

Chauvinist Lobbed By Billie Jean, Still A Woman

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Editor

HOUSTON (UPI) — In the end, Billie Jean King turned out to be exactly what you'd imagine.

A woman. She showed it here last night with her very first reaction after humiliating a thoroughly worn out Bobby Riggs in what had been loudly ballyhooed as the classic "battle of the sexes."

Before their tennis match, 29-year-old Billie Jean had called the pixie-like, often abrasive 55-year-old Riggs a number of uncomplimentary names.

She had even presented him with a brown baby pig which she herself had named "Larrimore Hustle."

When the match was over though and she had routed Riggs, 6-4, 6-3, 6-3, she immediately reverted to being a woman.

She watched the aching, legweary Riggs dredge up the last ounce of energy he had left in his tired, tortured body and saw him barely manage to jump over the net.

Almost Involuntary Action

He had his hand out to congratulate her and she accepted it, but then in an almost involuntary action, a perfectly natural maternal action, she tenderly put her arm around his shoulder and offered comforting words which he couldn't really hear above the din created by the 30,742 patrons in the Astrodome.

"Yes," Billie Jean readily admitted later on, "I felt sorry for him. Why? Well, he had tried hard and given his best. I know how that feels. I know what it means to lose."

Riggs, a devout believer in psyching out his opponent, had done a beautiful job on Margaret Court, whom he crushed in the first of these moneyed male versus female "grudge" matches last Mother's Day. Prior to the job he did on her on the court, Riggs presented Margaret with a bouquet of roses.

Billie Jean remembered that. So she one-upped him here last night.

In an elaborate ceremony, a huge box was brought out and Billie Jean said it was her gift to Riggs.

When the lid was removed from the box, Riggs got a load of his "gift"—the little brown porker. Everybody got the significance right away.

Statements Exchanged

Riggs had said the best way to keep a woman was barefoot and pregnant. Mrs. King's reply was that Riggs was a male chauvinist pig.

"That's one thing I'm not sorry about," she said after their match. "I mean the pig. It's a cute pig. Did you see it? I even think he enjoyed receiving it."

Whether he did or didn't, Bobby Riggs didn't say.

He was an excellent loser though. He never alibied or attempted to take anything away from Billie Jean's victory although he kept insisting he'd like a rematch as soon as possible.

"I have to eat a lotta crow," he said. "I said a lotta things about Billie Jean before we played and I have to take 'em all back now. Billie Jean is a very good sport. She allowed me an extra three or four minutes when my wrist was bothering me. But the wrist never affected any of my shots."

Riggs had said Margaret Court had choked in their match four months ago, and now someone asked him whether he felt he choked against Billie Jean.

"No," he said, firmly. "I didn't choke. She was right on top of me all the time. She handled my serve well."

Felt She Could Win

Billie Jean felt she could win after the first set. Margaret Court had given her a tip about playing Riggs. Attack his backhand. It was more vulnerable than his forehand.

Billie Jean followed the tip and it paid off in a $100,000 check which George Foreman, the world heavyweight champion, presented her with after her victory.

Not only was Billie Jean too fast for Riggs, but the Sportface artificial surface they played on also was too fast for him. The combination wore him out despite all those vitamins he took.

"I still had enough left to jump over the net when it was over," he said, proudly. Billie Jean merely smiled when she heard him say that. She had no desire to lord anything over on him.

"He's been a great loser," she said. "He's been very kind to me. He said 'Well done' and many other kind things. There's nothing more I could ask."

In the end, Billie Jean was what you'd imagine—a woman.

WITH SALE OF STOCKS

Enough Funds Available To End Auditorium Debt

By TEX DEWEESSE
The City of Pampa today found itself with $837,235 in available funds for the purchase of 1970 general obligation bonds that would leave the M.K. Brown Memorial Auditorium free of debt.

It all came about yesterday with the sale of 22,796 shares of Beatrice Food stocks, transferred to the City by the M.K. Brown Foundation.

The stock sale was handled by the Amarillo office of Kidder, Peabody & Co., Inc.

The M.K. Brown Foundation was pledged to pay off the $800,000 bond issue approved by voters in 1970 for the construction of the auditorium.

The Foundation originally had turned over to the city $400,000 in cash for initial financing of the $1.2 million structure with agreement to use income from the M.K. Brown Ranch and mineral rights to pay off the bonded debt.

Yesterday's sale of the 22,796 shares of stock quoted at $23 1/2 per share brought $530,007. This, added to 10,000 shares sold on Aug. 21 for $20,773.95 and 3,000 shares sold on Aug. 27 for $106,455.95, brought the grand total to $837,235.

The stock had been transferred to the city by the Brown Foundation with Mayor R.D. Wilkerson, City Manager Mack Wofford and City Atty. Bob Gordon as trustees.

The three trustees yesterday authorized Griffin Dollarhide, representing Kidder, Peabody & Co., to sell the stock. It was sold on the market at 23 1/2 per share.

Dollarhide said a certified check for the $530,007 from yesterday's stock sale will be delivered to the city next Thursday. The money goes into the city's account labeled General Obligation Bonds 1970 Interest and Sinking Fund (Auditorium).

The $307,229.90 received from the two previous sales of Beatrice Foods stocks last month is on deposit in the city's bank depository account.

William Jarrel Smith, secretary-treasurer of the M.K. Brown Foundation, said he was pleased to see that the city was moving to bring the M.K. Brown auditorium into the debt free column.

Mayor Wilkerson said today the next step will be to purchase and redeem the remaining outstanding bonds sold after the $800,000 issue was approved by Pampa voters.

Wofford To Attend Meeting At Boston

City Manager Mack Wofford will leave tomorrow afternoon for Boston, Mass., where the city manager will attend the 59th annual convention of the International City Management Association.

The convention opens Sunday and will run through Thursday.

FOR GASOLINE DEALERS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Cost of Living Council (CLC) has told Congress that the nation's retail gasoline dealers, who have threatened a wide-scale shutdown of service stations, will probably be allowed to increase their prices by Oct. 1.

CLC Director John T. Dunlop testified Thursday before a joint House-Senate economic subcommittee on consumer economics that the administration's retail ceiling price on gasoline will be increased by an amount still to be determined. The effect would be to allow gas station operators to pass along their wholesale price hikes to their customers, but not future

Senate Okays Kissinger For Secretary Of State

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate confirmed Henry A. Kissinger as secretary of state today, elevating the 50-year-old German immigrant to the No. 1 position in President Nixon's cabinet.

Kissinger, the White House adviser who engineered President Nixon's dramatic diplomatic initiatives toward warming U.S. relations with Moscow and Peking, won approval amid calls for foreign policy unity and a warning by Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., that detente with the Russians and Chinese seemed to be coming unraveled.

The Senate was fulsome in its praise of the former Harvard professor's intellectual credentials and his achievements as Nixon's No. 1 foreign policy adviser for the past four-and-a-half years.

Sen. Charles Mathias, R-Md., said "he has proved to the world that this still is an open society."

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, called Kissinger a "vigorous and dynamic leader." Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said he respected Kissinger's "intellectual capacity and his unusual grasp of complex problems."

Some Senators who had bitterly fought Kissinger and the administration on Vietnam since 1969, still expressed misgivings.

"In his reliance on the diplomacy of big power clout, Dr. Kissinger has shown no inclination, to my knowledge, to look beyond the faces of dictators to see if people are suffering and dying from war, hunger or brutal repression," said Sen. Harold E. Hughes, D-Iowa.

Hughes said Kissinger had "alienated our closest allies in Europe and Asia."

Kissinger was born May 27, 1923 in Fuerth, Germany. His family emigrated to the United States in 1938 to escape Nazi repression of Jews.

President Nixon plans to have Kissinger sworn in Saturday morning in a White House ceremony to which 250 government, congressional and diplomatic officials have been invited. The swift swearing-in was arranged so Kissinger can make his debut as secretary in a speech Monday to the United Nations.

Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, led off final debate of the nomination, saying he was voting for Kissinger but warned the senators that relations between the United States and the Soviet Union may be under stress.

"There are signs that the detente policy is coming unraveled," said Fulbright. "(Soviet leader) Brezhnev's recent speeches indicate that he is under great pressure from those who disapprove of his

Nixon And Agnew Meet For Private Discussions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew met privately for an hour Thursday night, the White House said today. They presumably discussed allegations that Agnew was involved in kickback scheme while he was a Maryland public official.

Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said the meeting was held in the Executive Building adjacent to the White House where both men have offices. Warren refused to say what the men discussed.

It was the first private meeting between Nixon and Agnew since Sept. 1 although they attended a Cabinet meeting together Sept. 7 and were both on hand for White House social functions Sept. 10 and Sept. 18.

"The President and vice president agreed there would be no discussion or report on the meeting," Warren told reporters.

A federal grand jury in Baltimore has been investigating political corruption in Maryland politics including allegations that Agnew accepted kickbacks while Maryland governor.

