FROM ALBUQUERQUE TO DALLAS

Baby-Napper Is Caught

By ED FITE
United Press International
United Press International

DALLAS (UPI)—Police arrested Betty Smithley, 16, today and recovered the 18-month-old baby she kidnaped near Albuquerque, N. M., Monday. She said she kidnaped the baby because he was crying.

The baby is Mitchell Johnson, son of Mrs. Paul Johnson, pediatrician at the State Girls Welfare Home in Albuquerque. He is in good health and was gnawing on a cracker when he was brought to police headquarters.

"I like him," the Smithley girl said. "I like all babies. I started to run off and this baby started crying, so I decided to take him with me."

Baby Abandoned
The baby was recovered in a drugstore, where the girl abandoned him. She was arrested later in a cafeteria while eating breakfast.

She said she was in the institution for running away from home.

She ran away 13 times from a sister's home in Phoenix, Ariz., she said, and the sister wouldn't take her back.

She is an orphan, so she went to the State Girl's Welfare Home in Albuquerque. She said the only reason she went to work for Mrs. Johnson, who lives in Placitas, near Albuquerque, was to get an opportunity to run away again.

She was considered fit for rehabilitation and Mrs. Johnson was letting her work in her home under a policy that allows inmates of the institution to work in homes or businesses, if it looks as if they may reform.

Relatives in Dallas
"Running away just comes natural to me," she said.

She headed for Dallas because she has two aunts in Dallas. She said she hitchhiked from Albuquerque to Woodward, Okla., and tried to hitchhike on to Dallas, but took the wrong road and wound up in Kansas.

She hitch-hiked back to Woodward with Mitchell and boarded a bus for Dallas with her. She said she "soft-soaped" a truck driver into giving her $14 by telling him that her husband had abandoned her and the baby.

The Smithley girl said the reason she decided to abandon Mitchell in the drugstore was because she had about run out of money.

The girl walked into Dorsey's drugstore in downtown Dallas about 7:30 a.m. today and asked Mrs. Angie Ryan, a buyer, whether she would hold Mitchell while she went to an automobile, and debris is cleared away. West said "It may take three or four weeks to rebuild the tower, but that will depend greatly upon the wind."

Tuesday afternoon, beginning at about noon, a wind-swept fire devoured the 55-foot tower and screen at the Pampa Drive-in.

Property damage was estimated at $16,000 to the 400-car capacity drive-in located south of Pampa on the Bowers City Road near the Lefors Highway junction.

It was the second disastrous theater fire here in the past 43 days. On March 28 the downtown LaNora Theater burned in a spectacular $200,000 fire that began shortly after midnight.

Work to build a downtown theater to replace the LaNora has been put on a "crash basis," West said.

C. F. Motley, an Oklahoma City theater official who witnessed Tuesday's fire, is holding a meeting in Oklahoma City today to draw up plans for the new theater which are expected to be approved in 60 days.

DOOMED MOUNTAIN TOP

The British Air Force announced it will bomb a Turkish mountain top near the Soviet border to demolish secret rocket equipment lost in a plane crash. The equipment was scattered near the top 14,000-foot Mount Suphan Dag, cross, about 100 miles from the Russian border when a British troop transport crashed 13 days ago, killing 12 men. British paratroopers reached the wreckage and buried the bodies but it was considered too hazardous to bring down the equipment and too dangerous to leave it where it might be found.

WARD SUIT IN FINAL STAGES

At 8:55 p.m. Tuesday — during a night session — the City of Pampa rested its defense against a $185,000 damage suit that began in District Court Monday morning.

Final arguments were presented this morning and the case was scheduled to go to the jury following a noon recess.

The suit for $185,000 was brought against the city by Grocer Clarence Ward, owner of Ward's Market at 105 N. Hobart. Ward, in a petition filed Jan. 21, 1958, alleged that during construction of the Hobart St. Underpass he suffered a loss of profits totaling $100,000.

He further alleged his lease suffered a loss of value set at $85,000.

In Tuesday's long and fitful session nine witnesses paraded to the stand. Plaintiff's witnesses included District Court Judge J. M. Smith, W. A. Rankin and Jim King.

Following a short recess at 4 p.m. the defense called Jiggs Cook, Pampa's director of public works; James Baird, an inspector of the State Highway Department; City Manager John Koontz; City Assessor Aubrey Jones; and finally J. G. Doggett, a local public accountant.

The city's defense centered around an accounting of Ward's profits and losses by Accountant Doggett. Doggett, under examination and cross-examination by Attorney Jimmie Thompson, said that to his knowledge, an accurate accounting of Ward's records was impossible because, he said, Elbert, Chairman of the Board; J. Pat Malone, Amarillo, Texas; J. Pat Malone, Amarillo, Texas; and Mrs. T. G. Dewey, Canyon, Secretary.

