Gray County Returns To Be Canvassed On Friday

The Commissioners Court will meet Friday to canvass the returns of Tuesday's general election. According to the State Democratic Executive Committee, the Commissioners must meet the Monday after an election or sooner.

The commissioners will meet at 9:30 a.m. in the County Courtroom. The re-elected Precinct 2 commissioner, who may be noted, is G. L. "Nat" Lunaford.

County Clerk Charlie Thut estimated that 3,022 citizens cast their votes. This compares to 4,706 at the first Democratic Primary in July. Both figures fall to measure up to the voting strength of 7,320, possible under the paid poll tax.

Full returns were not available in the Daily News Wednesday with Precinct 10 still counting. The last box came into the County Clerk's office at 2 p.m.

The returns from the 12 Gray County Precincts give 2,651 votes to Pric Daniel for Governor and 386 to Edwin S. Mayer. Ben Ramsey polled 2,710 for Lt. governor and Philip Lee Eubank, 66. For US Senator, Ralph W. Yarborough took 1,771, Roy Whittenburg, 1,175 and B. A. Logan, 10. Lunaford scored 1,942 votes to Pete Bond's 426 for Precinct 2 commissioner. Gray County withheld its support from Amendment 1, designed for annual sessions of the State Legislature. The score was 954 for 1,511 against. The only other proposal scowled upon was No. 2 (County Pensions) with 1,140 for, 1,320 against.

No. 3 (Filling Vacancies) received 1,863 to 621 in its favor. No. 4 (Candidate Eligibility) drew 1,842 to 592 for passage. No. 5 (City Elections) was approved by 1,378 to 966. Amendment 6 (Ranger Pensions) had 1,705 for and 806 against. No. 7 (State Advertising) found approval with 1,325 Gray Countyites and resistance with 1,096.

STARKWEATHER TALKS

Mad-Dog Killer Says Caril Helped

By MARGUERITE DAVIS United Press International

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — Convicted mad killer Charles Starkweather, the prosecution's star witness in Caril Ann Fugate's murder trial, faces cross examination today with the defense trying to disprove his story of how 10 persons were killed. Starkweather was brought from his death cell in the state penitentiary Wednesday to testify against his one-time girl friend. Peering nervously at County Atty. Elmer Scheele, Starkweather repeatedly confirmed the prosecution's contention that Caril was his willing accomplice during the nine-day murder spree last January. She was 14 years old then, and he 19. Only one witness was called after Starkweather, and court was recessed to give the defense time to examine Starkweather's testimony. The last witness, Dr. Vance Rogers, president of Nebraska Wesleyan University, testified he was present when Deputy County Atty. Dale Fahrbruch questioned Caril after her arrest. Rogers said she seemed "terribly frightened," but he said no threats were used. No promises of immunity were made, and Fahrbruch's inquiry was "like a father questioning a daughter."

UF Slates Checkin

The Pampa-Lefors United Fund today reported $30,004.71 from its 1958 campaign. General Campaign Chairman Clyde Dickerson reminded campaigners that a check-in coffee will be held in the United Fund office from 4:30 p.m. until 6 Friday. Wednesday the United Fund stood at $29,433.21. Since then $561.50 has come in. The report meeting tomorrow will determine where more work has to be done, according to Dickerson. All workers are asked to check in at the United Fund office, in downstairs City Hall, at least long enough to report pledges and cash gained for the Fund.

Johnson Key Demo Figure; GOP Surveys Its Damage

New Crop Of Candidates Emerges

By WILLIAM THEIS United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A refreshed crop of Democratic presidential prospects came out of Tuesday's elections, and their chances may be determined by the record of the 86th Congress. One of their number, Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, will be a key figure in shaping the political destinies of all—as well as the record on which they must stand in 1960.

Johnson has been a consistent advocate of "constructive, responsible, moderate" Democratic action. But he has shown he can interpret that philosophy to include make-work spending like that of his New Deal days as well as middle-ground compromising on such issues as civil rights.

Friends concede Johnson may have more trouble keeping party harmony in a Senate which has 62 Democrats instead of 49. But he is reported ready to come up with a strong program of legislative action covering most of the points liberal Democratic colleagues will be demanding.

"Compromise" Candidate Because of the Democrats' split on civil rights Johnson's chances of getting his party's presidential nomination — assuming he wants it — are tied to his appeal as a "compromise" candidate plus his record as a "can do" leader in Congress.

But the presidential aspirations of others will come a lot closer to the surface in the Senate and in various state capitals in the next two years.

High on the list are Democratic Sens. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts and Stuart Symington of Missouri, both of whom won smashing victories on Tuesday. It includes Democratic Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, and Albert Gore and Estes Kefauver, both of Tennessee. Democratic Sen.-elect Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, a newcomer, also must be counted as a potential candidate for the future.

California's governor — elect, Democrat Edmund G. Brown — brings a new prospect into the presidential arena. Brown, like Michigan's Gov. G. Mennen Williams, who won his sixth term this week, may find his political horoscope altered by what Johnson and House Speaker Sam Rayburn get through the new Congress.

BILLS MIGHT BE APPROVED

Koontz said the bills are from the Army Construction Co., for water supply lines; from Roberts, Merriman, Bowden and Isbell, for engineering services; and from Foran Construction Co., Amarillo, for water boosting pump facilities.

Republicans Prepare For Reappraisal

By RAYMOND LAHR United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republican leaders surveyed the wreckage of their 1958 campaign today and prepared for an agonizing reappraisal of their party organization and campaign tactics.

Party professionals voiced belief that the recession, weak or divided GOP organizations and the political power of organized labor contributed much to the national Democratic trend in Tuesday's election. Some also talked of a need for more colorful, personable and aggressive candidates.

Nearly complete returns show the dimensions of the Democratic landslide—the Democrats' greatest congressional victory since their peak in the 1936 election of President Roosevelt.

Elect 26 Senators The Democrats elected 26 senators, taking eight seats from Republicans and losing none of their own. With the 36 Democratic senators whose seats were at stake this year, the Democrats will hold 62 seats, 12 more than a majority. Republicans elected only eight senators, leaving them a total of 24 in the new Congress.

Alaska elects its first two senators Nov. 25 and this could increase the Democratic majority even further. Democrats are favored to win at least one and possibly two Alaskan seats. In the House the Democrats elected 278 of 435 members and led in three unsettled races for an indicated total of 281, compared with 219 needed for a majority. The GOP elected 153. Alaska elects its first House member Nov. 25.

In the contests for governorships the Democrats elected 24 and led in one unsettled race for an indicated total of 34, counting nine holdovers. Republicans elected eight and had six holdovers for a total of 14.

Win Many Governorships Democrats gave an extraordinary show of strength in gubernatorial races in the Midwest where farm discontent has weakened the GOP hold on what was once the hard core of Republicanism. Democratic governors were elected or re-elected in Minnesota, Wisconsin, South Dakota, Iowa and Kansas and the Democratic nominee held a narrow lead in the still unsettled contest in Nebraska.

In contrast Republican Nelson A. Rockefeller unseated Gov. Averell Harriman in New York and thereby made himself a potential challenger to Vice President Richard M. Nixon for the 1960 presidential nomination.

Another to buck the trend with conspicuous success was Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona who long ago stepped out in front of fellow Republicans to challenge the power of organized labor. Running uphill to reelection he assured himself a front seat among GOP conservatives whose ranks recently have been thinned.

Cuban Airliner Might Have Been Hijacked By Insurgents

AN EDITORIAL

Let's Put It Over The Hump

What's this? Our Pampa-Lefors United Fund campaign falling short of its goal?

Unthinkable! It cannot be allowed to happen!

For five consecutive years Pampa and Lefors citizens have proudly pushed the vital fund campaign to the point of meeting the needs of all of the agencies. This record has given our community the feeling that the United Fund is the answer to a big problem — how to keep from having one fund raising campaign after another throughout the whole year. Yet many of our citizens are contributing no more to the United Fund than they did to each one of the agencies back in the day when they had their separate drives.

Friday afternoon is report day for all United Fund workers who are donating their time to the campaign. As of now collections are a little over $34,000 short of the $64,000 goal.

