Along The Wabash Banks, It's Mighty Wet And Muddy Now

Flood Damage To Run In Millions

By CHARLES HONAKER
United Press International

PERU, Ind. (UPI) — Damage from the ice-fed rushing waters of the Wabash river mounted into the millions of dollars today in the worst floods in northern Indiana in 46 years.

Authorities said damage in Peru alone would approximate two million dollars.

Although the waters were receding, the channel of the Wabash famed in song and story was marked only by the stately trees lining its banks. On either side over long stretches there were seas of water.

At Peru, where 1,200 families were routed from their homes, Army engineers said they didn't believe the river would rise any more even though rain was forecasted for Friday.

Gov. Harold Handley Wednesday night urged that 13 counties in north-central Indiana affected by floodwaters from the ice-choked river be declared disaster areas.

Peru, a city of 12,000, was hit hardest when the swollen river, backed up by an ice gorge four miles downstream, tore through a sandbagged levee late Wednesday. It inundated the southwest section of the city in a flash. Many residents had to be rescued from their homes by boat.

The flood crest, highest in 46 years, rolled past Peru Wednesday night, and by this morning the level was down to 20.4 feet, a drop of nearly four feet.

The crest headed downstream toward Logansport, but Victor H. Wenning, of the Indiana Flood Control and Water Resources Commission, said he did not expect serious flooding there.

Evacuees face a monumental chore when they return to their homes. Temperatures, which dropped as low as 10 degrees during the night turned the stricken section into a vast ice rink. Earlier it was feared the cold weather might freeze over the ice gorge, triggering new flooding, but clear skies and warming temperatures averted the threat.

In Indianapolis, Handley Wednesday night asking that the northern flood areas be added to the southern Indiana counties already destined for federal disaster aid.

Call Off Rescue Work
Searchers called off rescue work during the night to await developments. R. A. Tillet, county disaster chairman for the Red Cross, said an Army helicopter will fly over the flooded outlying area today to determine if any families still are stranded and direct rescue boats.

Two engineers from Louisville, Ky., arrived in the northern Indiana city Wednesday night to survey the ice gorge and determine the railroad said most of the injured were among 35 passengers in three parlor cars which were at the end of the train. They broke away from the front of the train and came to rest off the rails about half a mile behind the front end of the train.

The railroad estimated the train carried 117 passengers — 32 in three sleeping cars and about 250 in four coaches in addition to the parlor car passengers.

Seven injured were taken to Johns Hopkins Hospital.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN
... the Great Pacifist

When A Great Man Fails... He Tries Again

A young scientist was confronted by a problem for which he could find no answer in reference books or the experience of his associates. Left to his own resources, he worked out a possible solution and obtained permission to test it. Later, deeply discouraged, he reported to his research director that the idea had failed.

"I thought it would," was the reply, "but there was a chance of success, and it was worth the effort. Don't think of it as a failure. We have learned something... a way which won't work. Now let's try to find one that will."

The worst possible result of failure is defeatism. There are few pains as grievous, Nietzsche observed, as an exceptional man who has missed his way, and deteriorated. History is laden with the examples of men who, having failed, tried again... with achievements which brought lasting benefits to mankind. Tragically countless similar benefits have been lost because those who could have made them possible surrendered to despair.

From time to time, all of us are called on to listen to tales of woe in which men recount the ill-fortune of their ventures. Sometimes these ventures have deserved failure, because badly conceived or carelessly managed. Often, however, the result is a disheartening return for men who planned well and worked diligently. To renew the courage of these men, and his own when needed, one executive keeps at hand the biography of a "failure." It reads this way:

- Failed in business '31
- Defeated for Legislature '32
- Again failed in business '33
- Elected to Legislature '34
- Defeated for Speaker '38
- Defeated for Elector '40
- Defeated for Congress '43
- Elected for Congress '46
- Defeated for Congress '48
- Defeated for Senate '55
- Defeated for Vice President '56
- Defeated for Senate '58

Here, indeed, is a record which might cause any man to lose faith in himself and hope for his ideals. Fortunately the man who compiled it lost neither faith nor hope. He tried again... and next month a grateful nation will honor his memory in the celebration of his birthday. He was Abraham Lincoln, elected in 1860 to serve as President of the United States.

Steel Beam Derails Train; 32 Are Hurt

MIDDLE RIVER, Md. (UPI)

A steel beam fell from a passing freight, buckled a track and derailed an 80-mile-an-hour Washington to New York express train today, injuring 32 persons.

Engineer T. L. Winsey of the Pennsylvania Railroad's detailed "Potomac" said he saw the buckled track as he rounded a bend into the straight stretch where the wreck occurred. Winsey said he applied the brakes, but the train immediately began to wobble out of control on the bent track.

Only one truck of the locomotive left the rails. The sleeping car behind it stayed on. The remaining 10 cars of the train derailed, tore up more than half a mile of track and came to rest still upright but tilted precariously across three of the four tracks of the PRR's New York-Washington main line.

Twenty-five injured were taken to City Hospital. A spokesman said one of them appeared to be in serious condition.

Seven injured were taken to Johns Hopkins Hospital.

The railroad said most of the injured were among 35 passengers in three parlor cars which were at the end of the train. They broke away from the front of the train and came to rest off the rails about half a mile behind the front end of the train.

Congress Listens As Lincoln Lauded

By JAMES BAAR
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Poet Carl Sandburg today told a joint session of Congress the "most enduring memorial to Lincoln is in the hearts of lovers of liberty."

The Congress met in pomp and humility to honor the memory of the Civil War president on the 150th anniversary of his birth in a Kentucky log cabin 30 years after the founding of the union that he later preserved. Southern and Northern Democrat and Republican sat side by side as Sandburg praised Abraham Lincoln as the rare type of man who appears "here and there across the centuries."

Earlier the Army Band crashed out "Dixie" and "The Battle Hymn of the Republic." Sandburg, one of Lincoln's most famed biographers, described the first Republican president as a man of "steel and velvet... hard as rock and soft as drifting fog."

He said Lincoln stood for "decent, honest, dealing, plain talk and funny stories."

The 81-year-old poet said, "You can hear in any neighborhood and across the seas something like this about Lincoln: 'Look where he came from. Don't he know all his struggles and wasn't he a kind of tough struggler all his life right up to the finish?'"

The last time Congress met in joint session to honor Lincoln was a cold rainy Monday, Feb. 12, 1867.

The great Civil War had ended less than a year before Lincoln's death. (See CONGRESS, Page 4)

The 1959-1960 Pampa Community Concert Drive kicked off today when captains distributed envelopes to a hundred workers.

"You go to the Moon," an operetta with a cast of 10, will be one of the attractions, according to Dr. Carl Lang, CC President.

Those who purchase Community Concert memberships before March 6 will be admitted free to the Vienna Club concert performance, the last concert of the current season.

This year's captains are Mrs. Raymond Harrah, Curt Beck, Homer Johnson, James E. Lewis, J. R. Holloway, E. E. Sheinamer, Bob Curry, Harvey Nessel and Gordon Scott. Each captain is responsible for a ten-worker team.

The campaign will close at noon March 7. At this time the final artist will be selected. There will be a check-up meeting Feb. 28.

Campaign Headquarters, The Southwestern Public Service Company, will be open March 27. Bob Stafford, Community Concerts representative, will be here from New York City, N.Y.

Campaigners are working on an incentive basis that will give them gratis memberships. They will receive two points for each new adult membership sold, one point for each new student membership.

SOVIETS HINT ABOUT A PRICE

By WELLINGTON LONG
United Press International

BONN (UPI) — Soviet diplomats here hint that their price for dropping threats of a new Berlin blockade might be cancellation of Western plans to provide atomic weapons for West Germany's growing army.

In talks with West German newsmen, these diplomats profess wholehearted agreement with the Western stand that there shall be "no concessions without counter-concessions."

They say that plans to supply West German troops with American-made atomic weapons except the Kremlin much more concern the presence of token U. S. British and French forces in Communist-encircled West Berlin.

The diplomats say privately that a Western promise to abandon these plans might well be matched by a Soviet "counter-concession" a promise to drop the idea of handing over control of West Berlin traffic to local Communists on May 27.

"After all," they shrug, "the Western troops will have to leave Berlin in two or three years, anyway." They did not amplify this statement.

CUBAN BARBERS GOING HUNGRY!

HAVANA (UPI) — The Barbers' Union, concerned by slackened business, has appealed to Cuba's revolutionaries to abandon the "shaggy-dog look" which has become their trade mark.

At a public meeting, the union adopted a resolution declaring that the "patriotic necessity" of beards and manes of hair, ended when Fidel Castro's guerrillas came out of the hills Jan. 1.

"The post-revolutionary new look should be smooth cheeks and cropped hair," the resolution said.

Antique Show Can Be Free For All

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — The national antique show is to America what the flea market is to Paris and what the Roman market place is to Italy.

But to mid-mannered Nat Mager, who's been directing the show for 15 years, "bruising" is the word for what happens when 125,000 antique lovers descend on Madison Square Garden for the annual foray.

"Pound for pound," he said, "antique addicts are more dangerous than lady wrestlers."

"You'd have to understand women to know what I mean. They bore into crowded booths with elbows akimbo and can deliver a body check with the ferocity of a wounded hockey player. Year after year, their footwork among tables laden with fine sandwich glass and priceless china is reminiscent of the early days of Willie Pep."

Balance Essential
Ground rules hold that anything smashed must be paid for on the spot, so grace and balance are essential in the battle for bric-a-brac, Mager noted.

"When the eight-day show opens March 3, all sorts of priceless objects from the U.S. and abroad are expected to fly more than hard during all of his first six years as chief executive.

