U.S. Welcomes Red Move To Take Heat Off Hot Berlin Crisis

Four Power Conference Is Wanted

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States Saturday welcomed an apparent Russian move to take the heat off the Berlin crisis in favor of a Four Power conference.

The State Department said it was "glad to see" that Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan realizes after his Washington visit that negotiations are more important for turning over East Berlin to the East German Communists and getting the Allies to pull their forces out of West Berlin.

Meanwhile, high American officials disclosed that with representatives will meet here about Feb. 2 to begin drafting their proposal for a showtown spring conference with Russia on Berlin and German reunification.

They said British, French and American experts will begin putting together a reply to Russia's unacceptable demand for a 28-nation conference to write a German peace treaty on the Kremlin's terms.

Deadline Not Main Thing Mikoyan told a Moscow press conference Saturday that "the main thing is not the deadline but to have talks" in regard to the Berlin crisis.

"We are glad to see that Mr. Mikoyan feels that artificial pressures regarding the timing of negotiations are not helpful," the State Department replied.

Mikoyan also said negotiations could be prolonged for a few days or a few months if the West showed "good will."

The State Department made it clear, however, that this country would discuss Berlin only as an integral part of German reunification and European security.

Talks Called "Useful" The department said Mikoyan was informed during his conferences with President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles that such talks would be "useful."

Mikoyan's statement raised some hope that Russia might accept western suggestions for a four power meeting, possibly of foreign ministers.

But so far Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and other Russians have insisted on trying to isolate the Berlin problem.

Russia's May 27 deadline covered two principal points: Withdrawal of British, French and American troops from Berlin.

Ouch! Over 60,000 Tickets Given In '58

A record number of traffic and parking violation tickets—just over 60,000—were written the past year in Pampa. Police Chief Jim Conner reported Saturday.

The majority, 57,853, were written for parking violations, most for overtime parking.

Conner said police officers also wrote 2,037 tickets for hazardous violations and 430 for non-hazardous violations.

In addition 93 motorists were arrested for driving while intoxicated, a figure that includes 14 "DWIs" involved in accidents.

An interesting sidelight is that of 93 persons charged with D.W.I., only 58 were convicted in county court with penalties.

A number of cases are still pending but several drunken driving cases were dismissed.

Conner also reported Pampa had 14 fewer traffic accidents in 1958 than in 1957. The '58 accident total was 549.

Pampa had two traffic fatalities the past year, the same number as in 1957. There were 62 accident injuries last year, 28 fewer than in 1957.

Chief Conner said that most of Pampa's accidents last year were blamed on motorists either failing to yield the right of way, making an unsafe start, following too closely, or speeding.

Palm Room Sold Out For Wilson

The Palm Room is sold out for a Monday membership luncheon featuring Attorney General Will Wilson, E. O. Wedgeworth, manager of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce, reported Saturday. One hundred and sixty chamber members have made reservations to hear Wilson.

Wilson, recently elected to his post, has a fighting background, dating from the time when he prosecuted school cases in Austin. He was one of five attorneys selected from the entire nation by the US attorney general to advise the National Conference on Organized Crime in 1950.

A former president of the Texas District and County Attorneys Association, he has taught in the law schools of Baylor and Southern Methodist Universities and delivered legal lectures at St. Mary's University of Texas, and the University of Houston.

Wilson is noted as a forceful speaker and forceful personality. To get a degree from the University of Oklahoma, he worked as roughneck in the Texas and Oklahoma oilfields. Later he worked for a Dallas law firm while studying law at SMU.

During the war, Wilson served on New Guinea, on Biak Island and on Luzon in the Philippine Islands as commanding officer of the 16th Field Artillery Battalion he accepted the surrender of General Yamashita. He received an award for volunteer patrols with the infantry and for setting up ambushes behind Japanese positions.

C-C DIRECTORS MEET WEDNESDAY

Directors of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce will hold a morning meeting this week, according to Chamber President Warren Haase. Fourteen committee reports will be made at a 10:15 a.m. meeting Wednesday at the conference room.

Aside from routine business, directors are expected to approve reports at a monthly luncheon but a morning spot has been chosen because of the meeting's proximity to a membership luncheon Monday.

Jeanne Williams significantly as fans pledge a sum of money for every point Pampa makes against Borger. The person to call to place your pledge is Mrs. Joe Edwards, MO-5-3312. Call between now and game time.

The same thing is going on over in Borger, according to Warren Hasse, Points chairman, so there ought to be some hot competition in basketball and Points For Polio.

The next step, says Pampa Chairman Johnny Gikas, will be to launch the Bucket Brigade. Service club members with buckets will make their appearances on Pampa street corners early Saturday morning to fill 'er up for the March of Dimes. They'll be at it all day, all the service clubs, handing out literature and taking in more than dimes.

The teenagers have something cooked up for that evening, a mility style show titled "Around the World of 400." Jeanne Williams, local dance teacher, is working on the choreography with some of her students from the Borger Arts Dance Studio. The show will start at 7:30 p.m. in the PHS auditorium. There will be beautiful and fashionably dressed high school models and dancing that's out of this world.

Tickets go on sale Tuesday afternoon in a Cuyler Street box office. Student tickets are 40 cents. Adults pay 75 cents.

Around the World won't be the only March of Dimes benefit that night. There'll be dancing at the Elks Club and Moose Club, more music for the March of Dimes.

The campaign will then have run its course and should have taken in the $13 or $14,000 dollars that leaders estimate is needed to care for polio victims in Gray County.

PHS HALFBACK BADLY INJURED

BORGER — Sherrill Miller, a 17-year-old Pampa youth, Saturday noon was seriously injured when his motorcycle rammed the rear of an automobile at Borger. Miller was a sophomore standout at halfback last season for Coach Babe Curfman's Harvester grid team.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Miller, residents of the Clay Trailer Court, drove to Amarillo Saturday afternoon. Miller was taken into surgery at 6:30 p.m.

A witness at the accident scene told officers Miller, traveling at a high rate of speed, slammed into the rear of a car driven by Virginia Allen, Borger.

The Borger woman was starting across an intersection at E. 3rd St. and Spur 46. Miller was headed toward the highway to Pampa. The accident happened about noon.

Castro Throws Commies Out Of Cuba Labor Union

By FRANCIS L. MCCARTHY, United Press International

HAVANA (UPI)—Fidel Castro has thrown out the Communists who infiltrated the Cuban labor union leadership in the hectic first days of the rebel victory, it was disclosed Saturday.

The rebel chieftain forced a reorganization of the Cuban National Labor Front and Workers Confederation before he departed Friday on a week end trip to Caracas, Venezuela. Five Reds were reported forced out of the labor leadership.

At the same time, the provisional government took steps to tone down the spectacle of the Havana "war crimes" trials. Sources here detected that no more trials should be held in the big sports stadium that I have been convened by Batista Army Maj. Jesus, I fear death even less.

Sosa Blanco was condemned early Friday after a 12-hour and 19-minute trial witnessed by 20,000 as soon as possible.

jeering spectators. The trials of two other top Batista henchmen, Maj. Pedro Moron Valdes and Lt. Col. Ricardo L. Grau, postponed until Monday, were expected to be transferred from the sports stadium to the privacy of Cabana Forties.

Maj. Sosa Blanco's appeal from his death sentence was formally received by the war court, it was reported. It was to be acted upon early next week.

The condemned man said in his cell at Cabana Forties that he hoped his trial, which he had compared to the martyrdom of Christians in the Roman Coliseum, would be the last of its kind in Cuba.

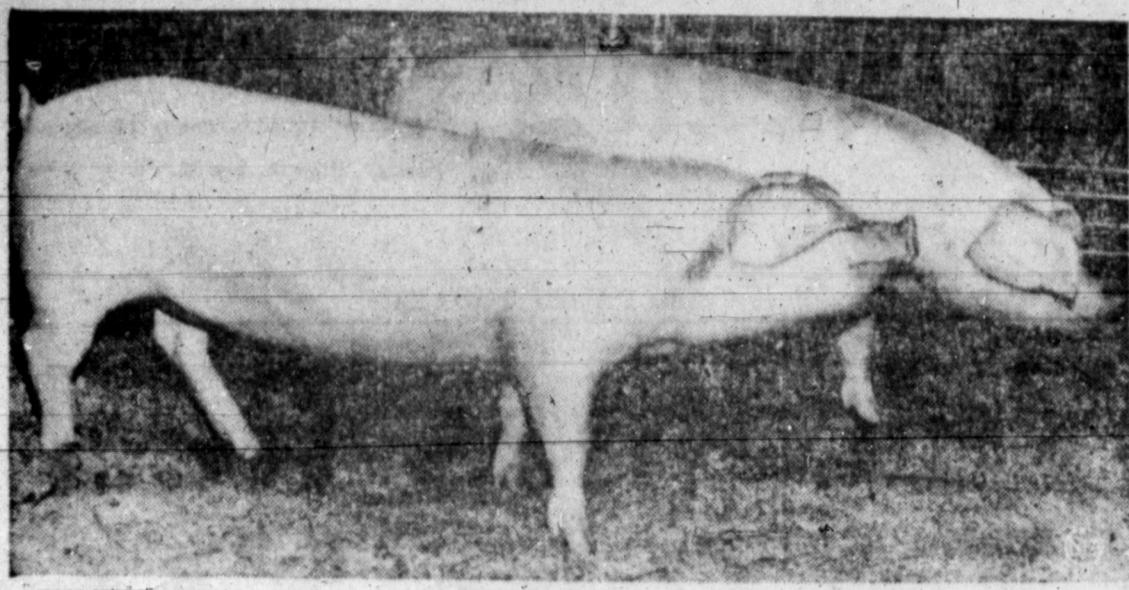

"I have never been afraid of death," Sosa Blanco said. "Now I have never been afraid of death."

Rescuers Try To Free Men From Trap

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (UPI)—Wearily but determined rescuers reported agonizingly slow progress Saturday in attempts to halt swirling flood waters that have trapped 12 miners in an anthracite operation since Thursday.

With the passing of every hour, hopes dimmed for the safety of the miners entombed when the ice-laden Susquehanna River gouged a 20-foot hole in the mine tunnel of the Knox Coal Co. at nearby Port Griffith.

Rescue officials Saturday reported some slow progress in attempts to halt the raging waters by dumping in millions of dollars of heavy equipment to plug the hole.

But they declined to estimate what percentage of the hole had been filled by the railroad cars, rocks, trucks and piles of hay and excelsior poured into the whirlpool along the east bank of the river.

Earlier it was planned to bring Army equipment to the scene but Col. Stanley Johnson, of the Baltimore office of the Army Engineers who is helping direct the operations, said "we've got to do this job now. We can't wait for the equipment."

Johnson did report a speedup in the tempo of plugging the hole so that they may start down after the miners, but could not estimate when they would even be able to probe the tunnel.

Daniel Connolly, state deputy mine secretary, again expressed the belief that the only hope for the trapped miners is that they might have been able to reach refuge in air pockets above the water level.

Many students have been working on their projects since school started in the fall, according to Mrs. Ledbetter.

This year's fair is scheduled for Feb. 20, 21.

American officials flatly rejected Mikoyan's statement that the Eisenhower administration was "not making the necessary efforts" to settle East-West problems.

They cited repeated Western attempts to solve German and European problems and recalled that Russia reneged on its 1955 summit meeting agreement to reunify Germany under free elections.

new battle on the broad front of Negro segregation is heating up in this first capital of the Confederacy. It is being waged over Negro voting.

