McAnelly Named Chamber Prexy

By TEX DEWEESE
Rex McAnelly was elected president of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce at a chamber directors' meeting this forenoon in the chamber office.

Kissinger Speaking At U.N.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry Kissinger begins a second round of diplomatic discussions today with foreign ministers at the United Nations, with the talks expected to center on the Middle East.

chamber's annual banquet in the Heritage Room of the M.K. Brown Auditorium Tuesday, Oct. 30.

The officers will be installed at a dinner for officers and directors and their wives at the Coronado Inn Thursday, Oct. 11. Following McAnelly's election as president he appointed three members to serve on the board for one-year terms. They are Henry Newman, local manager of Armour & Co.; J.C. Roberts, manager of Kyle's Shoe Store, and Floyd Imel, president of Citizens Bank & Trust Co.

Other chamber officials who will serve in addition to the three elected today and the three appointed by the new president will include the following directors:

Gene Barrett, Dr. Royce Laycock, Foster Whaley, R.D. Wilkerson, C.D. Zomke, W.C. Bass Jr., Milo Carlson, Henry Gruben, Homer D. Johnson, James McCoy.

It was announced at today's meeting that Harris Brinson, recently employed as assistant chamber manager in charge of industrial development, will take over his new duties Monday, Oct. 27.

Roosevelt Denounces "Vicious Lies"

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Elliott Roosevelt has denounced as "vicious lies" testimony by convicted swindlers that he dealt in stolen securities or took part in a scheme to assassinate the prime minister of the Bahamas.

The 63-year-old son of Franklin D. Roosevelt told the Senate Permanent Investigations Subcommittee Wednesday that he was innocent of any wrongdoing.

Patsy A. Lepera, a convicted securities swindler who says he is "the best in the business," told the subcommittee that Roosevelt sold some $400,000 in stolen securities for him on three different occasions between 1969 and 1970.

Lepera said Roosevelt "knew they were stolen (because) I told him."

"He was just one guy with a famous name who needed money and was willing to use that name to get it," Lepera said.

Military's High Court Hearing Calley Appeal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorneys for Lt. William L. Calley Jr. argued before the nation's highest military court today that Calley was only following orders at My Lai and his mass murder conviction should be reversed.

"He was attempting to do the best of his ability to perform what he saw as his duty," Capt. J. Houston Gordon said in his defense of Calley.

At exactly 10 a.m., three maroon curtains parted and three robed civilian judges stepped into the Court of Military Appeals to review the conviction and 20-year sentence given Calley for killing 22 Vietnamese civilians at My Lai in 1968.

Gordon said two dozen witnesses had testified Calley was ordered by his superior, Capt. Ernest Medina, to kill everyone in the village.

"Obedience to orders is either a complete defense or no defense at all," he said. He described the case as important not only to Calley but "to present and future generations of soldiers as well."

Gordon, 27, has a winning record as a defense attorney in the Court of Military Appeals although the court on an average reverses only 20 per cent of the cases it hears.

Each side was given 45 minutes to make its case—15 minutes more than the court usually grants.

The three judges on the court, all civilians, must review thousands of pages of written documents, testimony and legal briefs before rendering a decision, which may not come for weeks and perhaps months.

The defense originally raised 30 points in its appeal, but the court agreed to hear only three.

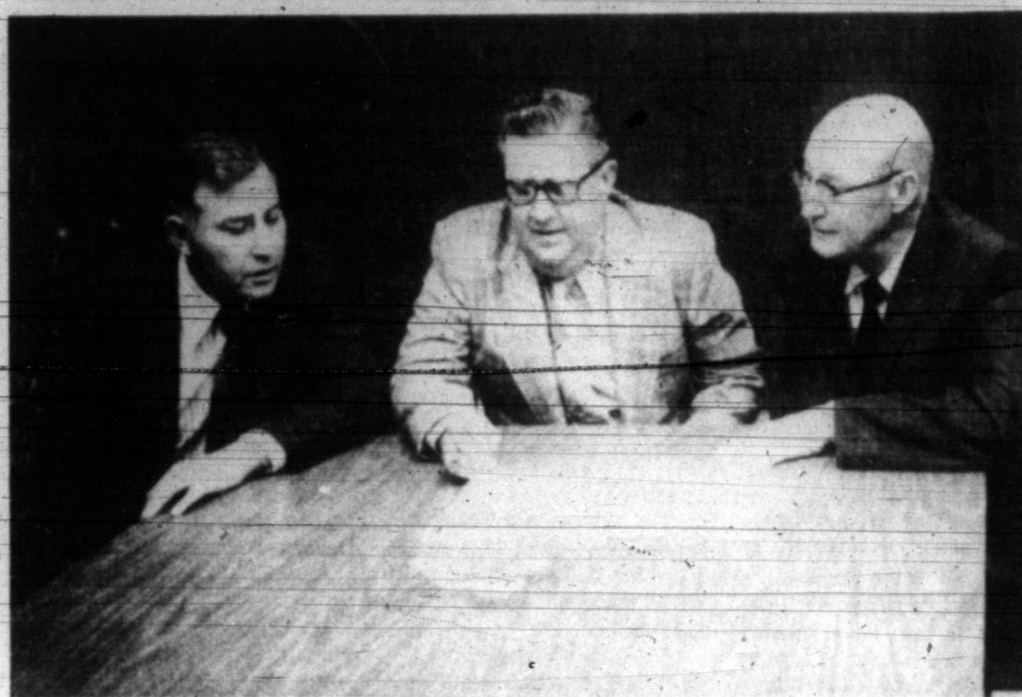

The defense and prosecution debated the pretrial publicity issue last year in the lower Army Court of Military Review. Calley's lawyers said then that the volume of publicity about the March 16, 1968, massacre prejudiced the case. The prosecution responded that if the sheer mass of publicity was enough to make a trial unfair, "no case involving great notoriety could ever be successfully prosecuted."

The second defense argument being heard by the court was that what happened at My Lai was not murder but manslaughter. The defense argues that Calley had no malice but acted out of combat stress and in the belief that the villagers were the "enemy."

In reply, the prosecution has pointed to the methodical manner in which Calley wiped out My Lai, taking three and one-half hours to complete the job.

The third defense argument being considered is that the trial judge's instructions to the jury were "inadequate, confusing, erroneous and misleading."

Calley's attorney has said that if they lose their newest appeal, they will try to move the case into the civilian appeals system. President Nixon has already said he will personally review the case after all court appeals have been completed.

NEW C-C OFFICERS — Officers were elected today to guide Pampa's Chamber of Commerce through fiscal 1973-74. Shown here following the election are Rex McAnelly, center, the new president, and Melvin Kunkel, finance director. They will be installed at a directors' meeting Thursday, Oct. 11.

1.8 Per Cent Wholesale Prices Show Big Drop In September

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Wholesale prices plummeted 1.8 per cent in September—the biggest drop in a single month in a quarter century—as costs for meat, eggs, fruit, vegetables and other food declined sharply, the government reported today.

As sharply as the Wholesale Price Index (WPI) dropped, it did not come close to making up for the 5.8 per cent increase in wholesale prices in August. That was the biggest monthly rise since 1946.

Farm product prices went down 6 per cent in September, the largest decline since February, 1948, after a record high increase of 23.1 per cent in August.

Wholesale prices of processed foods and feeds also went down 6 per cent—an all time record for any month—after a record 13.4 per cent jump in August.

The report of lower wholesale prices, with their prospects of dropping consumer prices or at least preventing higher retail prices, was welcome news to consumers.

Sharp increases have occurred in the cost of living since President Nixon lifted Phase II controls in January and replaced them with the more lenient Phase III controls, and still later Phase IV regulations.

The decline in the WPI in September was the second in the third quarter of the year. There was a 1.3 per cent decline in July, which government economists warned at the time was something of a fluke.

Quarterly figures released by the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics showed that the rate of increases in wholesale prices has been declining since a big bulge following the end of Phase II.

In the quarter that ended with September, the WPI rose at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 13.2 per cent compared with 23.4 per cent in the quarter ended in June and 21.1 per cent in the quarter before that.

It usually takes a few weeks for downward—or upward—trends in wholesale prices to trickle down to the consumer level. The consumer price index, which registers store-level price trends, is issued toward the end of the month.

While wholesale food prices were dropping last month, industrial commodity prices rose 0.5 per cent. Three quarters of this was due to higher prices for crude petroleum, bituminous coal, electric power, textile products, clothing, metals and lumber.

Wholesale prices were lower for motor vehicles, crude natural rubber and some nonmetallic mineral products.

The index for consumer finished goods—roughly comparable to the consumer price index—went down 0.7 per cent last month because of a 1.6 per cent decline for consumer finished goods.

McGovern's Nomination Saboteur's Main Goal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — One of Donald H. Segretti's political saboteurs testified today a main goal of a Republican dirty tricks campaign in 1972 was to assure that George S. McGovern would win the Democratic presidential nomination.

Martin Douglas Kelly, 24, of Miami, a former president of the Florida College Young Republicans, told the Senate Watergate committee that the Watergate break-in "and the heat of the investigations that followed" forced the abandonment of elaborate plans to disrupt the Democratic convention in Miami Beach.

Kelly was hired by Segretti at the promised salary of $700 a month to disrupt the Democratic primary in Florida in March, 1972.

Today's hearing was the first since the committee started May 17 which was not carried on live television—and a charge in the atmosphere in the Senate Caucus Room was noticeable.

During most of the session, two to four senators were absent at various times and the press table had vacant seats. Spectators still filled every seat though and there were lines outside.

One of Segretti's plans was to arrange appointments with the state delegations to the July convention on behalf of all the contenders for the nomination except McGovern, Kelly said. When the appointments were not kept the delegates would be angered, he said, and McGovern's chances would benefit.

Alleged Conduit Is Interrogated

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI) — A millionaire land developer, named in press reports as an alleged conduit for payments to Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, was questioned by federal prosecutors today and presumably by the grand jury investigating the Agnew case.

Joel Kline, 34, was accompanied by his attorney, Stephen Sachs, to the office of U.S. Attorney George Beall. Kline presumably went on to appear before the grand jury. Tight secrecy surrounded the grand jury's proceedings.

The Washington Star-News in late September, quoted "reliable sources" as saying Kline told prosecutors he had served as a conduit for up to $100,000 in cash which he allegedly funneled to Agnew and other Maryland officials.

The grand jury was hearing evidence for a third day into charges, described by President Nixon Wednesday as "serious and not frivolous," against Agnew during the time he was Baltimore County executive and Maryland governor.

Sachs also is counsel for William Fornoff, who was a county administrative officer under Agnew and the vice president's successor, Dale Anderson. Fornoff's testimony was a key in an indictment handed down several weeks ago against Anderson.

Kline was named in a bankruptcy suit filed in U.S. District Court here last month by creditors seeking $50,000. The Star-News quoted a source as saying the young, self-made millionaire's "empire collapsed with his criminal troubles."

The appearance of Kline at the federal building indicated the grand jury may be calling witnesses with direct connections with Agnew, after reportedly receiving testimony from minor figures the first few days.

Agnew's lawyers won Wednesday apparent legal authority to question both government prosecutors and newsmen about leaks involving the vice president.

Meanwhile, President Nixon has publicly defended the Justice Department's handling of the Agnew investigation, which Agnew has called "malicious and outrageous."

In a White House news conference Wednesday, Nixon said allegations concerning Agnew are "serious and not frivolous." He said any resignation was a matter for the vice president alone to decide.

"I have never asked him to resign," Nixon said. "I have always told him," that this matter is one for him to decide.

Agnew was advised by U.S. Attorney George Beall on Aug. 2 that he was under investigation for possible conspiracy, extortion, bribery and tax violations in connection with alleged political kickbacks in Maryland, was governor and Baltimore County executive.

Judge Signs Order
In Baltimore, U.S. District Court Judge Walter E. Hoffman signed an order Wednesday giving Agnew's attorneys permission to take sworn statements and to subpoena evidence concerning the news leaks from "such persons as they deem appropriate and necessary." They must give the Justice Department 48 hours notice.

Presumably, Agnew's lawyers could use the order to subpoena Justice Department officials, perhaps including Henry E. Petersen, criminal division chief, who Agnew has said is out to get him. Or they could subpoena newsmen: In either case, legal objections may be raised. Many reporters have refused to supply information on news sources in other cases.

