

SAYS KARNAK OFFERS HEALTH TO MILLIONS

Thousands of People Throughout the State are Now Praising the Sensational New Medicine For Benefits Received From Its Use.

Thousands of prominent people throughout the State are now praising the sensational new medicine Karnak. The demand for the preparation has exceeded all previous records, and as new tests of its powers are made, hundreds more are daily adding their endorsements to the thousands already given it.

In explaining the phenomenal success of the medicine, Mr. H. C. Thorburn, President of Standard Drug Products, Inc., recently said: "Before we secured the distribution rights for Karnak in this country we knew that it was a wonderful health builder and were convinced that it would restore millions of people to the joys of health. Now the public has proved this for itself and people everywhere flock to the drug stores to get it and report benefits from its use that far surpass even their fondest hopes."

"You can tell after the first few doses of Karnak that you are being benefited in a natural, substantial way. These substantial benefits form the fundamental reason for the medicine's unprecedented success."

Mr. Thorburn briefly quoted M. Andre's theories on health and right living as follows:

"Poor health is an unnatural condition. Nature is always working to restore us and with the proper assistance will succeed."

"Millions of people drag through life feeling well only half the time, or weak, sick and miserable day after day with hardly enough strength to keep up, and not knowing where to turn for relief. They are victims of auto-intoxication and mal-nutrition. The vital organs are failing to do their work. The system is being poisoned with impurities that tear down the health, waste the strength and irritate the nerves. The vitality is being destroyed and their lives needlessly shortened."

"To all such people Karnak has proved a blessing."

"M. Andre's aim was to perfect a medicine that would embody all the corrective forces of Nature itself. How well he succeeded is shown by the thousands who are praising the new medicine everywhere it has been introduced."

"It is not unusual for people to say that Karnak has relieved them of troubles that had defied all other treatments for years. That is the cause—Karnak helps the entire system regain its lost vitality, strength and resiliency and enables it to reassert itself."

Ballasting T. & P. Railway

The work of ballasting the tracks of the Texas and Pacific railway and the laying of heavy steel is now being carried forward steadily. It will be the first of the year before the ballasting is completed to Big Spring. The ballasting is now completed to Roscoe and the new rails laid as far as Lorraine. The bank has been widened to Iatan, twenty miles east of here.

Captain Lowell Yerex who was in Big Spring April 19th and 20th and piloted a passenger-carrying and stunt plane was dangerously injured at Denver, Colorado, June 7th, when his plane fell from a height of 4000 feet. A newspaper artist, Norman Fuller, who was in the plane was also seriously injured.

V. Mellinger and family spent Sunday in Lamesa. Mr. Mellinger states that the fire there Saturday was certainly a destructive one and it will be quite a blow to that city.

Towns

Much community effort is almost entirely lost for the same reason that individual effort fails. Chambers of Commerce, in small towns, especially, drift into a state of general doing-nothingness, when the members begin to get careless about attending meetings. Clubs, like the Rotary, the Kiwanis and the Lions, find that they cannot do anything worth while unless they meet regularly, and so they meet at lunch or dinner, and fine their members or drop them for non-attendance. They strive about as hard to maintain a high attendance record as for anything else, for they know that poor attendance means poor interest. They keep their members constantly on the job or put them out of the organizations. Town building and community development can not be done by "fits and jerks."—Haskell Free-Press.

But it is better to have "fits and jerks" in town building than not build at all. If the "fits and jerks" last long enough, then you build a town. All towns are seeking to become a city, and all cities are seeking to be larger cities. No town wants to stand still unless it be one which has decided on the line of least resistance and to give up the struggle and not try to grow any more. Sometimes, one wants to go to a town like that, where all the hustle and struggle to beat the other fellow has ceased and there is complacency and resignation to fate. One would only want to go to a town like that, but stay only a short time.—Abilene Reporter.

Remedy for Shade Trees

Many of the shade trees in all sections of Amarillo, including Maples, box Elders, and Sycamores, are beginning to yellow, the county agricultural agent, Harmon Benton, reported yesterday.

He has been observing the trees, and has found a remedy, which is not a complete one, but it has served in a number of cases to keep the trees alive and healthy for the past few years.

The remedy is to use iron sulphate, commonly known as copperas around the roots of the trees. One pound is used for each inch of thickness of the trees trunk.

It is placed in pulverized form in holes a foot deep, from three to six feet from the foot of the tree, depending on conditions. After it is placed in the hole, using about a pound in each hole, water is poured in the hole several times to dissolve the copperas, and distribute it through the soil, before the hole is filled in.—Southwestern Plainsman (Amarillo.)

The name of Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, wife of former governor James E. Ferguson, has been certified as a candidate for governor by the State Democratic executive committee. It is the first time in history that the gubernatorial candidacy of a woman was certified in Texas. Mrs. Jim will withdraw if the court rules that Mr. Ferguson's name may be printed on the ballots.

DAVIS MOUNTAINS—THE ALPS OF TEXAS

By Phebe K. Warner, Secretary State Parks Board.

One of the weakest points in the education of all the people of Texas is our utter lack of knowledge about our own State.

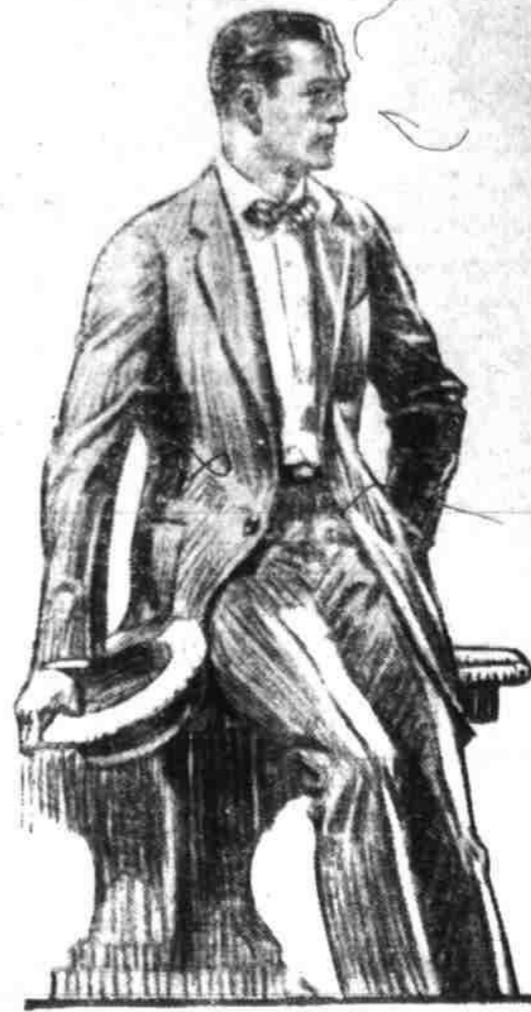

The mission of the State Parks Board is to plan a way for all the people of Texas to "See Texas First" then they will have something to tell about home when they go away from home. There is not a State in all of Uncle Sam's big, fine family that has a greater variety of real scenic beauty than Texas. Mountains, hills, plains, valleys, rivers, sea coast, canyons, forests, lakes, anything you want you can find in Texas, if you only know where to look for it.

