Reports Claim Agnew Will Resign

WORKERS MUST OKAY PLAN

UAW, Chrysler Reach Agreement On Contract

DETROIT (UPI) — Despite tentative agreement Monday to end its strike against Chrysler Corp., the United Auto Workers said today assembly lines probably will not roll again until next week.

This, said UAW President Leonard Woodcock, is because it will take the rest of this week for national and local officers to approve the settlement and it must then go before rank-and-file workers for ratification.

Under the contract, the UAW won a breakthrough 30-and-out retirement plan and obtained relief from mandatory overtime rules.

In turn, workers will receive less money than they wanted.

Woodcock called the non-money issues in the contract a "tremendous breakthrough," especially the introduction of a system that will allow employees to retire on a pension after 30 years' work regardless of their age.

Pending ratification of the settlement, about 113,000 blue collar workers remain away from work.

Still working, although negotiations continue on a contract covering them, were about 15,000 white collar workers.

The announcement Monday of the three-year contract came just 63 hours after the UAW called the strike in 22 states and Canada. It was the fastest settlement in UAW history. The previous record for brevity was nine days in 1955 against Ford Motor Co.

Agreement came after nearly 30 hours of marathon bargaining, interrupted only once for three hours when negotiators said they showed signs of weariness.

Besides the 30-and-out retirement plan, the major non-economic feature of the contract concerned the mandatory overtime that automakers can demand of workers.

Under the new contract, workers can refuse to work more than nine hours a day or more than 54 hours a week or more than two consecutive Saturdays. But the company retains certain limited rights to impose mandatory overtime.

His attorneys argued that he should be allowed to change his plea because the government "suborned and concealed perjury," broke into his White House safe and destroyed evidence that might have helped him.

They also argued that the burglary and bugging of Democratic headquarters at the Watergate June 17, 1972, "flowed directly and lawfully from the President's office" and was justified by national security, or that Hunt at least thought it was and therefore lacked criminal intent.

Other Developments

In other developments: —The Senate Watergate committee meets in private today to plan its next round of hearings beginning next Monday.

—Donald H. Segretti, a 32-year-old California lawyer, agreed Monday to plead guilty to a new, four-count indictment in Florida, accusing him of conspiracy and illegal distribution of anti-Democratic campaign material.

—Sen. Joseph M. Montoya, D-N.M., said officials of the Treasury Department, which operates the Secret Service, invoked the doctrine of executive privilege and refused to "confirm or deny" to him a newspaper report that President Nixon's brother, Donald, was wiretapped by agents.

Hunt's petition, similar to one filed recently by four Miami defendants who also had pleaded guilty in the case, claimed that his constitutional rights "were violated by the outrageous conduct of the government in depriving him of valuable evidence."

Assistant Special Prosecutor Richard Davis told a seven-minute court hearing Monday that Segretti was "now being cooperative with the government."

TO INNOCENT

Hunt Now Wants To Change Plea

WASHINGTON (UPI) — E. Howard Hunt Jr., the former CIA agent and spy novelist who pleaded guilty in the Watergate burglary, now wants to change that plea to innocent, saying it was "coerced" from him by "outrageous" government conduct.

Hunt's lawyers Monday asked U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica to allow him to change his plea and to dismiss the charges of conspiracy, burglary, bugging and wiretapping on which he is now serving a provisional sentence of 35 years in a federal prison at Danbury, Conn.

U.N. To Seat Both Germanies And Bahamas

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — The U.N. General Assembly opens its 28th annual session today with the goal of admitting East and West Germany to strip away a legacy of political division.

Diplomats said the entrance of the two Germanies and the newly independent Bahamas was expected to be accomplished during the first day's session.

The three new members would raise the number of representatives in the General Assembly to 135.

The seating of West Germany and Communist East Germany was viewed by diplomats at the United Nations as a major step toward the goal of universality in the world body.

Secretary General Kurt Waldheim, calling the anticipated admission of the two Germanies a highlight of the new session, said at a news conference Monday critics were wrong when they said the U.N. cannot effectively handle political problems.

Mitchell, Stans May Get Further Delay Of Trial

NEW YORK (UPI) — The perjury-conspiracy trial of former Cabinet officers John Mitchell and Maurice Stans was reset for Oct. 23 Monday, but U.S. District Court Judge Lee Gagliardi, who will preside, left open the possibility of further delay.

The trial was originally supposed to begin six days ago, but Mitchell, former U.S.

attorney general, and Stans, former commerce secretary, said they weren't ready and won a postponement. Both defendants are involved in the Watergate investigation, and their attorneys have also argued that Watergate publicity has made a fair trial impossible.

Mitchell and Stans were accused in a 16-count indictment May 10 of attempting to influence a Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) investigation of New Jersey financier Robert L. Vesco. The two defendants also were accused of lying to the grand jury which indicted them.

The government has said the two defendants, who resigned from their Cabinet posts last year to run President Nixon's campaign for re-election, obstructed justice by trying to stop the SEC investigation of Vesco in exchange for a secret $200,000 campaign donation.

Mitchell and Stans have indicated they would prefer trial early next year in order to allow the Watergate publicity time to subside, and there were indications the Oct. 23 trial date might not stand.

Banks Sponsor Luncheon For Businessmen

Representatives of Pampa businesses were hosted at a luncheon given in Coronado Inn this noon sponsored jointly by the Citizens Bank & Trust Co. and First National Bank.

Both banks are planning to convert to computer operations for various bank services and today's informal meeting was scheduled to discuss mechanics of the operations.

Subcommittee staffers said the securities fraud racket "runs into billions of dollars" and have operated for years because under current law there is "no requirement for banks to report the loss of securities."

AT CHAMBER LUNCHEON WTSU's New President Sells School, Panhandle

By TEX DEWEESE
There's no better place to live and to work than in the Texas Panhandle — and there is no better place to seek an education than at West Texas State University.

That was the overall message left by Dr. Lloyd Watkins, new president of WTSU, as he addressed the first fall membership luncheon of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce yesterday in Coronado Inn.

Dr. Watkins stated enrollment at WTSU this fall was up 5 per cent. He praised the work of Athletic Director Gene Mayfield, and pointed to the faculty of which he said 50 per cent had earned doctorates, compared to a national average of less than 40 per cent, and added that WTSU offers students a choice among 67 undergraduate major areas and 40 major areas at the graduate level.

After detailing the many advantages for students at West

Texas State, the new buildings being added, the expanded curriculum and plans for the implementation of programs in continuing education, Dr. Watkins moved to his impressions of the Texas Panhandle and its people.

"We are pleased to be at West Texas State University and to like this region very much," he said.

"I believe we who live in the Texas Panhandle have much for which to be grateful. Sure, we have stormy days, but on the whole we have some of the finest weather any place in the nation and we have an unpolluted environment.

"I have not met more friendly or honest people anywhere. Yet sometimes I think we are apologetic about where we live and what we have. I am certain that all of you are interested in 'selling' this region of ours, and Pampa particularly.

"I know I am interested in selling West Texas State. We have things here which are first class, things about which we can be sincerely enthusiastic.

"I know I can look anyone in the eye and say to them, 'You cannot find a better place to seek an education than at West Texas State.' And all of us can say to outsiders, 'There is no better place to live and to work than in the Texas Panhandle.'

"Together, then, we are all salespeople with honest and highly saleable products.

"Let us all continue to work together in order to realize the fantastic potential which is within our reach."

Dr. Watkins was introduced by Fort Worth attorney Donald R. Curry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Curry of Pampa, and a member of the West Texas State University Board of Regents. Curry is a graduate of Pampa High School and WTSU.

Jerald Sims, chamber president, presided at the luncheon. At the conclusion of his address, Mayor R.D. Wilkerson presented Dr. Watkins with the chamber's official Top O' Texas certificate and presented Mrs. Watkins with the city's official souvenir plate.

In response, Dr. Watkins said: "Since I have two more appearances to make in Pampa within the next 30 days, this certificate will give me the feeling that I am again welcome."

RELEASES PRISONERS

Hussein Granting General Amnesty

AMMAN, Jordan (UPI) — King Hussein has granted a general amnesty and ordered the immediate release of large numbers of prisoners, including Palestinian guerrilla leader Abou Daoud, the royal court announced today.

Daoud, a former member of the central committee of the Al Fatah guerrilla group, had been serving a life term for plotting to overthrow Hussein. Palestinian guerrillas have twice staged dramatic attacks against Saudi Arabian embassies in an effort to gain his release.

The royal court said the amnesty applied to all Jordanians. In addition to releasing those in prison, it also ordered that all pending charges be dropped. This meant standing orders for the capture of guerrilla leader Yasser Arafat and other Palestinian guerrillas will be dropped, government sources said.

The charges against Arafat and the other guerrilla leaders stemmed from the 1970 civil war in Jordan in which the army evicted the Palestinian guerrillas from their bases. This in turn led to a break in relations between Jordan and Egypt and Syria.

Today's announcement followed a meeting between Hussein and the presidents of Egypt and Syria in Cairo 10 days ago. Egypt resumed relations with Hussein's government late last week and Syria said it would follow suit. The summit conference was designed to reunify the Arab camp and revive the "eastern front" (Jordanian) against Israel.

The court announcement said the amnesty applied to all except those charged with murder or espionage.

Astros Preparing For Final Activity

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Skylab 2 astronauts began their last week on the job today, taking pictures of Earth's natural resources across the Central United States.

Allan L. Bean, Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma also gazed at the sun with the last unused frames of film in their array of solar study instruments.

"It's too bad we don't have a few weeks more and another roll of film," Garriott said Monday, pausing between chores. "Maybe we'd have a few weeks of good activity."

The sun was relatively quiet as expected, as it had been last week, and Garriott, a solar scientist, was thinking about the week before when the burning star was exploding with energy.

Bean and Lousma aimed their space cameras at Japan Monday for the first time to take data on ecology, oceanography and the weather.

But the Japanese islands "socked in" by clouds, the astronauts said, and they believed they took only a very few good pictures.

The orbiting researchers also photographed a swath of the eastern United States the Atlantic Ocean and Europe, gathering data on natural resources, but still had to operate without one of their sensing devices. The antenna on the device, which measures heat from Earth, has malfunctioned and will have to be repaired by the next space station crew, set to fly to the 118-foot long lab beginning Nov. 11.

No Confirmation From VP Aides

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House refused today to confirm or deny reports that Vice President Spiro T. Agnew was considering resigning.

The deputy White House press secretary, Gerald L. Warren, also responded with a "no comment" when asked if President Nixon had full confidence in Agnew.

The Washington Post quoted an unidentified Republican leader as saying that Agnew was considering resigning, possibly this week. A spokesman for Agnew said, "I am quite sure" he has no such plan.

Under close questioning by reporters this afternoon, Warren made it clear he was acting on Nixon's orders not to comment on the matter. He declined even to comment on a question about whether the position would encourage speculation that Agnew might be prepared to resign.

Warren said Nixon and Agnew had not met or talked with each other to his knowledge since Aug. 30 when both attended a Cabinet meeting and a White House reception for visiting Republican officials.

Warren declined, however, to say whether White House aides had been in touch with Agnew or his assistants on Agnew's status.

