; if sides of cakes are spread with the frosting, the covering will be thin.

Scottish Shortbread

Associated Press Food Editor DEAR CECILY: Have you a recipe for Scottish shortbread—the real thing?—MAN COOK.

DEAR MAN COOK: We confess we've always made Americanized shortbread until we got your letter. You prodded us on to look into the "Highland Fling Cookbook" by Sara Walker (Atheneum) which celebrates the delightful cooking of Scotland. There we found "the real thing," a shortbread that is much less sweet than American versions and that has the proper rich and crumbly texture. Our adaptation of Mrs. Walker's recipe follows.

Shortbread is a traditional accompaniment to freshly brewed tea. But do make the tea "hot and hearty" the way the Scots like it: Bring freshly drawn cold water to a full rolling boil. Rinse out your teapot with boiling water. Put one teabag or one teaspoonful of loose tea per cup in pot. Pour the boiling water over the tea and let stand 5 minutes.—C. B.

HIGHLAND FLING SHORTBREAD

2 1/2 cups sifted flour
1/2 cup sifted rice flour
Pinch of salt
1 cup butter, at room temperature
1/2 cup sugar
1 egg yolk
2 tablespoons light cream
1/2 teaspoon vanilla or almond extract

On wax paper sift together the flour, rice flour and salt.

In a large mixing bowl cream butter and sugar; beat in egg yolk, cream and extract. Gradually blend in flour mixture; when dough becomes thick, knead with hands. When dough is smooth, divide in half and pat evenly over bottoms of two ungreased 9-inch cake pans. Press around edges with fork and prick well all over.

Bake in a preheated 325-degree oven until lightly golden—about 35 minutes. While still hot, cut each round into wedges. Let cool in pans on wire racks. Remove carefully so wedges do not break. Store in a tightly covered tin box in a cool place.

Note: Rice flour is available in health food and specialty food shops.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The head of the U.S. Communist party says the party may start issuing membership cards again after a lapse of more than 20 years.

SNAPPY SNAPPER
2 pounds snapper fillets or other fresh fish fillets
1/2 cup frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed
1/4 cup salad oil
1/4 cup soy sauce
1/4 cup cider vinegar

1/2 teaspoon salt chopped parsley

Cut fillets into six portions. Place fish in a single layer, skin side up, on a well-greased baking pan, 15x10x1 inches. Combine remaining ingredients except parsley. Brush fish with sauce. Broil about four inches from source of heat for five minutes. Turn fish carefully and brush with sauce. Broil five to seven minutes longer or until lightly browned and fish flake easily when tested with a fork. Sprinkle with parsley. Makes six servings.

"Yummy Yams"

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

Cured yams are excellent bakers and make a change-of-pace taste with your favorite meats in winter. Yams may be topped with an interesting sauce, similar to sour cream or other favorite toppings normally thought of when serving baked potatoes. Surprise the family with the interesting combination of the sweet moistness of yams whipped and spooned back into shell, topped with a combination of mushrooms, onion, parsley, bacon.

BAKED LOUISIANA YAMS WITH SAVORY TOPPING

6 medium Louisiana yams
1 cup chopped mushrooms, about 1/4-pound
1/2 cup chopped onion
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1/4 cup chopped parsley
6 slices crisp-cooked bacon, crumbled
Salt
Pepper
1/4 cup butter or margarine, melted
Hot milk (about 1/4-cup)
Bake yams in 400-degree oven 15 minutes. Lower temperature to 375 degrees and bake 45 minutes or until tender. Meanwhile, saute mushrooms and onion in 2 tablespoons butter until onion in 2 tablespoons butter until onion is tender; stir in parsley, bacon, 1/4-teaspoon salt and dash pepper. Score baked yams lengthwise and crosswise and scoop out yam centers, leaving 1/4-inch shells. Mash yams; add 1 1/2 teaspoons salt, dash pepper, melted butter and hot milk. Whip well, adding a little more hot milk, if desired. Spoon whipped yams into shells and top each with some of mushroom-bacon mixture. Place on a baking sheet and heat in a 375-degree oven 15 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Baked Winter Pears

This way of serving pears is popular in Italy.
1/2 cup sugar
1/4 cup water
1 small wedge lemon
4 small (1 1/4 pounds) firm-ripe Bosc pears
Into a small saucepan turn the sugar and water; squeeze in juice from wedge of lemon and add squeezed portion. Over moderate heat stir until sugar dissolves; bring to a boil. Pare the pears, removing blossom ends but leaving stems attached; place in a 1-quart round glass casserole (6 1/2 by 2 1/2 inches) or similar utensil; pour hot syrup over pears. Cover tightly and bake in a preheated 400-degree oven until tender when pierced with a fork—30 minutes. Turn pears in syrup. Serve warm or cold. Makes 4 servings.

