Soviet Withdraws Demand To Seat E. Berlin At Geneva

By STEWART HENSLEY United Press International

GENEVA (UPI)—A Soviet demand that East Germany be seated as a full member of the Foreign ministers' conference delayed...

The conference start by 2 1/2 hours today. Russia withdrew the demand in the face of stonewall Western opposition.

The Russian reversal was announced by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko after he had rejected a series of attempts to have him retreat on the issue.

Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and his Western partners, who had lunched with Gromyko at a formal Swiss function, immediately plunged into informal talks with him.

Ambitious Reds Putting Damper On Conference

By K. C. THALER United Press International

GENEVA (UPI)—The Western powers faced the foreign ministers' conference today still deeply divided on the merits and pitfalls of negotiating with the Soviets.

Their differences stemmed from conflicting assessments of the Kremlin's intentions and of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's personal ambitions.

Britain, which helped promote the Geneva meeting, felt Khrushchev wanted serious negotiations with the West for a variety of compelling reasons and that he would make some concessions.

West Germany and France saw no change in Russia's aims and long-term ambitions. The United States remained highly skeptical of any change of heart in Moscow.

Tornadoes Hurt Texas

United Press International

Thunderstorms lashed at Southeast Texas and the upper coast early today as the dying gasps of a violent weather pattern that struck over a wide expanse of the state Sunday with tornadoes, rain, hail and winds.

At least two deaths were attributed to the weather, six persons were reported injured and property and crop damage may reach a half million dollars.

It was the worst outbreak of tornadoes in Texas this year. Forecasters said, however, that the strong trough which touched off the violence was moving off to the east and that calmer weather appeared in prospect.

But, shortly after daybreak, thunderstorms were reported at Houston, Galveston and Beaumont. Port Arthur, up to that time, Beaumont-Port Arthur had recorded 2.75 inches of rain and Houston 2.09.

Ennis Gets Heavy Rain Heavy rains peppered the state in a scattered fashion throughout Sunday and Sunday night but most of them missed official weather reporting stations.

Dallas and Fort Worth recorded 1.50 inches, Wichita Falls 1.21, Texarkana .75 and Waco .65 with other reports less than one-quarter inch.

Just south of Dallas, however, Ennis reported 3.78 inches, Ferris 3.02, Rosess 3.10, Kaufman 2.75 and a gauge eight miles east of Corsicana recorded 3.46 inches.

Skies cleared in West Texas during the night, but early today low clouds and fog formed in the South Plains and from Abilene and Mineral Wells northward to the Red River.

Temperatures in the wake of the squall line were considerably cooler with early morning readings ranging from 55 at Dalhart to 78 at Corpus Christi.

A Mount Vernon, Tex. man, Clyde L. Brewer, and his son, Malcolm Darrell Brewer, 11, died in an automobile accident in a blinding rain storm within the city limits of Sulphur Springs, in East Texas.

Six farm workers, who live south of Hearne, suffered minor injuries when a twister destroyed several small homes and barns. The victims were treated at a hospital and released.

The tornado that caused the worst damage hit an industrial district just north of Austin. It destroyed the Toungate & Coats Air Conditioning Co. and the Johnson-Chemical Co. Deputy Sheriff George Pope said each firm suffered $100,000 damage.

Twisters Bounced It damaged the T. H. Hodges Lumber Yard and picked up two 18,000 pound trucks loaded with lumber and smashed them together as if they were toys.

This twister then bounced like a boy on a pogo stick for several miles along a farm road - destroying a dairy barn, a tavern and damaging or destroying some 20 small houses - most of them Negro farm workers' shacks.

"It was an act of God that no one was injured," Pope said. He said many of the shacks were un-

Secretary of State Christian Herter meets with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer in Bonn. Herter heard German views on problems slated for discussion at the Geneva foreign ministers' conference.

Employment Is Climbing

By WILLIAM J. EATON United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Unemployment fell by 135,000 in April to 3,827,000—the lowest level since December 1957—the government reported today.

The number of people working climbed to a record April high of 65,012,000.

Brisk hiring in construction and manufacturing and a seasonal pick up in farm work lifted the April employment total by 1,185,000 from March.

Both changes were twice as good as was expected on a seasonal basis. They dropped the proportion of the labor force out of work from 5.8 per cent in March to 5.3 per cent in April.

The Commerce and Labor departments said in a joint report "the job recovery accelerated in April" and the favorable developments meant that two-thirds of the unemployment bulge accumulated by the 1957-58 business recession was wiped out.

Average factory earnings rose 63 cents from March. This gave the average factory worker $89.87 a week in April.

Seymour Wolfson, the Labor Department's chief job expert, called as "a most encouraging sign" that 450,000 of the unemployment drop included married men with families — "a critical sector where it really counts."

The unemployment total was down 1,100,000 from December, indicating that after a sluggish winter the job picture brightened markedly in the spring, the report said.

But unemployment was still more than 900,000 higher than in April 1957, when the jobless rate was only 4.0 per cent. A year ago, at the bottom of the recession, the rate was 7.5 per cent and unemployment totaled 5,120,000.

Manufacturing jobs increased by 30,000 last month to 15,991,000 instead of showing the usual April decline.

Best in Year The drop in the number of jobless workers was the greatest in one month since before the recession. It was especially welcomed by administration officials who have been concerned about the failure of employment to keep pace with the general business upturn.

Unemployment dropped by 387,000 in March to 4,362,000 after holding steady for nearly four months, discounting seasonal factors.

Election Bill Expected To Clear Legislature

By LLOYD LARRABEE United Press International

AUSTIN (UPI)—A bill moving up primary elections in Texas, revised to meet Gov. Price Daniel's objections, is expected to clear the legislature today as lawmakers close out the regular session and prepare for a special session next week.

Legislators convened for the final two days of the regular session, scheduled to end at 6 p.m. Tuesday night, and faced a call from the governor to meet at 11 a.m. next Monday to make another try at solving the state's taxing and spending problems.

The primary election bill, viewed as giving an assist to Sen. Lyndon Johnson if he seeks the Democratic presidential nomination in 1960, awaited House action on concurrence in Senate changes written into the bill last week.

Both House and Senate passed the primary bill last week, but Daniel objected to two provisions and threatened to veto the measure unless they were revised.

The bill would advance the primary elections — now held on the fourth Saturdays in July and August — to the first Saturdays in May and June. As originally passed, the May state convention in presidential election years would have fallen between the two primary elections — but after Daniel's election the state convention was moved back to June, after the second primary.

Stricken from the bill at Daniel's insistence was a provision that the state party executive committee would have final authority over selection of committee members — rather than the convention.

The regular session's climax to 30 days, they will receive $25 Tuesday night will come on the 120th day of the session — when lawmakers' pay, under the constitution, is cut from $25-a-day to zero.

In the special session, limited to 30 days, they will receive $25 Tuesday night will come on the 120th day of the session — when lawmakers' pay, under the constitution, is cut from $25-a-day to zero.