The jet transport will enable him to visit the Pacific Coast with little more flying time than is required for a weekend flight in propeller-driven aircraft to Augusta or Thomasville, in Georgia.

On top this month is Eisenhower's flying trip to Acapulco, Mexico. No jet for this trip, but the reliable Columbine III, the big Air Force Constellation set aside for the President's use.

The question of jet travel to Acapulco is academic in any event because this field down here can't handle the big new craft that requires plenty of landing space.

Several other long air trips are possibilities this year—Alaska in July, the likelihood of a summit conference somewhere in Europe before next winter. A trip to Hawaii has been discussed frequently in White House circles, also—South America.

Nationally, there is no fixed domestic affairs and his own time table or definite schedule for health permitting.

Ike Expected To Fly Out Last Two Years

By MERRIMAN SMITH
UPI White House Reporter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Backstairs at the White House, some top figures in the air transportation industry have been picking up interesting straws in the wind about President Eisenhower's travel plans for the remainder of his term in the White House.

With the President's plane crew now in the process of looking over his new jet transport which is scheduled for delivery in the spring, the industry hears this rather authoritative speculation:

Eisenhower during the nearly two years he has left in office is expected to fly more than hard during all of his first six years as chief executive.

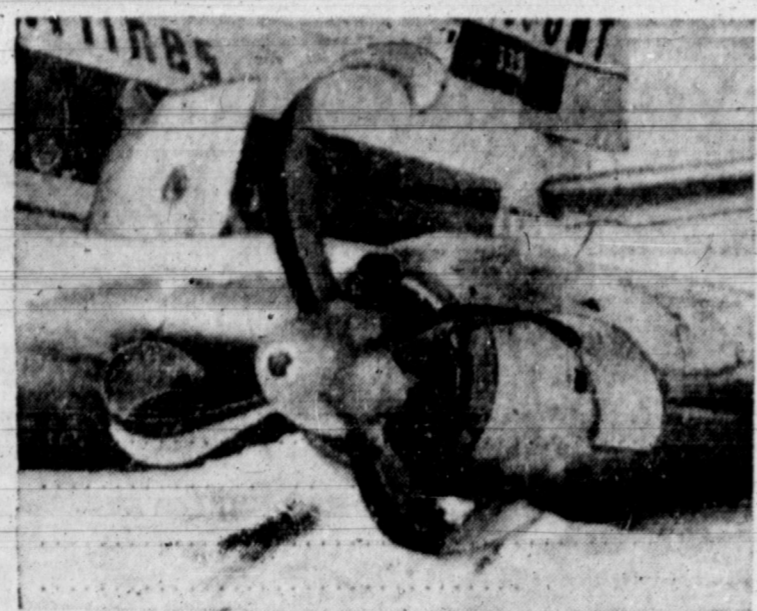

The jet transport will enable him to visit the Pacific Coast with little more flying time than is required for a weekend flight in propeller-driven aircraft to Augusta or Thomasville, in Georgia.

NOT MODERN DESIGN—The rapid development of the modern aircraft hasn't resulted in a pretzel-shaped propeller like this. Blades bent when the four-engined commercial airliner crash-landed in a Lansing, Mich., field.

Tour Strenuous For Omaha Queen

Woman's View
By PATRICIA MCCORMACK
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stirring up interest in physical fitness is a mighty tiring experience, according to Dixie Quaiet, of Omaha. She is a professional masseuse, married to a professional masseur and former Golden Gloves boxing champion, Bryce Quaiet. They have a 1-year old daughter, Jody.

By plane and taxi, she traveled 12,838 miles. By shoe-leather express, she treaded 264 miles, most of them across newsroom floors and hotel lobbies.

Under the banner of physical fitness, Mrs. Quaiet massaged wrestlers in a Milwaukee arena, led the cast of a San Francisco TV variety show in on-the-air calisthenics, visited Silky Sullivan at Tanforan racetrack the day before his turf comeback. She also made her trampolining debut at the Dallas Athletic Club and opened the Kansas City ice-skating season on a below-zero day.

"I'm tired to death," she said, "and even a little physically un- such ambitious travel plans, but the reported destinations under discussion represent more than pipe dreams. Eisenhower plans to get around the globe a lot before January, 1951, world conditions domestic affairs and his own time table or definite schedule for health permitting.

LEON C. GREENBAUM
Victim in $400,000 Jewelry Theft

Leon Charles Greenbaum, victim in what police described as the biggest jewelry theft in the history of jewel-heavy Miami Beach, is a tall, athletic, genial corporation chairman. He bosses a business that lives on wheels, that exists only to move.

His rolling stock includes 26,000 passenger cars and 25,000 trucks that operate out of 1,500 locations, including 390 airports, 275 railroad terminals and 135 hotels. As board chairman, he oversees policy and finance of the Hertz Corp., the country's oldest automobile rental organization.

Mr. and Mrs. Greenbaum and Mrs. Arthur Cole, Mrs. Greenbaum's sister, were victims in a hotel theft reported Sunday in the Florida resort.

Greenbaum, now 51, entered the car-leasing field at 20 in a truck-leasing firm founded by his father when he was 17.

"Actually, if you would force yourself to walk just a little bit more each day, in no time at all it would make a world of difference. Walking is the best exercise there is."

Mrs. Quaiet works in her mother-in-law's massage salon. She walks the 14-blocks to the salon every morning, making the trip in about 20 minutes. She gets home at day's end the same way.

Heart Association Gives Scholarship

The Gray County Heart Association voted Wednesday to give a $100 scholarship to a Pampa High School senior interested in the science field. The board also voted to contribute $500 for direct research to be done in the state.

Money contributed by the County Chapter will be channeled within 60 days and the Association will be advised of the specific research it has assisted, according to Mrs. R. F. Forsythe, Chapter president. The Chapter will also be informed of future progress on this research.

Five doctors, on the Texas State Heart Research Board, screen all requests for research funds. The County Chapter held its first board meeting of 1959 Wednesday night in Lovett Memorial Library. Special guests were Don DeRose, area consultant for the Texas State Heart Association; and Mrs. Inogene Thurmon of Borger, Mrs. Thurmon is a member of the Texas State Heart Board.

Gene Imel and Ed Cleveland were presented gold merit certificates for their faithful service to the Association. Mrs. Forsythe announced the following appointments: Ed Cleveland, chairman of the board; Gene Imel, treasurer; Dr. R. W. Moore, Dr. T. D. Harvey, Coy Palmer, Mrs. Elaine Ledbetter, R. E. Batson, Mrs. Bob Hudson, Mrs. W. Veate and William Leonard, board members.

DeRosen gave a brief history of the Heart Association and explained that heart problems account for 53 per cent of the deaths in the United States—more than all other causes combined. The Heart Association mounts a three pronged attack to solve the problem: Research Education and Community Services Research will be conducted at state and national levels. The Educational Program is aimed at both lay people and physicians. Community services will include programs to aid the cardiac housewife in simplifying her housekeeping and also aid farmers and ranchers who have heart conditions.

If it would be feasible to try and dynamite the gorge. Fair and somewhat warmer weather was predicted for Indiana today, but weathermen warned of possible heavy rain in the area Friday.

The ice-jammed floodwaters ripped through sandbagged levees Wednesday, inundating the southwest section of the city with as much as 10 feet of water.

Court House Threatened The flood crept to within three blocks of the county court house, hub of rescue operations, before falling back. The downtown section and other parts of the city on higher ground escaped the flood.

Most of the evacuees were taken into private homes as more fortunate residents opened their doors to shelter fellow townsmen driven from their own homes. The rest of the homeless were cared for in Red Cross evacuation centers in a south Peru school and a gymnasium north of the city.

Gov. Harold Handley ordered an extra National Guard unit to reinforce the 40 already on duty and servicemen from nearby Bunker Hill Air Force Base helped guard against looting in the stricken area.

In the past 43 years will yield an finking of what the young farmers need to know.

Some of the innovations that have taken place in the past 50 years are hybrid vigor in corn, sorghum, poultry and beef cattle, animal and plant nutrition, nutrition, breeding for resistance to disease in crops, specific drugs for specific purposes, control of noxious vegetation, by chemicals, harnessing power to specific farming and finching jobs, developing of commodity markets, mechanization of production and modern procedures in processing foods.

Jack Barton, A & M soil and water specialist, spoke on the Great Plains Conservation Program which went into effect in Feb., 1957. The program, designed to stabilize the agriculture of the Great Plains, does not replace any existing program. Conservation points are the initial establishment of vegetative cover, establishment of dead litter, strip cropping and wind breaks.

"You have to plan this business, plan it to where it fits your operation," said Barton.

Earlier in the program, Cecil G. Kersey, representing the Fort Worth and Denver Railway, expressed his optimism in the future of agriculture and the railroad industry. "Because of technological advancements in diesel locomotives, cars with greater capacity, higher train speeds and longer trains, railroads can haul farm and ranch products more economically than any other transportation media," Kersey stated.

A. K. Hepperly, Fort Worth and Denver Agricultural Agent, introduced Dignan.

An address of welcome was given by Warren Hasse, president of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce. John Johnson, chairman of the Gray County Extension Program Building Committee, presided.

The program was sponsored by the Extension Service of Texas A & M College, Brullington Lines, the Pampa Chamber of Commerce and the Gray County Soil Conservation District.

Fish-Shaped Casseroles Add Glamour To Preparation Of Lenten Day Menus

Here's a tasty combination of Lenten foods that should make any family sit up and take notice! The recipe teams lobster-meat with macaroni, shredded cheese, and a variety of flavor-heighteners for a "Let's have it again!" favorite.

