Senate Okays Bill On Pension Plans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate has passed a bill to assure 38 million working people that the pensions they anticipate will be available when they retire.

The measure also would give tax advantages to induce millions more—the self-employed and workers whose companies do not offer pensions—to provide for their retirement years.

The bill was approved by a 93-

0 vote Wednesday night despite some criticism that it promised too much and didn't do enough. It was sent to the House, where Speaker Carl Albert has promised to give the matter top priority this year.

The bill's chief provision would require that anyone who works more than five years under a pension plan will receive, upon reaching retirement age, at least a fraction of a full pension.

Senate studies showed that only a minority of the 38 million workers enrolled under 20,000 differing pension plans would actually receive payments. Many of the plans pay nothing unless the worker stays on until age 60 or 65.

But nothing in the bill compels an employer to establish a pension plan or fix the amount of pensions. Those matters are left to labor-management bargaining.

The average pension paid today amounts to $141 a month.

Other provisions insure pension funds so workers would collect even if their companies fail and require employers to set aside, over 30 years, enough money to meet their pension obligations.

The $2,500 which existing law permits the self-employed to deduct from taxes and invest toward retirement would be tripled, to $7,500, as President Nixon proposed. The retiree would have to pay taxes on the money when he starts collecting.

Another tax provision would permit workers not covered by pension plans to set aside for retirement and deduct from current taxes up to $1,500 a year. This will reduce the government's revenues by an estimated $350 million a year. Nixon had proposed a $2,500 deduction.

Led by Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., liberals succeeded in voting to impose for the first time a limit on the size of corporate tax deductions for executive pensions.

The Senate formula would limit firms, including the "professional corporations" set up by doctors and lawyers who incorporate themselves for tax savings, to tax deductions large enough to provide pensions of up to $75,000 a year. That is considerably less than the $200,000-range pensions many corporations now award top people out of tax-deductible funds.

Under the bill, workers are assured partial vesting—a guaranteed payment in retirement—after five years at a job in a firm which offers a pension plan.

Astros Testing Apollo

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Skylab 2 astronauts today photographed X-ray light sources several thousand light years from earth and tested their disabled Apollo command ship to make sure they have a way to get back home Tuesday.

Packing as much scientific investigation as they can into the final days of their two-month voyage, Alan L. Bean, Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma used their solar observatory telescopes to make a dozen pictures of an unusual blue star in the Scorpio constellation.

The special telescopic cameras may give a fairly accurate reading of the amount of X-ray energy coming from the star which is estimated to be from several hundred to several thousand light years from this planet.

The astronauts also had their next-to-last earth resources picture-taking sweep over 3,300 miles of the United States.

The research pilots took pictures Wednesday across the United States and over Europe and the Middle East in two separate sweeps to collect data for meteorologists, geologists and urban planners.

The astronauts' checks on the Apollo ferry ship, which has only half of its vital steering rockets in working order, are to make sure they understand the positioning of a number of electrical systems work properly.

"It's not going to be as elaborate as last time (similar tests for Skylab 1)," Flight Director Milton Windler said. "It's really just a real limited procedures check."

Earth resources survey officials said they asked the crew to correct a problem with one of the precise sensors used in the data gathering sweeps.

Earth resources officer John Stanley said the crew would try to jar the instrument in case a piece of nylon material around it might be hanging it up. He said if that didn't work, the Skylab 3 crew might try to fix the device, used to measure heat and altitude of spots on the ground, during a spacewalk.

Garriott told flight controllers a test of a powerful laser beam throwing an intense light into the sky over the Goddard Space Flight Center in Greenbelt, Md., appeared to be a success.

"I've got the laser loud and clear," he said as the spaceship flew 270 miles overhead. "It's blue-green light, very steady." Bean paused at the end of his busy workday Wednesday to ask flight controllers if they had a daily news summary to read up to the crew, an activity the fliers sometimes have had time to listen to and sometimes have not.

Feedlot Suit Dismissed In District Court

AUSTIN — The suit brought by Kint Philpott, et al., against the Cockrell Cattle Co., the Texas Air Quality Control Board and the board's director, Charles Barden, was dismissed today by the District Court of Travis County in Austin.

Motion for dismissal in the case was made by Cockrell Cattle Co. attorney Ben Sturgeon of Pampa.

In granting the motion for dismissal, the court ruled there was no evidence any action should be taken against the defendants in the matter.

All judicial action in the case is now completed and there will be no action for damages or injunction against the defendants.

Philpott's attorneys announced they would make an administrative appeal with the Air Quality Control Board, asking that the final permit for the feedlot operated by Cockrell not be granted.

Representing the board in the civil suit was Assistant Attorney General Troy Webb.

The suit originally arose from the granting to the Cockrell Cattle Co. last year a permit to operate a feedlot east of Pampa.

OF VICE PRESIDENT

White House Dismisses Rumors Of Resignation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House denied again today that anyone in authority was pressuring Vice President Spiro T. Agnew to resign because he is under federal investigation in connection with alleged political corruption in his home state of Maryland.

Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren also dismissed a Washington Post report quoting an unidentified Eastern Republican as saying he had been told by a top White House official that Agnew's resignation was expected within the "next few weeks" and would give President Nixon "an opportunity to set a whole new tone to the administration."

That statement, Warren said, "absolutely does not reflect the thinking of the President."

Asked directly if Nixon wants Agnew to quit, Warren said: "We will have no comment on this entire matter until the case is settled by courts."

A group of House Democrats, led by Rep. John Conyers of Michigan, met Wednesday to discuss the Agnew situation but refused to reveal the substance of the closed-door talks. Earlier this year, the same group explored the possibility of impeachment proceedings against President Nixon.

Following the meeting in Conyers' office, Rep. Bella Abzug, D-N.Y., said "Something will come out of this (meeting). We're going to do something and you'll know about it when the times comes."

Earlier Wednesday, a spokesman for the House Judiciary Committee said some panel members had discussed the Agnew case among themselves, but denied a report that Justice Department officials were present during the discussions. The committee has jurisdiction over impeachment investigations.

The activity on Capitol Hill followed a White House denial of a charge from a source close to Agnew, reported by UPI earlier Wednesday, that the White House was behind reports of an impending Agnew resignation.

Warren also told reporters, "There is no disposition on the part of the White House or people in the White House to force the vice president to resign."

A federal grand jury in Baltimore was scheduled to meet today under tight security to begin investigating alleged corruption in Maryland politics. Agnew was told by U.S.

There has been no official confirmation of reports that Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson has given a go-ahead for any presentation to the grand jury of information from the Agnew investigation.

Both Sides Argue On Tapes Dispute

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Working right up to a court-imposed deadline, the White House and Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox tried today to find a compromise to their dispute over President Nixon's Watergate tapes.

A few hours before lawyers for the two sides were to go before a federal appeals court to report on their efforts, a source close to the situation said "we're still working on it" and it was learned a third meeting to try to resolve the dilemma was held Wednesday.

Cox insists that a federal grand jury considering further Watergate indictments must hear the tape recordings of nine presidential conversations about the scandal before taking action.

Nixon contends that surrendering the tapes would violate essential confidentiality in the Oval Office and destroy the presidency. Indications were the two sides were still far apart, although administration sources indicated that the President was willing to compromise by offering Cox edited transcripts of the tapes, deleted of material that he feels must remain secret in the public interest.

Cox met with representatives of the President for the third time this week on Wednesday and the White House said the suggestion by the appeals court that Cox be permitted to hear the Watergate tapes still was being assessed.

There was no indication Nixon himself attended any of the meetings with Cox. Nixon's chief representative on the discussions was J. Fred Buzhardt.

FOR COUNTIES Officials Discuss Role For Judges

A plan proposed by the Texas Constitutional Revision Committee last week that would divide the duties of the county judges in Texas into two offices — judicial and administrative — and would make it mandatory for county judges to be attorneys, was discussed in Amarillo yesterday at the fall meeting of the Panhandle County Judges and Commissioners Association.

Gray County Judge Don Cain said today in respect to the proposal, "I think the proposal should be permissible under the constitution instead of mandatory. What fits one county doesn't fit another."

According to the proposals, which will have to be ratified by the state legislature when it meets as a constitutional convention in January, 1974, before taking effect, the judicial duties in a county would be handled by a "circuit judge" who would have to be a lawyer.

Administrative duties would be performed by a "county executive" who would not have to be an attorney.

At the present time, county judges in Texas do not have to be attorneys.

Judge Cain said in larger counties, judges handling judicial matters are almost always attorneys.

However, in some of the smaller counties where judicial proceedings do not come up often, experienced laymen capable of performing the administrative duties in probably most cases, Cain said.

He went on to say that since 1928 all the county judges in Gray County have been attorneys.

He said that some of the sparsely populated counties don't even have a lawyer living in the county and that some might have only one, who serves as county attorney.

In closing, Judge Cain reiterated his feeling that the matter of what type county judge a county had should be "left to the people of each county" to decide.

Officers for the coming year were elected at the meeting. Chosen were Dallam County Commissioner Bernard Eads, president; Randall County Commissioner Jim Fletcher, vice-president; and Judge Cain, secretary-treasurer.

Attending the meeting from Gray County besides Cain were Commissioners Mary Dwyer, Don Hinton and Jimmy McCracken.

Colson Refuses To Talk To Watergate Committee

WASHINGTON (UPI) — After losing his bid for immunity, former White House aide Charles W. Colson turned silent before the Senate Watergate committee Wednesday.

Chairman Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., told reporters after the 2½-hour closed session that because of Colson's refusal to talk about the bugging scandal he had been eliminated as a witness when the committee resumes public hearings next Monday.

Colson declined to answer any questions about Watergate after his request for a grant of immunity from prosecution in exchange for his cooperation was unanimously rejected.

"The committee would have liked to have his testimony," Ervin told reporters. "But he clearly is entitled under the Constitution to plead the 5th Amendment."

Colson, who formally served as a special counsel to President Nixon, had been prominently mentioned in earlier testimony before the committee in connection with Watergate and other political "dirty tricks."

Ervin said Colson stressed he was "innocent of any wrongdoing" and that he hoped forthcoming grand jury action would "make possible" a voluntary committee appearance later.

In other Watergate-related developments:

Spokesmen for the White House and Special Watergate Prosecutor Archibald Cox confirmed that the two sides had been meeting in an effort to reach an out-of-court compromise in their dispute over President Nixon's Watergate tapes. But a White House source said the negotiations showed "very little movement."

The three major commercial television networks announced agreement to continue live coverage of the hearings on a rotating basis.

Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr., R-Conn., a committee member, said he believes four of the original Watergate defendants—Bernard Barker, Frank A. Sturgis, Virgilio R. Gonzalez and Eugenio R. Martinez—were not treated fairly in the legal proceedings against them. In a CBS News interview, Weicker said: "I don't think in their case the sentencing power or the indictment power—either one—has been used in a fair way."