It has the potential of overshadowing, by far, integration of the schools for white supremacy in the Deep South. In one of the counties affected, Negroes outnumber whites by seven to one.

Involved is the effectiveness of President Eisenhower's new Civil Rights Commission in conflict with state sovereignty.

Classmates Now Opponents
Caught up personally, two young judges, once classmates and friends at the University of Alabama, now at opposite poles in the segregation struggle.

The first skirmish reaches its climax next Monday morning in a Montgomery federal courtroom when U. S. District Judge Frank M. Johnson Jr., 42, hears a contempt of court charge against former Circuit Judge George Wallace, 39, that could put Wallace in jail.

Wallace is charged with defying a federal court order to take available to investigators of the Civil Rights Commission the voter registration records of nearby Barbour and Bullock counties where complaints have been made that Negroes were being denied the opportunity to register.

Wallace instead put the records in the hands of county grand juries which he had summoned. The records subsequently were shown to the investigators by the grand juries.

Mikoyan Calls For East-West Talks

By HENRY SHAPIRO
United Press International

MOSCOW (UPI)—Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan, reporting that he found the American people ripe for a cold war settlement, Saturday called again for East-West talks to head off a Berlin impasse May 20.

The Armenian-born Russian trade chief repeated previous Soviet statements that the Kremlin might suspend its May 30 deadline for turning over its occupation powers in Berlin to the East Germans provided the United States, Britain and France agreed to negotiate the Berlin question before that time.

"The main thing is not the deadline but to have talks," he said.

He discussed his 17-day, coast-to-coast American tour at a news conference in which he touched on a wide range of topics. He said he found anti-Russian "prejudice" in the United States but also an increasing American conviction—not shared by Washington—that the time had come to end the cold war.

Impressed by Reception
The mustached Mikoyan said he was impressed by the "cordial" reception accorded him by President Eisenhower and other officials as well as by such capitalists as Henry Ford and ordinary American citizens.

He said any top American leaders who wanted to visit Russia would receive an equally warm welcome. But he did not say whether any planned to come.

His "general impression" of American, he said, was this: "There is a growing conviction that despite the evidence of the cold war and the existence of many prejudices in the U.S.A. against the U.S.S.R. and its attitude, the atmosphere generally is now favorable for steps toward peace."

Closer Economic Ties
He pointed out that in his meeting with American "capitalists" the businessmen had shown great economic ties with Russia.

They "frankly stated that we must normalize our relations," said the Communist leader who dined on Wall Street.

He reported that his meeting with American labor leaders, unlike those with businessmen, was "stagnant to the end."

He and Walter Reuther tangled verbally over Berlin and Hungary, he said.

Reuther thought he crushed me, but I gave him back plenty," Mikoyan said through his interpreter.

Latin American Opinion Turns Against Castro Regime

By ALBIN KREBS United Press International

The echo of revolutionary firing squads in Cuba has resulted in criticism of the Fidel Castro Regime in Latin American nations as well as in the United States.

In the tempestuous history of Latin America, the idea has been accepted that any government may topple at any time by the violent means of revolution.

But infused as they may be to the revolutionary principle, Latin Americans have also formed a revolutionary honor code or tradition:

"To the victor belongs the spoils but not the lives of the vanquished."

Latin American public opinion, with the excesses of recent dictator regimes fresh in memory, at first followed with sympathy the progress of the Cuban revolution.

The Mood Changed

When the executions got underway, however, the mood changed. The Argentine Congress was quick to address resolutions to provisional President Manuel Urutia, asking urgently that the executions cease.

The influential newspaper, La Prensa of Buenos Aires asked the Cuban courts to give the accused "due trials, with full legal guarantees."

The Catholic newspaper, El Pueblo of Buenos Aires said the summary executions were "an anomaly which is repugnant to the most elemental principles of humanity and Christianity."

Colombia's leading newspaper, El Tiempo of Bogota, said the Americas have been following "with horror and disappointment the bloody process of violence unleashed by the triumphant Cuban revolution."

Followers of Batista are being put to death "without observing any law," said the conservative El Siglo of Bogota.

Another conservative Colombian daily, La Republica, said Castro had "come out of the wilderness, but wants to go on behaving as though he were among savages."

Recalls Earlier Terror

"The horror of these executions recalls the terror of the French Revolution and the frightful scenes of the Russian Revolution in 1917," La Republica continued.

"Instead of trials, assassinations are committed," said Mexico City's Excelsior. "Instead of punishing those guilty of abuses and outrages, the most implacable vengeance is exercised, and in that manner Cuba is crucified in a fratricide without precedent, without an end to the horrible nightmare yet in sight."

This was the temper of most

GRAY COUNTY Soil Conservation District News

It is time to seed grasses within the Gray County Soil Conservation district. A change in planting dates has been made this year for a number of grasses, and warm season grasses may be planted beginning Jan. 1 and ending June 1. The district grass drills at Mc-

Lean have been put in good shape, and the drills have been repaired. It is hoped that with the new look on drills each cooperators will handle them with the care of a new drill. There are also drills at the Reed Humble station on Highway 66 and at the Laketon Co-op store. There are a number of places where grass seed may be obtained this year. Some of the local people in this conservation district have harvested grass seed and have it available. Others may have thought about harvesting seed. Now is the time to make the decision. An old field that has been unproductive may produce good grass seed. There are a number of native ranges that could provide seed harvest. To get a seed harvest, plans have to be made now. For seed harvest a pasture should not be grazed until after harvest. Deferred grazing will also help improve the range condition. Grasses under irrigation may be profitable also. Grass under irrigation can provide a good seed crop and then provide either a hay crop or be used for grazing. Most places, under irrigation

Red Griggs ★ the pipeline

Pampa basketball fans can see the nation's best known men's and women's amateur basketball teams here on the same program.

The men's amateur team is the Phillips Oilers, and women's team is the famous Wayland College Flying Queens. They will both be here Feb. 11.

Wayland will be going against Clarendon Junior College girls, and the Oilers will play the West Texas State Buffaloes, in Harvester Field House. Clarendon is an unknown quantity, and West Texas is a hot-and-cold squad capable of beating the best of them during a hot streak.

The Oilers are a perennial contender for the national men's AAU title, and the Queens are always in there fighting for the women's AAU crown. Last year, the Oilers tied for first place in the National Industrial Basketball League and reached the AAU semi-finals.

The Queens, who not too long ago had a fabulous winning streak of more than 100 games, finished third last year in the women's AAU tournament, and this year they beat Nashville Business College, the 1958 champion.

Loaded With All-Americans

This super-duper basketball doubleheader is being sponsored by the Downtown Kiwanis Club. Tickets are being sold by individual Kiwanians, and by Richards Drug. They can also be obtained from Rick Pezdirtz or yours truly at the Pampa Daily News. Prices are 75-cents for students, $1.25 general admission, and $1.50 for reserved seats—which isn't much more than you'd pay to see any ordinary basketball game.

The Phillips team is, as usual, loaded with former college and armed services stars. I've seen a couple of them play, and can testify that their reputations are well deserved. The one I saw in action several times was Ray (Shag) Warren, former TCU eager who was named the outstanding player in the Air Force at the close of the '57-'58 season. Warren led the Sheppard Air Force Base (Wichita Falls) team to the world-wide Air Force championship.

Warren averaged close to 20 points for a well-balanced team. He was beyond means a one-man show, because if his team mates had fed him he could probably have averaged 30 or more. He could hit from just about anywhere on the court.

The other eager, Red Murrell, I saw only once. But that was enough to make a believer out of me. Unlike Warren, he was almost a one-man team—the whole show for Drake. His team was at the time, engaged in drubbing North Texas State.

Besides Warren and Murrell, the Oilers have seven other former college or AAU All-Americans. They are: 6-8 Burdick Halderson, Colorado; 6-8 Jerry Harper, Alabama; 6-1 Dick Miller, Wisconsin; 6-3 Arnold Short, Oklahoma City; 6-5 Jim Spivey, SE Oklahoma State; 5-10 Gary Thompson, Iowa State; and 6-4 Grady Wallace, South Carolina.

Short Fights, Good Fights

The sports writing racket isn't always as easy as it's cracked up to be. But sometimes it's so soft I feel almost guilty picking up my paycheck. This week was one of those times.

About all I did this week was to watch some fine boxing matches, then write something about them afterward. In most sports, there are all sorts of tedious and bothersome statistics to keep, but not so in boxing.

All you have to do is watch what's going on, remember enough to write a story, circle the winner of each match, and write the time and round if it's a knockout or TKO.

What a life! And to think some guys make a living doing nothing but covering boxing. It sort of reminds you of the college football players who "earn" their money by sweeping out the broom closet once a month.

Even in writing boxing, it would be possible to earn your money, if you had to watch many "wasting matches." Fortunately, though, you don't see many of those kind in matches involving Pampa boxers.

It seems that Ollie Williams, Glen James, Cliff Dunham, Nick

Chinnis, and Company teach their boxes to watch for an opening; then go in for the kill. Let's hope that, or their pupils don't believe in long fights.

There are two of the Optimist Club Effers. I'd walk a mile to see in action—Norman Rexroat and Glenn Ward. There may be others who know the finer points of boxing a little better, but there are few boxers more exciting to watch.

Both Rexroat and Ward seem to have a real "killer instinct." When they sense that they've stunned an opponent or weakened him, they don't step back and box him, as many young fighters unfortunately do. They go in with both fists to finish him off. That's the kind of fight the fans like to see.

Two other Pampa boxers who seem to be especially good about following up their advantage are Charles Coffee and James Morse. Coffee is supposed to keep people awake, but this is one Coffee who's pretty good about putting them to sleep.

I have a feeling that fans will be watching some very good, but very short fights at Amarillo in the regional finals.

Four TKO's Pace Pampa to HS Title; Borger Wins Other Two

By RED GRIGGS
Daily News Sports Editor

Pampa's four-man high school demolition crew and Carl McCure, Dumas' one-man wrecking squad, put a blazing finishing touch Saturday night to the Pampa District Golden Gloves Tournament.

In the climactic fight of the night, for the heavyweight open title, McClure floored Herman Geise of Pampa in both the second and third rounds, before the referee stopped it at 1:56 of the third.

Pampa's hard-punching quartet of Norman Rexroat, Charles Coffee, James Morse, and Trent Olsen scored technical knockouts to lead Pampa to a comeback victory in the high school division. Borger went into Saturday's fights with a 3-2 edge in the high school division, but Pampa captured four of five.

Borger topped the open division with three solid decisions in the four fights they entered.

Borger also took the pee-wee division team championship five fights to three. They went into Saturday's action tied with Pampa at 2-2, then won three of five bouts. Of the remaining two, Pampa took one and Dumas one.

High School Meets
Norman Rexroat, a boy who was so tough they had to move him up a weight class so he could get some competition, spotted John Ward of Borger 10 pounds, then beat the socks off him for the high school middleweight title. The Rexroat-Ward bout was possibly the best fight seen in Pampa this year. The slugging was by no means one-sided, as Ward hit Rexroat, about as much as Rexroat hit Ward. The boxer even had Rexroat on the ropes several times, but even then Rexroat landed the more damaging blows. After a particularly vicious flurry by Rexroat, which put Ward practically out on his feet, the referee awarded the Pampa a TKO at 1:12 of the second round.

Coffee hurt Melvin Wilkinson of Borger three times in the second round. The referee suspended the fight temporarily after the first two times to see if Wilkinson could continue, then awarded a TKO to Coffee after the third time, at 55 seconds. This fight was for the lightweight high school title.