ENMU Head Coach Begins Hearings

PORTALES, N.M. (AP) — The Eastern New Mexico University Human Dignity Commission was scheduled to begin deliberations today on testimony taken this past weekend concerning accusations by black basketball players against ENMU head basketball coach Buddy Hall.

The commission is composed of three students, three faculty members and three administrative staff members.

More than 20 black athletes boycotted their teams in mid-February after a dispute between Hall and black athlete Wilbert Hardwell of Alamogordo.

They issued a statement that Hall was blaming blacks for team failures. ENMU finished its season with a 13-14 record.

Hall testified in his own defense Sunday during the second day of the hearing. He was on the witness stand for more than an hour.

Charges by blacks included one that he had said black player Curtis Washington "played like a punk."

Black players all testified that the word "punk" to them implied homosexuality.

Coach Hall said Sunday the never had heard of the word being used in that connotation.

Hall also said he had placed his hands on Washington's head in order to get him to look him in the eye after a game in which the Greyhounds lost by two points.

Hall said that, at the time, he told Washington he believed his action on the floor was the reason the team lost the game.

Washington had claimed that Hall shook him.

Hall and two assistants testified that Hall's action was to lift Washington's head.

Ball also said it was his decision that the traveling squad wear green blazers, trousers and a white shirt with an ENMU insignia on the pocket.

He said this clothing was purchased from proceeds of a special game on Thanksgiving Day and all of the players knew the money would be spent on the outfits.

He said he chose the uniform and did not consult the players. Lawyer Al Sigman told the commission this was an instance of "absolutism and insistence on conformity, not consistent with reality."

Sigman said the wearing of a traveling uniform was "particularly repugnant for black members of the team, who are struggling to lift the yoke in other areas, to be required to adhere to absolute principles."

Head football coach Jack Scott also testified Sunday. He said he had a rule that "if you miss a practice, you miss a ball game. If you miss two practices, you are no longer a member of the team."

This rule, he said, was invoked when black members of the football squad failed to show up for spring practice in the boycott that followed a walkout by the basketball players.

Hardwell, whose dispute with Hall touched off the boycott, testified Saturday that he had been ill before the incident.

Hardwell said he had been under a doctor's care for tonsillitis, but did not want to tell Hall that he wasn't able to perform.

Hardwell testified that the main incident between him and the coach occurred during a Feb. 15 basketball practice session when the coach required him to do successive line drills, and then shouted at him to work harder.

He said the coach kept him on the floor after sending other team members to the shower.

Hardwell said he went to the coach the next morning. Hardwell said he was told by Ball that "my lack of effort on the court was rubbing off on the other players. He felt I wasn't playing up to my potential."

"I told him I wasn't an all-American, but I didn't feel I was a slouch."

"I didn't show up no more. I didn't argue with him about the turnover, or that I was bringing the ball down the court 85 per cent of the time," Hardwell said.

Hardwell said that during the discussion he said he would quit the team.

The general boycott began the next day.

The Black Student Union at ENMU called for Hall's resignation.

After a meeting of the ENMU Administrative Council, the Human Dignity Commission was asked to investigate.

Louisville Hopefully Moves On

Louisville's Missouri Valley Conference leading Cardinals are riding toward a showdown Thursday night with the Memphis State Tigers.

The Cardinals dropped St. Louis on the road Sunday 84-78 to all but dash the title hopes of the Billikens, now 8-4 on the year.

Louisville is 10-1—a half-game ahead of the Tigers.

If the Cardinals can knock off North Texas in Denton Tuesday night, Memphis State must win Thursday night just to gain a tie title.

If the teams tie, a conference playoff will be held March 11th at a site to be determined.

Each team has one game left after Thursday night. Memphis State hosts Drake and Louisville entertains Tulsa.

Meanwhile, MVC member New Mexico State hopes for an at-large berth in the NCAA playoffs.

The NCAA begins issuing its at-large invitations Wednesday at 9:30 a.m.

Petty Wins Richmond 500 Over Allison

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — The Plymouth looked a little different—there's now some red mixed in with the blue—but the outcome was the same as Richard Petty of Randleman, N.C., won his fourth consecutive race at the Fairgrounds Raceway.

