Expenditures in Millions of Dollars

SPACE'S BUDGET

Expenditures for space research in President Eisenhower's 77-billion-dollar budget are compared to previous years in this Newschart. The 830-million-dollar figure does not include military missiles which will consume a large share of the nearly 41 billion dollars requested for defense.

Congress Sent $77 Billion Budget From Ike; No Cuts

$800 Million Increase Set For Missiles

By CHARLES CORDDRY
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Eisenhower charted an $800-million-dollar increase in missile spending today and disclosed that the first Atlas intercontinental missile will be in combat units by summer.

His record-peace-time defense budget also unfolded plans for expanding air-atomic power with new supersonic and missile-launching bombers to meet any major threat to our national security.

The military spending blueprint sent to Congress called for $40,945,000,000, to run the armed forces in the fiscal year starting July 1.

By putting the squeeze on other elements of military strength, the President was able to expand missile, bomber and space research outlays while holding the total increase over this year's budget to 155 million dollars.

As if in challenge to skeptical Democratic congressman who have contended the bid-on defense spending is too low, Eisenhower said:

"This budget assures that essential defense needs are met. He said his aim is a well-rounded force under unified direction and properly equipped, ready for any kind of military emergency.

The military forces of fiscal 1960 will comprise 2,520,000 men with an air armada of more than 29,000 planes, a fleet of 864 ships, 17 Army and Marine divisions and growing missile units for both, defense and offense.

For the first time since the Korean War ended, Eisenhower did not order any substantial cuts in manpower. He told the Air Force to trim by a "moderate" 5,000, but added that with the Communists "constantly probing free world positions" no further cuts were warranted.

Missiles got dominant emphasis. Their procurement was allotted $3,825,000,000, up $423,000,000, and were given a lion's share of the $364,000,000 increase for weapons research, development and testing.

TOP O' TEXAS MAY BE IN FOR MORE SNOW

United Press International

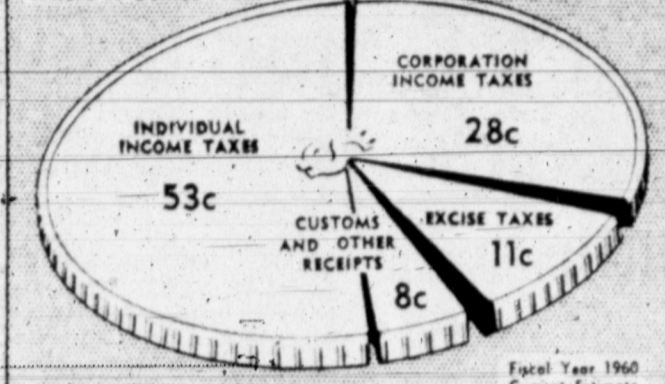

A weakening cold front pushed slowly through Texas from the north today, bringing an end to springtime temperatures and promising the possibility of some light snow in the northwest sections.

The front was expected to drop temperatures sharply after nightfall, but its passage during the day wasn't expected to create much of a stir anywhere in the state.

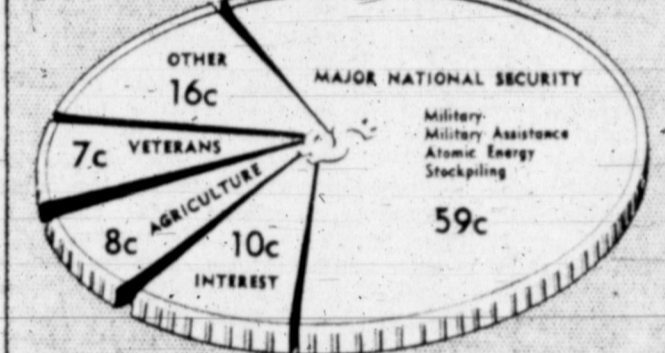

Forecasters said freezing temperatures by daybreak Tuesday might extend as far south as a Monday morning.

THE BUDGET DOLLAR

Where It Comes From—

Where It Will Go—

THE NEW BUDGET

Breakdown of next year's budget dollar is shown in this Newschart. More than half of the expenses in President Eisenhower's 77-billion-dollar budget will be financed through personal income taxes. Major national security expenditures will account for 59 cents of every dollar spent. The budget is for the fiscal year beginning July 1, and is down $3,900,000,000 from estimates of the outlay for this current year.

REDS DESIRE MORE TRADE

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan today discussed Russia's protracted desire for more trade with the United States with a top American economic official.

Mikoyan met with C. Douglas Dillon, undersecretary of state for economic affairs. Later, he was to carry his trade campaign one step further by conferring with Commerce Secretary Lewis L. Strauss following an address to the National Press Club.

CHILDREN MADE 'HUMAN TORCHES'

United Press International

BARTOW, Fla. (UPI)—A 21-year-old woman was charged today with pouring gasoline on her two tiny children and setting them on fire because they were "getting on my nerves" and interfering with her love life.

The sobbing woman told Sheriff Hagan Parrish the children were ruining her romance with a 6-foot, 5-inch pipe worker, William Ernest Cabo, 40, of Silverville, Tenn. The two had been living together for the past five weeks.

Mrs. Hamill said she was separated from her husband, Grover Hamill, now living in Emmet, Idaho. She gave her home address as Iola, Kansas.

Mrs. Hamill said she and Cabo decided last Saturday they couldn't stand the children any longer and would return them to their father in Idaho.

"They were getting on our nerves," she said.

But Sunday, she said, she felt she could stand them no longer. She said she poured two gallons of gasoline over the children, put them in the bathroom and threw a match on them. Then she locked the door.

Postal Rate Increase, Plus Hike In Gas Tax Asked

By TOM NELSON
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Eisenhower today sent Congress a precariously balanced budget of $77,030,000,000 demanding higher federal gasoline taxes and a new hike in postal rates.

He requested an increase in gasoline taxes from 3 cents to 4 1/2 cents a gallon and a 350 million dollar boost in postal charges, apparently by instituting a five-cent stamp for some letters.

These proposals combined with higher taxes on aviation fuel and some other tax revisions, would bring in $1,356,000,000 of new revenue in fiscal year 1959, which starts this July.

No tax cuts were proposed. On the contrary, there was a mild threat of more general tax increases, if the President's goal of achieving a 70 million dollar surplus in the coming year should fade and the government again goes into the red. The current year's "recession-induced" deficit was estimated at $12,900,000,000.

The Democrats accused Eisenhower of submitting a "political budget" which has little chance of being balanced. Republicans stood solidly behind the President's proposals.

At 9:15 a. m. a car and semi-trailer scraped two miles west of Pampa on the Berger highway. Driver of the car, a 1958 station wagon, was Clifton Smith, 25, of Tell. The semi-trailer was Roy Clyde Foster, 37, 904 N. Zimmerman. Damages totaled $75.

The Smith car was pulling a horse trailer. Both horse and trailer escaped damages.

A 1954 sedan driven by Kenneth Kidwell, 25, 1200 W. Crawford, rammed a telephone pole Saturday afternoon three miles west of Pampa.

Patrolman Logan said Kidwell apparently dozed at the wheel, ran off the road and into a ditch. Kidwell escaped injury. Damages to his car were set at $450.

Early Saturday night a pickup and a sedan bumped one-half mile east of Pampa on the Miami highway. The drivers were William Tompkins, 29, of Rt. 2, and Joe Shelton, 25, of Mobeetie. Tompkins was tagged for making an improper U-turn. Damages totaled $215.

HEAT WAVE CLAIMS SCORES OF LIVES

MELBOURNE, Australia (UPI)—A searing heat wave took scores of lives throughout Australia this weekend, including nine babies.

Queen Victoria Hospital issued urgent appeals for fans in an attempt to save many other babies who were running dangerous temperatures.

Sydney reports said 20 persons were drowned when city residents at the beach tried to peck through the 107-degree temperature there. Freak accidents took a heavy toll in other parts of Australia, and a visitor was devoured by a shark off Tasmania.

Brush fires raged unchecked along the South Australia-Victoria border, and warnings were issued in other places. Thousands of head of cattle in the rich grazing areas were destroyed in the path of the flames.

The brush fire claimed the life of John William Smith in Mount Schank, South Australia. At Marydown station, 1,200 miles north of Brisbane, police found the sun-roasted body of a cattle driver who became lost in the arid country.