Pampa Woman Is Heart Assn. Veep

Mrs. F. R. Forsythe of Pampa, long-active in Heart and civic affairs, was elected Vice President of the Board of the North Plains District Heart Association at its Annual Business Meeting of Members held this week at the Herring Hotel in Amarillo. Mrs. Forsythe is President of the Gray County Heart Association.

Mrs. John M. Thurman of Borger, District Board Chairman, was honored at the meeting by the presentation of a Distinguished Achievement Award presented to her by Ernest T. Guy, Houston, Executive Director of the Texas Heart Association, on behalf of the State Board of Directors.

Other Panhandle residents who were elected to top District Heart posts included E. P. Stewart, M.D., Tulsa, President; Manjey Bryan, M.D., Canyon, President-Elect; Mrs. John M. Thurman, Borger, Chairman of the Board; J. Pat Malone, Amarillo, Texas; and Mrs. T. G. Dewey, Canyon, Secretary.

Theater Plans Stepped Up

Pampa theater manager Paul West said today that work to rebuild the fire-ravaged Pampa Drive-In Theater will begin immediately.

"We expect to get started in a week to ten days, as soon as the debris is cleared away," West said.

West said "It may take three or four weeks to rebuild the tower, but that will depend greatly upon the wind."

Lovett Memorial Nurses Home Bids Opened; May Be Decided Thursday

Bids for construction of the Lovett Memorial Nurses Home were opened Tuesday afternoon at Highland General Hospital, but due to a lack of quorum, no bids were accepted.

Chet Lander, Highland hospital superintendent, reported that a bid will be accepted, probably Thursday.

Three members of the hospital board attended Tuesday's meeting. Four of the board's six members were needed to constitute a quorum.

The project, financed by the estate of Mrs. Fanny Lovett, is expected to reach the $125,000 mark before its completion. The home will be built south of the hospital along N. Hobart St., with actual construction expected to total $100,000.

Even with the big increase, the Atomic Energy Commission does not think the radioactivity created so far will have "statistically significant" effects that would be apparent from observations by the average man.

Fifty to 100 additional cases of cancer per year — a possibility — would constitute individual tragedies but would be lost statistically among the average of 700,000 cancer patients under treatment in the United States.

The north latitude localization of stratospheric fallout, previously thought to be uniform over the world, was described as the most important of the several disclosures before the subcommittee.

U.S. Fallout Rate Is Practically Doubled

Nuclear Tests Are Blamed

By DARRELL GARWOOD
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — New evidence before Congress indicates the United States may have more to fear than any other major country from radioactive fallout produced by nuclear explosions.

Fallout mainly from Soviet nuclear tests promises within a few months to double the amount of radioactive Strontium 90 in a belt centered on 40 degrees north latitude, which passes through the middle of the United States.

The evidence was placed before the joint congressional subcommittee on radiation by the Atomic Energy Commission Tuesday during the first of four days of hearings on the fallout problem. The information was accompanied by charts showing that:

— In 1957-58 radioactivity from Russian tests for the first time exceeded the combined total for the United States and Britain. Nearly three-fourths of the Soviet total was swept into the stratosphere during tests last October.

— The rate of testing by all nations during the two years exceeded by 75 per cent the annual maximum recommended by the subcommittee by a panel of scientists in 1957.

— The Northern Hemisphere is four to five times more radioactive than the Southern Hemisphere. All of the Soviet test fallout and two-thirds of the U.S. radioactivity from Eniwetok falls in the Northern Hemisphere.

Even with the big increase, the Atomic Energy Commission does not think the radioactivity created so far will have "statistically significant" effects that would be apparent from observations by the average man.

Fifty to 100 additional cases of cancer per year — a possibility — would constitute individual tragedies but would be lost statistically among the average of 700,000 cancer patients under treatment in the United States.

Funds Made Available For Rocket Ship to Venus

By CHARLES CORDREY
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The civilian space agency today awarded a $23,500,000 contract for development of a new space rock, which may be fired to Venus in early 1961.

Known as the Vega, the new three-stage vehicle was said to be capable of pulling a two-ton space laboratory with several men aboard into a 300-mile-high orbit around the earth for a period of several weeks.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) awarded the contract to Convair Astronautics Division of General Dynamics Corp., San Diego, Calif., and said test flights were expected by late 1960.

NASA Administrator T. Keith Glennan described the Vega as "the first of our more advanced boosters" and said its chief job will be "linear and planetary investigation."

The Vega vehicle will consist of an Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile for the first stage, a Vanguard satellite launching vehicle booster for the second stage and a new rocket now under development by NASA's jet propulsion laboratory for the third stage.

When other contracts are taken into account the Vega program may cost about 76 million dollars. It calls for production of eight vehicles by the end of 1961.

The Vega will stand as high as a 10-story building and will weigh more than 147 tons.

