Chamber Officers For Year Installed

"Don't let anything shake your faith in Pampa!" That was the advice given new officers and directors of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce as they were installed last night by Don Hileman, executive vice president and general manager of the Amarillo chamber. Hileman told the incoming officers and directors for fiscal 1973-74 they should be "missionaries for their city and their chamber."

The key word is "dedication," Hileman said. Rex McAnelly was installed as president, Gene Steel as vice president, and Melvin Kunkel as finance director. Ten new directors also were installed. They are Arthur Aftergut, Al Bassett, E.L. Green Jr., Benny Kirksey, David McDaniel, Aubrey Steele and Gary Stevens, recently elected to three-year terms, and F.E. Imel, Henry Newman and J.C. Roberts, appointed by President McAnelly to serve one-year terms.

Holdover directors for the 1973-74 fiscal year are Gene Barrett, Dr. Royce Laycock, Rex McAnelly, Gene Steel, Foster Whaley, R.D. Wilkerson, C.D. Zlomke, W.C. Bass, Jr., Milo Carlson, Henry Gruben, Homer D. Johnson, Melvin Kunkel, James McCoy and Richard Stowers.

Passenger Trains To Have Priority

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House and Senate conferees, seeking to increase the quality of Amtrak passenger train service, ordered railroads to give passenger trains priority over freights.

In addition, consumers will get more representation on the board of directors of Amtrak passenger train service, and the service will get greater independence from the administration under an agreement reached by House and Senate negotiators.

They have agreed on a $154.3 million funding bill that would give Amtrak greater independence from the administration and increase consumer representation on its board of directors.

After only two days of formal negotiations, the House-Senate conference committee agreed on a $154.3 million funding bill and ordered that any increase in payments to the railroads be tied to an increase in quality of service.

Although Amtrak owns its own locomotives and passenger cars, it must contract with individual railroads to actually run its trains, and there have been increasing complaints of poor railroad performance, especially about late trains.

The committee, angered by the Transportation Department's delay and sometimes blocking of Amtrak spending plans, took action to reduce the department's power over the Amtrak budget.

The committee, despite threats of a possible veto, voted to do away with the "grant agreement" plan under which the Transportation Department must specifically approve Amtrak capital spending projects such as new locomotives and cars.

Under the committee bill, Congress and the Transportation Department each would issue guidelines on Amtrak spending, but once Amtrak received the money it could spend it as it wished within the guidelines.

The committee took two steps to revise membership in the governing board of directors, ordering that three consumer members be appointed and that any conflict of interest would prevent membership on the board.

If the bill becomes law, one present board member, John J. Gilhooley, apparently will have to resign because he is president of Transport of New Jersey, a bus company.

Four Dead

By United Press International
At least four persons were known to be dead in Enid, Okla., today, and authorities said they expected some of the 65 missing persons to be found dead after floods caused by 15 inches of rain hit the north Oklahoma city.

In Texas, a vigorous cold front caused by heavy rain and flooding over most of the state, and more than a half dozen tornadoes Thursday caused at least one death.

Oklahoma Gov. David Hall, who made an aerial survey of the Enid area, called the city of 43,000 a disaster area. He immediately asked President Nixon for federal disaster funds to help rebuild the city.

The Red Cross and police said a survey showed at least 28 homes destroyed, 270 others with major damage and another 258 with minor damage. Police Capt. Dennis McFadden said 75 per cent of the homes in the city received water damage.

Tornadoes destroyed a trailer home and a turkey house at Waelder, Tex., about 16 miles north of Gonzales. Up to six inches of rain fell in the Gonzales area.

The National Weather Service said widespread flooding would continue today and for several days in the Texas area.

West of the spreading rain, heavy snow hit parts of Nebraska, Colorado, Wyoming, and South Dakota. The snowfall ranged up to 9 inches at Sidney, in the Nebraska Panhandle.

Israeli Spearhead Moves Steadily Toward Capital

By United Press International
An Israeli armored spearhead drove steadily forward on the road to Damascus today in bitter fighting through a battlefield bathed in smoke from artillery, tankfire and aerial bombardments. Israeli pilots reported shooting down 26 Arab MIGs in the biggest one-day kill of the war.

An official Israeli spokesman said the Syrian army was in "real trouble" and that the Arab command appeared confused and unsure of itself.

The Israeli tanks, some splashed with "Damascus Express" slogans, had advanced 10 miles into Syria after the drive resumed at dawn with massive aerial and artillery strikes. They were about 28 miles or less from the Syrian capital. The Syrian air defenses were reported in "parlous condition."

Despite this claim, fierce dogfights were reported over the Syrian front and over the semistabilized Suez Canal front where heavy artillery duels continued. Israel said it shot down 13 Syrian MIGs and 13 Egyptian planes today while both Syria and Egypt reported similar heavy Israeli air losses. Iraq said it lost 12 planes and six pilots Thursday.

Despite the "Damascus Express" slogans, it appeared the Israelis would make no attempt to capture Damascus because of the international repercussions of such a move but would concentrate on Kantara, described as a strong Syrian military center 12 miles from Damascus.

Both sides reported a series of naval actions. Israel said its warships sank two Syrian missile boats off the port of Tartous and the Syrians said they sank three Israeli vessels and that the Israelis damaged a Soviet freighter. Egypt's first communique of the day said Egyptian navy vessels destroyed three Israeli missile launches and a number of gunboats in the Gulf of Suez, 25 miles south of Suez City.

Egyptian war communiques appeared to be taking a more cautious tone and the Egyptians reported today only that their air force knocked out two Israeli radar stations in the Sinai.

While the 1973 Middle East War blazed ahead in its seventh day international diplomatic efforts to stop the fighting were at a standstill. The United Nations Security Council was bogged down but was trying again this afternoon. In the meantime both the United States and Soviet Union were reported supplying Maj. Gen. Chaim Herzog, the official Israeli military spokesman, told of Syria's troubles on a series of nationwide broadcasts. He said "the type of fighting that the Syrians are engaged in now indicates that they are in real trouble."

Nixon returned at 8:30 a.m. EDT from an overnight visit to his Camp David retreat—where he has made some of his most crucial decisions in the past. On his return to the White House, he was carrying a briefcase full of recommendations on a successor to Agnew, who resigned Wednesday.

The early return, the night of seclusion, and his meeting on congressional confirmation procedures fueled speculation that the President had made his choice and would announce it shortly.

White House sources indicated Nixon continued to be high on John B. Connally, his former Treasury secretary and former Democratic governor of Texas. But there was growing bad feelings toward Connally on Capitol Hill.

Many congressional Democrats dislike Connally for his support of Nixon in the 1972 campaign and his subsequent switch to the Republican party, and also see him as a potential candidate for the 1976 presidential race.

Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., said today there also was some strong anti-Connally feeling among Republicans and nomination of the former Democrat would make past Senate battles over Nixon appointees "seem like a picnic" in comparison.

New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, twice beaten by Nixon in Republican presidential races, was also described as anxious for the job, and his name evoked little opposition from either Republicans or Democrats in Congress in spite of his possible 1976 aspirations.

Republican Gov. Daniel Evans of Washington, chairman of the National Governors Conference, said he had indications that Rockefeller was favored by as many as 16 of the 19 GOP state governors.

White House sources, asked about support for Connally and Rockefeller, said mail to the President on the subject of a successor since Agnew resigned under fire Wednesday also showed "a lot of support" for Sen. Barry M. Goldwater.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon made his choice today for a new vice president and he will reveal the highly guarded secret on national television tonight.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, his voice showing the excitement, told reporters shortly before noon in the White House press room that the announcement would be made at 8 p.m. CDT in the East Room of the White House.

Members of Congress, the Cabinet and the diplomatic corps—and possibly the nominee himself—will be on hand, Ziegler said.

Nixon spent the night at his Camp David retreat—where he has made some of his most important decisions. While there, he narrowed a long list of recommendations to succeed Spiro T. Agnew to five names, Ziegler said.

After seven hours' sleep, he made his choice this morning before returning to Washington, Ziegler said.

Informed sources said that among the final five names considered up to the last minute were John B. Connally, Nixon's former treasury secretary and former Democratic governor of Texas; New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and former Secretary of State William P. Rogers.

While identity of Nixon's choice was kept secret, it was learned that it definitely would not be House Republican leader Gerald Ford of Michigan, a favorite of many GOP congressmen.

Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott told reporters that Nixon advised him that his choice was a person who "may not jump to mind at first thought."

Admitting there was a "concerted effort" to keep the nominee's name a secret, Ziegler said, "You can assume all the potential nominees have had appropriate security clearances."

Ziegler grinned broadly while parrying reporters' questions about the big secret. When a reporter told Ziegler that Connally was out of touch, the press secretary promptly smiled.

Was there any doubt that Nixon's selection would accept? Ziegler smiled again. There was no doubt, he said, about that.

Nixon met with Ford and Scott during the morning to discuss the legislative procedure for approving the President's nomination—something that has never been done before.

Gonzales Sees Irony
SAN ANTONIO (UPI) — Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez, D-Tex., said Thursday it is ironic Vice President Agnew did not contest income tax evasion charges.

"The ironic part of this is that here is the man, Mr. Law and Order himself, who had the effrontery to come to the House of Representatives a scant two weeks ago pleading his innocence and saying he was guilty of no wrong doing," he said.

"He is the man who went on national television, not once but several times, snarling defiance and claiming to be blameless and compounding that declaring he would not resign even if he were indicted," Gonzalez told the San Antonio Light by telephone from Washington.

"He said all this, defiantly and arrogantly, only to come surreptitiously to plead no contest to criminal charges."

Tower said he expected a nominee from Nixon very soon.

Resignation Reaction

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL
Newspaper editors expressed bitterness, sorrow, sympathy, and hope Thursday in reaction to the conviction and resignation of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

The Miami Herald said, "His gutsy come-out-fighting stance stands as shameful reminder of shallow, and perhaps senseless, braggadocio," was representative of the more critical editorials, while some editors commended Agnew for stepping down.

"No one, surely not even the bitterest political critic of the vice president, could feel other than compassion for Spiro T. Agnew," said The Philadelphia Bulletin.

Other editorial reaction: The Washington Post—"It seems to us that Mr. Agnew has taken the wisest and best course available to him in pleading no contest to a single tax evasion count and stepping out of office in exchange for a dropping of other counts against him."

The Philadelphia Daily News—"Yesterday, he was the second most important politician in the world's mightiest nation. Today he is but a convicted tax thief, a scoundrel who lied to his government."

The Salinas (Kan.) Journal—"His great friends in Washington and California hail him as a patriot. Perhaps the little guy in the puke for a no-fund check should be hailed as the man of the year."

The Raleigh, N.C., News Observer—"Whatever else history says of Spiro T. Agnew, it must credit him with putting country before self in the end."

The New York Times—"For the public, his personal tragedy is part of the larger tragedy of the Nixon administration. Overwhelmingly re-elected less than a year ago, the administration is almost daily beset by fresh scandal. And the public can only look on in mingled shame and dismay."

Tower told about 500 women from Republican groups all over Texas that the events of the last two days had caused a constitutional crisis in the country.

"It's very easy to wallow in depression and frustration—but we shall not," Tower said. "The fact that we have the capacity to admit guilt, to punish the guilty; the fact we do these things underscores that we are a strong, viable democracy and can absorb this thing. Our institutions can endure."

In his only mention of Spiro T. Agnew's resignation from the vice presidency, Tower said Americans everywhere had developed a high regard for the ousted Agnew.

"He is a dedicated American and a great leader," Tower said, as the audience applauded.

Tower said he expected a nominee from Nixon very soon.

"I expect the President to act expeditiously and send down a name to us soon," Tower said. "Ultimately the congress will move—in what way we have not decided."

Tower said he sent the President a letter Thursday in which he also gave House Minority Leader Gerald Ford, R-Mich., and Hugh Scott, Senate minority leader, as his second and third choices.