SIGNS ENCOURAGING

Surviving Babies Battling Diseases

DENVER (UPI) — Three of the five remaining Stanek sextuplets are battling lung disease that killed their infant sister and doctors said today two of them are in poor condition.

The prognosis has to be guarded, "a hospital spokesman said. "But the longer they survive the better off they are. Each extra hour is encouraging."

Two of the other children born Sunday night to the 34-year-old wife of a junior accountant were in fair condition and the fifth child is in good condition.

Edna Stanek, 34, saw her children for the first time Wednesday.

They seemed so small and fragile," she said.

Julia, the weakest of the babies who were born seven weeks prematurely, died Tuesday night of hyaline membrane disease. The illness prevents the lungs from delivering an adequate oxygen supply to the blood.

Julia died despite two complete blood changes.

The news was not totally unexpected," Eugene Stanek, 31, said Wednesday after visiting with his wife. "We knew the risks. The doctors did what they could."

Obstetrician Tibor Engel said when the babies were delivered it appeared they might be the first sextuplets of the century to survive.

Catherine, Nathan and Stephen suffered the same breathing problems as Julia. A complete blood exchange was performed on Catherine and Nathan underwent a blood transfusion. They were listed in poor condition.

"Catherine's condition improved somewhat since the blood exchange," Engel said.

Stephen was in fair condition.

Kiwanians Set Joint Installation

A joint installation of officers in the Downtown and Top O' Texas Kiwanis clubs is scheduled at a 7:30 p.m. banquet at the Pampa Country Club tonight.

James McCoy, scheduled to be inducted as president of the Downtown Club, was hospitalized this forenoon and will be unable to attend tonight's ceremony.

Cleo Parks will be installed as president of the Top O' Texas Club along with other officers and directors of both clubs. Division VII Lt. Gov. Gerald Hall of Vega will be the installing officer.

Brezhnev Issues Appeal For Honest Relationship

SOFIA, Bulgaria (UPI) — Soviet party leader Leonid Brezhnev called Wednesday for a "new set of principles" in international relations based on "an honest approach by all participants."

He warned, without mentioning names, that "some circles" wanted a return to the "icy period" of the Cold War era, but said such a move would be a "grave mistake."

Brezhnev, who is the general secretary of the Soviet Communist party, made the remarks in a speech at a Communist party rally in Sofia, Bulgaria.

"Perhaps a new system of international relations is necessary," he said. "But it should be based on new principles and an honest approach by all participants."

The party leader, in a reference to current negotiations on European security underway in Geneva, said, "It will be a grave mistake if present chances are missed."

"Peace and European security is not necessary only to the Soviet Union," he said. "All nations need it and profit from it."

Brezhnev warned that "the forces which come out against relaxation have by no means laid down arms, dreaming of taking mankind back to the icy period of the Cold War." Bulgarian President Todor Zhivkov, who presented the "Order of Hero of the Peoples Republic of Bulgaria" to Brezhnev, echoed his words.

Zhivkov spoke of some "reactionary forces" trying to turn the tide of conciliation and accused Chinese leaders of "trying to fish in muddy waters" and "opening a second front against the Soviet Union."

Soviet condemnation of China has been strongly echoed during the past six weeks in the news media of Bulgaria.

FARMERS HURT MOST

Mobeetie Short Of Diesel Fuel

By CLAY LIVELY (See related story, Page 2.)

Antifreeze is in short supply everywhere, gasoline is hard to find in some places and, in at least one place in the Texas Panhandle, diesel fuel is harder to come by than a completely still, windless day.

Farmers in Mobeetie can't find enough diesel to use in their tractors to harvest their row crops or plant their wheat.

The shortage is not one that has been noticed only recently. Melvin May of Mobeetie told The News there hasn't been enough available since the spring.

May said most of the farmers in the Mobeetie area felt fortunate to have been able to harvest their wheat crops this past June and July.

As things look now, there might not be any crop to harvest come next summer.

Mobeetie has only one distributor for diesel fuel. His supply has been on allotment since the spring.

For the month of August, May said, the distributor had only 4,000 gallons of diesel available. In August, 1972, the dealer had 7,000 gallons.

That was at a time when the Nixon administration was not calling on American farmers to plant all available acreage in crops as it is now.

Around Mobeetie, farmers may not be able to plant what they have in past years, let alone any additional acreage.

May said he and other farmers had been in contact with various state and federal agencies as well as elected state and federal officers seeking relief. As yet there have been no results.

The allotment received by the diesel distributor in Mobeetie is determined by his supplier. At this time, the Nixon administration and its energy experts are deciding whether to order mandatory allocation of fuel.

If the allocation becomes mandatory, it may apply to just heating oil, of which there is a

Antifreeze Supply Facing Shortages

By CLAY LIVELY
Added to the list of items in short supply across the nation at the present time has been antifreeze.

In Pampa at least, the shortage does not seem to be critical at this time. Several Pampa antifreeze suppliers were questioned today about the situation here.

Warren Mayo of Mayo Oil Co. said he thought he had enough on hand for this winter. He added that next year may be rough, however.

Jack Vaughn of Vaughn Oil Co. and Sharon Haralson of Haralson Oil Co. told the News they have had orders for antifreeze cancelled by suppliers.

Haralson said one of his suppliers has cancelled an order, but he said he believes he may get some from another source.

Haralson said he bought antifreeze early this year and, like Mayo, thinks he has enough on hand for the winter.

Vaughn has had two suppliers cancel orders. He said drums of antifreeze are not available but he will be able to get the product in cases.

The main reason for the shortage of antifreeze is apparently the scarcity of the basic ingredient in the product, ethylene glycol.

There has been a depressed market for ethylene glycol for the past few years and much of

Women Complain About Textbooks

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—A consultant for a firm that publishes school textbooks argued Wednesday with contentions the story books contain tales that keep women in stereotyped roles.

"We had a scene in one story where the little girl was only thinking about her tummy and the little boy was only interested in the presents under the Christmas tree," Jean Lantz said. "This is certainly a reversal of the stereotype that the way to a man's heart is through his stomach and diamonds are a girl's best friend."

Lantz, a consultant to the Silver Burdett Publishing Co., defended her company's books before a hearing of the Texas Education Agency which is conducting hearings this week on several hundred proposed textbooks for the state's public schools.

An organization called the Continuing Task Force for the Education of Women (CTFEW) condemned some Silver Burdett books for subjugating women and their roles in society.

Woman Reports Exposure Case

A Pampa woman reported to police last night shortly after 9 p.m. that after leaving Highland General Hospital and getting into her car in the north parking lot, a man walked up to the car and exposed himself to her.

She said she locked the car when she saw him approaching and he then tried to enter the vehicle.

After the incident the man walked east on Kentucky St. and then turned north and walked up the alley between Hamilton and Coffee Sts.

The woman told police she could identify the man if she sees him again.

OF SMALL TEXAS TOWN

Young Artists Accepted By Suspicious Citizens

By TOM GEDDIE
EDOM, Tex. (UPI)—Mr. Spot's been around town a long time, mooching meals off back door steps. He never took to people much until Doug and Sharon Brown came along three years ago with their new ideas and different ways.

Sharon began feeding the black and white mongrel dog every day. She patched him up once when he got hit by a car, and saved his life when somebody filled his belly with poison.

Now he spends his days lazing in the sun, right out there where everybody can see him on the front porch of one of the arts and crafts shops run by the young couple and six of their friends.

Mr. Spot was one of the first to accept the Browns in Edom, a tiny (population 201) East Texas community cut off by green farmland, blacktop roads and age. Young people leave town after school and art is a Norman Rockwell drawing from the front of a Saturday Evening Post.

"People were suspicious of us at first," said Suzanne Ray, an "outsider" who drives 20 miles from Tyler every day to make jewelry as a member of the Edom Craft Community. "They had never seen anyone make a living this way."

There were rumors in Sunday School about "those hippies," about wild drug parties and goodness knows what else.

"They would have been just as suspicious of a herd of kangaroos living in the field out there," Sharon said. "You know just anything different, they weren't used to."

Rotary Club Still Selling Film Tickets

"We have passed the halfway mark in ticket sales for a sellout of the M.K. Brown Auditorium," said Chuck Zlomke, general chairman for the Rotary "Wonderful World of Travel" series.

Zlomke made the announcement at yesterday's meeting of the Pampa Rotary Club at the Coronado Inn.

Gary Stephens and Floyd Watson, co-chairmen for ticket sales, had given their teams' total dollars collected figures prior to Zlomke's statement.

Zlomke was high man for the week with $240 sold.

Individuals desiring tickets are urged to do so soon as the club intends to work until there is a complete sellout of seats.

Tickets may be purchased from any Rotary Club member at one of the following locations: Chamber of Commerce, Security Federal Savings and Loan, Southwestern Public Service, Panhandle Savings and Loan, Southwestern Bell Telephone, First National Bank or Citizens Bank and Trust.

Wayne Stedum, manager of Pampa Cable TV, gave the program for yesterday's meeting. He explained the background of what it takes to get the TV and sound into a Pampa residence.

Barber Drug 1600 N. Hobart

Sharon knows about small towns. She went to school with barefoot boys in striped overalls at Heath, Tex., before she grew up and moved to California to be a social worker. Doug, he was a California boy all his life.

They opened the Potters Brown Shop to sell Doug's pottery and pretty soon some more artists moved in and they all got together and held a fair last year.

It was so successful they're doing it again Saturday and Sunday, featuring paintings, sculpture, batik, macrame, prints, photography, weaving, leather goods, furniture, knives, jewelry and glassware. Artists will be coming from as far away as Georgia.

The first fair "sort of polarized people," Sharon said. "People who thought we were sort of okay came to our defense and are really behind us now."

"That's just one of the things about this part of the country, and I guess everywhere in rural America," she said. "People just don't accept outsiders right off. You've got to prove yourself."

Doug and Sharon finally felt they had been accepted when their neighbors voted them into the volunteer fire department—the one with the truck that was used in the Korean war.

"I really feel like I have an identity out here," Sharon said. "Even if some people are suspicious, they know I'm alive."

"People in a community this size that's this confined are really important to each other."

Miss Ona Morris — she's 71 years old today and she's been teaching in the Sunday School for 35 years—likes to play boogie woogie on her piano and visit with Sharon.

"We're a good Christian community, and everybody's ready to help and take care of the others."

"Miss Ona and I talk about herbs a lot," Sharon said. "She remembers herbs from when she was a little kid that her mother used around the house. We talk about poke salad and...

"Yeah," Miss Ona said, "and Doug didn't seem to know about poke salad. He likes it now since we passed him a dish of it."

