School Lunch Program Big Market For Dairy Production

By GAYLOR F. GODWIN
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The national school lunch program is an important, growing, and continuing market for the nation's dairy production.

This burgeoning part of the American education system is establishing, in the very young, eating habits and a taste for milk and other dairy products that might well carry over into their adult lives.

Between July, 1957, and June, 1958, almost 3,500,000 half pints of fluid whole milk and 170 million pounds of butter, cheese, ice cream and non-fat dry milk solids were delivered to public elementary and secondary schools having a la carte or plate lunch services. An additional 300 million half pints of whole milk were consumed in schools serving milk only.

Survey 500 Schools
Economists for the Agricultural Marketing Service (AMS) released these figures after surveying some 500 representative schools. Projected to include all 60,000 public schools having lunch services, the statistics indicate the size of the overall school market for dairy as well as other farm food products.

There are some 19,000 schools which serve milk only. Public schools having neither lunch nor milk service number about 27,000. As the school population increases and as the trend toward lunch-at-school continues, more and more food service facilities are being built into new schools and older schools are modernizing their facilities to accommodate lunch programs.

Thus the school market for farm food products is expanding in two directions — through population growth and through a broadening of food service facilities. The effects will be felt all through the agricultural system, from the producers and processors of fruits and vegetables to the livestock and dairy farmers.

Dairy Potential Great
The greatest market potential is offered to the dairy industry whose products already account for 45 per cent (in value) of the foods served at public elementary and secondary schools.

Last year enough fluid milk was distributed at the 60,000 schools to provide 134 half-pint units to every child in attendance. This consumption of fresh fluid milk was matched by an equally impressive amount of processed dairy products — butter, cheese, ice cream, and non-fat dry milk solids.

Almost 65 million pounds of butter, donated almost entirely from government stocks, were distributed to school food service facilities last year. This amounted to about 3 pounds per child. This compares with the whole civilian population per capita butter consumption in 1958 of 8.4 pounds.

Market Value High
Cheeses served in public schools in 1957-58 totaled more than 37 million pounds — an average of 1.8 pounds per child. Ice cream consumed totaled 54 million pounds, or 2.5 pounds per youngster. Consumption of non-fat dry milk, used chiefly in food preparation, averaged out to 0.7 pound per child.

AMS economists said dairy products moving to schools during the survey year had a wholesale market value of 267 million dollars.

On a per child basis, $1.45 worth of dairy products was made available to public schools with food service fluid milk, of course, accounted for most of this. Its share came to $1.94. Butter averaged $1.67; ice cream 72 cents; cheese 70 cents; and the average for all other processed items totaled 33 cents.

Pampa Population Showing Increase

By MARVIN OLSEN
Daily News Staff Writer

Pampa's amazing growth the past few years seemed to be hardly appreciated by citizens until last month when at a City Commission meeting City Manager John Koonitz revealed the rather startling fact that 41 new families were moving into Pampa each month.

Figured roughly those figures would indicate that approximately 144 new persons are flocking into Pampa every 30 days.

During a conversation with Koonitz shortly thereafter those figures turned out to be only a small part of the story. City population has jumped well over 3,000 in just the past two years and is now rushing close to the 27,000 mark in total population.

In 1920 the city's population was 957, and in 1930, four years after the oil boom, the figure had jumped to 10,470. In 1940 that figure had only risen to 12,895, and ten years later, in 1950, Pampa's population was 15,322.

An obvious question is why? Why are 41 new families or more moving into Pampa every month? What are they doing? Why did they pick Pampa to live?

No one seems to have all the answers. City Manager Koonitz felt part of the answer was the city's attractiveness, not only as a city where new businesses seem to flourish, but as a city that has natural beauty — parks, new buildings, fine homes, well-kept lawns and well-paved streets.

One other person close to the population scene is Mrs. Lorene O. Locke, head of a little-publicized but important Pampa service organization, the Merchants Hostess Service.

It is Mrs. Locke who every 15 days makes a report to Koonitz of new families, where they are from and what they are doing to make a living here.

