Danes Fear Accident If Sub Visits

By KAJ SARUP
United Press International
COPENHAGEN, Den. (UPI)—Denmark has banned the scheduled Aug. 28 visit of the atomic submarine USS Skate for fear an accident might expose Danish residents to the effects of nuclear radiation.

The ban, announced Thursday night by Premier and Foreign Minister H. C. Hansen, was the first such move by a NATO nation in the atomic age. U. S. nuclear submarines previously have visited Britain, France and Holland.

Hansen said he called off the bans because the Danish Atomic Energy Commission had warned against the potential risk if an accident happened.

"Even though an accident of any kind is not likely to happen, I found it best to follow the advice of the atomic scientists," Hansen said.

The Skate has visited Europe previously and in recent days its exploits under the Arctic ice cap have been bannered and hailed in the Danish newspapers. It was the second American atomic-powered submarine to cross the Arctic beneath the ice. The Nautilus, now en route to New York, was the first. It put into Plymouth, England, where its crew received a heroes' welcome.

The Skate is to arrive in Bergen, Norway, late Saturday afternoon, and to go to Oslo late Monday. Afterwards it was to have gone to Copenhagen.

A member of the Danish Atomic Energy Commission who refused to be named said, "We did not dare take on the responsibility not to stress the extraordinary danger which would be connected with such a collision or grounding of the submarine in Copenhagen Harbor."

Senate Sets Long Session

Adjournment By Saturday Seen

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Eighty-Fifth Congress today was set to chop down some of the few remaining barriers to final adjournment, now expected no later than Saturday night.

The Senate prepared to meet early and work through what Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex.) warned might be a long session. The House, running ahead of the Senate in its handling of major bills, was scheduled to act on a series of minor measures.

Today's first order of business in the Senate was a bill to extend the government's authority to regulate contracts to recapture "excess profits."

Thursday night the Senate took a long stride toward adjournment.

US Says Living Costs Up

By EDWARD COWAN
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The cost of living climbed to another all-time high in July, the government reported today, in contrast to earlier reports it had dropped.

The Labor Department's consumer price index advanced 0.2 per cent. The cost of transportation, some foods and medical care increased, while prices of housing and recreation dipped slightly.

The July index rose to 123.9 of the 1947-49 price average of 100. This meant it cost $12.39 last month to buy a basket of goods and services that cost $10 in 1947-49.

A top official held out hope that living costs would level out in coming months. The Senate Commissioner of Labor Statistics Ewan Clague forecast overall price stability persisting for "six months, maybe a year."

He noted that the July increase in the index was the smallest rise for that month since 1954. He noted that the index has gone up in July in every year but two since 1941.

The rise in the price index means wage increases of from 1 to 4 cents an hour for some 500,000 workers whose pay is tied to the cost of living.

The department also reported that the take-home pay of a factory worker with three dependents rose from $75.55 in June to $75.88 in July.

The report said consumer prices in July averaged 2.6 per cent higher than in July, 1957.

Biggest factor in last month's climb was a 1 per cent increase in transportation costs. This reflected climbing gasoline prices as price wars ended in several cities and a 2.9 per cent jump in used car prices. Transit fares also rose because of hikes in five cities.

Food prices were up 0.1 per cent in July as increases for pork, eggs and milk more than offset seasonal markdowns for fresh fruits and vegetables.

This showed food prices 3.7 per cent higher than in July, 1957.

Plane Burns, Crashes Near Lubbock Base

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI)—Air Force authorities said today the B-25 which exploded and crashed 20 miles west of here, killing two men, apparently caught fire in air.

A helicopter investigatory unit was sent to the scene this morning.

Reese AFB officials said the plane was on a training flight and the students were attempting to make a turn when the plane apparently caught fire.

It fell to the ground about four miles from Smyer in Hockley county Thursday night and exploded in a cotton patch.

Air Force officials identified the victims as 22-year-old Kent C. Berg, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Berg, Wellington, Kan., and 21-year-old Phillip M. Findley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Findley, New Orleans.

The bodies of Berg and Findley, both aviation cadets at Reese since June, were thrown clear of the wreckage, but were badly mangled.

Wreckage of the burned plane was strewn over a quarter-mile area.

Fire trucks from Reese were sent to the scene, but when they arrived only a few pieces of the fuselage still were burning.

The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal reported that citizens in farming communities around Lubbock called in to report a "huge flash" about the time of the crash.

Air Force Scores Miss With Bomarc

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI)—The Air Force scored a near miss on a target drone with a Bomarc missile Thursday in a remote control firing test described as "a complete success."

The needle-nosed interceptor rocket roared up from the missile test center here, but the operation was controlled from the SAGE system electronic nerve center 1,500 miles away at Kingston, N.Y.

The first SAGE-Bomarc test failed Aug. 7 when the missile's guidance device had a malfunction. But on Aug. 15 a SAGE-directed Bomarc scored an unintentional direct hit on a flying target.

The Air Force said it was not trying to make a direct hit on the pilotless drone plane, which was cruising over the Atlantic about 250 miles away, and that the Bomarc followed its prescribed flight pattern.

The 47-foot missile, which travels at about 2½ times the speed of sound, will be installed at strategically located bases in this country in the "very near future," an Air Force spokesman said.

Alarm Out For 'Stolen Car'

NEW YORK (UPI)—Police today had an alarm out for a stolen car, described thusly:

"Red, four and one-half feet long, with top speed of five miles an hour."

The complainant, Bruce Winnick, reported the car stolen Thursday from the miniature garage in the rear of his home.

Bruce is seven years old.

BALLOT BLUES

Gray County voters go to the polls Saturday to choose victors in a runoff election resulting from close balloting in the Democratic primary July 26. Beset with the "ballot blues," a chronic malady of voters this time every year is Miss Carol Paxson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Paxson, 815 N. West, Saturday's runoff election will be her second time to vote—thus the pen-sive study of the candidates.

Would Agree With Russia On Ban

By WILLIAM GALBRAITH
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Eisenhower said today the United States is ready to suspend nuclear weapons tests for one year starting Oct. 31 if Russia doesn't resume its tests and agrees to negotiate on a world test ban.

The President said that as a result of the recent East-West technical talks at Geneva this country "is prepared to proceed promptly to negotiate an agreement" for permanent suspension of tests and establishment of a control system recommended by the experts.

The President said:

"If this is accepted in principle by the other nations which have tested nuclear weapons, then in order to facilitate the detailed negotiations the United States is prepared, unless testing is resumed by the Soviet Union, to withhold further testing on its part of atomic and hydrogen weapons for a period of one year from the beginning of the negotiations."

Sets Two Conditions

The United States will be ready to open such negotiations Oct. 31, the President said in a special statement.

Eisenhower also said this country would be prepared to extend its suspension on a year by year basis upon two conditions. They were that an agreed inspection system was installed and working progress was being made in effectively and that satisfactory progress was being made in reaching agreement on and carrying out substantial arms control measures such as the United States has long sought.

The President's statement was sent to U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson in Moscow to hand over to the Russian Foreign Office.

It also was sent to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization Council in Paris.

The President noted his long-standing position that suspension of nuclear weapons tests "is not in itself a measure of disarmament or a limitation of armament."

But he added that an agreement on a policed world ban on such tests could lead to "more substantial agreements" as to limitation of production of fissionable material for weapons and "other essential phases of disarmament."

Invites U.N. Observers

"It is in this hope that the United States makes this proposal," he said.

The President said negotiations toward an agreement on a nuclear weapons test ban "should also deal with the problem of detonations for peaceful purposes." But U.S. officials said that the President did not have in mind precluding atomic explosions for peaceful purposes, such as blasting out a harbor.

However, these officials said the United States would invite United Nations observers to any such nuclear explosions for peaceful purposes if any are conducted.

Shoot-To-Kill Orders In Fort Worth

FORT WORTH (UPI)—Police men on shoot to kill orders patrolled the city's streets today to keep a youthful "mad dog" gang from blasting its way into the dormant throne room of the Fort Worth underworld.