The 34-year-old Petty, who now has won eight times here in the last 11 years, slipped past pole-sitter Bobby Allison of Hueytown, Ala., just past the midway point Sunday and breezed to a 1½-lap victory in the Richmond 500 NASCAR Grand National stock car race.

Allison, still looking for his first victory in his Junior Johnson-prepared Chevelle, had to settle for second after clearly dominating the early stages of the race.

Bobby Isaac finished third in a Dodge, seven laps back of Petty; Dave Marcis held on for fourth place in a Dodge, another five laps back; and Bill Dennis made a comeback after losing three laps early in the race to finish fifth in a Ford.

Three caution flags for a total of 49 laps slowed Petty's winning time on the 542-mile track to 3 hours, 55 minutes, 20 seconds or an average speed of 76.625 miles per hour.

Gleason Open Won By Tom Weiskopf

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — How sweet it was. "It's just wonderful to beat you, Jack," a grinning Tom Weiskopf told that legendary man Nicklaus. "You'll go down as the greatest golfer ever... and today I beat you."

Weiskopf and Nicklaus turned Jackie Gleason's Inverrary Classic into a $200,000 Ohio State University alumni tournament. Tom was the best of the old Buckeyes Sunday, closing with a 68 for a 10-under-par 278 total.

His paycheck: $52,000. Nicklaus bungled a two-footer at the 16th hole and rimmed out a 15-foot putt trying for a tying birdie on the 18th, settling for a final-round 67 and 279.

Jack's consolation: $29,640. "My dad's a railroad man," said Weiskopf. "It takes him five years to make what I earned today. I'm a very lucky guy who's finally grown up a little at the age of 29."

Weiskopf, billed as "Another Jack Nicklaus" when he followed the Golden Bear out of Ohio State, became known as one of the tour's biggest spoiled brats when he hit the circuit in 1965.

That, he says, is changing. "Just when I was ready to quit, I decided to get off my tail and grow up a little," said Weiskopf. "That was just before the Philadelphia Open last August and I went out and won it."

Nicklaus, one of the game's great thinkers since boyhood, has always been aware of close friend Tom's immaturity.

"Everybody grows up in stages," he said. "Some people mature earlier than others. Tom had trouble settling down at first."

Despite all the growing up, Weiskopf still managed to jeopardize his lead in golf's richest tournament. As if in a fog, he walked through a sand trap Sunday while pacing yardage to the 17th green.

"I know you can't rake in your path," Tom said, "but Mac McLendon (his playing partner) and I agreed that I never walked in the path of my shot."

There were many confusing post-tourney explanations of applicable rules but Weiskopf was not penalized. A tour official said, however, "If Tom had hit his shot into the trap he had ranked, we'd have slapped a two-shot penalty on him."

Intrasquad Game Played By Pirates

By Associated Press

The Pittsburgh Pirates and Baltimore Orioles hardly resemble championship teams these days.

The world champion Pirates played their first intrasquad game and Don Leppert's team beat one skipped by Dave Ricketts 13-6, taking advantage of eight errors.

The Orioles, meanwhile, have other problems. Even though 20-game winner Dave McNally showed up in Florida for a workout after signing Saturday for an estimated $105,000, the list of missing Birds resembles an all-star team.

The most prominent holdout is Mike Cuellar. McNally's fellow southpaw and 20-game winner, who reportedly is holding out in Puerto Rico for $80,000 more than the Orioles have offered.

Although not due officially until Wednesday, the rest of the unsigned Orioles include infielders Brooks Robinson, Boog Powell, Dave Johnson, Bobby Grich and Jerry Da Vanon and outfielders Paul Blair, Don Buford, Merv Rettenmund, Don Baylor and Rich Coggins.

"Never in the history of baseball have so many been so reluctant to play for so much," grumbled Frank Cashen, the team's executive vice president.

The best Pirate news came when Duke Ellis, who had arm trouble late last season and didn't pitch after the World Series opener, worked two scoreless innings.

Pitchers made most of the news in other camps.

Manager Charlie Fox of San Francisco said Giant pitchers are in their best early spring condition "in my memory."

Cincinnati's Sparky Anderson termed his mound staff "25-30 per cent stronger" than in 1970, when the Reds won the National League pennant.

Anderson said he hopes to pick five starters from among Don Gullett, Gary Nolan, Wayne Simpson, Jim Merritt, Ross Grimsley, Jim McGlothlin and Jack Billingham.