The Baltimore Sun said cancellation of an appearance by three witnesses before the panel Thursday suggested the grand jury might turn attention to Agnew, possibly by next week.

Beall Visits Washington
U. S. Attorney George Beall, who is in charge of the investigation of Maryland political corruption and alleged payoffs, made an unscheduled visit to Washington Thursday.

Justice Department officials declined to say whether he met with Attorney General Elliot T. Richardson who will make the decision on grand jury consideration of evidence concerning Agnew when he was a county executive and Maryland governor before becoming vice president.

Nixon May Delay European Journey

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon is considering a trip to Japan but may have to postpone his proposed trip to Europe for this year, administration officials said today.

High administration officials said it was too early for the White House to come to any definite decision on the European trip, which Nixon has talked about for some months but for which he has never announced a date.

Whether Nixon makes the European trip this year, they said, depends on the progress made on several subjects involving Europe and the United States.

Officials said that the European visit was still on the books, but that time was growing short for achieving the U.S.-European progress that Nixon feels would be necessary before the trip would be worthwhile.

(The Columbia Broadcasting System said Nixon had definitely decided to call off the European trip this year.)

First word of a possible trip to Japan came Thursday from Tokyo, where Ganri Yamashita, deputy cabinet secretary, told a news conference the President was expected there before the end of the year.

Administration officials, who found a recent European "declaration of principles" delivered to the State Department Wednesday to be "very vague," hope that Henry Kissinger will get more precise information when he meets with Western European foreign ministers at the United Nations next week.

The declaration, drafted by European Common Market nations, was a response to proposals for the future course of U.S.-European relations which Kissinger had advanced last April.

Problems Created
"If he makes the appointment of a man who is a potential candidate for the nomination," Strauss told reporters Thursday, "it creates not only political problems for the Democrats but even more intense problems for the President and the Republican party."

Gov. Wendell Ford of Kentucky, chairman of the Democratic Governors' Caucus said it would be "bad politics" for the Democratic-controlled Congress to block the appointment of anyone Nixon wanted as a successor to Agnew, no matter what his presidential ambitions.

Mansfield, a Montana Democrat, said, "The guy is innocent until proven guilty. We ought to let him have the benefit of the doubt."

Escalating mortgage interest rates were responsible for more than half of the rise in the services index.

Higher prices for meats, poultry and eggs accounted for about 80 per cent of the August retail price explosion, the BLS said.

Grocery prices usually drop in August when supplies are plentiful. Instead, meat, poultry and fish prices jumped 16.4 per cent after declining slightly in July during the freeze.

Beef and veal prices also rose sharply and consumers paid more for bread and milk. Fresh fruit and vegetable prices were down.

There also was bad news on the non-food side. Clothing prices, which generally drop in late summer, went up instead. The cost of homes, home repairs and fuel oil at retail also increased although prices for new and used cars declined.

The average cost of services, which includes what people pay for such things as haircuts, theater tickets, automobile parking and home telephone service, jumped 0.7 per cent. That was the biggest one-month increase since September, 1970.

Government economists had predicted that August would be a bad month for retail prices since it followed a record wholesale price surge in July.

But the magnitude of the retail price report was unexpected and appeared to be a setback for the administration's anti-inflation program.

No Compromise Made On Tapes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — After a series of court-suggested negotiating sessions, White House lawyers and Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox have failed to reach a settlement in the historic Watergate tapes battle.

The collapse of the negotiations, announced by both sides late Thursday, means that the two-month constitutional dispute over possession of President Nixon's tape recordings will almost certainly have to be decided by the Supreme Court.

Cox and President Nixon's chief lawyer, Prof. Charles Alan Wright, advised the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia that after lengthy meetings—on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday—no compromise could be reached on the impasse. The appeals panel had suggested that the two sides attempt to reach an out-of-court settlement.

Council May Allow Price Hike

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Cost of Living Council (CLC) probably will not permanently change its Phase IV policy on retail gasoline prices, which stipulates that dealers cannot pass wholesale price increases on to their customers. He said that any change in the basic policy would cause a "chaotic price situation" and contribute to inflationary pressure.

But CLC has promised to periodically revise upward the complicated ceiling price formula which tells dealers the highest level they can charge their customers, no matter what price wholesalers are charging.

Plane Crash Kills Singer Jim Croce

NATCHITOCHES, La. (UPI) — A private plane enroute to a concert appearance in Texas faltered on takeoff Thursday night, hit a pecan tree and crashed killing singer Jim Croce and the five members of his touring group.

Croce, 30, whose hits included "Bad, Bad Leroy Brown," "Don't Mess Around With Jim" and "Operator," was killed instantly along with his pilot, a comedian, two musicians and a booking agent.

"They were leaving the airport and got possibly 250 yards south of the runway, 30 feet in the air, and hit this tree," said Sheriff Sam Jones. "For some reason they didn't gain altitude fast enough."

"But it didn't burn, thank goodness. I've got them out of the wrecks like and it's pretty rough."

The sheriff said one of the plane's wings was knocked off by the pecan tree.

Plane Flipped
It flipped, landed upright and turned completely around."

Concorde Lands At New Airport

GRAPEVINE, Tex. (UPI) — The new $1700 million Dallas-Fort Worth Airport is just about the right size for Jean Franchi, chief test pilot for the Franco-British supersonic Concorde jetliner.

"It looks big and it is big," Franchi said Thursday. "Concrete must be cheap around here."

Franchi's remarks came at a news conference opening the three-day dedication ceremonies for the airport which covers an area the size of Manhattan. Franchi landed the sleek Concorde on U.S. soil for the first time after a 2,599-1 mile flight from Caracas, Venezuela.

"It will do just fine," Franchi said. "I can foresee no real problems."

After coming to a halt at the Braniff International terminal the Concorde encountered a balky piece of airport equipment. A platform ladder stuck against the Concorde door and it was several minutes before the crew and passengers could disembark.

"We expect to have problems like any new facility," said J. Lee Johnson, vice chairman of the Dallas-Fort Worth Airport Board who was among the passengers. "If the problems are small like this we will really have it made."

The Concorde was on public display today with a variety of aircraft from throughout the world. Scores of aviation and airport leaders join tonight in a formal party to mark the dedication of the airport midway between the two cities.

Former U.S. Treasury Secretary John B. Connally, a three-term Texas governor serving as airport board governor general, will deliver the dedicatory address Saturday. The airport is scheduled to open Oct. 28.

The 17,500-acre airport, designed to handle 270 flights an hour on runways stretching 13,400 feet across the Texas prairie, is billed as the world's largest and is expected to be operational for a century. Montreal also is building new facilities and is expected to outsize Dallas-Fort Worth Airport within months.

"We've fed a lot of statistics into the computers to figure out how to build this airport," Johnson said. "It's been a big effort which we think will pay off in the coming years."

FDA Issues Pill Warning
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration has decided to require that warnings about the use of "morning after" birth control pills be distributed to doctors who will be able to advise their patients of possible dangerous side effects.

The agency said Thursday it would require that pamphlets be inserted in the pill packages and that advisories be printed on the labels, warnings that such side effects as abnormal blood clotting may result.

Chile Outlaws Marxist Party
SANTIAGO (UPI) — The head of the new military junta, Gen. Augusto Pinochet, today outlawed Chile's Marxist parties — the main support for the late President Salvador Allende.

At the same time Pinochet denied that either the United States or any other outside power was involved in the violent coup which he led to overthrow Allende and end civilian government in Chile on Sept. 11.

Pinochet's statement followed the announcement Thursday that the armed forces have captured a guerrilla chief leading leftist opposition to the four-man military junta.

Defense Ministry press officer Federico Willoughby said army troops captured guerrilla leader Jose Gregorio Liendo, known as "Commander Pepe," and 16 members of his leftist band.

Military sources said Liendo, a hero of the Chilean left, was captured while trying to organize resistance in southern Chile to the ruling military junta.

The sources said Liendo was a key figure among Cuba-inspired Chilean leftists who have clashed sporadically with army troops since Allende's regime was overthrown Sept. 11.

He was born in Sherman and moved to Perryton 15 years ago from Stinnett.

He owned Lon's Welding Service.

Commission Maintaining Allowable In East Texas
AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — The Texas Railroad Commission disregarded the requests of 32 independent producers Thursday and maintained an 86 percent allowable for the East Texas field.

Most of the state's other fields were continued at 100 percent for October.

Independents wanted a 50 percent allowable for October.

Will Lasater of Tyler, representing the owners of 542 oil wells, said pressure has dropped 6.5 percent in the 16 months since the railroad commission set the 86 percent allowable for the vast field.

He said if the allowable was dropped to 50 percent the oil could be conserved until better means of recovery could be found.

"This has got to be done to prevent further damage to pressure in this field that has gone below the bubble point," Lasater said.