Windbreaks Can Help Save Fuel

Windbreaks of trees and shrubs can effect a significant savings in fuel and energy, says Bob Frewin, silviculturist with the Texas Forest Service at Lubbock.

So long as fuel supplies remain critically short, Frewin said, Texans should make the most of every unit of energy available.

A test by the Lake States Forest Experiment Station at Holdrege, Neb., some years ago, measured the fuel savings possible when a house is protected from winter winds.

Two identical wood houses, one protected and the other exposed to the full sweep of the wind, were maintained at 70 degrees Fahrenheit. The amount of fuel used to heat the protected house was 22.9 per cent less than the amount used in the exposed house.

In another experiment, this one by the Montana Agricultural Experiment Station at Havre, two herds of cattle were tested. One herd was protected by trees and shrubs. The other herd was kept on an open lot with only the partial protection of a shed.

The protected cattle gained 34.9 more pounds of weight per animal during a mild winter and lost 10.5 pounds less weight per animal during a severe winter than the exposed herd.

West Texas landowners who want more information about windbreaks and how to select and order seedlings can contact Frewin at the Agronomy Department, Texas Tech University, Lubbock or call 806-742-5109.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

FRIDAY, SEPT. 21
Your birthday today: In future times you will refer to this as the year of "the breaks"—those subtle, turning incidents which may direct your career efforts towards new goals, or which you can use in switching from one discipline to another. External conditions include surprises; a few are severe, all provoke healthy growth. Relationships thrive. Today's natives are curious, willing to travel to learn, but apt to keep their knowledge to themselves.

Aries (March 21-April 19): Wind up your week with zest and efficiency in this generally improving drift of conditions. Reserve your loose change for specifics, leaving nothing for impulse buying.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Your ability to persuade people to do the right thing is rising. As soon as you can put business aside, do so, and concentrate on making up for slack time on personal interests.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): On paper, your position may look better than it is in reality. Expect others to react in unexpected ways. It's up to you to decide what you want, and how to get it.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Look alive. Get around to all local contacts; catch up on developments of the week. Finances should receive increase, but put it into reserves rather than immediate purchases.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Complete old work; catch up accounts and correspondence. Leave nothing to chance or guesswork. Most current details you will never get back to cover; need doing right, once.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Take a rest during the day if you can; if not, then pace yourself to avoid fatigue. Influential people seem to be favorably disposed; ask for what you want. Pursue romance actively.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Career considerations come to peak interest, should have priority. You may be doing something or following some method for the very last time. Be ready for new techniques.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Move in for successful conclusion of pending matters. While you are at it, ask a few good questions, provide

WORRY CLINIC

Dr. Harry shows the desire of people for practical medical explanations. All science is based on a few simple laws. The most effective doctors thus employ a lot of "Horse Sense" and verbalize freely so their patients understand the "why" of various treatments.

CASE Y-522: Dr. Harry, aged 62, is an active dental practitioner.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "we have you scheduled for a 3-hour seminar at our State Dental Society."

"But could you insert a few remarks about geriatric medicine, for the benefit of our older practitioners?"

"For example, many of us are afflicted with insomnia as well as peptic ulcer and hypertension."

"So give us some of your practical prescriptions for these common ailments."

MEDICAL "HORSE SENSE"

A great deal of restless sleeping among people past middle age is due to what I term urinary insomnia.

For older folks often waken by 2 or 3 A.M. to go to the bathroom and void urine.

Then they begin to worry and fret about tomorrow's problems or their income tax until they can't go back to sleep.

Here are 3 common factors that make oldsters waken to visit the bathroom by 3 A.M.:

(1) Obesity!
For excess blubber presses in upon the urinary bladder, thus putting more strain upon the sphincter (shut-off) muscle that normally keeps the bladder shut tight.

Thus, maybe only 4 ounces of urine will produce the same urgency to void that 8 ounces will do for a slender person.

By lopping off the excess poundage, you may thus defer going to the bathroom several hours longer.

(2) Acid urine burns and thus makes its victim wish to void, even when only 3 or 4 ounces of urine have accumulated in the bladder.

Neutralize such acidity with antacid tablets, such as are used for peptic ulcer.

Then your bladder may hold twice as much before you feel the same urgency to void.

(3) Because of habitual voiding of urine when the bladder holds no more than 4 ounces, your bladder actually develops the habit of demanding to be emptied at that 4-ounce point.

So retrain your bladder by gritting your teeth and forcing it to let out a notch.

Do this during the daytime. Deliberately drink excess fluids at that time and have this battle with your bladder!

For a battle it really is, since organs seem to resist changing their habits, so they prefer to make us their slaves!

As for peptic ulcer, that can be relieved greatly by avoiding caffeine beverages, for the latter stimulate more gastric acid.

Also, neutralize the stomach acid by protein, avoiding any chunks of fat.

For unmastered fat (as suet on beefsteak) prods the stomach for many hours as it makes a futile attempt to digest such fat.

Remember, fat is not digested by gastric juice, for fat requires bile and the intestinal juices for its digestion.

Liquid fats, like butter and oils, will go through the stomach fast, but not chunks of fat!

High blood pressure can largely be remedied by widening your cosmic perspective and thus gaining serenity of soul, meanwhile using tranquilizers and also taking off excess poundage.

So send for my booklet "How to Lose 10 Pounds in 10 Days," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of The Worry Clinic, Republic Bldg., Boston, Jamaica, 02188. Enclose a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you need for one of his booklets.)

IBM 'Mystified'

NEW YORK (UPI)—Chairman Frank T. Cary of International Business Machines Corp. has informed stockholders in a letter that the company is mystified over how Judge Sherman Christensen arrived at the $352.5 million judgment in the Telex case.

The figure represents trebling of the $117.5 million damages Christensen concluded Telex had suffered. Cary said this judgment "suggests that Telex could have increased its profits more than tenfold in three years—a highly unusual growth rate."

Cary also told IBM stockholders that IBM considers that Christensen's lengthy ruling contains serious errors in fact and law but said that since IBM is appealing it would be improper for him to comment in detail on these matters now.

Airlines Trying To Fight Smoke Effects

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The airline industry, long proud of its safety record, is being pressured to do more to smother a potentially deadly threat to the passenger who survives a crash.

The threat is smoke, the thick, poisonous smoke which can fill a shattered airline cabin in the moments immediately following a fiery crash.

Investigations by the National Transportation Safety Board of several recent airline crashes show that some of the passengers survived the impact, but died when they inhaled the smoke billowing through the cabin from burning seats, and plastic fittings.

In the crash of two jetliners in Chicago in December, 1972, as many as 10 of the 55 fatalities may have been caused by cyanide poisoning.

New Standards Proposed
Traces of cyanide found in the bodies of the victims could have come from cyanide vapors released in smoke as the fire burned the plastic and acrylic materials in the cabin, investigators said.

The smoke problem is not new, however. Aviation experts have long known that passengers can survive air crashes

Saving on laundry
STANFORD, Calif. (UPI)—Families able to use credit to buy durables like clothes washing and drying machines may save "more than $100 a year" compared with using a laundromat, estimates Assistant Prof. William C. Dunkelberg of the Stanford University Graduate School of Business.

only to die from smoke inhalation as they groped to find their way out of a smoke-filled cabin, or lay trapped in the wreckage.

Four years ago, the Federal Aviation Administration proposed setting smoke-emission standards for materials used in airline cabins, but took no final action.

Last month, the Ralph Nader-backed Aviation Consumer Action Project (ACAP) urged the agency to end the delay and issue emergency regulations, claiming "needless deaths have been caused in this country and throughout the world because of this inaction."

Problem Is Economic
The Air Line Pilots Association has also termed the problem "one of the major hazards facing the airline pilot."

But solutions are not easily come by, safety experts agree. Part of the problem is economic—getting the cost of flame and smoke-resistant fabrics down to the point where they are economically feasible for the airlines to invest in. One of the simplest solutions, but one with little support from the airline industry, was to provide passengers with a plastic escape hood.

In the event of a fire, the flame resistant hood would be worn over the head. It was designed to trap enough air to allow the passenger time to escape, but prevent him from inhaling smoke. The industry argued that the hoods probably would not be used by passengers rushing to escape from a burning plane.

But the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) may eventually provide the needed solution.

Officials Optimistic
NASA is attempting to apply space age fire-proofing techniques to the problem of airline interiors. Following a flash fire aboard an Apollo spaceship in 1967, NASA developed new flame resistant materials for spaceships.

Using a hulk of a jetliner which crashed and burned last year, NASA has been testing the new materials at its Houston, Tex., space center.

The final results of the tests have not been released, but officials are reported optimistic.

Dear Abby

Victim in love triangle desperate for way out

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Elmer and I were happily married for two years when we had a baby boy. All of a sudden Elmer up and left me and the baby for another woman. She had four kids. Elmer wanted her but not her kids, so she gave them to her sister.

I was heartbroken at first, then I met a guy named Danny who treated me wonderfully. I let him move in with me because I'm afraid to sleep alone and that's the truth. Meanwhile, I still loved Elmer. When Elmer heard about me and Danny he left his girl friend (who he got pregnant in the meantime), and he begged me to take him back.

Now Danny is living with me, and Elmer is sleeping in the basement. I'm expecting Danny's baby, but I'm still married to Elmer. Elmer's girl friend just had a baby which she named Elmer. [How is that for nerve?]

Danny wants to marry me, but Elmer won't give me a divorce. I love Elmer, but I also love Danny, and I sure wish you would help me figure some way out of this mess.

ALL MESSED UP

DEAR MESSED: Danny appears to be much better husband material than Elmer, although Elmer is still your legal husband. Only you can decide which one you want. Get Danny out of your bedroom and get Elmer out of your basement while you try to think with a clear mind. If you want to divorce Elmer you won't have any trouble finding grounds.

DEAR ABBY: The plight of Miss "Stuck," who was conned out of $1,000 (no receipt) by a boyfriend, and was advised by three attorneys not to sue for the debt, prompts me to write this.

The fact that three (or 300) attorneys declined to handle her case doesn't matter. She probably didn't consult a "collection attorney," which is what she should have done.

I suggest she contact her County Bar Association, which would refer her to an attorney specializing in collections. If she lets the matter drop, she is giving up the following excellent chances of recovery:

1. Statistics prove that about one-fifth of debtors pay up when they receive a letter from an attorney.
2. About 50 per cent or more pay when they are served with a summons.

3. The few "hard nuts" who insist upon trying the case, must pay an attorney to interpose an answer, and even these die-hards settle in court quite frequently.

4. Even if the matter has to be tried, she can rely upon the wisdom of the judge, or the common sense of the jury, who would realize that our innocent victim wouldn't invent this entire story, and go thru the legal process.

Moreover, this lady has nothing to lose as most attorneys would handle such a matter on a contingency basis. I hope this lady collects with interest, court costs, and disbursements.
H.G., COUNSELOR-AT-LAW

DEAR H.G.: Thanks. Your solution was far better than mine.