At Terrigal, 60 miles north of Sydney, Warren Stubbs was injured seriously when an enraged albatross attacked him in the water. Stubbs had thrown seaweed down the bird which tried to peck and claw his face and eyes.

At Taree, 106 miles northwest of Sydney, rabbit hunter Cecil Peters used his gun to blast a trail, and a visitor was devoured by a shark off Tasmania.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Eisenhower today envisioned a world-girdling network of weather stations in space.

He disclosed long-range plans for such a network in a message to Congress budgeting billions for space exploration, atomic arms and power, and scientific research and development in many fields.

In all three categories, he said, the government proposes to set new spending records during the fiscal year starting July 1.

The President told Congress, however, that he is budgeting nothing for nuclear weapons testing in fiscal 1960 "on the assumption" that a test ban agreement will be reached in the East-West negotiations now going on in Geneva.

But he said the atomic proving grounds in Nevada and the Pacific will be maintained on a standby basis for resumption of weapons tests if the Geneva talks fail. He added that this country

TO HAVANA FOR 'TRUTH'

Castro Invites Solons

By FRANCIS L. MCCARTHY
United Press International

HAVANA (UPI)—Fidel Castro today invited his foremost critics in the U.S. Congress to fly to Havana Wednesday with 350 foreign newsmen in "operation truth" to see for themselves the inside story of revolutionary justice.

Those invited included chairmen of key committees in the House and Senate, and the more vocal critics who have called for a U.N. investigation of mass killings, a trade and tourist embargo and a sharp cut in sugar import quotas to halt the executions.

They were Sens. John Sparkman (D-Ala.) who asked the United States to use its "very best offices" to halt the executions; Theodore Green (D-R.I.) chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee; Wayne Morse (D-Ore.) chairman of the Latin American subcommittee; Mike Mansfield (D-Wyo.) assistant Democratic leader in the Senate; and Homer Capehart (R-Ind.).

Hopes To Still Criticism
The representatives invited were Charles O. Porter (D-Ore.); Emanuel Celler (D-N.Y.) who asked a U.N. investigation; Adam Clayton Powell (D-N.Y.); Victor L. Anfuso (D-N.Y.) who called for a sugar import curb; and Wayne L. Hays (D-Ohio), chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Latin American subcommittee, who called for a trade and tourist embargo.

Castro issued the invitation in hopes of stilling growing criticism in the United States against the trial and execution of more than 200 "war criminals" accused of murders and other crimes while they were serving ex-President Fulgencio Batista.

Reliable sources said meanwhile Castro would fly to Caracas on Friday for a two-day visit as guest of the Venezuelan newsmen he has invited here and to thank the Venezuelan people for their contribution to the Cuban revolution.

Castro was getting increasing support at home for his campaign against the Batistianos whom the revolutionary government has accused of murdering 20,000 men, women and children during the six-year Batista regime.

Bishop Approves Executions
Mgr. Alfredo Muller, auxiliary bishop of Havana who is the No. 2 Roman Catholic cleric in Cuba, said he and the church were usually opposed to capital punishment but in the case of the current rebellion he said he had no objection to the execution of the rebels.

CONQUERING CASTROS

At left the profile of Cuban leader Fidel Castro shows off his luxuriant beard, a rebel trademark. Son Fidel Jr. has been joining in the tumultuous hero's welcome being accorded his father after recent victory over Batista forces. Castro's sister, Emma, helped her brother's plight by raising funds in Mexico for the Rebel cause. Today, Castro has invited U. S. Congressmen to come to Havana for "operation truth."

Paint Bright Pictures

Both Eisenhower and Secretary Anderson painted bright pictures of the economic outlook. "We are now entering a period of national prosperity and high employment," the President said.

Budget Director Maurice H. Stans told newsmen the administration deliberately had down the introduction of new programs.

Table with 2 columns: Year (1960, 1959) and various financial metrics (Receipts, Spending, Surplus, Deficit).

Eisenhower said that whether he can keep the budget balanced so delicately will hinge on Congress.

Defense Gets Most By far the biggest chunk of the new budget was $40,945,000,000 for defense.

Steps On Toes Placing heavy emphasis on halting or tapering off what some regard as federal handouts, Eisenhower stepped on many toes.

Proposing to slash the farm budget from an estimated $7,349,000,000 this year to $6,450,000,000 and announcing he will try to revamp the "largely outmoded" price support system.

Refusing to okay any new low-rent public housing projects; flood control, navigation and irrigation programs, or hospitals for war veterans.

Cutting new spending for local hospital grants, health research facilities and waste treatment works.

And huge as it was, his military budget was only 145 million dollars more than expected spending this year, a fact sure to provoke outcries from congressmen.

Wants Private Financing The President said he would ask for legislation to "encourage" more private financing of veterans housing, rural electrification and telephone projects.

Eisenhower said in his 78-page message that his austerity-prosperity budget was neither "extravagant" nor "unduly limiting."

Democratic critics also were expected to take issue with Eisenhower's revenue and expenditure estimates for the coming year.

They pointed to the fact that a year ago the President foresaw a 50-million-dollar surplus for this year, but that the latest estimate for this year is for a deficit almost 26 times that amount.

One reason the 1960 budget is well below this year's spending is that the President now intends to spend some extra money between now and June 30 when the current fiscal year ends.

Besides the big reduction in farm spending, another sizable cut came in the administration's housing and home finance budget.

Budget Director Maurice H. Stans told newsmen the administration deliberately had down the introduction of new programs.

Asks Breathing Spell In slamming the brakes on new public works programs the President said that such projects were jacked up last year partly to combat the recession and that spending for civil public works next year will be at the highest level ever.

There were few spots in the 1,027-page budget where Eisenhower proposed sizable increases in spending.

Even though he expects the debt to be at 285 billion dollars at the end of the next fiscal year, just as at the start, the President said interest costs will climb from $7,500,000,000 this year to 8 billion dollars next, because it costs more to borrow money.

Susan Hayward Sure To Be Nominated For Fifth Oscar

By VERNON SCOTT HOLLYWOOD (UPI) -- Susan Hayward is a cinch to join the charmed circle of movie queens who have been nominated five times or more for an Oscar when 1958's nominees are announced early next month.

A four-time loser, the red-haired Susan is keeping her fingers crossed for fear of becoming another Irene Dunne.

Miss Dunne holds the distinction of being the only five-time nominee who has drawn a blank in every attempt.

Champion nominee actress is Bette Davis, who went into the finals nine times, winning twice. Katherine Hepburn is next with seven nominations, followed by Greer Garson and Norma Shearer with six each.

Deadlocked at five nominations each are Ingrid Bergman, Olivia DeHavilland, Jennifer Jones and Miss Dunne. All but Miss Dunne won their Oscars.

"I've been in the running before," she frowned prettily, "but I must say no one ever becomes accustomed to losing. The tension is the same every time nomination ballots are mailed out."

"However, I'm fatalistic about awards. If you're supposed to win, you will. If not, you won't."

Susan joined the Oscar derby back in 1947 for her performance in "Smashup," followed by "My Foolish Heart" (1950), "With a Song in My Heart" (1952), and "I'll Cry Tomorrow" (1957).

"I never compare my performances," she answered, "and from now on I've decided not to work at winning an award. Once I tried to live."

Democrats Told To Produce Housing Measure Quickly

By EDWARD COWAN United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate and House Democratic leadership has passed the word to Democrats to produce a housing measure as quickly as possible.

If the legislation doesn't get bogged down in lengthy hearings or by intra-party differences, housing may turn out to be the battleground for the first major test of strength with the administration.

The betting in many offices on Capitol Hill is that President Eisenhower will veto the bill on grounds it is too extravagant.

Behind this expectation are: The heavy Democratic majority in Congress, a majority which is liberal bent when it comes to issues such as housing.

The President's determination, already announced and to be detailed in the new budget Monday, to hold government spending to an irreducible minimum.

Would Fight Veto If the bill is vetoed, Senate majority leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) and House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.) will energetically marshal their forces in an attempt to muster the two-thirds vote necessary to override the veto.

Confident of winning, the leadership may welcome such a trial sooner rather than later.