A railroad commission examiner's hearing recently concluded on a proposal to split the East Texas field down a line near Kilgore and set separate allowables for each section. But Lasater said it may be several months before transcripts of the hearing are completed.

"We feel like the situation in the East Texas field is such that we can't wait until that time. We suggest the commission shouldn't take chances with the East Texas field," Lasater said.

Calvert Garners Protests
AUSTIN (UPI) — A state representative who was called "a nigger woman" by the state's comptroller has announced she has prepared a resolution to impeach the elected official.

Rep. Eddie Bernice Johnson, D-Dallas, said Thursday she will ask the legislature to formally impeach 81-year-old Comptroller Robert S. Calvert if Calvert doesn't resign or end, what she called, his discriminatory hiring practices.

Mrs. Johnson, 37, in her first term as a state legislator, filed a complaint with the Federal Equal Employment Opportunities Commission claiming Calvert, the comptroller since 1949, discriminated against women, blacks and Mexican-Americans in hiring personnel for his office.

Calvert replied by calling Mrs. Johnson "a nigger woman who doesn't know what she's talking about" and said he wouldn't hire a woman because "we wouldn't be about to send her down to Houston to one of those nigger or Mexican neighborhoods."

Mrs. Johnson said she was insulted by Calvert's remarks, but that wasn't the reason she prepared the impeachment resolution. She said Calvert's hiring practices violate the U.S. Constitution, the Texas Constitution and several other federal and state laws.

Scientists estimate that in the known universe there are a billion trillion stars.

Commission Maintaining Allowable In East Texas

man Jim C. Langdon suggested Lasater submit his request in writing and "if we consider it proper we'll enter an emergency order for it."

Other exemptions to the 100 percent statewide allowable announced by Langdon were the Kelly-Snyder field at 86 percent; the Big Wells, San Miguel, Lower East, Fort Trinidad, Dexter, Fort Trinidad, East, Buda and Glen Rose fields 80 percent, and the Tom O'Connor field 70 percent.

Field nominations in Texas for October totaled 3,472,250 barrels of crude daily with an additional demand of 381,017 barrels. Total demand for October was 3,853,267 barrels daily, up 75,339 barrels from the September demand.

Investment Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market has a firm undertone that has been unable to surface because of weakness among the glamors, the E. F. Hutton research department says. It says its bullish outlook remains unaltered.

Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith, noting the market lost much of its July gain in August, says it expects the market to be somewhat erratic during the next few months. The firm says it expects this trend to continue through mid-1974 and then a moderate uptrend in profits and the market is likely to resume.

Paine, Webber, Jackson &

Curtis says the stock market has resisted money and interest rate pressures recently. The firm says with this activity, it does not foresee a recession at the end of the year. The firm adds: "We continue to be optimistic about the prospects for the stock market."

If money begins to grow again in the fourth quarter of this year, 1974 should turn out to be a pretty good year for the U.S. economy, according to Argus Research Corp. The firm says it is concerned about the tight money situation at present, but said it should cool the economy and make things favorable for the stock market later in the year.

Finally got the bird
OLYMPIA, Wash. (UPI) — In 1932 the Washington Federation of Women's Clubs selected the willow goldfinch as the state's "favorite bird." It was designated as the official state bird by the 1951 legislature.

White House Coming Out Of Hibernation

By EUGENE V. RISHOR
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Nixon White House, virtually dormant for the past three months, has now come alive.

Within the past three weeks, the President has held two news conferences, addressed the nation on radio, met with Congressional leaders of both parties, hosted Republican officials from throughout the nation and sent to Capitol Hill a second State of the Union address.

The feeling among White House aides now is that while the Watergate crisis is not past, its dimensions have been defined and its damage is manageable.

However flimsy some may consider them to be, the President has developed positions that are believable—especially if one is disposed to believe them—on virtually all of the offshoots of the scandal.

He has accepted responsibility—if not the blame—for the entire mess. He has blamed some of the excesses disclosed by the Watergate affair on overzealous aides trying to perpetuate him in power.

He claimed other excesses were the result of legitimate concern about national security.

He is withholding evidence that might remove the cloud of suspicion hanging over his head but is doing so in the tradition of his predecessors, to protect the ability of him and his successors to perform the duties of the Presidency.

The President figured from the beginning—and rightly so—that most people wanted to believe him. An electorate which gave him the second largest victory in modern political history just 10 months ago does not like to think its trust has been so misplaced. Feeding this feeling that the worst is past is the belief that people throughout the country are now more concerned about rising food costs and fuel shortages than why the President refuses to release the Watergate tapes.

Nixon's Strategy
Ironically, the crisis of leadership spawned by the Watergate affair is receding because other crises are overshadowing it. And in dealing with these other crises, Nixon is on firmer ground.

In bureaucratize, this is called OTE — Overtaken by Events.

Nixon hit hard on this theme both in his radio address and in his message to Congress this week. Without mentioning the Watergate crisis, he emphasized that the only way the nation's economic and energy problems can be solved is by holding the spotlight of public attention and public debate on those issues that directly and personally affect you and your lives.

So over-all, the strategy appears to be this:
With such a receptive audience, plausibility on the Watergate affair is enough to halt the erosion of public confidence.

Progress in dealing with the pocket book issues, can restore it.

The President acknowledged as much in his news conference last week.

"... as we move in these areas and as we move on the domestic front, the people will be concerned about what the President does and I think that will restore the confidence."

Follow up on 'gift from God' to teach deaf

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: A college girl wrote that she felt she had a "gift from God" to teach deaf people to talk, but she was "torn" because her parents feared if she pursued that profession she might end up marrying a deaf person.

May I comment? Our son, who is one of the finest speech therapists in the country, married a perfectly normal girl, but had he married one with a speech defect, we would have loved her no less.

When I saw our son take a crippled, retarded child on his lap, and help that boy utter his first audible word, I cannot explain the feeling that came over me. That boy looked up into my son's eyes as if to say, "Thank you," and my son looked down into the eyes of that child as if to say, "You are going to learn to talk!" [And subsequently the child did.]

Let me tell you, all the money in the world couldn't buy the thrill I experienced at that moment.

Thank you, Abby, for telling that girl that if she feels she has a "gift from God" to teach the deaf, to pursue that calling. She will never regret it. PROUD FATHER

DEAR FATHER: Working with the handicapped is one of the most rewarding of all careers. It takes a special kind of human being to do it, and I sincerely believe that those who do are indeed "gifted" by God, and chosen for the privilege.

DEAR ABBY: I noticed this real pretty girl who just started to work where I work. She seemed real friendly and always smiled and said hello when she saw me. It's a big office, and we work in different departments.

I asked her if she liked movies and she said yes, so I asked her when I could take her to a movie of her choice, then she said she didn't like them all that much, so I let the matter drop.

A few days later, I asked her if she would like to have dinner with me at a nice restaurant, and she said she was on a diet to lose weight so there wouldn't be much point in that.

I asked her if she liked music, thinking I could take her to some kind of concert and she said music gave her a headache.

Abby, I am 27, and she's about 22, so it can't be that I'm too young for her. Please tell me how I can get a date with this girl. I am told I am a nice young man, but I must be doing something wrong. I'm no run-around, but I've never had trouble getting dates before.

BATTING ZERO

DEAR BATTING: Wake up and smell the coffee! The chemistry is wrong. She's not interested, so turn your attentions elsewhere—where they'll be welcome and appreciated.

DEAR ABBY: This may help the young couple who were "in trouble" and couldn't find a minister who would marry them because neither belonged to any church:

Every commissioned officer of the Salvation Army is an ordained Christian minister, authorized to perform marriage ceremonies which will be legal and binding in every state of the U. S. Because the girl was pregnant, she couldn't have been married in the Salvation Army's chapel, but she could have a proper legal wedding.

Please pass this information on, Abby. Many may not know. I am a soldier of the corps.

Ditch the tags WASHINGTON (UPI) — Take those old tags off your luggage, advises the Air Transport Association. Even though you're proud of all the places you've visited, keeping on the old baggage tags can confuse baggage handlers and increase the possibility of bags going to the wrong destination. The association emphasizes that the only tag, in addition to identification, on your bag should be the one for the current trip.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

Jacqueline's unintentional sexual dominance is driving her husband into a platonic role in the boudoir. So she should let him use the booklet below to restore his ego and make her purr contentedly. Dr. Spool's permissive education is producing an American matriarchy!

CASE Y-523: Jacqueline D., aged 27, attended a Chicago sex clinic.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "I have been quite successful in an advertising agency. But in my marriage, I seem to be having problems. For example, my husband seems to be losing interest in our marital relations. He is starting to drink to excess and is very caustic and hypercritical of me. Dr. Jack Davis has a clinic here in which he deals with marriage cases. And he thinks Women's Liberation Movement is driving more men into a platonic role, just by making the women more assertive. For the more dominant and successful is the wife, the more her mate tends to lose his virility. Is that true?"