"I feel the transition must be as smooth as possible," Tower said. "I don't think the President wanted to choose a nominee that would be a presidential contender at this time."

Stewart Udall Sees President Resignation
ARLINGTON, Tex. (UPI) — Former Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall said Thursday President Nixon might resign in the next few months.

Tower Plugs Goldwater

HOUSTON (UPI) — Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., said Thursday night his choice for vice president was Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., but would support the President, if he chose Texan John Connally.

"He (Nixon) would have my ardent and enthusiastic backing," if he picked Connally, Tower said.

The Texas Republican made the remarks before a dinner meeting at the Texas Federation of Republican women.

Tower said the nominee should be capable of being president, he should have an awareness of foreign policy and preferably a conservative domestically and a person who would have minimal difficulty in being confirmed.

Tower said he sent the President a letter Thursday in which he also gave House Minority Leader Gerald Ford, R-Mich., and Hugh Scott, Senate minority leader, as his second and third choices.

"I feel the transition must be as smooth as possible," Tower said. "I don't think the President wanted to choose a nominee that would be a presidential contender at this time."

"I don't think he's at that point yet, but he may be when the full brunt of events hits in the next few months."

Udall, speaking at the University of Texas at Arlington, said factors that could lead to that resignation include the upcoming indictments of Watergate conspirators, the trials of former cabinet members John Mitchell and Maurice Stans and the Watergate tapes issue.

"The ultimate question the President has to ask himself is not a political question but the question of what is in the best interest of the country," Udall said. "Can he provide the kind of leadership we need in these troubled times?"

"I feel sure this is what President Johnson asked himself in March, 1968, when he decided not to run for re-election," the former Johnson and Kennedy cabinet member said. "It's the act of putting the nation first."

Under the committee bill, Congress and the Transportation Department each would

House leaders decided to have hearings by the Judiciary Committee headed by Rep. Peter Rodino, D-N.Y.

Senate leaders met to decide whether its hearings should be held by the Judiciary or the Rules Committee.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and several other key senators had suggested joint hearings to expedite the process of filling the vacancy, with Congress for the first time acting under provisions of the six-year-old 25th amendment.

Speaker Carl Albert met with others in the House Democratic hierarchy, then called in Ford and his assistants, where agreement was reached on separate hearings. Word was then passed to Senate leaders of the decision.

At a caucus of Democratic senators, Mansfield reminded his colleagues that in the succession process they might be acting on the person who will be the Republican presidential nominee against Democrats in 1976.

Congress Lays Plans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress laid down the mechanics today for acting on President Nixon's vice presidential nominee, deciding to hold separate House and Senate hearings rather than joint confirmation sessions.

The White House announced shortly before noon that Nixon had made his choice and would announce it in a national radio-televisual address at 9 p.m. EDT.

The nominee must be approved by Congress and the House leaders today rejected Senate recommendations for joint hearings.

Nixon met at the White House at midmorning with Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott and House GOP Leader Gerald R. Ford to discuss procedures for submitting the nomination.

House leaders decided to have hearings by the Judiciary Committee headed by Rep. Peter Rodino, D-N.Y.

Ramsey Clark Suggests Trade

DALLAS (UPI) — Former U.S. Attorney General Ramsey Clark suggested Thursday that Vice President Spiro T. Agnew traded the second highest political office in the country to stay out of jail.

In a talk to about 300 students at El Centro College, Clark said Elliot Richardson, the present attorney general, took an unprecedented action in recommending leniency for Agnew.

Clark said poor people do not get leniency for federal crimes. He also noted that U.S. District Judge Walter Hoffman said he would have given Agnew a prison term if Richardson had not asked for leniency.

"Do you believe in equal justice?" Clark asked.

Clark said greed is "probably the greatest affliction of this country."

"What does it mean when the President of the United States makes $200,000 a year from the taxpayers and arranges his tax return so that he pays $800 in taxes one year and $700 in another?" Clark asked.

The late President Lyndon B. Johnson appointed Clark attorney general in 1967.

Diplomats Searching For Exit

CAIRO (UPI) — Western diplomats searched today for a way to get 3,000 stranded foreign tourists, including 400 Americans, out of Egypt after British officials vetoed one proposal.

The British diplomats turned down plans to take the tourists on a 36-hour road journey to Benghazi in Libya to await planes for home.

British Embassy officials reported about 100 Britons among the tourists and said "some of them are elderly and we cannot take the risk of having them held up at the Libyan border."

Diplomats said a possible alternate plan was to take some tourists to Alexandria — 140 miles north of Cairo — where a Greek ship and an Italian ship are in port.

So far, however, the Egyptian government has failed to grant permission for either ship to sail. The waters around Alexandria are in the war zone declared by Egypt when the fighting broke out Saturday.

The tourists have been stranded in Egypt since the Middle East war broke out last Saturday and Cairo officials closed the nation's airports.

The 400 American tourists in Egypt included a group of 34 members of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations. They came to the Middle East a month ago and were due to leave Sunday for Istanbul and Athens.

"There is very little we can do," A. W. Rutherford, a council member, said. We have all checked our cameras in the baggage room because we do not want to be seen with cameras on the streets. But apart from that we are not having too much trouble."

Men Are Alive

SANGATTE, France (UPI) — Rescuers today cut an air hole into the hull of a dredge that capsized in the English Channel, and a ship standing by said the six men trapped inside for 24 hours were alive.

"Men alive and well," the Townsend Thoresen Ferry Enterprise VII, helping with the rescue, radioed ashore.

Helicopters arrived on the scene early today, ready to transport the men ashore. Authorities had feared the men would run out of air before the drilling operation on the dredge, the Cap de la Hague, was completed.

Frogmen and rescue teams fought high waves and darkness in the channel throughout the night trying to cut through the metal hull of the dredge, which capsized Thursday morning off the French coast near Calais with 15 crewmen aboard.

The British coast guard said two bodies and two survivors were picked up Thursday. Maritime authorities said five other crewmen were unaccounted for and were feared drowned.

Wage Price Controls Produce Serious Rifts

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (UPI) — A high level panel of business economists said today that wage-price controls "are producing many serious economic disruptions."

The economists, who act as consultants to the prestigious Business Council, also forecast a major slowdown in the economy next year but one that would fall short of an outright recession.

The Business Council consists of chief executives of about 150 of the nation's biggest corporations. In its semiannual economic outlook, the council said it expected the economy to expand by only 2.5 per cent in 1974 compared to an estimated 6.1 per cent in 1973.

"An actual recession is not anticipated," the council said. The estimated growth rate next year, however, would be less than the 3.5 per cent average annual real output since the mid-1950s, it said. The chairman of one major corporation said action the Federal Reserve Board takes to regulate the money supply "in the next 90 days will determine whether we have a recession."

The businessman, who asked not to be identified, said the central bank's policy of keeping money plentiful while allowing interest rates to soar has been a key source of inflation.

In their report, the economists expressed "a strong conviction that government price controls are becoming increasingly counter-productive and are producing many serious economic disruptions."

They did not cite examples, but complaints that the government stabilization program has aggravated supply shortages and discouraged expansion in industries operating at capacity have been common in the business community.

On the price side, the economists predicted only a modest slowdown in the inflation rate—5 per cent for all of 1974 compared to 5.7 per cent this year, as measured by the Consumer Price Index.

A decline in consumer spending for durable goods and automobiles and a reduction in the volume of homebuilding are the major factors behind the anticipated slowdown next year.

But the economists predicted that business spending for plants and equipment would rise 10 per cent above the 1973 record high. An increasingly favorable trade balance will also help keep the growth rate from slumping too far, the economists said.

United States Is Not Completely Involved

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States so far is supplying only relatively small amounts of arms to Israel and will not step up the flow unless it appears the Soviet Union is sending major arms supplies to Arab states, U.S. officials say.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger was expected to discuss the Middle East war at a news conference today. The State Department said Kissinger probably would postpone a planned trip to Europe this weekend because of the Middle East situation.

He had planned to go to London and possibly Bonn to discuss President Nixon's trip to Europe later this year.

The U.S. aircraft carrier two Jima, with about 1,800 Marines on board, will head for the Mediterranean within the next "few days," Navy and Marine officials at Norfolk, Va., said Thursday. The ship had been scheduled to sail to the Mediterranean next month to rotate with the helicopter carrier Guadalcanal.

An amphibious landing exercise involving the two Jima was canceled so the vessel could depart early.

Pentagon officials said weapons losses in the Middle East war have been heavy for all countries involved. They said that, give or take a hundred, the Egyptians and Israelis have each lost about 400 tanks and the Syrians perhaps 600. That would amount to a fifth of Egypt's armor, a quarter of Israel's and half of Syria's.

Sources said all three countries had lost about 80 to 100 planes each. That would come to about a sixth of Egypt's air fleet, a fifth of Israel's and a quarter of Syria's.

U.S. officials said the Soviet Union has been airlifting arms to Egypt and Syria and that the United States was sending some arms to Israel. They indicated that the magnitude of its arms supply on that of the Soviets.

Kidnapers Demand Prisoner Release

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Kidnapers demanded that the Mexican government release 51 prisoners today and fly them to North Korea in exchange for two prominent captives held since Monday.

The kidnapers are holding the honorary British consul in Guadalajara, Dr. Anthony William Duncan, and wealthy industrialist Fernando Agurens. They also demanded a $200,000 ransom.

Duncan, 47, father of seven children, is a Mexican citizen born of British parents. Agurens, 32, owns two Guadalajara factories.

The two men were abducted Monday in Guadalajara. The kidnapers demanded the Mexican government answer their demands by 11 p.m. Thursday, but their list was not received until 30 minutes after their deadline passed.

Request Called Political Trick

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — President Nixon's request for suggestions to replace Spiro T. Agnew as vice president is a "phony and crass political trick," Sen. Henry Bellmon, R-Okla., said Thursday.

Bellmon said he believes Nixon already has decided who he wants. Bellmon said Agnew's resignation was not a surprise to Nixon and the President has had days to consider successors.

"I look on it (the request for suggestions) as a phony and crass political trick. You know and I know the President has gone over all the possible names," Bellmon said. "I wouldn't be surprised if he hasn't made up his mind already."

Middle East Strategies Beginning To Emerge

BEIRUT (UPI) — The Arab and Israeli strategies in the 1973 Middle East war are beginning to emerge clearly.

The original Arab plan appears to have been to crush Israel swiftly in a two-front attack on its southern and northern flanks.

Israel staved off that threat by fighting holding actions for the first three days until it could mobilize. Now, it is trying to pick off its enemies one by one to destroy them separately, much as it did in the 1967 war.

The big difference is that in 1967, Israel first crushed Egypt, then Jordan and took on Syria last. This time, the strategy appears to be to crush Syria first before dealing with Egypt.

Although Israel was not taken completely by surprise in the latest war, the twin Syrian and Egyptian attacks did catch it off balance.

Reports by Western correspondents accompanying the Egyptians to the Suez Canal front spoke of Israeli troops caught in their concrete bunkers without time to put on their clothes or boots.

Israel appears to have been successful in its first task—mobilizing its citizens' army of 300,000 to full strength while holding the Egyptians and Syrians.

The next problem facing Israel's military leaders was whether to fight a two-front war—something it has avoided since the first Middle East war in 1948—or take on its adversaries one at a time as it did in 1967.

They chose to go after Syria first while trying to contain Egypt. Western military experts see two main reasons for the decision.

—Syria is the weaker of Israel's two principal Arab foes. It is considered a sound military strategy to destroy your weaker adversary first, just as the allies knocked Italy out of World War II before taking on Nazi Germany in Normandy.

—In the Sinai desert Israel had the advantage of space and depth in which to maneuver during holding actions. It did not have that space to maneuver on the narrow Golan Heights.