Police Chief Cato Hightower said Thursday his men must stop gang war "if it has to be feet first."

Murder charges were filed against two men for the gangland ambush of small-time procurer Billy Ray Foote, who wouldn't kick back the 40 per cent of his vice earnings that the fledgling "second generation" gang demanded.

Charges were filed against Garrett Ramsey, 24, and Don Ray Gaunt, 23. Police were searching for a third man, Larry Wade Gunsolus, 21.

Second Ambush

Foote was chopped down in a hail of bullets on his mother's front porch Wednesday. It was the second ambush in a week.

A week ago Thursday, an innocent 14-year-old girl caught a charge of shot in her face when she walked into a blazing ambush. The shots were meant for Gunsolus and gang leader Richard Garcia. They both escaped.

Jimmy Green, cousin of two members of the old gangster clan who died by their associates' guns, escaped the ambush in which Foote was killed.

In the car Green was driving was a shotgun which he admitted was the one used in the attempt to kill Gunsolus and Garcia.

Green said the gang "can't afford to let me live. I know too much."

Made Statement

Green made a statement to police Thursday night and wasn't particularly anxious to leave their company.

Garcia, leader of the gang pushing for the top, was conveniently in jail when Foote was killed. Detectives said Garcia was wanted for questioning in the burglary of a post office.

US Has Some Doubts

West Hails UN Peace Resolution

By BRUCE W. MUNN
United Press International
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—Most Western diplomats today hailed unanimous United Nations passage of an all-Arab peace resolution for the Middle East but the United States apparently still had some doubts.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles insisted the future of the Middle East still would be settled by deeds and not by the words of the resolution putting it up to the Arabs themselves to keep the peace.

But the United States believed greater good had been done for the Middle East at this session than would have been achieved at the summit conference originally wanted by Russia.

"I don't think a summit meeting could have accomplished as much as this because a summit meeting would have excluded the Arab nations," U. S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge said. The success was due in large part to the presence of the small nations."

Unanimity Surprises

The resolution, which puts much of the burden on U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold, passed by a vote of 80 to 0 on a show of hands with only the Dominican Republic absent—apparently because it was still peeved at past American "snubs."

The rare example of Arab unanimity—the resolution was written by 10 Arab nations—caused major surprise in Lebanon where the newspaper Al Ahrar asked in a banner headline: "Who could believe it? Arab delegations are agreeing among themselves."

But how the resolution would affect the future of Lebanon and Jordan once American and British troops are withdrawn still was not known.

To Leave Soon

The resolution provides:

—A reaffirmation by the Arabs themselves of the Arab League principles of mutual respect, non-aggression, non-interference and mutual benefit.

—Directs Hammarskjold to consult the governments concerned and make practical arrangements in Lebanon and Jordan facilitating the early withdrawal of foreign troops.

—Asks Hammarskjold to study with the Arab countries the establishment of a do-it-yourself economic program for the Middle East.

—Invites Hammarskjold to report progress by Sept. 30. The regular fall session of the General Assembly begins Sept. 16.

Hammarskjold was expected to leave soon for the Middle East to work out with Jordan some sort of "U. N. presence" that would permit the withdrawal of British troops. The United Nations already has an observer group in Lebanon whose effective operation could permit U. S. forces to leave.

Mike Jr., Liz Sue Own Firm

NEW YORK (UPI)—Elizabeth Taylor and Michael Todd Jr. named their own company Thursday as a co-defendant in a five-million-dollar suit charging gross negligence in the airplane accident that killed Michael Todd Sr. last March.

The suit named as defendants the Michael Todd Co. Inc., Ayer Lease Plane Co. Inc., Ayer Lease Plane Co., owner of the twin-engine Lockheed Lodestar in which Todd, two pilots and screenwriter Art Cohn died and Trade-Ayer Inc. Ayer Lease and Trade-Ayer are located at the Linden, N.J., airport.

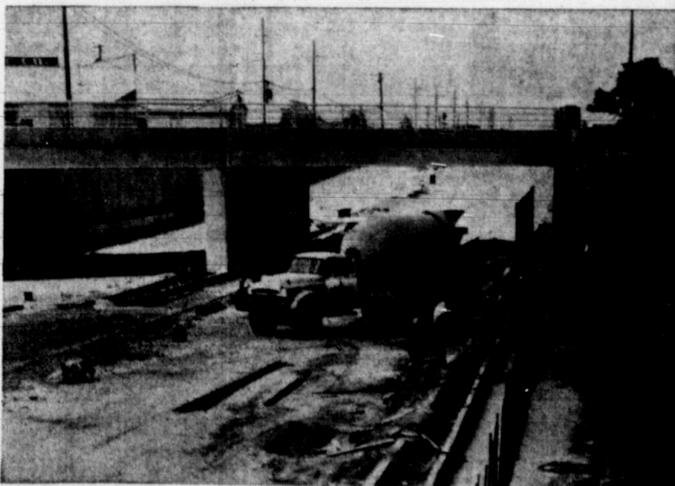

The screen star and the impresario's son filed the suit on their own behalf and that of the infant daughter born to Miss Taylor and the elder Todd several months prior to the crash.

A companion suit for $1,500,000 was filed on behalf of Martha Cohn, widow of Cohn.

Miss Taylor and Todd Jr. now control the Todd company but their attorneys said any corporation was regarded as an individual under the law and could be sued by anyone even by the majority stockholders.

Tony Ming, vice president of the New Jersey firm, denied that his firm was guilty of charges contained in the suit.

"When an accident like this happens there are always suits to sort out the responsibilities," Ming said.

CONSTRUCTION SLOWED

Work on the new Hobart Street underpass has been slowed some fifteen days due to Pampans failing to cooperate with detour signs placed at the north and south approaches to the underpass, according to city officials in charge of the project. Originally scheduled for completion by Oct. 1, dedication ceremonies are now tentatively set for Oct. 15. City Manager John B. Koontz stressed Friday that the west approach lane is open for construction traffic only. Progress has been continuously interrupted by drivers asking to proceed through the construction lanes. Pampans are asked to honor the city's detour signs so that completion may proceed without further delay.

Jimmy Holson, dean of Frank Phillips College, Borger, was the speaker in the noon meeting of the Pampa Downtown Lions Club yesterday. His topic was changes in football regulations. An added attraction on the program was the piano playing of Joanne Craig, daughter of immediate past president Homer Craig.

Holson said that although officials on the field may not appear to know what they're doing, they are very well informed. During the football season here, they meet for two hours every Sunday to study the rules. They also must pass a test before they can get out on the field.

State Tourist Development Is Discussed In Realtors' Meet

Pampa realtors and their guests representing interested businesses and civic clubs heard Ervin W. Luedtke, executive secretary of the Texas Real Estate Association, describe the "appalling lack of coordinated tourist development in Texas" at their regular Thursday noon luncheon at Poole's Drive Inn.

Luedtke, who has been the executive secretary of the Nebraska Real Estate Association and is a past president of the U.S. real estate association executive secretaries' group, described the efforts now being exerted by other states to attract industry and the tourist trade. He further enumerated the large sums of money annually expended by tourists in the state and described possibilities for further exploitation of the tourist trade here.

"The average tourist now spends six-and-one-third days in Texas," Luedtke commented. "Yet at present there is no concerted effort by any large group in the state to encourage expansion of the Texas tourist program." The executive secretary compared Texas' lack of interest with the tremendous selling jobs done for out-of-staters by Florida and California.

The Texas Real Estate Association and other interested groups are now promoting the passage of an amendment to the Texas Constitution which will allow Texas tax money to be appropriated for the purposes of tourist and industry location encouragement. At present, according to a clause inserted in the Texas constitution in 1883, the Legislature is prohibited from appropriating public moneys for the encouragement of "immigrants." This clause has been in effect since 1883.