PAGING SHAKESPEARE

The most clever Applied Psychologist since Christ was William Shakespeare. And in his "Taming of the Shrew," he neatly outlined the solution to Women's Libbers. In more modern times, the comic strip about "Maggie and Jiggs" likewise shows the perennial problem of marital dominance vs. submissiveness. Alas, the subconscious craving by the normal women to be erotically mastered, often boomerangs.

Wifely nagging is thus a universal weapon of women to make their chronically acquiescent husbands assert their dominance in the boudoir. Maggie thus nags Jiggs, subconsciously hoping that she can thus change him from a eunuchoid mumble into an erotic lion.

Same was true of the heroine in Shakespeare's "Taming of the Shrew." For the most shrewish wife or most vocal Women's Libber will change from a scratching, clawing "wildcat" and purr as a happy boudoir kitten, IF.

And that big "IF" means, IF her mate shows her who is lord and master of their marital bed!

By United Press International Maximilian and Carlotta, by Gene Smith. (Morrow, $8.95)

The confrontation was almost too patently symbolic. The New World of the Americas against the Old World of royal dynasties. Emperor Maximilian, aesthetic and aristocratic, against the Mexican revolutionary, Benito Juarez, the squat, homely Indian peasant.

Juarez, of course, won and Maximilian, clinging to some half-mad dream of royal excellence, was executed. A descendant of Napoleon killed in a peasant rising.

The story is grandly dramatic and author Gene Smith tells it with the theatricality it deserves. His absorption in detail describing the diverse cultures of Mexico and Europe is, perhaps, too extreme for good story telling purposes. Keeping all those princes and archdukes straight is tough.

Nonetheless, the pictures he creates of the clash of cultures are often devastating—the elegant French military columns of soldiers trailing over dry, dusty Mexican plains, the mad Carlotta ranting through the courts of Europe to win aid for Maximilian, the curiously noble death of the Emperor of Mexico in front of rifles of revolutionaries.

wife run the house and train the children.

Like the Indian brave, he may even let her support the family.

But just as the usual virile Indian brave would not let his squaw invade his realm of hunting, so the virile modern husband doesn't let his wife dominate the boudoir.

Alas, many husbands are now being emasculated via cigarettes and possibly the female hormones fed to chickens and cattle to tenderize their meat.

The modern submissive type of education, advocated by Dr. Spool and many effeminate clergymen, has also tried to mold the modern male into a semi-female, as attested by the zooming homosexual population.

But virile males will always dominate!

For they radiate an aura that fascinates women, since such males were created to attract females, much as free hydrogen and oxygen automatically attract as per the chemical laws of this universe.

Women's Libbers are really erotically hungry females, like "Maggie."

The Woman's View

By GAY PAULEY UPI Women's Editor NEW YORK (UPI) — Dressed to kill is the way safety experts size up some of fall and winter's fashion trends.

Consider the popularity of the long scarves featured as accessories for dresses, suits and coats, and also in some men's wear. They're handsome and they're warm. But they're also potential killers, says the National Safety Council.

Last year, it says, a study in the Journal of the American Medical Association (JAMA) reported that nearly half of the persons in accidents involved with the wearing of scarves were fatalities.

The Journal said that all of the accidents studied had occurred in the winter when the scarves got tangled in machinery. Nine of the 11 victims mentioned were females between the ages of 10 and 30.

A Classic Case There's the classic case of Isadora Duncan, the dance revolutionary, who was strangled in the 1920s when her long scarf became caught in the rear wheel of the open automobile in which she was riding.

Any woman who's ever negotiated a stole and assorted packages through a revolving door knows how unfashionable the whole thing becomes. Watching the mod in the maxicoat board or debarb from a bus is material for the cartoonist. Also, a concern on the part of safety people.

The safety council says that the midi and maxicoats and capes may keep out the cold but they're also prone to catch on escalators, in revolving doors, elevators or vehicle doors.

Slacks or long skirts should have proper length and fit for safety's sake. Bell-bottoms, baggies and the new, full swinging skirts can be the trap that trips you for a fall.

If you wear bell-bottoms or full length skirts when driving, hoist them so the hems don't get caught in the pedals or on your feet.

Additional Suggestions The safety council offers these additional suggestions about selection of clothing for the coming season when there is less freedom in attire:

—Platform soles, high heels and clogs don't mix with snow and ice. Wear medium or low-heeled boots with a non-skid sole when it is slippery underfoot.

—Winter driving requires precise handling control of a car. If you wear mittens to drive, you're endangering yourself and passengers. Driving gloves with fingers and leather palms are recommended.

—Headgear should not block hearing or sight. Covering a child's face with bulky hats and too many mufflers may prevent him from hearing and seeing traffic dangers.

—Cold weather brings a tragic increase in the number of flammable fabrics burn cases, especially among children and the elderly. Buy flame retardant sleepwear and warn family members to avoid getting too close to heaters, fireplaces, stoves, et cetera.

Marxism Formula

The toppling of President Salvador Allende of Chile contains a forceful lesson that will not be missed by other would-be social revolutionaries, in Chile or elsewhere in both hemispheres of the globe.

The lesson they will read is not that Marxism runs contrary to the grain of human nature and is anything but the wave of the future, much as the events in Chile may have given encouraging proof to champions of democracy that this is true.

Rather, the lesson — which Cuba's Castro, for one could have told them — is that Marxism or socialism or communism cannot achieve political power in a country peacefully or democratically or gradually but only violently, totally and suddenly.

This, indeed, was the position of Chile's far-left MIR, or Leftist Revolutionary Movement, which all along had been contemptuous of Allende's gradualist approach to socialism. This attitude, combined with the resistance or rivalry of Chilean parties across the political spectrum, widespread strikes and fears of Chile's middle class, helped guarantee Allende's failure, if not his spectacular and tragic end.

The extremists preferred to see Allende, the world's first

Look Who's Ahead Now

Time was when government jobs, whether on a local, state or national level, typically paid less than comparable jobs in the private sector. Government employment was desirable, however, because of security, pensions and other benefits.

Not so any more, as far as pay is concerned, that is. In fact, "soaring government payrolls have played a major role in triggering the current inflationary spiral," contends one student of the subject.

From 1965 to the second quarter of 1971, the earnings of federal workers increased 51 per cent, writes James W. Kuhn in Intellectual Digest.

By comparison, service workers' earnings rose 43 per cent and those of workers in wholesale and retail trade increased 41 per cent. The average hourly earnings of workers employed in manufacturing and transportation, the corporate, unionized sectors of the economy, went up 37 and 35 per cent respectively.

Increases for municipal employes have been so large in recent years, says Kuhn, that in the majority of 11 large cities studied so far, city government workers in clerical data

Question Box

QUESTION: The members of Congress in Washington again are discussing the possibility of making cuts in "impact aid" for schools near federal government installations. It seems to me that if school districts have increased attendance because of federal government installations, the federal government should pay the costs it would have if it were to pay taxes. Why should the federal government fail to pay its obligations?

ANSWER: "Impact aid" seems to be just like a lot of other programs which start out with the best of intentions, then grow like Topsy. It was started shortly after World War II, when the national government had bought up land all over the place and had established military bases. Since no taxes were paid on the bases and on military housing there, the practice of paying school districts money as "impact aid" in lieu of property taxes on the land taken off the tax rolls.

Since the start it has been expanded to include just about anyone who is on the payroll of the national government, and seems to have nothing to do with whether the school districts are suffering a loss of property tax revenue because of the government-owned property.

Lately there have been proposals to start cutting back on the expenditures which in many instances appear to be just more handouts of tax money, with little justification. It has been proposed that funds be granted only where federally employed parents work and live in the school district. This would eliminate the handouts for a student whose parents live and pay taxes in a school district, other than the district in which they work for the government. This appears to be an attempt to get back to the program as originally planned.

It would seem the most satisfactory solution would be for the national government to pay taxes on property it owns, just like any other property owner. This would run the cost of the government agency up, but would relieve the school people of the task of running to Washington with their tin cups, asking for money from a national government that is broke.

Of course, the ultimate solution should be that recommended by The News for years: Discontinue all tax-supported schools and allow individuals who use the schools to pay for them or to earn charitable contributions to support the institutions of learning.

But we suspect the present system will continue, and every year or two someone will suggest reducing the handouts. This would bring the usual rush of lobbyists, amateur and professional, to the national and state capitals, demanding continuation or extension and increase of the handouts with money belonging to the taxpayers.

Drowned In Red

WASHINGTON — In our newsletter of February 14 of this year, we estimated that as of the close of business December 31, 1972, the net public and private debt of this nation was $2.1 Trillion.

Now comes a report from the U.S. Department of Commerce to show that our estimate was too conservative. According to the Department, the net public and private debt at the close of business last year was $2,230,000,000,000 (TWO TRILLION TWO HUNDRED AND THIRTY BILLION DOLLARS).