NASA said some of the missions of the Vega could be:

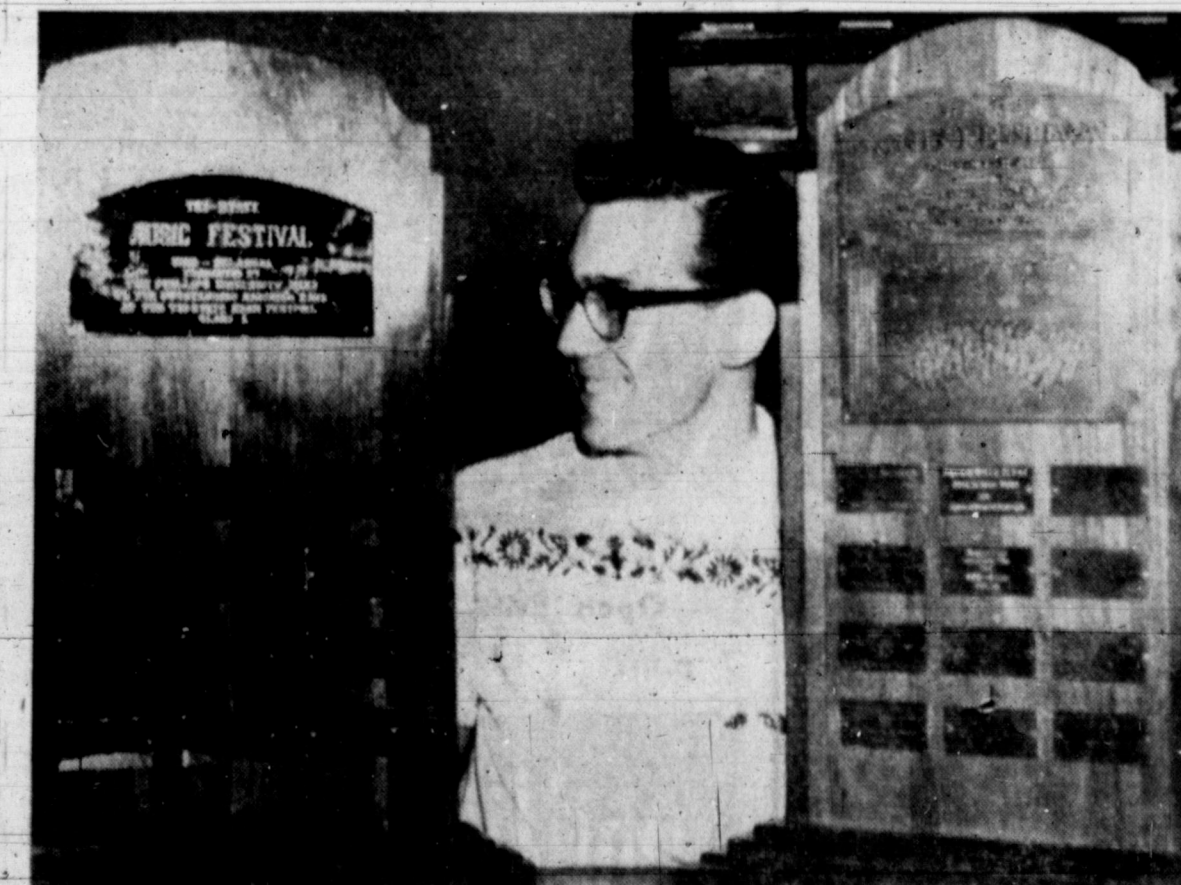

— Putting a 5,000-pound satellite into orbit at an altitude of 200 miles.

— Launching a manned space laboratory into 300-mile orbit. This, like the 200-mile orbit, could be achieved with two stages.

— Sending a 1,000-pound payload to the vicinity of the moon or landing several hundred pounds of instruments on the moon.

— Launching a 750-pound payload on a planetary mission.

— If it comes from a hardware store we have H. Lewis Wade. (Adv.)

Yesterday's Heroes Visited By Winnie

By MERRIMAN SMITH
UPI White House Reporter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Everybody tried to be cheerful in the quiet sick rooms as Sir Winston Churchill tapped his cane along the hospital corridors with President Eisenhower at his side.

But well-wishing could not diminish the tragic scenes they found when the President, 68, and his distinguished visitor, 84, went to call at Walter Reed Army Medical Center Tuesday afternoon.

They saw Gen. George Catlett Marshall, 75, America's World War II Army chief of staff, lying motionless and virtually speechless, the victim of a stroke.

Then they saw John Foster Dulles, 71, the secretary of state who only a few months ago scared across oceans in jet tanker planes. Dulles, who is fighting the ravages of cancer, was in a wheel chair.

Sir Winston, who moves with some difficulty himself because of what the President called the wear and tear of time, walked to the foot of Marshall's bed and chatted with the five-star general's wife for about two minutes.

Mrs. Marshall assured the former prime minister that her husband was delighted to see him. Marshall recognized Churchill, but was unable to converse with him.