But one of the last things folks expect to find in big, broad Texas is mountains. Wonder how many people really appreciate the fact there is a great range of mountains in Texas? How many have ever seen them? How many actually know where they are? The truth is Texas is rich in mountainous scenery. The Alps of Texas are located in the Southwestern part of the State. If they had been named the Alps more of us might have learned of their beauty but they happened to be called the Davis mountains. But their grandeur is none the less. There they have stood over in Jeff Davis, Brewster, Pecos and Presidio Counties ever since the world was created waiting for somebody to use them and enjoy them and make of them one of the greatest educational and recreational assets in the whole State.

Wonder what Colorado would have done with the Davis Mountains if they had been up there and were all the mountains Colorado had? Wonder what Illinois would do with the Davis Mountains if they were stretched across her prairies? Wonder what California would have done if she had owned the Davis Mountains instead of her own? Do you suppose these States would have allowed their own wonderland of beauty to stand silent and idle except for the cows and coyotes and prairie dogs and spend all their time and money for pleasure and rest and sight-seeing in some other State? Do you think they would? Not on your "radiograph!" California and Colorado have grown rich through the medium of their scenery. They have used their mountains to entice folks to their country and after they got them there they had other things to show them. As for Illinois, she has no such scenery as the Davis Mountains within a thousand miles of her borders. But if Illinois had had such a wealth of beauty it would have been known around the world today. Yes, and it would have been used for a great Chautauqua grounds. It would have been a great musical center. It would have been the haven of rest and recreation of all Chicago. But the Davis Mountains are not in Illinois. THEY ARE IN TEXAS. They belong to Texas. No one but Texas will ever own them. Thank the Lord, beauty such as that can not be bought and sold or plowed up or seeded down. If the Davis Mountains could have been moved some other State would have come to Texas and bought them and transplanted them everywhere. But that was not God's plan. He made the Davis Mountains and gave them to Texas NOW and FOREVER. And it is up to the people of Texas to wake up and lift up their heads to the hills and the possibilities of the Davis Mountains as the most ideal place in this nation for a great educational center. Halfway from coast to coast. Already on one transcontinental railway and when the Orient becomes a part of the great Rock Island system the Davis Mountains will become one of the greatest attractions between the Great Lakes and the Pacific Ocean.

Why is Texas 34th in education? It is not all because she is the greatest cotton State in the world. It is not alone because of her short terms of school and her over-worked children. One of the chief reasons Texas is 34th in education is because she has failed to recognize and utilize her greatest educational assets that Nature gave to her and her alone. Texas has failed to use her own educational talent. Because she had only one great range of mountains she has done nothing with them. Do you remember what the Bible says about the man with ONE talent, Texas is that fellow. If there is a State in this Union that ought to make use of her natural educational environments it is Texas. The Alps of Texas should be and could and we believe will be made one of the greatest attractions in our nation.

Flag Day June 14th
One day in the year, June 14, is set aside to honor the flag—our flag, the flag. Not because it is pretty, not because it is red and white and blue, not because it is the personal possession of every American, but because of what it means, what it stands for, what it typifies, what it prays and what it hopes!

It means liberty; liberty of thought, liberty of conscience, liberty of action within the laws, liberty of worship, liberty of government. It stands for law and order, protection and security; justice and a square deal, honor and righteousness. It typifies the ideals of a hundred and ten millions of people, the heritage they have taken from the hands of the mighty forefathers, the torch of happiness in equal opportunity lit in 1776 and kept brightly burning ever since. It prays for strength to keep our vision clear; for truth and right, for wisdom to continue upon earth those social and political liberties which make this God's country. And it hopes! Its proud flutter in the wind, its beauty overboard, is an outward and visible symbol to all the world of the inner and spiritual hope of every thinking American that this nation, under God, may so act and live that His blessing may continue to rest upon it. Honor the flag, this day. Fly it, take off hats to it, celebrate it. Let there be no hamlet so small in all this land that a procession is not formed in its honor; let there be no city so great and busy that its citizens forget to thrill once more at the sight of Old Glory.

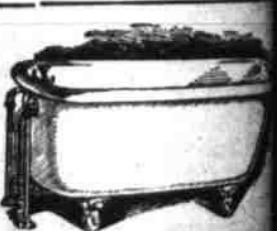

Flag Day, June 14—best of all days for all of us to enter a house of God and on bended knees thank the Giver of all good things. It is our good fortune to live and love and prosper under such a flag.—Scottish Rite News Bureau.

The Speed Maniac
The country is possessed with a bunch of speed maniacs that are endangering life and limb. We were parked on the curb last Saturday afternoon when a car came onto the square driven by a young sprout that had his throttle wide open. The streets were crowded with cars and traffic was difficult. Seeing that he was going to wreck a car that had just backed out into the street he wheeled into the curb and hit our car in the rear. Our wife was sitting in the car and she was violently thrown forward and received some minor injuries. Some damage was done to our car also. Now we wish to say that a man or boy that has no more sense than to drive a car on the public square of any town when same is crowded with traffic at a speed that prevents him from controlling same is as dangerous as a maniac running at large. Any one that drives at reckless speed on public thoroughfares should be barred from driving cars at all. There is a lack of proper observance of traffic laws in Snyder and if the custom continues some one will be crippled or killed. People should be compelled to respect the lives of others if not in one way or another.—Snyder Times.

Joint Meeting W. O. W. and Circle.
 One of the most enjoyable occa-day was the joint meeting of the W.

 the W. O. W. hall here last Friday night, this being the 34th Anniversary of the founding of the order.
 Hon. J. H. Boggs, of San Angelo, were present, and the hall was filled to capacity. L. E. Crenshaw served as chairman of the meeting and a splendid program was presented.

 Fine talks were made by M. H.

 selection and recitation by Miss Ly-dale Boggs, aged 10, of San Angelo, and two recitations by Herschel Boggs, aged 8, of San Angelo, were especially enjoyed numbers. These talented young people also sang a duet.
 Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served at the close of the program.

Too much prosperity seems to be responsible for much evil which prevails. Most every family owns an automobile and seem to have funds sufficient to permit Lizzie to keep up with the procession. This practice of turning over automobiles to the young people—permitting them to go when and where they please and stay as long as they like, may be a treat to the young folks but certainly it is not best for them. Talk to any of them and you will find that they are ever seeking new thrills as the pleasures which come so easy soon pall and they speed up for greater thrills.
 If they would expend as much energy in some useful work as they do in seeking pleasure ours would be a better and happier world from every standpoint. Happiness and contentment have been banished from most of the homes in our land due to the folly which now holds our people.
 That "An idle brain is the devil's work shop," is true we all admit.
 Give the owner of an idle brain an automobile and money to waste on pleasures and he can give the devil himself pointers on going all the paces.
 Whether or not our country will sink or swim depend on the ability of the home, the church and the school to convince our young people that pleasure seeking on the present day basis must cease.

 fortunately no bones were broken.

Weather Records

Warm weather was a little backward in making its appearance this year, but it is now making up for lost time. The thermometer at the U. S. In 1923 we did not have any days where the thermometer registered over 100 degrees until June 27th on which date 102 degrees was the record.