That's an increase of $209 Billion over 1971 and, of course, marks 1972 as the year the public and private debt crossed the TWO TRILLION DOLLAR MARK.

We have said before in these newsletters and we repeat: THIS COUNTRY IS BEING DROWNED IN A SEA OF RED INK AND DEBT!

BRUCE BIOOSAT 'Beat' Watergate crisis, Nixon aim

By Bruce Bioosat

WASHINGTON (NEA) — It becomes increasingly clear with each passing day that President Nixon believes he can fight his way out of his "Watergate crisis" as he has told the nation he did six times before, in his own well known book.

His return to the press conference format in what at least has the surface look of a fighting posture, his radio speech to the nation and his new "state of the union" message calling for a turning of the spotlight back to other problems, these and other presidential stirrings all suggest the "comeback" tactic he has made virtually a lifetime trademark.

Yet these things may be self-deceptive. The Ervin Senate committee's hearings still have weeks to go, though the pressures on it to wind up quickly are growing stronger. The makers who say their soundings "back home" indicate many Americans think the hearings have gone on long enough. Since Watergate may hurt all politicians, some of these "findings" may in fact be self-serving.

Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox is moving doggedly into the indictment stage against several Watergate figures, even as he waits anxiously for court rulings he hopes will give him personal access and decision power over presidential tapes he deems applicable to Watergate.

Former Nixon Cabinet members John Mitchell and Maurice Stans are accused in New York in the so-called "influence" case involving Robert Vesco. Four administration aides, including former top helper John Ehrlichman, have been indicted in California in connection with burglary of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist's office.

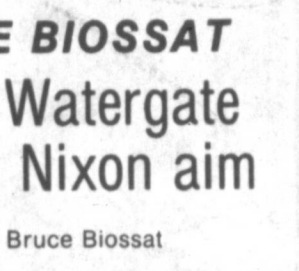

The resumed Senate hearings, and the open testimony in trials that may stretch out over many months if not years, will keep Watergate alive and very likely compel the President to respond to it again and again, no matter how much he would like to put it behind him.

It is undoubtedly true that most Americans are more concerned about the economy and, as it affects their gasoline tanks and their home-heating oil, the energy crisis.

But the inescapable drumming away on Watergate is unlikely to restore their badly weakened confidence in Richard Nixon as the man of high judgment capable of dealing with these dilemmas with impressive success.

Whether he was directly involved in Watergate or merely blind to what was going on (a notion many voters find hard to swallow), Mr. Nixon's star has been dimmed by the events of 1973 and before. There is a serious chance he may never recover stature, that, if he hangs on through 1976, he will limp and stumble much of the way.

What such an eventuality would do to the President as a man and public figure is difficult to guess. In his book, "Six Crises," he spoke of his major troubles as a kind of

Size Problem Isn't Stupid

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I'm pretty hung up about this, and I figured you could help me out. I'm referring to the column you wrote about the 14-year-old guy who was concerned with his small size. You advised him not to lose his head until he was the same size and two years older.

I'm a little past 16 and I'm only 5'2" and weigh about 110 pounds. My folks say it's a "stupid thing" to worry about — not being able to keep up with kids my own age because of my size. I'm worried, stupid or otherwise, and I eat the same food as the rest of the family, which seems healthy enough, so it must be me.

If you suggest a pro, also suggest how to talk parents into it. They aren't accustomed to spending dollars on "stupid things." Reply through the paper, if possible, because if Mom or Dad finds this letter of yours I'll get the hassle of my life. Thanks a heap.

Dear Reader — One problem of being small is not being able to keep up physically with one's own age group. In our sports-minded society this can be a real blow, so it is not just a "stupid thing."

All people aren't destined to be the same size, and being small doesn't mean that one's abnormal. A number of small people have been giants in their profession, or even in history. The size one achieves and the rate of growth is related to inherited factors. The blueprint for body development is already there the instant the first lusty wail is made in the delivery room. Environmental influences take over then. That means any illness which might occur, or the nutrition that's available.

If a person doesn't have adequate nutrition, particularly proteins, in the growth phase it's true that growth may be delayed or stunted. I doubt that's the problem in your case, judging from your comments. You are probably not growing. Many people continue to grow in height into their early 20s. One major factor in determining height is the length of the leg bones. When they finally completely calcify so they can't continue to grow, then maximum height is achieved. You are quite a bit short of that age group yet. You may have a late spurt.

I'm not overly concerned about your size at your age, if the rest of your development is normal. A boy should start showing definite male development by the time he is 16 or 17 years of age. This means normal sexual development, hair distribution, body build, beard growth and other characteristics induced by the normal production of male hormone. If he doesn't, he definitely should see a specialist, or as you say, a pro in the endocrinology field — a gland specialist.

Your family doctor ought to be able to look at you fairly quickly and determine whether you have delayed puberty or are just slow in skeletal growth. He can request your parents to refer you to a specialist if you really need to see one. Incidentally, you can grow quite tall and have delayed or absent sexual development, so the two are not synonymous.

H. L. Hunt Writes

SENATORS SHOULD EXPLAIN

Senators who are demanding "raw files" on military operations in Indochina, in order to find out what military leaders to punish, should explain first what is so criminal about bombing enemy invaders in order to slow down the killing of U.S. soldiers. Certain Senators, who have often been noted for their concern to protect the rights of communist spies, rapists, arsonists and revolutionary murderers and saboteurs, seem all in a dither to "hunt some witches" in the Pentagon.

It is very clear why Prince Sihanouk wanted the U.S. to bomb the invaders of this country without announcing it to the world. Sihanouk knew the North Vietnamese had invaded his country and were using his territory as privileged sanctuaries from which to kill U.S. fighting men. He also feared Russian and Red Chinese retaliation if he openly protested the Red invasion. So he first ignored the U.S. bombing and then refused to protest it when U.S. newsmen revealed the "secret," a secret which Sihanouk knew all along.

It is also clear why Sihanouk now denies the bombing was done with his tacit permission. He is virtually a ward of Mao in Red China and hopes to regain his rule of Cambodia by permission of the invading North Vietnamese and rebel forces. His willingness to do business with the Red invaders in the first place is what lost him his rulership of Cambodia, but that is another story.

What is not clear is why certain U.S. Senators are so eager to punish U.S. military men for saving thousands of U.S. lives by crippling the Red invaders' sanctuaries and why these Senators believe in protecting spies, rapists, murderers, etc., from "raw files" but wish to destroy every U.S. military leader possible who opposes communist invaders.

Perhaps the problems of the United States today would be fewer if we had all followed the words of U.S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas: "This is the most beautiful land in the world. Put your arms around it. Hold it tenderly. Protect it so it is not despoiled..."

Democrats Sit in Battle Over Delegate Selection

By Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON — It's a toss-up what will happen at the impending meeting of the Democratic Delegate Selection Commission.

The session could be torridly controversial.

The backstage situation in the 73-member commission is as explosive as a triggered hand grenade. Present are all the makings of a disruptive, factional clash.

Tensely arrayed against each other are the same widely disparate and bitterly discordant elements that tore the Democrats wide open last year and resulted in their catastrophic presidential defeat.

Key figures are:

—Miss Barbara Mikulski, Baltimore City Council member, devoted McGovernite and militant liberal who sees no reason for significant revision of the delegate selection rules and procedures that enabled the ultras to capture control of the disaster-bent 1972 national convention.

—Alexander Barkan, head of the AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education (COPE), high-powered party regular spearheading the drive to eliminate all vestige of the system of guidelines, quotas and other devices the leftists used to seize control.

Purpose of this week's meeting is to deliberate the findings of six regional hearings on proposed delegate-selection reforms. Next month the commission will sit again to act on recommended changes.

Outcome of these sessions is highly uncertain. The rival line-up is close and ideologically combative.

The militants contend that whatever the commission decides is final; that what it prescribes will determine the selection of delegates to the 1976 convention. That is, by authority of the 1972 (McGovern-dominated) convention, the commission has the last word.

That is flatly and vehemently disputed by the regulars.

They truculently maintain the National Committee has the determining voice, and are prepared to take the issue to the "mini-convention" slated for late next year.

Also possible, the dynamite-loaded dispute may wind up in the courts.

There have been hinted threats of that on both sides.

What's Wanted

Aim of the party regulars, powerfully supported by the Barkan-led labor contingent, is four far-reaching reforms:

- (1) Complete eradication of the McGovernite guidelines that set up quotas of blacks, youth, women and others in state delegations.
- (2) Junk the leftists' drastic curbs on the authority of state Democratic leaders to organize slates of delegates.
- (3) Prescribe delegate places for state Democratic officials and selections made by state Democratic committees. These long-standing practices were scuttled by the McGovernites, and the regulars' plan is to restore them in full force.
- (4) Abolish the practice of the winner-take-all-delegates in Democratic primaries; instead, require delegates to be allocated in proportion to the candidates' popular vote. If this rule had been in effect in 1972, it would have made a crucial difference in the outcome of the convention — against McGovern.