"My position this morning after talking with a number of people is that I am not going to comment on the entire situation," Warren said.

The Post quoted a "senior Republican figure" as saying he was "99 1/2 per cent certain he (Agnew) will resign — and probably this week."

David S. Broder, Post political writer, said Agnew "has held lengthy discussions in the past two days on the advisability of resigning voluntarily from his position." The article added: "At least one Republican party leader who conferred with Agnew came away convinced he will resign."

Agnew was notified early last month by the U.S. attorney in Baltimore, George Beall, that he is being investigated as part of a grand jury investigation of political corruption in Maryland, including allegations of kickbacks by consultants and contractors to state officials.

J. Marsh Thomson, Agnew's press secretary, told UPI the Post story was "very far off the mark." The report quoted Agnew staff members as highly skeptical the vice president would step down.

"I did consult closely with the vice president when I first heard of this," Thomson said, "and I am quite sure that this is not at all what he plans to do."

Fall-Like Weather Being Pushed Out

The cool, fall-like weather which has prevailed over the Panhandle the last several days, brought in by the weekend's Canadian cold front, is being pushed out of the area by southerly winds from the Gulf Coast.

The cold front, which pushed its way into Central Texas Monday, was halted there by the southerly breezes.

Pampa should feel the effects of the warming trend this afternoon, tonight and tomorrow. The low tonight is expected to be in the mid-50's with the high tomorrow reaching into the 80's.

Skies should continue overcast tonight changing to partly cloudy tomorrow. Winds should remain southerly at 10-20 mph tonight and there is a 20 per cent chance of rain today and tonight.

Pampa received only a trace of moisture officially in the past 24 hours.

A cold front shoved temperatures into the 40s and low 50s in North Texas Monday and thundershowers, which caused some flash flooding, spanned a few harmless tornadoes along the coast.

Partly cloudy to cloudy skies — commonly known this time of year as "football weather" — prevailed across most of the state.

Temperatures were cool over Northwest Texas as afternoon temperatures in the Panhandle reached no higher than the 50s. The high in Dalhart was only 52 and in Amarillo it reached only 53 degrees. El Paso, on the other hand, recorded a high of 97 degrees.

Heavy thundershowers covered much of the southern portion of South Central Texas causing some flash flooding. Funnel clouds were seen along the coast but no damage was reported.

Skies cleared Monday night over the northern part of South Central Texas and the southern part of North Central and Northeast Texas. Partly cloudy to cloudy skies covered the remainder of the state.

Senate Group Okays Henry

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee approved Henry A. Kissinger's nomination as secretary of state today. The vote was 16 to 1, with Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., casting the lone dissenting vote.

The action cleared the way for Senate confirmation of Kissinger later in the week.

The committee endorsed Kissinger after a week of hearings dominated by questions about his role in national security wiretapping and the concentration of power in his hands when he enters the Cabinet while retaining his role as chairman of the National Security Council.

McGovern said he voted against Kissinger as a "symbolic protest" against administration policies in Indochina.

DEMO BOB BULLOCK Comptroller Candidate Campaigns In Pampa

Bob Bullock, former Secretary of State and now a candidate for state comptroller, campaigned in Pampa today. Bullock, 44, is the first Democratic candidate to announce for state office.

Born in Hillsboro, Bullock received his bachelor's degree from Texas Tech in 1955 and earned his law degree in 1958 from Baylor Law School.

He served two terms as a member of the Texas House of Representatives and was once chief of the Anti-Trust and Consumer Protection Division of the Attorney General's office and chief legal counsel for the governor.

Bullock said today, "Texas taxpayers are losing $82,500,000 in tax dollars each year because some retailers are pocketing the state and local sales taxes they collect instead of reporting it to the comptroller.

"Frankly, I think it is ridiculous to talk of taxing food and medicine when ten per cent of the sales taxes now being paid by our citizens is not being recovered by the state.

"As comptroller, I will work to see that the taxes we now pay are not lost to some unscrupulous retailer because of faulty collection procedures by the state."

Bullock, a veteran of the Korean Conflict, resides in Austin with his wife and two children.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

George and Philip found that their warlike mood dissipated rapidly when they indulged in "empathy." Alas, in time of war, our standard psychological strategy is to dehumanize the foe and depict them as alien "monsters," "Ape Men" and "Huns."

CASE Y-520: George and Philip were our oldest sons. When they were 11 and 10 years of age, we were at our farm home in Indiana one school weekend in the autumn.

They had BB guns and decided they were going out to shoot some wild ducks. So they asked their mother to pack them a lunch, after which they trudged off to a creek, a mile away.

When they stealthily approached a wide spot in the creek, they saw a dozen ducks swimming around. But the moving targets were difficult to shoot with air rifles, so they missed.

And all the ducks flew away, except for one lone sentinel. As they rushed nearer, thinking they would be able to shoot this final duck, they saw that it was a cripple.

For one of its wings was injured till the duck couldn't fly. Immediately their warlike mood was changed into a sympathetic spirit.

They crumbled bread from their sandwiches and tossed it into the pool. The duck began to gobble up this food and swam within 10 feet of them where they stood on the shore.

"We tried to catch the duck," they later told Mrs. Crane and me, "for it looked as if its left wing was broken."

"And we thought if we could bring it home, you might be able to bandage it."

But they couldn't entice the duck to come close enough for them to reach it.

Please notice the remarkable change from their warlike mood into that of sympathy. What caused this quick alteration of attitude?

Empathy! For when the flock of ducks were regarded as an undifferentiated target for their BB guns, they looked upon them as an enemy.

But when they rushed up to that lone remaining duck and saw it was injured, that duck became individualized as a distinctive personality, with whom they could sympathize.

In fact, they soon began to feed it and put themselves into its position, which is what we mean by empathy.

No longer were they interested in shooting it, but they'd have defended it against any other hunters who might then have sought to kill it.

The reverse of this "empathy" process is graphically illustrated in time of war.

Which is why our standard psychological strategy consisted of dehumanizing the enemy.

Thus, the Japanese foe were called "Ape Men" and pictured with teeth as large as those in a horse's mouth.

The Germans were called "Huns."

All of which was part of the technique of depicting the enemy as non-human "monsters" who could then be shot with less revulsion by our American boys.

Except in the case of hopped up drug addicts and psychotics, it is difficult to incite people to engage in routine killing of their own species.

"Don't introduce me to that man," aptly stated Charles Lamb, "for I want to go on hating him, and I can't hate a man I know!"

Send for my "Compliment Club" booklet, enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents, for it shows how to change enemies into friends.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of The Worry Clinic, 5400 N. 10th St., Indianapolis 1928. Enclose a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Without walls. NEW YORK (UPI) — The concept of open interiors that has been shown successful in many regular schools is being applied to a pair of schools (built under one roof) for trainable mentally retarded children and those with severe learning handicaps.

The Walden School and the Pines Bridge School are in one of four buildings on a 240-acre campus at Yorktown Heights, N.Y. The open interiors of the schools are painted in bright colors, floors are carpeted and some areas are air-conditioned. The only interior walls are those separating the administrative area and health suite.

FAIR ENTERTAINER — Country-western artist Loretta Lynn, who has fashioned hit country songs from the plain language of her native Kentucky hills, will be performing at the Tri-State Fair in Amarillo this afternoon and tonight. Among her top hits are "You Ain't Woman Enough," "Don't Come Home A-Drinkin' (With Lovin' on Your Mind)," "I Wanna Be Free" and several duets with Conway Twitty, including the current hit, "Louisiana Woman, Mississippi Man."

Instant Millionaire Misses 'Old Life'

OWINGS MILLS, Md. (UPI) — Paul McNabb admits he misses his old life as a baker at an all night doughnut shop in Reisterstown, Md. He misses the policemen, truck drivers and other regulars who would stop by and talk.

McNabb says his family is happier in their new home, away from the identity as instant millionaires; break-ins and letters asking for money. He says if his new neighbors find out who he is he may move.

McNabb says becoming a millionaire "has been a headache." But he quickly says, "It's been worth it."

"If you're a millionaire, you just have to live with it," he says. "The money hasn't changed me and I'm remaining the same old Joe."

McNabb, who says he used to be a drifter, no longer works. Instead he stays home and plans how he will use his money. So far he hasn't spent much, buying furniture for the new apartment and a new Jeep.

Education Today

By PAMELA REEVES
PARK FOREST SOUTH, Ill. (UPI) — At the Hickory Elementary School in this Chicago suburb, children "contract" to do their school work, publicly discuss family problems with their parents and consult at will with a psychologist and seven other education specialists.

It is all part of a three-year, federally funded program designed to elicit learning, self-confidence and decision-making abilities from students. Even their anxiety-level is measured.

The school building is designed so all 100 children in each of the six grades attend classes in one large room with three teachers and two aides.

Circulating through the building are a psychologist, counselor, nurse, speech therapist, learning disability specialist, social worker and Dr. Ron Falbe, the program director, and his assistant.

Falbe Describes Program
Falbe, describing the program at a recent education conference, said on a typical day, 9-year-old Sherry may write the following: "For the next three days, from 9 a.m. until 9:30 a.m., I will work on my math tables. I will review them to myself 10 times and I will do 10 problems and check myself. At the end of three days, I will indicate I know my tables. (Signed) Sherry."

Her teacher may write: "For the next three days, I will be available to Sherry between 9 a.m. and 9:30 a.m. if she wants to review her math problems. At the end of three days she will work the problems. (Signed) Mrs. Lewis."

The purpose, says Falbe, is not only to teach the child math at her individual speed, but to help her develop a sense of responsibility.

"There's something magic about kids signing something," he says. "This is an agreement and they're expected to live up to it."

Turkey tussle
MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — A bill to make the wild turkey Alabama's state game bird did not get through the state House without a fight. First off, Rep. Don Stewart wanted to amend the bill to make the "dominick pullet" the game bird because he had one as a pet during his childhood.

Then Rep. Bob Hill tried to change the bill so that the wild turkey would be the state drink. Wild Turkey is also the brand name of a whisky.

'Old Guard' Still Dominates China

HONG KONG (UPI) — Four old men, whose average age is 82, occupy the top positions in the Chinese Communist Party and government structure.

Despite some youthful window dressing in the new leadership group installed at the recent party congress, the old guard still dominates.

This is not lost on some ambitious youthful elements. And some complaints already are being heard in the party newspaper, the People's Daily.

These plaintive voices, which probably represent the more radical wing of the party, call for more accent on collective leadership. They also could be interpreted as a warning to the old guard.

The new party constitution adopted at the party's 10th National Congress (Aug. 24-28) stipulates that leading organs at all levels should carry out the three-in-one principle created by the masses during the Great Proletarian Cultural Revolution of having the old, middle-aged and young in leadership," an article in the People's Daily said.

"One of the important current questions is to pay attention to training, promoting and using outstanding young cadres," the article added.

"Using" is the operative word here. The article paid tribute to the "old revolutionary cadres" and "veteran cadres" and said they were "the treasure of our party and state and the backbone of the leading bodies at all levels," but it also said:

"It is necessary to give young cadres more opportunities to be tempered and allow them (to) shoulder heavy responsibilities so that they can gain experience and ability."

