Nixon Says Resignation Is Up To Vice President

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon today said Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's declaration that he would not resign even if indicted by a grand jury is proper and should be respected.

But he said that Agnew was in a different category, having been elected by all the people.

The decision is for him to make, said Nixon. He has indicated that he will not resign and therefore that should be respected.

The President added, "I have not asked him to resign. The matter is for him to decide."

The President at the same time gave a vote of confidence to Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson and Assistant Attorney General Henry E. Petersen. Petersen, in charge of the Justice Department Criminal Division, is in overall charge of the Agnew investigation under Richardson and was sharply criticized Saturday by the vice president.

SCHOOL VISITORS — Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Durham, 1189 Prairie Dr., were among the parents who attended Back To School Night at Pampa Junior High yesterday. Giving information to the Durhams was Kelly Tucker, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Tucker, 2222 Lynn. The evening began with a choir concert, followed by visits by parents to their children's classrooms.

Segretti Claims 1972 Campaign Saboteur Says Chapin Hired Him

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Donald H. Segretti, his testimony interrupted by a bomb threat, told the Senate Watergate Committee today that he had hired Dwight Chapin to conduct political sabotage on Democratic hopefuls last year.

Durham or "Don Simmons" while in the field because Chapin wanted him "never to prove an embarrassment to the President or his campaign supporters" for his activities.

work as a Republican agent. Segretti testified Chapin "stressed the secrecy of my duties and stated that he would be my contact at the White House."

He said Chapin, who left the White House early this year to become an executive with United Air Lines, sometimes used the name "Mr. Chapman" when calling him.

Segretti, who has pleaded guilty to three misdemeanor counts of violating federal election laws, said he now feels "deepest regrets" for his activities. He said they "were wrong and have no place in the American political system."

Segretti said between 20 and 40 of the letters were mailed—mainly to Jackson's supporters. It was learned that Segretti also mailed a copy to Chapin, along with other examples of his political sabotage efforts.

Stranglehold Is Tightening

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—Guerrillas clashed with government troops on three sides of Phnom Penh today in an attempt to tighten the rebel stranglehold on the Cambodian capital.

Two Men Missing In Tanker Mishap

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—The U.S. Coast Guard sent helicopters and cutters to aid the 565-foot tanker Texaco North Dakota, hit by an explosion today that left two crewmen missing and a third possibly overboard.

with firefighting equipment, were dispatched to the scene, as was an offshore crewboat ordered out of Venice, La., a small settlement near the mouth of the Mississippi.

Am Rong said government forces also clashed with insurgents at Vihear Suon, 11 miles northeast of Phnom Penh, but there were no immediate details of the fighting.

The vessel was en route from Mobile, Ala., to Port Arthur, Tex.

There were conflicting reports as to whether fire had followed the explosion aboard the tanker in the Gulf of Mexico some 60 miles southwest of the mouth of the Mississippi River.

Agnew Jurors Warned

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Federal Judge Walter E. Hoffman issued special instructions to grand jurors today, decrying news leaks on the supposedly secret investigation of alleged wrongdoing against Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

The spokesman said the vice president was described as disgruntled over White House and Justice Department responses to news leaks about the investigation involving him.

The grand jury, which was impaneled 10 months ago to investigate Maryland political corruption, has not met more than once a week until now.

Security was extremely tight, with reporters barred from the fifth floor where the grand jury room is located.

General Demoted

SAIGON (UPI)—A top general whose division broke and ran in the face of a North Vietnamese push across the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) last year has been demoted to private and discharged from the army, the semi-official Vietnam Press said today.

Pampa's Sewage Plant Near Top In Priority

By TEX DEWEESSE
Pampa's sewage treatment plant project was back in the news today with word from the Texas Water Quality Board in Austin that the city has been placed near the top in a long list of construction grant priorities.

The city has long been awaiting word from the TWQB and the Federal Environmental Protection Agency on its application for a federal grant to fund the proposed $540,000 improvement project to bring the local plant up to state standards.

All cities listed have filed applications for federal grants on sewage treatment plants to bring them up to water pollution control requirements.

Tour Plans Finalized By Aviation Committee

Plans were finalized today at a meeting of the Aviation Committee of the Chamber of Commerce with city officials for the reception of the All Texas Air Tour due in Pampa at 5 p.m. next Monday.

The general public is invited to attend a dinner dance in the Heritage Room of the M.K. Brown Auditorium and Civic Center beginning at 7 p.m. A western buffet will be served and dancing will follow the dinner with music by "That Band With Dixieland."

3 Escapees Recaptured

GATESVILLE, Tex. (UPI)—Police recaptured early today three of eight Gatesville State School for Boys escapees and Coryell County District Attorney Bobby Cummings said the remaining five may face adult charges for the destruction of a local home, threats on the owner's life and theft of a car.

Heath, in a letter to Johannesson, promised the British naval ships would be gone by mid-afternoon. Johannesson told a news conference "the future is rather uncertain despite the agreement and it is impossible to say now if the dispute will be settled."

Lippmann Is Critical

NEW YORK (UPI)—Walter Lippmann, 84, whose syndicated column "Today and Tomorrow" appeared in 250 newspapers, was in critical condition today at New York hospital, suffering from a stroke.

This year marks the 25th anniversary for the All Texas Air Tour which is expected to consist of 60 planes carrying approximately 140 persons. The tour will leave Saturday, Oct. 6, from Temple, with an average of four stops per day in towns throughout the State of Texas.

Icelandic Gunboats Pressuring British

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (UPI)—Icelandic gunboats steamed into the Atlantic today to make sure British warships pull out of a disputed 50-mile fishing zone to cool the year-old "cod war" between the two nations.

British Prime Minister Edward Heath agreed Tuesday to withdraw the warships, bowing to a threat by Icelandic Premier Olafur Johannesson to break off relations between the two countries.

Three Killed Border Patrolmen Fight With Mexican Smugglers

JACUMBA, Calif. (UPI) — Border patrolmen, alerted by Vietnam-type intruder sensors, tracked down a human pack chain of Mexicans carrying marijuana through the darkness Tuesday and fought a gunbattle less than 400 yards north of the border.

The marijuana was arrested by the rest of the band, believed to number about seven, fled back across the border, eluding pursuit through the rugged, scrub-covered mountains about 70 miles east of San Diego.

Police in Tecate, on the Mexican side of the border, reported capturing a man believed to be one of the fleeing smugglers, and said that three of those who escaped may have been wounded by the U.S. officers' gunfire.

Richard Kleindienst Denies Allegations

DALLAS (UPI) — Former Attorney General Richard Kleindienst told a federal judge Tuesday the Nixon administration did not manipulate the federal prosecution of the Texas stock fraud scandal in such a manner as to discredit Democratic politicians in Texas.

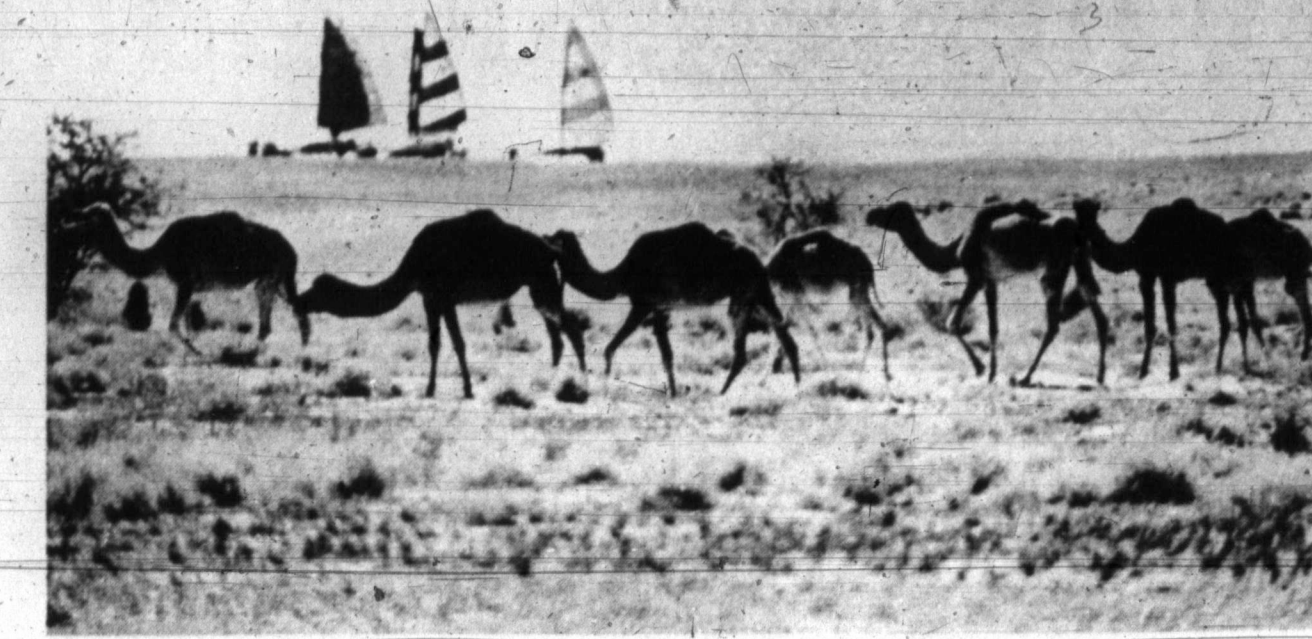

Texas Republican officials and tell them not to communicate in any way with Justice Department officials conducting the investigation.

Kleindienst and assistant Attorney General Henry Petersen were the first of many witnesses subpoenaed at the request of former Texas Attorney General Waggoner Carr and former state Insurance Commissioner John Osorio during a pretrial hearing.

He answered many questions saying "Gee, I really don't know," or "I don't recall that, but if it's in my memo it must be so."

Petersen testified there may have been "political connotations" because politicians were involved in the investigation.

While this administration remains committed to the ideas of maximum freedom in the private sector, it is our conclusion that a mandatory allocation system is necessary and appropriate of a short-term basis.

Administration Says Allocation Decision Was Made With Extreme Reluctance

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In an effort to see that no home goes cold and no farmer loses crops for lack of fuel, the Nixon administration has stepped into to control the distribution of propane and home heating oil, at least for this winter.

Rep. Silvio O. Conte, R-Mass., called it "the only measure that could be taken to save New England from a disastrous fuel shortage this winter," but accused the administration of "five months of fiddling around" before taking the step.