"I find out about new families from a number of contacts," Mrs. Locke revealed. "It has been my job since February, 1953, to contact new families in Pampa, more or less as a representative of my sponsors, 36 different local merchants."

"I am endorsed by the Chamber of Commerce, and when a new family arrives — that I think is likely to stay in Pampa — present them with letters of welcome from the mayor and Red Cross and give them a book of gift certificates."

She revealed that the average figure of 41 new families in Pampa a month is probably only a percentage of the number that arrives.

"I only visit families that are likely to make Pampa their permanent home," she said. "A number of people only live here a short time, of course."

A typical report made every 15 days contains between 20 and 25 names, the former location of the family and the present position of the family's breadwinner.

an example the following list of new residents was compiled by Mrs. Locke for the period from June 1 to June 15, 1959: Following the family name is their former home and their present occupation.

W. K. Alley, Amarillo, Pittsburgh Paint and Glass; C. R. Ammerman, Miami, Okla., Kissaee Ford; J. D. Burns, Kocuskoo, Miss., Pampa Daily News; C. B. Caldwell, Dallas, manager of M. E. Moses; J. A. Couch, Scottsboro, Ala., Tex Evans Buick.

F. I. Darnell, Amarillo, Santa Fe; K. F. Edgington, Lufkin, Brown and Root; C. B. Gaultney, Iowa Park, Humble Production; John L. Hardesty, Gruver, Seal-test Dairy; J. H. Head, Skellytown, Northern Natural Gas; Carl N. Hearne, Dallas, Magnolia Petroleum.

E. A. Johnson, Miami, Okla., Kissaee Ford; Fred Jordan, Amarillo, Gulf Interstate Co.; Charles Lanehart, Abilene, Cree Drilling; John McLaughlin, Houston, Brown and Root; Ferris Mitchell, Evans, Malcolm-Hinkle; J. B. Ramsey, Newkirk, Okla., Halliburton; A. B. Reed, County Line, Okla., Pan-American Petroleum; Jay Seccrest, Springhill, La., Magnolia service station.

J. E. Stockton, Wichita, Kans., Kirby Sales and Service; Joe D. Stone, Duncan, Okla., Pan-American Petroleum; S. L. Stone, Tulsa, Okla.; Windsor Well Servicing; C. R. Swafford, Cleveland, Ohio; J. W. Redmond Co.; Dale F. Veststad, Newton, Iowa, district salesman for Vernon Co.; Lyle W. Wells, Tulsa, Okla., Sooner Pipe and Supply.

A certain number of those families — engaged in construction businesses, etc. — are probably not going to remain in Pampa for longer than one year, but the majority have the type of position that will give them long employment in the Pampa area.

Figures kept by Mrs. Locke indicate that most families are arriving in Pampa from Oklahoma and other sections of Texas. They are coming to Pampa in the majority of cases, with jobs awaiting them.

Another side of Pampa's remarkable growth is the number of homes built here the past year — estimated at about 400. Another side of the story is the multi-thousand dollar building program being carried on along N. Hobart St.

All those stories tied together indicate that Pampa is prosperous and growing and surely will grow some more, possibly reaching the predicted population figure of 35,000 by 1970.

Don't Forget About House When You Go On Vacation

By HENRY E. BECHTOLD
United Press International
NEW YORK (UPI) — Going to the seashore or mountains this summer to get away from it all? All well and good, but don't forget about that house you're going to leave unoccupied for two weeks, a month or even longer. A house needs care and attention, even when unoccupied.

Vacationers can relax and have more fun knowing that their homes have been safeguarded properly and that a few simple precautionary measures have been taken to protect their house.

Don Stephenson, vice president of the Nationwide Allied Home-owners Assn. (AHA), has drawn up a check list of tips for vacationing homeowners:

—Pull the Main Switch
—Cut off all electricity by pulling the master switch or main fuses. This will erase all doubts about whether you turned off the radio, left an appliance running, short circuits which can cause fires.

—Shut off water supply to avoid leaks.

—Remove accumulations of old rags, gasoline, oil or paint cans to avoid the possibility of fires from spontaneous combustion.

