Fidel Blast Sounds Tired

By JOSEPH A. TAYLOR
United Press International

HAVANA (UPI) — Premier Fidel Castro today accused the United States of harboring "war criminals" and carrying on economic and press attacks against his nation. But he appeared tired and the speech lacked the usual fire of past orations.

Castro, in a three-hour, 10-minute television appearance that lasted well past midnight, did not make his expected reply to American protests that his anti-American statements are malicious and are hurting Cuban-American relations.

He said he considers inoffensive a pamphlet that the United States has found to be objectionable. The pamphlet shows victims of last month's air battle over Cuba. Castro has charged the United States with permitting the raid from its airfields.

He conceded that the United States has taken some steps to halt such raids, but counterbalanced this admission with a long series of accusations.

They included these charges: —The United States is following a "policy of open arms to war criminals exiled from Cuba." —The United States is carrying on "a purposeful campaign of economic aggression" as part of a conspiracy against his regime.

The American press is not giving his regime fair reporting. He singled out the Miami News, the New York Journal American, the Mutual Broadcasting System, Life Magazine, and the two American wire services for criticism.

During Castro's speech, both United Press International and the Associated Press received about 20 threatening telephone calls at their Havana offices. In abusive language, the callers condemned "inaccurate reporting" and threatened to wreck the offices.

Castro devoted much of his speech to a detailed account of the search for his army commander, Maj. Camilo Cienfuegos, and conceded he must be given up for lost. Cienfuegos' plane disappeared 15 days ago on a routine one-hour flight from Camaguey to Havana.

Envoy's Son Gets Hearing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A coroner's jury decides today if the 21-year-old son of Irish Ambassador John J. Hearne was responsible for the accident in which his car struck and killed a Negro maid.

In any case, David A. Hearne's diplomatic immunity would protect him from any criminal or civil prosecution. However, the Irish government could waive this immunity.

Young Hearne, who has been in repeated scrapes with police, was not required to show up at the inquest under the law governing diplomats and their families. But his 68-year-old father assured district coroner A. Magruder MacDonald that his son would attend the hearing.

MacDonald said the six-man jury could reach one of three verdicts: (1) Hearne was responsible, (2) the victim, Mrs. Josie Hamilton, 54, was responsible, or (3) the death was an unavoidable accident Wednesday night.

Charges against the youth were wiped off the books when the youth invoked his diplomatic immunity. He was released in the custody of his father. The senior Hearne has been ambassador to Washington since 1950 and in the Irish diplomatic service for 33 years.

It was disclosed, meanwhile, that the State Department forwarded to the ambassador just two days before the accident a police report on David's escapades. The youth has escaped charges each time by invoking his immunity.

Ex-Soldier Now Bride

MIAMI (UPI) — A 34-year-old ex-GI who changed sex through a series of operations and treatments in Denmark, became a bride here a month ago, the Miami Herald reported today.

The former Charles Earnest McLeod of Dyersburg, Tenn., is now Mrs. Ralph H. Heidal, the Herald said in a copyrighted story.

The Herald said neither the pastor who performed the wedding ceremony nor the circle of friends Mrs. Heidal has made in Miami knew of her former identity.

"Well, I'll be a monkey's pa," the Herald quoted neighbor Helen Blackford. "She's beautiful, attractive you know, like a Ziegfeld girl."

The Rev. Dr. A. H. Stainback, who married the couple said "wonder what the deacons will say."

THE 13TH — Friday the 13th, traditionally a day of ill fortune, is apparently a day like any other day to Theofarastus, the Hilton Hotel cat, above. The obviously unperturbed Theofarastus, perched on handy ladder — another symbol of bad luck — is the pet of hotel manager Paul Schneider. The cat, named for an ancient Greek lawyer, has four snow-white offspring, Plato, Socrates, Diogenes and Theophostocles. (Daily News Photo)

Houston Ship Blaze Cause Told By Sailor

HOUSTON (UPI) — Seaman Joseph R. Daley told a Coast Guard board of inquiry Thursday that the holocaust on the Amoco Virginia started from a small flame on a barge loading gasoline on the tanker.

Daley, who lost his life savings of $3,000 in the fire, was one of six witnesses to appear before the three-man board in the first day of a Coast Guard inquiry into the ship channel disaster.

Daley said he "happened to look up" and saw a flame up forward on the barge. "It was a small flame and it shot out from the barge into the water."

"Then all of a sudden, it swept right over the ship," he said. "I saw a huge flame shoot up 100 feet high — a huge solid wall of fire. It started to come down and it hit the tanks. Two of three of the tanks blew up right away. There was a big explosion."

School Board Tours Schools

Pampa's School Board, meeting at 10 a.m. today, named 13 teachers and administrators to its "textbook committee for multiple list selections."

Appointed by the board were Mrs. J. B. Austin, Frank Craig, Betty Boswell, Mrs. John Evans, Mrs. Sallie B. Holcomb, Mrs. Cleona Sears, Mrs. Berlene G. Neef, Mrs. Heata Hestland, Mrs. Willetta Olds, John Plaster, Elizabeth Hurley, McHenry Lane and Superintendent of Schools Knox Kinard.

The board, which spent most of this morning on an inspection tour of new additions to the senior high and B. M. Baker schools, also was expected to name a text advisory board, according to Supt. Kinard.

At press time today the board was examining plans for landscaping around the east addition of Pampa High School. Consulted on the matter was Cantrell and Co. Architects and Principal Jack Edmondson.

Irish Want Nuclear Possession Limited

By BRUCE W. MUNN
United Press International
UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UPI) — Ireland today renewed its appeal to the world's atomic powers to keep their nuclear weapons to themselves, and not let other countries have them.

External Affairs Minister Frank Aiken presented his country's views in the opening debate on the Irish proposal to limit the "nuclear club" to the powers now in possession of atomic weapons — Britain, Russia and the United States — and France, which plans to test its first bomb soon.

Statements on the Irish resolution were the third phase in the disarmament debate in the 82-nation main political committee of the U. N. General Assembly.

Aiken asked that the atomic powers "assume the responsibility for seeing that nuclear weapons are not spread throughout the world, until a cut-off of all production can be achieved and existing stocks devoted to peaceful uses."

The Irish resolution suggested that the 10-power disarmament talks scheduled in Geneva next February "examine the feasibility" of the nuclear powers reaching agreement not to give their bombs to "have-not" nations in the nuclear field and also to stop manufacturing them.

Today's debate began after the committee approved a resolution against French plans to test an atom bomb in the Sahara. France predicted the measure would be rejected by the General Assembly.

Qualified diplomatic sources agreed with the French view. They pointed out that the resolution, which "requests" France not to hold the tests, expected next spring, did not have the necessary two-thirds backing to assure Assembly approval.

The French called their 46-26 defeat in the political committee a "victory." There were also 20 abstentions.

"It was a beautiful victory," French disarmament expert Jules Moch said. "The credit goes to (See IRISH, Page 3)

After Snow, Mercury Hits A Minus 34

HELENA, Mont. (UPI) — A bitter cold wave hit Montana today on the heels of a blizzard and temperatures plummeted as low as 34 degrees below zero.

The numbing cold froze a hard crust on the two-foot layer of snow, threatening starvation for 10,000 to 15,000 head of cattle and sheep unable to break the crust to forage.

A rescue party set out at dawn into the cold and waist-deep snow drifts in search of two Montana State University students trapped high in the Rocky Mountain-while elk hunting.

The sheriff's office at Missoula said chances were "very slim" they would find Bob Amick Jr., of Billings, and Richard Maxwell, of Warm Springs, alive unless the youths had found a mountain cabin in with a stove.

