Cubans Arrest Two More U.S. Citizens

HAVANA (UPI)—The arrests of two more U.S. citizens were disclosed Saturday, bringing to 10 the number of Americans held in Havana jails without formal charges since the revolutionary government took over.

Eight of the Americans were picked up during the past 48 hours. They included two women, Elaine Mitchell and Enenia Tornadakis, identified only as New York actresses, who were jailed after police said they discovered $57,000 in Cuban pesos hidden in their undergarments.

The two latest arrests to be disclosed were those of Paul R. Casovina, of Pearl River, N.Y., and Melvin Chapman, of Burbank, Calif. Both were picked up at the swank Hotel Nacional.

Violate Currency Limits

The two women were arrested at the airport on their arrival from Miami Friday.

Four men also were arrested at the airport. They were identified as Mike McLaney, operator of a Havana gambling casino, and a resident of Miami, Israel Weinstein of Atlanta, Ga., Edward Solomon, North Miami, Fla., and Jesus Antonio Prieto of Miami.

McLaney and Weinstein arrived on the same plane with the two American women, Solomon and Prieto were arrested later. Police said Solomon carried $159,000 in Cuban pesos and Prieto had $30,500 with him.

Present Cuban law forbids bringing in more than $50 in Cuban pesos. The restrictions were imposed when supporters of ousted President Fulgencio Batista, who fled the country, were reported selling pesos at discount in the United States.

U.S. Embassy Contacted

The other two Americans jailed here are Michael Moreno of Miami and Alan Nye, of Whiting, Ind. Nye was arrested last Dec. 26 for allegedly plotting to assassinate Fidel Castro. Moreno was taken into custody March 7 when he arrived from Miami in a small private plane.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman said consular officials had visited the jailed Americans and contacted the proper Cuban authorities. He gave no details.

The executions of convicted Cuban "war criminals" continued Saturday. Eleven more died before the firing squads, boosting the unofficial toll in the "war crimes" trials to 453.

Stapleton Slams Housing Bill Here

BEFORE REALTORS

A $5 billion "omnibus" housing bill now before Congress was described as a "give-away" Friday noon by Erle Stapleton, regional director of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, at a meeting of the Pampa Real Estate Board.

Stapleton, speaking at the Pampa Hotel, said $3 billion of the housing bill was an "unnecessary burden on the taxpayers." He warned the bill would put the government in direct competition with private industry.

The speaker added that he thought the $2 billion originally asked by President Eisenhower was "sufficient" without adding another $3 billion.

The regional director, a resident of Greensboro, N.C., was introduced by Pampa board president Roy Sparkman. Twenty-one local board members were present.

Stapleton's talk dwelt mainly on trends in real estate and

Wheeler Fireman Dies, Four Injured; Auto Slams Train

Truck Hits Bus With 19 McLean Workers Aboard; 17 Cars Pile Up

United Press International

Prairie fires and blinding dust storms fared by the bellows of 70-mile-an-hour winds turned day darker than night in North Texas and the Panhandle Saturday. One man was killed and 19 others injured.

A fire fighter was burned to death and four others injured and an automobile piled up in the Panhandle hurt 15 persons, one seriously.

Winds up to 70 miles an hour shrieked across a plowed field along Highway 66 two miles west of Shamrock and 17 cars, including a converted school bus carrying 19 women, collided in the pitch darkness about 4 p.m.

Perhaps hundreds of thousands of acres of farm and ranchland were blackened by five major prairie fires. One ran nearly 25 miles in length and killed livestock and destroyed houses and barns in its path.

Fireman Dudley Callan, 39, fighting a fire between Shamrock and Wheeler, was fatally burned when the fire surrounded him and swept over him before he could be reached. He died in a Wheeler hospital.

Wheeler county deputy sheriff John Topper said the howling storm west of Shamrock injured 15 persons in the automobile pile-up. One of them, Terry Bentley, an 18-month old Shamrock child, was very critically injured.

Topper said the dust turned the day "darker than night" before the converted school bus carrying women garmentworkers from McLean to Shamrock and Erick, Okla., hit the truck.

At about 8 p.m., the fires around Shamrock were believed contained and the winds dropped to about 40 miles an hour. Traffic on Highway 66 resumed at a snail's pace after it was closed for about three hours.

Game Warden G. P. Davis of Shamrock, racing down a country road in an effort to head off traffic approaching the storm, narrowly escaped death when his car was stalled by static electricity on a railroad track. Davis said he was radioing for help when he heard the shriek of a train's whistle.

He leaped from the car in the blinding dust seconds before the Rock Island freight demolished it.

All the cars and the bus had to be towed from the scene of the storm after the winds died down. The wrecked car was in Shamrock and every wrecker in Shamrock was needed.

Mrs. Nettie Fay Vineyard, one of those aboard the bus, told of the struggle in the blinding dust storm to reach safety. Her five-year-old son was with her.

Mrs. Vineyard told the other survivors of the wreck.

ToT Has Day To Remember

SHAMROCK (SP)—Grass fires raged around Shamrock and Wheeler and wind-driven gusts blackened the sky Saturday afternoon. There were many freak mishaps caused by low visibility as dust and smoke combined to blot out the sun.

There were many tragedies on this March 14th afternoon... an afternoon that will live in the minds of Top O' Texans for many years to come.

The only fatality reported late Saturday night was the death of Dudley Callan, a 38-year-old Wheeler fireman. Callan died at 6 p.m. in Wheeler Hospital from burns received when he was caught in a prairie fire. This fire began on the Curt Kite ranch, west of Wheeler, around noon.

The Highway Department headed out heavy-duty equipment to plow treacherous roads after the fire jumped a road. The combined forces of the Wheeler and Shamrock fire departments brought the blaze under control by 3:40 p.m. Between 1,500 and 2,000 acres of grassland were burned over.

A second fire broke out near the Shamrock Oil Wells during the afternoon and was reported under control by 8 p.m.

At 4 p.m., a school bus hit a truck on darkened Highway 66, causing a 17-car pile-up. The bus was carrying 19 women garmentworkers from McLean's Marie Foundation Co. to Shamrock and Erick, Okla.

Six wrecks were counted on the north side of the highway after the pile-up. Fifteen persons were treated in Shamrock General Hospital and one Shamrock child, 18-month old Terry Bentley, remains in critical condition.

G. P. "Slim" Davis, Shamrock game warden, narrowly escaped death when he leaped from his automobile seconds before it was demolished by a westbound mail train.

Davis was racing down a country road to warn motorists away from the affected area when his car was stalled by static electricity on the Rock Island tracks. Davis reported hearing the train whistle before leaping into the dust storm.

Mrs. Nettie Fay Vineyard of Shamrock, who was on the bus with her five-year-old son, said that the driver smelled gasoline and ordered the women to get off and scatter. They took cover behind a fire fence. Cars piling into the back of the bus sounded like exploding popcorn, Mrs. Vineyard reported.

Hanging onto the fence for support, the women started walking toward Shamrock. Once they were out of the mud, the air began to clear and they were picked up by passing cars.

Allies Complete Note To Reds

By STEWART HENSLEY
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—U.S. officials said Saturday the Allies have virtually completed a note to Russia opening the way for a big-power summit conference either a worthwhile foreign ministers' meeting on German problems, takes place in mid-May.

They said they expected that a "major disagreement" with the British over wording of the note could be ironed-out early next week. They predicted the note would go to Moscow later in the week.

Meanwhile, President Eisenhower's foreign policy advisers have prepared a number of suggestions for his nationwide Monday night radio and television address on Berlin. He is expected to stress the fundamental rights of the Allies in West Berlin and their determination to resist Soviet pressures there.

Macmillan Expected

Foreign policy officials also are preparing for the President's meeting next week end with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan. They will discuss Allied strategy on dealing with the Russians.