Morse scored the quickest TKO of the night, opening a bad cut over the eye of Ronald Lytle of Borger after only 31 seconds of the first round. Morse had been in trouble briefly against Lytle, before moving in against Lytle. Olsen, the 105-pound high school champion, had Borger Negro Autry Greene against the ropes several times before scoring a TKO at 41 seconds of the second round.

In the other high school fight, Roy Brown of Borger decided Johnny Ironmonger of Pampa for the 112-pound title.

Ward Fightingest
Glenn Ward, who was presented with the Fightingest Fighter Award, broke away from his usual style of wading in and slugging his way to victory. He counterpunched his way to victory over Charles Snider of Pampa for the 160-pound open title. Ward was fighting with a bandaged left side and an injured ear. Because of Ward's injured ear, both fighters wore headgear. Gary Wills won the 147-pound open title for Pampa with a hard-

Lucky Dunham of Pampa for the 126-pound title; Charles Moore of Borger decided Dickie Wills of Pampa for the 118-pound crown; and Jimmy Bryant of Borger decided Dickie James of Pampa for the 112-pound championship.

Fee Wees
In the pee-wee division, Ronnie Goodwin won Pampa's only match for Saturday night, defeating Charles Hooten of Borger for the 80-pound title; Joe Landess of Borger, 85, decided Larry Austin of Amarillo; Carliss Hooten of Amarillo, 90, beat Edmund Hardin of Pampa; Paul Garcia of Dumas, 95, topped David Howard of Bor-game Larry Foster of Borger; and Jerry Wilson of Borger, 100, decided John Mathis of Williams of Borger decided Pampa.

HARVESTERS HATCHET BULLDOG QUINT

Layne Hits 25; Sandies Are Next

By RICK PEZDIRTZ
Daily News Managing Editor

You probably didn't notice, but that was about a barrel full of bereavement floating above your heads as you filed out of Harvester Field House Friday night.

Bereavement brought about by the shocking news of last Sunday's shoulder-injury to Pampa High's quick little floor general was wiped out Friday night as Clifton McNeely's bustling Big Green Warriors whooped it up on the war path to their 19th straight victory of the 1958-'59 season and extended to 32 a two-year winning string.

Victims of the District 3-AAAA scalping party were the out-classed Plainview Bulldogs in an 81-51 massacre.

Biggest hatchet man of the evening was 6-5 Mack Layne who hooked and tipped in eight field goals and found the mark with 9 of 11 house shots for a 25-point night. He was backed solidly by Coyle Winborn's 16 points and Bob Gindorf's 13.

Phillip Gist, who teams with Joe Timms in replacing Minor, had eight points. Timms had six as did Craig Winborn and sub Hershel Terrell. Mert Cooper added a free throw to round out the home scoring.

Jumping Johnny Messer was the only serious offensive threat for the visitors, meshing 16 points. The 30-point verdict put the Harvesters at 6-0 in conference competition. They need only a win over Amarillo's third place Sandies in the tiny Amarillo Armory Tuesday night to finish the first half of the loop chase unscathed.

Plainview's loss dropped them into a fourth place deadlock with Palo Duro, both at 3-3, behind the Sandies and Borger's second spot 5-1 mark. Lubbock at 2-4, Monterey at 1-5 and Tascosa at 0-6 round out the circuit standings.

The Harvesters sunk an even 60 per cent of their shots from the field Friday night, enjoying their most success in the second stanza as they connected with 60 per cent of their attempts. They hit 48 per cent in the first period and even with reserves flooding the court, managed a horrid 64 per cent in the last canto. Plainview hit 34 per cent for the night from the floor and an icy 7 of 19 from the free throw line. Pampa was 25 of 35 from the house stripe.

Plainview, graced with good height, almost measured Pampa in rebounds, grabbing off 38 to the Harvesters' 42. Of their 42, Pampa plucked down only nine on offense while Plainview had 18 on offense, 20 on defense. Coyle Winborn with 9 each and Bob Gindorf with 7, led the rebounding.

The 81 points, accomplished without Minor, represented the highest third highest output of the season in one game. They hit 87 against Mangum, Okla., on Dec. 1 and 90 against San Angelo on Dec. 5.

With Coyle Winborn scoring five of the first six points the Harvesters held Plainview almost three minutes before giving up a hook-shot bucket to Larry Akin.

West Tops East, 124-108

By NORMAN MILLER

DETROIT (UPI)—To rookie Elgin Baylor, the 1959 National Basketball Association All-Star game was "the biggest thrill of my life." To "old pro" Bob Pettit, it was once again a chance to show his class, on and off the court.

The two stars had just been named co-winners of the game's Most Valuable Player award, following the West's 124-108 upset victory over the East Friday night and the question arose, who should take home the cup?

"Here, you take it," Pettit said, handing over the trophy to Baylor in the dressing room. "I've already got two. Enjoy it."

This marked the first time in the nine-year history of the classic that two players shared the honor. League President Maurice Podoloff said he would have another trophy made for Pettit's share. But as far as the six-foot-nine St. Louis Hawks forward was concerned, this was Baylor's night.

"When a guy plays forward, center and guard all at the same time, there's not much else you can ask him to do," Pettit commented. "Baylor's really a great ball player. It's a pleasure to play with him."

Pettit, the league's leading scorer, hit with two successive three-point plays at a crucial stage in the final quarter to boost the West All-Stars to their third victory over the East in the nine games

Longhorn Coach to Resign

AUSTIN (UPI)—Marshall Hughes, head basketball coach at the University of Texas, says he will resign at the end of the present season.

Hughes said Friday night, "I have reached the time when I feel I should make the decision between coaching and teaching."

His Longhorns have a current record of three victories and 12 losses.

Hughes head basketball coach since September, 1957, said "I came to the University to prepare myself for teaching and have kept that objective in mind throughout my stay here."

24 victories and 38 defeats. His freshman teams won 61 games and lost 22 in seven seasons.

The decision is his own choosing, the coach said.

Athletic Director Ed Ollie accepted Hughes' resignation, and said "we think Marshall has made a fine contribution to the basketball program at the university."

Hughes, the recent subject of an effigy hanging on the campus, holds a Master of Science degree in education.

Hagan Helps West
Cliff Hagan of the Hawks played a key role in the West's victory when he ran off nine of his team's last 12 points in the second period to help turn a 45-40 deficit into a 61-52 halftime advantage.

Bob Cousy of the Celtics, who on the eve of the game was a doubtful starter because of a leg injury, played 32 minutes and scored 13 points.

Paul Arizin of Philadelphia led the East in scoring with 18 points, one more than Ken Sears of the New York Knickerbockers.

GARCIA TRIES RETURN; SIGNS WITH CLEVELAND

United Press International
It's bound to be a long, tough road back out of the woods, but the "Big Bear" is going to give it a try.

Mike (Big Bear) Garcia signed his intention of launching a comeback today by returning his signed contract to the Cleveland Indians.

The 35-year-old Garcia, once among the top pitchers in the American League, drew his unconditional release from the Indians last June because of back trouble. He had a 1-0 record when he left the Tribe.

Since his release, Garcia has undergone an operation and following it, he undertook a program of exercising to strengthen his back. The veteran right-hander while holding or pitching, so the Indians have decided to give him another chance.

Cincinnati signed five players to come to terms with five players and now has a total of 16 men under contract.

Infielder Eddie Kasko, obtained in an October trade with the Cardinals, and pitcher Hal Jeffcoat, Orlando Pena, Charley Rabo and Claude Osteen were the latest acquisitions.

The Washington Senators also came to terms with five players and have a total of 10 signees now. Infielders Herb Pless, Jr., and Ron Sanford signed contracts along with catcher Steve Korchek and J.W. Porter.

Kansas City announced the signing of outfielders Jim Small and Bob Martyn and pitcher Harry Taylor.

The signing log ran over at the Yankees' front office finally was broken Friday when veteran Hank

Bauer suddenly popped in and became the first player on the club to agree to terms.

HARVESTERS

Messer hit four first quarter baskets to keep the Bulldogs nipping at the Harvesters' heels. By the period's end, it was only a three point edge Pampa enjoyed, 20-17.

However, Layne, Gindorf and the two Winbros warmed up to tally 22 points between them in the second stanza for a 42-31 half-time cushion.

Two minutes deep in the third period the Dogs pulled within four baskets of Pampa, 44-36, but from there it was Katy Bar Dat Door as the Harvesters streaked to a 64-38 lead, scoring 20 points to two for their guests. It was 64-42 at the end of the third period.

With sets on the floor most of the time, the Harvesters managed to widen the lead, outscoring the Bulldogs, 17-9, in the last eight minutes, with sub Joe Timms "pacing the late barrage with three 'snow-bird' clear and easy lay-ups on length-of-the-floor passes which helped ruin a full court press which had been employed from the outset.

White Deer Takes Four

WHITE DEER (Sp) — The home town teams had a great night here Friday, winning four basketball games and losing none.

The White Deer Bucks defeated Panhandle's Panthers, 67-56; the boys' B team edged Panhandle B 46-44; and the girls B squad romped over Panhandle girls' B 46-34.

The Bucks now stand alone as leaders of District 2-A, with a 5-0 record. Panhandle, the only other previously undefeated loop team, is now 3-1. White Deer's girls also lead the district with a 5-0 record.

Jeff Bearden led Buck scoring with 21 points, Ronnie Code netted 17, and Ellis Knight hooped 16. For Panhandle, Gene Gavler canned 15 and Harley Hager meshed 14.

In the girls game, Mary Ann Freeman of the Bucks scored 24 points and Juanna Jo Moore tallied 19. For Panhandle, Sandra Chado and Vanece Osborne each had 18.

The boys B game was a real saw-afair. White Deer led 17-8 at one point in the first half, but Panhandle rallied to outscore its opponents 1 to 1, and grab a 25-18 halftime lead. White Deer recaptured the lead late in the fourth quarter, and held it.

Rick Pezdirtz
purely paydirt

Feeling especially benevolent this bright sunshiny Sunday morn, possibly because the accursed rumors that the high-flying Pampa Harvesters couldn't click smoothly without their ace playmaker, Charlie Minor, have been defeated at close grips, we'd like to ask Mr. Toby Druin of the Borger News-Herald to put his shoes back on, and tie those shoelaces tight Toby. That is if you were ever taught how.

We request Toby to don his leather, foot-wear because the "sour grapes" he's been jumping on all this basketball season ain't making no red wine, just a lotta nonsense. The latter of which, makes a very lousy drink.

First off, the Harvesters looked superb in waltzing past a supposedly tough-snapping Plainview Bulldog here Friday by a 30-point spread, 81-51.

Secondly, with or without Charlie Minor, the Harvesters will bring blush to the cheeks of Tex Hanna and his Borger quint when 'ere the Pampas and Borger meet again on the night of Jan. 30.

Thirdly, there is that old Confucius saying: "If your yap can't do its yapping nicely, keep your yap yapped."

SWC Prexy Denies Use of 'Gag Rule'

HOUSTON (UPI) — Dr. O. B. Williams, president of the Southwest Conference, Saturday denied the conference's so-called gag rule and denied any censorship of news.

The denial was made in a letter by Williams to Calvin Clyde of Tyler, president of the Texas Daily Newspapers Assn., which was released Saturday by John H. Murphy of Houston, TDNA executive vice president.

Clyde, in a letter Dec. 26 to Williams, blasted the conference over the gag-rule clause and accused it of withholding news.

The Texas Sports Writers Assn. in its recent meeting at Dallas, also deplored the gag-rule and endorsed the protest by the TDNA.