"I hope it's going to be a tough decision to make and a decision that hurts someone's feelings," Anderson said. "A pitcher who isn't in the rotation has to be unhappy. He wants to pitch."

Newly acquired Rick Wise and former Cincinnati star Jim Maloney each spent five minutes throwing batting practice for St. Louis.

ABA Roundup

The Floridians play basketball at several "home" cities, but can't run away and hide from that old Kentucky jinx.

Playing in Tampa Sunday, the Floridians bowed once again to the Kentucky Colonels 135-112 in the American Basketball Association.

It was the eighth straight loss to Kentucky for the Floridians, who also play home games in Miami, Miami Beach, and St. Petersburg.

In Sunday's other ABA games, the New York Nets defeated the Pittsburgh Condors 131-123 and the Denver Rockets stopped the Carolina Cougars 113-105.

Saturday night's ABA scores were: Virginia 121, New York 119; Carolina 146, Pittsburgh 130; Indiana 115, Dallas 113 and Kentucky 123, Memphis 100.

The Colonels, led by Artis Gilmore, outscored the Floridians 35-22 in the first quarter and never stopped picking on their "cousins."

Gilmore wound up with 33 points while teammate Dan Issel scored 24 and Walt Simon, 17.

Larry Jones led the Floridians with 28 while Manny Leaks scored 18.

New York buried Pittsburgh under a team-record 49 points in the first quarter. The Nets, led by Bill Melchionni and Rick Barry, fired 71 per cent from the field to take a 76-62 advantage in the first half.

Melchionni scored 30 points while Barry had 21. Bill Paulitz and Tom Washington added 21 to the Nets' attack.

SWC Roundup

By Associated Press

It's been 21 years since the Southwest Conference has seen such basketball madness as a five-way tie this late in the season and everyone can blame or thank Rice University with its glorious 1-11 record and unflagging courage.

Rice's lone victory couldn't have come in a more improbable place—College Station, Tex., where the Texas Aggies never lose. Well, almost never.

A&M had lost only to Tulsa this season before Rice wandered into town Saturday for a televised afternoon game. The Owls didn't have a chance, so every expert from the Red River to the Gulf of Mexico thought, Knodel kept the faith.

"I kept telling you kids if they just stayed with it and kept giving an all-out effort victory just has to come," Knodel said.

The Owls slapped a tight zone defense on the Aggies who suddenly found themselves behind and trying to sink 25-footers to catch up. They never made it.

Now A&M finds itself in a tie with Texas, Southern Methodist, Texas Tech and defending champion Texas Christian with 8-4 records. Each team has two games left—one on the road and one at home.

SWC officials have decided there will be a playoff only if two teams are tied at the end of the season for the NCAA playoff berth. Should three or more teams tie they will go to the history books to determine which team was last in the playoffs.

That gives Texas Tech the inside shot because the Red Raiders haven't been in the playoffs since 1962. Texas played in 1963, SMU in 1967, Texas A&M in 1969 and TCU in 1971.

The NCAA playoffs start March 11th in Las Cruces, N. M. If two teams tie, a playoff will be held March 7th at a neutral site.

Here's what the remaining two games look like for each contending team Tuesday night and Saturday, respectively:

TEXAS—At A&M and at home against TCU.

SMU—Hosts Rice and on the road against Baylor.

TCU—Hosts Texas and on the road against Baylor.

TECH—At TCU and at home against A&M.

A&M—Hosts Texas and at Tech.

Rice's 73-69 victory over the Aggies triggered Texas' 83-81 victory over SMU. Tech's 85-85 victory over Arkansas, and TCU's 85-84 win over Baylor—all home games for the winning teams—Saturday.

"I've been saying our kids weren't losers and they went out and proved it," said Knodel. "We were ready to take it any way we could get it."

Led by senior Leroy Marion, the Owls appeared to be more fired up than the Aggies.

NBA Roundup

By Associated Press

The Baltimore Bullets have no home court advantage at their other "home."

"There's no advantage to playing here," said Baltimore Coach Gene Shue, talking about the Bullets' eight-scheduled games at the University of Maryland's Cole Field House.

The most vociferous of the 11,885 fans there Sunday were clearly rooting for New York as the Knicks edged the Bullets 97-95 in an overtime National Basketball Association game.

"It was like playing two straight games in Madison Square Garden," said Shue, referring to the home-and-home series over the weekend.