A Call to Patriotism

Mr. Alfred E. Stearns, Principal of Phillips Academy, Andover, Mass., in the course of a letter to the editor of this paper, says:

"I cannot help feeling that in some ways the challenge which confronts high-minded and patriotic American citizens today to fight for their country, is a greater and more serious one even than that which we heard during the War."

This view expressed by one of the leading educators of the country is unquestionably true. There is a call to patriotism today greater than was the call to patriotism during the War. When President Wilson called the nation to arms on the specific statement that Germany was making war upon us, he stirred the patriotism of the whole country; but the dangers then were not so great as are the dangers of today. Then the danger was from an outside enemy. Today the danger is from enemies at home. These enemies are the men and women who are violating the law of the land, and thus doing their utmost to pull down the American flag and trample it in the mire, and the radical elements in and out of Congress who by their teachings are destroying confidence in our Constitution. Radical politicians, weak-minded parlor-Bolshevists male and female, "long-haired Men and Short-haired women" as they have been called, and radical labor leaders, are combining under a flag of destruction to our Government.

And any man who attempted the act of hauling down and trampling the American flag during the War would have been regarded as fit only for the firing squad. But today men of high degree and men of low degree, men of wealth and men of poverty, men of education and men without education, are hauling down the American flag and trampling it beneath their feet, in effect spitting upon it as a thing of contempt. They are despising the thing for which the American flag stands, viz. obedience to law, and the high and holy purpose to recognize that Old Glory stands for patriotism and not for the breaking of every law which is contrary to the wish of the individual man who desires to disregard it.

It is, indeed, true that the danger which now confronts this country is greater than the danger of destruction by the German armies, for the country is now being stabbed in the back by men who have professed loyalty to it. And these men are preaching lawlessness. They are telling their friends, even the school boys of the day, that violation of law is a thing of which to be proud as indicating a man's independence of spirit, and his refusal to obey any law which does not suit his own convenience. This spirit is growing so rapidly, and has been developing for so many years, that the men and women of this country who love this land, who want to see it saved from ruin, need to be aroused to a new sense of patriotism. And patriotism means among other things obedience to law, and the upholding of laws so long as they are on the statute books. It means also that the man who violates our laws must be regarded exactly as the slacker or deserter in war times would be regarded by his comrades in arms as well as by all patriotic people.

Let us have a new call to patriotism, a new awakening to the dangers which face us as a nation through the breaking down of law.—Manufacturers Record.

S. A. Hathcock's New Store

S. A. Hathcock's handsome new business building at the corner of E. Second and Runnels street is now receiving the finishing touches and Mr. Hathcock hopes to move in next week. This brick building is 50x150 feet, equipped with all modern conveniences, is a credit to our city and Mr. Hathcock has every reason to be proud of this beautiful structure.

In addition to a wholesale and retail grocery department, there are several new departments to be added when the new building is ready for occupancy.

The entire north half of the building, a space 25x150 feet, will be occupied by the grocery department according to present plans. A space 25x100 feet in the front south half of the building will be occupied by an up to date hardware department. Warren shelving, show cases, and modern shelving and various labor saving bins and compartments are being installed.

A department for glass, paint, linoleums, congolesum rugs will be arranged. A basement 60x45 feet will afford ample space for storage and an up to date heating system. Space for an office and a ladies rest room will be reserved near the center of the building.

Taken all in all he will have a whopping big store in which the various departments will be filled with just everything you may need and at cash prices that will cause folks to come miles to do their trading here.

West Texans Are Willing Helpers.

They grow palm trees in South Texas. They don't in West Texas. But that's just one of the differences, says Homer D. Wade, assistant manager of the West Texas C. of C., with office in the Chamber of Commerce building, Fort Worth. "I've just finished a 1500 mile auto trip thru South and West Texas," Wade divulges. "I had two punctures in South Texas and the scores of cars winged on by me, not one offered any help. I had a bum pump and needed help too.

"Then over near Brownwood—West Texas, mind you—I had another blow-out. Know what happened? Well, exactly 10 cars halted while I was at work and wanted to know if I needed any help.

"Yes, sir, there's more difference between communities than the flora and drinking water."

Listen Girls!

In days gone by worth-while girls spent at least some of their time trying to learn to cook, keep house and be of some service to their family and to humanity.

Now it is quite different. Most of our girls spend most of their time pacing the streets of our towns. Those that can afford cars burn dad's gas and reduce his bank account. It is beneath the dignity of most of them to be of some service at home. Too often they are taught by their own parents that they are too good to be of actual service in the way of housekeeping and cooking and taking the burdens off of their parents. These are the mothers of tomorrow. The prospects are not too promising but it is all that we have.—The Vanguard.

President of France Resigns

Paris, France, June 11.—President Millerand resigned today. The president's determination to resign came after the reading today in the two houses of a presidential message presented by the new premier, Frederic Francois-Marsal, in which M. Millerand declined to resign except in the event of an adverse vote against the ministry by both chamber and senate and finally the adoption of a motion offered in the chamber by Edouard Herriot, leader of the radical socialists, which in effect eliminated any government favorable to or suggested by M. Millerand.

The 'Thrill'

Teach a boy that his ideal should be that of service, that he must consider the rights of others, that he is the equal of his fellows and that the more he acquires of anything the greater his obligation to use well what he has, and the chances are that, as a man, he will be a good citizen and do his part for human progress and happiness. You give to the world a man who is constructive.

Give a boy the ideal that money is everything. Teach him that he will not have to work, that he is the superior of his fellows, that he can have and do anything that money can pay for, that he owes nothing to humanity, that his life is merely a matter of the Devil overtaking the hindmost whose purses are not fat, and the chances are that you give to the world a man who is destructive.

Between the ages of 16 and 21 years, the normal boy's life is one of "thrills." He becomes constructive or destructive. He either aims to do things of, by and for himself, or to get "thrills" out of what has been handed him. He either strives to do great things, with brains and hands, or to produce great "thrills," with what is in the family purse.

There is the "thrill" of making hard-won, honorable success. There is the "thrill" of money spending, which acts like the drug habit, demanding, always, a stronger and stronger pill.

At Chicago, the sons of two millionaires kidnaped and strangled a school boy friend. Much "thrill" in it. The "thrill" of destruction. When there is no more "thrill" in a new auto, or classy clothes, or private yacht, or any sort of high living, there is left the "thrill" of running blood.

Mothers read of that awful tragedy, tremble for their own school boys, and ask how could it be. It was in the "thrill" way back in the boys' cradles, that went with them to school, that lived with them in the home life, that makes gold and blood twins—the "thrill" of "Too Much Money!"—Fort Worth Press.

Insects are just about the worst agricultural people to face, a writer for a farm publication has declared, and certainly there is no insect problem facing a farmer that is more serious than the boll weevil problem to the cotton farmer, unless he applies correct and proven methods of control. It is impossible to eradicate the boll weevil, it is believed, but by the use of the government method of poisoning with calcium arsenate the insect can be controlled and a profitable crop made.

It will pay to poison, experts say, if the weevils are injuring the crop seriously; if the land is sufficiently fertile to yield at least one third of a bale to the acre with weevil injury eliminated; if the farming organization is such that applications of poison at the right time and in the right manner are assured, and if the farmer is willing to spend the amount necessary to provide an adequate supply of dusting machinery and poison.

