"Shorty," the Grand Champion Steer, brought his owner, Richard Kiker, of Allison, $933 this morning on a $1 a pound bid from Darrell Kissee, The Reserve Champion, shown by Mervin Forrest of Canadian, brought $50 cents a pound from Frank M. Carter, Her Champ, "Clyde," weighed in at 1,135 pounds.

After an auction of "Scramble" Calves, bidding began for the champion barrows. Ideal Food Stores bid $1 a pound for Vernon Cook's 179 pound barrow. Cook is from Perryton.

The Reserve Champion, showed by Gary Cook of Booker, brought a $9 cent a pound bid from James Feed Store. The Reserve Champ, "Stubby," weighs 202 pounds.

Hereford's shown Tuesday by Top O' Texas and North Plains breeders, were to be sold this afternoon.

This winds up the three day Top O' Texas Livestock Show. For some, the show began as early as Saturday night when they brought their stock in from the area.

A highlight, preceding the Hereford Show, was the FFA Livestock Judging Contest. The boys were honored later at a banquet hosted by Pampa's banks and the Chamber of Commerce.

'Stock Awards Are Made At Banquets

Awards in the FFA Livestock Judging Contest and Top O' Texas Hereford Breeders Show, were made at two banquets Tuesday night. A high point of the Livestock Judging Banquet was the award of the Frank M. Carter Scholarship to Bobby Longan of Clarendon.

Alternates for the scholarship award were John Bunch of Palo Alto High School, Amarillo; and Duane Griffith of Lockney.

The top FFA team also came from Clarendon. Quentin Williams, superintendent of the contest, presented the boys with a silver loving cup. Besides Longan, the team was made up of Carl Talley and S. Wells.

Future Farmers placed the High School cafeteria for the 5 p.m. banquet. The speaker was, Jon Jones, minister of the Mary Ellen at Harvesters Church of Christ. The Millison Trio was also heard.

The Hereford Breeders met two and one-half hours later in the Methodist Church. Hereford trophies went to Jake Hess of Meador for the Grand Champion Bull, Thomas M. Botta of Memphis for the Grand Champion Female, J. P. Callahan of Miami for the Grand Champion Pen of Bulls.

Frank M. Carter of Pampa was recognized for showing the Reserve Champion Bull, R. H. Holland and Sons of Perryton for the Reserve Champion and Ralph Hale of Perryton for the Reserve Cham-

Potts also exhibited the first place spring bull calf. Wayne Maddox showed the second place winner, and J. P. Callahan entered the third place animal.

In stock show action Tuesday Clarendon's FFA team took first place in the FFA Livestock Judging Contest. Clarendon amassed a total of 1,127 points, said Quentin Williams, superintendent of the judging show.

Patton Springs FFA took second place with 1,122 points and Happy was in third place with a total of 1,082 points.

P. A. Willman of Patton Springs FFA was high individual scorer in the contest with 290 points. S. Wells scored with 283 and B. Longan of Clarendon's FFA Chapter had 281 points for third.

J. Johnson of Gruver was first with 194 points in beef cattle judging. B. Longan was second with 180 points and four boys were tied for third. They include Harold Goodwin of Patton Springs, C. Johnson of Gruver, J. Lolis of Perryton, and S. Wells of Clarendon.

Competition for high individual scores in the sheep judging event wound up in a tie between J. Ray Howe of Pampa and Dan Smith of Lockney. Both had 85 points.

In second place was J. Bunch of Palo Alto High School, Amarillo, with 83 points. Kenneth Sanders of Lakeview with 82 points wound up in third.

High individual hog judge was G. Thompson of Pampa with 128 points. P. A. Willman of Patton Springs and Jackie Driscoll of Happy tied for second with 127 points and Jimmie Pearson of Happy took third, with 125 points.

IDEAL BACON

Rivals To Appear On Same Show

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Elizabeth Taylor and Debbie Reynolds, who have avoided one another since the Eddie Fisher entanglement, will appear on the same TV show next month.

The raven-haired screen siren and spitfire Debbie chose the biggest blowout of all for their get-together, the Academy Award TV extravaganza.

But it won't be "old home week" for the love rivals.

CASTRO COMING TO U.S. APRIL 17

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Cuban Premier Fidel Castro will visit the United States April 17 to address the American Society of Newspaper Editors. It was reported here Tuesday night.

It will be Castro's first trip to this country since he appeared in Miami and Tampa, Fla., in the summer of 1956 to raise money for his rebel forces.

George W. Healy Jr., president of the editors' society, said here Tuesday night he had received definite acceptance from Castro to speak at the group's annual meeting in Washington, D.C.

Healy is editor of the New Orleans Times-Picayune.

Ike, West Optimistic About Last Red Note

U.S. Willing For Considerations

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Eisenhower said today the Western Allies were somewhat optimistic as a result of Russia's latest note on the Berlin crisis.

He indicated the United States was willing to consider all kinds of solutions for the problem of German unification and peace treaty.

Eisenhower told his news conference that the note from Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev last Monday was filled with distortions but it shows a somewhat less rigid attitude on the part of the Soviet leader.

LEIPZIG, East Germany (UPI)—Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev today renewed his demand for an East-West conference to conclude a peace treaty with Germany.

The Soviet leader insisted that German reunification can be brought about only through agreement between the two German states.

"That is the only way to peaceful reunification," he told a mass rally of Communists here.

At the airport, Khrushchev said his talks with Britain's prime minister had been "useful" and that both sides understood the other's attitude better now.

"Disputes will not be settled by force," he declared. "Only lunatics can seek solutions in a war."

A vast crowd of factory workers and others, who were given the day off, jammed the square in a drizzling rain.

An East German radio commentator set the figure at 200,000.

Pioneer IV Nears Planetary Orbit

By DARRELL GARWOOD
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Pioneer IV hourly soared nearer the moon today and the moment when it becomes a true planet of the sun.

The 13.4-pound capsule of scientific instruments reached an altitude of 207,608 miles above the earth at 10 a.m. c.s.t. and was clipping along at 4,889 miles an hour. At that hour it had completed about five-sixths of its flight toward a late-afternoon rendezvous with the moon.

The Goldstone tracking station on California's Mojave Desert, which lost contact with the pint-sized artificial planet late Tuesday because of the earth's rotation, picked it up again at 7:33 a.m.

But Pioneer IV's timetable was set back. When the satellite was launched from Cape Canaveral, Fla., early Tuesday, scientists had hoped it would reach the vicinity of the moon at 10 a.m. today.

The time was pushed back to 2 p.m. when it was discovered the satellite was slightly off course and another recalculation late Tuesday established the 2:24 p.m. rendezvous.

The deviation in course also swung Pioneer IV farther away from the moon than the 15,000 miles originally predicted and cancelled out two experiments to be triggered near the moon.

Nevertheless, the project was considered an unqualified success and President Eisenhower hailed it as "a splendid achievement" marking another major step in scientific space exploration.

It already has gone farther than any mad-made object except the Lunik. The best previous performance by an American space probe was the 71,300 miles traveled by Pioneer I last November.

When the deviation in course knocked out a planned test of a camera-triggering device and measurement of radiation in vicinity of the moon, officials still expected to acquire a mass of scientific data from Pioneer IV.

Maj. Gen. John H. Medaris, Army missile chief, said the information acquired should help the United States put the first man voyager into space within 10 or 12 years.

Officials Seek Student No.

TIFFON, Ga. (UPI)—School officials sought today to determine exactly how many children were aboard a crowded school bus that crashed into a pond Tuesday, causing at least nine deaths.