—Lock all doors and windows.

—If you heat by gas, ask the company to turn off the supply to guard against leaks or breaks. They could cause a dangerous accumulation during a prolonged absence.

—Have all roof repairs attended to before you leave and check gutters and downspouts to see that they are not clogged.

—Empty refrigerator and freezer—defrost, clean out and leave ajar.

—Close the Blinds
Stephenson also suggests that you pull curtains and blinds to protect furniture from light and dust; close damper in fireplace; make arrangements to water and cut lawns (unkept lawns are an invitation to marauders); turn off telephone, if desired; notify the local police that you will be away; and give house key to a responsible person so he can make an occasional inspection.

KHRUSHCHEV WINS LENIN PEACE PRIZE

Foreign News Commentary
By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign Editor

Man-of-the-week: Lenin Peace Prize winner Nikita Khrushchev. The place: Moscow.

The quote: Khrushchev pledged all his strength "to the struggle for the triumph of the peaceable Leninist foreign policy, for the strengthening of peace and international friendship."

It had been a busy week even for the normally busy Khrushchev, premier of Soviet Russia, No. 1 in the Communist Party, executioner of the one-man personality cult of Stalin and now the builder of another one-man cult, the cult of Khrushchev.

During the week, above and beyond the normal duties of chief of state, he had spent many hours as genial host to visiting East Germans, kept a finger on events at the foreign ministers' conference in Geneva, chatted with other foreign delegations and been the principal speaker at the opening of the U.S.S.R.'s exhibition of Soviet economic achievements.

Credits Communist Party

Now he was writing his thank-you notes to those who had congratulated him upon winning the Lenin Peace Prize.

He credited "this high estimate of my activities" to "international recognition of the services of the Soviet Union in the struggle for the preservation of peace, for peaceful co-existence and cooperation of all states; and I fully credit it to the Communist Party of the Soviet Union."

To the Western foreign ministers struggling at Geneva for agreement on the future of Germany and European security, all this could be nothing but one more added frustration.

For it was Khrushchev whose threats against free West Berlin had forced the foreign ministers' conference into being in the first place and it was Khrushchev "brinkmanship" which would keep them talking in the hope that a barking dog does not bite.

He's Shrewd Bargainer

It also was Khrushchev brinkmanship which impelled British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan to send his foreign minister, Selwyn Lloyd back to Geneva after a week end recess with urgent instructions to keep the Geneva talks going.

Macmillan visited Khrushchev in Moscow this spring and, from all that has leaked out since, came away not so much in awe

Potentially Rich Brazil Is Trying to Avoid Poor House

Foreign News Commentary
By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign Editor

Brazil, potentially one of South America's richest nations, once more is struggling desperately to keep out of the poor house.

It was on Aug. 24, 1954, that President Getulio Vargas, for 25 years Brazil's "strong man," retired to his room and fired a bullet into his heart after first writing a bitter last will and testament. In it he said:

"I can give nothing else but my blood. I bequeath my death to the hatred of my enemies. I request that I... unable to do all I wanted for the humble."

What Vargas had done for "the humble" was to bequeath them today's financial ills.

Since World War II, Brazil has passed through a succession of economic crises, each one more grave than the last.

In the first 10 years after the war, she received some $400 million in American loans. In the last 10 years, prices have risen 1,000 per cent. The Cruzado, Brazil's unit of currency, has slipped to a value of only about three-quarters of a U.S. cent.

Coffee Economy Slip

Despite her other riches, Brazil's has been a coffee economy. And as coffee prices slipped so did Brazil's economy.

The single act of the Vargas administration which is blamed for touching off Brazil's vicious inflationary spiral occurred on May 1, 1954. It was a decree doubling minimum wages. Prices, already high, shot skyward.

At almost the same time, Brazil set a minimum price on coffee of 87 cents a pound. Vargas' attempt to extort from world cof-

Interest On Home Loans May Go Up

Real Estate Loan By EDWARD SWAN United From International WASHINGTON - Interest rates on home loans are likely to go up in the coming months. The economic point to such a trend, according to government experts.