"We'll find them — but we don't know in what direction," a deputy sheriff said grimly.

Amick and Maxwell were the only two hunters still unaccounted for. Other hunters stumbled down from the mountains last night after a frightening battle through the worst blizzard in Montana history.

The cold wave dropped Montana temperatures to 34 degrees below zero at Drummond, 33 below at Butte and 30 below at West Yellowstone. The state's high temperature at dawn was a frigid six above at Glasgow.

It was 32 below at Helena, the state's capital city which was crippled Thursday by a record 21.5-inch snowfall.

The Weather Bureau predicted the ice-laden air would envelop Wyoming, Colorado and the Middle Plains States today and drop temperatures near zero through the Middle West.

Montana ranchers, caught with a 15 per cent surplus in livestock due to slow markets, began a desperate battle to reach their trapped herds and flocks.

The ranchers said the "fatality rate" for strays would probably be severe, but said past experience had taught them to be prepared by laying in plenty of feed.

Ordinance On Trailer Homes Is Clarified

Building Inspector Jess Taylor, the target of numerous questions on the city's recently passed trailer home ordinance, attempted today to clarify the ordinance.

"Ordinance 514 does not prohibit the moving of trailer homes into residential areas," he said, "but it does regulate it."

He added: "The following suggestions are set out which will, when followed, comply with the requirements as set out by Ordinance 514."

1 — When a trailer is moved into a residential zone, the space requirement must be a minimum of 8,000 square feet, the same as required for a single family residence. Two trailer homes cannot be set on the same lot unless the lot area exceeds 12,000 square feet.

Turkey In Mall Promotion Is Coming Along

Much interest is being shown in Pampa's second annual "Turkey in the Mall Day" Nov. 24, according to Lucian Young, chairman of the merchants activities committee of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce and Board of City Development.

Three blocks will be closed to traffic from noon till 8 p.m. on the 24th and 1950 model automobiles will be displayed.

Participating firms will give away tickets for 24 Thanksgiving turkeys. A complete list of participating firms will be available in the next few days and will be listed at that time.

Tickets are to be given away only on the day of the drawings which will be held at 3 p.m., 5 p.m., 7 p.m. and 8 p.m. Automobile dealers who are showing cars will also give away tickets.

Resumption Of Steel Strike OK'd

NEW YORK (UPI) — The 171-man wage policy committee of the United Steelworkers of America voted unanimously Thursday to resume its nationwide strike in January if no contract agreement is reached during the present "cooling off" period.

President David J. McDonald told a news conference he knew of no reason to be optimistic that a settlement will be reached. But he urged that employers settle with the union on terms similar to those on which the Kaiser Steel Corp. reached separate agreement last month.

The union policy said invocation of the Taft-Hartley law's injunction provisions on Nov. 7 had "suspended" but not "broken" the strike, which had lasted 116 days. The union is free to strike again on Jan. 28.

Legend Of Invincibility Torn From Watutsis By Uprising

EDITOR'S NOTE: Robert Muesel of the London UPI bureau has spent some time with the Watutsi tribe in Africa, now engaged in a battle of survival with the Bahutus who rose from serfdom to kill hundreds of their giant masters. In the following dispatch he tells of their rise to near god-like status—and their fall.

By ROBERT MUSEL
United Press International

LONDON (UPI) — A David and Goliath war is being fought in Ruanda-Urundi, next door to the Belgian Congo, and what is dying with the Watutsi warriors is the legend of their invincibility.

The Bahutus, who are a people of medium height, are killing off their masters of 300 years — the giant Watutsi, one of the strangest and most fascinating tribes on earth.

I spent some time among them in one of their capital towns, Astrida, where the Watutsi — they prefer that spelling to the Americanized Watutsi — have ruled for three centuries over the cool hills of their beautiful land.

They came down out of Egypt or Ethiopia centuries ago, bringing with them the lyre-horned cattle exactly like those depicted on ancient Egyptian tombs. And their legend of invincibility had protected them ever since.

Without really fighting a battle the skinny giants, many of them seven feet and over, made slaves of the pygmy Batwas (four feet high) and subject peoples of the Bahutus.

They have brought in the pygmies and their blowguns and poisoned darts to aid them in their battle for survival.

The Watutsi are people of tremendous presence. Their faces are delicately chiseled, their swaying walk gracefully impressive. To emphasize their height they wear Romanesque togas draped down from the shoulder.

The Batwas and Bahutus had never seen anything like them. They accepted instantly that the great warriors they said they were. And the Watutsi, without throwing a spear or firing a poisoned arrow, shrewdly added to the legend — for they are, most remarkable people.

For example they have large drums decorated with souvenirs separated from alleged battle victims. No one knows where they got these private mementoes—since no one can remember they ever fought a war before this one — but the sight of the drums was enough to make every male pygmy and Bahutu a more devoted servant.

Ingenious people the Watutsi, for 300 years they parlayed one bluff after another into a life of luxurious indolence, never raising a hand to light a pipe or pick up the gourd of banana beer while one of their slaves was around.

The lazy life did the Watutsi no good as a race. They were racked with disease and declining in numbers due to their deficient diet of banana beer and cereals. They do not keep cattle for meat but for social position. There are stories that during a great famine forty years ago some even died alongside their cattle rather than eat them.

Meanwhile the hardworking Bahutus were multiplying and acquiring political leaders who had shaken off the old taboos about the Watutsi. Now that Ruanda-Urundi will be given its freedom by Belgium in a year or so, the Bahutus are striking at their old masters to ensure that control of the land will be in their hands.

Nursing Seminar In Berger Saturday

The Gray County Heart Association, in conjunction with the North Plains District Heart Association, will sponsor a cardiac nursing seminar at the Hotel Berger Saturday from 9 through 4:30 p.m.

All nurses in the Panhandle have been sent invitations and programs. This seminar is the first in a series of yearly events to be alternated between Pampa, Borger and Amarillo, with next year's seminar being held in Pampa.

An outstanding selection of speakers have been chosen both from the Panhandle area and state-wide. Mrs. Beverly Rusan, R.N., nursing supervisor of Hilland General Hospital, is chairman of the planning committee.

Jury Call In Lynching Case

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — A federal grand jury will be called Jan. 4, probably in Biloxi, by U.S. District Judge Jimmy Mize to consider the April 25 lynching of Negro Mack Charles Parker.

If the jury indicts anyone, the trial will be in Biloxi probably at the next regular term in February. Biloxi is about 50 miles from Poplarville where a county grand jury refused last week to return an indictment.

Mize said he might reconvene the recessed Jackson grand jury on Jan. 4, but that a new jury in Biloxi was more likely because other matters there needed investigation. He said the Parker case would be given "top priority."

The judge said he could not call a grand jury Dec. 16 as requested by the Justice Department because he already has a Vicksburg term of court scheduled at that time.

Sell Hwy. 60, Members Told

Thirty-nine U.S. Highway 60 boosters, meeting in the Pampa hotel Thursday evening, went on record as favoring a cross-country bus tour along U.S. 60 for a select group of "potential customers."

Virgil Dodson of Hereford proposed the idea before the fall board meeting of the Texas Division of the U.S. Highway 60 Association.

"The best way to sell our product (Highway 60)," Dodson said, "is to show it to our potential customers." The resolution, if it ultimately succeeds, will probably need strong backing by the National Highway 60 organization.

In addition, Dodson's proposal of the Texas organization decided to hold its annual banquet sometime in February in Pampa's Coronado Inn. Two other cities, Amarillo and Hereford, made bids for the banquet.