The method for making this favorite of the Northwestern U.S. in a fish-shaped casserole of aluminum foil, comes from the Alcoa Wrap Kitchens. Here's how it's done.

Cut a 12-inch long fish shape from cardboard. Cut two sheets of heavy-duty Alcoa Wrap at least 3 or 4 inches wider in both dimensions than the cardboard. 1. Place the fish outline between the two sheets of foil, and mold the edges to form sides that are 2-3 inches high. This is your casserole for cooking and serving without a baking dish or pan. To make individual casseroles, cut fish shape 6 inches long and 1 inch deep.

lobster mixture into greased fish-shaped foil casserole. 8. Combine remaining 1/2 cup cheese, cracker crumbs; sprinkle over lobster mixture. 9. Place casserole on baking sheet; bake 25-30 minutes at 350 degrees F. 10. Yield: 4 servings.

Mince Meat Kisses

Break mince meat into small pieces. Add water and place over heat, stirring until all lumps are broken. Boil briskly for a minute until mixture is almost dry. Cool.

Prepare meringue according to package directions for baked meringues. Fold in cool, dry mince meat and drop in spoonfuls on cookie sheet covered with white paper. Bake according to package directions for baked meringues.

Dessert Is Male Appetite Pleaser

Want to please the men? Then treat them to their dessert favorite, rice pudding, often. They'll love this apricot-pecan version with the tender puffed meringue topping.

INGREDIENTS:
1/2 cup uncooked white rice
2 cups milk
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 egg yolks, beaten
1-3 cup granulated sugar
1 1/2 cups finely chopped, dried apricots
1/2 cup chopped pecans
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 egg whites (for meringue)
1 teaspoon vanilla

METHOD: Cook rice and milk over hot water until most of the milk has been absorbed by the rice (about 45 minutes). Stir occasionally. Stir in the salt, egg yolks, sugar, apricots, pecans and lemon juice. Pour into a greased glass baking dish. Bake in a preheated 350 degree F. oven for about 30 minutes. Pudding will start to bubble around the sides. It will be of a creamy consistency. Top the pudding with a meringue made from the two egg whites.

TO MAKE THE MERINGUE: Beat the egg whites until they peak. Add 1/4 cup sugar a little at a time, beating after each addition. Add the vanilla. Beat until whites are very stiff. Spread on the pudding and brown in a 425 degree F. oven for about 8 minutes.

Hungarian Reds Eye US Embassy

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Editor

From the foreign news editor's assignment book:
The Hungarian Reds are putting new heat on the American Embassy in Budapest. This action has not been clearly defined but apparently will include new restrictions on movement of American diplomatic personnel inside Hungary.

This in turn has given rise to speculation that efforts may be renewed soon to free Cardinal Mindszenty from his virtual prison in the American Embassy in Budapest. One possibility: The Vatican might name Mindszenty to a post in Rome, appoint a new cardinal for Hungary. In return for this, the Hungarians might let Mindszenty go. The catch: Mindszenty so far has refused to leave his native Hungarian soil.

The badly split Christian Democratic Party of Italy will hold a party congress in Florence in April in an atmosphere of bitterness among both left and right factions against former Premier Amintore Fanfani. Fanfani resigned his party leadership shortly after the fall of his government which in turn led to the present Italian government crisis. The rightists claim Fanfani put them on the spot by deliberately setting out to prove they could not successfully run the party between now and the Florence meeting. They say Fanfani gave them less than three months to do what he could not do in five years as party secretary and nearly seven months as premier.

namely, unify the party. The Christian Democrats have been among the West's strongest supporters in Italy.

When British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan goes to Moscow later this month, he will be unique thinking about politics at home as well as world peace. British public opinion polls have shown Macmillan's Conservative Party popularity going down as unemployment went up. If a national election were held today, British labor might win. A spectacular success for Macmillan in Moscow or in a possible summit conference to follow, might reverse the British electoral trend at home.

Insiders in France say more scandals, involving national figures are due for an airing. The "Rose affair" and the "Rose of the American Embassy ballets" have provided spicy reading, with plenty of "big names" named, sex and, in the best tradition, charges of murder and blackmail plots. The next one may involve reports of financial killings by big names who knew in advance of the plan to devalue the French franc and who profited either by selling the franc short or by importing huge quantities of goods whose value automatically increased 17.55 per cent after devaluation.

Speaking of money, Okinawan businessmen see Okinawa's future as the "Switzerland of the Pacific." With the introduction of the American dollar as the Ryukyuan (Okinawan) currency last fall, banks now offer 6.5 per cent on their money if you leave it in the bank for a year; a full 7 per cent if you leave it two years. You can send a check for $1,000 from New York and two years later withdraw $1,140. Bank assets and deposits already total 32 million dollars and the figure is rising nearly seven months as premier.

Tokyo is considering a limitation on automobile licenses. A government white paper said recently that if the present trend continues, it will be faster to walk than ride in Tokyo by 1965. Tokyo's problem is extreme but not unique.

'Your Arms, Too Short,' Says Red

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Editor

Man of the week: Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky, defense minister of the USSR.

The hour: A speech before the 21st congress of the Communist Party in Moscow, extolling the power of Soviet might, especially missiles.

His quote (directed to the West): "Your arms are too short, gentlemen."

A play on words? If so, a U. S. rejection was immediate and skeptical. Pinpoint accuracy? Even a miss of 10 miles over a 5,000-mile range still is a miss.

There is little suggestion of humor in the background of the bulky Malinovsky, who became a professional soldier at the age of 16 and who now is both a member of the powerful Central Committee of the Communist Party and commander of all the armed forces of the USSR.

If there were a play on words at all, it was "to compare the West to the smaller, outmatched prizefighter who finds himself in a ring against an opponent taller and with a longer reach. For that was his theme. He said, continued to make preparations for the war. But he said Western methods were obsolete and that the Soviet Union had missiles that could reach any point on the globe with pinpoint accuracy.

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev opened the 21st party congress last week with a speech which ran more than six hours. As would any good politician, Khrushchev had a little bit for everyone. It has been left to speakers since then to spell out the meaning.

Malinovsky's was the Soviet military voice.

A Miss Is A Miss U. S. rejection was immediate and skeptical. Pinpoint accuracy? Even a miss of 10 miles over a 5,000-mile range still is a miss.

Intercontinental missile superiority? Perhaps in numbers now, yes. But later, no.

And for the present? Even now, fully operable U. S. intermediate range missiles on Allied bases can reach any military target in Russia.

Malinovsky, like Khrushchev, was born in the Ukraine. He is 60 years old and is regarded as the USSR's greatest military authority on the Far East.

He is also recognized as one of the country's toughest, most brilliant field commanders. He has never visited the West, but in World War I had some contact with American soldiers and regarded them as "good fighters." He has won the order of Lenin at least twice. Some reports say, five times.

Auto Dealers Caught In Tight Squeeze

By JACK VANDENBERG
UPI Automotive Editor

DETROIT (UPI) — Pity the poor automobile dealer, caught in a squeeze between the car producer and the car buyer.

Ward's Automotive Reports, statistical agency for the automotive industry, recently reported the industry was expected to reach a new car inventory of 900,000 units during March.

This usually is good news for manufacturers and buyers but bad news for the dealer.

When manufacturers feel new cars are going to sell well, they try to build up dealer inventories so buyers will have a wide choice of the manufacturer's cars in front of him when he goes to buy. The manufacturer also wants to be sure his product is readily available to the public so the buyer will not switch to some other line where he can get immediate delivery of the car he wants.

Must Sell Quickly For the buyer this means he not only can get the car he wants more quickly but he also usually can make a better deal with the dealer.

Many auto dealers operate on what is called the "floor plan."

Under this system, finance companies loan the dealers the money to buy the cars from the manufacturers. The longer the cars remain on the showroom floors, the more interest the finance companies collect from the dealers. This means the dealer's actual profits are cut if the car is not sold quickly.

In order to sell the car quickly and avoid the finance company charges, the dealer will often voluntarily reduce the margin of profit and sell the car a little cheaper.

Stocks Tie Up Capital Even the dealers who buy the cars from the company with their own capital are put in a squeeze.

First of all, large inventories tie up more of their capital. Secondly, they are forced to cut their margin of profit in order to meet competition from dealers who have to sell in a hurry to avoid finance company charges.

"I think it is toughest on the dealers who don't usually sell in volume but it is tough on all of us," said one Detroit dealer. "I see no reason why these big inventories couldn't be eliminated and cars fed to dealers as they need them."

The manufacturers say the system is necessary because strong competition, a necessary corollary to the system, creates a buyers' market and brings the American consumer more good things at a lower cost.

It also increases sales of cars and, therefore, creates greater employment. But pity the poor dealer, he's caught in the middle.

PALACE OF SNOW—A research worker seems tiny in a huge trench dug by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers in the snow of the Arctic ice cap. The trench was roofed over by blowing processed snow over a temporary frame. When the snow hardened in a crust, the frame was removed. It is one of many trenches used as camps, workshops and storage spaces.

Capitol Dome Not About To Collapse

By FRANK ELEAZER
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It is absolutely, unequivocally not true that the dome of the U.S. Capitol is about to collapse, and anybody who thinks so must have been peering at some of its rusted plates and corroded bolts recently uncovered by engineers.

Here is just one more example of the fact that a little knowledge is a dangerous thing. The reason officials have barred tourists from the Capitol rotunda, and are preparing to ring the dome inside and out with steel scaffolds, is not because they are doomsters architecturally speaking. They are just cautious.