As always, there is some disagreement on when, how fast and how much mortgage interest charges will rise. But officials questioned by United Press International agreed that there was no basis for expecting anything but an upturn in borrowing costs.

That has been happening elsewhere in the economy. Borrowers big and little are paying more to banks and finance companies than they did six months ago - and lots more than a year ago when interest rates were very low as the result of government anti-recession policies.

So far, mortgage interest rates have been somewhat insulated and have lagged behind the rise in interest rates, generally. This is typical. Mortgage money rates have always tended to be sticky - to move later and more slowly.

Matter of Time

But it is only a matter of time, government economists now believe, before mortgage money grows dearer. Conventional mortgage money can now be had for 5 1/2 per cent, officials reported. There is considerable geographic variation in money rates with those in the West and Southwest higher than elsewhere, as a rule.

A bright spot for prospective home buyers and borrowers is this: Although it will probably be more expensive, mortgage money is not expected to become very much harder to find that it is now.

One major reason is the high, growing volume of personal income. Besides fueling record consumer spending, it has generated unprecedented savings.

For example, the nation's savings and loan associations made $1,344,000,000 of new mortgage loans in April, according to a report by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board. It was the 12th consecutive month that the associations put more than one billion dollars of mortgage loans on their books.

With income moving upward, a rising bulwark of savings should partially offset some of the money-tightening forces.

Interest Rates To Rise

Signs that interest rates are headed up are abundant. Secondary market prices for government-backed mortgages have declined, fattening discounts and increasing yields.

The Treasury has told Congress it needs higher interest rates to sell bonds and the Federal Reserve Board has gradually put pressure on the lending potential of the commercial banks.

Means the demands for loanable funds from that quarter is building up. Similarly, businessmen have resumed stockpiling inventories, which means they need to borrow more.

Officials believe that the trend toward tighter credit will not have a major impact on construction activity, at least this year. They pointed out that many lenders are already carrying record lending commitments which should assure continuation of the snappy home building pace for many months.

Butyl Was Too Good To Be Used In Tires A Decade Ago

"AUTOS"
 By JACK VANDENBERG
 UPI Automotive Editor

DETROIT (UPI)—Butyl, a synthetic rubber which is just beginning to be used in tires, might have been used a decade ago but it was too good too soon.

A group of officials and technicians from Enjay Co., a subsidiary of Standard Oil of New Jersey, came to Detroit recently to sell the automotive industry on the use of butyl tires.

While the group was in town, I, and several other newsmen rode in a Chevrolet equipped with butyl tires. The car was driven by George W. Lowden, Enjay engineering representative.

The butyl tires hugged the road like a leech clinging to a blood vein and did their work just as quietly.

Lowden pulled away from traffic lights at speeds which made all the passengers sink deep in their seats and might have gotten him a traffic ticket if there had been a cop around.

Butyl Tires Quiet

The butyl tires didn't make a sound.

He rounded corners at rates which would have made the screech of ordinary tires heard several blocks away.

No squeal from the butyl tires. He slammed on the brakes at traffic lights so suddenly everyone in the car was hurled roughly forward.

A teen-ager would have been frustrated.

Lowden purposely aimed the car at some chukholes in the street. The car took them breezing.

He aptly demonstrated the three points Enjay is emphasizing about the butyl tires—a smoother ride, increased safety, and freedom from tire squeal.

Although Enjay also claims 11 per cent greater durability for butyl tires, the company doesn't emphasize it because this point is offset by the fact that they will sell a premium of about 25 per cent over the cost of other tires.

Will Cost More

Clifford A. Coffey, Enjay tire technical coordinator, explained that added cost will be necessary at first because butyl tires can't be molded on the same machines used for production of the tires currently used on most cars.

Butyl is softer than the synthetic rubber currently used in the manufacture of tires. (Despite therefore, needs special grooving to dispense the heat.

But butyl is created from oil refinery gases and is actually cheaper than the material used in automobile tires today. Therefore, once the cost of new machines is covered and volume production established, butyl tires should be cheaper than the current type tires, Coffey said.

