Poppy Day Set Here Saturday

Debbie Jones, a first grader at B. M. Baker Elementary School, will represent the American Legion Auxiliary as Miss Poppy of Pampa in the 1959 Poppy sale which will be conducted on National Poppy Day, Saturday.

May is Memorial Month in the Auxiliary and across the country junior age children, as citizens of tomorrow, are helping pay tribute to those who gave their lives in war.

Debbie, 7, is the daughter of Mr.

POPPY SALESLADY

Garden Clubs Given Trees

Fifty trees were donated to the Aspen Park project on Duncan St. this morning at a "coffee break" meeting of civic leaders and the four Pampa garden and flower clubs.

M. K. Brown offered 25 trees and Warren Hasse, representing the Chamber of Commerce, promised 25 more. Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Darby also offered 10 evergreens.

This morning's meeting at Johnson's Cafe was attended by presidents of Pampa's men and women civic clubs, who told garden club President Mrs. Jim Cornutt that proposals for the project will be carried back for club consideration.

Mrs. Cornutt was invited to present proposals for the project in a series of club talks.

Mrs. Cornutt has estimated that $757 in trees and flowers have so far been donated to the Aspen Park project along Red Deer creek. She said "close to 1,000 man-hours of work" have at this time gone into project work.

Grady Services Scheduled Friday

Funeral services for Mrs. H. C. (Mary) Grady Jr. will be held Friday at 10 a. m. in the First Baptist Church with Dr. E. Douglas Carver officiating. Interment will be in Fairview Cemetery under the direction of Duenkel - Carmichael Funeral Home.

Pall-bearers will be Billy Davis, Frank Fata, Floyd Watson, Joe Franklin, J. W. Graham, and Jim Leverich.

Mrs. Grady, who had resided at 2421 Duncan, died Wednesday in a violent car-truck collision near White Deer, when her car struck the front of a heavy truck driven by Thomas H. Hill, 415 Chuyler, at the intersection of Highway 60 and Caryary Rd.

Survivors include her husband, Creel, at the home in Pampa; two sons, Jimmy 3, and Steve, 9; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Henry Quick of Brownwood; two brothers, Bob Quick of Abilene and Beverly of Brownwood.

and Mrs. M. A. Jones, 1417 S. Clark. There has not been a day in her life when she had not known what it is to have a brother or sister serving in the armed forces. When Debbie was born, her oldest sister, Dorothy, was with her husband, Corporal Orville Whitfield, at Shepherd Air Force Base, Wichita Falls.

Her oldest brother, Corporal Bobbie A. Jones was inducted into the Marines in 1953. He served three years, including one year in Japan. Another brother, Sgt. Jimmy C. Jones, joined the Marines in 1956, serving three years on the USS Roanoke and the USS Ticonderoga. He visited Australia, Japan, Hong Kong, Korea, the Philippines, Hawaii and Okinawa.

A sister, Gladys, is spending three years in Laos, France where her husband, Air Force Staff Sgt. Loyd Mack Robertson will be stationed until Dec., 1960. Debbie has had five uncles serve in the last three wars, making Debbie a "service-connected niece of Uncle Sam."

The American Legion Auxiliary sends a good portion of the Poppy Sale funds to disabled soldiers in veterans hospitals. The Pampa Auxiliary spent $150 last year helping needy veterans and their children. In all, 29 children were helped. The Auxiliary sends money and gifts to veterans hospitals at Christmas time, often supplying the only gifts veterans have to send their families for Christmas.

Debbie and the Pampa American Legion Auxiliary are asking citizens of Pampa and surrounding territory to "Buy A Poppy With A Smile."

Hobart Named
Fred A. Hobart, prominent Pampa cattleman, will serve on the soil conservation and Cowboy Hall of Fame committees of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association, president Norman Moser, DeKalb, has announced.

Hobart will work with W. G. Swenson, Stamford, who heads the soil conservation committee, and with John Biggs, Vernon, chairman of the Cowboy Hall of Fame committee. He will also serve as the TSCRA's representative to the Cattle and Beef Industry Committee.

FBI Put On Spot In Poplarville Case

By CLIFF SESSIONS
United Press International

POPLARVILLE, Miss. (UPI)—Citizens under FBI questioning in the Mack Charles Parker lynch investigation have nothing to fear if they are innocent.

That's the assurance the FBI gave residents of this South Mississippi area Wednesday as it branded charges of "improper" and "harassing" investigation tactics as "absolute falsehoods."

"You fellows know the FBI doesn't operate that way," agent in charge R. W. Bachman told newsmen. "Our agents ask persons if they mind being questioned, and if they do we leave them alone."

An FBI spokesman in Washington said "distortions and misrepresentations" about the 27-day-old investigation had been circulated by persons "who obviously do not desire this case to be solved."

Residents Objected
Parker, a 25-year-old Negro charged with raping a white woman, was abducted from the Pearl River County jail here April 25 by a gang of masked white men. His body was found May 4 in the nearby Pearl River.

Local residents have charged in interviews that federal agents questioned them over and over and kept them under constant scrutiny. Their charges spurred comment from some public officials against the FBI probe.

The FBI said no innocent person "ever need fear being investigated by the FBI. Our agents work as diligently to remove suspicion from falsely accused persons as to identify and apprehend wrong-doers."

"They are trained to perform their assignments thoroughly, impartially and with proper respect for all persons concerned."

The spokesman said reports of "harassment" by agents were examined and "no basis of fact" was found in them.

The FBI praised "the active support and cooperation which we have received from Mississippi Gov. J. P. Coleman, the Mississippi highway patrol and other responsible citizens."

Sound Conditioned
Bachman, whose comment Wednesday was the first he has made for newsmen since the probe started, took reporters on a tour of the FBI offices here. The agents have rented air-conditioned offices in a medical building.

Coed Hacked By Ex-Roomie

SWANNANOVA, N.C. (UPI)—A once-attractive coed, her face "all chopped up" by a hatchet-wielding ex-roommate, may be disgraced for life if she lives.

"She may live, she may not live," Buncombe County Sheriff Laurence Brown said.

Rose Watterson, 20, was hacked in the face by Patricia Dennis, 21, who said she was "in a jealous rage" because Miss Watterson had "taken my friends from me," Brown said.

Miss Watterson, of the town of Guilford College, N.C., underwent extensive surgery Wednesday at Asheville near here.

The attack occurred shortly before 3 a. m. Tuesday as Miss Watterson slept in her room at Western Wilson College, a Presbyterian institution here. Authorities said the hatchet left four deep gashes.

Another student, Betty Ferrell, 20, of Orgas, W. Va., narrowly escaped serious injury when she attempted to disarm Miss Dennis. She suffered several cuts on the arm but her injuries were not serious.

Sheriff's officers said Miss Dennis told them she had planned to go to Miss Watterson's room at 2 a. m. but "forgot to set her alarm clock and awoke at 1:30 a. m."

Armed with the hatchet she said, she went into the sleeping girl's room, quietly shut the door to the adjoining room and swung the hatchet. Miss Watterson's cries woke others in the freshman dormitory.

Brown said Miss Dennis a plump, sad-eyed brunette, at first was "pretty close-mouthed" except to demand a lawyer. Later, however, she told a reporter, "I know what I've done and I'm going to pay for it. Whatever the court says."

Both girls were freshmen at the two-year liberal arts college here. Officials said they once had roomed together.

Miss Dennis was held without bond on an open charge in the county jail at Asheville.

Air Force Recovers 2nd Nose Cone

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI)—A Thor-Able rocket with an experimental nose cone shot 5,000 miles "down the rifle barrel" early today and the Air Force picked up the warhead protector from the South Atlantic 3 1/2 hours later.

The bottle-shaped nose cone was only the second ever retrieved after a flight of intercontinental distance.

The Air Force announced that the little cone was recovered in the South Atlantic at 5:45 a. m. by an Air Force missile test center task force in the ICBM impact area northwest of Ascension Island. Ascension is midway between Africa and Brazil.

Officials said airplanes saw the nose cone re-enter the earth at Wednesday was the first he has made for newsmen since the probe started, took reporters on a tour of the FBI offices here. The agents have rented air-conditioned offices in a medical building.

Texas Cities May Have Integration Committee Ok's 2.4 Billion $$$

By PRESTON MCGRAW
United Press International

DALLAS (UPI)—Negro attorneys filed two surprise motions in federal court late Wednesday asking for the immediate integration of Dallas and Houston public schools.

Houston, with an enrollment topping 157,000, has the largest segregated school system in the nation.

The two-pronged attack, aimed at forcing Houston and Dallas school boards to hurry up compliance with already existing federal integration decisions, was launched by attorneys for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

U.S. Dist. Judge Ben Connally in Houston set aside Monday for a hearing on that motion. Federal Dist. Judge T. Whitfield Davidson of Dallas was in Fort Worth holding court and was not expected to receive the motion until later today. It was filed in his clerk's office.

The Dallas motion also asked for a hearing Monday.

The Dallas school board indicated it may ask Judge Davidson to set the hearing date later. School board attorney Andrew Thuss is expected to file his motion Wednesday. He has handled the Dallas integration case, which has been in and out of federal court on appeal for the past two years, since it broke on Sept. 5, 1955.

Franklin E. Spafford, an attorney and member of the school board, has been handling the board's legal work.

Thurgood Marshall, chief counsel for the NAACP, signed both petitions. Three Houston attorneys took the petition before Judge Connally at the same time as three Dallas attorneys, including U. Simpson Tate, chief legal NAACP counsel in the Southwest, filed a petition in Judge Davidson's court.

"The purpose of the Dallas motion is obvious," a Negro spokesman said. "All it is, is to get the school board off a dead center course and get it moving. It was ordered to do something but has not done anything in a year and a half."

The Houston petition asked Connally to receive the motion until later today. It was filed in his clerk's office.

The Dallas motion also asked for a hearing Monday.

The Dallas school board indicated it may ask Judge Davidson to set the hearing date later. School board attorney Andrew Thuss is expected to file his motion Wednesday. AUSTIN (UPI)—The Senate Finance Committee today cleared the way for action in the upper Chamber on a huge $2,400,000,000 state spending bill.

The committee voted unanimously to substitute its version of spending for a House passed bill and sent it to the Senate floor. The Senate's bill is some 30 million dollars under House spending.

The House passed its appropriations bill on Tuesday and sent it to the Senate.

When senators okay their version of spending in a floor vote the House and Senate bills will then go to a joint conference committee to iron out differences.

Lawmakers will then vote on the rewritten compromise version of appropriation.

Meanwhile, the House was poised for voting action on the Comptroller's "bookkeeping bill, a key measure of Gov. Price Daniel's plan to retire the deficit.

Also slated for debate in the House is a measure which would increase the corporation franchise tax for one year.

The proposals are two of the several being considered by the special session of the Legislature, which is looking for ways to head off a big state deficit.

The bookkeeping bill would allow the comptroller to transfer about 28 million dollars from priority funds to the depleted general revenue fund. The measure was part of Gov. Price Daniel's plan for retiring the deficit.

Representatives debated the bill for more than an hour Wednesday before tacking on an amendment to increase state aid for the blind from $1,300,000 to $1,353,400.

The corporation franchise tax may see House debate today. The bill, also a key part of Daniel's deficit blueprint, would boost the franchise tax from $2.25 to $3.00 per $1,000 capital.

The bill's sponsor, Rep. Joe Winfree of Houston, said it would raise about $17,500,000 to help fight the estimated 64 million dollar deficit.

"I call it industry's donation toward taking care of the deficit," Winfree said. The measure won committee approval Wednesday.

Daniel has agreed to changes in an abandoned property proposal which Texas bankers had sought. Bankers had suggested that abandoned property be turned over to the state only after a court judgment.

Secretary of State Zelle Steakley told the House Revenue and Taxation Committee that he and the governor "agree entirely" on the change, but said Daniel will stand firm on the seven-year time limit.

$5,000 in Scholarships Given By Mr. & Mrs. Brown

Mr. and Mrs. Montagu K. Brown, prominent Pampa school founders, have awarded a total of $5,000 in scholarships to nine Pampa High School seniors. Know Kinard, superintendent of Pampa Public Schools, told the Daily News today.

The recipients, most of whom are active in extra-curricular activities and have high scholastic averages, are: Bernice and Patricia Beuselick, Kevin Chisholm, Gene Max Shirley, Linda Skewes, Marilyn Steele, JoAnn Thompson, Kay Waggoner and Mike Williams.

The Brown's received help in making their selection from Principal L. J. Edmondson, Registrar Marjorie Gaut and the High School counselors. The winners of the Brown scholarships received informal notification Wednesday. They will receive their awards before starting school in September.

"It is a wonderful thing that Mr. and Mrs. Brown have done to help these students with their education," Kinard said in his announcement.

CONFERENCE WILL SUCCEED!

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev told 40 Florida businessmen in Moscow that the Geneva Foreign Ministers' conference will succeed "or we would not have agreed to participate." Khrushchev is shown shaking hands with Judge Frank Smathers, father of Florida Sen. George Smathers, as businessmen look on.

West Again Blasts Soviet's 'Divided Germany' Proposal

By STEWART HENSLEY
United Press International

GENEVA (UPI)—The West again blasted the Soviet Union's proposal for a permanent division of Germany at the start of the ninth session of the Big Four foreign ministers' conference today.

But the formal meeting in the Palais des Nations was just a preliminary to a dinner-meeting to night where observers expected secret diplomacy to provide the first real break in the conference.

France's Maurice Couvée de Murville, Britain's Selwyn Lloyd and West Germany's "adviser" delegate formed the West's one-two-three batting order against the Russian plan at the formal meeting.

Secretary of State Christian A. Herter already had subjected Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko to the sharpest tongue-lashing of the conference at Wednesday's session. U.S. sources said he had no formal speech prepared for today, though he might speak off the cuff.

But observers felt this was just some more of the public, preliminary oral scuffling in which both sides have presented their stands and left the conference in deadlock. Now the serious bargaining behind the scenes must start.

Possible Deals
Gromyko indicated Wednesday that Russia is ready to deal on certain parts of the West's package plan. But the West has indicated no readiness to break up that plan for "preliminary discussions" although observers agree that some kind of "interim" arrangement at Berlin is likely.