The Arabs' main problem now appears to be how to save Syria from a swift knockout. Iraq already is reported to have sent 16,000 troops and 100 heavy tanks to the Syrian front. Moroccan troops were reported fighting there too.

Government Decries Mitchell's Request

NEW YORK (UPI) — Former Attorney General John Mitchell's request that the White House produce any tape recordings that might help him is a ploy to get the charges against Mitchell dismissed, the government said Thursday.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Thomas Edwards argued in federal court that the request for the tapes was made in the expectation President Nixon would refuse to turn them over on the grounds of executive privilege. Then, Edwards said, the charges would have to be dismissed because the government would have failed to provide material that could help a defendant.

It is expected that many of the figures charged in the Watergate case will make the same argument about White House tapes. Furthermore, some lawyers believe that cases against Watergate figures would be severely weakened, and may even have to be dismissed, if the Supreme Court rules that Nixon does not have to turn over his tape recordings to special Watergate Prosecutor Archibald Cox. Failure to turn over the tape recordings then would violate the legal requirement that the government make available to a defendant any material that may help his case.

Mitchell and former Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans were indicted last May on charges of trying to halt a Securities and Exchange Commission investigation into the affairs of New Jersey financier Robert Vesco in exchange for a $200,000 contribution from Vesco to the Nixon re-election campaign.

Specifically, they are charged with conspiracy and obstruction of justice.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

Sally is quite right in saying her shop is a modern psychiatric laboratory. Many beauticians use the various Rating Scales and Sex Booklets offered via this newspaper to help stabilize maladjusted couples. Place them on your magazine table for patrons' use.

CASE Y-541: Sally B., aged 34, runs a beauty shop. "Dr. Crane," she began, "I think beauty shops must be the best laboratory for psychiatrists nowadays."

"For we get all the gossip of the community and learn of the secret sexual problems that even the clergymen aren't told. As an example, one of my clients is an attractive wife of a leading business executive in our town."

"But she ran off to a southern state, accompanied by her husband's two cousins."

"The boys were only 13 and 15. She had previously told me she was in love with them and they were being intimate with her."

"After a week, the 15-year-old returned home, but she and the 13-year-old are still down South somewhere."

"She claims this younger boy is really her lover and she never will leave him."

"Dr. Crane, I suppose sex problems have been with mankind ever since Adam and Eve, but aren't they becoming more common today?"

SEXCAPADES

Yes, in the last decade there has been a very marked increase in such sexcapades as Sally describes, plus "wife swapping," promiscuity, abortion and teen-age venereal disease.

Although sexual misconduct has always been present in human society, it was at least officially disapproved by law, by the churches and even by the communication media until recently.

Many factors explain this rapid moral swing of the pendulum in the direction of Sodam and Gomorrah, such as:

(1) The advent of TV, which has been a "two-edged sword." Although TV now keeps more families at home, the moving picture theaters were so hard hit that thousands of them closed their doors.

To try to pull patrons away from their comfortable home TV room, the remaining movie theaters then began to grow more and more pornographic, lewd and vulgar.

Since the more conservative TV censorship kept home television more in tune with our former social codes of morality, the uncensored commercial movie theaters went hog wild in trying to outbid TV with salacious movies and vulgar language.

(2) Dr. Spool's permissive ideas! They caused society in general to remain tongue-tied when sexuality became commonplace in the theaters, magazines, and even the school classrooms.

In past generations, society sternly rebuked such violations of age-old moral codes. But due to this modern permissive attitude, society kept quiet.

Jesus once stated that "He that is not against us is on our side."

So the smut purveyors used that yardstick in reverse, by intimating:

"If society doesn't speak out against us, then it is for us!" That gave free rein to those who strip idealism from love and make it merely a licentious erotic orgy.

(3) The medical advent of the "Pill" and now "legalized abortion."

(4) The failure to stress the venereal hazards — of promiscuity.

(5) Women's Lib, which was primarily only a symptom of the eroding moral codes, but now has become an actual cause of future sexual promiscuity!

Incidentally, Women's Lib is filling our psychiatric offices with both unmarried and married females who suffer from guilt reactions due to abortions and the "Pill," plus sterility resulting from infection by venereal disease.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Thank God, sir, for the peanut.

From the wonderful legume that brings you smooth or crunchy spreads for crackers, oil for salads, nibbles for cocktail parties, mulch for gardens and munch for ball games now comes a badly needed psychological lift.

At a time when the nation is troubled by shortages, existent or impending, the peanut stands almost alone as a symbol of traditional American abundance.

Of peanuts, by jingo, we still have a surplus. And a growing surplus at that.

Just this week it was revealed that peanuts have proliferated to the point where the government is considering a cutback in federal subsidies, which are running as much as $70 million a year.

No Helpless Giant

Peanuts, bless 'em, are a nostalgic holdover from the good old days when all of our farm products were a glut on the market. Think of what this means in terms of national pride, prestige and morale.

For one thing, it means we are in no danger of having to import peanuts from Asia and Africa, the other two major producers.

You won't be seeing the United States as a pitiful, helpless giant, dependent on some foreign power for half the ingredients of a peanut butter and jelly sandwich.

The peanut surplus becomes particularly important when we consider the peanut's mysterious priming effect, which makes it impossible to eat just one.

Imagine what it would be like if large numbers of Americans ate one peanut and then discovered that a shortage had developed, making the mandatory follow-up input unavailable.

Asian and African producers would then have us at their mercy, with the weapon to bend us to their will.

Made America Great
For they could cut off peanut shipments to the United States unless we modified our foreign policy more to their liking.

With a large portion of our population going mad with desire for lack of a second peanut, we would be in a poor position to resist diplomatic blackmail.

The United States could not long remain a world leader with other nations dictating its foreign policy. The peanut, then, may be seen as a bulwark of our international integrity.

With the Arabs threatening to curtail our oil imports, and so other vital resources in jeopardy, it is reassuring to find peanut farmers still growing more than they can sell.

That is the sort of thing that made America great.

Business Today

By LEROY POPE
UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — The invasion of university campuses by business men as administrators or as professors in the business schools has helped a mounting attack on the cherished institution of tenure.

Used to the harsh competition for executive jobs in the business world, these new administrators and professors tend to see academic tenure as a refuge for lazy and incompetent professors and as a roadblock against innovation, progress and efficiency in the academic world.

Tenure is the system by which a professor who has served a certain number of years gets a lifetime employment contract which can't be broken even if everybody from the president of the university to the gymnasium janitor knows he's a doddering has-been. It's tough to get rid of him even if his personal life is not what it should be.

Of course, tenure wasn't developed to create sinecures. The system was designed to preserve academic freedom, to keep professors from being fired by or living in fear of tyrannical administrators and the interference of predatory politicians or powerful alumni and other pressure groups.

The coming of the business man to the campus is not the only reason tenure is under attack.

Some professors and many college presidents always have looked somewhat askance at tenure. President John R. Silver of Boston University calls it "a device of the devil to let sloth into the world." Chancellor Maurice Mitchell of the University of Denver says, "Tenure protects mediocrity, cripples many departments, stultifies students and fails to contribute to academic freedom."

But Prof. George Pake, the noted physicist who works for Xerox Corp., said tenure's revocation "would sound the death knell of free universities." and President Kingman Brewster Jr. of Yale said, "Boldness would suffer if the research and scholarship of a mature faculty were to be subject to periodic scorekeeping on pain of dismissal if they did not score well." Brewster insisted that very few professors attain full tenure unless they richly deserve it.

In the past many distinguished professors never sought tenure. They preferred to change universities every few years, moving around much of the world, seeking new contacts and fresh ideas.

Young Instructors Revolt

But in a booklet just out, entitled "Personnel Management in Higher Education," John D. Millett, former chancellor of Ohio's Board of Regents, explains that tight budgets and a tight job market for college teachers have forced a big change. Millett says college professors now tend to see their careers as necessarily tied to a single university rather than to their academic field as in the past.

Millett said this has forced universities and colleges to increase the proportion of their faculties who enjoy tenure to an undesirable degree and that, in turn, is causing younger faculty members to revolt against the whole idea of tenure. The younger instructors are turning to the idea of unionization which can force earlier retirement of tenured professors and increase advancement opportunities.

Most academic experts don't expect tenure to disappear but they do expect changes—that tenure will be made subject to review periodically or even limited to 10 or 15 years.

Pampa Girls Competing For West Texas Crown

CANYON — Two Pampa coeds are among 14 competing for Miss WTSU at West Texas State University Saturday night.

They are Thelma Moultrie, 19, daughter of Mrs. Artie M. Moultrie of 906 S. Wilcox, and Suzanne Walters, 19, daughter of Mrs. Inez Walters of 1520 Coffee.

The beauty and talent contest, affiliated with the Miss Texas Pageant, starts at 8 p.m. in the Canyon High School auditorium.

The two 5-foot-5 sophomores were graduated in 1972 by Pampa High School. Miss Moultrie is majoring in psychology and Miss Walters in nursing.

Miss Moultrie was a student council member, a cheerleader and a member of the National Honor Society in high school. She is secretary of Delta Sigma Theta social sorority at WTSU.

Earlier this year her family was named "Family of the Year" in Pampa.

Miss Walters was a member of the band and tennis team in high school and was a contestant in the Miss Top of Texas Pageant. She is a member of Alpha Delta Pi social sorority at WTSU.

The new Miss WTSU will be crowned by last year's winner, Deliah Roberts of Tulia, and will reign as Homecoming queen Oct. 20 and as the official hostess for the university during the school year.

The winner will receive a $1,000 wardrobe from the Hub Clothiers of Amarillo, a $250 scholarship from the West Texas Ex-Students, Inc., and a $100 grant from the University Book Store. The Hub will also sponsor and help train Miss WTSU 1973 for the Miss Texas Pageant in Fort Worth next summer.

The reigning Miss Texas, Judy Mallett of Haltom City, will be a featured performer at the Miss WTSU contest.

Texan Collector Of Army Patches

By MICHAEL O. WESTER
BROWNWOOD, Tex. (UPI) — Al Day is the most traveled soldier in the world if you can believe his wall.

That's the wall in his recruiting office with more than 250 Army patches from units all over the world. But Day admits he hasn't been in that many units.

He's a collector and he's been picking up the patches from other soldiers everywhere he has been.

"I got started at this thing by fellows at the camp giving me their old patches when they would buy new ones at the PX," he said. "Then I started going by the local cleaners and asking them to save old patches for me when they replaced them with new ones."

His collection, however, is far from complete.

"I've got over 250 of them, and I guess that sounds like a lot of different patches—but the U. S. Army archives records more than 4,000 different patches. So it's easy to see I've still got a long ways to go."

Day says his favorite patch is a China-Burma-India Theatre patch from World War II. It was given to him by Brownwood department store owner Al Wilk, who was a major in the outfit.

Day sometimes took advantage of his job to get new patches.

While he was group reenlistment non-commissioned officer for strategic communications command in Europe, Day interviewed all new personnel. When they processed through his of-

Two Big Advances

The "Green Revolution" has turned brown at the edges. Despite startling increased yields of new grain varieties, particularly rice, the world remains locked in a race between agricultural productivity and population growth.

World grain reserves are at their lowest point in 20 years, due to bad weather in 1972, diseases and other disasters, as well as greater consumption. At the same time, the more affluent nations are developing an appetite for red meat similar to that of Americans, even as more and more grain is going to be needed simply to meet the food needs of people.

Human technology has not yet given up the battle to human fecundity, however. At least two developments in recent weeks hold out significant promise.

In one of them, the Ceres Land Co. of Sterling, Colo., which feeds 60,000 head of cattle, became the first major cattle raiser to begin to include in the normal diet of its herd substantial amounts of feed derived from, of all things, cow manure.

Cows, it seems, do not digest 20 per cent of what they eat. The system Ceres is using reportedly converts their protein-rich wastes simply, cheaply and without pollution into a feed that neither looks nor smells like manure.