DEAR ABBY: "Wondering in Topeka" blasted male doctors who required breast and pelvic examinations before prescribing birth control pills. She said the women doctors she contacted didn't require such examinations, and concluded that the male doctors were either looking for a cheap thrill or an examination fee.

Thanks for letting her know that such examinations are essential to determine whether that patient should use "the Pill" or not. It also gives the doctor an opportunity to check for cancer of the breast and cervix, which still claims the lives of too many women because they didn't discover it in time.

Physicians who will prescribe "the Pill" without an examination are careless, and show a distressing lack of concern for their patients. By the way, I am a...

North should probably have passed when his partner bid three no-trump. If he had, South would have made exactly three no-trump against a spade opening and either five or six no-trump against any other lead depending on whether or not East got to cash his ace of spades.

West opened his singleton diamond. East didn't have much hope of defeating five clubs but he did note one chance. If West held ace and another club and would lead a spade then West would get to ruff a diamond. Therefore, East played his 10 under dummy's jack.

Things worked out just as East had hoped. West did win the first trump trick; did lead a spade in response to the suit preference signal and did ruff the second diamond.

This hand illustrates something we have pointed out in the last couple of articles. It is easy to recognize a suit preference signal when the signal is given with a high card to call for a lead of the higher off suit. It is downright difficult to be sure that a low card calls for the play of a low side suit.

Dealer Upset At Railroad Auctioneering

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The somewhat seedily dressed little man, needing a shave, stomped angrily around the hall, sometimes waving his hands in the air in exasperation, or shoving them into the pockets of his faded sports coat. "It's like selling bananas," he shouted up to the auctioneer. The object of the little man's anger was a bunch of railroad buffers who had massed into a hot, stuffy room of Samuel T. Freeman & Co. late last week to bid on obsolete dining car silverplate that was being auctioned off by the Penn Central Railroad.

"I have a bid for 35," he said. "Do I have a 40? A 40, I've got a 40, do I have a 45, a 45, I've got a 45, a 50. Now a 50," he droned. "I'm at 50, 50, 50 sold at 50," he said as he banged his gavel. Next were 45 water-carafes from the New Haven Railroad, which started out selling at $45. "Sold at $45," declared Freeman.

Under the procedure, the successful bidder had his choice of the number of carafes he wanted and the ones he wanted among the rows upon rows of them that were lined up along shelves.

Freeman wandered in to watch the proceedings. "If I had known that guy would pay that much for one, I would have stolen him one."

It went for $250 to "an agent acting for somebody in Detroit." The sale finally ended at 4:10 p.m., almost six hours after it started, and grossed "in excess of $10,000," about $7,000 more than Penn Central officials had estimated.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — A friend called to suggest I do some research into the legal aspects of the greatest athletic contest in the history of the Western world, including West Spitsbergen.

I said, "What legal aspects did you have in mind?" "Like whether rooting for Bobby Riggs is grounds for divorce."

I could see such a project might be a public service in view of the emotional intensity generated by this week's tennis match between Riggs and Betty Jean King. Or is it Billie Jean King?

Whatever the name, the match has become a symbolic confrontation between women's lib and male chauvinism. Therefore, feelings are running high, reaching the twitteration point among many women, including some who dislike tennis.

He Asks Attorney
Because of the strain the match has imposed on marital concord, I put my friend's divorce question to Gadsword B. Uplixx, an attorney who specializes in domestic relations cases.

"It depends," he replied in the classic manner of a lawyer coming directly to the point. "In some states, rooting for Riggs, per se, constitutes mental cruelty and may become part of the bill of complaint in divorce proceedings."

"Generally, however, divorce laws recognize degrees of provocation. "In other words, the court makes a distinction between non-inflammatory manifestation of Riggsian partisanship and overtly offensive acts calculated to arouse the animus of one's spouse."

I said, "Does overtly offensive mean getting down on your knees in front of the television set and salivating every time Riggs wins a point?" "Yes, that would be one example. There are others, such as wearing a red wig during the match."

Is Custody Automatic?
I said, "Does the plaintiff in such cases automatically get custody of the newest can of tennis balls?"

"Not necessarily," Uplixx replied, displaying the forthrightness that is the hallmark of his profession.

In recent Supreme Court decisions it was held that in ruling on division of community property a judge should take into consideration whether the rooting was accompanied by gloating.

I said, "Do you mean like crowing like a rooster all through dinner after Riggs wins the match?" "That would be prima facie evidence of gloating, as would draping your wife's tennis racket in black crepe."

Since overt rooting might be actionable, I asked Uplixx how a Riggs fan could safely manifest his support.

"Just keep your fingers crossed," he said. "Behind your back."

Supreme Court To License New Lawyers

AUSTIN (UPI) — A record 971 new lawyers will be licensed by the Texas Supreme Court during two public ceremonies Monday at the east campus auditorium of the Lyndon B. Johnson Library, bar officials announced Wednesday.

The new attorneys will bring the State Bar of Texas membership to nearly 24,000 lawyers. Chief Justice Joe R. Greenhill will administer the oath at the 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. ceremonies.

Thomas J. Chamberlain Jr. of Austin, a University of Texas law school graduate, made the highest grade in the June bar examination. James A. Patterson Jr. of Dallas, Southern Methodist University law school graduate, was second.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Our Capsule Policy

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing.

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

Senate And Pro Football

Well the U.S. Senate, perhaps flushed with the triumph of the TV ratings on the Watergate hearings, made a bid to further woo television fans by blowing the whistle on professional football.

Football fans around the nation stood up and cheered the senatorial heroes because they passed a bill prohibiting a television blackout of any game that is sold out 72 hours before kickoff.

We think it was high time the lawmakers got into this most serious problem. After all, who do the owners of professional football teams think they are? Football belongs to the people, right?

The senators showed they have a well organized "two-minute drill" by rushing their offense to beat the gun for the opening of the 1973 season. Blocking back Sen. John Pastore, (D-R.I.) got in one of the best licks of the day by slamming those season ticket holders who monopolize game tickets while "the taxpayers who built the stadium can't get tickets."

Yes, John, rah, rah, rah! Quarterback Sen. Marlow Cook (R-Ky.) showed his ability to read the defense with his warning to team owners against "holding back some tickets at the front office so they could say the game was not sold out."

NFL Commissioner Pete Rozell mounted a goal-line defense by suggesting pro football might eliminate TV coverage entirely. He said it would severely damage professional football by reducing ticket sales and attendance.

We have to admire Pete's courage, but he doesn't realize

Prisoner Out Before In

A Gastonia, N.C., man convicted of second degree murder, has become eligible for parole before he even got to prison. That ought to discourage anyone else from committing murder in Gaston County, don't you think?

Bobby Ray Black was convicted of second degree murder on Sept. 8, 1972. Superior Court Judge W.K. McLean sentenced him to "not more than seven years in prison." The case was appealed and the appeal court affirmed the conviction but said the sentence was improperly assessed.

Superior Court Judge Frank Sneed of Charlotte thereupon resentenced Black to "two days to seven years." Sneed said he "didn't know what Judge McLean meant by his sentence" — and apparently he didn't ask him.

So, the upshot was a man convicted of voluntary manslaughter became eligible for parole before he started serving his sentence. He didn't go to jail until July 27: he became eligible for parole before he got there.

Interesting, too, are these facts:

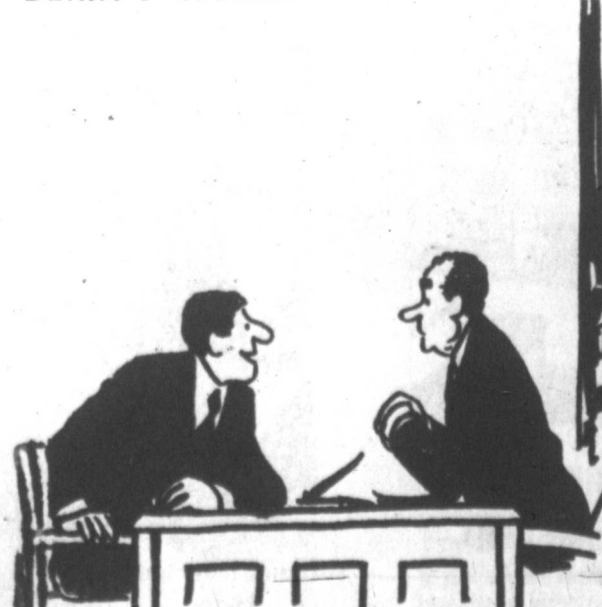

1. It was 11 months from the time of the slaying to the day he went to jail.

2. The sheriff, among others, signed a petition to the parole board recommending the man for parole. The sheriff said he signed the petition "because the parole board is going to parole him anyway."

It is a waste of time and money to arrest killers and bring them to trial if the net result is this sort of thing. The Parole Board has sent out a notice reading: "All persons opposing parole in this case are requested to notify J. Mac Boxley, chairman, Board of Pardons, Raleigh, N.C." It will be interesting to see if anyone in that community takes an interest in this most extraordinary example of legal process. Perhaps their local bar association will exert its leadership and take a position.

Let us pray.

BERRY'S WORLD

My idea is to form a special staff team to run down under judicial kickoffs and punts, like the 'Kamikaze units' in pro football.

The Fate Of A Christian In Russia

Tanya and Olga lived with their parents on the outskirts of a major city in Russia. Their father, Vladimir, worked in a Soviet factory.

Though life under Communist rule is not easy, no two little girls had ever been loved more. The happiest part of their day was fun-time and devotions after supper when father told a Bible story and prayed. Always he remembered to pray, "Dear Lord, keep us safe... help the Believers in prison..."

Father knew the danger his witness for Jesus Christ exposed him and his family too. But he believed that real faith must be shared. Because there was no official church in his village, father joined a secret prayer group, meeting regularly from midnight to 4 a.m. There they would read from the one Bible they had, share its truths, encourage and pray for one another. They continued undetected by the authorities for some time.

Then it happened. One morning father failed to come home from prayer meeting. Mother learned from the Believers he had been with, that he had left, as usual, to go home to get ready for work.

That day, while the children were in school, Ana prayed earnestly for her husband's safe return.

Then, in the afternoon, just after the girls had come home, there was a loud knock at the door. Ana hurried to open it, and was met by two Soviet police. Abruptly they said, "Your husband has had an accident. He is dead."

Numb with shock, Ana and the girls stood before them in disbelief. Father, they were told, had been hit by a train, as he crossed the railroad tracks.

Later Ana learned the truth. The police, discovering the prayer meetings, had spied on the group, especially Vladimir, for some time. That fateful morning, as he had left the prayer meeting, they caught him, beat him to death, and laid his body beside the railroad tracks to suggest that he had been hit by a train. (An example to other Believers!)