Conference sources disclosed that one possibility is an offer by West Germany to sign non-aggression pacts with Communist Poland and Czechoslovakia. The purpose would be to still off - expressed fears of West Germany's "aggressive" and "militaristic" intentions.

"It has not been considered nor is it intended that the Federal Republic will take such a step," the West German delegation said. "It remains to be seen whether a realization of the Western peace plan will turn up an opportunity for such a step within the proposed phases."

Reds Change Minds About Short Talks

GENEVA (UPI)—The Russians seem to have changed their mind about a short and snappy foreign ministers' conference. They appeared today to be giving up a protracted period of difficult negotiations.

Three bits of evidence support this:

—Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's sudden decision to visit Albania from May 25 to June 6.

—Khrushchev's remark to a group of Americans in Moscow that if the foreign ministers do not succeed at first they should keep trying until they do.

—A report that the Soviet delegation here had extended its contract for communications from Geneva to Moscow from June 8 to July 8.

The motives for the apparent Soviet change of heart have puzzled Westerners. Some were disturbed at the possibility of new surprises from the Russians.

Khrushchev is understood to have been directing Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko almost step by step in the conference so far.

It was considered unlikely he would go to Albania for two weeks, where it will be more difficult to maintain his direct contact, unless he anticipated a period of wait-and-see tactics that would not produce any vital points needing his personal attention.

SICK OF QUESTIONS

L. C. Davis, a farmer and part-time carpenter, sits on the side of his bed at his home near Poplarville, Miss., with a 16-gauge shotgun ready. Davis said he had been questioned by the FBI in the kidnaping of M. C. Parker, a Negro charged with raping a white woman, until he was sick of it and he was going to defend his home against any more harassment by federal agents.

US TRYING TO ORBIT ANIMALS

SANTA MARIA, Calif. (UPI)—The United States may make its first attempt today to place animals in orbit around the earth and recover them alive.

Four specially bred black mice, trained to withstand the rigors of space travel, will be penned up inside an ejectable capsule in a Discoverer III satellite set for launching today, according to Western Aviation magazine.

Large C-119 cargo planes, trailing trapeze-like hooks, will attempt to snatch the capsule in mid-air with its living cargo after it is ejected over the Pacific ocean near Hawaii.

Launching of the 1,600-pound satellite into a polar orbit will be at nearby Vandenberg Air Force Base, the nation's West Coast missile facility.

The first attempt at recovering a capsule from a circling satellite was made by the Air Force last month when scientists tried to eject an instrument-carrying capsule from Discoverer II.

The ejecting system malfunctioned when tried over the Pacific and the capsule was ejected over the North Pole region and lost.

Dulles Remains In Critical Condition At Walter Reed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—John Foster Dulles remained in grave condition today at Walter Reed Army Hospital.

The State Department has made no announcement since it said Tuesday that Dulles, battling cancer and pneumonia was losing ground.

Republican and Democratic leaders Wednesday paid a moving tribute to Dulles in House floor speeches. They praised him as a "great American" who showed continued courage in shaping U. S. foreign policy decisions and negotiations.

President Eisenhower awarded Dulles the nation's highest civilian decoration—the Medal of Freedom—in gratitude for his "tireless efforts" in behalf of peace and freedom.

Interested persons are invited to the public meeting. The organization, chartered by Congress on July 18, 1958, stands for better legislation for veterans of World War I and their widows.

Gunn Brothers' new stamp redemption center will open at 308 W. Foster Friday, John Windom, a Gunn Bros. salesman, told the Daily News today.

The new store will have approximately three times the floor space of the former establishment in the Hughes Building. The Gunn Bros. stamp redemption center has been closed since May 15, owing to trouble with fixtures.

The 41 by 60 foot display room will have new lighting fixtures and other conveniences. The hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Marguerite Nash is the local manager. The center was located in the Hughes Building for five years.

GETS HIS MAN
BOURNEMOUTH, England (UPI)—Ted Palmer, who is 91, ran after and caught a pickpocket identified as Dugald MacAllister, aged 67.

"I wasn't going to let that youngster get away," Palmer said indignantly in court.

INTEGRATION

nally to order and enforce immediate integration on the basis of his order of two years ago. The Dallas petition is similar. It asks Davidson to put an order of April 16, 1958 into immediate effect.

Dr. Edwin L. Rippey, Dallas school board president, said "We will simply have to sit back and see what Judge Davidson's opinion will be on this matter."

The school boards are caught in a bind between conflicting state and federal laws. In 1957, the Texas legislature ruled integration of public schools must be approved in a local option election, or state aid would be withdrawn.

This would mean the loss of hundreds of thousands of dollars to both school systems if they immediately followed federal dictates.

A case in state appeals court to determine the conflict is set for Sept. 30. Dr. Rippey said he feels the state law is unconstitutional and won't stand up in court.

"I say it with regret because I am a strong believer in states' rights and I believe the local option plan is a good one," Dr. Rippey said.

Starkweather On His Way To Electric Chair

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI)—

Charles Starkweather's last chance to escape the electric chair apparently died Wednesday night when Gov. Ralph G. Brooks rejected a plea by the mass killer's girl accomplice for a stay of execution.

Carl Fugate, 15, sentenced to life imprisonment for murder in rampage, appealed to the governor to delay the execution so she could meet with him in death row in an effort to clear her name.

The governor's refusal means Starkweather, 20, must go to his death in the electric chair as scheduled shortly after 6 a.m. (8 a.m. e.d.t.) Friday.

The execution will take place in a small chamber below the warden's office in the Nebraska State Penitentiary here where Starkweather has been confined since his conviction.

In a letter to the governor, Carl said she wanted to talk with her former boy friend so he could "at least confess to a minister that I am innocent."

"I believe there is a chance he may tell the truth about what happened," Carl wrote.

In a written reply, the governor said such a meeting would be against state law. He also said he believed Starkweather, who was the state's chief witness against Carl, has had ample time to reveal any information he might have.

Carl was convicted of helping Starkweather in one of 10 killings the red-haired former garbage collector committed during his January, 1958, murder spree. Starkweather later admitted killing another person in December of 1957.

The victims included Carl's mother, step-father and infant half-sister. Carl contended she was Starkweather's unwilling hostage during the mass slayings. Starkweather implicated Carl in several of the deaths.

Labor Control Dispute Could Be Top Issue in '60 Campaign

WASHINGTON WINDOW

By LYLE C. WILSON
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI)—There is talk in town of the new Eisenhower. This new Eisenhower is a bare-knuckled battler who wants from Congress no more of what he regards as political nonsense.

This image of a battling Eisenhower began to come into focus some days ago. That was just after the House had sustained by a narrow margin the President's veto of a bill which sought to make administrative hash of the rural Electrification Administration.

The importance of that vote was that the House upheld the veto without the usual combination of Republicans and southern conservative Democrats being at all cooperative. That one was almost strictly on a party line vote. Future vetoes—and there are likely to be some—probably will have the support of the conservative

Pierce To Attend Texas Credit Union Meeting In Dallas

L. G. Pierce, Pampa credit union leader, will attend the annual meeting of the Chapter Presidents Association of Texas Credit Unions in Dallas Friday and Saturday.

Pierce who is associated with the Phil-Pet Federal Credit Union of Pampa, is president of the Top of Texas Chapter of Credit Unions. A credit union chapter is a local association of credit unions which meets regularly to exchange ideas and information. There are 25 credit unions in the Top of Texas Chapter. There are 1,125 credit unions in Texas with well over 600,000 members.

Credit unions are composed of people with a common bond of interest who save together to practice thrift, and who made low interest loans within the group for provident and productive purposes.

While in Dallas for the meeting the members of the Chapter Presidents Association will take a conducted tour of the Texas Credit Union League offices which have recently been more than doubled in size.

combination of Republican and southern Democratic representatives.

Spending Defense

Such a combination should prevail to support any Eisenhower veto of too much spending. The Democratic leadership will offend Eisenhower's sense of economy, for example, if Congress sends to the White House a housing bill to spend over two billion dollars for slum clearance and require the taxpayers to build 140,000 public housing units.

The foregoing analysis represents the best judgment available hereabouts. Not much dispute about it. There is another possible veto, however, about which not much has been said or written and on which no very sound judgment yet can be made.

That would be a presidential veto to repudiate the so-called sweetheart labor bill which passed the Senate with one dissenting vote. The bill now is before a House committee. There is without doubt a possibility that the President will veto the labor reform bill if it comes to him in the form in which it was steered through the Senate by Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.).

Win or lose in Congress, such an Eisenhower veto would project the labor control dispute into the 1960 presidential campaign. It could become the No. 1 issue, especially if the Democrats should nominate Kennedy for first or second spot on their ticket.

Republicans Divided

Some Republicans would welcome such a showdown. Others would hide under the bed. Republicans seem not to aspire to be heroes. A veto could be good politics if it were successfully supported with this argument: That the Kennedy bill as it passed the Senate is loaded with protection for union members and with certain restraints and new privileges for union bosses, but has mighty little in it to protect the public.

Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell supports Eisenhower's desire that the House write into Kennedy's bill some public protection—notably firm bars against secondary boycotts and what is called blackmail picketing.

It is the little businessman—the guy for whom all politicians profess loving tenderness—who is overwhelmed by secondary boycotts and blackmail picketing. The Republicans might pick up a lot of small town, Main Street support on the issue of a veto of a labor bill which seems not to reach into all of the dark places briefly illuminated by the Senate's own investigators.

NOT FOR COFFEE

DALLAS, Tex. (UPI)—The newly elected president of the Gaston Junior High School PTA was a bit flustered as she attempted to remind members they should go to the school luncheon for coffee.

She blurted, "Don't anyone forget to go to the rest room."

Anytime! Anywhere! Crisp Fried Chicken Is Welcomed Fare On Any Dining Table

Chicken is indoor fare, outdoor fare, fare that's good most any where! It's such a flexible, meat choice that even if you've planned picnic and are rained out, the family will be happy eating fried chicken on the back porch! Not only does chicken take to any setting, it can be given a number of different "dresses-ups" to intrigue appetites.

Everyone can be an expert in buying poultry, now that modern labeling gives all the necessary information on kind, quality, styler weight and price. A good guide to quality is the tag found on chickens that are known as "tender-grown." Frying chickens range from 1 1/2 to 3 pounds and when buying, count on at least 1/2 pound per serving. Fried chicken at a picnic disappears like snow on a summer day, so be prepared with plenty!

Oven-frying is a method of cooking chicken that is winning wide favor. It produces chicken that is evenly browned and crispy, yet requires far less watching and turning than top-of-the-range frying. Chicken pieces are coated in a flour mixture and placed skin side down in butter in a shallow pan. After thirty minutes in a 400 degree F. oven, it is turned and cooked another thirty minutes. It's as simple as that!

You'll please the family, and have other good cooks begging for the recipe, when you serve either Sesame Fried Chicken or Orange Honey-Buttered Chicken.

SESAME FRIED CHICKEN
(Yield: 4 servings)
2 1/2 cup tender-grown chicken, cut up for frying
1 egg, beaten
1/2 cup milk
1 cup flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
2 teaspoons salt
2 teaspoons paprika
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1/4 cup chopped nuts
2 tablespoons sesame seeds
1 stick (1/2 cup) butter
Dip chicken pieces into egg and milk mixture, then into a mixture of flour, baking powder, salt, paprika, pepper, nuts and sesame seeds. Melt butter in a shallow baking pan in a hot oven (400 degrees F.). Remove baking pan from oven. As pieces of floured chicken are placed in pan, turn to coat with butter, then bake skin side down in a single layer. Bake in a hot oven (400 degrees F.) for 30 minutes. Turn chicken. Bake another 30 minutes or until tender. If chicken cannot be served at once, reduce oven heat and brush chicken with more melted butter.

ORANGE HONEY-BUTTERED CHICKEN
(Yield: 4 servings)
2 1/2 to 3 pound tender-grown chicken, cut up for frying
Flour
1/2 stick (1/4 cup) butter or margarine
1 small garlic clove, cut up fine
1/2 cup finely chopped onion
1/4 cup honey
1/4 cup orange juice
1 teaspoon shredded orange peel
1/2 stick (1/4 cup) butter or margarine, melted
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
1/2 teaspoon ground rosemary
1/4 cup sliced almonds
Combine flour and salt. Dip chicken in flour mixture. Put butter, garlic, and onion in a shallow 11 by 7 inch casserole dish. Melt 1/2 butter by placing casserole in a hot oven (400 degrees F.). Remove. Arrange pieces of floured chicken in the dish. Turn to coat with butter. Bake 25 minutes with the skin side down.

While chicken is baking, combine all remaining ingredients except almonds. Remove chicken from oven and turn skin-side up. Brush pieces generously with the orange-honey sauce. Return to oven and continue to heat 20 to 25 minutes during heating time using all of the sauce. Add almonds during the last 5 minutes of heating time. Serve immediately.

These recipes were developed using tender-grown Swift's Premium Chicken.

Fill May Baskets With Magic Sweets

Spring is the time when we think of light and airy things, everything from flowery hats to pretty, sweet things to eat. Here is a delightful bit of sweet magic for May Day!

SAVORY SPARERIBS
3 pounds spareribs
1 cup tomato sauce
1/2 cup catsup
1/4 teaspoon Tabasco
1/4 teaspoon Kitchen Bouquet
1 teaspoon powdered ginger
1 teaspoon instant onion flakes
1/4 cup flour
1/4 cup brown sugar

Have spareribs split crosswise, then cut into serving-size pieces. Place in baking pan 10x14x2-inch and bake in preheated 350 degree oven for 1 hour. Drain off fat. Blend together tomato sauce, catsup, Tabasco, Kitchen Bouquet, powdered ginger, onion flakes and pour over spareribs. Bake for an additional hour. Then sprinkle with flour and sugar which have been blended together. Bake until the surface is crisp, about 30 more minutes.

SPICY SCALLOPED APPLES
2 cans (1 lb.) sliced apples
1 cup seeded raisins
1/4 cup lemon juice
1/4 cup brown sugar
1/4 cup Cream of Rice (quick-cooked rice cereal)
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1/4 teaspoon ginger
1/4 teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons butter

Drain apples and arrange one-half of the apple slices in the bottom of a well greased 8x10x2-inch baking dish. Add raisins and sprinkle over the surface one-half of the lemon juice; then one-half of the sugar, Cream of Rice, cinnamon, nutmeg, ginger and salt which have been blended together. Arrange the other half of the apples. Then sprinkle the remaining sugar mixture. Dot with butter.