Judith Best, one of the Agnew's lawyers, declined to say who might be subpoenaed. He said Judge Hoffman "asked us not to comment on the proceedings."

Agnew vowed last weekend in Los Angeles that he would "use the courts of this country in an attempt to gain permission to examine under oath these people who are trying to destroy me politically through the abuse of the criminal justice system of the United States."

Agnew Accuses Petersen
He has accused Petersen of being the source of leaks. Nixon, however, told reporters that Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson has assured him that Petersen was not such a source and had "handled the investigation without prejudice."

Before signing the order, Hoffman held a 17-minute hearing with the 22-member grand jury which has been investigating political corruption in Maryland since last December and began hearing evidence involving Agnew last week.

Hoffman reminded the panel members of their oath of secrecy and instructed them to disregard anything they read in the press or heard on television.

Jeff Doughten
New Director
Jeff R. Doughten, band director at Stratford High School, has been employed as director of the Pampa High School Band to succeed Harris Brinson. It was announced today by Dr. James F. Malone, school superintendent.

Brinson recently resigned to become assistant manager of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce in charge of industrial development.

Doughten formerly was band director at Pampa Junior High School. He left Pampa in 1967 to take a post as band director at Altus, Okla., High School.

He moved from Altus to Southwestern University at Weatherford, Okla., in 1970 and in 1971 accepted a job as band director at Stratford to be near his father who was seriously ill.

Doughten's Stratford High School band won the Sweepstakes Award in this fall's Tri-State high school band parade at Amarillo.

The new director of the Pampa Harvester Band will take over his duties Oct. 17.

He and wife, Wanda, are the parents of a three-month old daughter.

Deserters Plaguing Cambodians

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — The Cambodian army was reported plagued today by desertions as Communist forces tightened their squeeze on Phnom Penh with a series of actions near the suburbs. President Lon Nol appealed for volunteers to bolster the capital's defenses.

Col. Hang Yive, governor of Kompong Tralach province, told a UPI reporter he has issued orders to military police manning barricades behind government lines along Highway 5, 27 miles northwest of Phnom Penh, to shoot deserters who refuse to return to their posts.

The reporter talked to one such group of a dozen runaways brought back from the southern front village of Qudong, where they had left their posts, to Sala Lekpram, 27 miles northwest of the capital. The 12 said they had left because "we are staying here only to wait to be killed. There are no reinforcements."

Lon Nol, in an address to the nation over the government's radio network Wednesday night, warned that if young men avoid the draft, Cambodia will have to begin drafting men over 25 years old. The conscription law he decreed in July provides for compulsory military service for men 18 to 35 years old but only men under 25 are currently being conscripted.

The draft law was adopted to bring the army's strength to 230,000 men for which the United States has agreed to provide arms and supplies.

Lt. Am Rong, the High Command spokesman, reported a government success at the provincial capital of Kompong Cham, 50 miles northeast of Phnom Penh. He said government troops there battled their way to a linkup with forces holding the airport outside the town. He said supply planes could resume using the field within a week.

Wheatheart
Signs Lease With Boeing
PERRYTON, Tex. (UPI) — Wheatheart Land, Inc., Perryton, has signed a 30-year lease with the Boeing Aerospace Co. to develop 10,000 acres in the eastern Oregon desert near Boardman. The Boeing Co. said Wednesday in Seattle, Wash.

Wheatheart land will plant the Boardman acreage in forage crops to supply cattle feedlots which its parent company, Wheatheart, Inc., recently purchased near the Washington state towns of Warren, Othello and Royal City.

Wheatheart, Inc., is one of the nation's largest feedlot operators.

The firm also plans to build a feedlot at Boardman, said Denver Grigsby, manager of Boeing's Boardman development project. No date for construction was set, however.

Boeing leases 100,000 acres from the state of Oregon. The Seattle-based aerospace firm currently has 4,500 acres under irrigation and will bring water to another 1,800 acres early next year. Three firms currently are leasing irrigated land from Boeing. Two of them raise cattle and the third grows forage crops.

Six tenants use dryland portions of the project for grazing. The Boardman site originally was acquired as a bombing range.

Nixon Urges Favored Status For Russians

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon today urged Congress to restore most favored nation treatment for the Soviet Union in trade reform legislation that is expected to reach the House floor next week.

The bill is "clearly inadequate" without that provision, he said.

"I am deeply concerned about the bill's failure to provide the tools we need to expand healthy commercial relationships with the Soviet Union and other Communist countries," Nixon said. "This nation is committed to seeking most favored nation treatment for the Soviet Union."

Congress opposes giving most favored nation status to the Soviet Union until it allows free emigration.

"In deed," Nixon said, "the United States has made a formal commitment to the Soviet Union to seek the necessary legislative approval for such treatment in the firm belief that this is in the best interests of both our countries."

"Therefore, once again I strongly urge the Congress to restore the authority to grant nondiscriminatory treatment to all countries."

The statement was issued shortly after Nixon met with his Cabinet.

The President said that in most respects the bill—which was completed by the House Ways and Means committee Wednesday—is "a highly responsible piece of legislation" although many of the committee changes were made over the strong objection of the administration. Many others were accepted as "significant improvements," he said.

Chilean Junta Says 476 Shot To Death

SANTIAGO (UPI) — The ruling military junta said Wednesday 476 persons have been shot to death in Chile since the armed forces overthrew the late Marxist President Salvador Allende three weeks ago.

The four-man junta released the casualty figures in an apparent attempt to counter reports published abroad of thousands killed in the aftermath of the Sept. 11 coup.

(In Washington, the State Department said an American student, Frank Teruggi Jr. of Des Plaines, Ill., was one of the dead. A spokesman said his body was found Wednesday in the Santiago morgue.)

(The department said Teruggi, a student at Santiago's Center for Economic and Social Studies, was believed to be the first American killed since the ouster of Allende.)

(In Chicago, Frank Teruggi Sr., the boy's father, said his son was last seen by a friend under military custody at Chile's National Soccer Stadium, where the junta has rounded up thousands of suspected leftists.)

The report, issued by the Health Ministry coroner's office, said 462 civilians and 14 military men or police died of gunshot wounds since the ouster of the coup.

In addition, the office reported 158 other deaths during the period, but attributed them to natural causes, suicides and homicides not involving firearms.

Newsweek magazine recently quoted a source at the Santiago morgue as saying more than 2,500 bodies had been received since the coup began.

In other activity, Federico Willoughby, the junta spokesman, said the military government would turn its back on any attempts by foreign governments to interfere with the court-martial trials of Allende supporters.

"We deplore the intervention of any country in Chilean internal affairs," Willoughby said in apparent response to foreign protests over the current treason trial of Luis Corvalan, 57, head of the Chilean Communist party.

Dead American Found In Morgue In Santiago

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The body of an American student, Frank Teruggi of Des-Plaines, Ill., arrested by Chilean armed forces Sept. 20, has been found in a morgue in Santiago, the State Department confirmed.

Teruggi was believed to be the first American killed in the recent military overthrow of the Chilean government.

The State Department announced late Wednesday positive identification was made by Chilean dentists brought to the morgue by U.S. consular officials.

Cause of death is awaiting the result of an autopsy, the department said. "U.S. officials in Santiago are seeking to determine the circumstances of his death."

Teruggi, an economics student at Santiago's center for Economic and Social Studies, formerly was a student at the California Institute of Technology and the University of California at Santa Barbara.

Frank Teruggi Sr., the youth's father, said Tuesday night he had talked to his son's roommate, Dave Hathaway, after Hathaway returned to New York.

Hathaway told me the police came to their house in a Santiago suburb Sept. 20 and arrested them. "They were taken to the soccer stadium, and the next day, Hathaway said the police read a list of names—including Frank's.

"Hathaway said Frank was taken to another part of the stadium and nobody seems to know what happened to him after that."

CHILD ABUSE
AACHEN, Germany (UPI) — Some 103 West German children were killed by their parents in child-abuse incidents in 1972, according to the Association for Child Protection. All fatalities were preschoolers.

Mitchell Testifies About Texas Politician Memos

DALLAS (UPI)—Former Attorney General John N. Mitchell testified Wednesday the Justice Department prepared a list of persons implicated in the Texas stock fraud scandal and the list included the governor, the lieutenant governor and the Speaker of the Texas House. Mitchell's testimony came during a pretrial hearing on a motion filed by defendants in the federal stock fraud case who are seeking to have conspiracy and mail fraud charges against them dropped. The defendants claim the charges were filed only to embarrass Texas Democrats in time for the 1972 elections.

Preston Smith, governor when the stock scandal broke and a candidate for re-election in 1972; Ben Barnes, the lieutenant governor who ran for governor in 1972; and Gus F. Mutscher, the House speaker who ran for re-election that year, were all defeated in the Democratic primary because of the stock fraud case.

"As the matter unfolded it was brought to my attention that there were public officials and former public officials involved in what you term the Sharpstown affair," Mitchell said Wednesday.

Adams Indicted

Lee Autry Adams, 21-year-old Pampa, was indicted yesterday by the Potter County grand jury at Amarillo on a charge of robbery by assault.

The indictment grew out of the Aug. 31 robbery of the Toot 'N Totum store at 1003 N. Fillmore in Amarillo.

Police said Adams was identified by a witness who saw him enter the store with a nylon stocking over his head. The witness called police and Adams was arrested a short distance from the store after being wounded by officers in a gun battle.

Police Ask Cooperation On Turning

Pampa police are asking city residents to follow regulations concerning making a right turn on a red light after a complete stop.

Police chief Jim Connor said there are still many drivers who will not turn on a red light even when traffic is clear. Other drivers are turning even though a no-turn sign is posted.

Intersections in Pampa where right turns are prohibited on a red light are Cuyler and Foster, Cuyler and Kingsmill, and Cuyler and Francis.

Alger Hiss remembers . . .

By Tom Tiede

NEW YORK — (NEA) — The waiter at Rocco's restaurant says he's been serving Alger Hiss for years but, no, doesn't know anything about him. The elevator operator where Hiss works says the man's name is familiar but nothing more. And a young executive who has met Hiss says he knows "something happened to the old guy" but he can't remember what it was.

What happened to Alger Hiss, of course, was that 25 years ago this autumn he became one of the most notorious figures in postwar American history. A liberal New Deal intellectual, he was accused of being a Communist spy. He denied it under oath, and following a most controversial trial, he was found guilty, sent to prison for 4 months and thoroughly disgraced.

But that was then, a quarter century past. Today Alger Hiss is no longer controversial, hardly even remembered. "The last time I got a letter telling me to go back to the law makes a mistake, as it does from time to time, the rules as best you can — and explore every opportunity for correction."

Actually, his reasonable manner is surprising. His life was so shattered by the events of 1948 that, guilty or innocent, he might be expected to breathe fire evermore at the wreckers.

Consider. In 1948 he was a rising star, a product of Harvard Law School, an associate of Felix Frankfurter, a former (and brilliant) State Department lawyer, an architect of the United Nations organization, a thoroughly respected activist for world peace.

Then, according to his advocates, he became a principle target of the right-wing thesis that equated Eastern intellectualism with subversion. Some civil libertarians say his federal trial was a mockery, the evidence forged, his conviction the fallout of politics. The result was he lost all reputation, freedom, future. He was disand badgered Hiss the hardest. "Why should I comment on Nixon?" says Hiss now. "He screwed the whole country much worse than he ever did me."

Indeed, rather than condemn Nixon, Hiss is hopeful that his former adversary may now come to his rescue. Hiss feels his best chance for exoneration lies in a presidential pardon and Nixon, as of this writing, is president. What with the Watergate investigations revealing unethical and illegal government shenanigans by the day, Hiss hopes the public will force the chief executive to reinvestigate "suspicious" political trials such as his own.

Nixon pardon Hiss? How ironic, but, says Hiss, why not? "He could say he was misled by committee witnesses. He could say that he has now determined that I did not lie. I would not want clemency, however. I would accept only a full pardon."

Legally, Nixon could do all this. But it's not likely to hap-

Last Wilderness Schoolmarm Teaching School In Florida

By DAVID L. LANGFORD
DUETTE, Fla. (UPI) — The pupils at Duette School call her "Miss Ada," the last of Florida's wilderness schoolmarms.

A matronly woman with neatly coiffed hair, she smiles and speaks softly of her tribulations and small victories.

