

Invest in Big Textile Company OF TEXAS

The Planters and Merchants Mills will construct a chain of cotton mills throughout the State of Texas. Mill No. 1 will be located at New Braunfels for the manufacture of "Blue Bonnet" Gingham.

This will be the first gingham mill in the state and has the advantage of dependable water power, plenty of raw cotton, labor about 30 per cent lower than the East, and market for several times the output.

Many cotton mills without the advantages of our Mill No. 1 have paid for themselves the first few years of operation.

A LIMITED NUMBER OF SHARES OF THIS COMPANY ARE OFFERED FOR SALE SUBJECT TO ADVANCE WITHOUT NOTICE:

The textile industry is one of the greatest industries in the United States and one which promises great development in Texas and the Southwest.

While Texas produces nearly one-fifth of the world's cotton supply, only about one per cent of the annual crop is manufactured in the State.

The Planters and Merchants Mills have been organized by Major S. M. Ransopher, formerly Director of Trade and Industrial Education at the University of Texas, and will include a chain of mills for the manufacture of cotton cloth and yarns.

Mill No. 1, for the manufacture of gingham cloth will be built at New Braunfels. This mill has many advantages, among others are the following:

RAW MATERIAL. Raw cotton sufficient to supply several mills is grown in Comal, Hays, Guadalupe and nearby counties.

POWER. Water power from the Guadalupe River, a stream fed by large springs which never fail, will save, the engineers estimate, $24,000 each year.

LABOR. White labor of the best type is available at about 30 per cent under the cost in the East.

TRANSPORTATION. We have the advantage over Eastern mills of about one cent on each yard of cloth due to freight savings, alone. On a 9,000,000 yard production yearly this saving amounts to $90,000.00.

THE MANAGEMENT. Lockwood, Greene & Company of Boston, the leading textile engineers of the world, will build Mill No. 1, and furnish the Superintendent and the technical staff. Major S. M. Ransopher is Sole Trustee and General Manager.

THE PRODUCT. Bluebonnet Gingham, an article used by every family, rich or poor.

THE MARKET. Mill No. 1 will not be able to supply one-third of the Texas trade alone.

Investment Possibilities

From Statements of Existing Texas Mills and Available Information From Eastern Mills it is Fair to Assume that the Earnings of Our Mills Should be as Large or Larger Than Most of These Mills for the Following Reasons:

1. Our mill will be up-to-date in every particular, cost of manufacture being reduced to the minimum.
2. We have an advantage of about 30 per cent lower cost on labor than Northern and Eastern mills.
3. Textile experts estimate that Texas mills, due to the elimination of brokerage, handling, shrinking, and warehouse cost, save approximately 15 per cent.
4. The saving due to water power is estimated by engineers at about $24,000.00 every year for our New Braunfels mill.
5. Freight charges alone give a great advantage to Texas mills. To ship cotton from San Antonio to Boston or common New England points, by water through Galveston, and to return the finished goods by the same route costs $4.22 per hundred pounds. This is about one cent on each yard of gingham cloth. The product of our first mill is estimated when running two shifts, at 9,000,000 yards annually. Selling this product at the same price Eastern mills sell, gives us the advantage of one cent a yard, or $90,000.00 annually.
6. The product of our first mill, gingham, offers the opportunity of a larger margin of profits than lower grade goods, as duck, denim and canvas.

Mill No. 1 at New Braunfels will be the only mill in Texas manufacturing gingham.

In view of the past records of similar textile mills throughout the United States (most of them operating without the many advantages we will have), the future prospects for the industry in Texas, and the crying need of cotton goods in Europe and America, we feel certain that we are offering a most desirable investment in the Capital Stock of the Planters and Merchants Mills.

The United States Board of Trade, in its annual report, found as a result of a close investigation that the average income of all textile mills in the United States for the year of 1920 was 124 per cent. Even a cursory review of the present economic and industrial conditions will convince you of the tremendous possibilities of the enterprise. You cannot afford to permit such an opportunity to pass unheeded. It is poor economy which does not plan for the future.

Lay your plans well by investing in a safe and sound business enterprise as we offer, and an abundant return on your investment is practically assured.

BAPTISTS RAISE $30,000,000 CASH

ALL GENERAL WORK STRENGTHENED BY 75 MILLION CAMPAIGN, IT IS SHOWN.

WHERE THE MONEY GOES

Sums That Have Been Appropriated To Various Objects Set Forth By Headquarters Office At Nashville, Tenn.

Dr. E. Gill, Baptist Representative in Europe, on left, and P. V. Pavloff of All Russian Baptist Union.

From the beginning of the Baptist 75 Million Campaign to January, 1922, a total of $30,356,319.41 had been paid in to objects fostered by the Campaign. It is announced by the general headquarters office at Nashville. Of this amount $28,799,971.16 came in through the payment of regular Campaign subscriptions and the remaining $1,556,348.26 in special contributions. Regular receipts from the various states follow: Ala., $1,301,134.76; Ark., $714,683.09; D. of C., $123,280.01; Fla., $469,753.53; Ga., $3,000,174.10; Ill., $298,576.13; Ky., $3,187,656.15; La., $807,991.13; Md., $393,517.46; Miss., $1,243,846.50; Mo., $1,196,764.70; N. M., $145,239.97; N. C., $2,311,741.50; Okla., $840,562.65; S. C., $2,638,840.53; Tenn., $1,797,483.10; Tex., $5,162,658.35; Va., $3,279,085. More than 250,000 baptisms were reported by Southern Baptist churches last year.

How Money Was Distributed
Seven general objects of the denomination were embraced in the Campaign program, and from the regular Campaign contributions those objects have received the following amounts, according to a compilation by the headquarters office: Foreign missions, $5,424,012.53; home missions, $3,562,600.87; state missions in the seventeen states and local work in the District of Columbia, $4,954,813.26; Christian education, $7,192,442.79; Baptist hospitals, $2,004,099.16; orphanages, $2,103,787.33; and Relief and Annuity Board, which ministers to aged dependent ministers and their families, $799,126.99.

What Money Has Done
These funds represent an advance, ranging from 200 to 300 per cent, in the contributions of Southern Baptists to their general missionary, educational and benevolent work, prior to the inauguration of the Campaign, and have enabled the boards and other agencies to greatly extend their services in all departments. In addition to sending out more than 180 new missionaries since the Campaign began, and providing many church buildings, mission residences, schools, theological seminaries, publishing houses, hospitals and the like on the older fields the Foreign Mission Board has been enabled to open work in the new fields of Spain, Yugoslavia, Hungary, Roumania and Southern Russia in Europe, and Palestine, Syria and Siberia in Asia, and Dr. Everett Gill, for many years a missionary in Italy, but more recently a pastor in Kansas City, has been named special European representative to supervise the greatly expanded work on that continent. Dr. Gill is giving much of his time to distributing Baptist relief funds in Russia and otherwise looking after the interests of the denomination there.