U.S. Department of Agriculture researchers estimate that the recycling of only one-third of the 1.7 billion tons of farm animal waste produced each year would yield as much protein as is contained in this country's total annual soybean crop.

In the second development, which sounds a little less like a perpetual motion machine, Agri-Stock, Inc., a recently formed company in Akron, Ohio, has announced that it is ready to market a new custom-blended forage balancer which, it claims, will enable beef and milk production to be tripled at low cost.

The meal supplement, which is 32 per cent protein, balances roughage such as silage, grass and hay into a complete diet for beef and dairy cattle.

These animals, whose natural food is roughage, are usually fed grain and a grain balancer so they can produce at their maximum capacity, explains ruminal nutritionist Dr. Joseph B. Davidson, the firm's executive vice-president. But it still takes eight to 10 pounds of grain to produce a pound of beef and three to four times as much land to give the same results as feeding entirely on a roughage program.

For example, land which will produce 600 to 700 pounds of beef or 5,000 pounds of milk. In contrast, Agri-Stock's new mix will produce about 2,000 pounds of beef or 16,000 pounds of milk.

Land that is not economically productive as far as grain is concerned will grow acceptable silage crops. The latter are also less affected by the weather. This could be a boon in subtropical climates that grow almost unlimited amounts of forage.

The better land could then be used to grow food grains, says Davidson, and thus be better utilized for human consumption.

Several years of extensive experimentation with the new feed supplement on farms in the United States and Canada have convinced him that it "could literally revolutionize farm output."

No Bailing Wire Profit

A reader who lives in Tulsa, Okla., J.L. Harris, has addressed a note of hope to our womenfolk daily battling high prices.

He says: "Take heart, housewives, the federal government has moved to protect you from inflation in the bailing wire industry."

"An Atoka, Okla., merchant tried to help his customers find a supply of scarce bailing wire. He located two truckloads in Washington state. He paid $13.25 a box plus $6.50 a box shipping charges. The man sold the wire at $1.25 profit per box, excluding phone calls and other expenses.

"Federal agents descended on the store owner and demanded that he return $7 per box to the customers. If he couldn't find the buyers, he must pay the $7 to IRS. Failure to comply will subject him to fines and penalties of $2 million.

"Beef may reach $5 a pound.

but IRS will see that we never have to pay one penny more than the base price for bailing wire."

The Old Homestead restaurant in New York City announced early Tuesday morning the celebration of its 105th birthday by offering dinner that day at prices approximating those in 1868. Lines formed in front of the establishment as early as nine o'clock to take advantage of roast beef at six cents; fried liver, four cents; and coffee for two cents.

DUNAGIN'S PEOPLE by Dunagin

"THE COLORS ARE CHANGING. THAT MEANS WE'LL SOON BE CHANGING FROM AN AIR-CONDITIONING SHORTAGE TO A HEATING FUEL SHORTAGE."

Is The VA Forgetting Viets Vets?

After all of America's wars — until the middle of this century, anyway — Johnny has come marching home with flags flying and crowds cheering. It was different after the Korean War, which was never officially a "war" but which at least had a definite beginning and a definite end — and far more different after the nation's most unpopular conflict of all.

Despite the ovation for some 600 Vietnam POWs, says the Carnegie Quarterly, a publication of the Carnegie Corporation of New York, "over the last decade the public has barely noticed 6 million ex-soldiers as they have returned from duty in a constant, though all but imperceptible trickle."

Often, they arrived home, invisible and anonymous, on a night flight from Vietnam. Always, they seemed to disappear before their existence could permeate the public consciousness.

Not only has the Vietnam veteran been ignored and forgotten, but according to some critics he has been shortchanged in the veterans benefits, compared to the veterans of World War II or Korea.

This is particularly unfortunate because so many of those who bore the brunt of the fighting in Vietnam came from lower social and economic groups and were not lucky enough to be able to go to college and get a draft deferment. Their lack of education, or even incentive for education, continues to dog them — compounded, claim the critics, by an Uncle Sam who is not only stingy but is not doing all he could to encourage them to take advantage of what benefits they may be entitled to.

As it is, says the Carnegie Corporation, today's G.I. benefits are not comparable to those after World War II. Then, the government paid a veteran's tuition and also gave him a living allowance of $75 a month.

The single veteran in 1966 received $140 a month (raised to $175 in 1970 and $220 in 1972), but this had to cover tuition and books as well as living expenses.

As recently as last year, although more veterans were using their benefits, their participation was still 20 per cent lower than after World War II. Of 2.3 million Viet vets a Senate subcommittee recognized as "disadvantaged," only one in 25 is using his educational assistance benefits.

The two periods cannot be strictly compared. The World War II G.I. Bill put a ceiling of $500 on tuition, books and supplies. The present single veteran allowance of $220 a month comes to $1,980 for a school year and is almost three times the World War II allowance.

While $1,980 is little enough in view of what inflation has done to college tuitions and living costs, there is no limit on what a Vietnam veteran can earn on his own as there was for his World War II counterpart.

We also have to ask ourselves what the situation of these millions of socially disadvantaged men would be today had they never entered the service. Obviously, there would be even less likelihood of their obtaining educations or job skills.

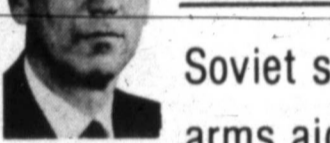

Certainly, everything should be done to encourage and assist Vietnam veterans in using their benefits. But the opportunities, even if limited, are there for the taking.

Soviet seeks arms aid here

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Current research by analysts of the Soviet Union explains why Leonid Brezhnev is seeking vast amounts of economic and technical aid in the U.S.

Simply, the U.S.S.R. needs that assistance to enable its strategic military forces to forge ahead of ours.

Mammoth Soviet military outlays in the past few years have so drained Russia's resources of technical talent, scarce resources and capital funds that the Russian rulers are unable to build the modern plants, set up the computer systems, increase their industrial efficiency and their output of industrial goods and consumer products sufficiently to meet their needs.

The growth of the civilian economy is slowing markedly. Soviet rulers are worried because their military strength, in the end, depends on a strong industrial base. And there is a limit beyond which consumer demands cannot be ignored.

Specialists here say the three new major missile programs recently reported by U.S. intelligence must have cost in the neighborhood of $5 billion each to date. Finishing the job and bringing them into production will cost billions more. The United States — and here civilians and military men agree — cannot afford such enormous military outlays as are necessitated by the development of three such major new missile programs simultaneously.

Soviet military spending per dollar of total gross national product is roughly twice that of the United States. And USSR military research and development spending seems to be growing.

For a good many years, the opinion here in some influential sectors was that the Russians could have their cake and eat it too. It was believed that in a controlled economy, where butter could be held back and civilians neglected, that industrial and military production could rise steadily, independently of each other — almost.

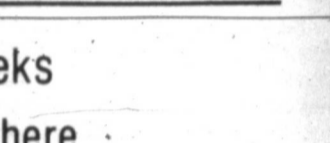

But new research here demonstrates clearly that periods of rapid increase in Soviet military spending coincide with decelerations in the growth rate of total national output in the civilian sector, which includes the industrial base.

The quantitative slowdown is not the most serious aspect of this lag. When first priority goes to the military amid scarcities of talent and of materials, then there is a serious lag in new technology and a lag in productivity in industry.

In other words, civilian technological research suffers, not only because the money for such research is tight, but because the best technical talent is drained off for military development.

This means that the Kremlin is now desperately searching to find in technology the solution to its lagging growth. (In the advanced technology areas that count, West Germany, Japan and the United States are leaving the Soviet Union in the

Will Flying Be Harmful?

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I just read of your association with aviation medicine and I would like to know if you think flying can be harmful for a person with a circulatory problem.

I was on Comadim from 1964 to 1968. In August of 1968 I had to have a mid-thigh amputation due to poor circulation. I was on Heparin about eight months, then started on Hedinin. I'm doing real well now. We would like to take our vacation by air, but I don't want to upset anything.

We had taken our vacation by air in 1968 when I was taken sick and had to have my leg amputated. Thanks so much for your opinion.

Dear Reader — Commercial air travel is no big deal. Most people are concerned about the "lack of oxygen" and it usually isn't a factor. Commercial transport planes all must maintain a cabin pressure below 7,000 feet. That means it is about equivalent to being in Mexico City or a little higher than Denver (about 5,000 feet). We usually don't think that altitudes below 5,000 feet have much of an effect on how the body functions. There are a few exceptions, specifically those individuals who already have lung disease. So, if you could tolerate many of the areas around Denver, you won't have any problem with the altitude.

Usually the cabin altitude in the plane will be well below 7,000 feet. If you wanted to cross the United States by auto or bus you would need to go over mountains higher than 10,000 feet. In these instances the altitude problem would be more significant than it is in air travel.

Some people have problems with having to remain inactive for a long time in air travel, but since trips are usually short in time this isn't a major problem any more.

One of the more significant stresses of air travel is really at the terminal. The tension associated with getting your flight and changes in schedule is very hard on some people. Then if you try to carry your own luggage, and it is heavy, that may be the biggest of all on your circulation. Men who rush down the terminal with heavy bags are really working their heart a good deal. This stress can be minimized by planning your trip with sufficient time for baggage handling and limited concern about meeting your time schedules.

A second hazard to flying is cigarette smoking. Some people have medical problems that are adversely affected by cigarette smoke. They may have almost an allergic reaction. Some severe asthmatic people and others with lung disease are good examples. Even the token gesture of separating the people in no smoking areas won't protect them from the "poison gas" of the smokers. Cigarette smoke (carbon monoxide), incidentally, binds with the hemoglobin in the blood and decreases a person's tolerance to altitude.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on losing weight, send 50 cents to the same address and ask for "Losing Weight" booklet.

"BLEEDING" U.S. THROUGH "PLANNING"

Federal "planning" and the "planned economy" were sold to the people of the U.S. during the Thirties, Forties, Fifties and Sixties, and we are reaping the rewards throughout society. The more federal "planners" have intervened in our political, social and economic lives the more problems we have and the worse they become.

George Washington was treated for a respiratory ailment by "bleeding" just prior to his death. Bleeding was a common panacea of his day in treating all manner of disease. We now know that the further weakening of an elderly person already suffering from a bad cold is a sure way to make the condition worse. It killed George Washington, but it took more than one "bleeding" to do it. He was tough.

Our Republic and our profit-motive system of individual freedom are tough, too. Now the federal planners, led by such as Hubert H. Humphrey and other left-liberal lawmakers, people — controllers and opinion-molders, are striving to "bleed" the United States just a bit more, just as George Washington was bled.

It was federal "planning" which got us into all these messes of shortages of wheat, feed grain, meat, petroleum, natural gas, etc. Humphrey and his cohorts are calling for more of the same "bleeding" which got us into this mess. These leftists never learn, but the people do. It remains to inform our lawmakers to stop "bleeding" the U.S. and we will survive as a civilization and a nation.

Ervin Committee To Lap Lenzer?
By Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON — If certain members of the Senate Watergate investigating committee have their way, there will be some much-needed head-opping of the overblown staff of high-salaried lawyers.

Top among those under fire is "assistant counsel" Terry Lenzer, a radical activist whom committee members have rebuked several times for boorish conduct.

How and why he got on the staff is unclear.

It's attributed to chief counsel Samuel Dash, in private life a professor at Georgetown University Law School, who apparently is impressed by Lenzer's brash aggressiveness.

But among committee members, this is one of the complaints against Lenzer.

It was this abrasively provocative trait that had a lot to do with his being fired from the Legal Services program. He holds that personally against the Nixon administration, and glants in waging war on it.

To Lenzer, the Watergate probe is an intensely satisfying means of venting personal animus against the President and his regime.

To Lenzer, Watergate is more than an investigation — it's a seething vendetta.

