

WILD WINDS WALLOP 3 CITIES

Snow Blankets Top O' Texas Area

United Press International
Tornadoes and winds as strong as hurricanes lashed a vast area of West and North Central Texas today, damaging homes, schools and radio towers. Damage may total more than a million dollars. At least 13 persons were reported injured; eight in the Wichita Falls area and five at San Angelo. None was reported killed. North and west of the windstorms, in the Panhandle and South Plains, snow covered the ground and forecasters predicted four inches by night.

At least two other twisters were reported around Lawton, Okla., across the border from North Central Texas. Damage at Gainesville, hit at 8:50 a.m. by vicious winds, was estimated as high as half a million dollars. There was a report of a small tornado in the downtown area of Gainesville. It, or the vicious winds, damaged the Hurley Motor Co. and Enderby Butane Co., buildings in Gainesville. Many plate glass windows were destroyed. Many carports and small outbuildings were blown away.

Winds up to 80 miles an hour hit the northwest section of Fort Worth. They damaged seven private planes at Meacham Field and tore the roof from a building. Sheriff's deputies at Fort Worth said the wind threw a big utility pole across the railroad tracks and ripped up trees by their roots. One fell across busy University Drive, delaying traffic. Blinding sheets of rain fell in parts of Fort Worth; some sections of the city got no rain. A possible tornado damaged a school and gymnasium, a cotton gin and other small buildings at Gunter in Grayson county, between Dallas and Sherman. Damage in the Wichita Falls area was estimated at $15,000. At least two funnels were reported sighted, although there was some doubt as to whether the funnels or straight, violent winds caused the damage. The wind turned over trailers on the Iowa Park highway, the Seymour highway and in a trailer park near Sheppard Air Force Base, injuring at least eight persons, none seriously. Mrs. Lahoma Shores, 31, and her four-year-old son Tommy, were hurt when the wind overturned their trailer on the Seymour highway. A family of five was injured at San Angelo when the wind turned over a trailer in the darkness. Heavy damage was reported in the northwestern part of Burk Burnett, in the Wichita Falls area. The wall of an automobile retailer's building was reported down, the roof was blown from a lumber company's building and roofs were twisted from homes. At Abilene, the high winds blew open all the doors of the studio of station KWKC although they were locked. The station was off the air for a short time. One house was unseated from its foundations on the southeast edge of Abilene, several carports wrestled from their anchors and numerous small buildings were toppled by the 75-mile winds. Mrs. H. K. Gore, the police dispatcher, said a "small twister" hit Olney, damaging the high school and an adjacent grade school so badly that classes could not be held in them today.

W. A. Cox, the Olney superintendent of utilities, first sighted the twister and turned on the town siren. The wind blew the roofs from four or five other buildings in Olney. One was an apartment house. Vicious winds heavily damaged the Texas - Oklahoma fair grounds at Iowa Park, seven miles west of Wichita Falls. The wind ripped a garage away from a house, blew the roof from another house and damaged the fronts of several stores in Iowa Park.

A twister spun across Lake Leon, near Eastland, creating a rare inland waterpout. It picked up a houseboat and turned it over. Eastland itself reported high (See SNOW, Page 2)

Kay Dodd, 7, was an unhappy little girl this morning as she peered over a snow-covered windowledge. She missed school because she felt "just terrible", and then had to watch the first snowfall of the season melt before she had a chance to build her first snowman. Kay, a second-grader at Stephen Austin, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. King Dodd, 1528 Hamilton.

Sudanese Forces Depose Premier

By WILLIAM G. LANDREY

United Press International
CAIRO (UPI) — The commander-in-chief of the Sudanese armed forces was reported to have seized power in the Sudan today and to have pledged closer relations with President Gamal Abdel Nasser's United Arab Republic.
The semi-official Middle East News Agency said Lt. Gen. Ibrahim Abboud, the Sudanese commander-in-chief, deposed Premier Abdulrahman Khalil in a 3 a.m. coup shortly before Khalil's intended departure for Cairo and talks with Nasser.

Omdurman Radio in the Sudan broadcast a communique proclaiming the revolution aimed at ending "anarchy and corruption in all state organs... without exception," the agency reported. "We shall make every effort to improve relations between the sister UAR and the Sudan and solve all outstanding questions between the two countries and eliminate artificially contrived tensions between them," Abboud was quoted.

The agency said Abboud's initial decrees dissolved all political parties, banned demonstrations and public gatherings throughout the nation and suspended all newspapers. Sudan is a young nation and won its independence on Jan. 1, 1956. Until then it had been ruled jointly by Britain and Egypt as a condominium.

21 KILLED IN THREE WRECKS

United Press International
Twenty-one persons have died violently in the last 24 hours in three separate accidents on U.S. highways.

Ten including five children were killed early this morning when a pickup truck and a passenger car collided head-on on U.S. 96 north of San Augustine, Tex. Reports said nine of the victims died instantly, while a 10th died en route to a hospital. Six persons hurrying to a funeral were killed instantly when a tire blowout halted a 105 m.p.h. police chase near St. Johns, Mich. A seventh person — a teenage hitchhiker — suffered serious injuries.

Tension Is Eased With Passage

BERLIN (UPI) — Soviet forces passed an American truck convoy through a checkpoint outside of Berlin today without stopping it, at the same place where another U. S. Army convoy was held up last Friday.

The convoy of two trailer trucks and one jeep was sent out to test Soviet blockade intentions. The convoy passed through the Soviet Babelsberg checkpoint just outside West Berlin on the 110-mile superhighway to West Germany without incident. The Soviets did not insist on searching the trucks as they did on Friday. The swift passage today indicated to American officials here that the Soviets do not at present intend to interfere with Western Allied military traffic.

However, today's move was only a partial test of Soviet plans. The three trucks refused passage to the West and detailed for 8 1/2 hours on Friday were closed trucks. Today's were open trucks. On Friday, the Soviets said that covered trucks in which the cargo cannot be seen must be inspected.

Passage of the convoy continued to ease tensions here, although no one believed the crisis over the West's position in Berlin was over.

The situation remained so serious that President Eisenhower was meeting today in Washington with David K. E. Bruce, U.S. ambassador to West Germany.

The situation is expected to be clarified when Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev issues a new statement on Berlin sometime in the near future. In the meantime Pravda accused the West of turning Berlin into a "powder keg" and denied the Western assertion their occupation was based on the defeat of Nazi Germany rather than the Potsdam agreement.

Young'uns Have Happy Meeting

In the Don Rosenbach home, 1037 Varnon Drive, two little boys met for the first time recently. They were David Rosenbach, 7, and Eddie Rand Southard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin R. Southard, 201 N. Faulkner.