Home Work Enlarged
Among the outstanding accomplishments of the Home Mission Board are the aiding of more than 1,000 churches with loans and gifts for church buildings, completion of the big tuberculosis sanatorium at El Paso, enlargement of the work in Cuba and the Canal Zone, strengthening of the 87 mountain mission schools and the development of all eleven departments of the work of the Board. In all seventeen states of the Southern Baptist Convention the state mission work has been greatly extended, the number of Baptist hospitals in the South has been increased from eleven to twenty-three, all of the older eighteen Baptist orphanages have been aided in material ways and two new ones have been established, while the number of aged dependent ministers and their families has been doubled and the amount of aid given them increased 100 per cent.

Collections Are Pushed
While the collections so far represent a big gain over the contributions of Southern Baptists to their work before the Campaign, the sum collected is not all that is due and in all the South an effort is being made to collect as much more as possible by the close of the Convention year, May 1, that none of the work may suffer.

TO THE VOTERS OF HOWARD COUNTY

As I cannot make an active campaign and give the complete work for the services they require of me I will speak to you, my friends, through your home paper. I am as much interested in the welfare and society of this county as I am in my candidacy for Sheriff and Tax Collector. I am a Union man and always ready to defend what it stands for. There is no Union that takes political rights and the free privilege that our forefathers fought in the Revolutionary War and handed down to us, and any man who thinks he can ride into office over that right may be a good fellow all right but has just got his wires crossed. The house of God, our ballot is what have made this the leading nation of the world today and at this day and time when crime is the worst in the history of the world we should put ourselves to the test and cast our vote for the best timber available. Some folks say little and the people will expect little. I don't think much of a candidate that won't come out boldly that you may know where he stands. I never allow my work to be a burden to me. If you put your whole heart and soul in your work or your religious duties it is not a burden but a pleasure and I would uphold and defend the morals and integrities of this county to the fullest extent of the law with the greatest of pleasure. We don't need a law educator, we need a law enforcer. I have letters from the leading sheriffs of this State that will tell you I can be depended on to do my duty and I would show as clean a record of books and as clean a record as any man that ever unlocked the prison doors of this county, and I would be your sheriff and your office deputy. It is my ambition to be your servant and I have the courage to render the services you need. I am one hundred per cent for any organization that stands for the better morals of the county.

Your vote and influence will be greatly appreciated.

Your humble servant,

H. T. LANE

Billy Sunday still a la Fairbanks

Billy Sunday, noted baseball evangelist, is still putting them on the plate on the Sawdust Trail, a la Doug Fairbanks, as shown here despite his years. This new picture was taken in Washington when Billy stopped off to lunch with the President while on his way to Spartanburg, S. C.

Two-bit Stockings

Prices of commodities have fallen but according to veracious reports from the fair sex, they have not fallen to a level where a woman, who is called upon to show herself on the streets, in a store or in public in any capacity, can encase her shapely underpinning in stockings at two-bits per pair and escape humiliation. Yet word comes from Topeka, Kan., that shopgirls, salesladies and other women wage earners, are expected to dress themselves becomingly at an average outlay annually of $87.55.

Small wonder that a Topeka preacher proclaimed from his pulpit that "I would have liked to have marched with the girls who made a tour of the shopping districts in search of the renowned 25-cent hose." It must have been some search and barren of satisfactory results, if we judge from the furor that has followed the announcement of this annual average for girls' dressing appropriations. The labor unions have taken cognizance of the matter and held a mass meeting to discuss it with the result that the sum was pronounced too insignificant, and that to fix such a figure arbitrarily would mean woe to the girls, temptations that would engulf many and sorrows and recklessness that would be disastrous for good morals and clean living.

The verdict given by the preacher already referred to will find an approving echo in every intelligent mind; "I venture the opinion that department store heads would not employ girls dressed in clothes that cost but $87.55 a year." He might have added, that these department store heads would have demanded better dressing than this sum would provide in these and they would not have raised questions as to how the girl should clothe herself for a year, another pathetic evidence of the vagaries of some of the so-called fare movements, industrial and economic programs.

A girl who undertook to dress herself for twelve months at an average cost of $87.55 would not be present at one of our modern costume parties where old time garments are worn for amusement.—Temple Telegram.

Presbyterian Church: Notes

Our Sunday school and preaching services will be held next Sunday as usual. Our preaching services have been interrupted for the last two Sundays, but we are glad to note that the Sunday school attendance has kept up so well through the epidemic of sickness. Only two more Sundays in this church year, and it is hoped that we can clear up the year's work in good shape, regardless of the things which have hindered us this year. Next Sunday will be the day for our Every Member Canvass, and we are arranging for all of the Canvassers, or workers to meet at the church at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon, so that the Canvass can be made in about two hours. It is requested that all the members of our church, who are not placed on the committees, will remain at their homes from 2:30 to 4:30 so that all may be seen and interviewed. It is also requested that all the officers of the church make their plans to come at 2:30 and work with the various committees. The work does not belong to any one of us more than to another; but it belongs to all of us together. When every link in a chain does its work well then the chain serves the purpose for which it was made. When every member of the church does his, or her part then the whole church serves the purpose for which the Master ordained it. The Presbytery of El Paso will convene in Carlsbad, N. M., April 11th, 7:30 p. m. for the spring session.

There is much distress in the world today, many trials, hardships, difficulties, and sorrows; not because God would have it so, but because the human family has tried to run things to suit its own pleasure. All disobedience receives its punishment. The All-seeing Eye of our God is watching our every act, yea He knows our every thought and desire, and He is only waiting for us to place our implicit faith in Him, and then to ask in faith for the desires of our hearts. "He that asketh receiveth." "If ye ask anything in My name I will do it," says Jesus.

Ex-Citizen Offers Good Suggestions.

V. Z. Perriman of Baird, a former resident of Big Spring, who was a visitor here this week had the following recommendations to make concerning improving the appearance of Big Spring: "It has been five or six years since I visited Big Spring and note some improvements in the way of nice brick and concrete buildings as well as some concrete sidewalks but your city needs many more miles of concrete sidewalks as well as street improvement. A few boosters and live wires to get back of a movement for further improvements such as real city street lights—about four to the block in the business section—on streets running north and south as well on those running east and west—would add much to the attractive appearance of your city. Then too you should urge your city officials to enforce the ordinance forcing property owners to clean all the brush, rubbish and tin cans out of all the streets and back alleys as a health protection if not to improve the appearance of your city."