How soon it can be brought about remains to be seen. Johnson spoke of letting a housing measure to the White House by Feb. 1, but congressional aides believe he was too optimistic.

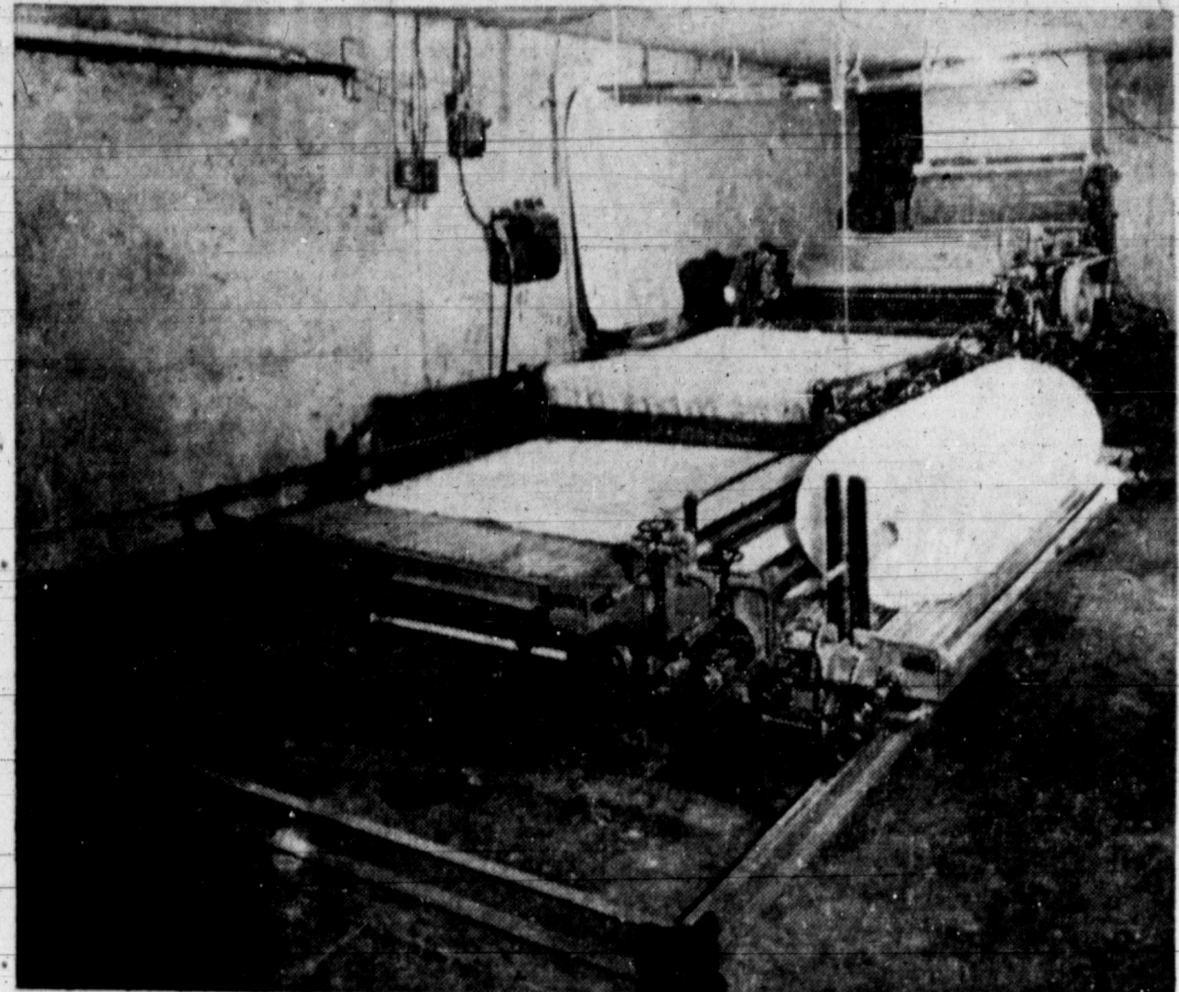

Although hearings were held on last year's bill, a measure that died in the House and another reason for this year's haste, it is doubted that the lawmakers could bring through a bill, even one substantially unchanged from last year's, without giving the various interest groups a chance to be heard.

Early Action Unlikely Mainly because of the press of the business of getting organized and into the legislative groove, House members are not expected to be ready to give full consideration to a housing bill, or to hold hearings, before the end of this month.

As for the Senate, although Sen. John Sparkman (D-Ala.), chairman of the housing subcommittee, has indicated a feeling that only brief hearings would be necessary, there have been rumblings from other subcommittee members. They, it is understood, think the bill Sparkman introduced last week is too skimpy in some respects. Full hearings would help them develop a case for more ample legislation.

The bill, when it comes, will be broad. It will include authority or funds for mortgage insurance, college housing loans, low-rent public housing, slum clearance, if home loans, urban planning and possibly, federal mortgage support programs.

WANT A MATTRESS?

This felting machine is one feature of Acme Mattress Company's Pampa plant at 817 W. Foster. Acme will make you an oversized mattress or it will renovate your old mattress so that it will sleep like new.

Acme Works Wonders With Old Mattresses

Acme Mattress Company, 817 W. Foster, is a unique place that's in business to serve you. You can get what ever you want at Acme, whether it's a reconditioned mattress or a custom job.

In one day Acme can work wonders with your old mattress. You can have your lumpy cotton mattress reconditioned for as little as $10.50 and for only $19.50 you can have it built into an innerspring. You can also save $20 when you have your old mattress converted to an orthopedic.

By adding cotton and a new covering, Acme gives you an orthopedic mattress in which you'll never feel the springs.

On original condition or rebuilt, Acme has all the facilities. This not only saves you money but guarantees you continue quality, as the cotton in your old mattress is very often of a tape-edge and sewing machine quality.

Acme's main selling point is that, with its factory machines, it can give you a new mattress at less than it will cost to buy a new one. In another operation, Acme will make you a mattress to fit your own specifications.

You can also get the latest patterns in mattress covering plus the latest in a long line of mattresses from 120 through 312 coil. Other good buys are roll away beds, bed springs and Hollywood sets.

Located in Pampa's low rent district, Acme passes its savings along to you in increased quality.

That telephone number is MO-6621. Its the number you call when you want efficiency, quality and speed at low cost.

Faint Traces Of Radioactivity Found In Irrigated Vegetables

NEW YORK (UPI)—The simple A-B-C's of radioactive contamination have been spelled out at the huge government-owned atomic plants at Hanford, Wash. Science thinks it is vital for everyone to know those A-B-C's in this atomic age, so here they are.

The Hanford atomic reactors are cooled by water taken from the Columbia River which is then returned to the river. Like all river water, it contains traces of minerals. One of them is zinc.

When the water goes into the plant, the zinc is stable, inert and harmless. But when the water rejoins the river, the zinc in it is not the same zinc. It has been robbed of its stability. It is no longer inert. It is radioactive, giving off tiny waves from the stirring of its liberated atoms. This keeps up for a considerable time, as you will see.

Scientists Check Trail Thirty miles below the plant, water is taken from the river and distributed over a considerable area to irrigate fields and pastures. In the fields are grown peas, tomatoes, ukra, string beans, corn and grapes. In the pastures, cattle graze.

People eat the vegetables and consume the milk and flesh of the cattle. R. W. Perkins and J. M. Nielsen of the Hanford atomic laboratories' sleuthed along this trail from beginning to end, that is, from river water to people using extremely sensitive devices and techniques for detecting radioactive zinc no matter where it was.

They found it in the river water as it left the plant. They found it in the irrigation ditches, in all the vegetables as they grew in the irrigated fields, in the grass of the pastures where the cattle ate, in the milk and flesh of the cattle, and finally in the people who ate all these things.

In reporting this sleuthing to the American Association for the Advancement of Science, Perkins and Nielsen emphasized that the amounts of radioactive zinc which they found were truly faint traces in all cases.

Draw-Up-Tables Experts have drawn up tables of "permissible limits" on the amount of radioactive substances which people and animals can take in their food and drink without being harmed. The amounts Perkins and Nielsen found were tiny fractions of the permissible limit for radioactive zinc.