Tired Nazi Gives Up After 14 Years

CINCINNATI, Ohio (UPI)—A II POW escapes, Rossmist had been a member of Rommel's crack 10th Panzer Corps.

"I felt I wanted to get on the right side of things," Rossmist told Ed Mason, FBI agent in charge here. "As long as I was a fugitive, I was under pressure."

Mason turned him over to immigration and naturalization authorities, and he was released in 4, 1945, by pushing a washbasin in his own custody while his case was studied.

Rossmist immediately retreated to the Koch House, a residence for elderly retired persons here unaccounted for after World War and refused to see reporters.

The Geneva talks could give a guide to Moscow's real intentions and Khrushchev's position in the struggle for supreme power in the Kremlin. Experts say the final answer on Soviet intentions can come only from Khrushchev at the conference table.

Britain's appraisal of the situation was based on the belief Khrushchev has committed himself at home to the claim the West will negotiate with him and that this will enhance his position and remove any potential challenge to his leadership.

To achieve this goal he might be prepared to go a little way to meet the West. British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan was said to have become convinced of this during his trip to Moscow this spring.

Khrushchev is aware of the glaring disparity between Russia's economy and living standards and those of the free Western world, particularly the United States. To improve these living conditions he would like to cut down on defense spending. This would necessitate a prolonged period of relaxation of tension.

The new rains threatened to send Texas rivers on another rampage. A wide area of Northeast Texas was hard hit by torrential rains only a week ago.

A twister struck the small town of Elmendorf, 12 miles southeast of San Antonio, and destroyed two or three houses and damaged others. Bexar county Deputy Sheriff Tony Wyatt estimated damage at $3,000 to $4,000.

Robert Reynolds, his wife and their four children barely missed death or injury. Moments after they had walked out of their house and got into their car a twister bounced off nearby sandhills and blew their small house away right before their eyes.

Elmhendorf is only 25 miles from Somerset, which was almost wiped out by a tornado about a month ago. However, there were no deaths in the Somerset twister.

Big Traffic Jam Reported The twisters started in West Texas and moved east across the state Taylor county (Abilene) sheriff's officers watched a twister dip and take away two barns and part of a rock home on the Texas-Kansas line eight miles southeast of Abilene.

Kiker, who operates a funeral home in Abilene, does not live on the farm and there was no one on the place when the twister hit.

Hope Series Continues "Have Tux, will travel," is the gay wad Bob Hope summed up his fantastic globe trotting career a few years ago as he plodded about the world entertaining U.S. servicemen.

GI's loved him and his government honored him for his untiring efforts to bring laughter to Americans wherever they were — in the frozen North, in Europe, Africa, or the jungles of the Pacific.

But the pace has caught up with Hope, now an ailing and worried man. What does his future hold, and will he have to quit show business? Read Hope's own answers to these questions in the second of three articles on Page 10 of today's Daily News.

Six States Slammed Hard By Twisters, 20 Are Hurt

United Press International

Tornadoes struck in six states Sunday night.

At least 20 persons were injured in twisters in Texas—Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri, Iowa and Wisconsin.

Property damage in Texas alone amounted to the half-million-dollar mark. Virtually an entire Iowa village was blown away by one of the tornadoes.

Two persons were killed in a Texas traffic crash blamed on a blinding rain storm. A twister Saturday night killed five persons in Oklahoma.

Texas bore the brunt of Sunday's weather violence with twisters lacing a volley of wind, rain and hail storms across hundreds of miles.

Six farm workers were injured when a twister smashed homes and barns south of Hearne. A tornado bouncing along the ground for about six miles north of Austin leveled homes and destroyed factories, causing an estimated $250,000 damage.

A twister tore through a family reunion on a farm near Sallisaw, Okla., injuring three persons.

In Iowa, a tornado practically demolished the small community of Fanter northeast of Guthrie Center, injuring one person. About 10 homes and the village store were destroyed or badly damaged.

Elsewhere, several homes were damaged by a tornado near Kansas City, Kan. Property damage also was reported at Valley Center and Wichita, Kan. Winds up to 70 miles an hour battered parts of Kansas and Missouri, uprooting trees and snapping power lines.

Weathermen said the main area of showers and thunderstorms will push eastward today, extending from the Gulf and lower Mississippi Valley to the Great Lakes.

Tag That Mutt! Poundmaster Buster Collins said today that all dogs in Pampa must have 1959 tags. Collins added that dogs picked up without this year's tags will not be released from the dog pound.

Note to Khrushchev Simultaneously, the office of Prime Minister Harold Macmillan in London disclosed that he has sent a letter to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev concerning President Eisenhower's appeal to Russia for progress toward a nuclear test ban. This is a subject almost certain to come up in the general discussion of disarmament at the sessions here, if they ever get off the ground.

Herter, Lloyd and French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville had agreed earlier in the day that they would not agree to seating Red Germany as a full participant, but Lloyd failed to get Gromyko to back down.

The unexpected demand from Russia brought gloom in headquarters of the Western delegations. There had been no thought that the Reds would go so far, at this point, in obstructing the talks.

A meeting Sunday between Gromyko and Lloyd—the first East-West top level meeting—was the one which disclosed the deadlock on East-Germany.

Western diplomatic sources said there was no objection to seating the East Germans in the status of mere "observers" or "advisers" as agreed to in advance, but that seating them now meant diplomatic recognition.

The Western powers flatly warned Gromyko that Russia was endangering the foreign ministers' talks and blocking the road to a summit conference. U.S. officials in Washington have let it be known there would be no summit talks unless the foreign ministers make progress.

Expect Red Backdown High American officials said they expected the Russians to back down sooner or later but added that it may take a day or two.

Cashier Is Stabbed Here

A night cashier at the Busy Bee Cafe, 504 Maple, was stabbed Sunday night during an argument over an unpaid bill, police reported.

Filed by police pending the condition of the stabbed man is Robert Lewis Sewell, a 22 year-old Negro residing at 801 S. Gray.

The cashier, Henry Spencer, 30, was reported today in "fair to good condition" at Highland General Hospital where he was driven by witnesses following the stabbing.

Sewell, according to police, attacked Spencer with a five-inch butcher knife. The knife entered the left side of Spencer and is thought to have punctured the left lung.

The incident took place about 10:30 p.m. after Sewell entered the cafe, ordered a meal and then informed Spencer he did not have enough money to pay his bill.

The two men got into an argument and then a fight on the east side of the Busy Bee, where the 78 band members, Organist Maxine Milliron will furnish dinner music.

DEAR ABBY...

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I was born when my parents were over 50 and it was my duty to care for them until they died. When I was 32 I went to work for a professional man (married and misunderstood—I know now, they all are.) He managed to sell me on the idea of going out with him. We always went some distance from our city. This went on for 22 years. I never could have any boyfriends because he claimed he couldn't tell ahead of time when he could get away, so I sat and waited. I should have known better but Abby, you've never been an "old maid" and had life and romance pass you by. I am over 50 now and don't need any of the usual sermons, but do you think a decent man my age would want me? By the way, the man who ruined my life is successfully directing the lives of others, knowing full well he spoiled mine.