The organization also moved to pay $850 to the Oklahoma Division for a sign program obligation (leaving $1.20 in the treasury), and heard reports on Highway 60 construction projects across Texas.

Highway 60, which stretches nationwide from Virginia Beach, Va., to Los Angeles, cuts across Texas from Higgins in the east to Farwell in the west. Most of the major Texas cities touched by Highway 60 were represented at the Thursday meeting, among them, Amarillo, Hereford, Pampa, Canyon and Panhandle.

Baptists Hold Loyalty Dinner

C. J. Humphrey, Amarillo lawyer, spoke at the Central Baptist loyalty dinner last night. He challenged the membership of the church to underwrite the $92,000 budget for next year.

The Pampa High School cafeteria was the setting for the dinner at which 420 people from the church attended. Another 105 were present in the nurseries and the children's party which was held at the church.

The dinner is an annual event held in connection with the budget subscription effort and was the third such dinner held in as many years.

Using the story of the Good Samaritan as a basis, Humphrey pointed out three opinions held by most people relating to possessions.

Special musical selections were given by Mr. and Mrs. Preston Sharp and Mr. and Mrs. Milton Sharp, Hart.

Rev. Thurman O. Upshaw, pastor, was the master of ceremonies. Bob Callahan led those present in singing. W. C. Bass Jr., general chairman of the campaign, introduced the committees which have been working on the various phases of the campaign.

Humphrey commended the church for including in its budget help for two churches in Colorado. Committees which have been serving in the campaign are: The budget planning committee—W. C. Maples, J. B. Hilburn, John Mitchell, Wayne Cobb, James Baird, Mrs. Charlie Thomas, R. L. Ratliff, Bob Callahan, and Rev. T. O. Upshaw. Budget promotion committee—Bob Callahan, Billy Joe Chance, and Charles Bronson. Budget pledging committee—Charles Terrell, R. C. Brown and George Long. Reservations committee—Mrs. Gene McClelland, Mrs. Curtis Liles, and Mrs. L. G. McDaniel. Loyalty dinner committee—Mrs. Charlie Thomas, Mrs. L. R. Tyson, and Mrs. M. O. Burns.

Children's party committee—Mrs. Ernest Luedcke and Mrs. R. E. Bradford. Lesson Chairman—Wayne Cobb. Office help committee—Mrs. Ralph Prock, Mrs. E. B. Davis, and Mrs. J. C. Jones. Tally committee—Mrs. Jack Cullison, Mr. Jim Johnston, Mrs. W.

Little Sister Has A Hero Brother

DUNN, N. C. (UPI)—An 8-year-old boy darted into a flaming house Thursday and carried his one-year-old sister to safety.

The infant, Shirley Lane Smith, was hospitalized with burns but her brother Johnny escaped, with singed eyebrows and lashes.

Their mother left them at home with two other children while she went to the Welfare Department of Lillington.

Firemen saved the house, but most of its contents was destroyed.

Johnny said "the baby was in a chair and she was trying to get out the window. So I picked her up and ran."

"I didn't have any trouble getting into the fire. It was back somewhere else. But when I ran out, I couldn't see, so I just ran anyway I could."

17th Census Gets Under Way Nov. 18

Taking of the 17th nationwide agricultural census will get under way in Gray and surrounding counties Nov. 18, according to County Agent Ralph Thomas. The "crew leader," Mrs. Vera M. Morgan of Shamrock, will supervise the work in Gray, Wheeler and Collingsworth counties.

Information gained from this agricultural census will have a vital influence on future planning, says Thomas. More than 30,000 census takers will visit farm families throughout the nation to get information on three general fields: farm resources, farm products sold in 1959 and selected farm activities during the year.

Farmers should complete forms mailed them by the Census Bureau and have them ready for the census taker when he calls, says Thomas. This not only saves time for both the farmer and census taker, but will tend to make information more accurate. Thomas points out that all information given by farmers is confidential and that figures for individual farms will not be revealed. Information on individuals is not available even for other government agencies such as Department of Internal Revenue.

The big go under way in far south Texas on Oct. 7 and by Nov. 18 work will have begun over the entire nation.

Thomas believes that farm census is of more importance to farmers than any one else, as these figures have been one of the main sources of information for farm legislation in the past and no doubt will be in the future. Thomas urges every farmer to give the census taker as accurate information as possible.

DEAR ABBY....

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I gave my husband four beautiful daughters. We would have liked a boy but, like everyone, we took what we got and liked it. At every family gathering my in-laws always bring up the subject of how nice it would be if we had a son to carry on the name. I cannot have any more children so this is out of the question. What can I say to these people when they tell me how sad it is that we don't have a son to carry on the family name. They certainly irritate me.

DEAR ABBY: I figured out that her share of my waffle iron was about a dollar. If you were in my place, what would you give her?

Reception Given In Honor Of The Jake Leggitt's Anniversary

LEFORS (Sp) — Mr. and Mrs. Jake Leggitt, Columbian Carbon camp, were honored Sunday at a reception in observance of their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary. Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Leggitt's mother, Mrs. G. R. Long, Mrs. Lewis Curry and Mrs. Whit Whitefield, sisters of Mrs. Leggitt, and Mrs. Charles Earhart. The guests were registered by Mrs. Clayton Knapp of Amarillo, and moving pictures of the afternoon were taken by Clayton Knapp.

Corasages of white carnations were presented the honorees. Mrs. Leggitt's mother, Mrs. G. R. Long, Mrs. Lewis Curry and Mrs. Whit Whitefield, sisters of Mrs. Leggitt, and Mrs. Charles Earhart.

RUTH MILLETT

Ladies: If you don't want to be left stranded at the next party with the women in one little group and the men in another, here are some tactics to try: Don't dismiss George with a brief greeting and then start telling his wife, Sue, all about your new draperies or the time you had getting a baby sitter. Before you've run down from that first breathless exchange of feminine chitchat, George will be out in the kitchen with the boys. Instead, address your first remarks to George. Tell him you heard he had good luck on his last hunting trip or that you understand he has just bought a little foreign car — and George will stick around to bend your ear.

st in time for our cranberry-Thanksgiving table is the Sigma Phi Sorority's Table Setting Contest which will be held Friday from two o'clock until 8 in Pampa High School field. We are hoping to copy enough and ingenious table decorations to give us ideas so that our family table, even those that we have had the ill-fated, pretty, little cranberry from our festive dining table.

Proceeds this year from the sale of 50 cent tickets, after the cost of the show has been deducted, will be given to the Exceptional Children Ass'n for its use in providing equipment for the instruction of handicapped children. Since the tables will be pre-judged before the public is admitted to view the tables, this year it will be possible to identify each entry with a small placard in front of each one. The Sorority announces that fourteen entries have been received. Included in these entries are Twentieth Century Club, Twentieth Century Culture Club, Twentieth Century Cotillion, Twentieth Century Allegro, Top o' Texas Garden Club, Africa Violet Society, Pampa Art Club, 20-30 Club of Lefors, Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority, Business and Professional Women's Club, Highland Hobby Club, Pampa PALS Ass'n., Girl Scout Troop 17 and Altrusa Club.

When the scores were in Torvie Fountain had tallied 6.65 to the 4.295 points secured by the Hills-Vincent duo. Still upwelling to the vice victory to the other team, even in face of the black and white score evidence, it was decided to play two more hands to unconditionally prove who had won. After two hands of play, the scores were tallied and it was a tie! 6.065 for Torvie-Fountain, 6.065 for Hills-Vincent. Methinks, though, that we have not yet heard the last from these cantata players.

MATURE PARENT

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

One day when Mrs. P. was eight years old her little brother knocked a cooking pie off the kitchen window sill.