The most startling development of the party Congress was the elevation of a young

Shanghai ex-textile worker, who came to the fore during the Red Guard era, to what appears to be the number three position in the party. The newest, and youngest, of the few new faces elevated to the top of the party hierarchy is that of Wang Hung-wen, who is in his mid-30's.

Peking's propaganda machinery appears to be engaged in an image-building program to make Wang better known among the masses and show that youth is being served.

His report on the revision of the party constitution, delivered at the Congress, still is being broadcast to the nation by Peking radio several times a day. According to monitors here, it has been repeated far more than Premier Chou En-lai's political report, which is a more important document.

Can a man tell if she's had silicone implants?

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Can a man tell if a woman has had silicone implants to enlarge her breasts? [I don't mean by looking, I mean by touching.]

I've talked to two girls who have had it done, and one says a man would have to be awfully dumb not to know, because hers feel like grapefruit. She said she's not sorry she did it because they look fine.

The other girl said nobody could tell she had anything done.

Are there any telltale marks? What do your experts have to say about this?

CONSIDERING IT

DEAR CONSIDERING: The girl with the "grapefruit" must have had her implants some time ago when harder materials were used. Softer materials are now used that feel like the real thing.

To answer your question: Whether a man could tell if a woman had had a breast implant would depend on the amount of breast tissue she had before surgery and the way she healed. The only telltale marks are the tiny scars under the breasts, which in time become practically invisible. And if a layman tried to prove that a girl had had it done, he'd have his hands full.

DEAR ABBY: This may sound like I'm bragging, and I suppose I am, but this is the way it was:

A couple of weeks ago I was walking past my husband's chair in the living room when he reached out and took my hand and said: "Honey, will you marry me?" [We were married in 1935!] I said: "Are you trying to tell me we aren't married after all these years?" He grinned and replied: "Oh, we're good and married. I'm taking an early retirement, and we're going to start all over again, just the two of us, like we did 38 years ago. If you'd like to go thru another wedding with me, I'd like it, too."

Well, I sat down and bawled. I called a local minister and explained it to him, saying I hoped he wouldn't think it was funny. He said he didn't think it was funny at all, he thought it was beautiful, and he agreed to perform the ceremony for us. [We didn't need another license or blood test.]

My sister, who lives in Bishop, Calif., was my bridesmaid when we were first married, so I called her and asked if she'd do it again. She said: "Tell me when you want me, and I'll be there if I have to take a bus." My brother will be our best man.

This may strike you as nothing special, but it sure means the world to me.

MARRYING DON AGAIN
BALDWIN PARK, CAL.

DEAR MARRYING: I think it's beautiful. Congratulations and God bless you. More couples should renew their marriage vows.

DEAR ABBY: I disagree with a recent correspondent who wrote: "Most cancer victims read the obituaries with apprehension and fear."

My vocal cords were removed by surgery 13 years ago because of throat cancer. Instead of apprehension and fear, I have confidence in the future and enjoy life today.

I am not a victim—but a victor, thanks to the progress that's made the kind of cancer I had curable in almost every instance if detected in time.

JERRY F. CROWLEY

DEAR JERRY: You are a victor indeed, and I thank you for this opportunity to remind my readers to see their doctors for periodic checkups.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

Here is another one of Bill McKenney's hands illustrating the suit preference signal.

West is allowed to hold the first diamond; he continues with the queen and then the jack after South ducks for the second time.

South has to win that third diamond and proceeds to lead and finesse the 10 of clubs.

East takes his king. His normal return is a heart which will allow South to romp home with nine tricks, but since West has played the nine of clubs East reads it as a preference signal for the higher suit. He leads a spade and down goes South.

This hand illustrates the weakness of those who get suit preference happy. The normal purpose of the nine of clubs play would be to announce an even number of cards in the suit. How could East tell that it called for a spade return at this time?

It is a matter of the diamond plays. West continued with his highest diamond at each turn to lead. That was an unmistakable suit preference signal because if he wanted the normal heart return he would have played the 10 of diamonds at trick two and continued with the jack at trick three.

Whatever became of old blue jeans? 'Antique' denim goes high fashion

By Helen Hennessy
NEA Women's Editor

New York — (NEA) — Fashion prophets would never have guessed that one day the fashion news would say, "Antique Denim is the New Fever." It started in France, at St. Tropez, where fashion is a way of life. And American tourists brought back the idea from their holidays there. The more used and ancient denim looks, the more expensive it has become.

Antique usually means something is over 100 years old, but there is a way of instant antique-ing that is bringing new profit to laundries and a scarcity of bleaches in the supermarkets. And so you see faded blue wherever the eye travels.

Little fashion boutiques tucked away on the side streets of New York have their secret recipes for antique-ing denim. Some lay the blue jeans on the ground and jump on them after putting the bleach on them, much as though they were stamping on grapes to make wine. Freelance artists are cashing in, painting faces of old-time movie stars and immediately raising the cost of the new work of art. College students on vacation are having fundraising parties at which you paint-your-denims and auction them off.

"The new fashion of buying 'used' jeans was started because it's easier than breaking them in yourself," explains Diane Lyon of the University of Kansas. "When they're brand new you look as though you haven't been with it long enough to have a pair of antique faded and patched jeans."

The co-owner of Serendipity, (a special kind of store in New York), Stephen Bruce, says he has aged several pairs of shoes and lost four pounds in pounding the indigo blue cotton denim into varied designs for his posh trade that includes names like Jacqueline Onassis, Candace Bergen, Joey Heatherton and Gloria Vanderbilt Cooper.

Considering the huge number of ragged-edged, cut-off dungarees around now, the antique fashion will start the denim cycle all over again.

Mrs. Catherine Walls of Amarillo and her mother, Jewel Burgess, visited in the O.L. Lester home Wednesday.

Stamp of Approval

Rare stamps traditionally have lured investors. During World War II many European families converted their assets into stamps, a convenient investment medium virtually free of national or international restrictions. Some families fled to the United States with their stamps, then established themselves financially by selling their collections.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 19
Your birthday today: This is the year in which you learn to mind your own business, literally as well as figuratively. Ever so many projects are available to get into; ever so few are within your personal range of talents. Don't expect friends to work things out for you. Relationships other than dependency, however, evolve quite satisfactorily. Today's natives have an abiding interest in literary works, may be writers as well.
Aries [March 21-April 19]: Being gracious as you work against today's currents is difficult but very rewarding, both in self-esteem and later material gains. Evening hours take a quite different turn.
Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Being touchy or hasty today isn't what you should do, tempting as it is to get a few things said. In family situations, you are not likely to get your own way.
Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Be receptive to new ideas and methods. Your home may need some rearranging. In family life, almost anything can come to pass now. Conducting "poet mortems" is useless.
Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Improved schedules work better than long-set plans. But you still need to check to see that essentials are available. There's much comment you needn't answer.
Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Whatever you have been overdoing now comes to some reaction-crisis. Being open-handed doesn't necessarily appease everybody. See what they really want, and what you get in return.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Be gentle as you decline an unfeasible suggestion—the relationship is more than a transaction. You are on your own if you involve yourself in any conflict of opinions.
Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Coincidence, so-called, pops out of nowhere. You'll be proud of having the resilience to sustain the stress of a day in which it seems anything you do is wrong.
Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: If there is an old hindrance you need to shed, this is the time to do it. Some of the clashing circumstances of the day are results of deeds of long ago, since forgotten.
Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Those who generally compete against you seem friendly, while your own close associates upset your schemes. What you do yourself is at least known to be done right.
Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Rely on confirmed assets for this complex but not difficult day. Relationships are the critical factor. Friends are inclined to tell wild stories—believe nothing.
Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Exert extra energy to get routines rolling and on the proper track. Where others become impatient, see that your response is not of the same sort. Concentration is essential.
Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Home conditions tend to take your attention, to the exclusion of important business details. Make sure you are not making others' decisions—the price is too high if you do.

MONTE MARKHAM: Already in demand.

RAYMOND BURR: He would be shocked.

Lightning strike Perry Mason twice?

By Dick Kleiner

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — The spectre of the old Perry Mason hovers over the set on the 20th Century-Fox lot where the New Perry Mason is being filmed.

Raymond Burr has moved on to other things. And now CBS has resurrected the Mason character, cast Monte Markham in the role and has its corporate fingers crossed. Maybe lightning can strike twice.

They were shooting a courtroom scene. All the old characters were there — Mason, Hamilton Burger, Della Street, Sgt. Tragg — with a whole new set of actors playing them.

And yet, always, there seemed to be an unspoken comparison being made between the old show and the new, between the old characters and the new. Perhaps one of the reasons is that, accidentally or not, the crew numbers many men who worked on the old show.

Director Art Marks did many of the old ones. So did the cameraman, the make-up man, the wardrobe girl, some others.

"This is an exciting experience for me," Marks said. "But it's a new show. New sets and new actors. The only thing the same are the names of the characters. This is 1973, the other was in the '50s and '60s."

This will deal with '73 situations. There is one show about ecology, for example, a word the old Perry Mason probably never heard of. This will make no bones about unmarried people living together. The old Perry Mason would have been shocked.

Monte Markham, unlike Raymond Burr, doesn't use cue cards to help him through his long courtroom speeches. He says he can't operate that way, that he can only act when he memorizes his lines completely. He admits this makes it tough on him.

Markham is one of those actors who has had several shots at TV series. For whatever reason, they've all failed. Yet he is always so good that everybody believes one day he will get together with the right property and be a smash. Maybe this is the time.

Many people think so. The odds are heavily in favor of the show making it. Already, long before the success-or-failure decision is in, he's in demand for other things. Even Playgirl Magazine paged him to do a nude centerfold.

"I said I would," Markham says, "if they let me wear a floor-length breech cloth."

Like most of the new shows this season, The New Perry Mason was delayed by the writers' strike. To catch up, they'll have to shoot straight through, without a break.

"I'm not looking forward to going until March without a break," Markham said. "It's tough, not only because of having to learn all those lines, but because of the mechanics. It means no social life for the Markhams for a long time."

1040 U.S. Individual Income Tax Return for the year ending January 1-December 31, 1974, or other taxable year. Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q. My son is paying his own college tuition this year. Will this have any effect on whether or not I can claim him as a dependent?

A. Yes. Tuition payments are counted in determining total support. If you and your son furnish his total support for the year, and your son spent more on support items, such as food, clothing, shelter, education, etc., than you spent for his support, you will not be able to claim him as a dependent.

Q. In return for organizing a group of tourists for a European trip, a travel agency is giving me a free tour with the group. First, is the trip taxable? Secondly, if the trip is taxable, can I deduct the expenses I incur as the leader of the tourist group?

A. The free tour is taxable. Thus, it must be included in your income at the tour's fair market value. Secondly, your expenses are not deductible, even if you are serving as the leader of the tourist group without pay and at the group's request.

Q. I just found out that the fee I paid an employment agency last year to get a job is deductible. Is it too late for me to amend my 1972 return so that I can claim this deduction?

A. No. Just prepare an amended income tax return, Form 1040X, which can be obtained at any IRS office. On this form, you simply recompute the portion that has changed from your original return, and send it, along with any necessary related information to the address shown in your Form 1040X instructions.