DEAR OLD MAID: No one can "spoil" your life without your consent. Don't look back. A change of scenery and new surroundings could offer a fresh start. Every day "decent" men marry women who have had something to live down.

DEAR ABBY: In the case of a married couple where the husband is very affectionate and passionate and the wife is cool and wants to be left alone, what do you think is bound to happen after about six or seven years?

DEAR TEMPTED: One woman's left ovary can be another woman's banquet.

DEAR ABBY: I know you get lots of letters from teenagers asking about their love life, but this is really serious. I am 14 and so is Tom. When he talks to me on the phone he tells his mother he is talking to one of the boys. When he is over to my house he tells his mother he is out with the gang. Is he ashamed of me or what? (P.S. Another thing, Abby, are nuts bad for your complexion? Someone said they were worse than chocolate.)

DEAR NANCY: Your boyfriend is still at the shy age and doesn't want to advertise the fact that he's got a girl. If you like him, help him keep it quiet. (P.S. About the nuts—Teen-agers with especially oily skins should avoid them.)

DEAR ABBY: My husband's sister writes him letters at work when she knows his address at home. He asks me to answer some of her letters because she is all the time asking for recipes and addresses. The last time he brought me a letter, I noticed pages 4 and 5 were missing. I asked him what happened to these missing pages and he laughed it off. What would you do in my place?

DEAR NOT: Let your husband giggle up the addresses and reciprocate and answer his sister's letters himself.

How far should we go? Get ABBY's booklet, "What Every Teenager Wants To Know." Send 25 cents and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope to ABBY in care of this newspaper.

For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this paper. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

A bargain can sometimes be a wonderful thing, as any woman knows. But it's truly a bargain only when it fits into your wardrobe and serves a purpose there. Purple suede gloves are no bargain if you never wear purple. And this is true no matter if they're selling at less than cost.

Mrs. Stone Named Group Leader

Mrs. Leo Wheeler was hostess to a group of ladies of the Hi-Land Christian Church on Tuesday afternoon in her home. Opening prayer was led by Mrs. Wheeler, who also gave the devotionals from material furnished by Rev. Harold Starbuck, Hi-Land minister.

During a business meeting, Mrs. Sam Stone was elected chairman of the group with Mrs. Wheeler named secretary-treasurer. The group discussed a study plan in the missionary field and made plans to help a group of Indian children in a Christian Mission school in Arizona.

Refreshments were served by the hostess during the social hour to Mmes. Stone, Arden Ranson, Ray Mason, Jim Louch, W. R. Whittell and Linda Crahan.

American Language Being Revised Around Washington

The Lighter Side By FRANK ELEAZER United Press International WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Interior Committee spent an hour debating an amendment to a bill it had under study. The amendment finally was put to a vote. The count was 9-9. So Chairman Wayne Aspinall (D-Colo.) voted aye, breaking the tie. Aspinall then referred the amended bill to a subcommittee, with instructions to find out what the committee had done. Well, it's not surprising nobody knew. The American language around here is always getting rewritten. New words are devised. Old favorites drop out of sight. The drop-out process of course is known in these parts as attrition. This also is the word a Defense Department witness used in telling the House Armed Services Committee recently how the Army expected to cut back on its strength. "How many men will you admit between now and July 17?" somebody immediately asked. Newsmen missed the answer. Probably too busy worrying about all that new bunch of fellows on crutches. The Navy got a lot of house with congressmen last year with its new unsinkable ship. This was called a notional ship. The reason it couldn't be sunk was that it was never going to be built. Just a planning ship, the Navy explained. Big news in the Navy this year is a ship. A captain who unveiled this development before an appropriations subcommittee said it's a term meaning fleet rehabilitation and modernization. The problem with military inventions like this is that Congress, after denouncing them, usually adopts them as its own. Sometimes it improves them. Take for example the subcommittee's printed hearings showed Rep. George H. Mahon (D-Tex.), four pages after from an introduction, discussing the framatization program. By next year, at this rate, they won't be overhauling ships at all. They'll be framatizing them. The program by then will be described as framatization. A ship about to be mothballed — now there's a real, genuine, old linguistic relic — will be pictured as ready for deframatization. It's A Verb. Satellites is a word the Air Force currently looks on with favor. Most folks always considered this a noun. Now it's a transitive verb. One helpful congressman says what it means when used this way is orbitize. He didn't say what that means. The military, though way out front in the new words race, can't take all the credit. A Civil Aeronautics Board official told a committee this week CAB could approve airline mergers all right. But about dismergers he wasn't so sure. A CAB safety man testified that part of his job is to dealphabetize aircraft. Other testimony gave a clue to why this is important. It seems that planes operate on two noncoincident incompatible navigation arrangements. "Does this mean that the present system is inadequate?" wondered Rep. Sidney Yates (D-Ill.). You could look at it that way, the man said. Congressmen sometimes invent words on their own. I don't have any idea what brought it up but two House members this week came up with Luce-tongued, Rep. Stewart L. Udall (D-Ariz.) defined this as untimely invective. Rep. Frank M. Coffin (D-Maine) preferred re morse-less comment.

SOVIET

(Continued From Page 1) two. That means today's opening session might be postponed or cancelled. They said Herter was willing to have the formal meeting open without a procedural agreement but that he would make it clear there was no use continuing unless Russia agrees that East and West Germans be present only as advisers. The British, while less outspoken than the Americans, were privately taking as firm a line. But they expressed hope Gromyko would change his position before the opening session. United Nations Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold, here for the opening session, conferred Sunday with Gromyko and Herter but would not say if the talks were concerned with the new Russian demand. Herter Stands Firm American officials said the sober certainty was that the Russians had known all along the West would not admit East Germany as an equal and that Gromyko's maneuver was a propaganda gambit designed to convince the satellite nations the West is trying to bar them from participation in international affairs. Herter, in his first big league engagement with the Russians, was showing himself every bit as tough as his predecessor, John Foster Dulles, in standing up to Soviet threats and demands. He was said to be certain the Russians, in the final count, could not afford to be blamed before the world for dashing hopes for lowered tension and that eventually Gromyko would drop the demand. The blowup over the East Germans overshadowed for the moment the grave issues facing the conference. It also was a symptom of the differences which divide the East and West on every point at issue. Allies Polish Plan The Western powers polished up a "package plan" which they worked out at Paris two weeks ago and which they will hand to Russia once the meeting gets underway. It calls for a step-by-step reunification of Germany. The final step would be free elections to form an all-German government, composed on a basis of proportionate population, with which the victorious Allies could conclude a peace treaty. Pegged to specific steps on reunification would be agreements on a new status for Berlin and a pact for limitation and eventual reduction of troops and weapons in Central Europe. The Russian proposal was for the Allies to quit West Berlin and permit it to become a Red-enclosed and defenseless free city at the mercy of the surrounding Communist armies. East Germany would control the 110-mile long access routes to Berlin. The Russians also proposed a 28-nation peace conference to write a peace treaty with East and West Germany.