The Hanford atomic plant is operated for the government by the General Electric Company, which over the years has taken elaborate precautions and conducts constant testing to make sure it produces no hazards to the surrounding countryside and the users of Columbia River water, including the fish therein.

But scientists were impressed with the simplicity of the demonstration of how first a trace mineral, then vegetables, animals, and finally people become radioactive in an inevitable chain. This is how it works, for your future guidance as the atomic age develops more and more, touching more and more people.

The silverfish is neither a fish nor does it live in water. It is a small wingless insect with a fish-like bristle tail.

Panhandle Outdoor Life

By STARKEY WHITEHORN

Now that hunting is over for the fall and winter it might be wise to take some steps toward improving fishing conditions for the spring, summer and fall of 1959. In my opinion there is no better way to start than to write the Texas Game and Fish Commission, Austin, Texas, and request Bulletin No. 24, which is entitled, "Utilizing Stock Tanks and Farm Ponds for Fish."

The bulletin was edited by Marion Toole, Chief Aquatic Biologist of the Game and Fish Commission. The valuable magazine answers almost any question that any fish pond owner would wish to inquire about. Together with a world of other information that lends toward producing more fish from a given amount of water.

Mr. Toole has this to say in the introduction of Bulletin No. 24:

"The modern trend among ranchers and farmers is to utilize all possible resources on their farms or ranches to better their living conditions. It is for this reason that they are daily discovering that wildlife can be an extremely important item.

"Nevertheless, it is still true that, although nearly all farms and ranches have tanks on them that were built with only one purpose in mind, namely a method of water storage for watering their livestock, many owners have been overlooking the possibility of producing fish in these ponds, thereby making them serve a double purpose. Those who have had these ponds stocked with fish have found that they afford additional pleasures and a new dish for their tables without a great deal of effort or extra expenditure.

Small Ponds, Big Fish

"Through proper management some farm ponds that are only an acre in size have produced three or four hundred pounds of fish annually. Other pond owners have not enjoyed such bountiful yields. They thought that by adding more and more fish their fish production would show a marked increase, but, peculiarly, that practice obtained results contrary to those desired, for their production of legal, sizable fish went even lower.

"What then were they doing wrong? Why could they not make their ponds produce like those yielding the three or four hundred pounds of fish per acre? The whole difference lies in two words—proper management.

"As a result, numerous requests are constantly reaching the Game and Fish Commission for information relative to fish management problems, and it is the intent of this bulletin to attempt to answer some of the main problems constantly being asked."

It is a popular expression among some ranch people, "You can't starve a profit out of a cow." The same might be applied to other species of animals as well, whether hogs, sheep, wild turkeys or fish.

Fish Feeding Pays Off

The cattle on the 8666 Ranch are fed four pounds of cottonseed cake per day. On some ranches the ration is two pounds per day (for fall and winter feeding) while on others it is two pounds every other day for the cattle. If you ever notice the condition of Herefords you will observe a vast amount of difference in this part of Texas.

Pounds of beef per acre at a certain cost is the objective of the rancher. Pounds of fish per acre of water should be the objective of the fish pond manager. The profession of raising fish is just as much an art as is cattle raising. If we leave all up to nature on the managing of fish we would come out about the same as we would if we applied the same methods to a cow ranch.

In this particular part of the state it would be sound to feed catfish, either channel or bullhead, during the winter. A few hundred pounds of cottonseed cake, maize, wheat or any other grain would greatly benefit the fisherman. Together with commercial fertilizer into the water in the warm months.

One hundred bullhead catfish in a surface acre of water could easily grow to three-pounders if the feed was plentiful. A hundred channel cat could easily grow to ten-pounders by the same token. One-half ton of channel cat from one surface acre of water would be quite a load of fish. Managing fish is simple enough that anyone could apply recommended practices with ease.

BEARS COULD MOVE TO SWC RUNNERUP SPOT

By ED FITE
United Press International

The brash young Bears of Baylor, flaunting the experts' dismal predictions for them, get a chance to move into undisputed second place tonight in the only Southwest Conference title game ticketed for the usual two week back-to-the-books lull.

Coach Bill Henderson's Bears, combining a stingy defense with some of the sharpest outside firing seen around the circuit in recent years, are in a three-way deadlock with the Texas Aggies and Texas Tech Red Raiders for the runner-up spot one game behind Texas Christian.

Tonight, they play host to a Texas team that hit a season low in productivity last week when the Longhorns managed only 29 points in bowing to the Aggies 73-29.

If the Bears win, they'll own a 4-2 league record, one-half game behind pace-setting TCU and the same distance ahead of Tech and the Aggies, who are at 3-2, and 1-2 games ahead of defending co-champs Arkansas and Southern Methodist, who stand at 2-2.

Should Be Easy

On the basis of recent play, the game should be a breeze for the home club, Baylor whipped SMU by 17 points, 70-53, on the road last week and nipped Rice 46-45 at Waco, while Texas also lost to Tech 64-47.

Bob Turner, who bombarded the SMU nets for 27 points, has been carrying the offensive load for the Bears, but the rugged man-for-man defense spearheaded by Gene McCarley has been a tremendous factor in the Bears' resurgence.

Turner is tied with Tech's Leon Hill for scoring honors since conference play began with 81 points—or a 17.4-point average, while the Bears as a unit have allowed only 57.4 points per game, second only to the 56-point defense sported by the Aggies.

The Baylor-Texas game will be the last league tilt until second semester play gets under way Jan. 31, although there will be three non-conference tilts on the

Wall Takes Crosby Golf Tournament

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UPI)—Art Wall well knows there are more ways to win (or lose) a golf tournament than meets the eye.

Wall, the top money-winner of 1959, backed into first place in the $50,000 Bing Crosby national pro-amateur golf tournament Sunday by bogeying the last three holes and still winning top money of $4,000.

Two weeks ago in Los Angeles, where top money was $5,300, he finished second because Ken Venturi came from eight strokes off the pace to beat Art's one-over-par 73.

In the Crosby event, the 35-year-old Wall came close to seeing a duplication of that feat as he

THREE NEW MANAGERS GO SOUTH WITH HOPE

NEW YORK (UPI)—When the National League's three newest managers head south a few weeks hence, they'll probably be drawing some hope from the 1958 achievements of long-shot Danny Murtaugh.

The trio of pilot replacements at the helms of long-shot clubs are:

Eddie Sawyer with the last-place Philadelphia Phillies, whose chief need is pitching.

Solly Hemus with the fifth-place St. Louis Cardinals, whose chief need is hurlers.

Mayo Smith with the fourth-place Cincinnati Redlegs, whose chief need is moundmen.

Recall Murtaugh Remark

Each of them doubtlessly recalls that when Danny Murtaugh last year started his first full season at the helm of the Pittsburgh Pirates, tied for seventh place, they also craved pitching strength.

Danny said, at the time that if he could just get a couple more hillmen, he was sure the Pirates would perk up. That remark caused sympathetic smiles among most of the experts. But Danny came up with Curt Raydon and George Witt—two of the classiest young pitchers to enter the league in a decade—and the club really

Stengel Admits Yanks Are Tough

By CASEY STENDEL
Manager, New York Yankees
Written for UPI

GLENDAL, Calif. (UPI)—The Yankees were a real good ball club when we closed the season and we're going into spring training with the team that won the world's championship.

If the team reports in good condition, I'd say we should get off to a good start. I feel a little more optimistic now than I did during August and September.

At that time I wouldn't have called our team one that rated 10-0 in the championship.

We were playing about 500 baseball and that's not good enough. But the way they came through in the World Series showed that our men still had the ability and those are the men who will form the backbone of our 1959 team.

Everybody keeps asking me where I'm going to play Elston Howard. Let them wait until we go into action to find out. But you can be sure he'll be playing after the good year he had last season.

And that Hank Bauer—he had a big season. People talk about Mickey Mantle but they forget he led the league in homers. And I'm not selling Norm Siebern short. He's a good boy too.

Our infield should be in fairly good shape with the likes of Gil McDougald, Bill Skowron, Tony Kubek, Andy Carey, Jerry Lumpe and some others.

Everybody should be stronger this year. Detroit should be helped by the addition of Don Mossi and Ray Narleski while Billy Martin will boost Cleveland's chances. And don't forget those Red Sox. By adding Vic Wertz to such guys like Ted Williams, Jackie Jensen and Frank Malzone they helped themselves. All they need is a little pitching improvement and we'll all have our troubles with them.