Jaycees Set Road-E-O Test On Saturday

Written tests will be given Saturday for the Jaycees Road-E-O driving contest, Lee Jackson, project chairman, announced today. The Road-e-o is set for May 17 north of the High School.

The Pampa tests will be given at 9 a.m. in Room 301 of the High School and in the cafeteria of Lee Junior High School. Lefors' students will take their tests at 1 p.m. Monday and Miami, at 1 p.m. Wednesday. The date of the White Deer tests is undecided.

The Road-e-o is open to all persons who will not reach their 19th birthday by Aug. 31 and who have their drivers license. They must not be married prior to Aug. 31 and must not have been found guilty or charged with a moving traffic violation since Jan. 10.

Jackson stressed that the Road-e-o will be open to both girls and boys.

The written test will be similar to the tests given to persons applying for a drivers license.

The top three winners in the Road-e-o will be eligible to enter the regional contest here May 24. The state meet will be held in Austin in June, followed by the national meet in Washington, D.C. Winners will receive certificates in the local contests, plaques in regional and scholarships in Washington.

The Smithy girl is charged in New Mexico with kidnapping him.

Previously Arrested

Police arrested the Smithy girl in Dallas last June 2. She was on the roof of an automobile agency throwing rocks and threatened to jump if police came near her.

They managed to grab her without her jumping and the police report on her arrest said "she attempted to destroy herself by various means while in the juvenile bureau and had to be restrained."

At the time, she was on parole from the Oklahoma State Hospital for the Insane, at Norman.

Police picked her up in Dallas on March 1, 1958, but didn't file a charge and let her go.

DEAR ABBY...

By Abigail Von Buren

DEAR ABBY: Mother's Day is coming again and I get tired just thinking about it. Last year my seven children (all married) came for supper. They brought their families and we number 38 and ate in the morning to start the supper. Nobody helped me peel a potato and they all started coming in at five o'clock with their kids. I wiped noses, heated bottles, changed diapers, answered questions and waited on everybody trying to make them feel comfortable and have us down and it took me a week to clean it up. I still love them but I am wondering how many more Mothers' Days I can take like the last one? Any suggestions?

STILL DANCING
DEAR ABBY: I am a sophomore at college and I feel like a child asking you this question but I'm ashamed to ask anyone else. I've dated lots of fellows and have made out with many of them but I've always kept my emotions under control. But, Abby, there is one fellow in my English Lit. class who makes me flip. Whenever I see him and our eyes meet, I get weak in the knees and have to look away. I can't even think straight when he looks at me. We have nothing much in common (different backgrounds, interests, religion etc.) and I don't think he's serious about me. I'm sure this isn't "love" — but what is it?

DEAR AVERAGE: If this is the way your children "honor" their mother on MOTHER'S DAY, it's time you spoke up. Tell them on MOTHER'S DAY the kitchen and nursery are closed. Get your self all prettied up and let them take YOU out for dinner. It's supposed to be YOUR day — not THEIRS.

DEAR ABBY: May I make a suggestion to how to handle uninvited guests when they "drop in" and spoil your plans? Keep your coat and hat hanging near the door. When the doorbell rings, slip it on in a hurry, and then open the door. If it's someone you do not wish to entertain, tell them how sorry you are that you were just leaving and are already ten minutes late. If it's someone you want to entertain, invite them in and tell them you just got home. It works ten times out of ten. Cordially,

DEAR H. R. F. K.: And what do you do if you say you are leaving, and the "guest" offers to go with you?

DEAR ABBY: Please tell "LOVES TO DANCE" to tell her mother.

ASIATIC DEW LINE—While the world watches Berlin, the Communist bloc is quietly beefing up the Bamboo Curtain. According to U.S. intelligence experts, a solid radar fence now reaches 8,500 miles from the Arctic down the China coast to North Viet Nam. This is backed by some 9,000 aircraft. Russia has reportedly deployed one-fourth of her warplanes to the Far East. Newsmag focused on the area and shows Communist strength, based on best available figures.

Reformers Trying To Make Truman Into Elder Statesman

The Lighter Side
By FRANK ELEAZER
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—They keep trying to make Harry S. Truman into an elder statesman, which he says means a dead politician. For a while this week some of those who like Harry better alive and unchanged were afraid the reformers were gaining ground.

The old Harry S. Truman won out though.

Here he was, six years out of the White House, going on 75, and fresh from a series of university talks.

He delivered, Monday, a history lecture to a group of senators, urging repeal of the two-term limit on presidents. Today he was recommending to House members non-partisan support of President Eisenhower's foreign aid plans.

The lawmakers, not all of whom were known for their warm feelings for Truman in his latter years in the White House, greeted him like an old and dear friend. They respectfully sought his opinions.