They want to know for sure whether the cast iron structure is tired. They also will sleep better nights after establishing that the 4,654-square-foot fresco painted in plaster 94 years ago on the inside of the top of the dome isn't about to come hurtling down 180 feet onto the heads of the taxpayers, not to mention the members of Congress.

Plaster May Be Cracking Plaster dries and cracks with the passage of decades. Nobody can remember when, if ever, Constantino Brumidi's famous allegorical fresco underwent any serious kind of a check. It appears to be cracking, but this could be an illusion.

Nor has anybody seen some of the dome's innermost structure since it was finished in 1855, an 8,900-pound cast iron miracle of its time and still, Capitol officials believe, the biggest dome of cast iron anywhere in the world.

Signs of deterioration which inspectors have uncovered however have prompted efforts to push forward at once with a major inspection and overhaul of the dome. At least four of its 36 outer iron ribs are to be removed. If tests show age and stress has taken its toll, all 36 ribs will be replaced.

One worrisome problem is that the dome swings with the sun. Not so you can see it. But you can sometimes hear it creak as the hot side expands and the cool side contracts. Total movement has been measured at between 3 and 4 inches.

To Extend East Front The dome work is only indirectly related to another big project at the Capitol, extension of the east front. Ride through Capitol Plaza these days and you think Harry S. Truman was right when he said the dome one day would be toppling over.

Aside from any internal defects it may have, the dome, according to Truman, was off balance. Congress finally agreed and is spending $10,100,000 to tear down the east front and relocate it in more permanent form, 32½ feet further out.

The old front is down now, with the result that the skirt of the dome seems to be hanging over the plaza in space. However, engineers say there is no safety problem here.

They also deny that the operation of heavy cranes and jackhammers necessary to tear down the east front play a part in their concern at the dome's internal condition.

Congressional employees who aren't engineers are inclined to wonder about this, every time they feel the Capitol tremble.

CHICAGO (UPI) — Despite the frigid weather, these are dog days in Chicago.

Poundmaster Henry Vaia has advised the city's dogcatchers that "it's too slippery out there when you chase dogs on those icy streets you wind up with plenty of fractures and no dogs."

New Attitude May Erase Stigma Of Mental Illness

By DELOS SMITH
UPI Science Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — The National Assn. for Mental Health wants everyone to take sharp notice of what a group of former mental patients are doing in Huntington, W. Va. It would like the idea to catch on everywhere.

These recovered patients are talking about their illnesses as freely and fully as most recovered surgical patients talk about their operations. They do it as a contribution to the general welfare on grounds that the public's subversive attitude toward mental illness greatly aggravates that particular public health problem.

In that respect they are in complete agreement with the scientists in their field, where more tax money is spent with less public support than any other. The scientific viewpoint is that a mental illness is an illness no less legitimate than any other, and an ill person shouldn't be stigmatized.

May Erase Stigma
This stigma, which the public imposes, both prevents early treatment of mental illness, when margin. Foolproof Cameras Good For Vacations

By ALBERT W. MCCOLLOUGH
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Electronics and automation are being put to work to make it easier for millions of Americans to preserve happy memories of another popular development—the winter vacation.

Sunshine and lots of it is the goal of most winter vacations, now favored by more than one-third of the 45 million families who take annual vacations, according to the travel experts.

But the sun rays that produce sunbans and sparkling holiday photographs also create special problems for picture takers, especially in beach and snow areas. That's where camera makers have stepped in with electronic photo cells, or electric eyes, couples automatically to lens and shutter mechanisms, to simplify the problems of amateur snapshot and movie fans.

Proper Exposure Vital
Proper exposure, vital in good pictures, is especially troublesome for winter vacationers, Bell & Howell, a pioneer camera company, reported in a study made public today. First, the winter sunshine at a resort is likely to be brighter than a photographer is accustomed to at home. Second, much extra light is reflected from snow at ski centers, or from sand and water at beaches. Third, the subject is likely to move from bright light into shade and out again.

Electric eye cameras were designed to combat these problems by adjusting film exposure automatically in proportion to the amount of light reaching a photo-electric cell. Since the first electric eye home movie camera was introduced a little over two years ago, 10 manufacturers have entered the field, and 32 different models are now available. Even more recently the electric eye principle has been applied to still cameras.

Offer Tips
Film makers—Eastman Kodak, Ansco, Du Pont, and others, reported that of an estimated 2,200,000,000 snapshots taken by amateurs in 1958, about one-third were spoiled by poor exposure. The experts offered these tips for taking better winter vacation pictures:
—Make sure camera equipment is in good working order.
—Protect valuable and delicate snow and sand by using carrying cases.
—With non-automatic cameras use an exposure meter.
—Avoid flat light in desert and snow scenes; take advantage of long shadows cast by early morning or late afternoon sun.
—And don't forget to switch places now and then with your subjects — get into the picture yourself.

AMMAN, Jordan (UPI) — U.S. international development loan Third, the subject is likely to move from bright light into shade and out again. Electric Co. a $1,200,000 loan for construction and improvement of power plants here.

RUTH MILLETT Miss Earhart Has GA Program Topic

All over the country small groups of women are forming investment clubs. And for a lot of different reasons they are discovering that an investment club is unlike any women's club they ever belonged to.

In the first place, the aim of an investment club is unashamedly based on self-interest. There's no pretense of do-gooding about it. Its members are interested in only two things — learning more about the financial world and making money from the knowledge.

Since there is no attempt at do-gooding, there's no excuse for publicity. That club membership is down to those who are really interested — not just interested in getting their pictures in the paper. Then, too, members of an investment club don't just sit back and soak up what a visiting speaker has to say, as women do in so many of their organizations.

Instead, they learn things for themselves and are refreshingly wary of taking anybody's word for anything. In no time at all they are busy digging out facts for themselves, instead of meekly accepting the word of "experts" and guest speakers.

Also, the members of an investment club have something to talk about that men consider important — namely money. When Mama comes home and says "Well, we bought so many shares of such and such today" her husband hears what she says. He usually doesn't when she comes home from a typical women's club and says "We're going to have a bake sale."

Also, the talk women do at an investment club meeting isn't rambling and off the point. When a member reports on a stock she gets right down to brass tacks. So if you've never thought you liked women's clubs you may be surprised if you join an investment club. You'll find that women are as businesslike as men — when they're bent on the business of investing their own money.

If only little boys were as dirt-resistant as the man-made fibers. But synthetic fibers need special handling even as the little guys do. In washing a synthetic by hand, such as Fiberglas curtains, never wring or twist it. In a machine avoid wrinkles by using short cycles, but no spin-drying and a very light load. Let the curtains drip, dry.

Cemetery Project To Be Jointly Planned By Clubs

LEFORS (Spl) — "The Must of Stewardship" was the program topic presented by Miss Amy Earhart, to the Intermediate Girls Auxiliary, at a recent meeting in the church.

Miss Doris Halley, president, presided over the meeting in which the G.A. Allegiance was given, followed by the G. A. Hymn.

The prayer calendar was read by Owsda Jernigan and prayer led by Miss Sherias Cable on behalf of missionaries.

Refreshments of Cokes were served to Misses Doris Halley, Sherias Cable, Kay Phillips, Owsda Jernigan, Amy Earhart, and Mrs. David Robinson. The closing song was "When I Survey The Wondrous Cross."

Club wants to assist in the cemetery project, and the project will now be sponsored jointly by both clubs.

Mrs. J. E. Carter was hostess during the social hour. Mrs. Howard Archer's resignation was accepted with regret.

Present were Mmes. W. D. McBee, C. H. Gustin, Bill Watson, Carl Ferguson, Raymond Jordan, L. R. Spence, R. H. Barron, J. E. Carter, Ray Boyd, Bud Cumberledge, H. W. Callan, Earl Atkinson, Carl Hall, C. C. Mullins, James Jinks, and Misses Mickey Johnson, and Norma Lantz.

DEAR ABBY...

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My Daddy is so fat it isn't even funny. He is five feet and when he stands on one foot the needle goes to 250 pounds and stays there because that's as high as the numbers go. I think if there were more numbers it would go higher yet. Mom is scared to death that she is going to be left a widow with four children. We love our Daddy very much and want him to live a long time. Can you help us, please?

For a personal reply, write to Abigail Van Buren in care of this paper. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope. More than 100 languages are used by large civilized groups numbering from 1,000,000 to 500,000,000 people.

LOVES DADDY
Dear Loves: Your mother should make an appointment for your Daddy to see the doctor, who will examine him and put him on a diet. If your Daddy loves you and I'm sure he does, he will keep that appointment. Clip this and stick it in your Daddy's valentine as a reminder. Good luck!

DEAR ABBY: My mother-in-law is a very lovely person but she doesn't understand little children. When I come to visit her with my son who is only four years old, she gives him very strict orders that he is not to touch this or that. It happens to touch something he isn't supposed to. She puts him in a cage. The cage is clean, but it is still a cage. She came by it when a wild hyena was shipped to her from Asia (she has written books on the Tasmanian Wolf and Mammals of Africa, India and Asia). My son cries every time I tell him we are going to visit Gramma. Should I continue to take him there or leave him with friends when I go?

DAUGHTER-IN-LAW
Dear Daughter: A child does not belong in a cage! If you can't discipline him well enough to keep him out of the cage, I suggest you leave him with friends, or ask Gramma to come to your house.

DEAR ABBY: This has been on my mind for a year and I am going to get it off. I had a group of relatives over to my house and we all sat around looking at some old family snapshots I had placed in an album. Shortly after they left I noticed that some of the pictures were missing. The pictures were of me and my cousins when we were little kids, also of my aunt and uncle. These pictures were priceless and everyone screamed and hollered when they saw them. I think a cousin of mine took them because the aunt and uncle (now deceased) are her parents. Should I come out and accuse her or should I write a note around her place sometime to make sure she has them before I mention it? Please help me solve this as I don't want to cause trouble.