There were conflicting reports on just how many students normally ride on the 56-mile run, which was almost over Tuesday morning when the accident happened.

Bus driver Doyce Jones, 40, estimated that about 80 Negro youngsters were packed into the 51-seat vehicle when it struck bushes on a dirt road, went out of control and flipped onto its side in the shallow pond.

Jones said that many of the children along his route are out-of-school-to-help-with-farm-work, and that on a previous attendance day his load would be 108.

H. B. Allen, Tift County school superintendent, said it was his understanding that the average load on Jones' run has been about 60 passengers.

State school superintendent Claude Purcell announced Tuesday that he was assigning a representative to investigate the accident, but that state local authorities have full control of their bus systems he could take no action.

Wilson Files For School Board

The list of candidates for the Pampa Independent School board of directors grew to four this morning with Elmer Wilson, former Pampa High and Texas Tech football star, filing for election.

Wilson, of Windsor Servicing, joins the list of Rex Rose and J. M. Nation, both seeking reelection, and Warren Fatheree, who filed Monday.

Filings for the school board class at 2 p.m. today according to Homer Craig, school business manager.

The election is set for April 4.

Lou Costello Dies Tuesday, Heart Attack

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Jolly little Lou Costello is dead.

The slap-happy member of the famed Abbott and Costello comedy team died Tuesday following a second heart attack only three days before his 53rd birthday.

Hospitalized last Wednesday by a heart attack, Costello was given last rites of the Roman Catholic Church.

He was pronounced out of danger later in the week, but a blood clot snuffed out his life Tuesday a few minutes after his wife, Anne, left his bedside to prepare dinner for the family.

One of three sisters was attending the routine course was with him during the fatal attack, Costello's long-time manager Edward Sherman said.

But Abbott Stunned

"He said he wanted to turn over on his side," the nurse later told Sherman. "He said, 'I think I'll be more comfortable.'"

"Before I could reach him he slumped back on his pillow and was gone."

Costello's unexpected death shocked Hollywood. His former partner, Bud Abbott, was in a state of collapse.

On hearing the news Abbott sobbed. "What can I say? What can I say? It's the worst thing that ever happened. Poor little Lou. He's dead. He's dead."

Sherman Abbott said he was watching a rerun of an old Abbott and Costello comedy routine on his TV set when Sherman telephoned the news.

"I was laughing my head off at our old 'who's on first' bit," Abbott wept. "Then all of a sudden I got the call about poor little Lou dying."

"My God, I just can't believe it's gone."

Only Son Drowned

Costello is survived by his wife, three daughters, Patricia, 22, Carole, 20, and Christine, 11, and a brother, Pat, all of Los Angeles.

His only son, one-year-old Lou Jr., drowned in 1943 when he tumbled into the family swimming pool.

Rosary will be said Friday evening at St. Francis de Sales at nearby Studio City. Entombment will be at Calvary Cemetery in Los Angeles.

If it comes from a Hdw store we have H. Lewis Hdw. Adv.

UNITED CHURCH OF CHRIST SIGNIFIES CHRISTIAN UNITY

Religion in America
By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

America's newest major religious body symbolizes, in its name and history, the powerful drive for Christian unity that is gradually breaking down the ancient barriers of Protestant denominationalism.

Its name is the United Church of Christ. It was formed on June 3, 1957, by the merger of the Congregational, Christian churches and the Evangelical & Reformed Church.

When the merger is completed, the United Church will have a membership of about 2,100,000, and will be the nation's seventh largest Protestant body.

Although many congregations have begun using the new name, no local church is legally affiliated with the United Church of Christ at present. It will exist only in spirit and on paper until its constitution, now being drafted, is completed and approved.

Some local Congregational churches have served notice they will not affiliate with the United church. They have formed the national Assn. of Congregational Christian Churches. This organization reports a membership of 171 local churches, out of a total congregational membership of 5,544 Congregationalist churches in the nation.

Four of the dissenting Congregationalist churches and 10 individual district court of New York challenging the legality of the merger. An earlier legal test, in New York state courts, resulted in a clear-cut victory for the merger forces.

Despite these birth pains, the United Church is already regarded as a tremendously significant milestone in the ecumenical movement which seeks to draw together the divided Christian family.

Unlike other church mergers of recent years which have united Methodists with Methodists, Presbyterians with Presbyterians and Lutherans with Lutherans, the United Church represents the convergence of two entirely distinct streams of Protestant Christianity—Congregationalism, which came to America aboard the Mayflower in 1620, is an offshoot of the English Reformation. The Puritans felt that the ecclesiastical hierarchy of the Church of England was stifling true Christian faith, and they established in New England a new kind of church in which each local congregation is completely free to manage its own affairs. This emphasis on local churches, out of a total congregational autonomy remains a distinctive feature of Congregationalist Churches.

MOSCOW—Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev, on the Russian visit of British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan:

"We appreciate your decision in visiting the Soviet Union despite certain prejudices in Britain and the United States about your making the trip."

NEW YORK—Comedian Bob Hope, on a blood clot that has affected the sight of his left eye:

"I'm not worried, but I'm apprehensive. I can't afford to lose the sight of my left eye. I have about 50 per cent vision in it, and when I move it throws me off balance. When I move fast, I get a little dizzy."

PHOENIX, Ariz.—Mrs. Clare Booth Luce, on her appointment as United States ambassador to Brazil:

"I am tremendously pleased that the post is in that country."

NEW YORK—Attorney Eugene J. Moran, on seeking the release of his father, former first deputy fire commissioner James J. Moran, imprisoned in 1952 in a fuel oil tank shakedown racket:

"I've done all I could on this case. I've covered every angle. I've worked on it for more than two years since I was a law student."

Prizes Awards Found Taxable

Prizes and awards in goods or services, instead of money, are included in taxable income at their fair market value, according to Administrative Officer, Wiley E. Davis, of Internal Revenue Service, Pampa.

Also included in gross income should be prizes awarded in sales contests, prizes won in such contests as a lucky number drawing, TV and radio programs — even door prizes.

Bonuses and awards to employees for work achievement and acceptable suggestions are also taxable on that 1958 return, which must be filed on or before midnight, Wednesday, April 15.

P.S. from Uncle Sam: Where an individual refuses to accept a prize, it's not includable in income.

Khrushchew Will Risk War Over Berlin, Say Diplomats

By WALTER LOGAN
United Press International

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchew is ready to go to the brink of war to get his own way over Berlin and the German question, diplomatic sources said today in London.

Khrushchew was flying today to Leipzig in East Germany for a major speech when he may announce new Moscow proposals for a settlement of the crisis.

The cold war situation was so serious 83-year-old Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany traveled to Paris to confer today with President Charles de Gaulle on means of strengthening the Paris-Bonn alignment against some precipitate Soviet move.

President Eisenhower was studying closely reports on the Moscow meeting between Khrushchew and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and was expected to make a statement at his press conference today on Berlin and a forthcoming foreign ministers conference.

Assumes Mediator Role
Diplomatic sources in London said Macmillan returned from Moscow prepared to assume the role of East-West mediator to convince the Western Allies the world is heading toward a real crisis if both sides fail to make concessions soon.

The sources said Macmillan will tell the Western chiefs that Khrushchew is determined to have his way on Berlin and that Khrushchew is the only person in Russia that the West can deal with if it wants to get anything done but talk.

The Western world already was looking to the forthcoming meeting of Eisenhower and Macmillan for war-or-peace decisions on Berlin and Germany. They were expected to meet in Washington the middle of this month, after Macmillan confers with Adenauer and de Gaulle.