Golden Gloves Boxer Killed

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI)—Harris County pathologist Dr. Joseph J. Kimczyk said today it may be several days before the cause of the death of a Golden Gloves boxer is definitely learned.

The boxer was Lynn Davis, 22, year-old stringbean welterweight who died Saturday night, some 30 minutes after suffering a technical knockout at the hands of a club teammate, Billy Strother, 23.

Referee Ernie Taylor stopped the fight at 1:52 of the second round of the match, which determined the welterweight championship of Houston and who would represent the city in the state finals at Fort Worth.

Lakers File Protest In Baylor Case

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI)—Owner Bob Short of the Minneapolis Lakers said he will file an official protest today demanding that last Friday night's game with the Cincinnati Royals be replayed because of a segregation incident involving rookie Negro star Elgin Baylor.

Cincinnati won the game, 95-91, at Charleston, W. Va., when Baylor refused to play after he and two other Negro Minneapolis teammates—Ed Fleming and Bob Ellis—were denied admittance to a Charleston hotel.

Short said the Lakers never would have gone to Charleston had they known such an incident would occur. The game originally had been scheduled for Cincinnati but was moved to Charleston in the hope of attracting a larger crowd.

Short pointed out that the Lakers had been assured beforehand that accommodations were arranged for the entire team. He said the fact that such full accommodations were not available constituted a breach in the Lakers' agreement with the Royals and thus necessitated the game be replayed at Cincinnati.

St. John's Raises Prestige Of New York City Basketball

United Press International

St. John's of New York, responding once again to the magic touch of old Celtic Joe Lapchick, has raised New York City basketball prestige to its highest level since the college scandals of 1952, since the college scandals of 1952.

A smashing 97-72 victory over St. Joseph's at Philadelphia Saturday night wiped out all doubts of St. John's right to national ranking and established the Redmen as the strongest independent team in the country. They are almost certain to move up from their No. 10 ranking of last week and may soon be challenging Kentucky, North Carolina State and Kansas State for No. 1 honors.

St. John's victory was easily the most significant of a Saturday night program on which six of the seven teams rated among the top 10 won. The lone loser was ninth-ranked Northwestern, which lost to Ohio State, 88-72, in a typical Big Ten conference upset.

Kentucky, the nation's first-ranked team, beat Tennessee, 79-58, second-ranked North Carolina State topped Wake Forest, 64-59, third-ranked Kansas State defeated Missouri, 75-60, fifth-ranked Cincinnati whipped Drake, 97-60, and seventh-ranked Auburn shaded Alabama, 57-55, in other games involving the top 40.

Lakers File Protest In Baylor Case

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI)—Owner Bob Short of the Minneapolis Lakers said he will file an official protest today demanding that last Friday night's game with the Cincinnati Royals be replayed because of a segregation incident involving rookie Negro star Elgin Baylor.

Cincinnati won the game, 95-91, at Charleston, W. Va., when Baylor refused to play after he and two other Negro Minneapolis teammates—Ed Fleming and Bob Ellis—were denied admittance to a Charleston hotel.

Short said the Lakers never would have gone to Charleston had they known such an incident would occur. The game originally had been scheduled for Cincinnati but was moved to Charleston in the hope of attracting a larger crowd.

Short pointed out that the Lakers had been assured beforehand that accommodations were arranged for the entire team. He said the fact that such full accommodations were not available constituted a breach in the Lakers' agreement with the Royals and thus necessitated the game be replayed at Cincinnati.

Pampa Holds First Place By Full Game

The Harvesters continue to hold the undisputed lead in the District 3-4A basketball race, but they are scheduled to meet two of their top challengers this week.

Pampa hosts Palo Duro, tied for fourth a game and a half out of first, there Tuesday. Plainview, tied for second a game behind the Harvesters, will be here Friday.

The major change in district standings last was a shuffle involving Amarillo, Palo Duro, Borger, and Plainview. Plainview and Borger, who had been tied for fourth, moved into a tie for second, by winning two games each and improving their records to 3-1.

Amarillo and Palo Duro, previously tied for second, dropped to a tie for fourth, as each won a game and lost one.

Lubbock, Monterey, and Tascosa all lost two contests last week to drop further in the standings.

DISTRICT 3-4A (District Standings)

Team	W	L	Pts.	Pp.
Pampa	4	0	270	203
Plainview	3	1	222	188
Borger	3	1	239	227
Amarillo	3	2	259	260
Palo Duro	3	2	299	272
Lubbock	1	3	202	200
Monterey	0	4	207	247
Tascosa	0	4	151	242

LAST WEEK'S RESULTS

Pampa 71, Lubbock 57; Pampa 73, Tascosa 55; Amarillo 34, Monterey 46; Palo Duro 81, Monterey 66; Plainview 57, Tascosa 34; Plainview 51, Lubbock 45; Borger 47, Amarillo 42; Borger 68, Palo Duro 57.

THIS WEEK'S SCHEDULE

Tuesday
Palo Duro at Pampa; Lubbock at Borger; Monterey at Tascosa; Amarillo at Plainview.

Friday
Plainview at Pampa; Monterey at Borger; Lubbock at Tascosa; Amarillo and Palo Duro, idle.

Celtics Finally Defeat Hawks

United Press International

It took the Boston Celtics nine months to catch up with the St. Louis Hawks and, brother, how they rubbed it in.

After losing five straight games to St. Louis, including two in the National Basketball Association's final playoffs last April, the Celtics walloped the defending champions, 139-117, Sunday in a nationally televised encounter at Boston.

The Celtics, after scrambling to a 61-59 lead at intermission, equaled a Boston Garden record with a 75-point barrage in the second half. Bill Sharman paced the Celts' attack with 36 points, including 19 in the third quarter, while Bob Cousy contributed 36 assists.

Rookie Mike Farmer's 20 points helped the New York Knickerbockers to a 120-118 triumph over Syracuse.

Hoover's Doubts May Defeat Bill

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover will not be overjoyed by a proposal now awaiting Senate committee consideration.

This bill is No. S. 73 introduced jointly by 15 senators representing both parties. Its prime objective is to loose the FBI against the bombers of schools and places of worship and against other bomb-tossers motivated by race hate and the intimidation of minorities.

The bill is so drafted, however, that it would apply equally against persuasion by bombing as it some times is called. Some leaders of organized labor will like this bill even less than will Hoover. Those who especially will not like it are the leaders of unions which utilize violence such as bombing, arson and mayhem to recruit union members.

Could Defeat Bill

Hoover certainly is no front man for bombers. If he is summoned to testify before a Senate committee, however, he is likely to express doubts about the proposed legislation. Hoover is chairman of the FBI becoming a national police force of the FBI assuming responsibilities which properly belong to local law enforcement and of the FBI ever being put in the position of supervising or checking on local law enforcement agencies.

Hoover's doubts, if expressed, may be sufficient to defeat this bill. Organized labor more likely than not will go all out against it even though all unions do not arm their organizers with fire bombs and explosives. A great many members of the new Congress were elected with substantial labor support, almost all of them Democrats.

If organized labor puts the pressure on them to keep the FBI off the necks of labor goons, these Democratic congressmen with obligations to labor union treasures are more likely to explain a vote against the bill in terms of Hoover's judgment than in terms of any obligation to vote the labor party line.

The Key Language

The bill would reach labor violence by bombing by its definition of a federal crime. This new federal felony would be to transport across state lines or to possess any explosive with "the intent or knowledge that it will be used to damage or destroy any building or other personal property for the purpose of interfering with its use for educational, religious, charitable, residential, business or civic objectives or of intimidating any person pursuing such objectives."

The key language with respect to labor violence is "residential."

GETTING UP NIGHTS

It's called "Bladder Warfare" Getting Up Nights or Bed Wetting, too frequent, burning or itching urination, Secondary Enuresis and Nocturnal Enuresis. Bladder Control—due to common kidney and bladder infections, try OYSTEX for quick relief. Ask for OYSTEX for quick relief. Ask for OYSTEX. See how fast you improve.

business, or civic objectives or of intimidating any person pursuing such objectives." The penalties proposed are severe.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R.N.Y.) one of the sponsors told United Press International that the bill clearly could be used against labor hoodlums.