Taking exceptions to statements by Clyde in his letter, Dr. Williams said:

"Neither the Southwest Conference nor any of its member schools has a rule which allows one medium of communications a privilege which is denied to another medium.

"Newspapers, radio and television are all free to take any pictures, either still or moving, and to make use of these without restriction other than that no more than three minutes of a moving picture may be shown on television.

"Contrary to your information,"

Williams said, "there is no policy of secrecy on any news item within the conference or among its member schools.

"Not all discussions and considerations leading to a decision can be released," Williams pointed out, "but in all instances of which I have any knowledge the decision itself has been made public as soon as possible after it was made, so long as the subject matter was not of such a nature as to make the conference liable to legal action.

Towel Incident
"We have no conference policy, either implied or expressed, which restricts release of news.

"We believe, however, that permitting public criticism of game officials by coaches or other school officials, or having a part in featuring any happening which might possibly embarrass any game official is contrary to the spirit of amateur athletics," he added.

A controversy which touched off the criticism by the TDNA arose over an incident in the Texas A&M-Texas football game Thanksgiving Day in which an official accidentally threw a towel in the face of a player.

The game was seen on national television, but the University of Texas refused to permit newspapers to use the scene from the TV film.

Basketball Roundup

LUBBOCK — The Lubbock West erners coasted to a 61-33 win over Tardosa here Friday, in a District 3-4A game. Lubbock is now 2-4 in conference play, and Tardosa has lost six straight loop contests.

BORGER — The Borger Bulldogs are second to Pampa in district play, with a 5-1 record. Don Stamer scored 27 points for Borger, and Mike Goolen got 10 for Monterey.

CLARENDON — Clarendon shipped Memphis in a pair of cage contests Friday night, as the boys romped over the Cyclones, 37-37, and the girls won over the Memphis girls, 41-35.

Johnny Johnson scored 18 for the Bronchos, and Jerry Burnett tallied 12 for the Cyclones. Joan Bennett swished through 25 points for

TEXAS HAS FREE THROW KING

AUSTIN (UPI) — The Texas Longhorns have a real free thrower in Bobby Puryear. He'll take a free throw and spend it to the Steers' advantage almost every time.

Puryear has pranced to the foul line 53 times this season and 48 of those times have resulted in points for the Longhorns. That's a good enough for a lousy 98 percent and the current title to call himself the Southwest Conference's "foremost practitioner of converting free throws."

For the longhorns, its one of the few bright spots in an otherwise dull season.

For Puryear it's all formula: "I just do the same thing every time. Always bounce the ball three times, catch it, bounce it two more times, then shoot it. It seems to give me confidence. Other than that, all I do is think about the ball going where it is supposed to go."

This year the Harvesters were accused of engaging in an illegal scrimmage game with Clarendon Junior College prior to the November 1 deadline. The charge was dropped, however, in a meeting of the district in December. It still is subject to be brought up again, though, and word from the South Plains says that title favorite Odessa is ready to protest it and when the Harvesters and Bronchos meet in playoff play.

"But remember that old saying, 'If you're going to dance, you have to pay the fiddler.' Last weekend Charlie Minor, Pampa's first-making guard, the fellow generally given the credit for mak-

The Sourest Of Grapes!

It was in a column of Wednesday, last, that Mr. Druin waded indignantly: "Several times in the past few years the Pampa Harvesters have been accused of 'shady' practices in basketball. One of the most infamous was the clock incident in a game with Borger a few years back that enabled the Harvesters to overtake and beat the Bulldogs. Another was the using of an ineligible player to take the district and state championship in one of their title years.

Some Hither, Others Yon

No more wrestling with heavy overcoats and other cold-weather garments at Pampa High basketball games, Terry Haralson dropped by the office Friday afternoon to inform the Student Council will operate check stands (10 cents a coat) at the main entrance of Harvesters Field House, Coolidge Ave.

Did you hear about the Baylor officials who flew to the West Coast for a quick chat with Duffy Daugherty in regard to the recent Baptist coaching vacancy? Daugherty, just flying in from Hawaii, was late for the meeting and hustled up some stairs to the conference room. "Whew," said the breathless Duffy, "I'm gonna have to cut down on that beer. Right then, the conference might as well have been over, way before Duffy mentioned his $40,000 yearly salary at Michigan State.

OBSERVATION PLATFORM — Two can live cheaply as one. Providing one has the lockjaw.

Del Ray Mounts of Perryton ranks among the scoring leaders for the Texas Tech freshmen basketball team, with a 6.6 points per game average in five games. He has a total of 33 points in the five games played, connecting on 13 field goals and 7 out of 13 free throw attempts for a .538 average.

Mounts is the son of Mrs. Nellie Mounts of 810 South Amberst. He graduated from Perryton High in 1958 where he played quarterback for the Ranger football team and was named to the All-State basketball team, after having played guard for the Rangers for four years.

That'll be something when Amalillo's Texas League Gold Sox give the Top 'O' Texas area Class AA baseball, and here's hoping plenty of Pampa people support the Gilt-Hose. Emil Taghliue wrote in Many Made it to Majors After Long Minor Stint!

By JACK CUDDY
United Press International
NEW YORK (UPI) — Some exciting notes would have been left in baseball history had the stars of yesterday followed the recent minor league suggestion: Quit the game if you don't make the major leagues in five years.

That five-years-or-out suggestion was one of the rebuffals from baseball officials against the campaign of International League players to get a pension plan.

Perhaps the officials have forgotten Marse Joe McCarthy, a 250 hitter in the minors for 11 years. Joe stuck it out and became a manager, who led the New York Yankees to eight American League championships and six world titles.

The long list of those who refused to give up in the minors includes, of course, Paul Richards, called by Casey Stengel "one of the best brains in baseball today."

Fourteen Minor Years
Richards spent 14 of his first 17 baseball seasons in the minors. But he's a $75,000-a-year executive in the game today, with Baltimore. And he's probably a lot happier than if he had turned to some other occupation after five seasons in the minors.

Jim Turner spent 12 years in the lower echelons before he won every year.

20 games as a rookie for the Boston Braves in 1928. And today, thanks to his perseverance, he's one of the most skilled and highly paid coaches in the business.

He picks up his annual World Series check with the New York Yankees and is doing quite well.

"Exceptions? Well, it's a long, long list; and it includes men who starred ahead as well as in managing or coaching capacities later in their careers."

Magie Modern Example
An excellent modern example is that master curve-baller Sal Magie. One of the National League's authentic greats, he guided the Giants to two championships and helped the Dodgers to another. He had spent seven years in the minors "learning his trade."

"Want more? Johnny Mize ... Fred Fitzsimmons ... Mary Grierson ... Dick Donovan ... Stan Covelski ... Max Surkont ... Joe Collins ..."

Mize, number nine on the all-time homerun list with 359, was seven years downstate before he made the big time. Fitzsimmons, the great knuckle-beller who won 214 major-league games, came up to the majors in his seventh year in the organized sport.

The average London commuter travels 1,939 miles on 479 trains the lower echelons before he won every year.

Patterson-Johansson Fight Set

INGEMAR JOHANSSON

FLOYD PATTERSON

NEW YORK (UPI)—Floyd Patterson and Ingemar Johansson have been matched for a heavyweight title fight in June, promoter Bill Rosenfeld said today. "Unless attorneys find flaws in their agreement before Wednesday," he said.

He said the fight between world champion Patterson and Johansson, Sweden's unbeaten European champion, was "closed in principle" Friday night after a cordial three-hour conference.

"Now it's up to the attorneys," he said, "to draw up the contracts and review them. I hope to have the fighters sign on Wednesday."

He said complete agreement was reached after a conference among himself, Gus D'Amato, Patterson's manager, and Johansson, who flew into New York from Sweden Friday. Edwin Ahlqvist, Johansson's advisor, attended the conference, "but merely as observer." The exact date in June and the date of the 15-round bout will be announced sometime within 30 days after Wednesday's signing, he said.

The only two lingering obstacles to the match were quickly ironed out, the young promoter explained.

Johansson agreed to post a sizeable forfeit to guarantee Patterson a return shot at the title in case Ingemar wreaths it from Floyd in June.

Johansson gave unimpeachable assurances that he had taken proper legal steps to prevent an injunction against his going through with the fight in case contender Eddie Machen of Redding, Calif., attempts to sue him on an alleged return-bout agreement.

Ahlqvist, who has no legal connection with Ingemar, signed an agreement for the return bout on Sept. 13, at Goteborg, Sweden, the day before Johansson knocked out top contender Machen in the first round.

No terms were announced, but

It was learned reliably that Johansson will get a guarantee of at least $100,000 against 20 per cent of all net receipts from the gate, theatre-TV or home-TV and movies. Patterson will get 40 per cent.

HURLING WILL BE KEY TO FATE OF RED SOX

By MIKE HIGGINS
Manager, Boston Red Sox
Written For UPI

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI)—Pitching, just like last year, holds the key to the Red Sox' fate in 1959.

Our pitching didn't come up to expectations last season, what with Tom Brewer and Willard Nixon getting away to show starts and Nixon eventually having to go home with his bad arm.

At that, we finished third although Delock's 14-8 won-loss record was the highest on the staff. He was 10-0 as a reliever. Nixon still remains a big question mark, but we should get better performances from Brewer (12-12), Frank Sullivan (13-9), Dave Sisler (8-9) and possibly from Delock.

Then, too, Ted Bowditch, who beat the Yankees three times among his four victories, and Bill Monbouquette (3-3) could develop into starters on the basis of what they showed last year after being brought in from Minneapolis. Others Show Promise

And Herb Moford, whom we obtained from Detroit, is a better pitcher than his 4-9 record with the Tigers would indicate. He had six complete games among his 11 starts and had a 3.60 earned-run average.

Frank Bauman, who wasn't at all consistent last season, could also come around and live up to the promise he showed in three real good games. Then, there's Murray Wall and Leo Kiely for good relief duty and a couple of promising lefties up from Memphis—Dean Stone and Tom Bourland.

Elsewhere, the Red Sox should have more punch than a year ago. The reason should be Vic Wertz, for whom we gave up Jim Piersall in a trade, and maybe Jim Busby, for whom we traded Buty Klaus.

Wertz has had some fabulous days—against us in Boston. Now, maybe we can get that help for our side.

We need help on the road. We couldn't win away from home last year, losing 52 against only 22 victories after nearly a 50-50 break the year before.

Wertz will go at first base with Dick Gernert, who hit 237 and drove in 69 runs; will back him up.

And, if we need him, Pete Runnels can fill in there again as he did last year. But, we're counting on Pete, who lost the batting championship to Ted Williams on the final day—for full-time duty at second.

Malzone At Third

Runnels, who hit 322 to Williams' 328, also can shift to third if necessary. But, Frank Malzone, who hit 295 and drove in 87 runs, played every inning at third last year and isn't apt to need relief.

At short, Don Buddin should be over the rustiness acquired during two years in service and be more consistent than last year. He should be a .260 or .270 hitter instead of .237.

Williams and Jackie Jensen—the RBI king with 122 and 35 home runs, belting his .286 average, are fixtures in left and right field.

And, Busby, a fine base runner, might return to the form of two or three years ago with the change of scenery and improve on that .252 he had with the Orioles. He or Gene Stephens will be in center.

Sammy White and Pete Daley would return behind the plate and could get some stiff competition from Heywood Sullivan if the youngster recovers from a disc operation that cut him down last year after a good spring.

Rigney Optimistic On Giant Chances

By BILL RIGNEY
Manager San Francisco Giants
Written For UPI

WALNUT CREEK, Calif. (UPI)—I'm still not doing any predicting even if we did finish third last year after a lot of people had us down for fifth or sixth.