Smoking May Up Secretion In Stomachs

By DELOS SMITH UPI Science Editor NEW YORK (UPI) — A troublesome question has been answered in a way which will be acceptable to most scientists, but the answer won't please smokers who have stomach ulcers. The question is, does smoking increase the secretion of acids from the stomach's lining? It had been answered with a yes and a no and also a maybe by previous scientific experiments. The new answer is yes, although the why of it is less clear. The answer came from an experiment designed to eliminate scientific objections to the experiments which produced the contradictory answers. In this one, stomach "A" was always compared with itself, never with stomach "B." The extreme individuality of stomachs can and has tripped scientists. And all stomachs were tested under identical conditions. Drs. D. W. Piper and J. M. Raine took 12 men who were fasting — their stomachs were empty. All were smokers but none had smoked for 10 hours. Tubes were passed into their stomachs and kept under suction, which removed the secretions of stomach linings as they appeared. For one hour, the 12 stomachs secreted without any influence being applied from the outside; that is, the men neither smoked nor ate nor drank. The base rates of total volume and total acid content of stomach secretions were thus established. After that hour, the 12 men smoked cigarettes with filter tips. They smoked four to six during the following hour. In all 12 stomachs, there was a marked increase in the volume of secretions and in the free and total acids in those secretions. For the 12 taken together, the amount of increase was well over 100 per cent.

The brain in the state drivers license division here nearly blew a gasket when multiple renewal applications for Moran were fed into it. All had different addresses, so Chicago police were alerted. They found him trying to pay for still another renewal application with a worthless $25 check. He was held on suspicion of passing bad checks.

17 KILLED, 30 INJURED

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — A speeding passenger train ploughed into a crowded bus on the Laredo highway Sunday night, killing 17 persons and injuring at least 30 others. The accident occurred eight miles outside Mexico City. The passenger train had just left the capital bound for Vera Cruz when it struck the bus at a grade crossing. The bus was returning from a sightseeing tour of the Teotihuacan Pyramid near here. Officials at the Ruben Lenero Hospital said it had received 30 injured, several in critical condition.

EMPLOYMENT

(Continued From Page 1) mer resorts and farming along with a pickup in the manufacturing industries hardest hit by the recession contributed to the April improvement. One sign of the trend was evident in the latest government report on unemployment insurance. The Labor Department said the number of workers drawing jobless benefits fell to a new 1959 low of 1,724,600 in the week ended April 25. This was nearly half the number on benefit rolls a year ago at the bottom of the recession.

CHEVY'S THE HOTTEST ONE AGAIN!

HOTTEST SELLING OF THE LEADING LOW-PRICED 3

What we mean—this new Chevy's gone and whipped up a one-car heat wave. Its fresh, flashing style (nothing warmed over here!) caught on right away, of course. And on no other American car will you find a V8 that actually puts out better than one horsepower for every cubic inch of displacement. As for getting, the most out of a gallon, a pair of Chevy-6's came in one-two in their class in this year's Mobilgas Economy Run—ahead of every other full-size car. And the winning average over the Los Angeles to Kansas City route was a hot 22.38 m.p.g. But, impressive as these records are, they can only hint at why Chevrolet's '59's hottest selling car. To really find out, just drop down to your dealer's and drive one.

Blue Lustre Ideal For Home Carpet Cleaning

An American tradition as old as apple pie though not as palatable is spring housecleaning. This is the time of the year when the woman of the home puts on her apron to dress up the house.

So often the major problem in making rooms look bright and new again is the task of cleaning carpets and upholstery.

It is no longer necessary to take those lovely carpets off the floor for cleaning and renewing the beauty of their colors. A new product called Blue Lustre Carpet and Upholstery Cleaner has been developed especially for home use. This amazing product provides a simple—sure and effective method of cleaning care at very little cost.

Blue Lustre is a special concentrate that is mixed with water to create a billowy foam. This foam is then applied to rugs or carpets with an inexpensive long handled brush or it can also be used in any type of rug shampoo applicator.

The action of Blue Lustre foam makes original colors spring back to life like new again—leaves pile open fluffy and carpets stay cleaner longer because there is no oily, gummy residue to cause rapid resoiling. It's safe for use on the finest oriental rugs and cleans upholstery beautifully.

Housewives have found that Blue Lustre makes it possible to clean soiled spots and pathways as they appear without going over the entire carpet. Blue Lustre is also safe and handy to keep around the house because it is completely odorless and nonflammable. It is economical to use for one half gallon of concentrate is sufficient to clean three 9 x 12 rugs or several pieces of upholstery. Also available in quart and gallon sizes, Blue Lustre is handled locally by Pampa Hardware Co.

US Has Scientific Research Station On Floating Island

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the remarkable story of America's "Ice Islands" and of the courageous men who establish and man them.)

By CHARLES R. MOORE
United Press International

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI)—For the third year, the United States has a military research station on a floating, traveling ice "island" in the Arctic Ocean north of Point Barrow.

It will be home for 15 scientists and 12 Air Force officers as long as it holds together.

That may be a day, a week or years. If the ice lasts long enough most of the men will be rotated after about six months but the base will continue in operation.

If the ice breaks up, and they are as lucky as last year's residents, they will be hauled to safety by Air Force planes before the last chunk vanishes under their feet.

May Cruise To Pole

The station is called Alpha II. When established in mid-April, this year, it is 270 miles north of Point Barrow. It follows the course of Alpha I, which went to pieces last November after 18 months of existence, it may cruise to the North Pole.

No one can predict its exact course. That is one of the reasons for its existence. Scientists and military men want to know more about ocean currents, ocean depths and the nature of the polar ice cap.

Cigarette Smoking Blamed For Cancer

NEW YORK (UPI)—Outdoor work, heavy drinking and frequent respiratory illnesses are statistically significant in lung cancer.

But they are far outweighed by cigarette smoking, the newest study of the problem—which now includes Arthur Godfrey among the statistics—showed today.

TV star Arthur Godfrey was included in the report's statistics.

Of 500 lung cancer victims whose personal and ancestral histories were minutely investigated, about one-seventh were heavy drinkers, and one-third were frequently ill of respiratory troubles. But more than nine-tenths were cigarette smokers and four-fifths had smoked two packs or more a day for years.

The study was made by Drs. Herbert L. Lombard and Leonid S. Sniegoff of Harvard University, Tufts College, and the Massachusetts Department of Public Health. It took seven years and was designed to meet criticisms of previous statistical studies of relations between cigarette smoking and lung cancer. Such criticism has been made by the tobacco industry and some statisticians.

This new study showed that 89 percent of the victims had smoked more than 9,125 packs of cigarettes, or two packs a day for 32½ years. But the average lifetime consumption of the group was about 15,000 packs, or 20 years at two packs a day.

It found that the younger patients were among 28 who had smoked less than 5,475 packs in their lifetimes. This was the sole exception to the study's finding that "the total number of packs smoked... is the important variable."

clear subs Nautilus and Skate go under the ice cap they do not grope blindly through undersea mountains. Their skippers know more about these mountains because of soundings taken from Alpha II.