Now Tanya and Olga have no father to care for them. Because mother is also a Believer, she cannot get work. Unless the family has help, Tanya and Olga will be taken to a Communist children's home to be raised in atheism.

Underground Evangelism

Gold, Silver Is Stable

The secret negotiations between the U.S. Government and Cuban dictator Fidel Castro are continuing. In addition to discussing hijacking and refugee matters, the U.S. representatives are working on such matters as establishing trade, extending credits, and recognizing the Communist Cuban regime.

Meanwhile, Cuban refugees in Florida have recently released figures showing that more than 33,000 Cubans have been executed by the Communists in their country, and that there are still over 85,000 Cubans in political prisons as a result of the Communist takeover of Cuba.

BRUCE BLOSSAT Mini-Watergate is on Jersey's ballot

By Bruce Blossat

SEA GIRT, N.J. (NEA) — Under the great yellow and white tent, chaos reigns. People are milling in the aisles, talking, a voice booms over the microphone from the packed dais:

"Will you return to your seats so we can start with the blessings, please? ... With everybody standing in the aisles, we can't serve the food... There are people still looking for their tables..."

Need you know more? It's a Democratic party rally, of course. Like a thousand others over the years, Search the tent end to end, and you won't hear a hint of "new politics."

A stranger near me mutters disgustedly: "This is all confusion." But hold on. The ways of American politics have always been curious. The rallies may be half church picnic, half carnival. Yet beneath the surface clamor, serious decisions — affecting state and nation — are being shaped.

Here in New Jersey, we're told, the stakes are big. A governorship, now held by the Republicans, is on the block. And the race is billed as the first big test of the political impact of the Watergate scandals. Another gubernatorial battle, in Virginia, could offer a gauge, too, but its southern strains muddy the picture.

Scandal-ridden Jersey is seen as a kind of mini-Watergate. The Democrats say their nominee, former Superior Court Judge Brendan Byrne, 49, is Mr. Clean. Kickback scandals hit the regime of incumbent GOP Gov. William Cahill, and he lost out in the primary. But the Democrats still think the corruption issue is working strongly for them.

Cahill's secretary of state has been convicted, and his state treasurer is under indictment. Another prominent Republican, Nelson Gross, who once ran for the U.S. Senate, also faces trial.

The guest speaker at the Sea Girt gala is Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, and he knows he's on test ground for Watergate, so he bangs the drum for all New Jersey to hear.

He notes that President Nixon wants to put Watergate behind us. Then he gets to it: "But how can we get on to the country's other business when the President himself is the principal obstructionist over Watergate?"

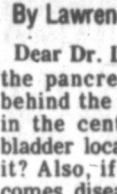

"The biggest single obstacle to putting Watergate behind us is the President's refusal to clear the air by giving up the tapes (of his recorded conversations with aides implicated in Watergate)." There's much, much more from Kennedy on Mr. Nixon and Watergate, on the tangled story of his California and Florida homes, on his alleged failures with the economy and a host of other issues.

But the Kennedy message finally gets to its central point: "With dedicated leaders like Brendan Byrne in public office in New Jersey, and others like him in office around the country, we can stop the slide, and do all the things we have to do."

Byrne, the carrier of Democratic hopes, has spoken earlier — at full lung power.

Can Person Live Without Pancreas?

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Where is the pancreas located? Is it behind the stomach or more in the center with the gall bladder located on one end of it? Also, if the pancreas becomes diseased, as with cancer, can it be removed and anyone still be able to live without the pancreas by taking medicine?

I had someone tell me that you can't live without the pancreas, and it sometimes becomes affected by the gall bladder if you wait too long to have the gall bladder removed.

Dear Reader — Let's start with the stomach. The stomach lies at the upper part of the abdomen just at the edge of the ribs at the left hand side of the abdomen. The stomach empties into the first part of the small intestine (duodenum) at the region just beneath the tip of the breastbone.

The beginning of the small intestine at the outlet of the stomach forms a U-shaped loop called the duodenum. This initial part of the small intestine is literally next to the spine. The head, or first part, of the pancreas fits into this loop of the duodenum. And the tail of the pancreas then extends toward the left side against the back. Thus, the pancreas rests just underneath and behind the stomach. If it is diseased it often causes pain in the back (I hasten to add there are innumerable other causes of back pain).

The pancreas has two main functions. It produces pancreatic juice, which drains through one duct into an opening in the wall of the duodenum. Pancreatic juice contains a lot of enzymes, some of which are used to break down dietary fat and starch so they can be absorbed. At the point where the pancreatic duct empties into the duodenum it is joined with the bile duct from the gall bladder and liver.

The liver, as you know, is on the right side of the abdomen and the gall bladder rests underneath the liver. If a stone passes down the bile duct it becomes lodged at the opening into the intestine, and its pressure obstructs the outflow of the pancreatic duct. This may cause inflammation of the pancreas. This is the basis for the story that if you don't do something about gall bladder disease it can affect the pancreas. Obviously, you can have gall stones and as long as they are not lodged in the bile duct and do not obstruct the pancreatic duct, they don't damage the pancreas. Should a stone become lodged, it can be removed surgically.

The pancreas has small areas of specialized tissues called the islet of Langerhans, which produce insulin. The insulin is necessary to enable the cells to use glucose (the energy sugar). Yes, you can live without a pancreas. One of the basic physiological laboratory experiments is to make a dog diabetic by removing the pancreas. This removes the source of insulin. The dog is kept alive by administering insulin for long periods of time thereafter. By medicines and insulin it's possible to support a person indefinitely who has no pancreas. Patients who have cancer of the pancreas often don't survive too long because the cancer may have spread to other areas and is not easily controlled.

MARILYN MANION

DOUBLE STANDARD

I see by the papers that the United Nations is currently horrified by the revelations contained in one of its newest studies. An Enemy has been discovered in — get this — "multinational corporations". These corporations are dangerous to human liberty because they possess great power and they are not responsive, ballot-box-wise, to the people they influence.

The United Nations will have a heyday denouncing international "big business", meanwhile ignoring — as its membership dictates it must — such real threats to human liberty as Communist governments and wars of liberation. And the sophisticated opinion-makers of the world will follow suit. Ho, hum.

One of the United Nations — and the Liberals' — favorite targets has been the nation of Rhodesia. "Segregation!" cry the critics. "Let the Blacks rule!" Well, now this writer has not visited the African continent, but it occurs to me that things for blacks could be worse than they are in Rhodesia. After listening to the words of Mrs. Bernadine Bailey, as she spoke over the Manion Forum Radio Program, I began to wonder why the United Nations denounces Rhodesian policies but falls strangely silent when Black rulers of African nations kill off their enemies by the thousands. Maybe you will wonder too; at any rate, give Mrs. Bailey's words a look:

"The United Nations has maintained that Rhodesia is prejudiced against the black people. After my recent visit there, I find that to be untrue. Anyone who has been there knows that it is untrue. They are treated well, better than they are in any black country, as a matter of fact. More is done for them. They have housing. They have recreation. They have schools, libraries, swimming pools, homes, churches, you name it — wonderful facilities for the black people, as fine as those in any country for any race.

"Rhodesia is doing surprisingly well despite the fact that it has been under quarantine. It is amazing to see what a country can do without any help from anybody in the world. There has been striking growth in manufactured goods, for example. There is only one snag. Right now, they need to replace some of their capital equipment, and they don't always have the capital to buy such equipment when it comes from outside. But they have made up for the deficiencies through their own efforts and initiative. They have built up many industries, such as textiles, radios, footwear, paper. Tobacco farmers now raise cotton, coffee and corn as well as tobacco. So you see very few signs of hardship. The shops are full. Even foreign cars are now being made in Rhodesia.

"Other African countries have not been under attack, and yet Rhodesia is the one that offers safety and many other advantages. For example, the government is better run in Rhodesia. The other black countries, with the exception of South Africa, are practically all dictatorships. People can be put out of the country at the whim of the dictator.

"There are about a quarter of a million white people in Rhodesia and four and a half million blacks. That's about 20 times as many blacks as whites. The black population is increasing both by natural causes and by immigration. About 5,000 blacks each year come to Rhodesia from other black African countries. That, to me speaks volumes for Rhodesia. It means that blacks like the setup there and they want to come there because they will have a better opportunity for earning a living, for having good housing and for enjoying life in general."

Mrs. Bailey does not make her observations lightly. She has visited every country in the world, and is the author of more than a hundred published books on the subject of her travels. Maybe somebody ought to donate her volume on Rhodesia to the United Nations.

Nutritional And Appetizing Dishes Are Cooks Specialty

By BOBBY COMBS
Make an entirely new dish by taking a basic recipe and change the seasonings!

That's what Mrs. Sam B. (Mildred) Cook, 1300 Christine, has practiced for years, coming from a family of cooks. Her parents enjoyed cooking and encouraged their children, three daughters and a son, to learn to cook.

They remember being allowed to cook, not made to do so, and that made a difference to them. All learned at an early age and continued to enjoy cooking, not "fancy" cooking, just the simple things and how to change recipes to something interesting for others.

"In those days, you had to start from scratch and use seasonings and flavorings which were available," stated Mrs. Cook.

Mrs. Cook still likes to start and add to what she is making until it suits her taste or the ones she wishes to please. She likes to use the prepared foods and feels that they are a big help in a lot of recipes, but she does not feel that they, alone, should be used. To make tasty, nutritional and appetizing dishes, there may be a combination of both prepared and natural foods.

She uses many soups for casseroles, especially cheddar cheese soup and cream soups. She also uses bouillon cubes for seasonings in casseroles and soups.

Every dish is an experience and she is an "adventurous," "tasting," and a "by-guess and-by-god" cook. She loves to try new recipes and likes to change them to her taste by taking a "gob" of this and that, or leaving out a "gob." She admits that she does not achieve a gourmet dish, but it is edible and fun to make.

Mrs. Cook will make and Eggplant and Beef Casserole and for Mexican food, season with chili powder, garlic (minced or powder), tabasco, cabbage slaw, and chopped chili peppers. Serve with red pinto beans, tostados, cabbage slaw and custard for dessert.

Now, if you want an Italian dish, add garlic salt, tomato sauce, cumin, cheese soup, and chopped fresh peppers; serve with green beans, tossed salad and hard rolls or Italian bread and chocolate cake.

Now for an American dish, add 1 cup of hot water to which a beef bouillon cube has been added, and chopped onions, Worcestershire Sauce and pimientos. Serve with a light vegetable, such as English peas, or squash, or mashed white potatoes. You could also use a tossed salad with this and serve hot fruit pie or cobbler for dessert. She would serve corn bread with this meal.

This is just a suggestion or idea of how one recipe can be changed to suit your purpose. If you do not have eggplant, substitute zucchini squash for the base with the ground meat.