Officials said the British are inclined to hold a summit meeting even if the foreign ministers' session produces no substantial progress towards solving major German problems.

They said this reflects Macmillan's view, communicated to Washington after his Moscow trip, that it is vital to have some sort of negotiations with Russia.

Officials said the British now appear willing to go along with this position if the wording of the note does not appear to rule out the holding of a top-level conference.

Consider All Problems

Officials said they are certain the note can be sent to Russia with Eisenhower next weekend unless Eisenhower and Macmillan will discuss what the Allies can do to induce Khrushchev to agree to unification of Germany and settlement of related problems on terms which will quiet the fears of both sides.

Ford's Mercury Stolen Here

A 1952 four-door Mercury automobile was stolen sometime Friday night from in front of a home at 609 N. Frost, police reported Saturday.

The car's owner, Bobby Ford, said the auto was taken sometime between 8 p.m. Friday and 7:50 Saturday morning. The keys were left in the ignition.

Mrs. Nettie Fay Vineyard of Shamrock, who was on the bus with her five-year-old son, said that the driver smelled gasoline and ordered the women to get off and scatter. They took cover behind a fire fence. Cars piling into the back of the bus sounded like exploding popcorn, Mrs. Vineyard reported.

CAR STRIKES STORE FRONT

SHAMROCK (SP)—A runaway car ripped the glass and brick front of Bob's IGA Store on South Main Friday.

The driver of the car was Ben Turner of Shamrock.

The accident occurred when Turner's brakes failed and the car crashed into the plate glass window. Damage to the store front is estimated at several thousand dollars but the front of the car was only slightly dented.

Mrs. Bob Orrick, wife of the proprietor, had just stepped over to the other side of the store when the car hit.

Pampa Toastmaster Paul V. Ellison, winner of Saturday night's area speech contest in the Palm Room, took the championship in stride, but a kiss from a wife was almost more than the blushing champ could handle.

Ellison, 1325 Coffee, won the area title with his talk, "Our Most Valuable Asset." He now represents this area in the district contest at Amarillo April 25. Dan Mangian, Borger, finished second in Saturday night's competition, and R. D. Allen finished third.

11,020 COUNTY CARS NOT CHECKED

Only 45 percent of the vehicles registered in Region Five of the Texas Department of Public Safety have been safety inspected for 1959, according to Captain Alan Johnson, Motor Vehicle Inspection Supervisor in this Region.

With slightly less than one month separating them from the April 15 deadline, 236,679 motorists of the sixty-county Region still have not obtained their stickers which have been available at inspection stations for several months.

"This number includes about 11,020 vehicles in Gray County where there are 16 inspection stations to do the work," said Captain Johnson.

Many motorists are going to find long lines awaiting them as the deadline rolls nearer as the inspection stations will not be able to cope with the usual last minute rush.

He added, "It is as much a violation to display an old sticker as not to have one at all."

The Captain pointed out that the law provides a fine of from one dollar to two hundred dollars plus court costs for operating a vehicle registered in Texas without the current inspection sticker.

State Farm Bureau Presidents Slate Lubbock Meeting

AMARILLO (UPI)—A statewide meeting of county Farm Bureau presidents will be held on March 26 in Lubbock, J. H. West of Bishop, president of the Texas Farm Bureau, said Saturday.

The purpose of the meeting, West said, is to discuss current commodity problems, particularly in regard to wheat.

Dr. Walter Collins, Chicago assistant director of the American Farm Bureau Federation's commodity division, will be the main speaker.

Rural Damage Set At $3,925

The rural traffic accidents summary for Gray County for the month of February by Selgeant E. G. Albers Jr., Patrol Supervisor of the Texas Department of Public Safety.

The Highway Patrol investigated a total of 8 accidents, of which 6 were property damage, 2 personal injury, and no fatal accidents. These accidents caused a total property damage of $3,925 with no persons killed and 3 injured.

The Sergeant advised that too many people look upon driving as a thing apart—something divorced from the code of morality which governs the other activities of their lives. The result of this split thinking is a staggering annual traffic toll.

To reduce the death rate during 1959, the Sergeant stressed the necessity for drivers, as well as pedestrians, to maintain vigilance and observe the lifesaving rules of the road. He urged greater compliance with the speeding and driving, while intoxicated laws, pointing out that in 1958 these were prime factors in traffic accidents.

Property damage in 31 highway accidents investigated totaled $85,245.

Last year in February, six persons were killed, 46 were injured. Property damage totaled $107,349.

Albers reported the principal causative factors last month were driving while intoxicated, speeding, failure to grant right of way and improper passing.

In addition to accident investigations punishment in the Amarillo district wrote 714 traffic tickets, 404 for speeding. Thirty-six motorists were arrested for drunk driving.

United States Vulnerable To Sneak Biological Attack

By JOSEPH L. MYLER
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—This country is ripe for a biological warfare (BW) Pearl Harbor. Russia obviously has what it takes to wage germ warfare. It is possible that many hours and even days might elapse before the United States even knew it had been subjected to a sneak BW attack.

The first intimation might well be an influx to doctors' offices and hospitals of patients suffering from debilitating or incapacitating maladies defying immediate diagnosis.

These conclusions stem from lectures on BW given at the Naval Medical Center (Bethesda, Md.) in connection with a current course for armed forces medical officers on "the medical aspects of special weapons."

No Advance Warning

The lecturers, including some of this country's foremost authorities on germ warfare, agreed that:—No advance warning of a BW attack is currently likely.

All of the major nations are striving to manufacture new agents of infection which will defy quick diagnosis, immunization, and treatment with antibiotic drugs.

—BW provides the most effective means of subduing an enemy population without killing it off or destroying its economy.

—The most effective way of waging BW against a nation is by means of clouds (or aerosols) of vapor impregnated with disease-bearing viruses, bacteria, or spores. Aerosol generators may be delivered by any means—mines, submarines, planes, or missiles—used to deliver any other weapon.

—The best BW is that which incapacitates, rather than kills, the greatest number of persons in the shortest possible time.

—BW against people, crops, and farm animals might well be decisive in a war in which no other weapons were used. But it could be most effectively used after a nuclear attack which disrupted water, food, medical, and public health systems, and through radiation injury reduced a population's resistance to disease.

Participants in the class on BW were Dr. Leroy D. Fothergill of the armed forces BW lab at Fort Detrick, Frederick, Md.; Cmdr. W. W. Taylor Jr., head of the biological and chemical warfare branch of the Navy's Bureau of Medicine and Surgery; Dr. Roger C. Reid, director of the biological sciences division of the Office of Naval Research; Cmdr. Robert W. Swanson, commander of the

"I want to win the award more than anything else on earth."

Why is a $50 statuette so important to a millionaire actor who is in great demand for movies and TV?

"Nobody wants to lose," he observed in his clipped British accent.

Every red-blooded male wants to win at anything and that is precisely my sentiment. I started out at the bottom of this business as an extra. What could be more satisfying than reaching the top?

"In plain words, I'd love to win the award, but I don't expect to. The odds are 4 to 1 against me. And I'm not spending a dime for advertising in the trade papers to help my cause."

Niven's role in "Separate Tables" put him in the running with Tony Curtis, Sidney Poitier, Spencer Tracy and Paul Newman.

In addition to his change-of-pace performance in "Tables," the former British soldier has two things going for him. He is enormously popular with film folk, and there are many who believe he should have been nominated for his riotous role in "Around the World in 80 Days."

Niven already has collected awards from the New York critics and the Hollywood foreign press corps for his starring part in "Tables."