Mrs. Chambers Is Maryland Winner

Mrs. Jean Chamber of Pampa was a local winner named from among more than 90,000 who entered the Maryland Club-Coffee contest at food stores throughout the Southwest. She will be awarded a beautiful imported coffee, served by Maryland Club Coffee, as was announced today.

The coffee servers are being hand-made by European craftsmen in distinctive continental designs to honor the famous Maryland Club theme "The coffee you'd drink if you owned all the coffee in the world."

Winners made their selection from a richly decorated French style made in Paris, a classic Spanish style made in Valencia, a graceful, full-bodied Italian style made in Trento, and sophisticated Swedish modern made in Gothenburg. The servers will be shipped directly from Europe with all postage and import duties paid.

MAYPOLE BROWNIES
Brownies:
1/2 cup butter or margarine, soft
1/4 cup sugar
2 eggs
2 ounces (2 squares) unsweetened chocolate, melted
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup sifted enriched flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup Quaker or Mother's Oats (quick or old fashioned, uncooked)

Mint Frosting:
1 tablespoon butter or margarine, soft
1 teaspoon mint extract
1 tablespoon cocoa
1/4 cups sifted confectioners' sugar
2 tablespoons milk
Chopped nutmeats

Heat oven to slow (325 degree F.). Beat butter and sugar until creamy; add eggs. Beat until light and fluffy. Blend in chocolate and vanilla. Sift together flour and salt. Add to chocolate mixture; mix thoroughly. Stir in oats. Spread evenly in greased 8-inch square pan. Bake in preheated oven (325 degree F.) about 35 minutes. Cool.

For frosting, beat butter until creamy; blend in mint extract, cocoa and about 1-3 of confectioners' sugar; mix thoroughly. Add rest of sugar alternately with milk, beating until smooth and stiff enough to spread. Frost brownies; decorate with nutmeats. When frosting is set, cut into squares. Makes 16 squares.

Do-Ahead Dish For Hostesses

Marinades are wonderful do-ahead dishes for weekend hostesses. Try this Sweet and Pungent Shrimp, "vorful and out of the ordinary, with Spilach. Crouton Casserole, also made ahead.

SWEET AND PUNGENT SHRIMP
1 cup water
1/4 cup brown sugar
1/4 teaspoon prepared mustard
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/2 cup vinegar
1 cup catsup
2 tablespoons soy sauce
20 Ritz Cheese Crackers, crumbled (about 1 1/2 cups crumbs)
1 green pepper, sliced
1 onion, thinly sliced
3 pounds cleaned and cooked shrimp
1 can pineapple chunks and syrup

Combine first 10 ingredients and simmer 10 minutes. Add shrimp and pineapple. Refrigerate at least overnight or longer to enhance flavor. Just before serving, heat to bubbly hot. Serves 6.

Spinach-Crouton Casserole: Easy to do ahead and delicious with the shrimp. Thaw and drain two packages frozen chopped spinach. Sauté one finely chopped onion in butter or margarine. Add one teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon nutmeg, dash of pepper and one tablespoon flour. Stir until blended, then stir in one-half cup heavy cream. Blend cream mixture with spinach. Spread half in bottom of greased casserole. Add a layer of Cheddar-Bits cracker crumbs, rolled medium fine (about 1 cup crumbs). Add remaining spinach. Top with whole Cheddar-Bits. Refrigerate until ready to use. Bake in moderately hot oven (375 degree F.) 20 minutes or until thoroughly heated. Serves 6.

Hors D'Oeuvres That Are Original And Varied Add Zest To Party

Hors d'oeuvres are small and the party guest counts on many bites so a good variety adds interest.

Here are four different kinds of hors d'oeuvres recipes for your party file:

CHICKEN LIVER APPETIZERS
18 mushrooms
8 oz. chicken livers
1 cup packaged prepared stuffing
1/2 cup orange juice
1/2 cup minced onion
1/2 cup butter
1 cup chicken broth or water
Clean mushrooms, putting caps aside and chopping stems. Sauté stems and onion in butter. Add chicken broth, heat and add stuffing and finely chopped chicken livers. Stuff mushroom caps with chicken liver mixture and bake 20 minutes in a 375 degree oven. Slices of bacon may be laid over the top in each mushroom cap while baking if desired.

MINCED HAM PINWHEELS
1 can minced ham
1 chopped hard-cooked egg
1 teaspoon pickle relish
enough mayonnaise to moisten
Mix ingredients above. Remove crusts from a loaf of fresh bread; cut into 1/4-inch slices lengthwise; spread with mixture. Roll, wrap in heavy waxed paper. Place in refrigerator for at least 1/2 hour. Cut in thin crosswise slices.

STUFFED SHELLS
1 pink oysters
1/2 cup butter
1 teaspoon minced onion
3 tablespoons celery - minced
1 8 oz. package prepared stuffing
1 tablespoon minced green pepper
1 cup oyster liquor
Chop oysters coarsely, reserving enough liquor to add water if necessary to make one cup. Melt 1/2 cup butter in oyster liquor, add stuffing, chopped oysters, celery, onion, and green pepper. Stuff small clam shells or small shells; bake 30 minutes in a 375 degree oven. This quantity will make about five dozen hors d'oeuvres.

MEAT BALL BITES
8 oz. chuck chopped
1 1/2 cups packaged prepared stuffing
1/2 cup minced onion
1 tablespoon parmesan cheese (grated)
1/2 teaspoon salt
good shake of black pepper
chopped parsley to taste
1/2 cup water
3 tablespoons butter

Melt butter in water, add stuffing, meat and onion, cheese, parsley, salt and pepper. Mould mixture into 1 inch balls. Broil until nicely browned. Serve hot on toothpicks. Makes about 24 meat balls.

IT'S JUST THAT SIMPLE
All meat can be made tender if prepared by the correct method of meat cookery.

After sprinkling clothes for ironing, fold them lightly so that you do not create extra creases and wrinkles to iron out.

Bake in a preheated 350 degree oven for 30 minutes or until thoroughly hot. Serve warm with cream or ice cream. Makes 6 servings.

When Blossoms Are Fragrant In May Serve Peach Pinwheel Butter Cake

Is it your turn to entertain the bridge-club? Complies-Club? Whether the group is mixed or "for ladies only", Peach Pinwheel Butter Cake is the perfect solution to the "what to serve for dessert" problem.

To begin with, Peach Pinwheel Butter Cake is made with butter, which gives the cake its own unmatched flavor. This same fresh flower lasts for days too, no stalest the day after.

Peach Pinwheel Butter Cake not only contains the usual cake ingredients, but also a flavor intriguing combination of spices and peach puree made from canned peaches.

After this delicious two layer cake is baked and cooled, it is richly frosted with a mouth watering Peach Icing - feather light and bright as the spring flowers. -ed golden peach nuggets, atop the Peach Icing, make a tasty surprise between the butter cake layers.

Peach Pinwheel Butter Cake is finally garnished with an edible facsimile of a pinwheel, fashioned with peach slices. A final sprinkling of silvered almonds are added and behold - "the dessert of the month."

PEACH PINWHEEL BUTTER CAKE
2 Round cake pans, 9-inch
Preheated 350 degree oven
1-1/4 cups (1 1/2 lb. can) sliced peaches, drained
1/2 cup (1 stick) butter
1-1/4 cups sugar
2 eggs
1/2 teaspoon almond extract
1/2 cup milk
2-1/2 cups sifted cake flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1/4 teaspoon ginger

Butter and lightly flour cake pans; set aside. Sieve peaches to obtain one cup of peach puree; set aside. Cream butter and sugar until light and fluffy. Add eggs one at a time, beating well after each addition. Add almond extract. Mix together milk and 1/2 cup peach puree. Set aside remaining 1/2 cup peach puree to be used in icing. Sift dry ingredients together and add alternately with milk and peach puree to creamed mixture. Pour batter into pans and bake 25-30 minutes. Cool 10 minutes. Remove from pans - add cake racks and cool completely.

PEACH ICING
1/2 cup (1 stick) butter
3 cups sifted confectioners' sugar
1/2 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1/4 cup peach puree
1/2 teaspoon almond extract
1/2 cup (1-1/2 lb. can) diced peaches, well drained
5 peach slices

Cream butter. Mix confectioners' sugar and brown sugar together; add alternately with peach puree to butter. Add almond extract. Spread icing between layers. Place diced peaches over filling. Frost top of cake with remaining icing. Decorate top with peach slices and almonds forming a pinwheel. Sufficient for filling a 2-layer, 9-inch cake.

Gourmet Cooking On Open Grill

With barbecued short ribs, a Beef Council favorite for outdoor cooking, serve corn on the cob, ranch-style onions and French bread with garlic butter - all buttered and seasoned, wrapped securely in foil, and cooked on the edge of the grill during the last thirty minutes of barbecuing the ribs.

BARBECUED SHORTRIBS
1 lb. shortribs per person (approximately)
Salt and pepper

FOR BARBECUE SAUCE:
1 cup catsup
1 cup water
1/4 cup wine vinegar
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1 small onion, minced
1 clove garlic, minced
1 tablespoon brown sugar
2 tablespoons dry mustard
1 teaspoon chili powder
1 tablespoon liquid smoke (if desired)

Combine barbecue sauce ingredients and simmer 20 minutes over low heat. Season ribs with salt and pepper; arrange on grill 4 to 6 inches from coals. Baste with sauce and turn occasionally during 20-25 minute cooking period.

IT'S THE LAW
in Texas

Building Your Home
When you are ready to build you will find that the law helps in many ways to make your home enjoyable and secure.

Have you decided on the type house you want and the amount you want to spend? If so, then let's go into details:

1. YOUR LOT: Junior's school or your church may be nearby, but find out—

(a) Whether they are planning to run a highway through the area or nearby, or make any improvements for which you can be assessed.

(b) What "covenants" or restrictions run with the land? To protect residents, the plats or basic deeds on some neighborhoods call on you to build a certain size or type of house. Do you want to and can you afford to?

(c) Easements. Either you or your neighbors may need to run pipes, or string wires over each other's land or to share a driveway. Have the abstract checked carefully to disclose any easements.

2. ZONING ORDINANCES: For your protection the local government frequently zones some areas, for example, for single houses only, for multiple dwellings; for retail stores, for manufacturing, etc.

Unless the local governing body changes its zoning ordinance, no filling station, for instance, can go up next to you in a residential area. Neither could you turn your home into a store. In any case, you should find out what your neighborhood zoning rules are.

3. BUILDING CODES: Be certain that the plans and construction will meet the requirements of the local building code as to size, location and structure. Municipal ordinances usually impose strict standards for the building, the plumbing and the electrical wiring. In many cases only licensed building tradesmen are permitted to make the installations.

4. FINANCING: Financing con-

Take a look at all four hands and see if you can figure how South managed to go down at his three no-trump contract.

I will give you one hint: South was a very good player and really did not play the hand badly.

West opened the nine of diamonds. South went up with the king in dummy, led a club to his ace and a second club to dummy's king. West discarded the deuce of diamonds. A third club lost to East's queen and this time West dropped the deuce of hearts.

Now East led the queen of spades and South had to make a decision. You see all the cards and would play the king but South could not tell what that queen of spades indicated.

He finally decided that East had led the queen from queen-jack-nine-small and that if he put up the king West would take the ace and lead a spade back for four spade tricks. So South played low on the queen.

Now a second spade was led and South had to lose four spade tricks and his contract.

Business Views

United Press International Personal income in April hit a record annual rate of $372,700,000, 000 annually—$3,200,000,000 above the March pace and 23 billion dollars ahead of a year ago, the Labor Department reported. Higher wage and salary payments reflecting rising employment were the principal factors in the gain.

The petroleum industry put in a "disappointing" performance in April with demand rising 2 per cent over a year ago—substantially less than expected," the Chase Manhattan Bank said. Gasoline, most important of the petroleum products, registered a "meager" gain of 1.6 per cent. Poorest performance of the month was turned in by fuel oils—kerosene, distillate and residual.

tracts protect both you and the lender. Unless you pay cash, you will use credit to pay for your house, most likely a deed of trust or a land contract. Your installments often include principal, interest, insurance and taxes. Under a land contract the lender holds title to your house until you pay for it. If you fall behind, the holder can take the house back. With a deed of trust, the lender has a lien which he can foreclose if you default. You may get some of your money back on the principal, but you may also have to make up any loss the lender makes in reselling the house.

Well worked-out contracts can help make your dream house come true. A construction contract or a so-called "earnest-money" agreement or receipt is no job for an amateur. Too many legal details are involved. Your lawyer is trained by education and experience to protect your best interests in contracting and closing real estate deals.

You know what you want. You should be careful to get what you want through careful planning and a properly prepared and executed contract.

Taxes And Freedom

There appears to be a mistaken conception respecting taxation. Apparently, in some instances, taxation is being taken as a mark of freedom. Only the other day in conversation with a friend, it was revealed that in his mind, so long as we are taxed, so long as we are proceeding in a different direction than the Soviet Union. In his mind, our taxes marked us as being more free than the Russian people. He had it that the Russians actually are not taxed. Whatever they earn, he believed, they were able to keep for themselves. Of course he had it correctly that all employment in Russia is provided by the Kremlin gangsters. But he held it as a mark of our own independence and liberty that we were in a position to pay taxes, whereas, he had concluded, the Russian people didn't have to pay taxes. Perhaps the point is widely misunderstood. The fact is that the Russian people are NOT permitted to keep all they make, for they, too, must pay taxes on everything they purchase. Similarly, their incomes are taxed and there are taxes levied against their bank accounts, which are numerous, and upon their bonds, which, until recently, were extensive. Of course, only a few months ago the Kremlin mob repudiated its bonded indebtedness, thereby taxing all bond holders up to 100 per cent of their investments. But somehow, our friend appeared to believe that the Russians were not paying taxes. Let us suppose, for the sake of the discussion, that it were true that the Russians paid no taxes at all. Let us suppose that they were permitted to keep the entire sum in kopeks and rubles which they received for their labors. Would this mean that they were not taxed? Actually, it would not mean this at all. All this would be indicated in the giant state that practices state capitalism, is that an enormous withholding tax had been collected prior to any payment to any person. Although it might not be called a tax, the fact that the government is the only employer, makes the lot of the workers identical, to the lot of any other tax payers. The government would grant in wages only those sums it felt had to be granted in order for the workers to remain alive and productive. All sums in excess of that figure would be retained by the government and would constitute the greatest tax that could possibly be levied. Socialists conclude erroneously that the same situation pertains when private management pays wages to private workers. But there is a world of difference. When government is our employer, no coercion exists which compels any worker to accept a sum less than what his labor is worth. Additionally, because of

Letter Writing May Become Rich Man's Game!