Barefoot first-graders helped clean up the mess last week when Miss Ada—her full name is Mrs. Ada Bilibrey—opened the screenless windows of the sweltering schoolhouse for the first time and the lovebugs swarmed in.

The school board still hasn't done anything about the cracked and peeling paint on the old frame building, but the roof doesn't leak any more and this year new gas blowers have replaced the old kerosene heaters.

"Out here it can get pretty cold and the children used to just sit and shiver until about 10 or 11 o'clock in the morning," said Miss Ada, a teacher since World War II.

If the lovebugs are a nuisance and the weather a hardship, Miss Ada doesn't complain loudly, for she wants to keep her schoolhouse open.

It's the last one-teacher school in Florida, an educational outpost for 22 children tucked away in the northwest corner of Manatee County, a sparsely populated flatland of citrus groves and phosphate mines, tomatoes and watermelons, and bony brahma cattle grazing among spindly palmettos.

"Every year we think they're going to close it down," said Miss Ada, who had been teaching here 16 years. Every Monday she picks up seven gallons of milk to supply the lunchroom for a week and she carries the school's record player in the trunk of her car to keep it from being stolen.

Duette School was built during the depression on 11 acres and is shaded by great oaks with their gloomy hanging moss. It's the only building in sight at this dot on the map except for the Dry Prairie Baptist Church next door.

If it closed, the 22 children in grades one through four would have to ride a bus 25 miles one way to one of the big schools in Palmetto, or someplace else.

"I know I wouldn't like a large school," said Miss Ada, who charts her own course as both principal and teacher. "Every now and then I see some of my old pupils and they say they would like to come back to Duette."

Corpus Christi Editor Found Dead At Wheel

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (UPI) — Robert M. Jackson, retired editor of the Corpus Christi Caller-Times, was found slumped over the wheel of his car on a downtown street Tuesday, the victim of a heart attack.

The 66-year-old Jackson died less than an hour after visiting the newspaper in what one of his former associations described "the best mood I've seen him in a long time."

Funeral services were being pending the arrival of his son, Robert M. Jackson III, of Eugene, Ore., but probably will be held Thursday.

Jackson joined the Caller-Times in 1940 after serving as secretary to the late Sen. Tom Connally, D-Tex., and as assistant U.S. Senate librarian. He was named editor in 1945 and retired Feb. 1, 1972.

A native of Alamogordo, N.M., Jackson lived for many years in El Paso and graduated from the University of Missouri. He started his newspaper career with the San Angelo Standard-Times in 1928 and became a coeditor of those papers at the age of 21.

Jackson had been working with the Texas Daily Newspaper Association since his retirement, conducting seminars among other duties.

Russia," he says "was five years ago." Once one of the most publicly debated men in America, he's now merely another gray face in the New York crowd. Much of the nation has forgotten his history.

But Hiss has not forgotten. Now elderly (69), looking frail (he's recently had vertigo problems), and listing physically, he is in his own thoughts still a man of 42 facing his accusers. He still maintains, quietly, that his politics are democratic not communistic. He still believes his name will be cleared. "I've never stopped fighting the case. Right now, with the help of friends, I'm working on more new leads than ever before. It (exoneration) will come sooner or later."

His convictions, though firm, are not vengeful. Hiss today insists he's beyond motivations of revenge. "Bitterness," he says, "is a slightly phony word. When barred, of course. And completely blacklisted. Eventually he separated from his wife.

Today the one-time protégé of Oliver Wendell Holmes works as a drummer for a Manhattan print supply company. He peddles officeware out of a building crowded with roaches. "Mr. Hiss?" the switchboard operator says, harried and brusque, "no he ain't in yet. No, I don't know, if he's comin' or not."

Yet for it all, Hiss remains almost gallantly understanding of his fate. It still hurts, naturally, but "I'm at least working. My life has been full. Some others who were accused of communism in those days were forced to leave the country."

He even passes lightly, if backhandedly, over Richard Nixon, who, in 1948, won national applause as the House Un-American Activities Committee member who bullied pen. Alger Hiss, though largely forgotten by time, is when he's remembered at all, remembered as a spy. Witnesses accused him, evidence supported the witnesses and a jury, supposedly fair, convicted him. It is certainly conceivable that the sequence of events was based on a terrible error, but justice done is seldom undone and so it is likely that Hiss will never know the exoneration he's sought for 25 years.

If so Hiss will doubtless bear it. He is a sad man, a little ruffled now — and he looks, says a friend, "used up," but whatever he is and whatever he was he remains realistic.

Recently, he says, while crossing the street here "a truck driver yelled something to me. I thought I heard him say: 'You dirty traitor.' But I'm sure he didn't. He probably said: 'You dirty jay walker. He couldn't have remembered me. I've changed. What happened to me happened a long, long time ago.'"

Man's Own Private World A Neiman Marcus Feature

DALLAS (UPI) — Looking for something special for that man in your life? Give him his own private world. It's only $80,000 not counting extras, and its shaped like an egg.

Neiman Marcus, which in past Christmas catalogs has featured Indian elephants, Chinese Junks and plastic domes that cover your entire house and yard in air conditioned comfort, this year gives you "This most sought-after and elusive of all commodities . . . a private world designed to your needs and specifications — a contemplative environment totally your own."

Dear Abby

Let manager, not you, handle noisy patrons

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I took my wife out to dinner in the best restaurant in our small town to celebrate our third anniversary—the first one we had ever spent together because I had been in Viet Nam.

At a nearby table sat a group of older people. They all obviously had had too much to drink because they became so loud and boisterous that we and other patrons couldn't carry on a conversation.

This went on all during dinner, so while we were waiting for our dessert, I went over to this noisy bunch and asked if they would kindly lower their voices.

My wife says I should have complained to the manager and let him handle the situation. I feel that the manager would have probably lost customers if he had done so, while I had nothing to lose. What is your opinion?

A QUIET KENTUCKIAN

DEAR QUIET: If you waited until the dessert to tell the noisy bunch to pipe down, you waited too long. As soon as it became apparent that they were preventing you from carrying on a conversation you should have talked to the manager. HE might have preferred to risk losing a couple of customers to your losing a couple of teeth.

DEAR ABBY: Dick and I married after going together for about two years. He had gone with Helen (made-up name) for 3½ years, breaking up with her to go with me.

Dick and I just bought a new home and now I learned that Helen, who recently married, bought the house directly across the street.

I trust my husband and know he wants nothing to do with Helen, but she has different ideas. She doesn't want Dick, but she doesn't want us to be happy together, either. She has been bitter toward me ever since Dick left her to go with me.

I work days and Dick works nights, and I just know Helen will be over here talking and being friendly with Dick when I'm gone. It bothers me because I'm sure she will feel he still cares for her if he is friendly to her, and I want her to know he cares only for me.

How should I act? I don't like to be unfriendly to my neighbors but I'm afraid if I give her any encouragement, she'll be here seeing Dick when I'm away.

JEALOUS

DEAR JEALOUS: You are doing a lot of second-guessing with regard to what Helen thinks. Don't pretend a phony neighborliness where none exists, just be civil. And if your jealousy can't be overcome with mature judgment, you can always change to the night shift.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from "The Other Kids" who thought grown, educated, working children should live at home for free prompted this letter.

It's up to the parents to finish the job they started by insisting their grown children support themselves.

A feeling of self-worth is one of the greatest treasures one can possess. But it must be earned. Well-meaning parents who continue to support their adult children long after they are able to support themselves do them no favors. They are depriving them of one of life's most valuable assets.

MRS. C. R., SHELTON, WASH.

DEAR MRS. R.: To which I say: "Amen!"

CONFIDENTIAL TO OVERWORKED AND BEAT IN N. Y. C.: Don't work so hard at making a good living that you fail to make a good life.

State 4-H Dress Revue

COLLEGE STATION — Dallas again will host the annual State 4-H Dress Revue as 47 Texas coeds model today's fashions and compete for honors Oct. 4-6.

The statewide competition is held in conjunction with the State Fair of Texas and is a feature of Rural Youth Day at the fair.

Three top winners and runners up will be announced during a press luncheon Oct. 5 at 2 p.m. in the Baker Hotel Texas Room after a morning of judging events.

Mass media representatives from throughout the state are expected to attend the luncheon sponsored by the Fuller Foundation, Inc. and Celanese Fiber Marketing Co.

The 47 finalists, including the top winners, will model their fashions in a public showing at 10 a.m. and 11 a.m. the next morning at the Women's Building Auditorium on State Fair grounds.

Top overall winner of the state Revue will represent Texas at the National 4-H Club Congress Nov. 25-29 in Chicago, according to Mrs. Vivian Simmons, 1973 State 4-H Dress Revue chairman and clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

In the wool division, the top two winners will receive bonds from the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association.

In the cotton division, the top two winners will win cash awards from the Texas Cottonseed Crushers Association.

To compete at the state level, all 47 finalists took top honors in county and district competition across Texas last spring.

They represent more than 17,000 4-H youth now enrolled in clothing projects, Mrs. Simmons said.

"Winners are chosen by the finalists themselves who actually judge each other," she said of the state contest.

Criteria include overall appearance of the garment, suitability of fabric, style and color for the individual, as well as accessory choices and poise.

Commentator for the fashion showing on State Fair grounds will be Dianne Hoover, Texas Agricultural Products marketing specialist.

4-H boys will play a role in the Dress Revue itself when 13 outstanding members — in Dallas for other State Fair activities — will escort revue finalists during the two showings for the public.

Sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System, the State 4-H Dress Revue is part of the Texas 4-H and Youth program.

40th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Johnson, 500 Doucette, will observe their 40th wedding anniversary, Sunday, Oct. 7, at an open house in their home, from 2 until 5 p.m. Hosting the event will be their children, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. Mark Boss. The couple was married Oct. 11, 1933 in Abilene, Tex. All friends and relatives of the couple are invited to attend.

FASHIONETTES

Fall is the time when everyone is reminded of the wonder of changing leaves, with reds, yellows, greens and so many shades of soft brown dominating the landscape. The same colors will dominate the smart woman's new wardrobe—but in ladylike fashion. The accent is on tweeds and plaids, the traditional fall wear, and you'll never go wrong in camel's hair. Tops on the plaid list is glen plaid, the same design so popular again these days in men's wear.

is readily identifiable but not underlined. If belts are to be worn, they generally are skinny, marking the waist but not making an issue of it.

The fashionable figure this fall definitely will be a sweater girl. The collections show sweater dresses, sweater jackets, sweater tops in the layered look that has carried over from last year. Along with the conventional sleeve, some raglan sleeves are turning up for another one of those new-old looks the fashion scene is seeing so much of nowadays.

She who gets slapped HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Michelle Carey will guest-star in the "For Richer, For Poorer" episode of "Adam's Rib" starring Ken Howard and Blythe Danner. Miss Carey will portray a record star who files suit against her husband for hitting her in the face with a fish.

State Fair Oct. 6-21

DALLAS—Where can you get something for nothing? At the Texas Department of Agriculture's Food and Fiber Pavilion during the State Fair Oct. 6-21, according to Commissioner John C. White.

Just by signing a card, visitors can participate in daily drawings for meat-$50 worth of beef, $25 worth of pork, and a chicken or turkey.

Free taste samples of fresh and processed Texas Agricultural products will be provided by many of the 53 commercial and commodity groups exhibiting in the Pavilion. In addition to chips and cold drinks, there will be hot biscuits and roasted salted peanuts along with some new products.

Those who tour the Food and Fiber Pavilion can also listen to singing groups from high schools and colleges and view Texas nursery products displayed around a 20-foot waterfall.

Visitors can also check their weight by stepping up to the digital scales operated by the Consumer Services Division of the Texas Department of Agriculture.

Displays and information on protein supplements from peanuts and cottonseed will be a part of the educational aspect of the Pavilion Nutrition guides, food purchasing tips, and stacks of recipes will also be provided. Tips on lawn, plant, and shade tree care will be distributed.

We hope that everyone stops by the Food and Fiber Pavilion. This is the fourth year the Department has sponsored the exhibit, and we're aiming to top the one-million-visitor mark in 1973," Commissioner White said.

Soft is the key word for waistlines this fall, in line with the general femininity of clothes. That means the waist

North's four-diamond bid confirmed that he held a real two-suiter and South's four hearts was a further slam try.