DeGaulle, Adenauer Concerned
The illness of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and the Macmillan mission to Moscow were bringing France and West Germany closer together. Both countries were reported to look on the Macmillan mission as a waste of time and perhaps a dangerous waste.

Adenauer and de Gaulle also were deeply concerned with the Macmillan-Khrushchew communication proposing to study the possibility of reducing atomic and conventional armaments in Central Europe.

The announcement of a proposal to study "disengagement" along the Iron Curtain was met with frozen silence in Paris and with dismay in Bonn. The concept is against all present Allied policies including NATO policies of meeting possible Communist aggression.

Adenauer and de Gaulle also were discussing the planned foreign ministers conference. West Germany flatly opposes Polish and Czech participation as asked by Russia, but there was some talk in Washington and London of making a concession on this point to get negotiations started.

Soviet revival of the Rapacki plan for a nuclear-free Central Europe as a topic for any East-West summit meeting was greeted in Warsaw with pleasure. Communist leaders there saw it as a symbol that Poland still has a voice in international affairs.

Most diplomatic attention was centered on Khrushchew and his visit to the Leipzig trade fair. His last four visits to East Germany resulted in a hardening of Soviet policy on Germany and a denunciation of the Geneva summit talk decision to try to unite Germany by free elections.

forces in an area of Central Europe. He said the matter should be further studied by all the countries concerned.

Eisenhower said the United States and its Allies are taking an optimistic view as possible of the Berlin situation since Khrushchew's latest proposals.

He said a hopeful aspect of the Russian note was Khrushchew's admission that something might be accomplished by a foreign ministers' conference, instead of a summit meeting.

This indicates some lessening of the rigidity of previous Russian proposals, Eisenhower said. He added that this was the positive side of the Russian note and the United States, in consultation with its Allies, was considering it as optimistically as possible at the moment.

The President's indication of willingness to consider various solutions to the German problem came when he was asked to comment on Khrushchew's insistence that there should be separate treaties with East and West Germany.

Eisenhower replied that within the whole field of the peace treaty there could be many types of solutions and proposals advanced and all of them should be discussed in a constructive manner.

He added, however, that the United States and its Allies still believe that the free elections to which Russia agreed at Geneva in 1955 would be the best way.

Allied officials at a lower level already are wrestling with the question of how to handle Russia's note Monday on the tense Berlin situation. Consultations were in progress in Washington, Paris, London and Bonn.

The problem was how to deal with Russia's note in which Premier Nikita S. Khrushchew accepted the Western idea for a foreign ministers' conference but loaded it with two conditions which the Allies have refused to buy.

The first Soviet condition was that Poland and Czechoslovakia be permitted to attend the foreign ministers' meeting. The second was the agenda be limited to Russia's proposal for a peace treaty which would neutralize and isolate Germany and its demand that Allied forces get out of West Berlin.

Hanging ominously over the entire situation is the Russian threat to turn East Berlin over to the German Communists and force the Allies to deal with the local Reds, whom they refuse to recognize, for continued land and air access to West Berlin.

LARGEST ICE BOX
KAISERSLAUTERN, Germany (UPI) - The U.S. Army has opened officially Europe's largest ice box - a huge $2,132,000 cold-storage plant. The plant, inaugurated Tuesday, is the size of two football fields and can store up to 15,000 tons of perishable goods for American servicemen and their dependents.

Business Views

A. B. Homer, president of Bethlehem Steel Corp., called on Bethlehem workers to follow "the laws of common sense" in their contract demands for 1959. He noted that wages in the steel industry just now are "at an all-time high, at the very top level among all manufacturing industries."

Celanese Corp. boosted rayon filament yarns 3 cents a pound, matching a similar increase by American Viscose Corp. last week. Celanese also raised quotes for some types of acetate staple by a cent a pound. The firmer prices reflect the continuing recovery in the industry.

Four U.S. banks participated in signing a 40-million-dollar loan agreement with Pemex, the Mexican government oil monopoly. The proceeds will be used to build a gas pipeline from Ciudad Pemex on the Tehuantepec peninsula to Mexico City, a distance of 500 miles.

DEAR ABBY...

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: One of my best friends is going steady with a boy she can hardly stand. She started going steady with him just to be able to say she was going steady. Sometimes she doesn't even wear his ring. Now she doesn't even have the decency to tell him she hates him. I feel sorry for him. Don't you think somebody ought to tell him?

DEAR ABBY: I am going with a very nice man. He is only 36 but he looks much older because when he takes off his hat he is as bald as a billiard ball. I am sort of ashamed to bring him around to meet my parents because I know they'll think he is much older. He has a good job, goes to church regularly and treats me nice. I like everything about him but I am wondering about this baldness. Do you think it is important or not?

DEAR ABBY: There is a girl who works with me. She is about 37 and single. She said she had lost a little weight and it made her knit suit baggy on her in one particular place. I asked her why she didn't get one of those girdles with a foam rubber seat. She said she didn't think her boyfriend would like it. I told her if her boyfriend knew her well enough to notice it and remark about it she should know him well enough to tell him why she was wearing a false bottom. Besides, some girls wear false tops, so what's wrong with a false bottom? She got mad at me and doesn't speak. How can I make up with her without telling her I was wrong, which I still

RUSSIANS WON'T USE FORCE

By JOSEPH FLEMING
United Press International

BERLIN (UPI) — What will happen on the lifelines to isolated West Berlin May 27 when the Soviet six-month ultimatum expires? No one knows for sure, but all responsible diplomats believe something is going to happen. And that "something" could start World War III.

Will East German Communists armed with new control powers refuse to pass Western Allied military traffic? Will they make demands the Americans, British and French will not accept? Will they attempt to interfere with commercial air traffic into the city?

Diplomats here believe these questions have brought the world closer to war than it has been since the beginning of the 1948 Berlin blockade.

In other recent East-West crises, the United States and the Soviet Union did not clash directly. True, the danger of war existed in the Quemoy and Lebanon crises.

But there was one great difference between those trouble spots and Berlin. No Soviet troops were committed at Quemoy or Lebanon.

No Details Told
In East Germany, 300,000 Soviet troops stand ready to go into action if the Soviets consider East Germany's borders violated.

deadline set by the Soviets for conversion of West Berlin into what they call a free, demilitarized city expires.

The Soviet plan calls for the withdrawal of Western Allied troops from West Berlin and transfer to East Germany of authority over Western Allied military traffic through the Soviet Zone of West Berlin.

Western diplomats have been able to piece together from East German statements the plan's rough outline.

Immediate Blockade
They have reached these conclusions:

—The Soviets will not use force to attempt to get the U.S., British and French garrisons out of West Berlin.

—There will be no immediate blockade of vital German supply traffic to the city.

—Any interference with traffic at the beginning will be confined to Western Allied traffic. But as time goes by the Communists will institute blockade measures against the German civilian supply traffic that keeps West Berlin alive.

One possibility is that on May 27 East German Communists will refuse to pass Western Allied road and rail traffic to Berlin on the grounds that agreements with the Soviets no longer are valid.

East German Communist leader Walter Ulbricht has said the Western Allies will have to conclude agreements with the East German government to supply their West Berlin garrisons.

But it is considered more likely that the Communists will not provide the Western powers with such a clear case of blockade that would justify Western attempts to force their way through to Berlin. Rather, it is thought that at the beginning at least the East Germans might, merely insist on the right to check Western Allied travel documents as the Soviets already do.

West Blockading Itself?
However, the Western Allies do not recognize East Germany and they have said they will not allow East Germans at border checkpoints to control Western Allied traffic in any way.