Similar priorities for home heating oil, presumably designed to include adequate wholesale supplies for the fuel-short Northeast, are expected to be announced next week.

In Ames, Iowa, Craig Severance, an official of the Iowa Student Group, blamed the Iowa Highway Commission for fuel shortages and rising costs because it is not pushing for alternatives to highway travel.

Black Leads Mayor Race

ATLANTA (UPI) — Black Vice Mayor Maynard Jackson led an 11-man race for mayor of Atlanta Tuesday night while Mayor Sam Massell barely beat former congressman Charles Weltner for a runoff spot.

He said he remembered calling presidential counselor Anne Armstrong of Texas, then co-chairman of the GOP National Committee.

Highway Patrolman Murdered

TOPEKA, Kan. (UPI) — A hitchhiker shot and killed a state highway patrolman Tuesday, wounded one police officer and led others on a wild chase through the city streets in a commandeered police car.

Police said highway Patrolman James D. Thornton, 52, was shot in the back of the head by the hitchhiker identified as Edward Mitchell Jr., 22, Itasca, N.Y. The trooper was making an identification check on the suspect when he was killed.

Officers surrounded the car at a service station where, according to police Cpl. Charles Chiles, Mitchell "came out shooting." Mitchell died in a hail of pistol bullets and shot gun pellets.

Police Lt. Joe Solis was struck in the left ankle by a bullet fired by Mitchell as he jumped from the patrol car. Solis was not seriously injured and was able to drive himself to a hospital.

Jail Term Ruled Out

BOULDER, Colo. (UPI) — A juvenile judge Tuesday ruled out a possible jail term for Robert Lange Sr. who instructed his 14-year-old nephew to cheat in winning the 1973 National Soapbox Derby at Akron, Ohio.

The details have not yet been worked out but I have agreed for a non-judicial adjustment of the charges," said Boulder Juvenile Court Judge Horace Holmes.

Spencer Davis Group Is Able To Put Pieces Back Together

By WILLIAM D. LAFFLER

NEW YORK (UPI) — Critics of rock groups say that usually the bands fall apart because the musicians become disillusioned or yearn for better things and desert the ranks.

It is quite true that gifted rock musicians have a tendency to peel off from a group and either join a new combination or form their own.

But this is nothing new. Back in the 1930s, when the big bands began to break out, musicians jumped from one ensemble to another. It's human nature.

The Beatles stayed together because they were the sensation of their generation. Only personal differences broke them apart. The Rolling Stones also have a great track record.

The Spencer Davis group is a good example of a unit which is able to put broken pieces together. Davis formed his group back in 1960 when the rock music that is so popular today was only germinating.

His British group built up a large following with such musicians as Pete York and Steve and Muff Winwood.

They're not nudists.

HORNSEA, England (UPI) — The town council of Hornsea, on the North Sea Coast of Yorkshire, Monday night voted to let the central council for British nudism use a local beach as Britain's first for nude bathing.

"They are not nudists," said Mrs. Sylvia Wood, a councillor who voted for the move. "Nudists are people who take their clothes off in night clubs."

In 1967, when the group was turning out hit after hit, Steve Winwood pulled out to join Traffic. York and Eddie Hardin also left Davis.

In 1969, Davis broke away from amplified sound and established a duo with Alun Davis and later with Peter Jameson. Although their music won rave reviews, it failed to sell.

Now Davis has gone back to amplified sound with a group consisting of York on Drums, Hardin on keyboards, Roy Fenwick on lead guitar, Charlie McCracken on bass and Spencer on Rhythm and slide guitar and harmonica.

Their new album, "Gluggo" (Vertigo VEL-1015) is a mixture of soft and hard rock. Among the numbers are "Feeling Rude," "Trouble in Mind" and "Catch You on the Rebob."

"Today Gluggo, Tomorrow the World" from a musicians standpoint is the most interesting slice because the group achieves an unusual bagpipe-like effect.

It is almost certain that "A Passion Play" by Jethro Tull (Chrysalis CHR 1040) will be another winner for this great rock group.

Designed for theatrical presentation, the musical follows a story line. And those who want to listen to music alone may be somewhat annoyed by a four-minute verbal piece called "The Story of the Hare Who Lost His Spectacles."

"A Passion Play" is a better effort than "Living in the Past" but in some respects fails to equal the high standards set in "Thick as a Brick," "Aqualung" and "Benefit."

A single was made from a section of "A Passion Play" and it is doing quite well on the trade papers' popularity charts.

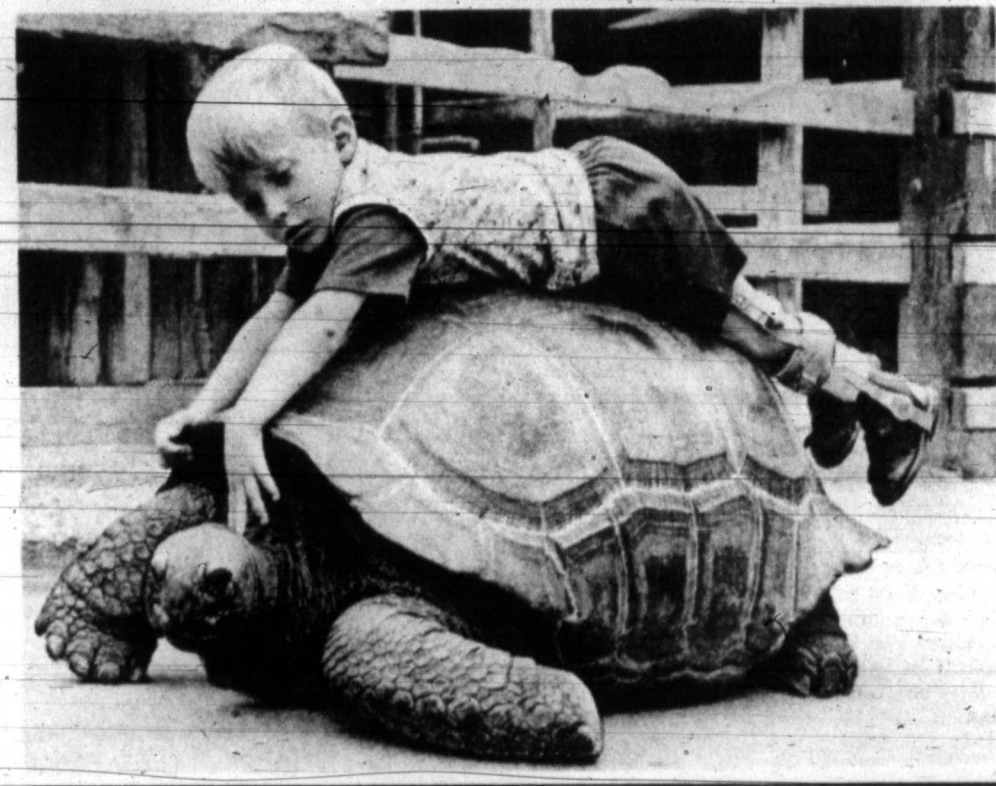

Tape Deck—John Mayall's "Moving On" was recorded live at the Whisky AGoGo in Los Angeles slightly more than a year ago and released on an LP recently. Mayall fans who own tape recorders should listen to the open-reel playback of "Moving On" (Polydor M 5036), an Ampex tape release. Ampex tracked the tape at 7 1/2 inches per second, the best speed available on commercial reels, and the fidelity of sound reproduction is very high, almost like being there.

The Woman's View

By GAY PAULEY

UPI Women's Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — The women's liberation movement is much more accepted by America's middle class women than by their sisters called the blue collar wives.

It is on the blue collar housewife, however, that "lib" shows its influence most dramatically.

These are conclusions reached in a new study devoted primarily to the changing pattern of the working class woman's life. But along the way, the researchers looked into social changes affecting the next step in status, the so-called middle class.

Women's Lib as a movement is much more accepted by middle class women," say the researchers. "They accept its goals and are less sensitive to it as derogatory toward homemaking, probably because they have not been as completely subordinated to the homemaker's role.

Cause and Result

However, to many of them the lib movement is a cause which they accept without reference to themselves. Few feel that anything will be much different in their own lives because of it, for they like to believe they have always been liberated and in no need of any organization to break their chains.

The middle class woman, thus, is more concerned about the cause than the results of women's lib, while the working class woman rejects the cause but accepts the results.

These are statements in a summary of a study done by Social Research, Inc., a Chicago-based national social and marketing research organization.

Heading the research team was Dr. Burleigh B. Gardner, founder in 1946 and now board chairman of the research group. Social Research did the study for Macfadden Women's Group, publishers of eight mass circulation magazines.

Captive of Triangle
The latest research is the first in detail since 1965, although Dr. Gardner says that since the late '40s "we have been examining the working class woman."

The new report includes a look at the social changes of the middle class because, as Gardner says, "you have to look at both to get a balance."

Reported earlier in this column were details of the working class findings, representing 40 million and almost 60 per cent of the adult female population.

To repeat, Gardner says, the blue collar wife's life was one spent as a "captive of the triangle of husband, children and home."

She once was considered the most stable element of American society. But no more, married to craftsmen, factory and service workers, have awakened from "sleeping giantesses" and "our society will never be the same again."

On the effect "lib" has had on working class women, Gardner reports. "To the spokesman for women's lib, we can say, 'Take heart; you represent a cause whose time has come and have a following greater than you know."

Some Resentment Shown
Apparently, though, the working class women aren't immersed totally in liberation causes.

As the researchers state, "While working class women share... the conviction that women should have equality with men in pay, in choice of jobs, in opportunities and not be restrained just because they are women, the study shows that these women vociferously resent what they feel are efforts of women's lib advocates to 'put down' the role of wife, mother and homemaker."

Admiral's Lady First American Caught Stealing

LONDON (UPI) — The wife of a retired U.S. Navy vice-admiral has been sentenced to 30 days in jail Monday for shoplifting.

Mrs. Mildred Gralla, 57, of New York, was the first American caught in Britain's two-month-old crackdown on foreign shoplifters. More than 90 tourists have been sent to jail during the campaign.