In the other NBA games, Atlanta trimmed Portland 113-110; Phoenix defeated Cleveland 127-115; Golden State stopped Houston 117-104 and Los Angeles turned back Chicago 123-118 in overtime.

Saturday night's NBA scores: Baltimore 104, New

U.S. Figure Skater Captures Gold Medal

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — Figure skater John Misha Patek of the United States snapped the Soviet Union's stranglehold on the early events of the World University Winter Games (FISU) as he captured a gold medal in the men's skating competition Sunday.

Patek, a 22-year-old premed student at Harvard was awarded six ordinals—first place—from all but one judge for a crowd pleasing free skating performance to defeat Russian Vladimir Kovalev.

The Russians took their second gold medal when Elena Zharkova and Gennady Karponosov protected an early lead and won a close decision over the Czechoslovak pair in the free-skating finals of ice dancing.

The Soviet pair, with nine ordinals, sneaked out a razor thin victory over Diana and Martin Skotnicka of Czechoslovakia, who were awarded 10 ordinals. The Czechs accumulated more performance points than the Russians buttie decisive ordinals rating, in which the judges rank the competitors, went in favor of the Russians.

Debbie Ganson and Bradley Hislop of Seattle, with 12 ordinals, were third in the dancing.

In the second game of the nine-match, round robin hockey tournament, the Canadian collegiate team bounced back from a decisive loss to the Russians and beat the U.S. team 9-4 at Plattsburgh 55 miles away.

The Soviet Union claimed its first gold medal earlier Sunday when Galina Karelna and Georgy Proskourin defeated the only other competitors, the U.S. entry, in the pairs figure skating.

The Russians were awarded first place unanimously by the five judges, outperforming Debbie Hughes and Philip Groat, both from the University of Denver in the free skating phase.

MVC Track Program Building Strength

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — A year ago the Missouri Valley Conference indoor track meet appeared to be on its last lap, but things have changed.

"This was probably the most balanced meet in many years," offered Drake coach Bob Ehrhart after his team rolled to its fifth straight title—but with plenty of pursuers.

"And I look for the meet to get stronger each year. The new blood and a group of new coaches can't help but make the conference stronger."

Some felt the 1971 meet in which only seven teams competed would be the last, but nine teams were on hand Saturday and all but one took home at least an individual championship.

"With North Texas State and New Mexico State coming in and West Texas State becoming stronger, I look for the Valley to begin to compete on the same level as other major conferences," added Ehrhart.

West Texas State's Carl Brown, who successfully defended both of his hurdles crowns, agrees that caliber of competition is improving.

"The underclassmen here are good," said Brown after he won the 50-yard highs in a record .061, and equalled the record with a six flat in the

Tips on Keeping Your Child Alive

By DAVID HENDIN

A mother brought her two-year-old son into the emergency room of a Boston hospital. The child had eaten most of a bottle of children's aspirin.

While the child was being treated, a physician asked the mother a few questions. One was, "Has this ever happened in your family before?"

The mother's surprising answer was, "Yes. It happened to one of my other children a few years ago."

"Didn't you learn anything from that experience?" the doctor asked.

The mother answered, "Yes. Now we buy aspirin with those safety locking tops."

The doctor asked how, then, her two-year-old had gotten into the aspirin.

"Well," replied the mother, "those tops are so hard to get on and off, once I get them off I leave them off."

Those tops, of course, are supposed to be hard to get off. Two separate actions are needed to remove them. Their object is to prevent toddlers from getting into the bottles.

In 1970 the National Clearinghouse for Poison Control Centers (NCPCC) received 114,228 reports of poison ingestions. The actual number of such occurrences, most not reported, is probably close to half a million.

Hundreds of children are killed yearly by accidental poisoning and thousands of others require medical treatment.

The substance youngsters are most likely to be poisoned by is aspirin and, ironically, especially children's aspirin because it tastes like candy.

The week of March 19-25 is the annual National Poison Prevention Week. Sponsored by the NCPCC, the American Pharmaceutical Association and the Council on Family Health, among others, the week is designed to call attention to the serious dangers any family with children encounters.

Actually, there shouldn't be a Poison Prevention Week. Every week should be one. Parents should be made aware of the hazards of drugs and chemicals in the home all through the year.

Sometimes poisonings occur because paint thinner or kerosene are kept in cups or soft drink bottles. Parents should know that children associate these containers with things that are good and safe to eat or drink.

Remember that some insecticides look like milk and other deadly chemicals can be mistaken for things children like. Most medicines, for example, look like candy and many are even sugar-coated and taste like it.