Such a stand could put the Western powers in a position where they might appear to be blockading themselves.

"Show us your papers and you can go through," East German border guards might say on May 27.

The Western Allies then could either show their papers, or refuse to go through on such a basis and push through East German border controls instead.

Some diplomats think it will be difficult to explain to the world why it would be considered necessary to break through barriers that would be raised if only papers were shown.

Nevertheless, the whole Berlin problem appears to revolve around just this point.

And Western Allied diplomats do not consider this point trivial. They reason this way:

'Everybody Has Two Lives In Show Business,' Says Wald

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — News of Ingrid Bergman's return to Hollywood after a 10-year absence was greeted with warm expressions of delight from her friends and film associates today.

The thrice-married Swedish star has agreed to appear on the Academy Awards TV show April 8 to present an Oscar to the best actor of 1958.

It will mark Miss Bergman's first appearance in Hollywood since she ran off to Siroboni and into the arms of Italian director Roberto Rossellini in 1949. At the time film folk were outraged by her desertion of Dr. Peter Lindstrom and their daughter Pia.

But time has mellowed the movie colony. Ingrid's subsequent divorce from Rossellini — an unpopular man in Hollywood — and the fact that she won an Academy Award two years ago for "Anastasia" have turned the tide of sentiment in her favor.

Entitled To Privacy
Producer Jerry Wald, who sweet-talked Ingrid into appearing on the Oscar show when he was in Europe last summer, said the actress will be accompanied by her new husband Lars Schmidt, with whom she is now living in Sweden.

Wald added she will not bring her children along for the brief visit.

"Everybody has two lives in show business — performing and private," Wald said. "I think it's marvelous that she's coming here. She is entitled to privacy. Frankly, I think the audience will give Ingrid a standing ovation."

Cary Grant, who starred with the actress last year in "Indis-cret," said, "I couldn't be more pleased and delighted."

Bing Crosby, who starred with Ingrid in "The Bells of St. Mary's," quipped, "I hope I'm invited to her first smorgasbord. She always provides smorgasbord on the set during lunch. If it's a party I'll bring Phil Harris and aquavit."

A "Great" Star
Director Mark Robson, Ingrid's most recent director in "The Inn of the Sixth Happiness," mentioned the fact that she wasn't nominated for an award this year.

"She will have a wonderful time visiting old friends and all of us will be overjoyed at seeing her in California again," he said. "It's quite possible Ingrid will come back again later to make a movie. I hope so."

"Since I last saw her I've been looking feverishly for a good picture for her. But it would have to be something with a glimmer of greatness for Bergman."

George Stevens, president of the academy, said, "we are most fortunate to have her back. I'm delighted and honored."

David O. Selznick, who brought the actress to Hollywood in 1939, joined the chorus.

"She has become one of the great stars of the entire world," he beamed. "Miss Bergman returns to this country with universal recognition that she is an artist who has few peers. It will be a great pleasure to join in welcoming her."

Ingrid topped a list of some 100 stars appearing on the award show.

Ike's Grandson Gets Ball Court

By MERRIMAN SMITH
UPI White House Reporter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Backstairs at the White House:

President Eisenhower, in his alternate role as grandfather, has put up a basketball court on the south grounds of the White House for David, his 11-year-old grandson.

The project did not require much doing. The surface of a tennis court, unused since days of the Truman administration, was refinished, two posts with backstops and baskets put up, and a heavy, fairly high wire fence erected around the court.

David has been "out" several times shooting baskets alone, but if he is to develop in the game he'll undoubtedly have to recruit some playmates from his home neighborhood in nearby Alexandria, Va.

There are some who see the basketball court as a move to de-emphasize golf in David's young life. The youngster was bearing down on golf lessons, with the President's pro in Gettysburg and these possibly could have been some feeling on the part of his parents, Mai, and Mrs. John Eisenhower, that other sports were in order, too.

The White House is looking around for some spot away from Washington where the President might entertain President Lopez Mateos of Mexico when he visits the United States this spring.

Lopez Mateos entertained Eisenhower recently in Acapulco and the American chief executive likes the idea of having the return visit to the United States on a similar basis. The problem is: Where to find a resort with the right weather, the proper amount of space for staffs, plus many reporters and cameramen, transportation facilities and a sufficient degree of isolation to permit some informality between the two presidents.

The last time a Mexican president — former President Ruiz Cortines — visited this country for any length of time, the meeting took place at the Greenbriar Hotel in White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.

There is an impression in White House and State Department circles that the President would like a new site for Lopez Mateos.

Junior Highs Start Spring Practice

Rebels Have 43 Candidates For Ninth Grade Grid Team

Forty-three varsity candidates and 37 eighth grade candidates are working out with Lee Junior High, in its spring football training.

Spring training began Monday for the Rebels, on Lee practice field. It will continue for three weeks, through March 21. Rebel head coach Norman Phillips, and assistant coach Lester Ramsey are working with the ninth grade candidates, and John Hale and John Dobson are coaching the eighth grade hopefuls.

Phillips said Tuesday that he expects to continue using the same straight T and split T formations that he used last year.

Workouts have been relatively light so far, with a heavy emphasis on fundamentals such as blocking and tackling. Phillips said that some plays may be run before the end of this week, but that there will probably be no heavy scrimmage until the middle of next week.

Those trying out for the varsity team are now in the eighth grade, but will move up to the ninth before the beginning of the 1959 football season. Eighth grade candidates are now seventh graders, but will also move up before the beginning of the regular season.

Varsity Candidates
Among the varsity candidates are 17 starters from Dobson's '58 eighth grade team. They are Jack McNeil, Robert Pullen, Trent Olsen, Dickie Hatley, John Osborne, John Brown, Bill Martin, Carl Clark, Dee Wright, Wilbur Walls, Jack Criss, Travis Tucker.

Also Wayne Storr, Dean Henderson, John Pitts, Jerry Glover, and Gary Epperson.

Other candidates for the ninth grade squad are Bobby Bye, Howard Reed, Charles Ashby, Danny Hoggett, Dwight Chase, Harry O'Neal, Roy Lee Alford, Nelson Rockwell, John Holloway, James Bowers, Jimmie Hall, Douglas Locke, Johnny Pierce.

Kinney Wright, Vernon Wallis, George Huff, Bobby Winstley, Roger Merrill, Michael Hill, Ronald Finney, Mervil Rake, Glen McClain, Perry Cable, Larry Hopp, Dee Allen, and Ronnie Foster.

Eighth Graders
Candidates for the eighth grade team are Mike Corcan, Gene Storr, Jerry Rollins, David Potter, Drew Harvey, D. Shipman, Terry Brown, C. Middleton, Frank Osborne, Bryan Martin, Joe Jeter, Keith Reimer, Larry Johnson, Clay Lively.

J. Frasier, Bill McKinney, Mike Warner, Bud Jack, Stanley Wallace, Joe Williams, John Fite, Rick Fritz, Mike Bridges, Robin Vail, Barry Peterson, John Thomas, Jimmy Gidding.

Hank Henry, Phil Woodring, Jerry Lollar, Kenneth Hall, John Spencer, Ross Hill, Charles Woods, David Gough, Emmett Saltzman, and David Stone.

GENE CHANCE ... same problems

Reaper Gridders Face Old Problem—Lack of Manpower

Gene Chance is having the same problem during Pampa Junior High's spring football training that he had throughout the 1958 season—lack of manpower.

Only 19 men are out for the Reaper team, and only eight of those are offensive or defensive starters from Frank Craig's '58 Planter (eighth grade) team.