Suit Filed In Court Here

Mrs. Lois Lester, 505 N. Starkweather, filed suit against Triangle Well Servicing Co. this morning in the 31st District Court in Pampa, alleging $175,000 damages resulting from a truck accident which killed her husband and son on December 17, 1957.

Killed when a pickup truck collided with an oil truck owned by the Wheeler Pipeline Co. were Ray Odessa Lester, Sr., and Ray Odessa Lester, Jr., Mrs. Lester's husband and son respectively. She is claiming $100,000 damages for the death of her husband and $75,000 for the death of her son, alleging these deaths occurred as a result of Triangle's negligence in failure to maintain safe equipment.

Two other men riding with the Lesters were killed in the accident.

Interpreted by the state attorney-general's office to include tourists and industries interested in locating in Texas.

The clause was originally inserted to discourage carpetbaggers' entry into the state. The amendment, which will appear in the seventh slot on the Nov. 4 ballot, would allow Texas tax money to be used for the promotion of tourist travel and industrial location in Texas. "Every dollar brought into Texas by tourists or every citizen of the community," Luedtke stressed, "I urge each of you to work for the passage of this amendment."

Among the interested businesses and civic clubs which sent representatives were Cabot Carbon Co., Rotary Club, B. & P. W. Club, Texas Graduate Nurses, Bruce and Son Transfer and Storage, the Hughes Companies, Pampa Chamber of Commerce, and the "L" Ranch Motel.

SHOOT

(Continued From Page 1) A few hours before Foote was killed, Garcia obligingly turned himself in to a postal inspector and was in custody when the shooting occurred.

Underworld sources say Garcia is demanding a 40-per-cent-kick-back on all profits made from crime and vice in Fort Worth, an ambitious demand for a 23-year-old hoodlum. He has been arrested about 40 times.

Gang Leader Murdered The last of the old gang died early last year. He was Jack (The Bomber) Nesbit, killed by his girl friend. The rest of the gang — including Jimmy Green's cousins, DeLois and Cecil Green — were murdered by gang bullets.

Veteran detectives here, talking Chief Hightower's order to "shoot to kill if any young thugs reach for a gun," said they would rather face one of the old gang than the new one.

Pair Charged With Forgery

A Texas man and his Nebraska partner were in the Gray County jail Friday following their apprehension by Pampa police. Joseph B. Romine, Jr., 28 of Sunset, Tex., and Bruce Goddard, 28, of Ogallala, Neb., have been charged with making a forged instrument and passing a forged instrument, respectively.

The pair attempted to pass a $20 check made out to Goddard and signed by Roy Lambert at Mitchell's Grocery Wednesday. Mitchell, becoming suspicious, pursued the men in his pickup to Prairie Village, where the pair jumped out and tried to run away. Local police rounded them up a short time later.

RUNOFF

AUSTIN (UPI)—Texas Democrats settle run-off races tomorrow for one Supreme Court judgeship, 34 legislative seats and scores of local contests.

Statewide voter turnout was expected to be light — somewhere around 250,000, and far under the 1,317,492 votes tallied in the first primary balloting for Governor.

Local and district races will determine to a large degree the total votes in the one statewide contest. It pits Robert W. Hamilton of El Paso against J. Edwin Smith of Houston in a race for Place One on the Supreme Court. Hamilton, who polled 476,799 votes to 311,481 for Smith in the July primary, is chief justice of the 8th Court of Civil Appeals at El Paso. Smith is a Houston attorney. Each seeks the State Supreme Court seat being vacated by Associate Justice W. St. John Garwood, who did not seek re-election.

To Ignore Law The law says all counties shall hold an election. But there were reports at least six might look the other way, and ignore the law. Other counties were reported planning to "consolidate" their voting boxes in an economy move by cutting down on the number of election officials.

Despite the legal requirements, no penalty is provided for violating the law, and it is seldom that all counties participate in a second primary.

Local contests were expected to spur a voter turnout in such population centers as Dallas, Houston, Fort Worth, San Antonio and El Paso. All have legislative runoff races.

State Senate seats were involved in three contests. These pitted Martin Dies, R-Ft. Worth, against Frank Carpenter of Sour Lake; Robert W. Baker against Charles Murphy, Jr., both of Houston, and Louis Crump of San Saba against Joe B. Swanner of Brownwood.

Baker is now a state representative, while Carpenter and Murphy are former House members.

In addition to the Senate race, five House of Representative seats are at issue in Harris county. Four races for the House will be determined at Fort Worth. Two House seats will be at stake in run-off races in Dallas, Galveston and Bexar (San Antonio) counties, while El Paso voters will settle one legislative runoff.

The President said the conclusion of the scientists at Geneva indicated that "if there were an agreement to eliminate such tests, its effective supervision and enforcement would be technically possible."

He hailed this as "a most important conclusion," particularly because Russian experts had concurred. Russia and Britain are the only other countries which have held nuclear weapons tests. Britain was understood to be making a simultaneous announcement similar to Eisenhower's. Eliminates all earlier.

He said he did not know when his wife, Myra, was expecting the child.

MATURE PARENT

By MRS. MURIEL LARENCE

During the Hitler regime, a noted psychoanalyst was confined in one of its most notorious concentration camps.

There, in spite of his personal wretchedness, he began to note a strange response to brutality among certain fellow prisoners. They would ask the wrong question break a rule or otherwise assert their existence as a living human being—an reprisal would immediately follow.

The SS guards would take over, beat them into near insensibility and toss them back to their comrades. But instead of expressing hate of the guards, these prisoners would begin to make admiring comments about them—their strength, their fearlessness, their loyalty to rules.

The psychoanalyst was not critical of this terrible admiration. He knew that there is a point where human beings cannot tolerate humiliation—and to avoid experiencing it, begin to tell themselves that they love the person who has inflicted it. By convincing themselves that the humiliator was justified, they can accept the humiliation as justified, too.

This trick of self-delusion is not confined to concentration camps. Children who have been severely whipped or otherwise harshly punished can resort to it, too.

They also will transform their rage at the parent who has humiliated them into admiration—and tearfully protest they love us—in order to make their helplessness endurable.

If this shocks you, just try to forget it. If it doesn't you can use it to avoid requiring a punished child to falsify himself by telling you how much he admires you for hurting him.

We all lose our tempers occasionally. This is fine—so long as we are willing to accept the consequences of our uncontrolled action. It's when we aren't willing to accept the child's resentment of it as a probable consequence that we do him the real injury. By asking him to pretend it is remorseful love, we do him more hurt than any blow can inflict.

The world is filled with people who have been trained to believe that they love their humiliators. Sometimes they never discover that they don't.

DEAR ABBY...

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Recently a neighbor of mine told me that my wife had a man friend coming to see her while I was at work. I asked my wife about this and she said he came to see her but nothing went on excepting maybe a few kisses. I asked her several times if she was SURE it didn't go any farther and she said to me, "Let the one who has not sinned cast the first stone" meaning my record was not exactly perfect. I admit I got myself involved a few times but that was years ago. Do you think because I have sinned in the past I have no right to know what my wife does while I'm at work?

NOT PERFECT
DEAR NOT: No one is entirely without sin and therefore (according to that proverb) no one should cast any stones. If you are through living in a glass house, go ahead and cast a few. What your wife does when you are at work is definitely your business.

DEAR ABBY: We have just celebrated our third wedding anniversary. My husband's mother is beneficiary of his Life Insurance policy. After a few mentions, he still has not changed it. He says that I can be replaced but his mother can't. What do you think I ought to do about it?

UNPROTECTED
DEAR UNPROTECTED: I think your husband should have a long talk with his clergyman or insurance agent. His ideas should be replaced.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my grandmother. She is putting my mother in her grave. My grandmother shouldn't be living alone but nobody can live with her. We tried to talk her into going to a Home for the Aged but she says she doesn't want to be with a lace cloth over mint green to be 100 years old September 9th. My mother cooks things and takes them to her every day and comes back crying because her own mother calls her names, throws the food at her and says she doesn't need "charity." My mother is 73 and this problem is getting too much for us. Please, Abby, give us some advice.