One pre-square poison application should be made wherever twenty or more boll weevils appear on an acre of young cotton, scientists say. The treatment should be applied at the first indication of squaring. Home mixed molasses-calcium arsenate mixture applied with a mop to the tips of the plants, or straight calcium arsenate in dust form applied either by machine or shaking the dust from a sack, are recommended at this stage.

The usual formula for the molasses mixture is as follows: 1 pound of calcium arsenate, 1 gallon of molasses, 1 gallon of water, or with extremely heavy infestation and with frequent rains, a stronger mixture containing 2 pounds of calcium arsenate, 1 gallon of table quality syrup and 1/2 gallon of water. The latter may give quicker and better control. Syrup should always be sweet or unfermented and the mixture should be applied within twenty four hours after mixing.

"Do it right or not at all," is the advice of government experts to cotton farmers planning to use boll weevil control measures. In order to "do it right" it is necessary to make a study of the habits of the boll weevil and how it accomplishes the destruction of cotton.

Boll weevils go into winter quarters in timber, weeds, buildings and any other shelter they can find near the fields and emerge in the Spring to attack the cotton. The best protection is timber. They remain quiet and take no food during the winter. Cold weather killed many weevils the past winter and the number to emerge this spring was reduced, experts say, but not enough to warrant laxity in control measures. Farmers who are not considering the use of control measures because of the small number to emerge are taking a gambler's chance, they declare, for unless the weather continues to be unfavorable to the pest they will multiply very rapidly and soon will have destroyed another crop.

As soon as squares appear on the cotton the female weevil inspects each square and generally does not place an egg in a square that already has received one. At the end of the snout of the weevil there are very small jaws. With these she bores a hole in the square and enlarges it at the bottom. The snout is withdrawn, the weevil turns around and extends the egg duct from the rear of the body into the cavity where the egg is placed.

Females keep on laying from one to three eggs a day for about a month and average a total of 100 before they die. The eggs hatch within an average of three days. The grub coming from the egg begins to feed at once and grows rapidly for eight days and becomes a "wigglie." This stage lasts about five days and no food is taken. The weevil itself then appears.

The total time from the placing of an egg in the square to the appearance of the weevil is about seven or eight days. About a week then elapses before the weevil deposits eggs. Thus it can be seen that even a small number emerging to attack a crop will multiply many times and without control measures can destroy cotton over a large area.

The Community Auditorium

The thing we all need most of all today is to get together. There is not a sane, normal person living that does not have some fine ideas on something. There is not a person in your community that does not have an opinion on what should be done and how things should be done to make their community a better place to live in. And we have just faith enough in humanity to believe that the very great majority of the American people want what they think is best for their children, their home, their school and the community.

We believe this with all our might. Don't you? The trouble with most of us is we are not quite sure what is the best. And very few of us are willing to take the other fellow's opinions. Most every one of us would be not only willing but glad to see things changed, made better and built up if it could be done OUR way. And it is not always because we are selfish that we want our way. It is far more often because we really and truly think and feel and believe that OUR way is the right way and the best way and some times for lack of vision and it may be the truth we feel that OUR way is the ONLY right way to do things.

Now suppose there happens to be two people in the same community that feel this way about any new project that comes before their community. What happens? If there are only two positive thinkers and believers in your community and they are always thinking in opposite directions, you soon have a divided community which if evenly matched will be just strong enough to hold everything and everybody at a stand still all the time and as a consequence no one will ever be able to do anything to build up that community. Your school will go on in a rut. Your church will stand still while others go forward if the opposition happens to be within the church; your town will lag behind its neighbors if the trouble is between municipal forces; and the same philosophy applies to the county, the State and the nation.

If all the brains and energy, time and cash could be conserved and directed in some constructive program for the good of all the people that is wasted today in every school district, in every community great or small, town, county or State, we would soon be one of the happiest, most progressive and most contented people on earth and what is greater we could have just anything we want in the world by way of public institutions if the money and brains wasted in fighting one another were only collected and consumed in building up. Well, most anybody's ideals would beat nobody's.

And we believe further that the ideals of the American people are not so far apart as it seems. Most of the trouble today is misunderstanding and a lack of understanding between the people of the same communities. Every community is made up of an indefinite number of individuals. And no two individuals in all this land have ever lived exactly the same life. And even if they had the innate differences of their in-born dispositions would cause them to see the same life and the same conditions in a different light and from a different viewpoint. That is God's plan for the sake of variety in the human family. Look at the different flowers and birds and trees and foods He created! All to make the world a prettier, better place for us to live in. And this is just why we believe men and women have so many different notions. And we believe it was God's plan for men and women to get together and talk over their different ideas of life and living. Talk over what is best for themselves, their homes and children, their schools and community, their roads and streets and towns. And we believe that every man and every woman in any community should be invited into the council chambers of that community and given an opportunity to express their ideas of what should be done to build up the institutions that are to mold the lives and characters of their children and their own fortunes. We don't know who has the best ideas and the best plans for building up our communities until we hear them ALL and compare them and weigh them and try to measure their future results. And very often the reason I might think my plan was best would be because I had never heard or thought of yours. And perhaps the reason you are so determined to have YOUR way is because YOU have never had occasion to look at the situation from the other neighbor's angle. Every community needs to get together many times each year and pool their opinions and discuss them respectfully and with impartial consideration and then watch the survival or the fittest gradually rise to the top. But why don't we do this in every community?

The most common reason is because there is NO COMMON MEETING PLACE in most of our communities for all the people. Do you not believe every community in our State and nation would more than pay the cost of erecting a community auditorium in less than ten years by the time and energy, money and community spirit they would conserve in that time by learning to think and plan and work and pull together for the mutual welfare of all the people.

The consolidated rural school is going to provide this community auditorium wherever it is built in the future. This is going to be one of the greatest assets of the consolidated school district. A larger community and a common meeting place large enough to accommodate all the people. If we had had community auditoriums long ago we would have consolidated schools all over our land now. But we are all growing and they are coming and we will be a bigger, better community and a wiser nation when there is a place provided where every citizen may help mold the life and the standards of the community of which they are a part.—By Phebe K. Warner.

Bureaucracy in 1954

Senator Borah, of Idaho, in a recent speech in the United States Senate, commented upon the progress of this Government toward bureaucracy and predicted that in thirty years from now, unless sentiment changes materially, the republican form of Government established by our forefathers will have ceased to exist. In his remarks, Senator Borah said:

"If these thirty years are to be as the last thirty years, as everything indicates they are, at the end of thirty years we will have one employe or officer for every ten citizens in the republic. Every conceivable activity of body and mind will be under the surveillance of a bureau.

"Spies and inspectors, guides and counsellors will leer upon the citizen from every corner and accompany him in his daily vocation of life. Our taxes will be over $100 per capita. We will be taking more than 40 per cent of the National income for governmental expenditures. "We will still be, of course, a republic in theory. But we will be a bureaucracy in reality, the most wasteful, the most extravagant, the most demoralizing and deadly form of government which God in His inscrutable wisdom has ever permitted to torture the human family."