He gave 'em, of course. Nobody will ever stop Truman from that. But it was mostly pretty serious, solemn stuff, and most of it sounded ominously statesmanlike. He did remind the senators, with a grin, that he was the only one of 175 million Americans not precluded by the Constitution's 22nd Amendment from seeking a third term in the White House.

Truman-like, he neglected to say he won't try to avail himself of his special constitutional privilege. And there are some, of course, who wouldn't put this beyond him.

This mild display of the old Truman form heartened his supporters considerably. It was a few minutes later, though, that they got real assurance that passage of a few years hasn't really changed Harry Truman.

Passes Up Invitation
Not only is he the only American free to seek a third term in the White House. It develops he undoubtedly is the only American who can blithely pass up an invitation to dinner with President Eisenhower and Winston Churchill.

"I couldn't go," he told newsmen.

"You couldn't go, or you didn't want to go?" demanded a reporter, mindful of the fact Truman hasn't returned to the White House since that cold day in January 1953, when Eisenhower took over the lease.

"I said I couldn't go," the ex-President said. "You can put any construction on that you want to."

He grinned and added: "You always do anyway."

No Grudge Holder
Truman swears he doesn't hold grudges. He does seem able to get along surprisingly well, though, without visiting like at the White House.

He makes no bones about not having forgiven Vice President Richard M. Nixon for Nixon's campaign charges against him. Ike, for his part, is said to feel that Truman said some mighty unkind things about him.

Ike has, nevertheless, invited Truman several times to the White House. Truman is said to feel the invitations haven't been very warm ones.

Anyway, Truman said he was mighty sorry to have to miss the dinner with Churchill. He didn't say a thing about his regret at not dining with Ike.

HEYWORTH, Ill.—Ronnie Bradley after standing on a river bank and watching his mother and father, three sisters and a brother, drown when their flat-bottomed boat capsized.

"How would you feel if you were standing there and you couldn't do anything?"

Magnate's Office Performance Has Aspects Of High Comedy

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—The millionaire movie magnate strode purposefully through his plush office, removed a life-sized picture of himself from behind his desk and prepared for an hour's work.

He removed his jacket and slid into his swivel chair dressed only in slacks and a T-shirt.

It was conference time. Two businessmen sat formally in deep leather chairs before the high-powered company president. The scene would be ludicrous any place but in Hollywood.

The big shot reached down and exploded the quiet afternoon air with a lengthy blast of a ship's horn attached to a compressed-air container. He yelled, "It's war!" and fired a water pistol into the face of the nearest henchman, an impeccably dressed man of rotund proportions.

The wounded assistant leaped behind a chair and screamed, "you rat fink!" at his boss, who calmly squeezed the trigger again—this time hitting his target on the forehead.

Henchman Kneels
Henchman No. 2 sat calmly through the demonstration, showing no sympathy for his cohort, seeking no favor from the bigwig.

As henchman No. 1 knelt behind the chair sulkily Mr. Big pushed a button and a side door swung open instantly. Two more underlings collided in their rush to accommodate the master.

"You've ruined my suit," exclaimed one of the newcomers.

"So what," his partner said, "it's an old one the boss gave you anyhow. Lemme see the label."

"Take your hands off me," cried the first.

"Out! Get out!" the boss bellowed as they beat a retreat.

"I can't stand all this confusion," Boss went on. "I need some music to steady my nerves."

With that, the millionaire producer reached for a bottle of pills and turned on a record player, full volume. He then raced to a book shelf to set five miniature toy animal musicians clanking away.

Beer During Conference
"That's better," the executive exclaimed. "Restful."

"How about some refreshment before we get down to business?" he asked his employees. Before they could answer he pushed a button and hollered into the office intercom, "draw three beers."

Thirty seconds later a dignified valet entered the room carrying three glasses of draught beer—drawn from the mogul's own keg in a nearby office.

No. 1 inched away from his chair, grabbed a glass and retreated watchfully to a corner.

No. 2, still silent, sipped gratefully.

"Now about our new picture, 'Visit To A Small Planet.' I think it's going to be the best we've ever done. What do you think?"

"Right."

"Check, boss."

"That's enough business for today. All this talk tires me out. Let's break for lunch."

The conference ended, and Jerry Lewis, president of Jerry Lewis Productions, shepherded his assistants through the door. He looked weary but pleased with the effects of the conference.

Cracks In Western Front Are Still Distressingly Evident

Foreign News Commentary
By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign Editor

With the Geneva foreign ministers conference only days away, they meet Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko in Geneva to continue to be distressingly evident. Despite assurances from Washington, London, Paris and Bonn that the Western ministers would be in full agreement by the time they meet Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko in Geneva May 11, it also is evident that not one of the Western powers has switched from the basic stands that produced disagreement in the first place. Last week U. S. Secretary of State CHRISTIAN HERTER, British Foreign Secretary SELWYN LLOYD and French Foreign Minister MAURICE COUVE DE MURVILLE met in Paris in a pre-conference session designed to erase their differences.