END OF ROPE
DEAR END: Few 100-year-olds are competent to live alone, and your grandmother is no exception. She could be a danger to herself and others. Call in a medical doctor and ask his advice. Granny needs a companion, a nurse or a new residence.

DEAR ABBY: I am a young mother of two small children. My husband and I are separated and the only thing holding up the divorce is the money. Three weeks ago I started going out with a friend of my husband. He wants to take me on a holiday trip for a week - end and says he doesn't mind taking the children. My mother says she will keep my children for me because it would be no vacation if I had the children but I think it might not look good if he and I went away together alone. What do you think? I am serious about him.

SHOULD I
DEAR SHOULD: A married woman (and you are STILL married) should not take week-end trips with a man, regardless of whether or not she takes her children along. When your divorce is final talk turkey, but don't gobble up the dessert before the appetizer.

CONFIDENTIAL TO LEX AT THE FILLING STATION: One - armed drivers usually run into a church. Don't take any foolish chances... you're young yet!

Autumn Furs Look Like 'For Real'

By GAILE DUGAS
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK (NEA) — Those like-fur coats that the girls love are back this fall, better than ever and with some brand-new and beautiful imitations of fur.

Leading off the list is a fabric version of raccoon that looks exactly like the real thing. Light weight and warm, it's used for casual and country coats and is moderately priced.

Following are wonderful imitations of seal, beaver, mink, wolf and even hair seal. These fake furs sport the realistically uneven guard hairs and the natural markings of the pelts they copy.

The first fur fabrics were introduced six years ago. Since that time, manufacturers have learned to make them lighter, warmer and far closer to fur. The girls look to them. They bought one coat, cautiously then returned in other seasons for a second, a third and a fourth.

This year, designers who work in leather are using the deep-pile fabrics as linings for soft suede coats and leather jackets.

fake furs used for casual fashions. The country coat that looks just like raccoon (left) is actually a durable and unusually lightweight fabric imitation. It weighs a mere three pounds and carries a low price tag.

Soft kidskin coat (right) in seven-eighths length has like-fur lining that spills over to form exaggerated tuxedo front. Colors are shades of beige.

It isn't a mania toward cleanliness that makes several bathtubs a day essential during summer. During a heat wave, sponging yourself several times a day is healthful. You suds away pore-clogging particles and thus allow perspiration to flow freely.

Second 'Earn And Serve' Season Ends

Five Brethren Students Return To Their Colleges

The Earn and Serve program ended today in the Pampa Church of the Brethren as the last participants left to resume their student life in Kansas, Pennsylvania, and Missouri. The students came here in June to carry on a program of youth work and special projects in the local church.

In the Brethren program they saw a chance to earn their summer expenses and to do a job for the Church. Miss Glenda Wine, Vernard Foley and John Meyers are students in McPherson College, the Brethren institution in McPherson, Kans., while Dale Myers is enrolled in the University of Missouri's School of Mines and Barbara Berlin will enter nurses' training at Geisinger Memorial Hospital, Danville, Pa., in the fall.

In a June 11 meeting, the crew outlined the goals they hoped to achieve in their two months here. These were to work with the youth fellowship, fill in for Sunday School teachers, build a Church library and put out weekly Church bulletins.

As they left, the workers were very optimistic on the future of the Church library. Their recommendations have been adopted and a committee is working to put them into effect. If the plan works out, books coming from a $20 a year library fund will be supplemented by memorial books in lieu of flowers in time of bereavement. The library will likely start with children's books as children are believed to be the most avid readers.

The group suffered a setback in their youth work as so many of the young people had their jobs or were off on vacation. However, they succeeded in staging an all-day youth rally one Sunday which included swimming in Lake McClellan, a picnic in the Devil's Punch Bowl and a discussion on the "Marks of a Christian."

They also took a five block census for the Church which was largely visitation and erecting Church signs on the Berger, Amarillo and Miami highways. Their Church services occupied much of their time when they were not working their summer jobs. For Miss Berlin the best employment turned out to be baby sitting. She clerked for time in a drug store but soon found that the hours conflicted with the "Serve" aspect of the program.

Miss Wine combined work at Woolworth's with baby sitting. The boys had to move around more to find suitable employment. Starting on the Hobart Street underpass, digging ditches, Dale Myers and Vernard Foley went to work on a grain mill construction in Kingsmill, then to a farm near Walker where they harvested wheat and worked the irrigation ditches.

John Meyers left Texas two weeks ago, having exhausted the possibilities of the wheat harvest and farm work.

The next move for some of the Earn and Servers will be to Brethren meetings and youth conferences. Foley and Miss Wine will attend the Brethren National Youth Conference at Lake Junaluska, N. C.; Miss Berlin will be in the General Council Meeting of the United Christian Youth Movement in Harrisonburg, Va.

Mrs. Wayne Jones was director of the Pampa project, assisted by Russell West.

The Church parsonage on Frost was home for Misses Berlin and Wine, who stayed with the Rev. James Minnich, Miss Wine, from Enders, Neb., is a sophomore English and elementary education major at McPherson College where Vernard Foley, whose home is Merrill, Kans., is a history and fine arts major. John Meyers, from Dexter, Kans., is a junior business administration and chemistry major at McPherson. His brother Dale is studying electrical engineering in the University of Missouri School of Mines. Miss Berlin, a freshman nurse in Geisinger Memorial Hospital, is from Waynesboro, Pa.

This was the second Earn and Serve program instituted in the Pampa Church. Chances are there will be another next summer. The program has operated in Brethren Churches for the past four years.

Rev. Watkins Titles Sunday Sermons

"Just Outside the Kingdom" will be Rev. Burgin Watkins' sermon topic in the Sunday morning service of St. Paul's Methodist Church, 918 W. Buckler. "Square Pegs-Round Holes" will be the Sunday evening sermon.

The Church Stewards will sponsor a Stewards' Back to Church Month in September. Every Official Board member will have Stewards' lists and expect their families to sit with them during the next four Sundays.

The Wesleyan Service Guild will sponsor an ice cream social at 6:30 p.m. today, Wednesday, the Junior Choir will rehearse.

The Methodist Men will have their regular monthly meeting at 7 p.m. Tuesday in Fellowship Hall with Gene Hollar conducting the program and Ira Carlton preparing the meal.

Rev. Crews Was Active Chaplain At Fort Sill

Rev. Dick Crews returned to the Pampa First Christian Church Sunday from active duty with the Texas and New Mexico National Guard at Fort Sill, Okla. Crews was one of two chaplains in the Eighth Artillery Group. The other was Gordon Swope, an Episcopalian minister.

The chaplains were kept busy visiting in the hospital and the stockade, interviewing new trainees, giving character guidance lectures and attending Chaplains' Training Sessions. On their one Sunday at the post, they conducted general Protestant chapel services and provided transportation to other services for Catholic and Jewish Guardsmen.

A special duty of the chaplains was looking after the Junior Guardsmen during the first week of camp. Fifteen boys including Sgt. Tony Welkin's of Pampa were at Sill for the program.

With four chaplains from the post, the pair appeared on a Lawton television broadcast.

Besides holding a service in the field, they went along on a forced march under blackout conditions. On another occasion, they saw the firing of an Honest John Rocket. In the character guidance lectures, covering various aspects of personal responsibility, they used visual aids and other modern teaching devices. The chaplains supervised the program of the Junior Guardsmen for the week that they were at camp. "I played a lot of chess with them," says Crews.

Crews served with the 518th AAA Battalion for 22 months during World War II. He chaplained on New Caledonia, New Guinea, the Philippines and Luzon.

There is a great service to be rendered in chaplainship, Crews believes.