This was enough for North. He Blackwooded to check for aces and went to six spades after his partner showed three.

One advantage of the Jacoby transfer bid is that it lets the man with the opening no-trump make no difference who plays the hand. Once in a while it actually turns out that the big hand does better as dummy but for every one of those instances there are several when getting the play into the no-trump hand pays a dividend.

North's two-heart call was the Jacoby transfer. His next bid — three diamonds — was a force to game. South's four-club bid showed the ace of that

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

natives are willing to blend common sense and hard work, and with this year need to do so.

Aries [March 21 - April 19]: If what you start can't be finished by early afternoon, don't start it. Much of what seems urgent really isn't. Home life picks up a subtle emotional overtone, can be great.

Taurus [April 20 - May 20]: A streak of romance runs thru all the day. Husband and wife combinations forge ahead. Emphasis is on any type of partnership. Children, younger people provide a few surprises.

Gemini [May 21 - June 20]: A lick and a promise is enough for the day, as outlook is erratic for business concerns. Put your main attention on keeping your contacts with everybody peaceful.

Cancer [June 21 - July 22]: For the young, today is a breeze, with love conquering all. For others, it's a matter of what has been achieved lately and a brief time of coasting on current momentum.

Leo [July 23 - Aug. 22]: Give yourself a break, cater to your appetite for the finer things of daily living. If you must do business, stick to the simple routines that you know work consistently.

Virgo [Aug. 23 - Sept. 22]: Personal interests prevail, interfere with your schedule. Do what you can to maintain your budgets—this is no day to buy anything special or beyond your regular supplies.

Libra [Sept. 23 - Oct. 22]: As the day progresses, one long-held belief after another is tested. Many of them may have to be modified to take into account revealed details of lives around you.

Scorpio [Oct. 23 - Nov. 21]: Driving hard-to-get definite conclusions now defeat your long-term intentions. The soft sell is preferable, and it's okay if very little is accomplished today.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22 - Dec. 21]: Nothing works out quite as planned, and the promises made today lead nowhere. But no lasting damage is done, and it's a rather pleasant day if you will let it be.

Capricorn [Dec. 22 - Jan. 19]: Leave off where you are on serious work, tend to routines, clear up tag-ends

Lee Harvey Oswald's Wife, Kids Reported On In "Today's Health"

CHICAGO (UPI) — It was during a second grade discussion on the life of President John F. Kennedy that little June Oswald Porter told her classmates:

"My first daddy killed him." The incident is the only one Marina Oswald Porter knows of which has befallen any of her three children.

June, now 12, and her sister, Rachel, 10, born three months before the President's death in 1963, are the children of Marina and Lee Harvey Oswald, Kennedy's assassin. Mark Porter, 7, is the son of Russian-born Marina and her second husband, electronics technician Kenneth Porter.

Author Bernard Asbell, writing in the October issue of Today's Health, reports on how he traced the Porters from the Dallas, Tex., suburb of Richardson, their home since 1965, to a small unidentified town 25 miles from Dallas where they are waiting to move into a house being built on 17 acres near a lake.

Talked About Children
Marina, 32, straw-brown hair tangled from the morning heat, sat with Asbell under a tree of the Porter's rented home and talked mostly about her children, the Chicago-based magazine said. "The week June enrolled in first grade, six years ago, Marina told her the circumstances of her father's death, Asbell reports. She had to, she says, for fear June would hear it from some one else — and who could predict the hurt?"

Asbell writes that Kenneth Porter "shares Marina's attitude that when any of the children ask about Oswald or Kennedy, the question is to be answered naturally, factually and without tension."

When June was in second grade, her teacher led a discussion on the life of President Kennedy.

"It grew animated," Asbell quotes Marina as saying, "leading June to raise her hand and volunteer:

"My first daddy killed him." "She said it just as fact, you know," Marina explains. "Something she knew and should perhaps tell."

"For a couple of days," Asbell reports, "she came home uncharacteristically blue, until Marina asked her why June told her mother about the incident — and that was the end of it. To Marina's knowledge, nothing like that ever recurred, either to June or the other children."

Lower Court Ruling Affirmed In Moody Foundation Law Suit

AUSTIN (UPI)—The Texas Supreme Court today affirmed a lower court decision holding that Mary Moody Northen is the only one of seven trustees of the multi-million dollar Moody Foundation who, was validly appointed to the board.

Appointment of the remaining six members—including Shearn Moody Jr. and Robert Lee Moody — was invalid, and the board cannot have more than three trustees, the court ruling held.

The dispute over the number of trustees on the foundation dates back more than three years. The number of trustees has fluctuated from three to seven since 1965.

Shearn Moody Jr. initiated the suit in 1970 when the seven trustees indicated plans to further expand the board. He asked the court to determine how many members the foundation should have, and which of its members had been validly appointed.

Attorney General Crawford Martin joined the suit, contending that if the trial court held there were only three valid trustee positions, the court could expand the board and appoint new trustees if the judge felt more trustees were needed to administer the foundation.

The trial judge said the board had only three valid members, including Mrs. Northen and Robert Lee Moody, Jr. at the same time, the trial court expanded the board to seven members, and the judge said he would appoint the remaining members when the case was finally settled.

Shearn Moody Jr., Robert Lee Moody and Paul Haas, one of the ousted trustees, all filed separate appeals of the trial court ruling.

Number Limited
The Houston Court of Civil Appeals ruled that there could be no more than three trustees, and that the board could not be expanded by the trial judge. The appellate court also overturned the earlier decision that Robert Lee Moody was a valid member of the board, and said that Mrs. Northen was the only validly appointed trustee of the foundation, which listed assets of $127 million.

The Supreme Court today refused to hear any challenges to the civil appeals court ruling.

Other trustees who will apparently lose their places on the foundation are J.M. Lykes, Jr., S. Marcus Greer and William L. Moody IV.

If You're In Market For A New House, See The Home Buyer's Guide

NEW YORK (UPI)—You're in the market for a new house—a brand new house.

Perhaps you're about to build the dream house you've planned for so long—or you're going to have a house built from a model in a development—or perhaps you like a new house built on speculation.

All three situations call for attention to a point you can't often check out with an older home—the builder and his reputation.

Because builders vary in quality just as other human beings do, your builder's reputation should be one of your most important considerations. The National Association of Home Builders (NAHB) in its new publication, the "Home Buyer's Guide"

NAHB says, "Picking a good builder is your responsibility, and suggests you should:

Things to Check

—Ask the builder how he stands behind his work. Many builders will guarantee their work against defects for a specified period of time, usually one year, after completion. Find out what is included in the warranty, and if he will act promptly on any items covered by the warranty that need adjustment or repair. Ask him what responsibility he assumes for subcontractors and others who work for him.

—Find out how long he has been in business. Usually, NAHB says, you are better off dealing with a man who has established a solid reputation. You can check with your local home builders' association, banks, Chamber of Commerce and Better Business Bureau.

—Ask previous customers about him. Knock on doors of people who have dealt with him and ask what they think about him, and his houses. Contented customers are a good recommendation in any line of business. Find out from them what they think of his customer service and post-sales performance.

—Once you have satisfied yourself as to the reliability of your builder, you will benefit from dealing with him cooperatively. NAHB stresses, "When he asks for decisions from you, try to make them promptly. Once you have made up your mind on a point, try not to change it."

You may want to visit the building site from time to time. When you do, keep out of the way of the workmen and follow established safety requirements. Feel free to ask questions of the builder, but don't wrangle with him on the job. Don't issue orders on the spot. If you feel a change should be made, put your instructions in writing to the builder. If the change varies from the original agreement, expect to pay for it.

NAHB Survey

NAHB says it took a survey this year of consumer attitudes toward new homes and the home building industry. It found 63 per cent of home buyers feel competent to judge the quality of new home construction and 70 per cent said they judge construction quality by the way the building looks.

The association urges new home buyers not to rely solely on their own impressions, but to seek out a responsible builder and call in professional help if they have any doubts.

Once the house is up and you are ready to move in, you'll want to talk further with your builder.

He will probably explain to you that no house can be perfect. Your new home, NAHB notes, will go through a period of normal settlement and shrinkage. As the house "dries out," you may notice hairline cracks, wood shrinkage, uneven floors, minor warping of joints, tile shifting and plaster cracks.

Find out from the builder what imperfections you may expect reasonably, and ask him for advice on how to treat them. Find out how and when to report any defects covered by the warranty. The builder probably will ask you to put all requests in writing whenever possible.

Once you have taken title, your lender will expect you to continue to make regular payments, no matter what defects you find in the house or who is legally responsible for correcting them.

Before Taking Title

Before you take title, NAHB suggests you:

—Find out exactly what your warranty covers. If it is limited to corrections of structural faults and material failures, understand you are not getting a maintenance warranty.

—Find out what "tests" the house has passed. The builder will tell you if the house has been inspected by your lender, VA or FHA, or by local inspectors to determine that the house was built to standards which meet city, county or other building codes.

If, particularly in rural areas, a house is not subject to compulsory inspection, you may wish to hire an engineer or professional home inspection specialist to look it over before you sign a contract.

—Get from your builder tips on preventive maintenance. Except for the builder's warranty work on the day you move in the builder's responsibility ends and your obligations as a homeowner begin.

—Ask the builder or one of his representatives to "walk through" the house with you on delivery day to check that all that was promised has been done. A careful noting at this time of the condition of floors, walls, ceilings, doors, windows, cabinets, plumbing fixtures, walks, drives and yards will help to eliminate the question of whether a flaw detected after you move in was something the builder overlooked or was caused by you.

The Home Buyer's Guide is available from local NAHB-affiliated home builders' associations or may be obtained by mail. Send 50 cents for each (check or money order) to National Association of Home Builders, P.O. Box 38, Riverdale, Maryland 20810.

As Consumers—We Too Are Concerned!

Crop failures, labor contracts, and shipping costs are just a few of the reasons why we are all paying more for some of the products we buy. Your retailer is a consumer, too, and must pay increased costs to feed his family.

But how do we compare with other countries? In the U.S. the dollars spent for all foods purchased, including eating out, is 15.7% of the average family's spendable income. We know this is still a bargain compared with other countries. For example, we compare our expenditures of 15.7% with Canada at 20%, Western Europe—37%, Japan, 32.2%, and India 60%. We all know it is rough going at this time, but as supermarket operators we are proud to be a part of the finest food distribution system in the entire world!

Cake Recipe Is Pampan's Favorite

By BOBBYE COMBS
It was brought to our attention recently that Mrs. Clifford (Lelia) Cummings, 332 Baer, a professional cook in the Pampa area for many years, has a delicious recipe for Devil's Food Cake. She agreed to share this recipe with our readers, along with several other family favorites.

Mrs. Cummings, a popular downtown cook, for many years has also helped prepare bazaar meals for the First Christian Church.
Listed among her hobbies are fishing and she states that she really enjoys cooking for her family—three sons, a daughter and three grandchildren when they visit home.

By LELIA CUMMINGS
DEVIL'S FOOD CAKE
2 cups sugar
1 cup Crisco
Cream well and add:
3 eggs, 1 at a time
1 cup buttermilk
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon soda
2 1/2 cups flour, measured before sifting
1 cup boiling water
2 teaspoons soda
Bake about 30 min. 350 degrees
Yield: 3 layers

ICING
1 cup sugar
4 tablespoons water
1/2 cup light corn syrup
3 egg whites
1 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
Boil syrup slowly until it spins a thread, 6 to 8 inches long. Meanwhile beat egg whites until stiff. Pour syrup into egg whites and beat until it holds its shape or stands in peaks.

FRIED PIE PASTRY
5 cups flour
1 cup Crisco
1 teaspoon sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 large can evaporated milk
2 eggs
Mix and chill for 30 to 40 minutes. Roll and cut saucer size. Add 2 teaspoons of vinegar to shortening before it gets hot.

CRANBERRY SALAD
1 lb. cranberries (Cook as for cranberry sauce Cool.)
Make into layers
Cranberries
Whip cream
Crumbed Soda Crackers
Repeat all layers. Chill and serve.

AVOCADOS AND COTTAGE CHEESE
2 lbs. creamed cottage cheese
2 tomatoes, diced
2 avocados, diced
Salt, pepper and garlic salt to taste.