Mrs. Cook enjoys reading cookbooks and collecting them, and loves to sew and do all kinds of handwork, such as embroidery, needlepoint, crochet, knitting and making afghans, as well as quilts. She once took a course in hat making.

She also does China painting, and a lot of ceramics.

Our cook has been a Pampa resident since 1933, having moved away and moving back several times.

Mrs. Cook states "We have a wonderful daughter, three lovely grandchildren and a grand son-in-law."

They are members of the First United Methodist Church and she is presently employed as a clerk in Municipal Court.

Tomatoes
Make five bases for sandwiches from rolls by putting two side by side, flatten out on a cookie sheet and bake 8 minutes. Set aside until you are ready to make sandwiches.

Add to the corned beef hash 1/2 cup spaghetti sauce, minced onions, garlic salt, black pepper, chopped pepper (to suit your taste).

When ready to serve, put hash on top of bread, place on top a couple slices of boiled egg and tomato, shake Parmesan cheese (or grated cheddar cheese) off top of all and bake in hot oven for about 10 minutes. Serve hot. I would suggest for a dessert a fruit plate or a parfait.

QUICK BORSCH
1 1/2-oz. envelope dry onion soup mix
4 Cups water
4 medium sized beets, peeled and cubed
1 Tbsp. lemon juice
2 Tbsp. sugar
2 eggs
Commercial sour cream
Chopped fresh or dried dillweed.

In a large saucepan combine onion soup mix and water. Add beets, lemon juice and sugar. Cover and place over moderately high heat. Bring mixture to a boil, reduce heat to low and continue cooking for 30 min. or until beets are fork-tender. Pour one half of mixture into the container of an electric blender, cover and blend at high speed for about 30 seconds.

Pour mixture into a bowl and repeat with the remaining beet mixture. In the large bowl of an electric mixer beat eggs until lemon colored. Gradually add beet mixture, beating constantly. Chill soup overnight or longer in a covered container. Serve soup in chilled bowls with a bit of sour cream and a sprinkle of dillweed. (6 servings)

This is an interesting and good dish.

ENCHILADA BAKE
2 lbs. lean ground beef
1 medium onion, finely chopped
2 cloves of minced garlic
1/4 cup flour
2 to 4 Tbsp. Chili powder
1/4 tsp. salt
1 tsp. oregano
4 cups hot water (dissolve a beef bouillon cube in this)
1 dozen tortillas
1/4 cup sliced pitted black olives
2 cups shredded cheddar cheese

In large skillet, brown ground beef, onion and garlic (drain off grease). Add flour, chili powder, salt and oregano; mix well. Stir in water. Simmer until mixture thickens slightly, about 5 minutes, stirring occasionally. Place 3 tortillas in ungreased 13 x 9 inch baking dish. Cover with 1/4 of beef mixture. Top with 1/4 cup of olives, 1/4 cup cheese. Repeat 4 times. Bake at 300 degrees for 20 minutes.

May be made ahead and warmed when ready to serve.

CORN PONE
Crust:
1/4 cups flour
1/4 cup yellow corn meal
1 can French fried onion (may use sauted onions)
1/4 cup butter
1/4 cup warm water
In medium mixing bowl, combine flour and corn-meal.

Mix together 3 Tbsp. of butter and 1 Tbsp. flour over a slow heat and brown. Add cucumber mixture and heat thoroughly, stirring constantly. Remove from heat; stir in 1 cup of light cream and 1/4 cup chopped cucumber. Chill soup garnished with chopped chives.

May be served in soup bowl with soup spoons or in soup cups. I prefer the cups. Will make 4 large servings or 8 small servings.

1/2 tsp. soda
1/4 tsp. salt
1/4 cup shortening
1/2 cup brown sugar
1/4 tsp. cinnamon

CRUMBLE
1/4 cup onion rings, adding to flour. In small saucepan, combine butter and flour, heat just until butter is melted. Add to flour mixture, mix to form a ball. Press into a 10-inch pan to form crust.

MIX-IN-THE-PAN-CAKE

1/4 cup all purpose flour
1 cup sugar
1 cup chopped nuts
2 Tbsp. cinnamon
1 tsp. soda
1/2 tsp. salt

EGG BALLS FOR SOUP
Rub the yolks of 3 or 4 hard boiled eggs to a paste with a very thin layer of melted butter, pepper and salt. To these add two raw onions, beaten light, and enough flour to hold the paste together. Form into balls with floured hands and set in a cool place until just before your soup comes off, then put in carefully and boil one minute. These may be fried in hot grease, light brown if desired.

NUT-CRUNCH APPLESAUCE
In oblong baking dish roll 1 package pie-crust mix with 1/2 cup brown sugar, 1 cup chopped walnuts, and 1 tsp. cinnamon, until all are thoroughly blended together. Bake at 400 degrees for 15 min. or until a golden crunch. Cool, then refrigerate. At dessert time sprinkle crunch over spiced canned or fresh applesauce or fruit cocktail.

TOMATOES AND DUMPLINGS
Break 1 egg into a cup. Fill cup with milk. Sift 2 cups flour with 2 teaspoons baking powder and 1 tsp. salt. Beat egg and milk together. Add mixture to flour and drop by spoonful into boiling tomato juice. Cook covered for 20 minutes. These dumplings are good with anything you would like dumplings with.

Since I always eat blackeyed peas on New Year's day, this my favorite way of fixing them.

HOPPING JOHN
One cup of dried cow peas (blackeyed peas) soaked in water to cover overnight. Boil with a piece of bacon. When peas are done, drain. Prepare a sofrito by frying small pieces of ham, a small onion cut up, a tomato, a tablespoon minced sweet pepper, salt and pepper. Skim off the grease from water peas have cooked in, add the sofrito to the peas and stir together with a cupful of rice which has been cooked separately. If it seems too wet, set in oven to dry out. Serve with fried sausage or bacon.

pears or peaches. Makes 3 cups.

SOURDOUGH STARTER
1 package dry yeast
1/2 cup very warm water
2 cups lukewarm water
1 Tbsp. sugar
1 Tbsp. salt
2 cups flour
Dissolve yeast in 1/2 cup very warm water. Stir well; then add 2 cups lukewarm water, sugar and salt. Stir well. Stir in flour and mix well. Place mixture in a jar, cover with cheesecloth, and leave at room temperature for 2 or 3 days until mixture begins to ferment. When it foams and bubbles, it is ready to use. It may be used immediately or stored in the refrigerator until ready for use.

After starter has been removed for baking, add 1 cup lukewarm water, 1/2 cup flour, and 1 Tbsp. sugar for each cup starter removed. Mix well, cover jar, and let it stand until ready to make bread again.

SOURDOUGH LOAF BREAD
1 cup Sourdough Starter
2 1/2 cups water
5 cups flour
3 Tbsp. melted shortening
2 Tbsp. sugar
1 Tbsp. salt
1/2 to 1 tsp. soda
Melted butter or margarine
In large bowl, combine the starter, water and flour. Cover and leave overnight at room temperature. The next day add shortening, sugar, salt and soda and stir until well blended.

Turn out dough on a well-floured board; knead thoroughly, adding more flour as needed. Divide dough in half; shape into 2 loaves. Place each loaf pan (greased) and let rise until nearly doubled (about 3 hours).

Brush the loaves with melted butter; bake at 400 degrees for 40 mins. Turn out of pans to cool.

GNOCCCHI
1 quart milk
1 cup yellow cornmeal
2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. pepper
2 eggs well beaten
1 small onion, minced
1 1/2 cups grated Parmesan cheese
1/4 cup melted butter or margarine

Combine cold milk and cornmeal, cook, stirring, until mixture bubbles and becomes very thick. Stir in salt, pepper, eggs and onion. Beat in 1 cup of the cheese. Spread mixture in a shallow casserole. Mixture will be about 1 1/2 inches thick. Chill. Unmold and cut with a sharp knife or cookie cutter into desired shapes. Place pieces in a single layer in a buttered casserole. Brush with melted butter and sprinkle with remaining grated cheese. Bake, in a preheated oven, 350 degrees for 20 mins. or until lightly browned.

A part of growing up is reading the material on the outside of cereal boxes. Now one cereal producer is turning a childhood habit into a real educational process. The program was developed by Brent R. Evans, who teaches in Cupertino, Calif., elementary school center for children with learning problems. It is based on modern teaching concepts and involves three sections to each lesson in the series. One section outlines a habit for parents to develop, such as reading to their children. Another is a brain builder game to help children develop specific skills and the third uses colorful sound cards to teach phonics and develop reading ability.

King, Riggs To Play "Big One" Today

HOUSTON (UPI) — Tonight's "Battle of the Sexes—Chapter 2," between Billie Jean King and Bobby Riggs has been played for a lot of laughs.

"Both of us are making money," says Billie Jean. "So this is a kind of marriage between us." The audience laughs. Riggs' eyes bulge. Stuff like that.

But there should be no mistake about it. When the two of them get together tonight for their $100,000, winner-take-all, best-of-five set, nationally televised tennis extravaganza between first and third bases in the Astrodome, Billie Jean King would truly love to bash Bobby Riggs to the point of embarrassment.

"You had better believe there is something riding on this match besides the money," the 29-year-old five-time Wimbledon champ said in her final public appearance before the match. "There is pride involved."

And then turning to face

Riggs, Bobby Jean said: "I don't think you give women credit for having any brains at all. I think female athletes should be respected for their ability, not just because one might be sort of cute. Businessmen realize now we are marketable, that we can make money for their companies, that we are athletes."

"I've been at this for 15 years and you had better believe it means a lot more than just the money. At least to me."

What it really means to Bobby Riggs is hard to tell because he doesn't stop talking long enough to tell you.

It all starts at 8 p.m. EDT with an estimated 35,000-40,000 expected. Riggs was the choice of 20 of 27 writers who will be covering the match.

World heavyweight champion George Foreman, who doesn't play much tennis but who will present the $100,000 check to the winner, believes Billie Jean will win.

Las Vegas oddsmakers have set the odds at 2-1 in favor of Riggs.

Willie Mays To Retire From Game

NEW YORK (UPI) — Willie Mays is apparently ready to ring down the curtain on one of the most illustrious careers in baseball history.

The New York Mets have called a news conference at 10:30 a.m. CDT today at Shea Stadium for Mays to make his official announcement that he's retiring from the game to wind up a 22-year career at age 42.

The announcement had been expected for several days ever since the Mets announced that they will hold Willie Mays Appreciation Night next Tuesday night.

Mays was one of the most electrifying and exciting players ever to play the game since Alexander Cartwright first set the bases 90 feet apart a century or so ago.

But his skills have been tarnished by age and injury and he is hitting only .211 this season in 66 games. He has been hobbled by swollen knees, an inflamed shoulder and bruised ribs this year.