Development of butyl actually began during World War II when natural rubber supplies dwindled. It was developed along with the synthetic currently used in most tires.

Used In Inner Tubes

But the real demand at that time was for a synthetic good enough to be used in inner tube which require a higher grade rubber. Because butyl was the most promising of the two synthetics under consideration for development, it was used for inner tube while the other synthetic was developed for tires.

When tubeless tires came out after the war, development of butyl lagged. It was not changed over to tires immediately because machines had been built to handle tires made from the other synthetic, which had been developed to a satisfactory level by that time.

Butyl still had certain qualities which made it undesirable for tires, particularly excessive heat and softness, which led to rapid wear.

But it had so many promising qualities that Enjay went to work on developing it. Technicians of the Standard Oil subsidiary said the last major problem was overcome when they found a way to keep white sidewalls from becoming excessively dirty.

In the process of development, they eliminated the cracking which appears on the sidewalls of all standard tires today.

Now they feel they are ready to offer butyl tires commercially.

Hall Advises Divers To Carry Arms

By VERNON SCOTT
 UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Recent attacks by sharks on swimmers off the California coast spurred Jon Hall, Movieland's No. 1 skin diver, to warn the snorkel set today never to go diving unarmed.

A 30-year veteran of sea diving, Hall also manufactures all manner of underwater equipment—including "shark guns."

"Those two deaths in the past month or so never would have happened if the men had carried guns," the tanned actor said. "And I don't mean normal pistols or rifles."

"An ordinary bullet has no effect on a shark. You can pump them full of bullets, and they keep coming at you."

Invents Underwater Gun

"My partner and I have invented a power-head underwater gun that fires a chisel with the force of a .38 caliber pistol. It can pierce two feet of solid fish and bone. It's made for exactly that purpose."

Hall explained that sharks rarely attack human beings beneath the surface of the ocean. He has encountered literally hundreds of the sea monsters while diving in the waters of California, in Tahiti, Samoa, Fiji and Hawaii.

"Sharks like warm, tropical waters," he said. "A diver is pretty safe underwater, because most sharks will avoid anything as big as a human being."

Don't Splash Around

"But a swimmer splashing on the surface is something else. They mistake a floundering human for an injured fish and rush to the attack. They do not hit and run. They grab and hang on, tearing the flesh away."

Vows Solemnized For Bell, Donald Burkhalter

SHAMROCK (Sp) — Miss Barbara Sue Bell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Bell, and SP4 Donald Burkhalter, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Burkhalter, both pioneer families of Shamrock, were united in marriage on Monday evening at 8 p.m. in the First Methodist Church. The candlelight service was read by Rev. J. H. Sharp, pastor, before a background of tall baskets of white gladioli entwined with jade leaves, and an arch formed with wedding bells and white satin streamers linked to candleabra.

Wedding music for the double-ring service was presented by Mrs. Jack Young, organist, who accompanied Miss Lee Henderson as she sang "I Love You There," (Greigg), "The Pledge" (Black) and Dunlap's "The Wedding Prayer."

As Easily As Her Mind, Milady Can Change Hair To Color She Prefers

By ALICIA HART
NEA BEAUTY EDITOR

These days, changing the color of your hair is regarded in much whispers that "She dyes her many women, their natural hair color (or gray hair) is a beauty problem not to be tolerated. Sensibly, they don't tolerate it. They put themselves into the hands of a good operator and come out with hair the color they've always wanted.

And a good thing, too. To the same manner as switching nail polish or lipstick shades. Everybody's doing it and the hair!" have died away.

But a word of caution here: the mature woman should choose a softer version of the hair color of her youth. If she had copper hair in her 20s, she should have a very soft auburn in her 50s.

The reason for this is that a softened color is kind to the face. It lends a misty look to a skin that's no longer the porcelain-clear skin of youth.

Your hair, as well as your skin, can become sunburned during the summer months. Women who will lug every known skin protection along to the beach are the very ones who will forget that hair needs protection, too.