Q. Is it possible for me to reduce the amount of tax withheld from my pay?

A. Yes. This is done by filing a new W-4 form with your employer, claiming all the exemptions to which you are entitled. In addition, you may also qualify to claim the special withholding allowance. For details, see your employer or call your local IRS office.

Social Security Q And A

(Have you a question about social security? Address it to Howard L. Weatherly, Branch Manager, Social Security Administration, 1541 North Hobart, Pampa, Texas 79065. You will receive an answer in this column or by mail.)

Q. My daughter, age 23, has been receiving benefits on her deceased father's record for three years because she has been disabled since age 15. Is there any possibility of her being eligible for Medicare?

A. Yes, beginning July, 1973 she is eligible. The cost will be $6.30 a month and this will be deducted from her social security check.

Q. My husband is receiving social security disability benefits because of injuries received in an automobile accident. Our son was disabled in the same accident, but was told that he could not receive benefits on his father's account because he was over age 18 at the time he became disabled. Has this changed?

A. Yes. The 1972 amendments make it possible for a disabled child to receive benefits on the parent's record if the child was disabled prior to age 22.

Q. I have been receiving social security disability benefits for several years and I understand that I will be covered by Medicare beginning in July, 1973. My son, age 24, has been disabled since birth and is receiving benefits on my record. Will he be entitled to Medicare, also?

A. Yes. The Medicare coverage for the disabled includes "Disabled Adult Children."

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two events of recent days merit a good reflective look, followed by a widening of the eyes to signify a sudden awakening.

One event to ponder is the move by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to ascertain the precise role that Henry Kissinger played in the wiretapping of some of his former White House associates.

The other is the report that President Nixon once ordered or approved electronic surveillance of his brother, Donald.

If we scrutinize these matters in conjunction with certain other happenings, we can see a pattern emerging. And if we trace this pattern in lemon juice on a sheet of notepaper and hold it over an open flame, an entire new theory about the Watergate case becomes visible.

The premise that pops up before us is this:

The attempt by agents of President Nixon's campaign organization to bug the Democratic National Committee was a mistake.

Wrong Place Bugged
What they actually had in mind was bugging the Republican National Committee.

At first glance, that deduction might seem a bit far-fetched. But when the evidence is laid out in logical sequence, such a conclusion becomes almost inescapable. Here are the salient points:

Point one—why would Nixon's campaign workers have wanted to bug the Democrats in the first place?

Could they reasonably have expected to learn anything that might have been helpful to the Nixon campaign?

The answer, of course, is no. Nixon was already so far out in front he didn't need any help.

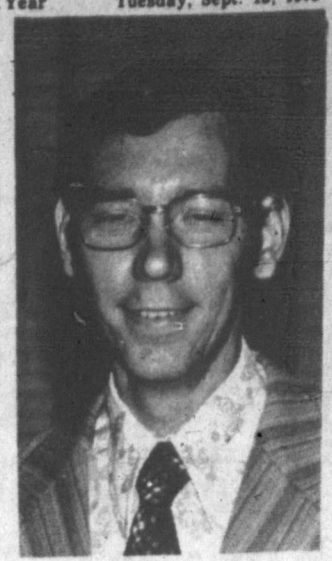

Point two — although the Democrats presented no threat to Nixon's re-election, there was a good bit of rivalry and jealousy between the Committee to Re-elect the President (CRP) and the Republican National Committee (RNC).

The two committees were frequently at odds over funds, antics and other aspects of the campaign. In the circumstances, it would have been only natural for CRP to want to keep tabs on what was going on at RNC.

Point three—the two wiretapping incidents mentioned earlier, plus other disclosures stemming from the Watergate inquiry, make it plain that eavesdropping on each other was a rather common practice among certain elements of the Nixon administration.

Viewed against the bugging of Kissinger's staff and the President's brother, the bugging of GOP headquarters by the Republican campaign committee doesn't seem so incongruous after all.

One can only speculate as to how the buggers from CRP wound up at Democratic headquarters instead. Somewhere along the line they apparently got their wires crossed.

NEW ANTHONY MANAGER — John Billings, who started with the C. R. Anthony Company while he was still in school, has been appointed manager of the downtown Pampa store. He was transferred here from Colorado City where he had been manager since 1967. Billings and his wife, Jan, daughter Kristie, and son Allan attend the First Baptist Church.

Classical records

By WILBUR G. LANDREY
NEW YORK (UPI) — This is the centenary of the birth of Sergei Rachmaninoff and also that of Max Reger.

Records of Rachmaninoff's music have been reminding us of his anniversary all year. Now I've heard the first to mark that of Regér — two sonatas for violin and piano and cello and piano recorded at Rudolph Serkin's Marlboro Festival (Columbia M 32221).

Regér was a major figure of early 20th century German music. While Rachmaninoff wrote relatively few works before he died at the age of 70, Regér wrote very many before his death at the age of 43 in 1916.

A handful are listed on records in this country. He thought of himself as a radical innovator but is now heard to be in the mainstream. Does he have the "individual and compelling voice," the record jacket asks, that we expect of the composers whose music survives?

It would be impertinent and unfair to answer that question on the basis of these two recorded sonatas — in C minor for violin and piano and in A minor for cello and violin.

The U.S. Government printing plant in Washington is the world's largest.

TV In Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — From a nonpartisan view, the use of a national telethon to raise funds for a political party seems an open, fair and simple procedure.

This was the impression after the Democrats had their first coast-to-coast fundraising telethon last year. And it remains the impression after their second such affair this past weekend on NBC-TV.

Last year's telethon brought the Democrats about $4 million, and the past weekend's NBC-TV outing brought in well over $5 million.

And one wonders if the Republicans will follow suit with national telethons of their own, for such money is not to be sneezed at, and the GOP would surely also be able to raise large amounts from viewers for its party needs.

From a production viewpoint, the weekend telethon was reasonably successful, considering that such video fundraising functions are live, often impromptu and generally unwieldy.

Just how dignified the combination of politics and show business was probably depends mainly on whether you are a Republican or Democrat. Of course the Democratic telethon had many strongly partisan moments, with the inevitable thrusts at the political opposition. And of course any political party buying television time is almost predetermined to be that way.

The Democrats originally had planned their NBC-TV telethon, which began at 6 p.m. CDT Saturday, to cover a period of seven hours. But as they approached the $5 million mark they extended their broadcast time for another hour so they could achieve the figure while on the air, and they did.

Last year's Democratic telethon ran a lot longer and ended right before the opening session of the party's national convention, serving as a sort of video lead-in and pep rally.

This past weekend's telethon, cut down sharply from the previous length and concentrated in and around prime viewing time, may well influence the shape and specific scheduling of hours of future, similar television fundraising events by political parties and, perhaps, others.

Politics and show business also combined earlier last weekend on NBC-TV in a less significant but highly enjoyable way when Gov. Ronald Reagan was ribbed by entertainers in a "roast" session on the season premiere of the revised Dean Martin series.

The longrunning series, formerly seen on Thursday, now airs on Fridays and concentrates more heavily on comedy. It has, in fact, been retitled "The Dean Martin Comedy Hour," and one of its regular segments will be a "roast" session in which well-known figures are needed by entertainers and other celebrities. But it is unlikely that any of the roasts will yield more uproarious material than the Reagan segment, in which the governor was a gracious participant and responded at the end with some pretty funny retaliatory remarks of his own.

Books

Journey Through A Lighted Room, by Margaret Parton. (Viking, $7.95).

This is the beautifully written autobiography of one of the bellwether foreign and domestic correspondents of the old New York Herald Tribune.

It is the story of a life burdened with tragic losses but blessed with happiness and the excitement of a career of reporting and writing of the kind that made her one of the fine journalistic craftsmen of her time.

Her memoir moves through depressions, wars, riots, famine, murder, love affairs, the deaths of those close to her, the triumphs of a career that moved from the Herald Tribune, to the Ladies' Home Journal, to freelance writing.

Above all, Margaret Parton is a writer — one of those rarities, a workaday reporter whose product always carried a literary style of remarkable quality. This is the story of a bitter life that she has refused to concede was anything but sweet.

H.D. Quigg (UPI)

The British Raj, by Denis Judd. (Putnam, $5.95) One of Putnam's documentary history series, this time detailing Great Britain's conquest and subjugation of India. As with others in the series, it is a lucid, engrossing story of an intriguing aspect of world history. Quotes from original documents and letters greatly enhance the flavor of this report. Marvellous illustrations.

It Was Fun While It Lasted by Arthur H. Lewis (Trident, $8.95) The author, tape recorder at the ready, talked to dozens of film luminaries in assembling this report on old-time Hollywood. Somehow he missed the "fun" in the title, but the book boasts some fine anecdotes and a bit of valid insight into what made the films of the 1930s and 1940s so entertaining.

Call in the Night, by Susan Howatch. (Stein and Day, $6.95) Susan Howatch, who wrote a best seller with Penmarie, has come up with another sure-to-be popular novel of suspense and romance in Call in the Night. The novel deals with the search by Clair Sullivan for her sister, who disappeared mysteriously.

Environmentalists Need Practicality

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The noise you don't hear is the energy crisis colliding with the environmentalist movement.

The White House energy chief, John Love, drops a hint that he thinks the fledgling environmentalist movement "might reverse itself" unless environmentalists take a practical approach to the energy crisis.

Environmentalists cannot expect support if a hard-headed approach to the energy crisis produces a scarcity of home heating oil or a gas shortage begins to leave motorists stranded on highways, Love says.

The corporate interests take a much tougher stand and have begun to whipsaw environmentalist converts with questions like: "If you can't keep your house as warm as you wish this winter because of a fuel shortage, shouldn't you support the drive to tap the Alaskan oil fields?"

Or the corporations ask: "If the United States needs more fuel, shouldn't clean air restrictions be revised even if it means allowing the burning of cheap, air-polluting coal?"

For the nation's 100 million car owners, the argument is simplified even more — If you want to drive, you must have gasoline, and to produce gasoline industry needs oil.

If the environmentalists accept arguments like these, they find it hard, if not impossible, to attack proposals such as the recent one by the Interior Department to open three western states—Colorado, Utah, and Wyoming—for oil shale mining.

By the department's own admission, extracting the oil shale will create major environmental problems, including despoiling the land and polluting the water in the mining regions.

What is the environmentalist to do? Many of them see the energy crisis as a contrived situation directed by the oil industry.

There is a gas and oil shortage because the industry wants a shortage, this argument goes. Industry deliberately encouraged demand to soar over production in order to bring pressure on the government to win higher prices and the right to exploit the Alaska oil supply, those adhering to this line say.

Other observers say the environmentalists have not been able to prove their arguments.

The energy crisis could become a very real problem in the lives of ordinary citizens who now give impetus to the environmentalist movement.

How the environmentalists handle their confrontation with the energy crisis may determine whether or not the movement can become a permanent force in influencing the course of American events.

The Almanac

By United Press International
 Today is Tuesday Sept. 18, the 261st day of 1973 with 104 to follow.

The moon is approaching its last quarter.

The morning stars are Mars and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Virgo.

British poet Samuel Johnson, writer of the first English dictionary, was born Sept. 18, 1709.

On this day in history:

In 1850, the Fugitive Slave Act was passed by Congress, allowing a slave owner with a certificate to reclaim any slave who escaped into another state.