HON. LUCIAN W. FARRISH SPEAKS

protect the interest of all of our people. Profiteering, especially in the vital necessities of life must be stopped and the guilty punished. There is too much margin in prices between the producers and the consumers. The farmer sells his goods at wholesale for low prices, fixed generally by the buyer, but when he buys back he must buy at retail and at prices fixed by the seller. In a recent investigation held in the District of Columbia, it was shown that the potatoes from which the Washington supply largely came were selling in Michigan at $1.10 per bushel, and that the consumers in Washington were paying $4.80 per bushel, or a profit of $3.70 per bushel was collected by the middle man somewhere between the producer and the consumer, a profit of more than 300 per cent and this is true of large numbers of other farm products constituting the necessities of life. The system of marketing which permits this is faulty, and those who are responsible for exacting such a high toll from the sale of the vital necessities of life are criminals and should be punished to the full limit of the law. The enforcement of the criminal laws of the land will eliminate much of this profiteering and the adoption of a well considered cooperative marketing system will eliminate most of the other injustices and will enable the producer to get more for his products, and the consumer to pay less, and I pledge my best efforts in remedying these conditions so vital to the life and welfare of the American people.

The financial system of this country is lacking in what might be termed intermediate credits. The federal reserve system was passed for the purpose of decentralizing the money system of the country and providing facilities for financing the ordinary commercial transactions based on loan periods of thirty, sixty and ninety days. These are the short time credits which are utilized by manufacturers and merchants. The federal farm loan act makes provision for long time credits under which a farmer can acquire his own farm on easy payments covering a period of years. But nothing has been done to provide intermediate credits running for one, two and three years, and this is most vital to the farmers and stockmen. If a stockman can be given a credit at fair rate for a period of three years, the natural increase of his herd will make the loan better all the time and yet he will not be forced to sacrifice his stock on a glutted market. If the farmer could borrow money for one, two and three years, he would have time to mature his crops and market them when ready and not before, and I strongly urge the creation of a system of intermediate credits, the details of which will be submitted in appropriate legislation.

Tariff for revenue is not only just and equitable, but in view of the present condition of the federal treasury, it is a necessary and practical means of raising revenue and I therefore believe in the democratic doctrine of a tariff for revenue only, but so long as there is to be a tariff even for revenue levied upon the finished product, then I shall ask and insist that it be an American tariff which lays its burdens equitably and fairly upon all classes, upon all sections, and upon all industries, and not a New England tariff which seeks to protect the New England manufacturers at the expense of the great body of the American people. Tariff even for revenue gives its incidental protection and I shall insist that the producers of raw materials be given the benefit of their proportionate share of such a tariff. When the American farmers and producers come to that place where they absolutely insist that they be given the same recognition in a tariff legislation that is given to the New England manufacturers, there will be a distinct tendency upon the part of the New England manufacturers to do away with all tariff, and a natural tendency will be toward lower tariff duties.

The farmers and producers of this nation represent one-third of its population, and they buy one-third of the finished or manufactured products as they come from the workshops and the factories, and it is manifestly unfair, unjust and undemocratic to require them as long as there is to be a tariff of any kind, to sell their products in an open market and compel them to buy the things they must use in a market that has the benefit of a tariff. All the instincts of common justice compel me to say that so long as the policy of the government, under the rule of the republican majority, has a tariff in the interest of American industry, and as a member of the minority party, I am powerless to defeat that tariff, then I shall demand that recognition be given to American agriculture in some just proportion, and I believe this is a sound principle of government which will appeal to the sense of justice of the people of Texas, and will meet with their favorable approval.
 I believe in the most stringent immigration laws and until congress shall have passed such laws I believe that immigration should be restricted to the admission of desirable members of divided families, some of whom are now residents of this country. Now is the time for the American people to awake and protect themselves against the ceaseless tide of immigration seeking to come to this country. A study of the character of immigrants recently arriving discloses that many of them are restless, adventurous, and poverty stricken. Unlike those who cast their lot with us in earlier days, they do not come here to escape religious or political persecution, but they are coming here either to better themselves financially or to find a more fertile field in which they may scatter the dangerous propaganda which has wrought so much havoc recently in the old world. Some of them have criminal habits and dispositions and others are afflicted with the most terrible diseases known to the Orient and to permit them to come here indiscriminately is but to invite crime, disease, disorder and suffering.

It is time that we act now, because within a few short years the damage will have been done. The endless tide of immigration will have filled our country with a foreign and unsympathetic element. Those who are out of sympathy with our constitution and the spirit of our government will be here in large numbers and the true spirit of Americanism left us by our fathers will gradually become poisoned. The time once was when we welcomed to our shores the oppressed and down trodden people from all the world, but they came to us because of oppression at home and with the sincere purpose of making true and loyal American citizens, and in truth and in fact they did adapt themselves to our institutions and contributed in a most substantial sense to the progress and development of our civilization has made. But that time has passed now, new and strange conditions have arisen in the countries over there, new and strange doctrines are being taught. The governments of the Orient are being overturned and destroyed and anarchy and bolshevism are threatening the very foundation of many of them, and no one can foretell what the future will bring to those countries now struggling with this problem.

We must throw about this country the most stringent immigration laws and keep from our shores forever those who are not in sympathy with American ideas. We must act and act quick, because every month's delay increases the difficulty in which we find ourselves and renders the problems of government more difficult of solution. It is imperative that we protect America from the poisonous influences that are threatening the very foundation of the governments of Europe, and see to it that those who come here, hereafter, are loyal and true to our nation and impress upon them that it means something to have the privileges of American citizenship.
 The American youth in battles across the sea in the great world conflict, by his bravery and patriotism, added new luster to the glory of our flag; after the war had ended and during a celebration of the first anniversary of the signing of the armistice in Centralia, Washington, a number of those young men who were shot down in cold blood for no other reason than that they were the American uniform, and those brave boys fell victims of the anti-American and anti-government movement that is being built up by a sentiment existing in this country opposed to American institutions. Such occurrences as these ought to bestir us to immediate action and cause us to make sure that we speedily put an end to the further coming in of such persons as will encourage those who would destroy our country. We all have the same purpose, and that is to add to the glory, power and influence of this nation and to preserve uncontaminated the true American spirit of the fathers who built this government and laid the foundation of its institutions.