That goal is the very minimum required. For what? To furnish a hungry child with a little milk each day. To help a stranded family on their way. To provide clothing for a family who has lost its father. To provide scouting facilities for our kids.

To continue to explore the mysteries of dreaded heart diseases.

To notify a serviceman of a tragedy in his family, and help him get home if necessary.

To underwrite hundreds of other essential charity and welfare activities performed by our 8 agencies that a city like Pampa or Lefors cannot afford to do without.

That's what the United Fund drive amounts to. It isn't a fiscal problem that we must conquer. It's a human problem — one that tests our moral mettle.

If you haven't made your contribution, do so today. If you have already contributed, but can see fit to increase the amount, do that. If you are a person who has not been solicited, take the initiative. Mail Cash or a check to the Pampa-Lefors United Fund, Box 2076, Pampa, or call MO 9-8522 and a volunteer worker will come by and pick it up. If you would like to give more later in the year, pledge now and pay later. If you are a volunteer worker who has not finished his assignment, do your best to contact the persons on your list.

Come on! Let's be proud of ourselves again this year.

29 Persons Are Aboard

HAVANA (UPI) — A Cuban airliner carrying 29 persons, including an American and 10 women, was missing today over rebel-ruled eastern Cuba, and there were strong indications it was hijacked by the insurgents. Four unidentified men who boarded the twin-engine DC-3 in Manzanillo were believed to be rebel agents like those who have stolen two other Cuba airliners in little more than two weeks. One of the stolen planes crashed in Nipe Bay, killing 7 Americans and 10 Cubans.

The missing plane was flying from Havana to Santiago on a route including several intermediate stops. It left Manzanillo at 4:29 p.m. Wednesday on a half-hour hop to Holguin and has not been seen since.

U.S. Interest Sharpening The lone American aboard, Robert Montgomery (homestead unknown), was believed to be a sailor on the way to the U.S. Navy's big Guantanamo base.

The U.S. government is taking an increasingly sharp interest in the rebels' plane-snatching tactics because of the threat to American lives. U.S. Navy divers recovered the bodies of 8 of the 17 Nipe victims Wednesday night, and U.S. investigators have been ordered to look into the crash.

The identity of the Nipe hijackers was established positively Wednesday night, when the body of one of the victims was found to be clad in the green fatigues affected by the rebels.

Find Weapons A cartridge belt carrying a holster for a .45 automatic was strapped around the rebel's body, as was a bandolier containing .45 caliber ammunition. The belt of a broken 30 caliber rifle was found near the body. Customary plane-snatching procedure, in Cuba as elsewhere, is for a number of gunmen masquerading as passengers to board the airliner chosen as a target. When the plane is in the air, they force the pilot at gunpoint to fly the plane to some point not on its original route.

Pope John XXIII Holds Big Audience With 500 Newsmen

By DANIEL F. GILMORE United Press International

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope John XXIII received 500 newsmen in mass audience today and told them in fluent but accented French their mission was "formidable."

His use of the word appeared to be the colloquial for "terrific." But he warned them in the same breath that "truth is sacred. It must never be betrayed."

The Pope addressed the newsmen from a golden throne set up at one end of Clementine Hall of the Vatican palace. He was flanked by two masters of ceremonies, eight noble guards in shiny helmets and a unit of Swiss guards in ceremonial blue, red and yellow uniforms. He spoke animatedly, waving his arms excitedly and shifting his weight continually on the throne in what turned out to be one of the most extraordinary news conferences in Rome's history. He succeeded in his apparent attempt to establish a feeling of intimacy with his audience, and his amazingly warm personality pervaded the marble hall. He also caught his audience with flashes of the genial wit for which he became known during his eight postwar years as Papal Nuncio in Paris. At one point the newsmen burst into loud laughter when the Pope said: "I often look at newspapers. Not to try to titillate any self-pride, but just to see what is being written—especially what was written revealing the secrets of the conclave." He said he began reading the newspapers "during the last few nights in which it was difficult to get the sleep which was necessary to restore me from the so heavy efforts of the last few days." "Although there were hardly two lines which conformed with the truth, you could see that the

ALL'S QUIET ON THE QUEMOY FRONT TODAY

TAIPEI (UPI) — Communist artillery which shelled the Quemoy's with 5.70 rounds Wednesday fell silent today, and Nationalist officials said the off-and-on Red attacks showed clearly Peiping was fighting only for political reasons.

A Peiping broadcast said to bear out the Nationalist appraisal. The Communists, who broke their own cease fire during a John Foster Dulles visit to Taipei, claimed partial credit for what they called the "utter defeat" of the Republicans in Tuesday's elections.

The Communist New China News Agency said the Republican Party "claimed boastfully" that the original cease fire announced by Peiping was a result of its foreign policy.

tension in the Taiwan (Formosa) Strait," Peiping said. "This point was stressed by Eisenhower and Nixon in their election speeches in an effort to show that the present 'no shooting' was the 'merit' of the Republican foreign policy."

But when the shelling was resumed two weeks later, the Communists said, "the Republican attempt to capitalize on the temporary suspension of shelling was completely smashed."

The Nationalist Defense Ministry reported, meanwhile, that its Quemoy artillery destroyed 15 Communist guns Wednesday, bringing the week's total to 30 Red guns. It also reported the destruction of a Communist ammunition dump, eight gun positions and five bunkers.

 Democratic 85th Congress gave him.
 This problem has bothered Vice-President Richard M. Nixon, still the GOP front-runner for the presidency in 1960 despite the challenge raised by millionaire Nelson A. Rockefeller's gubernatorial victory in New York. Nixon has demonstrated he intends to take over more Republican Party control in the next two years.
 Historically presidential nominees are more likely to come from a governor's mansion than the U. S. Senate. That's a plus for Rockefeller along with his big 1958 election triumph. But he has to make his own record in office—and one to be compared with that of the Democrats.

 The Pope spoke in more emphatic tones about press attempts to portray the Pontiff as "a political-pope—a diplomat—and so on." He repeated what he said during his coronation—the Pope is essentially a "supreme pastor" and nothing more.
 The Pope ended the audience by rising to his feet and announcing that he offered his apostolic benediction to those willing to accept it. He used this form apparently because of the many Protestants among the pious men.

Pampa Vies With Borger For Members
 Pampa has challenged Borger to an enrollment battle in the Junior Red Cross. In the two high schools, members are out for more members and more money. "The contest will last until one of us weakens," Sylvia Grider, president of the PHS Junior Red Cross said.
 Miss Grider went to Borger Tuesday and in an assembly challenged the Junior Red Cross; she returned to Pampa with Borger's James Armstrong and Donna Jernigan, a JRC summer traveler from Wichita, Kan., who spoke at the Borger rally.
 Wednesday, Armstrong challenged Pampa and Miss Jernigan spoke on her international study visit to Europe with the Junior Red Cross. Armstrong explained the national Red Cross set up; as a member of the Midwestern Area Council, he was chosen to represent the area at the national convention in San Francisco, Calif., last summer.
 Sue Foster, recounted the work that JRC has done in Pampa during the past year.
 The aim of the enrollment campaign, it is whispered around Pampa High School, is to "beat the pants off Borger just like we beat Amarillo."
 Last year the local Chapter challenged Amarillo to an enrollment contest and won.

 The District Explorer Training Team, Boy Scouts of America, will hold the first of three training sessions tonight in Skellytown, Melvin Jayroe, Leadership Training chairman, announced. Leaders from four counties will begin the New Explorer program tonight with the session, "What Exploring Is."
 Scouters will meet in the Skellytown Public School at 7:30 p.m. Counties from the Adobe and Santa Fe Districts will have men at the meeting.
 Training plans were completed Tuesday when the team met in the Boy Scout office. John Ayres, R. L. Hendricks, Paul Buchanan and Leland McClosky are members of the Explorer Training Team.