Eddie Rand is the old man of the story. He's five and ready to return to kindergarten, his mother says. He had to go to a Denver (Colo.) clinic Sept. 17 to have his left foot amputated. The foot had been crippled since birth. David was the subject of a Daily News story last July 17 when he fell under a power lawn mower and mangled his left leg. He received emergency treatment at Highland General Hospital and had his leg amputated in Amarillo.

Mrs. Rosenbach and Mrs. Southard had never met but they trade at the same grocery store and talk to the same proprietor. The women thought the boys ought to get acquainted and they both have an artificial leg.

Orthopedic legs came from a Denver orthopedic appliance store and cost approximately $200.

Ban On 'Loaded' Bombers Sought

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG

United Press International
GENEVA (UPI) — Russia today called for a ban on flights of atomic and hydrogen bombers over the territory of other states and the high seas.

The Soviet delegate to the conference on prevention of surprise attack presented the proposal to today's session. It was turned down immediately by the West.

Conference sources said U.S. chief delegate William C. Foster told the Russians their proposal was an old one which already had been discussed at other East-West conferences.

Foster was said to have added

Nationalists Ignore Cheng Peace Feelers

By ALBERT E. KAUF

United Press International
TAIPEI, Formosa (UPI) — Vice President Chen Cheng said today Communist China has sent peace feelers to Nationalist officials but that the Nationalists have ignored them.

Chen, who is also premier, made the statement to the official Central News Agency in confirming Manila and Hong Kong reports the Peiping government has tried to open peace talks. "Neither the Chinese government nor any individuals in it have paid any attention to this kind of Communist trick," Chen said.

"This is not the first time the Chinese Communists have done so," Chen said. "During the last few years they often have written letters or directed radio broadcasts to officials in the Chinese government or sent emissaries to Hong Kong and other places to spread rumors or to engage in other nefarious activities."

There have been rumors for several weeks the Communists had sent peace feelers to the Chiang Kai-shek government but in the past such reports have brought only Nationalist denials. Chen today did not identify the Nationalist officials approached by the Reds, but he added:

"From my 30 years experience combating the Chinese Communists I have learned that alternate use of force and negotiation has been their consistent strategy."
The Communists, in announcing a cease fire for the Quemoy area last September, proposed that direct negotiations be opened between Peiping and Taipei. The Nationalist reply was an emphatic no. The Nationalist position was that the Communists could never be trusted and that negotiation was therefore useless.

that the Soviet plan also came outside the scope of the present conference. He added he would make a fuller reply at a later meeting.

The Soviet proposal was presented by Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasil V. Kuznetsov, at the sixth formal session of the conference.

It followed reports that the Soviets might be ready to make a move in the nuclear ban talks also underway here. Informed sources said Russia has indicated it will allow U.S. observers on Soviet territory to police an East-West nuclear ban if it receives similar permission from the West.

Western observers regarded the report as potentially a major Soviet concession in view of the Russians' well-known aversion to opening up their country to foreigners.

The sources said the Soviet stand was made known to the West informally, and has not yet been mentioned at the nuclear test conference here, which still was deadlocked.

The United States and Russia each have submitted draft treaties for a nuclear testing ban, and each was expected to reject the other's proposal at today's session.

The U.S. plan called for a nuclear ban with built-in controls to police it, while the Soviet proposal called for an immediate East-West pledge to ban nuclear testing for all time.

The East and West also were deadlocked in the 10-nation conference on surprise attacks which scheduled its sixth formal session today. The Soviets have insisted on turning the parley into a general political discussion of disarmament while the West wants purely technical talks between experts.

The sources said the Soviet offer to exchange observers with the West was contingent upon conclusion of an East-West agreement to ban nuclear testing

Four Airmen, Three Scouts Trapped By Big Snowstorm

United Press International
Storms which even weathermen called severe stamped winter's brand from the Pacific to the Dakota wheatlands and to the Arizona cactus country today and hampered searches for seven persons. Four of the missing were airmen. Three were Boy Scouts.

A 250-mile front across Texas and Oklahoma blossomed with tornadoes and windstorms, injuring at least seven persons and damaging some property.

Lawton and Walters, Okla., and Olney, Tex., reported tornadoes. Winds logged up to 75-mile-an-hour hit the fringes of Abilene, San Angelo and Wichita Falls, Tex., blowing over a trailer home and injuring five persons at San Angelo and hurting two or three others at Wichita Falls.

At Abilene, three radio stations were knocked off the air. At Olney, a home was damaged and garages wrecked. A high school and an elementary school were damaged, but the winds struck before classes opened.

Report Some Drifting
A storm, bringing 10 inches and more of snow to portions of North Dakota, bulged into northwestern and western Kansas. At Chicago forecasters said the storm "will make weather history for its large extent and unusually severe conditions for so early in the season." It was not expected to reach its peak over the Plains (See AIRMAN, Page 2)

23 New Cardinals Named By Pope

By DANIEL F. GILMORE

United Press International
VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope John XXIII named 23 new cardinals today to raise the strength of the Sacred College of Cardinals to an unprecedented 75.

The Pontiff called a Vatican consistory for Dec. 15 when the new cardinals will be invested with their red hats.

He named two new American cardinals: Msgr. John O'Hara, archbishop of Philadelphia, and Msgr. Richard James Cushing, archbishop of Boston.

The new cardinals were named shortly after the Pontiff named

Msgr. Domenico Tardini as Vatican secretary of state. He had been acting in that position for some time.

Msgr. Giovanni Montini, the archbishop of Milan, was among Italians elevated to the rank of cardinal. Montini had won fame for his work against the Communists in that industrial area of Italy.

The 23 new cardinals raised the strength of the Sacred College to its greatest strength in history. The new ones include 13 Italians, 2 Americans, 2 French and 1 each from Mexico, Uruguay, Britain, Spain, Austria and Germany.

Elevation of two Americans to become princes of the church brings to four the number of American cardinals. The other two are Francis Cardinal Spellman, archbishop of New York, and James Francis Cardinal McIntyre, archbishop of Los Angeles.

But the Pontiff this time did not replace the vacancies in Detroit and Chicago caused by the deaths in Rome this year of Edward Cardinal Mooney and Samuel Cardinal Stritch.

Archbishop O'Hara was born in Ann Arbor, Mich., on May 1, 1888, and educated at Notre Dame University in South Bend, Ind., Catholic University in Washington, D.C., and the University of Notre Dame in Notre Dame, Ind. (See POPE, Page 2) for the next 24 hours.