Ask any man if he believes in a Government by bureaus and he will stoutly maintain that he does not. Yet, when the Federal Government proposes to assist in any public project on the condition that it has absolute control, the same man is in favor of it. The fifty-fifty split on expenses is an insidious, unfair method of tempting the people to sell their inherent rights to self government. For a few dollars taken from our own pockets along with other dollars which we never see, we enslave ourselves to a centralized Government and double our National taxes.

No one State can afford to refuse the fifty-fifty split plan of the Federal Government because its share of the spoils would be collected in taxes and paid out to other States. Congressmen, however, can fight the further extension of the system on the floor of the House and Senate and thus create public sentiment against it.

There are some functions that rightfully belong to the Federal Government. Rapid means of transportation and communication and our modern ways of doing business may have made more imperative the taking over powers formerly exercised exclusively by the States. There is no reason, however, to extend the power of supervision and control beyond these necessities. As Senator Borah says, the trend is towards centralized control which will ultimately destroy whatever vestige of personal liberty the people have left.—Farm and Ranch.

Blake R. Vanleer Delivers Address.

Blake R. Vanleer, an instructor of the University of California, and commander of the Berkeley Post of the American Legion, delivered an address at Berkeley, California, May 29th at the unveiling of a bronze tablet in honor of the memory of seven Burbank school pupils who lost their lives during the World War. In view of the fact that the talk was of such merit and the further fact that Blake is a former resident of Big Spring of whom we all are proud we herewith reprint the text of the talk delivered on that occasion:

"Children of Burbank School, many people are interested in what you are doing here today, and why? Because this memorial is an altruistic project. By that I mean it was not conceived with any idea of profit. Those of you who have put your time, efforts and money into securing this memorial did so without hope or desire for profit.

"That is a noble thing to do. You are to be praised for such things and your parents and teachers are to be thanked for instilling in you such worthy ideals.

"We are making progress today and our conception of war memorials is changing. We are more and more demanding that our war memorials serve the living as well as remind us of the good deeds of the dead. And I am sure if the young men to whom this memorial is dedicated could speak to us today they would want this memorial to be of service to those who are now living and who will come in the future to this school.

"We are sometimes prone to think that it is difficult to die. That's because we are cowardly and ignorant of the life hereafter. But the real truth of the matter is that it requires mental, moral and physical energy to live, we can all die without assistance. Now if this memorial means anything it will help you and those who come after you to live better lives.

"Do not get the idea that the giving up of life is easy. It is not always so. Most of us enjoy this world in which we live and we do not care to leave it for another about which we know so little. This is especially true of young men and women to whom the future holds so much promise. Therefore it meant a great deal for these young men to whom this memorial is dedicated to leave their homes and loved ones and give up their happy lives, never to return. It meant much sadness and sorrow for their dear ones and it is fitting that we should remember and recognize their sacrifice. It is fitting that there should be something which will forever remind us that students of Burbank school are taught principles which they live by even to the extent of giving up their lives.

"But the greatest value of this memorial lies in the fact that it will be frequently seen by the students of this school. Perhaps unconsciously but nevertheless certainly you will when you see this memorial reason like this:

"The little extra tasks which I have been asked to do must be done even if they take up an hour or two from my play each week because what are two hours compared to a life. Those boys gave their lives, surely I should give something for my school and my fellow men—and you will. You'll find yourself growing stronger and better, because that's the way progress is made. You grow strong by carrying a heavy load. Did you ever think how it is the principal of this school can handle all of the various duties he has to perform and know all about them? Did you ever wonder how a doctor or an engineer or a banker could possibly do all of the things he is called upon to do? Well, they couldn't when they were your age but they started doing one thing at a time and soon some one asked them to do another because they did that so well and soon another and another and each load made them stronger, more efficient and able to carry the next load until they became what they are today. So it will be with you—the more you do the more you will be able to do. We learn by doing.

"Life is becoming more and more complex and we have to submerge ourselves in the organization with which we are associated. I for example was not asked to speak here today because I am Professor Vanleer, a teacher of engineering, but because I am the representative of the former soldiers of the World War, because I belong to the American Legion, an organization which the heroes whose names are inserted upon that tablet would have belonged to were they alive today. Because the American Legion stands for God and Country. Our members stand ready to uphold and defend the constitution of the United States. The Legion wants you to do our tasks better and more fully when you become of age. We want you to establish such memorials as this that you may have before you constantly reminders

Do You Need a Change ?

"Most crimes," says a magazine writer, "are crowd crimes." He was urging people to get out into the open for a few days each year.

Business competition, and the whirl of fast living, breed surly dispositions and over-sensitive tempers. Men who snarl at each other in office or street, would not pleasantly wave to each other if they were out fishing in a stream where the fish are biting viciously.

But there is more to it than that. It isn't the fish, or the breezes, or pure air, alone, that stir up the inner founts of happiness, and acts as a sedative to frayed nervous systems. Change is the great transformer. That is why it is good for farmers, who work in the open the year round, to take a vacation trip.

The only way to take a vacation, of course, is to forget that there is such an institution as Work in the world, to throw off completely the cloak of business responsibility, to surrender in full to the great philanthropist, General Relaxation.

Who knows—perhaps some farmers need the crowds occasionally, just as all tired men of town stand in need of lakes and woods! No doubt there is close kinship between "crowd" crimes and "chore" cussedness. Those of our ruralists who don't hanker for the fishin' rod, or vast stretches of Nature, may find their best annual diversion in bright lights and congested traffic.

Visiting "the other world" is the secret of keeping one's mental and physical poise. Hobnobbing with one's neighbors in the other sphere of life is conducive to wholesome perspectives, fresh viewpoints, and renewed faith in mankind.

Cares don't grow overnight. The more they are permitted to sleep, within certain limitations, the more insignificant they become. Why not put them to bed for awhile, fill the gasoline tank, and set forth with your family to explore the mysteries of Recreation Land?—Farm and Ranch.

For Cleaner, Neater Streets

The ladies of the City Federation join heartily with the business men in the desire to have cleaner streets in the business district. Wouldn't it be nice to have sidewalks and streets clear of the scraps of paper, candy boxes and bags, cigar stubs, etc., which in some blocks so spoil the appearance of our splendid town. Such things give an air of carelessness and neglect. Besides, they attract flies which are such a menace to health.

Parents are urged to keep the children reminded that they can help greatly toward having cleaner streets and sidewalks.

Grownfolks too, can help wonderfully in this. Let's see how much cleaner we can have the sidewalks before the Carnival, June 20th, and then let's try to keep them clean.

We see a notice in one public office, "Please do not throw paper on the floor," and in another, "Please do not spit on the floor." The gentlemen placing these notices are due the sincere respect of all good citizens, and it is hoped that their requests will meet with quick and willing response.

No better people are to be found anywhere than in Big Spring. The ones who throw papers, and other refuse on the walks and streets, or expectorate in public places, just do not think how it makes against the town both in appearance and in health conditions.

Yours for cleaner, neater streets.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

By E. R. Waite, Secretary, Shawnee, Okla., Board of Commerce.

THAT to those who do not know a city, it does not exist. It takes persistent advertising to make the world know a city and not forget it.

THAT cities should be advertised the same as a successful business. Persistent advertising makes and keeps a business prosperous.