The new course takes the times of the changing teen age and now revealing the changing times, and the new program is adopted for the use of teenagers. The new program is designed to be attractive to boys—whether or not they have ever been members of the Boy Scouts of America. The new Exploring program is for high school age young men. The program has the benefit of extensive scientific study of high school age boys and the experience of the Boy Scouts of America in sound programming and organization procedure.
 A Study of Adolescent Boys was undertaken for the Boy Scouts of America by the Survey Research Center, Institute for Social Research, at the University of Michigan. It learned the dominate needs, interests, and concerns of the fourteen to sixteen year old boys. The demands on their leisure time—what they do and like most to do. The new program is based on these wants and desires of the boys themselves.

BAGHDAD, Iraq (UPI)—Abdul Salem Arif, Iraqi ambassador to West Germany, has been arrested here and will be tried on charges of conspiracy against the security of the fatherland, it was announced today.

Arif had been linked with Premier Karim Kassam as a hero of the July 14 coup which overthrew King Faisal. He later broke with Kassam over relations with the West. Arif was considered extremely pro-Egyptian.

Demos Will Have Big Policy Voice

By STEWART HENSLEY
 United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Political and diplomatic experts predicted today that Democrats will demand and get a greater voice in formulation of foreign policy during the last two years of President Eisenhower's administration.

This does not mean there will be any change in basic foreign policy. The Democrats have been among the most consistent supporters of some of the President's fundamental concepts which, in fact, he inherited from the previous Democratic administration.

But it does mean sharpened criticism by Democratic foreign policy spokesmen of some of the tactics of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles in specific situations. The Democrats also were expected to insist that they be fully consulted by the administration before it undertakes any new approaches to foreign affairs. They complain that the majority party in Congress has not been

In the midst of the annual series of football weekends, the thoughts of many Texans are turning toward traffic safety. There can be no doubt but that a better acquaintance among drivers with the "rules of the road" and other traffic safety regulations could greatly reduce the death toll of our highways.

To obtain correct and authoritative information about driving is a simple matter. A letter or postcard to the Department of Public Safety, Driver's License Division, Austin, Texas, will bring an official publication, the "Texas Driving Handbook", to anyone who requests it.

Aside from considerations of personal safety, proper driving habits and observance of traffic laws will help prevent financial loss. This is true in spite of the fact that most people now carry liability insurance as a protection under the Texas "Drivers Responsibility Act." Jury verdicts in personal injury cases tend to go higher, and higher, and the likelihood of suffering an adverse judgment for an amount in excess of the limits of your liability policy is ever present.

Fault, or liability, is determined by applying the law to the particular facts of an accident. In Texas the law is in several forms — the statutes enacted by the Legislature, the ordinances of each city and town, and the court decisions in cases similar to the one to be decided.

A negligent or intentional act is necessary in order to impose legal liability for damages. Where both parties to an accident are negligent, the court will very likely find that both are at fault, and that each must pay for his own damage.

Two of the most important legal rules pertaining to accidents are those having to do with "proper look-out" and "proper control". Driving in a lawful manner and complying with all ordinary traffic rules is not always sufficient. In addition, the driver is expected by law to be alert to all that is happening around him.

If an accident should occur and the driver has not been alert—has failed to keep a proper look-out—he may be charged with "improper look-out" as a traffic violation and also held liable in damages to the other driver. The courts call a "proper look-out" such a look-out as a reasonably prudent driver would have kept under the same circumstances.

Of equal importance is the rule of "proper control". This rule means pretty much what those words imply—that the driver should have his car under such degree of control as to be ready for any emergency as might arise. It may be breached even though no violation of ordinary traffic laws is involved.

For instance, a driver may be complying with the legal speed limit but still be driving at a rate of speed which is unsafe under the existing circumstances.

Even though legal speed limits are expressed in terms of a certain number of miles per hour, conditions may arise which prevent the driver from maintaining "proper control" of his automobile at that speed. On a rainy day on a slick street or highway, or in heavy traffic, the reasonably prudent driver will know that he should reduce his speed considerably below the legal maximum. (This column, based on Texas law and prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who knows the facts because the facts may change the application of the law.)

All The TV Networks Figure They Out Gobbled The Other

By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI)—All three networks will be claiming victories over each other today. But on the basis of late returns, here is the straight election night dope:

1. At NBC-TV, staffers consumed 45 gallons of coffee, 1,100 sandwiches, 12 layer cakes, 15 gallons of potato salad, 8 gallons of baked beans and 48 cherry apple, pumpkin and coconut custard pies.

2. At CBS-TV, staffers waded into 45 gallons of coffee, 836 sandwiches, 1,000 pieces of pastry and 3 bagels. It was suggested that some partisan might have sneaked the bagels in from the Rockefeller-Harriman campaign.

3. At ABC-TV, the assembled horde consumed 57 gallons of coffee, 1,000 assorted sandwiches and 500 pieces of baked goods including cheesecakes, brownies and chocolate layers, all of which were supplied by the sponsor who, incidentally, makes cheesecakes, brownies and chocolate layers.

As I see it, this gives NBC-TV the victory in sandwiches, baked beans, potato salad and peach apple, cherry and coconut custard pies. ABC-TV clearly gets the win in coffee and cheesecake and brownies. And CBS-TV came up with a clear lead in pastry as well as bagels, although the latter victory is a hollow one.

Aside from gustatory matters, these other things happened on TV:

All three networks trotted out awesome mechanical monsters with names like UNIVAC, RAMAC, and UEDPS, but at one network, NBC-TV, two newsmen could be spotted working in green eye shades. CBS-TV's Doug Edwards reported over the air that a lady in Michigan had accused the network of placing a man inside UNIVAC to write out all those fancy predictions.

The first prediction of UNIVAC, the wizard of odds, took place at 6:24 p.m. c.s.t. when it gave 100-1 odds that the Democrats would sweep both houses. NBC-TV's RAMAC made its first prognostication at 8:22 p.m. when it said the new House would have 271 Democrats. . . . around 9:40 p.m. ABC-TV's electronic brain said there would be 290 Democrats in the House and 62 in the Senate.

Boo-Boos Department: ABC-TV's John Daly referred to the Midwest as the "Mid-east" and later apologized. . . . A local CBS-TV announcer referred to Democrat Chester Bowles as a Republican and later apologized. . . . David Brinkley of NBC-TV got an indignant call about classifying West Virginia with the southern bloc and he apologized. . . . ABC-TV's John Vandbrook called the network's electronic computer a "commuter," but he didn't apologize—I guess he figured the machine wasn't listening.

Negro Mom Wins Election In Houston

HOUSTON (UPI)—Mrs. Charles E. White, 42-year-old Negro housewife and mother of five children, Wednesday became the first person of her race to win election to public office in Harris County.

Mrs. White, daughter of a Baptist minister and wife of a Houston optometrist, won position No. 6 on the Houston School Board over incumbent Dr. John Glen and Karl F. Doerner in a three-way race.

Mrs. White's victory margin was 6,296 in a total of 74,847 votes cast over Dr. Glen, her nearest rival. Her election integrated the Houston school board for the first time in history.

Many of the thousands of votes necessary to elect Mrs. White were cast in areas where, in previous elections, no Negro had a chance of being elected.

The vote, which surprised most political observers in the area, was predominately centered around the issues of integration and federal aid to public schools. Mrs. White was strongly supported by the Liberal element of the Harris county electorate which backed both issues. Dr. Glen had the backing of Conservatives.

"I believe that the people of Houston were understanding enough and enlightened enough and fair-minded enough to vote for me on the basis of my qualifications for office, and not on any other basis," Mrs. White said today.

"The outcome of the election was proof, I think, of this," she added. "I did not run for this position in order to represent only the Negro children of Houston. I will do my utmost to represent the best interests of all the children, regardless of race, creed or color," she said.

India has more than 225 languages and dialects, with 24 major tongues being used by 96 per cent of its population.

Strawberry Fluff Pie At Its Best

"Sparkle In Your Meals" is the delightful title of a new Mary Lee Taylor cookbook by Pet Milk Co. Typical of the fresh, colorful ideas in this book is a recipe for Fluffy Strawberry Pie made with graham cracker or pastry crust and filled with luscious red strawberries. Not too long ago, a strawberry pie out of season would have been impossible, but with frozen berries, it's always open season on tempting fruit pies and desserts.

