Trio Of Kidnappers Caught In Guymon

GUYMON, Okla, (UPI) - An Ohio woman, whose scribbled note in a Tucumcari, N. M. restroom triggered a search for kidnapers. hailed a cruising police car here late Thursday night and led to the arrest of three persons. The woman, Mrs. Eugene Bailey, 26, of Akron told Guymon police Chief R. L. Shepherd the two men and a woman had slugged her in the stomach and shoved her into their car at Albuquerque, N. M. "Don't play with us. we'll get your kids," Mrs. Bailey said they told her. She has two children. Arrested at a motel without a struggle were Jesse Kenner and Harold Hollderton, both about 35, who gave no addresses, and Lois Striping, 28, Farmington, N. M. FBI Enters Case

Shepherd said he thought all the names were sliases, however, FBI agents were questioning

Mrs. Bailey this morning. Shepherd said the woman told him the four had stopped at a Guymon motel at about II p. m. Thursday and that she had protested she needed a cup of coffee. She said the trio allowed her to go to the motel coffee shop, but that on the way she spied a passing police car and hailed it down.

Shepherd said he had heard of no alert for the woman at the time, but a short time later "I heard about it on television."

"We took the woman to a hotel and then went out to the motel and arrested the others," he said. "They came along without any trouble.

Two-State Search "The men look like boxers or wrestlers, but the Striping woman is fairly good looking," he commented.

Lawmen from New Mexico to Texas launched a search for the four after a note reading "I've been kidnaped, help please," was found in the women's rest room of a truck stop on U.S. 66-54 at Tucumcari. It was signed "Jeanette Bailey," and bore an additional phrase, "headed for Amarillo."

The note was scribbled in ballpoint on the back of a check on the First National Bank of Akron, Ohio, which bore the name and address of Mrs. Eugene Bailey.

Telephoned for Funds Bailey, an artist in the ad department of the Akron Beacon-Journal, said his wife left home May 29 on her vacation with a friend, Tanya Barstoff, 27, of San Francisco, Mrs. Bailey, 26, took

The distraught husband said his wife telephoned him at the trailer court where they live Tuesday night and left word she needed money. He sent $50, which had not been picked up by Thursday

The life of a TV actress is a demanding one and performer Shari Lewis has learned to use her beauty tricks for the small screen at home, too. She has very large, brilliant dark eyes and is extremely near-sighted. Here, she uses a white paint (left) to draw a little line at the corner of the eye. This extends the length of the eye and makes it look even larger. She also uses mascara and an eye-liner.

Psalm 28:7 "The Lord is my strength and my shield, my heart trusted in Him and I am helped, therefore my heart greatly rejoiceth and with my song I will praise Him."

Many people, including each of us, are called upon to bear all manner of sorrow and suffering that causes our hearts to break. The words from the 28th psalm give us guidance and direction in making our hearts rejoice. They give help to "aching hearts."

Sorrow and suffering are caused by many things, sin, imagined hurts, life itself. Many would tell us that if we would repent of our sins, fill our minds with constructive thoughts, or merely accept our lot, we could cure our heart aches. These answers may be true in part, but the greatest cure and the only basic cure is FAITH IN GOD.

The psalmist says to trust in God. This means our complete and whole trust, our selves, our souls, our bodies. If we will trust God with all of our lives, all of the pieces of our broken hearts, it is wonderful what God can do.

All of us are familiar with the story of Humpty-Dumpty who had a great fall and broke into many pieces so that all the kings men and all the kings horses couldn't put him together again. There is a lesson in this. for us. Mankind, alone, can not mend our lives when they are broken. Mankind, alone, can not put the pieces together again. But there is someone who can-God. It is wonderful to see how much stronger and better our lives are if we give all the little and big pieces to Him.

FAITH IN GOD enables us to keep going when we have sorrow or heartache. One of the worst things for us is to stop and begin to brood and indulge in self-pity, taking drugs or resorting to drink. These are only temporary remedies of the symptoms and not of the causes. If you look at a swamp you will see an ugly green film that produces all manner of disease and unhealthy conditions. The water once was pure, clear and was flowing toward the sea. But the water ran into a low place and stopped becoming stagnate and the breeding place of many unhealthy things. So it is with life. When we stop, hit a low place, we become stagnate too and breed many unhealthy things in our souls.