She was found guilty of pocketing $97 worth of jewelry from London's swank Harrod's department store Monday and released on bail pending appeal. Defense attorneys said her husband, Arthur Gralla, retired as a vice-admiral from the U.S. Navy last year.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

TURSDAY, OCT. 4

Your birthday today: You must depend mainly on your own enterprise this year of kaleidoscopic circumstances. Many times you will be better off following intuition than rules and logic. All limitations should be vigorously questioned when you encounter them, not before. Relationships are subject to odd coincidences, require special care so that full information is in effect. Today's natives have an expensive, hopeful viewpoint, are usually willing to enter controversy.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: What happens today is just more of yesterday extended. Be consistent and patient; the turning point is coming soon. An evening in solitary study or meditation is advised.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Ongoing challenges to your temper and endurance continue, each with another side issue coming into consideration. Count only on what you are able to manage alone.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Avoid hasty moves, however urgent the pressure and however dear those pushing you may be. Being prompt and diligent forestalls much confusion in your work.

Cancer [June 21-July 21]: Nothing is to be gained by responding in kind, so find something better than petty reactions. Care in travel is essential. There is satisfaction in routines neatly fulfilled.

Leo [July 22-Aug. 22]: Snap judgments are not likely to produce the expected results. Your comments are the subject of critical attention. Personal affairs are better left out of your discussion.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Life is more than a transaction today, with more going on than material rewards. Take time out to reflect, count your blessings, give thanks that things are this auspicious.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Stick to current directions, fill in better details rather than change plans yet. Consolidate recent gains, collect your share of whatever is under distribution.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Continue striving for analytical understanding of what is happening and what your role is. You may have far less responsibility than you fancy. Accept no criticism at face value.

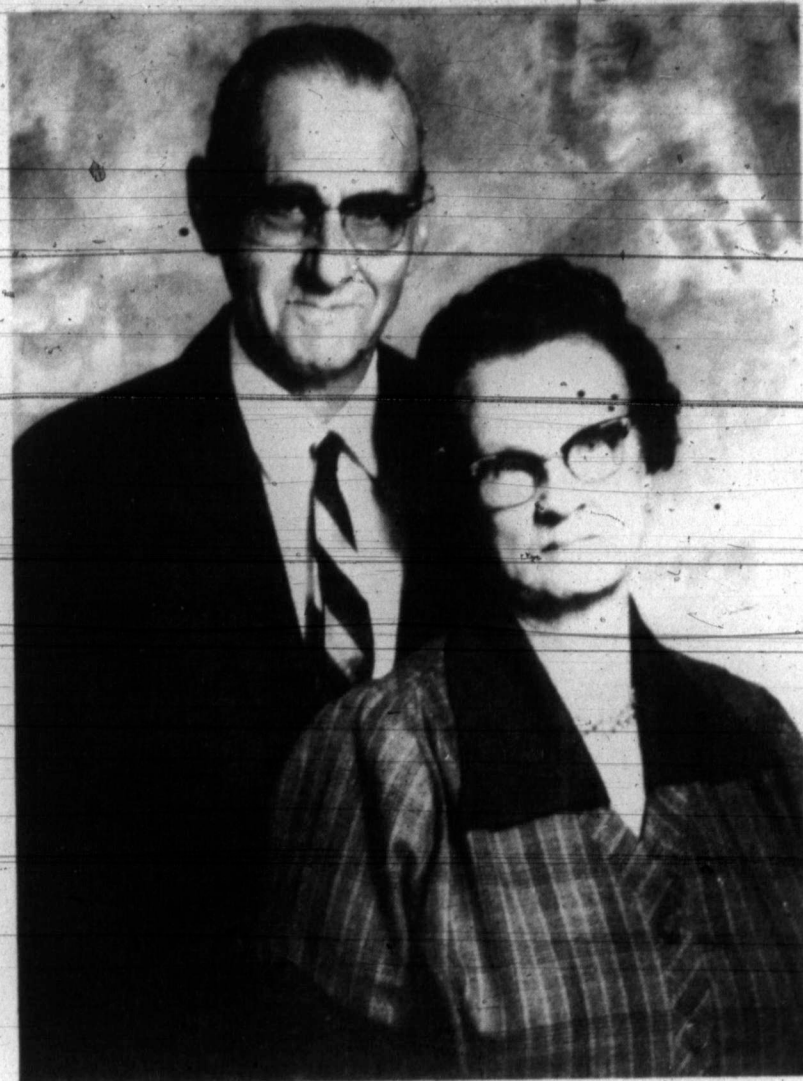

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Concentrate on conservative, necessary routines. Leave speculation and financial maneuvers out of the scheme of things. Do whatever you have promised in family matters.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Move quickly to bring career and business affairs to general conclusion; old ventures wound up, new ones clearly understood, but nothing drastic or abrupt. Spare loved ones the details—unless you've been getting good advice thus.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Extra attention to the care of your health is worthwhile—minor quirks of bad habits do take their toll over the years. Clear out any clutter in your work area and home.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Your friends continue full of schemes which are unlikely to bring you any tangible benefit. Cooperation can be arranged by leaving out unreasonable exceptions and special demands.

hold four hearts so North responds two clubs.

Sure enough. South does reply two hearts and North passes happily.

The play at two hearts is fairly simple. South wins the club lead and goes after spades, not trumps. He wants to set up dummy's long spade suit if he can.

It turns out that he can. Spades break 3-3 for him and he winds up losing one spade trick and one trick in each of the other suits. Of course, he goes after trumps once he has set up the long spades.

One no-trump played by South would not be a tragedy. He would collect six tricks, three hearts and three outside aces, but it sure is better to make a part score at hearts than to be set in no-trump.

 The dependability of the store where you buy furniture is your best guarantee when any item arrives damaged or broken. A reputable store will repair or replace it.

Clear plastic can covers— from coffee cans for example— make slightly drip dishes, for your potted plants.

Before you sign any kind of credit agreement, the store must give you the credit cost in annual percentage terms to comply with the Federal Truth-in-Lending Law.

First National City Bank in New York says the nationwide expectation for the life of the average piece of furniture is seven to ten years before it must be replaced.

There are more than 5,000 family resorts ranging from mobile homes to luxurious communities along the shores of Missouri's Ozark lakes.

Art Treasures Hit The Road

NEW YORK (UPI)—University art collections, among the nation's richest, mostly are immobile— accessible only on home campuses.

But there's a break with tradition on the horizon. Eleven midwestern university art collections are hitting the road— so to speak. Teamed up, they will figure in an exhibition opening in New York Oct. 4 at the Widenerstein and Co. gallery. That's the first stop for this unusual roadshow.

The exhibit title: "Paintings from Midwestern University Collections: 17th to 20th Centuries." Seventy-six paintings are in the collection organized and sponsored by the Committee on Institutional Cooperation. That's a consortium of 11 Midwestern universities.

After the New York show closes the paintings will "tour" the participating universities, through April 1975.

The member universities include: the University of Chicago, University of Illinois, Indiana University, University of Iowa, University of Michigan, Michigan State University, University of Minnesota, Northwestern University, Ohio State University, and University of Wisconsin. Purdue University will not be able to participate, contrary to original plans.

A fire destroyed the school's exhibition facilities. The paintings on tour exhibit partially is sponsored by a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts.

More than 32,500,000 persons own stock in United States corporations.

Senior Center Corner

By LINNIE LESTER
 Despite the cool and rainy weather Thursday, 52 seniors were present for a very delightful afternoon at their weekly party at the library.

Sponsoring Altruists present were Mrs. Louise Sewell, chairman, and Mmes. Lora Dunn, Olive Hills and Lillian Snow.

The Rebecca Lodge women were hostesses, and serving sandwiches, cake and coffee were Mmes. Eula Thornhill, Gladys Mayo, Della Reeves, Lillie Hollis, Hazel Franklin, Jessie Rance and Lillie Fulton.

Clifton Reed was welcomed as a new member. We are sorry to report that Mrs. Elizabeth Kretzmeier, our eldest member and widely known for her Raggedy Ann dolls, is a patient in Highland General Hospital. We miss her!

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Groom, newlyweds, were present and rendered several musical numbers. She played a French horn and he accompanied with the guitar and sang. It is so enjoyable to have people young at heart and so inspirational.

Visitors in the home of Mrs. Genia Noland this week were her sister, Mrs. Rudell Lightfoot and nephew, Bob Lightfoot, wife and daughter of Amarillo.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Groom attended the funeral of Mrs. Oscar Leamon in Erick, Okla., Sept. 26.

Mrs. Stella Wilkie returned this week from a trip to Goretta, N.M.

Guests in the home of Mrs. Jessie Rance this past week were her granddaughter and family. Mr. and Mrs. John Daniluck of Washington, D.C., where he is serving in the US Navy.

Where The Nile River Begins Still A Controversial Matter

MOUNT KIKISI, BURUNDI (UPI) — A century after explorers swarmed into central Africa in search of the source of the Nile, controversy still surrounds the true origin of the world's longest river.

A modest stone pyramid marks the southernmost spring of the river atop this hill in central Burundi, for instance, but it is only one of several possible "sources" for the white Nile.

Experts still have to agree among themselves which is the true headwater of the river.

Man has searched for the Nile's origin since history was first recorded, but it was a little more than a century ago that the rush of explorers—army officers, missionaries, wealthy businessmen—began the quest in earnest.

Sir Richard Burton called it "the greatest prize in the history of exploration."

He added: "Compared to it, the exploits of Columbus and Marco Polo are pleasant promenades. Surely this is the greatest mystery of our age. The river has the illusion of a ghost, as if it has no beginning, as if it appears out of the air."

It was Burton's onetime subordinate and later implacable enemy, John Hanning Speke, who laid the first concrete claim to the title of discoverer of the Nile when he became the first white man to see Lake Victoria on Aug. 3, 1858.

He named the vast inland sea after Queen Victoria and without actually seeing the Nile itself claimed that the lake was its source.

"Most Magnificent" — It is the most magnificent lake of them all," Speke wrote. "I know as if it were etched in marble, that it is the fountain-head of the Nile."

Five years later he returned, saw the river this time and said: "Here at last I stand on the banks of the Nile. Most beautiful is the scene, nothing can surpass it. It is very perfect. The whole thing before me, as I stand where the Nile left the lake, is more fairylike, wild and romantic than anything I have ever seen."

Various experts, among them Alan Moorehead ("The White Nile" and "The Blue Nile") continue to insist the lake, or the Ripon Falls, where the Nile leaves it, is the river's source because rainfall into the lake accounts for most of the river's volume.

Others believe that tributaries of the Kagera River, which flows into Lake Victoria from the west, are the true headwaters.