If war ever came, this sea probably would swarm with subs and there probably would be troops from both sides on top of the ice.

White Deer Boy, First In Boys' Poetry Reading

WHITE DEER (Sp.) — Jack Reynolds won first place in the boys' division and Roy Kay Thompson won second place in the girls' division of the State Interscholastic League poetry reading contest in Austin Friday.

Reynolds, a senior in White Deer High School, lives with his uncle, Hobart McDonald, high school speech teacher; and Miss Thompson, a junior, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Thompson of White Deer.

Reynolds' winning entry was "Mr. Flood's Party," and Miss Thompson read a group of sonnets. Both were coached by Bob Moore, head of the English department.

This is the first time that students from White Deer High School have entered the state competition in poetry reading; however, Reynolds was chosen on the all-star cast in the state one-act play contest last year.

Shah Of Iran Links Himself With Freedom

Foreign News Commentary
By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Pampa Editor

The man-of-the-week: Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi of Iran.

The place: London.

The quote: "There is a common bond between my people and the inhabitants of this great country; the love of freedom and the resolution to defend their mode of life in any contingency."

The Shah of Iran had earned the hard way his right to link himself with England's love of freedom and determination to defend a way of life.

In his 18-year reign he has been wounded by assassins' bullets, broken with tradition and incurred the enmity of the big landowners of his own country, successfully survived an attempt by one-time Premier Mohammed Mossadeq to overthrow him and persisted in his friendship for the West despite the frowns and threats of Moscow.

Divided Estates

In the life of the 40-year-old Shah, on of the last two remaining kings in the Middle East, there has been more tension than tranquility, more strife than peace, more unhappiness than happiness.

Both word and deed have portrayed the Shah as an idealist and a Romanticist.

In 1951, he began breaking up his own huge estates to turn them into small landholdings at bargain rates for the peasants who worked them.

He warned stubborn landowners in the Iranian parliament: "Very soon you should take fundamental steps to insure work, bread and health for every individual of the country."

At his marriage to the beautiful Soraya in 1951 he urged his friends to contribute to a charity rather than to lavish wedding presents.

In 1954, on a visit to the United States, he said he and President Eisenhower would have no difficulty understanding each other through the "language of truth and friendship."

Gift Of God

"Of his ascent to the throne, he said: "My father had to take power and practically proclaim himself king, although he had the support of the people. His was the career of a self-made man. I ascended the throne without having to struggle for it. It was the gift of God, my father and the people."

In 1956, at a diplomatic reception in the Kremlin, he replied to Marshal Kliment Y. Voroshilov's

Oklahoma Links Finals Set Today

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI)—With a nervous eye on the weather, officials of the $25,000 Oklahoma City Open golf tournament sent it into the final rounds today with Ligonier, Pa., strong man Arnold Palmer holding a two-stroke lead through 54 holes.

The scheduled finals Sunday were interrupted by a heavy rain and the threat of a tornado.

Palmer took a 54-hole total of 204, which was 12 under par, into the final round. He had overtaken early leader Tommy Jacobs Whittier, Calif., who led through the first 36 holes, then took a one-over-par 73 Saturday and trailed Palmer by two strokes at 206 going into the finals.

Behind these two, at 208 after 54 holes, were Don Fairfield, Casey, Ill., and Bob Goaly, Crystal River, Fla. Oklahoma City insurance salesman Glen Fowler was next at 210 through 54 holes.

The Sunday interruption came after several golfers had taken to the Twin Hills Country Club course. However, only one 72-hole score—a 316 by Robert Tizka, amateur from Stillwater, Okla., had been posted when the halt came.

Opinions Vary On Floyd, Johansson

By OSCAR FRALEY United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI)—It's a matter of corners today as Floyd Patterson and Ingemar Johansson of Sweden prepare to engage in fistfights at Yankee Stadium on June 25 for the heavyweight bauble.

"In one corner, Patterson is doing a Helen Morgan as he sings the blues about the quality of his most recent semi-annual boxing lessons. In the other, his Scandinavian rival sounds off blithely like Thor preparing to toss a hammer.

And on every street corner this is what your inquiring reporter feasted from those waiting to see this new "fight of the century."

Jack Dempsey, former champion: "Don't count Johansson out. He's big, strong and willing."

Cus D'Amato, Patterson's manager: "So was Primo Carnera."

Gene Tunney, former champion: "Johansson has a good chance. Anything can happen in the ring and usually does."

Casey Still Unhappy After Twinbill Sweep

By MILTON RICHMAN United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Casey Stengel happy? Don't be silly. So what if his Yankees swept a doubleheader from the Senators, 6-3 and 3-2 in 10 innings? "I know the word is out to throw my men low. Everyone's pitchin' 'em right here."

So what if the rest of the American League had "come back to him" and his Bronx Bombers now are only four games behind the first-place Cleveland Indians? "The big thing is that our hitting still is lousy," grumbled the Yankee manager, even after his team won its first doubleheader of the season Sunday.

"Oh, sure, the pitching was okay, but what's so great about us getting nine runs in two games?"

"Everybody's leaving men on base, and I mean everybody! You'd think my ball players never heard of a base on balls. The whole pack of 'em."

"Now you take Elston Howard — and I like the fella—you know how many walks he got before yesterday? Just one, that's all. That guy can hit, lemme tell you, but one walk is all he got."

"And it ain't only him, either. Tony Kubek had one too, before yesterday. Norm Siebern had five, and Gil McDougald also had five."

"The way my players operate up there at home plate you'd think there was some kind of law against getting a base on balls."

"I know the word is out to throw my men low. Everyone's pitchin' 'em right here."

'I'll Try to Get 'Em to Spare You a Dime'

Rematch Set For Myers And Nelson

They'll fight last Saturday night's main event all over again with a new referee at the Top 'O' Texas Sportsman Club this week.

That means rugged Sonny Myers, a black-headed bombshell who is a firm believer in that old "eye for an eye" bit will pair off his tricks and brawn with perhaps this area's dirtiest ring fighter, Art Nelson, of the bleached-blond tresses and tamed body.

Nelson proved faster afoot than Myers Saturday night in their main event slugfest, springing back into the ring before the count of ten by referee Juan Humberto, who ruled Myers, whose disposition certainly doesn't match his first name of Sonny, disqualified for not returning from outside the ring in time.

It was an unpopular decision by Humberto and the usual stormy Pampa spectators made a same known in no soft tones. Therefore, Doc Miller, promoter for the Pampa Shrine Club in the absence of Madison Square Garden bouncer Bob Geigel, has promised local ring fans a new ring arbitrator for this week's bouts.

Nelson used a slick knee drop across the throat of Myers to cop the first fall Saturday night before Myers rebounded in the second round to level the match at a fall apiece with a superb atomic drop and pin.

Both Nelson and Myers were fighting on the ring apron as Humberto counted off to seven, eight and then nine as Nelson jumped back into the ring in the nick of time, leaving Myers on the outside, the loser.