10-oz. pkg. frozen strawberries, FLUFFY STRAWBERRY PIE
10-oz. pkg. frozen strawberries, partly thawed
1/2 cup water
1-3 cup sugar
1/4 teasp. salt
3 eggs, separated
2 teasp. lemon juice
1 pkg. strawberry gelatin
1/2 cup water
2 1/2 cup PET Instant (in dry form)
9-in. graham cracker or baked pastry crust

In 1 1/2-qt. saucepan mix strawberries, 1/2 cup water, sugar, salt, egg yolks and lemon juice. Cook and stir over medium heat until mixture comes to full, all-over boil. Take off heat. Stir in gelatin until dissolved. Chill until mixture is very thick, but not set. Put egg whites, 1/2 cup water and PET Instant into 1-qt. bowl. Whip, with electric mixer at high speed or with rotary hand beater, until stiff. Fold whipped mixture into chilled strawberry mixture. Let stand a few min., or just until mixture starts to set. Put into chilled crust. Chill until firm, about 2 hrs., or until ready to serve.

Sour Cream Sauce Good With Leftovers
Wonderful camouflage for yesterday's roast served again today is this. Fizzle slices of cooked beef or ham quickly in butter and serve with sour cream horseradish sauce. To make the sauce, fold three tablespoons well drained horseradish sauce into one cup dairy sour cream, suggest Meadow Gold home economists, and add a pinch of sugar and salt.

Elegant Topping For Simple Cake Squares
A dessert favorite — old fashioned cottage pudding — is even easier to prepare in this modern version, than it formerly was. Bake a plain two-egg cake in 9x9 inch square pan. While cake is baking prepare this elegant mint topping. All you do is chop 6 Clark mint bars and combine with 4 tablespoons coffee cream in top of a double boiler. Heat over hot water until candy melts, stirring frequently. Serve warm sauce over squares of warm cake.

Spaghetti's The Dish For a Windy Day

Hail to Windmonath, the Wind-month, as the Anglo-Saxons named November. With the last sweet smell of rusty leaves and increasingly brisk winds, let's turn to some hearty dinner fare . . . spaghetti with OYSTER-CLAM SAUCE.

Contrary to popular belief, not all Italian spaghetti sauces include tomato. Two examples are the "white" clam sauce of Naples and the pesto or "green" sauce of Genoa. Take a few ingredients from each, use frozen condensed oyster stew as a base, and discover a very pleasant surprise at your next spaghetti dinner.

QUICK CHEESE POPCORN
2 quarts hot popped corn
1/2 cup melted butter
3/4 cup grated American or Parmesan cheese (vary the amount to suit your taste)
Salt to taste
Turn hot popcorn into large mixing bowl. Drizzle butter over corn, season with salt. Mix well. Sprinkle grated cheese over corn and mix. Serve at once!

Oyster-Clam Sauce
1 clove garlic, cut in half
1/2 cup chopped onion
1 cup chopped parsley
2 tablespoons olive oil
1 can (10 ounces) frozen condensed oyster stew

One-fifth of all U.S. consumer goods are purchased by families with an annual income averaging $1,000 to $5,000.

Cheese-Fruit Tray Makes Handsome Informal Dining

Desserts for fall dinner parties should look elegant but should be light and easy to prepare. A perfect answer to the dessert problem is a handsome, serve-yourself cheese-fruit tray which can be taken to the living room and enjoyed along with relaxing cups of coffee or tea and stimulating conversation.

Tempting fall fruits, apples, pears, grapes or oranges, combine handsomely with an assortment of cheese to make an elegant and satisfying dessert. Use your best tray and group fruits on it along with an assortment of your favorite cheeses. Arrange the tray ahead of time, cover with saran or aluminum foil, and store in the refrigerator until serving time. Serve with fancy rolls, beaten biscuits, thinly sliced fruit cake, or nut bread.

Select a variety of cheeses to satisfy all tastes. Include plenty of mild Gouda, with its tempting nutlike flavor and bright shiny red coating. . . pineapple cheese, the gourmet's delight. . . and, zesty Port Salut or Smoky Edam for those desiring a cheese with a more robust flavor.

Serve dessert the modern way at your next party dinner with a calorie-controlled fruit-Gouda cheese dessert tray. . . it's certain to be a success.

Election Meant Many Things To Many Different Individuals

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — What happened in Tuesday's election can be told today in what it all meant to several brightly ambitious young men.

They are:

Vice President Richard M. Nixon, who suffered a political reverse of the first magnitude. For Nixon, the election was a Democratic flash flood which wrecked his Republican home base of political operations in California. The party damage was duplicated generally around the country. Nixon's plus mark is that he is by instinct a take-charge guy. He was able therefore to emerge from the wreckage of the Republican Party today as political head man of the Eisenhower administration.

Nelson A. Rockefeller, Republican governor-elect of New York, was all plus and no minus on the election returns. Rockefeller smacked down Democratic Gov. Averell Harriman's re-election bid. He smacked it so far down that Harriman already is disappearing into the political shadows although he was only 48 hours ago a possible Democratic choice for president in 1960. Rockefeller did more. He won big enough to carry to victory with him New York's Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate, Kenneth B. Keating. By these feats, Rockefeller became a major contender for the 1960 Republican presidential nomination — the only man who seems now to have any chance whatsoever to beat Nixon for that nomination.

Knowland Eliminated

Sen. William F. Knowland who abandoned the Senate Republican leadership to run for governor in California was a Republican presidential prospect when this week began. No more. Knowland shook up California politics by forcing himself into the gubernatorial contest and compelling Republican Gov. Goodwin J. Knight to step aside and to run for the Senate. They both lost and California, the second most populous state, fell to the Democrats for the first time in 16 years. It will be a long time before Republicans take that state again, perhaps, but longer before Knowland has another even outside chance to aspire to the White House.

Sen. John F. Kennedy continued his early foot performance as front runner for the 1960 Democratic presidential nomination. Kennedy sought re-election in Massachusetts. To maintain his favorable position, Kennedy needed a smashing victory over a lost-cause Republican opponent, Vincent J. Celeste. Kennedy got it. He clobbered Celeste by 3 to 1 or thereabouts, an achievement which will be favorably noted by the grass roots Democratic politicians who are quick to love a winner.

New Jersey's Democratic Gov. Robert B. Meyner, also young, substantially held his own in the game of presidential politics by getting his man elected to the U.S. Senate. His man was Harrison A. Williams Jr., who defeated Republican Robert W. Kean. The Republicans had expected to win that one, despite the general Democratic trend.

Leader Loses Out

Still another young man, Democratic George M. Leader, of Pennsylvania, plodded with New York's Harriman into the political shadows. Leader lost a U.S. Senate contest to Republican Hugh Scott. Like Harriman, leader had been counted until the returns came in as among the Democratic presidential possibilities.

Missouri kept Democratic Sen. Stuart Symington among the party's live aspirants to the White House. Symington's re-election, however, lacked the spectacular thump of a run-away majority such as Kennedy won in Massachusetts.

Gov. G. Mennen (Soapy) Williams was the Democratic young man of the hour in big, industrial Michigan. Williams, in political cahoots with big labor's Walter P. Reuther, won an unexampled sixth term. Williams, almost automatically, becomes the man left wing Democrats of the North, East and West would most welcome as head of the 1960 party ticket — and, by the same measure, Williams is the man whose nomination Democrats of the South would most protest.

Not so young but mighty big in politics today is Edmund G. (Pat) Brown, the Democrat who ran Knowland out of politics in California. Brown may not figure greatly as a presidential possibility, himself, but as California's new Mr. Big he will have a big part in choosing the next Democratic nominee.

In the day-after-election dawn, big labor stood amid the coast-to-coast Republican wreckage flexing muscle like a Paul Bunyan in a forest of stumps. The tide of right-to-work laws and state constitutional amendments appeared to have been turned. The right-to-work proposition carried in agricultural Kansas, lost in Washington, Ohio and California, big industrial states, appeared to be rejecting right-to-work on the basis of incomplete returns. Ohio's Republican Gov. C. William O'Neill who had made right to work a basic campaign issue was licked by Democratic Michael V. DiSalle.

BALDY WINS PERMANENT GODMANCHESTER, England (UPI) — Druggist John Clifford, 54, who won a permanent wave in a raffle, is bald.