After wandering for years through what is now Burundi, surviving on little more than sweet potatoes and peas, Dr. Burkhardt Waldecker discovered the Kigira, a tributary of the Kagera, named it as the main headwater of the Nile and built his stone pyramid atop this hill in 1937-38.

Few Tourists — Few tourists, however, climb the steep path to the pyramid where, in happier days, Alf Ndimu, Eric Jonas and Sabrie scratched their names into the rock and where now, an angry swarm of wasps have made their home.

The savage ongoing conflict between the Hutus and the Tutsis have deterred even the most adventurous traveler who might want to make the arduous journey to this remote central African state.

The controversy does not end at Lake Victoria or here.

Some experts, for instance, claim that another tributary, the Luyero, is the true source because its altitude is the greatest above sea level.

Others pinpoint locations which offer the greatest discharge of water into the Kagera, which is the furthest from the sea, or simply the longest and largest tributary of the Kagera.

The British magazine Geographic, in an article on this question, summed up: "It would be preferable to leave the question of the source open, short of an independent inquiry which investigates the relevant headstreams simultaneously, impartially and over a long term and which identifies a single source in the light of such new information as is obtained in the course of it."

There is a good deal known about the Nile, but it is not accepted that the major remaining unknown—the question of source-versus source—is not reasonably knowable and that the Nile refuses to be settled."

School Land Board Opens Oil Lease Bids

AUSTIN (UPI) — Texas School Land Board rejected protests from the state of Louisiana and U.S. Department of Interior Tuesday and opened bids for oil and gas leases on 1.3 million acres of land—the largest amount the state has ever put up for exploration and development at one time.

Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong said bonuses collected on the leases might push the state's permanent school fund over the $1 billion mark for the first time.

Nearly 100 representatives of oil and gas companies and other interested parties jammed the meeting of the three-man board — which normally draws only sparse attendance.

In addition to being an unusually large offering, the 1,348,610 acres put up for lease are the first to be offered under a new contract that will allow the state to demand payment of royalties on any actual oil and gas production in kind, rather than money.

Legislators concerned about the energy crisis facing Austin, San Antonio and other Central Texas areas, came up with the new contract arrangement this year as a possible means for the state to provide additional fuel to those municipalities and utility districts.

By taking royalty payments in actual oil and gas the state would have a fuel supply it could sell to energy-short areas.

The bids opened today were on the amount of bonus the state will get for a five year lease on various tracts of state land for purposes of exploration and development.

The state's royalty share in the event production actually results is set at one-sixth.

Armstrong said Louisiana and the U.S. Department of Interior protested sale of a handful of the 1,712 tracts on grounds they own the property.

"I'm advised by the attorney general that the protest of the state of Louisiana is without merit," Armstrong said. "It's not much more than just a hope."

UFO Reported Seen

CLEVELAND (UPI) — There were several reports Monday morning of a "glowing green ball" in the sky, and one Cleveland woman said she saw it land in a field in suburban Olmsted Township, but a search of the area by police was futile.

"When I first saw it," said Mrs. Barbara Marguardt, "it only looked about a foot in diameter, but it was up high. It was really loud green. Real bright. I never saw anything like this before."

Mrs. Marguardt, 20, spotted the object in the sky at 3:30 a.m. and said it traveled over her car and descended on a curve to the surface of the field.

Theater Empire Sold For $21 Million

DALLAS (UPI) — The McLendon theater empire, which blossomed from five screens five years ago to 90 screens this year, was sold to an East Texas firm for $21 million, mostly cash, it was announced Tuesday.

"I have entered into an agreement of sale in principle with a Tyler-based Texas firm headed by B. J. Hardy, president of Showtime, Inc.," McLendon Theaters President B. R. McLendon said.

The McLendon Theaters are located in Dallas, Fort Worth, Plano, Garland, Irving, Grand Prairie, El Paso, San Antonio, Houston, Galveston, Waco, Sherman and Brownsville.

The sale is believed to be the biggest theater transaction in Texas history.

"The agreement of sale should be consummated effective Nov. 1, 1973, when ownership of the entire McLendon circuit will revert to the new owners," McLendon said.

McLendon said his interests will retain possession of radio station KNUS-FM in Dallas, as well as extensive real estate, radio and television interests throughout the nation.

McLendon began his career 40 years ago in Idabel, Okla., with a small movie house. He is the father of radio entrepreneur Gordon McLendon.

The San Francisco Bay Area forms the largest port on the Pacific Coast of the United States.

Business Today

By WILLIAM J. STANFIELD TORRANCE, Calif. (UPI) — Household goods mover Donald E. Rowe believes the best way to be successful is to find an area with little competition, develop ideas for better service and then work hard and long.

With that philosophy, Rowe, 44, parlayed $1,500, borrowed from a friend 20 years ago to buy a 1936 truck, into a worldwide industry. It grossed $25 million last year and is one of the biggest international movers of household goods.

Rowe, president and chairman of the board of Imperial International Inc., was a pioneer in using containers for intercontinental shipments.

His business got its biggest boost when the Military Traffic Management Agency approved it as a forwarder of the belongings of military personnel and their dependents.

Shuns Competition — There is no question that those government contracts were a major factor in our growth," he said.

From 1966 until the end of the war, one Imperial subsidiary moved more than 225,000 shipments of personal effects totaling more than 42 million pounds from Vietnam to the United States.

The company also was moving household goods for military personnel on the move between the United States and such widely scattered places as Germany, England, Korea, Japan, The Philippines, Guantanamo Bay, Morocco and Newfoundland.

"We like to go places where there is absolutely no competition," Rowe said. "We managed to search out quite a few places where we were able to operate exclusively for a while before others moved in on us."

ally took him to the Defense Department as a forwarder of military goods to overseas bases.

"By necessity, the entire industry will soon be into it," he said. "But let's face it, the only way that the container concept will take hold is by the customer paying more money. But he will get a lot more for his money."

Kept Own Books — Imperial is still exclusive in Guantanamo. "We worked out a program with the Navy that was very beneficial to us and to them too," Rowe said.

A native of St. Petersburg, Fla., Rowe arrived in California with $75 in his pocket in 1949 and went to work as a $32-a-week billing clerk for Columbia Van Lines. He soon joined another van lines which offered $60 weekly.

When Atlas Van Lines, which had just organized on the West Coast, offered him an agency in 1953, he borrowed $1,500 from a friend, bought a truck and a license and was in business for himself. It was tough at first.

"I was booking business and collecting the commission as soon as the shipment was weighed so I could continue to operate," he said. "All I really had was a telephone answering service, and I had to keep my own books."

"I bid one contract so low that I had to do all the packing, loading and driving because I couldn't afford to pay anybody."

Foresees Better Services — His first major contract involved moving an entire Air Force base from Burbank, Calif., to Orlando, Fla., in 1953. With the commission from that move, he bought another agency in Long Beach and a large warehouse in Los Angeles.

The Air Force move led to other military bookings in Southern California and eventu-

Reader wants to know why people smoke

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My wife said she saw a grown woman walking down the street with a pacifier in her mouth! I said she must have been trying to quit smoking, otherwise she'd feel too silly to go out in public that way.

My wife and I were both heavy smokers, but we recently gave it up because we wanted to experience the joy of breathing thru clean lungs again and rediscover our senses of taste and smell.

I said I could understand that woman's walking around with a pacifier in her mouth. She was replacing one bad habit with one that was less damaging.

Abby, why do you think people smoke? Is it a nervous habit? Is it an infantile compulsion to have something in their mouths to comfort them? Or is it simply an unconscious death wish? QUIT IN CLARKSBURG

DEAR QUIT: Most young people begin to smoke because they think it makes them look "grown up" or smart, or to emulate someone they admire. Some smoke to keep another smoker company. They continue to smoke because they "enjoy" the feeling of relaxation it gives them (at first) and many say it keeps their weight down. Then they become addicted. [Nicotine is habit-forming, and don't let anyone tell you it isn't.] The "unconscious-death-wish theory" is also valid. Anyone who persists in doing that which he knows could be his undoing is unconsciously hastening his end.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are both retired. We've been married for three years. It's his second marriage, and mine, too. He is good to me in every way. We enjoy having company, but my friends are not used to swearing, and neither am I.

If someone says: "Isn't it a lovely day?" he says: "You're g-d-- right it is!"

He greets people with, "Well, I'm a s. o. b., if it isn't George!"

Abby, I deplore that kind of language, and I've told him about it, but to no avail. I don't want to nag him because it wouldn't do any good, and would only make him irritable. I am so embarrassed before my friends.

He reads your column. Maybe you can say something to make him more careful. If it weren't for this one fault, he would be perfect. And I do adore him. ASHAMED

DEAR ASHAMED: My advice to you is gently to tell this otherwise perfect man to watch his language. Nobody's perfect, and much as I dislike cursing, there are worse faults.

DEAR ABBY: After 23 years, my wife and I agreed to a friendly divorce.

I have long owned a choice corner lot which is convenient to my work. It happens to be right next door to a long-time friend of my ex-wife.

I am planning to build a home there, but I have run into a slight problem. Rumors are circulating thruout my soon-to-be new neighborhood about the "wild parties" I'll be having, etc., so I have made some minor changes in my house, eliminating ALL windows on the side of the house facing the neighbors.

Do you think I'm making a mistake? PERPLEXED IN OHIO

DEAR PERPLEXED: Possibly. Eliminating the windows might create the impression that you've something to hide. Also, on the practical side, consider what it might do to the resale value.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

Lorna's college sexual affairs show the erosion of morality that has occurred in recent years. Abetted by Dr. Spool's permissive doctrines and many amoral (if not immoral) psychiatrists, youth have been stupidly advised! Women's Lib shows the "recoil" effect!

CASE Y-533: Lorna K., aged 18, entered the state university from a small town high school. "Dr. Crane," the Women's Dean informed me, "Lorna is like thousands of such coeds."

"Coming from a high school of 850 enrollment, she suddenly found herself overwhelmed by 10,000 college youth on our campus."

"And it was a shock to her to be housed in a coeducational dormitory."

"During her first year, she followed the rigid church teachings her parents had instilled in her."

"But by her sophomore year, she succumbed to the high-pressure of some of her coed friends, who began to tell her that sexual affairs before marriage were quite normal and even desirable."

"By her junior year, Lorna had slept with 7 different college men and had developed the cynical outlook that in this Women's Lib generation, that was her privilege."