Most drugstores or pharmacies can supply parents with information sheets telling what to do, and who to call, in the case of accidental poisoning. These should be posted in a convenient place in the home.

Keeping in mind that prevention is the best medicine, here are a few more tips:

—Keep medicines and other chemicals in their original containers. As far as medicines go, a child-resistant cap will do no good if the medicine is not stored inside the bottle.

—Carefully replace the cap of containers after use.

—Keep your medicine cabinet safe by "updating" it every few months. Throw away all medicines that are old or no longer being used.

—Keep all medicines and dangerous chemicals not only out of reach of youngsters, but locked as well. Toddlers can climb, remember.

If your child wakes you up one morning and says, "Baby eat candy," be very sure that you know what that "candy" was.

Nixon Target: Peking-Moscow Balancing Ploy

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA)—If recent defense studies are accurate, in the period just ahead mainland Chinese nuclear power will be a real and serious threat to Russia, but not directly to the United States.

Likewise, because of the Soviet threat, Peking, while continuing to foment guerrilla war, sabotage and subversion in Southeast Asia, will be extremely reluctant to engage in major conventional war against her neighbors.

The analysts estimate China could carry out a two-front war only if her warmaking capacity and lines of communications remained free from attack, an unlikely possibility.

This analysis explains why President Nixon believes some understanding with China can be used to pressure Russia into a less-aggressive stance around the world. And why an understanding of sorts with Moscow might restrain Peking somewhat.

That the Chinese nuclear developments could pose a problem for the United States by 1976 is also clear, even though the China watchers say they have not as yet been able to confirm the initial flight testing of a Chinese ICBM.

But the astounding record of Chinese nuclear and missile development to date gives added reason for Nixon to work toward an understanding with Peking now. For Henry Kissinger, his chief adviser on foreign affairs, believes it is essential to negotiate, where possible, before an adversary is strong. In that way, Kissinger is convinced, we come out with a much better deal. He is certain, for example, that it was a serious mistake not to have reached some basic understanding with the Soviet Union during those years when we had the bomb and the Russians did not.

According to new analyses by Pentagon missile experts, the Chinese threat today covers a substantial part of the U.S.S.R. In addition, by the middle of this year Peking is expected to have a substantial number of TU-16 medium-range bombers capable of reaching targets up to 1,650 nautical miles away, carrying nuclear warheads.

By 1975, the Chinese could begin deployment of a ballistic missile with a range of 3,000 nautical miles or more, capable of striking all or most of the Soviet Union.

On the ground, the well-balanced, 150-combat-division, 2.5-million-man Chinese Army is being modernized and upgraded. The air force and navy air arm have 3,000 jet fighters and 350 light and medium jet bombers. The navy, with 40 diesel-powered attack submarines already, is developing guided missile destroyers.

By contrast with the threat to Russia, the Pentagon analysts can say they cannot state with confidence when China will have an ICBM capable of striking the continental United States. But they estimate it would be mid-1976 before the Chinese could have 10 to 20 such missiles.

Now this is a very difficult and adroit maneuver that Nixon and Kissinger are attempting—at one and the same time to get close enough to Moscow to restrain China and close enough to Peking to restrain Russia. A tilt too far in either direction could bring the whole operation to naught. But it is a political arena in which both Nixon and Kissinger feel at home.

Question Box

QUESTION: Now that President Nixon has halted the convertibility of the dollar for gold and increased the price of gold from $35 to $38 an ounce, have we solved our monetary problems?

ANSWER: The problem is not solved by any means. As Henry Hazlitt, outstanding writer on economics, said in the Jan. 21 National Review, it is only a "makeshift effort to glue the old Humpty-Dumpty International Monetary Fund system together again."

As long as nations continue to inflate their monetary supply, the monetary problems of the ordinary citizens will not be solved. People will continue to try to keep up with the governments' inflationary practices by seeking more wages, or profits or greater dividends. And, as usual they will always be behind. Only the politicians who are able to push their own salaries higher at the cost of all others and a few favored "fat cats" among labor union officials and those with tax-exempt investments will be ahead of the game.

The result of lowering the listed value of the American dollar was sold to Americans as likely to increase American exports and thus to save or increase American jobs. The actual result will be to increase the price which Americans must pay for imported goods, and the principal advantage of foreign trade is in imports, not in exports. As John Stuart Mill pointed out, the importing country gains things which it either could not produce at all or which it must have produced at a greater expense of capital and labor than the cost of the things which it exports to pay for them.