In 1851, the New York Times was published for the first time.

In 1928, it was estimated that 4,000 persons had been killed and $30 million damage caused by a devastating hurricane which had lashed Florida and the West Indies for five days.

In 1961, U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld was killed when his plane crashed in northern Rhodesia.

A thought for the day: American poet Walt Whitman said, "Once fully enslaved, no nation, state, city of this earth ever afterward resumes its liberty."

Other observers say the environmentalists have not been able to prove their arguments.

The energy crisis could become a very real problem in the lives of ordinary citizens who now give impetus to the environmentalist movement.

NEW PATIENT-AIDS—B and B Pharmacy now offers a full line of Futuro Patient-Aids for sale and rental. Designed for the needs of the home convalescent, the handicapped and the elderly, the quality items are on stock to meet the needs of the customers at B and B Pharmacy. The firm still offers its other goods and services for which it has been known for years.

B And B Pharmacy Offering Full Line Of Patient Aids

Always ready to serve their customers, B and B Pharmacy has now provided sales and a rental service for Futuro Patient-Aids.

These quality products meet the needs of the home convalescent, the handicapped and the elderly. Fully researched and tested, Patient-Aids carry the Futuro name, quality and reliability.

Those who know the Futuro name know it stands for excellence in design, engineering and manufacturing.

Among the items B and B offer for patients and convalescents are canes, crutches, walkers, adjustable commodes, bedpans, urinal, Everest and Jennings wheel chair, internal pressure breathing machine, alternating pressure device. Other items include therabath (paraffin treatment for arthritis), portable suction devices, stethoscope, and many other items often essential for those needing special care.

In addition to this new section of goods, B and B Pharmacy continues to provide all the other goods and service for which it has been known through the years.

B and B also offers many gift items for the shopper.

The firm has received a new shipment of costume jewelry for shoppers.

And if something else is desired, B and B has a fine selection of candies, including Russell Stover chocolate candies and Pangburn's hard candies.

Featuring a fine selection of other small gift items, B and B offers various women's fragrances, including Nina Ricci, Crepe De Shine and Vitabath. And for those wanting good cosmetics, the store has Frances Denney, Dorothy Gray, Bonnie Belle, and now for a limited time, B and B will offer Revlon's Eterna 27 Cream.

Other items include glassware, billfolds, and goods for men's shaving needs.

In men's fragrances B and B carries English Leather in the regular or lemon - lime scent, Pierre Cardin, Old Spice and Brut 33 by Fabergé.

In case of illness, B and B features well-trained pharmacists to fill prescriptions.

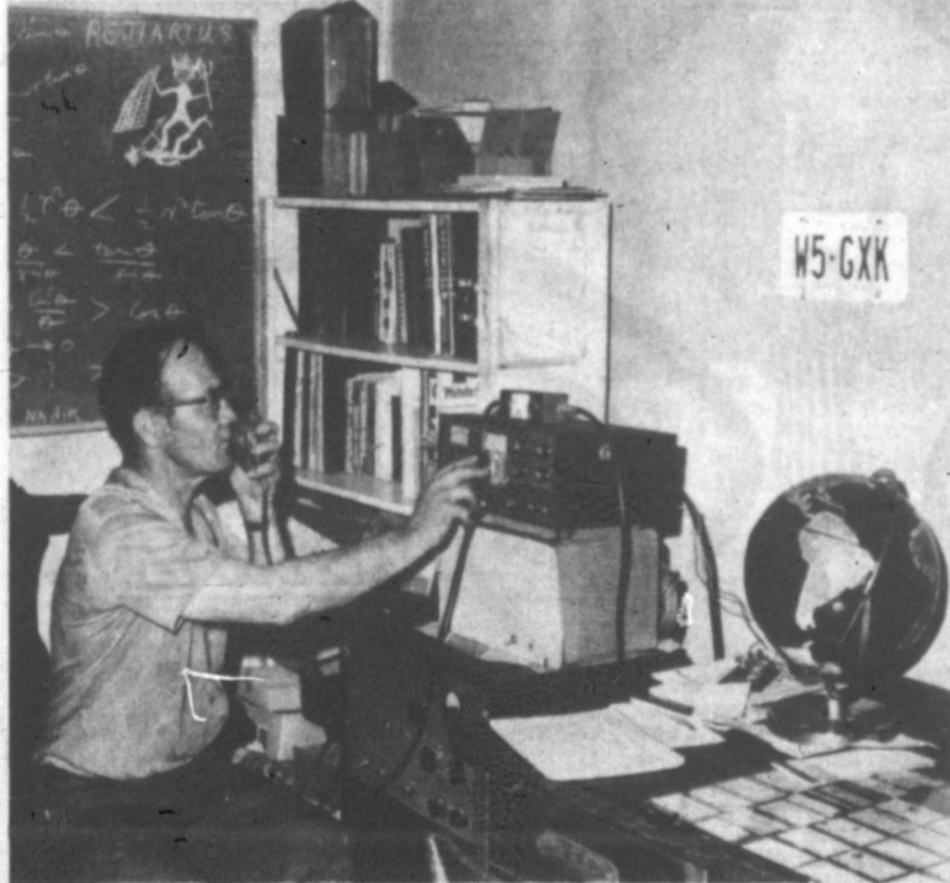

The highly competent pharmacists at B and B have been filling the prescription needs for area residents to the best of their ability and to their customer's satisfaction since 1953.

B and B has filled well over half a million prescriptions from their stock of 10,000 medicines since the store opened for business.

Two pharmacists are on hand at all times at B and B and are on call Sunday.

The firm carries the "over-the-counter" medicines and are equipped to meet all drug and first aid needs, including Dr. Scholl's remedies.

The business is directed by F.L. Stone and Lucille Foster with employees ready to serve the customer.

Investment Happenings In The News

NEW YORK (UPI) — The sensational advance in speculative commodities has ended, the A. W. Zelomek Associates, Inc., interpretive letter said.

Zelomek said a firmer dollar, less tension in international monetary markets and re-examination of U.S. export policies have contributed to the slowdown. Even with continuing inflationary pressure, the letter said, commodities are unlikely to exceed their recent record highs.

CHICAGO (UPI) — Inflation is likely to continue at a rate of 4 to 4.5 per cent annually for the next three years and should keep interest rates at a long-term average of about 8 per cent, Halsey, Stuart and Company, Inc., said in a commentary on money markets. The commentary said the "pure rate" of interest traditionally is 3 to 3.5 per cent, and the high range of this rate coupled with the anticipated high range of inflation provides the 8 per cent interest figure.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Argus Research Corp. said in its monthly staff report the next major move in short-term interest rates should be down.

Such a move coupled with an anticipated slowdown in inflation should contribute to a good profit outlook on the market beyond early 1973 and the possibility of "the commencement of a major bull market before the end of this year," the report said.

NEW YORK (UPI) — An investment study by Abraham and Co. Inc., said an "old fashioned new bull market in breadth—that is, on the bottom tier" might be in the making.

The suggestion was based on several factors, including what it said were the probability of

Fast Service Rules At King And Sons

Being a factory representative and having various repair parts in stock and ready for immediate use is a contribution factor when a unit is down or a crew is standing by as costs surmount for the urgent need of a repair part.

That's why John T. King and Sons are noted for rapid service and readily available stock of parts for Fisher governors, regulators, gas regulators, Worthington pumps, Gould pumps, A.O. Smith meters, Rockwell meters, Neptuno meters, Cemco controls, Kenco controls, McCord and Manzel lubricators, Frank W. Murphy mags, oilwell and irrigation controls and many other manufactured new units and repairs.

John T. King and Sons now have in stock the famous figure 186 Marshalltown pressure gauges that are oil sealed for long lasting service under heavy vibration and pulsation usage or conditions.

Vacuum gauges, vacuum relief valves and one-ounce pressure gauges are common items carried on the shelves of John T. King and Sons, along with magnetos for almost all types of industrial gas engines.

It would be a very dull day if it was all work and no play. At John T. King and Sons an amateur radio station is in operation at almost all times for visitors and customers and especially fellow fraternity brothers who get to talk to all parts of the world.

Many of the stations that are worked from time to time or when conditions permit are located in Austria, Ireland, Germany, France, Spain, Japan, Australia, New Zealand, England and many Latin American amateurs.

The number-one radio operator is W5CRG, Robert A. Wood, who has logged over a hundred foreign nations over amateur radio station W5-GXK.

John T. King says, "If you're down in our neck of the woods at 918 S. Barnes, drop in and talk oilfield, beef feeding, irrigation or ham talk with fellows at John T. King and Sons."

Fugate Printing Company Offers Quality, Quickness

Fugate Printing Company, 201 N. Ward, a Pampa business since 1951, continues to specialize in the finest in business forms and stationery.

Bob Fugate, owner, has been known in Pampa for his top quality printing and lithographing since the firm opened.

Regardless of the size or complexity of the printing need, whether it be business cards or an eight-part one-time carbon form, it will be produced accurately and quickly at Fugate's.

Among the hundreds of items regularly produced in the Fugate plant are snap-apart forms (either one-time or carbon or NCR paper statements), invoices, letterheads, envelopes, business cards, brochures, booklets, window cards, tickets, labels and many specialty items such as calendars, schedule cards, die cut specialties and binding and folding.

Fugate handles genuine steel die engraved wedding invitations and announcements, in addition to the more economical line of simulated engraved invitations.

The firm also offers a complete line of office supplies, featuring these top quality brands: Boorum & Pease columnar sheets and pads, post binders, loose leaf ring books and sheets, Smead files and expanding wallets and Carter adhesives and marking devices.

Others are Bic and Micropoint Papermate ballpoint pens, Flair and Carter markers, Swingline and Bostich staples and staplers, Stecco brief cases, Scotch brand tape, Barkley file folders, Pendaflex hanging file folders and frames, Frankel typewriter, adding machine and calculator ribbons, typewriter and pencil carbons, duplicator carbon master sets and Tempo brand mimeograph stencils.

Fugate stocks mimeo stencils and ink for Ge. etner, Geha and Rex Rotary machines and has a good supply of memo and duplicator paper in both letter and legal sizes.

These are only a few of the many items in stock at Fugate Printing Company.

They also have a large selection of envelopes—Krafts in all sizes, clasp envelopes, coin envelopes and regular business and commercial sizes.

The next time you need supplies for the office, call or come by Fugate's and the chances are, you will find just what you need, all the way from paper clips, rubber bands, pencils, carbon paper, adding machine paper, roll labels, tags, scratch pads and legal pads to storage cabinets, chair mats and file boxes.

The firm also has a complete line of office furniture desks, file cabinets, chairs, etc., available now on special order with three-day delivery.

See Fugate Printing Company for the best in printing and office supplies. Free, prompt delivery can be obtained by calling 665-3431. Or come by and see for yourself at 210 N. Ward.

Business Today

NEW YORK (UPI) — Only a few years ago most business firms considered $2,500 too much to pay for a typing typewriter to eliminate tedious retyping. Now even small firms will pay $20,000 or more for cathode ray keyboard units to avoid retyping.