"Moreover, she still denies that she has suffered any emotional trauma from shifting from one sexual affair to another, for she now claims that sex and love are not synonymous."

"Yet she has moved out of our coeducational dormitories and rooms with two other girls, all three of whom seem somewhat soured on men and are vigorous advocates of Women's Lib."

"Dr. Crane, I view with alarm the erosion of our former moral principles during this past decade of so-called sexual liberation of women."

"Don't you psychiatrists find permanent traumatic emotional damage to such formerly idealistic, virtuous girls as Lorna?"

CHECK YOUR PSYCHIATRIST

Most of us psychiatrists believe in the wisdom of the ancients who have passed along the Ten Commandments as a high code of moral conduct.

And we certainly find lifelong traumatic scars from such modern behavior as Lorna represents.

Alas, however there are many other psychiatrists who actually and openly recommend promiscuity among high school girls, telling them such casual sexual orgies prepare them better for happy marriage later on.

"So be sure you check on your psychiatrists before you send wives or teen-age girls to them as patients!"

Down in Indiana, a school principal wished to conduct a 3-day seminar for senior high schoolers, separated into an all-male and then an all-female audience.

"Dr. Crane," he said, "about one-third of our senior girls are already pregnant so our faculty feels something should be done to warn youth against this pernicious modern 'free love' doctrine."

"Therefore, I asked an Indianapolis psychiatrist to join a divorce court Judge and a Clergyman as our seminar speakers."

"But this psychiatrist wrote back, saying he'd be glad to come but thought maybe we'd not like his viewpoint."

"For he said he advises teenage promiscuity among high schoolers, since he feels such wide sexual experience is good insurance for their success in marriage."

The Bible states that if we sow the wind, we'll reap the whirlwind!

Such rationalization as this psychiatrist demonstrates, is obviously medical "hot air" which, however, has helped produce the current furor for indiscriminate abortion laws.

Girls, the wisdom of brilliant men throughout the ages far exceeds any modern propaganda about "free love," so don't pay attention to Women's Libbers.

"It's the woman who pays," runs an ancient axiom, which is true today and will be so in generations to come, so be smart!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of The Worry Clinic, Hopkins Bldg., Melrose, Indiana 47544. Enclose a long stamped, addressed envelope and 15 cents in cover typing and printing costs when you end for one of his booklets.)

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — On the very day the FBI was reporting a one per cent decline in crime in 1973, a person or persons unknown broke into my house and made off with my television set and a few other treasures.

Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson called the FBI report encouraging. If Richardson were getting ripped off like the rest of us, he might not be so heartened by it.

In common with many other government officials, Richardson manifests what is identified in medical terminology as the "cheery outlook syndrome," but is known to us laymen as "bright spot fever."

It takes its name from the fact that when an official in this condition is shown a set of statistics, no matter how depressing they might be, he sees bright spots before his eyes.

Blinking-eye Factor
Government economists have been in the advanced stages of bright spot fever for months. Upon receiving the latest cost of living index, the economists do not blanch and gasp and wring their hands and gnash their teeth and smite their foreheads. Which is what the situation calls for.

No, indeed. The economists blink their eyes a couple of times and tell newsmen they see some bright spots in the figures. And now Richardson is seeing bright spots in the crime rate, which remains of such proportions as to cause someone without the fever to fall over in a faint.

Crime down one per cent—beautiful! That is the equivalent of a football team that has lost a game 100 to 0 protesting that the last point-after-touchdown was illegal and getting the score reduced to 99 to 0.

I asked a local physician who specializes in bright spot fever what causes the condition and he said it was nature's way of telling us we have hyper-rigidity of the upper lip. He explained it thusly:

Grain of Salt Helps
"When a succession of bad news indicates his policies are ineffectual, a government official feels behooved to keep a stiff upper lip. Otherwise he would soon be down in the mouth."

"As you know, the lip bone is connected to the jaw bone. As the upper lip stiffens, it elevates the jaw bone in the classic chin-up position."

"Eventually, unless there is a change for the better, the upper lip becomes hyper-rigid, tilting the chin at too sharp an angle, which puts excessive strain on the eyeballs when the official tries to look down his nose at his critics."

"That type of eyestrain, in turn, causes bright spots to dance before his eyes when he heads consumer price indexes, crime summaries and other doleful statistics."

I said, "How do you treat bright spot fever?"
"A grain of salt usually helps," the doctor replied.

U.S. — Hong Kong business
NEW YORK (UPI) — The United States continued to be the largest foreign investor in Hong Kong's industry through 1972, according to latest figures of the Hong Kong Trade Development Council.
As of November, 1972, the council reports, the United States accounted for 111 of the 262 either fully foreign-owned or joint venture undertakings in the Colony with a total estimated investment of $89.9 million. Of the total 262 foreign companies in Hong Kong, the majority are involved in electronics (60), clothing (41) and textiles (18).

Landry-Allen Involved In Big Contest Monday

DALLAS (UPI) — To Tom Landry next Monday night's Washington-Dallas affair will represent two things — a chance for him to find out how good his club really is and a chance for the Cowboys to launch themselves in a championship direction.

"It is hard to say how good we are after that St. Louis game last week," said Landry, referring to the 45-10 Cowboy romp over the previously undefeated Cardinals.

"We looked real good, but then they didn't look too good. When you beat a team like Washington you know something. We will find that out Monday night."

The Cowboys-Redskins game is a critical contest, particularly to Washington since a loss at home would put the defending NFC champs two games behind Dallas in their division.

Big Game

"This is a big momentum game," the Dallas coach said. "Just like the San Francisco-Los Angeles game was for those teams last weekend. I think we have to split with Washington and then just try to outdo them over the rest of the season."

"I think Washington is still the best team in our division. They are the division champs and should be considered as such until somebody beats them out of the championship."

The Redskins offense has had a slow start this season, particularly on the ground, and although Billy Kilmer was completing 60 per cent of his passes he was replaced at quarterback last week by Sonny Jurgensen.

"I'm sure we will see Sonny in there against us," Landry said. "He will probably be their No. 1 until he loses a game he ought to have won. Kilmer is a great competitor and gives you all he has got every time he is on the field."

Tough Defense

"But Sonny is a better overall drop back passer. Everybody recognizes that."

JV Contest Rescheduled

The junior varsity game between Pampa's Shockers and Dumas scheduled for 7 p.m. Thursday at Harvester Stadium has been rescheduled for 7 p.m. Nov. 15, according to athletic director Ed Lehnick.

Pampa's junior varsity will visit Lefors' varsity at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in Lefors' Homecoming game.

Home Plate-Stealing Youths Arrested At Shea Stadium

NEW YORK (UPI) — Police arrested eight youths trying to steal home plate from the baseball field at Shea Stadium early today.

Police said the youths had scaled the outfield wall and dug

Washington is doing the same things they always do. I understand Larry Brown has been having trouble getting into shape and how they do on offense depends a lot on how he does.

"Their defense is just like it was last year. St. Louis did well against Washington. They played but St. Louis hit the ball into a lot of tight spots and got away with it."

The Washington-Dallas series has become one of the more intense rivalries in the NFL, and it has picked up considerably with the appearance of George Allen as Redskins coach.

Bitter Battle
Last year there was a good deal of bitterness on the part of the Cowboys because Allen complained about crackback blocks thrown by Dallas and it was Cowboy linebacker Chuck Howley who wound up with a knee operation because of a crackback block thrown by a Redskin.

Olympic Heads Want Games Reduced

VARNA, Bulgaria (UPI) — Delegates at the 10th Olympic Congress today tackled the problem of the growing size of the Olympic Games.

The International Olympic Committee has gone on record as wishing to reduce the size and scope of the games before they become totally unmanageable, but the international sports federations want more events included.

Britain's Prince Philip, President of the International Equestrian Federation, recommended the IOC find a way to stage the sports the federations are asking for.

"More and more people are taking part in more and more sports," said Philip. "For this reason I am sure that all international federations view with dismay any idea of reducing participation of some or all the sports, or of reducing the number of events in some of the sports in the Games."

"In my opinion, the International Olympic Committee should be looking for ways to allow more sports and more competitors to take part in Olympic Games and not less."

The IOC will consider two such plans when it meets privately at the end of the Congress Thursday.

The first will be to expand the period of time during which the games are held. This would allow competitors to use a relatively small number of facilities one after the other rather than grouping all athletes together simultaneously.

It would mean that costs would be cut considerably because fewer new buildings and stadiums would have to be erected.

The second plan, which can be combined with the first, is to spread the games geographically through a country or even throughout a continent so that one city is not burdened alone.

Until now, the IOC has been keen to limit the numbers of events. The 50-kilometer walk and at least two swimming events are areas in which the IOC Executive Committee has begun its pruning operation, although these cuts will have to be confirmed by the full IOC meeting.

Mustangs Not Prepared For Tigers Says Smith

By United Press International
Southern Methodist University is undefeated, is the nation's leading rushing outfit, is ranked 14th among college football teams in the country and Coach Dave Smith says there's no way his team is ready for Saturday.

The Mustangs are 3-0 at this point in the schedule having soundly whipped Santa Clara, Oregon State and Virginia Tech. These opponents all had two things in common. They did not provide the Mustangs much opposition and their offenses were all based on the forward pass.

All that changes this weekend when SMU hosts Missouri.

Like SMU, Missouri also is 3-0. It is expected to provide the Mustangs with the opposition it hasn't met this year and its offense is based on the run — the power sweep to be exact.

"There's no way you can be aggressive preparing to play a passing team and we've played three straight," Smith said. "We've got to get ready for a football team that runs the ball down your throat and then does it again and again."

"Missouri is a quick and physical team," defensive coordinator Tommy Lucas said.

"They are a lot more aggressive than anybody we've played. They'll knock a dent in your line and that's all their backs need. I don't feel real good about our stopping their running game just yet. Because our whole team is untested against the run. I saw some encouraging signs in the Oregon State game, but I thought we backslid against Virginia Tech."

Of course, the Missouri defense will get its most severe test of the season also during the game which will be played at Texas Stadium in Irving. The Mustangs rolled up 510 yards rushing last week against Virginia Tech and 500 yards against any team is an impressive figure.

It Sims To Me...

By PAUL SIMS
Sports Editor

Drag racing's biggest names will be competing for world-champion titles and prize money from one of the country's largest sports purses as the 1973 World Finals will be held Friday through Sunday at the Amarillo Dragway, six miles south of Amarillo.