GETTYSBURG, Pa. — President Eisenhower, after voting presumably the straight GOP ticket in a fast .24 seconds: "That was very simple wasn't it?"

WASHINGTON — State Department press officer Lincoln White in debunking Red Chinese charges that 14 of their soldiers were overcome with poison gas fired by the Nationalists and supplied by the United States: "I should like merely to say that if any Chinese Communist soldiers are affected by gas, it is as a result of the noxious lies emanating from Radio Peiping."

NEW YORK — Mel Finkelstein, photographer for the New York Journal-American, charging that Frank Sinatra ordered his chauffeur to run down Finkelstein: "If I hadn't jumped, it (the car) would have hit me square on."

WASHINGTON — National Republican Chairman Meade Alcorn on widespread Democratic victories on Tuesday's elections: "I've been in politics long enough to know that you have to take the bad with the good. And I am frank to say there has been more bad than good tonight."

Hands Tell Story For Hula Dancers Who Should Start Lessons In Youth

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor
HONOLULU (UPI) — Anyone can learn the hula. That's what dancing teacher Lila Guerrero said before I became her pupil. After a couple of hours instructing a girl who has trouble even with the fox trot, she conceded that the hula and I were permanently out of step. "Maybe," she said, "the best hula dancers do train right from childhood."

Miss Guerrero, who has been dancing the hula since she was five, gives lessons to Hawaiian children and on occasion teaches its swing and sway to curious tourists like me. I took my lessons in private — if I'm going to make a fool of myself, I don't want an audience.

Watch The Hands
Mastering the hula's basic step isn't too hard. It's a one, two, three and tap with the ball of the foot, called the "kii wa wae" in Hawaiian, meaning feet in motion. "Watch your hands," said Miss Guerrero, early in the course. "Let others watch the hips." In the true hula, the motions of the hands are most important; the hands tell the story. The feet and hips just keep the rhythm. I watched my hands and immediately ran into trouble with my bare feet (the hula always is danced barefoot). Mostly tripping over them, because the hula means movement of all parts of the body. I had to remember that the knees should be bent slightly, my wrists relaxed, my hips doing the "ami" (rotating), and my elbows in toward the body and not jutting into the air like Diamond Head into the Pacific.

No Dorothy Lamour
Miss Guerrero patiently steered my awkward way through the intricacies of the kick step, or "uwehi"; the turn step, "kaiakau"; and tried to show how motion of the hands and arms symbolized the rolling sea, the arc of the rainbow, or the gathering of flowers. She lost me in the hands-making-raindrops department; in this motion, the fingers, stretched above the head, perform a shimmy. And, I failed the "around the island" movement completely. This sets the whole body rotating, and I just ain't a Dorothy Lamour. Miss Guerrero, 35, a native of Honolulu, is married to Frank Reiplinger, a Chicagoan working as a clerk at the shipping terminals. They have two children, a girl of 7, and a boy of 8, both "already accomplished hula dancers," their mother said. Miss Guerrero has been a featured dancer in several mainland night spots and in addition to teaching, also performs at ship welcoming parties. She explained that to most tourists, the hula is nothing more than a sexy dance. But actually it is based on ancient religious ritual.

Mrs. Cypert Leads WMU Business

LEFORS (Sp) — The monthly luncheon, business meeting, and program of the Women's Missionary Union, was held at the First Baptist Church recently. After luncheon, Mrs. R. N. Cypert, president, presided over the business meeting. "An Imaginary Trip to the Philippine Islands," was the title of the program, with Mrs. Edward Lehnick in charge. "O For a Thousand Tongues to Sing," the WMU hymn of the year, was sung, and the watchword repeated, Pa. 96:2. Mrs. J. V. Guthrie led the opening prayer. Taking parts on the program were Meses. L. M. Berry, W. E. Dumas, Roy Howard, A. L. Michael, with Mrs. Tom Florence leading closing prayer. Present for the meeting were Meses. A. L. Michael, C. H. Earhart, W. B. Minter, Tom Florence, L. M. Berry, Harold Hill, Bob Strixner, Edward Lehnick, David Robinson, Roy Howard, Jake Leg-

Leather fashions for fall-into-winter take on the fluid look of fabric. Fitted African-kidskin coat (left) has cut of sleeve engineered to permit it to go on easily over dress or sweater. Contoured belt conceals elasticized waistline. Color is spice. Kidskin coat (right) is deeply bordered in fake fur. This is a 36-inch length flared from waist to hem. It has pull-through belt. ## Manners Makes Friends

If you are asked to pass food at the table, don't help yourself first or even ask if you may. Pass it to the person who asks for it and later ask to have it passed to you. If you ask if you may serve yourself first it sounds as though you are afraid there won't be any left if you don't get your serving right away.

AC Club Plans Christmas Fete

LEFORS (Sp) — "Alaska," was the program topic presented by Mrs. Ray Dickerson, guest speaker, to the Ladies Art and Civic Club at its meeting, held in the civic center on Monday night.

Mrs. Dickerson showed film, taken while she and her husband were stationed in Alaska.

It was decided, in the business meeting, to have the annual Christmas party on Dec. 13, instead of Dec. 16, as was formerly scheduled.

Miss Mickey Sue Johnson, hostess for the evening, served refreshments of banana nut cake, whipped cream, and coffee. Members present were Meses. L. R. Spence, C. C. Mullins, Ray Boyd, Carl Ferguson, Babe Hall, D. D. Lewis, Bill Watson, James Jinks, J. E. Carter, Earl Atkinson, Jerry Jacobs, Bud Cumberledge, R. H. Barron, H. W. Callan, and the hostess.

HD Club Shares Christmas Ideas

Merten Home Demonstration Club met in the home of Mrs. John Brandon on Tuesday morning with the business meeting conducted by Mrs. Jack Howard, president.

Mrs. Clyde Edmundson presented a program on "Christmas Ideas." Among the suggestions offered by Mr. Edmundson were sacheted coat-hangers, sacheted dolls for dresser drawers, aprons embroidered with clever sayings; angel dolls from cardies showing a birth month. A roundtable discussion followed with each member giving a Christmas gift idea. Refreshments were served to Meses. Walter Murphy, Sanford McQuigg, Bob Brandon, Jack Howard, Vard Smith, Jack Prather, T. G. Groves, Clyde Edmundson, A. M. Nash, and John Brandon. The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Prather, east of the city, on Nov. 18 at 9:30 a.m.

DEAR ABBY...

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I want to ask you a question. Why do women who suddenly discover their husbands have found somebody else try to hold onto them by "using" the children? How can a woman be so lacking in pride as to try to hang onto a man who doesn't want her any more and tells her so? You only live once, and I don't think a man should pass up a chance for happiness just because he made a mistake in his first marriage. So, Abby, if a man finds a woman he really and truly loves and wants to leave his wife for her, do you think it is fair for his wife to fall all over him and try to hold him by using that old line, "What about the children?"

LUCILLE
DEAR LUCILLE: There is nothing prideless in a woman trying to hold her marriage together. Now, let me ask YOU a question. What ABOUT the children?

DEAR ABBY: My problem concerns the Christmas card list. I don't mind for economical reasons but each year we send cards to cousins who never even call us when going through our town. The only time we see them is at funerals. They never accept any of our invitations and never extend any to us. We don't get Christmas cards from them until past Christmas, which shows it was in repayment of ours in case they have any left over. I thank you in advance for your opinion.

UNDECIDED
DEAR UNDECIDED: There is obviously no "good will toward man" in the exchange of Christmas cards between you and the relatives you mention. Unless you sincerely enjoy sending Christmas cards to these "in-name-only" cousins, drop them from your list. DEAR ABBY: I am 16 years old and I am going steady with a boy who lives 1600 miles away. I don't go out with anybody else because when you are going steady you aren't supposed to. My friends say I am foolish and my mother thinks I am out of my mind. Do you think there is anything wrong with going steady with a boy who lives in a different town?

GOING STEADY
DEAR GOING: With 1600 miles between you, it's a pretty long wait between "dates." If you are going to BURY yourself, you might as well call a spade a spade. This is not "going steady" — it's "sitting-home steady." A pretty sour idea for Sweet 16!