Mays has no worry about his security. He's been making $165,000 a year as a player and under the terms of his contract, he'll still receive $50,000 a year until age 50 even though he's not playing.

Mays now has 660 homers in his career, including six this season, and only Babe Ruth and Henry Aaron are ahead of him. If he hadn't lost almost two full seasons in the majors, he probably would have challenged Ruth's career record of 714 homers. Mays was the NL homer champion three times.

The basis of the term "rap session" is from the French "en rapport," or "in harmony."

Nolan Ryan Breaks AL Strikeout Mark

By United Press International
Nolan Ryan holds the American League's season strikeout record today and a 27-year old controversy has been laid to rest.

Ryan wrote a record into the record books Wednesday night when he struck out seven batters in the California Angels' 6-2 first-game victory over the Texas Rangers and raised his season total to 355. Whose record did he surpass? That's where the controversy is involved.

For years "official" baseball record books listed an AL mark of 343 strikeouts by Rube Waddell of the Philadelphia Athletics in 1904. Bob Feller of the Cleveland Indians came along in 1946 to strike out 348 batters and lay claim to a record.

Some statisticians, however, pored through the box scores of Waddell's games in 1904 and announced that the old lefthander actually had struck out 349 batters. All records of those very old days are suspect in part, so some modern record books have carried Feller's 348 as the mark and others have listed Waddell's 349.

Buffs Visit NTSU Saturday For Third Conference Game

By TOMMY BRYANT
DENTON — After suffering its second worst defeat in the school's football history, West Texas State will hit the comeback trail at 7:30 p.m. Saturday against North Texas State.

The Buffaloes were handed a 48-3 defeat Saturday night by Tulsa's Golden Hurricane.

Saturday's contest will be the third Missouri Valley Conference game in a row for the Buffaloes. They opened their season with a 13-10 victory over Drake and stand 1-1 in MVC play.

Saturday's game will be the first contest at Fouts Field for new coach Hayden Fry and his Mean Green Eagles.

The Eagles lost to the University of Texas at Arlington 31-7 two weeks ago at Texas Stadium. They fell 24-3 at Memphis State last week.

Memphis State, which opened its season with a victory over powerful Louisville, was held to a minus 11 yards rushing during the second half by North Texas.

Both West Texas and North Texas are entering the Saturday night MVC game with injuries to key players.

Buffalo starting wingback Micky Matthews will definitely miss the game with a knee injury. The Andrews sophomore will probably be out of action for at least three weeks.

Tailbacks Billy Pritchett, Cole Fraley and Jimmy Lisle are all injured against Tulsa. Pritchett, who suffered a bruised knee, may not be able to play this week.

North Texas will be starting freshman Greg Van Ness at quarterback in place of injured Phil Shotland. The veteran signal caller injured his foot in the opener and knee last week against Memphis State, but should see some action.

Senior tight end Frank Davis suffered a cut on the pupil of his right eye and defensive end Rex Humberger will be out with a knee injury.

North Texas leads the series with West Texas 10-4, but West Texas managed a 17-14 victory last year at Texas Stadium in the season's finale for both teams.

Harvesters, Rangers Play For 1st Win Of Non-Conference Season Friday Night

Buddy Williams and the Pampa Harvesters are still looking for their first win of the season.

But the fact is, so is Don Beck and the Perryton Rangers. So a game that would ordinarily be "just another non-conference clash" has turned into a must-win game for both schools, as Pampa hosts the Rangers at 8 p.m. Friday.

Pampa has suffered defeat at the hands of Hereford, 12-0, and Dumas 10-7 Friday. Perryton has lost to Borger, 14-6, and Clovis, N.M., 22-9.

"We're going to win one of these days," said Williams, "and when we do, it's going to help us as a team."

"We were overconfident against Dumas, the boys weren't emotionally ready. We desperately need a victory. Our inexperienced players need to experience the thrill of a win. It'll help us."

Beck is thinking in the same terms as the Harvester head coach. "Any time you get beat, you're not satisfied. Therefore, we haven't been satisfied, because we haven't won a game," said the Ranger head.

Perryton will run a T-formation offense against Pampa's 5-2 defense.

Quarterback will be senior Jim Dear, who scored Perryton's only touchdown against Clovis, on a 10-yard run. Dear and Elledge make up one of the better passing combinations in the Panhandle.

Along with Dear in the backfield, will be fullback Chuck Bohner, left halfback Mike Osborne and right halfback Burl Stephen.

Defensively, Perryton will run a 5-3 and a 5-2, depending on the offense Williams will employ.

Elledge, Click, Bo Rankin, Bob Groves and Johnson will make up the defensive line; Brian Wyman, Bohner and Osborne will start at the linebacking slots, and Dear, Robert Palmer, Dale Deike and Dear will play in the defensive secondary.

Williams has indicated his starting offensive unit will be the same as in the Dumas contest.

Rick Leverich will quarterback Pampa Friday. Joe Curtis will start at tailback, David Nipp at fullback and Chuck Reeves at slotback.

Curtis was Pampa's leading ground gainer against the Demons, picking up 79 yards on 16 carries. Leverich connected on two of nine passes for 46 yards, including a three-yard scoring strike to Lewis.

Defensive linemen will be Tim Thornburg, Ricky Carpenter, Dane Rasmussen and Randy Linville, linebackers will be Hampton and David Smith, left and right cornerbacks will be John Thomas and Ricky Smith and safeties will be Leverich and Chuck Quarles.

U.S. Favored In Ryder Cup Golf Matches

MUIRFIELD, Scotland (UPI) — The United States, undefeated for 16 years, was an odds-on favorite to maintain its golfing supremacy over Britain in the 20th biennial Ryder Cup match which started today.

But non-playing captain Jack Burke has warned his 12-man squad of the danger of being too complacent, reminding them that "the best players do not underestimate anybody."

Burke's sentiments were echoed by Jack Nicklaus, record winner of 14 major titles. Nicklaus, remembering how he halved with Tony Jacklin in the final singles of the memorable U.S.-Britain clash in 1969 which ended in a 16-16 tie, said Wednesday: "The match is certainly no foregone conclusion."

The 33-year-old Golden Bear added: "Britain has a home advantage, only five players on our team have had any experience on this course. We expect it to be tough."

Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer, who team up in the fourth foursome against Britain's Maurice Bembridge and Eddie Pollard, both showed top form in a practice four-ball session with Lee Trevino and Billy Casper Wednesday.

SWC Roundup

By United Press International
Texas Coach Darrell Royal has some good news and some bad news.

First the good news. All Southwest Conference fullback Roosevelt Leaks practiced Wednesday with his thumb out of a cast for the first time in weeks and Royal said his charging fullback will be ready to play Friday night against Miami, Fla.

Now the bad news. All conference linebacker Glen Gaspard is not at his best. In fact Royal said his off-injured senior was definitely "below-par" Wednesday.

The Longhorns leave the state today for Florida and will practice tonight on the synthetic turf of the Orange Bowl. The trip will be Texas' first to the stadium since Jan. 1, 1965, when Texas upset No. 1 ranked Alabama 24-17 by stopping Joe Namath and the Crimson Tide four times inside the three-yard line.

Texas A&M Coach Emory Bellard also received a bit of good news. Quarterback Mike Jay, who sprained an ankle in last week's game against Wichita State should be completely healed in time for Saturday's encounter with ninth ranked LSU.

A&M and Baylor both concentrated on their kicking games during workouts Wednesday. Aggie specialist Randy Haddox hit on four straight field goals from 47 yards out and one from 52 yards away from the posts.

Baylor's kicking specialist Don Bockhorn, injured last week in the Oklahoma game, will not be ready for this week's contest against Pittsburgh so Coach Grant Teaff inserted David Hicks as the Bears' kicker and concentrated heavily on the speciality teams Wednesday.

"We looked sharp in our execution," Teaff said.

Texas Tech Coach Jim Carlen said his team looked sluggish during practice Wednesday. Carlen said his team has a lot of improvements to make before Saturday's contest against New Mexico and its quarterback Don Woods.

Arkansas Coach Frank Broyles, whose team is a five point underdog against Oklahoma State, said the Razorbacks appear to be getting in a better frame of mind for the game.

Canadian, Lefors Playing For 3rd Wins

By PAUL SIMS
Canadian and Lefors in 1-A and 1-B respectively, the only area unbeaten, will be playing for three straight wins Friday night, as Texas prep football enters its third week with six games of local importance scheduled.

Perryton travels to Pampa in the area's biggest clash. Both the Rangers and the Harvesters will be trying to snap a two-game losing skid, as Perryton has lost to Borger (14-7) and Clovis, N.M. (22-9), while the 3-AAAA Harvesters have fallen to Hereford (12-0) and Dumas (10-7).

Other games on tap are Wheeler at Canadian, Panhandle at White Deer, Lefors at Valley High, Silvertown at Groom and Woodson, Tex., at Miami.

Wheeler vs. Canadian
Wheeler (0-1) lost to Lefors, 7-6 the first game of the season and was idle last week, and a win Friday would definitely be a highlight in Jim Bateman's coaching career.

Canadian has been nothing short of unstoppable thus far in the season and is ranked 10th in Class A this week by United Press International.

But Wheeler has the material (eight offensive and seven defensive returning starters) to upset any team on its schedule — including the Wildcats. Lewis Britt, who gained 93 yards on 30 carries against Lefors and almost 1,000 yards last year, will pace the Mustang running attack. Dale Helton, all-district noseguard in 1972, will head Bateman's seasoned defense.

Canadian, notorious so far for having the Panhandle's most explosive running attack, is 2-0, whipping Phillips, 38-6 and Spearman, 34-0. Both the Blackhaws and the Lynx are AA teams.

The Wildcats, led by running backs Kem Carr and Steve Schafer and run-pass threat Lonnie Hines, have amassed 747 yards on the ground in the first two contests.

Canadian has limited its opponents to a total of 17 first downs and 291 total yards, which exemplifies the surprising aspect of the Wildcats — defense.

That defensive attack is led by tackles Mitch Ashley and Terry Innis and end Bob Dickinson.

Enough said — Canadian by 24.

Panhandle vs. White Deer
Panhandle (0-2) has lost to Stinnett, 24-0, and Shamrock, 26-6, while the Bucks (0-2) have been defeated by Memphis, 26-0, and Clarendon, 42-0. Both teams will find the going a little easier Friday night, as neither Panhandle nor White Deer has been able to generate any kind of offense or defense thus far, while playing some of the top teams in their respective divisions in the area.

Panhandle, 8-2-1 in 1972 but suffering from inexperience this year, will be led by its only returnees — linebackers Ray Vaughan and Gary Richardson and guard Mike Swafford (tackle on offense).

Panther running backs include Malcolm Anderson, Monty Kalka and Kirby Daniels.