and we can most effectively accomplish this result by closing the door to dangerous influences, and give ourselves time to teach more Americanism and less Europeanism. We must hold this country true to the American thought and the American ideal.
 Prohibition and woman suffrage have become firmly established as a part of the constitutional and statutory law of the land and appear to be settled issues, but in order that my position may be clearly understood I wish to say that I have from the beginning consistently supported both measures, not only as state issues but as national issues as well.
 I believe that women should receive equal pay with men in all branches of the federal service in which women are employed, and am in accord with the national democratic platform which favors legislation by the federal government limiting the hours of employment of women engaged in industry, the product of which enters into interstate commerce. Women should have full representation on all commissions dealing with the work and welfare of female employees.
 The protection of the health and welfare of women and children through infancy and maternity is essential to the fullest realization of our national ideals, and I favor cooperation with the states for the protection of child life through infancy and maternity care and urge the rigid enforcement of federal laws prohibiting child labor.
 When American young men went into the recent world war they were told that they were fighting to put an end to all wars. I regard those promises as sacred and favored the League of Nations as the best safeguard against future wars yet devised, and if elected United States senator I will continue to fight for the League of Nations or some association of nations that will settle international dispute through the channels of arbitration to the end that so far as humanly possible future wars may be avoided.
 Mr. Parrish took the view that, whether this country relishes such a situation or not, its affairs have become closely inter-meshed with those of Europe, and that the real prosperity of this country is dependent in very great measure of the prosperity of other nations. Constructive cooperation among nations, he declared, is necessary to relieve financial depression, and he urged, as a first step, the removal of all barriers to foreign trade so that the products of American farms and factories may be offered without prejudicial restrictions in the open markets of the world.
 As far as is consistent without jeopardizing the interests of the general public, Mr. Parrish said, collective bargaining and cooperative marketing should be furthered and aided. Enactment of additional legislation, if necessary, to prevent collection of excessive profits on the necessities of life, he urged, in connection with a plea for rigid enforcement of laws against profiteering.
 Immediately after he concluded his speech he left in his auto for Midland, being scheduled for an address there Tuesday night.
 Mr. Parrish is a native Texan, having been born in Van Alstyne, Grayson County, and what prominence and honor he has won is due largely to his own efforts as his parents were poor and had eight other children to support. He worked on a cattle ranch, saved his money and educated himself. As a self-made man, clean limbed and clean thinking he represents the very highest type of American citizen.
 He is seeking the senatorship in the belief that it will give him the opportunity for still greater service to the people of his native state. He is a West Texas man and the first one from West Texas who has ever been a candidate for U. S. Senator and The Herald is of the opinion that West Texas has tried out permitting East Texans to represent them long enough to know that we cannot expect proper representation from men not familiar with conditions in West Texas. West Texans should vote almost solidly for Mr. Parrish.

BRACE UP!

Do you feel old before your time? Is your back bent and stiff? Do you suffer urinary disorders? Don't despair—profit by Big Spring experience. Big Spring people recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. Here's a Big Spring resident's statement.

Mrs. F. G. Sholte, 401 Pine St., says: "I had pains in the small of my back that were awful. It was worse than a toothache and when I bent over my back hurt so I could hardly straighten up. I became so nervous the least thing would irritate me and I was bothered with dizzy spells. Little spots before my eyes blurred my sight, too. I couldn't get much rest and I would get up mornings feeling all tired out and without enough ambition to do anything. I started using Doan's Kidney Pills and the trouble soon began to leave me. Before long I was entirely cured and I have had no return of kidney complaint since."

Methodist Notes

We consider the 380 present at S. S. last Sunday quite unusual for there are dozens of our people who are on the sick list. Only two teachers, so far, have been absent from their classes. If there is any one thing that speaks well for the "Susanna Wesley" class, it is their prompt and generous response when asked to substitute at a pinch. We are extremely glad, however, that punctuality is one of the strongest virtues of our entire teaching force, and we rarely need a substitute. Quite a number of the Junior and Primary classes had an increased attendance, we note. It was in the adult department our ranks were depleted.

This Sunday we begin a series of map studies that we know will prove of greatest benefit to the school. Brother Hardy has kindly consented to give these at the close of the lesson period, and we are looking forward to added interest in our Old Testament studies as a result. This is the Sunday we are to have a duet by Morris Mann and his aunt, Margaret Stevens gave the special last Sunday, a reading, that even the big folks found entertaining.

The Superintendent visited the Beginners' department Sunday and found the four tables closely packed by small boys and girls who were learning a new motion song. It was such a fine number we are going to have it sung in the assembly room before dismissal this coming week. Be sure to hear it.

The lesson story, the cut out illustrations and the songs were all good. Under able supervision these little folks are doing excellent work.

Outside of this department, the classes that led in attendance were Mrs. Morris, Mrs. C. W. Davis, Miss Settles and Mrs. J. V. Davis. The League attendance continues to grow. Visitors are invited to drop in at 3 any Sunday afternoon to see what splendid times are had at this session. The Senior League also seems to be taking on new strength. It meets at 6:30 each Sunday.

We are to have our presiding elder with us this week, and the Superintendent urges renewed effort to be on hand at Sunday school. Let us make him open his eyes very wide indeed. Come if at all possible. He will preach for us at the evening hour, after which will be held the quarterly conference. The very best way to keep in touch with the activity of the entire church is to attend these quarterly sessions. You will get a close-up that will be of service. Try it and see.

Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock the Auxiliary will have its social service meeting at the church. Don't miss it. Bring some one else along.

Resolutions of Condoleance

On March 11th, 1922 the Grim Reaper, the bearer of the scythe of death, appeared in our midst and cut down without warning our beloved brother and friend, W. A. Bynum.

We deeply deplore the death of our brother and extend the sorrowing family and relatives our deepest sympathy in the loss of one so noble and true. We ask God to comfort and sustain them, and extend the hope that we all may meet with our departed brother in that Golden City of Love and eternal life, prepared by our Creator for his children.

Whereas we cause to be spread on the minutes of the I. O. O. F. Lodge of Big Spring, these resolutions and a copy of same to be sent to the family of our departed brother.

the days now long gone, one acted with a super-wisdom said: "soft answer turneth away wrath," his claim to wisdom has been diminished, rather than diminished years have flown by. The following taken from a recent issue of "Railwayman" published in Kansas and edited by E. B. Sanders, Jr., of E. B. Sanders of Amarillo, is in eminent jurist once remarked eight cases out of ten coming into court for adjudication could very well be handled much more satisfactorily, and much more satisfactorily, been handled outside of court if opposing parties would only have the right efforts to effect a settlement.

at same statement can readily be applied to almost every argument and arising between individuals. At times we feel an argument coming, we think of the old saying "stop to argue, just let it amble by," and as a result we win our arguments.

bring this matter to your attention because the thought came to me the other day in a very impressive way. A passenger boarded a Rock Island at Twelfth Street and handed the conductor a transfer, which was about six hours too old for the car. The conductor looked at the transfer very politely explained to the passenger that he couldn't accept it, and with an air of dignity and self importance—the patron proceeded to "call" the conductor in terms unbecomingly to a gentleman. Here was a big chance for an argument. Other passengers on the rear platform, (the car was crowded) craned their necks to see the "fight," but there was none.