An identical number of men—19—are candidates for the Pampa Junior High eighth grade during spring training. Chance, Craig, and David Kelly are coaching the two squads.

Football workouts are limited by the fact that nearly all the gridders are also out for track. Track workouts follow immediately.

every day after short football practice. Chance is in charge of the cinder team.

The Reapers and Planters are concentrating on fundamentals and light drills this week. Heavy scrimmages are not on the docket until probably the middle of next week.

Spring training is scheduled to last for 21 days. It began Monday and is scheduled to end March 21. However, it may be cut short because of interference with track.

The Reapers and Planter coaches are planning no drastic changes in their offense or defense. Chance and Craig said that they will continue to use the same standard T formation they worked from last year.

'Basketball' Is Big Word On The Streets of Laredo

(This is the second in a series of three articles dealing with the Harvesters' opponents or possible opponents in the state tournament. Today's installment is on the Martin High Tigers of Laredo.)

By RED GRIGGS
Daily News Sports Editor

If the Harvesters defeat Milby Friday in Austin, they'll meet either Laredo or Dallas Jefferson in the finals. The oddsmakers say it will be Jefferson, but they have been wrong about Laredo before this season.

The Tigers of Laredo's Martin High have won 22 of their last 23 games, and they had to come from far behind to win their last two.

They had an 11-1 record in winning District 16-AAAA.

The Tigers trailed Harlandale until the last 3½ minutes in the bi-district game, but rallied to win 51-49. They also rallied.

One explanation for their success in the final minutes is their use of the full-court press, a device which can completely shatter a squad's morale if they're not prepared for it. In the press, opposing players are guarded all the way down the court, not just past the center line.

The Tigers' full-court press has proved to be their most effective weapon this year. They also use a zone press and man-to-man defense. They use the fast break often and effectively on offense.

Martin High has compiled a 30-5 season record this year, including wins in their last 16 games. The average score of their games has been 55 to 42 in their favor.

The Tigers have entered three tournaments this year and won one of them. They defeated Victoria in the finals of the Victoria tournament, but lost in the consolation finals of the Spring Branch and Bryan tournaments.

The Tigers are a very short team for a regional champion, averaging only 5-9. Their starters are Chalo Molina, 5-4; Chevo Castilleja, 6-3; Ernesto Ramirez, 5-11; Joe Moreno, 5-8; Mike Vrbales, 5-9.

Molina is the leading scorer, with a 17 point per game average. He hit 30 against Austin McCallum in the regional final.

Castilleja, 6-3, is the team's leading rebounder and defensive man. He is especially good at blocking shots, and reportedly knocks down as many as 10 shots per game.

Moreno, Ramirez, and Molina have been playing together since 1956, when they won the Junior Boys' Club state championship. Laredo also won the class AA state championship in 1956, beating North Dallas 65-54 in the finals.

(Tomorrow's final installment of this series will deal with the Harvesters' Friday night opponent, Milby of Houston.)

Varsity Candidates

Returning starters from the 1958 eighth-grade team, now working out for the varsity, are Jerry Vance, David Martin, Meredith Wallis, Donald Goodwin, Sammy Prigmore, and Randy Matson.

Other candidates for the Reapers are Jerry Baten, J. L. Ferguson, Dale Fletcher, Percy Collier, Gary Gillenwater, Marston Burney, Jerry Stover, Gene Baten, John Watson, and Ben Ingram.

Carl, Claunch Win at Gloves

CHICAGO (UPI)—Johnny Claunch of Pampa and Hardin Simmons University won his first round light heavyweight fight Tuesday night in the National Golden Gloves tournament.

Claunch, the Texas light-heavyweight champ, beat Art Gillmore of Hollywood, California.

Carl McClure of Dumas, Texas heavyweight champion, won his first two fights, and advanced to the quarter-finals.

The Texas team is in second place in the tournament with nine points, along with Michigan, Wisconsin, and Tennessee. Chicago is in first place with 16 team points.

Wheeler Girls Beat Hedley

WELLINGTON (Sp1)—Wheeler's girls defeated Hedley here Tuesday in a bi-district game, 55-44. Sharon Beatty led the winners with 22 points. Tillie Green scored 16, and Nancy Whitener 15. For Hedley, Tabatha Sanders had 22 and Alexander tallied 13.

Wheeler, coached by Tom Helton, is the District 11-B champion. They will play in the regional tournament in Canyon at 4:15 p.m. Friday. Their opponent is still unknown.

ROY SIEVERS ... signs for $36,000

SIEVERS INKS PACT Rookies Hit Hard In Spring Camps

By TIM MORIARTY
United Press International

John Callison of the Chicago White Sox and Frank Howard of the Los Angeles Dodgers—a pair of rookie outfielders—are leaving the cover off the ball in early spring workouts.

Callison, only 19 years old, is being touted as the answer to Manager Al Lopez' long search for a home run slugger. A left-handed hitter, Callison surprised even Senior Al Tuesday when he stroked a 400-foot drive over the left-center field fence at the White Sox training camp.

"He's our No. 1 candidate for left field and I'm confident he can make it," Lopez said after the workout. "John does everything well—he has good speed, hits hard and has a strong arm."

In his first full season of pro ball last year, Callison hit 29 home runs with Indianapolis to lead the American Association. He was given a brief trial with the White Sox at the end of the 1958 campaign, collecting 19 hits in 18 games.

Most Improved Hitter
Howard, like Callison, also specializes in the long ball. The former Ohio State basketball star hit four out of the Dodgers' park at Vero Beach, Fla., Tuesday and was hailed by chief scout Al Campanis as "the most improved hitter in camp."

In 129 games with Green Bay last year, Howard, a right-handed hitter, batted .323, knocked in 119 runs and hit 37 homers. If he proves he can hit major league pitching, the Dodgers figure this 6-foot-7 slugger will be a natural for their left field "Chinese wall" in Los Angeles.

Jack Harshman, who broke into the majors when Howard and Callison were in grammar school, also stood out during Tuesday's drills as he pitched four hitless innings during a Baltimore Oriole intra-squad game. Harshman faced the minimum number of 12 batters, striking out six.

Make Impressive Debut
Rookies Lee Maye and Chuck Cotter made impressive debuts in a Milwaukee Braves' camp game. Maye hit a 400-foot home run and Cotter, the newest candidate for Milwaukee's wide-open second base job, turned in several sparkling plays.

Roy Sievers, the Washington Senators' all-time home run king, ended his holiday when he signed for a reported $36,000. Sievers, who hit 39 homers and drove in 108 runs last year, now ranks as the highest-paid player in Washington history.

Does Defeat Sunray, 47-33
WHITE DEER (Sp1)—The White-Deer Does breezed past Sunray's girls here Tuesday night.

H. E. Kirchner of TCU poured in 30 points to take the Southwest Conference scoring title in the game against Baylor. It gave him the conference honors over Tom Robitaille of Rice, who could collect only 14 points in an attempt to come from behind in the game action against Texas.

The Frogs led all the way, chalk up a 12-2 conference record and take a 19-5 overall mark into the NCAA regionals. Carroll Dawson had 21 for Baylor.