Defense - Budget Controversy, Most Important Of Our Time

By LYLE C. WILSON, United Press International. WASHINGTON (UPI)—Have pity for the earnest citizen who seeks the facts in the blazing defense-budget controversy between President Eisenhower and the Democratic Congress. There are too many experts, too many speeches, too many words. The controversy is the hottest of our times. It is the most important. If United States defense policy is mistaken now and if the mistake is large enough, Red bombs may wither the flowers of spring in this country to say nothing of what they would do to nearest citizens from coast to coast. None but a hopeless cynic would believe for an instant that the politicians engaged in this defense-spending controversy merely are playing politics for partisan advantage. It is their country, too. They have wives and families and homes. If Eisenhower is wrong, his grandchildren are as likely as any to be crisped by nuclear fire. That goes, equally, for Dean Acheson, former secretary of State, whose damning criticism of administration defense policy is directed mostly to the immediate problem of the Berlin crisis. Two Areas of Dispute: The inquiring earnest citizen cannot cope with the flood of argument about defense and spending unless he understands that there are two separate areas of dispute. The first is how to meet the crisis coming in West Berlin if and when the Kremlin hands over its responsibilities to the puppet East German government. Acheson put it this way in a casual conversation this week: "The great question is whether Nikita Khrushchev realizes that Eisenhower means what he says—means that the West will not give an inch on Berlin. Eisenhower evidently is convinced that the Russians are aware of his frame of mind. Acheson doubts that Khrushchev is convinced. Acheson would convince the Russians by positive action such as a massive reinforcement of U.S. military strength in Western Europe. Once the Russians are convinced that Eisenhower means what he says, Acheson believes, Khrushchev would come to the brink and stop. The former secretary believes, also, that unless Eisenhower orders such positive action the Russians will come to the brink and go over — World War III would be on. Eisenhower's answer to Acheson's demand was made with convincing vigor at this week's White House news conference. He said it would be futile and foolish to attempt to stall the Russian ground forces on the plains of Western Europe with ground forces of NATO. He will loose atomic war against the Soviet Union if Khrushchev forces him to do so. That should be clear enough, even to the Kremlin. The other phase of the defense-spending controversy is on the longer haul. Is the United States spending enough now to overcome the Russian lead in missiles? Could the United States now or in the future defend itself with what it has or will have against Russian attack? The facts on this, also, are hard to come by, especially facts relating to what striking force the Russians possess now and what they are likely to possess at any time during the next five years. The simplest estimate of the situation was made by the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Air Force Gen. Nathan F. Twining. He said he would much rather be an American facing the Russian menace than a Russian facing what this country can throw. YOU and YOUR HOME by Jack Foster

COMMON SENSE ABOUT DECORATING

One of the most essential ingredients in a good decorating formula is good sense — common sense. The secret, if there is a secret, lies in down-to-earth planning right at the start. That means first, choosing the furnishings and designing the decorative scheme that specifically suits the way you want to live; then, carrying out your plan within the limits of your budget. Avoid haphazard buying! It often results in acquiring one very high-priced piece because it appealed to you, and then having to skimp on all the others. It's good common sense here to make a list of the pieces you need, and allot your expenditures accordingly. It's hard to believe that the living room sketched above was done, literally, on a shoestring. But it was. Traditional furnishings were chosen because they suited the house. Two high windows have been dramatized by an inexpensive treatment — could be made at home. Rich blue sailcloth draperies and shaped valances against lighter blue walls form a striking backdrop for the eggshell sofa and tables of gleaming mahogany. Sandalwood brown on wing chairs is the natural color complement to the blue background. Here is a setting that is beautiful, liveable and inexpensive — another way of saying "it makes good sense."

Planting Season Underway In Texas

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI) - The planting season was well under way in Texas this week with seed planted as far north as Central and North Texas. The Texas Agricultural Extension Service reported, however, that cotton planting was three weeks late in the lower Rio Grande Valley where fields are wet.

John E. Hutchison, director of the service, said early plantings of corn and grain sorghum were becoming more general with spring weather.

"Pastures and ranges also are growing up rapidly, except in the western and northern part of Texas where rain still is needed," he said.

Stock Ponds Low

General feeding of livestock prevailed in almost every section, but was decreasing rapidly in Central and East Texas, he added.

Livestock was in fair to good shape and improving with the added amount of grazing. Stockwater ponds still were low in the Rolling Plains, the Edwards Plateau and West Cross Timbers area.

"Some acreage of corn has been planted as far north as the Clearburne area and elsewhere to the east there was much plowing to prepare land for planting."

Most land in the western half of the state has been prepared and was being irrigated to insure moisture for germination of seed when planted.

Melon Planting Due

Fruit trees ranged from swelling buds to full bloom as far as northeast Texas and sweet potatoes were being bedded to produce plants for setting in the fields.

Calving, lambing and kidding continued with very few losses reported, except where sheep have eaten poisonous bitterweed in West Texas. There, grazing was limited as the soil was very dry. Some livestock owners soon will remove their stock from oat pastures to allow the oats to produce grain.

Promotion To Higher Grade Becomes Automatic Process

"Education U.S.A."
By LOUIS CASSELLS
United Press International

When adults look back on their school days, they are likely to remember with peculiar poignancy the dread moment each spring when final report cards were handed out.

Those cards showed whether you had been promoted or had to spend a year repeating a grade.

Relatively few of today's children know what it's like to sweat out the possibility of "flunking." In many school systems throughout the country, promotion to the next higher grade has become virtually an automatic process.

Whether this is a good thing, or a bad thing, is one of the basic issues in the running controversy over modern educational methods.

Case Against Leniency

Critics contend that lenient promotion policies are iniquitous because:

1—Boys and girls are deprived of an important incentive for hard work. If everybody is going to pass, why knock yourself out?

2—Slow learners, instead of being drilled in fundamentals until they have mastered them, are passed up into higher grades where they flounder helplessly in subjects for which they lack the essential tools of learning.

3—Academic standards are lowered by the presence in every class of students who are not ready to do the kind of work appropriate to that grade level.

Many professional educators argue, on the other hand, that strict achievement requirements for promotion do more harm than good. Their case is summarized in a recent report from the research division of the National Education Association.

Fear Can Demoralize

It makes these points:

1—Fear of failure is more likely to demoralize a child than to stimulate him to harder work. In one experiment, children who were told they would be promoted regardless of their efforts actually made more academic progress than children of equal ability who were threatened with non-promotion unless they worked diligently.

2—Mastery of subject matter is not always achieved by making a child repeat a grade. On the contrary, studies indicate that many children on their second trip through a grade receive worse grades than they did on their first try.

3—Non-promotion tends to lower rather than raise academic standards. The teacher who finds her class overloaded with pupils who have been held back because of failure tends to pitch her instruction at a lower level.

4—Failure, and especially repeated failures that bring a slow-learning child into a class with much younger children, often results in serious emotional maladjustments. Many children after failing a grade come to hate school and seek the first opportunity to quit.

System Offers Solution

Confronted with these sharply polarized arguments, parents may wonder whether there isn't some system that will avoid the pitfalls that seem to be inherent in annual promotion, whether strictly or leniently granted.

Some school officials believe there is. It is called the "continuous progress" system.

Under this system, grade levels are eliminated entirely in elementary school. Children are simply formed into flexible groups according to age and ability. Each pupil proceeds at his own best pace. If he falls behind in one subject, he may be shifted to another group for that subject alone. He repeats only the specific work that he needs and has not mastered.

Proponents of this system point out that a bright child has a constant incentive to do his best because the chance of moving up to a more advanced group is always present, instead of coming only once a year. And the slow learner is spared both the stigma, and the monotony, of having to repeat an entire year's work because of failure to master part of it.

Louisiana State Capitol Has No Step For Hawaii

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI)—Now that another state is coming into the union, Louisiana officials are having another headache. The Pelican State Capitol has a set of marble steps leading up to the entrance. Each step bears the engraved name of a state. When Alaska won statehood, something could be done. Its name replaced the inscription "E Pluribus Unum" at the top of the stairs. Emile J. Bourg, supervisor of the state buildings, wrestled with the problem Thursday and came up with the answer. Hawaii will just have to take a place on the floor of the landing at the top.