The World Finals, one of the country's largest crowd-drawing sports events, is the seventh of eight (and most important, status-wise) national drag-racing events on the National Hot Rod Association's 1973 schedule. The Supernationals, Nov. 16-18 at Ontario Motor Speedway in California, rounds out the NHRA list of top races.

More than $225,000 dollars has been posted as prize money, which will go to top finishers in seven classes — Top Fuel, Top Gas, Super, Competition, Street, Super Stock and Stock.

The World Finals was moved to Amarillo from Dallas in 1971. The Panhandle city was decided on by NHRA heads because of its central location in respect to drag strips throughout the United States.

"Originally Amarillo was chosen for the World Finals because of its central location. We have competitors from all over the country in the race, so we had to have a central location," said Bob Russo, head of NHRA press relations.

"Another reason the race is held in Amarillo is the excellent facilities — both drag-racing and city," said Russo.

Drivers qualify for the World Finals on a point and invitation system. The top 16 (eight from the East and eight from the West) point winners in Top Fuel, Funny Car and Pro Stock divisions qualified for the Amarillo event, along with the seven divisional champs in each category and the top 10 point-winners besides the champ in each category and division.

300 To Compete
Over 10,000 drag racers took part in this year's World Championship Series (six races). Only 300 (approximately) of that number have qualified for the 1973 World Finals.

Last year miserable weather (cold and rain) kept spectator attendance low, however, in 1971, over 30,000 people watched the three-day event in Amarillo.

Winners in 1972 were: Jim Walther, Top Fuel; Larry Fullerton, Funny Car; Bill Jenkins, Pro Stock; Wayne McMurtry, Competition; Paul Blevins, Modified; Dave Boertman, Super Stock, and Dave Benisek, Stock.

Jenkins, McMurtry and Blevins are the defending champs who have qualified for this weekend's World Finals. Blevins, however, will be trying for the Pro Stock title, after having left the Modified class this year.

Beck A Favorite

Canadian Gary Beck will be among the Top Fuel favorites, after winning the U.S. National crown Aug. 30-Sept. 3 in Indianapolis, Ind. Beck has a chance to become the first driver in fuel drag-racing history to win the National and World titles in the same year. The late Pete Robinson captured both titles, but did so five years apart.

Beck has acquired 5,755 points thus far in the 1973 World Championship Series.

Jerry Ruth of Seattle, Wash., will also be among the top names in Amarillo this weekend. Ruth placed second in both the Top Fuel and Funny-Car categories in the Western Conference Championships this year. The Seattle driver is entered in both events in the World Finals.

Clayton Harris of Columbus, Miss., one of the best Top Fuel drivers in the world, will also be in Amarillo this weekend, but not for competition. Harris, who holds the Amarillo Dragway track record (6.21 seconds last year), suffered a broken leg in a freak accident last month and will watch the World Finals from the sidelines.

Lady Driver

An interesting sidelight in the last six World Finals has been Judy Lilly of Golden, Colo., a housewife and mother of two. Ms. Lilly will try to win the Super Stock category after being unsuccessful her last six tries.

Four other ladies will also be trying to win money (and points for Women's Lib) — Virginia Carmona of Baton Rouge, La.; Deanna Bowen of New Orleans, La.; Kathy Steinmetz of Pocatello, Ida.; and Debbie Bischoff of Spokane, Wash. All four will compete in the Stock Eliminator bracket.

Seventeen-year-old John Stewart of Sacramento, Calif., will be the youngest driver of an 1800-horsepower dragster in Amarillo this weekend. Stewart, if he wins, will be the youngest world champion in drag-racing history.

Jenkins will be driving a '72 Vega in Pro Stock, McMurtry, a BB-D in competition and Blevins, a Corvette D-A in Modified. Walther, who defeated Harris in last year's World Finals for the championship in Top Fuel, didn't qualify this year, but will be on hand as a substitute, and should he compete, will drive a Chrysler-powered dragster.

Tickets for the 1973 World Finals can be purchased at Sunset Center in Amarillo or can be obtained all three days at Amarillo Dragway.

The schedule of events is:
Wednesday—11:30 a.m.—NHRA officials and head Wally Parks to visit Boys' Ranch. 3:45 p.m.—Actress Barbara Brownell, World Finals Queen, arrives from Hollywood, Calif.

Thursday—5 p.m.—Barbeque for contestants at Sanborn Park in Amarillo. 6:30 p.m.—Contestants and NHRA officials will parade with cars down Polk Street.

Friday—9 a.m.-9 p.m.—Technical inspection of cars in the parking lot of Sunset Center. 1:5 p.m.—Time trials at Amarillo Dragway.

Saturday—9 a.m.—Qualifying runs at Amarillo Dragway.

Sunday—7 a.m.—Gates open. 9 to 11 a.m.—Time trials. 12 noon—Eliminations begin. 8 p.m.—World Champions banquet at Big Texan Steak House.

Anderson-Berra Locked In Battle

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Four days before the start of the National League playoffs, Cincinnati Reds' Manager Sparky Anderson is locked in a strategy battle with New York Mets' Manager Yogi Berra.

Anderson says he won't announce his starting pitcher for Saturday's opener here until he learns who the Mets are going to pitch.

And Yogi is taking his time making his decision.

Berra originally was expected to go with Tom

Seaver, but the 19-game winner has complained of "a little shoulder soreness." Although the right-handed Seaver said Tuesday he expected to be ready to start in the opener, Yogi is considering Jon Matlack, a lefthander.

Anderson says he'll start Jack Billingham or Don Guillet — depending on what Berra does.

"I'm going to wait and see who they decide to go with," Anderson said Tuesday afternoon, as he conducted the Reds' first workout of the week. "I plan to pair Billingham against Seaver and Guillet against Matlack."

With a 4 P.M. starting time for the first two games at Riverfront Stadium, Anderson is holding all workouts this week at 4 P.M. He started with an hour of hitting practice Tuesday and planned a two hour workout this afternoon, including a six-inning scrimmage game.

Anderson said Berra had done an outstanding job with the Mets this year.

Naivete In Business

Some people will be distressed with the U.S. Chamber of Commerce in that its new president, Edward B. Rust, has cozied up to Ralph Nader.

The latter has gained some attention for his attacks upon certain business firms and lines of industry.

Rust, who heads State Farm Insurance Companies, explained the friendly feeling he has for Nader. He praised the business critic for "his single-minded dedication to making the free enterprise system work as it is supposed to work."

"It is only when products do not live up to their advertising and to buyers' expectations that Nader seeks to have them regulated by the government," Rust said.

Well, that first part doesn't bother us. Rust certainly has every right to make friends with those he likes and avoid those he doesn't. Free enterprise is by no means immune from criticism.

separate businesses, are not perfect; they offer plenty of target for due and proper comment.

What really concerns us about Mr. Rust's comment is that he excuses Nader for advocating government regulation "only when products do not live up to their advertising and to buyers' expectations." But he must know that different buyers have different expectations.

It is a bit sad to see a businessman of the accomplishment that Mr. Rust has shown fall into such an obvious trap. We would guess that Ralph Nader did not expect to catch such big game with a snare that even a college socialist would have spotted.

What Causes Regulations?

When politicians are called on to explain why they inflicted another regulation on their constituents, their common answer is that their constituents demanded such a law.

You can't rebut that argument head-on. For when the constituents have an opportunity to legislate directly, as in the case of the various propositions that appear on the ballot; they approve measures that are every bit as foolish as those that come out of the legislature.

Still, self-imposed penalties are the exception rather than the generality. Most regulations do come from lawmakers and administrative regulators. And are these at the popular behest?

Well, at any rate we have never heard the people who have been pounding at their doors for additional laws. Except for a few instances, when residents wanted a stoplight at a school crossing or were upset over an apartment building, we have rarely beheld a clamor at city hall.

While constituents are not without sin, we do not think all political transgressions can be laid on them.

$8.131 Billion Shared Back

Data from the federal Office of Revenue Sharing show that more than 38,000 units of government have received a total of $8.131 billion since the general revenue sharing program was instituted in 1972.

Michigan, $114.8 million, and Ohio, $108.5 million. On a percentage basis, 36 per cent of the total $8-plus billion has gone to cities and towns, 25 per cent to counties, 5 per cent to townships (found in only 21 states) and 1.2 per cent to Indian tribes and Alaskan native villages.

When the five-year revenue sharing program has been completed, a grand total of $30.2 billion will have been returned to state and local units of government by the Office of Revenue Sharing.

BRUCE BIOSSAT Our conflicts cry out to be resolved

By Bruce Bioassat

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Consider just a handful of the conflicts which fill the public arena today and cry out to be resolved or at least substantially eased.

High on the list is the clash between the urgent demand for continuing industrial growth to match rising population and lift up the poor on the one hand, and the mounting evidence that industry's processes too often pollute the air and the water, disrupt ecological patterns and even endanger human life.

Another paramount question is how far man can go in ripping at the earth in quest of conventional resources he needs to meet population pressures and escalating aspirations.

If human betterment, or perhaps survival, is the root issue, how can anyone dare shout "Stop technology!" Then again, how is the earth itself to be saved?

The bigness of government and business is not at all new, but as both have grown in company with the expansion of population, the cries have risen that increasingly they are impersonal, unresponsive to the needs of those who want work or require help, unfair in the representation they allow for the varied elements of the people they are supposed to serve.

On the latter point, the core of the present conflict within the Democratic party in the reform field is how to give all minorities and other groups adequate representation, without enforcing a virtual quota system whose dictatorial method violates the spirit and letter of free, democratic choice.

The roster of major conflicts like these could stretch out for pages. They trust upon us a mood of crisis, a sense of danger which we have never known before in peace.

The agonizing irony is that at this time of peril, far more sweeping than the Great Depression (deep though that was), we seem so gravely ill-equipped to meet the challenge. Look away for a moment from our own scene and listen to Britain's respected journal, "The Economist," bemoan in late August the enlarged European Economic Community's failure to find the common ground to face its common problems.

"The world of Europe of 1973 is being encouraged to believe in a world in which it is reasonable and safe for each separate people, tucked away inside its own frontiers, to pursue its own private concerns. That is not a true picture of today's world."

Transfer those words to America, look inward, and they apply with great force. In the face of monumental challenges, we're reaching beyond satisfaction with new freedoms in the political and social realms.