Let's just say I think we have a definite chance of being a contender.

But here's one thing I really want to get across: I don't buy any of this talk about "sophomore jinxes" and am looking for even better years from last year's key rookies—first baseman Orlando Cepeda, catcher Bob Schmidt and third baseman Jim Davenport.

Pitching is our biggest problem. But that doesn't mean I'm exactly upset over our present staff. I'm looking for Jack Sanford, whom we obtained from the Phillies and Johnny Antonelli to work about 250 innings apiece next season. Both are big, strong men at the top of their form.

Neil Rafteries

If Mike McCormick, a left-hander like Antonelli, can pick up a little, he might figure as our number three starter. And let's not overlook Stu Miller who led the league in earned-run averages last year. They might comprise our big four.

Our second line pitching was not good last year. We need somebody to work the middle innings. Paul Giel looks like he has learned enough now to be effective there. Curt Barclay's sore arm seems okay again. John Fitzgerald and Dave Zanni also might figure as good middle men.

Billy Muffett, whom we got from the Cardinals, probably will handle the finishing-up job along with Al Worthington.

Let's take a look at the outfield. With Jackie Brandt in left, Willie Mays in center and either Felipe Alou or Willie Kirkland in right we could have a real exciting one to watch. They all can streak for that ball and have fine arms.

Hitting Second Sacker

One question I hear a lot is "what are you going to do about getting a second baseman who can hit?" Well, sir, we have one. His name is David Spencer, our shortstop, who also can handle the second base spot. I'm figuring to spot him there and let Andre Rodgers, the "big guy" go in at short.

Another question I often hear is "how about more sock at third?" I think we are solid there. Davenport knows how to make the big play. And his hitting will get better.

The bench is in good shape with such seasoned men as Whitey Lockman, Bob Spenke, Ray Jablonski, Hank Sauer, Danny O'Connell and Ed Bressoud.

Nothing The Matter With Psycopaths

By DELOS SMITH
UPI Science Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—The terms "psychopathic personality" and "psychopath" are being so loosely used by medical men and the public that they're losing any meaning, an English psychiatrist complained in what may be the start of an international scientific argument.

Psychiatry might as well give up those terms and substitute "sociopathy" because that's what a "psychopath" actually is—some one who disturbs normal social ways and thereby gets himself into trouble, Dr. Harold Palmer said in a recent lecture to a medical group.

A "psychopath" has no mental disease nor is he mentally deficient, said Palmer. Nevertheless, he "is seen by others to be more or less permanently awry and childlike in his behavior, in consequence of which he offends the social mores and sooner or later comes into sharp conflict with the established order."

Psychiatric science has yet to figure out anything really effective to do for psychopaths although trying to straighten them out in groups rather than individually seems to help.

But they don't seek help from psychiatry; nor do they accept it when it is offered or forced upon them. "It is the neighbors who complain and not the deviate himself," Palmer said.

Palmer specifically attacked the definitions of "psychopathic personality" approved by the American Psychiatric Assn. They include "so many diverse varieties, extending over such a wide range of inferiorities, instabilities, and anti-social tendencies as to render the expression useless," he said.

On the other hand, if you use the term narrowly and arbitrarily you "select such disagreeable traits as the excitable, the unstable, the impulsive, the perverse, the quarrelsome, the liar, and the swindler."

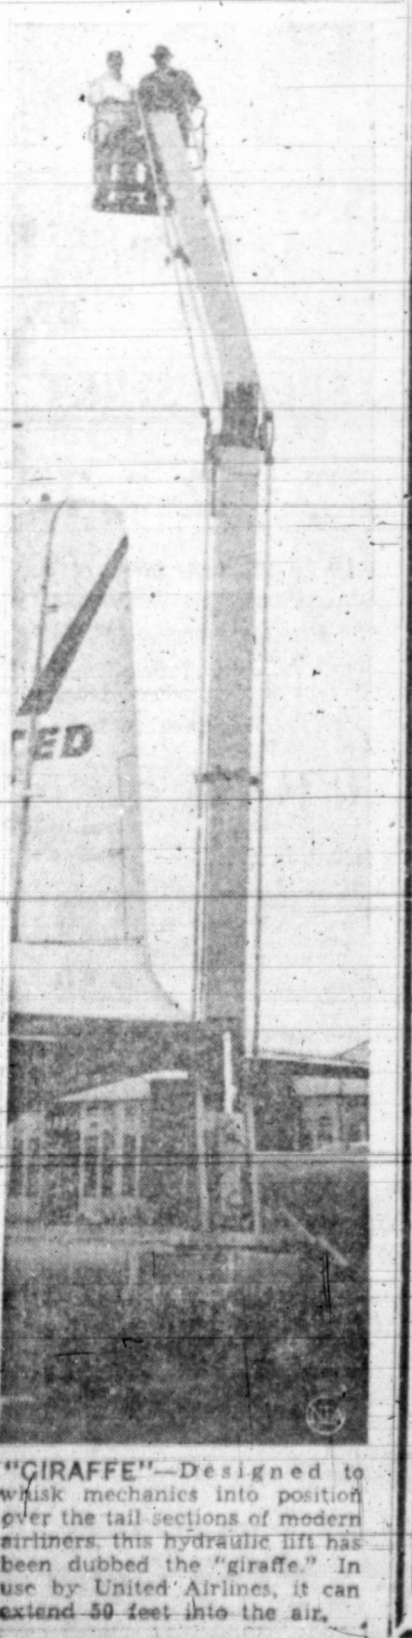

Yet and beyond question, there are "psychopaths" and "psychopathic personalities," he said.

"At all times men have recognized the existence in their midst of inferior or inadequate folk, some of whom were especially

Tunics Great For Mantling Tahitians

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Bearded Jim Moran, free-lance screwball and professional joker, stopped in Movietown this week with a get-rich-quick scheme to sell 10,000 purple tunics to the natives in Tahiti.

Moran, who has hatched an ostrich egg, sold an ice box to an Eskimo, painted a cow purple, spent 82 hours finding a needle in a haystack, and applied for a job as volcano watcher, stands to make $50,000 if the Tahitians dig his crazy costumes.

The usually ebullient huckster was depressed after spending five weeks in Africa where he failed to sell a tunic to the native tribesmen.

"The natives are poor and set in their ways," Moran sighed. "A bad combination for a salesman. But I've been advised the Tahitians will buy my tunics as soon as I get off the plane."

the satin and velvet tunics to chowder and marching societies in this country, but to no avail.

"I figure to make a profit by selling 'em for five bucks apiece," he went on. "They cost $38.20 originally, and they've never been sold."

Moran has been reasonably inactive since he traveled to Florida to get half sunburned and returned to California to bake the other half so he could compare the two varieties.

Experiments With Kites
"I've been experimenting with kites that carry midgets aloft," he said seriously. "It's a great art."

Consumption Of Newsprint Dipped

NEW YORK (UPI)—Estimated newsprint consumption in the United States decreased slightly last year, partly due to newspaper strikes, according to an American Newspaper Publishers Assn. report.

The ANPA estimated that newsprint consumption during 1958 was 6,599,981 tons, compared to 6,189,000 tons in 1957.

They average about 5-foot 6-inches. I also learned that pygmies aren't hunters.

"I wonder if there's any profit in those discoveries," Moran continued.

consumption during December, month of the lengthy newspaper strike in New York, was 523 tons compared to 577,905 for same month in 1957.

famous Buster Brown shoes for boys' and girls. A real mo-paw, no-no-don't slip-up bargain if you can fit your child.

Peg O' Pampa

About all we've seen of people this week has been their noses peeking out of up-turned coat collars somewhere between hunched-up shoulders and lowered scarves . . . quite an ideal week for reading that book you've been planning to read for so long . . . or getting a headstart on Spring sewing or wardrobe planning . . . in glancing through fashion magazines, which this year do not resemble the comics, we've noted that fashions this Spring might not be as much fun to wear, but they will be less "comment-provoking" for the drastic hems, chemises, and barrel-backs have been relaxed and modified . . . so, we guess, the male amateur connoisseurs of feminine fashion can relax too, never have heard so much "yowling" over feminine fashion as was done last Spring . . . seems the "watching-the-girls-go-by" enthusiasts don't pay much attention or comment, so vehemently on the annual change in hemlines . . . whether they're up or down but when the fashion designers start fooling around with waistlines and "really what's there" male starts howling we guess it's nice for them to see that women are actually women . . . femininity will be stressed this Spring . . . and it's wonderful to see the return of the valuable shirtwaist dress . . . we've always thought that women with true fashion know how never succumb to sickly whims of high fashion styling . . . they stick with the colors and styles most flattering and becoming to them . . . and thus remain an individual . . . another fashion note straight from a high fashion magazine . . . it's to be hats, hats, hats, this Spring . . . they're to be BIG and widebrimmed . . . but the shrewd hat-shop buyers will have a selection of the smaller hats . . . for the short "non-hat" wearers, who will compromise with the fashion dictates and purchase a small, unfettering hat so they will be at least on the tail-end of the fashion-parade . . . before we leave our favorite subject, fashions, we saw Aleith Curry this week, looking her usual, attractive well-groomed self (just try to catch this gal looking any other way) . . . she was wearing the most attractive white jersey coat with knitted black collar and cuff trim accented with big, ebony-black buttons . . . she looks so stunning in black and white . . . dashing about town on some errand or other, we glimpsed Zee Holloway wearing one of handsomest new capes seen in a long time . . . it was of Emba Autumn Haze . . . which is one of the most flattering colors to a woman . . . incidentally, this fur was chosen by Furriers at a recent showing to be the top luxury fur . . . mink, we hear, is just "no-where" . . . well, goody, now we don't have to worry about not owning one, anymore.

ENGAGED

The most fashionable woman is the one who holds onto the old just as long as it is good and grabs the new just as soon as it is better — Anon

ONE OF THE GREATEST losses to the community this week was the passing of J. Aaron Meeks . . . who was loved by all who knew him . . . a man of integrity and selflessness . . . who offered friendship regardless of position or wealth . . . makes you stop and think, doesn't it? . . . maybe we should all take stock of ourselves . . . just what are we seeking in life? True friendships or false-gilted ones?

THE WEATHER this week didn't prevent a nice turnout for the reception honoring Richard Cass, pianist, who performed brilliantly for members of the Pampa Community Concert Ass'n . . . Pampa Music Teacher's Ass'n were hostesses for the reception in the City Club Room and the number of guests attending indicated that the warmth of Pampa hospitality ignores the thermometer's freezing temperatures . . . in addition to special guests, our own Bob Stafford, Community Concert representative from New York was there . . . also Curt and Willie Beck . . . who were enjoying their "first evening out" since the arrival of their new son . . . the weather, though did send some wary Penwomen home early from their meeting this week in the Amarillo Country Club . . . knowing the treacherousness of a "blowing-snowing Texas Norther" here on the high plains, Eleanor Waggoner, Marcella Hudson, Ann Breining, Ruth and Helene Huff left reluctantly before the completion of the interesting program . . . Lorene Locke and Evelyn Nace remained for the last remnant because they had come prepared to stay over if the weather prevented them from driving home . . . heard that Lorene was proud of the turn out of Pampa Penwomen . . . Lorene accepted the club's gavel which she will hold in one hand and her author's pen in the other . . . news from the writing circle is that Wanda Campbell is taking classes in mystery writing under the instruction of Ellery Queen on the University of Texas Campus, while Johnny is pursuing his studies there, also . . . It Couldn't Have Happened To A Nicer Person Dept. Marion Osborne was awarded the "Thanks" badge from the Top of Texas Girl Scout Council board at its recent banquet . . . this is one of the highest honors that can be given to an adult scout worker . . . for it signifies "service above and beyond the call of duty" . . . Marion will be spending this July in Colorado . . . she has just been selected by the National Board to attend the Senior Patrol Encampment and will be in charge of a troop of girls . . . also, in the "it couldn't have happened to a nicer person" department we noted that Jay Flanagan has been nominated for the current Courtesy Award . . . which nomination emanated from a group of Senior Citizens, where you will find Jay each Thursday afternoon in Lovett Memorial Library . . . even though Jay isn't eligible for the award because she is her own "boss" . . . they felt that she does so many kind and thoughtful things for them outside of the regular routine of her chairmanship, as Altrusa Senior Center chairman that they wanted her to know with this nomination how much they appreciate it.