National chairman Robert Strauss strongly favors all these changes. But he frankly admits he is not sure they can be made before the 1976 convention. Says the Texan worriedly:

"There is a substantial possibility we may have to litigate who has the right to set the rules. There is intense feeling on both sides regarding that."

Indicative of that is the contentious opposition of Reps. Louis Stokes, D-O., head of the Black Caucus, and Donald Fraser, D-Minn., diehard McGovernite. Both vehemently oppose doing away with quotas.

Declares Stokes, "That would spell disaster for blacks and the poor."

Echoing that leftist line is Alan Baron, chunky chief of the so-called "Democratic Planning Group," New Left lobby financed by Stewart Mott, multi-millionaire heir of a GM fortune with a penchant for radical causes.

Among the labor leaders on the Delegate Selection Committee are Hugh Clark, Iowa AFL-CIO state president; Michael Johnson, Pennsylvania AFL-CIO state executive vice president; Anthony Zivlich, recording secretary, Teamsters Union; Joseph Berne, president Communications Workers of America; Gladys Harsin, director women's activities, Florida state AFL-CIO.

Joseph Grandmaison, scrappy McGovernite, is no longer deputy director of the 165-member Democratic Charter Commission. In that role, the 29-year-old ultra-liberal New Englander incurred the ire of national chairman Strauss who told commission chairman Terry Sanford, "If you don't fire him, I will." Grandmaison is now operating in Massachusetts working for a gubernatorial candidate.

Gary Hart, McGovern campaign manager, is having trouble getting his senatorial candidacy off the ground. Now a Denver lawyer, Hart is being opposed by Joseph Dolan, assistant of the late Sen. Robert Kennedy, who has the backing of the Kennedys, foremost among them Frank Mankiewicz, a top McGovern lieutenant. Although Hart's militant-liberal credentials are impeccable, Kennedy zealots are lining up for Dolan. Hart hopes to raise some electioneering funds with his book on the McGovern campaign "Right From the Start," but that's going to need more than that to get anywhere in unseating Republican Sen. Peter Dominick.

San Francisco's Mayor Alioto must be hard-up for lieutenants in his campaign for governor, Frank Mankiewicz, one of McGovern's electioneering masterminds, is saying he has been propositioned by Alioto to work for him. Like virtually all McGovern's top henchmen, Mankiewicz has a book about to be published on their disastrous campaign.

I have not seen a situation like this in my 28 years on overseas assistance. It's going to be disastrous.

—Fred W. Devine of CARE, on the effect of U.S. food shortages on world relief programs.

When America is not fighting a war, the puritanical desire to punish people has to be let out at home.

—Novelist Joyce Carol Oates, linking the Supreme Court's restrictive obscenity ruling with the end of the Vietnam war.

P.M. COUSINS
Minister

Rome how to treat or to "respect those in authority."

Rom. 13:1-7 states, "Let every soul be subject unto the higher powers. For there is no power but of God: the powers that be are ordained of God. Whosoever therefore resisteth the power, resisteth the ordinance of God: and they that resist shall receive to themselves damnation. For rulers are not a terror to good works, but to the evil. Wilt thou then not be afraid of the power? Do that which is good, and thou shalt have praise of the same: for he is the minister of God to thee for good. But if thou do that which is evil, be afraid: for he beareth not the sword in vain: for he is the minister of God, a revenger to execute wrath upon him that doeth evil. Wherefore ye must needs be subject, not only for wrath, but also for conscience sake. For this cause pay ye tribute also: for they are God's ministers, attending continually upon this very thing. Render therefore to all their dues: tribute to whom tribute is due; custom to whom custom; fear to whom fear; honour to whom honour."

In our own age, individualism is carried to such an extent that authority is often defied and disdained even by those who are by no means dregs of society, but make pretensions of intelligence and virtue. Let us learn to regard subordination, rule, subjection, and loyalty as all part of a Divine order imposed upon society by our Lord, Jesus Christ.

The scope of Christian loyalty is wide and encompasses many varied qualities. Respect and honor are due from the governed to the governor. Even where there is a lack of those qualities which command personal respect, honor must be given to the office and duties which are faithfully performed.

The payment of taxes and tribute is required. In this respect, Paul followed the teaching of the master. "Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's and unto God the things that are God's." Citizens are not responsible for the use of money which is exacted from them by those in authority. Every soul who is responsible for his actions is under an obligation to obey, and resistance to any ruler, is resistance to God and entails just punishment and retribution!

Good works are done to convince society of the sincerity of the Christian life. The Roman law was the highest expression the ancient world attained of justice in the relations between men. Obedience to the law was the duty of every good citizen, for the law was the sanction of virtue and righteousness. Doubtless there have been and are unjust laws, yet, it is the duty of every citizen to obey them when obedience does not come into conflict with the higher duty to God.

Group To Leave For Orient

At the stroke of midnight on Sept. 26, one hundred sixty-five Baptists will board a charter flight in Amarillo for the Orient.

Diversified in background, the Southern Baptist Crusaders from 20 churches in Colorado, Maryland, New Mexico, Tennessee and Texas are united in the common goal of sharing Jesus Christ in crusade meetings in Korea and Japan during the first two weeks of October.

Crusades of this kind are not new to the Orient nor to Southern Baptists. Dr. W.H. Jackson, Jr., President of the World Evangelism Foundation of Dallas, the sponsoring agency for the crusade, helped instigate the first crusade of its kind, the Japan New Life Movement of 1963.

Since that time Dr. Jackson has directed one other crusade in Japan, two in Spain and one in Germany. Future crusades include an all-nation crusade in France during November of next year.

Recently Dr. Billy Graham, referring to the work of the World Evangelism Foundation said, "With the moving of God's Spirit in almost every part of the globe, what an appropriate time for a fresh and new emphasis to be given in fulfilling the Great Commission in every land."

Rev. Joachim Zieger, Home Missions Secretary for the German Baptist Union said at the conclusion of the German Crusade in June of this year, "We were impressed by the missionary zeal of the partners from America and by the sincerity with which they made a oneness out of belief and action."

Oscar Bozeman, Southern Baptist Missionary to Korea and coordinator of the crusade there, reports interest and expectation are unusually high as crusade time approaches.

Each of the 23 churches participating in the crusade from Korea expect 200 professions of faith in each church and at least 100 baptisms.

First Baptist Church of Pampa is one of the churches participating. Included in the team are the pastor of the church, Rev. Claude Cone, Mr. Lee Miller, Mrs. Glenn Day, Mr. Marcus Connelly, Mr. D.B. Jameson, Miss Vada Waldron, Miss Claudia Everly and Mrs. Betty Jean Cooper.

ASSEMBLIES OF GOD MISSIONARY — The Reverend Warren Newberry, missionary to Malawi, Central Africa, pictured above with his wife, Annette, and two children, will be the guest speaker at the Assembly of God Church in Skellytown Tuesday.

Missionary To Make Address

The Reverend Warren Newberry, an Assemblies of God missionary to Malawi, Central Africa, will be the guest speaker Sept. 25 at 7:30 p.m. at the Assembly of God Church in Skellytown. The Reverend Carl Savage, pastor, has announced.

In 1966 Malawi, which was formerly called Nyasaland, gained its independence and became the Republic of Malawi. Four and one half million people live in this landlocked country where the Assemblies of God now has a Bible school, printing press, an International Correspondence Institute, and 61 national workers ministering in 51 organized churches and 35 preaching points.

Mr. Newberry and his wife Annette helped construct church buildings and mission houses during their first term of missionary service. They also taught in the Malawi school and conducted tent crusades within the country. In addition to these activities, Mr. Newberry held portfolios of general treasurer of the national church, district superintendent, youth director of the district, and chairman of the field fellowship.

He was graduated from Southern California College, Costa Mesa, Calif. and pastored churches in California and Texas prior to their missionary appointment.

This service will feature African songs, curios, and a slide presentation. The public is invited to attend.

The official business session of the conference will be tomorrow morning with reports being given by each pastor in the district.

A mid-day sermon will conclude the day's session with L.B. Davis, pastor of the Progressive Church, delivering the message.

Laymen and local ministers are expected to attend the conference. Music will be provided by the Macedonia Church Choir and the St. Mark's Church Choir. The general public is invited to attend the meetings and services.

Schools ahead
SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Ground has been broken for construction of the University of Texas schools of dentistry and nursing, two facilities of a total 500,000 square feet worth nearly $30 million upon completion in 1975.

The facilities will accommodate about 1,180 students annually, including dental students, dental assistants, dental lab technicians, nurses and graduate nurses.

St. Patrick's Day on March 17 is believed to be the date of his death in A.D. 461, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Thoughts

From The Living Bible

And as it happened, the field where she found herself belonged to Boaz, this relative of Naomi's husband. Boaz arrived from the city while she was there. After exchanging greetings with the reapers he said to his foreman, "Hey, who's that girl over there?" And the foreman replied, "It's that girl from the land of Moab who came back with Naomi. She asked me this morning if she could pick up the grains dropped by the reapers, and she has been at it ever since."