No Alternate Proposal
The result was a vaguely described "package plan" to be presented to the Communists, wrapping up as a whole the questions of Berlin, German reunification and European security.

Each one of these has defied solution singly. Yet we now propose to settle them together. Further, it has been admitted that for its "package plan" the West has no alternative proposal.

Yet, from the Western position it is difficult to see how there could be much room for compromise. The Russians have demanded the Western Allies remove their 10,000-man occupation force from West Berlin or face the possibility of war. They have said that on May 27, or on a date soon after that, they will turn over to their East German satellite land and air controls to West Berlin. And they have demanded agreement quotes Dr. Ben G. Henneke, president of the University of Tulsa. Because these medieval universities were chilly and damp, priests and monks wore heavy robes for warmth. Hoods kept their shaved pates warm. Gradually, said Henneke, these clothes became a symbol of school spirit.

Some See Rejection
The British would negotiate on some sort of military disengagement in Europe, possibly leading to a neutral zone. Such a plan is opposed by the U.S., France and Germany on the basis that it could only lead to new advantages to Russian forces vastly superior in manpower.

Many Western diplomats already are predicting freely that the Russians will reject at once the Western package plan. Christian Herter's job now is two-fold: First, to parry the bayonet thrusts of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, and second, to prevent the Western wall from crumbling from within.

Southwest May Be Occupied By Millions Of Foreigners

By DELOS SMITH
UPI Science Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—Unless stern measures are taken, warns a highly informed scientist, most of the Southeast is going to be occupied by invading foreigners who have the capacity of supporting ten million of their individuals on one acre of land.

When they get up to that density per acre, there's little food left for anyone else, and what's more, added Dr. Edward O. Wilson, associate professor of entomology of Harvard University, these invaders could do no less well for themselves in California. He thought the rest of the country was safe because of climates distasteful to the invaders.

Wilson was speaking of ants, but what ants? These South American fire-ants are "exploding populations" in Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas, Tennessee, and North Mississippi, Alabama, Florida, Carolina. All this came from a tiny and insignificant-looking beachhead in Mobile, Ala., which was first noticed about 1919!

Can Be Deadly
These ants eat anything, animal or vegetable, and they're ferocious about it. Wilson noted that they have consumed pigs, calves, and whole broods of chicks. Disturb a nest, which Wilson estimated could contain up to 250,000 individuals, and ants swarm out in dense packs eager to attack. Some southern farm workers refuse to work in fields infested with nests.

Yet the sting is much less fiery than that of the bee, Wilson said. The danger is in being stung by many ants all at once. At least two children have died of fire ant venom because they happened to be especially sensitive to it. This ability of the ants to assemble in masses in a flash for defense or attack on their prey, makes these pests different from other ants.

Wilson said science had much to learn about what causes imported life to "explode" in a new environment. One obvious reason, of course, is that it leaves behind its natural enemies and competitors. In South America, this variety of fire-ant isn't numerous enough to be considered much of a pest. Nor was it much of a pest in Mobile, through the 20s and into the 30s. Then something happened which caused it to "explode." Wilson suggested a change evolution brought about in the animal made it ideally suited to thrive in the South. At any rate, it has been thriving ever since and Wilson was positive the "explosion" in multiplication rate was not only continuing but was

Ann Ford Will Be Giving Big Listen

By PETER T. EARLE
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI)—The knitting arts hosiery convention which opens in Atlantic City later this month will have one of Britain's most controversial business figures on its guest list.

"Listening in" will be Mrs. Ann Ford, wife of British hosiery magnate Philip Ford, who at her husband's request put away her pens and pens two years ago and accepted a directorship in the 15 million dollar hosiery firm of Howard Ford & Co., Ltd. of which he is chairman and controlling stockholder.

No sooner had the leggy, raven-haired housewife seated herself on the company's four man board than the British press sent up a cry of nepotism heard from London to Glasgow.

Mrs. Ford had admitted from the outset that she lived in a haunted house and made her business decisions by ESP (extra-sensory perception).

Needed Pretty Woman
Britain's financial and fashion pages branded her a "witch" when it came to light that Chairman Ford had sent his wife's predecessor on the board packing with 20,000 quid in his jeans to make room for her on the board and avoid litigation.

The Ford's answered that the dispatched director was a "sick man." With him as distribution director the conservative firm had gone "stale" in hosiery circles and needed a pretty woman with daring ideas to give it a face lifting.

"And a face lifting I have given it," Mrs. Ford said, interviewed also "accelerating." He believed the ants have reached the borders of their possible range in this country because they need the warmth of the South. But unless a strict quarantine is established, they will be carried by motor traffic from the present western limit in Texas to California which has climates it would like.

Wilson has been a scientific investigator of the ant since 1949 and is considered an authority. He summed up entomology's present knowledge, which, he said, has a number of holes, in an organ of the American Museum of Natural History.