"I'm sorry you feel that way about it, and I, being a gentleman, won't argue the matter with you," explained the conductor. "In your business whatever it is, you probably have certain rules to follow. Or if you are the boss you expect your employees to carry out your orders. Isn't that right? In this business we also have certain rules to follow. I am only carrying out instructions when I refused your transfer, which is not acceptable at this point or at this hour. No doubt you do not understand our transfer rules or I am sure you wouldn't have passed this one off on me. We are all liable to be mistaken at times—I often make mistakes myself. You see my viewpoint now, don't you?"

"We felt like reaching over and throwing our arms around that conductor. Here was a real fellow—a big asset to the company.

"The passenger paid his fare and said nothing at the time. But when he left at Thirty-First Street he passed by the conductor and remarked: "Thanks for the transfer information, old man. You treated me white and you're a gentleman. I won't forget you."

"And he didn't forget. He wrote the company that very night, explained the circumstances and highly commended that conductor for his extreme courtesy to passengers."

"We asked the conductor before we left the car if he had many experiences like that one.

"I have several every day," he replied. "Some are over transfers, others over the amount of fare dropped in the box and many others of a trivial nature."

"Don't you ever lose your temper at times?" we inquired, wondering at the coolness this conductor had just displayed.

"I found out long ago that it don't pay to lose my temper. The company didn't hire me for that purpose. A little courtesy on my part always settles all arguments and it leaves a good taste in my mouth. It surely is the only way to make friends and I have a host of them on this line. Why, last Christmas I'll bet I received a hundred cigars from my customers—I call them customers. It wasn't me personally that they especially liked but they enjoyed the 'brand' of service I always try to give them."

"And we have been thinking about this incident ever since. That's why we want to tell everyone else about it."

"There are too many arguments between our employes and patrons; only ten a year is ten too many. Arguments lead to bitter feelings on the part of both parties concerned. We are after the friendship of every patron and arguments don't promote friendship."

"Let's use a little tact, a certain amount of diplomacy in dealing with our customers. If we are in the wrong then let's don't waste any time in getting over on the right side."

"Let's promote a company of good fellowship and sell stock to ourselves and all our patrons. It's a paying investment and the easiest thing in the world to sell if we but make the effort."

"And above all else let us follow the example of the conductor we have mentioned and—'just let trouble amble by.'"

The Immigration Law

The cases of two Russian families detained at Ellis Island shows another defect of the present immigration law that was not foreseen when the law was enacted. Two Russian fathers and two Russian mothers are eligible for admission to the United States, but their two children, aged 8 and 10 months, are marked for deportation. The fault of these babies consists in their having been born in Constantinople instead of in Russia. The babies should have been known better, no doubt, and their parents share their blame as partners in the offense. But that doesn't help the awkward human situation created by an inflexible law which recognizes nothing but mathematical quotas, and can see only that the Turkish quota is filled up, though the Russian quota is not. This situation is particularly absurd because the immigration rule, in determining an immigrant's eligibility by his place of birth regardless of other circumstances, disregards the fundamental law applying to American citizenship. A child born of American parents in Constantinople would not be a Turk but an American. And these very children, by Russian laws, are Russians, not Turks.—Tulsa Tribune.

Canada in World Politics

There is no country more gallant than Canada—none with a better record in recent times. And there is no other that is bound to the United States by so many ties of mutual interest and of friendly association. Canada's place is now distinctly fixed in the group of peoples called the British Commonwealth, and it is henceforth understood that the Dominion is entirely independent in all that pertains to her own affairs. Thus she will be at liberty to send an Ambassador of her own to Washington whenever it may seem desirable. She has long made her own tariff arrangements without any dictation or interferences from London. As we have more than once remarked in these pages, it is high time that a seat was made for Canada in the council room of the Pan-American Union at Washington. At this stage in tariff discussion it should be strongly urged by those who look well into the future that the welfare of the two halves of North America are to be regarded as identical. To create ill-will by tariff legislation at Washington, when we are trying to create good-will by all other means, would be harmful in any direction—transatlantic, transpacific, or southward; but it would be especially mischievous and unsound as a policy directed against our Canadian friends, whose prosperity is only less vital to us than is that of our own States.—American Review of Reviews.

A bunch of bulldozers does not make a city anymore than a house makes a home. You make it.

Santox cold tablets. They relieve.... Cunningham & Phillips.

Dr. J. M. Peebles, who wrote a book called "How to Live a Century and Grow Old Gracefully," died at the age of 98. He attributed his longevity to abstaining from meats. "One can not strengthen life by living on death," he argued. He went to bed every night at 8:30 and arose at 6, took no intoxicants and did not use tobacco. Worry was taboo. He held that the spirit has much to do with the body, that the spirit never grows old and that it helps to keep the body young. Mrs. Bertha Perkins of Sabetha, Kan., will be 98 in April. She credits good cooking with her good fortune and advocates eating corn bread. Modern cooking runs too much to fudge and fancy dishes, she says. Work she pronounces the best tonic. There is much to be gained from the lives of both of these near-centenarians. The normal person wants to live long and happily. It can be done by giving a little attention to what might be called the technique of living. Time thus employed is wisely invested.—Raleigh News and Observer.

Directors of the Chamber of Commerce are requested to attend a meeting at 6:30 o'clock this evening. Be sure to be on hand promptly.

THE OLD CIDER-MILL
 On evenings like this, as I sit in the gloaming, my mem'ry goes back, as one's memory will; I give it full sway in its traatic roaming, until it lands plump at the old cider-mill—the mill of my Dad, in the old apple-orchard—the only machinery the old man possessed;
 it ground up the "culls" and it squeeze out the nectar, that thrills me this minute, down under my vest. . . That old cider-mill was the pride of my boy-hood, though smug yellow-jackets contested my right, and sometimes I landed an angry bald-hornet, that taught me too well how a devil can fight. . . I've sat on the fence in supreme contemplation, and scratched my brown leg, as a lazy kid will—and longed for a bumper of liquid in-fiation that cooled betimes, from that old moonshine still.—That old apple r. Ander, that staunch old stem-winder, that dealt out the juice, like an old moonshine still.

Farming for Profit

At least four classes are anxious to see a large cotton crop this year, says the Texas Industrial Congress. They are the English and American spinners, the Wall-street "Bears," the boll-weevil and the pink boll-worm.

So long as the demand equals the supply and the price of cotton is high enough to allow the grower a profit, a large crop is unobjectionable, but farmers, like other people, are engaged in business for the purpose of making a profit from their labor.

With prospects for a heavy infestation of the boll weevil and the possibility of a wide distribution of the pink boll worm, the outlook for the profitable production of a big crop of cotton is not very bright.

It is estimated that the boll weevil devoured 50 per cent of the Texas crop last year which doubled the cost of producing it. It appears wise, therefore, for every farmer to provide first, for A Living at Home.