Valdes Fight Slated on TV

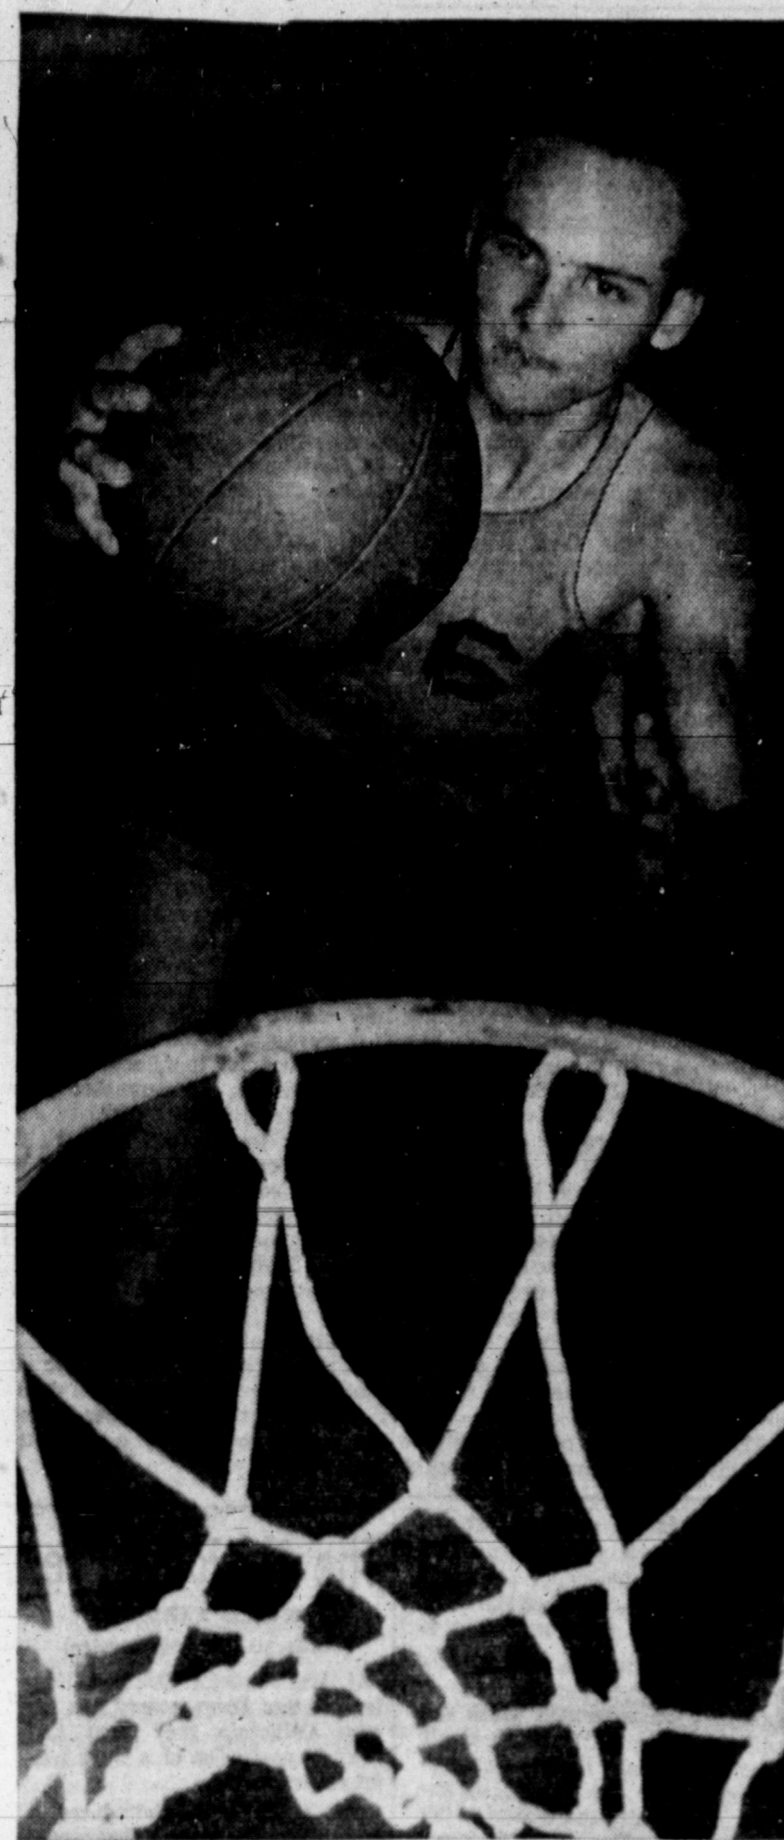

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—Nino Valdes, Cuba's 210-pound block-buster, is a 4-to-1 choice to make Charlie Powell his 14th knockout victim tonight in a nationally televised heavyweight fight.

The telecast (ABC) will start at 10 p.m., e.s.t.

Valdes, who stands 6-feet-3, is the Cuban heavyweight champion. And his manager, Bobby Gleason, claims the championship of the world because Gleason says, titleholder Floyd Patterson won't fight his man.

Should Valdes knock out his younger opponent, it would be his 34th kayo in 64 fights. He has a 47-15-2 record. Valdes is 34 and Powell, who also weighs 210 pounds, has only 24 fights behind him. He has a 19-3-2 record that includes 14 knockouts. He played pro football for the San Francisco Forty-Niners.

St. Louis Named For Spot in NIT

United Press International
St. Louis University is the latest team to own a nice shiny post-season tournament berth in college basketball and two more 12 years, by beating Rhode Island—Connecticut and either Dartmouth or Princeton—could join the happy throng tonight.

St. Louis (19-4) became the 10th team selected for the 12-team National Invitation Basketball Tournament at New York's Madison Square Garden, the announcement coming just as soon as the Bullikens were eliminated in the Missouri Valley Conference tourney.

Connecticut (15-6) can sew up the Yankee Conference championship for the 11th time in the last college basketball night by beating Rhode Island tonight.

That would earn the U-Conns a first-round NCAA tournament spot against a still-unselected "member at large" at New York next Tuesday. But an upset by Rhode Island would leave Connecticut tied with Maine for the conference crown and create a question about which team would go to the tourney.

SMU, TECH, TEXAS WIN FINAL SWC CONTESTS

United Press International
The Southwest Conference put its basketball battles under wraps for another year Tuesday night but title-chasing is far from over for champion Texas Christian.

The Frogs—have tough chores ahead next week when they foray into the NCAA playoffs.

Southern Methodist, meanwhile, nelled down second place two games back of TCU with a 70-66 victory over Texas A&M in Aggieland at College Station.

Texas Tech finished third by beating Arkansas 80-69 at Lubbock to stay ahead of fourth place Baylor who, squared to TCU for the third time Tuesday night in an 81-63 fray at Fort Worth.

Texas Wins Two
And cellar-dwelling Texas wound up its Southwest campaign on a high note at Austin, beating

Rice 63-54 for the Longhorns' second league victory of the season.

The Mustangs stayed off a desperate late game rally to dump the Aggies. Neil Swisher, Elly Chapman and Wilmer Cox hit a flurry of baskets that pulled the Cadets to within two points in the last two and one-half minutes. But Bobby James and a Mustangs freeze sealed the game away.

Archie Carroll hit 20 points for

Price Quits At WT State
CANYON—Borden Price, has resigned as head basketball coach of the West Texas State Buffalo basketball team, after two losing seasons. The Buffs were 6-16 this year, and 3-15 last year.

Ironically, Price's last game at West Texas was probably the best the Buffs ever played for him. The Buffaloes upset New Mexico State Monday to throw the race into a three-way tie between Arizona State, New Mexico State, and Texas Western.

No successor has been named to Price. He will continue as assistant professor of physical education at West Texas.

Now It's Fat-CIO

We've had few such public disturbances as Walter Reuther and his henchmen are now promoting. But we've had a few. There was Cox's army, and a bonus march on Washington, and the rise of the ladies as they campaigned for suffrage.