The semi-final match, pitting Silent Joe Hamilton against Nasty Nick Roberts was also a vicious scrap with both grapplers swinging hammer-hard fists, poisoning each other's eye-sockets, pulling hair and on one occasion grinding a cigarette but into one another's eyes.

Both Roberts and Hamilton suffered apenty and at the end of 45 minutes neither had taken time out from their low-down dirty tactics to manage a pin, thus finishing the match in a draw.

In the night's opener Gory Guerrero was disqualified by the unpopular Humberto for not breaking a bad hold on the count of five.

Besides this week's Nelson and Myers' main event, two fem swingers, Tona Tomah and The Arizona Belle will mix it in a best-of-three falls 45-minute semi-final match and the Jap, Tarō Myaki, will square off against Guerrero in the 20-minute opener.

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (UPI) — Juan Manuel Fangio of Argentina, here for Sunday's running of the Monte Carlo Grand Prix, denied today he is considering a return to the track. Sox Take Pair From Cleveland

By FRED DOWN United Press International

You'll have to excuse fun-loving Bill Veck if he's enjoying a huge horse laugh at the expense of Frank Lane and the Cleveland Indians.

Veck's Chicago White Sox took some of the steam out of the front-running Indians Sunday when they scored 5-4 and 5-0 victories and completed a sweep of a three-game series. It was the first severe jolt the Indians have suffered this year and the two wins boosted the White Sox to within 1 1/2 games of the American League lead.

Billy Pierce and Early Wynn, each going all-out this year to win back salary cuts, were the big heroes as the White Sox beat Veck's ex-club for the sixth time in eight tries. Pierce went the distance in the 11-inning opener while Wynn fired a four-hitter to gain the 253rd victory of his major league career in the nightcap. The New York Yankees moved to within two games of the .500 mark by beating the Washington Senators, 6-3 and 3-2, the Boston Red Sox swept the Baltimore Orioles, 3-2 and 5-1, and the Detroit Tigers downed the Kansas City Athletics, 7-6, in the other American League games.

In the National League, the Milwaukee Braves regained first place with 12-4 and 2-1 wins over the Cincinnati Reds, the Los Angeles Dodgers shaded the San Francisco Giants, 3-2, the St. Louis Cardinals came back from a 10-9 loss to defeat the Chicago Cubs, 8-7, and the Philadelphia Phillies beat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 6-3. The Pirates led, 6-4, when the nightcap was halted by curfew in the eighth inning.

Bubba Phillips sent the Chicago-Cleveland opener into extra innings with an eight-inning homer and then singled in the winning run in the 11th inning. Pierce yielded 13 hits but left 12 Indians stranded. Wynn struck out five in the nightcap as he raised his record to 4-2. Nelson Fox hit safely in both games to stretch his hitting streak to 16 games and Del Ennis hit his first American League homer for the White Sox.

Ryne Duren's brilliant relief pitching saved the Yankees opener for Whitey Ford and Norm Siebern delivered the game-winning hit in the second game when he doubled home Mickey Mantle in the 10th inning. Yogi Berra caught in both games and set a major league record by appearing in 148 straight games without making an error. The Yankees have won four of their last five games.

Buddin's Homer Decisive

Don Buddin homered in the 10th inning to win the first game for the Red Sox and Frank Baumann hurled a six-hitter in the nightcap. Relief pitcher Leo Kieley picked up his second win in the first game and Baumann delivered a bases-filled triple on his own behalf in the second game.

The Tigers won their seventh decision in eight games under Jimmy Dykes as Rocky Bridges, Charlie Maxwell and Lou Berberet hit homers. Roger Maris drove in five runs with two homers for Kansas City.

The Braves knocked the Reds out of first place, scoring seven runs in the eighth inning of the opener and winning the second game when Hank Aaron singled with the bases filled and two out in the ninth. Don McMahon's stout relief work saved Bob Rush's second victory in the first game and Carlton Willey out-pitched Joe Nuxhall in the second. Aaron went 5-for-0 and knocked in three runs during the doubleheader.

Podres Wins Fourth

Rip Repulski and Charlie Neal homered for the Dodgers as Johnny Podres, helped by late-inning relief from Clem Labine, won his fourth game. Felipe Alou accounted for both Giant runs when he homered after a double by Willie Mays in the eighth inning. Mike McCormick suffered the loss. Earl Averill's 11th inning homer won the first game for the Cubs and a ninth-inning single by Curt Flood produced the decisive blow for the Cardinals in the nightcap. Gino Cimoli had four hits in the first game and three in the second. Manager Solly Hoemus announced the Cardinals were playing the first game under protest on the basis of what he thought was an obstruction of a Cardinal baserunner in the 10th inning. Bobby Thomson drove in six runs for the Cubs in the first game.

Harry Anderson's two-run triple was the big blow for Philadelphia as Robin Roberts won his third game and Bob Friend, a 22-game winner last season, lost his sixth straight decision of this season. Smokey Burgess drove in four runs with a homer and a double to give the Pirates their lead in the nightcap.

BORGER — The Pampa Harvesters were scheduled to close their 1959 baseball season here today at 4 p.m. against the Berger Bulldogs. Keith Yager was to pitch for Pampa in the game, which has been twice postponed because of rain and wet grounds.

Pampa is out of the running for the district title, but by winning the Harvesters could assure themselves of at least a tie for second place in District 3-4A, and knock Berger out of the race. The Bulldogs can tie for the title by winning both their remaining games, if Amarillo loses to Palo Duro.

Borger will play Palo Duro Tuesday at Borger, and Monterey will tangle with the Lubbock Westeners at the same time in Lubbock. Thursday, Amarillo plays Palo Duro, to and the District 3-4A 1959 regular season.

WORLD WAR II ALLIES STILL FIGHTING OVER GERMAN SPOILS

That honeymoon lasted no longer, as history is reckoned, than the space of a breath. Fourteen years later, the Allies of that glorious time and place still are fighting over the divisions of the spoils.

East and West meet again Monday in a foreign ministers' conference in Geneva, each side trying to force the other to give up part of the spoils he seized.

Each side of the cold war now counts part of Germany as its own ally.

Each Armed With Ally
 Though the leaders of the grand alliance of World War II fourteen years ago solemnly pledged that Germans should never again bear arms or be permitted more worldly goods than necessary for bare existence, East and West each has armed its German ally, and doing everything to make them prosperous.

East and West now spare no adjective or epithet to denounce the other's aims and in towards the Germans.

But fourteen years ago, the Germans were the common enemy, and woe to the German who tried to come between the Allies.

It was during that period that an American two-star general attending an official party in his honor in Stuttgart had a German dance team removed from the stage because they attempted to parody a Russian folk dance.

"I'll not have our allies insulted in my presence," he said.

Today, as the great Allies of World War II meet again, two Germanys have grown up. Each Germany has an iron-clad guarantee from its friends among the late wartime Allies that they will come to its aid if any other ally attempts to interfere with its progress.