Mr. John S. Kerr, a well-known Texas farmer and horticulturist, says:
 "The idea of a living at home, which includes an orchard, a garden, and a poultry yard, is the cornerstone of agricultural prosperity. If every home in country and town were equipped with,
 say, eighteen hens, eighteen fruit trees, eighteen short rows of vegetables, and with a few grape vines, blackberry and raspberry bushes, properly selected and well cared for, it would mean a saving in living expenses of from 15 per cent to 30 per cent, and be of untold benefit in the health, happiness and contentment of each household."

The wise farmer, therefore, will look to these essentials before recklessly planting a large cotton crop this season.

In every neighborhood there are to be found one or more individual farmers, who, taking the years one with another, are nearly always successful in their farming operations. They practice crop diversification and the "Living at Home" policy. The examples of these level-headed business men can be followed with advantage by all.

Kindergarten for Grown-ups Discussed

Washington, Mar. 16.—Discussions in congressional cloakrooms are not always of matters of state. A Democratic senator was overheard speaking to his Republican colleague yesterday regarding the lack of knowledge of some supposedly educated men.

"Would it be a good plan to assemble
 Voliva, who thinks the earth is flat;
 Pedrosa of Brazil, who has just arrived in this country with instructions to give doctors by which they may bring the dead to life; and Bryan, who thinks we should decide by law what is and what is not a fact of natural history, in a kindergarten class in primary education?"

"I'd be afraid of the result," answered the Republican senator. "Mr.
 Ledrosa might want to experiment on the rest of the class."
 What could he have meant?

Do you know theres' lots 'o people
 Sitting 'round in every town,
 Growlin' like a broody chicken,
 Knocking every good thing down?
 Don't you be that kind 'o cattle,
 'Cause they ain't no use on earth,
 You just be a booster rooster,
 —Crow, and boost for all you're worth.
 If your town needs boostin', booster,
 Don't hold back an' wait to see
 If some other feller's willin',
 Sail right in, this country's free,
 No one's got a mortgage on it,
 It's just as much yours as his;
 If your town is shy on boosters,
 You get busy on the boostin' biz.
 If things don't just seem to suit you,
 And the world seems kinder wrong
 What's the matter with a boostin'
 Just to help the thing along;
 'Cause if things should stop goin'
 We'd be in a sorry plight,
 Lou just keep that horn a-blowin' Boost'er up with all your might.
 If you know some feller's fallin'
 Just forget 'em 'cause you know
 That same feller's got some good points
 Them's the ones you want to show;
 "Cast your loaves out on the waters,
 They'll come back" 's a sayin' true,
 Maybe they'll come back "battered"
 When some feller boosts for you.

The Cost of a Frown
 A man went into a store the other day to buy some goods. The purchases he had in mind amounted to several hundred dollars.
 But as he entered the store he met the proprietor. The storekeeper was evidently in a bad humor, and answered the customer's salutation with a nod
 The visitor looked around a little, made an excuse, and then left.
 Perhaps the store keeper had some real trouble on his mind. Many things might have been going wrong.—But the fact is that he lost a larger sale, with a substantial profit, because he forgot to greet his customer with a smile and a pleasant salutation.
 It would have cost no more to smile
 than to frown.

Tin Cans Kill Cows

J. Willis Johnson has a shiny condensed milk can on his desk in the Central National Bank, which he took out of the jaw of the skeleton of a cow which he found on the range a few days ago.

Mr. Johnson says that tin cans kill thousands of cattle on the ranges of West Texas every year. The cattle, he says, chew on the cans and get them fastened in their jaw or teeth, finally strangling them.

Mr. Johnson believes that the lives of at least a thousand cattle could be saved each year if campers and picnickers would be more careful not to leave tin cans in West Texas pastures.—San Angelo Standard.

BIG SPRING HERALD BY JORDAN & HAYDEN

$2.00 A YEAR IN HOWARD COUNTY
$2.50 A YEAR OUTSIDE COUNTY

Entered as second class matter at the Postoffice, Big Spring, Texas, under Act of Congress, March 8th, 1897.

Big Spring, Friday, March 17, 1922.

More robbery, embezzlement and burglary now than ever before in our history, says Francis M. Hugo, official of a big bonding company. Trusted employees, gone bad, are stealing over $100,000,000 a year. "Outside Jobs"—including hold-ups, burglary and other forms of robbery—yield additional plunder of $250,000,000. The total is $350,000,000 a year. An alarming figure? Granted. But it's less than $3.50 a year for each American. Crooks are stealing only $1 out of each $154 of the total income of the American people. Be amazed at the great majority of honest people, not at the dishonesty of a small minority of crooks.—Shreveport Times.

Chairman Fordney affords a short period of grace to all interests and industries threatened by heavier taxes with which to pay the soldiers' bonus in pointing out that nothing final can be reported until the program has been agreed upon by the house and senate committee in conference. Thus far only tentative suggestions have been made. But these suggestions serve to show how loudly the interests affected can shriek in protest. Judging by the vociferation already caused by the suggested taxes on stock and bond transfers and gasoline, not to mention bank checks, the howling over the new taxes will be unprecedented before the bonus clinic is ended. This will not make the service men happy; they cannot enjoy being called robbers. Nobody in the end will be happy—not even the Republican party which must shoulder full responsibility.—Springfield Republican.

Federal Reserve banks, scattered over the United States, say that business is getting better. Naturally the nation will be slow to recover from their recent wartime jag. It is a very short way from corn bread to pie, but it is a very long way back from pie to corn bread, as Bill Arp, the homely Georgia philosopher, so aptly expressed it half a century ago. The whole world is getting over a drunken spree. All the energies of the world were diverted to one thing, war. Huge fortunes were made over night and money was flung far and wide, to keep the war going at full speed. Naturally after the war the drunken nerves and brains had to recover. This is not to be done in a day, but if we will all determine to work and think and strive for normalcy, it will gradually return after many days. The patients who have been lying at the point of death must go through the convalescent period, before they are again able to produce their limit. And we must remember that the world is so closely interwoven we cannot expect a full recovery until Europe, bankrupt, torn and shattered in spirit and finances, is able to buy what we produce.—Cleburne Enterprise.

Scatter Roses for the Living
There are living hearts that love you.
Grieve not too long for the dead.
Smile on those whose hearts are bounding
With life's blood so rich and red;
Grief is such a dour companion
It is best to let her go,
And retain a sweet remembrance—
Just a sacred tender glow.
Like the golden glow of twilight
When the sun has gone to rest,
Let your love for the departed
Glorify and tint your breast;
And when tears must wet your lashes,
Taint them not with bitter rue;
Let them feed the rose of comfort
Like a sweet refreshing dew.
There are those whom you may comfort,
Smile upon them while you may;
Let them know your heart is living
And is full of love today;
Hold the dead in sweet remembrance
But remember they are dead,
And the living who still need you Should have your love instead,
Scatter roses in the pathway
Of the people who still live:
Sod your graves with sacred kindness,
Let your heart sweet homage give;
But the dead you cannot comfort,
Love the living while you may;
You have friends whose paths are thorny,
Scatter roses in their way.
—Jake H. Harrison in Farm & Ranch.