The only real solution to the monetary problems is to return to a monetary system based on something of intrinsic value, such as gold. This would require nations either to inhibit their inflationary practices or to be exposed as not interested in the well-being of their citizens.

Meantime, Hazlitt suggests what The News has proposed for many years—removing the prohibition on the right of private citizens to own, buy, sell or make contracts in gold. As the founder of Freedom Newspapers, the late R.C. Hoiles, often pointed out: "Once it was illegal to own liquor, now it is illegal to own gold." If the illogical restrictions on ownership of gold were eliminated, individuals, then could make contracts either in so many dollars or in so many ounces of gold. There is no doubt in our minds that most thinking persons would prefer gold with an intrinsic value to paper currency promises based only on the word of politicians in charge of a government.

USSR Marks Nixon Mission By Buildup on China Border

By ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON — In their own peculiar fashion, the Kremlin rulers are "signaling" President Nixon's historic visit to Red China.

They are marking the notable event by heavily reinforcing their already massive military forces on the 5,000-mile Soviet-China border.

President Nixon was informed of this menacing development before leaving Washington. It goes without saying the Chinese, too, were fully aware of it—unquestionably even earlier.

They have numerous ways and means of quickly learning about things like that; it could be a matter of life and death to them.

The Russians' reinforcing was first noted early this month when long and heavily loaded military trains tied up ordinary traffic on the trans-Siberian railroad. The special trains unloaded large numbers of troops, tanks, artillery and other combat hardware.

Estimates put the forces involved at the equivalent of several divisions plus supporting units.

Since the breakdown last summer of the protracted negotiations between the two rival Communist giants over bitter border differences, the Soviet has had between 40 and 45 divisions strategically disposed in the Far East. Supporting this huge ground force of some 800,000 are considerable air power and nuclear weapons, including long-range ballistic missiles.

While opposing Chinese forces are not as large, they are sizable—totaling more than 500,000. Chinese dispositions and operations are chiefly of a defensive nature, with extensive fortifications and entrenchments.

Reason for Russia's large-scale reinforcement of its Far Eastern military forces at this particular time is conjectural.

It could be psychological; aimed at both Washington and Peking, in the nature of a typically brazen Soviet mawing to both. There could be an even more sinister motivation involving China's fast-growing nuclear arsenal centered largely in its northern regions closest to Russia.

Pre-emptive Strike Intelligence and military authorities are recalling as highly significant that when the Sino-Russian border negotiations broke down last summer, Moscow scathingly put the blame on Peking.

The official newspaper Izvestia flatly charged Communist China had "rejected constructive proposals" and had "arbitrarily and obstructively rejected a speedy and full normalization of relations and the settlement of all frontier questions on a fair and equitable basis that met the national interests of both peoples as suggested by the Soviet Union."

In other words, Moscow was entirely in the right and Peking wholly in the wrong.

The Chinese are authoritatively understood to have tenaciously insisted there could be no accord until Russia drastically reduced its huge military forces along the border, and also acknowledged in principle that much of its Far Eastern territory was obtained by forceful and unfair means in the 19th century.

Main Chinese military concern is safeguarding its nuclear centers.

It's no secret that since 1966, when the Chinese first tested a missile armed with a 20-kiloton warhead, they have feared a Soviet pre-emptive strike at their nuclear centers. There are eight of them, as follows:

Lanchow—major nuclear development center; Chunking—university nuclear research center; Tientsin—nuclear research center; Paotow, in Inner Mongolia, —nuclear reactors for research and bomb fuel production; Shuangcheng, in Inner Mongolia, —missile launching site; Lop Nor—weapons testing site; Urunchi—uranium mines and processing mills; Shanghai—nuclear research center.

Red China has had operational intermediate range ballistic missiles since 1969—with a range of 600 to 800 miles. About 20 of these have been deployed in Shensi province, from which they could hit targets in Russia's Pacific maritime provinces, Japan, South Korea and Taiwan.

Peking is also developing an intercontinental ballistic missile (ICBM) with a 2,500 to 3,500-mile range. U.S. experts anticipate this weapon will be operational by 1974-75.

With that start, it will be only a matter of a relative short time before the Chinese perfect an ICBM with a 5,000 to 6,000-mile range—armed with a three-megaton warhead. Three megatons are equivalent to an explosive force of 3 million tons of TNT.

More Red Demonstrating The leftists are busily organizing more anti-war forums.