DeMille Epic Opens At LaNora Today

A film that re-united many of the great talents connected with the production of "The Ten Commandments," will make its bow at the LaNora Theatre today when Paramount's spectacular Technicolor and VistaVision production, "The Buccaneer," is presented.

This great historical drama was supervised by Cecil B. DeMille and co-stars Yul Brynner and Charlton Heston, the two men who were pitted against each other in the master showman's unforgettable Biblical epic. It is the first production assignment of actor Henry Wilcoxon (who also appeared in "The Ten Commandments") and the first directorial achievement of top star Anthony Quinn.

"The Buccaneer," which also co-stars Charles Boyer and Claire Bloom, with Inger Stevens, Henry Hull and E. G. Marshall, recreates an exciting chapter in America's history — the crucial battle of the War of 1812, when the future of the United States hung precariously in the balance. It tells of the part played by the pirate king, Jean Lafitte, in tipping the scales in America's favor; of his lush stronghold, Barataria, where he openly sold the treasures he pirated on the high seas; of his passion for the beautiful daughter (Inger Stevens) of Louisiana's governor; of the love for him of a pirate girl, played by Claire Bloom; and of his alliance with General Jackson (Charlton Heston), climaxed by the blazing, spectacular—Battle of New Orleans.

THE BUCCANEER

Buccaneer Yul Brynner sails into the unknown with Claire Bloom, George Mathews, Charles Boyer and Mickey Finn in this memorable scene from the great, colorful Paramount production "The Buccaneer," which comes Sunday to the LaNora Theatre. Technicolor-VistaVision spectacular co-stars Charlton Heston as General Jackson.

Students Can Be Stimulated, Says Shannon

'Personality Spotlight' DR. EDGAR F. SHANNON JR. New President University of Virginia

Dr. Edgar Finley Shannon Jr., scholar, naval combat veteran and a former star in three sports, believes the modern college student can still be "stimulated with the excitement of developing his mind."

A surprise choice as the University of Virginia's fourth president, the 49-year-old Shannon says he has no pet projects but adds: "Naturally, I've got some ideas." "I wouldn't like to think I'd be making our standards more rigid," he said when asked to outline his policies. "I just like to think students can be stimulated with the excitement of developing their minds."

Shannon, married and father of two daughters, has found excitement on the sports field, as a water polo player and as a swimmer.

As a student at Washington and Lee he was a half-mile track champion and later was a crewman and basketball player at Oxford.

In World War II he served as a naval gunnery and intelligence officer and narrowly escaped death when the U.S.S. Quincy was sunk by Japanese gunfire in the battle of Savo Island in 1942.

And, as a scholar, he graduated summa cum laude from Washington and Lee, took his doctorate at Oxford and received Masters degrees from Duke and Harvard.

GRAY COUNTY Soil Conservation District News

The week of March 15-21 is National Wildlife Week, and farmers, ranchers and sportsmen should stop and take inventory of area wildlife. How much and what kind of wildlife is found within the Gray County Soil Conservation District? What is needed for the existence of wildlife and what can be done to improve wildlife conditions?

Quail, doves, ducks and prairie chicken may be found on a number of farms and ranches. Also squirrels, rabbits, some turkey and antelope may be found.

Occasionally one may see deer and many farm ponds support fish. A number of people have reported seeing a good many quail on the High Plains. In a few instances prairie chicken have been observed, mainly in the Rolling Plains country.

Wildlife needs food and cover to exist and this may be found in a number of places. Fence rows may provide food and cover; windbreaks and odd areas may be good.

Crop residues left on fields may provide grain for food as well as cover. Ranges in good condition support plenty of good wildlife; plays lakes can be improved to provide a good home for ducks.

A strip of grass and weeds left around the edge of lakes, along with fields of grain stubble left standing will help improve duck hunting. Waterways in fields add additional protection.

Good wildlife goes with good conservation farming and ranching. Smart hunters look for conservation farms and ranches. Most farmers are friendly to considerate sportsmen, so sportsmen be careful of the farmer's property. Watch smoking and don't shoot around livestock. Get the farmer's permission to hunt first.

In planning for wildlife see your local SCS technicians in the Court-house.

BLASTS JOB DISCRIMINATION WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Arthur S. Flemming says job discrimination against older workers is "absolutely indefensible" and a "diservice to the country."

Sky's The Limit For New Cadets

You've seen the recruiting posters all over Pampa advertising the U.S. Air Force Aviation Cadet Program. The posters and spot announcements on radio and television tell of the many opportunities a young man can obtain through this program but have you really investigated all the possibilities?

Young men living here in the Panhandle are right in line for a wonderful career as an Air Force officer and pilot. If qualified, "the sky's the limit" for him who takes complete advantage of this program that is now wide open in the U.S. Air Force.

There are few satisfactions that can equal winning the silver wings of a flying officer in the Air Force. They stand not only for personal mastery of the world's finest flying training, but for membership in one of the greatest peacetime organizations of the modern Air Age.

New jet planes, vastly improved equipment, far reaching experiments and research lie ahead for the young man with capabilities for flying men like you who are living here in the Panhandle. "The sky is no limit" for men who can qualify for Aviation Cadets.

What kind of training produces the flying officers of the United States Air Force?

How does the young man next door become a fighting member of the world's most formidable flying team? How do hands and minds adapt native potentialities to the kind of skill which brings Star fighters, Superabers, Starfires, Thunderstreaks, Scorpions and other first-line aircraft into their own hands as effective weapons? Take the average young man who is qualified to be sure, though usually unfamiliar with matters aeronautical — and in 17 months develop in him the ability to surpass the speed of sound in armed conflict at altitudes never before thought possible; this training feat is accomplished by a program which does not overlook the smallest detail.

Persons who are interested in becoming a flying officer in the U. S. Air Force should see the local recruiter in the Post Office building in Pampa. He will discuss with you the whole program, and advise you on any questions that you may have concerning the Aviation Cadet Program.

If you are selected for the program after testing exams — and yes a short wait — you will be sent to Pre-flight located at Lackland Air Force Base in San Antonio.

Lefors Will Enter Play In Contest

LEFORS (Sp) — The Lefors High School Speech Department is preparing to present the play, "Medea," at the play contests here March 24.

The play is a very old one, having won first place at a drama festival in Athens in 431 B.C., according to John Lee Welton, director.

It is a story of a woman who has been put aside by her husband so that he could marry the daughter of King Creon. Jason, Medea's husband, weds not for love but for power. King Creon banishes Medea and her children in order to protect his daughter. Medea then sets about, in the half day she has left before leaving the country, to get revenge on Jason.

Miss Sharon Hines is starred as Medea; Sammy Jordan as Jason, her husband and Margie Nichols as a nurse. King Creon is played by Gary Smith. Others in the cast are Miss Pat Berry, Bill Phillips, Shorty Trapp and Paula Cumberland.

Lefors will be in competition with schools from Clarendon, Memphis, Panhandle, McLean and Canadian.

NEW YORK (NEA) — It might be in Charlotte, Evinston, Lawrence or even the Big City — any place where the many college basketball championship tournaments are in sway. Close down by the court there'll be a man with pad and pencil, scribbling between dribbles. Let's take a peek over his shoulder.

miss being just as good in pros. He's 6-5 but might be better in the backcourt as a pro. A team player, too, who passes off beautifully.

Jerry West, West Virginia — ketball Association, went into the enough for job at 6-3. At this stage (he's a junior), he's a better bet top backcourt prospect and big for the NBA than Hot Rod Hundley was. A good driver and, unusual for a college kid, he plays a very hustling, effective defense.