HOMER MARTINEZ ... Evangelist

Central Awaits Revival Team

To Pampa Sunday, come Homer Martinez and Billy Bob Moore to stage the summer revival in the Central Baptist Church. Martinez, former Golden Gloves champion of Texas, is the brother of the well-known evangelist, Angel Martinez.

The revival will begin with the evening service Sunday and carry through the week with meetings at 10 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. Following the services, Martinez will conduct Afterglow programs for the young people.

On vacation from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Fort Worth, Martinez is winding up a string of revivals that has taken him into five states besides Texas. Moore, who goes with him as song leader, is a former member of the Baylor-Religious Hour Choir. Martinez also is a graduate of Baylor University; he is originally from San Antonio. Moore is from Fort Arthur.

The revival will open at 8 p.m. Sunday, closing Aug. 31. This summer the pair have held revivals in Fairfield, Ala.; Clinton, Ky.; Des Arc, Ark.; Sapulpa, Okla.; Fort Worth and Miami Springs, Fla. Closing a revival in El Paso tomorrow night, they will be here to open the revival Sunday evening.

The new president is R. W. McPhillips Jr., vice president, Price Smith, and secretary treasurer, Brooks Hubbard.

Taylor stated that the Church school program has made strides in Christian Churches but still has a long way to go.

"There seems to be a basic reason for our failure in not doing enough," he said "As individual church members, the laymen, we have lost much of our forefather's conviction and dedication to the task of teaching. The early pioneers of the Sunday School movement believed they had been commanded to "Go — teach." and they did it.

"It was to make the Bible real and Christ personal that Sunday schools came into being and teachers through the years have dedicated their lives," he continued.

It was during his first year in office that the government's program on desalting sea water and brackish water got underway. The importance he attaches to this program is shown by the fact that it is one of the few non-defense projects for which he requested an increase in funds from Congress this year.

It was the progress achieved in this program that led him to include in his speech before the special session of the United Nations General Assembly on the Middle East the statement that "new horizons are opening in the desalting of water." Some scientists have indicated they believe the President was over-optimistic when he added: "The ancient problem of water is on the threshold of the solution."

The public's great interest in the water problem is demonstrated by about 6,000 suggestions volunteered to the government by persons from all walks of life.

Some were good enough to turn over to scientists for consideration. Most, however, were impractical on their face. For example, one suggestion was that giant icebergs—which are desalted in the process of freezing—be towed from the Arctic region and melted.

How selfishness is overcome through the acknowledgment and understanding of God as the only Mind is a topic to be dealt with at Christian Science services Sunday.

Among the Bible passages to be read in the Lesson - Sermon on "Mind" is this admonition of Paul: "Let nothing be done through strife or vainglory; but in lowliness of mind let each esteem other better than themselves. Look not every man on his own things, but every man also on the things of others. Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus" (Philippians 2:3-5).

Also pointing out the way to overcome selfishness are correlative passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, including this one: "When we realize that there is one Mind, the divine law of loving our neighbor as ourselves is unfolded; whereas a belief in many ruling minds hinders man's normal drift towards the one Mind, one God, and leads human thought into opposite channels where selfishness reigns" (208:22).

A cordial invitation from First Church of Christ, Scientist, Pampa, is open to all at the church services on Sunday morning at 11:00, and Wednesday evening at 8. The King James Version of the Bible and authorized Christian Science literature may be read, borrowed, or purchased at the Christian Science Reading Room located in the church building at 901 North Frost.

Back Stairs At The White House

By DAYTON MOORE United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Backstairs at the White House.

President Eisenhower long has been concerned with the nation's water supply. Since taking office, he frequently has referred to the importance of water to the nation and the need of taking steps to assure an adequate supply in the future.

"I have become convinced that before very long, America will almost unanimously look upon water as its single greatest resource."

It was during his first year in office that the government's program on desalting sea water and brackish water got underway. The importance he attaches to this program is shown by the fact that it is one of the few non-defense projects for which he requested an increase in funds from Congress this year.

Come to Church

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

DAVID E. MILLS
PASTOR
LAMAR CHRISTIAN CHURCH

to love serve God. What is the greatest value in your life?

"The best things in life are free." If this is true then many of us are pouring our money down the drain. We buy many inexpensive items because we want them—phono records, pictures, pretty trinkets, etc. We drive for miles burning several gallons of gas just for enjoyment or to pass the time. Some people pour dollars into boats and fishing equipment. Most of us have closets full of things we bought, used once or twice and put away. Some of these we may never use again. But when we bought them, we thought they would make us happier.

Now, I don't have any bone to pick about buying these things, but I do want us to think about life's values. Is it right for us to have these things at the expense of more important things?

All of us know we cannot "buy" happiness - but we try anyway. We know we ought to worship on Sunday, yet we will drive half way across the country to visit relatives or friends. It is no wonder that the average person's budget is stretched so thin.

Jesus said, "seek ye first God's kingdom and his righteousness, and all these shall be yours as well." The greatest values in life are our spiritual values. They are not always free. Sometimes we must sell our "pearl of greatest price" in order to receive them.

It is a trite saying that "all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy" or the reverse. It is true that everyone needs recreation. However, recreation is not necessarily play. To re-create one's mind and body is to get a diversion from normal activity.

There lies within each of us a desire to create - to make something beautiful, to paint a picture, to plant a tree or to make a flower bed. Yet those are not life's greatest values either. To help a friend, to give time to a child, to guide his thoughts or to play with him, to be a friend to one who is sick or bereaved, to help a stranger who is needy, to love others and make life worth living for others - these are life's greatest values. And in a way they are bound inseparably with life's greatest value—your life?

purely paydirt

Prospecting while wondering whatever happened to Father Devine.

Don't look now, but there's something new approaching on the Pampa bowling scene. Not only that, it's different and big, big, big. For the full scoop cast your peepers on Sunday's issue of the Daily News. Thankew!

Pampa Country Club pro, Hart Warren, sez he's a lookin' for the finest field ever to trudge the links here next week in the Top O' Texas Golf Tournament.

Bureau of Vital Statistics: The cost to revert the LA Coliseum to football (from the Dodger's diamond), just for one night, is $26,000. And it cost the droopy Dodgers $23,500 to make one swing around the National League.

Borger's Elgie Seamster carded 11 birdies for an 11-under-par f.d. last Sunday to set a new Phillips Country Club record. Don Kaplan, Texas Tech golfer, who did hold the old record of 62, played with Seamster... and fired another 62. Hows about dat!

And then there was the befuddled gent who groaned "Ten years ago, women wouldn't spit at me. Now, they spit at me!"

Silky, The Surf Runner!

If New York's Whitley Ford is busting his buttons over his seven shutouts this season he can stop right about now. Walter Johnson, the fabled "Big Train" of Washington's Hill Corps way back when, had seven opening day shutouts. He hurled no less than 113 during his tenure with the Nats.

When Dodger Manager Walter Alston was rehired for another year, one caustic Los Angeles typewriter commented, "What a lousy thing to do to a fine innocent gentleman like Walter Alston."

Some Hither, Others Yon

Floyd Patterson, who ballooned up to 200 pounds during two months of inactivity after he stopped Pete Radamacher a year ago today, became so bored with training life at Ocean-side prior to Monday night's fight with Roy Harris, his manager, Gus D'Amato purchased two air rifles so the champ could bid his time plugging tin cans.

And did you know that Roy Harris gulps down a glass of orange juice with two raw eggs in it, first thing every morning?

Quick now, who scored more knockouts than any other boxer during his career. It was Young Stribling. He battled 12 years and posted 127 kayos.

Lou Creekmur, the veteran Detroit Lions tackle has played in 150 straight games.

KU TO GET REGIONAL NCAA CAGE TOURNEY

DENVER (UPI) — College athletic leaders from all over the country converged here today for five days of meetings that will be climaxed by the National Collegiate Athletic Association "conference of conferences."