We're celebrating our disagreements more than our agreements, casting our differences in immovable polar ice. Endlessly, we hear of millions of Americans alienated, discontented, walking away, wanting to be "left alone," spurning what is oddly called the "work ethic," cutting political parties and, in large numbers, not voting.

We are taking freedom to the point of license, very literally condoning all kinds of crime, talking of law and order and discipline as if they were the devil's concepts, lounging about uselessly in the streets as if our society and the earth were a well-stocked, self-sustaining, unshakable ship.

We can lay it on hard against both our big political parties for their gross lack of enlisting, inspiring leadership, the barrenness of their thinking, their corrupt self-service.

But blame falls wide. We must all want that common ground where alone we can assault our dangers with effective action.

H. I. Hunt Writes STILL ACTIVE ON CAMPUS

During the Vietnam war, the violent revolutionary activities of left-leaning students made it seem as though nearly all our college youth had turned against their country. Many people forgot the good work done by responsible youth for freedom and patriotism during the early 1960s, before the war, notably by members of the constructive youth organization, Young Americans for Freedom (YAF).

Despite lack of publicity, YAF continued active all through the embattled years of the drastically misnamed "peace" movement and has retained or re-established a strong position on many campuses. YAF is now in the forefront of the fight against an arrogant attempt by self-styled "consumer advocates" and "environmentalists" to obtain funding for Ralph Nader's nationwide operations through compulsory student activity fees.

On a number of campuses Nader and his student followers have demanded that all students be required to provide financial support for their activities, whether or not the individual student agrees with what they are doing. Petitions are circulated among the students requesting this. YAF has shown that many of these student signers of these petitions do not understand that they are asking for forced contributions of money. In any case, YAF holds that no student should be compelled to pay any part of the cost of "Nader's Raiders" and the like, which are self-confessed political activities. It is like ordering citizens to pay the costs of a political party not of their own choice.

YAF's fight against this Nader raid on student pocketbooks is having a real effect and apparently has prevented the Nader student organization from becoming nationally established.

Your Health Hypoglycemia Feels Down

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Could you please write an article on hypoglycemia — low blood sugar? A friend of mine has had it for over a year and even though he is on a sugar free, high protein diet, he feels no better. He sleeps only three or four hours a night and feels so drained of energy he can hardly move. Do you publish any material on it? Is there any hope for his recovery at all? He is ready to try anything. He cannot go on much longer feeling so bad.

Dear Reader — Yes, I have written several columns on this subject. Perhaps it would be helpful to point out that there are many other factors that cause low blood sugar (glucose) besides the diet. The blood glucose level is kept within narrow ranges by the action of the liver, which is a kind of blood glucose thermostat. Whenever the blood glucose gets too low the stores of animal starch (glycogen), or even body protein from muscles and other cells, are simply processed to form more blood glucose. That is why a person in a starvation situation doesn't collapse or die immediately from low blood sugar.

Through the action of the liver and fat cells excess amounts of blood glucose are converted to fat. If the build-up or absorption of sugar is faster than the body can process, the excess is eliminated through the kidneys. All of these mechanisms are then controlled by other glands in the body.

Whenever the liver is damaged there may be a low blood glucose level. Simply put, the liver loses its ability to release glucose into the blood. Any factor that causes liver damage can be responsible for this.

Other people have true hyperinsulinism where the pancreas regularly forms excess insulin unrelated to the food they eat. Rare individuals with disease of the adrenal glands, sometimes called Addison's disease, also have a tendency to low blood sugar.

Add to that the point that fatigue is a symptom of many things, not a diagnosis of low blood sugar. It can be caused by anemia, tuberculosis, and a host of medical problems as well as being caused by psychological factors. Because many of the symptoms of low blood sugar are the same as those caused by anxiety reactions, many individuals with psychological problems end up being told they have low blood sugar or thinking that is their problem when they really need help in the psychological area.

You can see why I can't really tell you what to expect for your friend. If he has faithfully followed a proper diet — which may include more than avoiding sugar — then it is hard to see how his problem could be a diet related one. If he is still eating lots of starches (breads, rolls, potatoes) he should stop these and limit his carbohydrates to bulky vegetables and use tomatoes to replace citrus fruit. He could also try eating small meals at more frequent intervals.

Oust Spiro? Let's Take Serious Look

By DON OAKLEY NEA Staff Writer

It gets, as Alice said, curiouser and curiouser. Even as rumors of Spiro T. Agnew's impending resignation and - or plea bargaining flew around Washington, his lawyers were honing a unique defense to the allegations that have been brought against the vice president of bribe-taking while he was an officer of the State of Maryland — to wit, that the vice president, unlike ordinary U.S. citizens, cannot be touched by the law until and unless he is impeached and removed from office by Congress.

Mr. Agnew's lawyers argue, in effect, that their client, who has proclaimed his innocence of any wrongdoing, must first be punished by loss of his high job and all perquisites and emoluments appertaining thereto (not to mention undergoing the shame of the thing) before he can be called into a court of law to prove his innocence.

The Constitution prohibits Congress from passing any ex post facto law to punish someone for doing something that was not a crime when he did it. Surely the Framers did not intend to give Congress any "ex post facto" power to punish someone for a crime or crimes not proved.

But maybe it doesn't matter. According to some observers, the tactic is merely designed to keep the matter tied up in legal knots for as long as possible to spite President Nixon, who would like to dump Mr. Agnew.

But then if you credit observers (guessers?) this is not so. The President views the no-trial-before-impeachment ploy favorably because it is supportive of his own contention that nobody can make a president do anything he does not want to do, such as turning over confidential tape recordings, and if they don't like it they can always impeach him.

Contrariwise, still other observers contend that the vice president's difficulties are a further embarrassment to an already deeply embarrassed administration, so who needs it? On the other hand, naming a replacement for the vice president, as the 25th Amendment would authorize him to do, would enable President Nixon to play the statesman anxious to get on with "the urgent business of America."

This is because no potential GOP presidential candidate in 1976, like John Connally or Ronald Reagan, would be acceptable to a Democratic-controlled Congress. The new vice president would have to be nonpartisan and noncontroversial, or at least willing to pledge that he would not seek the presidency in 1976.

Meanwhile, in another part of the swamp, few congressmen are said to be contemplating with glee either the prospect of impeaching the vice president and confirming a successor, or even confirming a successor should the vice president resign.

What, they ask themselves, in the dark, scary hours of the morning, happens if Richard Nixon is himself impeached? It would leave the American people, for the first time in their history, with a president whom they not only did not elect but who, in being chosen as a compromise vice president, was not even considered presidential timber or was acceptable only as an interim caretaker chief executive.

Alice didn't have it quite right. Not only does it get curiouser and curiouser. It gets seriouiser and seriouiser.

Inside Washington

House Hears Reconciliation Offer — One Shot and Over

By Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON — A far-reaching demand is being put up to leaders of the long fight to recompute the pay of some 900,000 military retirees.

They are being bluntly and explicitly told — "Categoric assurances must be given 'in writing' that if Congress does enact the 'one-shot' Hartke re-computation proposal, it must be accepted as 'final' and no further attempts made to seek additional re-computation."

In effect, that is the price re-computation advocates are being asked to pay in return for an all-out effort to put re-computation through the House.

The inability to do that has been the one obstacle that has thwarted re-computation for five years.

That has been possible through the opposition invoking the House's germane rule. This long-standing parliamentary barrier again faces Sen. Hartke's measure, when it comes over from the Senate as an amendment to the multi-billion-dollar military procurement authorization bill — now under consideration in the Senate.

Senate approval of Hartke's proposal was as certain this time as the overwhelming 82 to 4 vote last October, and the 71-14 count on Tuesday. But House concurrence still faces overcoming the germane rule — which scuttled it last year in the secret deliberations of the conference committees of the two chambers.

A possible solution of this crucial problem is where the "something or nothing" commitment comes in.

The Inside Word Senior members of the House Armed Services Committee, who will be on its conference panel, think there is a chance to surmount the germane rule if they can get an explicit pledge that Hartke's "one-shot" measure will be accepted as final.

These key veteran legislators are Reps. Charles Gubser, R-Calif., Bob Wilson, R-Calif., William Bray, R-Ind., and O.C. Fisher, D-Tex. All are ranking committee members. Bray is the top Republican on the committee. Fisher is chairman of Subcommittee No. 2. Gubser, a leading re-computation champion, is co-author of the Survivors Benefits Plan (SBP) enacted several years ago after a protracted effort.

Gubser is spearheading the backstage drive to deal with the germane question. He, Wilson and other committeemen have conferred with leaders of veterans organizations and others advocating re-computation. In these meetings, strategy has been discussed on how to cope with the germane issue. During these deliberations, Gubser frankly told retiree spokesmen:

"If I'm going to stick my neck out, you people have got to do no less. Quid pro quo. As you well know, I am for re-computation. But it's wholly out of the question to get everything you want. We can get some but not all. It's possible we can find a way to put Hartke's 'one-shot' plan through the House. I'm not saying we will do that, but maybe it can be done this time. But before we stick our necks out in an effort to do that, you people have got to do the same thing. You have to put yourself categorically and unequivocally on record as accepting the 'one-shot' measure as final. That will be it on re-computation and no more."

"I want that commitment in writing. I want it in writing so there can be no arguments about it in the future. If we go to bat for you, you have to go your part and go to bat for us. That's the only way either of us will get anywhere."

Later, Gubser, explaining his insistence on an "explicit written commitment," told this column: "I am demanding that because candidly I question whether some of these organization officials really want re-computation, or actually only want an issue they can use to agitate and keep their jobs."

"I honestly think we have a fair chance this year of getting around the germane rule. Hartke is cooperating by revising his measure to bring it within the $360 million the President included in his budget for re-computation. That will help us a lot. But we've got to have an unconditional promise from responsible retiree spokesmen that if this 'one-shot' formula is adopted, that will be it."

"I have told them, and I meant every word of it, they've got to give their solemn word in writing on that, or I won't lift a finger for re-computation. It's just as straightforward and final as that. It's up to them; they can have something or nothing at all."

Addendum: Latest to join re-computation supporters is New Mexico's rookie Republican Sen. Peter Domenici, who in a media-ignored speech told his colleagues re-computation is "not another federal giveaway program, but just return for long and dedicated service to the country."