Alan Seiden, St. John's — size may be against him. He's 5-11. But he's a strong kid, a good passer, defends well and can pop the long ones from the outside. Worth a gamble if he can lick his habit of controlling the ball too much. Must learn to go without it.

"Let me give you a tip. Pick Borger to win the state championship."

One of the Pampa High School golfers was speaking, after a match early this week in which Borger just about burned up the course.

The four Borger players shot an amazing team total of 285, just one over par; and one of them, Jerry Abbot, fired a 68. If the Borger coach had told me what happened, I wouldn't have believed him. But it was Pampa coach Weldon Trice who testified to the facts, and he certainly had no reason to lie about it.

The Pampa golfer's hot tip, appropriate though it was, seemed unnecessary under the circumstances. When a high school team can shoot just one over par, it would be foolhardy to pick anyone else for the state championship.

North Texas State, where I got my sheepskin, had the number three college golf team in the nation. They played on a home course of about the same type as Pampa Country Club's. And they never shot just one over par, that I can recall.

And most of these Borger golfers aren't even high school seniors!

Golf Prospects Improve

The Pampa golfers were quite downcast about their one-sided loss, but they really shouldn't have been. Golf is the one game where you can play a quite respectable round and still get the socks beat off you. The reason, of course, is that there is no defense.

The Pampa golfers played a round that day of 327, not a bad golf for a four-man team. They had scores of 83, 83, 83, and 78 — and many a duffer would sell his soul to get scores that low.

It just happened that Borger had a couple of boys on the squad who went to the National Amateur last year — and the team won second in the state last season. You can just about bet the rest money, though, that they won't finish second again.

Pampa came quite a bit closer to Borger Friday at the Southwest Recreation Meet in Fort Worth — 14 strokes, to be exact. Borger fired 309, considerably worse than their performance in Pampa, and the Harvester team shot 225, two strokes better than in the practice match with Borger.

Borger won the meet, and Pampa finished sixth. The most encouraging thing, from Pampa's viewpoint, was that the Harvester team finished ahead of all the district teams except Borger.

Tasoca, the team most likely to beat Pampa for second place in the district, was seventh with 328 and Amarillo was 11th with 332. Palo Duro and Plainview both finished far behind.

When it comes to golf, Pampa is preparing for the future, too. Eleven junior high linksters are working out every day at the country club, and are coming along pretty well, according to club pro Hart Warren.

Four of them, John Hatcher, Bob Howard, Fred Howard, and Bryan Prigmore, shoot in the low 80's. The other seven are fast approaching that mark. They are Johnny Mack, Gary Stanfield, Jimmy Thompson, Greg Dalton, Leonard Hudson, Don Hines and John Triplephorn.

The junior high boys haven't played a match yet, but they will schedule some in the near future.

KENTUCKY, NAVY UPSET TCU LOSES IN NCAA PLAYOFFS

By FRED DOWN
United Press International
Kansas State, the nation's No. 1 team, and fourth-ranked Cincinnati were the most impressive winners Friday night in NCAA playoffs that saw second-ranked Kentucky and Navy's "team named desire" whipped by underdogs.

Kansas State smashed DePaul, 102-70, and Cincinnati beat Texas Christian, 77-73, as Oscar Robertson scored 34 points. Friday night as expected but Louisville sprang one of the season's biggest upsets by downing second-ranked Kentucky, 76-61, at Evanston, Ill., and unheralded Boston University surprised conqueror of sixth-ranked North Carolina in an opening-round game, 62-55.

Mountaineers Rally
West Virginia rallied to beat St. Joseph's (Pa.), 95-92, third-ranked Michigan State defeated Marquette, 74-69, St. Mary's (Calif.) downed Idaho State, 80-71, and California topped Utah, 71-53, in the other games Friday night.

Kansas State breezed to a 49-32 halftime lead and never was threatened by DePaul; the Wildcats' final point total setting a new regional tournament record. Cincinnati led by only 28-37 at halftime and was in front, 73-71, with 1:15 remaining but Robertson's four free throws cemented time to send the game into overtime. H. E. Kirchner scored time.

West Virginia overcame an 18-point deficit to down St. Joseph's in one of the most amazing comebacks of the season. Jerry West scored 36 points, most of them in the second half. Don Goldstein led Louisville to their victory after St. Joseph's appeared to have the game under control. Boston University, making its first bid for major college honors after years of being rated a small power, beat Navy in overtime on key baskets by Jack Leaman. Ed Washington scored four points in the final seconds of regulation time to send the game into overtime. The win, H. E. Kirchner scored time.

Larry Doss scored 21 points and Tom Meschery tallied 19 to lead St. Mary's to its conquest of Idaho State while Al Bunch's 15 points led California to an easy win over Utah. Cal led, 42-27, at the half and won after sailing a second-half Utah rally.

Leo Byrd, Marshall — he'd make it on marksmanship. Hal Greer, who's shown a fine shot with Syracuse, claims his former 6-1 teammate is a greater threat from the floor. Slender physique is his drawback.

A year ago, these same reports listed Seattle's Elgin Baylor as the best bet to make it big with the pros. And the results have justified their judgment. They should hold up again.

Nats Picked In Playoffs

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI) — The Syracuse Nationals are favored to gain the final round of the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division playoffs Sunday by defeating the New York Knickerbockers in a nationally televised game.

The NBC telecast will begin at 2:30 p.m. e.s.t.

Coach Paul Seymour's Nationals got the jump in the best-of-three series Friday night at New York by defeating the Knickerbockers, 129-123. Another victory Sunday on their home court would put the Nationals into the Eastern playoff finals with the Boston Celtics.

The Minneapolis Lakers and Detroit Pistons began first-round play Saturday night in the Western Division playoffs. The survivor will meet the St. Louis Hawks. The division playoff champions will clash for the overall title.

Seniors graduating at Wells College, Aurora, N.Y., traditionally ride to commencement in a stage coach.

Golfers Accept Colonial Bids

FORT WORTH (UPI) — Sponsors of the 14th annual Colonial National Invitation Golf Tournament completed filling more than half its 48-player field Sunday. Acceptances from 1958 tour champions Billy Casper and the Hebert brothers, Lionel and Jay, arrived. Their entries brought to 25 the number of places filled for the $25,000 affair April 30-May 3. Casper and the tour's second leading money winner last year with four titles, will be making his fourth straight appearance in Colonial, as will Jay Hebert.

Wrestling, Football, Track

Spring training for junior high school football players goes into its last week Monday. The first heavy scrimmages have been held, although Coaches Gene Chance of the Reapers and Norman Phillips of the Rebels are still concentrating mostly on fundamentals.

Coaches are still undecided as to how to wind up the spring training sessions. There will probably be some sort of scrimmage, or scrimmages, but nothing definite has been planned.

Bob Geigel, the old grunt 'n groaner turned executive, is devoting full time to promoting business again, at least as far as Pampa is concerned.

Frank Snow, a former Harvester trackster, is now a member of the North Texas State freshman track team. Snow and the North Texas squad were entered in the Southwest Recreation meet at Fort Worth this weekend.

Yama Asks Title Shot

NEW YORK (UPI) — West Indian Yama Bahama challenged for a shot at the British Empire middleweight crown on the strength of Friday night's upset victory over Wilf Greaves, champion of Canada, at Madison Square Garden.

Bahama said, "I want the shot at empire champion Dick Tiger of Nigeria. Greaves was supposed to get the fight with Tiger next month at London, but I deserve it now because I beat him."

Twenty-six-year-old Yama, a former fishing guide from the island of Bimini, was fighting officially as a middleweight for the first time Friday night, and he was out-weighted 160½ pounds to 153½. But he won the unanimous decision in their 10-round TV fight.

Wilf was favored at 7-5.