Plastic Comes To Graduation Scene

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—They've modernized the mortarboard. It used to be of pressed cardboard. Today, non-curling plastic shapes the flat tops worn by May and June graduates. Gowns also are of lighter weight fabrics and in a wider variety of colors.

Otherwise, while chemises come and trapezes go, this seasonal fashion has changed little in its long history. Even Paris and New York edicts on hemline changes affect the gowns not at all. Seven inches from the floor is the standard length.

"Poplin once was our number one material," said T. G. Clark, general manager, eastern division, the Collegiate Cap and Gown Co. "Now, we use more of the cool, porous materials—rayons and acetates."

White Popular
In color, he said, both sexes wear white for kindergarten graduation. Kindergarten? Yes, said Clark, his firm, which calls itself the nation's largest in the field, started the robes for the small fry in 1946. He said "about 90 per cent" of all girl graduates choose white. But grade and high school boys are wearing "at least 12 shades of blue ranging from royal to pale, Kelly green, pale gold, maroon or bright red. For college graduates, black is standard."

Rental on cap and gown runs from $2.75 to $4.25, depending on the type of material. One outfit may "graduate" three times in a season. It will be shipped first to the South where early commencement are the rule, back to a regional office for sterilization and pressing, then on to the Midwest or West Coast, back for cleaning, and finally to the East where late June graduations prevail.

Life Of Gown Varies
Clark said his company figures the life of a gown from three to five years—which is on the average of nine to 15 commencement for one costume.

The history of cap and gown dates to the church-supervised schools of the middle ages, says a release on my desk, which quotes Dr. Ben G. Henneke, president of the University of Tulsa. Because these medieval universities were chilly and damp, priests and monks wore heavy robes for warmth. Hoods kept their shaved pates warm. Gradually, said Henneke, these clothes became a symbol of school spirit.

Each one of these has defied solution singly. Yet we now propose to settle them together. Further, it has been admitted that for its "package plan" the West has no alternative proposal.

Yet, from the Western position it is difficult to see how there could be much room for compromise. The Russians have demanded the Western Allies remove their 10,000-man occupation force from West Berlin or face the possibility of war. They have said that on May 27, or on a date soon after that, they will turn over to their East German satellite land and air controls to West Berlin. And they have demanded agreement

Harry's Blast Reminds He's Political Pro; Plays For Keeps

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Harry S. Truman's blast at the House Committee on Un-American Activities is a reminder that the former president is a political pro who plays the game for keeps.

HST has the memory and the loyalty of a West-Virginia feudist. His feud with the House committee goes back a long way, to the presidential campaign year of 1948.

The Columbia University students before whom Truman denounced the House committee might have asked some embarrassing questions. Perhaps their education thus far had not included any substantial part of recent United States political history. Truman's stated opinion was that the most un-American institution going was, in fact, the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

Seeking Election

It is reasonable to believe that HST's opinion was considerably affected by the committee's 1948 activities when he was seeking election as president and the committee was turning up Communists and fellow-travelers in remarkably high places in and out of government.

Alger Hiss, for example. Nathan Witt, onetime secretary of the National Labor Relations Board. Lee Pressman, variously a government lawyer and general counsel of the CIO. John Abt, likewise a government and congressional attorney and briefly a special assistant to the attorney general, and Charles Kramer. There were, also, William W. Remington, Harry Dexter White, Nathan Gregory Silvermaster and others. There had been a considerable infiltration of government by Communists and their sympathizers by the time HST took over in 1945 from Franklin Delano Roosevelt. The House committee was exposing investigation could be soundly established.

It was not until March, 1951, that the Hiss story ended, in effect, with a Supreme Court ruling which meant that Hiss must be remembered as a member of the underground or in some wise associated with it.

Whittaker Chambers, who fingered Hiss in the first instance, long since has been vindicated. He is almost forgotten. Even less remembered are others named by Chambers as members of the underground or in some wise associated with it.

Pressman, Witt, Abt and Kramer in 1944 gladly followed HST's lead. They denounced the committee inquiry as a smear, a shameful circus. Two years later, before the same committee, Pressman came clean, naming himself, Witt, Abt and Kramer as Communists who had comprised an Agriculture Department cell.

Business Views

United Press International

The treasury's gold reserves dipped by $36,849,000 in March to $20,441,634,000 as the result of international transactions, domestic production and earmarking, the Treasury reported.

An annual closed door conference of business, labor and management to map strategy to achieve full employment and healthy economic growth without inflation was proposed by the Columbia University's 15th American Assembly.

Anaconda Co., one of the world's largest copper producers, reported its March quarter earnings were more than 2 1/2 times greater than a year ago. Earnings rose to $16,250,000 or $1.52 a share from $6,130,898 or 59 cents a share last year.

Look Who's Back, Viewers, It's Robert Taylor On TV!