Most nations have their share of these outbursts of fervor but in the main America has had few of them compared to other countries.

Now, the boss of the Auto Workers wants a sort of "hunger" march organized against the nation's capital, so that his well-fed and well-paid dues contributors can complain to Washington about the loss in jobs they are facing.

It is a sorry truth that unemployment is gradually increasing once more. It is also true that Reuther's proposed march is aimed in the wrong direction. The government is not a hiring agency, or at least it shouldn't be. The place Reuther should direct his anger and his demonstration is against the policies of Walter Reuther himself. It is Reuther policy which is helping to cause unemployment. Unjustified increases in wages inevitably create unemployment. So if Reuther is mad at anyone, he is mad at himself. He is mad at anyone other than himself.

According to information we have received, the unemployment picture, particularly in Michigan where Reuther is an uncrowned political king, has been hurting union treasuries pretty severely. But before Reuther goes trucking off to Washington to show how badly managers have dealt with workers, he might begin by reinstating the 70 administrative employees he himself laid off last week, plus the 100 other employees he gave the pink slip to last month.

Union workers, it seems, who get laid off, don't pay their dues. And right now UAW membership has dropped about 300,000 persons from its all-time high of 1,300,000 in 1955.

But it's time the rank and file of workers who get frightened whenever they hear the name of Reuther, wake up to the two-faced policies practiced by unions. While the AFL-CIO is hurting from a drop in membership and a drop in dues income, the big AFL-CIO convention met at the big luxury Caribe Hilton Hotel at San Juan, Puerto Rico.

In the event you'd like to take a bit of a vacation in this elaborate resort palace, you ought to be warned in advance that the Walter Reuther, Autocrat of the Bargaining Table. By Eldorous L. Dayton. The Devin-Adair Company, New York, 1958. $4.50.

If a man breaks a Commandment, is his sin mitigated by good intentions? Is a thief commendable because he distributes his loot among the poor?

Questions like these suggest themselves as one reads the captivating story of Walter Reuther. The star of the story is, in some respects, of exemplary character; he is a good family man, neither drinks nor smokes, and though his business brings him into daily contact with men to whom profanity is common usage, he keeps his tongue scrupulously clean. He is dedicated to a social ideal and gives of himself unsparingly to its achievement.

And yet, Reuther has committed mayhem on his own account when it seemed to be necessary to achieve what he considered at the time to be a noble purpose, and he has never hesitated to hire men of low degree to do that kind of work for him. He is a labor leader whose rise to the top in that field has been characterized by the rule that the end justifies the means; and if the means involve the destruction of property, the infliction of harm on those who stand in his way, the impoverishment of those who choose not to go along with his plans, he uses them unsparingly.

As for such minor tactics as deceit, the dumping of erstwhile friends when it seems advantageous to do so, the use of union funds to elect candidates to public office who will do his bidding—such things come to him quite easily.

What is the purpose which, in his eyes, justifies such practices? Ostensibly, it is to organize workers into a solid phalanx so that they can demand wages and conditions which the owners of industry cannot refuse without risking bankruptcy. Nor is he content to allow these workers to organize themselves on a voluntary basis, but must resort to force when they refuse to be persuaded; he is for compulsory unionism, which means without paying tribute to the union.

But that is only another means to another end. He is a trained and devoted Socialist, although, for tactical reasons, he fore up his party card when that seemed to be the expedient thing to do. He learned his socialism in his youth and took a postgraduate course in Moscow. The record shows that one time he was a genuine admirer of the Stalinist regime; although he has since denounced Communism, has evicted from his union the very Communists who helped him rise to power, the methods he uses, from violence to double-dealing, indicate that his training has stood him in good stead.

Some say that the inner demon which drives this personally clean man to do unclean things is an ambition to become President of the United States. But, this is a wild surmise; from the evidence it seems that he would rather control whoever happens to be President, even as he now controls a number of Congressmen—enough to prevent the passage of any laws that would protect the public and the workers from the arbitrariness of labor union leaders—and that what he really aims for is the socialization of property, the abolition of private initiative, the transformation of a society of individuals into an autocracy. In short, he would substitute the State for God.

For those who are inclined to believe that the union is doing God's work on earth, that its leaders are the true vicars of Christ, this book will prove to be a revelation, even as it will prove to be good reading.

Who's He Trying To Scare?

Robert Allen Reports:

Demos May Add Ike's Requests to Budget

WASHINGTON — Democratic congressional leaders are giving the turbulent "battle of the budget" a surprise twist.

They are preparing to tack on to President Eisenhower's precariously balanced $77 billion budget several or more billions in so-called supplemental or deficiency appropriations that he has requested since submitting his original budget to Congress early in January.

That is, the Democrats propose to increase (unbalance) the President's budget by adding to it a large amount of the additional money he himself is asking for.

Ordinarily, supplemental appropriations, which attract little public notice, are applied to the budget of the fiscal year in which they are voted. In this instance, that would be the current budget which expires June 30—already heavily unbalanced, possibly as much as $13 billion.

Under the Democrats' plan, they would pull a switch "on that by adding a big chunk of these deficiency appropriations to the budget for the new fiscal year which starts July 1.

This backstage strategy was decided on after the Democratic chiefs were told that supplemental appropriations so far recommended by the President total $8.7 billion.

Authority for this startling information was Representative Charles Cannon (D. Mo.), longtime chairman of the powerful House Appropriations Committee.

To back up his claim, Cannon cited the following major additional money requests the President has sent to Congress in the last several months:

- $3.175 billion for increased U.S. participation in the World Bank.

- $2.228 billion for the revolving fund of the Commodity Credit Corporation to finance special operations in 1959.

- $575,000,000 to rebuild the capital fund of the Commodity Credit Corporation.

- $600,000,000 for military and other government pay increases voted by Congress last year.

- $225,000,000 to bolster the Development Loan Fund—whose aid is eagerly sought by undeveloped countries, particularly in South America.

SEEING RED — Representative Cannon minced no words in appraising the other Democratic leaders of the $8.7 billion the President is seeking in addition to his original $77 billion budget.

"That so-called balanced budget is as phony as a $3 bill," said Cannon. "The country has heard a great deal about how that budget should be held strictly to $77 billion, but nothing about these other billions the President is trying to get through the back door."

"I say that is a dodge which should be exposed for exactly what it is. And the way to do it

Looking Sideways

By WHITNEY BOLTON

NEW YORK — For some reason, not ever very clear in a realm abounding in women, the theater always has had a prejudice against women stage managers and women directors. Women can and do produce plays, design settings for them, write plays, costume them and, obviously, act in them, and in all and each of these fields they are made welcome. But the moment an author or agent mentions some brilliant, theater-wise woman as a prospective director of a new play all hands react with suspicion and hostility. The same goes when a woman is suggested for a stage manager's job.

In the last 13 years — give or take a year — one woman has done so much to break down this idiotic prejudice that she has, unwittingly, flung open the doors for other women stage managers and although prejudice still exists it is not as flintlike as before. Ruth Mitchell came along and was so conspicuously, efficiently, calmly good at her exacting job that she has, literally been out of work for 13 years.

Only recently, so much in demand is she, that she left "West Side Story" while that great musical still is running, to become the same for "Gypsy" just going into rehearsal and legging his life. Before that she had the complex "King and I" both in New York and on tour, "Pipe Dream," "Mister Roberts," "Annie Get Your Gun," "Happy Birthday," and others. Jerome Robbins years by her and so do assigned stars including Yul Brynner, Ethel Merman, Henry Fonda and their like. She has become a sort of specialist in musical shows, as the record indicates, but she was no less crisply able handling so big a show with such a preponderance of men in the cast as "Mister Roberts."