TGNA Convention To Be Held In Galveston In April

Mrs. Kay Veale, RN, president of District 23, Texas Graduate Nurses' Association, has announced that the annual convention of the TGNA will be held in Galveston April 13-15. The theme selected is "The Forward Look" which is in keeping with the advancement expected in the field of nursing and nursing education as a result of a survey just concluded.

Mrs. Judith G. Whitaker, executive secretary of the American Nurses Ass'n with headquarters in New York, will be the distinguished guest for the meeting. One of her contributions will include a talk on Functions, Standards, and Qualifications for practice in the different fields of nursing and how these can be used to improve nursing service and nursing education.

Each of the seven sections of the organization will hold programs on topics that will be helpful to professional nurse members. Some of these center around the care of the exceptional child including a tour of the Moody School for exceptional children in Galveston.

Miss Kathleen Dodds Bride Of Jim Greene

Wedding vows were pledged by Miss Kathleen Dodds and Jim Greene on March 6 at eight o'clock in the home of the bride's aunt, Miss Ruby Truist, 2013 Williston.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Juanita Dodds, 628 E. Foster. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Greene, north of the city.

Dr. E. Douglas Carver officiated at the double-ring ceremony amid a setting of pink gladioli in white floor baskets.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Clyde Truist of Lefors, the bride wore a floor-length bouffant gown of hand-thread embroidered nylon tulle over Antique white satin fashioned with a Mandarin neckline, billowing push-up sleeves edged in Antique satin. Her finger-tip veil of double-tiered tulle was secured to a tiara of seed pearls. She carried two dozen a setting of pink gladioli in white Bible.

Mrs. David Wilson of Lubbock, bride's sister, served as matron of honor wearing a bluish pink bouquet taffeta with a white-carnation corsage.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony in the aunt's home. The bridal table was centered with an arrangement of pink carnations flanked with pink tapers. Miss Nellie Greene, bridegroom's cousin, served cake. Miss Elizabeth Ann Trotter, bride's cousin, was guest registrar.

For a wedding trip, the bride traveled in a navy silk suit with matching accessories and wore a white roses corsage.

The bride will be a spring-graduate from Pampa High School. The bridegroom was graduated from PHS in 1955 and is a stock farmer. They will make their home northeast of the city.

KKK Fashion Show

SWIMMING — This afternoon at 1:30 p.m. and again at 3:30, members of the Kit Kat Klub will present a fashion show in the City Club Room with a wardrobe planned around an imaginary Carribean Cruise. Since every luxury liner is equipped with one or more pools for the swimming enthusiast, it would be unthinkable to embark on a cruise without a fashionable swim-suit. Here Miss Bobbie Lea Andis models an exclusive, multi-colored hand-screened print by Roxanne of California, which she will show this afternoon.

CAPTAIN'S DINNER—Miss D'Anne Prince has chosen a dreamy, billowy formal to take along on the cruise to wear when she accepts the enviable invitation to have dinner at the Captain's table. The formal, a Will Steinman of New York, is floor-length fashioned with a fitted bodice and bouffant overskirt of re-embroidered silver marquisette with tiers of ruffles encircling the underskirt worn over taffeta. The waistline is accented with a bow of slipper satin with streamers falling to the hemline of the skirt. For a moonlight stroll on deck, Miss Prince has chosen a stole of imported chiffon with a hand-rolled hem accented with a rhinestone shoulder clip.

APPLEGATE-QUALLS BETHROTHAL

Miss Jane Tripp

The engagement and forthcoming marriage of Miss Jane Tripp to Berryman M. Breining of Odessa, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Breining of Lefors, is being announced by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. Phil Tripp of Monahans and Mrs. I. R. Young of Abilene. Nuptials will be read in the First Baptist Church on June 27. Miss Tripp, a graduate of Monahans High School, will receive her Bachelor of Music degree from North Texas State College in Denton, in May. She is a member of Delta Gamma, social sorority and played the violin in the college symphony orchestra. Mr. Breining was graduated from Texas Tech in Lubbock and is employed as petroleum engineer for Tidewater Oil Company in Odessa.

Miss Grace Applegate

The engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Grace Daniel Applegate to Richard Milton Qualls, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Qualls, 2141 Aspen, is being announced by the bride-elect's parents, Dr. and Mrs. F. M. Applegate of Monahans. The wedding ceremony for the couple will be read on April 11 in the home of bride-elect's parents. Miss Applegate was graduated in 1956 from Monahans High School. She also attended Texas Technological College and is presently employed by the city of Monahans. Mr. Qualls attended Pampa High School and was graduated from Oklahoma University, Norman, Okla. He is employed by Gulf Oil Corporation as a petroleum engineer.

TEA TIME — Appropriate for tea-time or an afternoon Bridge table session, at the luxury liner rolls merrily across the waves, is this pink cotton, Miss Karen Wells, plans to wear in the fashion show, this afternoon. The sleeves are accented with embroidery in a deeper shade of pink than the dress. The sash, which encircles the waistline falls to the hemline of the skirt, is the same shape as the embroidery on the sleeves.

PROMENADE — Included in Miss Jackie Fikes wardrobe is this attractive costume to wear while playing shuffle board, ping-pong, or any other deck games, in progress at the moment. The capri pants with matching blouse are styled in pink, and white by Bobbie Brooks from Galey and Lord combed cotton yarn. In the evens of a chilling breeze, Miss Fikes is prepared with a pretty pink cardigan sweater.

Mrs. William Ledbetter Guest Speaker For Varietas Study Club Tuesday Meet

Varietas Study Club met Tuesday with Mrs. Ralph Thomas for a program on "Science" discussed by Mrs. William Ledbetter, Pam-pa High School science instructor.

Mrs. Cecil Dalton, president in the absence of the club president, Mrs. Ledbetter continued, "America has become a world power and leadership has been thrust upon us with it, ideas, concern, retirement, social security, places of older persons in society, use of leisure time, which resulted in drastic changes in social concepts, organizations and value patterns."

Mrs. W. A. Wagoner, program chairman, introduced Mrs. Ledbetter, who began the program with a definition of science as a way of thinking and acting through curiosity and exploration which has brought about the scientific age.

"There are three areas in science: practical, preparation for college and functional. All people should be educated in science, since we are all more conscious of the power thrust in the atomic energy and need the knowledge of it to more intelligently control it. Since it stresses peace as well as power, it has brought about a good background, freedom of thought and social changes."

Members were Mrs. Price, Mrs. W. A. Wagoner, Luther Pierson, H. H. Butler, H. T. Hampton, Cecil Dalton, R. W. Lane, J. A. Hopkins, J. G. Doggett, Sherman White, C. L. McKinney, J. C. Volmert, Otis Nace, and J. R. Spearman.

Living Art In Mexican, Chinese, Indian Form Discussed For JC Culture Meet

"Art Is Where Your Find It" was the program topic introduced by Mrs. Doyle Osborne at the Tuesday afternoon meeting of Twentieth Century Culture Club held in the home of Mrs. J. D. Merchant with Mrs. H. H. Hahn as co-hostess.

In introducing the afternoon's guest speaker, Mrs. Rufe Jordan, Mrs. Osborne pointed out that all races began to communicate by means of hieroglyphics. "It is interesting to reflect how, through the ages, different races have developed their differences in art."

In opening remarks, Mrs. Jordan called attention to a display of objects representing characteristics of the three types of art to be discussed, Mexican, Popular

Arts, Chinese Art and Indian Art. "Mexican popular arts are made up of a complex of crafts of native European and Asiatic origins, blended into an exciting and peculiar combination of styles. All the cultural and esthetic factors that have contributed through the centuries to develop these styles continue alive in them."

"The popular arts of today," she continued, "are closely related to 16th and 17th century Spain and to the ancient Indian culture. After the conquest, the native crafts were the industrial base of Colonial Mexico; the craftsmen enriched his techniques, his experience, his tools and discovered new designs and forms of expression, but many of his crafts suffered as he had to abandon the making of many objects formerly used for the Indian religious ritual."