Harvesters, Rangers To Battle Today

Both Pampa and Perryton will try to halt two-game losing skids, as the Panhandle rivals square off at 8 p.m. today in Harvester Stadium.
Pampa has lost to Hereford, 12-0 and Dumas, 10-7, while the Rangers were beaten by Borger, 14-6 and Clovis, N.M., 22-0.

Although neither team has been able to display a consistent scoring offense, both head coaches, Pampa's Buddy

Williams and Perryton's Don Beck, are not unimpressed of the opposition.
"We saw Perryton play Vernon in a scrimmage, Borger and Clovis. Perryton's about equal with Dumas, but they're bigger than Dumas," said Williams, "and they're probably the most physical team we'll play. Perryton really hits hard, they get after you."

While Williams cites size and strength as characteristics of the 1-AAA Demons, Beck lists speed and a passing attack as Pampa's fortes. "We've been impressed with Pampa. We scouted them when they played Dumas. Pampa has a fine football team.

"Pampa has excellent speed, throws the ball extremely well and runs a real strong off-tackle power play," said Beck, whose Rangers were outgained 347-143 in total yardage, while bowing 34-0 in last year's confrontation with the Harvesters.
Offensively, Perryton runs a T-formation backfield, while on defense, Beck's Rangers line up in a 5-3, often changing to a 5-2. Senior center David Johnson, 6-5, 193, heads the offensive line. Johnson suffered a bruised leg in the Clovis game earlier in the week and was not expected to start. Left and right guards are senior Rob McGarrough, 6-2, 199, and junior Bobby Click, 5-10, 195. Left and right tackles are juniors Jeff Boiles, 6-0, 178, and Kevin Felix, 5-8, 173.

Split end is 1972 all-district selection Russ Elledge, a 6-0, 180-pound senior, while tight end is junior Perry Kennedy, 5-9, 160.
Elledge and senior quarterback Jim Dear, 6-4, 191, give the Rangers a formidable passing offense. Dear was hit out-of-bounds against Clovis, and a bruised leg shed doubt earlier on whether last year's honorably mention, all-district signal caller would start against the Harvesters. However, Dear, like Johnson, was given a doctor's okay Wednesday.

Fullback Chuck Bohner (5-10, 175), left halfback Mike Osborne (5-8, 173), and right half Burl Stephen (5-8, 172) join Dear in the starting Ranger backfield. All three running backs are juniors.
Linebackers (left, middle and right) are Osborne, Bohner and Bryan Wynans, a 5-10, 185-pound senior, who is a second-team fullback on offense. Senior Dale Deike (6-1, 186), senior Robert Palmer (5-10, 166) and Dear are starters in Beck's defensive secondary.

Williams will go with the same offensive unit that started against the Demons. On the offensive line are junior center David Hampton (6-0, 167), junior left guard Joe Holt (5-9, 174), junior guard Joe Graves (5-11, 219), junior left tackle Dane Rasmussen (6-2, 195), senior right tackle Bill Cox (6-2, 180), junior split end Howie Lewis (6-5, 180) and senior tight end Tony Frogge (5-11, 165).
Lewis is 3-AAA's leading pass-catcher with five receptions for 76 yards (15.2 average) and has scored Pampa's only touchdown this season.
Junior Rick Leverich will quarterback the Harvesters. Leverich, who is also the district's second-leading punter with a 42.8 average, has completed five of 15 passes this season, all to Lewis.
Seniors Joe Curtis (5-10, 152), David Nipp (6-1, 179) and Chuck Reeves (5-9, 147) start at tailback, fullback and slotback. Curtis is the leading Harvester rusher with 122 yards in two games on 28 carries — a 4.3 yard average.
Defensive linemen for Pampa are junior Tim Thornburg, (5-10, 156), senior Rick Carpenter (5-11, 157), Rasmussen and senior Randy Linville (6-0, 183). Linebackers are Hampton and junior David Smith (5-10, 170), cornerbacks are senior John Thomas (6-0, 150) and senior Ricky Smith (5-7, 145), and safeties are Leverich and junior Chuck Quarles (5-8, 120).

BJK Outplays Chauvinist

HOUSTON (UPI) — Billie Jean King chopped Bobby Riggs into little pieces and then added the crusher.
Margaret Court, she said, helped her do it.
Riggs had destroyed Court in their now-famous Mother's Day match but Billie Jean credited her longtime rival for the No. 1 spot in women's tennis with Thursday night's romp.

Maybe the effort wasn't ladylike but it was workmanlike and Billie Jean's straight set 6-4, 6-3, 6-3 victory Thursday night proved conclusively that a 28-year-old woman should never have been rated a 5-2 underdog to a 55-year-old man.
"I really feel Margaret had one of the worst days of her life against him," Billie Jean said. "But she helped me, Margaret told me he can't roll with his backhand. She said, 'Just attack his backhand. It's more vulnerable than his forehand. He can't handle it.' That's what I did and it helped tremendously."

As a spectacle it was first class. As tennis it was pretty good, too.
Billie Jean earned the right to sit back and relax. She had survived the pressure of the $100,000 winner-take-all prize money. She had survived the pressure of being the representative of women's lib in general and women's tennis in particular. And she had survived the pressure of the most elaborate sideshow in the history of the Astrodome—an edifice that used to glamorous goings on.
There was a band, there were cheerleaders, there was a bar not 60 feet from the court where the elite who paid $100 for a seat could also plunk down a dollar and pick up a glass of champagne—and there were 30,472 persons in the six-level stadium, the largest crowd ever to watch a tennis match.
The players did their share. Riggs made his entrance in a rickshaw accompanied by nine well-endowed women. Mrs. King did him one better by showing up like Cleopatra on a portable throne toted by four gentlemen attired in costumes from a Ben-Hur set.
But Riggs, at least on this night, wound up looking like just what he was—28 years older than the person on the other side of the net.
"I think he was nervous," Billie Jean said of Bobby. "Any great athlete has got to be nervous before a big match."
Riggs was as much a gentleman after the match as he was a braggart before it. But he said he wanted to go around again.
"I just feel like I've gotta have a return match," he said. "The sooner the better. I've got something to make up to the guys."

Buffs Face NTSU Saturday In Denton

By TOMMY BRYANT
WTSU Sports Information
CANYON — West Texas State University will attempt to bounce back this week from the second worst defeat in the school's history.
The Buffaloes fell 48-3 Saturday to the Golden Hurricane of Tulsa in Tulsa and will play North Texas State University at Denton this week.
Saturday's 7:30 p.m. game will be another Missouri Valley Conference contest — the third in a row for the Buffaloes of Coach Gene Mayfield.

Tulsa jumped into a 21-3 halftime lead and used big offensive plays in the second half to record the one-sided victory.
The loss to Tulsa dropped West Texas State's MVC slate to 1-1. The Buffs opened with a 13-10 victory over Drake's Bulldogs.
North Texas State will be playing its first home game in Fouts Field Stadium for new coach Fry, and the Eagles will also be seeking their first win of the season against two setbacks.
The Eagles lost to the University of Texas at Arlington, 31-7 in their season opener. North Texas lost to Memphis State Saturday.
North Texas held Memphis State to minus 11 yards in the second half and led in first downs during the second half, 7-4.
Injuries hit WTSU hard in the Tulsa game. All-American candidate Billy Pritchett bruised his left knee on the game's third play and missed the remainder of the contest. It is doubtful he will play Saturday night.
Of the four tailbacks which saw action Saturday against Tulsa, only Rick Schleider came out of the game without any injuries. Cole Fraley and Jimmy Lisle also suffered various bruises.
Schleider will probably start at tailback this weekend and the other three will be limited in their playing time.
Mickey Matthews was probably the most seriously injured Buffalo Saturday night. The starting sophomore wingback suffered an injury to his left knee in the fourth quarter, and will miss at least the next two games.
Split end Mike Lozano, who alternated during the first two games with Carl Brown, will probably see some action at wingback against North Texas.
Linebacker Ben Colbert and cornerback Dennis Little suffered ankle injuries against Tulsa. Colbert's injury was not progressing well at the start of the week, and he may miss the North Texas game. Little, however, should be able to play.
North Texas has also been hit by the injury bug. Freshman Greg Van Ness will probably start at quarterback in place of slowed Phil Shottland. The Eagle veteran suffered a foot injury in the opener and bruised a knee against Memphis State. He will, however, see some playing time.
Tight end Frank Davis injured an eye against Memphis State and defensive end Rex Humbarger suffered a knee injury. Both Davis and Humbarger should be out of action Saturday night.