WEDDING BELLS DEPT. . . wedding bells, symbolically new and shiny, will ring out on Valentine's Day for Charlotte Claunch and Charles Hall . . . for they've selected that day for their wedding in the First Christian Church . . . Charlotte will make a Sweetheart of a bride . . . other wedding bells, golden and mellowed through 50 years of marriage, imaginatively pealed out on Sunday last, when John and Eva Markee were honored by their two sons and two daughters with a reception in their home . . . there seems to be a halo of happiness about these two whenever you see them . . . bet they made a "cute couple" (as the teenagers would say) back on Jan. 14, 1909 in Marietta, Ohio . . . for they make a very attractive and pleasant couple today.

JUST A LITTLE OF THIS AND THAT . . . The Jeff Beardens, the Jim Tripplehorn, the Dr. Frank Kelleys, and the Ed Myatts were hosts for a cocktail-buffet last night in the Country Club . . . if you saw Hettie Tschirhart beaming this week it was because of the news that she has received of her granddaughter, Pat Bolin Pepin, success at an art show conducted by the Odessa Junior Chamber of Commerce . . . Pat, who graduated from high school here . . . and who is now Mrs. James Pepin and lives in Odessa . . . recently won first place with a landscape view of a mountain valley with tawny grass running back between towering peaks to slate blue skies . . . Pat has just recently taken up art as a hobby, which may turn into a career for her . . . we heard too, that her Dad, Dick G. Pepin, who is a former Pampa City Manager and has been City Manager in Odessa since 1952, has recently resigned that position to accept one with Southwestern Cement Co., which has a twelve million dollar plant under construction just west of Odessa . . . oh, yes, one other thing . . . before we run out of space, on Monday Night between the hours of seven and eight, open your hearts and doors and give generously to the Mothers' March for the badly needed funds for the March of Dimes Drive . . . and, now, to dispel an accepted fact . . . it is not true, absolutely not true, that Texas Millionaires are the biggest spenders in the world . . . nope, it's their wives . . . well, we might have exploded one theory with this column, but we've only proven another that "women can tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing" . . . Love, Peg.

Churchwomen's Role As Good Neighbor Illustrated For First Christian CWF

A candlelit picture of Christ created member interest during prayer and devotional on "Women" presented by George Taylor and group singing of "Take My Life and Let It Be" at the Christian Women's Fellowship meeting held in the church on Thursday evening.

Mr. Taylor also led a study group on roll-playing. He explained, "This is the acting out of material to be studied by others." Taking part in a scene between two CWF women inviting a new neighbor and church member to their CWF meeting were Mrs. John Gill, T. J. Wright, and W. C. Chapman.

During the scene, a discussion was held regarding women being board members of the church. Also following the skit, members discussed the scene and concluded women should be good neighbors and also should help all newcomers become a part of the church and make them feel a needed member in the church.

Mrs. John Gill, incoming CWF president, opened the business meeting with prayer.

Mrs. Aaron Sturgeon, secretary, read a letter from the Juliette Fowler Home in Dallas, thanking the CWF for the Christmas donation and gifts; also a card from Mrs. Pearl Thurman, church secretary and Carl Patchin, church custodian, expressing appreciation.

Mrs. Spoonemore Has WSG Meet

Mrs. W. A. Spoonemore was hostess to the Wesleyan Service Guild of the First Methodist Church on Monday evening in her home, 617 N. Gray.

Mrs. Lillie Mae Fowler opened the meeting with prayer after which Miss Minnie Allen, president, conducted the business session. Mrs. W. C. Hutchinson reported that plans were being made for participation in the World Day of Prayer, which is to be Feb. 13.

"Let the words of my mouth and the meditation of my heart be acceptable in thy sight, O Lord my strength and my Redeemer," was the scriptural background for an inspiration devotional given by Lillian Mullinax. The interest center was arranged by Mrs. W. C. Hutchinson.

Miss Inez Clubb conducted the study, "Christian Concern for our North American Neighbors," which concerned the islands of the Caribbean. Miss Alma Wilson reviewed "The Shadows That Cast," which clearly depicted the standards and needs of the people of Haiti. Miss Clubb told of the progress the people of Puerto Rico are making toward rehabilitating the low or no income class and how other countries were striving to attain the same results.

Refreshments were served to nineteen members, who were besides those mentioned already, Misses Alice Gordon, Ila Pool; Misses Ben Ogden, Sherman White, Aubrey Jones, J. A. Knox, Irl Smith, Malcolm Denson, Frank Shotwell, Roy Kilgors and L. B. Penick.

The next meeting for the guild will be on Feb. 2 in the church parlor with Mrs. Shotwell as hostess.

Making good use of the perfume, cologne and bath salts you got for Christmas is thrifty. If you put them away, they gradually lose their strength and you lose the joy of walking in a cloud of delicate scent. This pretty traveler (left) takes along her favorite toilet water in a tweedy scent as she starts on a journey by plane. A Christmas gift, it's in handy splash form, a gold flask that won't spill or break. She'll replace it once it's emptied since it's indispensable. At home, this girl uses her gift (center) just before going out for dinner. It's a perfume spray to carry in a handbag, one which measures over three hundred sprays of flattery. This girl got (right) her favorite foam bath in a lace-inspired scent. It turns a bath into a luxury.

Christmas Gifts Of Costly Fragrances Should Be Used Often For Most Benefit

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

Chances are you not only received your favorite perfume for Christmas, but other scents, too. Perhaps one of your gifts was a perfume far costlier than you would buy for yourself. Or you may have received a fragrance you've never tried before.

Either way, it's safe to wager that perfume and cologne were favorite gifts this holiday season. And now is a good time to learn how to get the most out of them.

First of all, remember it's foolish to save perfume for special occasions. There's no point in wasting it if you plan to spend the evening at home, reading. But whenever you are going to be among people, it's equally silly not to use it.

Should your budget demand it, of course, save your expensive perfume for the more glamorous moments. And here's the way to do it.

All perfumes evaporate but the process can be retarded by storing the perfume in a dark, cool place. Another good trick is to blow hard on the stopper before you put it back in the bottle. It helps reseal the bottle and slows up evaporation.

It's wise not to wear a particular scent just because it seemed so wonderful on a friend. Our body chemicals differ, and it may be that you won't like it at all of yourself.

Remember when you apply a fragrance that it should go on your face and not on your clothes. Apply it to the pulse points—the temples, wrists and base of throat from your Christmas fragrances.

And also to the ear lobes, brows and palms. Be sparing in dabbing it on, though, or you'll be overpowering.

Of course, toilet water and cologne are less concentrated and can be used more liberally.

If you prefer using an atomizer to dabbing on perfume, spray the scent into the air and walk through it. It will leave a delicate fragrance that will cling to you.

Above all, never use perfume just before you leave the house for a date. The scent will disappear almost immediately when you step outdoors. Give it at least 20 minutes to set before you go out.

There are fun uses for perfume, too. For instance, a touch at your nostrils at night will help you sleep. And there's much pleasure to be gained from a drop of scent in the last rinsing water after your shampoo.

It's a rare gal who doesn't love perfume. And if you apply it properly and are careful when you store that "extraspécial" bottle, you should reap months of delight from your Christmas fragrances.

DEAR ABBY...

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband's mother lives with us and I admit she's a saint. She makes my life much easier (she's a built-in baby sitter, a wonderful cook, etc.), but she has one fault that drives me nutty. When she feeds my baby (18 months old) she sits there telling him stories and every time she opens his mouth to laugh she shoves in another spoonful. The baby should be handing the spoon himself but he refuses to try. Because it's so much fun laughing, I try to feed him. Should I skip it or say anything? I hate to hurt her feelings.

DEAR PUZZLED: Let the doctor be the goat and tell "Nanny" that HE recommends that the baby start feeding himself.

DEAR ABBY: My girlfriend is getting married this Sunday. A boy I am VERY fond of asked me for a date on that day. Do you think if I asked him to go to the wedding with me he would think I was hinting?

DEAR NETTIE: If you ARE, he will probably think so. If you AREN'T, it won't even occur to him.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from the mother with the teenager problem reminded us of our own situation. We have a High School boy in our family. He wears his hair in a freakish way, rarely bathes or brushes his teeth (that is strict-

RUTH MILLETT

A woman should know better than to try to fool another woman about her age. If she takes five years off her age it will make another woman suspicious enough to add ten.

To win an argument from a man she is interested romantically a man may have to admit that he is wrong and a woman is right—but he doesn't have to like it.

To confide something she doesn't want told to another woman, even if the other woman is her best friend. The only secret a woman can be sure of keeping is the one she doesn't tell anybody.

To give a young man she doesn't like a date, simply because she doesn't want to hurt his feelings. She'll hurt him even worse if she goes out with him a few times and then starts begging off every time he calls her.

To believe the married man who tells her that his wife doesn't understand him. Chances are she probably understands him only too well.

To set a husband who isn't handy with tools on a do-it-yourself job, thinking it will save money. Such men don't find it at all unreasonable to buy a $200 power tool to save $20 on a $100 job.

To wear an unbecoming style simply because it is the very latest thing. No woman is attractive enough to deliberately wear an unbecoming style.

"Living Together In A Family" Topic For Parent Education Club Meeting

Mrs. Warren Farmer, president of the Parent Education Club, presented at the club's Tuesday afternoon meeting held in the home of Mrs. Fred Vanderburg, 1615 N. Russell.

During a brief business meeting, Mrs. Jack Osborne reported that the club's Christmas gift to the exceptional children's class room in Woodrow Wilson had been presented.

Mrs. Charles Lockhart was in charge of the program, "Living Together In The Family." In opening remarks on the topic, "Family Shape Personality," Mrs. Lockhart said, "Each human being is a personality, different from all others. Heredity gives the basic constitution, but children's personalities are strongly influenced by what parents are far more than what parents say. Mothers, who have enthusiasm for what they are doing, influence their children toward zestful living. If the father is a basically satisfied person, he will create friendly relations with his child that will increase the child's confidence."

Following adjournment, refreshments were served by the hostess.

Merten Home Demonstration Club met Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Jack Prather, south of the city for a program on 'Soil and Water,' presented by Mrs. T. G. Groves.

'Water or moisture is the most important factor for soil and plants,' Mrs. Groves stated. 'Farmers terrace to hold the water and to keep it from washing away. A sprinkler system or laying the hose down on the ground, are good ways to water a lawn and plants, but never hold the hose while watering.'

Mrs. Groves continued, 'Soil should be tested as to condition. Grass, when walked on feels like a rug, one can be sure it has been mulched with grass clippings, with grass that has been cut short and let fall over the lawn, or with good barnyard manure.'