Friends Become Bitter
 But it was not long before friends turned into bitter enemies as each tried to wrest control of the whole of Germany from the other.

The French wanted permanent dismemberment of Germany, and even refused to agree that postage stamps should be the same in all four zones of occupation.

The Americans and British wanted to establish central all-German economic administrations and treat the nation as a single unit.

The Russians wanted to run their own zone of occupation through Communist puppets imported from Moscow where they had spent the war years.

McClellan Investigation Of Labor Echoes In Statehouses

WASHINGTON WINDOW By RAYMOND LAHR United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The McClellan committee investigation of labor corruption is echoing in statehouses. Some governors and legislators think they see a good national issue which can be converted to state use.

The AFL-CIO is using its left hand to fight against passage of state labor reform laws, while using its right in Washington to get a federal law acceptable to the labor chieftains.

The current issue of the AFL-CIO News reported that "attacks on unions have been launched in more than a dozen state legislatures this year under the smoke-screen of labor reform."

In Indiana, the labor movement blocked passage of a reform bill but paid a high price. It lost its battle for repeal of the state right-to-work law.

The New York Legislature passed a labor bill over AFL-CIO opposition, but these objections were mild compared to those raised against another such measure in Ohio. A bill similar to the Ohio measure was introduced in Michigan under Republican sponsorship.

The Ohio bill carries the blessing of Gov. Michael V. DiSalle, which elected only last fall with labor support. In that same election, a-quit pattern which will severely hamper the operations of honest greatest political struggles by defeating a right-to-work law.

DiSalle's sponsorship of labor reform legislation prompted the machinists' Union newspaper to pose this question in a headline: "Is DiSalle Turning on Labor?" He retorted that his objectives were the same as those of the AFL-CIO Ethical Practices Committee, which was created to combat corruption and undemocratic practices in unions.

The AFL & CIO recently dispatched Arthur J. Goldberg, counsel for the Ethical Practices Committee, to Columbus to testify against the Ohio bill. He had some criticism of specific provisions along with these general comments:

Patchwork Laws

"If Ohio passes such a law, I think it fair to assume that other states will feel free to do likewise. And this will mean that virtually every national union operating in the United States will be subject to a multitude of restrictions, varying from state to state, all of them applicable to the officers of the national union in addition to the federal restrictions."

"Because we have supported appropriate federal legislation, we oppose and will continue to oppose the enactment of legislation on a state-by-state basis which will inevitably create a crazy patchwork of laws which will severely hamper the operations of honest

Answers to some questions on Keotane:

Why do new users like Keotane?
Why do new users not like Keotane?

SINCE the introduction of Keotane in Skelly Supreme gasoline, our premium sales have increased far faster than the rest of the oil industry. That is proof many new users have tried Keotane, have liked it, and continue to buy it.

We have been far more interested in why some new users have not liked Keotane well enough to stick with it. We are confident we have found the answer.

Why Do They Quit Us?
 Briefly, the answer sums up to this, "I tried a couple of fills, and didn't notice much difference."

Beginning with our opening announcement, we have again and again said, "Mile after mile as you drive you will be driving your engine clean, but maximum results will not be reached before about 3,000 miles."

People Who Quit Were Right
 Some people tried a tankful or so, and said they didn't notice results. They were right. They couldn't clean an engine that quickly. Carbon and lead deposits are hard and crusty. They are baked by the heat of the engine. That's why removing them takes time and constant use of Skelly Keotane. Every mile you drive helps Keotane's cleaning action. You should notice results with 1,000 miles of normal driving, but you had better count on 3,000 miles for maximum results.

One Easy, Quick Way
 Road tests and reports from users have shown a faster way to get results. Highway driving is the answer. Many motorists have reported almost unbelievable performance at the end of a 300- to 500-mile trip.

The answer is a simple one, well known to engineers. Keeping at it, mile after mile, accelerates the action of Keotane. In a day or so, you accomplish the cleaning results equal to several months of regular driving. After the trip, constant use of Skelly Keotane will keep your engine clean.

What About New Engines?
 With most gasolines, a new engine accumulates carbon and lead deposits steadily for about 5,000 miles. After that, added deposits fall off. But you have lost lots of horsepower, increased your gasoline consumption and are getting knocks you never had before.

With Skelly Keotane, action begins immediately to keep that new engine clean. You do not notice the changes that usually occur within the first 5,000 miles. You have a "new car" action and you keep on having it.

You Have Nothing to Lose
 If you are a user of premium gasoline, you get all Keotane's extra values at no extra

Full strength, Keotane dissolves glue-like gum quickly, yet won't harm metal. Injected into Skelly Keotane Gasoline, Keotane removes gum-stuck carbon and lead as you drive. Some cars may reach peak improvement with Keotane in 1,000 miles. Others may take 3,000. A few, perhaps, longer. After 3,000 to 5,000 miles of cleaning action, perhaps your timing can now be advanced to take full advantage of your "newer" cleaner engine.

cost. You get improved mileage. You retain or gain, instead of lose, horsepower. You get far greater octane effect, the highest on the market. All this, at no extra cost.

If you are a user of regular, you can make savings so great you are justified in buying Skelly Keotane.

But please stick to it. As you know, you can't put your toe in the water and learn to swim. Try Skelly Keotane Gasoline for 3,000 miles, or on a lengthy road trip, and we believe you will stick to it as your gasoline.

The point to be seen is that an act of theft, when it occurs in a market that has not been inhibited by the intrusion of governmental controls and regulations, does NOT harm the market place.

Gains And Losses

We are left with only two choices. We must base these choices upon principles which should be applied with equal vigor to all phases of the market place.

THE REAL NATURE OF THE THREAT TO AMERICA

A free and therefore strong America has little to fear from other nations. Russia included, the threat to America is the threat of internal corruption, and the philosophy of some trade-union leaders and the action of all the big industry-wide trade unions are major components of that threat.

Cross Speaks On Battle Of Washita

Members and guests of the Pampa Genealogical and Historical Society heard Charles Cross, a new director of Radio Station KPDM, tell their May meeting recently.

Cross presented a program on the battle of the Washita, the greatest Indian battle ever fought in Oklahoma, on Nov. 27, 1868.

Cross transported his listeners across the years to the little valley of the Washita River near Cheyenne, Okla., where in the first snow encounter with Indians in winter, troops of the U.S. Seventh Cavalry under General George Armstrong Custer swooped down upon the village of Chief Black Kettle of the Cheyenne tribe, who were encamped along the banks of the narrow Washita River together with large numbers of Kiowas, Comanches, Arapahoes, and Plains Apaches.

The Seventh Cavalry consisted of about 900 men, well trained scouts, and plainsmen, with General Custer in the lead. Greatly outnumbered, he decided on a surprise attack. Arriving at night in one of the worst snowstorms in the history of the country, Custer found a long string of camps, up and down the valley, and the first snow encounter with Indians in winter. At dawn the fog began, Black Kettle being killed early in the battle. At the height of the battle, Custer looked down into the valley and saw 8,000 warriors coming to the rescue of the badly beaten and disorganized braves.