SUSPICIOUS
Dear Suspicious: Do NOT snoop around looking for the pictures. Tell the cousin you suspect (privately) that the temptation was understandable. Also that a reproduction can be made from any photo, and if she has your pictures to please duplicate them and return the originals.

DEAR ABBY: I am going with a fellow and I think I am in love with him. He says he is in love with me but he is asking me to prove my love by letting him read my diary. I have nothing to hide although it is very personal in spots, but I wonder if I should show it to him? I would like your advice.

BLANCHE
Dear Blanche: Only YOU can decide whether you want to share with him your innermost secrets. In my opinion, a man who insists on reading a girl's diary needs to grow up a little.

Company's Trouble Typical Of Industry

By HARRY WILSON SHARPE
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Oklahoma Natural Gas Co., Tulsa, demonstrated this week what it sometimes costs to stay alive in a hot competitive market.

But by so doing, it focussed gas industry attention on controversial Federal Power Commission rate-making procedures which the Supreme Court will soon review in the so-called Catco case. It also spotlighted a spiraling field price situation which over the long run could cost consumers millions of dollars.

Events began taking shape when Oklahoma Natural gave up a Supreme Court battle to prevent a competitor, Natural Gas Pipeline Company, Chicago, from paying a rate much higher than the "going rate" of 11 per cent per MFC for gas in southern Oklahoma.

Commission Upheld
Oklahoma Natural had claimed that commission approval of natural pipeline's rate — about 17 cents MFC — would force it to meet the rate and thereby require it, under favored national clauses of its contracts, to pay the higher rate to all its suppliers. It said this would cost it $35,000,000 — 70 million dollars.

The commission had approved Natural Pipeline's rate on the grounds the Chicago area, which it serves, was hard-pressed for gas and hence the premium price was warranted.

The third U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals, Philadelphia, upheld the commission, whereupon Oklahoma Natural appealed to the Supreme Court. It is this appeal, which it now has moved to withdraw.

Oklahoma Natural told the high court bluntly that if it wanted to stay in business, it had to meet the higher price. It did not put it in words but left the strong inference that its suppliers had refused to sell their gas at less than the new premium price.

The court will grant the motion within 20 days if there are no protests.

Issue Before Court
The Catco case involves similar circumstances. The group known as Catco, Atlantic Refining Co., Cities Service Production Co., Continental Oil Co., and Tidewater Oil Co., contracted to sell gas to Tennessee Gas Transmission Co., Houston, from a new Louisiana offshore field at 22.4 cents for resale to Long Island, N. Y., Lighting Co., and Public Service Electric and Gas Co., Newark, N. J.

The Federal Power Commission wanted to make price conditions. The Catco group objected and threatened to withhold its gas from Tennessee. As a result, the commission approved the 22.4 cents rate as of Jan. 24, 1957.

Long Island, Public Service, and the New York State Public Service Commission challenged this rate and were upheld by the Philadelphia circuit court. The Catco group and Tennessee Transmission appealed to the Supreme Court which is expected to decide the issue before the end of the present term.

AND CHILDHOOD TROUBLE
NEW YORK (UPI) — The Brooklyn Industrial Office of the State Employment Services reported today that older people are getting second childhood eating habits.

The office quoted industry sources as saying the tremendous expanded demand for baby food comes from middle-aged and older people on special diets or having teeth trouble.

This method of reducing tooth decay is a real bargain, as 97 per cent of Americans suffer from decay at some time in their lives. About one-sixth of the money spent for family health and hospital services is spent for dental care.

Older children and adults may possibly gain some benefits from fluoridation. But the chief beneficiaries are the children who drink fluoridated water from birth. Their resistance to decay will be life-long.

There is no vaccine that protects children from tooth decay. But there is a method that can prevent up to 65 per cent of decay.

This method is the fluoridation of water, adjusting the fluorine content of public water supplies to the optimum amount, one part per million parts of water. Children who drink such water from birth have considerably fewer cavities than youngsters who are denied this advantage.

In the small villages and rural areas that do not have public water supplies, dentists can apply fluoride treatments directly to children's teeth.

Studies have shown that such topical application of fluorides reduces new tooth decay, on the average, by as much as 40 per cent. Nature's own experiments first proved the value and safety of fluoridated water. In fact, some natural water supplies contain as much as 5-10 parts of fluorine per million parts of water. While this excess causes no bodily harm, it does cause stunted or "mottled" teeth.

Investigators trying to learn the cause of this staining were surprised to find that persons with mottled teeth had much less than the usual amount of decay. Further investigation showed the cause of the staining and the resistance to decay to be the same — fluoride. It also indicated the amount of fluoride — one part per million — that would produce resistance to decay without mottling.

After exhaustive studies had been made, cities began adding fluoride to water supplies deficient in that element. The life-time cost per individual, it was found, about equals the cost of having one tooth filled.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fourth in a series of articles published by the Pampa Daily News, in cooperation with the dentists of Pampa in observance of National Children's Dental Health Week February 8 to 14 and the centennial of the American Dental Association. Some recent developments in dentistry affecting children are discussed.

THEY'VE MEASUREMENTS
PARIS (UPI) — Paris tailor Pierre Drefus had an almost perfect description of one of the men who robbed him.

When police asked Drefus to describe his assailants, the tailor took out a notebook and gave the exact measurements of one of the men. Drefus said he was measuring the man for a suit when another Health Organization reported Tuesday that new drugs and other slugged him from the rear: helped reduce tuberculosis deaths about 50 per cent from 1952 to 1957.