By HENRY MCELORE

The time is rapidly approaching when something must be done about Arthur E. Summerfield, the man who bears the proud title of Postmaster General. With the new four-cent and seven-cent stamps scarcely dry behind their gummy titles, the Postmaster General has asked Congress for a new hike in postage. He wants the airmail stamp boosted to eight cents, and the cost of mailing a first class letter raised to five cents. Left alone, Mr. Summerfield is going to put an end to letter writing. It will be too expensive. Only the very rich will be able to correspond. Jewelry stores, not post offices, will sell stamps. The stamps will be displayed in cases along with pearls, rubies and diamond clips. There'll be ads recommending a book of stamps as the ideal gift for the graduate or the bride. Night club captains will give the best tables and service to a man who is known to write six and seven letters a day, and it will be possible to size up a man's financial standing by finding out whether he uses postal cards, regular mail, airmail, or special delivery. Playboys will woo actresses with presents of rolls and books of stamps, and the lobbies of post offices will replace the Riviera as the fashionable lounging and loafing spot for the International Set. Miss Elsa Maxwell will stage a General Delivery Party, with admission by stamp only. The gala will raise thousands of dollars for something or other. I hate to think of the heartaches that mothers will suffer when the price of stamps become prohibitive. They just won't ever hear from their sons. Sons have always been bad about writing home and when stamps become a luxury,

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOLDES

SOME PROBLEMS FACING BUSINESS

I was reading a couple of reports by Reese H. Taylor, chairman of the Board of Union Oil Co. and E. J. Hanley, President of Allegheny Ludlum Steel Corp. They simply show what problems business men face that few people realize confront us. Mr. Taylor makes some comments on national economy. He points out that most business indexes seem to point out "that the recession is over, and we are advancing to new peaks of prosperity." He says he is, however, "unable to agree entirely with this conclusion because economic statistics frequently conceal some very serious problems." Then he explains that some of the business of the steel industry is due to anticipation of a strike. Then he says, "A longer term problem is the relationship between inflation, unemployment, and competition in world markets." He continues by saying:

"The nation's recent losses in export markets are extremely disturbing. During 1958, for example, steel exports from the United States decreased 40 per cent. Our own company has had a first-hand illustration of why this is happening. We can purchase iron either from Japan or Europe pipe delivered in the Argentine for $23 a ton less than the same pipe delivered at the mill in Pittsburgh. Automobiles are another well-known example. "There are a great many such examples. The point is clear. High labor cost, together with confiscatory taxes, have pushed American costs upward so that in many important markets we are no longer competitive. . . ."

HE EXPLAINS

SEVERANCE TAX He contends that, those who advocate California severance tax on oil extracted "base their arguments on a misunderstanding. They reason that since California is the only major oil producing state without a severance tax, it must follow that the California oil producer is not bearing his share of the tax burden. This is not true. While California has no tax called "severance," it has a great many other taxes, including property taxes, that more than take its place. What is not realized is that states with severance taxes levy them in lieu of other taxes. When we compare Union Oil's 1958 California state and local tax burden with that in other states, we are already paying more taxes per dollar of production in California than in any other major oil producing state.

The California oil producer is already at a competitive disadvantage by comparison with crude oil and refined products produced in other areas. Since a severance tax would raise the cost of California crude oil relative to oil produced elsewhere, this tax would cause the closing of many marginal wells and would be a deterrent to the search for new production. The loss of unemployment and income is bound ultimately to severely decrease the total amount of taxes collected from the California oil industry. . . .

Comments On Shale

The President of Union Oil, A. C. Rubel, gives the stockholders this encouraging report: "Upon completion of our successful research work in Colorado, a thoroughly-proven commercial prototype method for extracting shale oil from oil shale is now available. As a result, our shale land holdings in Colorado take on a new significance as an asset. We have also developed the technology for manufacturing from raw shale oil finished petroleum products similar to, and in many cases better than, those produced from petroleum. Commercial application awaits favorable economic conditions. . . ."

Mr. E. J. Hanley, President of Allegheny Ludlum Steel Corp., reported to his stockholders on the second quarter outlook as follows: "For the first quarter of 1959 we have, as you know, reported net earnings of $1.18 on sales of some $70,000,000. Last year in the first quarter we earned only 90 cents. I hasten to say that our first quarter earnings are not high—they are just higher than they were. Hopefully they will be still higher in the second quarter. And well they may be. We have spent over $37,000,000 on new plant since the beginning of 1956 and with this additional investment we should be in a position to report higher earnings than we ever did before, if we can operate these facilities with a reasonable load. . . ."

"I have made these comments about the possible showing of our mothers will, have to go months, even years, without hearing from their boys. Of course, every cloud has its silver lining. To those of us who hate to write letters, the cost of stamps will offer the perfect excuse not to. "Would have answered your letter sooner, Tom, but with the children needing a lot of medical care, plus the expense of repairing the house, we just haven't been able to indulge in a stamp. This may be the last time you will hear from us for a long, long time, but remember we are thinking of you. . . ."

That's the sort of letters lots of us will be writing. I may very well turn to carrier pigeons. A swift, sure pigeon costs very little more than a few airmails, and a pigeon can be used over and over again.

"There Is No Second Prize"

Robert Allen Reports:

Poland To Get Hundred Million In U.S. Aid

Washington — Communist Poland is getting another $100 million in U.S. economic aid. The State Department's six-months-long backstage negotiations on this are just about completed, and a history-making agreement will soon be announced — barring some unforeseen upset. This accord marks a milestone because under it, for the first time, an Iron Curtain country will pay for property seized from American citizens. Approximately $10 million of the new aid is earmarked for this purpose. U.S. claims of all kinds in Poland total around $100 million. Of the $100 million in new economic aid, about $50 million will be a loan from the Export-Import Bank for the purchase of farming, mining and other machinery and supplies in the U.S. The other $50 million will be in the form of surplus farm commodities, largely wheat and cotton. In these respects the new agreement is along the line of the $96 million in equipment-buying loans and surplus food granted the semi-satellite regime of Premier Gomulka early last year. By December, the Poles sought another $100 million in such assistance. Under the impending agreement that has been pared to about the same as the first grant. . . .

The lengthy backstage negotiations with a special Polish mission have been directly under the supervision of recently elevated Undersecretary of State C. Douglas Dillon. In private talks with congressional foreign affairs leaders, he has stressed the importance of helping Poland. "Doing that is just as vital and for the same reasons as our aiding Yugoslavia when it broke away from Russian domination," declared Dillon. "Everything we can do to further Polish independence is well worth the cost and effort. . . ."

Shortly before former Secretary Dulles' illness, he voiced similar views at a meeting with the influential House Appropriations Committee. The discussion arose when a member asked if he was "really convinced there is serious unrest in the satellite countries?" "Very much so," replied Dulles emphatically. "We're constantly receiving new and reliable reports of unrest behind the Iron Curtain, particularly in Poland. Economic conditions there are very bad. Worker hostility due to low wages and mounting unemployment is leading to widespread dissatisfaction. . . ."

"Do you think that was what was behind the recent talks between Khrushchev and Gomulka?" "Certainly Khrushchev must know what is going on in Poland," said Dulles. "And knowing that, he must be concerned. The steadily worsening Polish problem confronts the Kremlin with a difficult dilemma; how to clamp down there without using force that might boomerang disastrously against the Soviet. . . ."

"What effect would more U.S. aid have under these circumstances?" "That would definitely strengthen the will and capability of the Poles to resist Russian encroachments," asserted Dulles. FOR THE RECORD — Pope John XXIII keeps a daily diary, and he has been doing that for many years. That's what he told a group of visiting U.S. Catholic dignitaries. The Holy Father related that he began the diary after his elevation to Cardinal, and he has continued it as Pope. He gave no hint what will be done with these historic memoirs. MIGHTY MITE — It took the Navy a long time and many tries to finally orbit a satellite in outer space, but VANGUARD I is proving to be an unexpectedly exceptional achievement. Although it is the smallest satellite circling the earth, VANGUARD I is blacking out the radio of the three other larger U.S. satellites — two Army EXPLORERS and VANGUARD II. This extraordinary potency is due to the small solar-powered radio in VANGUARD I, that weighs only 2.5 lbs. and is 6.5 inches in diameter. Operating on 108 megacycle wave length, VANGUARD I's solar radio is muffling the signals from the other U.S. satellites. Further, it's going to continue doing that for hundreds of years. Naval Research Laboratory scientists estimate the life of this grapefruit-size satellite between 200 and 500 years. To cope with this situation, radios in new satellites will operate on different wave lengths. Also major changes are being made in the minirack system that follows the satellites. Its tracking stations extend from Blossom Point, Md., to Chile, and include Ft. Stewart, Ga.; Havana, Cuba; Mt. Cotopaxi, Quito, Ecuador; Lima, Peru; and Antofagasta, Chile. The U.S. provided all the equipment, but local personnel operate the stations. VANGUARD I was launched March 17, 1958, from Cape Canaveral, Fla. In addition to being this country's most important communication wave length in outer space, the satellite also is proving of great value in world mapping. Already it has enabled the Army Map Service to make a number of corrections in important locations, particularly in the Pacific. Such pinpoint accuracy is vital for missile firing. Another VANGUARD launching is tentatively slated for the end of this month. . . .

Red Agreements Not Worth Reading

We shall never lay the basis for a satisfactory foreign policy until we realize: 1. That the Communists are playing for keeps; that they will stop at nothing to destroy us and that deception, false promises, treachery, and agreements are only instruments of policy to gain their ends. 2. That no agreements the Moscow tyrants might make would be worth the time to read and that they would unhesitatingly violate them whenever it appeared to their advantage just as they have dishonored nearly all the agreements they have made. 3. That any recognition or courtesy shown the Communists is a slap in the face of their slaves who are thus led to believe that we do not champion them but rather take the part of their masters. Backslapping chummy poses and all interchange with Communist leaders discourages opposition on the part of their own people, strengthens their position, weakens opposition in Communist countries and tends to convince the nations of the world that we are not really opposed to communism and prefer compromise to principle. 4. That the foundation of a successful foreign policy is to base our action on considerations of right and wrong and to follow principle rather than appeasement and expediency. That when honest men deal with bandits, negotiation and equality such as sending and receiving diplomatic representatives, condolences to Communist countries, congratulations upon the anniversaries of individuals and the founding of bloody Communist regimes, betray our convictions, compromise our integrity, dissipate our strength, weaken our moral fibre and gradually render ourselves helpless before our savage enemies. . . .

NEW YORK — I am confident, I speak for all rightminded, red-blooded, home-loving, God-fearing American men when I use the sacred forum of our free press to express my resentment and disgust against an insidious propaganda which is now in circulation concerning Mlle. Brigitte Bardot, the French movie actress. It makes my blood boil, and I am presuming to speak for Vice President Nixon, Senator Barry Goldwater, all members of the board of Standard Oil of New Jersey, and others to read in their responsible press comments sly references to "sex" concerning this defenseless lady. To be sure, "sex" is a biological phenomenon and it were priggish to insist that the subject be excluded from all literature and art because good, clean fun never hurt anyone. There will always be a lightning-rod salesman and a farmer's daughter. But things have come to a pretty pass when a lady is singled out for leering remarks which attract her public reputation just because she is a member of that sex. If that is fair, then what about Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt? What about Mrs. Anna Rosenberg? And what about Mrs. Senator Margaret Chase Smith, of Maine. I mean, you know, after all, these ladies happen to be members of the same gender, but we never encounter any such insinuations about them. ## Labor Leader So Respectable That He Can Hardly Stand It

The Lighter Side
By FRANK ELEAZER
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—John L. Lewis is 79 now and so respectable he hardly can stand it.

These days he gets up of a morning and looks in vain through the papers for some denunciation of Lewis. Mostly he can't even find his name mentioned.

"I feel sort of lost sometimes," he admitted.

At a three-hour, standing-room-only performance before a House Labor subcommittee, the United Mine Workers president did his theatrical best to correct a public image of himself as a sort of elder statesman of organized labor.

He assailed authors of pending labor reform bills as labor's enemies. He accused AFL-CIO leaders who agree some legislation is needed of compromising with the executioner's ax. He assured one earnest young Republican member, Rep. Robert P. Griffin of Michigan, that he in time will grow up.

Like A King
He reigned like a king in the witness chair. He bristled and roared and refused to be shushed. But he couldn't seem to convince anybody.

Chairman Carl D. Perkins (D-Ky.) told Lewis the subcommittee was "mighty proud" he had come.

Rep. Carroll Kearns (R-Pa.), the ranking GOP member, said Lewis and Sam Gompers shared honors in his estimation as the men who did most for the working man.

Even members whose electorates include not a single member of the UMW tended to preface their questions with pledges of boundless respect.

Rep. John Dent (D-Pa.) said he was mighty pleased to hear the UMW held up so uniformly as a model of union behavior.

"Was it always this way?" he asked Lewis.

"Congressman," Lewis replied, his eyes twinkling under the well-known craggy eyebrows, "I'm glad you asked me that question."

A little sadly, it seemed, he went on then to recall earlier and happier days when he was the perennial villain of the big labor stage.

Pulled Out Of Unions
The depression days when he was organizing the first vertical unions. How he pulled out of the AFL and into a new CIO. And later, how he pulled out of the CIO. Also, the many times when his big coal strikes were denounced as a threat to the nation.

Lately, Lewis has been setting his arguments with coal operators behind closed doors. It's been years since he pulled his members out of the mines. Except for getting in the hospital a couple of months ago, for pneumonia, he hasn't been making much news.