Walter Byers, executive director of the NCAA, said he will recommend to the executive committee the University of Kansas be the site of the Midwest regional of the 1959 national collegiate basketball championship tournament.

Approval by the executive committee will send the event to the Kansas campus for the third time in the past four years.

Byers said he will ask the committee to approve Louisville, Ky., for the 21st annual finals, March 29-31.

Other regional tournament sites Byers will recommend are: East — Charlotte, N. C.; Middle East, Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill.; Far West — Cow Palace, San Francisco.

The 50 members to the non-policy making "conference of conferences" will study three problems:

The general question of college-professional relations, with particular emphasis on college baseball's relationship with professional baseball.

Plans for improving the administration of playing rules.

A proposal that high schools and colleges join in adopting continuing rules of eligibility.

Sens Afraid Over Tribe's Moving

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Owner Clark Griffith of the Washington Senators squirmed on a hot spot today because the Cleveland Indians' announcement they are considering moving their franchise is forcing his own hand on the same matter.

If Griffith really wants to move his club to Minneapolis — which he may have to do — he must first have the Indians beat him to the punch.

If he decides he does want to move, he may have lots of trouble getting a vote of approval from the league and, in addition, may incur the wrath of Congress.

If Griffith asks the American League for permission to move to Minneapolis, he could draw negative votes not only from the Indians but also from the New York Yankees and the Boston Red Sox.

Griffith refused to deny a published report he will ask for transfer approval as soon as the Senators end their current homestand on Sept. 3.

BULLET BOB TURLEY ... notches 18th victory

BRAVES & YANKS, WHO ELSE?

Burdette, Turley Post Big Wins For 'Series' Clubs

By JOHN GRIFFIN United Press International

Lew Burdette and Bob Turley, two money players who probably would pitch the opening game, have the Braves and Yankees back on the high road to the World Series.

Just when the comfortable 1-3-4-5 leads of both teams seemed in danger, Burdette sent the Braves 6½ games in front in the National League when he whipped the Los Angeles Dodgers, and Bob Bryant.

Gil McDougald, the Yankee doodle dandee, sez he'd like to see ball players all over the country wear shorts on the field, like the Hollywood Stars did several seasons back. Real Cool, man!

McDougald, by the by, has steak for dinner every night so he can keep his batting average high enough to persuade the Yankees to pay him enuff money next season to afford steak for dinner every night. It's a vicious circle, sez Gil. "But worth it to a guy who loves his steak."

Try thinking how a mother kangaroo must feel on a rainy day when the kids can't play outside.

All I ever think about is winning the ball game," the slender Cub shortstop said after belting his 39th and 40th against the Pittsburgh Pirates Thursday.

"Sometimes I can tell by the sound of the bat and sometimes I can't. But I love to see the ball go over the fence. I never give a thought to what number it is or whether it comes near any record," he said.

Banks hit his first homer of the game off Vernon Law, putting it into the left field bleachers, where most of his circuit slouts land. He knocked the second off reliever Ron Blackburn into the 450-foot center field bleachers, making it the sixth time this season he has hit two homers in one game.

Banks' total of 40 came in his 122nd game of the campaign and left him two games behind Ruth's pace, who belted No. 40 in the 120th game of 1927 for the New York Yankees.

Banks' slugging parallels the Bambino's in that both got off to slow starts and picked up momentum in the closing weeks. Ruth had a phenomenal September, hitting 17 in the final month to boost his total to 60.

The six-foot-one 178-pound shortstop, who has been called the greatest "wrist-hitter" in baseball, admits to a practical money-making interest in blasting homers.

"The more homers I hit, the more money I make," he said, smiling.

Banks refuses to tell how much he earns, but it is estimated each home run is worth $1,000 in his pay envelope.

As home run hitters go, Banks is a lightweight. He depends on perfect timing, meeting the ball at the right instant—rather than on the muscular swing.

"He has got the best timing in the league," said a Yankee scout.

St. Moritz, Switzerland (UPI) — James Ferrin of Washington, D. C., defeated Ali Akhtar of India, 6-0, 6-1, Thursday in the semi-finals of the Suvretta tennis tournament. Ferrin will meet Ernest Aguirre of Chile in the final.

Chicago Cardinals behind Larry Jackson nipped the Philadelphia Phils, 2-1; Ernie Banks' 39th and 40th homers gave the Chicago Cubs a 5-3 win over Pittsburgh; the Boston Red Sox outslug Cleveland, 8 - 6; Gus Triandos' homer gave Baltimore a 7-6 win over Detroit; and Hec Lopez' two homers led the Kansas City A's to a 7-4 win over Washington.

Pampa Gridder Ready For Panhandle Grid Classic

By RICK PEZDIRTZ Daily News Sports Editor

AMARILLO — I'll be David against Goliath all over again here Saturday night, and just like in the Good Book, little David rates the roll of underdog.

The upset-minded Sodbusters, composed of last autumn's Class AA, A and B schoolboy grid greats, will hold a slight weight advantage over the potent City Slickers, made up of Class AAAA and AAA players, when the two lock horns in the first annual Panhandle Grid Classic at Price College Stadium here.

The opening kickoff comes at 8 p.m. with a sellout 5,000 fans expected to pack the stands.

The Sodbuster squad averages out at a trim 185.9 per man while the City Slickers tip the scales at 183.1.

Price College coach, Frank Hodnik, is hoping to guide his crew to the upset over the City Slickers of Bill Cross.

Cross, a former Little All-American at West Texas State and a pro player with the Chicago Cards and Toronto in the Canadian Professional League, is currently owner of Buck's Sporting Goods in Amarillo.

He said Thursday night after emerging from a two-hour pregame conference, "I think we've really got something here. During my travels about the area selling out sporting goods, I've had no telling how many persons show interest in the Panhandle Grid Classic."

Pampa's lone representative in the Saturday night all-star game is Gary Peterson, who won all-District 3-AAAA honorable mention recognition with the Harvesters last year at tackle.

"We'll use Gary at an offensive guard position and an inside linebacker's slot on defense," Cross exclaimed. "It certainly has been a treat working with Peterson. He's the kind of boy any coach would like to have."

The City Slicker mentor continued, "Gary has impressed us very much all week, and he'll be playing a lot of ball for us Saturday night. He has a great attitude and you know he's got a little wit about him that has helped to keep some of the other kids grinning when the twice-a-day drills began to drag some. He's one of the hardest worker's we've got here."

Peterson, who'll head for Panhandle A&M College in a few weeks, will weigh 160 when he hits the field for Saturday's game.

Both clubs will operate off the Split-T and both will use the 5-4-2 defense.

Area players expected to give a big hand to the Sodbusters include, Ed Stanley Coleman of Lefors, Backs Ted Addington and Courtney White of White Deer, Guard Larry Schaefer and End Roy Sessions of Canadian, Tackle Loren Anglin of Groom, and Back Del Ray Mounts of Perryton.

The opening City Slicker backfield will have Plainview's Texas A&M bound Jesse McGuire, the No. 1 running back in the all-Southern team of last year, at one halfback and Amarillo's David Russell, the Most Valuable Player in the 26th North-South game of the Texas Coaching School in Houston two weeks ago, at the other halfback spot.

Amarillo's Soapy Sudberry will direct the club at quarterback and Keith LaFon will hold down the starting full back post.

Both the City Slickers and Sodbusters are expected to use alternate units.

MAGIC NO. 23 FOR YANK REPEAT

United Press International

The "magic number" for the New York Yankees is 23, and for the Chicago White Sox that means "23-skidoo."

The Yankees' 6-3 victory over the White Sox Thursday means that the Yankees can clinch the American League pennant by winning 23 of their remaining 33 games. Or any combination of Yankee wins and Chicago losses adding to 23 will do it.

In the National League, the Milwaukee Braves, with a 6½ game lead, also have 33 to play. But their "magic number" for a pennant clinching is 29.