One of the best ways of protecting it is to use daily a hair cream that contains lanolin. Pick one that will leave your hair glossy but not greasy. Use an oil shampoo weekly if you're out in the sun a great deal. Take a kerchief or straw hat to the beach or pool with you. And ply that hairbrush 100 strokes a day to keep your hair healthy.

arrangements were used in the entertaining rooms.

The tea table was laid with a Mexican drawwork cloth centered with an arrangement of Mock Orange blossoms and white roses, flanked with tall white, tapered decorated with angels, blue and white maline and orange blossoms tied in each bow. Individual cakes were decorated with blue and white roses.

Mrs. William Seago of Borger, honoree's sister, presided at the punch service. She was assisted by Mrs. Buckingham.

LITTLE LIZ

When success goes to a person's head, it isn't so hard to tolerate if that's where it originated.

Remember that both saltwater and chlorinated water are damaging to your hair and should be shampooed out as soon as possible.

A great shock of hair on a woman tends to make her look older and untidy. The best plan is to keep your head neat and the hair shining, no matter what your hair style.

Generally, brunettes look best with sleek hairdos while blondes can get away with the fluffy styles. But since there is no fixed rule about styling, experiment to find the hairdo most becoming to you.

And never be afraid to change your hairstyle. Wearing the same one for years will date you, no matter how becoming the style.

Mr. and Mrs. Wes Byers Observe Golden Anniversary With Reception

The Golden Wedding Anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Wes Byers of Miami was observed on June 14 with a reception held in their home. Their son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Byers of Amarillo were hosts for the occasion.

The gold color scheme was used throughout the house in the beautiful flower arrangements, all gifts from friends.

The serving table was covered with a cream hand-crocheted cloth over gold centered with a four-tiered white wedding cake, baked by Mrs. Ollie Duniven of Miami, decorated with yellow roses and topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom standing under an archway of golden numerals, "50."

The arrangement was flanked with blue and white tapers in candelabra. The tapers, the same used at their granddaughter's wedding, were decorated with yellow rosebuds. Silver and crystal completed the table appointments. A floral arrangement of yellow mums, a gift of Dr. and Mrs. M. C. Overton, were chosen as the background for the table setting.

Presiding houseparty members were Mrs. Floyd Byers, Mrs. Joe Hopkins of Amarillo, and Mrs.

Ollie Duniven of Miami. Mrs. Byers chose for the occasion a blue lace dress, the same shade of blue worn at her wedding, complemented with a white gardenia corsage arranged with gold lace, a gift of her son and his wife.

Floyd Byers greeted guests, who were registered in a gold book at a table decorated with an arrangement of yellow roses, a gift from Mrs. Ellen Lane.

Elizabeth Quillen and Wesley Byers of Gage, Okla. were married on June 12, 1909 in Woodward, Okla. in the office of Judge O. Bryant. They were attended by his sisters, Mrs. Grace Greene and Mrs. Maude Ferguson of Gage.

Mr. and Mrs. John Byers, his brother and wife of Woodward, following a brief wedding trip, they made their home in Gage, Okla., until July, 1914, when they moved to Miami.

Mr. Byers was in the feed and altar of Lela Baptist Church was decorated with tall white baskets of white gladioli and pompons flanking an arch entwined with floor candelabra tied with lemon leaves and white satin bows which provided illumination for the double-ring ceremony. Rev. J. D. Leavelle, pastor, read the service at 7:30 on Friday evening of June 5, for Miss Sharon DeBlanc, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. O. LeBlanc of Lela and Daylon Perkins, son of Mrs. Hazel Perkins also of Lela. Miss Carol Ann Harvey, pianist, played the wedding music and accompanied Mrs. Dennis LeBlanc, sister-in-law of the bride, as she sang, "Always" and "Because."

BRIDE

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Dennis LeBlanc of Pampa, was attired in a wedding dress of white Chantilly lace over white tulle, designed with a scalloped neckline, three-quarter length sleeves and fitted bodice which came to a point at the waistline. The ballerina-length skirt was designed with a panel of ruffles which cascaded down the back. She wore short lace mitts. The Veil of Illusion was attached to a tiara of iridescent beads. She wore a pearl necklace and earrings, a gift of the groom. Her white Bible was topped with white carnations and showered with white satin ribbon and maline puffs.