"Now, every now and then at some public affair, I am accepted as other men," Lewis said. "I have achieved a certain degree of respectability. Possibly this is because, I suppose, the public has found somebody else they enjoy more being mad at."

Lewis did come up with a new definition of poverty. He said it's when you can't afford to send your children to college. By this standard, he said most union members are poor. His own, though he didn't say so, currently get $24.25 daily.

Lewis also said you can't help organized labor by putting union members in chains.

"Damn the chains, and those that advocate them!" he roared. Then he left the House Office Building and stepped grandly into a waiting Cadillac limousine. The day was muggy, and the chauffeur, thoughtfully, had the air conditioning running.

Colonial Williamsburg Staging Its Prelude To Independence

By FRANK ELEAZER
United Press International

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (UPI)—They are climbing greased poles, juggling fire brands and otherwise whooping it up here now in celebration of what is billed, officially as a "prelude to independence."

Historically, this is Gospel. Practically, what they've got in this town is no mere warmup for freedom. It's the real article, nailed down.

The principal commodity for sale here, in addition to history, is complete independence from just about everything that may be bugging you elsewhere. Escape is another word for it.

Comes The Freedom
Colonial Williamsburg is a restoration, down to the last, clapboard and brick, of the 18th Century tidewater town where George Mason, Thomas Jefferson, Patrick Henry, George Washington and others lit the fires of independence from Britain. It was just about this time 183 years ago that the Virginia Convention of Delegates called on the Continental Congress to declare the colonies free of the Crown. About six weeks later, as you may have heard, the Congress on July 4, 1776, did just that.

That's what they mean when they talk about celebrating here the prelude to independence. But it's freedom attained not just in prospect, that the visitor to Williamsburg finds.

From Washington, D. C., where you can easily get the impression civilization is on the brink of collapse it is only three hours drive to Williamsburg. From anywhere, Williamsburg is the shortest currently available trip to another

Walter Rogers Reports

Frank's Case Shows Privacy Of Home No Longer Inviolable

The mere mention of the Frank's case should strike terror in the hearts of all freedom-loving Americans who are laboring under the delusion that the privacy of the home is inviolable. Much will be heard about this case in the future. It is the case in which the Supreme Court of the United States recently held that, if a health inspector in the City of Baltimore, acting under the provisions of a Baltimore Ordinance, requested entry into a private home for the purpose of making a health inspection, it was the duty of the owner of the home to admit the inspector and to do so without subjecting him to being fined under the Ordinance.

In short, the Court held that the fining of the homeowner, because of his refusal to admit the invasion of the privacy of his home, was not a violation of the 4th Amendment of the Constitution which condemns unreasonable searches and seizures. There are nine Justices on the Supreme Court. Five of these, to wit, Justices Frankfurter, Clark, Stewart, Harlan and Whittaker, joined together to reach the said conclusion. The remaining 4, to wit, Justices Warren, Douglas, Black and Brennan, joined together in a dissenting opinion which was in direct conflict with the opinion of the majority. The majority held that the health inspector did not need a search warrant.

The majority opinion listed all of the authority in support of the proposition that would require a search warrant under such situation, and then stated that one was not necessary. They did say that the inspector did not have the power to force entry nor to break past the unwilling occupant, but that the unwilling occupant could be fined for resisting the entry of the inspector. The opinion is most interesting. I wish everyone would study it very carefully, because the majority opinion seems to apologize for the decision on the ground laughter. Eames replied that the "Don't shoot. I give up."

If the decision in Frank vs. Maryland is to stand, the above observation by the Elder Pitt of England is, from this day on, obsolete. The dissenters came forth with some most appropriate remarks that I want to pass on to you.

"The official's measure of his own need often does not square with the Bill of Rights."

"History shows that all officers tend to be officious; and health inspectors, making out a case for criminal prosecution of the citizen, are no exception."

"The applicability of these two statements to the present case is proven by the testimony of the inspector. A whole day elapsed between the first inspection and the arrest, and the only reasons given for not getting a warrant were the inspector's convenience. Here is his testimony.

"Q. Could you not just as well have made your inspection one hour or two hours later than at the time you demanded entry?" "A. I could not. I had two students I had to release at three o'clock. I have to be in the office at 3:30 every day to take care of my reports."

The Court observed that this was indeed flimsy ground for denying this homeowner the constitutional protection afforded by a search warrant. There is much more that could be said about this case, and I hope all of you read it because it will be history making.

As bad as it is, it is my sincere hope that some good will come out of it in that it may awaken many of the people of this country to the ever present threat against the constitutional rights that many of us believed were a part of our American Heritage.

VISITORS: We were honored to have as visitors in our office last week Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Fatheree of Pampa, who also visited their son who is presently stationed at Fort Lee, Va.; and Mr. and Mrs. Gene Klen of Amarillo.

First Adult Teevee Space Series Roars Off Pad

Hollywood By VERNON SCOTT UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The first "adult" TV space series roared off the launching pad this week with a former song-and-dance man at the gyroscopic, atomic gizmo controls.

William Lundigan, musical comedy star of the 40's, and a TV commercial speller the past few years, is playing video's first "astronaut" in a series titled "Space."

Televisioners must wait until Sept. 23 to see the new entry in the adventure-drama field which many Hollywood TV moguls believe will be the forerunner of a brand new trend.

Lundigan, a handsome guy who looks the part of a clean-cut space adventurer, says his interplanetary tour is a complete blast-off from the old "Buck Rogers," "Flash Gordon" and "Space Cadet" format of disintegrator guns and four-headed martians.

"When we say 'adult,' we mean it," he said, downing a pre-launch cocktail. "We're using all the available material from the Department of Defense and the Air Force to make the series as factual as possible."

"Too much technical material might get a little dull, but we're sticking to the facts and reality wherever we can. The show will combine stories here on earth, in flight through space, and exploration of other planets."

In keeping with "authenticity," "Space" will be filmed partly on location at Cape Canaveral, Vandenberg Air Force Base, the missile center at Huntsville, Ala., and at other rocket-launching sites.

Get Government Cooperation "Thanks to cooperation from the government, we'll be working very close to classified material all the time," Lundigan said.

"New events in the space field will be followed up closely in our scripts, too." "The show is built on the premise that this country already is in the space age. Because we're determined to present a feeling of reality the producers (ZIV) are shooting only one show a week."

FAT OVERWEIGHT

GLASS PALACE IN THE FOREST—A fanciful structure is the new Commons Building at Lake Erie College in Painesville, Ohio. The modern building on the college's wooded campus features a dining room "floating in the trees," and a sun porch-entranceway made of concrete lily pads. The $800,000 building was designed by Danish-born architect Victor Christ-Jansen.

Quotes In The News

United Press International BROWNSVILLE, Tex. — Teamsters president James R. Hoffa, on what to do if unions are made liable for anti-trust action: "This would leave us with the solution to have one solitary strike throughout the United States to tie up all employers across the nation at one time."

L. McClellan of the Senate Rackets Committee, on the Hoffa statement: "...Don't minimize or underestimate the dangers to our free economy and internal security that are involved in this threat."

WASHINGTON—Lewis L. Strauss, making a one-sentence comment on his one-vote margin approval by the Senate Commerce Committee to be secretary of commerce: "I am grateful for the vote of the committee."

WASHINGTON—Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy, advising prospective Cabinet members: "Through a gale of courtroom

"If you can't afford it, stay home. If you can, come here and work and shut up about it."

GET UP, FEET

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI)—Patrolman John Eames, testifying in the trial of Joseph Rinaldi, 27, charged with burglarizing a tavern, said he searched the place after the robbery and found a pair of feet protruding through boards in the cellar.

"I said to the feet, 'Get up,'" Eames testified. "Did the feet answer?" asked Deputy Atty. Gen. Martin J. Loftus.

WIN $50 IN GROCERIES! IN OUR LOCAL GULF GULFTANE LP-GAS BUTANE PROPANE WATER HEATING CONTEST Just write down one number—Nothing to buy!

An LP-Gas water heater will deliver much more hot water than an electric. How many gallons more in 30 days—that is the contest question.

SEND IN YOUR ESTIMATE YOU MAY WIN!

Wonder why we have a contest like this? To prove what some folks don't know—that Gulftane beats electricity in providing plenty of hot water 24 hours a day at low, low cost. It's a dramatic way of saying that if you aren't using Gulftane for water heating, you're probably getting too little and paying too much! What is Gulftane? It's a high quality LP-Gas, also known as bottled gas, propane or butane. It is gas compressed into concentrated liquid form, so that we can deliver Gulftane to you easily and economically. Here's what it will give you:

- HOME HEATING—clean, automatic heating with Gulftane for only pennies a day. COOKING—the modern way, with fast, clean, automatically controlled Gulftane flame. TRACTOR FUEL—clean-burning Gulftane cuts maintenance costs up to 50%... costs less too. MANY, MANY OTHER FARM AND HOME USES!

- FACTS TO HELP YOU WIN! An average 30-gallon LP-Gas water heater is able to deliver between 13,650 and 17,900 gallons of 160° hot water per month... an average 52-gallon electric water heater between 3,950 and 5,250 gallons per month. But the total gallons of hot water each produces in 30 days, operating 24 hours a day will vary one way or the other between these totals, depending on operating conditions. Your Gulftane distributor has an ENTRY BLANK which contains plenty of additional information to help you win. To get your Entry Blank, phone, write, or drop your estimate by using the coupon each will calculate how much more hot water you can estimate from an LP-Gas water heater. Your calculations may win the contest and bring you the prize. United States Testing Company, Inc. will test two new water heaters—one LP-Gas, one electric. These heaters picked at random from stock. The test will measure how much 160° hot water (normal clothes washing temperature) each will deliver over a 30-day period operating at full capacity, 24 hours a day. The results of this test will determine the contest winner.

Here are the easy rules 1. Phone, write or visit your Gulftane distributor and ask him for your entry blank—or use the coupon below. 2. Fill in your estimate of how many more gallons of 160° water the LP-Gas heater will deliver over the 30-day period. Don't forget to add your name and address and that of your Gulftane distributor. Type, or print in ink, incomplete or illegible entries will not be considered. Mail to Water Heating Contest at the address below. Entries must be post-marked no later than June 12, 1959. 3. The Contest is subject to all Federal, state and local laws and is open to any adult resident of the continental United States except those employed by, or who are members of the families of employees of, Warren Petroleum Corporation, its branded distributors, or its advertising agencies. More than one entry from an individual or a family will not be considered. 4. For each local contest area, the estimate determined by the judges to be closest to the actual official test results and bearing the earliest postmark wins the prize. Judges' decisions are final. 5. The prize is a certificate worth $50.00 in groceries at a food market selected by the local Gulftane distributor. 6. Your Gulftane distributor will display the official test results on a record of your estimate—compare it with the actual result. Winners will be notified July 15, 1959 and will receive their certificate shortly thereafter from their local Gulftane distributor.

RUSSIANS SEEM INTERESTED IN POLICING NUCLEAR TEST BAN

By FRANK H. BAKHTOLOMEW

President United Press International
GENEVA (UPI) — The most important development of the opening week of the Geneva foreign ministers meeting occurred outside the Palais des Nations where the Big Four are discussing Berlin and Germany.

Secretary of State Christian A. Herter is known to feel that Thursday's meeting with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko on nuclear test suspensions offered the first real hope in months that the Russians are sincerely interested in working out a fool-proof method of policing a nuclear test ban.

The secretary found that the meeting he and British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd had with Gromyko developed the first definite sign since January that the Soviets may accept new American scientific data to guide the three nuclear powers in detecting bootleg atomic blasts.

Nuclear Talks Drag
Full significance of the Russian retreat on the nuclear front was obscured by the Big Four wrangling and maneuvering on the business that brought them to Geneva in the first place—the Berlin and the German unification problems.

Prior to Thursday, the six-month-old Geneva nuclear talks, now in recess until June 8, had been proceeding at a snail's pace due to continuous Russian rejection of all American efforts to bring the scientific detection formulas up to date.

The new American data resulted from underground and high altitude U. S. tests carried out since last year's Geneva meeting of British, Russian and American scientists worked out the original formulas.

The Nevada underground detonations and the Argus high-altitude tests of last year satisfied the Americans that the test formula was inadequate for effective policing of any nuclear test ban. Herter, Gromyko and Lloyd

JUST IN CASE
NEW YORK (UPI)—A store offered air conditioners for sale today with "no payments until temperature hits 95 degrees." Last summer it never did. But the store had some fine print to take care of that . . . or July 15, 1959.

took the issue out of the hands of their experts, and the first hint of a possible change in Russia's adamant stand against considering new Western data came in a cautiously worded statement by an American spokesman reporting on their hour-long meeting.

He said the nuclear Big Three shared the hope that there would be quick accord on holding new technical discussions which would lead to "swift agreement on control methods leading to a treaty."

Real Test Ahead
The full significance of this statement became apparent later when it was learned that Herter considered this a major break in the slow-motion nuclear talks which have been going on here since last October.

The new secretary, who is undertaking his first big-league negotiations with the Russians, is known to feel that the first week of the Geneva conference itself went well from the standpoint of the West.

The real test of Russian intentions, however, will come this week when the Big Four are expected to hold their first secret sessions—meetings without German advisors or secondary delegates.

The Americans want these meetings held with only three representatives of each of the Big Four, and without the presence of secretaries, press spokesmen or regular interpreters. Translation at these secret sessions would be done by the two aides accompanying each minister.

All four ministers speak English and their informal discussions in Geneva have been conducted in English. But for the hard bargaining sessions, where every word counts, they prefer their official language.

Gromyko, who delivered even his arrival statement in English, occasionally surprises the other foreign ministers here with an exhibition of humor usually revolving around the square-round table controversy.

West Position Strong
Another Gromyko trait has been his persistence, in casual meetings with the other foreign ministers outside the conference chamber, in discussing the matter of seating Poland and Czechoslovakia in the formal sessions.

Herter feels that the Western powers are entering the second week of the conference—which he feels will last at least three more weeks—in a strong bargaining position with the presentation of the West's package plan for free elections in Berlin, global troop cuts and German reunification.

However, he is unwilling at this point to predict the outcome of this conference, which most observers feel will definitely lead to a summit meeting.