In 1950, the National Museum of Popular Arts and Crafts opened two rooms devoted to exhibitions and one to sales in which it was hoped that the best handicrafts could be available. Though these objects, some of them truly museum pieces in the best sense, are sold at normal merchandising price, the proceeds contribute much to the program for redevelopment and modern growth of the handicraft arts."

In discussing Indian Art, Mrs. Jordan said, "It is also a living art. In all the Americas many groups still produce these objects of beauty. Historical tribes have adopted from the whites new materials and tools, though the best is still handwork. Glass beads have been substituted for porcupine quill, seeds and shells; wool has replaced fibers and cottons; paper is used for painting in place of skins and bark." The speaker cautioned that tourists should purchase only the best work rather than the cheap curios. "In this way, the Indian will be helped to regain his position as artist and craftsman."

Mrs. Jordan commented that months of study would not exhaust the subject of Chinese art. "Even today the outside world has incomplete knowledge of the real greatness of the master artists of the Shang, the Chou, the Han and other dynasties. Such treasures have long been in private collections of the wealthy, not accessible to foreigners. The best examples of porcelain, ancient bronzes, and carved jade are often in the

Arabian Entertaining Pictured By Guest Speaker At Altrusa Luncheon Meeting

Mrs. Vernon L. Hobbs, president of the Altrusa Club, presided at the Monday luncheon meeting of the club in the Pine Room of the Pampa Hotel as reports were given by Mrs. Irl Smith, recording secretary and Miss Jean Chisholm, corresponding secretary. Mrs. Jack Bertolin, treasurer.

Acting upon the recommendations of the executive board, members voted approval of Mrs. Mark Heath, president-elect and Mrs. Clyde Vanderberg, vice president-elect, as delegates to the International convention of Altrusans in Chicago in July. Approval was also indicated for the recommendation to purchase two student tickets from the Community Concerts Ass'n for the use of a public school music student.

Miss Kay Lane, Altrusa Girl-of-the-month for February introduced the club's choice of the Altrusa Girl-of-the-month for March as Miss Sherry Thygerson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. S. Thygerson, south of the city. Miss Thygerson is a senior in Pampa High School, where she is a member of the National Honor Society and the Kilt Klub. She is active in youth activities in her church of the Latter Day Saints.

Following a voting session, Mrs. Ida Keller, Louise Sewell and Lorene Locke, tallying committee, reported that the following members had been elected: Mrs. Mark Heath, president; Clyde Vanderberg, vice president; Olenne McShan, recording secretary; Oia Gregory, corresponding secretary; Dorothy Tooley, treasurer; Jay Flanagan, director.

Miss Ila Pool, chairman of the International Relations committee, introduced Mrs. Rex McAnelly, luncheon speaker, who related highlights of her life while a resident in Saudi Arabia. She and her husband, who was employed by the Arabian American Oil Co. as an agricultural adviser for the Arabian Government on the government-owned agricultural development at Al Kharij, lived there for three years.

"The Arabian American Oil Co. gained its first concession in 1933, therefore national development has been tied hand in hand with oil development and has been most concentrated in the areas where oil has been discovered. Only within the last five years has much progress been made in the interior in the way of hospitals, schools and other much needed facilities," Mrs. McAnelly commented.

"The Saudis are as hospitable a people as can be found throughout the world. The poorest Bedouin will run from his tent offering tea and coffee to any passerby. Living as we did, among the natives, we were often invited to the village for tea and coffee or even feasts in the homes of various officials or farm employees."

"The ritual of tea and coffee," she continued, "is one of frequent observance among the Arabs, being their main way of entertaining guests. First, you must drink three tiny cups of strong black coffee pungently flavored with a spice called cardamom. The cardamom seeds are ground right along with the coffee beans and brewed with the coffee imparting a bitter though not unpleasant quality to the drink. This is followed by three cups of syrupy sweet minted tea and then three more cups of coffee... to take more or less is quite impolite. All of this takes place seated around the walls of lavishly furnished rooms covered with Arab rugs. One removes his shoes before entering the home. As tradition holds it is impolite to turn your feet toward another while sitting, this can lead to a bit of discomfort after long periods of sitting on the floor until one becomes accustomed to it."

Following the tea and coffee drinking if you have been invited to dinner, the guests go into another large room in which mats line the center of the floor covered with all sorts of interesting dishes. In the center rests an immense tray of rice topped by a whole roasted sheep. The rice is enriched with dates, nuts, whole limes and exotic spices. The sheep has been roasted to perfection with

SIGNS OF SPRING in case you hadn't noticed them yet it is illusion, or is there a tinge of green here and there on some lawns and busyness in certain garden plots bulbs such as tulips and crocus are being planted and those already planted are no doubt stirring their roots after the winter sleep and kites fly around in the sky we like these colorful new ones made of plastic which resemble flying mushrooms and in the new issue of Popular Science (we think we have got the right magazine) there is a description of how to make a baby kite from thin tissue and soda straws which will really fly on these light-winded days we have had a few of late.

AND SPEAKING OF SPRING where but at church on Sunday mornings can you see evidence of this season better for instance, some simply yummy hats appear all of a sudden and we can give data on a few, too to match the gorgeous weather, we saw Eunice Pierson looking like a Spring flower in a blue straw sailor with upturned brim and pink and blue flowers on the brim and Eva Branson in a red straw hat with clusters of what looked to us to be red cherries reminding us that in a month or so comes the famous cherry-blossom festival in Washington, D. C., which we should like very much to see one of these days and last, but for from least to complete the Spring Trilogy Elaine Ledbetter with a yellow chapeau resplendent with yellow daisies what could be more cheering and while we are on the subject of heads have you seen the beautiful "new" Jean Duncan we think she looks marvelous with her new look saw her helping to welcome the Harvesters back from their successful basket-ball tournament Ah, Spring! when "a young man's fancy" and the women, too.

SOMEPLACE TO GO FOR A SUNDAY-DRIVE when we have these marvelous still, warm days or, if you want the fresh air and exercise, why not take the family out for a walk usually little children are thrilled at the prospect of a walk anyhow to the subject of where to go take a look at the activity which has gone on, thanks to the garden clubs in the park east of Duncan and north of the Stephen F. Austin school beautiful free-form plots with cement walls are being erected for future planting and in the small triangle further south on Duncan mer were putting some rich looking soil on and our mouths are watering (we can't very well say our eyes are watering) over the prospect of the grass and flowers soon to appear there! and while we are on the subject of grass if you wish to see the most beautiful green grass in Pampa take a look at 835 South Banks our trusty City Directory says we must thank the L. E. Jenkins, Jr. for that sight and there is a small geometrical outlined garden plot spank in the middle of the sea of green and there are enormous trees all around which make delicious shade in the summer and at the moment emphasize the greenness of the grass go and feast your eyes.

Usefulness is doing rightly by yourself and others. We lose a percentage to our activity when doing the work that belongs to another. —Mary Baker Eddy

HERE AND THERE John and Dolly Studer are just home, we notice, from a fishing trip in Old Mexico they were in the fishing villages of Guaymas and Mazatlan and must have had a wonderful time and speaking of fishing you should see the pictures of the huge fish caught in a recent trip to, we think, Acapulco, caught by Vernon Watkins marvelous pictures and good-looking fish Billie Don was and is justifiably proud, we guess all these places sound so interesting let's all go take a trip and "Drown a few worms." or are we wrong in our interpretation of fishing!