A legal firm with only three lawyers and one secretary can make an investment pay, Dr. Stephen L. Kurtin, president of Lexitron Corp. of Chatsworth, Calif., said. Lexitron makes an office cathode ray keyboard unit called the Videotype, which employs cassettes for storage instead of a central computer and consequently does not have a lot of extra computer coding keys.

This machine sells for $17,500 but Kurtin says it pays, even for a small firm, if a substantial volume of manuscript and retyping work is involved. It competes with the purely mechanical typing typewriter because in over-all operation, it is nearly four times as fast and can display up to 7,000 characters of text on its cathode tube for editing and correcting.

The big time saving comes from the ability of the machine to smooth-type the corrected matter automatically and allow the operator to move ahead to typing and then editing of new matter.

Mechanical Units Useful

With the purely mechanical typing typewriter, the secretary or typist normally must sit idle and wait for the machine to smooth-type the corrected copy. Also with the mechanical typing unit, it often is easier to retype a whole page than to insert corrections and this is time consuming.

Kurtin said the sales of automatic word processing machines for business hit $250 million last year and could rise to $5 billion a year by 1980.

The military, the airlines, the railroads, the stock brokerage business, the news wire services, banks and many other industries use larger automatic word and data processing systems.

King Says Show Biz Over When Play Starts Thursday

HOUSTON (UPI)—Billie Jean King, confident she is in peak mental and physical condition for her $100,000 winner-take-all tennis match with Bobby Riggs, accepts his flamboyant self-promotions but wants no part of them on the court Thursday night.

"Up to the point of the match I am for how much show biz there is," the five-time Wimbledon champion said Monday night. "Once we start this match I feel it is for real. Very much for real. Bobby feels the same way."

Riggs, admitting he has staged "the greatest hustle of my career," maintains Billie Jean will crack under the pressure of high stakes and the belief she must win for the women's lib movement. She says Roberta is cracked.

"The fans don't care how much show biz they have during a match so long as the match itself is for real," she said. "For me it's real. I'm not messing around. I want to hit great shots and show people that women can play great tennis."

She also warned the loquacious Riggs to stay quiet during best three of five sets match

OVER CARDS

Dropped Popup Gives Expos 5-4 Win

By United Press International

There were almost more guys chasing a pop fly on the pitching mound in Montreal Monday night than were in the stadium in Atlanta watching Hank Aaron hit his 711th homer.

Five St. Louis players converged on a popup to the mound with two out in the ninth inning, but they let it drop for a run-scoring single that gave the Montreal Expos a crucial 5-4 victory over the Cardinals in the hectic Eastern Division pennant race.

Blowing that game cost the Cards a shot at a doubleheader sweep since they salvaged the second game, 5-3, in 12 innings. That left them 2½ games behind Pittsburgh while Montreal is a game behind.

In Atlanta, only 1,362 fans—the smallest crowd ever to see a Braves game in Atlanta—were on hand when Aaron hit his 38th homer of the season and 711th of his career to pace the Braves to a 7-0 victory over San Diego.

The crowd was held down by rain before the game but if it keeps up, there may be more baseball officials, newsmen and TV technicians on hands than fans if Aaron hits 714 in Atlanta this year.

St. Louis Leads

St. Louis went into the ninth inning with a 4-3 lead over Montreal in the opener but the Expos tied it on Jim Lytle's single, a wild pitch and Ted Simmons' wide throw on Felipe Alou's grounder. Alou took second on the play but the game seemed headed for extra innings when Ron Woods popped to the mound.

Pitcher Al Hrabosky, first baseman Joe Torre, shortstop

Mick Kelleher, third baseman Terry Hughes and Simmons all converged on the ball but it fell in as Alou scored.

In the second game after an hour and 12 minute rain delay, only about 200 of the 20,168 fans were left when Bernie Carbo singled with two out in the 12th to break a 3-3 tie and lead the Cards to the triumph. There were two on and one out when the game was delayed.

Aaron has 10 games left in his race to catch Babe Ruth's record of 714 this year. He said he wants to play in as many as he can but he doesn't want to play when he is tired because he's afraid he'll hurt the team.

"The important thing is not whether I get a homer but whether I can help the team. You may not believe this, considering that we are out of the race, but no matter where we stand, that's the way I feel."

Aaron, who's always a good bet to tag San Diego pitchers, connected against Gary Ross in the eighth inning. Dave Johnson also hit his 42nd homer to tie Rogers Hornsby's record for second basemen.

Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn was at the game and said Aaron would become the first player to throw out the first ball at the World Series.

Other Games

In the other games, Pittsburgh routed New York, 10-3. Houston beat Cincinnati, 5-2, and Los Angeles routed San Francisco, 7-2.

In the American League, Baltimore edged New York, 5-4, in 10 innings. Texas routed Chicago, 10-3. Oakland nipped California, 3-2, in 13 innings, and Minnesota beat Kansas City, 8-3.

Willie Stargell, the guy who carries Pittsburgh, drove in four runs with his 40th homer and three extra base hits to pace the Pirates to the victory over New York. Tom Seaver, 17-10, was belted for five runs in three innings. Stargell broke the National League record by collecting four extra hits for the fourth time in one game. Richie Hebner, Richie Zisk and Mill May also homied for the Pirates.

Cesar Cedeno and Bob Watson homered to pace Houston over Cincinnati. Dave Roberts picked up his 15th victory with a seven-hitter while Jack Billingham, 18-9, took the loss.

Willie Davis' homer started a four-run rally in the fifth inning that carried the Dodgers to the victory over the Giants. Don Sutton pitched an eight-hitter to get the win.

Green Bay Belts Joe & Company

MILWAUKEE (UPI)—The New York Jets narrowly averted their first shutout in two years Monday night but a determined Green Bay Packer defense prevented Joe Namath from enjoying that small consolation.

The Packers, rolling to a 23-7 victory in the season opener, dogged Namath for almost the entire game before Broadway Joe finally yielded to reserve Al Woodall, who took the Jets over the goal line on a 17-yard pass to rookie David Knight with 33 seconds left in the game.

"Man, after that first drive, those cats really came on," Namath said of the Packer defenders who soaked him three times for 35-yards and intercepted one of his 32 passes.

Namath finished with 16 completions for 203 yards but time after time was unable to sustain a drive long enough to score. Woodall's TD pass saved Namath from his first shutout in 75 pro games.

Got to 34 in First Drive

Namath got the Jets to the Packer 34 on his first drive, but Bobby Howfield's 41-yard field goal attempt was wide and that was the last time the Jets threatened until late in the game when Namath directed a 70-yard drive to the Packer five-yard line.

But the threat ended in Namath's most frustrating series of the night. Three times he threw to his favorite target of the evening, Jerome Barkum, and three times cornerback Ken Ellis batted the ball away to keep the Jets scoreless.

"I thought Ellis wouldn't expect it three times in a row," a frustrated Namath said after the game.

The Packers apparently expected just about anything from Namath and that anticipation, plus crucial mistakes by the Jets, proved to be a winning combination for Green Bay.

"We know they can score from anywhere," said safety Jim Hill. "We just tried to do things to eliminate that possibility." Hill recovered two fumbles that led to Packer scores.

Marcel Kicks

Chester Marcel kicked field goals of nine, 37 and 10 yards, the latter coming in the third quarter after a New York fumble. Another Jet fumble late in the first half led to the Packers' first touchdown on a 19-yard pass from Scott Hunter to Rich McGeorge.

The final Packer score, a one-yard run by John Brockington, who finished as the game's leading rusher with 73 yards, followed Ellis' interception of a Namath pass that bounced off Barkum.

Packer Coach Dan Devine explained how Ellis was awarded the game ball.

"When we were walking off the field," Devine said, "Gilly (guard Gale Gillingham) said, 'Is Ken Ellis ok?' I wasn't going to argue with him. Ellis got a big hand from the team so it was by popular decision."

Devine was asked how he felt about losing the shutout in the last minute.

"I would have even liked a one-point win," he said.

NFL Preview: Super Bowl Prediction

By Murray Olderman

PROSPECTUS—

In this, the 54th season of the National Football League, the sport looms larger than Kung Fu. Attendance, which reached 10 million for regular season and 15 million overall, will increase. Expansion into four more markets is in the air, by '75. There are, to be sure, a few cracks showing in the structure. The TV blackout of home games may be legislated out of existence. Player dissatisfaction is sure to flare by the time the collective bargaining agreement runs out next January. Meanwhile, however, the game continues esthetically pleasing. With clock stopping on exchange of the ball, there'll be more plays run. Zone defenses are now the vogue, countered by multiple offensive formations, and there'll be a swing back to passing this season, using five possible receivers. The pendulum of power has swung slightly to the American Football Conference, with record-breaking, unbeaten Miami in the van.

NATIONAL FOOTBALL CONFERENCE

EAST—Despite some menacing growls from the New York Giants, this continues to be a two-way battle between the Washington Redskins and Dallas Cowboys. The Redskins are favored, but the Cowboys, though lacking depth, have the more scintillating individual talent—even Duane Thomas on the other side. Both teams should make the playoffs on their season records.

CENTRAL—Another two-way dogfight, with resurging Minnesota a strong bet to unseat the power Dan Devine is building in Green Bay. What the Packers lack most is a field general. The Vikings were the strongest team I saw in pre-season and have a rookie-of-the-year candidate in running back Chuck Foreman. Detroit and Chicago have enough to make this the black-and-blue division again.

WEST—Sluttering exhibition showings of the Los Angeles Rams have made me evaluate this sector again and go back to San Francisco as the logical choice. Overall, the 49ers have strongest team. Atlanta, because it's physical, has an outside shot, though lacking a passer. Norm Van Brocklin's on the spot to produce for the Falcons. Sensational season by Rams' Hadl could change it around.

CONFERENCE—The Vikings are the choice here to reach the Super Bowl.

AMERICAN FOOTBALL CONFERENCE

EAST—About the only sure thing you can predict is that the Miami Dolphins won't win 17 straight again. There's an emotional pull for the New York Jets to upset them in Webb Ewbank's last active coaching season. But it ain't gonna be. Dolphins also benefit from being in five-team division with some of the weakest foes in the NFL. The Shula express rolls on to another big winner.

CENTRAL—Dogfight of the league. Little to coming among Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and Cleveland. The Steelers, coming off a strong season and with a tough defense, hold the pole position. Cleveland has that winning tradition. But my surprise team coming up strong on the outside is Cincinnati. I feel both the Steelers and the Bengals will make it to the playoffs in late December.

WEST—Oakland professes to fear Kansas City, as always. Somehow the Chiefs don't scare people the way they used to. If the Raiders, with maybe the deepest squad in football, latent-wise, win two of their first three against super-tough opposition, they're home free. Only indecision at the quarterback position could trip them up. The Chiefs need every break to squeeze through.

CONFERENCE—The Raiders, with their pride and poise, and depth, are it.

Final Prediction

The season opener between Minnesota and Oakland could well be the preview for Jan. 13, 1974, in Houston's Rice Stadium. So much luck enters into getting to the Super Bowl that it's like doubling your bet on the down card when holding "11" in blackjack. Taking into account all the variables, one vote for Minnesota.

Aaron To Throw Out 1st Ball In World Series Says Bowie

ATLANTA (UPI)—Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn Monday announced that Atlanta outfielder Hank Aaron, who hit his 711th career homer Monday night in a game against the San Diego Padres, will throw out the first ball of the 1973 World Series.