There is no feeling in Geneva at the moment that this conference will result in a total failure. However, there is a grim realization that if failure does result, the West is in for a bad time in Berlin and at once.

West German officials here are of the definite opinion that if the conference fails, the Communists will make good the threat to conclude a peace treaty with East Germany which would lead quickly to a pre-arranged harassment of the supply lines to isolated West Berlin.

No Simple Solution
The Germans do not feel that Berlin could be rescued as easily or as simply as sending an armored column up the corridor, or that a repetition of the airlift is practicable.

The West German view is that no armored column could safely proceed over the 100-mile route to Berlin without a protective flanking action for 15 miles on either side of the roadway. This would in effect mean creation of a 30-mile combat front pressing into Communist-held territory.

So far as the West's package peace plan is concerned, the West Germans foresee the possibility that the Russians may accept it around a conference table—but then carry out only the parts that suit their own ends.

Specifically, the Germans feel that Gromyko may "snap up" the Western offer of free elections in Berlin and the creation of an all-German committee, but simply fail to take any action on reunification and security.

Despite these forebodings, the strong central hope in the German thinking is the definite belief that Russia will not intentionally go to war over Berlin alone.

McLean Seniors Take Tour Of East And South Texas

McLEAN (Sp) — The graduating seniors of McLean High School have returned from their annual trip through east and south Texas.

Saturday, May 9, the travelers departed from McLean in a chartered bus, drove to Rome, Tex., where they ate lunch and then on to Dallas for the night. They divided into groups and enjoyed movies, skating and swimming.

From Dallas they journeyed to Houston, then to San Jacinto where they visited the San Jacinto Monument and Battle Ship Texas. The group went on to Galveston where they remained through Monday night.

Tuesday morning brought them to San Marcos where they visited the Aquarina, the underwater show. From San Marcos to San Antonio, the graduates spent Tuesday and Wednesday nights in the Hilton Hotels. The days were spent at Breckenridge Park, the Old Spanish Governor's Mansion, The Alamo, The Buccaneer, and many other sights of interest.

Thursday morning they left San Antonio and traveled on to Austin to see the State Capital and Texas University. Sleepily but restlessly they wandered back to their homeland, arriving Thursday night.

Sponsoring the seniors were Principal Harold Bunch, Mrs. Evelyn Vineyard, Mr. Darril Christian, and parent sponsors, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Farren.

News In Brief

LOS ANGELES—Former gambler Mickey Cohen, announcing the end of his engagement to stripper Candy Barr, now under a 15-year prison sentence in Texas for marijuana cigarette possession: "We sort of mutually agreed to get married and later on we sort of mutually agreed not to. There were too many complications to overcome. We're two completely different types of persons."

Mississippi Tactics FBI Under Fire For

By CLIFF SESSIONS
United Press International
POPLARVILLE, Miss. (UPI)—

The FBI was under fire today by local authorities for alleged tough tactics in its investigation of the lynching of Negro Mack Charles Parker.

"Because of the FBI tactics people will refuse to cooperate," county prosecuting attorney William Stewart said.

Rep. William Colmer (D-Miss.) asked the Federal Civil Rights Commission in Washington to investigate charges of FBI harassment.

The FBI declined to comment. The protests followed the hospitalization of two white farmers C. C. (Crip) Reyer and Arthur Smith Jr. — who had been questioned by G-men.

Parker was dragged from a jail cell April 25 by nine or 10 hooded white men. The 23-year-old Negro's bullet-pierced body was found in the nearby Pearl River May 4. Parker had been awaiting trial on charges of raping a pregnant white woman.

Dr. J. M. Howell said FBI grilling "definitely" caused a nervous breakdown suffered by Reyer. The farmer "was completely off his rocker when he was brought in," Howell said.

Reyer's wife also is under medical care, Howell said, and added he "would not be surprised if she had a breakdown," too.

Another doctor said at first jury duty.

Smith "very possibly" had a cerebral hemorrhage as a result of FBI questioning. But the doctor said today he wasn't sure Smith was suffering from a cerebral hemorrhage.

County Atty. Stewart said he had investigated Smith's case and found it "definitely a case of harassment."

In Jackson, Gov. J. P. Coleman rejected a request of State Auditor Boyd Golding that he ask the FBI to leave the state.

"I am doing my best to keep all the people of Mississippi from being convicted of mass guilt in this Poplarville incident," Coleman said. "I also am trying to keep the state from being engulfed in a torrent of federal civil rights legislation."

CAN'T QUESTION IT
SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UPI) — Judge Elmer Peak dismissed a speeding charge against Benjamin Chatter, 31, Tuesday on the ground he was denied his basic right to face and cross-examine his accuser.

The "accuser" was an electric speed-timing device.

THAT'S ALL, MADAM
EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (UPI) — Mrs. Irene Randolph took the stand and identified herself: "I'm a housewife. I live in Chester, Ill. and my husband is warden of the Illinois State Penitentiary." She was quickly excused from

DEAR ABBY...

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am going with a fellow who says he loves me very much. Although he knows I won't go all the way he still tries to break down my resistance. I like him, Abby, but if he continues the way he has been doing, I don't know what I'll do. I've talked to him but it does no good. Is there any way I can get around this without losing him?

Dear Like: Let's get one thing straight. A fellow who LOVES a girl does not encourage her to do something that is immoral, dangerous and degrading. If you lose him you'll be the luckiest girl in the world. Hold out for orange blossoms, Honey. He's offering you poison ivy.

DEAR ABBY: I know a man who is 73 years old. He has 6 children all married and stays one. He wants me to go on a trip with him for a couple of months. I am 66 years old, a widow and all my children are grown and on their own. We are just a couple of old pals. There is no funny business going to happen. I would like to go but I'm afraid the gossip might think we were lovebirds. But we are both lonely and single, so why not? What do you say, Abby? You're open-minded.

Dear Me: I may be open-minded but I don't have holes in my head. "Old pals" don't take trips together for a couple of months unless they are married. If you think the gossip would not regard you as "lovebirds" — you are cuckoo.

Dear Abby: I live in an apartment and the boy upstairs always comes down and pecks me. One night he dumped my purse all over the living room floor. I got mad. My mother wasn't home at the time. I couldn't hit him or anything because he is 14 and I am 12. If I went upstairs and did something like that to him he would break my arm. Give me some advice on what to say to him.

Dear Mad: Tell him if he can't behave like a gentleman he isn't to come to your apartment. A girl shouldn't have to KNOCK a peasy neighbor out — she can LOCK him out.

DEAR ABBY: I am a happily married woman with two wonderful children. I love my husband dearly but I can't seem to control a very strong impulse to show my affection (deep affection) to doctors. The last doctor I went to was on my mind night and day. I would have given anything to have kissed him just one time. This feeling has been going on for years about different doctors I've had. I've tried to fight it, believe me, but I can't help myself. Would you please help me, Abby? I don't know what to do.

MIXED UP
Dear Mixed: You are confusing gratitude, respect, hero-worship and a little of the old-fashioned school-girl crush with "deep affection." There are many fine WOMEN practicing medicine. Consult one.

Mrs. Clay Hostess To Service Guild

SHAMROCK (Spl) — Mrs. Harry Clay was hostess to members of the Wesleyan Service Guild recently in her home.

Opening the meeting with prayer, Mrs. Harold Teegerstrum, vice president, presided as the treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Ed Schaffner. Mrs. Ada Risk gave the devotional, "Faith And Works." "Relations of the Local Churches" was the program topic presented by Mrs. Teegerstrum and Mrs. Adah Wooten. An open discussion followed.

Refreshments were served during the social hour. Attending were Mrs. Jim Sharp, Matt Clay and Mrs. Judah Clay, guests; and members, Mrs. Josephine Draper, George Robinson, Mary Pace, Dot Hindman, Francis DePew, Dixie Harrison, Merita Bumpers and Miss Willa Bell Daugherty.

PIANIST

Miss Mackie Hudgins, 7-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Hudgins, will play a solo and duet with Miss Rhonda Forrest in Mrs. W. D. Waters piano recital tonight at 7:30 in the Assembly of God Church, 500 S. Cuyler. Miss Hudgins was accompanist for the boys' chorus at Lamar School when she was six years old and had studied for only five months. She also has played in her church.

THE groom has his own wedding cake. A rich fruitcake, pieces of it are presented to the guests in small ribbioned boxes.

COOK'S NOOK

Guests At This Wedding Can Take Home The Cake

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

Wedding cakes can be the traditional fruit type or a white one, or both. The white cake, known as a bride's cake, was introduced about 1920. Either may be cut by the bride and groom at the wedding. However, if favor boxes are distributed, they are filled with the rich fruitcake, sometimes called the groom's cake.

GROOM'S DARK FRUITCAKE
(Yield: 2 3/4-pound fruitcakes, 27 gift portions per cake)

One cup unsulphured molasses, 1/2 cup water, 2 packages (15 ounce each) raisins, 2 jars (1 pound each) mixed candied fruit, 1 cup butter or margarine, 1 1/2 cups sugar, 6 eggs, 2 1/4 cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1/2 teaspoon baking soda, 1 1/2 teaspoons cinnamon, 1 1/2 teaspoons nutmeg, 1/2 teaspoon allspice, 1/2 teaspoon ground cloves, 1/2 cup orange juice or brandy, 2 cans (8 ounces each) walnuts, coarsely chopped.

Blend together unsulphured molasses and water in a large, deep saucepan. Place over low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture comes to a boil. Add raisins; bring to a boil again. Reduce heat and simmer 5 minutes. Remove from heat; stir in candied fruit. Reserve. Cream together butter and sugar. Blend in eggs, one at a time. Sift together flour, soda and spices; add to butter mixture alternately with orange juice. Stir the canasta high score and Mrs. John Caylor second high. Mrs. Johnnie Young, low.

Approximately 35 guests attended the luncheon.

HS Graduates Are Honored At Dinner

Seventh grade students and their parents of Holy Souls Catholic Church were hostess for a banquet honoring members of the eighth grade graduating class on Saturday evening in the Holy Souls Parish Hall. Rev. Fr. Edward Cashman presented the evening's address.

A program was presented in which little unknown, humorous and somewhat embarrassing situations were revealed about the graduates.

Class of 1939 and their parents attending were, Terrance Dunigan, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Dunigan Jr.; Barbara Falkenstein, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Falkenstein; Roger Farrow, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Farrow; Tony Hernandez, Mrs. B. P. Hernandez; Shawn Hills, Mr. and Mrs. F. N. Hills; Kenneth Howard, Mr. and Mrs. Howard; Thomas Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Johnson; Paulette Kotara, Mr. and Mrs. L. Kotara; Jon Maul, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Maul; William Merrell, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Merrell; Quenton Nolte Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Q. C. Nolte; Carl O'Neal, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. O'Neal; Ralph Palmer, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph R. Palmer Sr.; Adele Pung, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Pung; Ann Stein, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Stein; Susan Velasquez, Mrs. P. Velasquez.

The banquet theme featured real lollipops and a sugar-plum tree surrounded by dining tables on which miniatures of the Good ed steak, whipped potatoes, lima beans, seeded rolls, butter or margarine, lettuce and tomato salad, apple pie, cheese, coffee, tea, milk.

Ship Lollipop were centerpieces. May 24. Mass will be held at 8 a.m. followed by breakfast in the Parish Hall.

Graduation will be held Sunday. Read The News Classified Ads.

Mrs. W. C. Puryear Installed President Of Lamar School PTA At Final Meeting

Mrs. W. C. Puryear was installed as president of Lamar PTA by Mrs. Jack P. Foster, District 19 parliamentarian, at the final meeting of the Lamar unit. Other officers installed were Mmes. Bryan Ruck, vice president; Ernest Pulse, secretary; L. A. Wassell, treasurer; R. M. Allyn, historian; Mmes. Don Cole and K. E. Rascoe, council representatives.

Mrs. Foster likened the officers to bricks used in the foundation of a building, each lending strength and support to the structure of the organization, which will serve. She compared the committee chairmen to the sides of a building, built upon the foundation, without which there could be no superstructure. "Members give the building support through co-operation and participation," she said.

Mrs. Foster opened the installation service by saying, "Perhaps the outstanding achievement for me while president of the City Council was the forming of the Lamar PTA Unit."

Mrs. K. H. Cambren, out-going president, presided as reports were given by Mrs. Carl Thomas, secretary and Mrs. Jim Cunningham, treasurer. Austin Ruddick lead the opening prayer.

Mrs. Puryear introduced committee chairman for the new year, Mmes. A. M. Martin, publication; Floyd Barrett, dental health; Ray Babb, civil defense; T. J. Davis, membership; Jack Nickols, radio; Emil Wilson, legislative; Zela Pullum, summer round-up; Walter Roush, study group; John Adams, publicity; Dean Scarborough, telephone; Henry Gruben, hospitality.

Past presidents were honored with presentation of pins, Mmes. Shirley Nichols, Nolan Cole, Floyd Barrett and Don Cole. A gift certificate was presented to Mrs. Cambren on behalf of the PTA in appreciation of her service during the past year to the unit.

Cameron Marsh, Pampa Junior High principal, gave a resume of the history of the formation of junior high schools and stressed that junior high is an important step for a student from a dependent elementary pupil to independent high school student. Curriculum, schedule and the child were discussed by Mr. Marsh for parents of sixth grade students.

Pre-school mothers met with first grade teachers and Jo Page, school principal during the program to discuss procedure for enrolling first grade pupils next fall.

A tea honoring Ere-School mothers followed the program with Mrs. R. E. Rascoe, hospitality chairman in charge. Refreshments were served from a table decorated with a red school house flanked by school children figurines. Plate favors were miniature red tables.

Springtime Theme At 20-30 Banquet

LEFORS (Sp) — "Springtime" was the theme of the Mother-Daughter Banquet given by members of the 20-30 Club in honor of their mothers in the civic center on Monday night.

Mrs. Nevt Daniels of Phillips, speaker of the evening, reviewed the book, "Papa's Wife."

Mrs. J. M. McPherson played "Sweet Hour of Prayer," as the invocation and "The Lord's Prayer," for the benediction.

"My Mother," a poem, was given by Mrs. Calvin Lacy as a welcome to the guests, with Mrs. Evelyn Chisum, her mother, gave the response.