THAT in these competitive times cities compete against each other, and the cities that are the best advertised lead in the March of Progress.

THAT cities have opportunities to sell. They can't sell themselves unless the outside world is told where and what they are.

THAT cities should extend through advertising a welcoming hand to more industries, to more worthwhile people, to investors who will assist in developing their city and the country that surrounds it, and to every one who will add to the prosperity of the community.

CITIES THAT ARE PERSISTENT ADVERTISERS HAVE A STEADY AND HEALTHY GROWTH. THEY ARE NOT AFFLICTED WITH SO-CALLED BOOMS, BUT PROGRESS SLOWLY AND SURELY. GATHERING MOMENTUM AS THEY GROW, GRADUALLY GETTING BETTER, BIGGER, BUSIER AND BRIGHTER UNTIL THEY ARE WELL ON THEIR WAY TO THEIR ULTIMATE DESTINATION—THE PERFECT CITY.

Grasshopper Menace Should Be Watched

Be on the look out for the grasshopper this year is the advice of the State and Federal Entomologists who are responsible for fighting our insect pests. Last year many sections of the state suffered heavy losses from grasshopper invasions.

At any rate farmers in those sections where grasshoppers were bad last year or have been known to damage crops should be prepared to fight the pest with poison.

The following formula is recommended, having been used with success in Texas as well as other states:

Wheat bran, 25 pounds; White arsenic or Paris green, 1 pound; lemons or oranges, 6 fruits; low grade cane or sorghum molasses, 2 quarts; water, 2 gallons.

Mix the bran and poison thoroughly while dry. Dilute the molasses with the amount of water named. Squeeze the lemon juice into the diluted molasses, then grind the rind of the lemons with a meat chopper and add this also to the liquid. Now mix the liquid thoroughly with the poison bran mixture. After an even mixture has been obtained, add more water and mix, until a mash is obtained so that after being squeezed in the hand, it readily falls apart.

Grasshoppers feed in the morning, and as the bait loses its attractiveness when dry, it should be applied so as to be moist as possible at this time. It will, therefore, be best to put it out about sunrise. Provided the ground is not so hot and dry as to remove the moisture during the night, it may be put out late in the evening in case the area to be treated is too extensive to be quickly covered in early morning. The mixture should be scattered, as if sowing seed, by hand, or any type of seeder capable of distributing it. The amount given in the formula should cover about five acres.

"That's The Stuff!"

The "too flabby to fight" movement has received a jolt in Syracuse University, at least, and it is well.

The great school in central New York has been the scene of a bitter feud between the extreme pacifists and those who are willing to fight, if necessary. The college has a military reserve force, and has had for years—a force made up of patriotic young men who are opposed to war but believe in being prepared for such emergencies as may be forced on them. They have been bitterly opposed and assailed by other students who wish to commit the college to the proposition that the way to end war is to refuse to fight under any circumstances. Now, at the height of the controversy, comes Chancellor Flint—the big, brainy and forceful head of the institution, to show his colors and mettle. He has had himself sworn in as colonel of the U. S. army reserve force. "I am an apostle of peace," says Col. Flint. "But if war comes I am ready to serve."

That is the stuff—the real American stuff. Bully for Flint! Bully for all men like him! The purpose to end or avoid war is righteous and to be commended enthusiastically. No one will deny it. But the ill-vised movement, now sweeping the country thru schools and colleges and religious organizations, whose aim is to commit all persons to the proposition that they will go so far as to disregard the call of their country and refuse to fight under any circumstances, is a blow at patriotism and the very government itself. More than that, it is violation of the first law of nature and the exaltation of cowardice in a most reprehensible manner.

Chancellor Flint has the right idea and the right blood in his veins. Others like him should stand forth as conspicuously and pointedly. Peace-lovers, yes. Cowards and cravens, never.—Fort Worth Press.

Coahoma News Items

Cupid has been busy in Coahoma: Evidence—Sunday, June 1st Charter Hale brought home from Big Spring Dorris Wolfe, his wife. Then Saturday evening Bennett Hoover carried Eva Massey to Big Spring and she came home Mrs. Bennett Hoover. DeWitt Shive and Almeda Coffman went with said couple Saturday and Almeda came away Mrs. DeWitt Shive. The M. E. pastor united both couples, asking God's blessing to rest upon each happy pair.

Charice and her bride are occupying Thad Hale's home while he and family are in Dallas. Bennett, with his life's companion, is living with Mr. and Mrs. Massey, while DeWitt and wife are to stay at Mr. Shive's at present. The three grooms and brides began to spend the week on the Coahoma. Many other happy marriages are being made with the dear young people. M. H. O'Daniel had a round up on his place Thursday and you can close your eyes and visualize a sumptuous repast for the noon hour. You can not possibly too highly praise that dinner—out under the China trees. There were thirty-five guests for dinner, and they enjoyed it, too.

The young people are enjoying the Misses Bell, sisters of Mrs. Hendricks, whose guests they are.

Mr. Neal's parents spent last week with him, going from here to Big Spring to visit their other son who lives there.

Rev. Stewart, the presiding elder of this district, did preach an excellent sermon to a packed house at M. E. Church Sunday, 11 a. m.

The M. As Mrs. Claunch was not at home Sunday, Mrs. Burt Runyan, assistant superintendent of Jr. B. Y. P. U. met at the Baptist Church at 3 p. m. Sunday. The Baptist ladies held their weekly Auxiliary at the church Wednesday; good attendance.

The M. E. Juniors met with Mrs. Houck Wednesday afternoon. The little folks are certainly interested in their work.

The M. E. ladies held their regular social meeting at the M. E. Church Monday afternoon. They meet bi-monthly. This social hour was an especially interesting one to all present and especially to the special one—Mrs. Bennett Hoover. You see the ladies showered her. She received many practical and useful, as well as pleasing gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. McKinley of Allen, Kansas, arrived in our little city Sunday on the 8:25 a. m. train. They are visiting their son, Bob McKinley. They brought with them their little grandson, whose father is Bob McKinley.

Mrs. Bob McKinley entertained Wednesday in honor of her Mother McKinley. There were thirty-five guests invited, and all who came did enjoy the afternoon. After a chat of fifteen minutes each guest was given a vegetable-fruit contest. After that, they were invited to accompany Mrs. McKinley to the other room, where the description suiting a guest was reposing in the nut basket. As each discovered herself by the couplet, passed back to the living room carrying her plate. Then cake of white and pink, followed by brick cream of white and pink, were served to each guest. The color scheme of white and pink combined nicely with the furnishings of the guest room. This color prevailed thruout the afternoon, even to napkins and nut baskets.

The Junior C. E. met at 2 p. m. Sunday afternoon, June 8th at the Pre byterian Church with Norma Hart in the chair and Troy Keller acting as secretary. Mrs. Burt Runyan read the scripture reading, followed a discussion of same, then sentence prayer. The five dollars were paid the N. E. R. The visiting committee reported five visits with two lunches sent, and six persons spoken to about attending C. E. Under new business it was discussed and agreed to have a good deed box. Mrs. Runyan gave the Juniors this suggestion. It was voted to send Norma Hart as delegate to the Austin convention. Frances and Pauline Thomason discussed the kindness, made practical—all joined in the discussion. Closed with Mizpah benediction.