BEEF STROGANOFF
4 tablespoons flour
1/2 teas. salt
1 1/2 beef sirloin or round
4 tablespoons butter or fat
1 cup sliced mushrooms
1/2 cup chopped onion
1 clove garlic, minced
1/2 cup tomato paste
1 1/2 cup beef broth
1 cup sour cream
3 tablespoons Sherry
Dredge meat with 1 tablespoon of flour and salt. Brown quickly in fat, remove and saute onion, garlic and mushrooms. Remove from skillet, add rest of flour. Blend. Add tomato paste and beef broth, stir until thickens. Return other mixtures to pan and simmer until tender. Add sherry and sour cream. Serve over noodles or rice. 4 to 6 servings.

VEAL BIRDS
1 1/2 lbs. veal steak or tenderized round
1 1/2 cups of poultry stuffing
1/2 cup flour
Salt and pepper
3 tablespoons butter or fat
Cut into 6 uniform pieces.

NOTICE
CLUB REPORTERS
The following deadlines and procedure on club news reports will be as follows:
All reports must be TYPED and TRIPLE spaced and must be submitted by 12 noon Wednesday to appear in Sunday's edition.
If clubs will file a copy of their new yearbooks at the News office, information concerning meeting dates will be used for the weekly social calendar.
If there are any questions, contact, Bobbie Combs, Women's Editor, Pampa Daily News, 668-2525.

Spread with stuffing. Form into rolls and fasten with skewers or toothpicks. Roll in flour and brown quickly. Place rolls in baking dish. Cover with mushroom soup and bake 1 hour at 375 degrees. Serves 4 to 6.

CHICKEN TETRAZZINI
1 1/2 lb. hen
2 t. salt
1/2 t. pepper
1 lb. thin spaghetti
Chicken broth
1/4 lb. butter or substitute
2 med. green peppers diced
5 Tbs. flour
2 cups milk
2 cans mushroom soup
1 can pimientos diced
1/4 t. garlic salt
1/2 cup cooking sherry
2 cans sliced mushrooms
6 cups grated cheese
3/4 cup Parmesan cheese
Cook hen until tender, remove from bone and dice into bite size pieces. Cook spaghetti in chicken broth until tender. Melt butter and saute green pepper, add other ingredients, except 2 cups cheese and the spaghetti. Cook slowly for ten minutes. Place layers of spaghetti in baking dish, cover with sauce. Continue until dish is filled. Sprinkle remaining cheese on top. Bake at 350 degrees for 10 minutes or bubbly.
NOTE: May prepare in two dishes and freeze one for later use.

ATHLETES AND NUTRITION
Athletes and athletic coaches are just as susceptible as other people to falling for food faddism. In fact, they may be even more susceptible since athletic performance is equated with physical health and, if one is ignorant of the basics of nutrition, it is easy to succumb to "quick results" schemes and "miracle" ideas.

As a physician in charge of a university's health services and as a team physician for one of the Big Ten football teams, I have observed that things are better than they used to be. Coaches are learning more of the facts of nutrition science. But around the country there still are a lot of coaches and athletes subscribing to "weird" ideas, special foods and special diets.

No Miracle Foods
The fact is, there simply are no miracle foods, or food components, or mixtures of special foods that are going to improve an athlete's performance. He needs the same foods that are recommended for everybody else. If the athlete follows the four-food-group pattern—milk, meat, fruits and vegetables, enriched or whole grain breads and cereals—he'll be fine.

The young athlete needs them, of course, in greater quantities because he's using up greater amounts of energy at the same time that he is in a period of physical growth that may be critical. Nutrient-wise, the diet that will provide the best performance contains approximately 15 percent of his calories from protein, 40 percent from fat, and 45 percent from carbohydrate—the same as the average American eats every day. Higher protein diets cause problems, especially when the weather is hot and water is limited. A pure carbohydrate diet results in difficulties including the athlete being unable to retain water. And too high a fat content in the diet, particularly in cold weather, causes problems too technical to discuss here, but real nevertheless.

Some coaches like to "spook" their athletes with special supplements such as wheat germ, tiger's milk—that sort of thing. They are perfectly sincere but if there is value in such practice it may be more in terms of "psyching" a boy rather than improving his nutrition. We know from U.S. Army nutrition research and survival tests that I was associated with that notions not based on scientific fact are useless and sometimes dangerous.

My Pet Peeves
I also have a pet peeve about athletes eating differently on game day. Players have their regular breakfast and lunch on practice days. So why not on game day? Why upset the body's normal metabolic habits by observing a different eating pattern on game day? The only real caution necessary is that obviously one does not eat immediately before a game. That, of course, would be foolish. But athletes should stick as close to their everyday eating patterns as possible for best performance.

COOKING

By RONALD E. COHEN

WASHINGTON (UPI)—"Mama, I'm home from school! What's to eat?"
If you're like most mothers, it's probably a peanut butter and jelly sandwich. Or milk and cookies. Or a peanut butter and jelly sandwich, and milk and cookies.

Does it occur to you that your children probably are getting tired of PB and J? Quite right, Ma'am. They are.
I have had an abiding hatred of peanut butter and jelly since fourth grade. I can recall with horror how difficult it was to be playing shortstop at the schoolyard and being unable to exhort my pitcher to championship heights because the blasted peanut butter was lodged unyieldingly on the roof of my mouth.

But, feeding children after school is a problem, no question. Many mothers work and must leave a snack in the refrigerator, PB and J being the easiest. Many others have obligations and cannot be home every afternoon to greet the children and make sure they get a nourishing snack to tide them over to dinner.

How about doing what the French Mamas do? A French snack, something to break the monotony and give the youngsters a chance to try some safe, easy cooking on their own.

When a French schoolchild comes home for lunch, quite possibly he will have the warm, filling repast of soup and either a Croque Monsieur or Croque Madame.
Both the croques are easy to make, particularly Monsieur. Madame is a trifle more difficult, but if you aren't going to be home you can make the topping before you go. It will keep in the refrigerator nicely, and all the kids have to do is pop it in the oven. Nothing like snacking continually. Your children will love you.

Croque Monsieur
For each sandwich, two slices of white bread, with the crusts trimmed.
Butter both slices of bread on the outside. Place inside a piece of moderately thick boiled or baked ham and a slice of Swiss or mozzarella cheese. Melt a one-inch piece of butter or margarine in a flat griddle or frying pan and place the sandwich in the butter over moderate heat. Place a small frying pan or other heavy object atop the sandwich and cook for one minute. Flip the sandwich and again place heavy object atop for another minute.

Croque Madame
For each sandwich a long slice of French bread or half a hero roll.
Dry the bread out in the oven, 350 degrees, for about two minutes. Remove the bread and place a moderately thick piece of boiled or baked ham on it.

Spread a cheese topping over the ham (Mom can do this and leave it in the refrigerator).
The ingredients for the cheese topping are one cup of grated Swiss, one egg, one tablespoon flour. One-third cup of beer. (Don't worry, Mom, it's precious little beer. It cannot be tasted in the sandwich, and French kids have been eating this for decades with no visible effects. But if it makes you nervous, milk is acceptable.)

Mix the topping thoroughly, sprinkling in a touch of fresh ground pepper and a pinch of tabasco sauce.
After spreading on the ham, brown it for 15-20 minutes in a 450-degree oven.

It can be eaten as an open sandwich or cut and eaten with a knife and fork.
Despite the simplicity of the recipes and the ease for children to prepare, it wouldn't hurt to go through the steps with the youngsters in a live dress rehearsal some evening. It doesn't make a bad dinner, either.

Bon-appetit! You may never buy another jar of peanut butter, and your kids will be bragging to the neighborhood that they eat Croque Madame for an after-school snack.

The curiosity it engenders may make your kitchen more popular than the playground.

POLLY'S POINTERS

She Has a Sticky Bathtub Problem

By POLLY CRAMER

Polly's Problem
DEAR POLLY — My problem is how to remove those bathtub decals. I was sure there would be something I could soak them in. The company that makes them suggests a household cleaner that is not available in our stores. I do not want to use kerosene but will be so grateful for any other ideas. — MRS. D. A. M.

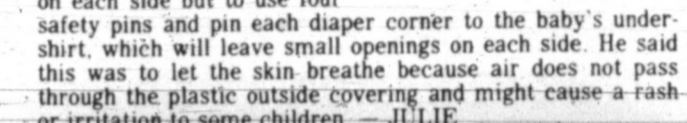

DEAR POLLY — A Pet Peeve of mine is that those who live alone are not able to buy very small jars or containers of jelly. I do wish the stores would sell tiny containers like they have in hospitals and restaurants for those of us who hate to waste any that has been on hand for too long — MARTHA

DEAR POLLY — Jane could store her many plastic lids in a record rack which is easily accessible and very inexpensive. — SHERRY

DEAR POLLY — and Jane — I store my plastic lids in a coffee can that has a plastic see-through lid and then stack the containers on the shelf next to the can. A three pound can holds most of the popular size lids. — P. M. S.

DEAR POLLY — Do tell Jane that I store my plastic lids in a neat and orderly way by standing them in two napkin holders I happened to have. They are placed between the sections and at one end against the wall. Such plastic holders can be bought very inexpensively if she does not have them. — MRS. W. H. W.

DEAR POLLY — I overheard my pediatrician advising a mother whose baby wears the new disposable diapers. He suggested not pinning the diapers together on each side but to use four safety pins and pin each diaper corner to the baby's undershirt, which will leave small openings on each side. He said this was to let the skin breathe because air does not pass through the plastic outside covering and might cause a rash or irritation to some children. — JULIE

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — To make it big, or even make it at all, in the pop music field these days, you've got to specialize. The current key to success is to become identified with a specific segment of society—10-year-old girl trombonists, transvestite paperhangers, college students who are flunking Sociology 211, etc.—rather than appeal to general audiences. I was aware of the trend but did not realize just how narrowly particularized pop music had become until a group called the Great Chicago Fire played a recent engagement here.

Its leader told an interviewer the group had tailored its style and repertoire to middle-aged married men who go into bars to pick up girls, but don't know how.

Down to a Science
 Now that is really getting specialization down to a science. It must have taken an awful lot of study and experimentation.

Coffee Poisoning
LUBBOCK (UPI)— Nine Texas Tech University graduate students and faculty members were poisoned Tuesday by coffee made with duplicating fluid and were hospitalized overnight. Dr. John Busseler, vice president for Health Affairs, said the nine were in good condition. He said the coffee contained a solution of glycol and methanol and made the nine very ill. He said whether it might have killed them would depend on the individual. "They are being treated with a bicarbonate solution to counteract the acidity in their blood," he said. Busseler said the solution was used as a duplicating fluid and sometimes used in making antifreeze. The solution was used Tuesday night to make coffee in the Psychology building's faculty lounge. Busseler said the solution was apparently mistaken for distilled water and was poured into the lounge's coffee-maker.

The Almanac
 By United Press International
 Today is Thursday, Oct. 4, the 277th day of 1973 with 88 to follow.
 The moon is in its first quarter.
 The morning stars are Mars and Saturn.
 The evening stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter.
 Those born on this date are under the sign of Libra.
 Rutherford Hayes, the 19th president of the United States, was born Oct. 4, 1822.
 On this day in history:
 In 1890, Mormons in Utah renounced polygamy—the practice of having more than one wife at a time.
 In 1927, Al Jolson starred in "The Jazz Singer," the first full-length talking movie.
 In 1955, 66 persons were killed when a United Air Lines plane hit Medicine Bow Peak in Southern Wyoming.

tion to figure out what would make a middle-aged married man, who wants to pick up a girl but doesn't know how, exclaim: "That's my kind of music!" Some of the fine points are obvious, of course. An aging, would-be roue who strikes out with the blonde on the next bar stool certainly doesn't want to hear the same music that his more successful contemporary holding hands with some brunette in the back booth would consider appropriate. The main thing that puzzles me is how the Great Chicago Fire manages to sell any records, which are the bread-and-butter of the pop music business.

Let's say a middle-aged married man with a penchant for hanky-panky brings an album home and plays it on the stereo. The music would be a dead giveaway.