It also enables him to be rude, overbearing, high-handed and ideologically dogmatic and stupid. He has all the irritating and troublemaking characteristics of an unctuous and self-righteous do-gooder, and committee members are increasingly concerned about his having a big say about what is said and done.

Iron Curtain Convivance

The Moscow puppet regime of Czechoslovakia was directly involved in the Arab terrorists' foray that led to the shutting down of the Jewish emigrant transit facility in Austria.

The evidence is irrefutable.

The heavily-armed guerrillas boarded the emigrants' train in Czechoslovakia. They could only have done that with Czech knowledge and connivance. No foreigner, especially with an Arab passport, travels in Czechoslovakia armed to the teeth without Czech awareness and approval.

In Czechoslovakia, among the most iron-ruled of the Kremlin satellites, it is routine to exhaustively search foreigners bound across its borders. Clearly, this otherwise inflexible police-state practice was not applied to the Arab terrorists. Armed with guns, grenades and considerable ammunition, they were allowed to board the Austrian-bound train carrying the 40 emigrating Soviet Jews.

This could not have been done without the Czechs condoning it.

Not only did the Czechs permit it, but armed Israeli security men were barred from boarding the train to protect the emigrants from terrorist attacks. Such guards had been allowed on other trains, but significantly not this one.

Czechoslovakia's covert hostility is another manifestation of mounting Iron Curtain enmity toward Israel.

Recently, East Germany allowed Al Fatah to open an office in East Berlin, and a number of Palestinians have established an unofficial base in Warsaw. They are carrying Lebanese passports — as did the two terrorists who pulled off the emigrant raid.

Addendum: Sen. James Abourezk, D-S.D., of Lebanese descent, in opposing the Senate-approved resolution urging Austria to reconsider its closing of the Schoenuz transit facility, contended "the problem is really the eviction of the Palestinians from Israel. This resolution should include a section affirming the right to emigrate to their own country, whether it be Jews from Russia or Palestinians to Israel."

Originally, a much tougher resolution was sponsored by Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., and eight other Senators. But at the insistence of Sens. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, and Abourezk, it was watered down by eliminating sharp criticism of Austria bowing to the terrorists' demands.

Perfect Dove Score

Sen. George McGovern, already furiously running for reelection next year, is carefully saying nothing about it in his home state, but he compiled a 100 per cent anti-defense record during the Senate's consideration of the big military procurement authorization bill.

The unctuously self-righteous South Dakota radical voted for every proposal to scuttle weapons programs. He didn't miss one.

And to cap this 100 per cent anti-defense record, McGovern offered a sweeping amendment of his own — a $7 billion across-the-board slash of the vital procurement program.

In justification of this harebrained dove scheme, McGovern told the Senate: "I am not proposing to kill any particular weapons system, I am not telling the Secretary of Defense or the Department of Defense to withhold funds from any particular weapons system. I am leaving it up to their judgment to act as they see fit. I am simply saying that certain reductions should be made which come to a total of $7 billion."

After a brief and desultory discussion, McGovern's colleagues strikingly demonstrated what they thought of him and his demagogic scheme by crushing it 81 to 13.

Following closely in the footsteps of the South Dakota radical's 100 per cent anti-defense record were Sens. Abourezk, Harold Hughes, D-Iowa, who has announced he won't run for reelection, Fulbright, Richard Clark, D-Iowa, Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., and Gaylord Nelson, D-Wisc.

There is always one man to state the case for freedom. That's all we need, one. — Clarence Darrow.

Traveling In The Car Lets You Set The Pace

By MURRAY J. BROWN
UPI Travel Editor

Planes fly too high, trains run too fast and buses have schedules to keep. So, next to hiking, probably the best way to see the U.S.A. or Europe is by car.

Traveling by car also allows you to set your own pace and choose your own itinerary. You don't have to worry about schedules and you can always spend an extra day or so at some particularly charming out-of-the-way place.

The growing popularity of auto travel among vacationists is underlined by the scores of fly-drive packages offered by domestic and foreign airlines here and abroad. They usually include air transportation, a car with unlimited mileage and some accommodations.

You can go on your own, too. Rental cars are available in cities throughout the United States and Europe. In many cases, cars can be rented in one city and left in another—or even some other country. Some companies charge an extra fee for this service while others do not. So check first.

Check also on car-rental taxes. Several European countries have imposed such taxes—France collects more than 20 per cent—so you could save money by renting a car elsewhere if you have a choice.

If you're going to Europe, you will need a valid passport for identification and crossing borders. But other required documents—including proof of insurance—will be provided when you pick up your rental car.

Even though your U.S. driver's license will be honored in most European countries,

Hertz suggests delays at border crossing points can be avoided with an International Driving Permit (IDP). The permit is a "must" in Spain, Portugal and West Germany.

IDP at AAA

The IDP, which bears pertinent data in nine languages, can be obtained before leaving the United States from any American Automobile Assn. (AAA) office. All you need is your local license, two passport-type pictures and $3. It is not necessary to be a member of the AAA to avail yourself of this service.

Here are some other tips from Hertz for Europe-bound motorists:

—While languages differ, West European countries use the same easily-interpreted symbolic road signs. For instance, a round sign with an inverted triangle means "stop at intersection" in Italy, Belgium and elsewhere on the continent.

—Driving is on the right side of the road, except in the United Kingdom and Irish Republic where you keep to the left. When driving to the left, keep directional blinkers on as long as you remain in the right (passing) lane.

—Watch out for "blue" parking zones. A blue zone has no parking meters; a timing device comes with the rental car and is set by the driver for as long as he wishes to park, and then placed atop the dashboard. If time has expired before the driver returns, the car may be towed away.

—When planning the itinerary, figure on a 60-kilometers per hour (37 miles) speed limit on most good open roads. Speed limits are much higher on the superhighways but traffic is usually very heavy and you could see more anyway by exploring the side roads.

—While automatic-transmission rental cars are available in most countries, vehicles with clutch transmissions are best for mountain driving such as you'll find in Switzerland, the Austrian, German and French Alps and the Italian Dolomites. And they rent for less.

—You can save on gasoline, too, by renting European-made compacts. Fuel economy is important in Europe where costs range up to 90 cents and more per gallon.

—Familiarize yourself with European weights and measures. Speeds and mileages are usually given in kilometers—one kilometer is equivalent to roughly 5/8 of a mile—while gasoline is sold by the liter—slightly more than the U.S. quart.

Available free, through travel agents, is a 24-page brochure issued recently by Hertz titled "See the Real Europe," replete with driving tips, explanation of the international road signs, driving laws and other information.

Randy Linville Commended For Scholastic Achievement

A Letter of Commendation honoring him for his high performance on the 1972 Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test - National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (PSAT-NMSQT) has been awarded to Randy Linville of Pampa High School. Principal Don Walker has announced.

The National Merit Scholarship Corporation (NMSC) has named 38,000 Commended students throughout the United States. These students are among the upper 2 per cent of those who are expected to graduate from high school in 1974. Thus, the Commended students rank high, but below the 15,000 Semifinalists in September by NMSC.

Edward C. Smith, president of NMSC, said: "The high standing of Commended students in the Merit Program competition shows that they have great promise of continued success in college. Although Commended students advance no further in the Merit Scholarship competition, their attainment in this nationwide program deserves public recognition.

"The Commended students should be encouraged to make every effort to continue their education. Both these students and our nation will benefit from their continuing educational and personal development."

To increase their scholarship opportunities Commended students' names are reported to the colleges they named as their first and second choices when they took the PSAT-NMSQT in October 1972. The reports include home addresses, test scores, and anticipated college major and career intentions of the Commended students.

TV In Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — As vice president, Spiro Agnew had a genuine impact on people's views about network television news.

And despite his resignation Wednesday, some of the thoughts he implanted about video news coverage will continue to be influential.

In his hey-day in office, Agnew undoubtedly touched a responsive chord in many persons with his criticisms of those who control the network news departments.

It was made clear that he was trying to speak for people who felt network video did not pay enough attention to the attitudes and problems of the "silent majority" — a term no longer used as much as it once was.

And if the term is not used as widely as before, one reason is that network television news is definitely paying more attention—in documentaries and other ways—to middle-class America.

Views Had Special Impact

As vice president, Agnew's views had special impact on television because, by implication, they were regarded as reflecting some administration attitudes.

And not only did this give official sanction to silent majority opinions, but it made the networks nervous, because video in this nation operates under a government licensing procedure.

It is a basic and continuing policy of American television networks to try to stay on the right side of any administration that is in power, Republican or Democratic.

There are those nowadays who will claim that recent administration problems have resulted in the modification of some silent majority criticisms of television news coverage.

But it also happens to be true that the network moves to modify negative feelings toward video began even earlier—in fact, just about the time the silent majority criticisms were at a crescendo.

Networks Going Strong

For quite a while now, networks have been going strong on special programs about middle-class, middle-of-the-road problems — silent majority problems, if you will.

And there was a definite soul-searching among some video newspeople about the complaints that television never showed enough "good news." News executives and others tried to explain the traditional definitions of what determines coverage of events—but it is a fact that national and local television subtly took on a slightly more positive tone when possible.

While this was not as noticeable at the network level, it was—and is—more pronounced of many local station news reports.

Things have changed in video news. Possibly they'll change back in some ways. Television goes very carefully by the public pulse.

The Ohio shad seldom is found in Missouri waters.

Carelessness Causes A Great Many Fires

By FINACE DYER
Fire Chief

Carelessness, according to the dictionary, means not paying enough attention to what one does. Nowhere in our daily lives is carelessness more important than in the prevention of fire around the home.

Carelessness is ... leaving matches, cigarette lighters, and other smoking supplies within the reach of children. A very large percentage of home fires are still caused by children playing with matches!

Carelessness is ... leaving a portable electric, or open-flame gas heater in operation when you are leaving the home. Electric heaters use a lot of electricity, and their wiring is subjected to extreme heat. This insulation may burn out unexpectedly much more rapidly than you may anticipate, and cause sparks. Gas heaters throw much more heat than we realize, therefore, it is a simple matter to ignite nearby drapes, bedding, etc.

Carelessness is ... emptying ash trays immediately after the company leaves, and retiring for the night. Whenever you empty an ash tray, put all of the refuse in a tin can and run water over it. A large number of home fires are caused by waste baskets being set on fire in disposing of ash tray contents. Smokers in the home should be reminded not to place cigarettes, cigars, or hot smoking pipes down on counters, table tops or the like. These items should always be placed in ash trays; insist on it!

Carelessness is ... leaving home for a trip and not unplugging all electrical appliances including reading lamps. Home fires are frequently caused by malfunctioning appliances which suddenly begin to spark.

Carelessness is ... leaving your home, if only for a moment, and allowing your clothes iron to remain plugged in. Irons sitting upright on the ironing board can easily fall over and often do, causing fires.

Carelessness is ... forgetting to have your chimney cleaned each year before the heating season starts. This is important, put it on your calendar! At the same time, have your furnace unit cleaned and checked for efficient operation.

Carelessness is ... smoking in bed! Regardless how many times you've done it and nothing happened, there's always that first time you may fall asleep unintentionally. Thousands of fires yearly start with smoking in bed.

These are just a few of the simple acts of carelessness that cause fires in our homes. Perhaps it will generate your thinking on other things you should be more careful of regarding fire potential. Remember, the best way to fight fire is — DON'T HAVE ONE!

Republican Women Study Constitution

The Top O' Texas Republican Women's Club met recently in the home of Mrs. Al Smith with Mrs. Quentin Williams, hostess.

Mrs. Smith introduced the speaker, Howard Graham, who teaches American History in the Pampa school system. Graham quoted John Marshall's Standard for a Good Constitution. "A good constitution should contain an accurate detail of all subdivisions, of which its great powers will admit and of all the means by which they may be carried into execution, would partake of the proximity of a legal code, and could scarcely be embraced by the human mind. Its nature therefore, requires that only its great outlines should be marked, its important objects designated, and the minor ingredients which compose those objects be deduced from the nature of the objects themselves."