Their latest is the "national Student Anti-War Conference" taking place in New York City this weekend. It was planned and set in motion at an unpublished meeting of the radical Student Mobilization Committee in Washington early this month.

Around 100 Communists and other leftist leaders attended. Prominent among them was Fred Lovgren, veteran Trotskyite. Extensively discussed was a possible endorsement for President of Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., at this weekend's New York NSA pow-wow.

Among the speakers listed for this affair are Father Daniel Berrigan, militant priest recently released from Federal penitentiary; MIT Professor Noam Chomsky, pacifist activist, and Yale biology Prof. Arthur Galston, another New Leftist.

The only method by which people can be supported is out of the effort of those who are earning their own way. We must not create a deterrent to hard work.

Cards

Rules of the Game:

NO OBLIGATION OR PURCHASE NECESSARY: There is no obligation or purchase necessary. A copy of the paper is available for playing the game at the office of this newspaper - also at the public library - also a Bingo card and/or copies of The Pampa Daily News containing the Bingo numbers may be obtained by mailing your request to this newspaper (please print your name and address clearly.). You may play as many cards as you wish - they are free. Get additional cards - one at a time - each day of the week - from the merchants listed below (ADULTS ONLY).

DIFFERENT COLORED CARDS EACH WEEK: The color of the cards changes each week. To be a winner, you must play Bingo cards of the correct color for that week. Mutilated or altered cards will not be honored. ALL 24 NUMBERS on a card must be matched to win.

CHANCE DETERMINES NUMBERS: Bingo numbers for each week's game are drawn strictly at random at the office of this newspaper. Some duplication of Bingo numbers may appear in the merchants' ads - or elsewhere in the paper. This duplication does not affect the game or the total numbers drawn. All numbers for each week's game will appear someplace in the sponsoring merchants' ads - and possibly elsewhere in the paper. Employees of this newspaper and members of their families are not eligible to win any of the prizes. Newspaper Bingo is a program copy-righted and registered by Marketing-Research Associates, Minneapolis, Minnesota.

PICK UP FREE BINGO CARDS: Each week (adults only, please), pick up your Free Bingo Cards from the sponsoring merchants listed below. Rules of the game allow the merchants to give you only one card on each store visit. You may, however, make as many visits as you wish each day of the week. THE MORE CARDS YOU PLAY-THE BETTER YOUR CHANCES ARE TO WIN.

HOW TO PLAY: Check the ads in EACH DAY'S issue of The Pampa Daily News. The ads of the merchants listed below will contain one or more "Newspaper Bingo" numbers in the "Bingo Bug" symbol (shown above). Occasionally, numbers in the "Bingo Bug" symbol may be found elsewhere in the paper. Check the classified ad section for additional numbers. IF YOU CAN MATCH (JUST CIRCLE OR "X" THE MATCHING NUMBERS) ALL 24 NUMBERS ON ONE OF YOUR BINGO CARDS WITH THE TOTAL OF THE NUMBERS PUBLISHED IN ALL THE ISSUES OF The Pampa Daily News EACH WEEK-YOU HAVE A "BINGO"-AND YOU ARE A WINNER!!!

AT LEAST $50.00 WEEKLY!! Winners will share a weekly prize of $50.00 (in "Bingo Bucks"-they spend the same as cash with any of the sponsoring merchants listed below). If there is only one winner, he wins all of the $50.00. If there is more than one winner, all winners will share the $50.00 equally. If there are no winners any week, the $50.00 weekly prize will be added to the following week's prize fund.

CHECK EACH ISSUE OF THE PAPER: A new game will start each Sunday and be completed the following Friday. Be sure to check each day's issue of The Pampa Daily News because some of the numbers may appear in each day's issue. All numbers needed to complete each week's game will have appeared by each Friday's issue. A new set of Bingo numbers will be published for each week's game. A new color of Bingo cards will be available each week at the sponsoring merchants' stores. To be eligible to win, you must play Bingo cards of the correct color for that week's game. The color of the cards for each week's game will be announced each week on this page.

IF YOU ARE A WINNER: If you have a winning Bingo card, on which ALL 24 NUMBERS have been matched with the total of the numbers published during the week in The Pampa Daily News print your name, address, phone number, and the name of the store where you got your winning card, on the back of your card and mail to: The Pampa Daily News, P. O. Box 2198 PAMPA, Texas 79065 (the envelope containing your card must be received by 5:00 PM Monday of the following week)-or bring your card to the office of this newspaper at 403 W. Atchison Pampa Texas by 5:00 PM Monday of the following week.