Mrs. Groves concluded by saying, 'A good compost for plants is to make a hole in the ground, dump grass clippings, coffee grounds, tea leaves, leafy vegetables, cotton burs, water and let it age.'

Mrs. Bob Brandon opened the business meeting with the club prayer.

Daytime Dress Adopts Modified Empire As Waistlines, Like Taxes, Stay Up

By GAILE DUGAS, NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK (NEA) — A high waistline is the hallmark of the daytime dress for spring, 1959. This means the Empire waistline, of course, but it's so remote from the type that Josephine wore that she wouldn't even recognize these new designs.

It's a sea med, belted, wrapped and bloused. It may have a slim skirt or a full gathered skirt. (This is a variation from Empire dresses of the past.) This Empire silhouette takes nicely to many sleeve treatments. It's paired with three-quarter sleeves, elbow-length, cape treatments, sleeveless treatments and short sleeves.

The Norris' Feted At Housewarming

SKELLYTOWN (Sp) — Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Norris were recently honored with a surprise housewarming in their new home by a host of their friends.

It also offers a number of variations on the jacket theme. Most of these jackets are so brief as to constitute practically a pair of sleeves and a collar. But if they are long enough, they are belted at a high waistline. These jacket dresses are often done in silk prints but they are also shown in sheer woolsens. The dresses beneath them have a soft and supple look, are gently fitted to the body.

The full skirt gathered onto the Empire bodice is a new look for spring. The gathering is carefully done to avoid any hint of bulkiness. This is helped along by use of silks and chiffon woolsens which take beautifully to gathering.

Color is splashed generously throughout daytime dress collections. Rose magenta, lilac, mauve, blue, coral and yellow vie with creamy white, beige and navy.

How To Reduce; Change Minor Habits No Need To Crash Diet Self To Death

NEW YORK — The millions of Americans who annually suffer through the blitz method of dieting — and feel miserable about it — could take off more pounds and keep them off just by changing a few minor habits, Life magazine said today.

The magazine adds that dieting has become so popular, so fast, that it is considered by many medical men to be a "national neurosis."

Because of the differences in body chemistry, rate of daily activity and a dozen other considerations, it's virtually impossible for any one diet to be suitable for any but specific cases.

The trick, says Life, is not diet at all. It consists mostly of just a "little more exercise and a little less food each day." This probably represents the sum total of all that is really known on the subject of overweight. If this method will not reduce your weight, nothing will.

Under no circumstances, reports the magazine, is it necessary to live on grapefruit and Melba toast. Nor is it necessary to suffer the torments of hunger, for it is no great hardship for most people to live on 500 fewer calories a day and lose a pound a week, or even to live on 1,000 fewer calories and lose two pounds a week.

The secret is "skimping on the fatty foods — bacon, butter, chocolate, cream, sausage, greasy dressing and gravies — and filling the void with fruit, melons and vegetables. You can stuff yourself with celery, sauerkraut or tomatoes to your heart's content every time you feel the slightest twinge of hunger and still stay well within an effective reducing diet.

Life says that the "seemingly most inconsequential changes in eating habits can make a profound difference in weight over the months and years. If one eats more calories than he burns up, they get stored at the rate of one extra pound of fat for every 3,500 extra calories.

According to Life: A single extra slice of bread a day without butter (80 calories) will add eight pounds a year. An extra breakfast egg a day (85 calories) will add nine pounds a year, two tablespoons of heavy cream a day (100 calories) 10 pounds, a luncheon cocktail (150 calories) 15 pounds.

If two women of identical size do everything else alike — exactly the same daytime diet and the same amount of work — but one of them gets in the habit of eating a dish of ice cream before going to bed, this one will weigh 20 pounds more than the other at the end of the year.

A man who likes a piece of chocolate cake for dessert at lunch will weigh 40 pounds more at the end of the year than his friend of otherwise identical habits who likes grapefruit for dessert.

The trouble with dieting, says Life, is that it starts a cycle that almost inevitably leads the dieter to throwing off the shackles of self-control and gluttony himself.

People discourage easily with "Crash diets" that just don't peel off the poundage as fast as they are guaranteed to. They reconcile themselves to becoming overweight which they then proceed to do with considerable abandon.

Nobody, says Life, who likes food well enough to get fat in the first place can live for long on grapefruit and melba toast, bananas and skimmed milk. As a consequence: "The crash diet, so dear to the hearts of the women's page feature writers, has probably added more inches to more hips than any other culinary development since the first pig was roasted."

And there's this to remember. It isn't usually the girl whose father makes her feel pretty special whose head is turned by the first boy who hands her a line.

If you are really afraid of your daughter's head will be turned by her father's telling her how pretty she is, ask him to notice and comment on some other of her good qualities and accomplishments.

If his compliments sometimes refer to the good sense she has shown in making a decision, on something she has done around the house, or on her good grades she'll realize that looks aren't all that count, even though they are important to a girl.

So don't try to make your husband hoard his compliments. Just suggest that he spread them out to cover other things than his daughter's attractiveness.

Remember that compliments bring out the best in us far more often than they bring out the worst.

You might even try paying your daughter some compliments yourself. After all, you think she's pretty, don't you? Then why not tell her so?

UNUSUAL "pickle pineapple" with cheese base is a gas and delicious party idea. Pickles are a "must" ingredient for spreads.

COOK'S NOOK
Serve Pickle Canapes For Real Party Perker-Uppers

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

Pickles make appreciated guests at a party. For canapés, they combine their tang well with peanut butter and cheese, all combined into a spread. To produce a delicious conversation piece, shape the spread to resemble a pineapple and serve with thin slices of salty rye bread.

PICKLE PARTY PINEAPPLE
(Makes about 6 cups)

Two 8-ounce packages of cream cheese, softened; 1/2 cup grated process Swiss cheese; 1/2 cup grated process cheddar cheese; 1/2 cup peanut butter; 1/2 cup sweet pickle relish.

Combine cheese, peanut butter and pickle relish; blend, chill thoroughly. Serve as a spread for rye bread, as desired, or shape into ball and garnish with thin slices of sweet gherkin slices, as desired.

PICKLE CLAM SPREAD
(Makes about 1 cup)

One 7 1/2-ounce can minced clams, drained; 1/3 cup chopped cooked bacon; 1/2 cup chopped sweet mixed pickles; 1/2 teaspoon garlic salt; 2 tablespoons catsup.

Combine all ingredients; mix well.

There are a surprising number of different kinds of pickles in your market. Try them in new dishes, or serve them as relishes. They are always popular.

TOMORROW'S DINNER: Tomato and grapefruit juice cocktail, roasted rolled top sirloin of beef, whipped potatoes, buttered carrots, sliced dill pickles and gherkins, rye bread, butter or margarine, apple pie, cheese, coffee, tea, milk.

RUTH MILLETT

A mother writes: 'My husband keeps telling our 14-year-old daughter how pretty she is, and I'm afraid he is going to spoil her.'

'When I tell him he is going to make her conceited he just laughs and says, "It never hurt a girl to know she's pretty."'

And he's absolutely right — especially when the knowledge comes first from her father.

A teen-age girl needs a lot of reassurance to ever believe that she is something special. An admiring father can give her that assurance, without much danger that she will ever let his compliments make her conceited.

INDIVIDUAL PORK MOLDS

Ground pork is the basis for a great variety of popular dishes such as in these Individual Pork Molds. To prepare, simply combine 1 pound ground pork, 1 pound ground beef, 1 can (10 1/2 ounces) chicken soup, 4 cup quick cooking oats, 1 egg, 2 teaspoons salt, 1 teaspoon pepper and 1 tablespoon onion juice. Pack mixture into small loaf pans or individual baking dishes. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 45 minutes to 1 hour. Garnish with pimiento.

The German people respond naturally to the arts, with their operas, theatres and concerts. But I can't take La Traviata in German," says Tex, "and what's the other one? 'La Boheme'?"

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES

'Unemployment By Legal Decree'

Since the various legislatures are talking about raising the minimum wage, the inevitable results of minimum wages should be thoroughly understood.

The minimum wage law completely denies the truism that if jobs are to be permanent, with an ever-increasing wage, each and every employee and each and every employer should add to the wealth of the world an amount equivalent to his wages and or his profits.

The minimum wage law is based on the fallacy that wages can be arbitrary and that man need not produce his own wages. And if one man gets more wages or profits than he produces, then others, by necessity, must get less than they produce. This is true because the total cannot be greater than the sum of its parts.

Bettina Bien of the Foundation for Economic Education has an interesting article in the January "Freedom" magazine on the subject of "Unemployment By Legal Decree." She puts it this way: "Last year, when Congress was debating the question of a new minimum wage law, labor unions were strong in their praise of such a bill. When the new minimum of $1 an hour for workers in 'covered' industries became effective on March first of this year, they patted themselves on the back for their part in its passage. At the same time, they romanced their members to work for broader coverage at a still higher rate. A minimum wage law, they would have us believe, is the open sesame to the utopia of higher living standards for everyone, particularly for the poor. But is it?"

"Our first federal minimum wage law was enacted in 1938 — the so-called Fair Labor Standards Act. Its principal objective was to foster the minimum standards of living necessary for health, efficiency and well-being of workers."

"Our relationship with Puerto Rico then was such that the Act applied there also. Yet the Act led to such confusion and distress among Puerto Rican workers that they were later exempted from the 25 cent minimum wage which had been set nationally. Why? If the purpose of the law was to improve living standards, why discriminate against workers who were obviously much lower paid than those on the continent?"

"Although Puerto Rico has since gained a large measure of self-government, some of its laws still originate in Washington. This was true of the recent provision for a minimum wage of $1 per hour. Therefore, Congress discussed its likely consequences in Puerto Rico. A detail of congressmen visited the island to investigate. There was concern that the law, if applied in Puerto Rico, would lead to increased unemployment. In this connection, Director Joseph Monserrat, of the New York Office of the Puerto Rican Department of Labor, warned that the flat 25 cent minimum wage rate enacted in 1938 'did create unemployment.'"

"The version of the law finally approved by the Puerto Rican House of Representatives raised the legal minimum wage for the island's garment workers from 70 cents an hour to $1. David Dubinsky, president of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, was interested in this development; for his union had organized one group of the island's garment workers, the brassiere makers. Their pay then averaged about 80 cents an hour. Mr. Dubinsky feared that the $1 minimum wage, if it were enforced, would mean unemployment for many of the members of his union in Puerto Rico. According to newspaper reports of a meeting of the ILGWU last May he charged that Puerto Rican Legislators were trying to 'play a trick on us by giving us for political reasons, a high minimum in brassieres and later blaming it on Dubinsky and the ILGWU that the workers are starving and have no work.'"

"Apparently, Mr. Dubinsky was not alone in recognizing the potential threat inherent in a legal minimum wage set higher than the market could afford. The governor of Puerto Rico, Luis Munoz Marin, later reported to the ILGWU that the island's Legislature had decided to exclude brassiere makers from the new legal minimum wage."

"(To be continued) the letter's needs may be. The head of the family's duty is not to engage in futile sentimentalism but first to care for his own. However pitiful may be his appeals for charity or help from others."

"Mr. Braden's talk is a constructive milestone in contemporary thinking. Would that our political savants in Washington would take it to heart."

"From a predominantly free enterprise and private economy, there will emerge, due to foreign aid, a system of public ownership, planning and compulsory saving similar to that in Russia."

"I cannot resign myself to thinking that we must depend on foreign aid. It is demoralizing our youth and promoting lassitude and corruption."

"As a Latin American, I am ashamed of the begging policy coupled with aggressiveness and ingratitude."