Then Mrs. P.'s punishment had begun. For four days her mother refused to have anything to do with her, saying cold things like "Why do you want to kiss me good night if I'm so unfair?"

How would an unfair mother like me care when you came home to supper? ... I'm too unfair to tell you where your skates are ...

Mrs. P. still remembers the pain of those four days. But what she doesn't remember is the conclusion she drew from it. As she wandered, lonely and disgraced through that desolate time, she concluded that difference from a beloved person was an end to relationship with him. She decided that safety was always oneness with him.

Because of that unconscious conclusion drawn long ago, her adolescent son is now giving her a difficult time. He dates a girl Mrs. P. doesn't see anything in. Two nights ago he said: "O.K., if you won't ask Pat here to supper, I'll have it with her someplace else!"

Then he walked out of the house

LITTLE LIZ

When a woman politician goes around kissing everyone, she's probably carrying on a smear campaign.

Ever since his mother has been sunk in discouragement so deep her family can't pull her out of it. Unfortunately, she believes her suffering is due to "that girl."

Once you have a man's attention, don't lose it by treating him like a husband. That is, don't expect him to want to hear about your children, your PTA work, your diet or anything else so humdrum. Treat him like a man and watch him perk up.

You don't have to get stuck off in a corner with the women if you keep your wits about you. Mean really like to talk to women who know how to listen.

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

ENVOY H. E. SEAGO
Salvation Army

Matthew 25:31-40

31. When the Son of man shall come in his glory, and all the holy angels with him, then shall he sit upon the throne of his glory:
32. And before him shall be gathered all nations; and he shall separate them one from another, as a shepherd divideth his sheep from the goats:
33. And he shall set the sheep on his right hand, but the goats on the left.
34. Then shall the King say unto them on his right hand, come, ye blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world.
35. For I was hungry, and ye gave me meat; I was thirsty, and ye gave me drink: I was a stranger, and ye took me in:
36. Naked, and ye clothed me: I was sick, and ye visited me: I was in prison, ye came unto me.
37. Then shall the righteous answer him, saying, Lord, when saw we thee an hungered, and fed thee? or thirsty, and gave thee drink?
38. When saw we thee a stranger, and took thee in? or naked, and clothed thee?
39. Or when saw we thee sick, or in prison, and came unto thee?
40. And the King shall answer and say unto them, Verily I say unto you, Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me.

We don't seem to realize that as individuals the responsibility that is ours in being a good steward. We have brought nothing into this world and we can carry nothing out of this world. What we are and have is only loaned to us by God. God retains ownership of our gifts and we are the managers of them.

In the measure we give is the way it comes back to us. In Galatians 6:7-9 it says:

7. Be not deceived; God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap.
8. For he that soweth to his flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption; but he that soweth to the Spirit shall of the Spirit reap life everlasting.

And let us not be weary in well doing for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not.
So if we sow kindness and consideration for other people instead of selfishness and greed, we will receive more in this life and more in the life to come. We are told in Matthew 6:33 Seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you. Everyone knows or should know that God's ways are best. He who leaves the things of God out of his life, though he may amass a great fortune and have everything he needs here, he ends up being a beggar and pauper. We know that health and wealth, skill and will, brain and brawn, work and wages, income and profit, honor and success all come from God and are to be used in the manner that pleases Him.

Harvesters Will Play at Plainview Tonight

Groom, Claude Meet For 1-B Championship

Claude and Groom meet Saturday in Claude, to decide the district championship of 1-B. Both have 4-0 district records.

In the other area districts, 2-A, 5-AA, and 1-B (six-man bi-district play-off representatives have already been decided. However, only Miami in the six-man district has clinched a clear title. The Warriors will warm up for their play-off game by hosting Mobeetie in a non-conference game tonight, with no seniors allowed to play.

Miami will play Nazareth, the District 2 six-man winner, next Friday at 7:30 p.m., in Panhandle for the bi-district championship. The winner of that contest will meet the winner of the Divide-Weinert game for the regional championship. Both Nazareth and Miami are undefeated in their districts. Miami is also unbeaten for the season, but Nazareth lost to Miami, 58-32, in a non-district game.

McLean has clinched the bi-district playoff spot for District 2-A, but the Tigers must defeat the host Clarendon team tonight in order to gain a clear district championship. Other-wise, White Deer could tie the Tigers for the title, by whipping Memphis at White Deer.

Quannah is "in" as the 5-AA playoff representative, but the Indians must scalp Wellington tonight, at Wellington, to be sure that Perryton does not tie them for the district title. Perryton plays host to Shamrock.

In the Claude - Groom title game, Groom will probably rate as a slight favorite. The Tigers has a strong defense, which has allowed only 11.4 points per game over the season, despite playing such class A powers as White Deer, Gruver, and McLean.

Some indication of the Tigers' defensive strength is the fact that they shut out McLean, the 2-A champion, 12-0; and that they held Gruver, another class A power, to a 6-0 victory. White Deer was the only team which scored more than two touchdowns against Groom's varsity team.

Claude and Groom have identical season records of 5-4, but Groom has played slightly tougher opposition. Claude lost to Estel-

Wilt Could Score Point-a-Minute

United Press International
Wilt Chamberlain, averaging 40 points a game, may become the first point-a-minute player in National Basketball Association history.

The Philadelphia rookie, who has ripped apart the best defenses in the circuit, climbed to a personal high of 55 points Thursday night as the Warriors defeated the Cincinnati Royals, 124-116.

In other games, the Detroit Pistons beat Minneapolis, 107-93, and Syracuse whipped the Knickerbockers, 113-104, in a New York doubleheader.

Chamberlain, also bidding for a new season rebound record, grabbed 29 caroms and put the game out of Cincinnati's reach when he scored 12 straight points in the first six minutes of the fourth quarter. The Royals were trailing, 92-88, when Wilt went on his spree.

Jack Twyman, who paced Cincinnati to a 67-58 halftime lead, was the Royals' high scorer with 32 points.

Detroit, holding Elgin Baylor to 33 points, broke a four-game losing streak and climbed out of the Western Division cellar. The Lakers made it close in the fourth period when they trailed, 92-86, but the Pistons rallied to take the contest. Archie Dees scored the Detroit high of 23 points.

George Yardley set the Syracuse pace that planted New York deeper in the Eastern Division basement. Yardley scored 23 points, seven in a late game spurt that broke the game open.

Pampa's boxers made their best showing of the season Thursday at Lafayette, La. (UPI) First round leaders Bob Watson and Jerry Pittman were out to build up a comfortable lead today in the $15,000 Lafayette Open golf tournament.

The pair carded five under par 66's Thursday to gain a one-stroke advantage over Walker Inman Jr. of Elgin Air Force Base, La., and Billy Maxwell of Odessa, Tex.

Watson, whose home club is Ardley-on-Hudson, N.Y., shot a 66 on the back nine for his 10th hole, while Pittman, a young Tulsa, Okla., shotmaker, had a 32-34-66.

Defending champion Jay Hebert, the pre-tourney favorite, had a 70 for the 6,700 yard Orkbourne Country Club course. The Sanford, Fla., pro won last year's inaugural event with a 72-hole total of 276. Eleven other golfers matched Hebert's score Thursday.

Bracketed at 68 were Jerry Magee of Toronto, Jim Ferree of Crystal River, Fla., and Mason Randolph of Clarksville, Tenn.

This is "get even" Sunday in the National Football League.

All six games match teams which have met before this season. Sweeping the home-and-home series with a rival during the season is one of the league's toughest tasks.

That means six coaches are "running scared" Sunday and five of them have teams in the thick of the division races.