Bert Runyan surprised his wife Sunday by presenting her with a new Ford roadster.

L. D. Hull was ordained in the Baptist Church Sunday evening. The ordaining was conducted by the uncle, I. D. Hull of Snyder. Many of L. D. Hull's friends attended the services. The Senior C. E. wishing to attend the preaching services at the M. E. Church, abbreviated their session. However it was an interesting meeting for the Austin trip was discussed and decided to ask Mrs. Liles to act as delegate while there. The secretary reported having sent the $5.00 to the N. E. R., this making $20.00 paid by Seniors and as much paid by the Juniors. Chas. DeWidda furnished the car for the Austin trip. Coahoma will have four representatives: Mrs. Liles, Miss Ruby Elliott, Irene Mullikin and Norma Hart. Besides the four from Coahoma, Midland District will have seven other representatives.

In Memory

Of our Dear Wife and Mother, who was born in White County, Alabama, December 21, 1885. Departed this life April 11, 1924. Was married to F. E. Woodson January 2, 1904. Professed faith in Christ July, 1905, and joined the Baptist Church.

She lived and loved Christ. She ever stood for the right, and opposed sin in every form. She bore her suffering with patience. She said she was prepared to die, but of course hated to leave her children.

She leaves her husband, four children of this city, a mother Mrs. W. H. Gray, two brothers W. R. and F. M. Gray all of Armstrong Springs, Arkansas, two sisters Mrs. C. A. Moore of Hugo, Oklahoma and Mrs. W. B. Sowell of Little Rock, Ark., and a host of relatives to mourn her loss.

Yes, mama has gone to that land above, to ever be with those she loved.

Awaiting there in that land so fair, that some sweet day we all may share

A place by her side in that heavenly home; where sickness and pain are never known.

Then went it be sweet in that land complete; where all together we will sing; grave where is thy victory; O, death where is thy sting.

Combining of Six Railroads Planned
New Orleans, June 4.—Plans for the consolidation of six railroads, with the Missouri Pacific dominating were outlined yesterday by Missouri Pacific officials before the association of commerce here.

The systems involved are: Chicago and Eastern Illinois; Kansas City Southern, Texas and Pacific, Gulf Coast Lines, International and Great Northern and Missouri Pacific. The total trackage would be 15,000 miles. These roads comprise group 19 of the federal consolidation plan.

The ports of New Orleans and Galveston would be developed for foreign trade, it was announced. Through passenger train service from New Orleans to the central west would be inaugurated.

The Missouri Pacific now has an application pending for the purchase of the controlling interest in the Gulf Coast lines. The Gulf Coast lines seeks purchase of the I-G-N. The Missouri Pacific recently obtained a major interest in the Texas and Pacific.

Opposition has developed in Louisiana to the absorption of the Gulf Coast lines by the Missouri Pacific, it being charged some trackage might be abandoned or trains removed. Officials pointed out that the merger would prove a benefit to the territory it traversed instead of a detriment.

COMMISSION ESTABLISHED

After Splawn, Railroad Commissioner of Texas
Act of April 3, 1891 required Governor to appoint three men to compose the Railroad Commission of Texas. These men held office from the date of the inauguration of the succeeding Governor. The Governor had asked for an appointment.
Governor Hogg said in his speech at Point on April 21, 1892: "The session had expired before a decision was made to elect a commission. Never had there been the fourteen years struggle all proposing to elect commissioners. If the Commission should be elected, then what question was discussed before the public policies could they advise? The advice would be that if commissioners are ever made they be elected for four or five years, so while one is running the other two may be at the business."
The people decided to elect the Commissioners instead of leaving their appointment to the Governor, but they did accept the suggestion to elect them for a term of six years.

Governor Hogg also suggested that a commissioner should be disqualified from holding other public office for two years after the expiration of his term. This suggestion was not adopted in the law.

Helpful Rains

Big Spring, Texas, does not ordinarily expect much rain. By no means does it aspire to qualify with Portland, Oregon, or with the Florida coast with respect to rainfall.

This spring, however, Big Spring has had plenty. So much, indeed, that the local paper now declares that a rain is no news and therefore not deserving of mention.

The farmers are happy. Everything is in their favor. They say if the grasshoppers will stay away from that locality, Big Spring will see the best crops of its history. And that is the kind of news we all like to read.—El Paso Herald.

End Red River Receivership

The Federal receivership in the Red River territory will come to an end on June 30th when, under an order issued Monday by the United States Supreme Court, the Federal receiver will surrender to the Secretary of the Interior the possession of all of the south half of the river bed, now in receivership, with all oil wells, pipe lines, and other property pertaining to the river bed, and two thirds of the net impounded funds derived from the river bed wells.

The flood plane wells now being operated by the receiver, together with pipe lines and other fixtures, are to be surrendered to the several owners or lessees as soon as satisfactory arrangements can be made.

The receiver is instructed to publish notice to all claimants to funds in his custody derived from flood plane wells to present their claims to such funds within forty days. After the expiration of twenty days more the receiver is authorized where there are no conflicting claims, to pay the proceeds from any well, less expenses and charges to the proper claimant.

To Teach in S. M. U.

Rev. M. Phelan, pastor of the Methodist Church, Big Spring, left Monday for Dallas where he will spend two weeks in the Summer school of the S. M. U. teaching history.

This year Bro. Phelan's assignment will be the history of the Reformation. This will make the ninth year Bro. Phelan has taught in similar Summer schools of the Methodist Church—four years at Georgetown, and five years at S. M. U.

Bro. Phelan has specialized in history, especially as it pertains and is related to religious affairs. In 1915 he published a handbook of information on religious organizations throughout the country and it is now being re-published on this subject. The handbook has been sold and two thousand more will be printed.

Bro. Phelan has the honor of being the author of the Handbook of Methodist in Texas, a book which will be published in book form by a publisher in New York and will be available in a few days on the shelves.

It is said that up to the present there has not been a complete handbook of Methodism in Texas compiled. The work by Bro. Phelan will be a very useful and useful to Methodist students to the general public.

Not only Bro. Phelan will teach an excellent history but he is well informed on most all subjects. He is a student and his sermons show him to be a well equipped, zealous, consecrated Christian minister.

We congratulate the Methodist people of Big Spring in having their pastor such a strong efficient servant of the Master as Bro. Phelan has proven himself to be.

A Real Tribute to Booster Edition

Kansas City, Mo., June 4, 1924. To The Big Spring Herald: Through the courtesy of Mrs. J. E. McDowell and also Mrs. J. D. Birdwell, I have just received copies of the Big Spring Herald's 1924 Booster edition, and I desire to express my appreciation of the many articles of interest in this snappy up to date city paper.

Shall I call it evolution of the Pantagraph? back back in the year 1886 when I was a citizen of Big Spring for a few short months. I hesitate in reverting to time so long past, it sounds like ancient history and is somewhat of a reflection upon my age, but I shall take comfort in the trite saying: "A woman is only as old as she feels and there's no age limit." It was like turning back the pages of the past when I read the article of Mrs. Agnes Young—whom I well remember—in which she referred to the names of the McDowells, Birdwells, Sandersons, Eskrigge, Moody, Rix, Bainbridge, Slaughter, Caylor, the Reeds, Potton, Ward, Korn, Wolfcott, J. C. Smith, Sparenberg, Dr. Hurt, Dr. McIntyre, Dr. Standiford, Will Derling, Currie, Dan Finch, et al.