He said Texas had plenty of past experience since there were six Constitutions written in a period of 40 years. 1836, Texas became the Independent Republic of Texas, after it declared its independence from Mexico, 1845, Texas became a new state and became the only state to join the Union by a joint resolution by both houses of Congress. 1861, Texas seceded from the Union and joined the Confederate States. 1866, Texas wanted to rejoin the Union. 1869, after the Civil War, the Radicals, who were Republicans, rose to power. Lawlessness gripped the state and violence broke out. During the reconstruction period Texas was ruled by a military government, an appointed governor and three governors elected by the Radicals.

Congress readmitted Texas to the Union in 1870. Reconstruction ended with the inauguration of Democratic Governor Richard Coke in 1874. The 1876 Constitution, which is the one we now have, was written for that time under Democratic control. These were angry, frustrated, and frightened men who wrote a restricted constitution. The Legislature and the Governor were restricted in this constitution. There are over 200 amendments in this constitution. It is too long and the meanings are not understood and has caused a loss of public respect. The future should be considered when the constitution is written, Graham stated.

Mrs. McDonald announced that the Amarillo Business & Professional Women's Club will have a dinner meeting Oct. 23, at the YWCA with Wales Madden, Jr., speaker. Madden is a member of the Texas Constitution Revision Commission.

Mrs. Smith, president, presided at the business meeting. Mrs. John McKerney gave the invocation. Mrs. Walter Colwell, secretary, read the minutes of the previous meeting, and Mrs. Jones Seitz, treasurer, gave the financial report.

A nominating committee was elected, with Mrs. Quentin Williams, chairman and Mrs. M. F. Roche, and Mrs. H. F. McDonald serving on the committee.

Jean Martindale, attorney, will be the guest speaker Oct. 25, speaking on The Texas Judicial System.

Bible Answers Cynicism With Call To Rejoice

United Press International
The Bible has a word of advice for all Christians who have become pessimistic or cynical about the state of the world.

The word is: Rejoice.

Taking a joyful attitude toward life under difficult and discouraging circumstances is as much a Christian duty as loving the unlovable.

Both to love and to rejoice can be natural reactions to pleasant and happy occasions," says the Rev. Catherine Gun-salus, associate professor of historical theology at Louisville (Ky.) Presbyterian Seminary.

"Under these conditions, love and joy are caused by the external situation. When that situation changes, our love and our joy may end. But the Christian gospel begins at this point — when the world around us is not loving to us and does not smoothly greet us. At such a time, the gospel says to us,

"Continue to love, continue to rejoice — even when such a spirit seems to make no sense at all."

Under far more difficult circumstances than any we face today, St. Paul admonished the early Christians at Phillipi: "Rejoice in the Lord always. Again I say, rejoice."

Look at the Stars
In another of his letters, to persecuted believers at Thes-salonica, Paul said: "Be joyful always. Be thankful in all circumstances. This is what God wants of you."

But how can a Christian be joyous when he sees all about him trouble and despair, things going from bad to worse?

He can ponder the vastness of this universe to which he belongs, and wonder with an ancient Hebrew poet, "What is man?" that the Author of all this wondrous creation should take a personal interest in him?

Then he can let his mind play over the sheer audacity of the Christian assertion that the disposition of this Inconceivably Great Creator toward each human creature is analogous to the love of a Father for his child.

Here is the warrant for Christian joy that cannot be dampened by any external circumstance.

Instead of a distant and inaccessible God, we have a "Father in Heaven" who loves us even when we least deserve His love... who accepts us and puts up with us... who quickly forgives each failure we repent... and cradles us gently in His everlasting arms when we are stricken by grief or pain or bereavement.

Advice Still Relevant
Can anyone really ask better grounds for rejoicing?
Imprisoned, tortured, facing a martyr's death, Paul thought he had more than ample reason for joy.

"If God is for us, who can be against us?" he asked.

Lift up your hearts. Be thankful. Be joyful always.

REV. EDWIN WATERBURY

Do You Have A Minute?
They are that of which all life's fabric is woven. Each of us receive our dutiful share. We use them in all that we say and do. How often we regard them as an inexhaustible commodity. We barter with them for the material things we possess. Priceless though they are, most of us are guilty of wasting vast quantities of them each day.

We refer, of course, to minutes.

There are 1,440 of them in each day, more than ten thousand in each week. Minimum wage standards assess them at three cents each and we assume they are plentiful enough to waste. After all, there will be another 1,440 of them tomorrow.

In our modern society we are ever striving to invent new methods and gadgets that will save them. We build faster cars and planes to get us there quicker so we will have more time. We are clock-conscious. We demand up-to-the-minute news, and all of life's modern time-saving devices to make us happy. But are we?

As Christians we have a sacred responsibility, not only to make efficient use of our valuable minutes, but the minutes of our days should be utilized to bring us closer to God. For you see, we are stewards of this fabric of life we call minutes. On a recent television interview I heard Dr.

Kenneth Taylor tell that he did most of the translation of "The Living Bible" while he commuted to his Chicago office.

Jesus had much to say about time and how it should be used. In the twelfth chapter of Luke, the question of time is presented to our Lord. This chapter reflects the importance which Jesus placed upon our time.

"Watch," "Look," "Wait," and "Ready" are words He used to remind us that each minute is a sacred gift from God. No man can afford to play with the days and years entrusted to him as if there were others which could be secured to replace the ones which are gone. God expects us to be a good steward of our time.

Frank C. Laubach, the late literary expert tells how he made a point of consciously thinking of Christ for at least one second out of every minute. His life was truly a familiar friendship with Jesus. The days went more smoothly. His life was filled with peace and contentment.

There was no room for grudges, jealousies or hatred. Love ruled over all his thoughts.

What we do with the minutes at our disposal each day determines the course and destiny of our lives. They are God's precious gifts to us, and God expects us to redeem the time in these present evil days.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

SATURDAY, OCT. 13

Your birthday today: All through this coming year, previously hidden or unknown characteristics emerge, as much to your own surprise as anybody's, most of them healthy and constructively directed. You may stand a little away from very close new relationships as a result, to nobody's distress. Material affairs require a great deal of extra time. Today's natives usually possess a special charm, given a reasonable chance to show it. Aries [March 21-April 19]: Disagreement stirs up productive discussion, and the people involved bring up every pro and con imaginable. Far more is achieved than the settling of original conflict.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Endless rounds of debate yield little apparent result. If you can extricate yourself from the spot, do so. Avoid any shoptalk or "post mortem" on what has happened lately.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: However trivial your problem appears to be, get something done about it, by qualified specialists. Sympathy seems in short supply—offer your own, though you get little.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Energy is scattered among several attractive alternatives. Since you have one life to lead, one line to follow, decide early what to do and concentrate on doing just that.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Pause for a deep breath and meditation. Get all the jangling trifles of your daily living into better perspective; recover or reinforce your sense of humor.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Nobody else is apt to see life as you see it now, or on the same level. Knowing this gives you the chance of threading your way in relative peace through the complexities of the day.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Further action follows recent past patterns; can be revised a bit and improved. In most cases, you should try in earnest. It's a busy sort of day with surprises abounding.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Be alert, diligent, and pleasant of manner as you strive for the moderate, sensible course. Do not hesitate to set yourself apart for prayer, serious study.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Just when you are cruising along in good humor comes unanticipated criticism, some realization of skipped details. Make amends or repairs.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Seize whatever advantages are within reach, move in wherever there is a space available to you; work out new projects. Your talents are ready for application.

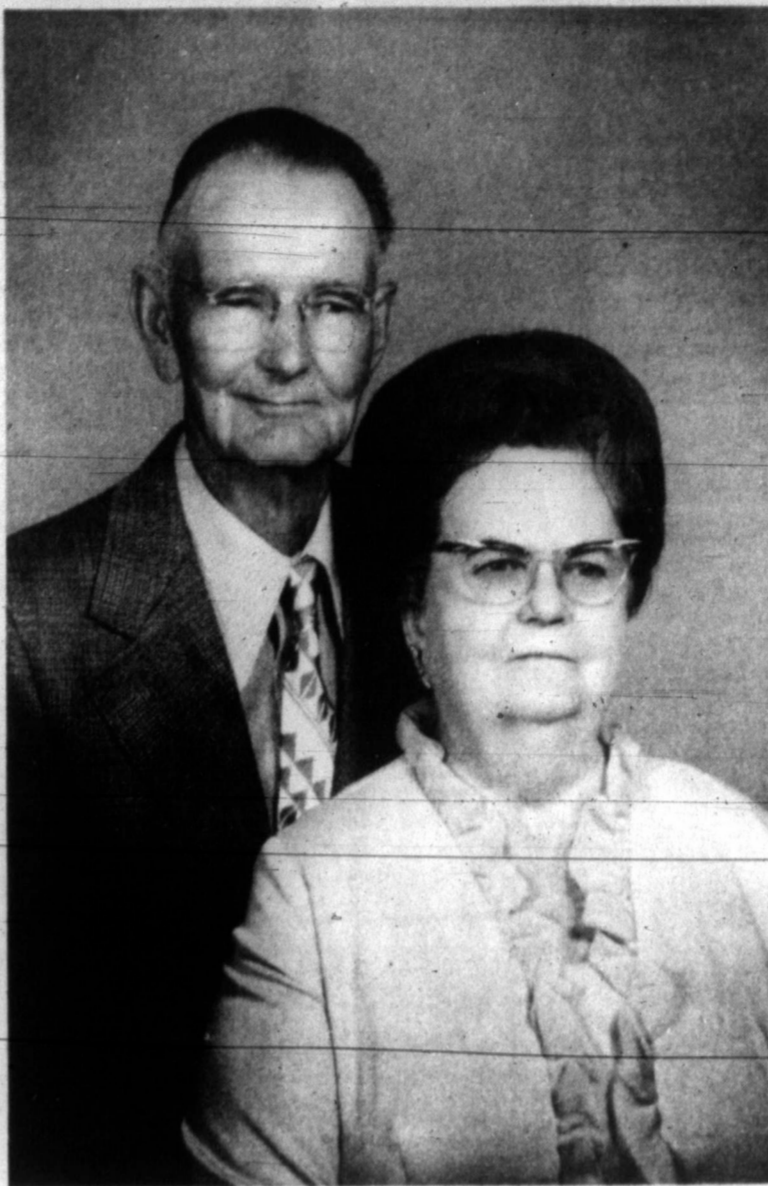

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: You simply are not free to go floating off on your own perfect pink cloud today. There are promises to keep, routines to be worked out, and the emotional needs of loved ones to consider.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Your capacity for coping with delays, detours, interruption comes to test. You'll be proud of yourself and rewarded as well, come nightfall, if you'll pause for reflection.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Radio Stations Don't Identify Their Cities

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with radio announcers who give their station's call letters but not the city they are broadcasting from. Many times during our travels across the country we have wanted to know the weather conditions ahead as we travel with a truck camper and need to know wind and storm conditions. We listen to the weather reports and then later learn that what we heard came from another state. Please, radio announcers, state and the name of the city at least every 15 minutes. These letters mean nothing to a traveler. — MRS. L. R.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — I do hope you or some of the readers can help me. I have some place mats and napkins that were not promptly laundered after use and some of these linens are a cream color, which makes the use of a strong bleach impossible because the color would fade. I have tried soaking in detergent solutions that are advertised as being able to remove stains, but with no luck. — RUTH

DEAR POLLY — In reply to Madelyn's problem with the thread "eye" on the back neckline of a dress, I want to tell her that I insert an orange stick or other similar round object that fits through the "eye." Apply clear nail polish and allow it to dry before the stick is removed. She will discover the "eye" is then easy to find when she wants to hook her neck-closing above the zipper. I have treated those on all my clothes this way and found it works well. — J. W.