Now will come the pressure of organized labor to get that language out of the bill followed by the contortions of labor-oriented congressmen to vote it out without appearing to cast a vote in favor of bomb tossing as a union technique.

The McClellan committee has substantial evidence of bomb tossing by labor goons to spread unionism among the unorganized.

Suit Gets Down To Basics In Spring

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—The suit, basic in a woman's wardrobe, gets down to the basics this spring. It fits the figure.

"The relaxed look is on its way out," said designer Harry Fraehel. "This spring marks the beginning of the return to the fitted suit."

Several other designers also are returning—each collection shown to visiting fashion editors this week included at least a couple of suits with slim skirt and jacket hugging the waistline and upper hipbone. The shows are held semi-annually by the costume group of the New York Dress Institute.

However, there is no return to the broad, padded shoulders that went with fitted suits of the 1930's and early '40's. Rounded, soft shoulders are the rule.

Fraehel suits have perfectly smooth shoulders; he cuts sleeve and bodice of the jacket all in one piece.

Bracelet Length
Sleeves of suits in most collections are "bracelet length," hugging wrists for those women who like bangles. But Monte'Sano and Pruzan provides the breeziest sleeve of all: the firm bares arms.

In both coats and suits to above the elbow.

Most of the new suits are single-breasted, but Ben Zuckerman showed some double-breasted jackets closed with enormous buttons in black or a smoky pearl shade.

Fitted jackets are of two main types—one reaching three to four inches below the waist; the other stopping right at the waist. Some of the "relaxed" or looser-fitting jackets do hug the figure in one spot—the hipbone. But leave the waistline undefined.

In the "relaxed" category, the number one jacket is the cardigan type, usually collarless and worn casually unbuttoned. Davidow shows a group in small, scotch checks worn, with small, fringed stole around the neck.

Skirts are cut pencil-slim in most collections, but a few designers toss in a few suits with pleated skirts—Ben Ketz is one.

Fraehel eases skirt fit with scattered gathers across the tummy.

Watch also for bold colors to brighten the suit picture. Along with standard gray and navy, there are flamingo and watermelon pink, lemon yellow and deep lilac.

Judgment Value

Man is the only creature which has knowledge which is capable of making a value judgment. That man is so capable is evident on every hand. Man is uniquely able to select from among a multiplicity of things, in the process of making such selections, man exercises his free will.

Bad Means Do Not Bring Good

It is entirely likely that one of the most grievous and disastrous sophistries which plague us at this time is the supposition that the good ends can be derived from evil means. We know of no sin in public morals as the assumption that it doesn't matter what you do, if only good can come from it at the end of the line.

Morals And The Welfare State

No. 7

F. A. Harper continues his essay on "Morals And The Welfare State" under the heading of "In A Hurry To Do Good" in this manner:

"Herein lies the principal moral and economic danger facing us in these critical times: Many of us, albeit with good intentions but in a hurry to do good because of the urgency of the occasion, have become victims of moral schizophrenia. While we are good and righteous persons in our individual conduct in our home community and in our basic moral code, we have become thieves and coveters in the collective activities of the Welfare State in which we participate and which many of us extol.

"Typical of our times is what usually happens when there is a major catastrophe, destroying private property or injuring many persons. The news circulates and generates widespread sympathy for the victims. So what is done about it? Through the mechanisms of the collective, the good intentions take the form of reaching into the other fellow's pocket for the money with which to make a gift. The Decalogue says, in effect: 'Reach into your own pocket - not into your neighbor's pocket - to finance your acts of compassion; good cannot be done with the loot that comes from theft.' The pickpocket, in other words, is a thief ever though he puts the proceeds in the collection box on Sunday, or uses it to buy bread for the poor. Being an individual Good Samaritan is a contradiction in terms.

"When misdeeds are resorted to for the means by which to do good, compassion is killed. Those who would do good with the loot they lose their capacity for self-reliance, the same as a thief's self-reliance atrophies rapidly when he subsists on food that is stolen. And those who are repeatedly robbed of their property simultaneously lose their capacity for compassion. The chronic victims of robbery are under great temptation to join the gang and share in the loot. They come to feel that the voluntary way of life will no longer suffice for needs that to sustain they must rob and be robbed. They abhor violence, of course, but approve of robbing by peaceful means. It is this peculiar immoral distinction which many try to draw between the Welfare State of Russia and that of Britain: The Russian brand of violence, they believe, is bad; that of Britain, good. This version of an alleged Commandment would be: 'Thou shalt not steal, except from non-resisting victims.'

"Under the Welfare State, this process of theft has spread from its use in alleviating catastrophe, to anticipating catastrophe, to conjuring up catastrophe, to the need for luxuries for those who have them not. The acceptance of the practice of this robbing the Decalogue has become so widespread that the Sermon on the Mount seems to appear in our day in the form of an address or publication which would most likely be called as 'reactionary' and not 'objective' on the realistic problems of the day. Forgotten, it seems, by many who so much admire Christ, is the fact that he did not 'resort' to theft in acquiring the means of his material sustenance. Nor did he advocate theft for any purpose - even for those uses most dear to his beliefs."

between parents of children and professional educators. 7. The fact of impoverishment of thousands of home owners who in some instances actually lose their homes so that expensive educational palaces can be constructed. 8. The fact of growing dependency upon government by young and old and the diminution of individual effort. 9. The fact that some persons pay twice for education: once when they pay their taxes, and again when they take their children out of a government school and pay tuition at a private school. 10. The fact that persons, those who lease and send their children to school in other places, do not begin to pay, even by taxes, for the education of their children. The evils of this false belief are many and varied. When we learn that the good of education can only be fully realized when good means of providing the education are employed? Politics and education are not blood brothers. The state and schools, like the state and church, should be forever separated.

MOPSY

YOU MUST REALIZE THE COST OF LIVING FOR MINKS HAS RISEN TOO!

Ready To Put It In Orbit?

Robert Allen Reports:

Ike May Make Clean Sweep; Save for Twining

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower is seriously considering making a clean sweep of the Joint Chiefs of Staff — with one exception.

The exception is General Nathan Twining, chairman of the Joint Chiefs.

Defense decision already has been made to give him a second two-year term, although his present one doesn't expire until August. Prior to becoming head of the Joint Chiefs, Twining was Air Chief of Staff.

Both in discussions with congressional leaders, the President is indicating he is strongly inclined toward replacing all the other Joint Chiefs. That will mean the retirement of:

General Maxwell Taylor, Army Chief of Staff, whose second term concludes in June.

Admiral Arleigh Burke, Chief of Naval Operations, who is also completing a second two-year term.

General Thomas White, Air Chief of Staff, whose first term ends in June.

General Randolph Pate, Marine Corps Commandant, whose four-year term ends in December.

The President's intimations about replacing White are a surprise, since both Taylor and Burke are not.

While both these officers are well regarded in Congress, special legislation would be needed to replace them. This will be determined later. But Patten, long a vigorous critic of foreign spending, urged the President's total be reduced by $2 billion.

Representative Mahon advocated giving the President "exactly what he asked for in the military budget."

"We may decide to shift some of the funds around," declared the Texan, "but there will be more money for nuclear submarines and missiles. But I'm strongly in favor of staying within the limits set by the President. Let him accept the full responsibility for that."

This view was seconded by Representative Cannon, long a head of the powerful Appropriations Committee.

"No one is going to hang a spending tag around my neck," declared the Missourian. "I agreed with Mahon that we should have full responsibility to the President for the defense budget. At the same time, I also favor cutting foreign and domestic spending."

Also agreed on by the Democratic leadership was a sweeping investigation of "waste in the Federal departments and agencies." This probe is to be made by both the Appropriations Committee and the Government Operations Committee.

Particular target of this "anti-waste campaign" is the Postoffice Department. A report shortly to be made public by the House Post-office Committee charges Postmaster General Arthur Flemming has spent $2,500,000 a year in taking office for public relations and hoopla propaganda.

Under the Constitution, all appropriations are first passed on by the House. This gives the Democratic leaders there an advantage on their budget strategy.

However, the Senate frequently disregards the House on appropriations and forces compromises that "split the difference" between the two chambers. What happens this session remains to be seen.