Custer quickly rallied his men, and with audacity plunged into their ranks. The brave Indian warriors led by the great chiefs Little Raven and Satanta were so badly shaken that they fled down the valley in great confusion. Custer, realizing the odds against him, called his men together and made note of the losses. Major Joel H. Elliott and 18 others were missing. Custer bluffed his way through Seven hundred Indian Poles and 4,000 arrows were destroyed in the battle. Cross spent many hours as a boy covering the battle site in hope of finding the cache of arrowheads. Many of his items from the site are now in the Black Kettle Museum at Cheyenne. Mrs. Nina Spoonmore, treasurer of the Society, displayed a copy of the "Douglas Family History," by Pampa Attorney Curtis Douglas, which has been presented by him as a gift to the Library. It was published in 1897.

The main camp with flags flying and bands playing. The confused Indians fled before him and the battle was over. Retracing his steps in December of 1868, the bodies of Major Elliott and his men were found lying in a circle, brutally mutilated. Fort Elliott at Mobeetie was later named in honor of Major Elliott.

Foreign Affairs Class Announced For Tuesday Night

Warren Cochran will conduct the last session of the Pampa Adult Education foreign affairs class Tuesday night at Lovett Memorial Library. The subject will be "The Foreign Ministers Conference in Geneva—Topics to be Considered and Chances of Success."

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium. Those who would like to sign up for the 1959-1960 Public Education program may do so Tuesday, according to Mrs. Lillian Snow, librarian. The foreign affairs class now has a membership of 12.

Cochran was principal of the Friends School, Brooklyn, N.Y., for 11 years before coming to Pampa in 1956. He taught summer classes at Columbia University, New York City, N.Y., for 10 years.

Money Doesn't Hold Key To Future Of Bob Hope

EDITORS NOTE: This is the second of three dispatches in which Bob Hope, ailing and doubtful about how long he can maintain his famous p.a.s.e., speaks out frankly about the "new life" he faces.

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—As Bob Hope surveyed his future—determining whether he will continue to perform—he also reviewed his past.

Financial security will play no part in the comedian's decision on the possibility of retirement. He is many times over a millionaire. In addition to the fortune he amassed as an entertainer, Hope owns oil properties, extensive real estate holdings and interests in the Cleveland Indians baseball team and the Los Angeles Rams football team.

His home in the Toluca Lake section of the San Fernando Valley is a sizeable investment in itself.

Included on the seven-acre estate is the standard swimming pool, a well-manicured golf hole, a guest house and another building housing an office and trophy room. His home is a high two-story frame and stone mansion.

Bulging Trophy Room

"It sounds like a lot," Bob quipped, "but if I'm out of work three days I'm in the sheriff's office."

Strolling through his business office, Hope paused in the trophy room. Shiny glass cases bulged with awards, mementoes and souvenirs dating back to his earliest days on the vaudeville circuit.

Bob, an incessant gun-chewer, grinned with pride.

There were plaques and statuettes aplenty—Oscar and Emmy awards—citations for his radio shows, medals and cups for his benefit performances and scores of World War II trophies, including an out-sized Nazi flag captured from the Germans.

Until the war years of the early 40s, Hope was just another top-flight comedian, but his punishing schedule of entertaining American troops across the globe endeared him to millions of service men and their families. He became an institution.

Proud Of Medals

The free-booting funnyman is proudest of the Medal for Merit, highest civilian honor in the nation bestowed on him by Gen. Dwight Eisenhower in 1946 for the two million miles he covered entertaining American fighting men.

A faraway look came into the comedian's eyes when he talks about the past. He knows he no longer can call on his once boundless supply of energy.

Always in the past Hope was eager to drive himself harder than his associates. He wasn't happy unless he had half a dozen projects going at once.

His friends believe Bob's terrific vigor stems from his childhood.

Born In Cleveland

He was born the fifth of seven sons of an English stonemason, Catholic charity work and devoted to her family.

"Thanks to my frantic pace during the last ten years, haven't been able to spend a much time with Dolores and the kids as I'd have liked," the comedian sighed. "But that's all in the past. My whole life is changing now."

"I'm entering a new phase of living. But the prospect doesn't bother me. I'm looking forward to it."

Among his memorabilia is the original theater program from his first stage hit, "Roberta," produced 25 years ago. It reads: "Bob Hope, who is a hit in amateur shows around Ohio."

"There is a lot of sentiment in my heart for that show," he said. "I met my wife Dolores during the run."

Marriage A Success

Bob's marriage has been a successful one. Dolores and their four adopted children—Linda, Tony, Nora and Kelly—have managed to avoid the glare of publicity that surrounds Bob like a toga.

Mrs. Hope is active in Roman

Plight Of Farmers Talked In House Agriculture Meeting

The Lighter Side
By FRANK ELEAZER
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House Agriculture Committee, which goodness knows hasn't got the answer either, keeps peppering Ezra Taft Benson for comment on one or another proposal for alleged relief of the farmer.

It finally has turned up one he's not against.

Well, he's not for it, exactly. But he's not dead set against it either. So a subcommittee hopefully has started hearings on the bill, sponsored by Rep. Clark W. Thompson (D-Tex.) and others.

Some critics took the view right away that the bill wouldn't actually do anything for the farmer, although it might create jobs for a few sociologists. What it would do is set up a commission on country life, to study what ought to be done.

Says Farmers Need Money

Theodore Roosevelt first did this, without asking Congress, back in 1908, and some enthusiasts have tended to credit the Roosevelt commission on a 50-50 basis with the model T Ford, with most of the advances made by farmers since the turn of the century.

Rep. D. R. (Billy) Matthews (D-Fla.) was one of those displaying only qualified enthusiasm for trying to duplicate Teddy's unquestioned success. Matthews said there's nothing ailing his farmers that money wouldn't clear up.

Rep. George M. Grant (D-Ala.) wanted assurance this wasn't a civil rights measure, disguised. He got it, but wasn't convinced.

Grant wondered also how much credit a farmer could get at the bank with a commission report on the "interrelatedness and functions of the various institutions, agencies, and organizations serving country people."

Cites Consumer Demands

That's not all the commission would study, of course. According to Roy C. Buck, president of a non-governmental group called the American Country Life Assn., which has been backing the Thompson proposal, it would take a "long look" at the problems, needs, goals and prospects of the family farm.

Buck said lack of money isn't the only problem harassing the family farmer. Among others he mentioned changing consumer demands.

"It used to be that the idea was the bigger the better," he said. "Now people want little turkeys, small potatoes, and carrots two inches long. The big thing is quality."

Buck said he hopes the commission also will come up, at last, with a finding on what the family farm is.

Breaks Up Meeting

"All this talking," lamented Rep. Henry A. Dixon (R-Utah), "and we don't know what we're talking about!"

Chairman Thompson said he knew. He said the Agriculture Committee defined the family farmer years ago as generally speaking, one who farms with his family. Thompson seemed to think the problem wasn't so much