Aaron, three home runs shy of Babe Ruth's career record, will become the first active player ever to perform that chore.

that will be televised nationally and promoted by Jerry Perenchio.

"He better not B-S me at all," she said. "I've given strict instructions to Mr. Perenchio that he had better play tennis."

Billie Jean, 29, said she had recovered completely from a virus and had strengthened her right leg, injured in August, by lifting 16½ pound weights. She proved her condition by easily winning first and second round matches Monday in the Virginia Slims tournament.

"I'm a very healthy girl. I am very much ready for Thursday night. In a way I think I am probably the best prepared for any match."

Riggs is 55 and won the Wimbledon singles title in 1939 before Billy Jean was born. He defeated Margaret Court in a $10,000 Mother's Day match and promoters lured Billie Jean to play him with the $100,000 purse. The winner is expected to receive $200,000 and the loser $100,000.

Billie Jean said Riggs has the most to lose.

"If he loses he is not going to get any more matches, and he needs us (women) because he isn't going to play Pancho Gonzalez because Pancho would kill him."

Lee Trevino Upset At Jack At Ryder Cup

EDINBURGH, Scotland (UPI)—Jack Nicklaus faced strong criticism from American Ryder Cup teammate Lee Trevino when he arrived here Monday night for the contest against Britain and Ireland at Muirfield, Scotland, starting Thursday.

The fast-talking Mexican was upset at Nicklaus for having arrived late.

But Nicklaus dismissed the criticism.

"I had discussed my travel arrangements during the PGA Championship and was told that there did not appear to be any reason why I should not report until Tuesday," Nicklaus said.

"I don't think the team is happy about it," said Trevino. "My wife has just had another baby and I would have loved to have stayed at home on Saturday and Sunday."

"His (Nicklaus) obligation to me is to be here and play on Tuesday morning," said the U.S. team's non-playing captain Jack Burke Jr. "His preparation is his own concern."

Dave Hill, another member of the 12-man squad, had not arrived. He was coming from Tokyo.

Burke was noncommittal about the outcome of the contest. Although the Americans are 3-1 favorites, Burke would not say how highly he ranked his team's chances.

"I have not seen all your players play," he said. "But there are 12 good players on each side, and that is what makes a contest."

Burke and the British-Irish captain, Bernard Hunt, both confessed they would like the course soft.

Southern Cal Keeps Ranking As Country's Best Collegiate

NEW YORK (UPI)—Southern California continues to rate as the No. 1 major college football team in the nation.

The Trojans opened defense of their national championship by beating Arkansas, 17-0, last Saturday and received 21 first-place votes from the 35 coaches on the United Press International Board for a total of 325 points.

Nebraska, idle last week following its season-opening 40-13 conquest of UCLA, drew nine votes for the top spot and ranked second behind Southern California with 301 points.

Along with Nebraska, another member of the strong Big Eight was listed among the top 10. Oklahoma was eighth with 77 points.

The Southeastern Conference placed two of its members among the top 10 teams, headed by Alabama at No. 4 with one first-place vote and 232 points. Louisiana State was ninth with 60 points.

Craig Captures Women's Title In Tennis Play

Jean Craig of Dumas defeated Mrs. Charles White of Pampa, 6-1, 6-0 Sunday at the Pampa Country Club tennis courts to win Pampa's Over 35 Tennis Tournament in the women's singles division.

Miss Craig is the 10th ranking women's player in Texas and was top-seeded in the Pampa tourney.

Saturday's winners were: Bud Satterwhite of Amarillo over Joe Davis of Pampa, 6-1, 6-3 in men's singles. Davis and Jim Hughes of Pampa over Jack Fyfe and Jack Little of Amarillo, 6-2, 6-3 in men's doubles and Mary-Hughes and Dot Stowers of Pampa over Pauline Hefley and Syble Tuttle of Canyon, 2-6, 6-4, 6-4 in women's doubles.

Pampa's next net event is the Husband-Wife Tennis Tournament, which will be played sometime in October. The date has not been set.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Our Capsule Policy

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces can he develop to his utmost capability.

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

Defense Economies

If there ever comes a day when Defense Department spokesmen inform Congress that the nation's military forces are in good shape, that they have all the weapons they will need for the foreseeable future, that there are no ominous Soviet developments on the horizon and yes, gentlemen, there is a good deal of fat that could be trimmed off the defense establishment — if that day should ever come, we will know that President Nixon's promised "generation of peace" has truly arrived.

Yet despite the ending of the Vietnam war, all the talk of detente and rapprochement between East and West and hopes for the SALT disarmament negotiations, one would think we were still in the dark, early days of the Cold War when the Communist threat to world peace and freedom was first perceived.

Melvin ("Gloom and Doom") Laird is no longer secretary of defense, but the new secretary, James R. Schlesinger, has effectively caught up the banner of national security and rapped it across the knuckles of congressional budget-cutters, whom he accuses of indulging in "postwar follies" that would dismantle the nation's defenses.

As before, Congress will end up by giving the Pentagon pretty much what it asks for in the way of more and better weapons systems. It will because it is only common sense to grr, if error it is, on the side of caution, and because it is so excruciatingly difficult to decide what will be needed and what will not be needed to meet the challenges of the future or just to preserve America's deterrent credibility.

It has been difficult up to now, at any rate. According to one observer, however, those on Capitol Hill who believe it is time to reign in military spending are potentially in a much stronger position than they have been in the past.

Toys Don't Make Genius

Every parent knows that the best way to get baby off to a good start in life is to surround him with a variety of colorful, mobile, noisy toys that will stimulate his mental development.

Not so, says a psychologist. "Parents who are purchasing these materials are almost sure to be wasting their money," claims David Elkind of the University of Rochester, N.Y., as quoted by Science News.

This is not to say, he adds, that an infant should be deprived of rattles or mobiles or other toys which he enjoys. The important thing to remember is that the presence of such toys will not make him a genius any more than their absence will now make intelligent decisions about the defense budget because they at last have sources of independent and reliable information, writes John Fischer in Harper's magazine.

He cites two sources outside the government, the Brookings Institution and the Center for Defense Information, the latter staffed by a number of retired admirals, generals and other former Defense Department officials, who have been giving close scrutiny to the nation's defense needs.

Their findings give scant comfort to the snow-white doves among us, Fischer notes. Defense spending cannot be slashed overnight by the amounts some radical critics have suggested. But they do indicate that some $7 billion as a start could be cut out of the military budget for fiscal 1974 without weakening our defense posture.

There are plenty of opportunities for minor economies. For example, all our armed forces are top-heavy with brass. For every enlisted man, there is one officer or noncom to supervise him. Much larger savings could be made by modest cutbacks in the size of our armed forces and the closing of unnecessary bases at home and overseas.

At the very least, these independent sources are presenting facts, figures and documented "strategic scenarios" that can be studied by conscientious congressmen who neither want to be accused by the folks back home of gambling with American's security nor want to place further strain on an inflationary economy which, itself, could weaken the United States more than the lack, say, of a more sophisticated nuclear submarine.

"If they choose to use this information in a courageous and responsible way," says Fischer, "that could be the best news of the century for the American taxpayer."

Writing in the American Journal of Diseases of Children, Elkind says that the question of how much heredity contributes to intelligence is unanswerable. However, "Bright children are likely to stay bright unless, for whatever reason, they engage in activities destructive to mental prowess."

"Contrariwise, a youngster with average ability can, by dint of hard work, accomplish a good deal (but he will never be a genius)."

Toys, says Elkind, should be chosen on the basis of their safety and their immediate entertainment value, rather than for their supposed long range educational benefits.

Secret Spy Force Is Frightening

The chilling words "secret police" have surfaced in the spreading investigation developing from the Watergate scandal in Washington.

The Associated Press has reported that "sources close to the investigation" have disclosed that a secret White House plan to spy on domestic radicals, approved by President Nixon but disapproved by the late J. Edgar Hoover, as director of the FBI in July, 1970, later was put into practice.

Two sources, according to the AP, "one of whom said he had seen the plan," described it as providing for an undercover team made up of representatives of various federal agencies who had access to "virtually all agencies of government."

And they said the secret agents intercepted mail, tapped telephones, audited income-tax returns and planted informers.

President Nixon, in his recent telecast Watergate affair address, said that after withdrawal of the Hoover disapproved plan, an Intelligence Evaluation Committee was established the following December "to improve coordination among the intelligence community and to prepare evaluations and estimates of domestic intelligence."

He justified it on the grounds of national security. The committee had representatives from the White House, Treasury and Defense departments, Secret Service, Central Intelligence Agency and the National Security Agency.

The group reportedly soon became "a cover for a secret police operation, the sources said, and, among other things gathered information about the Black Panthers, antiwar priests Daniel and Phillip Berrigan and radical student groups."

"We know," one source was quoted as saying, "they were opening mail and harassing people. If they went by the book, they did a lot more than that."

It is to be hoped that the facts about this "secret police" operation are brought out in detail in the current investigations. Legitimate investigations in the interest of legitimate national security are one thing and the FBI is the proper agency to conduct them. But wide-ranging "secret police" investigations by personnel from a number of federal agencies and prompted by what would seem to be more political motives than national security are something else.

They are chilling and frightening in the power potential the portend. They will not be countenanced, we believe, by the vast majority of Americans, whatever their partisan political allegiance.