Scott City, Kan., had drifts a foot deep. Dickinson, N.D., reported 11 inches and Lemmon, S.D., 16. Parts of Kansas and Nebraska were expected to get 8 inches or more on the ground by Tuesday morning, with strong winds packing the snow into drifts.

Temperatures dropped in some areas. Butte, Mont., had 14 below. Grand Canyon, Ariz., 5 above, and Thermal, in the California desert, was an almost frigid 27 degrees above zero.

Thunderstorms erupted along the area from Texas to Eastern Kansas, Missouri, and Illinois.

Eight to 20 inches of snow were reported in the Utah and Colorado Wyoming border areas where horseback, snowshoe and air rescuers sought two Air-Force officers missing since they bailed out of a C-119 transport with six others Friday. Also missing were two civilians whose disabled military cargo plane was believed to have crashed in the snowstorm Sunday.

Temperatures dropped to 20 degrees in the Santa Rita Mountains near Tucson, Ariz., where three lightly clad boys, aged 12 to 14, became lost in a lashing snowstorm Saturday.

The cold wave swept in over southern California, sprinkling snow and hail on Los Angeles suburbs and turning into a near blizzard in the 4,000-foot Tejon Pass, major highway route between Los Angeles and the central valley town of Bakersfield.

Below Zero
The storm whistled across the length of the Rocky Mountains, plunging temperatures to 10 and 20 degrees and to a low of nine below zero at Evanston, Wyo., early today. A flow of mild southerly air across the central states slowed the cold advance in Minnesota and forced the snow front southward to the Mexican border in eastern New Mexico. Border temperatures were near 30 and two to four inches of snow were reported from New Mexico and Arizona.

Four to six inches of snow collected in western Nebraska.

The three missing Tucson youngsters were believed lost near the 8,000-foot level of Mount Baldy in the Santa Rita Mountains, where they became separated from three young companions on a Mt. Baldy Saturday search on snowshoes—found no trace of the youngsters through the night. Searchers were nearing the area on horseback today, and a helicopter was to join the search.

The boys are Michael Lunew, David Greenberg and Mike Early Jr., whose father had taken the youngsters into the mountains Saturday.

East of Ogden, Utah, hope diminished for the safety of two Air-Force men, 1st Lt. Donald E. Born, of Andover, N.Y., and Capt. Donald Liggett, Indianapolis, unreported in the rugged, snow-clotted Wasatch Mountains since bailing out of their crippled plane Friday. Four men survived. Two others died as they tried to make their way to shelter through the snow.

Near Fort Collins, Colo., search resumed for two California pilots, F. L. Courtell of Hayward, and Calvin Cloud, Napa, whose Capitol Airlines cargo plane, on lease to the military, disappeared Sunday after reporting it was turning back to Denver with one engine out and heavy icing on its wings. A rancher 30 miles east of Laramie, Wyo., reported seeing the flash of an apparent explosion shortly after the plane talked with the Laramie airport tower.

Three other storm casualties were reported from San Pedro, Calif., where three men were presumed drowned after their boat overturned.

Firemen Will Call Tonight

LEFORS (Sp)—Local firemen will call on citizens tonight, requesting a voluntary assessment of $1 a month. In this way they seek to provide a small substantial income for the department. From this sum would come a fee for each fire and meeting attended and funds for new equipment and clothing ruined while fighting a fire.

Members will begin canvassing at 6:30 p.m. The $1 donation would be collected monthly by the City secretary, Mrs. "Iris" Barron. It would be payable with the monthly water bills.

winds, which toppled some trees. They blew a barn down.

The wind blew down trees in Dallas. The wind was down to a velocity of 45 miles an hour when it hit Waco in Central Texas and there were no immediate reports of damage. Central Texas expected temperatures as low as 38 degrees tonight.

A high wind, perhaps a tornado, tore the roof and a side of the hangar at the Snyder, Tex., airport, damaging 10 private planes. Record clerk Allen M. Owens of the police department said they were damaged "rather extensively."

Tornadoes hit in Oklahoma six miles west of Lawton and three miles southeast of Walters, in the same sector. Tornado winds hit Blackwell, Okla., scene of one of the state's most disastrous tornadoes, in 1955, and a windstorm hit Duncan.

A tornado destroyed two churches in the Seminole county, Okla., community of Bowlegs and there were a few injuries. A tornado blew over the Baptist parsonage, two garages and two homes and damaged the Baptist church in Prairie Hill community of Jackson county, Okla.

Radio station KWFT at Wichita Falls lost three of its towers, but managed to resume broadcasting.

Highways around Dalhart and Dumas were slick with a coating of ice under snow and U.S. Highway 66 was reported snow-covered from the Panhandle to California.

Temperatures were in the mid-20s in Dalhart and the weather bureau said the mercury may sink to 10 degrees over snow-covered sections of the Panhandle and Upper South Plains tonight.

The coldest weather of the season was predicted for the entire state; 30-40 degrees in North Central Texas; in the 30s for South Central Texas and in the 30s in East Texas.

The snow was expected to end in the upper Panhandle this afternoon. The snow was blowing at last report at Dalhart and around El Paso, where the temperature dropped to 25 degrees.

The Texas Department of Public Safety reported U.S. Highway 80 icing between El Paso and Sierra Blanca and becoming increasingly dangerous. Snow fell within a 30-mile radius from El Paso east of Sierra Blanca.

Small craft warnings went up from Brownsville, on the lower Texas coast, for winds up to 35 miles an hour.

MRS. FLOIS HITE ... wife-writer

Mrs. Hite Accepted

Mrs. Flois Hite, 1009 Varnon Drive, has been accepted for membership in the National Writers Club, Denver, Colo. A well known member is nationally famous Gene Fowler, author of "Minutes of the Last Meeting" and other biographical books.

Mrs. Hite, a housewife, is a writer of religious how-to-do-it articles. Last year she wrote a letter that caused much commotion when printed in the Daily News. It concerned integration.

Other writers in the club are William E. Barrett, Thomas W. Duncan, Palmer Hoyt and Clyde Brien Davis.

Mrs. Hite was granted membership "in recognition of consistently good work in creative writing." She also favors short fiction with a religious viewpoint.

Actor's Wife Flies Home With Body

MADRID (UPI)—The body of movie star Tyrone Power makes the melancholy last journey back to the United States today.

His widow paid a long goodbye Sunday night to the handsome stage and screen idol who died suddenly Saturday of a heart attack.

Mrs. Power, the former Debbie Anne Minardos, who is expecting a baby early next year, will accompany the body on the flight home. She slipped away from friends Sunday night and spent more than an hour at the side of her husband's body.