Those present were Mmes. B. D. Vaughn, Bob Archer, John Hatfield, Rank Poarch, Nevt Daniels, R. L. Stout, Henry Dunn, Myrt Pierce, W. G. Staley, Jess Graves, A. J. Carlton, Ralph Crouch, Evelyn Chisum, Leon Crockett, Gib Lawler, Joe Archer, Tony Bivins, Leonard Cain, Ray Dickerson, Chestene Dunn, Edward Lehnick, R. E. McDonald, J. M. McPherson, Bud Means, Wayne Sims, Joe Watson, John Walton, Bob Wilson, Calvin Lacy, Ernest Foshee, and Jimmy Pennington.

TOMORROW'S DINNER: Grapefruit and tomato juice, skillet pork chops in onion soup, whipped potatoes, green beans, seeded rolls, butter or margarine, cole slaw, baked apples, coffee, tea, milk.

Flower Arrangements Discussed By Florist At Lefors HD Club Meeting

LEFORS (Sp) — J. C. Hopkins of Roberta's Flowers stressed a center of interest in floral arrangements in a demonstration of floral arrangements and corsage making for the Lefors Home Demonstration Club, recently in the home of Mrs. Floyd Hines.

"Unusual color, large size flower or a large bow, then fan out with other flowers, makes a good center of interest," stated Mr. Hopkins as he made a small arrangement of yellow daisies in a small crystal glass filling in with orchid stock.

Another arrangement of red carnations and white larkspur was demonstrated, showing how to use wire to make a flower bend properly for the best effect by Hopkins as he said: "Cut flowers in the early morning, place them in mild warm water and set in a cool place, searing with hot water or match."

"Make a bouquet one and one half times the height of the container," he went on to say as he made an arrangement of three pink roses in a bud vase with stock. A corsage of red feathered carnations was made to conclude the program.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. A. T. Cobb, in the absence of Mrs. O. O. Bishop, president.

Two new redwood tables and benches were reported to have

MATURE PARENT

"I've found the answer to how to keep from hating housework," writes the mother of three children.

"At least," she says, "it works for me and it might work for some of your other readers, too." Then she goes on to explain:

"First I tried being systematic and worked by schedule, but I felt like a drudge. No matter how I felt or what I really wanted to do — if it was Monday I washed and ironed; Tuesday I cleaned house; Wednesday I shopped, etc.

"I hated knowing what my day was going to be like when I opened my eyes in the morning.

"Now I pay some attention to my own feelings and mostly work by mood. If I'm in a clean, scrub and polish mood I give the house a thorough cleaning, and actually enjoy making it shine.

"If it's a beautiful day and I can't bear to stay indoors and scrub, I decide it will be yard day, and I go to work with hoe and hedge clippers and enjoy the outdoors while I clip and weed and rake.

"If I'm in the mood for sewing I give the house a fast lick and I promise and open the sewing machine and set to work because I have a feeling that today my sewing will go easy.

"If I'm restless I make out a list of errands that need to be done and get in the car and do

"Of course, I can't always indulge my moods. There are times when a child is home sick from school I play nurse for the day. There are also times when I have to rush and hurry because there are unexpected emergencies to be met. All housewives have those days and there's nothing you can do about them.

"But I think a lot of housewives don't even think about giving attention to their moods. That is kind of foolish, isn't it, since we're our own bosses and can generally schedule our work to suit ourselves?"

Doctors Now Know How 'Nitro' Works

Science Today
By DELOS SMITH
UPI Science Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Every doctor knows nitroglycerin can do big things inside human hearts. But now, for the first time, all doctors can know just how this working chemical compound of dynamite does them.

This news from inside human hearts belongs to Drs. Norman Brachfeld, John Bozer, and Richard Gorlin who got it by running instrumented tubes through arteries and into hearts.

The technique is quite safe, relatively new, and is piling up more and more inside knowledge of the most publicized and sentimentalized of our organs.

The hearts belonged to 10 men. Four were normal and the other six had only minor defects. Once the tiny-diameter tubes were in place, the men let a nitroglycerin pill dissolve under their tongues.

Offer Less Resistance
Almost immediately their heart muscles began taking more oxygen out of the blood. The flow of blood through the hearts increased and the scientists "presumed" this was caused by the increased oxygen consumption.

At the same time, the heart blood vessels enlarged and thus offered less resistance to the flow of blood. But the work rates of the hearts remained unchanged which meant the work was done less efficiently.

Nitroglycerin is one of the most commonly prescribed heart medicines. It relieves the choking sensation of angina or "coronary insufficiency" and the crises of very high blood pressure so quickly that persons given to those conditions carry the pills with them, just in case.

But for such a widely used medicine, very little was known about how it worked. The scientists, who work at Harvard Medical School and the U. S. Navy hospital at Portsmouth, N.H. were the first to study nitroglycerin in its direct impact on human hearts.

Stretches Blood Vessels
Since its effect on the heart was discovered in 1867, it has been classed as a stretcher of heart blood vessels, and that it is, of course. However, Brachfeld, Bozer and Gorlin showed that its big effect was to increase oxygen use by the heart muscle.

From the medical standpoint the importance of this was the demonstration that nitroglycerin is not "a pure dilator" of heart blood vessels, because "a pure dilator" would enlarge the arteries without changing the heart's rate of using oxygen. Under many circumstances, that's a useful thing for doctors to know.

Previous studies were handicapped by less exact methods and the necessity of using animal rather than human hearts. As a result, their findings were often contradictory.

And so the picture was anything but clear and many unsupported assumptions were being made as to what nitroglycerin didn't and did do inside hearts. The scientists reported their clearing of the picture to a technical organ of the American Heart Assn.

Red Griggs the pipeline

WOW, YIPPEE, AND HO, HO, HO! LOOK WHO'S IN THE AMERICAN LEAGUE CELLAR!

None other than the mighty ex-world champion New York Yankees. Excuse the horse laugh, but it's not often anyone in the anti-Yankee clan has a chance to sneer at the perennial world champs, and far be it from me to pass up such an opportunity.

To be exact, the Yankees haven't been in the cellar (except for the first couple of days in the season) since May 23, 1940. But the Detroit Tigers dropped them into the number eight spot Wednesday by beating them, 13-6.

I don't have illusions about how long this will last. With bushels of luck, and the continued "cooperation" of the Yankees, a couple of weeks at most. But it sure will be nice while it lasts!

Maybe, just maybe, if the Yankees stay in their slump and the Indians or the White Sox or the Orioles stay hot, somebody else can win the American League pennant. Its just possible, if somebody can grab a 10 or 12 game lead by the fourth of July and then hold on for dear life.

Other Teams Have Won It!

Those who have long memories may recall that other teams have won the American League pennant. Youngsters and teenagers will find that hard to believe, but it is a fact, not a myth or a legend.

As recently as 1954, less than five years ago, Cleveland actually beat the Yankees by eight full games. And you only have to go back six more years in the record books to find that the same Cleveland team beat the Yankees as recently as 1948.

Those of Little League and Pony League age need read no further, because they won't believe this anyway. But some baseball fans may recall that in the years of 1944, '45, and '46, the Yankees lost not one pennant — but three straight!

That was in wartime and immediately afterward, and it's unlikely that such miracles will happen again. But it may not be too unreasonable to hope the Yankees will lose just one little pennant — just one.

Glover Named to West Team

DE WAYNE GLOVER named to all-stars

DeWayne Glover of Pampa is one of 22 players selected to play on the West squad in the 10th annual Greenbelt Bowl all-star football game, August 15 in Childress. The Greenbelt players are picked from among the top high school

The entire American League has been turned upside down, with the exception of the Chicago White Sox. The Sox are the only first division team which is supposed to be there. Cleveland, Baltimore, and Washington weren't rated as Chinaman's chance (in a Tibetan dark alley) before the season started. But they're right up there among the top four.

Cleveland and Baltimore have been burning up the league, and Harmon Killebrew has proved to be the hottest Washington player since Joe Hardy, in keeping the Senators in contention. In fact, he's been so much like the mythical Hardy of "Davy Crockett" that it makes you kinda wonder if he didn't make a deal with Mr. Applegate to get all that home run power.

On the other hand, the Yankees and Detroit were supposed to fight it out for the pennant, and they're fighting, all right — to stay out of the cellar. Looks as if anything can happen in baseball.

gridders in West Texas. Forty-four players are chosen, and are divided into East and West teams. Benny Williams of Howard Payne will coach the West squad this year, and Delmer Brown of East Texas will act as trainer. Glover and the other Greenbelt all-stars will meet with their coaches August 10 in Childress, and will have a week of workouts before the game.

Glover made the team on the strength of his outstanding performance for the Harvesters, who didn't win a district game. Glover led the team in pass receiving (both passes caught and 1 to 81 yardage), and was a defensive standout. He received honorable mention for the all-district team.

Then there's the one about the two Russians who had a political discussion in a cafe. "What do you think of Khrushchev?" asked one. The other Ruskny looked over his shoulder, saw the place was crowded, and led his companion outside into an alley. After looking over his shoulder again, to make sure no one was listening, he whispered to his comrade: "I like him."

Will's Bat Heard All Way From Fort Worth to Chicago

FORT WORTH (UPI) — Bob Will is trying to make himself heard in Chicago.

And, the noise he has been making with his bat may yet reach the target—the front office of the Chicago Cubs.

Will, a 27-year-old Chicago-born outfielder, has made similar noises before and been heard, but none quite so loud as those he's been making at the expense of American Association pitchers thus far this spring.

The Cubs, who own Will's contract as well as the Fort Worth Cats' Class AAA farm club here, have called in Will twice before, but each time he's failed to deliver in big time style.

He hopes the third time charm will pay dividends in his case. Anyhow, he's powdering opposing pitchers at around a .400 clip. Will played the final 82 games for Fort Worth last year when the franchise still was in the lower classification Texas League and hit a merry 361 clip while driving in 45 runs. The Cubs brought him up late, but he hit only .260 in a half dozen games.

The year before, the Cubs recalled him from Fort Worth while he was at the .341 mark among the Texas League's batting elite. But, in 70 games with the Cubs he managed only a .223 average.

Too, he was the victim of a boner that may have helped push him back downstate. Against Pittsburgh one day, he was blinded by the sun from seeing the scoreboard while the Pirates had a man on second.

He thought there were two out, but couldn't be sure. He held up two fingers for the Cub fielder for verification and thought his teammate nodded.

So, when a fly ball was hit to center, Will caught it and started trotting in with the "third out." Before he woke up, the Pirate base runner was headed safely home.

"But, that's not why the Cubs didn't keep me," Will says. "I hear Joe DiMaggio once pulled the same stunt. If it could happen to him, it certainly could happen to me."

But, Will thinks he's a better hitter now, "than I ever have been."

"I feel more confident," he added. "Experience is paying off for me. Nobody can play six years and keep stepping up without learning something."

"But, I don't know that I'm doing anything different. I haven't changed my swing, and I'm not seeing the ball any better."

"The only thing is that I might think the Cubs gave me a fair chance this spring."

It's up to the Cubs, but Will's teammates think he's ready.

"Why, even when that guy makes an out, it's usually a line drive," said third baseman Joe Macko.

TAKES COACHING JOB

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (UPI) — Joe Saxon, former baseball and basketball star at Purdue, has been named the Bolleymakers' head baseball and assistant basketball coach.

Hey, Ma! Look Who Fell Into The Cellar! It's Bombers Occupy Basement For 1st Time in 19 Years.

By MILTON RICHMAN United Press International

You think the Yankees got troubles?

Step in a little closer, Buster, and get a load of some real misery among baseball's other unfortunates.

Like the fizzling Phillies, for example, now suffering through their worst losing streak in three years.

Or bewildered Bob Friend of Pittsburgh, with his 0-7 record. He isn't exactly cheering over that showing. Neither is Jack Harshman about his woeful 0-5 slate with Baltimore.

To quote Casey Stengel: "It sure is a sad situation."

Not for everyone, though.

The Cleveland Indians cling to their half-game lead in the American League with a 5-3 victory over Washington Wednesday night.

The second-place White Sox stayed close to the Tribe with a 5-2 win over Baltimore; Detroit climbed out of the cellar for the first time this season and dumped the Yankees into it for the first time in 19 years by beating them, 13-6, and Kansas City moved into the first division with an 8-2 decision over Boston.

Lose Eighth Straight In the National League, the Cubs handed the Phillies their eighth straight loss, 7-5; the Cardinals knocked Friend out in the second inning while beating the Pirates, 11-1; the Giants snapped the Braves' six-game winning streak, 6-3, and the Reds won the second game of a two-night doubleheader, 7-5, after the Dodgers took the opener, 8-4. Rocky Colavito and Vic Power each drove in a pair of runs to help the Indians hand the Senators their fourth straight loss.

Dick Donovan's four-hit pitching for the White Sox cooled off the Orioles, who suffered only their second loss in the last seven games.

The big story of the day, of course, was the Yankees' hitting rock bottom for the first time at this stage of the pennant race since May 25, 1940. Detroit's Frank Lary, a long-time nemesis who has beaten the Yanks 15 times in 23 tries yielded a first-inning homer to Yogi Berra and then held the world champs off until the ninth when Mickey Mantle homered and Berra connected for his second of the game.

The Tigers did a little hitting, too. They raked loser Bobby Schantz and four relievers for 19 hits, including a pair of homers by Eddie Yost, who drove in six runs.

Just Can't Win Roger Maris' 10th homer with one on in the seventh sealed the Athletics' victory over the Red Sox, who now have dropped seven of their last eight games.

Ernie Banks' three-run homer for the Cubs in the eighth inning sank the floundering Phillies. The defeat stretched Philadelphia's losing streak to its longest one since May 13, 1956, when the club snapped a 10-game string.

Felipe Alou drove in three runs for the Giants with a single, double and a homer against the Braves, whose NL lead was shaved to 3½ games.

Joe Pignatano's first homer of the season with two men on featured a six-run seventh inning rally that gave the Dodgers their opening game triumph over the Reds. In the nightcap, Gus Bell's three-run homer highlighted a five-run third inning for the Reds after Roy McMillan had tagged loser Carl Erskine for a two-run homer in the second inning.