Hand To Mouth Bonds

Any bond, whether issued by a business, a church or a government, is evidence of debt. It is a liability which must be serviced by the payment of interest and ultimately retired by the makers of the bond.

In instances where businessmen or church officials issue bonds, the nature of their issue is clearly apparent. They know that a bond is a debt and that it constitutes a liability. Without exception, those functioning either in enterprise or in charitable organizations strive to remove that liability so that their creditors, the bond holders, can be paid.

But when we get to government bonds, a remarkable twist in bookkeeping occurs. By a process peculiar to government, a bond, which is every bit as much a debt for the government as it is for a business, is listed as an asset. A government bond is construed by the government as a security rather than as a liability.

And much dishonest maneuvering ensues as a result of this blatant disregard of the true nature of any bond. The reason this is done is because the government always presumes that it is acting FOR the people of the United States, and that by issuing a bond in the name of the people, it can compel the people to make good on the bond via the taxing route, or via the route which calls for the issuance of more bonds.

Therefore, the government concludes that a bond is an evidence not of debt that it owes, but of income that will ultimately be paid to it. The government even permits banks, which are for the most part dominated by the government, to lend money against its U. S. bonds. This is an inflationary device which always creates fiat money and leads to a watering of the purchasing power of the dollar.

Consider the task that at the moment confronts Treasury Secretary Robert B. Anderson. Mr. Anderson's job is to refinance $45.2 billion in U. S. government bonds which come due between now and May of next year. Additionally, he must find something like $10 billion more for the increased spending programs that the government has instituted.

Mr. Anderson's problem is enormous. His schedule of retiring bonds goes like this: In August of this year he must pay out on $11.5 billion in 4 percent certificates. In September he must deal with $3.8 billion in 2 1/2 percent bonds and with $900 million in 2 3/4 percent bonds. In October his problem is a little smaller. He must deal with only $100 million of 1 1/2 percent notes.

But come December and he will be up to his ears again. He must do something about $9.8 billion in 3 1/2 percent certificates and $2.4 billion in 2 1/2 percent bonds. By February of next year he must cope with another $9.8 billion in 2 1/2 percent certificates and with $5.1 billion in 1 7/8 percent notes. In April of next year, assuming that all the rest of this has been handled, he must manage $100 million in 1 1/2 percent notes and again in May of 1959 $1.8 billion in 1 3/4 percent certificates fall due.

What must be understood is that he cannot touch one thin dime of tax money in order to service or retire this bonded debt. In passing on its various items of legislation this year the Congress has plunged the nation further into debt. All of the tax income the federal government will receive will go for other purposes than this.

So Anderson has no recourse but to seek to borrow still more bonds. And he must issue more bonds than the face value of the bonds presently out of government possession in order to pay the interest on these bonds. In addition to this staggering series of sums, Mr. Anderson must find another $1.7 billion every week in 91-day bills.

Now Mr. Anderson's ability to do this feat of public financing isn't questioned, so long as the public generally and the banks in particular go along with the whole scheme. But should Mr. Anderson run into a situation in which either the banks or the public are unwilling or unable to advance further sums to the government, he will be in very great trouble. The interest cost of the bonds already in existence has risen since 1945, from a mere $3.6 billion annually to a whopping $7.7 billion. And this sum must also be found.

The nation's bonded indebtedness is not an asset, it is a liability. And the policy of seeking always to extend present bond issues by floating still more bond issues places this nation perennially upon the brink of financial disaster. The government is in the unhappy position of trying to pay off Peter by fleecing Paul. And next year, when Paul must be paid, it is Peter who will be fleeced.

Consider the task that at the moment confronts Treasury Secretary Robert B. Anderson. Mr. Anderson's job is to refinance $45.2 billion in U. S. government bonds which come due between now and May of next year. Additionally, he must find something like $10 billion more for the increased spending programs that the government has instituted.

BETTER JOBS

Measuring Free-Rider Benefits

In Philip D. Bradley's section of the book, "Labor Unions and Public Policy," he stresses the fact that if union membership benefits some members and injures others, the payment should be based on the benefits rather than on membership. Under the heading of "Judicial Measurement of Benefits," Mr. Bradley writes: "In deciding these cases the court may find it necessary to establish criteria by which to test the claims that a union has or has not benefited the individual seek in the court's judgment. The establishment of such criteria would be a valuable byproduct of the court's decision in the Hanson case (where it required all workers to join or be listed). Reference was made above to some of the theoretical and statistical difficulties inherent in the attempt to identify the free riders. Other difficulties are illustrated by the histories of unions like that of the photo engravers."

Recasting The Free-Rider Argument

A dilemma confronts those who justify involuntary participation in unionism in terms of the union-benefit doctrine. For if a union lacks the power to set a rate of pay above that which would exist in the union's absence, it cannot create a foundation for the claim that it has benefited the individual. While, if a union has the power and uses it, it thereby benefits some members of the represented group but injures others. Involuntarism resolves the difficulty by taking from the individual the right to decide for himself the question as to whether or not a union has benefited him. Thus representation of itself is taken to prove benefit. The "all who benefit" phrase written into the Hanson decision reopens the question of benefit but thereafter transfers from the individual to the court the right to answer it.

Since 1935 the growth of involuntary participation in unionism has assumed many forms. Compelling a worker to maintain membership in a union as a condition of employment is but one form. A better understanding of what has happened and is happening to basic economic and political principles and freedoms can be had if the movement is seen as a whole. A detailed outline of his development cannot be provided here; but note may be made again of the fact that the employer also is frequently forced to participate in unionism and to so in an every-increasing number of ways.

"It is a curiosity of our federal labor acts that under them the employer, often emerges as the sole defender of the freedoms of individual workers. The situation arises when a union, speaking for some but not for all of the represented workers, demands a union shop. At this point it is within the power of the employer to refuse to participate in unionism and to so in an every-increasing number of ways.

Some of these records already are in the hands of the Pentagon and State Department authorities consider it a foregone conclusion that these secret Western documents will also wind up in Moscow — if they are not already there.

So far they have learned little about either. Military and other officials have privately stated the loss of these documents has necessitated a complete recasting of Baghdad Pact plans and codes, particularly for the defense of Turkey and Iran.

These senators have also been told that the seized records include: (1) Details of the atom's armament of the Sixth U.S. Fleet and various Air Force units in the Middle East; (2) The activities of the Alliance of Counter Subversion Committee, of which the U.S. is a member.

These documents reveal what is known about Soviet and United Arab Republic sabotage, infiltration and propaganda operations, and sources of this undercover information.

MORE AFTERMATH — Since the Iraq revolt, the U.S. has shut off military aid there, but is still continuing economic aid. Since 1954, that has totaled upwards of $15,000,000. . . . The price for assassinations is soaring in the Middle East. Since spring, it has jumped 50 percent — from around $5,000 to 7,500, payable in dollars or Swiss francs. That's the latest word from the Central Intelligence Agency, which keeps a close check on political murders. They are frequent throughout the Middle East; there have been four "big time" assassinations in Lebanon.

Individual can make better decisions about the disposition of his income than can anyone else. These considerations help to explain why many employers participate only with the greatest reluctance in union programs which take from the individual employee any measure of his historic freedom to dispose of his income in those ways which he believes provide him with the most satisfaction. Their unwillingness to participate in programs which can be reconciled with the principles of a totalitarian society but not with those of a free society is reinforced by the consideration that a union need not deprive employees of the right to decide for themselves what disposition should be made of any given increase in the rate of pay. Even under union bargaining, as noted in a previous section, these decisions can be left to the individuals.

Robert Allen Reports:

Iraq's Revolt Caused Serious Security Loss

Washington, August 21 — Therein the past several months, CIA credits these killings to professional gunmen, "who kill for a living and without any particular political bias. . . . The three remaining Moslem members of the Baghdad Pact have a total of approximately 40 divisions, of various sizes. Turkey has 20 divisions, several hundred planes, 20 submarines, destroyers, and other small naval vessels; Iran, 11 divisions and several separate brigades, and 75 planes, about half of them jet; Pakistan, 3 divisions, 123 planes, and a half-dozen destroyers and other ships.