FREEDOM OF ENTERPRISE

(Swift Current (Sask., Canada Sun))

In its latest monthly news letter the Canadian Chamber of Commerce brings to public attention its recently-revised statement of policy, as approved at its annual meeting held in Montreal last October. The revision was proposed and approved in the belief that the role of the consumer is basic to an successful system of competitive enterprise. It is pointed out further that, through operation of this system, the individual (as a consumer) can and does control the Canadian economy.

The Canadian Chamber of Commerce believes that the basic aim of policy should be the maintenance of personal freedom. In this atmosphere the consumer is free to make his own choice as to how, when or where he will spend his income. The Chamber believes that the Canadian people can rightly judge what is in their own interest and can best exercise this judgement through individual freedom of choice.

These individual choices collectively provide the great stimulating and controlling force governing production. For this force to operate effectively, suppliers of goods and services must be free to compete for those choices - satisfying old ones more economically and searching out new ones promptly. Hence, come the phrases "freedom of enterprise" and "the system of private competitive enterprise."

In this competitive atmosphere, only the efficient suppliers of goods and services can prosper. Suppliers who remain inefficient or who continue to produce things no longer wanted will not survive. Through such competition, changes take place and efficiency is increased to the benefit of the consumer.

The Chamber's support of this system is the central core of its policy and it intends to do all in its power to develop a wider and clearer public understanding of the system under which Canadians have become particularly fortunate among the peoples of the world.

The Chamber is not only concerned that freedom may be impaired or lost by encroachments upon it, but also that the system itself be weakened by the failure of the consumer to exercise his freedom of choice.

Today, I deal with her false representation that Senator Joe McCarthy had waged "an attack on the American clergy," as she claims to have learned in 1952 in the free atmosphere of Brioni, Yugoslavia, under a dictatorship which she found not altogether of a free nature.

Any statement that McCarthy ever permitted "an attack on the American clergy" before his committee or that he himself ever made any such attack is not a mere mistake by an author claiming to be an expert on McCarthyism. It is a gross distortion of the truth.

The system rewards those who venture and succeed through the application of individual enterprise and sound judgment. By rewarding success in this system, it draws forth the greatest initiative and effort of free men for the benefit of all.

The Chamber is opposed to all state intervention and control beyond those clearly necessary to protect some accurately defined public interest. It believes that the role of government in economic affairs should be to protect private property. It believes that government activities should not involve detailed participation in the decisions of private business or competition by state agencies with private enterprise.

Once business, or the people in general, believe that they can turn to government in every difficulty, the springs of initiative and self-reliance will run dry. The Chamber puts its faith in the resourcefulness of individual freedom and individual enterprise. It believes that the resourcefulness of individual freedom and individual enterprise are the true way of ensuring the highest possible standard of living for the whole Canadian people.

The Doctor Says:

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

"I have a dropping condition in my legs," writes Mrs. T. R.

"This is always worse toward the end of the day and is about gone when I wake up in the morning. I have had a heart condition for many years and wonder if there is any connection, and whether it is something to worry about."

Dropsy, or edema as it is known medically, is a waterlogging of the tissues. In other words, fluids which should normally be removed from the body accumulate in the tissues and cause leg-limb swelling.

Failure of the heart to pump properly is one of the common causes of dropsy, so in Mrs. E.'s case one would suspect that there is a connection.

Also, dropsy is always a serious enough condition to require medical attention.

The accumulation of fluid in the legs may be the result of local causes, such as poor circulation. Even a normal person who is on his feet a great deal during hot weather may develop a little fluid swelling in the lower extremities.

However, the most frequent and common reason for dropsy is a failure of the heart or of the kidneys to perform their normal functions fully.

When the cause of the difficulty is from the heart, it is the result of failure to pump the blood fast enough through the kidneys so that these organs can filter out and eliminate the fluids which should be discarded.

The fluid generally goes to those parts which have the poorest circulation, such as the feet and legs. Also the accumulation in the lower extremities has to work hardest against gravity.

This kind of edema is treated by trying to improve the action of the heart and circulation, raising the legs so that the blood flow will not have to work so hard against gravity, and by other medical or surgical measures.

The other main kind of dropsy comes from disease or damage to the kidneys themselves. Here something has gone wrong with the filtering mechanism of these organs so that they simply do not eliminate properly.

They cannot be flushed out with water since this will usually result in more waterlogging than before. The treatment of dropsy of kidney origin is highly complicated and may involve restriction of salt, a special diet, drugs or other measures.

One relatively new development in the treatment has been the use of the artificial kidney. Several complicated devices are in use for this purpose and for selected persons they are proving of great value.

Dropsy is not a single disease, but rather the reflection of some underlying disorder which is likely to be serious. Anyone who develops dropsy should place herself or himself under good medical care and obey carefully whatever directions are given. Failure to do this may lead to tragic results.

Eleanor's Book Is Interesting Reading

by WESTBROOK PEGLER

The generous, fair-minded, and more frank Eleanor Roosevelt, who has published her fourth book since she heard the news, a thousand miles from his side, that her husband had keeled over at Warm Springs in the presence of his old flame of a love affair dating back to 1915.

This book is called "Eleanor Roosevelt, On My Own, The Years Since The White House."

If it were true that this female is politically passive and harmless, kindly and never dishonest, I would ignore her false statements.

But her falsifications of history are proclaimed by a claque of tired old sycophants and exuberant younglings who were "romping" when, for example, she was barnstorming the South Pacific, at public expense, to visit her friend, Joe Lash, late of the left-wing movement in Washington.

These books go into many public libraries and school libraries for permanent reference not only for students but for historians. Thus if no knowing person has the industry and courage to prove the falsity of her ruses they will become little items in the design of history. Certain representations in "On My Own" are either directly false or so subtly contrived as to achieve that result.

Today, I deal with her false representation that Senator Joe McCarthy had waged "an attack on the American clergy," as she claims to have learned in 1952 in the free atmosphere of Brioni, Yugoslavia, under a dictatorship which she found not altogether of a free nature.

Any statement that McCarthy ever permitted "an attack on the American clergy" before his committee or that he himself ever made any such attack is not a mere mistake by an author claiming to be an expert on McCarthyism. It is a gross distortion of the truth.

The system rewards those who venture and succeed through the application of individual enterprise and sound judgment. By rewarding success in this system, it draws forth the greatest initiative and effort of free men for the benefit of all.

The Chamber is opposed to all state intervention and control beyond those clearly necessary to protect some accurately defined public interest. It believes that the role of government in economic affairs should be to protect private property. It believes that government activities should not involve detailed participation in the decisions of private business or competition by state agencies with private enterprise.

Once business, or the people in general, believe that they can turn to government in every difficulty, the springs of initiative and self-reliance will run dry. The Chamber puts its faith in the resourcefulness of individual freedom and individual enterprise. It believes that the resourcefulness of individual freedom and individual enterprise are the true way of ensuring the highest possible standard of living for the whole Canadian people.

Not one witness was examined and the Roosevelt woman lied when she wrote in this post-blogger that in Brioni her evening's "peacefulness" was "destroyed" because there was much about testimony before Senator McCarthy's Committee, including an attack on the American clergy, which was entirely unjustified and which backfired on the Senator and his cohorts.

The Herald-Tribune revealed that a telegram was composed in the White House for three clergymen who then dispatched it to President Eisenhower as though it had been their own. He then expressed his regret, indignation and waved the bloody shirt.

Matthews recognized a familiar trick and quit to relieve McCarthy of embarrassment.

The jacket of this book bears endorsements by those two sweet boys, James Vincent Sheehan, culled from the Herald Tribune's Book Review, and John Gunther. They acclaim it as a historical treasure.

These darlings, famous for their mutual infatuation, once expressed in a love-feast in the H-F's Sunday Book thing do not undertake to examine the point that I here challenge. But they commit her version to history in these terms:

"Wonderful — it will be read and felt by generations of Americans." Sheehan

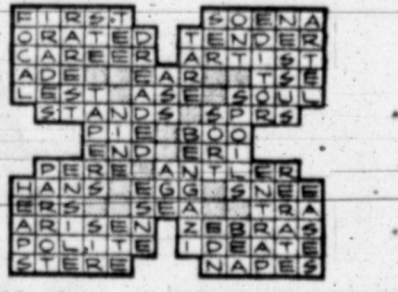

And "Great historical value; by one of the most magnificent in women of modern times." Gunther.