Phillips 66 Oilers Top Buffs, 81-59

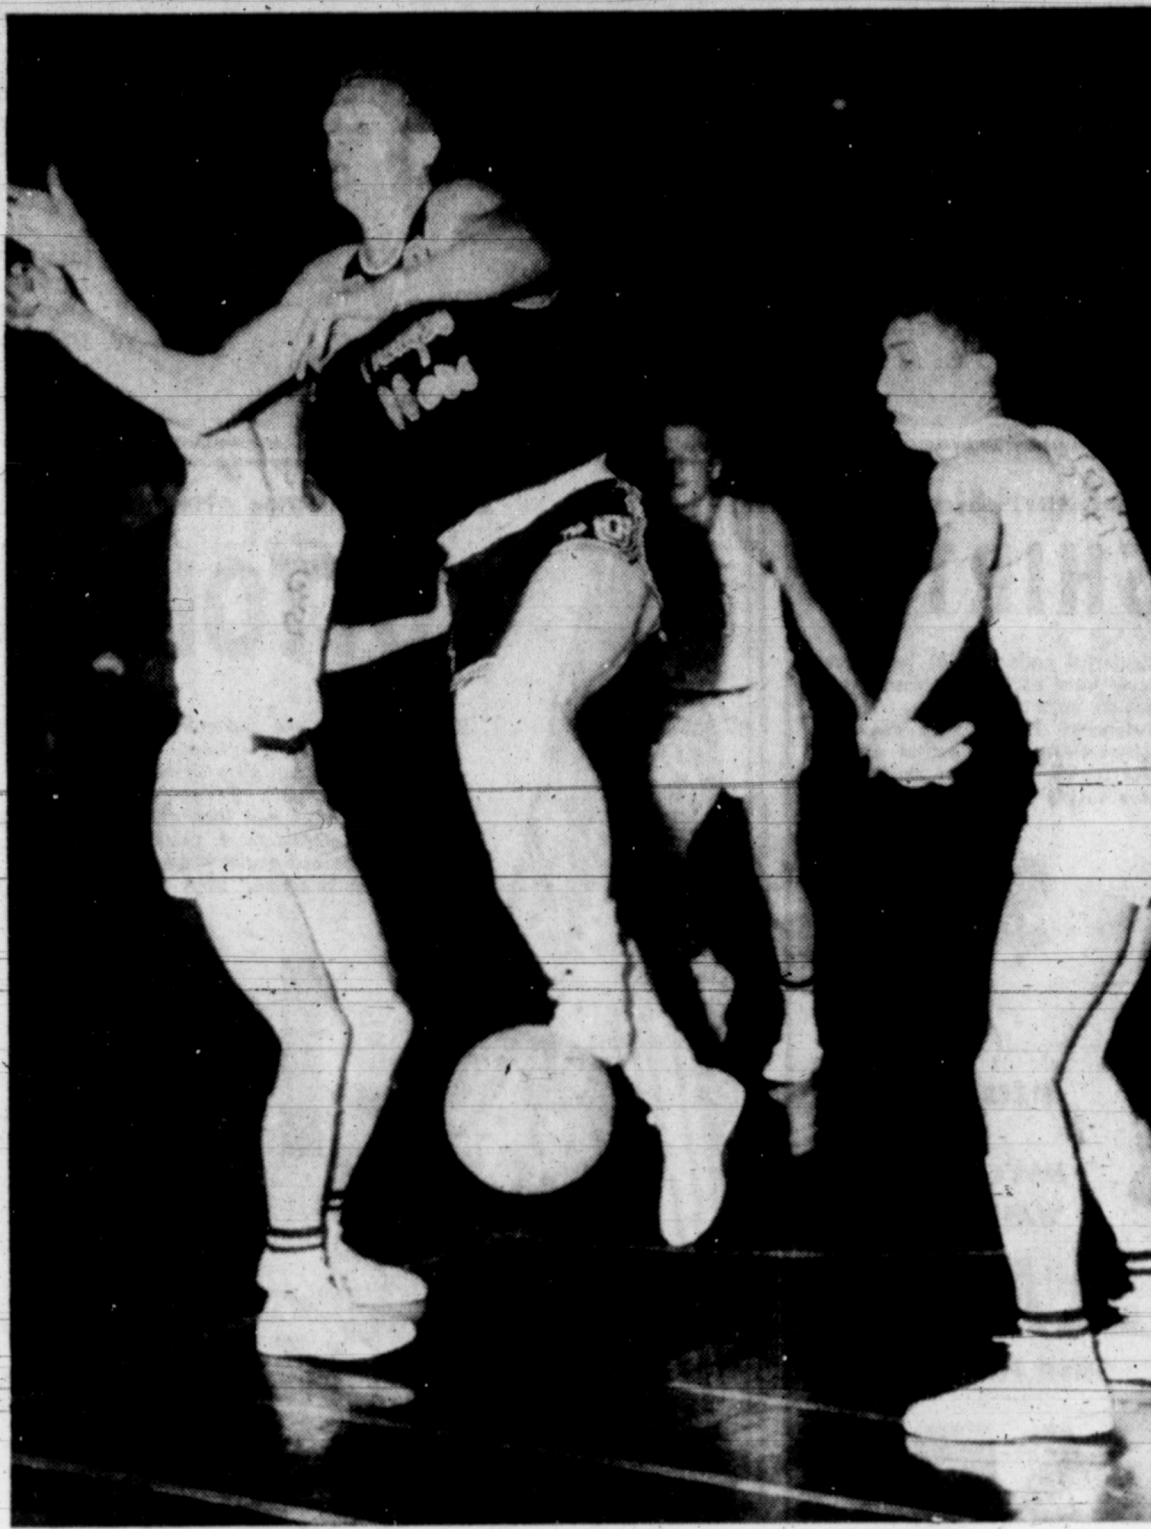

By RED GRIGGS
Daily News Sports Editor

The Phillips 66 Oilers, paced by Red Murrell and his fadeaway jump shot, whipped the West Texas Buffaloes here Wednesday in the nightcap of a doubleheader, 81-59.

Murrell, former Drake star playing his first season for the Oilers, hooped 20 points to lead the scoring for both teams. Burdie Halderson, 6-8 pivot man of the Oilers, dunked 13 points with his hook shot from the right and one free throw. Jim Farren of McLean, playing for the Buffs, also netted 13.

Two other West Texas cagers also hit double figures—Milt Fitts with 12 and Gene King with 11. Jim Spivey of the Oilers also netted 11.

As the two teams were playing under college rules, there were no quarter intermissions. The Oilers led 40-32 at halftime, and held a lead throughout most of the game.

PUNT FORMATION — Jim Spivey, former star with South East Oklahoma State appears to be getting off a flying punt for basketball's famed Phillips 66ers as three West Texas State players look on. At left in white is No. 34, Gene King; second from right is No. 10, Keith Blair; and at far right is No. 32, Milt Fitts, the Buffs 6-5 scoring leader. Lowry Leads 51-29 Attack As Clarendon Comets Fall

By RICK PEZDIRTZ
Daily News Managing Editor

Lilliputian Celia Lowry, a fancy 5-7 dead-eye from little ole Forrest, Mississippi, was the richest Queen of all here Tuesday night. The richest with points that is.

The sophomore sharpshooter ripped the Harvester Field House nets with 19 points to lead her internationally famous Hutcherson Flying Queens of Wayland Baptist College to a 51-29 triumph over a stubborn Clarendon Junior College outfit.

ets while Virginia Sellers looked superb, hitting hour long one-handers, three of them early in the third quarter which helped erase the 17-12 Clarendon intermission lead and knott the game at 17-17.

Both teams got good defensive performances from their guards: Jan Wigginton, Katherine Washington and Margaret Odom pacing the Queens while Gay Ivey, Jean Sanders and Janie Brotherton did yeoman work for Clarendon.

Neither team found much success at the outset from the firing line, and each appeared content to

Jorgensen Takes Split Decision

HOUSTON (UPI) — Second-ranked featherweight Paul Jorgensen took a split decision over Mexico's champion Manuel Quijano here Wednesday night.

Jorgensen finished fast to capture the command held during the early rounds by Quijano, who worked his jabs expertly to go in front on points.

Jorgensen grew stronger in the last three rounds, and although bleeding from the nose himself, he drew blood from Quijano in the ninth and outpunched him handily in the ninth and tenth.

Jorgensen, from Port Arthur, Tex., weighed 129 pounds compared with 130 for Quijano, of Mexico City.

The Buffs led only once, 16-15 with about nine minutes gone in the first half, as Farren sank two free throws to bring them from behind. The lead was short-lived, however.

On two other occasions, West Texas tied the score. The Buffs knotted the count at 14-14 on a fadeaway jump shot from the right by Max Miller, former Berger all-star, with about eight minutes gone in the first half; and they rallied after the beginning of the second half to deadlock the game at 43-43 with four minutes gone in the period.

Seconds later, however, Spivey put the Oilers ahead to stay with a sensational hook shot from the free throw line. Phillips began pulling away, and by the 30:40 mark had a 61-46 lead.

Redlegs Are Reds Again

CINCINNATI, Ohio (UPI) — The Cincinnati baseball club's spring brochure is titled "The Cincinnati Reds," a switch after five years publicity as the "Cincinnati Redlegs."

General Manager Gabe Paul said, "We haven't changed a thing. Reds, Redlegs, Red Stockings. They're all a part of our name."

The change probably reflects the reaction of fans, who found it hard to call the team "Redlegs" after so many years of calling them "Reds."

Score at halftime: Phillips' 40, West Texas 32.

COLLEGE CAGER SCORES 70 POINTS WEDNESDAY

By JOHN GRIFFIN
United-Press-International

Kansas State, St. Louis, and Texas Christian seem headed for post-season basketball tournaments, all right; but they almost had their basketball thunder stolen Wednesday night by a young man who scored 70 points and grabbed 26 rebounds in a single game.

Those amazing figures were turned in by 6-foot, 5-inch Paul Wilcox of Davis and Elkins, who had their basketball thunder stolen Wednesday night by a young Wilcox, a native of Pittsburgh. man who scored 70 points and grabbed 26 rebounds in a single game.

He added six free throws for his 70-point total which shattered the West Virginia Conference record of 63 (which he held) and was the highest by any collegian this year, and was the sixth highest total ever recorded in small-college cage history. Wilcox, a junior, is the nation's leading small-college scorer.

Kansas State, the nation's No. 3 team which now boasts an 18-1 overall record, took a long stride toward the Big Eight championship by beating arch-rival Kansas, 82-72, after trailing by six points in the early going.

It was the 13th straight win for the Wildcats, who are heavily favored to nail down an NCAA tournament berth as they cruise atop the Big Eight with an 8-0 league mark.

Frogs Rout A&M, 80-61

United Press International

Texas Christian pushed its conference lead to two games with an 80-61 rout of Texas A&M in the Southwest Conference's only coast-to-coast game last night.

The game was played at Fort Worth.

H. E. Kirchner hit 14 of 18 field goals and 14 of 18 free-throw goal tries to lead the Frogs with 31 points, and register the highest individual effort for the year among TCU players.

The Frogs went ahead after three and a half minutes of play and never were in trouble. They led at the half, 34-26.

TCU hit 54.8 per cent of its shots from the field and overshadowed the Aggies on rebounds, 42-26.

Archie Carroll was high for the Aggies with 20 points.

If TCU, with an 8-1 conference record, wins three of its last five contests, it will about clinch the title. Texas Tech is the only serious challenger, with a 6-2 record.

Lubbock Tops Plainview, 61-52

LUBBOCK — Plainview, was mathematically eliminated from the District 3-A race here Thursday night, as the Bulldogs were upset by the Lubbock Westerners, 61-52.

Plainview and Berger are now tied for third place, with 7-4 records. Lubbock has won three and lost eight. Lubbock led 17-15, 29-25, and 46-40 at the quarter marks.

Brown Keeps Lightweight Title By Beating Busso

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI)—World defense in nearly seven months but when he tried to follow with the right Joe just wasn't there. Brown staggered Busso, who had edged the champion in an overweight bout just three months ago, in the fourth and jarred him through the lower ropes for a count of five in the ninth, but he couldn't put the stocky challenger away.

Busso, whose face was a bloody mess at the end from an eye cut, a nose bleed, and a swollen bruise under his left eye, was a 3-1 choice to go the distance against the champ and he made the oddsmakers look good in that respect.

He was the aggressor throughout, but missed far more blows than he even came close to landing on the bobbing, weaving champ. He kept light left jabs flicking at Brown's face and body,

Ogden Named Ranger Coach

PERRYTON — Joe Ogden, former West Texas State College athlete, has been chosen to succeed the late James (Pete) Peterson as Perryton football coach. The announcement was made Wednesday by Gilbert Mize, superintendent of Perryton schools.

Ogden had served as Peterson's assistant for five years. He is popular both with the athletes and with Perryton townspeople.

Peterson died Dec. 14 in a Perryton hospital, of a heart attack. He had an 88-33 won-lost record at the time of his death, and had led the Rangers to three straight district championships.

Another New Racket?