DEAR ABBY: Oh, why, oh, why, wasn't I lucky enough to read advice like you gave Hjalmer about marrying someone you fell in love with through letters? I had a romantic correspondence with a man for two years. He said he was a good Christian man, did not drink, owed no bills and had a steady job and money in the bank. I quit a good job and traveled 2,000 miles at my own expense to meet him. Everyone knew I went to marry him so before I gave myself a chance to know him very well, we were married. On our wedding night he drank himself to sleep. Later on he told me he was married once for six years but never had marital relations with his wife so she divorced him. Two months after we were married he ups and walked out, leaving me $2,000 in bills to pay. It's too late for me, but Hjalmer, take Abby's advice, and don't marry a pen pal until you know her better than I know mine.

TOO LATE
Confidential to Shelly: A boy who is going to college on a shoestring can't afford to "tie the knot."

RUTH MILLETT

"It isn't fair," writes a woman who reads this column, "for my husband to take a job in another city which means we will not only have to leave all our friends but our married daughter and her family, too."

"He says he can't turn down this opportunity. But I would be happier staying right where we are—even though it means less money and what my husband refers to as a 'dead end' for him. How can I talk him out of taking this new job?"

Quit dragging your feet and get in there and back your husband up. If he has a chance at a better job with a bigger future your place is at his side — not reluctantly but gladly. Start thinking of a new start as an adventure instead of the end of your own little private world. You can make new friends wherever you go and hold onto the old ones, too. If your daughter is busy with her own life she can get along without you. And if you get busy helping your husband make a place in a new community you won't have time to worry because letters to your daughter and occasional visits will have to take the place of daily visits back and forth.

If you are a good sport you'll look for the advantages in your new home. Do everything possible to make friends in a hurry. Take a vital interest in your husband's new job. You may find in a few years that you like your new home even better than you did the old one.

There isn't just one spot for anyone, even though you may get into such a complacent rut that you think there is.

So quit looking back at what you are leaving and start looking forward to what you are moving on to.

B Teamers Try For Fourth Triumph in Five Contests

The Shockers play their last home night game of the season tonight, at 7:30 p.m. in Harvester Park, against Amarillo B team.

The Shockers are tied with the Lee Junior High Rebels as the "winningest" team in town. They have won four and lost three. The Shockers have steadily improved throughout the season, winning three of their last four games—all on the road. They beat Plainview B 30-14, Palo Duro B 16-0, and Tascosa B 38-14.

The Tascosa win was the most one-sided chalked up by any Pampa football team this year. The 38 points against Tascosa and the 30 against Plainview are the highest single-game totals for any Pampa team.

Not much is known about the Amarillo B team, except that they are big and have only a mediocre record.

The Shockers will throw a powerful and varied offense at the Yannigans. They are capable of throwing long or short, or running through the middle or around the ends.

Back Steve Dobbins will be the Shockers big not-so-secret weapon. Dobbins does most of the passing, much of the running, and all of the punting and kicking off for the Shockers. He is the regular quarterback, but switches to half-back occasionally.

In the backfield with Dobbins will be halfbacks Ruben Strickland and Roy Don Stephens and full back Larry Taylor. Taylor is the teams "power" back, while Stephens is the top speedster.

Ends Bob Followell and Jim Wilburn, as well as Stephens, are dangerous as pass receivers. They make Dobbins a real "home run pass" threat.

The Shockers can go through the middle on power plays, but they can also run the end on the fancier option play, on which the quarterback can keep or pitch out to another back.

Opening the holes for the Shocker backs have been such fine blockers as center Alton Stokes, guard Charles Giese, and tackle Orvil Thornburg.

A sometimes-spotty but always hard-hitting defense is spearheaded by halfbacks Bill Cooper and Jimmy Storms, linebackers Giese and Terry Rexroad, corner linebacker Dickie Wills, and middle guard Stephen French.

Defensive starters for the Shockers are corner linebacker Wills, 130; halfbacks Cooper, 128; James Walker, 135, and Stephens, 135; linebackers Giese, 175, and Rexroad, 160; middle guard French, 165; tackles Lynn McGee, 175, and Thornburg, 175; and ends Mack Flippin, 147, and Followell, 140.

Jerry Coleman May Succeed Lee McPhail

NEW YORK (UPI)—Jerry Coleman, 35-year old ex-second baseman, is considered the No. 1 candidate to succeed Lee MacPhail, who is leaving his post as director of player personnel for the New York Yankees to become general manager of the Baltimore Orioles.

Coleman has been assistant director of player personnel for the last year. Johnny Johnson, an assistant director of the Yankees' farm system, is another leading candidate.

The 41-year old MacPhail, son of the famous Larry, will take over the direction of the Orioles' front office with Paul Richards restricting his activities to the field management. Richards was criticized in recent years because he has not had the time to devote to such important front-office duties as scouting young players.

MacPhail said he will assume his new duties during the last week of November, just before the start of the winter baseball meetings at Washington, D. C., Dec. 1. He said he would not announce any definite plans until he had conferred with Richards.

Milstead Leads Nation in Offense

NEW YORK (UPI)—Charles Milstead of Texas A&M, picking up steam as the college football season passes the halfway mark, is making a strong bid to become the first national offense champion from the Southwest Conference in 20 years.

At the same time, Bill Austin of undefeated Rutgers is within reach of a triple crown in major college rankings. The "one-man gang" from New Jersey is among the leaders in total offense, rushing yardage and scoring.

NCAA Service Bureau statistics released today show that Milstead has moved into the top position in total offense with 1,006 yards. The 20-year-old junior has passed for 779 yards and rushed for 227 more. In his last three games, Milstead has accounted for 660 yards, a pace that could almost assure making him the first total yardage champion from his conference since Davey O'Brien of Texas Christian won in 1938.

Austin has climbed into third place in total offense, just 76 yards behind Milstead. Austin, the tailback in Rutgers' single-wing offense, is second in rushing and currently leads the nation in scoring.

Dick Bass of College of the Pacific still holds the rushing lead. The fleet back has rushed for 700 yards, 44 more than Austin.

Lee Grosscup of Utah remained No. 1 in forward passing, but it was Rich Mayo of the Air Force Academy who turned in the week's most brilliant aerial show. The high-flying Falcon completed 28 of 45 pass attempts against Oklahoma State last Saturday to move from 34th to fifth in the ratings.

Minor Leagues May be Shifted

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—A "top secret" plan for realigning the minor leagues apparently hinged today on a proposal to shift Houston, Dallas and Fort Worth from the Texas League to the American Association.

The reported changes were the upshot of "suggestions" by Bill Dewitt, head of a major league fund to aid distressed minor teams. Dewitt made a survey of what clubs want to move to new leagues and what non-baseball cities would like franchises.

Exactly what "suggestions" Dewitt made could not be learned, but the reported Texas-American Association moves would go this way:

1. Houston, Dallas and Fort Worth would move up to the Triple-A American Association, replacing Omaha, Louisville and Wichita.

2. The Texas League would be reduced from Double-A to "A" classification, and would get Amarillo, Tex., and Albuquerque, N.M., from the Western League, plus $50,000 to $120,000 cash from the American Association.

3. Wichita would join the Texas League or might find a place in a revamped combination of the Three-I and Western leagues. Omaha might join Wichita in the proposed new loop, and Louisville might find a spot in the Southern Association if Atlanta moved into the Triple-A International League.

The False Front

The long range policy of Red China and Red Russia together with their satellites, is readily understandable. It is the purpose of the political masters of these people to convert the world to communist persuasion.

The modus of the moment is transparent. The rulers of these vast land areas and these great hordes of people are intent upon the most compelling window display of communist superiority that can be put together.

Every effort of Nikita and Mao is aimed in that direction. Everything is propaganda, and all devices and procedures which contain a possible element of propaganda are being expertly exploited.

Take communist relations with non-communist countries. The paid missionaries of the red ideology are well trained, tactful, urbane. They appropriate every event to their own use, twist it to conform to the specifications of the moment and publish it for the effect it will have on other minds.