Coach Red Hickey's San Francisco Forty-Niners, two games in front in the Western Division, provide a typical example of Sunday's setup in their clash with the Bears at Chicago. The Bears (8-4) seek revenge for a 20-17 defeat suffered last month at San Francisco. The oddsmakers figure they'll get it, tabbing the Forty-Niners (-6 1/2) two-point underdogs.

Coach Weeb Ewbank's Baltimore Colts, defending league and close to San Francisco. The Colts (4-3) are 9 1/2 point favorites to down the Green Bay Packers (3-4) at Milwaukee. The Packers lost recently at Baltimore, 38-21.

Coach Jim Lee Howell's New York Giants (-6 1/2) must whip the Pittsburgh Steelers (-2-1) to assure themselves of maintaining their one-game lead over the Cleveland Browns (-5) in the Eastern race. The Giants are 7 1/2 point choices to defeat the team they had to sweat to edge at Pittsburgh, 21-16.

Strickland, Giese to Replace Injured Cooper on PHS Team

PLAINVIEW — The Pampa Harvesters, minus their leading ground gainer, meet the Plainview Bulldogs here tonight in an important District 3-A football game.

The Harvesters will be without the services of their leading ground gainer, halfback Mert Cooper, who is out with a shoulder separation. Replacing Cooper at halfback position will be a junior Ruben Strickland. Another junior, Charlie Giese, will take Cooper's place at the defensive corner linebacker position.

Tonight's game will boost the winner into fifth place in the district, and drop the loser to seventh place or the cellar, depending on what eighth-place Lubbock does against Amarillo. Both Pampa and Plainview have 1-3-1 records, and are tied for sixth place. Fifth place Pao Duro (2-4) is idle this week.

Tonight's game will be a battle of the offense versus the defense, and of the T formation versus the single and double wings.

Plainview runs from the single and double wing formations, and has made an average of 234 yards in each district game. The Bulldog offense was especially good in the last two games, in which Plainview routed Lubbock, 41-0, and tied Monterey, 27-27. Two tailbacks, Jimmy Carter and Eddie Clark, have run for most of Plainview's yardage.

The Harvesters, running from the T formation, have only a fair offense. They have gained an average of only 189 yards in each district game. However, their defense is among the best in the district. Pampa has allowed each district opponent an average of 169 yards rushing and 16 passing (for the best pass defense in the district).

Plainview's defense, sparked by 255-pound tackle Joe Ferguson, 165-pound tackle Harold Fox, and 170-pound end Pat Nicoll, is rated only average. However, the defense has been improving, and Pampa coaches who have scouted the Bulldogs attribute the improvement to more experience, for the many sophomores and juniors on the Plainview squad.

Thanks to the 255-pound Ferguson

Monterey Blanks Shockers, 28-0

LUBBOCK — The Monterey Explorers ended the Shockers' season on a losing note here Thursday, 28-0. The loss gave the Shockers a season record of 3-6.

Shocker Coach Norman Phillips said, after the game, that the Shocker team is "much better than a 3-6 record showed. They made some mistakes toward the end of the season, but they're learning from their mistakes. Most of them will make fine football players."

Monterey scored three times Thursday on long sustained drives, and once on a long pass. The Shockers threatened twice, but were stopped once by a penalty and once by a fumble.

Monterey drove 60 yards to score early in the second quarter. The touchdown came on a 1-yard plunge. The Shockers came back and drove from the middle strip to the Monterey 15. On the next play, Riley Walters raced around end and went into the end zone, but the play was called back on a penalty. The threat then fizzled out.

The Explorers tallied two touchdowns in the second quarter, one on a 50-yard pass and the other on a sustained drive, climaxing by a 2-yard run. They led 20-0 at halftime. Monterey tallied its last touchdown in the third period, on a sustained drive climaxing by a 1-yard scoring run. The extra-point was good.

Pampa marched to the Monterey 20 once in the second half, but the Shockers lost the ball, at that point, on a fumble.

Phillips said that Eddie Berry did an excellent job of passing, and that Riley Walters made some good catches. Walters, Gerald Been, and John Arthur all made fairly good yardage running, and Mark Russell played a good game at an offensive end position.

Score by Quarters:

Monterey	6	14	8	0	28
Shockers	0	0	0	0	0

Charges Fly In Baseball 'Cold War'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Baseball's cold war today erupted into a hot controversy between the major leagues and the new Continental circuit.

William A. Shea, founder of the Continental League, opened the shooting battle by charging that the withdrawal of the Dallas-Fort Worth application for a franchise from the newly-organized loop is "part of the program of the American League and baseball to harass us."

Shea further alleged that millionaire contractor J. W. Bateson took the Texas franchise application out of the area because Bateson "has been sold by someone on the idea that he has a chance of getting into the American League."

"We are sorry he has been so glibly," Shea said, "Dallas has no more chance of getting into the American League than Sioux City has." Bateson had been a real enthusiastic backer of the Continental League in the past.

Bateson, who has been in baseball only two years as operator of the Dallas franchise in the Texas League and then in the American Association, denied that any major league interests had influenced his decisions.

"The only selling done," said Bateson, "was by the people of Dallas and Fort Worth. They sold me the idea that there wasn't enough enthusiasm to insure success."

Bateson said he didn't know whether the Dallas-Fort Worth section would ever get into the established major leagues, but "I'll certainly try to keep my hands in baseball until that day comes."

"I tried, and tried hard," he said, to find someone interested in the Continental League. "Not a person in Fort Worth offered to put a dime into the venture and we couldn't find any substantial financial backing in Dallas."

The Dallas-Fort Worth franchise had been touted as "an addition of the Continental League's five founding cities — New York, Toronto, Denver, Houston and Minneapolis-St. Paul."

Handicap Tourney Set Here

The Top O' Texas classified handicap bowling tournament will be held at Harvesters Bowl on the weekends of Dec. 5-6 and Dec. 12-13. The entry deadline is midnight, Nov. 28. Entries are expected from several area towns, as well as Pampa.

Team bowling will be held December 5 and 12, and doubles and singles will be held December 6 and 13. Entrants may bowl on more than one team, but no more than two people from one team may bowl on another team.

The tournament will have two classes of bowlers, A and B. Class A bowlers will be those who, with a 75 percent handicap, have an average of 171 or more. The B bowlers will be those with less than 170, with their 75 percent handicap.

The entry fee in class A will be $5, and in class B it will be $4. The all-events fee is $100. Included in this amount will be a $3 prize fee for class A, and a $2.00 prize fee for class B. The prize fee will be returned 100 percent in trophies.

Trophies will be awarded to all ment is sanctioned by the American Bowling Congress.

Soviet Exchange Student Is Not As Reporter Pictured

By HARRY R. BELINGER
United Press International

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—In seeking out Soviet youth leader Elvira Astafyeva one expected to find a husky lass wearing combat boots who would tell about life in the communes.

Instead, I found myself staring into the pretty green eyes of a shapely blonde wearing a snug fitting black sweater, gray skirt and black patent leather, spike heels—all products of the U.S.S.R. Since my Russian is confined to yes (da) — which sounds like baby talk) and no (yet — which I pronounce as if I started to say something and forgot what it was). I was looking for someone among the 24 touring Soviet youth leaders who spoke English.

Elvira speaks English — the clear, cultured kind. In a soft, perfectly modulated voice she told me she was a 22-year-old philologist (science of linguistics) student at the University of Leningrad.

She said she was thoroughly enjoying her first visit to America and was greatly "impressed with the hospitality" and...

A photographer interrupted. Would we mind facing the other way so the light would be better on Elvira's clear skin.

We turned to the north, the light was better. And Elvira continued.