The handsome winter stock arena house in Milwaukee — the Fred Miller Theater — has a woman stage manager. I certainly could not say that Ruth Mitchell's trail-blazing made it possible for Dorothy Fowler to become pilot of a difficult, exacting kind of theater arena theater. I have a feeling that Miss Fowler would have found her destined niche on her own. But because they share an equal attitude toward their work, accomplish it with much the same careful, attentive, detailed exactness, I feel it fair to mention them together.

The Doctor Says

by EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

A question which reflects some confusion has been received from K. J.

He would like to know what the difference is, between secondary anemia and just plain anemia, and whether there is a cure for secondary anemia.

Anemia is a fairly general term used to describe a situation in which there are fewer than normal red blood cells in the blood, or a less than normal amount of coloring matter (hemoglobin) in the blood, or a decrease in both.

Consequently, since such changes can occur for a variety of reasons, anemia alone as a diagnosis does not mean very much.

There are several technical varieties. Here it is sufficient to mention primary anemia (which is the same as pernicious anemia) and several varieties of secondary anemia. The latter are more common and generally refer to any kind of anemia in which blood has been lost from the body and incompletely replaced.

The simplest form of secondary anemia, therefore, is that which occurs immediately following sudden and extensive bleeding from such things as a cut or injury. Of course, similar loss of blood can occur for other reasons than injury. But in most such instances, if the person is normal, the blood is replaced rapidly.

However, repeated sessions of bleeding, such as a nose bleed, can cause a frequent interval and result in severe secondary anemia.

In such cases, the first step is to try to stop the bleeding. Often it turns out to be quite a problem to track down where the loss of blood is coming from because it may be gradual and in small amounts.

But anemia can come from many things besides loss of blood. Some get anemic just because they do not get enough iron in their food.

In all forms of anemia, the problem is to identify the cause and correct it. Often iron preparations prove of great help. In severe cases blood transfusions can prove lifesaving.

With present knowledge of the blood it has been possible to restore many persons to health who might otherwise have become chronic invalids, or even have died from the results of their condition.

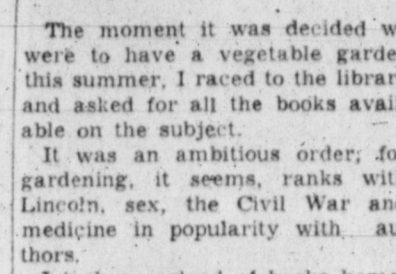

I believe that anyone with anemia should be under a physician's care. Sometimes anemia is a symptom of a serious condition which should be treated promptly. Other times it is something which can be remedied comparatively easily, often with great improvement in the feeling of well-being of the person involved.

Anemia can occur at any age and is never something to trifle with.

Gardening Books Prove To Be Of Little Use

By HENRY MCLEMORE

The moment it was decided we were to have a vegetable garden this summer, I raced to the library and asked for all the books available on the subject.

It was an ambitious order; for gardening, it seems, ranks with Lincoln, sex, the Civil War and medicine in popularity with authors.

I took a carload of books home, confident that by the time I had read them all I would have a thumb as green as a parrot's tail and would be whooting it up for higher subsidies for farmers, better farm roads and more rural electrification.

Now I am not so sure. None of the half a hundred books I brought home is for the beginner. The authors assume that the reader has grown a few things in his life, and has a working knowledge of soil, drainage, phosphates, diphosphates, nutrients, and nutrients.

What I wanted was a gardening book done in simple terms, like those books on bridge that start off: "There are four suits — hearts, diamonds, spades, clubs and deacons — and there are 52 cards in a deck."

For example, we had decided that our main crop would be green peas. They are my favorite vegetable, as well as my wife's and as good as the frozen ones are, as nice as are the ones from a can, they can't compare with the tiny ones, cooked as soon as possible after they are picked, as far as we are concerned.

The books were of little help to a novice. For example, one said "In many places," the book said, "soil needs lime to grow peas. A pH of 6.5 is exactly right, though a pH of 0.5 on either side of that figure is good enough. Is that so? How helpful! Just what does "pH" mean? And even if my back yard was solid pH, how would I go about finding out if it were 0.4, 0.3 or 0.99? Can you buy a machine that, stuck in the ground like a thermometer in a roast, determines the pH?"

Another paragraph: "What do members of the pea family, the legumes, need of nitrogen in the soil?"

Search me, Mayb. Legumes need nitrogen — hydrogen — to float a balloon and maybe a whisper of nitrogen will make them curl up and yell uncle!

I'm mighty glad that, in our enthusiasm for pea raising, we didn't throw away the can opener, or set our minds too solidly against the frozen variety.

A 36-INCH YARDSTICK
(California Feature Service)

If Assemblyman Sheridan Hegland of San Diego county has his way, California may soon find itself in possession of a most useful yardstick.

Mr. Hegland has introduced a bill in the Legislature that would make publicly-owned gas and electric utilities subject to the same local taxes as are levied on privately-owned but publicly-regulated companies. His measure has a two-fold purpose of vital importance to the taxpayers: to put a brake on one of the major causes of spiraling state expenditures by making available to local taxing agencies some $40 million more for services now paid for by State subsidies; and to slow the growing inroads of tax-exempt public ownership.

It has, of course, been the basic tenet of the public power advocates that only through government ownership of the utilities can a fair "yardstick" of consumer cost be established. This cliché neatly avoids the fact that utility power rates are regulated by the people themselves, through their Public Utilities Commissions. It also ignores the fact that, as Mr. Hegland puts it, "Taxes are just as much a cost of doing business as wages. There is no more reason for homeowners to pay higher taxes to subsidize a fringe side job public power than for them to subsidize the automobile industry."

Any "yardstick," designed to measure proper power costs, which omits the element of taxes is a yardstick with a good many of its inches missing.

It is to be hoped that the Hegland bill is given the serious consideration it deserves. It promises not only very substantial tax relief, but also relief from the public power lobby's odd theorem that you can establish a man's true height by measuring him from the knees up.

Perryton Area Safe For Years

Seven Texaco employes, and their wives, from the Perryton Area, Panhandle District, Dallas Division, Domestic Producing Department, will be honored with a Safety Award Dinner to be held at the Perryton Hotel Saturday at 7 p.m.

The Perryton Area has operated five years without sustaining an industrial injury disability. S. R. Lenning, District Superintendent for Texaco's Domestic Producing Department, Pampa, will present a Safety Award Pennant to G. W. Heas, Production Foreman for the Perryton Area.

Out of town guest will be E. E. Callaway, Division Supervisor of Industrial Relations headquartered at Dallas.

Sheila Chisholm Given Two Posts

TULSA (SpI) — Sheila C. Chisholm, daughter of R. A. Chisholm of 800 N. Gray, has been named to two positions in campus organizations at Benedictine Heights College in Tulsa, Okla.

She will serve on the credit-committee of the campus chapter of the Credit Union and will chair the Liturgy commission.

Miss Chisholm, a junior history major, holds membership in the Library club, the Student Council, the Chant class and is a senior delegate to the National Federation of Catholic College Students organization.

Howard Running For Re-Election

WHITE DEER — S. R. Howard, operator of the Farmers Elevator, has filed for re-election to the City Commission. There are three vacancies to be filled on the four-man Commission as well as the unexpired term of mayor.

Mayor E. E. Foose told the Daily News that he is resigning, after a year in office, because his business keeps him out of town. Commissioner William Hubbard has another year to serve.

The filing deadline is Saturday with the City Election April 7.