"She said nothing to anyone," a friend said. "She simply wanted to be alone with him. It may be her last chance like this."

A simple memorial service for the late actor, who at 44 suffered the attack while filming a scene from the movie "Solomon and Sheba," was held Sunday in the chapel of the American Air Force base outside the Spanish capital.

A spokesman for the film company said burial plans had not yet been completed. However, he said Power's friends believed the body would be interred at the Forest Lawn Cemetery outside Los Angeles.

In Hollywood, Yul Brynner agreed Sunday to take over Power's role in the 6-million-dollar movie. A spokesman for the actor said he would leave for Spain next week after he completes the final scenes for "The Sound and the Fury."

$30 IN SHAKER SWIPED HERE

A yellow and white salt shaker, holding about $30 in change and currency, was taken Saturday evening from the D. P. Loshier home, 1006 E. Jordan, police reported today.

Loshier told officers his house was unlocked a short time while he visited neighbors at about 5:30 p.m. When he returned he noticed the front door open and the rear door unlocked. He reported the loss at 9:30 p.m.

Communist propaganda, these developments indicated an easing of the situation:

—West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt said in a radio address Sunday night the announced Western determination to hold the threatened city by force has averted a new blockade. He said, "I do not believe that we are about to have a dramatic development."

—The East German Communists forgot about the Berlin situation long enough Sunday to hold one of their one-ticket elections for a parliament that can only rubber stamp Communist Party decisions. Voters were marched to the polls, given a ballot and told to drop it in the box. There was no yes or no and every vote meant a vote for the Red regime.

Persons who did not vote were warned they would find themselves in trouble. The Communists were expected to announce another 99 per cent victory.

—The East German Communists were disclosed to have released an American tourist, George S. Milroy, 29, of Ann Arbor, Mich., whom they had threatened to try as a "spy" because he photographed a victory monument. His release was an admission that the Communists again were unsuccessful in trying to force the U.S. government to negotiate with them on equal terms.

Gruenther Speaks At Convention

Red Cross volunteers are doing a job that's "out of this world," General Alfred M. Gruenther, president of the American National Red Cross, told 708 Texans assembled in San Antonio for the State Convention Friday.

Mrs. F. W. Shotwell, executive secretary of the Pampa Red Cross, and two Pampa Junior Red Cross girls attended the two day convention. The girls, Misses Martha Marsh and Sondra Brown, attended special Junior Red Cross sessions.

One of the biggest problems facing the Red Cross is replacing financial reserves depleted by US disasters during recent years, Gruenther stated. Texas and Louisiana were among the states hardest hit by disaster. The RC budget for the year ending June 30 totaled $87,000,000, of which $23,000,000 was spent on services to the armed forces. Another $9,000,000 went for disaster relief and $13,000,000 for blood programs. The budget anticipated for this year is $5,000,000.

One of the newest services offered by the Red Cross will be a training course for nursing home operators, according to Gruenther. The program is scheduled to go into action in San Antonio soon.

Services For Thurmond Are Held In Lefors

Funeral services for A. C. Thurmond, Lefors, were to have been held at 2 p.m. today in the Lefors First Methodist Church with Rev. Wesley Daniels officiating. Burial was to have been in Fairview Cemetery.

Mr. Thurmond died at 6:55 a.m. Sunday in Highland General Hospital from injuries received in a two-car accident near Lefors on Nov. 7. He was born Dec. 7, 1887 in Hall, Tenn. and has resided in Lefors for 28 years.

Mr. Thurman was production foreman for McMahon Oil Co. and a member of the Lefors First Methodist Church.

Survivors include his wife, Des- sie; two sons, J. A. of Pampa, Paul of Skellytown; one daughter, Mrs. C. H. Gustin of Lefors; two sisters, Mrs. H. L. McDerment of Hall, Tenn.; Mrs. Edith Moore of Sharon, Tenn.; Mrs. Gwen Thurmond Stark, a granddaughter and three other grandchildren.

Palbearers were George Clements, Gordon Stafford, Roy Jeffries, John Carpenter, F. C. Jones and Floyd Chitwood.

in a quality class by itself

This superior gasoline stands out as the best gasoline to use in any car in any price class. It is the only gasoline that will give you all the performance you paid for when you bought your modern car. It has highest octane rating; it eliminates engine "bucking" as you start, engine "rumble" as you drive, and engine knock as you accelerate. A must for cars with air-conditioning, power brakes and power steering. It's the gasoline for the 1959 models.

Protect Your Car's Engine with Humble UNIFLO

Recent improvements have made Uniflo a better oil than ever before. It begins to lubricate quicker, it gives you a tougher protective film of oil, and it keeps your engine cleaner than any other oil in the Southwest. It is a 10W-30 oil, light for winter use, tough and full-bodied in hottest weather.

DEAR ABBY: You asked teenagers to write in and tell you why they don't bring their friends home. I don't bring my friends home because my parents forbid me to have company in the house unless one of them is home.

ANOTHER TEEN-AGER
DEAR ABBY: I quit bringing kids over because there is so much stuff in our house that can get broke nobody can even turn around. A friend of mine once accidentally turned over an end table and broke a lamp and I never heard the last of it. The gang would rather go to somebody's house where nobody will chew us out in case something gets wrecked.

KINDA FRISKY
DEAR ABBY: If you never knew when you were going to walk into your house and find your mother and father roaring drunk, would you be dumb enough to bring somebody home with you?

KNOWS BETTER
DEAR ABBY: I am not quite 13 but if you want to know why I don't have kids in my house it is because we don't have anything to entertain them with. My parents don't believe in Rock 'n' Roll so I can't have any records except classicals. I can't turn on the TV unless they know what I am going to look at. They examine all the magazines my friends carry and if there are any comics that have had language or indecent pictures, they make them leave them outside. Now what kid is going to be so foolish as to want to come to my house?

IN PRISON

Hostesses for the meeting, Mrs. Ruby Ferguson and Mrs. May Bryan served refreshments at the close of the meeting to Mrs. Roberta Moulton, Mae Small, Ruby Tillman, Alma Pittman, May Bryan, Lou Ella Mooneyham, Willie Hulsey, Mabel Gatewood, Lois Throckmorton, Loretta Halpain, Louise Woodward, Gladys Organ, Eva Fisher, Mildred Shiflet, Mildred Hudson, Thelma Scott and Leona Bryan.

Twentieth Century Forum Escorted On Tour Of World's Wonderland Gardens

Twentieth Century Forum met in the home of Mrs. Felix J. Vendrell on Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. W. Calvin Jones, the president, conducted the business meeting, after which Mrs. Bob Curry and Mrs. William T. Fraser carried the club, with the aid of slides, on a tour of the Bellingrath, Magnolia, Cypress, and Middleton Gardens.