Elvira said in the two weeks she has been in America she has found furnishings here similar to those in Russian homes because the Soviets also have TVs, refrigerators and other appliances. And she also found the traffic situation similar in the large cities in both America and Russia.

Elvira was about to continue but she had to leave with four or five other members of her group to visit the Sidney Hillman Medical Center.

I picked another subject. This time she was definitely the Russian type: Flat shoes, loose fitting sweater, full skirt, blonde hair pulled straight back, then braided in pig tails which were pinned up.

"Do you speak English?"
"Of course. Everybody who was born and raised in Philadelphia usually does."

This subject explained she was Margaret Rhoads, 22, accompanying the group as an interpreter-guide, and had toured Russia last summer on the same exchange program after graduating from Reed College, Portland, Ore.

Miss Rhoads said the American group was given a great deal of freedom while on its Russian tour although it didn't stay with any families. She said she did visit some flats in Moscow and found the furnishings much different—massive and dark.

She also said she found an abundance of TVs, few refrigerators and other appliances and the traffic problem practically nonexistent because of the relatively few number of automobiles. All of which left me scratching my head.

The moon is approaching its full phase.
The morning star is Venus.
The evening stars are Mercury and Saturn.

On this date in history:
In 1850, Robert Louis Stevenson, famed Scottish novelist, poet, and essayist, was born.
In 1853, John Drew, American matinee idol, was born in Philadelphia.

In 1921, Hollywood released "The Sheik" — starring Rudolph Valentino.

In 1927, the Holland Tunnel, running under the Hudson River between New York City and Jersey City, N. J., was opened to the public.

In 1933, workers in the Hormel Packing Company in Austin, Minn., staged the first recorded "sit-down" strike in the U. S.

A thought for today: Scottish poet Robert Louis Stevenson said: "Give me the young man who has brains enough to make a fool of himself."

MY, WHAT COMPANY YOU KEEP—How did this pretty young lady get mixed up with these unsavory looking characters? She's Dancan Schiltz of Canton, Ohio, and her companions are Kwakwaka'wakw Indian masks. The first-year coed at Western Reserve University in Cleveland came across them on a tour of the city's Natural History Museum.

Prizefighters As Aspiring Actors Have Even Chance

HOLLYWOOD
By JOE FINNIGAN
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—As betrays a first-rate stage and screen actor, Sidney Poitier is surrounded by champions these days—heavyweight and light heavyweight.
Poitier is brother-in-law of the holder Archie Moore, now trying his hand at acting, and appears opposite Ingemar Johansson, holder of the heavyweight crown, in "All the Young Men" at Columbia studios.

"Archie and I married two sisters and I see quite a bit of him," Sidney says. "In fact we're staying at the same Hollywood hotel while I'm working at MGM."
Moore makes his movie debut as "Jim" the slave in "The Adventures of Buckleberry Finn." Before Archie agreed to play the role, feelers were out for Poitier to do it.

"It never got to the stage of whether not I'd be 'Jim' because I was pre-committed for other things," Poitier explained.

"It doesn't make any difference anyway, because I'm sure Archie has a darn sight more instinctive acting talent than I do. He has a natural born flair for showmanship."

Asked if he thought Moore had the makings of a good actor, Sid compared the boxer with half of

WHAT CLOTHES?
SPRINGFIELD, Ore. (UPI)— Resident caretaker A. B. Stevens narrowly escaped when the main building of the Willamettans nudist colony burned to the ground Wednesday night.

Stevens said he had time to take with him only a few personal possessions and "the clothes on my back."

"I was like most child performers," he said bitterly. "I acted only because I was told to, and you can hardly consider what I did acting."

"I didn't like it. It was no kind of a life. I had nothing going for me at school or at the studios—or at home. So when I was 14 I packed up and left home."

From pampered child actor Bob drifted from job to job, mostly manual labor with construction outfits. At one point he hid off to New York to work as a box boy in a grocery store.

Then Bob put in a two-year hitch in the Army—in Alaska yet—where he switched from the infantry to special services.

After his stretch in the service, Bob discovered there was no money coming to him from his childhood earnings. It had all been spent.

"All that stuff about the so-called 'Jackie Coogan law' protecting earnings of kid stars is just baloney," he said. "My money—and there was plenty of it—just disappeared. It went to support the family."

"Someday I'll write a story about the Hollywood children—the Scotty Beckett, Alifia Switzers and Spaky McFarlands. Forcing a kid to become a performer is one of the worst things that can happen to a child. It's turning them into adults while they're still youngsters."

"Even now when I see a kid working on a set it depresses me."

"I was never a child star," he concluded. "I was a child worker. And it's something I would never do to any children I may have."

"I'll tell you what I think about Archie acting," Sid said, "sure, he's a prize fighter. But many jobs in motion pictures go to singers who never took a dramatic lesson, other athletes and girl models, whose only claim to acting talent is the fact they posed for swim suit ads."
"Archie comes into this business with no less talent than 50 per cent of the people in it," Poitier estimated. Moore, as well as Johansson, could go on to be good actors because each of them has a catching personality," Poitier claimed. "I would say they don't intend to be great because they have too many people to pass up."
"Personally, I think Moore will do a better job as 'Jim' than I could," Poitier laughed. "I might not like that, but there's not much I can do about it."

Subsidies For Pampa

It isn't difficult to hear individuals decrying the extension of federal power into our lives but when it comes to most of us, individually and collectively, there is an appalling lack of understanding of just why more and more of our freedoms are being taken from us.

A good example of the inconsistency in this line was the decision to borrow money from the Small Business Administration to help finance the new community hotel. After as fine an example of joint community action to bring about a desired end as one could ask for, the spirit of the whole thing was tarnished by burdening the taxpayers of the United States to help supply part of the debt capital.

There were all sorts of rationalizations as to why this course of action was necessary (mainly that hotels in small towns are not considered prime loans) but it really boiled down to handing the whole thing in the "easy" way. And, let us not delude ourselves: the "easy" way is the siren song of socialism.

Of course, there were many, many alternatives to soliciting a government loan just as there are many alternatives to a reliance on forms of government interventionism and socialism, inasmuch as it is man's nature to resist labor, the line of least resistance often turns into the line guiding us down the road to tyranny and it is here that foresight, which is such an integral part of a civilized man, differentiates between a choosing hard reality and false "ease."

Along this same line, Pampans are now commendably considering the construction of an institution for our senior citizens which will be called the Barrett Memorial Convalescent Home; but already procedures have been instigated to apply for Hill-Burton funds (federal grants to match those raised locally). The logic of most promoters of this plan follows the same old pattern: How else can we raise the money; everybody else is doing it; if you don't believe in taking a Hill-Burton grant, you must be against old folks; etc.

All the excuses in the world for accepting federal subsidies carry with them the same light into fantasy, the same flight from responsibility. For "easy" money today we forge the chains of postponed financial reckoning and an even greater loss of freedom tomorrow. This tendency to slide into "the dream world of something for nothing" (or less than market cost) was well stated by Alexander Pope:

Vice is a monster of frightful mien;
As to be hated, needs but to be seen.
Yet seen too often, familiar with her face;
We first endure, then pity, then embrace.

The hotel situation is water under the bridge but we hope that the trustees of the convalescent home will reconsider the temptation to embrace the monster of a federal subsidy.