I am agreeably surprised to note that Big Spring in this span of years seems to have been converted from a sea-of-sand into a miniature city where the wheels of commerce turn, where schools and churches abound and where civic pride is a thing to boast of, also its art, literature and music clubs; the most essential assets to a community. Big Spring should indeed congratulate itself upon its real alive and refined newspaper—The Big Spring Herald—to which I dare say it owes much of its progress and success. Very truly,
Mrs. Betty Evans.

An inspector for the State Fire Commission spent last Friday in our city and made a number of recommendations to safeguard our city against a costly fire. He, as has other inspectors in the past, warned some of our citizens against allowing paper, old boxes and trash to accumulate in basements of business buildings. He stated that we had practically no fire fighting equipment to meet the need in case of a big fire.

Jno. C. Wells enroute to his home at Kerens from a business trip to points in New Mexico passed thru this city Monday evening. Mr. Wells who is now serving as secretary of the Chamber of Commerce at Kerens formerly served as secretary of the Big Spring C. of C. and also as County Agricultural Agent of Howard County, and has a host of warm friends here.

We are in favor of a law licensing drivers of automobiles by the cities or state so that the reckless drivers who observe no traffic regulations may be refused permission to drive autos for a stated period and double the penalty for each offense. Fining reckless drivers is not sufficient to prevent the speed maniacs from endangering lives.

Occasionally politics or political fear results in some relief to the helpless taxpayer. The student of governmental affairs knows full well that there would have been no hope for a reduction in income taxes but for the fear of both of the great political parties that defeat would follow inaction in tax matters.

Possibly it may have been worth it, but the average citizen is left to wonder just what benefit he received from the shooting of about a half million dollars worth of ammunition at Fort Sill the other day for the entertainment of army men, members of the National Editorial Association and other visitors.

A Klanadoo Convention

It was simply a McAdoo-klan gathering. A klan minority in Texas sent a klan majority to Waco by simply being a little more active and alert than the opposition.

It was called a Democratic convention, but the Kieagles and the Titans and the Dragons and the Cyclopes ran it, with a man named Love giving orders. Peculiar that a man named Love should run a show built on hate; but that is only one more paradox.

Entitled to 40 votes, in the National pow-wow, Texas will send 60 men and women to cast them, not because the extra represent any power, but to increase the noise. There will be 10,000 or 15,000 in the galleries, however, to howl them down, for the pow-wow will be held in New York, where sentiment is not so favorable to McAdoo and the Klan.

The job was done to that good old refrain of "She ain't what she used to be," which was more appropriate than some of those present suspected. "She ain't what she used to be," meaning the Democratic Party in Texas, and she won't be so long as the riders of a mad hobby continue on her back. She has become a smug, minding thing, which Jefferson would disown and Jackson would turn out to pasture, yet these are the names by which her new grooms are trying to coax her into a trot.

What a farce, what a hodge-podge of platitude and precept, what a grouping of incongruous ideas; but the hash is nothing compared to what it will be when New York gets through. It is a case of one type of provincialism meeting another, of hopelessly irreconcilable views coming together, of acid and alkali, commingling. We shall draw a perfect blank, safe because it is innocuous.

Texas Democracy has been set on too narrow a pedestal for stability. With its commitments to intolerance, its Klan bred policies, its pandering and compromises, it is not the strong, vital, well-grounded force it once was. It has been shriveled and dried away by one of those infections which come once in a generation, but which political parties must resist. It has succumbed to the charms of a peddled cult.

Texas Democracy is not sending forth another "Immortal Forty," but a cheap imitation. It is not fighting for the ideals of statesmanship, as it did in 1912, but a lot of political cant. If it welds itself into the National party, it will have to first eat its pretensions and join hands with those very elements which it claims to scorn.

We should like to be present, but "invisible," when Tom Love, Cato Sells, Murray Jones and Red Boyles confer with Al Smith, Tom Taggart and Dave Walsh. We should like to know if and how much they change their tune, how they explain some of the things they have been preaching.

Or will such conferences be avoided for the sake of convenience, and will Klan affiliations be quietly ignored? If they are, it will be Texans who will do the avoiding and ignoring. A pretty position for this State, a fine display of that manhood and open-handedness in which the majority of Texans believe.

But right there is the crux of the situation, which was engineered and brought about, not in accordance with what the majority of Texans believe, but by the cunning of an organized minority, by a secret society which the bulk of Texas people have not measured yet in its true proportions.—Houston Chronicle.

A Scrap of Paper

When you come to think of it, nearly as much can be accomplished today with a sheet of plain white paper, as the magician of old could encompass with all his charms and amulets and touchstones.

For a scrap of paper can be made into a check which will convey a fortune half around the world. It can be made into a deed which will transfer the possession of an enormous property. Upon it a warrant of arrest can be written; or a pardon. The musician can compose upon it a song that will cheer the hearts of millions. Or the poet, a verse that will be passed on to future generations.

Yet withal, there is such an abundance of this commodity that it may be freely used, not only for the rarer purpose of commerce and art, but for universal dissemination of the day's news and wide spread selling of a multitude of goods.

Truly, paper is a magic carpet and an Aladdin's lamp and a fairy scepter rolled into one.—The Apocoe.

Some By-products of Crookedness.

The soundest view of life is that the thing we call success is soundest and most satisfactory when it is a by-product of righteousness; that if we seek first righteousness, "all these things shall be added unto us."

And then there are the by-products of crookedness, and it is worth thinking about if we are ever inclined to take up crookedness as a livelihood or even as a diversion.

One trouble with crookedness is that it is like drug-taking. We can not tell where to stop. Crookedness is dangerous because it is habit-forming.

One correlative of crookedness is that it is fatal to friendship, and friendship is probably the best social product in the world. It is hard for a liar to keep a friend.

Another by-product of crookedness is suspicion. Some Frenchman said that the honest man has this advantage over the dishonest man: He knows that there is at least one honest man in the world. The crook, knowing he is a crook, believes that every one else is at heart a crook.

The crooked storekeeper can not trust his clerks, for if the clerks are instructed to deal deviously with the customers how does the boss know that the same clerks will not tap the till? If it is right to swindle the public, why is it not right to cheat the boss?

Another by-product of crookedness is worry. The trouble with a lie is that you have to tell another lie. Lies, in fact, breed faster than Belgian hares. And the little verse is entirely sound which says:

"Oh what a tangled web we weave

When first we practice to deceive."

Nobody is smart enough to be a consistent liar. But one does not have to be clever in order to tell the truth.

Lies are a terrible tax on the memory. Most men are honest simply because it is the easiest way.

The cheat has to lie awake nights thinking how he can square himself. The honest man knows that the stars in their courses are fighting for him.

There is no doubt that sometime you can make a dollar by being crooked. The only trouble is that it is going to cost you $50 or $100 in the by-products of crookedness.—Dr. Frank Crane.