Been Trying Again, Eh?
 "Aha!" cries his wife. "So you've been in some bar trying to pick up a girl again!"
 "Nor would he want to play the album if other men were around. For they would hold him up to pity, ridicule or contempt."
 "Poor ole Charlie," one of his pals says sadly. "He's trying desperately to have one final fling before senility sets in and he can't even get to first base."
 "Yeah," another says, shaking his head. "You can tell from that music he's playing that ole Charlie wouldn't know how to pick up a girl if she came over and sat in his lap."
 However they do it, there is no doubt the Great Chicago Fire has hit upon the formula it was seeking.

When I stopped by to hear the group, I didn't have any intention of trying to pick up a girl. And while they were playing, I didn't so much as cast a sideward glance at any female in the place. Nevertheless, five girls came over to my table and turned me down.

Volkswagen Prices Up

ENGLEWOOD CLIFFS, N.J. (UPI) — The price of Volkswagen's 1974 cars will be 14 per cent higher for Americans because of the devaluation of the dollar and rising costs. The company announced Tuesday the new cars will be reaching dealers this month. The increase raises the price for a standard "Beetle" from $2,299 to $2,625. The Karman Ghia coupe goes from $3,050 to $3,475.

A Volkswagen of America spokesman said the fact the dollar has lost a third of its value in West Germany where the cars are manufactured, plus rising production costs, brought about the increases. The company said the price increases will be offset in part by a somewhat more liberal warranty policy.

Expulsion Postponed In Israel

JERUSALEM (UPI) — The High Court of Justice today postponed the expulsion of 28 American "Black Hebrews" but rejected their right to remain in Israel on the claim that they were Jewish. A leader of the group, Chicago-born Ben Ami, said all 300 members of the sect who were residents in Israel intended to renounce their U.S. citizenship while they continue the court appeal.

"We don't figure it's a risk because we won't go back to America at any rate," he said after the court hearing. The High Court, Israel's supreme legal tribunal, put off execution of government expulsion orders until the end of November. The Interior Ministry has ordered members of the group to leave the country, saying they failed to apply for immigrant entry before their tourist visas expired.

Radiating salad oil
HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — Atomic energy experts say that of a number of common substances containing some radiation, salad oil has some of the highest levels — three times the amount of normal radioactivity of milk or whisky and almost 250 times as much as plain tap water. These levels are extremely minute and occur naturally, with no threat to living things.

No geniuses
STOCKTON, Calif. (UPI) — Rebellious students are no more creative than their classmates, says Dr. Russell Chimento, principal of the American Legion High School in Sacramento after a study of 11th and 12th graders. Chimento made his finding after a year of research at the University of the Pacific in trying to develop new programs to help continuation students.

Introduction
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — "Go For Broke" will introduce Christa Heim in the title role as a New York television reporter who uses James Bond tactics to uncover an international kidnapping ring.

Champion Seed Spitter Keeps Tongue In Creek

By FRANK GRIFFIS
DALLAS (UPI) — When thin, red-haired Russell Foster boasts about being the world champion watermelon seed spitter, it's usually "tongue in cheek," or seed in cheek.

"Well, there's three or four things that make a record," Foster, 31, said, popping a dry white seed into his mouth. "First, there's the type of release, or how you release the seed from your tongue."

Foster said he believes the sharp, crisp release is best. "Pttuuue," he spit the seed across a stretch of sidewalk in front of the plastics plant where he works.

"You get more power with the crisp release, but some still use the spray technique," Foster said.

"Anyway, I don't like these yellow seeds as well as the black ones — they're too light."

he said, eyeing the tiny, dry vanilla colored seeds in his hand.

The 5-10, 150-pound world record holder believes championship watermelon seed spitting is more than just technique, and to prove it, he listed a few more factors important in breaking a world seed spitting record.

"There's the wind. There was a good 10 mile an hour wind when I made my record and it probably added 10 or 15 feet," Foster said.

"Then there's the angle of projection. If you get too high in the air you lose distance and if you get too low in the air you lose wind."

"Finally," Foster said, "There's the follow through, as in all sports." His follow through technique consists of leaning over the toe line and sticking his head out — without getting disqualified.

Besides the player, and his technique, the equipment also must be considered. Foster likes his seeds dry, big and rough.

Foster's 57-foot, 8 1/4-inch mark beat the former world record set by Gary Archer of Ardmore, Okla., in 1964 by five inches. Foster didn't travel all the way to Weatherford, Okla., on Aug. 4 just to spit watermelon seeds. He was visiting his parents and entered the contest as a lark.

"It was my first time — I had never spat or spit a seed before," Foster said. "I drew on my old skydiving and sailing experiences on the wind."

In addition to having his name listed in record books, Foster received an AM-FM radio, a gallon of root beer and an expense paid trip to the next seed spitting contest, which he said will probably be in Pauls Valley, Okla.

He said he's ready to defend his title — even if it means traveling as far as Palestine, Tex., or Hope, Ark.

Most species of deer shed their horns every year.

Frank Sinatra Filed Against

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A $2.5 million damage suit was filed in federal court against Frank Sinatra and two of his associates Tuesday by a Salt Lake City businessman who claimed he was beaten by the singer and the two other men.

Frank J. Weinstock claimed he was assaulted by Sinatra, restaurateur Jilly Rizzo and Jerry Arvenitas at the Trinidad Hotel in Palm Springs, Calif., last May 5.

Playoff Teams Preparing For Saturday Warfare

Orioles, Oakland Playing

BALTIMORE (UPI) — The last time Baltimore Orioles pitching ace Jim Palmer went to the mound he got bombed, five runs in five innings.

But Palmer, who will start for the Birds Saturday when they begin their championship playoff series against the Oakland A's, says he isn't the least bit upset about it.

Palmer says he also isn't upset about something else. That some of the "experts" Los Vegas picking the A's to whip the Birds.

"Great," says the 22-game winner. "It will make them overconfident and make our job easier."

Bill Thomas To Houston

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Houston Oilers claimed running back Bill Thomas on waivers from Dallas Monday and the Cowboys' No. 1 draft pick in 1972 is thankful.

"I didn't play at all last year except on special teams so this is sort of like my rookie year," Thomas said. "I haven't lost any confidence in myself as a running back."

He left a contending team to join a club with the worst record in the NFL last year.

"Some people are willing to just sit around in a winning situation, draw their pay," Thomas said. "I got stale and now I'm ready to try to help Houston."

Oakland A's, says he isn't the least bit upset about it.

Palmer says he also isn't upset about something else. That some of the "experts" Los Vegas picking the A's to whip the Birds.

"Great," says the 22-game winner. "It will make them overconfident and make our job easier."

Orioles Manager Earl Weaver also says he's happy some people are making the A's the favorites. "It takes the pressure off us and puts it on them," he said.

Weaver notes with a dig that many of the "experts" didn't even pick his club to win their division.

OAKLAND (UPI) — Two years ago, after they had won their first American League West Division title, the Oakland A's went into the post-season championship playoffs a bit awed by their surroundings and opposition.

So, it came as no surprise when the Baltimore Orioles, a group of veterans familiar with the playoffs and World Series, wiped out the young A's three in a row.

go at it again, and according to A's skipper Dick Williams, the "shoe is on the other foot."

"Now," said Williams as he put the A's through their final home paces today before enplaning for Baltimore, "we are the club of experience and a few of their people have to be suffering from the jitters."

Every member of the A's starting lineup for this year's playoffs with the exception of catcher Ray Fosse, a veteran, and designated hitter Deron Johnson, another veteran, has been in post-season play before.

While the Orioles have such regulars as Al Bumbry, Rich Coggins, Earl Williams, Bobby Grich and Don Baylor, and pitchers Jess Jefferson and Bob Reynolds who never before have been subjected to the pressure of a playoff or World Series.

Record breaker LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Sandy Koufax, who retired from the Dodgers at 31, won the National League earned run average title five consecutive times, a record. In 1966 his era mark was 1.73. Koufax also hurled four no-hitters (the most by one man), including one perfect game.

Ali-Frazier Bout In '74 A Reality

NEW YORK (UPI) — It took almost three years but Muhammad Ali and Joe Frazier will fight for a second time at Madison Square Garden on Feb. 4 in a 12-round rematch that will probably send the winner against George Foreman and the loser into retirement.

Ali and Frazier, both ex-champions now in the twilight of their careers, will make it official here Thursday when they sign contracts that have each fighter getting $850,000 or 32 1/2 per cent of the live gate and ancillary rights.

The pot is a lot lighter than on March 8, 1971, when Ali and Frazier split $5 million, but the heavy tax burden that has snaked bigtime boxing here for the past couple of years will be lifted.

Mike Burke, former president of the New York Yankees and now one of the top figures at the Garden, stepped into the messy legal hassle and apparently has ironed out most of the knots.

The State Legislature in Albany is expected to approve a special proposal in January that will allow the fighters to escape from any taxes on the ancillary rights or monies from closed circuit TV.

The tax problem has been resolved to the satisfaction of both fighters, said Bob Arum, attorney for Ali and one of the key men involved in making the fight. "This has been our No. 1 stumbling block in making this fight in New York. The state Tax Commission has cooperated and we've made sufficient progress."

Frazier, 29, has a 30-1-0 record with 25 knockouts while Ali, 31, is 42-2-0 with 31 knockouts.

Reds, Mets To Contest

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Cincinnati Reds Manager Sparky Anderson says if he has to go to war, he'd rather go with his club and his pitchers.

"We have the best club. I won't deny that," the 39-year-old Anderson said as he prepared his club for Saturday's opener of the National League playoffs against the New York Mets. "Of course, sometimes the best club doesn't win in a short series. But if I'm going to war, I'd rather go with my club."

Both Reds' captain Pete Rose and Anderson dispute the "momentum" factor that some Met players claim they have going for them.

"They talk about momentum," Rose said. "Well, we've got momentum. I mean you walk out there and there's 56,000 people in the stands screaming. If you don't have momentum then, you'll never have it."

Anderson says neither team has momentum going into the playoffs.

"Right now, we start all over again and it's 0-0," Anderson said. "The team that wins the first game will have the momentum."

NEW YORK (UPI) — Things continue to break right for the New York Mets.

Tom Seaver, the ace of the pitching staff, has recovered from his shoulder problems and will pitch against the Cincinnati Reds Saturday in the opener of the National League championship series.

Berra said he would use four starting pitchers against the Reds if the series goes more than three games. Matlack will pitch the second game in Cincinnati Sunday. Jerry Koosman will hurl the home opener at Shea Stadium Monday and George Stone will go Tuesday, if necessary. If there is a fifth game Seaver will pitch again.

Seaver feels the Mets' pitching will be the deciding factor in the series.

"Our pitching is what it comes down to," said Seaver. "Koos (Jon) Matlack and Tug (McGraw) have been pitching great, and if I can get back into the groove, then our chances are certainly excellent."

The Mets also have bolstered their team for the playoffs by adding rookie outfielder George Theodore to the roster. Theodore dislocated his hip in a collision with centerfielder Don Hahn on July 7 and was on the disabled list until Sept. 5.

Alabama Awesome In Three Victories

By United Press International

The numbers they're rolling down at the University of Alabama these days are loaded with dynamite.

Alabama, although listed only fourth in the latest ratings, has been simply awesome in winning its first three games, averaging 549 total yards while humbling California, 66-0. Kentucky, 28-14, and Vanderbilt, 44-0. And if that isn't total power in itself, consider the words of a member of Coach Bear Bryant's staff, who said: "Don't let that Vanderbilt score fool you. We could have won 100-0 if we hadn't cleared our bench as early as we did."

On Saturday, Alabama runs across another unbeaten team, Georgia, but as a measure of the respect the Tide has built up it has been installed a heavy three-touchdown favorite.

Georgia opened with an unimpressive 7-7 tie against Pittsburgh, then beat Clemson, 31-14, and North Carolina State, 31-12.

"We never go into a game thinking we don't have a chance to win," said Georgia Coach Vince Dooley. "But you've got to respect Alabama's ability and its depth, especially that depth. They just keep pouring people at you."

Ohio State, the No. 1 team in the country, should have little trouble in stretching its record to 3-0 at home against Washington State, but the way the Buckeyes do it will be important. Fullback Champ Henson, the nation's leading scorer last year, was injured in last week's 37-3 triumph over TCU and will be lost for the season following surgery.

Junior Bruce Elia is expected to replace him in the lineup.

Third-ranked Southern California came out a little better than Ohio State when it was learned that speedy junior tailback Anthony Davis was ready to start against Oregon State on Saturday.