The narrative with the film brought out the interesting comments that about twenty miles from Mobile, on the bank of Lake Loxley, lie Bellingrath Gardens, famous the world over as one of the major beauty spots of all time. These gardens — young as great gardens go — are a living memorial to their creators, the late Mr. and Mrs. Walter D. Bellingrath. For it was their love of beauty that transformed a rustic riverside fishing camp into a superb example of the landscapist's art.

French gardeners, American architects, English landscape engineers, and others were consulted in the developments of the gardens. It is known as the charm spot of the deep South and was the driving ambition of Mr. and Mrs. Bellingrath.

Charleston, South Carolina's famous gardens, Cypress, Magnolia, and Middleton, were viewed next. "Continuously owned by the Drayton family since 1671, Magnolia Gardens is a fairyland of century old camellias and azaleas in a setting of unrivaled beauty. Moss-draped Live Oaks abound; gnarled cypresses border the inky black lakes, supporting masses of Wisteria and Cherokee Rose. Many other flowering shrubs add lustre to the inspiring landscape, making your visit a never-to-be-forgotten one."

"Cypress Gardens extends romantic and mysterious through lagoons of black onyx water and centuries old cypress trees. From banks and islands a blaze of color, azaleas, camellias, daffodils, is doubled by fantastically mirrored reflections. A reservoir of rice fields on Dean Hall Plantation since 1750, this water forest has been transformed into a magic spectacle. A boat trip, guided by expert paddlers, takes you silently through the heart of this colorful wonderland."

"At Middleton Gardens you see magnificent terraced awns, camellia japonicas that have bloomed for centuries, butterfly lakes, and statuary, and nature's own charming informality. In the forest walk, and on the hillside above Rice Mill pond, color virtually explodes from the masses of azaleas, bushes, from wisteria vines, banks of roses, flowering peach and dogwood. There are shaded walks that lead through veritable tunnels of blossoming camellia japonicas, among them the oldest camellia plants in the Western world."

Refreshments were served to the following members, Mmes. Roy B. Bourland, Joe Daniel, E. J. Dunigan, William Ellis, H. C. Fedcrer, J. R. Holloway, R. G. Hughes, Frank Kelley, D. M. Lawrence, J. B. McCreery, M. McDaniel, H. J. Rose, Aubrey Steele, Arthur Teed, and one guest, Mrs. Henry Duer, of Baltimore, Maryland.

Mel Ott Improves

GULFPORT, Miss. (UPI)—The physician attending Mel Ott, critically injured former slugging rightfielder for the New York Giants, said Sunday "he is recovering slowly, but we are encouraged."

The deer and turkey season for this part of the state is in full swing. Most of the hunting will be along the Canadian River in Hutchinson and Roberts counties but most of the game will come from ranches in Hemphill County.

Be Sure of Your Target

One buck killed per hundred hunters will be about the percentage of the river kill. Possibly one gobbler to each forty hunters would be my guess on the percentage of kill basis for river hunters.

Hunter's imagination can sometimes run away with itself. When the hunter has a scope that is capable of detecting even the leaves on a tree above a deer, then the hunter will be much more in a position to make a clean kill of the game animal that he has picked out rather than shooting and hoping he got what he thought was a legal deer.

RESERVE GUARD—Don North, 175-pound senior, is one of the Harvesters' top reserves. He is a guard.

Brown Tops NFL Rushing Record

By BOB SERLING United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Modest and muscular Jim Brown stood as the greatest ground gainer in National Football League history today—and didn't even know he had broken Steve Van Buren's 10-year-old record until 20 minutes after the game.

152 yards in 27 carries—16 yards more than he needed to beat Van Buren's all-time rushing mark for a single season.

Many of the hunters in 1958 don't know a piggin string from a hame string, a breast yoke from a double tree, and a turkey gobbler from a turkey hen.

Old gobblers usually flock together while old hens observe the same habits. On occasion young gobblers will be found in flocks of hens.

Leave Head on the Deer

Texas Christian gets a chance to wrap the Southwest Conference football championship and a New Year's Day Cotton Bowl date both into one neat package next Saturday at Houston when the Frogs tangle with Rice.

Rice, on the other hand, now is faced with the task of whipping both TCU and Baylor if it is to be absolutely certain of a return trip to the lucrative Dallas bowl game, although the Owls could still make it by whipping TCU and losing to Baylor.

Bi-District Games Scheduled For Rangers, Bucks, Miami

Three area district champions move into bi-district play this week, and two of the bi-district games could decide the eventual state champion.

Gruber, the Panhandle's only undefeated, untied class A team, and the 1-A champ, moves into White Deer Friday night to take on the powerful Bucks.

Perryton and Stamford, two of the state's AA powers, meet at 2:30 p.m. Friday in neutral Childress. Perryton is the 5-AA champ and Stamford is the title-holder in 6-AA.

RESERVE TACKLE—Dale Veale, a 195-pound junior, is one of the Harvesters' reserves at the tackle position.

Miami, which beat Booker Friday night to break Mobeetie's long reign in six-man district 1-B, plays Cotton Center Friday night in Hale Center.

White Deer and White Deer had it easy in their final regular season games, but Miami was hard-pressed by Booker for three quarters. Perryton walloped Shamrock 69-0; White Deer toyed with Memphis, 45-14, and Miami whipped Booker 48-24.

Bayer Takes Havana Open

HAVANA, Cuba (UPI)—George Bayer, the "human howitzer" who hits a ball a mile, picked up the juiciest plum of his golf career by tapping in a three-inch putt.

With only one more big Saturday left in the season, here's the likely lineup for the five major bowls:

That putt sunk Slammin' Sammy Sneed on the first extra hole of a "sudden death" playoff Sunday and earned Bayer the top prize of $6,500 in the $45,000 Havana Open golf tournament.

The next-to-the last Saturday of big activity was marked by more than its share of upsets including the Quantico Marines' 13-12 upset of previously unbeaten and untied Rutgers. Ohio State blasted second-ranked Iowa, 35-28, unranked Tennessee edged out eighth ranked Mississippi, 18-16, and Nebraska surprised 10th ranked Pittsburgh, 14-6, in the other top upsets.

Bill Wade's second period pass to Jim Phillips went for a 93-yard pass-run touchdown, the longest in Los Angeles history, and put the Rams in front to stay at Green Bay. The Rams have two games coming up with Baltimore.

Knicks Take 6th Straight in NBA

The New York Knickerbockers, off to one of their finest starts in years, have used a six-game winning streak to help them register the best overall record in the National Basketball Association thus far.