A disturbance in America is telegraphed as a Wall Street plot against the common people. The imperialistic aggressors and war mongers are behind the event. A disturbance in Peking is either not reported, or it is published as an evidence of the American capitalist underground and the direful peril such influences represent.

Production-wise, Russia and China have been moving rapidly into the forefront. But the front that is erected is a false front, a display, a set piece to make the communist system of slavery and usurpation look good. Even production is propaganda as the Communists use it.

The people in the interior of both Russia and China are suffering unspeakable horrors and deprivations. But at the borders, where the world comes to trade, there are mounting piles of goods and products, reasonably priced. The attempt is to make it appear that communism and slavery provide a productive system. The fact is that communism and slavery provide a consuming and distributive system which does not produce well. But since whatever production there is, is carefully and skillfully advertised abroad, the effect upon the unthinking people of the world is profound.

It Is Not Possible

Rose Wilder Lane is, to our view, one of the outstanding thinkers of our time. Her book, "Give Me Liberty," contains some ideas of such pertinent and eternal value that we are quoting them here.

"The men who met in Philadelphia to form a government believed that all men are born free. They founded this government on the principle: all power to the individual.

"How can such a principle be embodied in government? There is no escape from the fact that any government must be a man, or a few men, in power over the multitude of men. How is it possible to transfer the power of the ruler to each man in this multitude? It is not possible.

"This was not a problem merely of allowing common men some voice in the councils of their rulers, some power to stop their rulers in the act of using power to the injury or the robbery of common men. The intent was actually to give the governing power to each common man equally. So that in effect, the political result would be the same as in the Communist village, where each man has equal power and struggles for his own self-interest until a satisfactory balance is arrived at.

The governing power of this new republic was actually to reside in the multitudes. Common men were to govern themselves.

"But how is it possible to embody this intent in the mechanisms of government since any government of multitudes of men must be one man or a few men, in power over the many? It is not possible.

"The problem was solved by destroying power itself, so far as this could possibly be done. Power was diminished to an irreducible minimum.

"The 'irreducible minimum' of power, as set forth by Rose Wilder Lane, has now grown to gargantuan size. The reason for this growth is obvious. It is the very nature of government that some men shall rule other men. And the imposition of multitudes, in whom power resided, was simply the depositing of monarch and the imposing of multitude. The mass became the ruling despot. And with all power residing in the mass, the effect was quantitative and not qualitative.

Today it is evident that if we

What Does Collective Bargaining Really Mean?

Several years ago I listed some 45 questions for advocates of collective bargaining to answer. I've never found anyone who would really answer these questions. Now I have a member of a labor union who says that he is going to answer these questions. He believes in the question and answer method of gaining understanding.

He makes a very important suggestion. He says before he answers these questions we should agree on what different terms mean so we will be talking about the same thing so that our minds will meet.

Remember, Voltaire said, "If you would discourse with me, define your terms," and Lord Kelvin said, "If you cannot reduce to number, if you cannot measure what you are speaking about, your knowledge is meagre and of little value. If you can reduce it to numbers and can measure it, you know something about it."

I believe most of our trouble comes from people using words with different meanings. The usual meanings of words change. Even in the present generation some people use the word "liberal" with an entirely different meaning from the meaning as used a few years ago. Now "liberal" quite often means an almost unlimited government, while "liberal" a few years ago meant respecting creative energy of every individual. It meant not intervening or meddling with other people's inalienable rights.

The first question on this list of 45 was: "Does not collective bargaining make it very difficult, if not impossible, for workers to make an individual bargain?"

Now, what do these two words "collective bargaining" mean as used in practice today, and as used from a legal standpoint? From a legal standpoint and from practice today, collective bargaining means that where you have a collective bargaining agreement or contract the employer or the employer cannot make an individual contract. It means that the employer is bound by the will of the leaders or the agent of the majority to sell his services on the conditions set forth by the union and sanctioned, in most cases, under duress by the employer.

It is hard to conceive that any rational American employer would voluntarily, without being under duress, make a contract with a majority that would take away from every individual his right to make an individual contract that he believed was in harmony with justice and fairness and righteousness.

Few people realize, it seems to me, how far we have gone toward a totalitarian, collectivist state in this belief in collective bargaining. It means that no individual is permitted to get more than the collective bargaining unit will agree to, even if the employer wants to pay the individual employee a better wage. It means he cannot be promoted without the consent of the union. Oh, it is true that sometimes they give their consent, but every improvement of the individual is subject to the permission of the union. The individual loses his individuality and becomes a pawn of the union, just as the worker in Russia becomes a pawn of the Communist Party.

This interpretation of collective bargaining has grown on us by degrees. First the union got one concession and then demanded another. The National Labor Relations Board has invariably ruled that when a collective bargaining agreement is arrived at, all workers, whether it is an open shop contract or a closed shop contract, must let this bargaining union make bargains for each and every individual. The employer dare not pay more without the consent of the union for fear that individual might not have much respect for the labor union. He dare not pay any individual less, even if the individual believes he is not worth what the union scale is, because the unions think that might set a precedent and reduce their wages.

The unions, of course, do not believe in the competitive system where jobs can be switched. They practice seniority or the caste system, as does every communist group.

Years ago these laws did not prevent an individual from making an individual bargain. The way the unions worked some 50 or 60 years ago was that the union members would not work with a non-union member provided they were strong enough to prevent the employer from employing a worker who believed in the American way of life that all men had certain inalienable rights. Of course, when they got enough members, then it was practical to close a shop and a man had to join the union or they would have a strike.

Undoubtedly most people who say they believe in collective bargaining do not even realize that collective bargaining means that there can be no individual bargain.

It is hard to conceive how any man who believes in the Judeo-Christian ethics or the Declaration of Independence can believe and endorse the idea that the individual is nothing and the group is everything; that the individual has no rights that he gets from the Creator but they come from the group.

Yes, before we gain understanding of employer-employee relations we must define our terms. Our minds must meet on the meaning of words.

answer to our dilemma. She asks if it is possible to contain a government and at the same time see that the power of government is placed in the hands of one man or a few men. She says it is not possible. She is correct.

Robert Allen Reports:

Federal Tax Laws Will Be Reviewed

Washington — You can put it down as certain there will be a "sweeping review of federal tax laws" in the newly-elected Congress.

The machinery already has been set in motion for that. For several weeks, Representative Wilbur Mills (D., Ark.), chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, which originates all revenue legislation, has been privately consulting with House Democratic leaders on such action.

Speaker Sam Rayburn, Tex., Floor Leader John McCormack, Mass., and other legislative chiefs have approved Mills' proposal. It is his unannounced intention to hold an "exploratory" meeting of his Committee on this matter before the new Congress convenes on January 7. At this conference, Mills contemplates presenting plans designed to produce a far-reaching tax bill next spring.

In Mills' backstage discussions with House leaders, he has particularly cited six major tax fields as "urgently requiring new consideration," as follows: Capital gains tax — For some time there has been increasing sentiment in and out of Congress that this 25 percent levy should be reduced to "stimulate business investments."

Estate and gift taxes — Mills is personally of the opinion these levies actually invite dodging, and that they should be either drastically revised or abolished entirely. Insurance company taxes — This issue has been pending since World War II, and Mills is determined to settle it in the coming session of Congress.

Cooperatives — For years it has been charged that farm and other cooperatives are "unduly favored" in the tax laws. This politically explosive question would be reopened for new consideration.

Partnerships and trusts — Numerous loopholes reputedly exist in these tax provisions and Mills wants them carefully examined for possible "tightening."

Depletion allowances — These oil, mineral and other "tax preferences" have long been under fire. Mills proposes to subject them to close scrutiny to determine whether they are "necessary."

This critical attitude is significantly indicated in a letter Mills has written Ways and Means Committee members, as follows: "The overwhelming bulk of our taxpayers, including businessmen, are becoming aware in searching the revenue laws that the tax preferences now existing, which cut our tax base by billions of dollars, do not contain any privileges or benefits for them. They know that these preferences mean generally higher tax rates than would be necessary if they were removed, and if every dollar of income for scope, it usually shows a peculiar type of cell which was once called a "monocyte," and which is responsible for the "mononucleosis" part of the name.