Intersectional Clashes Top Saturday Card; Hoople Picks Trojans, Wolverines, Tigers

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE
Wizard of Odds

Egad, friends, this is the week the chalk players get even for the season. Your perspicacious correspondent, whose knowledge of football odds is rivaled by only Jimmy The Greek — kaff-kaff — seems nary an upset this Saturday!
Intersectional clashes dominate the card with mighty Southern California journeying to Atlanta to meet Georgia Tech, Michigan, co-favorite in the Big Ten race, hosting the dangerous Stanford Indians, the Missouri Tigers entertaining the University of Virginia, North Carolina State invading the home grounds of the Nebraska Cornhuskers, and the Florida State Seminoles playing host to the Kansas Jayhawks at Tallahassee.
There's sad news in store for the Georgia Tech faithful as all of the Hoople indicators point to a Trojan victory by 29-12. The Michigan-Stanford contest appears to a closer match with the Wolverines finishing on the long end of a 26-20 tally! And closer than that will be the 17-16 victory margin for Missouri over Don Lawrence's resurgent Virginia Club — kaff-kaff!
The Cornhuskers — Wolf-pack meeting in Lincoln, Nebraska, will be a real barn-burner — heh-heh — with the Nebraska lads outscoring the North Carolinians, 37-27. The Florida State — Kansas game will be closely contested all the way. Both clubs are rebuilding this season with untried material. Our nod goes to the Seminoles, 28-22.
Other engagements worthy of special note have Alabama kicking off its drive for the Southeastern title against Kentucky, Kent State, seeking its second consecutive Mid-

America crown, takes on Ohio U. and Ara Parseghian unveils his 1973 Notre Dame club against the Northwestern Wildcats. We confidently predict victories for Alabama, 17-10, Kent State, 16-14, and the Irish, 35-14 — har-umph!

Intersectional Clashes Top Saturday Card; Hoople Picks Trojans, Wolverines, Tigers
By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE
Wizard of Odds
Egad, friends, this is the week the chalk players get even for the season. Your perspicacious correspondent, whose knowledge of football odds is rivaled by only Jimmy The Greek — kaff-kaff — seems nary an upset this Saturday!
Intersectional clashes dominate the card with mighty Southern California journeying to Atlanta to meet Georgia Tech, Michigan, co-favorite in the Big Ten race, hosting the dangerous Stanford Indians, the Missouri Tigers entertaining the University of Virginia, North Carolina State invading the home grounds of the Nebraska Cornhuskers, and the Florida State Seminoles playing host to the Kansas Jayhawks at Tallahassee.
There's sad news in store for the Georgia Tech faithful as all of the Hoople indicators point to a Trojan victory by 29-12. The Michigan-Stanford contest appears to a closer match with the Wolverines finishing on the long end of a 26-20 tally! And closer than that will be the 17-16 victory margin for Missouri over Don Lawrence's resurgent Virginia Club — kaff-kaff!
The Cornhuskers — Wolf-pack meeting in Lincoln, Nebraska, will be a real barn-burner — heh-heh — with the Nebraska lads outscoring the North Carolinians, 37-27. The Florida State — Kansas game will be closely contested all the way. Both clubs are rebuilding this season with untried material. Our nod goes to the Seminoles, 28-22.
Other engagements worthy of special note have Alabama kicking off its drive for the Southeastern title against Kentucky, Kent State, seeking its second consecutive Mid-

SPORT PAGE

Miami defensive lineman Tony Cristiani, who grew up in a circus and toured with one a few weeks this summer, will flash some show biz tricks at the Longhorns in an attempt to ruffle them.
If the cat-quick 215-pounder makes a good defensive play like sacking a quarterback or dumping a ball carrier, he'll thrust his arms up in joy—a sign of triumph and perhaps a sign of trouble if the Longhorns don't grasp the humor in it.
"You can't believe how it blows the minds of the other team's offense. They go crazy," Cristiani said. "I did it against Notre Dame down here in 1971 and those guys stared at me and started mumbling to each other. They'd never seen anything like it."
But Miami's new coach, Pete Elliott, coaching his first game since his resignation from Illinois in the wake of a slush fund scandal eight years ago, knows it will take more than enthusiasm and showmanship to get his second career off to a winning start.
Texas' defense is expected to carry most of the Longhorns' load. The defense returns eight of 11 starters this year, and although the offense is not quite as rich in experience, it still has Roosevelt Lakes. The 220-pound fullback powered to 1,089 yards a year ago and his coaches say he should be even stronger this year with the addition of 15 pounds.
Houston, 16th-ranked nationally, also is a two-

Texas 2TD Pick Over Miami

By United Press International
Fifth-ranked Texas is a two-touchdown favorite to defeat Miami in the season opener for both teams on the Hurricane's home turf tonight but the underdogs may have a psych-out weapon in their arsenal.

touchdown favorite tonight as it takes on South Carolina.

In college football action Saturday, top-ranked Southern California meets Georgia Tech, second-ranked Nebraska plays North Carolina State, fourth-ranked Alabama goes against Kentucky, sixth-ranked Michigan meets Stanford, seventh-ranked Penn State plays Navy, ninth-ranked Louisiana State plays Texas A&M and 10th-ranked Tennessee battles Army.
The Michigan-Stanford duel matches the 1971 Rose Bowl participants. Michigan will be out to avenge the Indians' 13-12 upset victory in that game.

No Plans Yet For LBJ Land

AUSTIN (UPI)—Fates Communities Inc., which purchased 3,500 acres of the Lyndon B. Johnson Ranch, said reports are premature about plans for the ranch.

Speculation has been that the firm would subdivide the ranch into 1,700 five-acre tracts.

The Highlander, a Hill Country newspaper, said that in addition to the five-acre tracts, 1,654 acres would be used as a game preserve for land owners.

"These reports were speculative and premature," said Ray E. Thomas, president of Fates. "We have discussed and presented a number of plans during the past few months, including some of the items mentioned in the news reports. However, I must caution that the reports concern only some of the possibilities discussed in the planning stage. As additional information comes to the forefront, these possibilities would also change."

Classical records

By WILBUR G. LANDREY
NEW YORK (UPI)—Lauritz Melchior died earlier this year at the age of 83, the greatest heldentenor of his time, perhaps of all time and, some say, the unique male voice after Caruso.

Melchior was the Wagnerian hero at the Met from 1926 until 1950, when he ran afoul of Rudolph Bing and departed for Hollywood movies and a renewed concert and recording career.

Between 1926 and 1935 he made a series of recordings in London, Berlin and Vienna which have just been reissued, in a two-record album under Angel's budget Seraphim label (IB-6086).

These are, of course, mono recordings, but in most, the sound is fairly good.

Melchior was near the peak of his powers in these years. The golden voice, the passion and intensity are all there in selections from Die Walkure, Siegfried, Gotterdammerung, Rienzi, Tannhauser, Tristan and Isolde and Lohengrin.

For good measure there are also non-Wagnerian selections—from Meyerbeer's L'Africaine, Verdi's Otello, and Leoncavallo's I Pagliacci.

Concepcion Orchestra of Amsterdam and now adds No. 1 to those released in this country by Philips (6500 519). Presumably No. 2 is to complete the series later.

The memory of Beethoven's middle symphonies breathes through Brahms's first symphony. Here was the most powerful symphony since the death of the great master.

The Brahms symphonies are among the most familiar pieces in the standard repertoire. Halting and the Concertgebouw give an impeccable performance.

Two guitar records:—Sergio and Eduardo Abreu play, in first recordings, concertos by Mario Castelnuovo-Tedesco and Enrique Garcia Asensio (Columbia M-32232)—The Brazilian brother guitar duo is very fine. The concertos on sides one and two contrast sharply. Castelnuovo-Tedesco's is lyrical and could be the background music for a movie romance. Asensio's is experimental, with each of its four movements built on a tone-row of chord clusters.

—"Clare de Lune"—A selection of romantic guitar pieces by Debussy, Ravel, Falla, Albeniz and Villa-Lobos played by Brazilian guitarist Laurindo Almeida (Angel S-36064).

Unique project
SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Animals are being used in a new project in San Francisco to excite and motivate young students.

A zoo-mobile has been developed by the Zoological Society to take a lion cub, crow, chinchillas, boa constrictor, indigo snake, hedgehog, African pygmy goat, iguanas, opossums, baby raccoons, guinea pigs, rabbits, armadillos and a box turtle to the classroom.

A survival patch
NEW YORK (UPI)—A two-and-a-half acre plot of undeveloped land on a 12-acre school site serves as an environmental laboratory at the Golden View School in Huntington Beach, Calif.

The SELF (Student Environmental Learning Facility) is manned by parent volunteers from 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. The SELF includes a garden planted and harvested by students and a survival patch where students experiment with trees, plants and grasses.

Commercial to comedy
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Dena Dietrich, the wrathful "Mother Nature" in a television margarine commercial, has been signed to co-star in "Adam's Rib," a half-hour comedy for ABC starring Ken Howard and Blythe Danner.