Mobsters Try To Muscle In On Welter Champ Jordan

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The California Athletic Commission left it up to the top legal officers of Los Angeles and California today to decide whether any action should be taken because of alleged underworld attempts to gain control of world welterweight champion, Don Jordan.

The commission Wednesday questioned a series of witnesses, including two Southern California gangland figures, Louis Dragna and Joe Sica, on reports that eastern racketeers tried to "muscle in" on Jordan and threatened violence if a payoff was not forthcoming.

At the close of the day-long hearing, Dr. Dan Kilroy, commission chairman, ordered transcripts submitted to the Los Angeles district attorney, the California attorney general and the U. S. attorney's office here to determine if "any possible action" should be taken.

The names of both Frank (Blinky) Palermo, Philadelphia fight manager, and underworld figure Frankie Carbo both figured in the testimony of such witnesses as Jackie Leonard, Hollywood fight promoter.

Refuse To Testify Neither Dragna nor Sica had anything to say to the commission. They invoked the Fifth Amendment a total of 22 times during the afternoon session of the hearing, and Sica once claimed he had difficulty hearing earlier testimony because of an ear injury received when shot in the head.

Leonard told the commission he received a telephone call before the Dec. 5 fight here in which Jordan won the title from Virgil Atkins. He said that at the time Palermo said, "We are in for one-half of the fight."

The promoter said he became concerned and told Don Neseth, Jordan's manager, when they were at lunch with Truman Gibson, then the president of the former International Boxing Club. He described the demand for a portion of the purse.

Gibson's reaction, Leonard testified, was to say, "You're crazy—they wouldn't do anything like that. Tell him to go to hell."

The promoter said that since the second Jordan-Atkins fight several weeks ago, "someone called me who called Frankie Carbo regarding the money. He said no one had ever done this to them and that someone is going to 'get hurt'."

The threat followed a trip to Miami where he went at Blinky's request.

"Blinky called me and asked me to come to Miami," Jackie said. "He said he wanted me to see Mr. Norris (presumably Jim Norris, former IBC president)."

But-Norris was gone when he arrived. He said Blinky and a fellow named Mike took him to a motel and Palermo said "he wanted to make sure Neseth was okay."

He said Palermo later appeared at his office, accompanied by Dragna.

"I told him the situation had gotten out of hand and Neseth wasn't going to give away anything. Either Dragna or Blinky asked me where Neseth lived and if he had a wife and children."

Two Future-Exes Games Slated Here

Gridders Play Tonight at 8; Cagers Go Same Time Friday

By RED GRIGGS
Daily News Sports Editor

Two future-exes games are scheduled within the next 30 hours at Pampa High School. The football game begins tonight at 8 p.m. in Harvester Park, and the basketball contest starts at 8 p.m. Friday in Harvester Field House.

Tonight's football game is the climax of a three-week spring training period for the Pampa High School gridgers. Next year's team will play the 1958 seniors.

Friday's basketball game will match the five seniors from the '59 state championship Harvester cage squad against next year's varsity team.

The basketball game will be preceded by another game between two squads of next year's Shockers, with some at last year's Shockers included. It will begin at 6:15 p.m. Head Coach Babe Curfman ran his grid team through an intra-squad scrimmage Wednesday night, in order to practice the plays they'll use tonight.

Curfman would not predict the outcome of tonight's game. "You never know until they get on the field," he said. The Harvester pilot said that his squad will probably stick mostly to the ground, but will pass some. The emphasis has been on rushing and rushing defense through the entire spring practice period.

Football Starters

Starting lineups for the "future" tonight will be as follows:
Offense — Kent Mitchell and Charles Warren, ends; Benny Stout and Jim Scott, tackles; Roland Stone and Harold Stokes,

Defense — Mitchell and Stout, ends; Stone and Scott, tackles; Stokes, middle guard; Duke Garren and Dunham, inside linebackers; Haralson and Cooper, corner linebackers; Roy Don Stephens, left halfback, and Bobby Stephens, right halfback.

The "exes" squad will use the single wing tonight, in order to give the Harvester defense a real workout. Starters for the exes will be as follows:

Basketball Starters

Starters for the basketball "exes" will be Coyie Winborn, Mack Layne, Bob Gindorf, Charles Minor, and Don McGuire. Starters for the "futures" will be Craig Winborn, Pat Carter, Joe Timms, Phillip Gist, and Allen Wise. Billy Wray and Hershel Terrell are also expected to see action for the futures, according to Coach Clifton McNeely.

Terry Culey, Shocker coach, said that he probably will play some of last year's Shockers in the first half of the B game, then put in a group of next year's players.

Playing for last year's Shockers will be Benji Richardson, Don Curry, Eben Warner, Bill Neilage, Leslie Stanfield, and Harold Green.

One team of future Shockers will be composed of Lloyd Balch, Jim Stephenson, Ray Russell, Harold Burgess, Max Patton, John Arthur, and Jim Harris.

The other future Shocker team will be Jim Crinklaw, Bob Neilage, Charles Fant, George Simmons, Tony Edmondson, Mike Stewart, Jim Story, and J. D. Heinger.

Machen Looks Bad, But Beats Vargas

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The only thing on tap today for heavy-weight prospects Eddie Machen and Reuben Vargas was a rematch.

No hollering for a shot at Floyd Patterson's world crown; nobody even asking for Pete Rademacher.

Machen, 197½, won a 10-round decision over Vargas, 189½, in a nationally televised bout Wednesday night that was supposed to send one man or the other climbing up the fistic ladder. Machen had entered the bout as the fifth-ranked challenger. Vargas was unranked, but in his last bout he defeated Tony Anthony in New York.

When Wednesday night's bout was over, neither man had covered himself with glory—although there was quite a blood letting. And both claimed after the bout that the other wasn't "such a much" as a puncher.

There were no knockdowns in the battle although Machen was pushed to his knees in the third and Vargas pushed down in the fifth. Vargas had the edge through the first few rounds, but Machen took command in the late sessions and consistently rocked Reuben's head with sharp lefts.

Vargas bled profusely from the nose and a cut above his right eye for the last three rounds.

Referee Verne Bybee had it 98-95; judge Jack Downey, 96-94; judge Matt Zidich, 97-95—all for Machen. The United Press International had it for Machen 97-96.

Paid attendance at the match was 11,172. Gross receipts totaled $57,272.

PICTURE NEWS

AROUND THE WORLD

TEE FOR TWO—Sharpening up their golf in Durango, Mexico, actress Audrey Hepburn and director John Huston get in the swing. They were on location for a new film, "The Unforgiven," and this sort of thing took place between scenes.

ELECTRIC CATCH—Fishing commissioner Joseph Critchfield is scooping a large-mouth bass from Pymatuning Lake, near Harrisburg, Pa. He "caught" it with a new electric "fish shocker," a 230-volt, 300-watt screen (left) that operates on direct current. A control panel on the boat regulates the current. The stunned fish recover for removal to new breeding grounds.

CRY BABY—Those are tears of happiness being shed in New York by old-time English Channel swimmer Gertrude Ederle. She was overcome by emotion when presented with a trophy by Beatrice Metzger (left), president of the Women's Swimming Association, during the last meet of the season.

RECEPTION COMMITTEE—The Pirates' Dick Groat (center) had a warm welcome awaiting him after his third inning grand slam home run in Philadelphia. His team scored six runs in the big third inning against the Phillies.

PLAY BALL!—The community-owned team in San Antonio, Tex., scores a pre-season hit with fans for their selection of Poster Girl Pat Carrell as their "Mission Maid" for the 1959 season. Pat smilingly reveals she is 100 per cent behind her "club" as baseball fever broke out in the Alamo City.

GRIPPING MOMENT—Grasping the bat firmly, Cy Perkins, former major league ballplayer and coach, introduced King Simeon, II (left), exiled monarch of Bulgaria, to America's national pastime. They're at the Valley Forge Military Academy in Wayne, Pa. Perkins coaches the academy's baseball team, and the former king is a student at the school.

COMING IN—Baltimore's Chico Carrasquel looks properly chagrined as he rolls into home plate where Yankee catcher Elston Howard waits with the ball in the ninth inning of the first of two games at Yankee Stadium in New York. Carrasquel was trying to score from second on a single by Billy Gardner, but he was cut down by yards on Marv Throneberry's throw to Howard. Orioles won both games.

THE WINNER!—Jack Nicklaus, Walker Cup team member from Columbus, Ohio (left), won the 59th annual North and South Golf Championship trophy in Pinehurst, N. C. W. B. Foreman, Elizabeth City, presented him with his silver award. Gene Andrews (right) was the runner-up.

TENNIS BALLET—Lew Hoad is shown in action during his tennis match with Ashley Cooper near Hamilton, Bermuda. Hoad won by a 6-1, 6-3 score, playing before a large audience in the warm, spring sunshine.

THEY'LL BE THERE—Gymnasts Myra Perkins (left) and Muriel Davis practice a stunt on uneven parallel bars in Chicago. They are among the female gymnasts who, for the first time in history, will be permitted to perform when the international Pan-American Games are staged there this summer.

HORSING AROUND—The horseplay's a little strenuous down in Dallas, Tex., where some fraternity "chargers" are puffing away during a chariot race at Southern Methodist University. The event was part of the annual SMU fun weekend.

FISHERMEN'S PARADISE—The fisherman is almost lost in the vast grandeur of Jasper National Park in Canada. He appears as a small image at lower right, dwarfed by the towering snow-capped peaks and tall trees. The angler's trying his luck at Maligne Lake, located a mile high in the Canadian Rockies where speckled trout can be caught all year.

Hussein Is New Mid-East Strength

Foreign News Commentary
By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign Editor

Amid the swirling Mideastern sands stirred up by the power struggle between Iraq's Abdel Karim Kassem and Egypt's Gamal Abdul Nasser, a new strongman has appeared.

He is 24-year-old King Hussein of Jordan.

Less than a year ago he easily could have won title as a man least likely to succeed, or even to live very long in a land noted for the dispatch with which an assassin's bullet could erase leaders or street mobs change the course of history.

Nor is the young king's future secure even now, caught as he is between Egypt and Syria in need of the Jordan land bridge to link geographically as well as politically their United Arab Republic, and between the UAR and Iraq, each with its own particular brand of Arab nationalism.

Nor in an area of bitter anti-Westernism is his security aided by the fact that he is frankly friendly toward the United States.

Jordanian throne and the fact that to him was given most of the credit for saving Hussein against bitter attacks by the Cairo and Syrian radios and their obvious attempts to dislodge him, and for thwarting numerous other plots against him.

The new premier, Hazza Majali, had one other bitter taste of the job.

He held it for 80 hours in 1955. Majali, was a pro-Baghdad Pact man, and the British were in the midst of an ill-advised attempt to high pressure Jordan into joining the Egyptian and Syrian radios, the street mobs took over. The mobs stoned and fired U. S. point four buildings and British libraries. Less than four days after he took over, Majali resigned.

Reflection of Confidence
Hussein's action in firing El Rifai is a reflection of his confidence in his own growing popular support. A year ago it would have been impossible for both him and El Rifai to be away from Amman, as they were recently in Washington, with any safety that his regime still would be standing upon his return.

Mideastern diplomats also believe Hussein would not have named Majali to the job without full confidence that Majali will follow his orders.

Geographically, Jordan is important only to its neighbors who covet its land. Except politically, the land itself is all but worthless. It has no natural boundaries and financially it must exist on handouts from the United States and Britain and now-and-then support from Saudi Arabia. But Hussein himself today may be a balance wheel helping to preserve the Mideast's precarious peace.

Latest evidence of Hussein's determination to plot his own course came this month when he sacked Premier Samir El-Rifai and installed in his place 42-year-old Hazza Majali.

The action came almost within hours of Hussein's return home to his capital of Amman after a world tour which included dinner with a bevy of Hollywood film beauties as well as a talk with President Eisenhower in Washington.

In Washington, he had been joined by El-Rifai, who accompanied him the rest of the way home.

There was no indication that any disagreement had risen between the two during the trip, but the feeling was that El-Rifai's sought and obtained resignation simply culminated a growing determination in Hussein to take over his own and Jordan's destinies.

Caught By Surprise
But the move caught the Western world by surprise because of El-Rifai's proven devotion to the

Her Commencement Began When Russians Freed Poland

Woman's View
By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mira Reim deserves honors in courage as well as in the classroom. The 21-year-old campus queen will be graduated magna cum laude from Long Island University, in Brooklyn, in June.

But commencement for the tall brunette beauty really began in April, 1945, when Russian troops marched into the little town of Bendzin, Poland, and liberated its residents from the Nazis.

Now, Mira will be going back to study German literature next fall at the Rhenish Frederick William University in Bonn.

In a way, she said in an interview, hers is an Anne Frank story with a happy ending. She escaped death in the gas chamber "by a miracle." Her parents were separated and spent most of the war years in concentration camps—her father, Mark in the infamous Dachau; her mother, Dora, in the equally infamous Auschwitz.

Find Each Other

"By another miracle," she said, "we found each other after the war. But we are the only members of the family left. My grandparents died in the gas chamber. My uncles and aunts and their children died in concentration camps, some in the gas chamber, some of starvation and disease."

Mira tells her story simply, without dramatics.

Her father owned a wholesale hardware business in Sosnowiec, Poland, when the Nazis swept in and began the persecution and imprisonment of Jews. Mira was one year old at the time.

"At first," she said, "it was move to a smaller house. Pretty soon, to just one room. Then to another town, and the ghetto. Then daddy was shipped out, mother didn't know where, and we were marked for the concentration camp."

Slips Note Out

"The Nazi rule was the gas chamber for old people and children because they could not work. My mother is a woman of tremendous will; she managed to slip a note through the ghetto fence asking help for her only child."

One day Mira was smuggled over the wall and into the waiting arms of a woman. "She was Catholic," Mira said, "and had sons in the war and smaller children at home. She was not under suspicion but her husband was because the SS once caught him listening to a BBC broadcast."

"To hide him when troops made their rounds, the family had constructed a false closet, its door concealed behind a chest. Here they also hid me when there was a knock at the door."

Taught To Read

"The woman was a good woman... she taught me to read and write. She bleached my hair blonde to hide identity and when she could no longer get bleach, she shaved my head and I wore a hat at all times."

Mira never left the little house in Bendzin while she lived there. "I knew, even as small as I was, that to be found was to die."