AND WHILE WE ARE ON THE SUBJECT it seems appropriate at this moment to mention the Kit Kat Klub Korriban Kruiise coming up today Sue Foster will play background music for fashion shows of what cloths to wear on such a cruise there will be showings, we understand, at 1:30 p.m. and 3:30 p.m.; this afternoon everyone is welcome why don't you go on down to the City Club room and join the fun you can get your ticket at the door there are some other social things coming up the traditional Beta Sigma Phi Woman of the Year Tea is on the agenda, tentatively set for April 12th, and tension is building up as to WHO it is this time and Twentieth Century Allegro is having a Guest-Day-Coffee April 7th, with a fashion show and so forth special hostesses for this affair are Jackie Evans Charisie Hickman Billy Don Watkins Pat Braly Katherine Reeve and Mary Hills hear that they have some really special cloths to be shown sounds exciting.

THIS IS THE SEASON when lots of people gain new sons and daughters-in-law Clarence and Sybil Qualls will be welcoming a daughter-in-law on April 11th as you can read it in this section the wedding will be in Monahans, home of the bride and Jan Murray is to be a June bride this year H. ONWARD, EVER ONWARD the words march down the page sometimes the last page or two is the hardest, and sometimes the first page on a blank sheet is the hardest you know us writers we love to complain about how hard we work but Bill Pendergraft is having a bang-up time in Paris he left last week, you know, for a vacation he'll get to see "Paris in the Springtime" if he stays there long enough we heard that De Anne Shirley has made two very fine paintings as gifts for her mother, Bethel, and for Peggy Palminter she is at the University of Oklahoma, studying art, and showed great talent when she was here, and studying with Dard Fitz heard that she and Ruth Gwen Adcock were both on the honor roll there for the Fall semester four high school students went to Brownsville this past week, delegates to the Association of Students Councils convention Buch Dunham, Karen Kapps, and Nita Cartwright, juniors, and Pete Lewis, sophomore Ruby Capps went along with them she led a panel discussion on securing faculty understanding and support for student projects we're happy for E. RICHARD DRUG

Mature Parent

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Shortly after dinner our husband, shouldering into his coat, comes into the kitchen and says, "The cigarette, carton's empty, Clara, and I are driving downtown to get some."

We look at him over the head of the child who has followed him into the kitchen, shaking our own vigorously. After a moment he gets the message. Nodding, he says to our 8-year-old: "Clark, I guess it wouldn't be fair for me to drive you downtown when Dave has to go to bed. Some other time, eh? It's pretty cold out tonight, anyway."

Does Clark accept this explanation with goodwill? Of course not. He knows we've changed his father's mind. As the back door closes, he shoves angrily past our restraining hands and retreats to the living room where he buries himself in a comic for the rest of the evening.

Why didn't we tell him the truth? Why didn't we say, "Clark, I'm tired tonight and just can't cope with the fuss your little brother would make if Daddy drove you downtown at his bedtime. This isn't fair to you but that's the way it is tonight. I'm sorry."

Why do we have to glorify our understandable wish to avoid trouble with Dave as "fairness" to our children?

We're ashamed of it. We should not be tired after our day's work. No matter how we feel, we should always have perfect justice ready to deliver to Clark and Dave.

So we claim that we have delivered it. To avoid exposing ourselves as an ordinary human being subject to ordinary human weaknesses, we not only deprive Clark of the privilege he's entitled to as an older child, but have also to insist that our weakness is moral devotion to "justice."

It is not sensible for parents to be ashamed of their inability to give perfect justice to children. Nobody else can give it to them, either. When we make them believe they have received it from us, we train them in romantic expectations from the world. Then, as they discover that perfect justice is not available, they respond with shock and outrage to experiences they should be able to foresee and take in their stride. They can become bitter and cynical people as their dream-world expectations come into conflict with facts.

We claim to give perfect justice to children only because we want to stifle any inconvenient objections to our judgments.

RUTH MILLETT

"Just about the time they start being a joy to live with children are ready to leave home," says a woman reader.

What do you mean "just as they start being a joy"? Isn't it a joy to rock a small baby to sleep, to see him splash and gurgle as he plays in his bath, to watch him taking his first steps, and proudly putting together the words that make up his first sentences?

Isn't it exciting to hold a young child's hand as you walk, to occasionally glimpse the world through his eyes, to have him tug at your skirt to show you something as inspiring to him as a butterfly or a toad?

Isn't it a thrill to have a first grader rush home from school, bursting with news to tell you? You answer his questions, even though you may have to struggle to put your answer into words that he can understand.

Isn't it pleasant to share a 10-year-old's eager anticipation, and to watch a child begin to think for himself and make his own judgments and now and then to see that he is learning through experience a few of the things that you have tried to teach him?

Isn't it enjoyable to watch a child become an adolescent, with new interests, new fears, new hopes; and to have his friends around and to hear the sounds of giggling and chatter?

Isn't it thrilling to share a teenager's chance dreams of what he wants to do and be when he finishes school?

Is there any age from his first day on when a child isn't a joy to parents who love and try their best to understand him?

Imports of crude oil and products reached a new record level of 2,618,800 barrels daily last week the American Petroleum Institute reported. The record was believed to reflect attempts by most importers to bring in as much oil as possible before the mandatory curbs announced by President Eisenhower.

Non-intervention Pact Has Been Used Against People

EDITOR'S NOTE: Frank H. Bartholomew, president of the United Press International, has been making a study of developments in the Caribbean area. Last week he obtained an interview with the Haitian president. He follows that today with this exclusive dispatch outlining the views of Gov. Luis Munoz Marin of Puerto Rico on problems confronting the area.

SAN JUAN, P.R. (UPI)—The non-intervention policy of the Organization of American States (OAS) should be modified to permit action in nations having dictatorships, Gov. Luis Munoz Marin of Puerto Rico said in an exclusive interview today.

Munoz is a staunch supporter of Cuban revolutionary leader Fidel Castro, who is committed to support revolutionary efforts in the Dominican Republic, Haiti, Nicaragua and Paraguay, on grounds the leaders in those countries are dictators.

"The non-intervention pact in the OAS has been used against the people and in support of dictatorship," Munoz said. "It should be modified to set up a tribunal to authorize action in countries where the denial of human rights exists.

"Such supranational activity would get the United States off the hook of having to deal with such situations individually," Munoz said.

Castro himself believes the four target dictatorship nations should be expelled from the OAS and has publicly considered the possibility of Cuba withdrawing from the organization otherwise.

Munoz, who has been in the lead in the defense of the Castro government, in television radio and press interviews does not appear to be in complete agreement with Castro's opinion of Nicaragua, where Munoz indicates he believes President Luis Somoza is attempting to liberalize the government.

Munoz, who as an American citizen obviously likes the role of interpreting Latin America to the United States and vice versa, voiced criticism of past United States policies.

Arm's Length Policy

"Fidel would have been one of the greatest assets to the United States in Latin America if the Department of State had maintained the proper attitude of aloofness and stayed at arm's length in dealing with the Batista dictatorship during the revolution, Munoz said.

He said that "President Romulo Betancourt of Venezuela is probably the United States' best friend today, but I presume the fact he belonged to the Communist Party once for two or three years will be used against him."

Munoz is a former newspaperman who turned expert-international politician. He heads the popular Democratic Party, which is solidly liberal and pro-labor.

The governor speaks English and Spanish without a trace of accent in either language. He is regarded here as a major counselor to Vice President Richard M. Nixon on Latin American affairs.

Munoz carries a baseball bat and gloves in his official car and often takes time out on inspection tours to play catch with cabinet officers.

NEVER IN CLASS, NEVER ABSENT EITHER—A two-way telephone hookup enables Ronald Elledge, 10, to maintain fifth grade work at Garfield School in Casper, Wyo. He is confined to a wheelchair by a disease which has crippled his hip. Ronald's mother, Mrs. M. D. Elledge, helps him with the work at their home. He listens in on the classroom from 10:45 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., plus an additional 15 minutes for conversations with classmates. Ronald's father pays part of the phone bill, the state the rest. He'll be out of school for about two years.