THE LITTLEST PONY — William Hine keeps a rope tether on two ponies—mother and daughter—in White Water, Ohio. But, for the little one, it might as well be a dog leash. Baby weighed in at 15 pounds the day she was born, and was 16 inches long, 16 inches high. Now, a couple of months later, she's fatter, sort of broadened out, and higher. But even as a grownup, Farmer Hine predicts, she'll be one of the smallest ever.

Here's Ike's 1960 Fiscal Budget

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Here is a summary of major proposals in President Eisenhower's fiscal 1960 budget:

Taxes — Raise gasoline tax 1/2 cent a gallon to pay for rising costs of highway construction. Boost aviation gasoline tax 2 1/2 cents a gallon and impose a new tax of 1 1/2 cents a gallon on jet fuel — passing both on to consumers. Extend present corporate and excise tax rates another year to June 30, 1960. No income tax cuts this year but a promised reduction "in the reasonably foreseeable future" if budget stays balanced.

Defense — $40,945,000,000 of defense, about 145-million dollars more than fiscal 1959, with heavy emphasis on missiles and defenses against missile attack. Slight cut in Air Force manpower would be only change in active duty personnel.

Space — National Aeronautics and Space Agency would get 280-million dollars next year and 450-million dollars added to this year's 152-million dollars. Long-range projects include manned space flight, missile shots to the moon and planets, and worldwide network of weather and communication satellites.

Postal Rates — Another 350 million dollar increase. Specific proposals will come later.

Farmers — A 779-million dollar drop in farm aid, bringing it to 6-billion dollars. Advance conservation authorizations reduced; legislation promised to cut price support outlays.

Water Projects — No new starts; Stretch — out of existing projects where possible. Nevertheless, an all-time high spending total of $1,100,000,000.

Education — 150-million dollars for loans to college students and grants to states under science-keyed defense education program; 75-million dollars added to this year's 40-million dollars. No mention of aid for school construction.

Aid of 181-million dollars proposed for school districts affected by federal installations, with increased state and local participation stressed.

Federal Subsidies — Increase state-local-private participation in slum clearance, public assistance, disaster relief and other programs. Eliminate federal aid to states for vocational education and waste treatment facilities after 1960.

Interest Rates — Encourage private lending by raising interest rate ceilings on veterans and FHA housing loans. Boost interest rates on rural electrification, college housing and ship mortgage loans to cover government costs on them.

Aviation — A four-year program to share costs of building runways and control towers but withdrawal from airport grants in the future.

Foreign Aid — Total of $3,428,000,000 with overall reduction of 383-million dollars from this year. Military aid would drop by 462-million dollars, but economic aid would rise 78-million dollars with increased emphasis on repayable "development loans."

Housing — No authorization for new public housing. A six-year $1,350,000,000 program of grants for urban renewal, with states and cities called upon to pay more, plan better and obtain private financing.

Veterans — A 110-million dollar drop from last year's $5,100,000,000. Pensions would be granted on the basis of need. Pension program would be modernized "in light of social developments and changes."

Atomic Energy — No weapons tests budgeted; continued emphasis on peaceful uses of nuclear power and development of nuclear driven naval vessels; no step-up in plans for developing an atomic plane.

Debt Limit — This year's $12,900,000,000 deficit will increase public debt to 285-billion dollars by June 30. Request will be made to boost permanent debt limit by 2-billion dollars to that figure.

Other legislative recommendations — Statehood for Hawaii; extend minimum wage and unemployment compensation coverage; crack down on racketeering in labor unions; allow TVA to sell revenue bonds to finance power facilities; a 55-million dollar program of loans and grants to areas with chronic unemployment.

Nursery School Teacher Makes Killing On Television

EDITOR'S NOTE: For the next two weeks UPI Women's Editor Gay Pauley will be on vacation and her "Woman's Views" column will be written by Patricia McCormack. Miss Pauley will resume with a column for publication in Monday PM's Feb. 2.

United Press International
NEW YORK (UP) — Almost anything can happen when six lively small children are before the television cameras. And usually does, says Nancy Claster, who helps run what she called "the world's largest kindergarten."

Mrs. Claster and her husband Bert, parents of three children now past the kindergarten stage, seven years ago thought up "Romper Room," a televised "nursery school" with a "class" of six. They first aired it on WZ-TV in her native Baltimore.

Mrs. Claster — "Miss Nancy" to her pupils — still "teaches" on the Baltimore show. And today the program is carried in 70 other cities with the couple running a training program for other "teachers," selected locally, and just in general seeing that all goes well with a show reaching an estimated 4 million children in the preschool group.

Had Real Nursery
A graduate of Goucher College with a major in education, Mrs. Claster once ran a real nursery school. "Before 'Romper Room'" she had worked for her producer, husband-as-script writer.

She said during a business trip to New York, that the format of the show is worked out with educators and boards of education. The children are selected from write-in applications.

"We have a waiting list a mile long in Baltimore," she said, on this country's defensive action in the cold war.

"We have reacted to countless Soviet initiatives; acted on our own initiative rarely at all. We watch the skies for other people's moves."

Some of the applicants never get on the air; they grow out of the age bracket before we can get to them.

"Each teacher must be a college graduate, but not necessarily have had real classroom experience."

The program stresses the usual nursery school routine — games, storytelling, children marching to their own rhythm band, let's pretend, and a milk and soap-and-water break. One of the standard segments of the show puts to use a new type of easy-to-wash-away finger paint — thick soapuds. Children use them for creating a variety of things — from Christmas angels the aids harden into a frothy white decoration; to the new 48-star American flag "painted" on red cardboard.

beating the batter vigorously — except for one small boy who just stood there. Said Mrs. Claster, "I finally asked him, 'Don't you want to help, Jimmy?'"

"He said, 'Oh, I am... but I'm using an electric mixer,'"

One portion of the show is devoted to the pledge of allegiance. Mrs. Claster recalled one small boy who pledged allegiance "to the flag and to the Republicans for which it stands."

'Shirley Temple Story Book' Killed By Horrendous Budget

By VERNON SCOTT
Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Why does a top-rated, critic-praised television show starring one of the great names of show business go down the drain after only 16 programs?

Answer: Money.

"The Shirley Temple Storybook" was an unqualified success with the public, as well as video reviewers, but it had one horrendous fatal flaw — a budget of $154,000 per show.

Not even two sponsors could lift that heavy a tab. So, off went Shirley and her storybook.

However, the ABC-TV network begins rerunning 13 of the hour-long shows tonight, taking over where NBC faltered. Producer Alvin Cooperman is convinced the shows will draw bigger audiences the second time around, and perhaps inspire some well-heeled corporation to pay the freight to crank the series up again.

"We could make the shows for less money now," says Cooperman, "bringing them in for about $125,000 without losing any quality."

Shirley Eager To Resume
The difference of $29,000 per program makes all the difference in the world to sponsors. Anything over $125,000 breaks a sponsor's back.

Cooperman, who produced the shows originally, said Shirley is eager to resume the series. In the event the producer and his star find another angel the "Storybook" dramas would be enlarged to include televisions of popular classics.

Falling in that, Cooperman, a 35-year-old Easterner who looks like a Yale undergraduate, plans to star the former child actress in a feature film.

"Shirley and I are close friends," he said. "We both agree that she should make a movie playing a 'heavy' role to dispel the nostalgic 'baby dimples' she's always been to the public."

If the "Storybook" is renewed, well, do both — the reruns will have an advantage that the first showing never had, we'll be on every three weeks at a regular hour — 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. on Monday.

"Last year we were on at different hours and every night of the week except Saturday. Viewers never knew when to expect it."

Cooperman will be bucking one of the most solid shows on the air. "Father Knows Best." Still, he's optimistic.

"The public wants to see Shirley," he said. "She is a tremendous attraction to three generations — the older people who watched her as a child, her contemporaries who saw their first movie when Shirley was starring, and youngsters who have heard about her all their lives."

"You notice in the reruns we photographed Shirley in close-ups without any fancy backgrounds."

"People wanted a good look at her face to see if they could still recognize the little girl who sang 'The Good Ship Lollipop.' The ratings prove they liked what they saw."