Will Advertise Highway

Definite plans for the advertising of the scenic beauty, advantages and many attractions of the Puget-Sound-to-Gulf highway is to be inaugurated without delay by the highway association, following adoption of such plans at the association meeting held in Fredericksburg last fall. The fact that the Puget-Sound-to-Gulf highway traverses a section of the country that equals, if it does not surpass, anything Colorado has to offer in scenic attraction, is known to comparatively few people of the nation. Furthermore, along this route there are wonderful streams for fishing, camping and outing. Then, the route is by far the shortest and most direct from Denver to the G. T., and, if the truth be known, is much more improved and nearer completion, as a highway, than any other following a similar routing.

For this reason, the association has asked that all citizens living along the route not only be loyal to this great highway, using it themselves whenever they travel, and recommending the route with the blue and red signals to their fellow tourists whenever and wherever possible.
To further acquaint the tourists of the nation with the route and its advantages, it is planned to advertise in road books such as would give the same the widest publicity. To this end, it was agreed that every county through which the highway passes, should contribute as much as $50, if possible to this fund.—Ready Standard.

More in the Man Than in the Land

The person who can not arouse within himself an interest in his work rarely makes a success. This applies to farming as well as to every other line of human endeavor. Sometimes, to use a slang expression, a person "gets by," but even so, he has failed to receive the intangible compensation which comes to every person who strives to succeed because it is a pleasure to do one's task well.
The farmer who has not a well thought out plan for the season's work; who has not set some mark towards which he will strive; who is not ambitious to improve the conditions surrounding himself and family, merely exists. He has nothing to live for, and as a matter of fact, is of but little value to his community. Men of this character who live in town are generally the first ones to appeal to the Federated Charities for help. In the country they fare better, but they seldom prosper. More often it is what is in the man and not what is in the land that makes success possible.—Farm and Ranch.

Jazz, Gasoline and Brimstone

Col. Mayfield of Houston in his weekly publication, says the high school boys and girls of Dallas are falling victims to the jazz dance and automobile outing evils. Spare the car and save the child.—Lubbock Avalanche.

We know something of Billy Mayfield and his pen. He has challenged the cause of righteousness in South Texas. He speaks the truth when he says the jazz dance and the automobile is responsible for much wreck and ruin in the cities. We can say to the credit of our smaller towns that the dance is not the predominating evil, but we can say with him that the automobile is joy riding more young people into hell than all other agencies of evil combined. The rod should be applied liberally if there is no other method of keeping boys and girls out of cars Sunday afternoons and nights. A prominent minister puts it this way: "A jitney and a few gallons of gasoline can take a couple to hell quicker than any other way."—Lockney Beacon.

Are you one of them?

—Norman Burdick.

Mr. Mondell, the Republican leader, and Mr. Fordney, chairman of the house ways and means committee, are agreed that the house will pass a bonus bill at this session of congress. As we see it, it is right and proper to pass the bill. Very many of the men were taken from steady employment; they return to find their places either filled by others or no places to fill, and mostly the latter, due to the great slump in business, the cause for which it is not necessary here to discuss. Many men and many concerns gathered to themselves large riches during the progress of the war; shall the man who did the fighting be denied the help that is his due by reason of enforced unemployment? The Democratic secretary of the treasury advanced to other governments sums totaling $11,000,000,000; these obligations can be applied to the payment of any sums which may be voted to the soldiers. But it will be said that these sums are not now available. Very well; issue long-time bonds, get the money on them, pay the soldiers, and let these foreign debts take care of the bonds.—Waco Times-Herald.

Two Primaries

The Democratic executive committee of Bastland County did a commendable act at the meeting here Saturday afternoon when it decided, in effect, to hold two primaries.

Where there is only one primary, it is possible and often happens, that men are nominated when only a minority of the votes are in favor of them. This is made possible by "free for all" campaigns in which three or four or even more candidates seek the same place.

It sometimes happens that a faction will center on one candidate and at the same time induce one or more others to enter the race in order to divide the opposition and in this way gain a victory.

But this will be obviated by the decision of the executive committee. Every nominee must receive a majority of the votes cast. If no candidate for a given office receives a majority in the first primary, then it will be necessary for the two leading candidates to go into a second primary.

The advantages of this are many. In the first place, it is democratic because it means the rule of the majority. It means that when a man gains the nomination it comes as the result of the approval of over half the Democratic voters in the County and not as the result of shrewd maneuvering in which the opposition is divided.

In the second place, it helps the candidate after his election. If he knows that he is the choice of a majority of his party members, he can enter upon the duties of his position with the feeling that he has the mass of the people back of him.

We congratulate the executive committee, therefore, for their action in this regard.

The presence of harmony and peace in all the deliberations of the committee is also most fortunate. The fact that all the decisions were unanimous is evidence of a fact that the Democracy of Eastland County will present a united front.

The committee should also be commended because the session was not a secret one. The members met as representatives of the people and all the people were welcome if they desired to come. The door was open.

Let us hope that all the bodies in Eastland County that are supposed to represent the people and are supposed to be composed of Democrats will adopt the principle of the party's great leader, Woodrow Wilson, in spirit and in truth:

"Open covenants, openly arrived at."

Mothers, Take Warning!

High School girls drunk. High School girls running off to picture shows during school hours. High School girls joy riding! High School girls visiting rooming houses; High School girls keeping late hours!

What do the mothers mean? Girls in their teens have no business keeping company with men. Mothers need to have some sense.

Mr. Wilbur F. Craft of Washington, makes the startling announcement for the benefit of the mothers and girls of America, that the vast majority of moral delinquents no longer are among grown women, but among girls.

He makes the further and still more startling disclosure that the majority of girls who go wrong is far ahead of the number of boys.

There should not be an hour in the day but that the mother knows where her daughter is.

We need a new generation of mothers. We need mothers who have good sense. The Lord speed the day.—The Searchlight.

The Democratic executive committee of Bastland County did a commendable act at the meeting here Saturday afternoon when it decided, in effect, to hold two primaries.

Where there is only one primary, it is possible and often happens, that men are nominated when only a minority of the votes are in favor of them. This is made possible by "free for all" campaigns in which three or four or even more candidates seek the same place.

It sometimes happens that a faction will center on one candidate and at the same time induce one or more others to enter the race in order to divide the opposition and in this way gain a victory.