DEAR POLLY — When dyeing clothing to eliminate sediment from the solution floating in the full dye mixture I mix the package of dye in a pint-jar of hot water and shake it well. The top is then removed and the opening covered with the toe of an old-socking. Turn the jar upside down, letting the dye run through the stocking into a basin with the remaining amount of hot water. The sediment that would have been in the dye mixture is trapped in the stocking which is just thrown away. — CAROLYN

DEAR POLLY — At the time of a recent white sale I needed two sets of twin-size sheets (fitted bottoms and tops) and discovered the sheets were "irregular" but the pillow-cases were "perfects" and cost more than the sheets. I finally searched out matching striped sheets but no matching cases. I bought an additional striped top sheet and made my own cases. There was nothing noticeably wrong with the sheets and it was easy to make the cases as a three-inch hem was already in one end. I now have lovely matching sheets and pillow-cases at a reasonable price and without the look of being homemade. — KAREN

DEAR POLLY — When making pancakes I mix the batter in an empty milk carton. There is no stirring, just close the top and shake, no bowl to wash as the carton is thrown away. Also, it pours so easily. A half gallon carton is just the right size for the amount I make for my family. — LISA

Her cleaning woman is tops, also light-fingered

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: For the last year I have employed an excellent cleaning woman who has also done my laundry. She is immaculate, quiet, and hasn't missed a day's work. She is the sole support of several fatherless children, so I have been extremely generous in giving her leftover food and even collecting children's clothing from my friends for her youngsters.

From time to time I've missed a few items. Panties, hosiery, towels. Nothing very valuable.

Suddenly she shows up wearing a pair of silver hoop earrings which looked familiar. I went to my drawer, and sure enough, mine were missing!

I asked her where she got the earrings, and she said she couldn't remember. Abby, I know they are mine! Now I am wondering if I should ask her to give me my house key and tell her why I don't want her to work for me any more.

I feel so guilty considering such a thing because I know how much she needs the money. So what should I do?

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: The woman is apparently simple-minded or she never would have worn in your presence the earrings she stole from you. Tell her you know she has been stealing, but if she returns the stolen items and promises not to take anything else, you will give her another chance. If she accepts those terms, keep her. And if she steals again, send her on her way.

DEAR ABBY: My husband's sister lost a full-term baby. He was born dead. We sent a sympathy card addressed to her and her husband. They were offended.

My father in law told me you shouldn't send sympathy cards in a case like this. Tell me, Abby, were my husband and I right or wrong?

UNIONTOWN, PA.

DEAR UNIONTOWN: You were right.

DEAR ABBY: When our children misbehave, which isn't very often, my husband spansks them severely. And I mean he really lays a heavy hand to them.

Worse yet, for a long time afterwards he keeps threatening to give them the same treatment if they don't behave themselves. This causes the children to feel nervous and frightened most of the time, which makes them resent him. I've noticed the resentment growing lately.

Abby, how can I let him know that the spanking alone is sufficient punishment and his constant threats are neither wise nor necessary?

And how do you like this kind of behavior from a man who has two college degrees and a father who used to beat him up?

HISTORY REPEATING ITSELF

DEAR HISTORY: History need not repeat itself. Tell Father that his punishment is cruel and excessive and it's damaging the relationship between him and his children, so to cut it out. And it might not hurt to have your husband examined physically and mentally. Two college degrees don't give one immunity from illness.

CONFIDENTIAL TO OLD-TIMER IN PALM BEACH: Before you put down the youth of today, read this: "Our youth now love luxury. They have bad manners, contempt for authority; they show disrespect for their elders, and love chatter in places of exercise. They no longer rise when elders enter the room. They contradict their parents, chatter before company, gobble up their food, and tyrannize their teachers."

[Socrates wrote that in the 5th Century, B. C.]

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69706, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Pampa Hosts Carlsbad Today

Pampa travels to Amarillo next week to open its district schedule against powerful Caprock — all the more reason Buddy Williams' Harvesters need a win tonight.

Pampa, after lashing Canyon, 21-7 last week, will try to bring the momentum of a winning streak into next week's important game, as the Harvesters are at home tonight for a 7:30 p.m. clash with Carlsbad, N.M.

The Harvesters need a win to provide momentum, however, a second reason for wanting a victory against Carlsbad is the revenge motive. The Cavemen downed Pampa, 22-6 last year.

This year's version of the 4-AAA New Mexico team isn't quite as talented as last year's team, which finished 9-2 after a 10-1 mark in 1971. Bill Waters, Carlsbad's fifth-year head coach, lists 19 starters gone off last season's squad and only seven starting seniors on this year's team.

Carlsbad, described as "aggressive" by Williams, has an unusual quality for a schoolboy football team. The Cavemen have separate offensive and defensive teams, which are completely different units. Carlsbad also has a specialty team, which consists of a few players who start on offense or defense, but the majority are unique to both of the other teams.

Tonight has been designated "Tiger League Night" at the Carlsbad-Pampa game. All Tiger League football players in uniforms and accompanied by a parent or guardian will be admitted to the game free.

The Cavemen are 2-3, downing Farmington, N.M., 34-14 and El Paso Bel Air, 34-20, while losing to Lamesa, N.M., 39-6. Pecos, 21-3 and El Paso Austin, 20-14.

Quarterback Richard Forrest, a 5-9, 170-pound senior leads the offensive attack. "Forrest is a fine passer and a real good runner," said Williams, "and their receivers are above average."

Right and left ends for Carlsbad will be junior Jimmy McPherson (5-10, 155) and junior Bobby Hester (5-10, 141). Frankie Theragood, a 5-11, 173-pound halfback, will lead the Carlsbad running attack tonight.

Defensive standouts for the visitors are junior linebacker Mark Arnold (5-9, 173) and senior left end Gary Kinley (6-2, 198).

Pampa will start junior Chuck Quarles (5-7, 113) at quarterback for the second straight week. The lightweight completed four of 10 passes for 65 yards and ran 28 yards for a touchdown last week against Canyon. In Pampa's 7-6 loss to Canyon in the Harvesters' last start prior to Canyon, Quarles filled in for an injured Rick Leverich and hit on seven of 14 passes for 94 yards.

Many of Quarles' aeriels tonight will probably be directed at split end Howie Lewis (6-5, 180-pound junior), the district's leading pass-catcher with 11 receptions for 195 yards.

Joe Curtis, a 5-10, 152-pound senior tailback, has been Pampa's leading ground-gainer thus far with 58 rushes for 250 yards — a 4.3 average. In the backfield tonight with Curtis and Quarles, will be slotback Chuck Reeves, a 5-9, 147-pound senior, and senior fullback Jack King, who is 5-11 and 171 pounds.

Reeves scored on runs of one and 12 yards against Canyon. Pampa's defense is headed by Leverich (5-11, 161, junior) in the defensive secondary and linebacker David Hampton (6-0, 167, junior.)

JV Edges Bullpups

By TERRY HANNA

The Pampa Shockers' defense held the Borger Bullpups three times inside the 20 yard line on fourth down during the game, as the Shockers came away with a hard-fought 13-6 victory at Harvester Field Thursday night.

Borger's Herman Wells started the scoring with a 13-yard pass reception from quarterback Jay Hawley early in the first quarter.

Early in the second quarter, the Shockers evened the score as Kelley Baker scored on a one-yard run. Neither team scored before halftime, and the score remained tied at 6-6.

Borger received the opening kickoff and drove it from their 27-yard line to the Shocker four-yard line before it was stopped on fourth down. Shocker David Skog made the play that stopped the Bullpup drive.

Pampa then took the ball from its own four and drove it to the Borger 36 before fumbling.

The third quarter with the score tied 6-6. Each team had the ball for one possession during the third quarter.

The Shocker defense drove back the Bullpups, and after the punt, the Shockers started a drive from their own 19-yard line. They couldn't move the ball, and on a low snap from center, punter Jerry Matney was tackled on the 16-yard line. On third down Shocker Keith Eastham tackled Hawley while trying to pass. That set up a fourth down and Borger tried a 27-yard field goal. The ball hit the right upright and bounced away.

Starting on their own 20, the Shockers drove for the winning touchdown as David Edwards caught a 37-yard pass and Baker picked up yardage on the ground. The scoring play was a 13-yard run by Kelly Baker with 4:24 left, and the kick by Jerry Matney was good as the score became 13-6.

The leading ground gainer of the game was Borger's Herman Wells as he amassed 97 yards rushing and 45 yards passing for a total of 142 yards. Wells accounted for 45.5 yards of the total offense for the Bullpups in the game.

Pampa's leading ground gainer was Baker who rushed for 110 yards on 22 carries. Frankie Lemons rushed for 78 yards on 18 carries. Edwards received the only completed pass from John Agar.

Pampa (4-1-1) visits Amarillo Palo Duro at 4 p.m. Thursday.

BILLY LEMONS
1973 Pampa High School graduate and now a starting offensive guard for Texas A&M will play against Texas Tech at 7:30 p.m. in Lubbock. The 6-5, 280-pound freshman won the starting berth when Bud Trammel sprained an ankle against Boston College.

Starting on their own 20, the Shockers drove for the winning touchdown as David Edwards caught a 37-yard pass and Baker picked up yardage on the ground. The scoring play was a 13-yard run by Kelly Baker with 4:24 left, and the kick by Jerry Matney was good as the score became 13-6.

Athletics Capture Crown With Win

OAKLAND (UPI) — It will be lefty Ken Holtzman, a former National League pitcher, for the Oakland A's against southpaw Jon Matlack for the New York Mets Saturday in the opener of the 1973 World Series.

The Mets, in their own amazing way, wrapped up the NL pennant with a 7-2 victory over the Cincinnati Reds Wednesday, and the A's, a team that rises to the occasion, closed out the Baltimore Orioles, 3-0, behind Jim Hunter's five-hitter Thursday to win the American League flag.

Jimmy "The Greek" Snyder, right about the A's for the first time in three years, immediately pegged them as 6-5 favorites to win the first game of the Series and 13-10 to wrap up the Mets the way they did the Orioles.

The Series this year will pit two of the finest pitching stiffs in baseball. After Matlack, it will be Jerry Kosman for the Mets and Tom Seaver in the third game at New York next Tuesday. For the A's, it will be Vida Blue on Sunday and Hunter on Tuesday. With time off later, the same six more than likely will pitch the next three games as well, if the Series is extended.

A Mets-A's Series confrontation was the one most fans, especially in the Bay Area, were hoping for since the playoffs in the two leagues got under way a week ago.

Precautions Are Planned

DALLAS (UPI) — Police plan tight precautions for tonight's annual Texas-Oklahoma football rally on downtown streets.

"We don't intend to suppress anyone's fun," Police Chief Frank Dyson said. "However, we do intend to enforce the law. Our officers will make every reasonable effort to prevent violations of the law and to arrest flagrant violators."

Last year, 250 persons were arrested. Most of them were Dallas residents and most of them were drunk and disorderly.

The Department of Public Safety and Dallas County sheriff's office will assist local police.

Buff Open This Week

CANYON — West Texas State University's Buffaloes snapped a three-game losing streak and recorded their first football shutout in 28 games Saturday night in Beaumont by downing Lamar University, 13-0.

Although head football coach Gene Mayfield wasn't entirely pleased with the team's offensive and defensive efforts during the game, he was elated with the team's defensive efforts against short yardage situations.

Twice in the fourth quarter Lamar drove inside the Buffaloes' 10-yard line, only to be halted at the three- and five-yard lines.

The Buffs are open this week and host Utah State in a non-conference game at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 20 in Frank Kimbrough Memorial Stadium. The Oct. 20 contest will be homecoming at West Texas State and will climax a full day of activity on the campus for alumni and boosters.