The Knicks made it six in a row by mauling the Minneapolis Lakers, 96-90, Sunday in the NBA's weekly nationally televised game. New York also beat Syracuse, 96-92, Saturday to make it a perfect weekend.

Sins Of The Taxers

There's a fellow named John J. Sullivan who spoke recently in Denver. He is president of the firm of Bosworth, Sullivan and Company of Boston, and what he had to say to some members of the Optimist Club of Denver ranks high in the company of heavyweights, not to be exceeded by the immortal John L. Sullivan. "Compared with governments, Ponzi and Krueger were peanuts." In the event our readers are unfamiliar with either Ponzi or Krueger it can be briefly stated that the two of them erected enormous financial enterprises which crashed in ruin, taking thousands of investors into bankruptcy with them. Specifically, Ponzi had an insurance racket which compared in every way with the current government insurance program called "social security." He paid enormous returns to investors, returns that were so large, in fact, that people could hardly resist handing him money. The only trouble was that Ponzi, like our S. S. manipulators, paid dividends out of current income. So long as the list of suckers could be expanded and the new money flowed in faster than it was paid out, everything looked rosy. But false appearance cannot be forever sustained. The program was actuarially unsound. And when the list of new investors was reduced thru the process of maximum absorption, the collapse was swift and catastrophic. So will it be with social security. But getting back to the new heavyweight, Sullivan said that in all history there is no record of any government willing or able to live within its income for an extended period of time. This is scientifically accurate. As a consequence, he said, higher taxes are inevitably sought with an eventual debasement of the medium of exchange. "The pattern has been the same in every country, in every century." The speaker made it plain that his remarks were not intended as political fodder. He wasn't picking on any political party nor on any particular government. They were all guilty. He said the Russians wretched on their bonded obligations to their own citizens three times since 1917. As for this country, the United States has had budget deficits in 23 of the past 25 years. "In the last 20 years, our government went into debt an average of $28 million a day," he pointed out. And this business of having a government which runs into debt, is the same business as being cheated. Since we weren't present at the meeting, we are unfamiliar with all of Mr. Sullivan's remarks. But we hope he told his auditors that debt created by government creates not only a financial hazard but raises a great moral issue as well. For when government-created debts are passed on to children, the question must be asked: what obligation do the children have to assume the liability? Ordinarily, the debts of the deceased are paid out of his estate, if any. And of course, there have been many instances in which children, assuming an obligation which was not theirs, have labored all their lives to retire the debts created by some free-wheeling parent. But this assumption of such a debt is voluntary. How do we cope with a federal debt when the persons who create the debt are no longer in this world? Who is obligated to pay it off? What moral right have the long succession of politicians to demand and compel our children to assume responsibility for a deficit which was totally not of their making? The government never dies, it just goes on and on, further and further into debt. And new generations of taxpayers arise, are immediately saddled with the sins of their political forebears, and then strain and sweat all of their lives in a futile effort to pay it off, while the successors to their political masters continue to run up further charge accounts. Right now, persons born during the debt-embracing years of F.D.R. are already paying hundreds of dollars each year just to service the debts he inspired. They were babes in arms when the debts were formed. And their children will be forced to assume those debts when they are old and gray and have been added to the list of social security collectors. We were delighted to learn of a man of Mr. John J. Sullivan's caliber. We hope the Optimists take a pessimistic view of governmental debt.

The Panoramic View

Most of us are so close to our immediate problems that it pays us once in a while to pause and step back from our labors. Then we can acquire a broader view, a panoramic comprehension of what has been happening during, say, the past twenty years. Conditions are rarely static. Frequently, as we perform our daily tasks, we see ourselves standing in the same places, apparently accomplishing little. We are aided now in obtaining this more general outlook by figures furnished us by the Institute of Life Insurance of New York City. Our super-view encompasses a period of time from 1939 to 1958, just under 20 years. During that time some changes have occurred which are worthy of note. For example, in 1939, white collar workers, which include management, and the immediate aides to management such as clerks, stenographers and bookkeepers numbered approximately 31 per cent of the nation's working force. That same year, what could be called the blue collar classification, including factory employees, craftsmen and ordinary laborers, made up about 40 per cent of the nation's working force. In 1939 about 17 per cent of all working people were employed on farms. And another 12 per cent were in the service category. In 1958 we find a decided shift in emphasis. For example, white collar workers, including management, now consists of approximately 41 per cent of all gainfully employed. The blue collar field has shrunk to 38 per cent. Service personnel have increased to 13 per cent. Farm workers have been reduced to about 8 per cent. Clearly the shift has been away from the farms and blue collar categories and into service and white collar fields. We are reminded that this is precisely the opposite direction to the one forecast by Marx and various labor bosses. It is the blue collar area which is most susceptible to trade unionism. And this field has been growing smaller,

By R. C. HOLES
Importance Of Reaching The Moon
Frank S. Meyer, one of the editors of the "National Review," thinks we are wasting a lot of energy attempting to shoot to the moon. He contends there are a multitude of directions in which our energy can better be employed. He writes:

"We are told that the 'conquest of space' will transform men, will, that is, make a different creature of him. But all our experience, conformed by instructed intelligence, shows that the expansion of the area and power available to the human will does not by a jot or tittle transform the character of the human soul. It heightens the dimensions of the drama, but it does not affect the terms of good and evil which define it. It may, indeed, increase the temptation to the temptable side of man's nature so that the corruption to which we are heir have greater play."

Neglecting Important Problems
Nestling Meyer lists some of the problems we are neglecting. He puts it this way:
"Entry into space, command of space, will do nothing to change the essential problems of human existence. It will do nothing — to mention a few of the most vexing problems of this critical age — to overcome the catastrophic decay of the education of new generations, which year by year destroys the memory of our civilization. Nor will it reverse the process whereby our great cities, and with them the political and social control of the nation, are given over to the passions of the most primitive, the least elevated, the lowest common denominator of our people. It will do nothing to restore the authority of truth and the spirit, nothing to overcome the present predominance of our priests and priestesses of utility, the manipulators of the masses, who rule under the sign of the full belly and the over-full garage."
"Indeed, if we choose to devote our energies to the extension of our power through the exploration and conquest of space, we will undoubtedly aggravate such other true problems. In the first place, concentration upon the material end of extending our control of the physical universe will deepen the already portentously threatening neglect of the intensive values which were given to men as the end of their existence."