Davis injured his right ankle the first time he carried the ball.

Houston is winless in three games and has averaged only 163 yards total offense. The passing has averaged only 77 yards per game.

Gillman, the former San Diego coach hired last winter, has replaced Peterson as the dominant figure in the Oilers' organization. He will serve as offensive coordinator in practice but will remain in the press box—and near a field phone to the bench—during games.

Peterson's successful coaching record was built on a high scoring offense that emphasized the pass. Gillman took over a team that was the worst in the league last year with a 1-13 record. He traded away top draft choices and acquired more than 20 new players.

"We asked Sid to come out and give us a lift," Peterson said. "He agreed to do it, to help us on our passing and running game."

Houston hosts undefeated Los Angeles this week. The Oilers fell 36-7 to Pittsburgh last week.

against Oklahoma last Saturday when the Trojans had to settle for a 7-7 tie, but he went through drills Wednesday without any problems.

In other games involving the top 10, second-ranked Nebraska, hoping to rebound from a close call against Wisconsin, is an off-the-board choice over Minnesota, as is fifth-ranked Michigan over Oregon and sixth-ranked Oklahoma over Miami (Fla.). Penn State, ranked seventh, is 17 over Air Force, eighth-ranked Tennessee is 10 over Kansas, No. 9 Notre Dame is an off-the-board favorite over Michigan State and No. 10 Louisiana State is a heavy choice over Florida.

HOUSTON (UPI) — General manager Sid Gillman of the Houston Oilers hopes he can pump some new blood into an anemic offense badly in need of a transfusion.

"I don't know what I can do with it—maybe make it worse," Gillman said Wednesday. "I'm out there every day anyway. I should do something besides second-guess."

Gillman said coach Bill Peterson asked him to step in and try to boost the team's offensive potential which is now worst in the league.

"We're 13th in the league (AFC) in passing and 13th in total offense," Gillman said. "Anything we do—it has got to be an improvement. I'll never believe we are 13th in talent."

Houston is winless in three games and has averaged only 163 yards total offense. The passing has averaged only 77 yards per game.

Cub Boss Disgusted

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago Cubs are in for a major overhaul for the 1974 season.

Owner Philip K. Wrigley says he is "just plain disgusted" with the club's performance in 1973.

"I can't figure out what happened," the 79-year-old Wrigley said. "Unless, like me, the players have all gotten so old they can't get around anymore."

Wrigley did not blame Manager Whitey Lockman who, Wrigley said, "did a good job with what he had to work with. He can return as manager if he desires." Wrigley said he would not know what steps would be taken until after the World Series.

Lockman would not blame individual players specifically for the Cubs' fadeout to a fifth-place finish in the National League's Eastern Division, saying, "I believe everybody did their best. We just got beat."

New, Improved Harvesters To Tackle Canyon Eagles Friday Night

By PAUL SIMS
Buddy Williams will get his first in-depth look at his "new and improved" Harvesters as Pampa attempts to enter the win column for the first time in 1973 against the 1-AAA Canyon Eagles at 7:30 p.m. Friday in Canyon.

Williams' Harvesters can be described as "new" because of long-awaited restored health to fullback Jack King and tailback Steve Mathis. Mathis underwent knee surgery in the spring and wasn't able to work out until last week. King dislocated a shoulder in the Vernon scrimmage and is expected to see action for the first time since that contest. Pampa's newness can also be attributed to a new starting quarterback — miniature Chuck Quarles. Quarles captured the starting berth when Rick Leverich suffered a mild concussion against Perryton two weeks ago, and the 5-5, 113-pound Quarles came and performed admirably. Quarles hit on 7 of 14 passes for 94 yards in the 7-6 loss to the Rangers. "We're getting better every day," said Williams in respect to the improvement Pampa has made since its 12-0 opening loss to Hereford. "This last week in practice our offense has improved. Our front's getting better all the time. We're still going to have to have some long runs."

Mathis, who is expected to see at least some action Friday, might give Williams his long runs. The 5-9, 165-pound senior rambled for approximately 700 yards last season from his Wishbone fullback slot, with many of those yards coming on runs of 10 yards or more. Pampa hasn't won in four games this season, and Canyon has one victory under its belt against three losses. Pampa was open last week while the Eagles lost to undefeated Hereford, 28-11.

"We outgained Hereford in first downs, 23 to 15, but they were a break-and-go team, we just couldn't catch them," said Canyon coach Ron Mills. "and we expect Pampa will be the same way. Pampa has Mathis and Reeves, and both can break."

"We saw Pampa in several games. Pampa's got a good football team. We expect them to have King and Mathis back. You can't consider their record up till now without those two people."

Olympic Bosses Given Four Proposals

VARNA, Bulgaria (UPI) — The first Olympic Congress for 43 years ended its work today and presented the International Olympic Committee with four clear proposals for the improvement of the Olympic movement.

The four ideas put forward by the congress were — The establishing of a tripartite committee to oversee the Olympic Games made up of the IOC, the international federations and the national Olympic committees instead of just the IOC.

The admission of China will also be discussed at the meetings — which will be held in private unlike the congress.

Golfing Greats To Play In Ohio Kings Tourney

KINGS MILLS, Ohio (UPI) — Jack Nicklaus, Lee Trevino and Tom Weiskopf headline the field for the first Ohio Kings Island Open, which begins here today on the rain-drenched course owned by Nicklaus.

Amusement Park just north of Cincinnati.

The IOC will begin Friday a three-day meeting to discuss the proposals but only one — the geographical spread of the games — will bring any action, according to IOC officials.

Harold Henning, president of the World Swimming Federation, said the swimming events to go might be the men's and women's 200-meter individual medleys and the men's 400-meter freestyle relay.

Heavy rain early in the week soaked the course and more showers Wednesday further softened the fairways and slowed the greens.

Nicklaus, Trevino and Weiskopf tried to keep in good spirits as they sloshed over the water-logged par-71 course in Wednesday's Pro-Am.

The lowest point in North America is at Badwater in California's Death Valley.

American Filly Favored At Thoroughbred Race

PARIS (UPI) — An American-bred filly named Allez France (Go France) will be the favorite to win this year's running Sunday of the rich and prestigious Prix de Arc de Triomphe race for Thoroughbreds.

Whatever the betting odds at post time, the Arc de Triomphe will once again offer an elegant climax to the European horse racing season by attracting a constellation of shoulder-rubbing notables, from the Aga Khan on down, among the 150,000 who annually attend.

It's 10 Lb. Plus Catfish

Penny-Pinching Fillmore

A constant challenge we face is to present information to our readers in terms which are meaningful, especially when we discuss the runaway cost of political government. If we remind our readers that the national debt is a trillion dollars, we suspect it means nothing because people simply do not identify with a trillion dollars. Figures like millions, billions and trillions are words of a foreign language. But how about $4.10 — four dollars and ten cents? We are indebted to Jenkin Lloyd Jones, the Oklahoma editor and publisher, that $4.10 figure as a springboard for editorial commentary. Jones delivered a speech at the annual meeting of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce this year in which he informed his audience that out of every $10 which the average American earns through his labor or investments, government permits him to spend only $5.90 as he chooses while it spends $4.10 for him. We believe it would be even more effective if the physical extraction of $4.10 could be made each time the wage earner received his $10. Imagine how impressed individual American workers would be if it were possible to have them line up at the paymaster's window and be handed a pay envelope containing the cash he had earned. Then imagine a tax collector standing beside the workers, hand outstretched, extracting $4.10 for every $10 in that pay envelope. We believe America would get the message in a hurry. Jones began his talk by discussing the presidency of

A Private Revolution

A revolution, by definition, is a transfer of power. People are most familiar with political revolution: This type is characterized by public turmoil and bloodshed. So far France, Russia and China have achieved the bloodiest political revolutions. They hacked heads off with axes, butchered bodies in public, and drove railroad spikes vertically into the shoulders of quivering victims. Latin Americans developed a fairly civilized political revolution, a sort of ceremony in which a few uncautious peasants lost their lives, but in which the losing ruler got a trip abroad, a Swiss bank account, and a blonde. The late event in Chile was an exception that spoils a good story. But not all revolutions are political. Business has revolutions, too. The other day an airline had a

BERRY'S WORLD WORLD ALMANAC FACTS Joseph Pulitzer Sr., the American newspaper publisher, said: "Our Republic and its press will rise or fall together." He added: "An able disinterested, public-spirited press, with trained intelligence to know the right and courage to do it, can preserve that public virtue without which popular government is a sham and a mockery. A cynical, mercenary, demagogic press will produce in time a people as base as itself." In every age the vilest specimens of human nature are to be found among the demagogues. Macaulay

Question Box

QUESTION: The News and Freedom Newspapers are opposed to education. Aren't you convinced that if everyone were educated the world would be a better place in which to live with more moral human beings and less conflict between people and nations? ANSWER: The questioner is in error in assuming that The News and Freedom Newspapers oppose education. We are heartily in favor of more education, although we admit to being opposed to some of the methods used to provide what is called education. We disapprove of tax-financing of schools, and we submit that such disapproval is a far step from being opposed to education. Whether one may become educated in a tax-supported school may be subject to question, but for the sake of discussion we will concede that some students of government run and financed institutions can and do become educated. Education is not something that is acquired by being coerced into attending classes a certain number of hours for a certain number of days, weeks and years. Education is a process of learning, which must come from the learner. It can not be poured into a pupil like putting water into a jug. A truly educated person will have more than a knowledge of reading, writing, counting and spelling. He will have to gain understanding of the natural law (or God-given law), of economics, which is a study of human action in solving day-to-day living problems. We contend that the use of coercion in compelling attendance at government schools or institutions approved by the government people, violate the natural tendency of people to solve their own problems. In the first place, relying on the government to provide training for the young sets a bad example for the young learners. With the example of coercion, it is only natural for them to believe similar force should be used on others to compel them to conform to the wishes of those who supposedly know what's best for everyone. We hope that someday is laid to rest the disproven theory that schools are the answer to all problems. We have pointed out in the past that proponents of "public" schools argued for their formation that they "would, in a generation or two, be the cure for every recognized social ill; and that the schools would, moreover, in the course of time cost the taxpayer nothing, since the educated boys would grow up to be reasonable and honest men and the need for police support of jails, prisons, poor farms, and homes for the aged indigent would thus be eliminated." The absurdity of such aims should be evident to the most ardent supporter of compulsory schools. But the claim still is made that there would be a better world if everyone were forced to have 12, 14, 16 or more years of formalized training in institutions provided by the tax payer. It is possible that such coercion, backed up by soldiers' guns as in Hitler's Germany and in Soviet Russia and Mao's China, could bring a controlled order into a nation. But it would have nothing to do with freedom. And that's what The News and Freedom Newspapers aim toward.

Mindless Spenders

WASHINGTON — With the American dollar plunging to new lows in value on the international money markets, and with deficit spending still feeding the cancer of inflation in this country, the mindless spenders in the White House and in Congress have spawned another new foreign handout program. Approved by the House of Representatives recently was a bill to launch an organization to be known as the United Nations Environment Fund with $40 million, or 40 per cent of the total $100 million deemed necessary to get this outfit started, to be filched from the pockets of U.S. taxpayers. In opposing the bill and in debate on the House floor, I asked the sponsors who it was and on what basis it had been determined that the United States should put up $40 million of the $100 million fund when there are 130 other members of the United Nations. The answer came back loud and clear. President Nixon is the promoter of this latest world boondoggle and he (Nixon) thought a "fair share" for the U.S. should be 40 per cent or $40 million! ZEAL TO SPEND Incidentally, headquarters of this new Nixon-United Nations creation will be in Nairobi, Kenya, which assures our $40 million will be shipped abroad and spent. There is no evidence that Kenya or any Communist country will put up a dime for this so-called environment fund. To the question of how many other foreign governments have initiated action as has the U.S. Congress to contribute to the fund, the sponsors of the bill could name not one. The bill also provides that the $40 million "may be used upon such terms and conditions as the President may specify" — another unholy delegation of power to the President by an irresponsible Congress which turns handsprings in its zeal to authorize spending and then bellyaches if he doesn't spend it as they think he should. All amendments to cut the $40 million and eliminate the delegated power to the President were defeated and it was approved by a vote of 266 to 123. Thus it is that the American public continues to be raped in Washington.