The Bucks must "stop beating ourselves," says head coach Larry Anthony. "With our mistakes.

"We're not consistent. We beat ourselves because we make too many mistakes. Defensively, we've got to start has completed only 2 of 15 passes this season, but has been more than adequate as a rusher.

Sawyer, who plays linebacker and has been in on 45 tackles so far, and lineman Henry Duckworth will lead the Griffin give the Owls a better-than-average passing attack.

Defensively, Silvertown is led by lineman Merie Roehr (225 pounds).

Groom's powerful running game is paced by Tim Britten and Stan Britten, who scored one and two TD's, respectively, against Claude.

Randy Sustaire scored the other and has played admirably at the quarterback slot the first two games.

Linebacker Chris Britten and cornerback Tim Britten head the Mustang defense.

Silvertown has the stuff to pull an upset, but that's what it would be — an upset. So, Groom by 11.

Woodson, Tex. vs. Miami
Defending state 8-man champ Groom downed Woodson, 44-12 last week, while Miami's varsity was idle, as the B-team lost to Darrouzett, 44-6. Miami is in district 1-B, eight man.

Miami is (0-1) this season, losing to Forgan, Okla., 28-6 in the season opener.

"We're improving, we have to improve quite a bit over the way we played against Forgan," said Miami coach Orville Shook.

Injuries have hurt us this year, and now illnesses to some of our players are hurting us too. We've got to make some changes and adjustments before we play Woodson."

Miami is led by freshman quarterback Kirk Flowers, end Tim Jenkins, who caught a touchdown pass for Miami's only score against Darrouzett, running back Don Ed Howard and back Wayne Bright, offensively, and Howard, Jay Strahan, Donny Buice and Chuck Cox, defensively.

Woodson's unheard of in this part of Texas so, no prediction.

SPORTS The Pampa Daily News

Pampa, Texas 87th Year Thursday, Sept. 20, 1973

Clarendon penetrated the Buck defense for 353 total yards Friday.

Quarterback Buddy Cummins, who Anthony and staff have been pleased with in the two losses, paces the Buck offense.

Allen Cummins (Buddy's brother), who plays in the secondary, and lineman Donnie Thurman head the White Deer defense.

White Deer won't be able to win until the offensive scoring attack comes around. Maybe White Deer will put points on the scoreboard Friday for the first time this year, but on paper so far Panhandle's looked better, so, the Panthers by nine.

Lefors vs. Valley High
Valley High (0-2), in only its second year as a school (and a team), will have its hands more than full Friday against Leonard Tolbert's Lefors Pirates.

Valley High has lost to Paducah, 47-26 and Chillicothe, 16-14, and is rated 196th out of 199 Class B teams in the state. Lefors, on the other hand, is ranked 23rd by the Harris ratings and is a 16-point favorite over the Patriots.

Valley High was 0-10 in its first year as a school (Quitaque and Turkey combined to form Valley High) and returns six starters both ways off that team. Among those are quarterback Brent Guest and Brian Wheeler. Pepper Jones, a tight end/linebacker, will head the Pat defense.

Lefors has beaten two Class-A schools this year, downing Wheeler, 7-6 and McLean, 7-0.

Barney Sawyer, who scored the touchdown against McLean, and Robert Gifford (fullback), who gained 90 yards on 20 carries Friday, paces the Pirate rushing attack.

Quarterback Joe Ray Riley

Shockers Visit Dumas B-Team

DUMAS — Pampa's Shockers will be in quest of their second consecutive win at 7 p.m. today, as they face the Dumas junior varsity in Dumas.

Pampa (1-0-1) tied Hereford 8-8 in the season opener and demolished Clovis, N.M. Thursday, 43-0.

Fullback Frankie Lemons led the Shocker attack, gaining 170 yards on 20 carries. He was followed by halfback Kelly Baker, four for 89, and Lewis Dinkins, two for 31.

Junior High Teams, In Action Today

All four Pampa junior high football teams will be in action at 4 p.m. today, according to Harold Moore, junior high head coach.

Ninth grade Red and Blue teams play Borger and Perryton, respectively, at Borger and Harvester Stadium.

Eight grade Red and Blue teams play Borger South at Shocker Field and Perryton at Pampa Junior High Field.

Manders, Howley Rejoin Dallas

DALLAS (UPI) — The Dallas Cowboys offensive machine — missing entirely too often lately — appears to be in bad need of a winter tuneup. But the team may have taken a step toward better performance Wednesday by taking out a new sparkplug and replacing it with an old one.

Chief mechanic Tom Landry thinks it is just a matter of time before the club's offensive machine begins to hum. The problem, at present, he says, is that there are an awful lot of new parts.

The Cowboys made a move to smooth out the club's performance Tuesday by welcoming previously embittered center Dave Manders back into the organization.

Manders never reported to training camp this season and his retirement seemed certain. Last week Landry said the Manders issue was finished because during training camp "we exhausted every avenue."

"We respected Dave's position that he had previously taken," Landry said Tuesday. "He was willing to stand by it. If he didn't get what he wanted to lay out and that's the reason we considered it a closed issue from training camp until now."

"We reopened it with the idea that the team has a pro and would Dave be willing to help. He is willing and we just had to have him back. Under the circumstances that he missed all of this time, his absence will be reflected in the compensation he receives this year."

"He'll start work right away and will snap for placements and punts Monday night (against the New Orleans Saints)."

Manders said he decided to end his retirement because he thinks with his addition the Cowboys can go a long way this season.

"I had fully intended to retire but I have decided to come back at this time because [I feel I can be of service to my teammates]," he said. "I probably wouldn't feel this way so much if I didn't think the team has a chance to go to the Super Bowl. I'm in pretty good shape, obviously not football shape yet, but I've been jogging and playing a lot of tennis."

Without Manders, Dallas has run into massive problems on the punt and placement center snaps. But that's not all the misfires.

In last week's season opener Dallas fumbled the ball away once, had two passes intercepted, botched two field goal tries, allowed a punt run back for a touchdown and would have had to settle for a tie had it not been for a fourth down fake punt gamble which backfired on Chicago in the final moments.

Roger Staubach also called his own plays at quarterback last week in the Cowboys 20-17 triumph, but Landry says Staubach's play calling had nothing to do with the shakiness of the attack.

"Roger ran the game well," Landry said. "We suggested plays on the sidelines, but we did not send in a play. It is the mistakes that are still hurting us. And until we eliminate them we are not going to have many sustained drives."

These mistakes are created, Landry believes, because there are so many new people in the starting offensive lineup this season.

Collegiate Powers Not Too Impressive

By United Press International
Looks definitely aren't everything, especially when it comes to college football teams.

The pre-season sizeups on many of the nation's major powers led us to believe they had a lot more firepower than several of them showed in their first week of competition.

Southern California, Georgia Tech, Colorado and Washington were only a few of the perennial powers who failed to impress in their first week of play. Southern California, the nation's top-ranked team, did win its opener but not the way it was supposed to, and even Coach John McKay was not pleased with his team's performance.

Georgia Tech, which was ranked 19th in the pre-season ratings, was overwhelmed by an unranked South Carolina squad while Colorado, one of the nation's better offensive teams a year ago, was held to six points by a young Louisiana State team.

Embarrassing Position

And what about Washington? The Huskies, expected to be at least representative in the tough Pacific Eight Conference race, were dealt the most stunning defeat of the week, a 10-7 loss to Hawaii at Seattle.

What it all means is that picking winners this early in the season can often be embarrassing, especially when you're faced with unknown quantities.

But, despite the many pitfalls, we will go right ahead and predict that all of the topranked teams in action this week will emerge victorious and most by a wide margin.

Investment Chatter

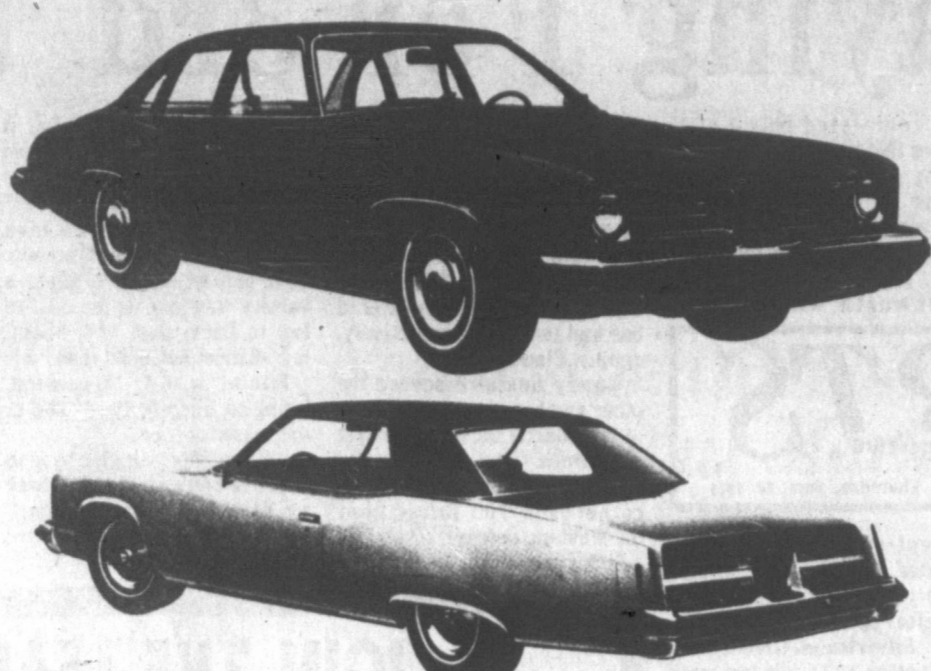

NEW YORK (UPI) — Blyth Eastman-Dillon says that with a many-pronged attack on inflation, which would include such things as fiscal restraint, action to enhance productivity and supply, and Phase VI controls, "we are even more persuaded that the economy can avoid recession No. 7 in the post-World War II period."

The Research Institute of America says that it expects "the basic inflationary pressures" to continue although it feels the price uptrend next year won't be as steep as it has been this year.

The Laidlaw-Coggeshall brokerage says it is "more optimistic" about the outlook for the stock market "than we have been for some time."

Promoters Will File Suit For Rock Festival

DALLAS (UPI)—A group of promoters who want to hold a three-day Country and Western festival in Young County said Tuesday they will file suit in U.S. district court to get permission for the event.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The big tennis match between Bobby Riggs and Billie Jean King airs Thursday on ABC-TV, and television executives are hoping it will help propel the sport into major video popularity.

Television gobbles up sports one after the other and then overexposes them, and is constantly prowling around for new athletic fields to exploit.

U.S. draws Germans BONN (UPI) — With the dollar devalued, a trip to the United States is becoming ever more attractive to West Germans.