ATTENDANTS

Candles were lighted by Miss Francis O'Gorman and Mrs. Jesse King. Miss Verlene Tankler of Kellerville was maid of honor, Mrs. King and Miss O'Gorman bridesmaids and Delynn LeBlanc, niece of the bride, flower girl.

All attendants were gowned in identical dresses of ripple organza in soft blue and fashioned with sleeveless bodices, round necklines and street-length skirts. They wore white lace gloves and white accessories. The maid of honor's colonial bouquet was of white carnations and blue satin leaves. The bridesmaids carried candles decorated with blue satin leaves and tied with white streamers. The flower girl carried a lace basket filled with rose petals.

Jimmy Colvin, cousin of the bride, was ring bearer.

Ed. Francis of Amarillo served as best man, Jesse King of Borger and Wendell LeBlanc, brother of the bride, were ushers.

The mother of the bride chose a blue linen dress with white hat and white accessories. Mrs. Perkins, mother of the groom, chose a blue mesh dress with white lace hat and white accessories. Both mothers wore white carnation corsages.

RECEPTION

A reception immediately followed in the basement of the church. The bride's table was laid with a cloth of White Linen embroidered in blue and white. Blue and white painted daisies formed the centerpiece. The three-tiered wedding cake was topped with a miniature bridal pair. Mrs. James Colvin and Mrs. J. B. Henderson, aunts of the bride, alternated at the punch bowl, Mrs. Gene Tipton, sister of the bride, served the cake. Mrs. Joe Henderson, aunt of the bride and Mrs. Joel Dean Henderson, cousin of the bride, assisted with the serving.

The bride is a graduate of the Shamrock High School with the class of 1959. The groom is also a graduate of the Shamrock High School and is employed by the Bond Trucking Co.

For travel, the bride chose a blue lace dress with white accessories and lifted the white carnation corsage from her bridal bouquet. Following a wedding trip to Colorado Springs they will be at home at 205 W. Fourth in Shamrock.

Disaster Topic For Merten Club

"When a signal sounds in a disaster, each member of a family should have a job to do that is carried out," stated Mrs. Bob Brandon in a program presented to the Merten Home Demonstration Club at a meeting held on June 16 in the home of Mrs. Jack Prather.

Mrs. Brandon said, "One person should give orders. Have a battery radio and turn it to 640 or 1240, the comrad stations. Turn off electrical appliances. See that small children and handicapped are taken to shelter first."

"When choosing your shelter have one that will suit your family," she advised.

Mrs. Brandon went on to say that the shelter should be equipped with battery radio, battery flashlight, food and water that is well sealed; also, a first aid kit and tools such as picks, shovels, crowbars, or an ax.

Following the meeting, a picnic lunch was enjoyed by Mrs. Brandon, Sanford McQuigg, Jack Howard, Alvena Brandon, T. G. Grooves, Vard Smith, Jack Prather and 10 children.

HINTS FOR THE HOST

In addition to carving know-how, sharp knives are essential to successful carving. They should always be kept with a sharp edge and stored in a special place where their edges will be protected.

RUTH MILLETT

Making vacation plans? Here are a few hints to make that "two weeks off with pay" rewarding for the family.

Don't plan a more expensive trip than you can afford. If a trip just increases your money worries, it isn't going to be very relaxing.

If your vacation plan is to visit either the husband's or wife's family, remember that only one of you is "going home," so try to see the one who isn't doesn't spend all of his time "visiting."

If you are taking small children along, shorten your driving days so that the whole family isn't tired and irritable by nightfall.

See that every member of the family gets to do something he especially wants to do. That can usually be managed with a little planning.

If you are visiting a part of the country that is new to you read up on it before your trip so that you'll have a better idea of what there is to do and see.

While you're on vacation, you can't do anything about your problems back home so don't talk about them or worry about them. "I'll worry about that when I get home" is the best kind of vacation attitude.