The Aggies, under new coach Phil Krueger, are 3-1 for the season, going into this week's game at Fort Collins, Colo., against Colorado State University. The Aggies have beaten Weber State, University of Nevada - Las Vegas and Brigham Young, while losing to San Diego State.

The Homecoming game will be the third in a series with Utah State and the first two contests were thrillers. Utah State took the first game in 1967 by a 44-27 count, and 42 first quarter points were registered as the Aggies featured McArthur Lane and Allie Taylor, presently standout punting backs. The Aggies won the 1968 game, 20-10, in Logan, Utah.

Wildcats, Irish To Battle

By PAUL SIMS

The Canadian Wildcats, still undefeated and still the best running and defensive team in Class A in West Texas, host their biggest threat of the season today in the powerful Shamrock Irish, as area schoolboy football teams will be involved in six weekend games.

Besides the Canadian-Shamrock clash, Pampa area contests today will be Woodward-Okla., at Perryton. Groom-at-Boys Ranch, McLean at Memphis and Wheeler at Wellington. Lefors will be home at 7:30 p.m. Saturday against Canyon's junior varsity. McLean and Wheeler will play in 7:30 p.m. games, and the rest are scheduled for 8 p.m.

Shamrock at Canadian
Shamrock (5-0) has defeated McLean, Panhandle, Wellington, Wheeler and Tulia and is considered the strongest team in 2-AA. The Irish are led by running backs Ronald Gragg and Sammy Jackson and defensive lineman Walter Bond (6-8, 225).

Canadian is unbeaten in four games and hasn't allowed a point scored on its defense in the last 14 quarters. Kem Carr, who gained 110 yards on 17 carries last week in a 27-0 win over Groom, leads the running offense, and linebacker Bob Dickinson and tackle Mitch Ashley head the defense.

A tossup, but it's a strong AA team versus a strong A team, so — Shamrock by six.

Woodward at Perryton
Woodward (4-1) is ranked in the top five in Class AAA in Oklahoma because of one of the best quarterbacks in the state and an overly experienced offense. Kyle Phillips passed for 1,486 yards last season playing for Frederick, Okla., and is considered by many to be the top college passing prospect in the state. Woodward has all 11 offensive starters back from 1972.

Perryton (2-3) defeated Woodward, 20-14 last year, and has beaten the Oklahoma team the last 11 times the schools have met. The Rangers downed Tucumcari, N.M., last week, 71-0. Quarterback Jim Dear heads the offensive and defensive (at linebacker) attacks for the Rangers.

Another tossup, but Woodward will be revenge-minded, and that's usually an important incentive. Woodward by three.

Wheeler at Wellington
Wellington (1-3) has lost consecutive games to three of the better teams in the Panhandle — Shamrock, Childress and Clarendon — after an opening-game victory over Hollis.

2-A Skyrockets have been plagued by lack of depth, experience and top-notch players, even though quarterback Randall Hodges is experienced and a more-than-adequate passing threat.

Jim Bateman's Mustangs (1-3 and T-0 in district play) need a win today to keep pace with Clarendon and Memphis in 2-A. Wheeler downed Silverton in its first district clash last week, 26-13. Wheeler is led by elusive halfback Lewis Britt and fullback Kent Ware.

Wheeler by 15

Canyon JV at Lefors
Canyon is 5-0 for the year and, like its varsity, is large as far as heights and weights are concerned. "They're real good, they remind me a lot of Pampa," said Lefors head coach Leonard Tolbert.

Lefors (5-0) was scored upon for the first time since the season opener last week against Pampa's JV, but the Pirates won, 31-26. Lefors is ranked in the top 20 in state Class B teams.

The Pirates are headed by linebacker Barney Sawyer and tailback Robert Gifford. Running back Jim Hicks and defensive back Mike Crane are injured and probably won't see action Saturday.

ROUGH ROAD AHEAD - Major Picks Missouri, Pitt In Upsets; Favors Oklahoma Over Texas Longhorns

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE
Peerless Prognosticator

Egad, friends, this is no week for faint-hearted prognosticators as some of the nation's greatest traditional rivalries are renewed. Leading the list are such hotly contested intrastate feuds as Kansas-Kansas State, who will get together for the 71st time at Lawrence, and Michigan-Michigan State, who tangle for the 66th time at East Lansing.

In the other classics we have Missouri entertaining Nebraska in their 67th renewal, Oklahoma and Texas, who will match brawn for the 68th time in Dallas, and Pittsburgh vs. West Virginia in the 66th of these thrilling meetings.

In the Big Eight encounter at Lawrence, the Hoople computers give the home-field edge to the Kansas Jayhawk over the Wildcats, 34-24. The Michigan Wolverines have too many guns for the Spartans and we see the Wolves winning by a 28-7 count. Oklahoma and Texas will stage their usual donnybrook with the Sooners prevailing, 23-21 — um-kump!

The big surprises of the day will be at Columbia, Missouri, where the Missouri Tigers will upset the Nebraska Cornhuskers, 25-20, and at Morgantown where the Pitt Panthers will claw their way past the rugged Mountaineers, 21-18. Remember you read it first in the Hoople Forecast — har — rump!

Elsewhere in the pigskin spotlight we see the visiting Ohio State Buckeyes sliding past the Wisconsin Badgers, 28-17, Notre Dame's Irish, playing in one of their rare nocturnal engagements, will douse the lights — heh-heh — for the Rice Owls in Houston, 35-12, and Alabam's Crimson Tide engulfing the Florida Gators, 26-10, in a Southeastern Conference contest.

Out west, the Southern California club will continue its drive for the Rose Bowl — kaff-kaff — by a narrow 17-10 victory margin over Washington State.

Foreign News Commentary

By PHIL NEWSON After a week of the fourth Arab-Israeli war, it appears that both Israel and its best friend, the United States, may have been guilty of overconfidence. Whether for reasons of a desire to avoid unfavorable world reaction to firing the first shot or of surprise, Israel was unprepared for the first Egyptian-Syrian blow and lost precious time in mobilizing to full strength. It led to heavy early casualties which a nation of only a little more than 3 million can ill afford. By the third day, Israeli communiques had lost their early optimism and taken on a somber tone. Danger increases As for the United States it appears military experts were surprised both by the sophistication of Arab tactics, particularly the Egyptian in building and maintaining bridgeheads across the Suez Canal, and the tenacity of the Arab soldiers. Diplomatically, the United States also appeared unprepared. When the United Nations Security Council met on Monday, the best the U.S. could offer was a suggestion that both sides retire to previous cease-fire lines. All sides rejected it. Both sides now talk of a war of attrition which means a long and costly struggle with an increasing danger to civilian populations within the area of the struggle and to world peace in general. One-sided as the 1967 war was it still provides a basis of comparison. In six days it cost the Israelis 679 soldiers killed in action and 2,563 wounded. World Peace Endangered Jordan reported 15,000 soldiers and civilians killed. Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser admitted the loss of 80 per cent of his equipment and the deaths of 10,000 soldiers and 1,500 officers. With admitted heavy losses, it seems probable Israeli casualties already have surpassed the 1967 figures. If Israeli dead totaled 1,000, for example, it would be the equivalent to 65,000 American soldiers killed on the basis of population. As the war entered the attrition stage, the question of resupply became of paramount importance. Both the United States and the Soviet Union moved to protect their respective clients. The United States studied the possibility of replacing some 50 of the best fighter planes lost by the Israelis in the first four days of the fighting. There was a real danger that joint U.S.-Soviet pledges of cooperation to preserve world peace might go down the drain. On the fighting front Jordan has not yet declared itself but should it decide to enter the conflict it would create a third front, thereby adding new pressures on the Israelis. Egypt's and Syria's Arab allies have not yet played their high card—which is oil. U.S. Transportation Secretary Claude S. Brinegar already has warned that a prolonged Middle East war could lead to fuel rationing in the United States.

The Woman's View

By GAY PAULEY UPI Women's Editor NEW YORK (UPI) — There is a lighter side to the serious business of retirement, a future which faces millions as the senior population increases. Helen Alpert, an editor, takes a look at the problem in a lighter vein when she lists the pitfalls and traps in the current issue of "Retirement Living" where she writes of ways to ruin a beautiful future. "To start off," she says, "here are the seven easiest ways to make retirement intolerable. Each is guaranteed or your money back. Try a few; or invest some of your own. You'll regret it." With her permission, I'd like to list her seven. One. Do no homework in anticipation of retirement. Don't look for any kind of work—it will spoil your loafing. A second career? Nonsense. Retirement means you've got plenty of time for nothing—planning is for plodders. Two. Never think of money. All you have to know is that financial security hovers somewhere between income and outgo. Don't Move. When people ask how you feel, don't hesitate to tell them. Itemize every ache and pain, dwelling on each in detail. You may notice that people are avoiding you but that's because they can't hope to match your interesting diseases. Three. When people ask how you feel, don't hesitate to tell them. Itemize every ache and pain, dwelling on each in detail. You may notice that people are avoiding you but that's because they can't hope to match your interesting diseases. Six. Ignore your health. Sneer at doctors and periodic health checkups. You feel fit as at 40 except for some shortness of breath and a cigarette cough. As for cholesterol and your paunch, why waste money on a doctor? You can take your pick of "any quickie diets in magazines. Seven. Loaf all you please. Work is for peasants. Having nothing to do proves you're retired; don't spoil it by getting involved in politics, hobbies, clubs, civic life, volunteerism and senior power. Of course a person who has nothing to do gets in everybody's way and has nothing to contribute to any conversation, but that's not your problem.

WINE RANK SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The United States ranked sixth in world wine production in 1971, latest year for which figures are available, according to the Office International de la Vigne et du Vin at Paris. Italy topped the world wine producers with 1.70 billion gallons compared to 1.62 billion for runner-up France. Russia ranked third, with Spain fourth and Argentina fifth, all ahead of the 314,635,000 gallon production of the United States.

Emigrating Finns in the 19th century brought their saunas, hot air bathing, to America.

Burtons Are Attempting To Get Together Again

ROME (UPI) — Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton, who announced plans to divorce last summer, are trying to patch up their stormy nine-year-old marriage, friends of the couple said this week.

Burton arrived in Rome from the United States Tuesday and stayed overnight to dine with his wife at the Grand Hotel.

Friends said before proceeding with the divorce, the two are trying to work out differences that after two separations led them to announce they would seek a divorce last July.

If they do reconcile, Miss Taylor will go to Sicily where Burton is scheduled to begin work on a new film next week, the friends said.

The couple first separated July 3 in New York but reunited 17 days later in Rome where

Chicago Police Chief Resigns

CHICAGO (UPI) — Police Supt. John B. Conlisk, resigned under pressure this week as head of the 13,000-man Chicago Police Department, because of corruption among his troops.

Conlisk's resignation, announced at a news conference by Mayor Richard J. Daley, came just five days after 19 present and former policemen were found guilty of extorting hundreds of thousands of dollars from saloon owners.

The son of a police captain, Conlisk, 56, took over the department in 1967, succeeding the innovative Orlando Wilson. He gave "personal reasons" for his resignation.

Since taking over as head of the nation's second largest city's police force, Conlisk has had his problems. There was the 1968 Democratic National Convention where police and demonstrators clashed, the controversial 1969 West Side raid on the Black Panther headquarters that resulted in the death of two Panther leaders, and several large-scale departmental shakeups that were never fully explained. Then there was last Friday's conviction of a number of policemen.

Daley denied that the conviction led to Conlisk's resignation from his $33,500 a year job. He specifically said the conviction was "not the last straw" that forced Conlisk's resignation.

Conlisk was openly concerned when indictments were returned against the policemen. He was so shaken by the indictments that he began hanging around taverns in an effort to verify the charges.

"I've learned a great deal," he said last Feb. 4.

U.S. Attorney James R. Thompson said he thought Conlisk's resignation was in ways "more tragic" than Vice President Spiro T. Agnew. "He was a good and decent man," Thompson said.