"This aid is humiliating. Each country must resolve its own problems. If it needs aid from the outside, it should start by creating such favorable conditions as to attract the aid from private sources."

"The Cold indiscriminate aid given because your Congress authorizes it is a corrupting and impoverishing influence."

"The foreign aid fiasco is thus revealed and found wanting in nation after nation."

"Mr. Braden sums up his position thusly: 'One should neither sin nor bankrupt himself for the sake of his neighbor, however pressing'

And Now, the Congress Bowl

Robert Allen Reports:

Disturbing Figures Responsible For Probe

WASHINGTON — Two sets of gravely disturbing figures on U.S. and Russian missile capabilities are largely responsible for that sweeping defense investigation launched by Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson.

The Doctor Says:

There are some fortunate people who never have trouble sleeping. Many more of us sleep well a good deal of the time but have spells of sleeplessness and wake in the morning unrefreshed. A few have insomnia more or less continuously and are made miserable accordingly.

Down South

A TIME FOR UNITY

Over the years, the principal bulwark of good government in the United States has been the U. S. Senate. And the chief bulwark within the Senate against unwise action has been the unlimited debate rule, which is Rule 22.

Today the unlimited debate rule is threatened. A clique of Senate "liberals," headed by Senator Paul Douglas (D-Ill.), one of the most notorious spenders in the upper house of Congress, is attacking Rule 22 as Congress convenes.

Every American who wants to check radicalism and the spending mania in Congress has a stake in preserving Senate Rule 22. There is a lot of loose talk that the recently strengthened radical bloc in the Senate can strike out the unlimited debate rule. Fearful individuals are saying, "We must accept a compromise."

Senator Johnson (D-Tenn.), the majority leader who has an eye on the White House in 1960, is reportedly gaining support among Southern Senators for his compromise proposal, namely, that two-thirds of the Senators present be able to end debate.

It is fantastic that any conservative Southern Senator accept such a compromise in advance of the Senate battle on the unlimited debate rule. There is no question as to how Southern voters feel about this ancient privilege of extended speaking.

The Southern States have a considerable number of conservative Senators. If such a bloc, working in unison with like-minded Senators from other parts of the country, were united in opposition to this radical move to limit free speech in the Senate, it could strike it down.

There is no reason why these Southern Senators should not be united. For there are any reason why the voters in the Southern States should allow their rights to be forfeited without a fight.

Of course, the Senate majority leader can bring strong pressure to bear on Senators who do not go along with his policies. The old carrot and stick technique often works in Congress. By promising good committee assignments or by threatening to change a Senator's committee assignments, a majority leader can often force an individual Senator to fall into line.

But if the Southern Senators were firmly united, they could not be ill-used.

There is talk in the South that some Senators plan to remain quiet on the issue of unlimited debate and accept a compromise. Consider that it is not in their interest to stand that striking out the unlimited debate now, while politically popular as a slap at the South, also threatens every other group in the nation in the long run.

Furthermore, a vital issue is at stake in the unlimited debate rule. It is much bigger than any fight against "civil rights" legislation. Unlimited debate means that states, through their representatives, can speak their case and not be silenced by any ruthless majority. Unlimited debate protects all groups and interests in the United States, not merely the South. And there should be plenty of middle-of-the-roaders in the Senate who can be made to understand that striking out the unlimited debate now, while politically popular as a slap at the South, also threatens every other group in the nation in the long run.

It will be a disgrace if any of the South's Senators practice appeasement on this issue. The Senate is a great conservative device within our government. The unlimited debate rule guarantees an element of conservatism within the Senate. It is time for thoughtful Southerners to let their Senators know how opposed they are to any surrender on this issue. Ending of unlimited debate would ease the way for the radicals who want to spend this nation into a state of socialism directed by an all-powerful bureaucracy.

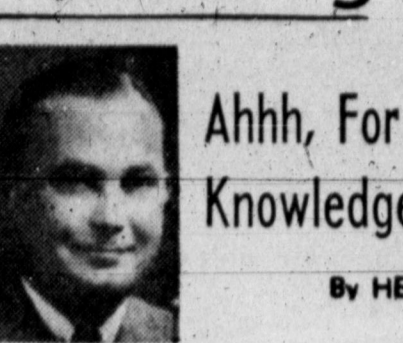

If Southerners let their Senators know their wishes — and the strength of their feeling against compromise, one can be sure that the Senators will not yield.

This is unnecessary, as most people can get nearly as much rest for their bodily functions by lying quietly and relaxing in bed as they would if they were sound asleep. Since worry is the principal cause of insomnia, its management is apparent. Before going to bed, some occupation which takes the person's attention away from the daytime cares is desirable. This may take the form of reading a book to one's self (or aloud), preferably one which is rather dull. Others may relax better if they engage in some reasonable physical exertion before retiring.

The choice of pre-retiring occupation should be made individually on the basis of personal likes and complete removal from the mental activity which is the major source of worry. Sometimes a warm drink just before retiring is helpful. Training oneself in muscle relaxation has been found practicable by many.

In reply to G. L., the drugs which induce sleep should be avoided in chronic insomnia. They are really advisable only for occasional use. Most of them are habit-forming and their effect wears off if used often. Alcohol to bring on sleep is also a poor idea.

Ahhh, For Some More Knowledge Of Math!

No Yellowstone bear ever grabbed a vacationist any faster than I did this morning's paper when I spotted a story headed: Arithmetic Now Taught By Improved, Enjoyable Method.

If it were true, and no one was playing a cruel hoax on those of us to whom long division still is a nine-headed monster, one of my major worries as a parent would be over.

No longer would I have to live in dread of that day when Megan brought me a problem to solve, only to discover that her father is a boob at numbers.

When I read that many of the nation's elementary schools have already adopted the new and revolutionary approach to arithmetic, and have found that students not only learn better and faster but actually enjoy it, I knew what I was going to do.

I was going back to school, no matter how uncomfortable the first or second grade benches proved to be, or how inadequate

I hope their recent victory will give the Democrats the inspiration to cope with the results of some of their other triumphs. It was the Democratic victory of Roosevelt and Truman that stopped the American armies at the Elbe and put the Russians into Berlin. It was Democratic victories of so-called "statesmanship" that put the martyred countries of Poland and Hungary behind the Iron Curtain. And it was that Democratic victory of Dean Acheson and General George Marshall, telling us that the Communists were mere "Agrarian reformers" that delivered the Chinese people to a government that admits murdering two million of its people (Western sources say 14 million) and by terror, reducing the remainder to slavery. These are Democratic victories that a Democratic Congress must contend with.

It is very hard to be a man of good will toward an evil man of bad will. Therefore most of us should be inclined to rejoice over the news that General Ivan Serov of the Soviet Secret Police has got the axe. All Russians are not bad men, as many of them proved during the Hungarian Revolt. Many of their military leaders in Budapest made honest efforts to deal with the Hungarians. It was Serov's arrival with Storm Troops from Central Asia who violated their pledged words and instituted a program of torture and massacre. The news that he has been stripped of power seems to bear out the saying that villains get their just deserts. Let's hope it isn't mere Khrushchev window dressing to create a false impression in the western world.

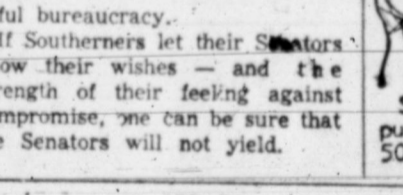

Young policeman — I solved the case. Superior complimenting him — Jack — how did you accomplish it? Young policeman — I stepped on the tank, too.

Jack had just returned from a visit to his fiancée's father. He was overjoyed with good cheer and returned entirely at peace with the world.

Friend — I've never seen you quite so happy. What happened on your trip to make you so joyful? Jack — Ah, what a father-in-law I'm going to get. He opened a bottle of whiskey to celebrate New Year's and threw the cork away.

Some men don't need to do push-ups. When they're pushing 50 that's exercise enough.

Oil Industry Starts On 2nd Century

By MAC SEEBER, United Press International

TULSA (UPI) — This is the year that the oil industry starts on its second century. If the next hundred years are half as eventful as the last century, there'll never be a dull moment.

Other rigs patterned after Drake's soon sprouted all over the countryside within two years there were 100 wooden derricks within a mile of Titusville. Success after success was reported from West Virginia, New York, Ohio, Kentucky and Tennessee.

Some Now Ghost Towns

Kerosene, a distillation of coal and shale oils, had been introduced 15 years before for lighting oils but it was not until Drake proved the feasibility of drilling to tap a commercial supply of crude that the oil industry was born.

The transformation of Titusville from a peaceful farming town into a center of activity set a pattern for the areas where most other major strikes were made.

Retary Drill In Use

At Sumnerfield, Calif., offshore drilling was first successful. But there had been a thwarted proposal to drill in the bed of the Allegheny River in 1851.

NPC Might Get Back To Business

By HARRY WILSON SHARPE, United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If it goes well the National Petroleum Council will get back into business next week.

The top-level oil industry group, which helps the government avoid costly errors in keeping the vast defense machine fueled, votes next Tuesday on whether to give the Interior Department, an equal voice in its functions.

Democrats Attacked System

Seaton's alarm grew originally from Democratic attacks on dollar-year men and unpaid advisory councils in the Eisenhower administration. Most of these men have resigned and about all the councils except the NPC have disbanded.

Captain Regueral Tells How Rebels Took Havana Airport

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Along the more dashing figures of the Cuban revolution is Spanish-born Capt. Jose Ramon Gonzalez Regueral — writer, photographer, soldier and adventurer. In the first few hours after President Fulgencio Batista fled the island on Jan. 1, it was not known whether his army would fight Fidel Castro's rebels. Here Gonzalez Regueral tells how he boldly took Havana International Airport with three men and La Cabana Fortress with seven.)

By Capt. Jose Gonzalez Regueral
As Told To Charles Schuman
United Press International

MAYANA (UPI)—Batista's abdication came as a surprise to many of us and there was no emergency plan to cover such a move.

So it was that in those first hours every man in Castro's 28th of July movement had to think and act for himself. I learned at about 8 a.m. of Batista's flight and took a quick-tour of the city in my car. I found it quiet.

If there was going to be any trouble, I reasoned, it will be at the airport, so I drove there, where I found three other rebels.

We had all heard the rebel radio and knew that CMQ, the city's main radio and television outlet, had been captured. The rebel radio had ordered a general strike.

Only one of us had a pistol, but we decided our job was to take over the airport, which was still functioning at normal pace. We had to shut it down and let the world know the revolution was effective.

But there were about 30 national police on duty, as well as some military intelligence men. We decided to try to bluff our way through.

I went up to the police commander unarmed and told him who I was.

"I've got a hundred men surrounding the place," I told him. "Do you want to fight, surrender, or join us?"

"We'll join you," the commander replied, much to my relief. He even offered to turn his gun over to me, but I told him to keep it.

Minutes later, some men in a military intelligence prowl car threw in with us, too.

"And we four men, armed with a single pistol, had taken the airport without firing a shot!"

From the airport I went to CMQ, rebel radio headquarters.

We had only a dozen armed there, but nearly all the were on our side.

At about 2 a. m. on Jan. 2 wife Maritza was on the switchboard when a call from El Cotorro, about 15 outside Havana. A man who he was Maj. Che Guevara as tries in Havana Harbor to take over.

I wasn't sure I trust him, called La Cabana and an off who identified himself as Lt. Valera Castro said he was ready to surrender the fortress to rebels. He asked me to accept surrender.

"I decided that if the fort really intended to surrender, men could accept it as well as so that's how many of us set in two cars.