Except for these cells and a complicated special test of the blood called the heterophile antibody test, the symptoms of infectious mononucleosis are similar to a great many other conditions. For this reason the diagnosis is often long delayed and sometimes not made at all. In most cases, complete recovery comes after a few weeks. In some, however, fever and a run-down feeling lasts for months. Occasional serious complications have been reported, but these are the exception.

A really good treatment for infectious mononucleosis has not been developed. One or more of the newer antibiotics may prove helpful, but this is by no means certain. Rest in bed and treatment of the symptoms is about the best we can do as yet.

What concerns the medical profession particularly is the possibility that this disease may become more severe and more common as time goes on.

NEW YORK—CUFF NOTES: It is of no great consequence except as an illustration of the gulf of misunderstanding that lies between the people of the theater and drama critics, of which the woods are full from Coast to Coast. A small play opened off-Broadway in a small theater the other Saturday night, with rain coming down as though out of sluices. By curtain-time, every critic with a job was there and a management associate said to this reporter: "I'm amazed the boys came out tonight, in weather like this. What's amazing about it? We work for newspapers and are paid for this work. Newspapers exist to print news, in whatever capacity, including theater. If a fire broke out on a rainy Saturday night whatever reporter was nearest at hand would go out and do it whether he wished to do so or not. Being a critic does not automatically create an Olympian figure. A newspaper reporter with a department to cover may be called a critic, but if he is worth 5 cents at the cashier's window he is still a reporter doing his job. There is no privilege connected with any working newspaperman's job.

There's a man in town named Elbridge J. Caselman and he is a podologist. It sounds impressive, but what it comes down to is that Caselman is a shaving expert. He knows how to shave to the best advantage and his job, paid for by a celebrated razor corporation, is to go around the country showing men the best way to shave. There is a best way and most men don't know it, among their faults being not enough moisture and preparation.

The best information I ever got on the subject came from the noble son of a wine-making family in Italy. Count Rossi demonstrated to me long ago the proper way to shave is to sit in a deep tub of very hot water, turn the head to one side and down until the cheek on that side is under water until that side is finished. Then you turn the other side under water and shave that, finishing with a chin dipper into the hot water. No lather necessary and the result is smart, clean, smooth and clean. It takes a deal of knack to learn this method and still be comfortable, but it works fine and the skin of the face is never tormented. I'm an old razor buff, having tried straight razors, injectors, double-edgers, the British Rolls with their permanent blade, safety razors designed like straight razors and the zenith, to me, of nothing at all—electric razors. Since the day they came out, until now, I have given five different makes of electric razors every possible test, and they just don't work for me.

Best razor I ever had, a double-edged blade but which has a spring motor in the handle. You wind this and the blade oscillates at high speed while you shave, giving a sort of buffing action as well as cutting. They are expensive but worth it.

You think New York is a city of toppers towers and shining streets, the world's center of cultivation, free minds and civilized thinking? Friend of mine slipped and broke his ankle the other day. Two nights later I was at dinner at the home of a celebrated playwright. The accident came under discussion during dinner, but only briefly. After dinner, the cook asked me if I could speak with me and I went into the kitchen. "Here is a little piece of paper," she said. "It has a design on it. Get from any butcher market of size a stiff hair from a boar's tusks and then make up an ink from shoe berries boiled down in sugar water. Take the hair and the ink to your friend and on his cast draw the design you find on this paper. The bone will knit very fast and be doubly strong. Be sure and do that." Voodoo on Madison Avenue. But it seems to be working. My friend's ankle feels much better and he claims it has the feel of real strength in it.

No ads being printed on the trap, it must have been for real. Probably just a girl who wanted to drive a trap down Fifth Avenue on a Sunday afternoon.

To Arms Men, You Need Own Magazine!

What we men need is a man's magazine for men patterned after the one thousand and one women's magazines that are published for women.

I came to this conclusion last night when the McLemore Caravan stopped for the night at a motel whose library consisted of two or three dozen women's magazines, and nothing else.

Since I have to read myself to sleep, I went through two or three of these feminine slicks before the sandman got me.

Men need a magazine aimed at them the way these are aimed at the girls. We do have magazines, but unless you are a man who wants to know what gun to use against a charging elephant, or the true facts behind the Custer-Massacre, or the best place to catch steel-heads, or what a scantily draped girl looks like, there wouldn't be much use in subscribing to them.

All the women's magazines always have a feature, with pictures, showing how a dowdy, frumpy-looking gal can change into a knock-out of a looker in a few days at most. Sometimes a cure is given that requires but an hour or two.

Men could use articles like that. Most of us are pretty grim-looking objects, and would eat up information which would enable us to enter the front door looking like goats and come out the back looking like Gables.

Whether they admit it or not, most men are vain, and would stop short of almost nothing to effect a change from gargoyle to Gaius. I know I would be glad to tie a towel around my head and chins all night, or soak my kisser in anything short of carbolic acid to put handsomeness where it has never been before.

And if this transformation can be worked on the girls, there is no reason why it can't be worked on men.

The women's magazines place great emphasis on showing their readers how to become more efficient at their work, thus lightening their duties.

Men would like to be told those things, too. There must be many a banker who takes useless steps during his day at the office, and

Community Concert Features Dancers

Pampans will see two of the most versatile dancers of television when Rod Alexander and Bambi Linn reach town with their young and talented dance troupe. They will present the first Community Concert of the Pampa season at 8 p.m. in the auditorium of Pampa Junior High School.

Bambi Linn and Rod Alexander met in 1950 when both cast in a musical comedy called "Great to Be Alive." As a pupil of Tatiana Riabouchenska in private Mme. David Lichine, Alexander had supported himself as a welder between small film parts in a Mae West movie called "The Heat's On," and a film about "The Waltz King" for which Lichine did the choreography. Then he teamed up with the Jack Cole Dancers on the nightclub circuit, ultimately became Valerie Bettis' partner in the Beatrice Lillie revue "Inside U.S.A." in which they danced the show-stopping "Tiger Lily" ballet and the hit love-song, "Haunted Heart."

Brooklyn-born Bambi began dancing almost as soon as she learned to walk, and was packed off to dancing school at the age of six. The school offered tap and acrobatic dancing as well as ballet; she liked the ballet best. While still in high school, she continued her classes under the direction of Agnes de Mille, who gave her a small role in the now historic Rodgers and Hammerstein classic, "Oklahoma!" from "Oklahoma!" she moved on to a starring role as Billy Bigelow's daughter in "Carousel," in which she appeared both in New York and London. A year in Hollywood under contract to Selznick followed. Nothing happened. She returned to Broadway in the title role of the revival of "Alice in Wonderland." This landed her on the cover of Life and Collier's, and began the spiral toward nationwide fame. After a short run in a revival of "Sally" with Willie Howard, she joined Ballet Theatre in the spring of 1949, danced in New York and in one-night stands on tour. Then came "Great to Be Alive" and Rod Alexander. They were married Apr. 2, 1950 in New York's famous Little Church Around the Corner, near the end of the show's run.

They decided to join forces in public as a team. Both attractive youngsters had already accumulated to the popular taste. After their initial success in Chicago, Miss Abbott booked them in 1952 into the Persian Room of the Hotel Plaza in New York, a fashionable spot which is the top of the heap for nightclub entertainers in America.

At this point, the infant television was beginning to make its voice heard throughout the land. Producer Max Liebman, responsible for many of the early TV spectaculars, saw them in the Persian Room, and hired Alexander as choreographer. The result shows, as Dance Magazine recalled it (in June, 1958) that "They have become television's top dance team, and today they typify the radically altered American dance world, where dancers do every type of dance movement imaginable, and do it with technical skill and understanding. Besides the Show of Shows, their long list of TV credits includes appearances on nearly every major musical or variety program, including the Ed Sullivan and Steve Allen countless spectaculars like the General Motors Anniversary Show, salutes to Ethel Barrymore and Ed Wynn. Alexander has also choreographed the Arthur Murray Party and the recent Arthur Godfrey Talent Scout program, for which he also did the staging. Alexander also contributed the choreography to the filmed version of the Rodgers-Hammerstein Broadway success, "Carousel" — in the New York original of which Bambi made her first big splash in show business.