There are some curious new developments in one area of government skulduggery which should be of interest to all taxpayers, businessmen and other employers. In several recent instances, where unions have engineered strikes and picketing, the workers have been awarded workmen's compensation pay under the assumption that the strike was the fault of the employer. The reasoning seems to be that if an employer does NOT grant an immediate increase in pay every time the union demands it, in some strange manner he has committed an act of coercion against his employees. Right now, for example, the Ford Motor Company is considering the advisability of taking a case to the Supreme Court which it just lost in the Michigan supreme court. It seems that in a pair of recent strikes, made in the middle of a period of employment firmly covered by a union contract, the state agreed to pay the workers on strike from the money it had collected from Ford as unemployment compensation. As a Ford Company spokesman put it: "This decision is a shattering blow to the principle of state neutrality in labor disputes that has been a basic part of the Michigan unemployment compensation program for over 20 years. As the majority of the supreme court has construed the Michigan law in this case, the door now is wide open for wholesale use of employer-financed unemployment compensation funds to finance strike action by the unions in any labor dispute. It is a mystery to us how any court of competent jurisdiction could have come to such a conclusion that any company must finance its workers who are taking predatory action against it. The case is so flagrantly bad that in essence it could be extended to provide that the thief who breaks into a home at night is guiltless if he steals the silverware; and that the householder is guilty and owes the thief money because the thief wouldn't have been a thief if there hadn't been something to steal. But for an all-time low in the management and disbursement of state unemployment funds word has come from New York via an alert friend of ours who writes as follows:

Aim Of Socialism

Noting our editorial the other day entitled "A Rose is a Rose," a reader has requested our comment on the definition taken from Webster's, which was included in the editorial. If you are a veteran reader of this page you may recall that the most recent definition of socialism as it appears in Noah's word almanac goes like this: "A political and economic theory of social organization based on collective or government ownership and democratic management of the essential means for the production and distribution of goods, also a policy or practice based on this theory. SOCIALISM AIMS TO REPLACE COMPETITION BY COOPERATION AND PROFIT SEEKING BY SOCIAL SERVICE, and to distribute income and social opportunity more equitably than they are now believed to be distributed" (our emphasis). The dictionary in the upper-case phrase above has endeavored to present the socialist or communist viewpoint and it is this particular part of the definition which has stirred our reader's curiosity and perhaps his indignation. The best way to show how silly this objective of the socialists is to spend a little time with this word meant referring again "cooperation." What does the word mean? 1) To act or operate jointly with another or others; 2) To act or operate for mutual profit or common benefit. And a "cooperative" is any association for buying and selling to the better advantage of its members. In other words, the reason any person cooperates with any other person or group of persons is because he can GAIN A PROFIT FOR HIMSELF by so doing. Yet, in the very next phrase in the definition of socialism we find: "do away with the profit seeking. If cooperation is murdered and he does, then he must seek also to do away with cooperation because cooperation is inevitably a process that considers, and provides for the profit of those who cooperate. So the socialist definition which Webster employs, if we translate it into its ordinary meaning, says precisely that the socialist wishes to provide for the profits of the socialists by eliminating all profits. Before we become lost in this fog, let's face up to the reality of socialism. Socialism does not eliminate competition, but it eliminates cooperation. It does not eliminate competition because in practice every socialist is competing consciously, and sometimes quite viciously, for recognition from the ruling hierarchy, the government, the party, or whatever. He doesn't want to compete in the rewarding atmosphere where merit is recompensed as occurs in the free market. He either wishes to tell everyone else what to do and will brook no interference (competition) or he wishes to compete at the apple polishing business; he wants to bask in the favor of the mighty, he wants to kiss the boots of his oppressor and thereby win a march over his contemporaries. That is why, in a socialist climate, there is so much running to the authorities, so much tattling and gossip and oppression. That is the way to get ahead under socialism; if you will become an informer on someone else, then your own safety can be assured. But this is competition of the same caliber that appears on any battlefield. It is kill or be killed. But of course, under such conditions, cooperation dies. Under socialism one can hardly afford to cooperate with anyone, for it could be that the one you choose to fraternize with may be an enemy of the party tomorrow. So do away with the profit seeking. If

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOLES

"Can Labor Clean Its Own House?"

Sylvester Petro gave a very rational address before the Congress of American Industry of the National Assn. of Manufacturers in New York. Dr. Petro is Professor of Law at New York University School of Law and author of "The Labor Policy of the Free Society" and many other articles. Since Eisenhower and Sen. Kennedy and others are introducing bills in Congress for labor to clean its house, an article in "Essays On Liberty" taken from the above address is extremely timely. I seldom run across a writer who understands the predicament we are in because of our unwise labor legislation better than does Dr. Petro. To the question "Can Labor Clean Its Own House?" he starts in this way: "The answer is that no one else can. But before any house can be cleaned, one has to recognize dirt when one sees it; and one needs a broom, mop, water, strong soap, and above all else, the will and the power to clean up. All these things are now lacking, and more. Not only is there trouble about recognizing the dirt, there is even some doubt concerning the identity of the house cleaner, and some people seem to be confused about where to get the cleaning materials. "The house cleaners will have to be the workmen of the country. The cleaning materials will have to be their own free choice and their right to refuse to join unions or to participate in strikes, picketing, and boycotts. If the workers are to have any success in the exercise of these rights, they are going to need the protection which governments have so far denied them. For the sad condition of the house of labor is the consequence, basically, of the fact that governments in this country have been failing to protect the basic rights of free men in the labor field. "The basic rights of free men are the rights of private property and freedom of contract. These rights, when their exercise is protected by government, give men the freedom to control their persons and their property. They mean that a worker has free access to all employment opportunities; that he may take work whenever the wages and other conditions are acceptable to him; refuse it when they are not; they mean that the worker's will and inclination prevail regarding whether and when he will accept or continue in employment, not the will of anyone else — unless the worker has come to some voluntary agreement on such matters with someone else. Property and Contract. "No man can be called a free man unless he has these rights intact. Unless workers are free men, they will not keep the house of labor clean. As a matter of fact, unless they are free men with the rights of free men, they will be unable to keep it clean. Men who have learned to accept being pushed around, who have been compelled to follow certain decisions on matters affecting their most intimate personal affairs and responsibilities, are immersed powerlessly in dirt so pervasive that they have trouble remaining conscious of it. They may not even think of cleaning up things. And perhaps they are better off so, for if by a powerful exercise of imagination and will they should conceive of a cleaning operation, they would be literally incapable of doing anything about it, and they might get badly hurt. "For government has not been doing the job for which it was created. Certainly it has not been doing the job in labor relations. We have government committees studying all phases of the labor-management field, except the critical phase — namely, the status of law and law-enforcement. The basic job of government everywhere, and particularly in the labor relations field, is to protect and promote the rights of private property and freedom of contract. "Our governments have been established in order to do three great jobs: (1) prevent and punish violence, fraud; intimidation, and coercion; (2) protect the personal freedom and the freedom of contract of all persons, including

Robert Allen Reports:

New Vanguard Shot Due Early Next Week

WASHINGTON — A new attempt is to be made to orbit into space another of those trouble-plagued VANGUARDs — sometime early next week. This "improved" missile, to be launched from the Air Force's test center at Cape Canaveral, Fla., will carry a 20 inch, 23-1/2 lb. satellite containing 10-1/2 lbs. of instruments designed especially to transmit information about the earth's cloud cover. Primary purpose of this VANGUARD is to obtain atmospheric data with the object of improving weather predicting. This VANGUARD firing will be the first of four at the rate of one a month. All will be under the direction of the National Aeronautics & Space Administration, and will conclude the VANGUARD program, NASA was created by Congress last year, and is headed by Dr. T. Keith Glennan. Previous VANGUARD launches were conducted by the Navy, which developed this missile as part of the International Geophysical Year, that ended last December 31. Of the seven VANGUARDs fired since December 1957, only one is in orbit. Successfully launched on March 17, 1958 this 6 1/2 inch, 4 lb. satellite is still circling the earth, and U. S. scientists estimate it will continue to do so for hundreds of years.

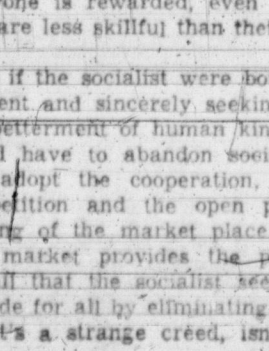

Not a Chance

So far there is no indication those strident congressional blasts at the 27-1/2 percent oil depletion allowance will get any further in this Congress than others. This long-argued issue still appears at a dead standstill. For example, Representative Wilbur Mills (D., Ark.), chairman of the powerful Ways and Means Committee, which has jurisdiction over tax legislation, is frankly telling colleagues he has no intention of considering this depletion allowance. And Treasury Secretary Robert Anderson, in effect, said the same thing at a closed meeting of the equally potent House Appropriations Committee. Representative Sidney Yates (D., Ill.), long a vigorous critic of the oil allowance, questioned Anderson about it. Yates made the point that revision of this and other depletion grants would considerably increase federal revenues and thus help balance the budget. "Would you be in favor of obtaining income from these sources?" asked Yates. "That has to be appraised, not only in the context of our overall tax structure," replied Anderson warily, "but also in the light of the national policy affecting the development and preservation of our natural resources. It is vitally important to maintain an adequacy of such resources for defense purposes."

Failures of Government

Trade-union leaders and businessmen are undoubtedly guilty of a good many kinds of antisocial conduct. Their transgressions, however, are insignificant when compared with the failures of government. Established to protect private property and freedom of contract, our governments have themselves been guilty of some of the worst forms of expropriation and interference with freedom of contract — not only, but especially, in labor relations. Concealed essentially in order to maintain the peace — to prevent and remedy violence and coercion — government has abdicated that responsibility to a great degree. "Government has taken away from workers one of the most valuable aspects of their property and contract rights: It has told them that they cannot make their own employment contracts. A worker has to accept the dictate of a government agency as to his 'appropriate bargaining unit.' Once he finds himself in this arbitrary grouping, he is forced to give up his right to bargain for himself. If a majority of the employees in that grouping so will it. Indeed, if he has his objection to the union chosen by a majority, he is more than likely to find himself in a very bad way. But he will be unable to do anything about it because the government authorized to protect his property and contract rights has expropriated him."