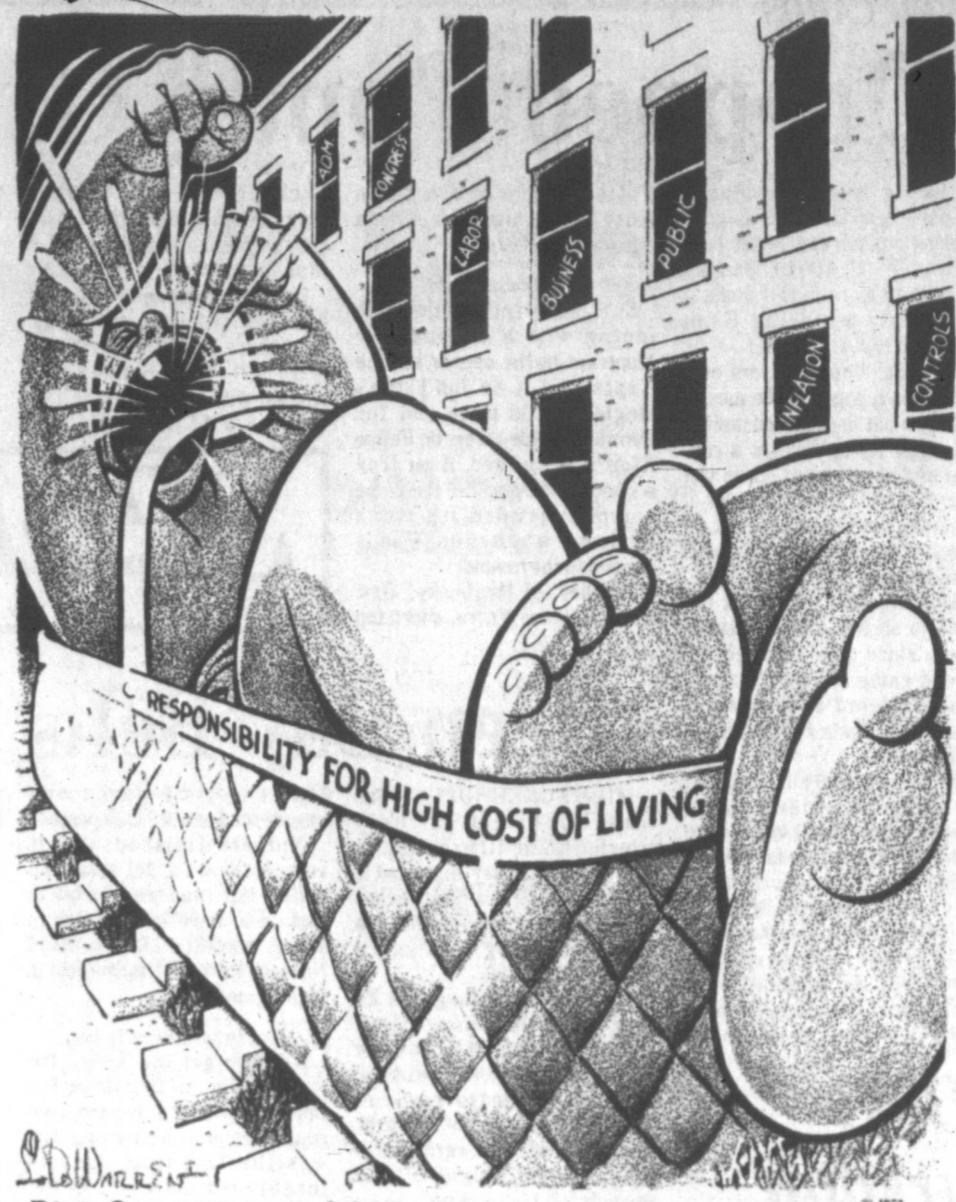

If these activities have not yet been stopped, they should be, immediately. A "secret police" force available to high public officials, either individually or collectively, for the invasion of personal privacy of fellow Americans is repugnant to prized American principles.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The Federation Aeronautique Internationale (FAI) is the certifying agency for world aviation and space records. It was formed in 1905 by representatives from Belgium, France, Germany, Great Britain, Spain, Italy, Switzerland and the United States, with headquarters in Paris. The World Almanac says, The National Aeronautic Association is the U.S. representative of the FAI.

TOO BIG FOR ONE DOORSTEP

BRUCE BLOSSAT University survey Trace Dems' split to '64, wider now

By Bruce Blossat

WASHINGTON (NEA) — That the deep internal split within the Democratic party led it to defeat itself in the 1972 presidential race is not startling fresh word. What is unique about the University of Michigan's report on 1972 is the force and enduring quality it finds in this split.

The report, prepared by the school's center for Political Studies, is founded on personal interviews of panel type (the same people are questioned twice or more at different times.)

As noted in an earlier account I gave on the report, the surveyors dwelt heavily on the previously underplayed importance of issues in the Nixon - McGovern campaign. Applying these findings broadly to the Democrats' internal rift, they said:

"The profound issue cleavages currently existing within the Democratic ranks blaze forth with vivid clarity. Indeed, there was a greater difference on each of the issues (14 were studied) between the two Democratic factions than there was between all Democrats and all Republicans."

The word "currently" needs to be stressed. Anyone attending to the present hard power struggle between the reform - bent, change-oriented, "new politics" Democrats and the huge, more conservative faction now freshly infused with top labor leaders' energies, knows the divisions did not vanish with Sen. George McGovern's overwhelming defeat.

The Center's report does not blame the big split on McGovern, even he was widely perceived by interviewed voter-eligibles as being too far to the left to be accepted.

In fact, the study traces the split's beginnings to 1964, finds it greatly magnified in 1968 and sustained at high level as 1972 dawned.

In 1968, of course, it produced almost 10 million votes for the now - disabled Gov. George Wallace of Alabama, giving Richard Nixon a narrow popular vote margin over his Democratic rival, Sen. Hubert Humphrey.

In 1972, what the Center calls a "massive Democratic defection" to President Nixon gave him re-election by more than 18 million votes.

McGovern was further disadvantaged, says the report, by the fact that Mr. Nixon was closer than he to the issue stands of a substantial proportion of the constantly independent vote.

But the key factor, now as in 1972, is what the Center brands "polarization among Democrats." And the big question, naturally, is what lies at its core.

Here the Center's report slips into explanatory terms whose soft, academic tone cloaks the explosive, unabated force the surveyors know, marks the party split.

On the left, they place not a narrow 'McGovern elite' but millions of Democrats, who show with varying intensity what the Center calls "social change policy orientation."

Translated by the left's party enemies, that means liberal - to - permissive attitudes on things like urban and campus unrest, amnesty, abortion, the racial struggle, party reform.

On the right, whence came the huge 1972 defection, the Center finds Democrats with "social control" orientation. To leftists, that means hard - lining, law - and - order, police, stress on "work - ethic" rather than welfare.

These starkly opposed approaches are qualitative differences. The bad news for Democrats, if they accept it, is that the surveyors see little hope of resolving them soon.

Many waters cannot quench love, neither can the floods drown it. Song of Solomon 8:7

Your Health What Does Goiter Mean?

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Can you please tell me what "toxic goiter" means? I am not sure that this is what I have, but I am going in for tests soon. I don't know anything about the thyroid. Does this condition always require an operation? I have heard of so many women who are taking thyroid pills and they take them regularly. They tell me that I can't stay on my pills indefinitely. I am taking Tapazole.

Dear Reader — The term goiter means a growth of, or increased size of, the thyroid. It can be caused in many different ways. Commonly it is caused by an accumulation within the gland of the material that the thyroid produces.

The goiter may not cause any disturbance in the function of the thyroid in many individuals. It may gradually increase in size in time, and eventually become so large that for various reasons the patient may wish to have it removed.

These goiters can result from iodine deficiency, a problem that's less likely to occur in our modern society.

Some goiters are associated with overactivity of the thyroid gland, producing an excess amount of thyroid hormone. You can have an overactive thyroid without a goiter. The result is the same. Too much thyroid hormone stimulates the cells to burn food more rapidly than usual.

Since the food is burned rapidly, such individuals commonly eat lots of food without getting fat. The hair is fine, there may be a moist, sweaty skin and excess nervousness. Often these individuals have overactive bowels, and, in general, all of their functions are speeded up. It can also be associated with excessive emotion lability, and, in its extreme form, can be associated with severe mental problems. These problems are usually corrected as soon as the thyroid condition is normalized.

An overactive thyroid does not always require an operation. The medicine you are taking is meant to slow down your overactive thyroid. This protects you against some of the problems I just mentioned. It has some side effects, and, for this reason, doctors like to determine just how much a person should take. Often, if there is an overactive thyroid with the goiter, doctors feel that surgery is indicated. This removes part of the overactive tissue and helps to relieve the condition. Each case has to be reviewed on its own merits to decide what's to be done in this regard.

The kind of thyroid that most people take is replacement of the thyroid gland's normal hormone, presumably for an underactive thyroid or hypothyroidism. I suspect that many people taking thyroid don't need it. This is a natural outcome of two human traits. People who have a variety of vague symptoms like to feel that something is being done about their problem.

People who speed with bald shoes on their jalopies are tired of living.

Big Brothers Trying To Suppress TV Ads

The Review Of The News

Sometime, just for fun, try making a survey of all the writings of the Right to find the number-one favorite among Conservative cliches. Like as not, the frog story will come out on top. You know - the one that likens the tactics of those who are force-marching our mixed economy toward collectivism to the technique of turning up the burner so slowly that a frog in a pot doesn't realize he's the dinner until he is cooked.

And, finishing a close second in the clinche contest would be that quote from Thoreau about running for your life whenever someone descends upon you hellbent on doing you good.

Trouble is, there's gold in them thar' bromides, which is precisely why cliches get to be cliches.

For instance, did you ever hear of a dictator who got into power by promising to do the voters harm?

Even in totalitarian states where they must have barbed wire and machine-guns to keep the fortunate citizens in their paradise, the Big Brothers in charge generally assure their beneficiaries - right up to the door of the gas ovens - that they are being murdered in a spirit of brotherly love, for their own ultimate good.

So, you can hardly expect our would-be Big Brothers to announce: "Dear citizens, we're taking total control of the airwaves so that you'll see and hear only what we want you to." That, of course, is what our Big Brethren are busily planning to do. They've certainly got the machinery for the job - have had, ever since the founding of the Federal Communications Commission. Station licensing is a powerful weapon, and Big Brother is beginning to flex it.

But the F.C.C. has its limits - it's so obvious you see. Lifting the licenses of recalcitrant Conservatives is a last resort. Too brutal. It smacks too much of the government censorship (prior restraint) which we're encouraged to believe we don't have. Besides, the citizens get suspicious when what's emanating from the airwaves is too obviously dictated in Washington.

That is why Richard Nixon isn't anxious to fund public broadcasting. The point is that he doesn't need P.B.S. when he's about to get A.B.C., C.B.S., and N.B.C. - the "free" networks that bear no taint of political funding. How is he going to get them (assuming he hasn't got them)? Good question. Via licensing of network affiliates? Maybe - but there's a better way: destroying television's economic base, a method with the built-in "extra" of chipping away at free enterprise and product branding.

Maybe you think I'm seeing burglars under the bed. But, consider: In the name (but natch!) of the "public good," the Marlboro men rode over the last hill some time back. Cigarette advertising on TV is a thing of the past - and look what a precedent that set! Advertising of any kind on children's programs is already under fire, and unless someone blows the whistle on what our benevolent Brethren are doing, toy ads are bound to go too. And as readers of this magazine are aware, the Food and Drug Administration (the Brethren work together) is already in the process of eliminating, by edict, the advertising of most vitamins.

Now the Big Brethren are after aspirin. Legislation pending in the Congress would ban from television all advertising for proprietary drugs (patent medicines) of any kind.

ACLU DOES IT AGAIN

The ACLU is protesting the removal of a book titled "The Inner City Mother Goose" from the shelves of the Philadelphia Public Library which contains the following Nursery Rhyme: Jack be nimble, Jack be quick, snap the blade and give it a flick. Grab the purse, it's easily done. Then just for kicks, just for fun, plunge the knife and cut and run."

STOP LOOK LISTEN! Is the old familiar WARNING of Railroad crossings - and too many ignored it to their doom.

It is equally applicable to the selling and buying of REAL ESTATE. A REALTOR IS A PROFESSIONAL, trained and experienced in every detail of bringing both parties together for mutual agreement so that both parties are pleased - then, the handling of all of the closing details on the title papers and money settlement is most important in the proper exchange of papers that are valid.

I just returned from a Directors meeting in Brownsville - where committees and officers of our Texas Association of Realtors spent five days last week in important sessions - our third this year.

MY TOP ASSOCIATES, whose primary interest is serving Sellers and Buyers efficiently and in the best interest of each, left Friday for further conferences and study this week on the latest solutions to the multitude of problems we face as this business evolves in our complex society. They left me with two new listings and three sales for their efforts while I was gone last week - making at least six families happy on the three sales.