But this will be obviated by the decision of the executive committee. Every nominee must receive a majority of the votes cast. If no candidate for a given office receives a majority in the first primary, then it will be necessary for the two leading candidates to go into a second primary.

The advantages of this are many. In the first place, it is democratic because it means the rule of the majority. It means that when a man gains the nomination it comes as the result of the approval of over half the Democratic voters in the County and not as the result of shrewd maneuvering in which the opposition is divided.

In the second place, it helps the candidate after his election. If he knows that he is the choice of a majority of his party members, he can enter upon the duties of his position with the feeling that he has the mass of the people back of him.

More Eggs or Money Back!

The Purina System of Feeding keeps the flock laying in the fall and the winter, because it supplies plenty of material for whites as well as for yolks. This enables the hen to make complete eggs of all the yolks that develop in her body.

When a grain ration is fed there is not enough protein for whites. Many yolks that form are not laid, but are eventually absorbed back into the system as fat.

More-Eggs Guarantee

Purina Chows, when fed according to directions, are guaranteed to make hens lay more eggs than any other feed, or the money paid for Purina Chows will be refunded.

Things Worth Knowing

The world to date has consumed more than 8,000,000,000 barrels of oil and geologists estimate that the ground is yet good for about 43,000,000,000. At present we are using 450,000,000 barrels a year, with an increase rate that will bring this to 650,000,000 a year by 1925. At this rate it can be seen that within a half century, the world will be entirely out of oil—if the geologists are right, and if nothing takes place.

The deposits of oil-bearing shale in Colorado, Utah, Wyoming, Nevada, Montana, West Virginia, Texas, Oklahoma, and Kansas has a potential production of 80,000,000,000 barrels of oil—more than twice the amount of oil said to exist in all the world outside the United States. At present oil shale can't compete with regular petroleum, because it costs more to produce than the oil that comes from drilled wells. However, scientists everywhere are working on this proposition and ere long we may expect to see the great mountains of shale yield to the retort.

The world's steel and iron shipments last June totaled 54,217,000 tons, an increase of 11,703,000 tons over June, 1914.

The United States has 12,318,000 tons of steel shipping, as compared with 1,837,000 tons in 1914—an increase of 570 per cent. We also have 1,210,000 tons of wooden sea-going ships, and increase of a million tons over 1914. Other nations have: England, 21,238,000 tons of steel shipping; Japan 3,063,000 tons; France, 3,046,000 tons; Italy, 2,237,000 tons; Holland, 2,207,000 tons.

During the fiscal year ended June 30th last, 805,228 immigrants were admitted into the United States. During the previous fiscal year 430,001 were admitted. The average annual admittance for the period 1910-1914 was 1,034,940.

The NEW EDISON

"I could not tell when Prihoda or when your phonograph was playing" says John C. Freund

Do you want to hear the phonograph which earned this remarkable tribute from the dean of American music?

Come into our store. Ask to hear the Official Laboratory Model. John C. Freund has devoted his life to the betterment of American music. He is Editor of Musical America and President of the Musical Alliance of America.

On October 16th, Mr. Freund attended Prihoda's New York recital. After the recital, the comparison test shown above was made. Mr. Freund (seated right) was one of the listeners. His colleagues were Victor S. Flechter, violin expert, and Arnold Volpe, well known violinist conductor. This letter to Mr. Edison is the result. Read it. Let the full import of Mr. Freund's words sink in. This miracle—which people refuse to believe until their ears convince them—is now attested by John C. Freund:—There is no difference between living music and its RE-CREATION by the New Edison.

And this means: The New Edison brings the greatest vocal and instrumental performances,—because, no other phonograph sustains the test of direct comparison with living artists.

Comparison proves it. Compare!

WHY not have, in your home, a phonograph as perfect as that used in the Prihoda test? We have its exact counterpart. We guarantee it to be capable of the same perfect realism.

Despite the fact that this phonograph cost Mr. Edison three million dollars to develop, you can put it in your home for $ (fill in your own first payment)

Yes, just take a spare bill or two, come in, and make your initial deposit. All we ask is that the amount be sufficient to indicate good faith. The balance you may budget any way you wish.

Why not come in this week?

A Comparison you must be sure to make

Listen to the best of the talking-machine violinists on any ordinary phonograph or talking-machine. Then listen to Prihoda on the New Edison. You'll find—Prihoda sounds far greater. Why? Not that Prihoda so far outshines every violinist appearing in concert today. Simply that the New Edison is the only phonograph whose reproductions of music are perfect enough to sustain the test of direct comparison.

Who won Mr. Edison's $10,000? Come in and get folder announcing prize-winners SPRING CALLS FOR NEW WALL PAPER. CUNNINGHAM & PHILLIPS.

Don't Knock
A young salesman called upon an old merchant but did not make a sale. After he had gone the merchant said: "I liked his goods, but he didn't know how to sell them. He spent five minutes talking about his own line and twenty minutes knocking his competitor."

That is the trouble with a great many people. They spend more time knocking other people than in displaying their own virtues and good qualities. Knocking doesn't pay. Besides it is no unnecessary. Give other people credit for being as clear-sighted as you are.

Businessmen are sometimes like ostriches. When business is sick they fail to use the only reviving tonic—advertising—but let business boom and they will spend money for advertising in hunks. Some day they will learn that the time to advertise is when times are dull.

Schools Our Best Protection
It is in our schools that the child, not only of foreign parents, or the child born abroad and immigrant to the United States—but also the street child, the child of poverty and ignorance and wretchedness, gets his first and often his only knowledge of what real American citizenship may be.

In our public schools he learns not only the three R's but what truth, honor and decency mean, and what the rights of others stand for in young lives otherwise lived only in selfish egotism.

As one writer has pointed out in answer to the question: "What is the matter with the public schools?" "The only answer is that there is too much public, too little of the school. From one end of our land to the other we need more and more schools. More schools, so that the cherished hopes and ideals and hard work of the whole teaching force from the superintendent to the assistant teacher may serve the nation as they sincerely aspire to and plan for."

Any failure to liberally support our public school is merely a roundabout way of robbing the boys and girls of their just desert—an education. Your effort to save a few dollars in taxes may cost someone a life of hardship.

The man content to hold his job with work that just gets by, will find but few to comfort him when his job bids him goodbye.

The banker who chuckles when a competitive bank closes its doors; the minister who finds cause for secret exultation over empty pews in a neighboring church; the business man whose face is wreathed in smiles when a competitor gets into difficulties; all are tokens of foolishness, madness or worse. The prosperity of one is ever the prosperity of all; the fall of one weakens the business structure. Better to lend a helping hand to everyone who hits it hard for you have no insurance that you may escape the hand of misfortune.