Impoverishment Of Straight Thinking

by WESTBROOK PEGLER

The "integration" decision of the Supreme Court is water over the dam, but the character of Earl Warren is brought into question because the court's reliance on Theodore Brameld as an "authority" was a stealthy trick. Brameld is an absolute stranger to the people of the United States. In the limited circle in which he is known, some qualified colleagues hold him in low esteem. Warren knew that if he had introduced Brameld as an expert witness (and under the unlimited powers of the chief justice he could have done this), opposition counsel would have a very great psychological authority to tatters. So Warren never did call Brameld or any of his other left-wing savants cited in support of his revocation of all constitutional and judicial authority on segregation. Instead, he stuck their names and the titles of some unknown essays representing only their opinions into the footnotes. As Warren foresaw, the clamor over the louder issues of segregation and the issue of constitutional integrity distracted attention from Brameld for more than a year. Even today, few persons have thought to ask "who is Brameld and is he a communist?"

Doctor Butler expressed an opinion that Warren knows Brameld personally and I submit that a politician so cunning would not go down the line for Brameld in a "dore Brameld as an 'authority' without thorough knowledge of his man's works and character. So, in view of further background, I conclude that Warren showed contempt for the sensibilities of idealistic constitutional Americans in picking this man for this function.

Doctor Butler studied Brameld's magnum opus on communism and wrote:

"While he (Brameld) writes with an affected air of academic detachment he is most anxious to prove that Marxist thinkers are quite respectable intellectually and have their basic roots in the philosophy of wisdom of the ages. Most of the book is balderdash that would only appeal to a mentality ten times removed from reality. An observer removed to the footnotes. As Warren foresaw, the clamor over the louder issues of segregation and the issue of constitutional integrity distracted attention from Brameld for more than a year. Even today, few persons have thought to ask "who is Brameld and is he a communist?"

Yet, in fine, Warren had the gall to write that the mere opinion of this "modern authority" on psychology was henceforth the law of the land. He cited others, but it would only cause confusion and thus serve Warren's obscure purpose to expose more than one at a time.

What about Brameld, then?

Well, the form of his name once was Theodore Bezhart Hart Brameld and as Theodore B. H. Brameld, he composed in 1932 at the behest of the University of Chicago an essay entitled "A Philosophical Approach to Communism." For this he got a degree of doctor of philosophy.

Another scholar, Dr. Rix Pierce Butler, rector of St. Peter's Episcopal Church, at Rosedale, L.I., wrote that in those days at Chicago a candidate could get a degree "by writing as obscurely on the existence of the quartermaster system among Texas warriormen." Doctor Butler insisted that when he was introduced to Brameld at Union Theological by Prof. Harry F. Ward, a spectacular devotee of drastic issues and causes, Ward described Brameld as the "outstanding Marxist thinker of our generation."

By R. C. MOLES
"The Quick, Abortive End Of A Sound Eisenhower Credit Policy"

Frederick Nymeyer, in his "First Principles in Morality And Economics," has an interesting recitation on why Eisenhower was unsuccessful in stopping government credit expansion. He puts it under the above heading as follows:

"In the United States the Democrats were in control of the administration from 1932 to 1932 — for 20 years. The Democrats do not have the best record in regard to favoring sound money policies. Eisenhower, when he came into office in 1953 was the first Republican president in 20 years. It is implied in the nature of the case that a party out of power is critical of what the party in power is doing. And so Eisenhower was elected on a 'sounder' or less-unfounded money policy than the Democrats had been following. The policy originally adopted by the Eisenhower administration was not a completely sound policy, to wit, an announced, fixed policy of no further extension of circulation credit at all, but rather a slowing up of the extension of circulation credit.

"Eisenhower appointed an experienced business man as Secretary of the Treasury, and as Assistant Secretary appointed a veteran banker, who undoubtedly realized fully the ultimate consequences of a continuation, without a terminal point, of the issuing of more and more circulation credit. The technical steps necessary to slow down and end the issuance of more and more circulation credit are outside the bounds of this discussion, but those technical steps were promptly and effectively applied by competent people in the new administration.

"In essence, the policy was nothing more than bringing to an end the persistent increase in circulation credit which the Democrats had fostered, or at least tolerated. There was a new administration moving away from momentary malpractice and dishonesty. The consequences should immediately have been salutary.

"But the actual early consequences appeared to be just the contrary. The steady business blood transfusions of new money in the form of circulation credit no longer being forthcoming, the 'patient' began to feel distressed and ill. The 'money market' (that is, the loan money market) tightened at once. All plans of business men had for long been basically adjusted to continuing monetary blood transfusions. The economic leaders were accustomed to count on more and more circulation credit. These expectations were disappointed. They were disappointed in all their plans. Now that expectation was not being fulfilled, and funds were not available for initiating new programs which could only be executed on the assumption of a continued increase in circulation credit.

"The New York Stock Exchange is the greatest market in the history of mankind. It is the meeting place of smart money and also of not-so-smart money. Astute buyers and sellers on the New York stock market immediately sensed the significance of the new financial policy of the Republican administration, and they discontinued buying and began selling, realizing that there would be deflationary consequences merely from no longer issuing additional circulation credit. By March the stock market was in full retreat. By April the alarm had spread widely to business. An anxious hue and cry began to come from the newspapers. There was fear of a severe depression with unemployment and distress.

"Pressure on the very new administration to change its policy was steadily increased. By mid-May its fortune was gone and it began to abandon its program. It has since that time never endeavored unflinchingly to reinstate it. It was imprudent to adopt the policy of discontinuing the issuance of more circulation credit without pre-advancing everybody thoroughly about the immediate consequences which would be disturbing, and the long-term consequences which would be salutary. If the administration had explained its own policy, and the reason for it, it would have been able to adjust itself rationally to its own policy accordingly.

"(3) Forecast, without evidence of anxiety, the disturbing short-term effects; and

"(4) Assured, with confidence of knowledge of economic law and moral law, that the longer-term consequences would be helpful to everybody, especially the 'common man'.

"Then the public opinion would probably have supported the continuation of the new policy over the transition period long enough so that the eventual favorable results would have mastered public opinion solidly behind it. On all the foregoing counts, those who had an improved policy in mind failed to operate as political leaders who dissolves. Such dualism dissolves moreover by what may be for the acquiescent-active attitude a psychological and logical necessity. And the devotee of communism to whom such an attitude can be ascribed becomes at once a creator and worshiper of a magnificent human order."

Noting again that Brameld formerly rejects communism, Doctor Butler observes that this thing was published when the party was trying to capture the "intelligent class" and said: "No doubt Brameld rendered useful service in establishing Marxist thought in respectable thinkers in the West."

Don't Bother Trying Hypnotism

—ON HIM IT WOULD BE JUST A WASTE OF TIME.

ROBERT S. ALLEN

EISENHOWER LAUNCHES TWO 'STUDIES' OF MUCH-PROBED REGULATORY AGENCIES

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower is putting two of his top lieutenants to work on that long-discussed problem of what to do about the government's regulatory agencies.

At his direction, Attorney General William Rogers and HEW Secretary Arthur Flemming, in his capacity as chairman of the President's Advisory Committee on Government Reorganization, are launching separate "studies" of these much-investigated and scandal-plagued agencies.

Directly involved in these unannounced Administration probes are the Federal Communications Commission, Federal Trade Commission, Federal Power Commission, Interstate Commerce Commission, Maritime Commission, Civil Aeronautics Board, Federal Aviation Agency, and the Securities & Exchange Commission.

The other members of Secretary Flemming's group are Dr. Milton Eisenhower, the President's brother, and Don K. Price Jr., vice president of the Ford Foundation and once an assistant to former President Hoover in his government reorganization activities.

The two studies will differ importantly in scope and purpose.

The Justice Department's mission is to thoroughly scrutinize the regulatory and other practices of all these agencies, with special emphasis on uncovering corruption and skulduggery.