Your Health

Dear Dr. Lamb — I am 26 years old and my husband is 30. We have two lovely children and we have both decided that we definitely do not want any more children. The problem is I can no longer take birth control pills. We have talked at great length together about either me having my tubes tied or him having a vasectomy. We haven't talked to our family doctor as yet. I would first like to know the pros and cons and which would be the best. I would like to have the operation performed on me because I have read a man sometimes develops emotional problems, or feels he loses his manhood. Also, if I were ever left alone with my two children because of death or divorce I still would not want any more family if I were to remarry. If a man were left alone, with or without two children, and were to remarry he would, more than likely, marry someone younger than himself and want more children. My husband doesn't seem to care one way or another. All I really want is what will be best for both of us. Please print an article on this and the different methods. I know of several of our friends who are also thinking of taking one of these courses of action. Dear Reader — I have written on both of these procedures in the past. In a nutshell, despite occasional scare reports, the vasectomy is a very safe effective procedure — it should also be considered permanent. Your doctor can fill you in on the details. There are some changes in the testicles, but it doesn't seem to affect the production of male hormone and only affects the ability to form sperm. Most men who are well informed on the nature of the simple operation and understand it has no psychological problems afterward, unless they had one to begin with. The female operation of tying the tubes is very much like the vasectomy in its effects. The one big difference is that the ova can be released freely into the abdominal cavity and do not build up or get blocked in a woman's ovary. The sperm cells are literally blocked up in a man's testicle after the operation, which I might add has not proved to be a big problem in most cases. Having the tubes tied should also be considered as permanent. In both operations the procedure can be reversed surgically in some cases, but it is a slim chance so it is better to consider it as permanent if you have that done. I am not going to encourage you to have either one done. Couples who have a nice family sometimes have a major change in life that causes them to want more children. If you lost one or both of your children in an automobile or even a school bus accident you would surely want more children. And, if you did remarry perhaps your new husband would want some children from his marriage. If you can't take the pill I wish you would consider the IUD (Intra Uterine Device). It is easily put in place and it has a very low incidence of complications and is about as effective as the pill.

Wit & Whimsy

One of the best ways to make money just put a fellow in the clinic for 20 years. How come entertainment marriages run into headline trouble just before a major picture is due for release? They call this season "fall" because that's what you do over the rake. Hoyt King wants you to know that one swallow doesn't make a summer, but it sure warns you on a cold fall day. You never look at a watch to tell the time; you look at it to see how long it is till something happens, or how long it has been since it has happened. Keeping a stiff upper lip will cost you about $10 in any bar these days.

RAY CROMLEY Computer crimes, a 'getting even' By Ray Cromley

WASHINGTON (NEA) — This reporter has been interviewing officials and reading the results of research on those who use computers to commit crime. The results are most disturbing. One careful report describes these computer criminals in the main, as young (usually 18-30), bright, highly-motivated people, none in trouble with the police, challenged by the complexity of beating the system and outwitting protective devices. (Intellectually stimulating — man against machine). Most are in trusted positions. They see nothing wrong with cheating a giant corporation. Some, apparently, see their actions as "getting even" for the "great harm" these organizations do to society. But these computer crimes are not limited to giant businesses, banks, insurance companies and the like. They take place in universities, in hospitals, in voting tallies at elections, in voter registration, in welfare offices and tax refund departments, in the federal and local governments. Though most of these individuals hide their crimes because of the effect disclosure would have on their promising, sometimes brilliant, careers, some seem to have an urge to receive credit or punishment for their success in manipulating the computer to steal or destroy the secrets of some group, government organization or business firm. In one university case, the perpetrator had a complete confession stored as a file in the system he had successfully defeated. This strange and disturbing set of events isn't found only on one side of the street of course. Researchers report a company which routinely sent out phony bills by hand. Some customers, apparently paid and the company profited. Those who were alert, and complained, were told, sorry, computer error. We are all too familiar with the giant concern which used its computer system to dream up, or create, nonexistent insurance policies, then sell them for a profit. Though the state of research in this computer crime field is limited and the measuring methods used are not as technically scientific as they will be later, there are, nevertheless, other somewhat crude surveys which seem to bear out the results outlined above, at least tentatively. What is disturbing to this reporter, of course, is the notion that wrong may be right when we are dealing with machines, or with large institutions, private and government, or with people in the mass. Somehow, apparently, when we deal with machines or through machines, we too frequently lose sight of those human values on which all of us depend. Government and private

H. L. Hunt Writes

A TASTE OF REAL OPPRESSION Farm and ranch operators, service station owners and automobile drivers are discovering the true intent of the people — controllers. The leftists for years have been making unfair attacks on the profit — motive system. The people — controllers' demands have led directly to market distortions, shortages and skyrocketing prices. Our profit-motive system and our free institutions of society and government were so strong and so resilient that they withstood these attacks and demands for more than half a century without breaking down, despite two major world wars, a great worldwide depression, several minor wars and "police actions" and, most recently, "civil disobedience" and scattered revolutionary violence promoted by biased media. The people — controllers have been eating away at our free institutions with controls which they claimed would help consumers and hurt only "big business." All who oppose the controllers have been defamed as fascist or worse. Now the chickens have come home to roost and the consumer finds he has lost his vote in the market place, where once he was all-powerful. Suddenly, consumers find that their "enemies" are not "big business" but the essential suppliers of services and producers of goods — the farmers, service station operators, etc. It is neither wise nor practical to imagine that millions of farmers, tens of thousands of service station operators and tens of millions of auto drivers can be forced to live by the ideas of a few people — controllers who think they know best for all of us but only succeed in fouling everybody's nest. Attempting to force farmers and service stations to operate at a loss brings home the depth of the repression and its true meaning to all of us. It is time to correct the situation and return to free people in a free market. The world is wearied of statesmen whom democracy has degraded into politicians. Benjamin Disraeli

WORRY CLINIC

Eric wants some advice on the psychology of writing. Whether you wish to rate an "A" on English themes in school or sell your copy to the various markets, be sure to send for the booklet below. And read Robert Ruark's terse reply to his critics!

CASE Y-534: Eric M, aged 14, is a superb example of "Horse Sense" among teen-agers.

He attends a city school, but lives in the country. There he tapped maple trees for the past two years, boiling down the sap and selling maple sirup.

He also keeps bees and when only 12 years of age, was taking off the honey all by himself and selling it.

In the autumn, he asked if he could refurbish an old cider press that had belonged to Mrs. Crane's father.

It was ready for the scrap heap, so I wondered how a 12-year-old would be able to get it back into working order.

But Eric did so, and squeezed out more than 100 gallons of apple cider in his first year, selling most of it to earn spending money.

"Dr. Crane," he recently asked as we dined together at a neighboring restaurant, "is it hard for you to write your daily column?"

And I replied that it certainly is.

"Eric," I said, "it might seem that after writing more than 12,000 of my daily newspaper articles, the task would be much easier.

"Alas, I don't find it so, for writing is always hard work!"

"Robert Ruark thus was kidded about his snappy daily column a few years ago.

"His friends told him he could type his daily 500 words in probably 5 minutes, so they wanted to know what he did with all the rest of this time.

"And he replied tersely, 'A wife can also deliver a baby in 30 minutes, but it's the previous 9 months of anxiety, planning and final agony that make her teeth fall out!'"

Thus, I urged Eric to pick a title for his English theme; then think about it for a few days so he would subconsciously polarize his ideas around that title.

In my case, I use a smorgasbord formula, "as you readers have noted when you scrapbook these columns and then index them.

So I try to pick out from my office files a classical, practical child or teen-age case, plus 2 on love and marriage; 1 on how to become popular; another on mental health (psychosomatic medicine), and for my 6th case of the week, I include some practical problem in business, advertising, public speaking, etc.

Then I mull over them at breakfast; stall around as long as I can to avoid the typewriter, as by reading my morning mail, plus 3 daily newspapers.

If I procrastinate long enough, it is then almost time for lunch, so I decide I might as well dine first before hiding away in my office to pound the keys of my ink piano!

By early afternoon, I grow so irate at my own inertia that enough adrenaline pours into my blood to raise my blood pressure and prod me into action.

Then I may write till late at night, for I always try to finish all 6 cases for the week, at one prolonged sitting.

Like Robert Ruark, my actual typing time for each case wouldn't run but 5 minutes!

But I must draw on a lifetime of professional practice to marshal all the relevant facts for each case.

Thus, I actually spend about an hour on each case, writing and rewriting, to eliminate as many jawbreaker (polysyllabic) words as possible.

But it is such a delight to accomplish the job, that I often begin whistling when I get over the hump by starting on the 4th Case Record for the week.

Send for my booklet "How to Write Salable Copy," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of the Worry Clinic, Hopkins Bldg., Walnut, Indiana 47388. Enclose a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

TV In Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—"Police Story," a new weekly, one-hour NBC-TV anthology series that had its debut Tuesday night, is by no means your standard brand cops-and-robbers television show.

From advance reports, a chief thrust of the various stories in the series will be to show the law enforcement officers in greater human dimension than most video fiction does. If this attempt succeeds, it will certainly be attributable in considerable measure to the attitude of novelist-policeman Joseph Wambaugh, who the network ways was a creative force in the conception of the series. If the understanding of police reality displayed in his novels can be carried over to weekly video, NBC-TV's new entry could evolve into something special.

Premiere was Flashy—Tuesday's premiere—in which an undercover officer (James Farentino) posed as a wheelerdealer pimp to trap the head of a prostitution ring (Fred Williamson)—was flashy on the surface, yet also managed to show in reasonably convincing fashion other facets of the policeman as a human being involved in touchy situations.

In Farentino's portrayal, we were given an officer far from the often-stereotyped cop that television has delivered again and again. His relationship with other officers is professional rather than overly personal; he is a bit of a loner; he has a relationship with a woman who has a son and wants to marry him; and yet there is a side of him that gives him a certain rapport of human dimension with the prostitution ring's top woman (Elizabeth Ashley), who falls in love with him as he tries to use her to get Williamson.

John Badham's direction evoked the underlying currents between Farentino and Miss Ashley, and counterpointed them effectively with Farentino's other world in which, in the end, he will live and undoubtedly marry the other woman with the son. There was some tough dialogue about values in the two worlds, but Robert Collins' script did not allow it to be condescending, and that was a plus for the premiere.

The Acting is Solid—The acting in the "Police Story" opener was solid right down the line. Farentino was convincing as the officer in his indication of the discomfort he occasionally felt in moving between his professional and personal worlds. Williamson was powerful and manning as the ring leader. And Miss Ashley took a role that could have been a cliché and gave it a beneath-the-surface force.

Also Tuesday night, NBC-TV offered the premiere of another new, weekly, one-hour series, "The Magician," in which Bill Bixby—formerly of the video show "The Courtship of Eddie's Father"—stars as a professional magician who uses his skills to help solve crimes and assist people with problems. Bixby is a delightful performer, but this series vehicle, on the basis of the debut, is unlikely to be worthy of his talent. It came across as very thin stuff. The opener, by the way, found him discovering who was trying to kill his communist friend. A lot of people would like to kill communists, of course, and I'm glad Bixby is on our side. But he'll have to be a real magician to pull off this series. If he can, he deserves a bonus.

Do Electrical Fields Influence Brain Functions, Behavior?

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Electrical fields generated by power lines and some machinery may influence human brain functions and affect behavior, according to Dr. Ross W. Adey of the UCLA School of Medicine.

The research to date raises the question of whether we have a potential means of modifying behavior," Adey said.

The electrical fields involved are weak. Stronger fields do not seem to have any effect on the brain, he said.

The research has concentrated on fields of between 25 and 100 millivolts per centimeter at frequencies between 2 and 15 hertz, cycles per second, he said.

Power lines generate such fields out to a distance of several hundred yards, he said, and also certain types of electrically powered heavy machinery. The electrical appliances commonly found in homes and offices do not produce such fields to an appreciable degree, he said.

The fields being studied are similar to the electric activity natural to human brains, he said.

When monkeys were exposed to weak electrical fields at 7 hertz, he said, it affected their time orientation.

It is not known whether human beings are similarly affected, he said, but research in Germany has indicated that they are. The circadian rhythms of test subjects—the "biological clock" by which everyone lives in a cycle of sleep, wakefulness and changing alertness—was thrown off by as much as 36 hours by exposure to such fields, he said.