Looking Sideways

By WHITNEY BOLTON NEW YORK — Twice, and perhaps even three times, during the long months when the Castro revolution in Cuba seemed to be at least a stalemate if not hopeless enterprise, I dropped into a frowzy, somewhat bedraggled little night club on the upper West Side of New York and talked to ardent Castroites and what they said resulted in a column for each visit. Some of you may remember, perhaps not. The last one, at least three to four months ago, had a few at full throttle, exhorting and table-slapping and promising "une grande surprise. Pronto." Well, as it happened—and when it came, it was a great surprise. Not as soon as they predicted to me, but soon enough. The other day, wandering that transplanted Antilles area of Manhattan, I dropped in once again and there were all the same again: Tomasito, Josefina, Maria and El Macho. This time you could hear the Cuban beat of music all the way out to the cold sidewalk, and inside the air was festive and gay and noisy instead of conspiratorial. It was now a night club, a true one, going strong and noisily, instead of a tatty little basement with a discouraged little band and some sullen plectrums mouthing big, brave words. "Ole, viejito," cried Maria, as I walked in. "Asentase. Es la noche de victoria."

by EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D. The most serious and puzzling of the diseases involving the joints is called rheumatoid arthritis. This disease is responsible for untold suffering and enormous economic loss. Treatment is by no means satisfactory, though increasingly good results are being obtained. Fortunately, a considerable number of those afflicted recover anyway. The disease begins first in the delicate lining around the joints, known as the synovial membrane. This membrane becomes inflamed and thickened and fluid accumulates inside the joint cavity. In most instances the swelling is slight at first and the pain and stiffness are relatively mild. The joints most likely to be involved are the wrists, middle joints of the fingers, ankles and knees. Once a joint is affected it is likely to remain involved for some time. The disease does not skip around from joint to joint, as in rheumatic fever. As time goes on, other joint tissues become involved. It is possible for the cartilage between the joints to be destroyed, leaving a joint which is no longer movable. A single specific cause for rheumatoid arthritis has not been discovered. Such information would be most helpful, but it does not seem to be just around the corner. Since rheumatoid arthritis is a chronic, long-lasting disease, emphasis should be placed on the long-term treatment. A basic program should include at least eight items: Psychological adjustment — a balance between rest and activity, diet and bowel management, correction of anemia, cautious removal of centers of infection, measures aimed at relief of pain, corrective and postural exercises, and prevention and correction of deformity. Some victims of early rheumatoid arthritis are advised to take care of our increasing domestic consumption. At the same time, we must remember that during the Suez crisis we were confronted with a very serious situation. That's an aspect that must always be kept in mind. "I take it from your answer that when you are telling us that there has been no change of viewpoint from that of your immediate predecessor," said Yates. "To the extent that he made no recommendations on this, there is no," replied Anderson. "And you have no plans to make any recommendations?" perked Yates. "None that I now of, at this time," said Anderson. "The odds against the Senate doing anything on the oil depletion allowance are just as big as in the House."

NEW YORK — The New York Times used to have a great reporter who often raised his hand when attorneys offered self-serving stuff under anonymity, and said: "My city desk has no use for gossip!" On inquiry, I learn part. We thought you had the heart for Batista. You were so silent and unexpressive. But Junia said, no, he has a heart for Castro. "I had heart for neither," I said. "I never took a position with you. I did not cry out for either man. I listened. Let us arrange this straight. Then we can talk. It is not my business to take a position about another man's country. What could I contribute to either side? I will say that I did not believe Castro could prevail, because it seemed impossible. Not enough money, a highly rigidly army, wrong ammunition for the wrong guns against an entrenched, walled and solid dictator. The grapt and the elephant. It seemed hopeless." "But now it has come out richly," said Josefine. "We are all going back home. You have a point: Cuba's pains are not your concern." "I didn't say they were not my concern. I said they were not my business. Any man is concerned for brutality and murder. You fought that down and swept the place clean. True. But has total order resulted?" El Torito, a small young man with thin wrists and slender fingers, polished, small shoes and elaborately combed hair, moved in. "Not yet," he said. "But can you imagine our Fidel will install a regime of murder and pillage when so many have died and been tortured to sponge away those obscenities? Naturally not. For a few days, even a few weeks, there will be the habitual result of sudden change: some violence. It always happens. Was the French Revolution a daily thing? But once we have quelled the dissidents and punished the wicked, you will see. The world will see. Fidel is an educated, civilized and pretty brained man. His brain is an instrument for good. Meanwhile, here in New York, no longer exiles, we celebrate. Dance with us, share a cup with us, rejoice in a decent man coming to power over a monster." "It's a bad word, Torito," I said. "Power. Best say a good man came to opportunity for good. Let us see how that opportunity is employed." "Two hours later, I left the rejuvenated club. The last words were like the last words three months and eight months ago. Helpful, proud words. "You will see."

Robert Allen Reports:

WASHINGTON — A new attempt is to be made to orbit into space another of those trouble-plagued VANGUARDs — sometime early next week. This "improved" missile, to be launched from the Air Force's test center at Cape Canaveral, Fla., will carry a 20 inch, 23-1/2 lb. satellite containing 10-1/2 lbs. of instruments designed especially to transmit information about the earth's cloud cover. Primary purpose of this VANGUARD is to obtain atmospheric data with the object of improving weather predicting. This VANGUARD firing will be the first of four at the rate of one a month. All will be under the direction of the National Aeronautics & Space Administration, and will conclude the VANGUARD program, NASA was created by Congress last year, and is headed by Dr. T. Keith Glennan. Previous VANGUARD launches were conducted by the Navy, which developed this missile as part of the International Geophysical Year, that ended last December 31. Of the seven VANGUARDs fired since December 1957, only one is in orbit. Successfully launched on March 17, 1958 this 6 1/2 inch, 4 lb. satellite is still circling the earth, and U. S. scientists estimate it will continue to do so for hundreds of years.

Not a Chance

So far there is no indication those strident congressional blasts at the 27-1/2 percent oil depletion allowance will get any further in this Congress than others. This long-argued issue still appears at a dead standstill. For example, Representative Wilbur Mills (D., Ark.), chairman of the powerful Ways and Means Committee, which has jurisdiction over tax legislation, is frankly telling colleagues he has no intention of considering this depletion allowance. And Treasury Secretary Robert Anderson, in effect, said the same thing at a closed meeting of the equally potent House Appropriations Committee. Representative Sidney Yates (D., Ill.), long a vigorous critic of the oil allowance, questioned Anderson about it. Yates made the point that revision of this and other depletion grants would considerably increase federal revenues and thus help balance the budget. "Would you be in favor of obtaining income from these sources?" asked Yates. "That has to be appraised, not only in the context of our overall tax structure," replied Anderson warily, "but also in the light of the national policy affecting the development and preservation of our natural resources. It is vitally important to maintain an adequacy of such resources for defense purposes."

Ella Fitzgerald Queened On Show

By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI)—NBC-TV's Bell Telephone Hour, offered a half-hour special over a full hour Tuesday night.

There was nothing very special about the first half of the show at all. It was concocted of some awfully doughy material—a section from the bloated Gershwin Concerto in F, some textureless and lesser Jerome Kern songs sung monotonously by Martha Wright and Russell Nype, and a squandering of Rose Stevens on pieces.

But magically, at the half-way mark the show began to flick off sparks. Ella Fitzgerald, working in tandem with Duke Ellington, appeared and after a slightly sputterish start really began gunning on "Do Nothing Till You Hear From Me." It was a stunner—packed with feeling and flow—and when Miss Fitz counterperched with a luminous "I'm Beginning To See The Light," the Bell Hour had a small, compact spectacular on its hands right there.

When Miss Fitzgerald is at the top of her game, she giants over everyone else and Tuesday night, despite some limp orchestral backing, she glanted.

Over its last 15 minutes the Bell Hour also scored this time with a laker. The New York City Ballet's attack on George Balanchine's "Stars and Stripes," Melissa Hayden, Jacques D'Amboise and Ed Villella headed the labor force and although "Stars and Stripes" is not a very meaty dance piece, it is stuffed with bluster and high spirits and Tuesday night it was snapped off at the kind of rollicking clip rarely seen on television.

One further note about the show's production. It was clean and stylish and happily unemotional through their entire enlistment period. All these enlistment options are guaranteed before enlistment to qualified men and women.

Interested persons desiring more information concerning these enlistment options are asked to contact SFC Dills during his visit here. He will be glad to explain in detail all about this choice before enlistment. He can be contacted at the Local Draft Board.

Sgt. Dills To Recruit Here On Friday

Sergeant First Class John C. Dills, U. S. Army Recruiter for Gray County will be here Friday. It was announced today by the U. S. Army Recruiting Service.

The U. S. Army is now offering applicants the choice of specific job, choice of overseas area, and choice of specific school. And in instances an applicant can have dual choice. In addition to the above enlistment options, buddies can enlist for specific units now stationed in Europe. This option permits buddies to remain together through their entire enlistment period. All these enlistment options are guaranteed before enlistment to qualified men and women.

Interested persons desiring more information concerning these enlistment options are asked to contact SFC Dills during his visit here. He will be glad to explain in detail all about this choice before enlistment. He can be contacted at the Local Draft Board.