In the second place, "on the purely practical level, the vast resources required for the kind of projects necessary to space exploration (figures that run into billions upon billions) are such that only the state (using its power of taxation to take money from the citizen who may not care a fig about what kind of little men live on Venus) can under present conditions direct and control such activity. And it is an axiom, theoretically derivable, and confirmed beyond dispute by twentieth-century experience, that what the state does in any area beyond its proper functions of preserving order and administering justice buttresses evil and undermines the good."

Intellectual Shell Game
"But, we are told: the military necessities you admit, and the development of science which you as libertarians would not endorse, make it certain that, whether you like it or not, the exploration of space is forced upon us by the inexorable unrolling of reality; to which I can only reply, indignantly: 'Hey, wait a minute!'"
"This is the shell-game of the determinists. Because a certain penetration beyond the atmosphere with satellites, or to the moon for missile bases, is necessitated by military considerations, does not mean that we have to go any further. Nor does the development of science force upon us any activity whose ends we do not consciously choose for reasons that derive from the values we espouse."

"Like the Marxists and the Freudians, those who exult that the scientific possibilities of space travel determine by their material pressure men's future have forgotten that men were created with the great gift of being able to say Yes or No. Let us hope that we will say No to the temptation of power over universes — at the very least until we have set our own house in some order."

Top of List
NOTE: Mr. Meyer seems to think as I do that the most of our energy comes from our organized educational practices. He comments on "the catastrophic decay of the education of new generations which year by year destroys the memory of our civilization." More and more people are beginning to see that non-free enterprise schools cannot successfully teach their pupils to believe in free enterprise in other human relations.

POLAND GETS VACCINE
WARSAW (UPI)—Officials prepared today to distribute a $500,000 shipment of anti-polio vaccine from the United States. The vaccine, which arrived by plane Friday, was the second shipment since October. The vaccine was purchased by Poland with American aid funds. They own about $250 billion worth of corporate stock. They own about $125 billion in life insurance and government bond obligations. And they have about $490 billion in life insurance protection coming to them. This is a broad view. Our craftsmen, and ordinary laborers, let's get back to work."

Ike Planning To Ask For 1 1/2 Billion
Looking Sideways
By Whitney Bolton

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower is planning to ask the new Congress for $1.5 billion to counter Russia's increasing economic penetration in undeveloped countries. That's the unmentioned price tag on the expanded economic aid program which the President outlined to the Colombo Plan conference in Seattle. This figure is more than double the $700,000,000 Congress has voted for this purpose in the past two years; $300,000,000 in 1957 and this year's money has already either been loaned or committed. The bipartisan leaders of Congress will be told about the proposed $1.5 billion addition at a special White House conference around the middle of December. At this still unannounced meeting, this new foreign aid program will be explained by C. Douglas Dillon, Deputy Undersecretary of State for Economic Affairs. He is drafting it at the direction of the National Security Council, which approved it at the strong urging of Secretary Dulles. As contemplated by Dillon, the additional funds would be assigned to the two major foreign lending agencies — $1 billion to the Development Loan Fund, which operates under the State Department, and $500,000,000 to the Export-Import Bank. The Development Loan Fund has been actively functioning since January of this year. Since then, some 75 nations have applied for loans. Fifteen of them are asking for upwards of $100,000,000 each — India, Turkey, Spain, Pakistan, Uruguay, Yugoslavia. In preparation for the White House session with congressional leaders, Dillon explains the underlying reasons for the new program in a memorandum to top members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. He sounds three warning notes, as follows: "The U.S. must reckon with the hard realities of the growing Soviet economy and the international policies of the Soviet state. 'The problems are essentially new in kind (in that) they have arisen from the peculiar nature of Soviet economic relationship with the outside world inherent in the totalitarian controls of Communist economy.' "The urgency of these problems has increased because of the expansion of Soviet economy, and the growing national power of the USSR in recent years." The answer to these threats, Dillon contends, is "to continue and expand the vigorous operation of our new Development Loan Fund, and to continue and expand the lending operations of the Export-Import Bank." WHAT'S BEHIND IT — Particularly significant in Undersecretary Dillon's backstage memorandum are his views regarding the possible expansion of trade between the U.S. and Russia. The Administration favors that, he says, and the Soviet undoubtedly will continue to purchase "advanced types of capital equipment and industrial plants in pursuit of his traditional objective of economic self-sufficiency." But Dillon holds that large-scale growth of trade between the two countries is "unlikely" for two reasons. "First, the Soviet is not interested in purchasing our consumer goods," he declares. "Second, the American market for traditional Soviet export products is quite limited." But in undeveloped countries, Dillon foresees Russia exerting increasingly forceful efforts. "We can expect that the Soviet with its growing industrial capabilities will step up its economic penetration campaign," he asserts. "The familiar devices of bilateral deals and long-term credits will be used even more intensively in the pursuit of Communist objectives in target countries." "The achievement of these designs, however, will depend less upon the volume of Soviet aid and trade than upon the economic health of the undeveloped countries and the U.S. The support of progressive economic development is precisely the objective of the Administration."

"We seek to achieve this goal in two ways: Through international economic and financial institutions, and through the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act." NEW FACES — Senator Estes Kefauver (D., Tenn.) has high hopes of finally realizing a long-held ambition — to be a member of the Foreign Relations Committee. He has formally requested this assignment, and has been promised the post backing of Senator Theodore Green (D., R.I.), Committee chairman. Two years ago, Kefauver sought a place on the Foreign Relations Committee, but lost out to Senator John Kennedy (D., Mass.), who has less seniority but more support among colleagues. Among the already record-size diplomatic corps in Washington, he is 34-year-old Rishikesh Shaha of the remote and neutralist kingdom of Nepal. Shaha is already in the U.S. as his country's ambassador to the UN. He is also being named Ambassador to Washington, primarily to prepare for the state visit of King Mahendra early in 1959.

OFFICER REINSTATED
TAMPA, Fla. (UPI)—Col. Louis L. Leibel, suspended commander of MacDill Air Force Base, was reinstated today with a lecture from a superior as punishment. Leibel had been suspended Oct. 27 on charges he used abusive language to a subordinate. The Air Force said Leibel returned to duty after being "admonished" by the commander of the 2nd Air Force at Barksdale Air Base, La.

No New Lead Can Be Written For Dr. Jordan
by WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK — I had rather hoped to greet Dr. Sara Jordan with a rapturous essay on her debut in my profession as "Columbian" on the ill that flesh is heir to, but every opening paragraph had a trite sound. For this great lady of the Lahey Clinic in Boston, now retired at 74, has been praised beyond my poor powers to add to. I could have exclaimed in propriety and conscience, "Love, here is my heart!" For I owe her my life, and her casual sacrifice coming to the airport in a blinding rain at night to ride in the ambulance beside me to New England Baptist Hospital was unspeakably touching. But she and her husband have known all that a long time and, moreover, I am only a somewhat cracked and quavering treble in a great chorus.