"Previous to 1958," declared Domenici, "retired pay was a function of years of service and merit; today it is dependent upon one's date of retirement. The inequities of this system are obvious. The differences between active duty pay and retired pay have widened each year. Older retirees now receive considerably less than younger counterparts. In some cases, the disparity is as high as 50 per cent. This is a breach of faith with hundreds of thousands of patriotic Americans who devoted a career of service to their country and who, when they entered the service, relied upon the laws ensuring equal retirement benefits."

Donald still shows off that old O'Connor talent

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (NEA) — Donald O'Connor is just back from Las Vegas, where he was half a smash.

He was a smash where he wanted to be a smash — doing his performing thing.

He was not a smash at the gambling tables and that's the way he wanted it. In his long career, he's been the gambling route at Vegas and he's been burned, so nowadays when he plays Sissy City he's too smart for them.

I set myself a limit, he says. And moreover, he sticks to the limit. It's not purely a matter of self-control but one of calculated foresightedness.

What he does is send a registered letter to all the hotel casinos, before he leaves home, and orders them not to give him credit. And they stick to it.

He tests them. He goes up to the cashier at one of the casinos and asks for credit. They check and find the letter on file and turn him down.

That way, he says, "I stay out of trouble there and stay out of debt. There are a lot of acts that play Vegas who get into deep trouble. A few years ago, I talked to an act there that had been playing the same hotel for 15 years — just to pay off their gambling debts.

O'Connor has recovered well from his heart attack of a year and a half ago. He looks great and says he feels fine, too. He reports that he can do anything he wants to do and his act is still full of his great dancing.

DONALD O'CONNOR is still dancing after a heart attack but "doesn't leap around as much as he used to."

"I just can't leap around as much as I used to," he says. "As long as I stay on the ground, I'm fine. But I can't jump off the ground and I can't lift my partners the way I used to."

At 48, O'Connor is a veteran of 47 years in show business and maybe that explains his still-youthful appearance. He had a weight problem for awhile — ballooning up to 200 pounds — but he's shed 50 pounds and is back where he belongs.

He has many things going. Perhaps the most exciting are various projects to bring back "Francis," the talking mule he costarred with in a bunch of very successful movies years ago.

"Francis was ahead of his time," O'Connor says. "He was anti-establishment before that word was invented. I think a revival of those stories would be very successful and I'm working on a new script now. It might make a dandy TV series, don't you think?"

Besides Francis, O'Connor is working on a movie script and a play and a bunch of other things. The only thing he won't do is another TV variety series.

He quit his successful show in the late '50s, when he realized it was just too tough. Last season, he did a guest spot with Julie Andrews and found her working the same arduous schedule he had abandoned. He had to work it, too, during that week he was with Julie.

I asked myself why I was doing it, he says. "And there was no sensible answer. So I won't do it again."

Jimmy Stewart's New Role May Be The Right Vehicle

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Jimmy Stewart, one of show business' most valuable natural resources, took another crack last night at a new video series of his own, arriving in CBS-TV's "Hawkins" as a country lawyer famous for handling criminal cases.

We see a different facet of Stewart's acting in a role that retains his constant amiability but also gives us his well known, down-to-earth and highly agreeable flintiness — the attitude that says, "I'm easy to get along with, but don't tread on me. Again, he is always a pleasure to see on film, and "Hawkins" — a periodic 90-minute entry — may eventually turn out to be the right vehicle for him, but the opener, after a smooth start, sputters as time goes on. The story concerns his defense of a movie star's husband accused of murder.

To explain how Hawkins (Stewart) operates his law firm, CBS-TV's series outline notes that he is "a former deputy district attorney now in private practice in a small West Virginia town. A specialist in murder cases, he travels widely in behalf of clients." He is, as the network adds, "homespun, and the outline further describes him as "the unmarried leader of a large family of brothers, sisters, cousins, nieces and nephews." In short, anyone who doesn't like a fellow like that has got to be downright un-American.

One of the problems tonight is that the film-and-types are too familiar. After an acceptable melodrama start in which some "professional characterization work is done by performers such as Strother Martin, Sheree North, Cameron Mitchell, Kenneth Mars, William Smithers and Maggie Wellman, the story and lines suddenly fall into all the old patterns — and there, again, is Stewart as the bulwark against the loopholes. It might be tough to be a star who is relied upon heavily to cover up production deficiencies. But he can almost do it.

A Good Example
Tonight's "Hawkins" premiere is a good example of the difference between the new earthiness in television and the earthiness in motion pictures. In movies, you see the faceness, but in television it is, for the most part, just talked about.

Hill Ruled Tuesday Tapes Public Record

AUSTIN (UPI) — Attorney General John Hill ruled Tuesday that tapes of secret testimony given to a 1969 House investigating committee by Dallas vending magnate Raymond B. Williams, his brother and an Austin attorney are public record and can be released to news media.

Rep. Arthur Temple, D-Diboll, had withheld the tapes and other documents dealing with criminal records from three large file boxes of material compiled by the 1968-69 investigating committee.

The remaining materials were all released to the public and news media in September.

tonight's debut has talk about attempted rape of the movie star's daughter by the movie star's lover; it has talk about how the star is a pushover for muscular fellows (she admits it); it has talk about the love of a male Hollywood attorney for the man who was the movie star's lover. It turns out, by the way, that this Hollywood lawyer was the killer of the star's lover.

I think these details give you a general idea of part of the tone of tonight's premiere. As I say, anything can work if the execution is there. But things become more than a little disjointed and hokey toward the end of the tale — and it's a good thing a handsome, distinguished, talented and likeable gentleman named Jimmy Stewart is around to make things seem better than they are.

but Temple asked Hill for a legal ruling on the status of the tapes.

The tapes are of testimony by B. B. Williams, John W. Flanagan, H. B. Williams and Spencer Carver, counsel for the Williams brothers.

"We do not believe that the tape contains any information excepted by any subsection of House Bill 6, and are therefore returning it to you to be released as you deem fit," Hill said.

The motto of North Carolina is "esse quam videri" — to be, rather than to seem.

Afghan Minister Hangs Himself With Own Clothes

RAWALPINDI (UPI) — Former Prime Minister Hashim Maiwandwal of Afghanistan hanged himself Monday using his clothing to fashion a noose, Kabul Radio reported.

The radio in a report monitored here, said Hashim had been under detention since his arrest in connection with an alleged plot to overthrow President Mohammad Daud.

Michael, a Hebrew name, means "Godlike; one who is like God."

Ronald Reagan Praises Agnew

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan says he believes Vice President Spiro T. Agnew "is a man of honor and integrity."

"After his speech last week, I don't see how anyone could doubt the man," the governor said Monday in a talk before an association of insurance men.

He was referring to a speech in which the vice president declared he was innocent of taking part in any kickbacks or bribery in Maryland.

Farm Workers' Wives Helped By Two Nuns

RAYMONDVILLE, Tex. (UPI) — Until last year, midwives delivered babies for the poor people of Willacy County at the mother's home, with no prenatal care and no followup.

"Nobody knows exactly what the statistics were. If a baby were born dead, they just buried it in the back yard and never reported it," said Sister Angela Murdaugh, who is helping to change that.

Sister Angela of the Order of St. Mary, and Sister Gertrude Louise Welsh of the Order of the Holy Cross, opened "Su Clinica Familiar" (Family Clinic) July 18, 1972. Since then, the two nuns have delivered 150 babies to the wives of seasonal farm workers in the Rio Grande Valley.

Has No Hospital
Willacy County has a population of about 20,000 but has no hospital. Even if it did, most of the patients who go to the nuns could not afford to go to the hospital.

Farm workers' wages are low and their families are large. So they go for treatment to Sister Angela and Sister Gertrude, both of whom have master's degrees in maternal nursing from Columbia University.

"We just tell them to pay what they can pay," said Sister Angela. "You see, it depends on a lot of things, like how many other children in the family." She said the small clinic tries to help poor working families who are not on welfare but who make such low wages that they cannot afford medical insurance or hospital bills.

Very Few Pay Nothing
"I have gotten things like onions and vegetables and oranges and that kind of thing," Sister Angela said. "And I don't know if they were actually given as payment as much as a friendship gesture."

That's the little bit they can give. There have been many who have paid nothing. Most of them make an effort to pay something. The maximum I have received is $100.

The two women care for expectant mothers through the pregnancy and until six weeks after the child is born.

Foreign News Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM

UPI Foreign News Analyst
A U.S. Senate vote requiring a 110,000-man reduction in overseas troops by the end of 1975 puts the handwriting on the wall.

The Senate action responded to mounting war weariness among the people of the United States and to continuing economic problems. It was passed despite strenuous objections of the Nixon administration and to the consternation of U.S. allies in NATO and in Asia.

U.S. military men expressed misgivings for its effect on U.S. deterrent capabilities against Communist forces in Europe and Korea.

The administration feared for its effect on the U.S. bargaining position in the 19-nation conference on "Mutual Force Reductions" scheduled to open in Vienna on Oct. 30.

Reflection of Sentiment
As of now, the Senate action, taken as an amendment to the $21 billion military procurement bill, probably will be erased in a Senate-House conference. But it stands as an important reflection of American sentiment and almost certainly as a signpost to the future.

A second amendment also passed over administration opposition threatened to pull out 10 per cent of U.S. forces in NATO unless the European allies made up 10 per cent of U.S. balance of payment losses this year.

Actually, the Senate action need neither tie the hands of Secretary of State Henry Kissinger in his talks with NATO allies nor endanger the U.S. position at Vienna.

The two deal with separate although related problems.

So far as NATO is concerned, the Senate and Kissinger are delivering the same message — the NATO allies must do more to help themselves, and the United States is tired of carrying an annual financial burden estimated as high as $3.3 billion a year for NATO.

As for talks on a reduction of forces, those negotiations will deal specifically with central Europe.

Globally, U.S. land-based forces stationed abroad come to around 470,000 — some 300,000 in Western Europe and 170,000 in Asia. Among the latter are 42,000 in South Korea, 45,000 in Thailand and the remainder scattered among Japan, Taiwan, the Philippines and Okinawa.

The Senate amendment did not specify from what areas the troops must be withdrawn, although Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, one of its sponsors, suggested that Asia seemed a most likely place.

Amendment Passed
Some troop reductions already are being carried out in Thailand and others have been under study, including South Korea.

Regardless of the outcome of the troop reduction talks, the United States remains committed to NATO.

The same Senate session which called for troop reductions also passed an amendment reaffirming congressional support of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization as "vital to the security of the United States."

A beneficial result of the Senate action could be new impetus in the search for a practical solution.