That dire calamity occurred when the Iraq revolutionaries seized the headquarters of the Baghdad Pact, located there. The files that headquarters contained all of this Western alliance's highly secret plans, codes, maps, intelligence reports and other material for the defense of the Middle East.

This appalling security debacle is in addition to the West's loss of Iraq's 60,000 well-trained and equipped troops, and some 340,000 U.S. military aid. The Baghdad court-martials are definitely establishing two things: The new Iraq rulers obviously intend to use this immensely valuable secret military information for their own ends.

Some of these records already are in the hands of the Pentagon and State Department authorities consider it a foregone conclusion that these secret Western documents will also wind up in Moscow — if they are not already there.

So far they have learned little about either. Military and other officials have privately stated the loss of these documents has necessitated a complete recasting of Baghdad Pact plans and codes, particularly for the defense of Turkey and Iran.

Looking Sideways

NAUSSAU COUNTY MEANDER: You take a vacation from your job of covering new plays because in August there are no new plays to cover, which seems a plausible reason for same, and driving out to Long Island from the hot, but ever lovely Island of Manhattan, you enter your home county and read a blue sign with orange lettering: "The Fastest Growing County in the United States." . . . You are torn between muttering "No kidding" and a more sober: "Well, for Heaven's sake. . . . You cannot forget the words on the sign and you decide to call a banker you know and ask him if they are true. . . . And you decide not to reply: "Plus crowded roads, torn streets, too many people and a disturbed rural area. . . . He wouldn't have agreed."

You have an early dinner and decide to take a fair look at the fastest growing county in the United States. . . . Your knowledge of it has a fuzzily accurate geographic base, a certain wary feeling that it is composed of mortgages, FHA improvement loans, hurried commuters, wall-to-wall struggle for a dollar and a peculiar but intense quality of living with the neighbors for a cross between the most gadgeted motorized lawn mower and the most glittering portable barbecue. . . . It has even happened to you: you were slicing down grass the other morning with a mower not yet on the market and loaned to you by a designer and manufacturer as a trial machine on which you are to render a report. . . . Man came over from next door, new fellow, and put out his hand and said: "My name is Woods and I'm glad to meet you. SAY that's the GREATEST mover I ever saw. LOOK at all those accessories!"

It is possible that this yellow coloration of the skin could be the result of excessive amounts of carrots in the diet. Carrots contain a pigment known as carotene. When present in the blood in sufficient quantities it can produce a skin pigmentation resembling jaundice. It should be possible to prove or disprove this question by simply removing carrots from the diet of this baby for a considerable period of time.

"Since that time she has noticed that one of his testicles is not in place and is worried that it might become atrophied. In this instance it seems quite probable that the testicle was not in the sac before the operation. It still may descend, but should be watched.

The weight of medical opinion today appears to be in favor of efforts to bring the testicle down if at all possible before the age of nine. There is still some difference of opinion as to whether the first step should be made by means of endocrine injections or by surgery.

A curious problem is brought up by a father. He says that his 12-week-old baby has a transposition of the heart with a hole in the wall. He has been advised that the child must reach 20 pounds of weight before operation.

This is a complicated question. Transposition of the heart means that the major part of that organ lies on the right side instead of on the left, where it is ordinarily placed. Presumably the hole in the wall is to be repaired by surgery. Many such congenital lesions of the heart are now successfully repaired by surgery, but I imagine that nothing will be done to

As you pass all the new communities with their tailored lawns and careful shrubbery and mortgages and cars on-time and Early American reproduction furniture, you decide you are taking a smug look at things and this is wrong. . . . If people want to encumber themselves for a few years for the privilege of open life as against city apartments, for barbecues out back, who are you to deny them the right to flood in and create the fastest growing county in the United States.

In view of these facts there appears to be little justification for the campaign of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare urging the establishment of 10,000 scholarships. These plans to be awarded by politicians would seem to be an unnecessary extravagance. We believe former Secretary Polson will find it difficult to prove that "about 200,000 of our ablest students now stop their education below the college level" because of a lack of means.

Furthermore, "Federal Aid" is not the proper way to help worthy young people gain an education. Though more difficult than formerly, (because of increasing socialization) it is still possible to work one's way through college and, as stated above, much help from private sources is available. More a socialism will make self help still more difficult and will strengthen the demand for still more Federal aid. The end of that process is

Hankering

How Do UN Observer Teams Observe?

One of the many things of which I am profoundly ignorant, and would like to know more about, is how an Observer Team from the United Nations observes. What is the technique of United Nations' observing? Do the members work from roof tops, binoculars? Or do they copy bird-watchers, and camouflage themselves in a trouble spot and peek out of the bushes at what goes on?

And what do they wear? A special uniform that can be recognized a block off, or clothes of the country that make them indistinguishable from ordinary citizens or visitors? I trust the latter is true of their clothing, for I don't see how they could observe very well if those being observed could spot an official tattletale six blocks away.

Do you? It would be like a private detective doing his tailing work in a Harlequin suit he had rented from a costume company, or had left over from a masquerade party.

It stands to reason that people under observation are not going to be their normal selves while an official spy is looking on. Not if

Are they all champion sprinters? Do they zip from place to place in snug little one-man jets capable of landing and taking off in the space needed by a hummingbird? It might be a good thing to have the captain of the team make public, at least once a week, the day-by-day reports of the individual team members. It would be interesting to see what the man from, say, Czechoslovakia, saw against what the man from, say, England saw. It's too much to expect to have them see the same things, or treat the things observed in the same manner.

change the position of the heart itself. The worries of parents are indeed unending. A. K. writes that several months ago his three-and-a-half-year-old son fell off a chair striking the lower part of his head on a concrete floor. A bump the size of a golf ball promptly appeared, but there was no bleeding and no unconsciousness.

He was examined shortly thereafter and apparently was found in good shape, but he still has a bump, and hair over the area has not grown back. Mr. K. has been told that the hair probably will not grow because of the scar tissue which has formed under the skin.

This is certainly an unfortunate accident. It sounds as though surgery may some time be necessary, either to relieve the swelling or possibly to transplant hair-bearing skin so that this child will not have a serious bald spot when he grows older.

Any woman might as well make a fool of a man as to let some other woman do it.

Presumably the hole in the wall is to be repaired by surgery. Many such congenital lesions of the heart are now successfully repaired by surgery, but I imagine that nothing will be done to

As you pass all the new communities with their tailored lawns and careful shrubbery and mortgages and cars on-time and Early American reproduction furniture, you decide you are taking a smug look at things and this is wrong. . . . If people want to encumber themselves for a few years for the privilege of open life as against city apartments, for barbecues out back, who are you to deny them the right to flood in and create the fastest growing county in the United States.

In view of these facts there appears to be little justification for the campaign of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare urging the establishment of 10,000 scholarships. These plans to be awarded by politicians would seem to be an unnecessary extravagance. We believe former Secretary Polson will find it difficult to prove that "about 200,000 of our ablest students now stop their education below the college level" because of a lack of means.

Furthermore, "Federal Aid" is not the proper way to help worthy young people gain an education. Though more difficult than formerly, (because of increasing socialization) it is still possible to work one's way through college and, as stated above, much help from private sources is available. More a socialism will make self help still more difficult and will strengthen the demand for still more Federal aid. The end of that process is

THIS IS THE ARMY???—Soldiering isn't too unpleasant for these troops of the 51st National Guard Division at Annett, Ala. They share the chow with 19-year-old Mary Ann Huff. This Annett girl is the "official hostess" for this year's summer encampment.

POISON PEN NOTE—Despite the sign, this brick wall actually is part of the auditorium of a new high school in Astoria, Ore. Could the perpetrator be a potential pupil who thinks of school as a prison?