Secretary Flemming's Advisory Committee will concentrate on the transportation agencies for the particular purpose of determining whether the President should recommend to Congress that they be combined in a new department, headed by a cabinet member, who would be responsible for federal regulation in this vital field.

White House insiders deny there is any connection between these backstage "studies" and the sensational proceedings of the House investigating committee, headed by Representative Owen Harris (D., Ark.).

It is definitely known, however, that the Justice Department is aware these probes are looking into certain explosive charges involving the Interstate Commerce Commission. For this purpose, Representative Harris has hired three staff members of the Senate rackets investigating committee.

According to information in the House committee's hands, underwriters control a big East coast trucking firm and were able to directly influence an ICC ruling in their favor.

Key question in this TN-loaded case is who gets the ICC files on the matter — the Justice Department or the House investigators? It is known how to reassure their followers.

"The initial program of the monetary leaders in the early days of the Eisenhower administration was not so definite nor inflexible as the program herein proposed. The financial policy in the early months of 1953 was the policy of a few men who 'knew the score.' It was not the policy of a whole party of well-informed citizens. It was not a policy which was proposed to be incorporated in statutory law, but merely a sound policy operated by a few individuals. To get a law passed making the policy the official and relatively permanent law of the land would have required a declaration of the policy, explanations of it, public discussion of it, and all the other requisites that go along with a sound government based on popular suffrage.

"It is not possible for a few, well-informed men to set the monetary course of the United States soundly and keep it that way. They require the support of public opinion behind their program."

The Allen-Scott Report

STILL TRYING — The radio-TV networks are again being prodded by the Justice Department to abolish the "option time" practice — under which stations are required to broadcast network shows at choice hours, usually in the evening. This time the networks are being warned that unless they meet the Justice Department's demands they face anti-trust prosecution. — The Commerce Department's year-long transportation study is now slated to be completed next month. It will prescribe a "set of principles" which the President will ask Congress to approve as a national transportation policy.

Whitaker and Baxter, high-powered California press agents, are handling the nationwide drive of the American Association of Railroads to get the Federal Railroad Administration to increase pay and fringe benefits. — A new sugar bill, that will directly affect Cuba, is being drafted by the Agriculture Department. The law allowing quotas to various foreign sugar producers expires next year. Under the Department's tentative measure, the President would have authority to reduce or cancel entirely the sugar quota of any country that appropriates U.S. property or acts in a way deemed "injurious to U.S. interests." — Already BRAZIL has let it be known it will seek, for the first time, to be included in the U.S. sugar quota system; Brazil is a major sugar producer.

SURPRISE — Praise of the New Deal is rare from Eisenhower officials, but such a compliment was voiced by Dr. Raymond Saulnier, head of the President's Council of Economic Advisers. In a speech on the 25th anniversary of the Federal Housing Administration, he declared, "it is not too much to say that this law, enacted in 1934, is one of the outstanding social inventions of our time."

The decision of Undersecretary of State Robert Murphy to retire, after more than 35 years' government service was a particular disappointment to Chancellor Konrad Adenauer. The West German leader, a warm admirer of Murphy and his adamant stand against the Kremlin, wanted him as U.S. Ambassador. Adenauer recommended that personally to President Eisenhower, who readily acceded. But Murphy firmly declined, largely because of some differences with White House policy toward Premier Khrushchev. Also playing a factor in Murphy's decision to retire was the knowledge that he has reached his limit in the State Department; that Undersecretary C. Douglas Dillon would succeed Secretary Herter, if he should step out, Dillon is very close to President Eisenhower.

STEEL REPORT GOOD — LONDON (UPI) — British steel mills ran at a near-record pace in October while American mills were shut by a strike, according to figures released today.

Sentimentality Bad For Disturbed Child

Religion In America
By LOUIS CASSELS

United Press International

If churches want to do something about juvenile delinquency, they should approach the problem realistically. Sentimental and superficial programs may ease the consciences of church members, but they do more harm than good to disturbed children.

That advice comes from Dr. Edward E. Thornton, professor of pastoral care at the Institute of Religion, Houston, Tex. Dr. Thornton has made an intensive study of the failures and frustrations which churches often encounter in their attempts to help delinquent children. His findings, reported at a recent Southern Baptist youth counseling conference, are equally applicable to other denominations.

The first step toward effective church work in this field, Dr. Thornton said, is to abandon any moralistic or "punitive" approach to delinquent youth.

Social scientists have amassed abundant proof, he said, that juvenile delinquency is not willful wickedness, but is "a symptom of emotional disturbance" in children who have been starved of parental love in the earliest years of life.

Loving the unloved is supposed to be the church's specialty. But it is neither easy nor simple to "communicate love" to disturbed children who have known nothing but hate and rejection. The task calls for "creative imagination" and "the courage to face facts."

One of these facts is that "the emotion disturbance which begets delinquency is deeply set in the child's personality by the time he is eight years old." And the crucial factors in causing it are not the neighborhood, not the school, not a lack of church attendance, but the child's own immediate home environment and particularly his relationships with his parents.

This means, Dr. Thornton said, that churches must "find a way to reach pre-delinquent children between the ages of 5 to 8." And in searching out these children, they must look beyond "the little white cottages of suburbia" into the urban slums where poverty, overcrowding and broken homes vastly increase the likelihood of a child's being deprived of parental love.

What can a church do for these dispossessed children once it has established contact with them? It depends on how far they have drifted before they are found.

The so-called "sponsorship" plan, under which adult church members try to establish direct personal ties of friendship with individual children, can also be very helpful to pre-delinquents and even to first offenders and probationers.

But none of these measures will do any good for children who have already become "hard-core delinquents," Dr. Thornton said.

"The seriously disturbed child disrupts group activities so completely that their value is cancelled out both for the group and for the troubled child himself." And he can't be reached by an adult sponsor, because he has learned to "play along in the game of comradeship with adults," manipulating them to his advantage, but never letting them have any "real influence" on him.

What the hard-core delinquent needs, Dr. Thornton said, is not an adult pal, and not wholesome recreation, but "therapy."

"Some public and private agencies are pioneering in the creation of institutions which are truly therapeutic communities for the rehabilitation of seriously disturbed children," he said. "But churches, despite their vast outlay for orphanages and hospitals, have so far done very little in this particular field of great need."

Beyond all of these measures, Dr. Thornton concluded, members have a responsibility "voting citizens" to work actively for basic social reform, stum clearance, housing, welfare services, better schools and so on — that will stabilize stress-torn urban areas and give their children hope for the kind of home they need.

Scout Banquet Set For Nov. 24

Special chairmen have been appointed by Bob Curry, district chairman of the Santa Fe District of Boy Scouts, for the annual district banquet scheduled for Nov. 24.

Carlton Nance, arrangements chairman, has arranged for the banquet to be held at the First Methodist Church at 7 p.m.

Wayne Irving, ticket chairman, has distributed tickets to each institution sponsoring the Scouting program, through the institutional representatives.

It is hoped that the institutions will sponsor their unit leaders to the banquet where they will be honored. District officers and members at large will be installed at the banquet.

Also a progress report will be made by the operating committee chairman and a Scouting program will be presented. The banquet is for all interested adults with tickets at $7.50.

Tickets may be secured through the Boy Scout office in city hall.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Helen Hayes, first lady of the Broadway stage, indicated Wednesday she may retire from the theater.

Turning down a Broadway role in the comedy "A Adventure," she said in a telegram to the author James P. Davis, "I've thought and prayed over this but I don't want to commit myself to yours or any other play until I've come to you again for work which may be never."

"I've talked of retiring for a long time," her telegram said. "It may just be I've finally made it without knowing it."