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Splash! Matinee idol Robert Taylor has plunged into the television swim. The long-time (25 years) movie hero is now a video detective, making his debut in the fall in a regular weekly series. He's completed four episodes of "Robert Taylor's Detectives"—a working title.

This is news? Yes. Because a year ago the handsome actor appeared briefly in a "Thin Man" show and said, "This is my first and last TV appearance. I don't like the medium, and I can't say that I enjoy watching it either."

Under contract to MGM at the time, the 48-year-old performer added, "starring in a television series is like living on a treadmill. And I'm too lazy for that. I've got it made right now. I don't like to worry. If I worked regularly on TV I'd be up to my neck in problems."

Money "Darned Good" For some reason Bob has been dodging publicity about his new show, but I caught him working on the set, and he didn't appear to be up to his neck in less than six months.

the series) is a close friend, and the stories are top flight. "Besides, the money is darned good." Taylor, who would rather fish and hunt or fly his airplane than work, still "has it made." "The shooting schedule is arranged so I'll be free for hunting and fishing seasons," he grinned. "Fortunately it's not the kind of show that requires me to be in every scene."

Portrays Police Captain—His whodunit is a departure from such current favorites as "Peter Gunn" and "77 Sunset Strip."

Bob Portrays a police captain of detectives who, with three other detectives, solves the crimes of an unspecified community. There's no kookie, off-beat jazz background, and private eyes don't enter the picture.

Neither is the show based on the semi-documentary thesis of "Dragnet" and "The Line-Up." The ABC-TV network has high hopes for Taylor's show in that it is being produced by Jules Levy and Arthur Gardner with Arnold Lavin directing—the same team that shot "The Rifleman" from numbers to the top 10 in less than six months.

Goods And Babies

Not a few persons, including some highly respected economists, take a look at our expanding baby market and conclude that America is heading into an era of vast prosperity. On every hand we see the signs that rising birth rates are equated with America's ABILITY to consume. To rephrase it: the indication is that needs are the forerunner of good times.

WANTS FREEDOM — Gilberto Visbal, a member of the Panamanian and Cuban "invasion force" that landed in Panama and then surrendered, peers through the bars of his cell at the Carcelo Modelo prison in Panama City, Visbal, of New York City, and 84 other men and women are clamoring to be released from jail.

Bacteria In Air Reason For Infection

SCIENCE TODAY
By DELOS SMITH
UPI Science Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—At least a few of the chemical compounds which preserve people against the onslaughts of sickening bacteria also help bacteria maintain themselves in a state of suspended chemical animation while floating in the air.

Dr. S. J. Webb discovered this. He suspected that airborne bacteria was one reason for the contradictory increase in bacterial infections in hospital patients and personnel in this age of the mighty bacteria-killers, the antibiotics and the sulfa drugs. But how could this be, when air usually dries out bacteria in short order and thus kills them? His experiments showed it could be very readily — with one member of the notorious staphylococcal family of people-sickening bacteria.

In the cells of the bacteria, the proteins are bonded with water. Air takes out the water, the protein structure collapses, and the bacteria are finished. But the antibiotic chloramphenicol and some of the sulfa drugs substitute for water in this bonding.

Bacteria Remain In Air
Air doesn't eliminate them nearly as fast if it eliminates water. Meanwhile the bacteria remain in the air, unable to multiply but with their cellular protein structure intact. They get into a human body again and find moisture which dilutes and replaces the antibiotic or sulfa drug. They begin multiplying — they're in business again.

The bacteria, of course, have to be "resistant" to the antibiotic or the drug, by which is meant they've learned chemically to live with them. More and more strains of sickening bacteria, especially of the staphylococcal family, are fully resistant.

Physicians have criticized themselves for building up these resistant strains by giving antibiotics too freely. At any rate many sick hospital patients and many quite well-nurses, doctors and other personnel — contain resistant bacteria which, as a matter of course, get into the air.

Measures Endurance
Webb made his intricate studies by suspending bacteria in the contained air of a "big sweat dryer" and then measuring the length of their endurance in air under varying conditions. So far he has tested only one antibiotic, chloramphenicol, and some of the sulfa drugs. One can assume his findings apply to others, but this has not been shown yet.

But he made the measurements with a chemical compound which is the basis of a commonly used disinfectant — one which gets rid of bacteria by preventing their multiplication rather than killing them outright, as the antibiotic and the sulfa drugs do. The same thing seemed to happen—the cellular structure was held together whereas it would have collapsed in air if water had been the bonding agent.

In the dry language of scientists, Webb remarked this "might, in part, explain why some measures of sanitation have failed in hospitals." He reported to the technical journal, "Nature."

PLAN NEW AIR SERVICE

LONDON (UPI)—A delegation of 26 officials of Aeroflot, the Russian state airline, arrived Monday night for final talks on the opening of reciprocal London-Moscow services with Britain. British European Airways opens the service May 14, flying to the Russian capital. Two days later, Aeroflot will make its first flight to London.