The second things that FAITH IN GOD does for us is that it brings love. Love is the greatest medicine for our sorrows and heartaches. God :is love we are told and when we put our faith and trust in God love begins to flow into and through us and the pain disappears. How does this happen? We can not explain but we can experience the wonderful change in our lives if we put our complete trust in God. So when your hearts are troubled. fill your mind and heart with the words of the 28th psalm. Don't let your life stagnate and breed spiritual evils but fill your heart with God. Then his power, strength, and grace will flow through your life and mend your broken heart.

The suggestion was made by Dr. A. S. Norris of the State UMversity of Iowa. When science knows more than it knows now, he said, the obstetrician will be able to practice preventive psychiatry in behalf of the unborn. In fact, he will be "the first line of defense against mental illness," Norris said.

The panel discussion was a feature of the annual meeting of the American Medical Association, It called attention to the usually ignored fact that we all live approximately nine months before our lives begin officially.

Before-Birth Environments Norris thought it a pity science has paid so little attention to the influences of people's before-birth environments while making elabosate studies of how after-birth environments mold people into what they are, good and bad.

He pointed to the situations in which before-birth environments rob after-birth environments of most if not all molding influence. Some human beings die before they are born. Others are born mentally or physically defective. The accent was on the bad, of course, because science is ignorant of the good which beforebirth environments create beyond the fact that most people at birth are quite normal. But people are born with astonishing endowments of body and mind, as well as with defects, and science has never been able to show heredity is the FULL explanation. Norris's complaint basically was that the little which is known points to the importance of happenings in the before-birth environments, and why don't scientists get more facts?

Walter E. Spahr, in his "Monetary Notes," quotes some interesting statements by prominent people on the importance of a gold standard for currency.

BETTER JOBS

By R. C. HOILES

Prerequisites Of

Sound Money

It always seems to me that Spahr doesn't go far enough back as to the causes of irredeemable paper money. Irredeemable paper money is a sequence of the belief in the Welfare State. As long as people believe in the Welfare State irredeemable paper money naturally follows.

We are getting a little taste of irredeemable paper money by our declining export in goods and the increase in exporting of our But back to Spahr's arguments.

"1. A missing fundamental. of the Treasury Anderson in New York, April 20:

"6. We must maintain the priceless incentive of confidence in the value of our money'.

"10. We must accept the imposition of discipline and prudent responsibility'. "So long as our aim is to in crease real wages and real goods and services, I do not believe that any characteristic which could contribute to the debasement of the currency is a desirable ingredient in our economy'. "S (for Spahr): Excellent as was the Secretary's address in general, it stopped short of mentioning the fact that we operate with an irredeemable currency in this nation. A fundamental question arises in respect to his item 6: Does an irredeemable currency provide a better basis for confidence than does a redeemable currency? The correct answer is

"In respect to his item 10: Are the federal government and Reserve banks accepting 'the imposition of discipline and prudent responsibility' when employ an irredeemable cur-The correct answer is

"In respect to the third paragraph, quoted above, of Secretary Anderson's address: Does not the use of irredeemable currency 'contribute to the debasement of our currency'? The correct answer is 'Yes'. Since it does this, is it 'a desirable ingredient in our oconomy?' The correct answer is 'No'.

" Managed irredeemable money" is the road to totalitarianism'. From 'Challenge of Inflation', by Howard Buffett, in' National Review (March 28), p.

The mounting in 1933, and the collapse of fiscal responsibility in government, should convince any thoughtful conservative that "managed irredeemable money" is the road to totalitarianism, here as elsewhere, and that it is imperative that we find an effective cure. Unless someone has a better answer, restoration of the gold standard would seem the intelligent solution. When the people can demand gold for paper money, the government cannot long spend irresponsibly. If it does so, its gold holdings will disappear and its borrowing power will end.

"It (being engulfed by Communism) will not happen if American conservatives have the wisdom to concentrate their patriotic efforts on the decisive issuesound money. Victory on this battlefront is the key to America's future as a free land'.

"S: Howard Buffett recognized the evils and implications of irredeemable currency when he was a member of Congress and introduced, and pressed for passage of, a redeemable currency bill. But his efforts were futile against the great majority of Congress who were determined to maintain irredeemable currency and the great freedom it gave them to engage in an unprecedented spending orgy, a depreciation of our currency, and progress toward totalitarianism. Mr. Buffett goes to the heart of the matter when he says that the 'de-

It will be remembered that William Henry Chamberlin used to be a believer in a planned economy. I have not read his book "The Evolution of a Conservative" but everything I have read that he has written lately seems to indicate that he has been converted to believing in a free and unhampered market.