I have wanted, however, to do something for Doctor Sara, the endearment which the other doctors and the nurses used when she was not in earshot, by way of touching her shoulder and heartening her as she has heartened many and many a one. So, today, when I saw her name on the wagons roaring through mid-town I phoned her at her home in Boston. "Sara," I yelled, "Your name is on the wagons!" I could almost see her wince. Vaguely, so as not to hurt me, she explained that in her old profession this was not quiet the thing. "Yes," I hollered, "But this is not medicine. This is journalism and your name on the wagons is accolade. You are up there with the bowling editor and Elsa Maxwell. It took me 30 years to get my name on a wagon!" "... If you look at it that way," she said, trailing off, "I suppose you could tell me this: How does one write best? Do you write in a study?" So I said I would write her a discussion and this is that: A long time ago, a beautiful, black-eyed, auburn-haired girl named Katharine Brush took New York by storm and moved into the biggest apartment in town in a new building on 57th Street. She and her husband, Bobby Winans, now of Rio De Janeiro, were not content with a duplex and therefore got a triplex apartment with a living room tall enough for a ski-jump. Joe Urban, the great designer of Ziegfeld sets, created a circular study for Kay. It was like a drum or an ashcan, three stories high. Joe had invented the urban blue and Kay had him urban-blue the walls and ceiling. There were unusual lights and the wastebaskets were like jewel cases and fit only for discarded snatches of immortal prose. Bobby bought the biggest set of miniature trains in the world, with bridges, gorges, grand centrals, wrecks, mites and miles of tracks and little figurines of commuters that staggered off the 11:39, after missing the 5:15. (This was in prohibition.) He also got an aquarium just a few drops smaller than the Pacific Ocean, with whales and sea serpents. I am telling you, this was a hell of a place. Leon Gordon, the portrait painter, came into the ski-jump room and, according to his formula, belabored: "That wall cries out for something!" "Such as a portrait?" Bobby asked. "The very thing," Leon agreed and that was how Kay's son, Tommy, happens to have in his possession today a portrait of the diminutive Kay Brush nine feet tall. James Montgomery Flagg's first comment was, "My God, don't tell me you are happy here!" and Rube Goldberg said, "All it needs is a Cadillac on velvet."

Kay had thousands of sharp pencils within reach on a crescent desk, unlike any copy desk in any city room, with a top of blue leather and built of rose-mahogany. Her typewriter was of a French enamel called Cloisonne, which Tiffany ran up for her on special order. The words it wrote were out of this world. That was a problem. Katharine Brush wrote this word's words and something was all wrong. She would put her pretty forehead down on her hands on the blue leather desk and wish she were living in some garret. Joe Urban had not reckoned on the acoustics. It seems that in a drum or ashcan, however pretty and expensive, the tapping of a typewriter sounds like a rattapaper. Kay said she dropped a paper-clip on the blue leather desk and it clattered like a crowbar on a steel deck. The poor girl was going crazy, and with a deadline for the Saturday Evening Post in the days before it turned to biographies of George Raft, Eleanor Roosevelt and Mickey Cohen. So, in desperation, she climbed up behind the Christmas ornaments in the big closet and got out her old-time Remington rock-crusher with a bell like the gong of Hook and Ladder 8, and an old bridge table, and set it up in her little sewing room. And in three weeks Katharine Brush knocked off Young Man of Mauhatta, the deadliest epic of the era of wonderful nonsense and prohibition. Blessed Doctor Sara, does that answer your question?

The Doctor

Says: Dr. Edwin P. Jordan
Anyone who has ever suffered from neuritis knows how painful it can be. This inflammatory disorder of a nerve (or of several nerves) is typically accompanied by pain of varying degrees of severity, by tenderness along the pathway of the nerve, by disturbances of sensation or feeling, and often by some wasting of the muscles supplied by the particular nerve.

It is not proper really to talk of neuritis as though it were a single disease. Actually, inflammation of the nerves can come as a result of many different causes. Consequently, in the presence of neuritis, the problem is to try to find out what particular cause is responsible for the trouble in that individual human being. Diabetes (especially if the condition has not been controlled by suitable diet or insulin) and infections are among the common causes. Vitamin deficiencies, especially the lack of vitamin B-1, also may produce nerve pain.

Multiple neuritis (inflammation of several nerves) is common among the victims of chronic alcoholism. Perhaps at least part of the reason is that such persons often substitute alcohol for a properly balanced diet containing enough vitamin B-1. This type of neuritis often can be much improved, or even relieved completely, by giving extra vitamin B-1. Neuritis is a symptom always present in shingles, or herpes zoster. In this disease the cause of the trouble is a virus. Severe anemia can produce neuritis. Poisoning with the heavy metals such as arsenic and many other substances used in industry may produce neuritis. This incomplete list gives an idea of the problem in making a diagnosis.

Successful treatment is almost always difficult. Vitamins, particularly B-1 and B-12, may help. There have been favorable reports with at least one commercial drug preparation. Sometimes the pain is almost intolerable, particularly in people who have been weakened by disease, and in the elderly. Relief has sometimes been obtained by killing the involved nerve by injecting alcohol, or by cutting the nerve by an operation. Of course, this does not get at the bottom of the trouble, but it may be needed to ease the terrible pain. One question on neuritis which I am often asked is whether change in weather has any effect. I think there is no doubt that it does sometimes but not always. Actually, changes in weather or barometric pressure seem to have more effect on muscular rheumatism — or at least on the discomfort from that condition — than on neuritis.

Although some relief can be provided most victims, many continue to suffer from neuritis in spite of everything which is tried. However, in the long run a complete recovery is the rule.

Four big reasons why FORD IS OUTSELLING ALL OTHER '59 CARS

World's best-selling car is the car with Thunderbird elegance. In the greatest styling decision of the year, the American public has already shown a clear preference for the new Fords.

Skelly says: "You start or we pay... under our Guaranteed Starting Plan"

See your Skelly dealer for full details... find out how Skelly protects you all winter long against service charges to start your engine.

- Here's what your Skelly dealer will do to get your car ready for our Guaranteed Starting protection: 1. Drain your oil and refill with Skelly Supreme or Tagelone HD Motor Oil...

Which of these 2 gasolines does your car need? Both are "tailor-made" for fast starting in any weather.

Only Skelly has Keotane for "Hot Spark" Starts

Note to Skelly Credit Card holders: If you need snow tires, a battery, etc., use your Skelly Credit Card and take up to 6 months to pay.
